PAUL CORCORAN

Thanks His Friends for His Release.

IN FAVOR OF ARBITRATION

Going Back to Burke to Work--Protests His Innocence—Strikes a Necessity.

Paul Corcoran who has just been released from the Idaho penitentiary, does not believe in strikes, and hopes to see the day when all difficulties between labor and capital may be settled by arbitration.

He is a man of quiet, gentlemanly bearing and dislikes publicity. He recently consented to the following statement to the Spokesman:

"I thank my friends for their efforts in my behalf. They were mighty loyal to me, and during my incarceration saw to it that my wife and little ones did not suffer for want of the necessaries of life. So far as my pardon is concerned, of course I feel that I am innocent of the charge against me, and in granting my pardon the board evidently took the same view of the matter.

"Am I in favor of labor strikes? No I am not, and in fact never have been. Under present conditions they are some times unavoidable from the standpoint of labor, yet I prefer to see the necesssity of strikes done away with by adequate legislation. As a means of doing away with labor strikes I favor compulsory arbitration—that would be as fair for one side as for the other."

During their absence the business in Rossland will be conducted by R. E. O'Hearn.

THE JUNO.

M. S. Logan Will Let a New Contract for Work.

M. S. Logan has returned here after having settled up the monthly accounts in connection with the the Juno at Nelson.

Work upon the long crosscut tunnel which the owners are driving to their ledge has been suspended for the present as Nelson, who had the contract for the work, has thrown up the contract. The tunnel is now in 460 feet and it is expected that another 150 or 200 feet should cut the ledge. It is stated that for the pest few weeks Nelson has been in very hard rock, which accounts for his throwing up the work. The company will let a new contract and expect to reach the ledge in two months.

THE C. P. R. ACCIDENT

Clear Over a 30-Foot Embankment -- Many Injured.

The pasengers on the C. P. R. harvesters special which was wrecked at Ingolf last week, talked freely of the accident on their arrival at Winnipeg, and said that the two men who were killed were standing on the platform of the first car at the time. Had they been inside the car they probably would not have lost their lives. There were some 75 men in the car which was all smashed up, and the wonder is that more of the passengers were not killed or injured, as the car went clear over an embankment about 30 feet in height. There were 17 cars in the train in all, and of these four went over the embankment, and one was derailed on the side of the track. The passeagers give the brakemen great credit for their promptness in applying the air brakes, and stopping the train. It was this, they said, which saved a great disaster.

There were about 750 men on board the train, and, after the accident, the greater number of these went back to Rat Portage. Five cars came down from Winnipeg with the doctors and supplies, and it was on these that this morning's arrivals came to the city.

The two men killed were Dan White of Kent county, N. B., and Donald McKelgan, of Cape Breton.

BEAMISH CASE

Trial Concluded in Police Court Today.

TWO MONTHS IN NELSON JAIL

Address of the Accused—Magistrate Finds Him Guilty—Released Pending an Appeal.

In the police court this morning the two cases against Thomas Beamish preferred by Joseph Horn of the Northport smelter, were continued before Magistrate Boultbee.

There was a very large crowd in attendance, as on the first day of the trial. Mr. Daly representing the attorney-general was put in the box by Mr. Beamish, and examined at length, and the case for the defence was closed.

In his opening address to the court Mr. Beamish asked that his objection that the Crown had not made out a case at the close of its case be noted. The accused also objected to the comments on his case which have appeared in the morning paper and to the retention of the solicitor of the Le Roi company on behalf of the attorney-general on a case for common assault. "The Morning Miner," said the accused, "has openly broken the law in connection with this case, and yet no prosecution by the attorney-general or any one else, followed."

The accused said that Horn's evidence would not show that he had assaulted him, interfered with his liberty, or broken the law in any way with respect to him. At the request of the accused the magistrate read over the evidence of Horn as taken down, and the accused claimed again that there was nothing in the evidence to show that he, Beamish, was guilty of any infraction of the law. Beamish said that he believed Horn was a bait sent up here to get the strikers into trouble. and all that he did was to try and prevent any of the strikers from getting into a row.

Horn, said Mr. Beamish, was the lowest type of a gambler, was a "booster," in fact, and used as a decoy for card games, and was paid for so acting. The evidence of such a man should be scrutinized very carefully by any court on such a trial as the one pending. The chief wifness for the Crown, Horn, had not sworn that he, Beamish, had intimidated him or interfered with him any more than anyone else who was on the streets of Rossland at the time in question.

The evidence of Dr. Sinclair, Edward Baillie, Wm. Thompson and the other Crown witnesses was then reviewed by the accused, who claimed that they showed no intimidation or infraction of the law by him.

Mr. Beamish again claimed that he followed Wm. Thompson of the Le Roi company when the latter took Horn up to the B. A. C. offices for the express purpose not of protecting Thompson, but to prevent any working men from getting into trouble over "the bait" in the person of Horn.

The accused strongly pressed the evidence of Police Officer Macdonald, given on behalf of the defence, who was present at the time referred to, but who stated positively that the law was not broken by the accused or by any one else.

Mr. Beamish denied that he was guilty of any offence against the law of the land, and said that owing to the statements appearing in the morning paper and wired to the attorney-general, he had not a fair trial on the true merits of the case. As a matter of fact, he, Beamish, was one of the only two persons who raised their voice and hands in favor of upholding the law and preventing a breach of the peace.

"Horn," said the accused, "is on his own admission a scab," and is to his trade what a traitor is to his country, is a Judas Iscariot who has not the moral courage to go out and hang himself." The whole prosecution was a persecution founded on the fact that he, Beamish, had taken a hand in proving that certain mine managers had themselves broken the law by unlawfully having firearms in their possession. The accused said in conclusion that he scorned mercy and demanded even handed justice.

Mr. Daly addressed the court at some length and pressed for a conviction.

Magistrate Boultbee asked the accused if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be passed upon him, and Beamish replied by saying that he objected to the magistrate because he was unfriendly to him.

The court read over the clause in the Criminal Code under which the information was brought, and read extracts from his notes of the evidence given during the trial. He said the accused was clearly guilty as charged, and sentenced him to two months imprisonment in the jail at Nelson with hard labor.

Mr. Beamish at once gave notice of appeal from the decision, and subsequently was released on bail.

The case will be again heard before Judge Forin here on or about October 3rd, and at the same time the Colistro case will again be heard.

HOT TIME AT PAYNE

Forest Fires Cause Loss and Damage -- Men Worked Hard.

The week just closed has been a hard and exciting one for the employes at the Payne, says the Sandon Paystreak, and one that might have ferminated in serious loss to the company.

A forest fire which had been smouldering for a long time this last week threatened the terminal and office, spread up the hill on Tuesday and Wednesday and burned fiercely among the dry timber along the Payne nill. On Wednesday evening a brisk breeze from the west fanned the flames and for several hours fifty men worked like Trojans to save the tramway and building from ruin. It was long after midnight before the fire passed the tramway and for many hours the company's improvements on the hillside would not have been considered a good risk. Some of the men at the mine worked 36 hours at a stretch before the danger was over and it was only by their untiring vigilance that the property was saved from complete ruin.

Although the fires are still burning and the hose, is continually applied about the office to keep it safe from flying embers, no further danger is apprehended either to the tramway or buildings.

INSURANCE.

The Miner had another of its hysterical spasms yesterday. It advised Rosslanders not to burn up the town, and incidentally remarked that imprisonment for life awaited any one guilty of incendiarism. The chief matter that troubled the Miner was the possibility of the insurance companies withdrawing from underwriting this city. The Miner need not worry. The unreasonable and outrageous insurance rates collected by the companies doing business here, makes it far too profitable a matter for them to forego easily. Compared with the annual receipts taken in the last five years here the losses paid are so insignificant as to call for comment on the action of the companies in persistently maintaining rates away out of all proportion to those collected in other parts of the Dominion where the risk is practically the same as here, and in some cases far greater.

It would be a reasonable precaution probably if the chief of police made a special enquiry into every fire which occurs under existing circumstances, but presumedly the companies interested, through their agents always do this. What does the morning paper suggest the city authorities should do? What with keeping the city free of mob law and attending generally to the morals of Rossland, the Miner must have a busy time of it during this warm weather. If the morning paper would look into and comment upon the improper rates charged by all the companies doing business here in place of raising a silly and alarmist cry about the insurance people doing something they have not the slightest intention of attempting, the Miner would find some possible backers in this community for the time being.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Rossland Miner has been placed on the unfair list by the Phoenix Trades and Labor council. There is no gainsaying the fact that the Rossland Miner, if it be possible to accredit it with any standing for integrity of purpose, is doing more harm to the Kootenay and Boundary interests than all other untoward influences. Abroad, where its true character is not known, its pessimistic whines have a most depressing effect.—Grand Forks News.

Speaking of the Hanford injunction, restraining the Northport smeltermen, the Moyie Leader says:

It permits the smelter company to go to Leadville as it did a few days ago, or any other part of the country, and lie to men to induce them to accept positions, and then apply the injunction to prevent anybody from giving the deluded men the facts. It permits the smelter company to use all the persuasion it wishes to and lie about the situation to its heart's content and then arrest anybody it desires for contempt of court who dares make a denial. It is one of those injunctions that grants the freedom of persuasion on the one side and absolutely prohibits it on the other. It delegates to the smelter company the the right to induce by any means any man to take the place of one of its strikers but makes a criminal out of the striker if he attempts to induce the poor devil not to take his place. It is one of those restraining orders that recognizes only one side of the bill of rights. It prohibits one man from protecting his rights by peaceable methods and permits another man to protect his with a gun.

If the evidence is printed correctly in the Rossland papers, Police Magistrate Boultbee did not give an impartial decision in the Colistro case. The decision indicates that the police magistrate of Rossland is aching to place himself on record along with Bernard Macdonald as a union smasher.—Nelson Tribune.

It is safe to say that the Le Roi company's loss to the present time on account of the strike would be sufficient to pay the extra 50 cents to the muckers for the next two years.—Moyie Leader.

LIBERAL CIRCUS MEN

Sells & Gray's Shows Will Charge Half Price Tomorrow.

Learning of the strike the Sells & Gray's Big Show have decided to reduce their admission price from a dollar to fifty cents, children but twenty-five cents, and will have their reserved seats on sale at Roll's drug store at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, August 20th. Thus our citizens if desiring to, can now all secure elegant reserved seats, having back rests, etc., and the best location in the big circus tent for the same price that they formerly paid for admission only. This move on the part of the circus management is commendable and should meet with hearty response on the part of our people. The C. P. R. people have arranged to run a special train leaving here at midnight after the show, and the excursion rate from Trail and return has been arranged for at fifty cents for the round trip. This will enable Trail residents to come on any train to see the circus and get back the same night, and all including admission to circus for one dollar. Same rates in proportion from other points on line.

The show by the way comes highly recommended by every prominent newspaper in the west published where the show has been seen, and from all these reports it is safe to say that Rossland is going to have the best big show, and finest circus here tomorrow that it has had in years. One mistaken idea that many people labor under regarding shows coming to Rossland is that owing to the steep grades on the railroad getting in, the shows come only in part. In this case if they think so, they will be mistaken for once, as the circus' special agent, came over the road in advance today, measuring all the curves and grades. He finds they can bring all the cars in several sections and give Rossland for once, a truly big modern show in its entirety. The WORLD is authorized specially to make the statement positively that Rossland is guaranteed exactly the same show that showed in Spokane and was so highly recommended by both the Spokesman-Review and Chronicle.

We still have some limburger, Swiss, and monetary cheese left. Paulson Bros. tf.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor EVENING WORLD.

Sir:—"How we apples swim." Having succeeded in absorbing the sympathy and influence of certain newspapers the Macdonald-Kadish combination ostrich like, run their heads into the sand and imagine all is well. Witness the jubilent hypocrisy in the editorial in the Daily M— excuse me, the Daily Macdonald it should rightly be termed of yesterday. Everything is right. One hears of western gall and Colorado bluff, but this surpasses everything. Why sir, at the moment Mr. Macdonald does nor know which station to get off al. If his statements in his journal are as reliable as the following from the Colonial Goldfields Gazette of London (Aug 3rd) what evidence can be given to his utterances. I read: "Le Roi—from the manager: Northport smelter now independent of strikers, plenty non-union men to smelt 600 tons per day employed. This and decision not to yield to demands of Rossland Miners' union, having been published, will be likely to influence early termination of strike here." Six hundred! Is that as near as Bernard Macdonald can come to the truth? There were 145 men in the smelter at Northport on the 3rd of August. However, if it requires 145 men to operate one furnace, how many would be required to operate 5? Just 730. Now, Barney come off! Why sir, this is the character of stuff upon which the British shareholders are being fed! HONESTY.
