Regular Meeting of City Council

His Worship and all the aldermen were present at last evening's regular meeting of the city council.

There was no correspondence.

J. B. Ker, who is contemplating constructing a block on the Esplanade, was present and stated that he had obtained a grade from the engineer and it was found that it was between 3 and 4 feet lower than the present grade of the street. In this case Mr. Ker said the mud and rain would wash into the stores and doorways. He wanted to know if the council would bring the street to conform with his building level.

Ald. McNeish agreed with Mr. Ker and it seemed to him a case of permanently fixing the grade for those in similar situation.

Ald. Irwin suggested putting both sidewalks to the proper grade as soon as possible. He thought it should be done under the local improvement plan. He considered it was the duty of the council to relieve the situation as pointed out by Mr. Ker.

Ald. Fowler thought the council was following the plan of lowering the sidewalk elsewhere. He referred to a case on 1st street.

The Mayor said he thought the engineer had the matter in hand and he would see that some action was taken.

Mr. Foreman said he had excavations completed for his block on 1st street but was unable to drain the premises.

The engineer recommended that it be drained into a creek nearby.

Mr. Foreman thought the city should construct the drain.

Ald. Smith supported the suggestion and put it in the form of a motion which was seconded by Ald. Irwin.

Ald. Schultz was of the opinion that it was a matter for the Board of Works.

Ald. McNeish was against supporting the motion as he had not made an inspection.

Ald. McRae was of a similar mind.

The engineer thought the city should put in the drain.

Ald. Fowler considered it was creating a precedent and careful attention should be given it.

Ald. McRae did not fear the establishment of precedents so much. He was of the opinion that the circumstances of each particular case should govern.

A report was read from the engineer stating that he did not think it advisable to grade First street from Lonsdale Ave. to Chesterfield Ave. this fall as the wet weather would render the street impassable all winter.

The matter was finally referred to the Board of Works on the amendment moved by Ald. Schultz.

The engineer reported that it would cost about $450 each to make Chesterfield Ave. or St. George's Ave. in a passable condition as an alternative route while Lonsdale was blocked for the winter between 14th and 19th streets. He thought the feasibility of diverting the traffic to Chesterfield or St. George was not advisable as it was difficult to keep the roads in condition in the winter.

Ald. Fowler said if we are not going to do any work we had better consider cutting down the fixed charges.

Ald. McNeish said that the impression had gone forth that work had been discontinued, it was rather considered whether it was advisable to start new work this winter.

Ald. McRae said there was too much vagueness.

Ald. Fowler declared Ald. McRae to be getting personal and asked him to refrain from personalities and speak to the chair.

Ald. McRae claimed he was talking to the chair but if the cap fitted he would not withdraw his remarks.

Ald. Irwin said it seemed as if some one was afraid to proceed with these local improvement works. He said there had been numerous delays and during the last two weeks in August nothing had been done and it was a pity to leave all this work over till next March. He thought that if the council would get together and cooperate with the engineer these difficulties could be abridged.

The engineer said that he did not want to stop the work. He could start tomorrow. His stand was taken however, on the position that it would render the street impassable at certain periods during the winter months.

Ald. Irwin wanted to know why the work had not been started according to instructions.

The engineer answered that a resolution had been passed asking him to report on the feasibility of utilizing Chesterfield or St. George's Ave. as an alternate work.

Ald. Smith said that if we are going to allow street work to be stopped there would be no building done.

Ald. Irwin suggested that the council in full inspect the work in question. He said there were so many delays that he was getting suspicious. At the first of the year it was the local improvement by-law to be adjusted, now that had been arranged new difficulties were springing up.

On motion of Ald. Irwin and McNeish it was resolved to meet at 1.30 the following day.

Trustee M. C. McDowell, a delegate from the school board, was present asking for the construction of a sidewalk on Ridgeway Ave. from 11th to Keith Road and from the terminus on 9th street connecting with the school grounds in block 100, D. L. 550. He also made a request for a drain on Ridgeway to drain the school grounds. It was referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

A plan of lot 6, block 29, D. L. 548 was passed.

The following financial accounts were passed: Finance $357.50, Police $412.50, School $882.45, Board of Works, $2,088.65, Waterworks $1,071.80, Fire and Light $141.60.

His Worship said that there was a meeting in Vancouver on Thursday morning called by Mayor Taylor for the purpose of discussing the water sheds question in connection with Lynn, Capilano and Seymour Creeks. The Mayor and Ald. Irwin were appointed delegates.

Ald. Smith asked if there was any report on electric light extension.

Mr. Perry, for the B. C. Electric Ry. Co., said his company were using every endeavor to supply all applicants.

Ald. Smith said a Mr. Robertson in D. L. 273 was requiring a connection and there were no poles near his place.

Mr. Perry answered that it was difficult to decide on which street to extend the poles to applicant's residence so as to save the company future expense. It was, however, being dealt with. There had been some misunderstanding as to the cost of supplying the connection to Mr. Robertson's place. Mr. Perry made a request for the removal of stumps along their contemplated pole lines. The Board of Works were empowered to blow stumps for building and pole line protection.

Ald. Fowler, for the fire and light committee, recommended the installation of street lights at the corner of Ridgeway and Keith, Queensbury and Keith and 9th street and the Boulevard. In the case of the boulevard it was thought advisable to place them on the roadway. The report was adopted.

The chairman of the fire and light committee was empowered to place lights for the convenience of the new Presbyterian church, cor. 27th of Chesterfield Ave.

Ald. Fowler made the suggestion that the Board of Works consider the advisability of purchasing a road roller and crushed rock.

Ald. Irwin suggested that negotiations be entered into with the district for the purpose of crushed rock. He moved that the whole matter be referred to the Board of Works committee. Ald. McRae seconded the motion which passed.

Ald. McNeish said he had prices for machinery but he had been of the opinion that it was not needed at this time.

Ald. Fowler remembered the council deciding that it was not necessary to locate a rock quarry.

Ald. Irwin asked if the Board of Works had any report to make on which street it was recommended to take the initiative with regard to local improvement work.

A lengthy discussion took place in connection with placing the Esplanade one block west of Lonsdale and 1st street two blocks west of Lonsdale, down to permanent grade. The matter was finally referred to the special inspection committee of the council which meets today at 1.30 to report.

A special meeting will be held today at 5 o'clock p.m.

PRESENTATION OF MEDALS TO BASEBALL PLAYERS

A very pleasing event took place Monday afternoon in the office of Dr. J. C. Morrison when he presented the nine silver medals to the members of the Third Street baseball team, the leaders in the city league for the season of 1910. The Doctor was the donor and in a very appropriate address handed to each of the individual players the medal which was in the form of a crest with the name of the recipient engraved on one side and the date on the other. A small ring attached to the top indicated that it was intended for a watch chain charm.

A round of thanks was accorded the doctor, not altogether for the presents but for the undivided attention and interest which he displayed in the affairs of ball players throughout the season. His genial face was a fixture at every match and whenever interest seemed to slacken off he was always "Johnny on the spot" in reviving it.

The players who distinguished themselves as members of Third street were: S. D. Schultz, pitcher; G. Baxter, catcher; A. McLean, 1st base; W. Braim, 2nd base; R. Hutcheson, s.s.; R. Sargent, 3rd base; H. Hutcheson, r. f.; C. E. Lawson, c. f.; and D. Hutcheson, l. f.

HUNTING PARTIES ORGANIZING

As the season approaches the North Vancouver nimrods are completing arrangements for the fall hunt, the season for which opens on Sept. 1st, only two days distant. Numerous parties have already completed plans for an early deer hunt among the up coast islands and many will go as far north as Jervis Inlet where the game is said to be plentiful.

BASEBALL SATURDAY

An interesting game of base ball is slated for next Saturday between the Vancouver lawyers and a picked team from the North Shore. The game will be played at Recreation Park.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

The Methodist and Presbyterian young people joined forces in a rally meeting last Monday night for the purpose of hearing the report of the Victoria C. E. delegates. Judging by the large turnout of young people interest in C. E. work is on the advance. The report of Misses Tuck and Campbell [illegible] and D. Hutchison all had a stimulating effect for future work.

The main theme of the convention was taken up in parts by each delegate and handled in an interesting and concise manner.

"Things that abide," was the theme that the thoughts of the Victoria convention dwelt upon and each delegate took some particular phase of the subject. The reports of the delegates was received with interest and will no doubt add impetus to the C. E. work in this city.

There will soon be trouble in Kamloops. A baby show is to be held in connection with the fall fair.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENING

North Vancouver's first high school was opened yesterday by Principal J. H. Kellar, M.A. While the attendance was not very large the seeds were, nevertheless, sown which will undoubtedly lead up to a school attendance befitting a city the size of North Vancouver. This step which was inaugurated by the 1910 school board, is sure to be appreciated by the parents of the children who otherwise would have to send them to Vancouver and besides enjoying the privilege of having them at home will be relieved of considerable expense in car and boat fare. Temporary quarters have been taken in the Morden block at the corner of 8th street and Lonsdale Ave. until the new school at Upper Lonsdale is completed.

SPORTING

On Friday on the Vancouver tennis courts Mr. E. J. H. Cardinall of this city successfully defended his title as holder of the cup in the men's handicap singles against T. D. Stevens. Mr. Cardinall had little difficulty in defeating the veteran who it is interesting to note, was the first to win this cup five years ago. In the semi-finals of the men's doubles Mr. Cardinall and B. Rhodes of Vancouver won an interesting match from F. Crickmay and J. B. Farquhar, the sets being 7-5, 6-4 and 6-4.

SCHOOL OPENS WITH INCREASED ATTENDANCE

North Vancouver public schools opened in the city yesterday with an increased attendance of about 70 pupils, exclusive of the high school and Moodyville. The total attendance was approximately 380 and this is expected to reach at least 400 when the roll call is entered next Monday.

To meet the growing needs of the population a new school is under construction in block 100 D. L. 550 in the east end and in the meantime the basement of the Methodist church has been engaged where some 60 small pupils were in attendance yesterday. Miss Clark is the teacher. Moodyville school opened its doors for the new term yesterday with a small increase in attendance. The teacher for that school is Miss Cripps.

Two new teachers have been added to the Chesterfield Ave. school this term, Miss Corbett and Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Bennett, the principal, expects a large increase in the attendance at that school ere very long and already a number of the younger pupils have been transferred to the east end division.

CITY ORCHESTRA

There need not hereafter be any need for local societies or others applying to Vancouver for orchestral music for dances or entertainments, as a musical body of superior calibre has been organized on the North Shore under the directorship of Bandmaster Robt Chance. His fellow players are well known Vancouver players of some reputation and they will be able to cope successfully with any of the leading Vancouver orchestras. Mr. George Wagner will take charge of the piano while Mr. David Evans will take the cornet. Mr. Chance on the violin is too well known both locally and in British Columbia to require any introduction. Any size orchestra from one to ten can be supplied by Mr. Chance who is devoting his energies from now on to North Vancouver.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

Clearing operations have been commenced by the Seymour Lumber Co. on the right-of-way for the extension of the waterworks system at North Lonsdale to a point on Mosquito creek, where a favorable intake has been located near the mouth of a small canyon.

Trench digging and pipe laying will be proceeded with as early as possible tenders for which are to be in by next Wednesday at 5 p.m.

The engineering department of the district is investigating the line of the proposed deviation of the Keith road through West Capilano.

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the macadamizing of Centre road, in Lynn Valley.

Blasting operations are being carried through on Nye street from Lonsdale avenue to Chesterfield avenue, in order that future danger from this source to house buildings will be eliminated.

Repairs on the Capilano road north to the Capilano hotel, were commenced yesterday.

TENNIS FINALS

The finals for the local tennis tournament were played on the court of A. E. Crickmay last Saturday and developed into an interesting match in which every set was keenly contested.

The results were: Men's doubles—A. E. Crickmay and R. E. Macnaghten beat G. D. Curtis and W. S. Vivan 2 sets to love.

Semi-finals—A. E. Crickmay and R. E. Macnaghten beat P. Bayliss and H. McPherson, 2 sets to love and E. Adamson and P. Ward beat J. W. Donaldson and F. Diplock 2 sets to love.

The finals resulted in A. E. Crickmay and R. E. Macnaghten beating E. Adamson and P. Ward 2 sets to 1.

DINGHY RACE

Ethel finished just three minutes ahead of her rival We Two in the dinghy race held over the North Vancouver course on Saturday last. The race was exciting and full of interest from the moment the smoke of the starting gun died away till the two boats were beating toward the crossing line. It was all the more noteworthy as the We Two has been doing the leading for the last few races although closely followed in a number of cases by the Ethel. The turning of the tables on Saturday, therefore, will create an abundance of enthusiasm in next Saturday's race.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES

The regular meeting of the Board of School Trustees was held in the school last Friday evening, Chairman Steacy presiding and all the trustees present excepting Geo. H. Morden.

Mr. Steacy reported that the basement of the Methodist church had been secured as temporary school accommodation for the younger pupils.

A letter was received from Hope & Barker, architects, proposing to substitute granite for brick for the lower portion of the upper Lonsdale school.

The proposition was accepted on the understanding that there would be no additional cost.

It was noted that the substitution of granite for brick would give the building a much more handsome appearance.

The secretary was instructed to procure a complete set of drawings and specifications from the architects for the Lonsdale and East End schools for the convenience of the board.

Mr. Graham was appointed janitor of the temporary school.

Mr. Steacy was appointed a delegate to attend the annual convention of the B. C. School Trustee Association which will be held next month in Kelowna.

The secretary was instructed to call for tenders for the supplying of cordwood to the various schools.

RICE LAKE WATER RIGHTS

A few weeks ago a letter was read from City Solicitor Reid enclosing one which he had received from the Deputy Commissioner of Lands and Works in which it was stated that as per a desire of the corporation of the district municipality the commissioner had consented to an arrangement whereby the B. C. Electric Ry. Co. acquired D. L. 856 and 857 (which included the water shed of Rice Lake) for park purposes. Mr. Reid's reply to this letter of the commissioner's was to the effect that according to the Act of Incorporation of 1906 it was stated "that any records of water that may be obtained from Rice Lake and the whole of the North Vancouver townsite water system and all the rights of way, pipe lines, intake and all lands owned or reserved by the government for and the title and interest in all lands applied for by said district municipality in connection with the water system, etc., shall become the property of the [illegible] council," saying that those lots (856 and 857) abutted on Rice Lake and were applied for in connection with the water rights from Rice Lake and the district municipality under the act had no authority to consent to any transfer of that property."

The city authorities have strong conformation of the city's position from a letter brought to light which reads as follows:

North Vancouver,
June 15th, 1907.

The City Clerk,
North Vancouver:

Dear Sir,—The enclosed letter has been received from the Hastings Manufacturing Co. but as the municipal interest in Rice Lake and its water shed lands are now vested in the city council my council directs me to forward the communication to you.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) ALEX. PHILIP, C.M.C.

The letter referred to as recorded in the columns of the Express under date of June 21st, 1907, was as follows: "H. Davidson, manager of the Hastings Shingle Manufacturing Company wrote and transmitted by Alex. Philip C.M.C., requesting a lease from the council of a right-of-way for five years for use of flume line and roads across lots 856, group 1, New Westminster district. The agreement with the council dated 20th of February, 1906, was the company to have the use of all water needed for fluming purposes from Rice Lake for six years from date. On motion the request was granted."

OBITUARY

POULEY—The death occurred at the North Vancouver hospital yesterday of Francis Pouley, the four and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Pouley of Vancouver. It is understood that the remains will be taken to Vancouver today where the funeral will be held.

GLADWIN—The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Gladwin passed away yesterday morning at St. George's hospital. The infant was but two days old. Interment took place this morning at 10 o'clock in the North Vancouver cemetery.

Adjourned City Council Meeting

The City Council was occupied until 11.30 on Friday evening at their adjourned meeting with a long list of correspondence.

His Worship Mayor May presided and the full board was present.

The first matter was a letter from the North Vancouver Land and Imp. Co. agreeing to comply with the city's request to be allowed to clear 300 feet of the Company's foreshore for bathing purposes on the understanding that they could resume occupation at any time. A note at the bottom referred to council's decision last Monday evening not to utilize the land this year. Letter filed.

J. P. Fell wrote agreeing to confirm the agreement entered into with Mayor May, Aldermen McNeish, Irwin and Engineer Hanes regarding the subdivision of D. L. 552.

He further agreed to have plans prepared providing for 33 feet being taken off the east side of blocks 25, 37 and 38 and added to the road allowances on Fell Ave. and 24 feet to be taken off the west side of these blocks and added to the road allowance of Hamilton street.

Also that a lane be erected from Keith Road to 19th street paralleling Hamilton street, the lane to be opened up by the city. Another subject of the agreement was that deeds to Haywood Park would be given to the city as soon as they were ready and lastly that the city extend its watermains into the E ½ of D. L. 552 as soon as any one settler actually commenced building. The matter was laid over.

A grade was asked for by Mr. A. G. Perry, local manager of the B. C. Electric Ry. Co., for their new car barn on Third street in block 21, D. L. 273. The request was granted.

A long discussion on grades was entered into through a request from A. Davies, sec.-treasurer of the Knights of Pythias Castle Hall Company for a grade for their new hall at the corner of 4th street and Chesterfield Ave.

Ald. Smith was in favor of passing a resolution to establish the grade without registering it, and moved to effect. Ald. Schultz seconded the motion. [illegible] the law specifying that a by-law establishing a grade had to be registered.

Ald. Smith thought the city would be in a better position by not registering a grade if in future the grades were changed.

Ald. McNeish said there would not have been any work under way yet this summer if the grades on Lonsdale Ave. and other streets asked for had not been registered.

Ald. Fowler said it was his understanding of the solicitor's opinion that the city would not be held responsible by merely establishing a grade by by-law.

Ald. McRae was strongly of the opinion that the city would be held responsible even if the by-law was not registered.

Ald. Irwin thought that the practice for the last few months had been to register grades and he considered the council should be consistent in the matter and give grades in every case as heretofore.

The Mayor was of the opinion that there should be a fixed grade all over the southern slope.

Ald. Fowler said it seemed to him that the whole profile of the side hill streets should be registered in the county court.

Ald. Schultz withdrew as seconder of the motion and Ald. McNeish moved that a by-law be prepared for a grade on 4th street between Lonsdale and Chesterfield Ave. Ald. McRae seconded the motion.

Ald. Schultz gave his reason for withdrawing that he wanted first to see a profile of the street grade.

Ald. McNeish asked if it would not be advisable to establish a general grade on the side hill section of the city.

Ald. Fowler asked if it was purposed to bench Keith Road west.

The engineer said he had no plans for this completed.

Ald. Smith expressed the opinion that the less registering the better.

Ald. McNeish's motion was then put and passed.

Hope & Barkins, architects of Vancouver, wrote asking for a grade for the new Masonic Temple to be erected on lot 4, block 85, D. L. 549 on the east side of Lonsdale Ave. They also gave notice that it was their in-

DIAMONDS

"Where will you buy your diamond?"—The question is often asked, and the answer invariably is "From a firm with an unquestionable reputation for fair dealing and honesty." That firm is "BIRKS", the largest diamond dealers in Canada. Their diamonds are bought in the great cutting centres of Europe by expert buyers, and brought in large quantities direct to Canada, without passing through the hands of the Canadian jobber. They buy only first quality stones, which allows them to conscientiously guarantee each stone they sell.

BE A BOOSTER

If things don't just seem to suit you
An' the world seems kinder wrong,
What's the matter with a-boostin'
Just to help the things along?
'Cause if things should stop a-goin'
We'd be in a sorry plight,
And just keep that horn a-blowin'—
Boost 'er up with all your might.
For to make some project go,
If you see some feller tryin'
You can boost it up a trifle,
That's your cue to let him know
That you're not a-going to knock it
Just because it ain't your shout,
But you're goin' to boost a little
'Cause he's got the best thing out.
Do you know there's lots o' people
Settin' round in every town,
Growlin' like a broody chicken,
Knockin' every good thing down?
Don't you be that kind o' cattle,
'Cause they ain't no use on earth.
You just be a booster rooster,
Crow an' boost for all you're worth
If your town needs boostin', boost 'er
Don't hold back and see
If some other feller's willin',
Sail right in. This country's free.
No one's got a mortgage on it,
It's just yours as well as his.
If your town is shy on boosters
You get in the boostin' biz.

GAME REGULATIONS

By a recently passed order-in-council it is unlawful to shoot prairie chicken anywhere in the province this season, except in Okanagan, Kamloops and Yale electoral district.

Pheasant shooting will not be allowed only in the Cowichan electoral district between Oct 1 and December 31, and in the Islands Electorial districts (except the municipality of North Saanich) during the month of October.

The open season for grouse on the mainland adjacent to Vancouver commences on October 15 and closes on December 31. This includes the districts of Richmond, Dewdney, Delta, Chilliwack, the part of Comox on the mainland, the part of Kent municipality in Yale electoral district, Taxeda and adjoining islands. Throughout the rest of the mainland (with the exception of Fernie and Cranbrook districts, where they may be shot only in October) blue and willow grouse and ptarmigan may be shot from September 1 to December 31.

Ducks, geese and snipe may be shot throughout the mainlain and on adjacent islands from September 1 to February 28, and on Vancouver Island from September 15.

Coast deer may be shot between September 1 and December 31 in all portions of the province except in Vancouver Island, where the season opens on September 15, and in the Queen Charlotte Islands, where a special regulation prevails. At the same time coast deer can be sold only from September 1 to November 15, and ducks, geese and snipe can be sold only in October and November. Wapiti are not allowed to be shot anywhere in the province. Mountain sheep and goats may be shot between September 1 and December 15.

Wheezer or Sneezer

Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a very pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalpytus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small, hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

The Lonsdale Pharmacy will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00 on the money back plan.

"I have been a victim of catarrh for many months, the glands around my eyes and nose being sore and swollen. My head felt dull and stuffy. Pains in the front and back of my head, also across my eyes were frequent and I had trouble in breathing, especially at night when trying to rest. I had doctored but got no relief until after using Hyomei. This relieved me in the first twenty-four hours and in less than two weeks I was practically cured. I cannot give too much praise to Hyomei." Mrs. Mary Philips, 153 McNab St., Hamilton, Ont.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

While the report of Chief Fire Warden W. C. Gladwin, for July recently published shows that the forest wealth of the province has suffered greatly because of fires during the month, it is at the same time a conclusive demonstration of the well nigh inestimable benefits accruing from the energetic preventive measures prosecuted throughout the province by this department. The single fact that out of a total of 101 fires during the month, 95 per cent. were extinguished in their earlier stages, establishes beyond all question the efficiency and the value of the militant force placed in the field by this department to fight forest fires. The total loss resulting from the remaining five per cent. of those fires which could not be controlled by the facilities available represents large figures, but the loss which doubtless would have resulted from the 95 per cent. which was extinguished had there not been well organized effort to control them, is incalculable. As it is, however, the fact is worthy of note that the heavier portion of the loss arose from the burning of improvements and not from loss of standing timber, which would seem to indicate that the fires were for the most part confined to a comparatively restricted area. The report estimates the total loss at $357,760 of which $40,000 was attributable to timber destroyed and $317,760 to improvements, buildings, bridges, culverts, live stock, etc., consumed by the flames.

The total cost of this service for the month was $60,000, of which $40,000 was expended by the provincial government and about $20,000 by companies and owners, interested in the preservation of the property threatened. The total fire-fighting force employed by the government for July was 3,892. The fires exacted heavy toll in human life, seven men having perished from this cause, six at the Lucky Jim mine and one at Jackson's siding.

Conditions this summer have been particularly favorable for great forest fires and the harrowing tales of the terrific conflagrations which have swept over wide areas in the United States, licking up whole towns in their seething pathway and resulting in an appalling sacrifice of human lives are fresh in the public mind. In British Columbia the fire that has swept over the Slocan this summer is declared by those who have been upon the ground as being the most terrific that that country has ever experienced, greatly exceeding the great fire of 1894. Yet it is a notable fact that the towns throughout that district have all escaped unscathed and that the loss in buildings and improvements has been held within comparatively small bounds. The list as given by the Chief Fire Warden comprises three air compressers, four mining buildings, one store, one hotel, one station, twelve houses, four bridges, several culverts, five horses and a few small items. The possibilities of destructiveness which lay before these fires is suggested by another clause of the report which states that five billion feet of timber was in immediate danger of being consumed and that several small towns, a great many small settlements together with large values in saw mills and improvements were saved through the efforts of the fire fighting force.

The highly gratifying results thus far accruing from the operation of existing regulations with reference to the prevention of forest fires throughout the province are such as to indicate the advisability of yet more advanced legislation, of even more extended operations and if possible more energetic and effective measures, along this line for the coming years.

BRITISH IMMIGRATION TO CANADA

The striking manner in which Canada is attracting an ever increasing proportion of the tide of annual emigration from the British Isles, is evident from the latest British emigration returns. For a long term of years the inducements offered by the United States have enabled that country to secure all but a comparatively small portion of this annual emigration. During all this period the general public in the mother country appear to have had but meagre information with reference to the advantages which Canada has to offer and consequently, the proportion of British emigration hitherto having Canada for its objective point, has been disappointingly small. For some time past however, this aspect of the matter has been undergoing a change, the effects of which have been strikingly apparent during the present year. The attention of intending emigrants has been turning in larger and larger degree to Canada, and the public mind has evidently been aroused to a realization of the fact that the Dominion offers superior opportunities to new settlers at the same time enabling the British emigrant to still make his home under the Union Jack.

In this respect it has been Canada's good fortune to redeem the situation for the Empire, inasmuch as, according to statistics recently published, the number of emigrants leaving Great Britain for Canada during the first seven months of 1910, was twenty-five per cent. greater than the number whose destination was the United States. The exact figures given in the returns of the British Emigration department for the period designated, are, emigrants bound for Canada 217,285, emigrants bound for the United States 172,590.

This is a fact of great significance to the Empire and to Canada. It means that the very heavy drain which the British nation has been sustaining for decades in favor of a friendly but nevertheless an alien people, has at last received a decisive check, and that this favorable change in the situation will doubtless be more pronounced as time goes on. It is a commonly recognized fact that the tide of emigration consists in the main of people young in years, and possessing a fund of energy, with possibilities of usefulness which render them citizens of the most desirable type, citizens whose removal constitutes a distinct loss to the country which they leave. Correspondingly this tide of immigration represents an asset of the most valuable nature to the country which becomes their adopted home. It is therefore a matter of the highest import to the Empire in general and to Canada in particular that this country should succeed in diverting from alien countries and in securing for herself, the citizenship of this great multitude of British subjects which annually departs from the homeland to seek larger opportunities in new lands.

What this large and steadily increasing influx of population direct from the British Isles, and the phenomenal exodus of settlers from the United States to Canada, and more especially to the prairie provinces, it is worthy of remark that the Dominion is now receiving a great inrush of immigration, the average of which is of a decidedly high order. At the same time, the advantages accruing on the one hand from the incoming of these multitudes of our own language, who have been accustomed to systems of responsible government closely resembling our own, who are in harmony these advantages are without doubt with our institutions and customs—considerably neutralized by the inpouring of large numbers of oriental immigrants whose coming cannot be said to exert an elevating influence upon the social or the national order from any aspect.

With reference to this latter class of immigration, the province of British Columbia stands upon the frontier and therefore sustains the brunt of the burden which is thereby imposed. In view of the more intimate acquaintanceship which the citizens of this province—not from choice, but from necessity—possess with the features of this oriental immigration, with the real nature of its influence and with the seriousness of those complications which it threatens to develop, it is reasonable to suppose that, public sentiment as it exists in British Columbia should be allowed to exert a great influence as to the policy to be followed with reference to this vexatious problem. The situation calls for the devising of some line of action which will prove efficacious and which will likewise accomplish the quickest possible relief, compatible with due consideration of all interests involved.

Arrangements are said to have been completed for the exhibition of B. C. fruit in the store of T. Eaton & Co. in Winnipeg.

A Literary Column

Somewhat About Books and Writers

Apropos of sewerage systems the advent of which we are patiently awaiting in North Vancouver, it is interesting to note in Constantinople the passing away of certain features of primitive methods of sanitation. The system, or rather lack of system followed in old cities, was to have an open drain or ditch down the centre of the streets into which all the offal and slops were thrown, this was called the kennel, and the dogs of the city feasted riotously among the filth.

Constantinople has been renowned as the place where until very recently, the dogs played their part as scavengers; but now, owing to the adoption of modern sanitary methods, the dogs have found their occupation gone. The great hordes of dogs were always noted by travellers to Constantinople. I heard one lecturer remark that these dogs seemed to have certain defined districts into which other dogs ventured at their peril.

The Mohammedan religion will not admit of their destroying animals, and the treatment they have meted out to these dogs has aroused the just indignation of the R. S. P. C. A. The animals are at present confined on a small island slowly starving to death and the R.S.P.C.A. has requested that a lethal chamber should be used to give the poor brutes a merciful release from theic sufferings. It is worthy of note that the British ambassador does not consider it infra dig. to render aid in this movement of the R.S.P.C.A. It can easily be seen that with such systems of sanitation in vogue full scope was afforded to the fearful ravages of the plague in Europe during the fourteenth and seventeenth centuries, and the great fire of London which immediately followed the last visitation in the seventeenth century effectively obliterated all traces of the plague.

MORE BRANCH LINES

Premier McBride has intimated that after the main line of the Canadian Northern Railway is built, the government will assist in the construction of branch line feeders throughout various parts of the province. A line, he said, would be built into the Kootenays. If such a line is built it will undoubtedly come up the south fork of the Fraser, down the Canoe river, up the Columbia to Canal Flats and down the Kootenay to the coal fields of the Elk basin.

The Port of Missing Men

BY MEREDITH NICHOLSON

The man was deeply moved, and tears sprang into his eyes. Armitage laughed, holding him at arm's length.

"None of that nonsense! Sit down!" He turned to the door, opened it and peered into the hall, locked the door again, then motioned the man to a chair.

"So you deserted your mother country, did you, and have borne arms for the glorious republic?"

"I served in the Philippines—yes."

"Rank, titles, emoluments, Oscar?"

"I was a sergeant, and the surgeon could not find the bullet after Big Bend, Luzon, so they were sorry and gave me a certificate and $2 a month to my pay," said the man so succinctly and colorlessly that Armitage laughed.

"You have done well, Oscar; honor me by accepting a cigar."

The man took a cigar from the box which Armitage extended, but would not light it. He held it rather absentmindedly in his hand and continued to stare.

"You are not dead—Mr.—Armitage, but your father"—

"My father is dead, Oscar."

"He was a good man," said the soldier.

"Yes; he was a good man," repeated Armitage gravely. "I am alive, and yet I am dead, Oscar. Do you grasp the idea? You were a good friend when we were lads together in the great forest. If I should want you to help me now"—

The man jumped to his feet and stood at attention so gravely that Armitage laughed and slapped his knee.

"You are well taught, Sergeant Oscar! Sit down. I am going to trust you. My affairs just now are not without their trifling dangers."

"There are enemies—yes?" and Oscar nodded his head solemnly in acceptance of the situation.

"I am going to trust you absolutely. You have no confidants—you are not married?"

"How should a man be married who is a soldier? I have no friends. They are unprofitable," declared Oscar solemnly.

"I fear you are a pessimist, Oscar, but a pessimist who keeps his mouth shut is a good ally. Now, if you are not afraid of being shot or struck with a knife, and if you are willing to obey my orders for a few weeks we may be able to do some business. First, remember that I am Mr. Armitage. You must learn that now and remember it for all time. And if any one should ever suggest anything else"—

The man nodded his comprehension.

"That will be the time for Oscar to be dumb. I understand, Mr. Armitage."

Armitage smiled. The man presented so vigorous a picture of health, his simple character was so transparently reflected in his eyes and face that he did not in the least question him.

"You are an intelligent person, sergeant. If you are equally discreet—able to be deaf when troublesome questions are asked, then I think we shall get on."

"You should remember"— began Oscar.

"I remember nothing," observed Armitage sharply, and Oscar was quite humble again. Armitage opened a trunk and took out an envelope from which he drew several papers and a small map, which he unfolded and spread on the table. He marked a spot with his lead pencil and passed the map to Oscar.

"Do you think you could find that place?"

The man breathed hard over it for several minutes.

"Yes. It would be easy." And he nodded his head several times as he named the railroad stations nearest the point indicated by Armitage. The place was in one of the mountainous counties of Virginia, fifteen miles from an east and west railway line. Armitage opened a duly recorded deed which conveyed to himself the title to 2,000 acres of land; also a curiously complicated abstract of title showing the successive transfers of ownership from colonial days down through the years of Virginia's splendor to the dread time when battle shook the world. The title had passed from the receiver of a defunct shooting club to Armitage, who had been charmed by the description of the property as set forth in an advertisement and lured, moreover, by the amazingly small price at which the preserve was offered.

"It is a farm—yes?"

"It is a wilderness, I fancy," said Armitage. "I have never seen it. I may never see it, for that matter. But you will find your way there, going first to this town, Lamar, studying the country, keeping your mouth shut and seeing what the improvements on the ground amount to. There's some sort of a bungalow there, built by the shooting club. Here's a description of the place, on the strength of which I bought it. You may take these papers along to judge the size of the swindle."

"Yes, sir."

"And a couple of good horses, plenty of commissary stores—plain military necessities, you understand—and some bedding should be provided. I want you to take full charge of this matter and get to work as quickly as possible. It may be a trifle lonesome down there among the hills, but if you serve me well you shall not regret it."

"Yes, I am quite satisfied with the job," said Oscar.

"And after you have reached the place and settled yourself you will tell the postmaster and telegraph operator who you are and where you may be found, so that messages may reach you promptly. If you get an unsigned message advising you of—let me consider—a shipment of steers, you may expect me any hour. On the other hand, you may not see me at all. We'll consider that our agreement lasts until the first snow flies next winter. You are a soldier. There need be no further discussion of this matter, Oscar."

The man nodded gravely.

"And it is well for you not to reappear in this hotel. If you should be questioned on leaving here"—

"I have not been here—is it not?"

"It is," replied Armitage, smiling. "You read and write English?"

"Yes; one must to serve in the army."

"If you should see a big Servian with a neck like a bull and a head the size of a pea, who speaks very bad German, you will do well to keep out of his way unless you find a good place to tie him up. I advise you not to commit murder without special orders. Do you understand?"

"It is the custom of the country," assented Oscar in a tone of deep regret.

"To be sure," laughed Armitage, "and now I am going to give you money enough to carry out the project I have indicated."

He took from his trunk a long billhook, counted out twenty new one-hundred dollar bills and threw them on the table.

"It will be enough for your purposes. You can't spend much money up there if you try. Bacon, perhaps eggs; a cow may be necessary—who can tell without trying it? Don't write me any letters or telegrams and forget that you have seen me if you don't hear from me again."

He went to the elevator and rode down to the office with Oscar and dismissed him carelessly. Then John Armitage bought an armful of magazines and newspapers and returned to his room quite like any traveler taking the comfort of his inn.

Chapter XI

THE TOSS OF A NAPKIN.

CAPTAIN Richard Claiborne gave a sumptuous supper at the Army and Navy club for ten men in honor of the newly arrived military attache of the Spanish legation. He had drawn his guests largely from his foreign acquaintances in Washington because the Spanish spoke little English, and Dick knew Washington well enough to understand that, while a girl and a man who speak different languages may sit comfortably together at table, men in like predicament grow morose and are likely to quarrel with their eyes before the cigars are passed. It was Friday, and the whole party had witnessed the drill at Fort Myer that afternoon, with nine girls to listen to their explanation of the maneuvers and the earliest spring bride for chaperon. Shirley had been of the party and somewhat the heroine of it, too, for it was Dick who sat on his horse out in the tanbark with the little whistle to his lips and manipulated the troop.

"Here's a confusion of tongues. I may need you to interpret," laughed Dick, indicating a chair at his left, and when Armitage sat down he faced Chauvenet across the round table.

With the first filling of glasses it was found that every one could speak French, and the talk went forward spiritedly. The discussion of military matters naturally occupied first place. Then they fell to talking about individuals, chiefly men in the public eye, and as the Austro-Hungarian embassy was in mourning and unrepresented at the table the new emperor-king was discussed with considerable frankness.

"He has not old Stroebel's right hand to hold him up," remarked a young German officer.

"Thereby hangs a dark tale," remarked Claiborne. "Somebody stuck a knife into Count von Stroebel at a singularly inopportune moment. I saw him in Geneva two days before he was assassinated, and he was very feeble and seemed harassed. It gives a man the shudders to think of what might happen if his majesty Charles Louis should go by the board. His only child died a year ago—after him his cousin Francis, and then the deluge."

"Bah! Francis is not as dark as he's painted. He's the most lied about prince in Europe," remarked Chauvenet. "He would most certainly be an improvement on Charles Louis. But alas, Charles Louis will undoubtedly live on forever, like his lamented father. The king is dead! Long live the king!"

"Nothing can happen," remarked the German sadly. "I have lost much money betting on upheavals in that direction. If there were a man in Hungary it would be different. But riots are not revolutions."

"That is quite true," said Armitage quietly.

"But," observed the Spaniard, "if the Archduke Karl had not gone out of his head and died in two or three dozen places, so that no one is sure he is dead at all, things at Vienna might be rather more interesting. Karl took a son with him into exile. Suppose one or the other of them should reappear, stir up strife and incite rebellion."

"Such speculations are quite idle," commented Chauvenet. "There is no doubt whatever that Karl is dead or we should hear of him."

"Of course," said the German. "If he were not the death of the old emperor would have brought him to life again."

"The same applies to the boy he carried away with him—undoubtedly dead, or we should hear of him. Karl disappeared soon after his son Francis was born. It was said"—

"A pretty tale it is," commented the German, "that the child wasn't exactly Karl's own. He took it quite hard—went away to hide his shame in exile, taking his son, Frederick Augustus, with him."

"He was surely mad," remarked Chauvenet, sipping a cordial. "He is much better dead and out of the way for the good of Austria. Francis, as I say, is a good fellow. We have hunted together, and I know him well."

They fell to talking about the lost sons of royal houses—and a goodly number there have been, even in these later centuries—and then of the latest marriages between American women and titled foreigners. Chauvenet was now leading the conversation. It might even have seemed to a critical listener that he was guiding it with a certain intention.

He laughed as though at the remembrance of something amusing and held the little company while he bent over a candle to light a cigar.

"With all due respect to our American host, I must say that a title in America goes further than anywhere else in the whole. I was at Bar Harbor three years ago when the Baron von Kissel devastated that region. He made sad havoc among the ladies that summer. The rest of us simply had no place to stand. You remember, gentlemen"—and Chauvenet looked slowly around the listening circle—"that the unexpected arrival of the excellent ambassador of Austria-Hungary caused the baron to leave Bar Harbor between dark and daylight. The story was that he got off in a sailboat, and the next we heard of him he was masquerading under some title in San Francisco, where he proved to be a dangerous forger. You all remember that the papers were full of his performances for awhile, but he was a lucky rascal and always disappeared at the proper psychological moment. He had, as you may say, the cosmopolitan accent and was the most plausible fellow alive.

"It's my experience that we never meet a person once only—there's always a second meeting somewhere—and I was not at all surprised when I ran upon my old friend the baron in Germany last fall."

"At his old tricks, I suppose," observed some one.

"No. That was the strangest part of it. He's struck a deeper game, though I'm blessed if I can make it out. He's dropped the title altogether and now calls himself Mister—I've forgotten for the moment the rest of it, but it is an English name. He's made a stake somehow and travels about in decent comfort. He passes now as an American—his English is excellent—and he hints at large American interests."

"He probably has forged securities to sell," commented the German. "I know those fellows. The business is best done quietly."

"I dare say," returned Chauvenet.

"Of course you greeted him as a long lost friend," remarked Claiborne laughingly.

"No; I wanted to make sure of him, and, strangely enough, he assisted me in a very curious way."

All felt that they were now to hear the denouement of the story, and several men bent forward in their absorption, with their elbows on the table. Chauvenet smiled and resumed, with a little shrug of his shoulders.

"Well, I must go back a moment to say that the man I knew at Bar Harbor had a real crest. The ladies to whom he wrote notes treasured them, I dare say, because of the pretty insignium. He had it engraved on his cigarette case, a bird of some kind tiptoeing on a helmet, and beneath there was a motto, 'Fide Non Armis.'"

"The devil!" exclaimed the young German. "Why, that's very like"—

"Very like the device of the Austrian Schomburgs. Well, I remembered the cigarette case, and one night at a concert—in Berlin, you know—I chanced to sit with some friends at a table quite near where he sat alone. I had my eye on him, trying to assure myself of his identity, when in closing his cigarette case it fell almost at my feet, and I bumped heads with a waiter as I picked it up—I wanted to make sure—and handed it to him, the imitation baron."

"That was your chance to startle him a trifle, I should say," remarked the German.

"He was the man beyond doubt. There was no mistaking the cigarette case. What I said was," continued Chauvenet, "'Allow me, baron?'"

"Well spoken!" exclaimed the Spanish officer.

"Not so well, either," laughed Chauvenet. "He had the best of it. He's a

CHEAP RATES ON HAY

The C. P. R. freight department has made arrangements to give a special cheap rate on hay to western points from Ontario and Quebec, where the crop this year is unusually good. On account of the shortage of the hay crop in Southern Manitoba and the consequent fear of not obtaining sufficient fodder in the Kootenay district this fall this report will come as very welcome news.

As a result of a proposal made some time ago and discussed before a meeting of the Nelson board of trade, a company entitled the Kootenay Nurseries, limited, with a capital of $25,000 formed for the purpose of growing nursery stock in the vicinity of Nelson has been incorporated.

Adjourned City Council Meeting

tention to erect a septic tank underneath the sidewalk in front of the premises to serve in the meantime and until sewers were installed.

Resolved to establish a grade on Lonsdale Ave. between Upper Keith Road and 13th street.

The N. V. Coal & Supply Co. which has the contract for supplying building material at the site of the new school building on Lonsdale Avenue north, gave notice that it would be impossible for them to make delivery if the avenue was in any way broken up or disturbed.

Messrs. Young & Wright, contractors for the building, wrote to the same effect.

Ald. Irwin considered that the engineer could arrange the work in such a way that traffic would not be interfered with.

Ald. McNeish was of the opinion that the city would be making a great mistake by going ahead with the work on Lonsdale Ave. at this time. "Where was the dirt to be removed to without interfering with traffic?"

Ald. Irwin thought that sufficient width would be left on the road for heavy hauling or he believed Chesterfield Ave. might be improved for this purpose. In any case he was against delaying the work.

The engineer thought the only way to accomplish the work was to dump the excavations from the east side on the west side.

Ald. Irwin suggested notifying the writers that every effort would be made to put the least possible obstruction in the way of traffic, but that the work could not be delayed.

The failure of the electric light at this juncture put a temporary barrier to the reporter's notes.

The question of improving Chesterfield Ave. was again brought up.

Ald. Fowler said he would not vote in favor of any work that was not recommended by the city engineer.

Ald. Smith said he believed that the majority of the workmen in the city today were desirous of working 9 hours a day.

The Mayor took exception to this remark and said he did not think that was a fact.

Ald. McNeish in conversation with a workman yesterday was told that he (the workman) did not want to work a minute longer than 8 hours a day.

The Mayor thought 8 hours a day was sufficient for any man to use a pick and shovel.

The engineer wrote advising that as the successful tenderer for the work could not get started before September 12, he would not recommend the work being undertaken as the wet weather would be on and the contract could not be finished this year. He said that if the grading was started it would render the street impassable for a considerable time during the winter months.

Ald. Irwin believed that it was a mistake to stop street work for difficulties that had to be met by every person. Some of the difficulties were imaginery and he was of the opinion that the city should be up and doing instead of harkening to these misty obstacles.

Ald. Smith said several buildings were being started at the present time and he saw no reason why the city should stop work.

Ald. Irwin asked if there had been a petition against the work continuing from the owners who were paying for it.

Ald. McRae said he was not aware that all work was going to stop on August 26th.

Ald. Schultz moved, seconded by Ald. Smith, that the engineer be asked to bring in a report on the alternative route along Chesterfield Ave., and also that a report on the improvement of Lonsdale Ave. from 18th street to the city limits be made at the same time.

Ald. Irwin asked if it was proposed to do temporary work year after year. He said he referred to the spending of $25,000 on rounding up the streets with dirt out of the ditches carried on this year.

Ald. Smith was in favor of improving the upper section of Lonsdale. It was a noticeable fact, he said, that the roads in the district were in better shape than in the city streets.

Ald. McRae was not in favor of breaking up thoroughfares in winter months.

The engineer said he did not want to force his opinion, but in some places there would be a fill of two feet and over.

It was pointed out that tenders had been called for the work and Ald. Irwin and Smith thought it was unfortunate that the engineer's report should have been submitted at this time. The matter was laid over till Monday for the engineer's report.

A letter was read from Price Ellison, commissioner of Lands, acknowledging city's request in connection with protecting the timber lands in the vicinity of Capilano, Lynn and Seymour Creeks for the conservation of the water supply. He advised that when the forestry commission made its report it was possible that some such recommendations would be made. Filed.

The city engineer reported that the sidewalk on First street in front of Mr. Foreman's store could be lowered two feet for a distance of 300 feet. It was referred to the Board of Works and the engineer.

The engineer recommended that the district be written to asking permission to lay the city's 16-inch main either on or under the bridge over Hastings Creek.

The clerk was instructed to write the district to this effect.

R. L. Reid, city solicitor, advised that he did not think that the sewers could be constructed under local improvement as the provisions of the general local improvement would not apply. He recommended several amendments which were adopted by the council.

J. G. Bennett, 11th street, wrote complaining that 11th street between St. George's Ave. and Ridgeway Ave. had been left in a bad condition last year by the contractors. The work was done under local improvement.

The engineer and Board of Works were instructed to complete the work according to specifications.

G. R. Hughes drew attention to the lane question as it stands between 2nd and 3rd streets, and between Lonsdale Ave. and St. George's Ave. He said he proposed erecting a three-storey block there shortly the whole width of the lot and this would not leave an entrance to the house in the rear which would be cut off from street communication by reason of the alley being private property. The clerk was instructed to advise Mr. Hughes that the matter was in the hands of the solicitor.

The fire committee recommended that the fire chief be authorized to obtain prices on harness.

Mayor May said that he considered the city was to be congratulated on the decision of Justice Murphy in the water main's case. It would remove the difficulties and allow the city to proceed with their water mains installation at once.

The water committee made the following recommendations: That the engineer and water foreman proceed with the installation of the 16-inch main; that the water rates as existing be still held in force as it was found that North Vancouver water charges were much lower than rates charged in adjoining municipalities; that the three applications from permanent campers for water connections be granted, and that they pay a year in advance, and that the campers' water rates be $1 quarterly.

The report was adopted.
