Terrible Fatality in Our Midst.

[Apologies to the World, 1896.]

"To be entrusted, under providence, with the care of 60 young lives. To feel that you are responsible for their existence, their sustenance and their bringing up in the way they should go is a wonderful, an inspiring, a sobering, and care-involving experience."

So spake Mr. J. J. Woods, of the treasurer's office staff of our neighboring City of Vancouver, which is sufficiently well-known to readers of this tale of a fearful holacaust involving death of many innocents, to need no further introduction. J. J. works, and eats his lunch in the great city that demands its daily grind so much of muscle and brain, so much of thought and care, so much of moil and toil, so much of self-sacrifice and devotion to duty that here, where we come to live, we cannot help think of it as else than a wondrous, monstrous, prosperous mill-grinding out of human endeavor great achievements that augur grander possibilities. But working and achieving are parts of existence not of living, in the true, broad, heart-touching, mind-developing sense. To be a grain in the hopper of the mill that grinds the flour of future possibilities. To be a sentinel, self-directing potentiality, with a right to think, do and direct the channels of one's best self, the part that tends to the cherishing and caring for those dependent on one's care is another, so I say that J. J. "lives" in North Vancouver.

Great is he who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before. Greater still is he who makes two beings live and breathe where none lived before. When I say greater still is my friend, J. J., who by his acts and with the aid of timber, coal oil, lime, sulphur and albumen brought into existence 60 living, breathing, wealth-producing members of the Gallinæ family.

His hours of devotion to duty ended, J. J. devoted much of his time to the care of these. He loved them. Anyone who had had one to care for, support and nourish can imagine how much care and devotion J. J. poured out over those 60. The first thing in the morning and the last thing at night they had his closest attention, the thoughts that were borne of his deepest emotions owed their birth to them. With his thoughts penetrating the future and its potentalities as far as the mind's eye can reach he watched them grow and develop. Did one fall ill it had a wealth of care. No Highland shepherd on the hillside ever snuggled his pet lamb with more tenderness under his "plaidie" than did J. J. pet, coddle and minister to the helpless members of the family Rasores, to whom he stood in the light of a foster father. Fond mothers who have been transcended to Elysian fields by the sight of the first pearly point in baby's cherry mouth think of the delights of watching for the cutting of the teeth in a family of 60. [By the way, J. J. was a model in this respect. He never forced his friends with tales of the Gallinæ family's first teeth.]

Think, then, of the untellable feelings of my friend, J. J., when he had to stand helplessly by and see the 60, for whom he had labored so devotedly, burned to death in one horrible holacaust. [With apologies to Head-writer Williams, of the News-Advertizer.] My type-writer fails me. Let the rest be told in the words of J. J. himself, as he told it to me, while with a heart broken in 60 places, he was trying to force down his meridianal sandwich in the city treasurer's office, amid the incessant noise of the great city.

"You see it was this way. I had the brooder set up alongside the house. In some way the confounded thing caught fire. The maid noticed it and aroused me. I got it out in time to save the house, but 60 of the finest five-week-old chickens were burned to death. It was a blamed shame. In two months more they would have been marketable as broilers. But then being mothered by a lumber frame with glazed sides they might have grown up and given me the wooden heart and the glassey eye."

There is a wealth of sorrow and regret in those few simple words. Speak tenderly of his loss to J. J. when you see him, bearing in mind that

"Many a word at random spoken
May heal or wound a heart that's broken."

Cupid's Capers.

A very pretty wedding occured at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDowell, Second street, at 10 a. m., on Wednesday. Miss M. McDowell, sister to our local druggist, was united in marriage to Mr. T. H. Ingram, formerly of Croydon, Eng., but now accountant for Schoefield & Company, Vancouver. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. C. Owen. Mr. Miller acted as groomsman, while Miss Cory Williams was bridesmaid. After the ceremony was over the wedding party and 24 guests did justice to the marriage feast. The bride received many beautiful and valuable presents, and takes with her in her new Vancouver home the best wishes of a host of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ingram left by a special launch, which was in readiness at Larson's landing, to catch the steamer Princess Victoria, at the C. P. R. wharf for the Capital and Sound cities. The captain of the Victoria ferry boat kindly arranged things, so that the newly-wedded couple went aboard on the outer side of the steamer, and consequently were unnoticed by the crowds on the wharf. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ingram will take up their residence at English bay, Vancouver.

Box Social.

L. O. L., No. 1840, held a box social in the Larson pavilion here, on Wednesday evening. Owing to counter attractions the attendance was not as large as it might have been, but, nevertheless, those that attended went away well satisfied with the evening's entertainment. Previous to the auctioneering of the boxes a short programme was the order, which did much to get the crowd in good spirits. The first number on the programme was a selection by the L. O. L. band; next came Mr. Paise with a song; after which Mr. Quinn evoked much laughter by a witty Irish recitation, Mr. Tom Moore, the well-known Irish comedian and singer, proved himself to be one of the witty class; Mr. Wm. Hunt, county grand master, was drawn for an address, but as the programme was rather lengthy he only said a few words; Mr. Underwood came next with a song, as did also Mr. King; then again Mr. Moore was called upon; Mr. Quinn with another choice recitation started everyone to laugh over again, which kept up till Mr. Paise finished his comic song.

The boxes were then raffled off, bringing a fair price, after which the merry gathering partook of the dainties prepared by the fair young damsels present. Mr. Thos. Duke officiated in the capacity of chairman, while Mr. Hunt acted as auctioneer in a way that delighted those present. The assembly broke up in time to catch the 11:30 boat.

Abelino Savedra Dead.

On Wednesday morning Abelino Savedra, of Second street, met with an accident, which resulted in his death in the evening. The unfortunate man was engaged in blasting stumps in Alexandra park, when one of the charges hung fire, which he forgot that he had lit, and went off just as he approached it, blowing him in the air about ten feet, and breaking his left hip. He was otherwise badly injured internally, and suffered greatly. Mr. Brassey, the contractor, said that Mr. Savedra was a good powder man, and been in his firm's employ for a long time. Dr. Dyer was the attending physician. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place this afternoon.

Sawmill Opened.

On the eve of Mr. A. B. Diplock's departure for England, a very pleasant and at the same time important event took place, namely, the opening of the sawmill in district lot 614. The mill was not expected to start till the following week, but an extra effort was made so as to enable the popular president of the Western Corporation to be present when the first stick of timber was cut. Mr. Diplock was asked to go out to see the mill before he left for his old home in England and readily consented to do so. It is easier to imagine his surprise than to describe it when Foreman Sam Martin told him that he was ready to commence cutting timber, and in a few well-chosen words further requested him to formally open the concern. Mr. Diplock ascended the platform of the mill amidst applause, and thanked his employees for what they had accomplished. He also said to them that it was only by all pulling together as a unit that labor and capital could achieve success. With the contents of a bottle of wine the christening was made amidst the cheers of all present. This part of the impromptu ceremony over, the president pulled the lever, and another of North Vancouver's most promising industries inaugurated. This was not all, for the boys seized the opportunity and presented their esteemed and honored employer with a neat souvenir silver match box. Three rousing cheers and a tiger were again heartily given, which were suitably acknowledged by the recipient; and a general handshaking then took place among the little band. Among those present were: Superintendent H. C. Wright, G. V. Storkey, Postmaster McMillan, Foreman Sam Martin, Engineer O. C. Kidd, Fireman J. Benson, M. McDonald, Sawyer J. Blake, E. W. Knight, E. Johnson, A. Minko, F. Miranda, J. Newman, T. Prime, T. Smith and a representative of THE EXPRESS.

You can get out of doors these fine days if you want to. Don't neglect the opportunity. Work on your lawn, or in a garden, but if you decline to do that, take long walks into the interior of the municipality, or about the burg. Don't let the sun scare you: sunlight is good for you. Plenty seize the opportunity, as may be observed by the way they are tanned.

LOCALS.

So many men say, "I can do it," who can't.

As soon as an engagement of marriage leeks out all the town gossips get busy.

We would hate to be a preacher and have to preach against a whole lot of new clothes.

Will Dales goes to Victoria next Sunday to be absent from North Vancouver two weeks.

Mr. Piers, wharfinger, has resigned his position, and will go into business here shortly.

Big improvements are being made on Fifteenth street, both on the sidewalk and roadway.

Speaking of Dowie and Gorky: Are we not all of us better off for not being in the lime light.

The Western Corporation have finished clearing Seventeenth street, which is now ready for grading.

"He denies his reported engagement so emphatically," said a North Vancouver gossip, "that it must be true."

You are either too nice or too pleasant to be sincer, or too gruff to be polite; in any event you are not just right.

When a man tells his "story," always remember that he exaggerates it, and that he isn't fair with the other fellow.

The school trustees have succeeded in having several new desks and chairs put in the school. The pupils will now have more room.

The public wouldn't know what women some men married if it didn't occasionally see the husbands and their wives together at funerals.

Some women tell their husbands that their "was $4 hats now $1.93" are simply "killing" for effect—same thing about those cigars she bought you.

Complaint is made that a couple of big rocks, which are not far enough apart to allow a vehicle to pass, on Lonsdale avenue, should be removed.

A. Alderman, of Vancouver, has opened a gent's furnishing store in the Thompson block, on Lonsdale avenue. Boots and shoes will also be handled.

A North Vancouver woman has returned from a visit to Vancouver and brought something for everyone in town: A piece of North Vancouver gossip.

After a woman has finished house-cleaning, and the place is spotless, she likes to plant herself in a chair in any room in the house and look and look and admire.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church will hold an olde time concert, on Monday, April 30, in the Pavilion. A large number of Vancouver singers will assist. Admission, 25 cents.

Would you believe it that there are people—but, of course, not in North Vancouver—who like to abuse the transportation companies which serve them and the town and country in which they live.

The Brackman-Ker Milling Company, near the wharf, have on sale cabbage, cauliflower and tomatoe plants, all grown from the famous Sutton seeds. These plants are good, healthy and strong. Prices very reasonable.

A. Zetterman and family have taken up Mrs. Burns' residence on Third street, where they will, in future, reside.

A flock of homing pigeons belonging to Mount Pleasant, Vancouver, were let loose at the wharf this morning.

The whistle and bell of the locomotive can be heard in North Vancouver. It is on the other side of the inlet, though.

They tell of a girl who visits North Vancouver twice a year; and remains six months each time. In short, she is here all the time.

All the real estate dealers report business good, and prospects very bright for the coming season. There is a good demand for houses.

Mr. Douglas and family, recently from the United States, have taken up their residence on Fourth street, where they will reside in future.

Messrs. Geo. Davis and A. Smiley paid THE EXPRESS a call on Wednesday. They were accompanied by Miss Davis and Miss Armstrong.

A Chink, who has a piggery, near the North Arm, reports that within five days, seven young pigs, one and two days old, have been destroyed by rats.

The blasting on First street for the past couple of days made things lively. Though it gives one such a start, beyond that nothing serious has happened.

A big healthy man was on the streets this morning begging. "I suppose you think it looks funny," he said to the writer, "to see a big healthy man begging." It did look funny.

While Messrs. Beverly and Wright were passing along Lonsdale avenue, near the wharf, on Monday, a bullet went whizzing past their heads, fired from an unknown rifle.

Mr. and Mrs. Appleby, of Victoria, are visiting friends here for a few days. Mr. Appleby leaves shortly for Hazelton, and will return in the fall. He purchased four lots on the Keith road.

If it was not for the A1 knowledge, of Mr. Askew, the local contractor, in blasting stumps and protecting same, Birt Campbell, the barber, would now be shoveling coal with the rest of the imps.

The citizens' incorporation committee met on Wednesday night. A committee representing the rural districts was also present. The only business transacted was to receive an interim report of the sub-committee. The committee will meet again in two weeks.

The British Columbia Electric Railway is pushing on the work of construction of the tram line with great rapidity. C. A. Anderson, superintendent of the work, is in charge, and what he does not know about building car lines is not worth knowing. Over 100 men are at work.

On Tuesday last North Vancouver was visited by Mr. A. Holden, a Boston undertaker. He was here looking over the ground with a view to opening up business here. He remarked that the town gave every indication of being just the place to drive a "stiff" business. We assured him that business would be "dead."

When a doctor does not have much faith in medicine, it is a sign that he is a good doctor. The best doctors are those that give good advice; advice that is simple, and has common sense back of it. Too many people imagine they can abuse themselves and hire a doctor to make them as well as ever for two dollars. Nothing in it.

In thinking of building a new house, people often wonder how much it will cost. There is no way of finding out unless they have plans prepared, and get estimates. An architect, who is well-known hereabouts, informs us that as a general rule a house will cost from $300 to $350 if a cottage, and from $250 to $300 a room if a two-story house. This rule applies to comparatively plain houses, and includes modern appliances, baths, etc.

Councillor May has one of the best gardens in the municipality, if not the best. It is a treat for anyone interested in gardening to see his gooseberry bushes and fruit trees.

Are North Vancouver girls more faithful than the boys? A number of young girls, who work in the city, attended a ball on Wednesday, and a majority of them did not arrive home till 3 o'clock a. m. in the morning. However, several of the young men, who arrived on the same launch, failed to show up for work at all.

If you don't pay your debts the people in your community will be familiar with the fact, and call you a dead-beat. Collectors will spread the news about you, and your reputation will be injured. Every man should make it a rule to pay his debts promptly; if you hope to succeed in life you must be reliable. A reliable man can always borrow money or get credit.

There is a dearth of song birds here. Something should be done to stock the place with them. One thing worthy of mention is the fact that the school children, as well as a good many others, have very little knowledge of the different kinds of song birds. An afternoon every week could be set apart in the schools for instruction in this subject with great profit to the rising generation and the community.

Things were lively at the Western Corporation wharf yesterday. Brackman-Ker's tug brought in a scow-load of hay and feed, the tug Sunbury arrived with a scow-load of sand for the Western Corporation; the British Columbia Electric Railway's tug made two trips—one with a scow loaded with 40 tons of copper wire, and the other with a scow-load of ties. Also a boom of logs was towed in which will be used to extend the wharf.

The Puro restaurant, on the Esplanade, has been opened by Messrs. Leonhardt & Harrington. Besides regular meals, short orders, served at all times of the day, will be made a specialty. The dining-room can comfortably seat 80 people. Also there are several bedrooms upstairs for the accomodation of the regular boarders. Everything will be run on strictly modern lines, clean and good. The new venture starts out under very favorable conditions and should succeed.

Here's good news for those who want to live forever: Judge S. J. Hanna, representing the lecture board of the Christian Science church, addressing a large audience in Menominee, Mich., made the startling prediction that the time was coming when Christian Science healers would raise the dead and perform the works of Christ while on earth. Christ, he said, "raised the dead," and he believed that this should be part of the Christian doctrine even now, and he even evinced his belief that there would be a time when people would be raised from the dead.

Restaurant License.

To the Editor of THE EXPRESS:

Sir,—In reply to a letter appearing in THE EXPRESS a fortnight ago regarding the licensing of our restaurant on the Eplanade, we beg leave to state that the premises will be conducted in a most satisfactory way to the public. The idea that Progress has of the place not being in the best interests of the community can be easily overcome if he will but only call and inspect our dining room as well as our private rooms. We only want fair play and a square deal. While we are in business here we intend to do all we can towards building up the town, not at the expense of our competitors, for we believe that there is room for all of us.

THE DANGER THAT LURKS IN COLDS

And How Serious Results Can be Avoided by Use of

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

There is one way in which the ravages of consumption can be very materially lessened and that is by the prompt and thorough cure of coughs and colds.

While weak lungs undoubtedly predispose to lung trouble and consumption, the beginning must always be with a neglected cold.

By directing your attention to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, we make known to you the most certain and effective means of curing coughs and colds and preventing such diseases as bronchitis, consumption and pneumonia.

This is not a new medicine, not an experiment, but a preparation which has successfully stood the test of time and has to-day by far the largest sale of any similar treatment.

If we can only help you to realize the danger of neglecting coughs and colds, we know that you will not run the risk of depending on any "cough mixture" the druggist may choose to hand you out, but will insist on getting a medicine with a reputation, such as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Mr. John Clark, coachman, Port Hope, Ont., writes: "Being exposed to all sorts of weather I frequently catch cold. Last winter I was so bad with a cold I could not speak above a whisper, and had great pains in the chest. At last I feared it would develop into consumption if I did not succeed in getting proper treatment. A friend advised me to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and I began to improve before I had taken half a bottle. One bottle cured my cold which I believe would have proven very serious if I had not used this medicine."

It is impossible for a doctor to prescribe for a man more effective treatment for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, coughs and colds than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers.

ORGANIZATION OF FRONTIERSMEN

London.—Some time ago reference was made to the proposed formation of a legion of frontiersmen and that body has now come into existence, with head office in the Adelphi.

Probably no organization in the world possesses elements of romance in so great a degree as this new legion. Its object wholly patriotic and its members merely associated for the promotion of imperial interests in the time of peace and for imperial benefit in time of war.

The official designation of the term "Frontiersmen" stated that it "Includes men trained and qualified by previous completed military service, or by working, hunting or fighting in wild countries, or at sea, who for various reasons do not, or can not serve in the existing military forces of the empire and who are not prepared by reason of temperament of vocation to submit themselves to the ordinary routine of military discipline, except in time of war."

Under such conditions the legion has already gathered into its ranks men whose collective adventures in all parts of the world would if set down on paper, make more thrilling and absorbing reading than any volume of fact or fiction ever printed.

The general council consists of experts, financial, military and judicial, and representatives of all vocations of the wilderness and of the sea. The chairman is the Earl of Lonsdale, who himself has had experiences which seldom fall to the lot of men.

The chairman of the executive council, Sir Henry Seton Kerr, is a famous game hunter and was one of the pioneers of that sport in Wyoming at a time when he himself was liable to be hunted by redskins.

The founder of the legion, Robert Brock, has the distinction of having thirty different vocations in his very adventurous life, including those of trooper, cowboy, seaman with the Yokohama pirates, captain of a pack train and scout.

Two of the greatest journeys of recent times were those made by Capt. Harry de Windt and Capt. E. S. Gregan, both of whom are in the legion. W. Bowman Bacantyne is an old cowboy and South American explorer whose name is known far and wide in Canada. He is the hero of remarkable feats of bluff which tamed the fighting tribes of Canada without fighting.

Generals Sir Reginald Hart, Sir John French, Sir Edward Hutton, Sir Maurice Bradant, Admiral Prince Louis of Battenburg, Armiral Sir Percy Scott, Sir A. Conan Doyle, Rider Haggard, and Sir Claude de Crespigny, are a few who are aiding the legion.

The war office has recognized the legion and has given its approval and already it is stated that correspondence has elicited the fact that there are six thousand men in different parts of the empire who are ready to enroll themselves in the legion.

Very Unusual.

"Say, Smith, your boy is about three or four years old now, isn't he?"

"Just three and a half."

"How is it you never tell us any of the bright things he says?"

"Never says any to tell."

"Look here, Smith; take great care of that child. He is destined for great things."—Baltimore American.

An Insinuation.

"Yes," said Miss Passay, "Mr. Shrude has called upon me several times lately, but he always brings some other young man with him."

"My dear," replied Miss Pert, "I know all about him. He's terribly cautious and just hates to be proposed to."—Philadelphia Press.

A COLOSSAL GORGE.

The Sublime Beauties of the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

This terrific gash is more than 200 miles long and more than a mile deep, and its area exceeds 2,000 square miles. From the El Tovar rim, on which I stand, to the gleaming, snow veined crags on the opposite side of this stupendous cleft the distance is thirteen miles. Human vision cannot take in the full extent of this wide pageant of terror and glory nor is it within the capacity of words to set forth its overwhelming splendor. The plain on which I stand is nearly 8,000 feet above sea level, and here, in a prodigious fissure—gaunt, abrupt, frightful and wonderful—are assembled mountains, valleys, enormous rocks, precipitous crags, ravines of mystery and forests of gloom, through which the black waters of the Colorado rush onward in their resistless flow and over which the dauntless eagle wings its upward flight to meet the sun. All the forms are here that imagination could construct, and all the colors are here that glow in sunset skies. Far down in the subterranean vista the forests show like green lawns. Not less than seven geologic periods in the physical history of the planet are displayed in the layers of tinted rock—black, green, gray, red, brown, blue, pink, orange and alabaster, with many other mingled hues—that constitute the walls of this colossal gorge; walls that seem continuous and unbroken, yet everywhere are rifted with lateral fissures, the beds of mountain streams that swell the flood of the great Colorado river. The American continent has nowhere else a spectacle to show commensurate with this in beauty, grandeur and awe.—William Winter in Pacific Monthly.

Justice a Device.

It is universally conceded that nothing short of divine justice can measure the intrinsic guilt of any action or administer punishment which shall be exactly commensurate to the crime. What we call justice is in fact a very rude device which finds its justification in the necessity to protect society

A Careful Translator.

The translation of Quintus Curtius by Vaugelas occupied thirty years. The translator rendered every sentence five or ten different ways and finally chose that which pleased him best.

A Damp Detector.

In England they have what is called a "damp detector," a silver trinket not unlike a compass in appearance. At the back are small holes in the silver, through which the damp passes and moves the needle until it points to the word "damp." By the aid of this contrivance unaired sheets can be detected.

HEALTH IN SPRING.

Nature Needs Assistance in Making New Health-Giving Blood.

Spring is the season when your system needs toning up. In the spring you must have new blood, just as the trees must have new sap. Nature demands it. Without new blood you will feel weak and languid; you may have twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia, occasional headaches, a variable appetite, pimples or eruptions of the skin, or a pale, pasty complexion. These are sure signs that the blood is out of order. A tonic is needed to give new energy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic in all the world. They make new, rich blood—your greatest need in spring. They clear the skin, drive out disease and make tired, depressed men and women bright, active and strong. Mrs. Chas. Masson, Yamachiche, Que., proves the great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in building up people who have become weakened and run down. She says:—"In the winter of 1905 I was very much run down and lost flesh rapidly. My blood was poor. I suffered from indigestion, severe headaches and general debility. In this condition I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and thanks to this valuable medicine I am again enjoying perfect health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the ailments due to poor blood or shattered nerves. That is why they cure anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney trouble, indigestion and the secret ailments of women and girls. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALASKA GAME MARKET.

Frozen For Months, Carcasses Stand About In Lifelike Poses.

The world's most remarkable game market is in Fairbanks, Alaska. If you will take the trouble to examine the latest map of the vast and valuable northwest territory purchased by Uncle Sam from Russia in 1867 you will find that Fairbanks is on the Chelena river, in the rich Tanana district, of which it is the thriving metropolis. It lies close to the arctic circle and, in common with other communities in the valley of the Yukon, has an average mean temperature of about 10 degrees below zero during the months of November, December, January, February and March. At intervals during the long winter season the thermometer goes as low as 75 degrees below the zero mark, but such an excessive temperature is not absolutely necessary for the successful operation of the Fairbanks game market, although, it is true, the intensity of the actic cold is the chief factor in establishing and maintaining the town's claim to distinction in the item of its game market. It is almost superfluous to suggest that the market, operating as it does only during the months named, is spared the expense of artificial refrigerating apparatus.

Now here is where the novelty begins. Instead of skinning the game and curing up the carcass as in the ordinary everyday market, the deer, the moosé or the bear, as the case may be, is simply stood up on the floor of the market, which is located in one of the principal buildings of the town, and allowed to freeze solidly, or probably it has frozen solidly within thirty minutes after it was killed. The low temperature that continually prevails permits the keeping of the game in this shape for months at a stretch, as once the carcass is frozen there is no decay until the freezing weather is over.

One may enter the market and order a bear cut out from bruin, which has occupied a particular corner in the establishment, looking for all the world as if he were alive, for several months, or a haunch of venison from the deer that has been in another corner for an equally long time, or perchance a choice cut of the lordly moose or the kingly caribou that has been making lifelike poses in other sections of the market, or if it be a mountain sheep or a goat that the fancy craves the same opportunity is offered for selection. The animals appear just as they did in life, and the person who visits the place for the first time is apt to imagine himself in a menagerie rather than a market.

The flavor and quality of the game under such conditions are said to be unexcelled. The freezing process and the length of time that is allowed to elapse between the killing and eating of the animal seem to impart to the flesh a tenderness and a ripeness that are characteristic.

The market attracts attention to its location by placing on the sidewalk before its door, just as the cigar man puts out his wooden Indian, a bear, a moose, a stag or some other animal from its stock of trade. Last season the same bear was used for the purpose every day for five months and was then cut up into steaks that were pronounced to be the most delicious that had ever been eaten in a locality that is famous for its well flavored bear steaks.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Boatswain's Pipe.

Lovers of naval tradition will be pleased to learn that the British admiralty has just decided to restore something that has long fallen into disuse. This is the boatswain's pipe, to the inspiriting strains of which shipboard routine was carried out in the old days. Some time ago "my lords" came to the conclusion that its retention was undesirable, and it was accordingly done away with. Now, however, the authorities at Whitehall have changed their minds, and the naval boatswain is a happy man again. Pipes are being issued to all seagoing ships, and instruction in the art of sounding them is to be systematically given to selected petty officers and boys of the fleet.—Westminster Gazette.

An Eccentric Will.

A remarkable story is published of the eccentric will left by a wealthy woman who died in Paris. When her will was opened the relatives were astounded, for it set forth that out of her fortune 70,000 francs had to be spent on her funeral. The executors, however, conscientiously carried out this order. Several doctors were engaged to embalm the body, and the coffin was the best and most expensive that could be obtained. The funeral was a sight to see. For an hour the bells of St. Sulpice church rang. Both inside and outside the church there were black hangings, edged with silver. The coffin was literally covered with rare and costly flowers.

Greenwich Meridian For France.

The Echo de Paris suggests that if France adopt the Greenwich meridian in reckoning time east and west England might reciprocate by adopting the metric system. If France should take Greenwich for her meridian the country would gain eight minutes, and Frenchmen in going to England would not be obliged to set their watches. As for the metric system, France hopes that not only England but America will adopt that.

Therefore it has been proposed that it would be better to cut it down and send the trunk home to be placed with others of his relics and on the spot where it grew to erect a monument.—Chronicle, Bulawayo.

THERE IS NOW A MASS OF PROOF

Quebec Man Cured his Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and His Lumbago Vanished.

Quebec, P. Q., April 2 — (Special). —John Ball, a bricklayer, residing at 57 Little Champlain Street, this city, has added his statement to the great mass of proof that Lumbago is caused by disordered kidneys and consequently easily cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Ball says:

"I was troubled with Lumbago for two years. I could not work. I had to get up at nights to urinate so often that my rest was broken. I read of cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills and made up my mind to try them. After the first box I could feel and see a change. Three boxes cured me completely."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed inflammation can be taken out and this hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

HEALTH IN THE HOME.

Baby's Own Tablets are equally good for little babies or big children. If a child is suffering from any of the minor ills of childhood a few doses of the Tablets will cure it. And an occasional dose to the well child will prevent sickness. Mrs. A. Mercier, Riviere Ouelle, Que., says:—"My baby was cross, irritable, did not sleep at night and did not seem to thrive, but since giving her Baby's Own Tablets all this is changed. She now eats well, sleeps well and is growing fat. The Tablets have proved a blessing to both myself and the child." So say all mothers who have used this medicine. Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia

The editor of a paper in Richmond tells of the assignment given to a young woman in the employ of that journal to cover the wedding of the daughter of a well-known citizen.

The "society editor was prevented by sikness from attending the ceremony, and so was obliged to make the best she could of a second hand account of the festivities.

Early in the morning after the wedding the young woman repaired to the home of the bride's parents. To the darkey who opened the door she said:

IMMENSITY OF LONDON CITY

Population of Britain's Capital Increased from 1,114,644 in 1801 to 6,581,402 in 1901.

New York.—The Herald has the following in a special from London: The immensity of London is well illustrated in a review by the London county council entitled, "a statistical abstract for London, 1905." It is amazing picture. The rapid growth of London is shown that in 1801 the population was 1,114,644; it had risen in 1901 to 6,581,402, and these six and a half million people live in 928,008 houses.

Nothing is more impressive to the visitor to London than the enormous volume of traffic. The Londoners' preference for cheap locomotion is strikingly indicated by the vast number of tramways and omnibuses. Of course the tramway and omnibus statistics do not adequately represent the traffic of the present day, as since the electric car tracks have been opened, but they may be mentioned for comparison with New York. There are 2,100 miles of tramway lines open, and during the year 557,947,876 passengers were conveyed, while 88,965,214 passengers travelled on the two principal omnibus companies' lines.

The letters book shows delivered by the postman letters amounting to 10,108,691 and 28,361,000 telegrams were despatched An interesting idea of the different sources of London's wealth may be gathered from the gross annual assessed value of the income tax in 1904. Houses, etc., amounted to 624,555,851; trades and professions to $374,062,650; and the profits of public companies and other interests and other profits amounted to $717,672,555.

A Cautious Scot.

A Scotsman went to an English race meeting and boldly staked a sovereign. Strangely enough, the horse he backed proved a winner, and he went to the "bookie" to claim his winnings. The sporting man begrudgingly handed him 5 sovereigns. He looked at each one very carefully before placing it in his pocketbook. "Well," said the "bookie," with a snarl, "are you afraid they're bad?"

"Oh, no," said the Scotsman, "but I was just lookin' to mak' sure the bad yin I gie'd ye wisna among them!"

Shipbuilding Booming.

"Business in all lines is booming in and about Glasgow, and more especially in the shipbuilding industry."

"The shipyards of Glasgow are taxed to their utmost capacity in order to turn out the boats within a specified time.

"Just before coming over I saw the two new steamships which the Fairfields Company are building for the C.P.R. These steamers will beat anything of the kind afloat, and are magnificently fitted up with all modern appliances. The first trial trip of these boats will be made on April 14, when the Fairfields expect to have a distinguished gathering from all over Great Britain.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomach troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to health reviving the flagging energies.

There you have the whole matter in a nutshell. La Grippe and colds are among the forerunners of consumption.

Poultry raising pays.

People who tell you that there is no money in raising chicks may have tried to make money in the business by using setting hens as hatchers, and they might as well have tried to locate a gold mine in the cabbage patch. The business of a hen is—to lay eggs. As a hatcher and brooder she is outclassed. That's the business of the Chatham Incubator and Brooder, and they do it perfectly and successfully.

The poultry business, properly conducted, pays far better than any other business for the amount of time and money invested.

Thousands of poultry-raisers—men and women all over Canada and the United States—have proved to their satisfaction that it is profitable to raise chicks with the CHATHAM INCUBATOR AND BROODER.

"Yours is the first incubator I have used, and I wish to state I had 86 chicks out of 82 eggs. This was my first lot; truly a 100 per cent. hatch. I am well pleased with my incubator and brooder. Thos. McNAUGHTON, Chilliwack, B.C."

"My first hatch came off. I got 170 fine chicks from 190 eggs. Who can beat that for the first trial, and so early in the spring. I am well pleased with incubator, and if I could not get another money could not buy it from me. Every farmer should have a No. 3 Chatham Incubator.—F. W. RAMSAY, Dunnville, Ont."

"The incubator you furnished me works exceedingly well. It is easily operated, and only needs about 10 minutes attention every day. R. McGUFFIE, Moose Jaw, Assa."

The Chatham Incubator and Brooder is honestly constructed. There is no humbug about it. Every inch of material is thoroughly tested, the machine is built on right principles, the insulation is perfect, thermometer reliable, and the workmanship the best.

The Chatham Incubator and Brooder is simple as well as scientific in construction—a woman or girl can operate the machine in their leisure moments.

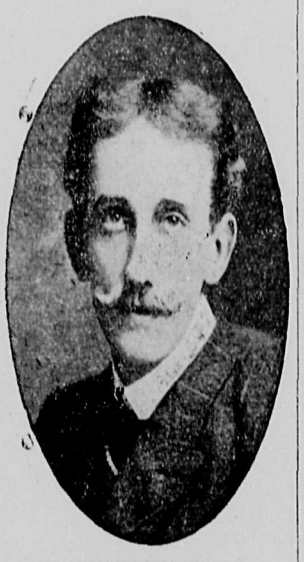
ALBERT FENNEL.



ALBERT FENNEL,

Editor of the Morris Herald.

Unequivocally independent in the policy advocated at all times, the Morris Herald has the distinction of being a cleverly edited newspaper as well as having possibly the youngest editor in the Canadian West in the managerial chair.

Recognized as one of the best advertising mediums in southern Manitoba, the Morris Herald, under the managing editorship of Mr. Albert Fennell, has not only become a factor of importance in the business life of southern Manitoba, but also is a force in the social and political affairs of the province, through the fearlessness, originality, and ability of Mr. Fennel as a writer. Mr. Fennel was born in 1882 in Birmingham, England. He began his journalistic life on the staff of the Birmingham Daily Gazette and there acquired, probably, some of that thoroughness of business method and independence of political thought that is a distinctive trait of the majority of the British press.

In the year 1901 Mr. Fennell, attracted by the opportunities offered to a trained young newspaperman, ambitious and energetic, came to Canada and determined upon the province of Manitoba as the field of his efforts.

For about three years Mr. Fennell was constantly engaged as a member of the staffs of several leading western newspapers and during that time acquired a thorough knowledge of western political, social, and business conditions.

Last September the opportunity for individual enterprise, a situation created largely through his own efforts, was given Mr. Fennell and in conjunction with Mr. James Hooper and a few residents of the town of Morris, he obtained control of the Morris Herald.

Realizing the opportunities of a bright and enterprising newspaper in Southern Manitoba, published in as favorable a position as Morris, Mr. Fennell at once saw to it that the mechanical necessities of a first-class weekly paper were adequately supplied and that the job-printing department was furnished with the best of type and the latest machinery.

The Morris Herald maintains a strictly independent course in politics and is a strong advocate of independent thought and actions and believes that the time is not far distant when much of the partizanship, or "party-ism," in politics will be done away with, and that people will think and act according to their own individual convictions.

The Morris Herald believes that Independent and Labor candidates will play a conspicuous part in Canadian politics in the near future. While the West may be rather full of newspaper men, the Morris Herald is of the opinion that there is always room at the top of the ladder.

As a leader writer Mr. Fennell has gained considerable reputation and prominence, his scathing manner of criticism and originality of expression being well known in the western newspaper world.

Mr. Fennell is an ardent supporter and advocate of manly sports.

Drying Milk in Australia.

Australia has adopted the system of drying milk. The milk is dried between steam rollers and sold as a powder, from which nothing has been extracted but water and to which nothing but water requires to be added to make wholesome, clean, and sterile milk. A leading medical officer is reported to have said that the adoption of dried milk at some asylums for consumptive patients and in general hospitals has proven a success.

In its initial stages a cold is a local ailment easily dealt with. But many neglect it and the result is often the development of distressing seizures of the bronchial tubes and lungs that render life miserable for the unhappy victim. As a first aid there is nothing in the handy medicine line so certain in curative results as Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the far-famed remedy for coughs and colds.

The chief of police was walking abstractedly along the street, thinking of the carnival of crime and the necessity of doing something to end it.

"Chief," said a tall, powerfully built stranger, approaching him, "don't you want a policeman for some special service? I'm an old hand at the business."

"I do," answered the chief, looking him over. "Have you any testimonials to show that you have had experience as a policeman?"

MACE HAS ARRIVED.

Symbol of Majesty for Saskatchewan Legislative Chamber.

The mace for the provincial legislature has reached Regina, and exceeds all expectations in its beauty of workmanship. It is strikingly Canadian in design, and consistently Canadian in its manufacture, being the product of the Insignia Department of Ryrie Bros., Limited, Toronto's leading jewelers and goldsmiths. The richly chased and heavily appliqued decorations include such national and imperial symbols as the maple leaf, beaver, wheat sheaf, rose, thistle and shamrock. The rod with its surmounting crown measures four feet and is of massive brass, heavily gold plated. The seal at the top of the crown is an especially elaborate and beautiful specimen of the metal artificer's skill.

HIS DIFFICULTY.

The tears trickle down from my eyes,
My eyelids are puffy and red,
My nose has increased in its size,
There's stuffiness all through my head,
And I burn and I chill;

Oh, I wish that I knew what to do!

I might fill myself with quinine;
Hot water some folk recommend,
And cold some think equally fine,
While others for onions contend,
And swilling sage tea
Is a great remedy—
Ah, kerchoo!
But I really don't know what to do.

I might take a doctor's advice,
But all of my friends can prescribe.
They'll all have me well in a trice;
I never did see such a tribe.
I don't know what to choose—
Which prescription to use—
Ah, kerchoo!
If I could only tell what to do!

Fond Memories.

(From "Success Magazine.")

A hard-headed old Pittsburg manufacturer who made his fortune, as he expresses it, "with his coat off," was induced by his daughters to accompany them to a Wagner concert, the first he had ever attended. The next day he happened to meet an acquaintance who had seen him the night before, who asked:

"I suppose you enjoyed the concert last night, Mr. Brown"

"Yes; it took me back to the days of my youth," the old man said, with a reminiscent sigh.

"Ah, summer days in the country, girl in a lawn dress, birds singing, and all that?"

"No, the days when I worked in a boiler shop in Scranton."

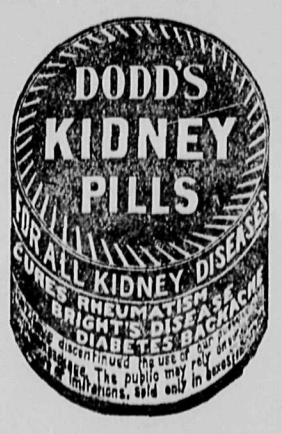
Motor Skiing in Norway.

During the recent winter the Norwegians have varied the excitement of ski running by yoking the runner to a motor cycle by a long leather strap, which he grasps with his left hand. The speed attained is enormous and great skill is required to avoid being pulled over, as the body is apt to outrun the feet. The pastime is growing very popular.



SOME FAMOUS BARBERS.

Wielders of the Scissors Have Become Great Lawyers, Inventors and Writers of Fame.

It has been the delight of the biographers to show how the printer's devil, the poor farm lad, the street waif and the mechanic's lad, have struggled onward and upward to distinction.

Apparently they have ignored the barber boy's achievements.

Nevertheless, there are numerous instances of barbers who have become celebrities in various fields of human endeavor.

In former times the barber's craft was dignified with the title of profession, be it known. It was conjoined with the art of surgery. In the time of Henry VIII. of England it was enacted that the barbers should confine themselves to the minor operations of blood letting and drawing teeth, while the surgeons were prohibited from barbery or shaving. Later on—about the middle of the eighteenth century—the two callings were entirely separate.

The striped pole in front of shops today is symbolic of former times, suggesting the period when the barber was also a surgeon, and indicating the ribbon for bandaging the arm in bleeding.

It was long after the vocations became distinct that Edward Burtenshaw Sugden rose to eminence. Sugden was the son of a hairdresser in Duke street, Westminster, and was assistant in the shop. When he was 41 years old he was made King's Counsel, and was chosen a bencher of Lincoln's Inn. Under the first administration of Lord Derby he was raised to the peerage as Lord St. Leonards.

It goes without saying that there were not lacking envious persons to twit him with his former occupation, and this story is told: Once, when addressing a crowd in the interest of his own candidacy to Parliament, a man called out to know what soap was worth and how lather was made.

"I am particularly obliged to that gentleman for reminding me of my humble origin," said Sir Edward. "It is true that I am a barber's son, and was once myself a barber. If the gentleman who so politely reminded me of these facts had been a barber he shows here that he would have remained one to the end of his life."

Then there was Charles Abbott, a barber's son, "a scrubby little lad who used to wait on his father with razors and a pewter bowl." Abbott was also made a peer of England.

An English writer has said of a certain inventive Englishman: "While his inventions have conferred infinitely more real benefit on his own country than she could have derived from absolute dominion of Mexico and Peru, they have been universally productive of wealth and enjoyment."

This genius was Sir Richard Arkwright, and his inventions were in the cotton spinning industry. He was born in 1792, turned from wig-making when the trade fell off, became enormously wealthy, was made a peer and died in the sixtieth year of his age.

English literature has been made richer by at least three barbers.

Jeremy Taylor was brought up in his father's shop at Cambridge, Eng. He is perhaps the most famous of all the barbers, his books remaining popular after 250 years. A critic says truthfully that his work is especially literary. Weighty with argument, his sermons and books of devotion are still read among us for their sweet and deep devotion and their rapidly flowing and poetic eloquence. His most important work is "The Liberty of Prophesying."

The greatest English naval poet—Charles Dibdin taking rank as second—was William Falconer. He was a barber in Edinburgh until his poem, "The Shipwreck," not only made him famous, but won him a career in the Royal Navy. This poem, by the way, was based on his own experience. When yet young he had a chance to take a voyage on an English vessel bound for Venice. The ship was overtaken by a dreadful storm off Cape Colonna, and was wrecked, only three of the crew being saved. One of these was Falconer, and the incidents of the voyage and its disastrous termination formed the subject of his poem. Strangely enough, the terrors of the sea, which he so eloquently describes, did not deter him from following it, and he was lost in the wreck of another ship a few years later.

Allan Ramsay, the Scottish poet, who died the year before the birth of Burns, is justly celebrated in the literature of England. "The Gentle Shepherd" is especially worthy of remembrance, being a pure, tender and genuine picture of Scottish life and love among the poor in the country. He carried on the song of rural life and love and humor which Burns perfected. Allan Ramsay was at one time a prosperous wig-maker.

Oddest Patrol Wagon.

Writing of the local patrol wagon, the Penang correspondent of the Straits Times, Singapore, says: "It forcibly calls to mind at first sight a four-wheeled baker's cart, bar the fact it is drawn by about the slowest pair of bullocks in the settlements. There is nothing grim at all about it, for it is commanded by a sleepy Malay constable perched on the box, its roof and sides are formed of white canvas, and it has no door to close at the back, but merely an opening in which another Malay constable half slumbers. Two or three other constables ride inside sitting on the benches with the prisoners, who seem to be too struck with novelty at the ride to make any attempt at escape. I should say that an escape from this prison van would be as easy as falling off a log."

Politeness Overdone.

The thanks of every tired woman are due to the gallant strap-hanger who gives her his seat in the crowded District Railway carriage when he sees her making desperate attempts to keep her balance on her feet. But his gallantry is sometimes a little overdone, or it may be that his apparent politeness covers a hidden sense of bitterness at having to stand when he has paid for a seat. In any case the lady who remonstrated with the young man when he courteously offered her his seat felt that his reply should have been left unsaid. "Pray take it," he begged her, impressively; "my legs are younger than yours."—London Chronicle.

Unless you are 70 or 80! Then keep it! But why look old at 35 or 40? Why have an early old age? Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer always restores color to gray hair. Stops falling hair, also.

Earl Grey Returns Portrait.

Ottawa.—The oil painting of Ben Franklin, which has just been returned to the people of the United States by Earl Grey, was taken from Franklin's house by Major Andre in 1778, and by him given to his commanding officer, Gen. Sir Chas. Grey, Lord Grey's great-grandfather. Franklin regretted the loss of the picture, as it was regarded by his friends to be the best likeness of him in existence. It has hung for nearly 120 years on the walls of Lord Grey's home, Alnwick castle, Northumberland, England. The Franklin bi-century to be celebrated at at Philadelphia this month, presented a fitting opportunity for his excellency to return the picture to the people of the United States.
