C.P.R. Will Not Operate Car Ferry

Rumor to that Effect Emphatically Denied by Mr. Marpole---Some Reasons Given for Not Doing So.

In pursuance of a report which has been current of late to the effect that the C.P.R. would have a freight ferry in operation across Burrard Inlet within a short period of time, a representative of the Express called upon Mr. R. Marpole, general superintendent of the C.P.R., and was cordially granted an interview. In response to a question as to whether he would confirm a report to the effect that the C. P. R. intending establishing a freight ferry to the North Shore, Mr. Marpole made a prompt and emphatic denial, declaring that he had no knowledge of any such intention upon the part of that company and in further conversation outlined the reasons why a departure of such a nature would be ill advised upon the part of the C.P.R. The cost of the system would represent a large sum of money including the building of a barge, the construction of sidings, wharves and tracks. A further difficulty would be met with in the matter of handling cars on the north shore for which work the C.P.R. would have to depend on some other company for the reason that it would not pay to keep a locomotive and crew on the north side to handle the small amount of traffic which would offer. In view of the fact that the construction of Second Narrows bridge was drawing near and that the C.P.R. in common with all

On motion of Aldermen Fowning rights over that structure, in which event, the entire car ferry system would become obsolete, the proposition to assume the expenditures involved in such a departure could not be supported on sound business principles.

Mr. Marpole discussed at considerable length the present situation on the north shore as to industries, transportation, realty, etc., and showed himself fully alive to all the salient features of local activities. He had recently taken advantage of a little leisure to personally visit North Vancouver after an absence of over two years and had been very favorably impressed with what he had seen. The visit had been altogether personal and he was quite confident that his official capacity had not been recognized by any persons whom he had met upon that occasion.

PAINFUL OPERATION

A. W. Sargent of Third street underwent a painful operation at St. Paul's hospital last Saturday morning for some knee trouble. Dr. F. X. McPhillips performed the operation and the latest reports are that the patient is progressing very favorably.

Council in Committee

The city council in committee of the whole last evening considered the question of establishing a permanent grade on the Esplanade with a view to harmonizing with the railway grade established by the Railway Commission about five years ago. Mr. Balfour Ker, who contemplates building a brick block on that street and Councillor Bridgman representing the North Vancouver Land Co., were heard and after going into the facts thoroughly it was decided to ascertain where the next meeting of the Railway Commission would be held with a view to adjusting the city's difficulties relative to relieving the steepness of the grade that would be made when the railway company laid their tracks.

A motion was passed to reconsider the grades which had been established on Lonsdale Ave.

On motion of Alderman Irwin and unanimously agreed to by the council it was resolved to establish straight grades on all north and south streets from the water front north. Bylaws will be prepared to rescind the bylaws now in force for bench grades. The easment on cross streets will be commenced 200 feet on each side of the north and south streets. This resolution was not recommended by the Engineer who is in favor of bench grades.

Aldermen Irwin, McNeish, Schultz and McRae were appointed to act as a court of revision on the assessment roll which will be held next Monday at 2 p.m.

MARTINSON-WILKINSON

Another of North Vancouver's young men has joined the ranks of the benedicts in the person of Mr. Matt. B. Martinson, whose marriage to Miss Edith C. Wilkinson of this city was celebrated in Victoria yesterday at 5 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Campbell officiating.

OBITUARY

The death occurred Sunday evening of Mr. Herman Schiplo, aged 50, at the family residence, 3rd street, near the cor- of St. David's Ave., after an illness covering a number of years. Deceased was a native of Germany and with his family was a resident of North Vancouver for about two years. They lived formerly in Oldtown, Maine. Mr. Schiplo had been an invalid for some time and it was in search of the parent's health that the family moved west. The western climate, while being in a measure beneficial, did not work anything like a permanent cure and he was confined to his house a good part of the time. Left to mourn his loss is one daughter, Annie, and a son Ernest and a niece, Mrs. W. H. Parkin of 2nd street east. Neither of the children are married and have always remained at the family fireside.

The members will constitute a court on the several local improvement petitions.

The clerk was instructed to call foc bids from local banks for the school debentures of $17,200 and the street improvements debenture of $25,000.

BASKET BALL

The Brotherhood of Bachelors from the Keith Road won a close victory over the ladies basket ball team in Cooks hall last evening. The boys were somewhat lagged at the conclusion as the result of the strenuous exercise and being out of training. However they carried off the laurels in good style taking everything into consideration. The game opened with honors even for some minutes when a handsome shot by one of the ladies brought forth a burst of applause and started the ball a-rolling in fast time. The game was kept up at a fast pace for the remainder of the match, the score at the finish favoring the bachelors with 14 points to 11. H. W. Kemp, the ladies' coach, acted as referee.

The lineup was as follows: Ladies—Mrs. McAleece Fannie Seale, M. Fulger, Mrs. Green, V. Seale. Bachelors—P. Bayliss, S. Humphrey, T. Bayliss, T. Diplock, A. Swain.

BAND CONCERT

The North Vancouver brass band will make its initial appearance in a public capacity from the Kandie Kitshen, Lonsdale Ave., next Saturday evening. This fact reflects much credit on the young men who have got down to earnest practising since the band was organized but a few months ago, and the least that could be expected is that their first appearance should be heralded with enthusiasm by an indulgent audience.

DON'T CHANGE OUR NAME

Strathcona, Alberta,
April 8th, 1910.

To the Express,
North Vancouver.

Dear Sir—In your last issue I notice that the Ratepayers' Association makes the proposition to change the name of North Vancouver. I think the Ratepayers are making a big mistake. I will give you my reasons. In the first place, Vancouver is advertised the world over and when people arrive in South Vancouver, the real estate man takes them over to North Vancouver and sells them property "in Vancouver." Why, naturally you would think you were in Vancouver. Now I was in your city in January and I bought some property in North Vancouver thinking it was all Vancouver. Now I want to point out to you that Strathcona used to be South Edmonton, but is "Strathcona" now and the people want to have the name changed again. Why? Because Edmonton is known the world over the same as is Vancouver. South Vancouver helps to advertise North Vancouver, therefore I advocate not having the name changed. I expect to be in Vancouver in ten days and expect to buy some more property, but I will buy in South Vancouver because I want some property in Vancouver, not in Lonsdale, because I think Vancouver is one of the best cities on the west coast. I remain Yours respectfully,

F. HARRIS.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C. - - APRIL 12TH, 1910

RAILWAY CHARTERS

The absolutely indispensable nature of railway construction in the development of any new country is universally recognized. The bona fide railway promoter who first conceives the idea of a railway through a given section and who takes the necessary steps to lay out the route, to secure the charter, acting upon reasonable assurance of the favorable attention of those circles which are capable of financing the undertaking, is in the true sense a pioneer and it is undeniable that important undertakings of this nature have been conceived and carried to completion by this means. At the same time it is evident that this same process is susceptible of abuse in that valuable public franchises may be procured by parties who are not themselves able to carry to completion the undertakings involved and who have no reasonable ground to conclude that they will be able to interest those who are in a position to finance the project. In such cases the results are decidedly harmful and the development of the country may be seriously retarded, because of the fact that a valuable charter is held by those who are incapable of using it themselves while the privileges conveyed therein are thus rendered unavailable to others, who, were they allowed to take hold of the project as first parties would be able to carry it to prompt and successful conclusion.

In common with other governments similarly situated the policy of the Canadian legislatures and of the federal house has been heretofore, to grant freely all charters to which no opposition was made from outside sources. There are at present, however, strong indications that the day of the promiscuous granting of applications for such franchises, is just about ended. The conviction appears to be rapidly gaining headway that it is not in the interests of the country that valuable concessions of this nature should be granted with the possibility of their lying unused for a term of years or in order to further the ends of mere charter dealers, whose purpose in securing possession of such franchises is to sell them to some one else at an exorbitant figure as compared with the cost to them.

Senator Davis recently voiced some straightforward sentiments in this regard on the floor of the Senate Chamber at Ottawa. He stated that statistics showed that from 1900 to 1909, parliament had authorized sixty-five companies. Outside the C.P.R., Grand Trunk Railway, Grand Trunk Pacific, and Canadian Northern railway there had been built only 461 miles of road and that by fourteen companies. This, in his opinion, showed chartermongering. He was of the opinion that the time of parliament should not be taken up in solemnly passing charters for the authorization of railways that never would be built and which the promoters knew, never would be built. In order to remedy this undesirable state of affairs Senator Davis introduced a bill to provide for the incorporation of railway companies by the Railway Commission, instead of by Act of Parliament as at present. One of the provisions of this bill is to the effect that before a body of men could get a charter from the Railway Commission they would have to do preliminary surveying which would cost about $250 per mile.

From other quarters a like sentiment in favor of more stringent methods with reference to the granting of charters is in evidence. In an interview a few days ago with several members from the western provinces, the Minister of Railways at Ottawa is reported as having declared that the day would soon come when blanket charters would not be granted and companies would not be allowed the choice of several routes. They would be allowed to choose one route and they could either use it or abandon it before they would be given another route. The serviceableness of an action such as this is readily apparent where there are two or more routes of approximately equal value, between two objective points, but in cases in which there is only one feasible route, or where there is one route so greatly superior to all others as to render those others practically valueless because of expense of construction as well as of maintenance and operation, the removal of the blanket charter would prove but a partial measure, for the reason that there is nothing implied in that action which would prevent the securing of a charter for that one very superior route by those who had no intention of building, but whose sole purpose would be to prevent all railway construction through the country concerned until they could succeed in selling their charter.

The action which the Ontario government is reported to have in contemplation, however, embodies clauses which faithfully applied, would exert a salutary influence upon the latter situation and which would hand out a very serious check to charter deals or to applications for charters without the intention to build. It is proposed by that legislature, to incorporate a clause in all charter and charter extension bills which in effect will provide, that if the construction of the railway is not commenced and 15 per cent. of the capital stock has not been expended thereon, within two years after the passing of the act, or if the railway is not completed and put in operation within three years of the passing of the act then the powers granted to the company by such act shall cease and be null and void as respects so much of the railway then remaining uncompleted.

The legislative tendency indicated from these several sources embodies a principle which will find a hearty response in its favor in the public mind. The country needs railways and the bona fide promoter of actual railway construction is a public benefactor who merits the emoluments accruing from his enterprise, but the country wants none of the charter dealer, who, without the remotest intention or possibility of building a mile of railway, seeks a valuable franchise in order that like any parasite, he may enrich himself out of the substance of others. The precise form into which legislation with respect to this important matter will be crystallized, it is of course, impossible to predict but the fact appears to be well assured that some effort is about to be made to remedy the defects of the present system.

IF I SHOULD DIE TONIGHT

If I should die tonight
Even hearts estranged would turn once more to me,
Recalling other days remorsefully;
The eyes that chill me with averted glance
Would look upon me as of yore, perchance
And soften in the old familiar way.
For who could war with dumb,
unconscious clay?
So I might rest, forgiven of all,
tonight.

Oh! friends, I pray tonight
Keep not your kisses for my dead, cold brow.
The way is lonely—let me feel them now
Think gently of me: I am travel-worn;
My faltering feet are pierced with many a thorn.
Forgive, O hearts estranged, I plead!
When dreamless rest is mine I shall not need
The tenderness for which I long
tonight.

MIND vs. MATTER

In one constituency a heckler drew disparaging attention to the candidate's lack of inches. "What's the good of a little chap like you?" said he. "It's a man we want to represent us." "Ah," said the candidate quietly. "Where I come from we measure a man from the chin up. You evidently measure him from the chin down!"

Bobby—"Say, pop, what is the difference between a lunch and a luncheon?"

Pop—"About a dollar and a half."

FERRY WHARF

Substantial progress is being made on the new ferry wharf at the foot of Lonsdale Ave. by the contractors in charge during the past few days. Up to about a week ago attention had been called to the slow manner in which work was being conducted and the matter was taken up by the Ferry commissioners with the result that they instructed their secretary to express the Board's disapproval. With some fine weather now the west side of the cement work would probably be well on toward completion in a few weeks and traffic changed to that side to allow the balance of the old wharf being torn down and the east portion of the reinforced cement work proceeded with. At the present quite a strip of the flooring cement has been put in place over the net work of steel rods and the south end of the false structure is being rushed as speedily as conditions will permit.

ONE WAY OF PAYING

Father Dooley had just tied the knot. He looked expectant. The bride looked sheepish, and Pat, shifting from one foot to another, looked guilty. At last he began:

"I—I—don't like to be mane, father, but I changed me clothes in a hurry and left me wages in me other pants."

Then he added, in a whisper: "Take me down in the cellar! I'm a plumber, and I'll show ye how to fix the gas meter so it won't register more than 40 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Sykes, who have for the past few months occupied a house at the corner of 4th street and St. Andrew's have moved to Lynn Valley where they intend to take up their permanent residence.

Mr. J. C. Williams returned from the Squamish Saturday where he enjoyed a week's trout fishing. His basket of a goodly number of the speckled beauties which he avered were not caught with a silver hook, indicated that fishing was pretty good.

The announcement is made that the marriage of Mr. Percy J. S. Cole, connected with the real estate department of Robert Ward and Co. of Vancouver, and Miss Gertrude A. Wilson of Cambridge, Eng., will take place next June. It is understood that they will occupy their new residence, lot 7-93-550 on the Boulevard as soon as it is completed.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. Alex. Gibson and Mr. Clarence Huff, both well known residents of this city, were operated on by Dr. Newcombe at the North Vancouver hospital last Saturday afternoon. They are reported to be progressing as well as can be expected up to the present.

Mr. Bunker of Lynn Valley has given up his position as foreman of the district of North Vancouver's quarry and has removed to North Vancouver at the corner of 11th and Hendry streets. Mr. Bunker will leave shortly on a trip for his health, which has been failing during the past few months.

A Literary Column

Somewhat About Books & Writers

"The true university in these days is a collection of books." —Thomas Carlyle.

The wise man who some three thousand years ago remarked "of making of books there is no end," would today find his prediction justified beyond his immediate expectation. Books on every conceivable topic written from every conceivable, and some inconceivable, points of view, are poured out from the press like a deluge.

A well directed and enthused faculty toward literature is of great value in all the varied circumstances of life, when the chill and isolation of advancing age settles down pall like, the tapers lit in earlier days at the shrine of literature still bestow their grateful and cheering light upon the way.

Of the men of letters of today few have shone with such even brilliance in their course as W. J. Dawson. His critical studies of the makers of English prose and makers of English verse, his historical studies, including Savonarola, which has also been dramatized, have earned Dr. Dawson a first place in English literature.

Dr. Dawson is to conduct services in Wesley church, Vancouver, during the last week in April, and while in these days he is devoting himself almost exclusively to religious work, it ought to be possible sometime during his stay here to hear him on one of his secular subjects. Anyhow whatever his subject is he is a great orator acquainted with all the arts and devices of oratory.

The press has of late been dilating upon the new boy prodigy who has discoursed and discomfited the wise men of Gotham. We are accustomed to hearing from time to time of infant prodigies of a musical turn of mind, but the new one is developed on the higher educational side, and is of a much rarer type.

However, John Evelyn, the dianist writing in 1679 chronicles one of his day, William Wootton, who at the age of 11, read and perfectly understood Hebrew, Greek, Latin, Arabic, Syriac, and most of the modern languages, disputed in divinity, law, and all the sciences; was skilful in History, both sacred and profane; in politics in a word so universally and solidly learned, that he was looked upon as a miracle and took his Bachelor of Arts degree at Cambridge when twelve years and five months old. So that it would seem that the wise man of three thousand years ago was somewhat justified when he said, "there is nothing new under the sun."

"Will Honeycomb."

Under the above caption a column of literary notes will appear in the mid-week edition of the Express. Will Honeycomb will be glad to receive notes and news chronicling literary activity in North Vancouver and hopes to have the aid of literary readers of the Express in the conduct of the column. Notes, news, etc., may be addressed to him, care of the Express.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A piquant salad dressing may be made of sour milk or cream. Take the yolk of a hard-boiled egg and rub it until it is quite smooth. Then add half a cupful of sour cream and a tablespoonful of vinegar with sufficient salt, pepper and sugar to overcome any unpleasant taste of the cream.

* * *

To make beeswax, place the honey comb in a coarse muslin bag and put in a small stone to weight the contents. Put into a kettle, cover with water and boil. The wax comes to the top of the water and the sediment remains at the bottom of the kettle. When the water is allowed to cool, the wax forms a solid cake.

Nut-Meat Loaf—One-half cup chopped or ground pecans, the same of walnut meats, one cup dried bread or cracker crumbs, one egg is required, two is an improvement. One table spoon melted butter. Wet the crumbs with milk and as the crumbs soak add more milk if necessary. It should be a little too thick to run. Turn in the mixture after stirring well and cover with lots of butter. Bake in a roasting oven a half hour. Cut in slices and serve hot for next day dry slices and cover with thickened and strained juice from a can of tomatoes. Sliced cold and served with creamed potatoes makes a good combination. All walnut meats makes the roast a trifle dry, but can be used if pecans are too expensive.

SOME DIFFERENCE

A long-winded, prosy councillor was arguing a technical case recently before one of the judges of the superior court. He had drifted along in such a desultory way that it was hard to keep track of what he was trying to present, and the judge had just vented a very suggestive yawn.

"I sincerely trust that I am not unduly trespassing on the time of this court," said the lawyer, with a suspicion of sarcasm in his voice.

"There is some difference," the judge quietly observed, "between trespassing on time and encroaching on eternity."

DOMINION ACTS

An Act has just passed in the House of Commons at Ottawa which provides for the confirmation and declaration of the Rights of the Crown with respect to water and water power and relating to the diversion, acquisition and use of water in the railway belt in British Columbia, including the block containing three and one-half million acres in the Peace River district.

The Act defines that any river, stream, watercourse, lake, spring, creek, ravine, canyon, lagoon, swamp, marsh or other body of water shall for all purposes, be deemed to be vested in the crown, unless and until some other right is established. No right to divert or use water be defined therein shall be granted otherwise than under the provisions of the said Act.

The Governor-in-Council may, upon the recommendation of the Minister, provisionally confirm and validate any instrument professing to grant any right, record or other privilege for the use of water within the Railway Belt, providing that any such validating order or confirmation shall be limited to a period not exceeding two years from the date of the coming into force of this Act.

Provision is also made in the Act for the Governor-in-Council grantiog licenses for the storage and use of water for domestic and municipal porposes, irrigation, steam power, mining and the clearing streams for driving logs, and the construction of any works in connection therewith.

The Act to amend the Fisheries Act also just recently enacted provides that the Minister or any fishery officer shall have the power to define the tidal boundary of estuary fishing and that any fishery officer may direct, either in writing or orally on sight, that a greater space than two hundred and fifty yards shall be left between salmon nets or other fishing apparatus. No net or other device shall be so used as entirely to obstruct the passage of fish in any of the waters of Canada unless authority be given for the placing of screens to prevent the escape of fish held for breeding purposes.

During the season the time in which fishermen are not permitted to fish is set forth as from low water nearest 6 o'clock in the afternoon of every Saturday to the time of low water nearest 6 o'clock in the afternoon of every Monday in tidal waters.

No person shall use a purse seine for the capture of fish unless under special license for the taking of salmon in such waters of the province of British Columbia as are specified in such licenses.

In the provinces of British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Northwest Territories aod the Yukon Territories, every ditch, channel or canal constructed or adapted for conducting water from any lake or water course, shall be provided at its entrance with a grating or screen to prevent the fish from entering.

And no one shall catch fish for, take, buy or sell, possess or export any fish for the purpose of converting it into manure or fertilizer except by special permit.

The following verses are from the pen of North Vancouver's Bard, Mr. D. G. Dick :

This world of fate
Rolled on in state,
Singing its happy sonnet ;
Until one morn
With few to warn
She bumped against a Comet.

Deep in the seams
Of earth bound rocks
Hewed out by human forces
A man and woman
Lost their way
While earth reduced to ashes

When to the light
Again they came
There were no human masses
No living form
But lifeless corpses
From Halley's Comet gases

The moral of these Lines of mine
Is sense on common bases ;
To build ourselves
Hind walls of rock
And thus preserve our races.
