District Council

The regular meeting of the district council of North Vancouver was held last night, Coun. Lawson being appointed to the chair. The most important matters dealt with were those of roads and an offering in writing made by Mr. Alexander Philip of D.L. 1016, where are located the city waterworks, for the sum of $38,000. The same offer has been made to the city council. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of the reeve and the chairman of the water committee.

Correspondence was read as follows: The first letter asked for a road through blocks 17, 18 and 19 in D.L. 2023 which would be a continuation of the Ross road near Fromme. A letter from the B.C.E.R. Co. asking for payment of the proportionate cost of the bridge on the Lynn Valley road crossing Hastings creek. This was authorized.

Mr. Thos. Nye requested that the stumps and brush might be cleared from the road in blocks 31 and 32 in D.L. 2026. The engineer was instructed to have this done.

Edwin Qvist, through his solicitor, asked for an additional $300 on account of work done on the Lynn Valley school grounds.

A strong plea was received from F. W. Caulfield urging that the headwaters of Cypress Creek might be preserved. Mr. Caulfield stated that recently he had visited his intake and found the water astonishingly low. It was referred to the reeve and the chairman of the waterworks.

The Burnaby council wrote to say that it was not prepared to send a delegate to Victoria in the matter of clause 3 of the Land Registry Act Amendment Act. It was in accord with the section and thought it to be a step in the right direction.

An application was made by Mr. S. Tupper for a position in the mounted police force. Mr. Tupper had heard that such a force was to be established. The letter was ordered filed.

The council gave permission to Mr. A. B. Diplock to address it in the matter of a grant of an additional $2,000 for the purpose of the Plank Road. Mr. Diplock informed the council that the work had been very costly and that it would be a very small sum for the district to pay. He also suggested that a shelter for travellers should be erected on the road and that it should be provided with a telescope.

He went into detail with regard to the sum which the road had cost to build and stated that the bill for the lumber alone had amounted to $10,400. The whole matter was referred to the Board of Works Committee which will meet at 4.30 on Saturday afternoon and when Mr. Diplock was asked to be present. This concluded the correspondence.

Motions were next in order and Coun. Bridgman started the ball rolling by moving that a letter be written to F. L. Carter-Cotton asking him to take steps to urge upon the government the necessity for action in the matter of the road through Moodyville. The motion was carried.

The next motion was one made by Coun. Allan and was for a road to be made from the Keith road southward between blocks 5, 6, 11 and 12, thence east from the above junction south of blocks 11 and 10, thence south on the road allowance to the north end of block 44, thence west to the east boundary of block 44, thence south between blocks 22, 23, 24, 43, 42, 25 and 41. The motion was carried.

Coun. Allan also moved that the city be asked to pay its proportionate part of the cost of making the Lillooet trail to the cemetery. It was also moved by the same councillor that the Keith road deviation be opened up at the east of Seymour Road over the steep hill to Maple Avenue. Again by Coun. Allan it was moved that $25 be added to the estimates for the completion of the new municipal hall in order that the council chamber might be paneled, and further that the ground at the back of the hall be graded so that the contractor could get his steps in at the right level. Both motions carried.

It was moved that a trail six feet wide be cut in D.L. 1564 from the Mosquito Road to the Grouse Mountain trail, the cost of which was not to exceed $125. The motion carried. A sidewalk was asked for by Mr. Hicks on St. James street. A motion was made to take up the question of all sidewalks at the meeting to be held next Thursday. This was adopted.

Coun. Allan stated that the flume bridge on the pipe line road was in bad order in D.L. 164, and it was resolved that the Capilano Flume Co. be written to about the matter.

In pursuance of a motion passed tenders are to be called for the half road to be built in D.L. 237 through lots 28, 29, block 4.

The reports from the various committees were then read:

The total amount called for by the finance committee amounted to $1,507.45, the larger portion ($863.70) being for school purposes. The waterworks committee called for $1,362.59, the wages list accounting for $864.44 of this while the Board of Works asked for $12,902.25.

An account sent in by the North Vancouver city hospital was laid over to the health committee for a report.

The engineer of the municipality was authorized to purchase a Sullivan hand drill for use in the North Lonsdale quarry. The cost of this will be $100. The drill will be of lighter make than the one hitherto in use.

The clerk to the council read the act concerning thistles which provides for a fine of $20 after due notice has been given and failure has been made to remove the same. A thorough discussion of the matter was had.

Tenders were then read for fire hose and fire equipment. There were four of these received and they were sent in by Messrs. Johnson and Salisbury, agents for the Dunlop Tire Company, the Goodyear Rubber Company, the Vancouver Rubber Company and the Canadian Consolidated Rubber Company. The prices quoted by each varied considerably especially in the matter of reels. The matter was taken up by the committee of the whole after the routine business had been completed.

The engineer's reports included a number of details concerning roads, grading, excavating and other improvements, and those of the district clerk included a report on the grading of the Lynn Valley school, the law as to the weeds already referred to, the local improvements of Sussex St. Dr. Drier's claim for a refund of taxes, the Williams contract, the trip to White Cliff city and the application of the Seymour Lumber Co.

New business concerned the tax sale resolution, assessment roll resolution, and the resignation of the district stenographer, Miss Gordon.

This concluded the evening's work and the meeting then adjourned.

BLASTING ACCIDENT

A man of the name of Edward Brown was badly injured by the unexpected explosion of a charge of powder at the corner of Keith road and Ridgeway Avenue on Tuesday afternoon and had to be conveyed to the city hospital. It was found there that his leg was seriously shattered and that his hands and face were blown full of dirt. So far as can be learned at present he is doing very well, although his wounds are of a somewhat serious nature.

Brown had lighted one fuse and had discharged one mine and was approaching the hole to light another when the second charge ignited by the first also went off throwing Brown several feet and injuring him as above recorded. The wounded man is in single and lives in the city. He is in the care of Dr. Newcombe.

A Japanese working at the Hastings shingle bolt camp in Lynn Valley very nearly severed the half of his foot with an axe late on Wednesday afternoon. He was carried by his companions on an improvised litter to the city and it was stated, to the hospital. At the latter institution nothing is known of the case nor can the whereabouts of the Japanese be ascertained. The mill at which the accident occurred is at the head of the city waterworks and the report there was to the effect that about five inches of the foot was cut clean off.

Mr. T. J. Spofford and Miss Spofford of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. F. B. Hermon of St. Andrew's Ave., and will remain for a couple of weeks.

For the past few days Mr. and Mrs. Devis of St. George's Ave., have had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Ipton of St. Thomas, Ont.

Mr. J. E. Jenkins, formerly of Vancouver, has removed to his new house on 16th street, North Vancouver, and will make his permanent home there.

Another move from the larger city across the Inlet is that of Mr. Garwarding, who has recently taken up his residence in a new house, on 11th street.

Mr. F. Tarn has just disposed of his old home on 9th street, and has moved to his new cottage on 5th street.

Ferry Directors

A meeting of the directors of the North Vancouver Ferries was held on Wednesday afternoon in the board room when his honor the Mayor presided.

After the minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed communications were read to the Board.

The first of these was in the form of a summons at the suit of Mr. John Dierraen who claimed that he had been injured to the extent of $15 in March last when the pontoons of the wharf sank, thus preventing the landing of his wagon and horse, the former of which was loaded with fruit.

It was two days before the wagon could be brought to this side and by that time the fruit was rendered useless for commercial purposes and there was a bill for baiting the horse in Vancouver. Besides all this Mr. Dierraen was deprived of the use of his horse and the wagon for the time it had to remain across the Inlet.

The secretary was instructed to communicate the matter to Messrs. Bowser, Reid & Wallbridge and to instruct them to defend the action.

There are many claims of this sort against the company and it was felt that if one was paid all would have to be paid.

Another communication was from Messrs. Peters and Lawley with regard to the insurance of the St. George ferry for a sum of $40,000. To this the secretary was instructed to reply.

The Wallace Shipbuilding Co. asked for an extension of time for the completion of the pontoon which they are building for the Ferry Co. It was explained in their letter that the firm had been badly handicapped by the fire which burnt part of the plant and a month was asked for. This was granted.

The auditor for the company wrote asking for an increase of salary. He stated that the work of auditing the books had doubled since the time when he had undertaken to do it for $15 a month and now asked that that sum be increased to $25. This request was acceded to.

Messrs. Bayfield & Archibald of Vancouver put in a bid for a new boiler for ferry North Vancouver No. 1. The bid was for a Taylor water tube boiler and the price $2,690 as against another bid of $4,500. This included all fittings. The matter was referred to a committee consisting of Capt. Kichham and Mr. Heard, the manager.

Permission was given by the Board for the acquisition of a worm wheel for the turning over of the engine by hand on No. 2 ferry. This will be purchased from the Polson Iron Works of Toronto. This matter was also referred to the same committee as above. The latter will buy the wheel in two halves which can be bolted together for convenience in slipping on.

The contract between the Ferry Co. and McDougall-Jenkins was read as altered and approved. This contract is for repairs to the port boiler on No. 2 which will cost $1716.54.

Mr. J. B. Fraser was heard with regard to his outstanding account over which there has been some little dispute and in which the Wallace Shipbuilding Co. is mixed up. The matter was left to be settled between Mr. Heard and Mr. Fraser.

The next matter to come before the Board was the report of the manager. This was very short and included a statement that one of the blades of the propeller on No. 3 was broken and that one on No. 2 was loose. These will be repaired at the end of the month when travel is less.

It was decided that a landing should be constructed for the North Vancouver No. 1. This will cost in the neighborhood of $250 and will be started right away. It was also arranged that all three ferries should run in foggy weather.

A notice will be posted in all the ferries offering a reward of $10 for such information as will lead to the conviction of any person cutting or in other ways defacing any part of the Company's vessels or property. It has recently come to the notice of the directors that some evil minded idler had cut initials on the seats of the new ferry No. 3.

The mayor said that he had no words to characterize such vandalism. The meeting then adjourned.

Significant of the development and progress of the city is the following list of members of the community all of whom have within the past few days moved into new houses which have been constructed for them during the recent months:

Mr. W. E. Hay moved into his new residence on Tenth Avenue and at the same time Mr. H. A. Shaw was changing from his old residence to a new one at Ottawa Gardens.

Mr. G. D. Hoyland has moved to his new house on the Keith Road east and Miss Russell is moving to a new house on Quebec street.

Mr. A. H. Scriven has moved to a new home on 14th Avenue while Mr. Thos. Hunter has deserted his old place for a new one on Western Ave.

The above are the names of but a few who have made a change and the list is not set forth as a complete one by any means.

A large crowd attended the band concert which was given on the roof garden of the Palace Hotel last night. The City Band played some excellent selections in a finished manner. Among the assembly there were to be seen many faces from across the Inlet.

Among the building permits detailed elsewhere in this issue it will be seen that there were no less than three issued to Vancouver residents who undoubtedly come to live on this side before many weeks are passed. Among the removal notices it is noticeable too that there are several Vancouver people taking up their residence in new houses here.

Before his Worship the Mayor and Mr. C. F. Foreman, J.P., a man of the name of Clarke who is an engineer on one of the ferries was fined by his proxy the Chief of Police, the sum of $1 for discharging firearms in the public street. The bench wished it to be made known through the medium of the press that no such small fine would be inflicted for this offence in that court again. The next offender would be made an example of as the crime was a danger to the public and must be entirely stopped.

There are now living in North Vancouver no less than six men of the 72nd Highland regiment which has headquarters in Vancouver. These men may be seen in all the pride of their regimentals and in the full panoply of war going to and fro on the ferries to the bi-weekly drills. Mr. Bressy of the N. V. Coal and Supply Company is one of the Kilties. Although a Scotchman it is the first time that he has donned the native costume and (he says it in a whisper) he finds that it feels mighty strange at first. A wee bittie could at the first outfit.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Chapman of Saskatoon, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. J. Phillippe for some weeks past, were outgoing passengers last week on their return home. They were accompanied by Mrs. Phillippe and her daughter, Edna, who will enjoy a pleasure trip of about three months during which they will visit with friends at Winnipeg and Brandon. On their way west they will stop to visit Mr. and Mrs. Chapman at Saskatoon, at which city Mr. Chapman is chief inspector for the C.P.R.

A MONTH'S BUILDING

Building Inspector James Fugler has just prepared figures with regard to the past month's building operations in North Vancouver. These statistics go to show that July has been a record month in all respects. This is partially accounted for, says Mr. Fugler, by the fact that the strike was called off and that immediately that was accomplished there was a rush by a large number of persons who had been prevented from commencing the erection of their dwellings stores and business places while the strike was still in force.

The actual number of permits issued was seventy and the total cost of the buildings to be erected was $196,415 or in other words a sum of practically $200,000.

It is interesting to take this last figure and compare it with the total for the whole year up to the 31st of July only falls short of the whole previous six months by about fifty thousand dollars. The strike, of course, does not account for all, or nearly all of this tremendous increase which has come about by natural growth.

Miss Little and Miss McGill, both of Nanaimo, and who are on a vacation, are stopping at the Palace hotel.

Mrs. F. Percy Carbutt, Suite 8, Keith Block, will not receive on the last Thursday of this month and not again until the autumn.

The Rev. Principal Garvie, D.D., of the faculty of theology in the university of London, England, will preach in St. Andrew's church, North Vancouver next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and family are occupying the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. J. Phillippe during the absence of the latter on a visit to the prairie provinces. Mr. Thomas has extensive mining interests near Butte in which city he and his family have their home.

A report from the offices of the B. Electric Ry. Co. is to the effect that the travel on Sunday on the street cars was of very large proportions, though not quite up to the mark of the previous Sunday when a record crowd was carried. The exact total on Sunday was 8,500 paid fares while on the 23rd the number tallied upwards of nine thousand which constituted a record for the company.

TO DEMONSTRATE WAFFER SLICED BACON

Mr. R. E. Roberts will be at the Welcome Parlors, Lonsdale Avenue on Monday the 7th inst, where he will give practical demonstration of the American patent of the Bertie Slicing machine. This is the last word in a meat slicing machine for household purposes and all householders are cordially invited to see it in themselves.

Mrs. (Dr.) Sugden and children of Winnipeg are this week visiting at the home of Dr. Sugden's brother, Mr. W. W. Sugden, Lynn Valley.

STONE-ROBERTSON

A quiet and very pretty wedding took place on Thursday afternoon in St. Andrew's church, North Vancouver, when Rev. Ronald Mackled united in marriage Miss Charlotte Robertson and William Charles Stone. The young couple are prominent in the work of the Young People's Society of the church. They will reside in the city on the southern slope.

BAXTER-BROWN

On Monday, July 31st, the marriage took place of Mr. Thomas Baxter of North Vancouver and Miss Elizabeth Brown of Toronto, Ont. The ceremony was performed at the residence of Rev. Hugh Hooper of St. John the Evangelist church who officiated. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Hill of Toronto, is a very beautiful and talented young lady and is very popular with the young set in her native city. Mr. Baxter is well known to residents of North Vancouver. After a brief honeymoon the newly married pair will make their home here.

JENKINS-FUGLER

On Tuesday, August 1st, a marriage was solemnized between Murial Agartie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fugler, and Mr. Frederick T. Jenkins of Victoria and North Vancouver. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ronald Mackled of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. McDougall, the bridegroom's business partner, officiated as best man while Miss Mabel Fugler, youngest sister of the bride was the bridesmaid. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will return to North Vancouver to make their home.

So the operator is trained to use certain set phrases relating strictly to her work. Any questions outside of her functions must necessarily be referred to people having in charge special classes of "irregular" inquiries.

A minute's consideration will show that unless the operator's duty were uniform—practically the same in every call—she could not possibly give ALL subscribers the service they demand.

WATERWORKS INSPECTION

The annual inspection of the city waterworks was made by the members of the city council, the city engineer, the chairman of the waterworks committee, the superintendents and the city clerk on Wednesday afternoon. The party of twelve, including Mayor McNeish, Aldermen Henderson, Smith, Kittson, Biss and Dick, City Clerk Shepherd, City Engineer Hanes, and Superintendent Grant went by means of automobile and street car to the intake up the Lynn Valley and there inspected the new work which has been in course of construction during the summer.

This work consists of a massive retaining wall built of stone and concrete for the protection of the mouths of the intake pipes. It is of the greatest credit to the men who are responsible for its installation, the City Engineer, Mr. Hanes, and Superintendent Grant, and also to the man who is responsible for its upkeep, Assistant Superintendent Job Kirkland.

To many of the citizens of North Vancouver it will be a revelation that such works exist away up the Lynn Valley, but seeing that these works are situated but a bare mile's walk from the end of the car line and that there is a splendid road on which to walk, many should hereafter make the pilgrimage. They will be well repaid even if all they see is the crystal purity of the water through which as it bubbles past, may be seen every tiny pebble and grain of sand which lies upon the rocky bottom.

The sight will be a reassuring one to the bacteria and microbe terrorists who insist upon the filtration or the pasteurisation of every drop of water which they drink. Any filter ever invented would leave the water of Lynn creek muddy compared to the state in which it enters the intake pipes hard by the home of Mr. Kirkland.

The new retaining wall which has recently been completed will afford perfect protection to the pipes against the freshets of the fall and the spring. The destruction and the havoc wrought by these and the burdens of ice and logs which they carry on their bosom are no impotent forces against which to contend and the retaining wall is an essential. The tanks and gates through which the water makes its way to the pipes, passing through meshes varying in size are themselves too of the greatest interest. The whole scheme is well worthy of half a day's visit.

The woods in the vicinity are now at their best and the mountains which surround the glen are at all times of surpassing beauty.

There is, too, a gem in the midst of this sylvan scene which comes as a surprise in this wildly natural landscape and that is the garden of the Assistant Superintendent Job Kirkland. At this time the garden is a mass of bewildering color, flowers of all kinds being in the prime of their bloom and the tiny greenhouse at the end of the dwelling is evidence of the keen love of the superintendent's family for horticulture.

"Lonely it is in the winter and misty too at times," said Mr. Kirkland, "but though we have been here three years last winter was the first time that Mrs. Kirkland ever got the blues." There are wonderful tales, too of the fish which are taken from the stream, which Kirkland has to tell, although he himself is not a disciple of Walton.

It is known that the city is at present negotiating with the government for the acquisition of Rice Lake which will form a natural reservoir and save the city half a million dollars which it would cost to build one. This matter will be completed in the near future when pipes will be laid from the lake to a point in the present line near the end of the car track.

The location of the present intake on the creek will be moved half a mile further up the stream.

At the conclusion of the inspection Mayor McNeish made a felicitous speech apropos of the occasion which was responded to by Alderman Dick to whom credit must also be given for the completion of the retaining wall scheme. Ald. Henderson also made a few remarks in which he included in his congratulations the names of Engineer Hanes and Superintendent Grant which had been accidentally omitted by other speakers. The whole excursion proved to be a most instructive and invigorating outing and brought back the councillors refreshed to face their duties in the city.

Meeting Tonight At Lynn Valley

NOTICE

It is of the utmost importance that all interested in real estate and the security of land titles in the municipality should attend this meeting.

(Sgd.) J. M. FROMME, P. WESTOVER, R. P. TREH.

New Industry

Messrs. Brackman & Ker are the latest firm to introduce a new industry into North Vancouver. They are about to instal a new crushing plant into their already up-to-date mill, and that branch of the milling business, which has hitherto been carried out in other places, will in the near future, be completed at home.

The new plant will consist of an electric motor and a crusher, which will grind all kinds of grain and feed, and will manufacture therefrom meal a chop of all kinds. The motor will be of ten H. P., and will be thoroughly effective in its operations.

The plant will be just such a one as has for some time past been used in almost all of the branches of this concern and will tend to greatly enhance the business of Brackman & Ker in North Vancouver.

It is stated that the new machinery will be in working order within the next three weeks.

YACHT BURNED

Another fatality to one of the local fleet of pleasure craft occurred Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning, when the yawl Undine, late Nancy, was burned to the water's edge, and became a total loss.

How the fire started is at present a mystery, but it is probable that it had its inception in the engine room, for the vessel carried a three H. P. auxiliary gasoline motor, and it is more than likely that the inflammable nature of the fuel was in some way responsible.

The Undine was owned by Mr. Knight, who bought her locally. It is said that she has been somewhat of a white elephant on his hands, for on account of the depth of her keel, she was quite unable to approach anywhere close to shore. She was yawl rigged and between four and five ton. There was about two ton of lead on her keel. She won no races here.

At eight o'clock Wednesday morning the vessel was still smouldering, but at high tide there is now nothing to be seen of her except the mast, which lies at a portentous angle, plainly betokening a wreck.

Another yacht was burned opposite the Hotel North Vancouver on Saturday night. In this case the cabin caught fire. The boat was promptly scuttled and sunk. Next day she was floated again and was running alright. She belonged to a Mr. Thompson.

Pleasant Fields of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON—Third Quarter Lesson VI. Jeremiah xxvi 7-19 August, 6, 1911. Jeremiah Tried and Acquitted

Jeremiah stopped the congregation on its way to church and preached such a sermon as it would never have heard. Within the dauntless courage of one speaking the very words of God he faced kings and princes, priest and people. He set up a mourner's bench and called a nation to repentance. He declared that if reformation was not quick and genuine, destruction would certainly come. The wrath of God's fury would be passed to them and they made to drink it to the dregs. Voice of mirth and gladness; voice of bridegroom and bride, sound of millstone and light of candle, all would cease in the whirlwind of divine fury. The fair temple of Jerusalem would be like the disgraced tabernacle of Shiloh and the holy city so entirely desolate that it would not have a single inhabitant, an astonishment, hissing and curse. The answer of the privileged class to this scathing sermon was natural enough. They saw their honors and emoluments melting away in the heat of a genuine revival of religion. So they raised the cry "Treason!" "Blasphemy" in that he had said the temple and city should be destroyed. "Why hast thou said 'this house shall be as Shiloh'! For that thou shalt die!" The prophet's calmness and self-possession was splendid, his whole bearing sublime! His only reply was "I have spoken God's words!" It was said in such a way as to compel belief. A strange and fairly unaccountable revolution of feeling took place in a moment of time. That crowd had three elements in it—Ecclesiastics, who saw in the fall of the temple an end of their "graft"; princes, a sort of political oligarchy naturally jealous of the ecclesiastics. Finally the "people" toy of both princes and priests, moved either way by either party in hopes of gain. In this instance the people seem to have pooled issue with the princes in bringing about the acquittal of the prophet. The appeal was to precedent, a plea almost invariably successful. Hozekiah had acquitted the prophet Micah although he had spoken words very like those of Jeremiah. So the bloody work of the slaughter-house of the prophets was interrupted for the while and the Hebrew Sabbath was free for the day.

CEMETERY IMPROVEMENTS

The improvements which have been in progress of late at the local cemetery have accomplished a great deal towards making the grounds desirable for interment purposes. Additional clearing has been done, walks have been laid out, arrangements for fencing have been made and altogether, the appearance of the cemetery has been very greatly improved.

The most notable instance of improvements upon the part of individual owners of plots is that which is being executed for Mr. D. G. Dick. There has been constructed a sepulchre of solid concrete, the base of which is six feet deep and the dimensions of which are four by eight feet. In the centre is suspended a cylindrical receptacle measuring eight inches in diameter and three feet deep in which will be placed a collection of records and documents. First Mr. Dick has had prepared a set of eight solid brass bars twelve inches long and one inch in diameter. The bars are octagonal, affording eight faces into which has been cut by means of dies the private history of the family from the 17th century, the date of the discovery of America by Columbus the date of the incorporation of the cities of Vancouver and North Vancouver, various items with reference to the names of the great world powers of today, the history of the Masonic order and other items of note. There are in all two thousand letters in these records which are of course, absolutely imperishable.

In addition to these bars Mr. Dick has had made a cylindrical brass case fitted with a heavy cap at each end and with a special brass jacket to be put on between the caps, and also two tubular receptacles of glass. In these receptacles there will be placed photographs, documents, current numbers of local newspapers, including the Express, the Province, World and News-Advertiser, after which they will be securely sealed.

All of these articles will be deposited in the central receptacle in the sepulchre, and to these will be added such other deposits as may be decided upon after which the receptacle will be finally sealed.

This burial chamber will be surmounted by a monument of highly polished Scotch granite, mounted on a base and sub-base and surmounted by a cap, arched at the top and protruding several inches over the edge of the monument for its entire circuit. Upon either side of the cap is carved in the centre a keystone with the inscription "Be Good and Do Good."

POLICE COURT

In the city police court on Thursday morning the case of Davies, remanded from the day before, was tried by His Worship the Mayor and Mr. C. F. Foreman, J.P.

Davies was charged by his wife with cruelty and non-support and two witnesses, Mr. Higginbottom and Mrs. Chadwick, gave evidence on her behalf. A letter was produced dated as far back as 1909 in which Mrs. Davies complained of the same treatment as that which Davies was alleged to be guilty. It was clearly proved that Davies had beaten and kicked his wife that she had been forced to make her own clothes, and to support herself and her two children, aged three and five years, by her own efforts. The same thing had occurred in England, and though Mrs. Davies did not say a great deal against her errant spouse it was evident that there was a deeply pathetic and hopeless story of cruelty and neglect behind her silence.

Partly considering that if he was given a jail sentence, his wife would be in a worse plight than ever, the magistrates allowed Davies to go on a suspended sentence, on condition that every two weeks he reported to the Chief of Police and paid to him exactly one half of his wages, to be handed over to his wife. The magistrates also informed Davies that if he came before them again charged with drinking he would be interdicted.

The magistrates urged upon the couple that if it were possible they should make up their quarrel and live together again. Mrs. Davies informed the court that for her part this could never be. She was allowed to have the custody of the children.

We close Sundays. Phone 324. J. H. English, O. K. Grocery, 13 Lonsdale Avenue.

THE STANDING ALIBI OF H. STANLEIGH STORME

(By Wm. Hamilton Caborne)

(Copyright by Publishers Press Ltd.)

Just after Midnight. CHAPTER I.

It was half past twelve on the twenty-third of May.

The tall young man with the long dark coat, a coat that enveloped him completely, reached the corner at the same instant that the electric lights went out. They went out for the same reason that lights go out on all stormy nights—a reason that few men ever knew, and these few have forgotten.

The man stood there for an instant looking up and down the street.

He may have been waiting for a car. If he was, he was disappointed.

In the distance the faint light of an electric gleamed through the moisture. It was receding, of course, as is the habit of street conveyances.

The young man breathed a sigh.

"A beastly night," he exclaimed all to himself in a pleasant, well-modulated voice.

It didn't seem to worry him. He said it with the same easy nonchalance as though it were the finest of evenings.

"So much the better," he continued in the same happy frame of mind.

Nevertheless he drew his coat the closer about him and turned up the collar. Then, removing his opera hat, he shook the rain from it and replaced it upon his head.

But although the storm continued with unabated force, he did not seek shelter, but still stood upon the corner, glancing repeatedly up and down the cross streets, peering into the darkness to see what he could see, and thrusting his head forward and to one side, to hear what he could hear.

He stood thus for some four or five minutes—a long while to stand and look and listen. And he saw nothing and heard nothing.

Finally he thrust his hand into the depths of his long coat, and from the inside half pulled out a watch.

He did not look at it for two reasons, first because the rain would have ruined it; second, because it was too dark to see it. Instead, he pressed a small spring. It was a repeater, and it struck the hour.

"Quarter to one," he remarked softly to himself: "I'm just in time."

"That's a good watch," he continued, "one of the best, I'll wager, in the old man's stock, and a first-class stock he carries, too—or did, up to night before last."

He laughed noiselessly to himself, and then, with an upward glance at the corner building, he moved over towards it, as though seeking shelter from the storm.

It was a bank—one of the old-fashioned kind, with a high corner stoop covered by the conventional species of portico.

Another man would have ascended this stoop and taken his stand under the portico, which furnished ample protection from the wet. But not so this man.

Instead, with unheard footsteps, he moved half way down the length of the bank on the side street and paused in front of a ground-floor window.

There were six windows on that side. He selected the third one, after examining it with care.

As was the case with all the others, this window was barred with iron bars. They also were old-fashioned, somewhat wide apart, and ran from top to bottom with no supporting plate between.

Having completed his investigation, the man in the long coat straightened up and stood with his back to the window, and once more looked about him.

It was a bad place to stand. The water from the roof poured down in a steady stream upon his head.

He never heeded it, however. After looking and listening for another instant, he merely wrapped a long scarf about his neck and drew his coat still more closely around him, and then again stooped down and—what?

No one knows! Turned up his trousers, perhaps.

If it were that, it took some time, and required considerable care.

Again he straightened up and again stood still. Not entirely, though, for he kept one heel tap-tapping upon the flag beneath.

And as he tapped a rasping, grating sound became perceptible, slight, but still distinct—it came from behind him.

Once more he spoke.

"Great Scott!" he exclaimed, "what a boon these new automobile heel machines have come to be. The man that makes them deserves a place along with the inventor of the typewriter and the sewing machine and the cotton gin. They do the business in no time, and so it will. I'll have to write the fellow a testimonial and have it published—over my signature and under my portrait. I will, too, if ever I—if the worst comes to the worst. I've got the nerve to do it."

But he kept on tapping. Suddenly there was a sharp whirring sound and then a loud snap.

"Number one!" he exclaimed.

Again he stooped and made another adjustment. Having done this, he once more examined the window and the bars.

As he did so a small gleam of light played around the bottom of one of the long bars. It came from a tiny incandescent lamp held in the hollow of his palm.

This new inspection seemed highly satisfactory. Again he resumed his tap-tap-tapping.

After a time there was another whir and another snap.

"Number two," he remarked in a tone of delight.

Then he sprang aside.

"Great Scott!" he continued, "what's that?"

For he had indistinctly heard upon the heavy moist air the steady tramp, tramp of a man around the corner.

The man in the long coat hastily took from his pocket a small piece of putty, filled the flet crevices with it, then with a diminutive paper shaker dusted the edges with fine lead pencil scrapings—this to restore them a metallic appearance.

Then he blew away the iron filings and noiselessly disappeared.

The watchman—for it was he—came around the corner, tried the front door, then flashed his light in turn into and upon each window.

All was well. He stood for a moment, glancing up and down, swore under his breath at the rain and the mud, shook his stick energetically at the motor-man of a trolley car that thundered by—and then passed on.

Two minutes later the man in the long coat was back at his post, and the rasping sound began again. At the end of twenty minutes he breathed a sigh of relief.

"Number four!" he was able finally to announce to himself.

He had cut two bars completely through, both at the top and at the bottom. He removed them quietly and laid them gently down upon the pavement.

The window also was an old-fashioned one, consisting of two sashes with a middle catch. It would have been a simple thing to force the catch, but this man knew better.

Holding his body as a shield against the framework, he flashed his light along each edge and particularly along the middle. He then cut two small holes in the glass, and, inserting an instrument, cut a number of wires that run around the sash.

"Blamed idiots!" he muttered to himself. "These people leave their wires in plain sight. This is a cinch."

Having cut the wires, the rest was easy.

He slipped the catch, raised the lower sash and entered. From the inside he carefully replaced the bars in their former position, wedged them tight with small steel disks, filled the spaces with putty and dusted them as before.

Then he inserted the circular disks of glass where they belonged, and, dipping a brush in a small vial, he applied to the cut edges a thick, oozing, colorless fluid. A bottle of this was long afterwards discovered in his dwelling.

It was found to be Canadian balsam, a fluid which, possessing the same degree of refraction as does glass itself, is capable of uniting two pieces of glass together so that the point of contact is well-nigh indistinguishable.

It is impossible to describe the deftness or skill with which this man worked—and he worked so that there were absolutely no traces of the job he left behind him.

He had just closed the window and fastened it when he was once more startled by a bright light which entered the room.

In an instant he realized that it had not yet lighted upon himself, and he threw himself face down upon the floor next to the wall. There he waited, without a sound, scarcely even breathing, until he heard the steady tramp, tramp of footsteps receding in the distance.

It was a policeman who had flashed his light upon the window. And the policeman saw nothing—nothing except the regulation iron bars and a window pane with heavy drops of rain trickling and oozing down it.

The man in the long coat jumped in no time, and so it will. I'll have

"That was a narrow escape," he said to himself, "almost too narrow." But he was in the bank at last.

CHAPTER II.

Two A. M.

"Now for the vault," said the man in the long coat.

Once more he struck his repeater. It was exactly 2. The policeman, who was not regular, had just gone.

But it was time for the watchman again. He was compelled to wait a bit—for the outer door of the vault was illuminated by the rays of the electric lamp, and was visible from the small hole in the outer door of the bank.

After the tramp, tramp had died away, he stepped boldly into the full glare of this lamp, but whatever he did, he kept his back toward the outer door of the bank.

The light shone strongly upon him. He was no longer a man in a long coat and an opera hat. He had doffed both of them.

For the first time his figure and his features were distinctly visible.

He was young, tall, broad shouldered. His face was handsome, but a bit too florid, perhaps. He wore a conventional, but very becoming, Van Dyke beard.

His appearance was, upon the whole, distinguished. He bore the stamp of the coin that would pass current anywhere.

His apparel was faultless—he wore evening dress of the most approved cut and pattern; he was immaculate from head to foot.

He lit a cigarette and went to work. He wasted no time—he had none to spare.

He knelt down and grasped the handle of the combination lock. This, in keeping with every other thing about the bank, was also of a by-gone age. It was one that worked upon the letters of the alphabet.

Slowly turning the handle of this lock, the man placed his ear to the safe just outside the circle of letters and listened to the clink, clink of the pieces of metal falling into place.

To him their slight metallic clatter constituted just so much intelligent conversation. He talked to them soothingly and seemed to coax them into place.

"H' it is, then," he mused to himself, as he heard the first piece fall unmistakably into its proper place.

"S-T-A—a blame long-winded combination they've got, too," he complained.

Then he started to his feet.

"What's this?" he exclaimed.

But he kept turning on and on.

Suddenly, with firm grasp, he turned back the knob with a sharp click, then stepped to one side and swung open the door.

"Well, I'll be hanged!" he exclaimed. The nerve of these people!

He smiled, shut the door again, twirled the knob to throw it off once more, and then rapidly turning and returning it to letter after letter without the slightest hesitation or difficulty, clicked it back once again, and a second time swung the big door open.

"By George, I was right! The nerve of them!"

For the letters to which he had turned, and which constituted the bank's combination for the safe, were the following sixteen letters of the alphabet:

H STANLEIGH STORME

"And this," he continued, with a genteel bow to the contents of the safe, "is what it is to be the best known man about town."

"Well," he finally admitted to himself. "It's their business, I suppose. They have the right to use a depositor's name or any other name as they please, though the one they've selected is a deuced long one. Not a bad idea, though."

"By the way," he went on, pulling down a book marked 'Ledger,' "while we're about it we'll figure up H. Stanleigh's balance in this bank—I'd forgotten almost that there was one here."

It was a few hundred dollars only. He replaced the book.

"Now for business," he resumed.

He forced every door and every drawer in the vault. In but one did he find what he was after.

This contained six bulky packages of bills. He laid them on the floor outside the vault, and then once more hastily inspected the interior.

There was nothing else worth while. Then he laughed a low, musical laugh.

"This is great business," he remarked, "for H. Stanleigh Storme. A depositor, by the mere use of his own name, which he happens to know how to spell, walks into his banker's vault and robs his banker—and himself."

"Sell!" he added, "I'll not lose even the few hundred, for the bank can stand this loss, and if they don't pay me my account, I'll—by George, I'll sue them! I'm just the man to do it, too. Great Scott!" he exclaimed.

NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C. AUGUST 4 1911

DOMINION ELECTIONS

When the Dominion House of Commons re-assembled in July, it was fully expected by the country at large that the then parliament would not survive the session, but notwithstanding this fact the suddenness with which dissolution was reached came as a surprise to all those who were closely following events, and who considered themselves in position to gauge the probabilities with a fair degree of accuracy.

The statements of the members of the opposition during the recess were positive and unambiguous, to the effect that they were determined that the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States should be pronounced upon by the Canadian people at the polls. During the few sessions through which the House survived, the government forces employed the customary methods of thoroughly testing the temper of the opposition with the result that there was not any sign of a weakening of their determination or of any break in the ranks.

It was hoped in many quarters that the government might find it feasible to accept, in some form, one of the propositions offered by the opposition in order to bring in a redistribution bill before laying the reciprocity issue before the people. At any rate it was generally expected that some proposition with respect to supply would be made and accepted, before the House was dissolved. The prophets, however, were all astray and the effect was somewhat like the proverbial "bolt from the blue" when the announcement was made, during the absence of many members, who, according to the invariable custom had taken a run home for the week end, that the House had been dissolved.

While the general record of the government will doubtless figure to a greater or lesser extent in the approaching campaign, yet the elections will be fought in the main upon the reciprocity issue and it is safe to say that the results will be controlled by that issue.

This appeal to the people will rank as one of the most notable that has been recorded in Canadian history to date for several reasons, first because of the circumstances under which it was precipitated in the middle of the usual parliamentary term; secondly, because of the importance of the question which has caused the appeal and third because of the fact that the lines upon which the electorate will divide are so laid as to break down the old party lines to a great extent.

While in the main it may be said that the Conservative party is opposed to the reciprocity agreement and that the Liberal party is in favor of the pact, yet the special grounds upon which the proposed agreement may appear desirable or undesirable to the individual voter are of such a nature that many followers of both parties will break away from those affiliations for the time being at any rate in casting their ballot on September 21st. This feature of the situation will be found particularly gratifying by those who are of opinion that while there are no undoubted benefits in a system of party government, yet that the safest, wisest and best type of citizenship is that of the elector who is a Canadian first and a party supporter afterward.

As a matter of course, the party booster, whatever his political complexion, will be found stoutly protesting the certain victory of his side at the polls, but the citizen who wishes to stand clear of bias and to intelligently gauge the probabilities, will be found much more reticent in attempting to prognosticate the results. As for British Columbia, while it would not be difficult, basing conclusions on the relative standing of the parties as at present constituted, to attempt an opinion as to the outcome of the elections, yet accuracy, in some instances will be assisted by awaiting the announcement of the names of the respective candidates which will be forthcoming within two weeks or less.

HOME SONG.

By Duncan Campbell Scott.

[Duncan Campbell Scott has been Chief Accountant and Superintendent of Indian Education in the Indian Department at Ottawa since 1893. He was born in 1882, and married Miss Belle W. Botford, the prominent American violinist. He was one of the editors of "Makers of Canada," and has issued three volumes of verse, "The Magic House," "Labor and the Angel," and "New World Lyrics and Ballads," and a novel, "In the Village of Viger."] There is rain upon the window,
There is wind upon the tree;
The rain is slowly sobbing,
The wind is blowing free:
It bears my weary heart
To my own country.

I hear the whitethroat calling,
Hid in the hazel ring;
Deep in the misty hollows
I hear the sparrows sing;
I see the bloodroot starting,
All silvered with the spring.

I skirt the buried reed-beds,
In the starry solitude:
My snowshoes creak and whisper,
I have my ready blood.
I hear the lynx-cub yelling
In the gaunt and shaggy wood.

I hear the wolf-tongued rapid
Howl in the rocky break;
Beyond the pines at the portage
I hear the trapper wail
His "En roulant ma boule,"
From the clear gloom of the lake.

O, take me back to the homestead,
To the great rooms warm and low,
Where the frost creeps on the easement.

When the year comes in with snow,
Give me, give me the old folk
Of the dear long ago.

Oh, land of the dusky balsam,
And the darling maple tree,
Where the cedar buds and berries,
And the pine grows strong and free
My heart is weary and weary
For my own country.

HUMAN OR ANIMAL.
 Was it murder, suicide or misadventure?
 Excitement ran high on Sunday on the banks of the Capilano, when Mr. Illingworth, who was accompanied by his wife and children fished from the water the larger portion of a human leg.
 At least that was what Mr. Illingworth diagnosed the fragment of flesh and bone to be.
 And so did a party of about seven other people who were present at the time of the discovery.
 Mr. Illingworth gingerly laid his gruesome find on the bank and then reported the matter to the city police who in their turn communicated with the district sleuths.
 In an interview with the "Express" Mr. Illingworth described at length the appearance of the errant member. He said that it appeared to have been cut off just above the knee, and that from there downwards to the toes it was in good shape, except that the aforesaid toes were missing. Flesh there was in plenty at either extremity, though the shin portion was bare, and such flesh as there was looked white, as though from the action of the water. The muscles and tendons which in life would have wiggled the toes, had there been any, were plainly discernible. Mr. Illingworth saw them.
 Grave suspicions grew momentarily graver, and the minds of many were convinced that foul murder had been done, or that at least a suicide had shuffled off this mortal coil.
 The coroner was notified. He stated however, that it was ultra vires for a coroner to hold an inquest upon a portion only of a human body, and that it was not part of his duties to investigate.
 Then further information was given to the Express and anticipation grew intense.
 It was stated by a party who met the Illingworth party, to the latter, that the former had held a picnic in the same vicinity some two weeks before, and they called to mind the fact that they had at the time observed a man's straw hat floating on the water. Further they whispered that the awful stench in the neighborhood had driven them from their al fresco dining room. Moreover they were quite sure that the water had not tasted at all nice.
 Finally to such a pitch had excitement grown, that Constable Lilton of the municipal police sent a messenger to investigate.
 He discovered a rather exalted shin of beef!
 And is keeping it for Mr. Illingworth!
 As an object lesson in anatomy!

FLUNKYS TO A BARREL OF OYSTERS
 One of the characters in Richard Whiteing's book "No. 5 John Street" says, "Do you know what you ought to be? You ought to be flunky to a barrel of oysters. Do you know what that is? I'll tell yer. I knowed a rich man once as made a god of his stummick, like they all do. He used to employ a feller to amuse his oysters on their way up to town, so as to keep 'em in good spirits. He fancied they lost flavor when they was dull. The chap had to whistle tunes to 'em all the way from Whitstable."
 If we continue to tolerate fortune tellers and palmists, we are acting like flunkys to a barrel of oysters.
 How? In this way. We are flunkys to the rapid rich, I was almost saying "rabid" rich. They do not know what to do with their money. They encourage palmists and such like parasites who prey upon the credulous. It would not matter so much, perhaps if the evil ended there, but it is not so. It is of far deeper and more serious import. There are many young women who give their dollars to these pick pockets. They are pick pockets.
 If a person takes a dollar from your pocket he is punished, and a person is not less dishonest if he obtains the money by trick. Is there a law against palmistry and fortune telling? Yes! and the punishment is imprisonment. Are the police willing to act? Yes! I think so, if the police commissioners will permit them.

Meeting of the Joint Civic Advertising Committee

At a meeting of the Joint Civic Advertising Committee which was held Tuesday afternoon the following report of the manager was read:

Employment was found during the month of July for seventy people who were out of work. Employers are making much more use of the office and not a day passes but there are enquiries for help of some kind. The manager has also been kept busy answering enquiries concerning the city and the district. These have come from all parts of the world and there are besides a number of letters from all parts of the world seeking general information.

A suggestion made by a citizen that there should be an electric sign maintained at the corner of Columbia and Hastings streets was not considered favorably by the committee.

A booklet prepared by the manager and containing full information concerning the city and the vicinity plentifully illustrated with photographs, was left in the hands of the committee to make a report thereon.

It is quite manifest that the office and information bureau is receiving a large measure of support and that it is of the greatest benefit to the community. It is surely deserving of the support of every employer in the district.

LYNN VALLEY NEWS

The Union Sunday School picnic in Lynn Valley yesterday (Thursday) afternoon was one huge success, the kiddies, small and big, enjoying themselves to the full. Under the able superintendency of Mr. Wm. Knowles, the afternoon passed off even more successfully than usual. The round of races and games attendant on Sunday school treats was gone over, the children making the welkin ring with their shouts of delight as their favorites reached the winning post first and the remaining portion of the day was enlivened by the use of the prizes so cherished by the victors. Many parents were on the grounds—Bear Meadow, Centre Road—and the weather clerk remembered with a kind heart what the S. S. picnic is to the scholars and gave them ideal weather conditions.

CONVENTION OF SHERIFFS

Chief of Police Davies was among those who attended the convention of the Washington State Sheriffs Association held in the city hall, Vancouver, yesterday. The convention will not break up till Saturday. The central figure at the meeting is Sheriff "Bob" Hodge of King county, to whose ambitions there seems to be no bounds. Bob is now out for gubernatorial honors. He is a man around whom there has raged many a fierce fight since he first became sheriff of King county. He is supported very strongly and efficiently by the ladies of Seattle for the stand he took in the matter of the jail matrons.

Chief Davies attends the convention again today.

The prize list of the Horticultural Society for its autumn show will be out tomorrow and may be obtained from the secretary, Harold Snow, or the president, W. J. Keene. It shows an additional section this year, viz., poultry, this section containing about 90 classes. In all there are 113 classes more than last year.

ERECT NEW BUNKERS

As will be seen from the list of building permits the North Vancouver Coal & Supply Co. is about to erect costly new bunkers in close proximity to the company's wharf at the foot of St. George's Ave. The new bunkers will cost between seven and eight hundred dollars and will be built by the company without outside contracts. As was reported in the last issue of this paper the bunkers will be filled from the scows by a new electric hoist which the firm is now installing. Thus the whole plant will be one of the most modernly equipped on the Inlet, every facility being found there for handling material with the greatest dispatch and the minimum of labor.

AVIATORS CAN SEE SUBMARINES BELOW

Cherbourg, Aug. 3.—Another record was made here by M. Aubrun, the aviator, today, when he located submerged submarine boats from an aeroplane. M. Aubrun made two flights outside the harbor and in the first flight at a height of 300 feet within a few minutes located two boats that were a mile and a half apart.

In the second flight he flew to an altitude of 1200 feet, when he was able to locate the boats submerged to a depth of 18 feet going at full speed. He also demonstrated the possibilities of locating a submarine from a height of 3000 feet while men aboard the submarine were unable to see the aeroplane higher than 1800 feet.
