ALD. McDONALD WANTS TO KNOW

Caucus Meeting Held on the Lighting Franchise and Other Public Matters.

There was a full meeting of the City Council last night, rather an unusual occurrence of late, owing to the business engagements of aldermen elsewhere.

A petition was presented from the inhabitants of Nickel Plate flat, asking for a better service of water. Referred to the Water and Light committee.

A proposal was made by the Burns slaughter house which will be threshed out in committee.

Referring to the tax writs, Alderman McDonald wanted to know whether the city solicitor could collect and yet sit in judgment as city management.

Mayor Clute said it was a delicate question.

City Solicitor Nelson said there were three cases in which judgment had been confessed and consequently there was only a formality to be entered up. The City Solicitor then went on mildly to remark that Alderman McDonald might trust him to know his duties.

Alderman McDonald equally courteously retorted that he was merely asking a question if any such case could be taken up, if any protest were made.

City Solicitor Nelson declared that he could not think of such a thing as trying a case as police magistrate which he was prosecuting as city solicitor.

The Council then hurriedly adopted the Trades Licence By-law and adjourned into caucus for the vague purpose, as intimated by His Worship the Mayor, of considering the Lighting Franchise and other important public matters.

KUROKI UPON THE BATTLE

Japanese General Gives His Account.

ROUT OF THE RUSSIANS COMPLETE

Strategy of the Islanders and Their Persistent Fighting Was Too Much for the Bear.

London, May 4—The Japanese legation this afternoon gave out General Kuroki's report dated May 1, as follows: The enemy offered stubborn resistance to our pursuit adding three hundred to our casualties. The enemy fought bravely to the last. Finally two companies of their artillery, after losing the majority of the horses and men, surrendered, raising the white flag. The officers made prisoners assert that General Kashtalinsky, the commanders of the Eleventh and Twelfth infantry regiments, and the commander of the artillery were killed. Many other superior officers were killed or wounded. Many refugees subsequently returned and surrendered The prisoners include 30 officers and men.

Yesterday, says a supplemental report from general Kuroki, the enemy offered stubborn resistence against our pursuit adding about three hundred casualties. The enemy stood with resolution until the artillery consisting of two batteries, lost the majority of its men and horses. They then broke the breaches and closing apparatus of their guns, and hoisted white flags. According to a captured Russian officer, Major General Kashtalinsky, commander of the third east Siberian rifle brigade, the colonels of the eleventh and twelfth rifle regiments, and the commander of the artillery battalions, were killed in the fighting at Hamatan. It seems the enemy was entirely routed by our attack because yesterday many have come in and surrendered. Our prisoners include 40 officers, 20 of whom are wounded, and 300 men, 100 of whom are wonded.

"A preliminary report from the chief surgeon of the first Japanese army shows that we had 798 killed and wounded. The casualties are divided as follows: The imperial guards, 132; second division 350; third division, 316."

Seoul, May 4—The Russian troops fled panic stricken when routed at Chiulien, and were pursued by Japanese cavalry infantry over the hill country towards Fengwang from 1:50 until 8 o'clock at night.

The Russian army engaged was composed of the twenty-second and twenty-fourth regiments of the sixth division and General Mistchenko's cavalry brigade, supported by 40 field and eight machine guns. The wounded, including General in Chief Sassulitch and General Kashtalinsky, reached Antung, whence the Russians were eventually forced to retire after 25 minutes fierce fighting.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Solitary Traveller Dragged by His Horse in the Slocan

Ainsworth, May 4—Yesterday, as J. R. Hardy of this place was going to the Hope claim, near the Highland mine, on horseback, his horse stumbled in the snow. Mr. Hardy tried to get off but his foot caught in a rope and he was dragged down a steep declivity at the side of the road. The horse trampled on him injuring him badly. His head was slightly bruised and his thigh was injured quite badly. One of his ribs appears to be broken and there may be serious internal injuries.

Two miners, coming from the Highland mine, found him there a short time after the accident happened and he was taken to the house of Mr. Dumas, where Dr. Henry attended him. He was taken to the hospital at Kaslo today.

Mr. Hardy has an interest in the Roy, and other valuable claims in this camp.

THE JAPS.

The victory of the Japs on both land and sea has been met with surprise, both upon the continent of Europe and in the United States. The reason is twofold. One is the "dammed nigger" feeling which the average white man regards any race whose skin is not as white as his own. In ancient times no doubt the Persians and the Egyptians looked upon the white race with equal contempt, and to this day the Chinaman's opinion of all other races outside of his own, the Korean and the Jap, ethnologically related, is summed up in the one word—barbarian. Still the existence of this feeling made it hard of belief that the white race could be beaten by anybody else, even if they adopted white methods to do so. The other reason is that for long Russia has posed as the bully of Europe and the defeat of Napoleon at Moscow, though the elements won the battle for Russia, is remembered when the crushing of his power at Waterloo by Wellington is forgotten. Indeed the Germans, who lost every battle for many years they fought against Napoleon, claim they won that battle themselves by a general who never won a battle before and never won one afterwards, and one who at the time was acting upon a plan of campaign under the orders of the Commander in Chief, the Duke of Wellington. This is mere jealousy or national vanity, but the very fact that it has been indulged in naturally had the tendency to unduly exalt the half civilized Russians, and when the power of the Tsar is really put to the test and fails, every detractor of Great Britain is naturally surprised. Whatever the shortcomings of the British in South Africa they pale before the crassness of the Russian or the stupidity of the German war offices in their dealings with Japan and Southweet Africa respectively.

SAVING.

An article in a Winnipeg paper lays down the axiom that were all men savers, there would be a serious reduction of credits, i. e. that banks would find it difficult to pay interest. The argument is not new and has been accepted by a thinker and writer of political economy. Still it must be remembered that there is more guess work in political economy than in anything that is dubbed "scientific." True science is axiomatic. It bears its own proof, such as two and two make four. But scientific theory is no more worthy of belief than the dreams of the poets. In fact the dreams of the poets seemed to be the longer lived of the two classes of imaginings. However, although the argument may be taken more or less as axiomatic, the corollary by no means necessarily follows that saving is bad political economy All things are relative. Regarded as a syllogism the one follows from the other directly, and if the one is true the other should be so also. But it would be well to remember the predicament in which Henry George placed Herbert Spencer when he compared his later "scientific" writings with his earlier Social Statics. Herbert Spencer could only get out of the hobble by saying that there were two kind of ethics, the one transcendental and the other social. On the ground of theory Henry George thereupon held up the perplexed philosopher to ridicule. Yet Herbert Spencer was nearer right than he could explain to the satisfaction of Henry George. "Scientific" theory too often treats human beings as mere automata and not as creatures of flesh and blood. Given a set of circumstances and one man will act one way and another another. In fact under the same circumstances a man may not act twice alike. So while it may be perfectly true to say that if all were savers, business would come to an end, for business cannot exist without spenders, yet it is not true to say that no one should be a saver. For as long as human nature remains as it is, some will be spenders to the end of time, and the man who saves will certainly obtain an advantage over the spender in the long run. But which is the most beneficial to the community, the spender or the saver, it would be hard to say. Only a dogmatic political economist would dare to come to a conclusion. And one thing is sure, and that is that whatsoever conclusion was arrived at another political economist, equally dogmatic, would assert the opposite to be the case.

WITH LI HUNG CHANG

Chinese Statesman Foreshadows Russo-Japanese War.

"The powers will not permit Russia to acquire this territory," I ventured. "Then, there is Japan. What will Japan say?"

Now he snarled. One could not blame him. It was touching a delicate subject with the old man.

"What can Japan say? And are not the Mikado's soldiers the best equipped in the world? Why did they preform so well on the march to Peking? They had been trained, they are being disciplined today for some great trouble that is to come. No one knows the resources of the Japanese Empire. Her navy is increasing, her regular army is immense. and her regiments in reserve are without number. She is preparing."

"Do you you mean that Japan will some day fight Russia?"

"Russia took Port Arthur after Japan had taken it from the Chinese. That is all I will say. There is a term in your country, 'Get even.' I heard General Grant, the greatest soldier in the world, use it. Perhaps Russia——"

"Russia and Japan will war?" I asked, in surprise.

"What is Japan arming for? for what great epoch in her history is she preparing?"

He saw that he spoke too quickly and upon a subject that might cause him trouble before his soul left the earth Life, even then, was very sweet to him.

"It is only my idea, my prophecy," he hastened to explain "How can I tell?"—Harper's Weekly.

An Aerial Tramway

MINOR MENTION

The Nickel Plate is putting in another bulkhead.

The Private Secretary will be visible on Thursday week.

Four cars of timbers came in yesterday over the Great Northern.

Letters but no newspapers were received over the C. P. R. last night.

James Hunter is recovering from his dangerous attack of paralysis.

Robert Angus, formerly superintendent of the Le Roi No. 2, is in the camp.

Several miners are leaving Rossland for Moyie to work at the St. Eugene.

There are far more people coming in than are going out on the daily trains.

Chief Guthrie is being sent to Calgary to purchase a horse for the Fire Department.

The most important case slated for the Supreme Court next week is that of Carlson.

The Columbia is rising, but its swollen state is more marked below Northport than above.

Max Crow has splendid sign, one of the best in the city. As a police commissioner he ought to be able to make it stick.

John R. Cook came into the city last night. He is largely interested in the Cliff as well as other property in the city.

Al Williams formerly ice maker at the rink has donned the police uniform. It is not stated whether he is suitable to Maxey Crow.

The bluff at the west end of Columbia avenue is again being defaced by signs. Who is responsible for the enforcement of the by law?

If the citizens will do nothing else to celebrated Empire Day let them make it a memorial of Arbor Day and plant trees upon their lots.

The Anglican church committee which are dealing with the question of building a memorial stone church this season have not as yet reported.

Three furnaces with a capacity for 750 tons of Le Roi ore daily have been blown in at Northport. The little town is looking much livelier in consequence.

It is understood that the Great Northern railway will appeal against the assessment made of its wild lands, the case to be tried in June next if possible.

J. S. Carter of Nelson is in the city accompanied by his brother of the C. P. R. staff in Hongkong.

If nothing else can be got up for Empire Day, why not have the bugle band parade the streets in their full strength?

No word has as yet been received from the Olympias to say whether they are or are not coming to the camp. They are playing in Seattle just now to full houses.

There are too many tumble down shacks around the business portion of the city, some within the fire limits. It is time they were either repaired or pulled down as dangerous fire traps.

The flooded state of theColville valley has prevented till lately the shipment of mining timbers. Taking advantage of the enforced lull, as stoping cannot be carried on without timbers, some of the machines have been brought to the surface for a thorough overhauling The persistent little knocker then says that the mines are going to close down.

A NELSON PROPERTY.

Five Metals Mining Company Will Ship Ore

The Five Metals Mining company, operating at the head of Haughton and Gray creeks, of which J. P. Redding is local manager. have a large force of men at work cutting out a new trail from Kootenay lake up to the mine. Ore shipments will commence as soon as the trail is completed, there being over one thousand tons of silver lead ore blocked out. The company will shortly start another tunnel that will tap the ledge at a depth of three hundred feet from the outcrop.

Washington people are interested in this property, though Mr. Redding is the principal owner. Some time in July a party of shareholders will come out from Tekoa, Washington, to look at the several properties included in the group owned by the Five Metals Mining company.

ENTERING COKE FIELD

Colman, Alberta, Will Come Forward As a Producer

Nelson, May 4.—H. N. Galer. of the Granby company, was at the Strathcona last night enroute from Colman, Alberta, to Grand Forks. He reports that everything is running very smoothly at the coal mines at Colman.

The daily output at the present time, the result of development work only, is 150 tons, which is absorbed by the Canadian Pacific railroad.

"Colman," said Mr. Galer "will soon become a coke producer. Our first battery of 104 ovens is nearing completion, and in about six weeks time I expect that we will be putting out about 150 tons daily.

We will engrave your initial on any umbrella purchased of the Crescent Dry Goods Co.

To the Merchants

Why Don't You Increase Your Business?

Do not sit down and complain of lack of business, because people are sending out of the city for their goods.

Hustling will Do the Trick

Give them to understand that they can save money by dealing at home.

YOU WILL HAVE TO SHOW THEM

That you can sell them better goods for less money than they can get them for at some Cheap John department store in the east, and keep the money at home.

When you have done this You will get the results

The next question is how to reach the people to tell them what you want them to know

You can do this by keeping your advertisement in

The Evening World....

It reaches all the people and goes in all the homes in the city. * * Its circulation is increasing every day.

Give it a Trial

And you will not complain as to the result
