A MOST INTERESTING LECTURE

Progress of the Colony Under the Land Laws—Butter Sold in Rossland.

A most interesting lecture was given at the Methodist church yesterday evening by the Raweis. On Monday night there was a full attendance but last night there was only standing room left and many people stood through the whole two hours and a half of the entertainment. The subject was primarily the Maoris of New Zealand, who are a most interesting race and who have shown themselves susceptible of high cultivation which is evident enough in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Rawei, who are both Maoris.

The Maoris were shown to have nothing in common with the autochthonal inhabitants of Australia, but were of another race altogether quite at the other end of the human scale. Their nearest relatives were the Kanakas of the Sandwich Islands, or Hawaiians. The lecture was interspersed with numerous views, mostly of native life, and singing, Mrs. Rawei in especial charming her audience by the culture and sweetness of her voice.

But the most interesting part of the lecture to the majority of his audience was the discussion on the economics of New Zealand made by Mr. Rawei. The lecturer modestly did not profess to be an authority and it was evident that he held a brief for no party. Yet the fact of his residence in New Zealand and his education in that interesting colony, together with his position as a teacher of natives putting him out of the pale of controversy made him a witness of much moment. He referred briefly the eight hour law which many people think so radical in this country, and said it worked particularly well in New Zealand. The workmen were contented and the employers were making a good thing as was evidenced by the number of exports. Strikes were almost forgotten, and the country was going ahead in a marvellous manner. This statistics would prove, but as Mr. Rawei was talking popularly, he did not deal in such dry as dust matter.

The interest culminated in a series of views illustrative of a charmingly situated district called Manawatu in the North Island not far from Wellington, one of the chief cities. Mr. Rawei showed that the land had been previously owned by one or two London speculators who were non resident in the colony. That the government did not think that this sort of thing was doing the country any good in having the land so tied up. So it went to work and built roads and constructed bridges through this beautiful district and then called upon the owners to pay the taxes, which, by the way, are graduated according to the largeness of the holding. The landowners declared the taxation excessive and the government then brought in the land for the sum assessed and proceeded to open it up by dividing it up into small blocks which were let to settlers on long leases. To these homesteads the government attracted capable men and if those men had not not sufficient means they were advanced £30 to erect a house and while their crop was under cultivation would give them £1 7s 6d per acre for clearing, the same being a charge upon the property. Creameries were established and now the district was fairly well settled although only a few years old. Carpenters were attracted because their help was necessary in the building of the homes and bootmakers and other purveyors of clothing as well as provisions. Thus the country was being settled prosperously and as a piece of evidence the lecturer added that the very butter he was eating at the house in which he was staying in Rossland, the Hoffman, came from this very Manawatu district. Another lecture will be given this evening and at the earnest

RECEDING AT NEWCHWANG

Russian Government Modifies Its Attitude.

AUTHORITIES ACCEPT THE POSITION

Japanese Version of This Weeks Skirmish at Chongju—Claims Defeat of the Russians.

Newchwang, March 31—Under the strong representation made by United States Consul Miller that the civil administrator had invaded neutral rights that he ordered the lowering of the American flags from buildings belonging to American citizens, even though it was done through the apprehension that the flag was illegally used by Chinese for the purpose of resisting police inspection, the civil administrator has promised, duly and in proper form, through the military, to raise the flag over the building from which it was removed.

The flag, which was ordered taken down, will also remain. Sir Ernest Satow, the British minister at Peking, has informed the residents of that nationality in Newchwang that Great Britain will not interfere to keep a warship here, and he advises them to accept the situation as it is.

The British residents regard Minister Satow's letter as inadequate to the situation and severely criticise him.

London, March 31.—The Japanese legation here has received the following official despatch from Tokio of the fighting between Japanese and Russian forces at Chongju Monday, March 28th.

"A portion of our cavalry and infantry forces occupied Chongju after defeating the enemy. The enemy, who numbered about 600 men, retreated in the direction of Wiju.

Our casualties were: Lieutenant Kano and four others killed, Captain Kurokawa and 12 others wounded, of the cavalry forces. There were no casualties among our infantry.

Two dead bodies were left by the Russians on the field but it is reported that some seven or eight were killed inside the town.

These were promptly carried off by the enemy on horseback or by ambulance. The Russians were seen conveying in an ambulance two dead men, apparently officers, and bloodstained bandages were found scattered around.

The enemy must have sustained a loss at least equal to ours."

St. Petersburg, March 31—A correspondent of the Russ writes from Port Dalny that the Russian cruiser Bernard sank two hours after striking a mine there, and that six of her crew were lost.

solicitation of several of his audience Mr. Rawei will again comment in the course of his description of the natives on the doings of the whole colony on the economical side, the side which is attracting such general attention in Western America.

An Eye Specialist

Dr. Jordan, who is the head of the Optical Institute at the Coast where he looked upon as an authority in diseases of the eye, is here in Rossland where he will remain for a short time. Dr. Jordan will give advice free on the eyes as is his usual custom and besides visiting the camp will also go round the other cities of the Kootenay country. He is intending to pay Trail a visit but will make his headquarters in Rossland.

Lost—Out of the Dominion Express company's sleigh, March 24, a package containing legal papers, addressed A. C. Galt. The finder, by leaving the same at Dominion Express company's office, will be suitably rewarded.

MILK.

In another column will be found the report of the medical health officer of an analysis on milk sold by the milk vendors of this city. It will be noticed that the percentage of butter fat varies rather considerably. In justice to the men concerned, it were as well to point out that on a previous occasion the percentage varied, some of the lowest then being the highest. But when the public are informed that the percentage of butter fat in a milk is four, unless instructed, they are as wise as they were before. Under the criminal code of Canada it is an offence to adulterate milk. Spokane has adopted a standard and says there shall not be less than 35 percentage of butter fat in a milk. The Canadian standard where adopted is 3.75. In the city of Victoria a recent analysis of milk showed all grades of percentages of butter fat ranging from 2.2 to 2.8, and having an average of 3.47. It will be seen that only one Rossland vendor falls below the Victoria standard. But it must not be too hastily judged that the higher the percentage of butter fat yielded in such an analysis, or rather test, which Dr. McKenzie has here given, is really a criterion of the value of the milk. In the first place experience in other cities, though it is not said the practice is used in Rossland, has shown that sometimes glycerine and sometimes animal fats and sometimes even pepper and sand have been added to keep up the percentage of milk solids. The solids in milk, not fat, are supposed to be 8.5. But every farmer is aware that the kind of cows that are kept depends entirely upon the use to which they are to be put. For instance, if butter making is desired then the Alderney or Jersey cow is preferred, but if milk is the requisite then the Holstein is preferable. Now little butter making goes on in Rossland and the type of cow usually seen is the Holstein and the best that the milk vendor could buy for the purpose, but necessarily the percentage of butter fats in the milk of a Holstein cow will be less than in the milk given by an Alderney. They will reconcile to a great extent the difference of the figures, it being supposed that there is no actual adulteration. In Cleveland, O., Holstein milk cannot be sold unmixed.

There is another point, which is that it is asserted that the mortality among infants in Rossland is as high as it is because of the poor-ness of the milk supplied. Vital statistics on the other hand, show that Rossland has a less mortality in this direction than many another city in the Dominion. This very charge was made in Seattle during the course of last summer where analysis discovered a preservative put into the milk to prevent it turning sour. On the milk vendor being prosecuted, experts swore oppositely as to whether the preservative in question was or was not deleterious to infant life. These being the facts, it will be seen that no such test as that made by the city is of any use. Inspector Long of the health department acknowledges this, and points out that the best way would be to mix together all the milk of the different vendors and send the sample of the mixed milk to the government analyst at the coast for a complete analysis. If then traces were discovered of any deleterious impurity or of a deliberate use of water afterwards samples of each several vendor's milk could be sent in a similar way and the culprit detected. Under the Canadian criminal code the offence is punishable by imprisonment. The expense is serious, but in the manner suggested there would not be occasion to spend any large sum of money unless the facts of the case warranted it.

HEADACHE

The dictionary defines a headache, technically termed cephalalgia, as: "An ache or pain in the head, arising from any cause." This cause may be due to cerebral disease, congestion and anemia of the brain, functional nervous disorders, derangements of the stomach and liver and to reflex causes, such as diseases of the nose, also to the strain which results from imperfectly formed trying eyes to do the work of perfectly formed ones, etc., etc.

Headaches due to eye-strain are the most frequent, in fact some authorities place the percentage as high as eighty-five, estimating that more than eight headaches out of every ten are due to this cause alone.

The largest number of headaches are those which seem to be located in the forehead, at the temples and at the back of the head just above the neck, the latter frequently manifesting themselves in a so called "sick" form, because accompanied by nausea.

In view of the many kinds of headaches that are variously termed "billious," "dyspeptic" "nervous," etc., it would seem only reasonable to infer that most of them have more than a single cause behind them.

Another name for eye-strain is "muscle fatigue," and so when there is a disturbance in bodily nutrition, due to improper food, a bad stomach or an erratic liver, all of which interferes with innervation, or the force that operates muscles, then it is easy to see how an overtaxed eye muscle will readily tire and show its fatigue in the form of an ache or pain, for nature generally gives ample notice before she breaks down, the chief trouble being that mankind is not intelligent enough to interpret the signals, or thoughtful enough to heed the warning.

Many persons with eyes so imperfect in formation as to cause these organs to be almost in a constant state of muscle tension, still possess enough nerve force to maintain this strain and avoid headaches, until some acute digestive, or other disturbance, lowers the general bodily tone, when an ache in the head manifests itself and the individual blames the disordered stomach, whereas if eye strain had not been a factor stomach trouble would not have been sufficient in itself to cause the distress.

Therefore, a wise thing for any person to do who is subject to headaches is to visit some able refracting optician and have the eyes properly examined, no matter whether the vision is good or bad, for good vision is one thing and eye strain is quite another.

Dr. Jordan, at Morrow's Drug Store.

FULL UP OF POPLAR

R. L. Lowery is Very Eloquent

PROGRESS OF LATEST CAMP

A Big Rush is Expected There Throughout the Coming Season

Nelson, March 31.—R. T. Lowery, proprietor of the Nugget, of Poplar Creek, is in the city, having just returned from a visit to the new gold fields. As usual he is full of enthusiasm concerning the Poplar camp and says he feels certain that it will make a good camp and have a boom that will surprise the old timers who have participated in many such revivals during their mining experience. The camp, he says, is showing the first signs of the return of spring. This is evidenced in the increase in the number of guests at the hotels and the augmentation in the number of hotel employees.

"Machinery," he says, "is being installed on the Handy group on Lynch creek and the intention is to do a great deal of work this year. The company has $18,000 in the treasury for development purposes; the property is paid for, and promises to have a successful career.

"On Rapid creek John Nesbitt and partners recently sold for a good sum a group of claims to a Spokane syndicate. Mr. Nesbitt and associates took $2000. worth of gold from the group last summer while they were doing prospecting work. Mr. Nesbitt says that the country between Rapid and Poplar creek has considerable wash and alluvial, which cover the leads, and if prospectors desire to locate their ledges it will require considerable work to do it. The Spokane syndicate which has acquired the Nesbitt property, intends to spend a considerable sum on development this year.

"On the Home Run a tunnel is being driven to open up the main lead. The Home Run is looking very well.

Work continues on the Lucky Jack and Swede groups and the management says that there is gold in all the ore taken from the leads in both mines.

"The government is building a bridge across the Lardeau river at Poplar, and this will facilitate the operations of prospectors having properties on the north side of the river. A couple of enterprising residents of Poplar have staked 80 acres on the north side of the river. They each will put up residences, and besides this they will sell more tracts to others who desire to erect residences.

"The faith in the richness of the Spyglass group is strong in Poplar, and this is particularly the case with those who have visited the property and examined its ledges. As a result of this considerable money has been invested in the shares of the Spyglass Mining company by Poplar people."

Chief Justice Scores Police Persecution of a Chinaman

Vancouver, March 30.—A great sensation was caused in the assize court today when Chief Justice Hunter declared that if a Chinaman, brought before him on a charge of criminal libel, had been a white man he would have never have been arrested.

His lordship intimated that the Mongolian was not guilty and that it was utterly ridiculous to suppose that if he had been white the grand jury would have returned a true bill.

The crown lawyers hastily consulted and decided to withdraw the case.

"You are acting wisely," was his lordship's grim comment.

The Chief Justice awarded costs against the private prosecutor, a policeman named Keeler Fulton.
