Hon. Dr. Young, Minister of Education, has addressed invitations to five of the foremost educationalists of Canada, who, it is hoped, will accept appointment as the commission authorized by statute to select the site of the British Columbia university. Shipping

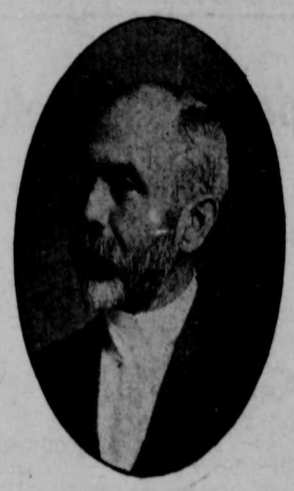
The large freighter S. S. Elsa docked at Capt. Cates' wharf Monday morning and started to load the cargo of plant equipment consigned to the Northern Light, Heat and Power Company of Coal Creek, near Dawson City, which was unloaded here last fall by the S. S. Lonsdale and left in storage for the winter and until navigation opened in the north. The Captain expects to have the cargo aboard and be in readiness for sailing in about twenty days on the northern trip.



REV. JAS. WHITE, D. D.

Rev. J. H. White, D.D., Superintendent of Methodist Missions in B. C., will give an illustrated lecture in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, March 29th, at 8 o'clock. Subject: "Dawson City to Victoria." The principal part of the photographs that will be shown have been taken by Dr. White himself. A short program of good music will precede the lecture. An offering will be taken.

SOCIETY

A very charming house party and dance was given by Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kealy at their residence on St. Andrew's Ave. last Monday evening. The guest of honor of the evening was Mrs. J. McLeod of Spokane, Wash., whose visit to this city, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kealy was in the nature of a return call to Mrs. Kealy, whose return from Spokane, where she spent a few months' vacation with her brother and Mrs. McLeod there, has been noted recently.

Dancing was the prevailing amusement of the evening's entertainment and to the sweet strains of the pianola, performed on with an artist's taste by Master Bruce Kealy, was heartily enjoyed by all present. The serving of refreshments concluded the evening's festivities. Among thosep resent were Mr. Among those present were Mr. Mrs. Evans, Dr. and Mrs. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Green, Mrs. J. McLeod (Spokane), Miss Seal, Miss Laing, Miss Burnes, Dr. Campbell Mr. R. P. Cornish and Mr. Calvert.

FOUND

Mr. J. Paine is the recipient of many congratulations on the part of himself and his friends through the fortunate recovery of his lost gasoline launch which he found at Caulfield's Landing last Friday morning, after searching the harbor in vain for the stolen article for a whole week. A week ago last Friday morning Mr. Paine discovered that his recent purchase in the form of a first-class $1,000 launch had been taken from its moorings near Larson's slip. Practically every day of last week was spent in searching the harbor, the same dismal results apparent after each trip. After making a number of fruitless errands, answering advertisements the last one, however, from the pilot house at Caulfield's proved the maxim of tenacity of purpôse.

A special meeting of the district council will be held this evening and the regular meeting a week from Thursday.

Good Friday

Good Friday was a bumper day for North Vancouver. For so early in the season the crowds which visited this charming resort passed all expectations and in fact, so far as the B. C. Electric Ry. Co. was concerned it was the largest day for them in the way of passenger traffic since July 1st, 1909. The crowds started coming over exceptionally early in the morning and continued coming till well up to noon. To a large extent these travellers were picnickers, mountain climbers and fishermen who did not pass much of their time in the city proper, but passed on to the several pleasure resorts at Capilano, Lynn and Seymour river. The weather was excellent during the whole of the day and in the evening when the visitors started making for the ferry lower Lonsdale avenue and the ferry wharf was a moving mass of pedestrians and rigs from about 4 o'clock to quite late at night. A number of North Vancouverites spent the day at Minoru park where the air-ship demonstrations were being held.

MAY DAY

Preparations are under way for the 1910 May Day celebration and are in charge of Mrs. C. Inez Hall, whose efficient management last year brought about the unsurpassed success of that initial undertaking. Mrs. Hall will be assisted by a strong working committee of ladies.

Miss Edna Hay has consented to act as accompanist and Mrs. Hall will be pleased to hear from any children who wish to participate in the proceedings of the day. The proceeds of the celebration will be in aid of the North Vancouver Hospital.

VISITING EDITOR

Noted in the guest list of one of the local hotels which appears in this issue is the name of Mr. R. M. Court of London, Eng. Mr. Court is the financial editor of the London Times and is touring Canada in company with Mrs. Court on a vacation trip and incidentally to pick up sundry information regarding this country's position in the financial world. Mr. Thos. Shepherd, city clerk of the city of North Vancouver, conversed considerably with the visiting editor, and the questions of the west and the promising development of British Columbia in particular were subjects which Mr. Court was especially anxious to become conversant with. Mr. Court was in no manner reticient in his praise of North Vancouver from a residential and industrial standpoint as well as from a speculative point of view and the impressions which he will take back to the old land with him will be highly satisfactory of this city and district.

IMPORTANT DEAL

The sale is reported, on excellent authority, of the northeast corner of Lonsdale Avenue and Second Street, consisting of three 26-foot lots, the purchase price being $55,000.

THE LAZIEST MAN

The laziest man is on a western paper. He spells photograph "4tograph." There have been only three worse than he. One lived in Kansas and dated his letters "11worth," and another spelled Tennessee "10aC," and the other wrote Wyandotte "Y&."

A MEMORABLE DATE

May 15, 1910, should be a memorable date, for on that day the first permanent passenger air-ship line will be opened in Germany, the route lying between Starnberg and Oberammergan.

Ferry Off For Repairs

The launch English Bay Roamer took the noon runs today in place of the S. S. North Vancouver which was laid up for a few trips on account of having a couple of the blades broken off the propellor as a result of a contact with a log or something of that nature.

CANADA'S MINERAL OUTPUT

For the year just passed Canada's mineral production is shown in a preliminary statement issued by the Department of Mines to have been $90,415,763, of which $55,188,387 was metallic, $30,587,591 non-metallic, and the balance structural materials and clay products.

In a comparison of figures with former years as far back as 1886 the table gives the value of production in 1886 as $10,221,255; in 1896, 10 years later, $22,474,256; in 1906, $79,057,308, and in 1908, $85,927,802.

The preliminary estimate shows a slight decrease in the value of the gold production in 1909 as compared with 1908. In 1909 the gold production was $9,790,000, and in 1908, $9,842,105, to which the Yukon contributed $3,600,000; British Columbia, $5,929,880, Nova Scotia, $244,799. A slight increase is shown in the production in the Yukon in 1909 over 1908, the increase being about $300,000.

The exports of silver in 1909, for the whole of Canada, as reported by the Customs Department, were 31,126,504 ounces, valued at $15,719,909.

The total production of copper, contained in blister and matte (although official statistics are not yet complete), is estimated as recoverable from ores exported in 1909, at approximately 54,061,106 pounds. In 1908 the copper production, estimated on a like basis, was 52,928,386. Of the production in 1909, Ontario is credited with 15,746,699, and British Columbia, 37,314,407. The average New York price of electrolytic copper for the latter year was 12.982 cents pound.

The total production in 1909 of pig lead and manufactured lead and lead contained in base bullion exported was 45,857,424 pounds, valued at $1,959,488. The lead production in 1908 was 40,891,448 pounds or nearly 5,000,000 pounds less than in 1909. The production in both years was all from British Columbia.

The total production of matte, containing copper and nickel in 1909 was 25,845 tons valued at the furnaces at $3,913,012. The metallic contents were copper, 15,746,699 pounds; nickel, 26,282,991 pounds. The price of refined nickel was quoted in New York December quotations at from 40 to 50 cents per pound.

The total shipments of iron ore from mines in Canada in 1909 were 268,043 short tons valued at $659,120, as compared with 238,082 tons valued at $568,189 in 1908.

The total production of pig iron for 1909 was 757,162 short tons valued at $9,581,864, as compared with 630,835 tons valued at $8,111,194 in 1908.

The amount of Canadian ore used during 1909 was 231,994 tons; imported ore, 1,234,990 tons; mill cinders, etc., 25,508 tons. The amount of coke used during the year was 919,271 tons, comprising 412,017 tons from Canadian coal and 507,255 tons imported coke or coke made from imported coal. The consumption of charcoal was 1,78,258 bushels. Limestone flux was used to the extent of 526,076 tons. In connection with blast furnace operations there were employed 1,486 men and $879,426 were paid in wages. The total daily capacity of 16 completed furnaces was, according to returns received, 2,735 tons. The number of furnaces in blast on Dec. 31st, 1909, was 11.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C. - - MARCH 29TH, 1910

OUR SEMI-WEEKLY PAPER

Volume one, number one, of the mid-week edition of the Express is herewith launched upon its public career. It has existed for some months past in the thought of the management of North Shore Press Limited, to whom the accomplishment of the purpose, unavoidably deferred for a time, affords a great deal of gratification.

The publication of a semi-weekly newspaper at North Vancouver is undertaken in the conviction that its value to the entire community will be recognized by the citizens of both the city and the district. The relationship of any local newspaper to the constituency which it serves is necessarily of the most intimate character. The local newspaper is invariably the vehicle for the conveying of the thought of the citizenship upon all matters of public import. It is the chronicler of public events so that its files become the volumes in which are written the progressive history of the community. It is the consistent optimist, gathering material and making the most of the same for the furtherance of public and private interests and enterprises. It is the watchful sentinel disseminating information and stimulating consideration and discussion with respect to all matters touching the people's interests. "The pen of the writer, the brain of the thinker, the pencil of the reporter, the thought of the correspondent, the project of the manager, the vigilance of the editor," the art and skill of the printer, the time and energy of the entire staff are constantly engaged in filling up the measure of the influence and the usefulness of the newspaper. While every paper must of necessity be produced in the guise of a private or semi-private business enterprise, yet at the same time when its office and functions are properly understood, it is readily seen that a paper conducted along progressive lines becomes a valuable public asset. In fact, in all growing and enterprising communities a newspaper is recognized as an indispensable adjunct to success, even to the extent of bonusing at times or otherwise providing special inducements, to procure the establishment of a paper within the bounds of the community.

Once established the local paper stands closely identified with the advancement of its constituency. The policy of the paper, if properly conducted, will reflect the spirit of enterprise which actuates the citizenship; the news columns will make the most of every item of public interest or moment, always with a view to "boosting" the community while at the same time useful information, somewhat beyond the merely parochial, will receive due attention; its advertising columns will portray the enterprise and the success of the mercantile interests of the community, promoting the interests of both merchant and consumer; its editorial columns will discuss in a fair and unbiased manner, current issues of local importance with a view to stimulating thought upon the part of the ratepayers and residents and to securing the fullest and most intelligent consideration of all municipal or other projects, strictly upon their merits. The entire conduct of and the whole tenor of the sheet will be uniformly constructive. A sheet that is everlastingly attacking and tearing to pieces is of extremely doubtful utility. A single column of matter which helps to build, which makes to the addition of something, is worth more than many issues containing carping criticism of men and things.

While the above observations are intended to be of a general character, they nevertheless denote the principles which the present management of the Express have been steadily endeavering to incorporate in the general policy of the paper and in the building of each edition, as it is prepared for the public. That the result of these efforts has not at all times proven satisfactory to ourselves and to our readers is so patent as to render the admission superfluous, but inasmuch as "He who aims at a star shoots higher than he who aims at a tree" we are persuaded that the standard attained has been considerably in advance of what it would have been had those actuating principles been laid upon a lower plane.

The management of the Express gratefully acknowledge the valuable assistance which has been received not in a few but in innumerable instances and in many ways from the friends and patrons of the paper. The semi-weekly edition is undertaken in the hope that having made the mid-week edition a fact, its value will appeal in such a manner to all enterprising citizens and well wishers of North Vancouver city and district that the new venture will be recognized as of real value to the community and that it will receive a like liberal patronage to that which has been extended to the week-end edition.

The constant desire and effort of the management of the Express is to produce a paper which, with regard to both its general character and its enterprising policy, can be referred to by the citizens of North Vancouver with the consciousness that they have herein a creditable paper which does justice to the constituency which it has the honor to represent. Every encouragement toward this end which is extended from any source, will be highly appreciated and every effort will be made to keep the paper fully abreast of the development of the community, in earnest of which disposition upon the part of the management the production of a semi-weekly edition is now undertaken.

A COMPARISON

In one of the exchanges to hand a comparison is being made of the comparative success of country and city boys in reaching high positions in life.

The protagonist for the country boy gave the following figures secured by him in the United States:

Class of Men	City	Country
Presidents	2	23
Governors	4	41
Cabinet Officers	15	111

It would appear highly satisfactory to the country boy if these figures proved correct and were founded on statistics gathered as to the relative number of inhabitants of cities and rural districts.

It is a well known fact, however, that the country boy grows up in nearly every case in the free and stalwart manner befitting his out-of-door life, while the city boy has not these conveniences of nature to strengthen both his mind and body and might be considered to be at a disadvantage in this way although the arguments in favor of the latter could possibly be put in an equally convincing manner in another direction.

It is interesting to read the opinions of several prominent men who have spoken of the country environment as being more favorable. One railway president says: "Life on the farm is pre-eminently in my judgment an experience which develops independence and self-reliance, and, therefore, I think, the spirit of achievement more than any other I know of." Another railway president remarks: "I believe that farm life lays a good and broad foundation for healthy, vigorous manhood in both mind and body."

President J. J. Hill of the Great Northern Railway says: "My present home is on a farm and my principal reason for making my home there, rather than at some of the lakes or in the city, is that I have three boys of my own, I am trying to give a fair start in life. I believe there is no end of arguments that living on the farm gives the best chance for a growing boy. While my making the farm my home sometimes works an inconvenience to me, I realize that the benefits of my children are well worth the inconvenience to me of getting in and out between my office and the farm."

LARGE REALTY DEAL

Mr. Percy Ward, of the Vancouver Realty firm of Ward, Burmester & von Graeventz, called at the Express office this week and reported that his firm had purchased a large portion of D. L. 544, lying between Jones Ave. and Larson's Road on the east, and west and 23rd and 22nd streets on the north and south. Mr. Ward reports that he, personally, has disposed of nearly half of these five lots and anticipates an early disposal of the entire block.

RUNAWAY

A remarkable escape from permanent injury was recorded on Friday last when the horse of the Seymour Dairy became frightened and unmanageable through the breaking of the harness and ran away severely injuring the driver, Mr. Hill, about the head, though not dangerously.

Mr. Hill was on his regular rounds delivering milk to his customers when on getting into his rig at the corner of Third street he in some manner frightened the animal with the result that it bolted down street with the driver hanging on. He was able to guide it into Second street but had not enough control to steer it clear of the telephone pole at the corner which the waggn struck, smashing it considerably, and throwing Mr. Hill hard against the pole. Medical aid was soon at hand and the injuries dressed. The patient was soon about again feeling shaky but able to show a bold front.

Arthur Davies, chief of the North Vancouver police department, is preparing to move into his new residence, situated a few doors to the north of his present abode.

FALSE ADVERTISING

The attention of the provincial government has been brought to the outrageous manner in which outsiders are taking advantage of the realty move in this province to beguile innocent investors through misleading advertisements and accordingly to the detriment of British Columbia lands.

Premier McBride has announced that the government is taking all possible steps to termin. ate this epidemic of spurious advertising for which unscrupulous land agents are responsible.

The government claims that it has been a favorite trick of land companies on the other side of the line of late, to announce themselves as "British Columbia government lands agencies," although they have no understanding or connection with the government. Their modus operandi is to form companies, procure a sufficient number of powers-of-attorney, and by means of these, acting as agents under the Lands Act, to take up considerable areas of standard crown lands, place them on the market and sell them at high prices.

Of late weeks a number of warning advertisements have been inserted in the American press by the government of the province, advising prospective investors against these false representations.

Another feature of condemned advertisements, it is claimed, and this applies to notices appearing in British Columbia newspapers as well, is the announcement that in such-and-such townsite hitherto unheard-of the government has reserved 25 per cent. of the lands for parks and public buildings. This is defended by citing the clause in the Land Act by which a quarter interest in all townsites in the province is reserved by the government, but there is no obligation that the land thus held back be utilized for parks or otherwise.

T. U. Durrand of Vancouver has rented a house on 2nd street east of St. Patrick's, and will move in shortly.
