RAILWAY COMPANIES RACE FOR NORTH SHORE RIGHT-OF-WAY

FOUR COMPANIES IN CLOSE COMPETITION--RAPID DEVELOPMENTS ANTICIPATED

PRIZE WILL FALL TO COMPANY WHICH FIRST BUILDS LINE

In the light of recent developments relative to the incoming of railways to the North Shore, the fact stands revealed that a closely contested race is in progress between four railway companies for possession of the railway right of way along the local waterfront. Although the knowledge has all along been public property that several railway companies were contemplating building a line along the North Shore, the fact appears to have escaped particular notice that the situation was such as to inevitably develop a condition of rivalry between those lines for actual possession of the right of way. Recent occurrences, however, have brought out with emphasis the fact that although there are at least four companies which are in the field for the construction of railway lines along the North Shore their route maps show that the right of way follows practically identical lines in each instance. The further fact is revealed that this identity of route is not a mere coincidence but is due to the circumstance that partly because of the contour of the ground and partly because of the requirements of the case from a railroad standpoint, there is really only one feasible route from Deep Cove to Horseshoe Bay.

The nature of the situation is such that each of the four railway companies has a good chance to gain the coveted prize. The V. W. & Y. Railway Company has an approved route along the North Shore and could proceed to expropriate that right of way and to build at any moment if financially able to build its lines. The Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company by virtue of the decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners on Saturday last, has full power to construct at once a railway line from Second Narrows bridge to Deep Cove and further has the assurance that if the V. W. & Y. does not begin to build within a year then the right to use the V. W. & Y. right of way from Second Narrows Bridge to Horseshoe Bay will be given them. The C. P. R. has a route map before the Minister of Railways which may be approved any day, and inasmuch as that railway operates under special charter conditions, it would be in position to take possession of a right-of-way at once and proceed to build. The Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company have a location map approved along the greater portion of the same route, and inasmuch as that company is operating under a provincial charter they are in position to proceed to take possession of the right-of-way irrespective of any rights that may be possessed by the other roads.

Here is a single chosen railway route, then, for which there are four competitors, each one of whom has a fair chance of landing the prize. The railway company which first disposes of the preliminaries, including the providing of the necessary cash for the purchase of the property, and approaches property owners for the purpose of negotiating the purchase of their property for railway purposes, will be the company that will find itself in actual possession of rights and privileges which will confer upon it distinct advantages over other railroad companies which may seek to do business upon the North Shore.

Without doubt, the most desirable solution of this problem, from the viewpoint of North Shore interests, would be that this right-of-way fall to the lot of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company, inasmuch as in that case the public would be assured that the business of all railway companies would be handled by them as a public utilities system, upon precisely the same terms, thus offering ideal conditions under which all transcontinental lines could bid for a portion of North Shore transportation traffic. The fact, however, that the approval of the location plan of the railway lines of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company has been adjourned for one year appears to increase the improbability of this scheme being consummated.

Whatever the ultimate outcome may be, the situation as it has developed is such as to give the most positive assurance that rapid development may be expected, for the reason that the competing companies will now vie with each other in the endeavor of each of them to be the first to construct its lines and thus to secure possession of that right of way which they all so manifestly desire to own.

BRIDGE SITE GRANTED AND PLANS APPROVED BY RAILWAY COMMISSION

BURRARD INLET TUNNEL AND BRIDGE COMPANY SECURES SITE DESIRED

BRIDGE PLANS WITH 200-FOOT SPAN APPROVED

CONSTRUCTION WITHIN 30 DAYS AFTER DEPARTMENT APPROVES DETAILED PLANS

APPROVAL OF LOCATION PLAN OF RAILWAY LINES ADJOURNED ONE YEAR

The Board of Railway Commissioners, at their session in Vancouver on Saturday afternoon, handed down four decisions relative to applications made by Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company, each of which was distinctively favorable to that company and the combined effect of which is to remove those obstacles which for some time past have been preventing the construction of the bridge. The rulings were as follows:—

1. Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company to have possession of the bridge site approved by the Department at Ottawa for the V. W. & Y. bridge at Second Narrows.

2. Plans of the bridge as submitted by Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company approved, including among other features a span of two hundred feet.

3. Application of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company for approval of location plan for their railway lines arranged as follows: (a)—That section from the northern terminus of the bridge to Deep Cove, approved; (b)—Application adjourned for one year as for that section from the northern terminus of the bridge to Horseshoe Bay, the V. W. & Y. Railway Company meanwhile to show some signs of life and diligence as to the construction of its line.

4. Change of location of approaches to southern end of the bridge, to give a better crossing over the C. P. R. lines, approved.

The applications were made on behalf of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company by Mr. W. E. Burns, of the legal firm of Burns & Walkem, Vancouver, and the interests of the V. W. & Y. Railway Company were looked after by Mr. C. W. Craig, of Martin Craig, Bourne & McDonald. Mr. W. A. MacDonald, K. C., was associated with Mr. Burns for the company. The city of Vancouver and the B. C. Electric Railway Company each was represented by its solicitor.

Mr. Craig assailed the application for approval of the railway lines of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company on the grounds that the route shown on the plans followed almost precisely the route already approved by the department for the V. W. & Y Railway Company. He stated that under agreement made by his company in May last with Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company the latter was to have possession of the bridge site owned by the former, the latter company was to build the bridge and take over the Dominion subsidy of $200,000 held by the former company, in consideration of which the V. W. & Y. Railway Company was to build and pay for the approaches to the bridge, receiving shares in Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company to the amount of the cost of the approaches. The very object of his company in agreeing to this arrangement was that they might procure a bridge for the use of their railway lines. It was never contemplated that the Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company would make use of that agreement to secure the privilege of blanketing the lines of the V. W. & Y. Mr. Craig charged breach of faith in the present proceedings.

Asked whether it was not understood that Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company was a railway as well as a bridge company, Mr. Craig contended that it was not contemplated by the agreement that they were a railway company at all, whereupon Mr. Burns referred to the fact that the charter under which Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company is incorporated gives them full powers to construct railway lines for certain distances on the North and South shores of Burrard Inlet. Mr. Burns further read a clause from the agreement between the two companies making specific reference to the relationship between the railway lines of the two companies on the North Shore.

Asked to what points the V. W. & Y. contemplated building a railroad, Mr. Craig replied that their charter read to Dawson, but they intended building at any rate to Fort George.

Mr. W. A. MacDonald pointed out that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company had recently been incorporated under provincial charter to build a line of railway from North Vancouver to Fort George and that Company was already on the ground ready to begin operations. In his opinion the V. W. & Y. would not parallel the lines of the P. G. E. Railway Company to Fort George.

Commissioner Goodeve asked Mr. Burns what consideration he thought the V. W. & Y. Railway Company was getting for its $200,000 subsidy. Mr. Burns replied that they were getting shares in Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company. Mr. Goodeve asked why Mr. Burns thought the V. W. & Y. were willing to content themselves with that, to which Mr. Burns replied that he did not know unless the V. W. & Y. knew they were down and out and were willing to make the best bargain they could for what they still had.

Chairman D'Arcy Scott of the Board of Railway Commissioners did not see how the board could very well approve of the location plan of the Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company over exactly the same route as that already

RICE LAKE DISPUTE ENDS IN DEFEAT OF MOTION TO CALL FOR TENDERS

"TWO OR THREE SORE FOREMEN THE SOURCE OF THE TROUBLE" SAYS ALD. DICK

TUNNEL NOW BEING DRIVEN AT COST PER FOOT LESS THAN ENGINEER'S ESTIMATE

The controversy surrounding the tunneling operations now in progress at Rice Lake was reopened at last night's meeting of the city council, Alderman Foreman asking for the submission of the motion introduced by him and seconded by Alderman McRae at the previous session of the council. This motion was worded as follows: "That we call for tenders for the Rice Lake tunnel and that the city engineer be instructed to prepare the necessary papers."

The mayor thought that before the motion was put to the council there were one or two points that ought to be settled, one being whether or not the tenderers should have the use of the city's machinery.

Alderman Foreman: "I see no reason why not. I may say in support of my motion that since visiting the works in question I am more than ever convinced that we should call for tenders. Since this controversy arose I have had quite a number of people to see me about it. One of the men who has worked on this very tunnel tells me that the work can be done very much cheaper. He tells me he would do it for $22 a foot. It seems to me under these conditions that we should call for tenders. I myself would not be satisfied unless this was done as a means of ascertaining whether the work could or could not be done cheaper. When you consider the amount of money that has been spent so far upon that tunnel and the amount that is provided for the completion of the work, it appears almost impossible to get anywhere near through the tunnel. We asked the city engineer to bring in a report, and from his statement we find that it works out to a great deal more that the engineer's estimate. That estimate was $26 a foot, and the work is being done, according to the report, at $46.97 a foot. I wish it understood that I am speaking only on the engineer's report. I am not taking anything into consideration upon which we have not got a report. The report I am speaking upon was brought in two weeks ago. It is almost impossible to go on with the work under present conditions. The tunnel is to be 1280 feet long and there is then some open work. At the present rate of working we have $20,000 upon which to do the balance of the work. You have got to do that work at less than $20 a foot to get this tunnel through according to the engineer's estimate. The gentleman that spoke to me about this and who worked upon the tunnel for thirty days, and who should know what he is talking about, says that the work can be done at $22 a foot with the use of the city machinery, or at $26 a foot if the machinery is taken away. It will only be fair to ourselves and to the ratepayers to call for tenders and prove this. I have here this evening a tender. Some party who read about this in the paper went up to the works and investigated the conditions. This man has done the tunneling for Foley, Welch & Stewart, and he told me he could do the work at $21.50 with the use of the city's machinery. I asked him for this statement in black and white. If you wish to take the machinery away he can do the work for $25.50 per foot. At present they are making progress to the extent of five feet a day with three shifts. This man says that he will make 10 feet a day on the same shifts. I am not saying that the men now engaged upon this work are not doing the very best they can. I think that if you let the tunnel work by tender there is still plenty of other work to look after at Rice Lake. I don't wish to hurt the feelings of anyone. I am simply looking after the interests of the ratepayers."

Alderman Dick: "If there was one indication of any kind in Alderman Foreman's remarks that he was simply wishful to look after the interests of the ratepayers I wish someone would point it out to me. He states that there is plenty of other work to be looked after at Rice Lake when he knows perfectly well that that work cannot possibly be attended to until the tunnel is completed. He has given utterance to a bunch of contradictions and irresponsible statements."

Alderman Foreman rose and em

PEDESTRIAN SUBWAY ORDERED

RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS GIVE ORDER FOR IMMEDIATE CONSTRUCTION

COST TO BE BORNE EQUALLY BY TWO CITIES

The Board of Railway Commissioners handed down yet another decision at Vancouver for which the entire North Shore will be grateful, in ordering the immediate construction of a passenger subway beneath the C. P. R. tracks at Vancouver in order to give safe and ready access to and from the ferry landing. Under the order of the Board the city of Vancouver will prepare the plans and will construct a subway twenty five feet in width under the C.P.R. tracks. The cost of the subway will be borne equally for the time being by the city of Vancouver and the city of North Vancouver, but this distribution of cost will be subject to re-adjustment at a later date when the remainder of the large subway scheme, of which the above is a portion is carried to completion, it being understood that the funds of the Board will contribute $5,000 to the cost of the larger scheme while the railway companies may likewise be called upon to bear a share.

P.G.E. Would Purchase Howe Sound & Northern

NEGOTIATIONS OPENED YESTERDAY

PROSPECT BRIGHT FOR REACHING BASIS OF TRANSFER

In pursuance to the wish of Premier Sir Richard McBride, from the floor of the House at Victoria, during the debate of last session upon the railway bill of the government, to the effect that it was his wish that in constructing their line from North Vancouver to Fort George via Howe Sound, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company should endeavor to arrive at some arrangement with the Howe Sound and Northern Railway Company for the purchase of the business and assets of the latter by the former, Mr. D'Arcy Tate, Chief Counsel of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company, yesterday opened negotiations with the representatives of the Howe Sound and Northern for the purchase of their assets and business. The Howe Sound and Northern was represented at the conference by Messrs. J. C. Keith, B. McEvoy and J. C. Gill.

The results of the first meeting are declared to have proven satisfactory in every way. The parties discussed matters along the line of a practical basis of adjustment and the prospects are most encouraging for a successful issue. It was decided to defer further negotiations until the return of Mr. Stewart, president of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company from Europe in about three weeks, when it is expected that an inspection of the road will be made and details of the arrangements will be discussed.

The congregation of St. Edmund's church held a picnic on the Indian Mission grounds last Sunday which proved a great success and was attended by a large number who thoroughly enjoyed their day's outing.

FERRY SUBWAY AND SECOND NARROWS BRIDGE PROJECTS

ALD. IRWIN REPORTS TO CITY COUNCIL LAST EVENING

Ald. Irwin last night reported, at the mayor's request, upon the official visit of the city's representatives to Victoria in connection with the location plans of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company.

"The objection was raised previously at a special session of the council," said Ald. Irwin, "and sustained by the engineer, that the street grades would be seriously affected by location plans as at first proposed. Prior to attending the hearing in Victoria we interviewed the chief engineer and the first vice-president of the Pacific Great Eastern. They agreed to the alterations that we asked, so that when the official hearing took place your committee had no objection to raise. Reeve May, Coun. Bridgman and Coun. Loutet also approved so far as their council was concerned the location plans as affecting the district. There was some little difference of opinion in relation to a right-of-way in a portion of West Vancouver, but we hope that matter will soon be finally disposed of. So far as this city is concerned there is now no obstacle whatever."

Answering Ald. Foreman, Ald. Irwin admitted that the proposed right-of-way of the Pacific Great Eastern through this city was only 60 feet. This however, had been altered to 100 feet which will be a right-of-way for other railroads.

In relation to the Second Narrows bridge project, Ald. Irwin stated that a cable had already been forwarded to the engineers in the old country ordering the completion of the preparation of the bridge plans. On the approval of these plans the Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company will then have thirty days within which to commence construction and two years within which to complete the work. The 200 foot span had been formally approved.

A special meeting of the executive of the Board of Trade will be held at 8 o'clock on Wednesday night.

BRIDGE MATTERS MOVING

COMPLETION OF DETAILED PLANS WILL SOON BE ORDERED

STEPS ALREADY TAKEN TO THAT END

No time is being lost by Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company in availing itself of the advantage conferred by the recent decisions of the Board of Railway Commissioners relative to the plans of Second Narrows bridge.

Following the order of the Board of Railway Commissioners approving a two hundred foot span for Second Narrows bridge, Messrs. Cleveland and Cameron, resident engineers for the company, immediately cabled the firm of John Wolfe-Barry and partners of London, England, consulting engineers for the company, advising them of the action of the Board. The Ottawa solicitors and parliamentary representatives of the Company have likewise been informed by wire of the order of the Board and they will immediately advise Burrard Inlet Tunnel & Bridge Company as to the effect which the approval of a two hundred foot span by the Board of Railway Commissioners will have upon the attitude of the department of Marine and Fisheries and the Department of Public Works. It is, therefore, expected that within a few days the way will be clear for ordering the completion of the detailed plans of the bridge by the London engineers.

Pacific Great Eastern Construction Inaugurated

ARRANGEMENTS IN PROGRESS FOR CEREMONY OF TURNING THE FIRST SOD

LABOR DAY PRACTICALLY DECIDED UPON

EVENT WILL ATTRACT WIDE ATTENTION IN RAILWAY AND OTHER CIRCLES.

While in Victoria in connection with the hearing of the application of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company for the approval of their route map along the North Shore, Mayor McNeish conferred with Mr. D'Arcy Tate, Chief Counsel of the Railway Company with reference to the date and other details connected with the holding of the ceremony of turning the first sod on the construction of the lines of the Pacific Great Eastern. It was practically decided that this auspicious event shall transpire on Labor Day which falls upon the first Monday in September. The exact location for the turning of the sod has not yet been chosen, but it is certain that this, together wih all other details will be worked out in a way to promote to the utmost the success of the occasion, and to render it such as to attract practically world wide attention in railway, commercial, financial and other circles.

A young boy named J. Eaton found a gold watch on Esplanade and Lonsdale avenue which he brought to the police station. Later Mr. J. Parkinson of 1416 Nelson street, Vancouver, called and claimed the watch as his property and presented the boy Eaton with $5 reward for his honesty.

THE SAINT AND THE SINNER

By D. W. HIGGINS

Why did everyone refer to him as "Old Jackson"? All the other boys on Yale flat were known as "Bill," "Jack," or "Sam," or "Pete." Surnames were seldom used or needed. Christian names abbreviated answered all purposes for identification, reference or receipt. If there were half a dozen fellows in the camp with the same prefix, then some striking characteristic of manner, gait or speech was tacked on to designate which man was meant. But this man Jackson was never called anything except "Old Jackson." If he had a baptismal name I never knew it—at least, not until I saw him sign his full cognomen under peculiar and painful circumstances. He was not old either—scarcely thirty—but he had a grave, quiet, absorbed way with him. He had come through with his own train of fifty or sixty pack animals from California. He had driven them across the then trackless Bad Lands of Montana and the sage bush of Washington Territory, had watered them at the Columbia river side by side with the wild buffalo; had penetrated the savage Spokane region, where, a year before, an American general with his command had been ambushed and slain by the hostile tribes who roamed the alkali prairies on the borders of Washington and which extend into our own province. Jackson owned the train and, as the world went then, was regarded as rich. He brought with him a number of packers and armed men who were desirous of trying their luck at the Fraser river mines, then lately discovered. On the way across the party had encounters with the natives. They lost two men and two were wounded. The dead men were buried in shallow graves, after a rude burial service had been read over them. The wounded Old Jackson insisted on bringing along. He cast away the freight that two of the mules bore on their backs, substituting for the packs stretchers on which the poor fellows reclined. The average day's journey of a pack train is fifteen miles. To relieve the wounded Old Jackson reduced the day's journey of his train to ten miles and pitched camp each day early in the afternoon. Other pack trains from Oregon overtook and passed Jackson's. His assistants grumbled. They were anxious to test the new diggings and argued that unless greater speed was put on all the rich claims would be taken up and the whole country would be under ice and snow before they should reach the Fraser. But Jackson was firm. He would not make haste while the wounded men were incapable of helping themselves. To abandon them would be to ensure their speedy death at the hands of the savages, who, thirsting for human gore and scalps, hung like wolves on the flanks of the train. Some of his force deserted and joined other trains; but Old Jackson crawled along at the ten mile gait, and it was not until late in September that he reached the Fraser and found that the packers ahead of him had disposed of their flour, beans, and bacon to the miners and traders and that the market was glutted with supplies of all kinds. He did not complain, but stored his goods at Lytton and Yale and sent his animals out to grass on the Thompson. A few of them died, but the humanity of Old Jackson saved most of his train, and the wounded men as well. When the packers who had passed him on the plains reached their journey's end their animals were so run down that they were unable to withstand the rigors of an interior winter, and hundreds died from exposure. Alvarez, a rich Mexican, brought to the country 125 loaded mules. He stored the goods at Yale, and then proceeded toward Hope, sixteen miles lower down Fraser river, where he proposed to winter the train. He swam the animals through the ice-cold current and built huge fires on the bank, where the mules as they emerged from the water were rubbed down. All but three of these valuable animals, chilled through and through, died in a few hours. Jackson's animals passed through the winter in good shape, and the men who had condemned his slowness now applauded his judgment and humanity. He placed the train on the trail between Yale and the Upper Fraser and made heaps of money during the following two years.

Old Jackson was a very peculiar man. He was better educated than most of the men of his vocation, and his was a silent, unobtrusive personality. Often he would sit for hours in a group around a bar-room stove when his mind seemed far away and he never uttered a word or joined in the conversation until he was appealed to, when having replied in monosyllables he quickly relapsed into silence. He drank little, swore not even at a refractory mule, and gambled not at all, but he read a great deal. I do not know where or how I got the impression into my head, but I always looked upon Old Jackson as a man who, like most silent men, although slow to anger, would be a dangerous character if once aroused. This idea was confirmed on a dismal winter evening, when a number of persons, to escape the pitiless pelting of a storm, had congregated for warmth about a huge red-hot sheet-iron stove in Barry's saloon. Among the company on that evening was an elderly American who was known to his companions as "Judge" Reynolds. It was given out that at one time in his life he had been a man of some influence, that he had worn the ermine and dispensed justice, and that, which was still better, in his earlier days he was an honest lawyer. On this particular evening the "Judge," who was much the worse for liquor and was in a loquacious mood, was relating to the assembled miners an incident in his California career. To illustrate his story the old man rose to his feet and swung his long arms about after the manner of a political demagogue, while the "boys" who sat around listened with wide-open faces to the stream of turgid eloquence that issued from his mouth. The "Judge" had reached one of his flights of half drunken oratory when the front door of the saloon was thrown violently open and a blast of piercing wind tore into and through the room. The company turned towards the door and saw standing there the figure of a man of medium height. His garments were covered with snow; a Mexican sombrero was drawn over his eyes and his whole appearance was that of one who had travelled a long distance through the pelting of that awful tempest.

As he stamped on the floor to relieve his boots of the weight of snow that had gathered upon them he threw a keen glance around. Then he removed the slouch hat which half concealed his features. One look into that face was enough for me. It was a face on every line of which was stamped the mark of sin and ruffianism. The man who sat next to me shuddered as he whispered: "It's Tom O'Neil!"

The name was one that had inspired terror in many hearts in California and Texas, and the appearance at Yale of the man who answered to it was regarded as an evil omen. I had never seen the man before, and I felt that I would not die of grief if I should not see him again. While this thought was running through my mind the desperado, still holding his hat in his hand, advanced toward the stove. Room was made for him as he came forward, and he soon had a choice of half a dozen chairs. Having selected one he threw back his overcoat, and after another glance around the group, remarked:

"I walked up from Hope today. It's sixteen mile, I hear, but seems to me as it was a hundred." He paused for a moment as he held his open hands towards the stove to warm them, and then continued: "What did I come for? A picnic? Not much. I come for a man."

A shudder ran through the group.

O'Neil, who didn't seem to notice the agitation his words had caused, went on as if talking to himself:

"Yes, I'm after a man—leastwise, he's what some people calls a man. He threw dirt on me in Californy, and and I've followed the varmint here to make him scrape it off. His name is—let me see, what's his name? Oh! yes, his name's one Reynolds—Judge Reynolds he calls hisself, I reckon—a tall, big man what has a red nose and is much given to chin music. Perhaps none of you fellows don't know the man when you see him?"

I stole a glance at Reynolds. He had ceased to talk and had fallen back in his seat when O'Neil appeared at the door. As I looked I saw him cowering in his chair with his hands before his face, apparently trying to reduce his figure into as small a compass as possible.

"Yes," said O'Neil, "he's my meat when I finds him. Do you uns know what he did to me? He sentenced me to the chain gang in Stockton for six months. Wot had I done? I only put a bullet into a man's leg as had refused to drink with me. He couldn't a treated me much wuss if I'd killed the man. I hear he's here. Does any one know a man hereabouts which his name's 'Jedge' Reynolds?"

No one answered.

O'Neil keenly scanned the group again, and his eye swept along until it fell upon the quivering form of the old man.

"Wot do you call that object? Give it a name!" he snarled, pointing to Reynolds. "Seems like he's got the fever an' ager."

Still no answer.

"Then I'll take a look for myself," and rising from his seat the ruffian drew the old man's hat from his head and cast it on the floor.

I looked at Reynolds. His face was the color of pine wood ashes, and he trembled like a leaf as he raised his hands imploringly.

With a cry like that of a wild beast at the sight of its prey O'Neil sprang forward and clutched Reynolds by the throat with one hand while with the other he drew a Colt's six-shooter from its sheath, cocked it and pointed it full at the other's head.

"My God!" cried Reynolds, pleadingly; "Tom—oh, Tom, you would not murder me. Say you would not, Tom. Oh! Say it's all a joke, dear, good Tom. Say you don't mean it—that's a good boy. I'm an old man, Tom. Look at my gray hairs and spare me."

"Curse ye," foamed O'Neil, "yer had a lot of mercy on me, didn't yer. Yer put me in prison and ruined my prospeks for life. I've follered yer fer a thousand mile, and now I've got yer."

"Oh! Oh!" wailed the old man, piteously; let me go this time, Tommy, dear boy. You don't mean to kill me, do you? I always said you were a good boy at heart, only you were misled. You would not harm a hair of my poor old head, would you, Tom? Just think what an awful thing it is to kill a human being—especially an old man."

O'Neil raised his pistol again and pointed it full at his victim's head, and Reynolds sank on his knees to the floor, grasped his assailant's feet, and, as he grovelled there, continued to pray for mercy.

"No," cried O'Neil. "You've got just half a minute to say yer prayers."

"Tom! Tom! dear Tom," wailed Reynolds, "make it a minute—give me sixty seconds."

"Yer'd better hurry," vociferated the cold-blooded wretch. "There's only a quarter of a minute left." Reynolds burst into tears and fell over backward. As he lay there he feebly pleaded: "Someone pray—pray as my poor old mother used to pray—for me."

"Time's up!" roared O'Neil. He raised his weapon and took deliberate aim at the prostrate form. While this scene was being enacted I sat speechless and rooted to my chair. I had seen death in many forms, and imagined that I was proof against any horror, but the prospect of seeing a man's brains blown out in cold blood was too much for me, and, indeed, for the whole company, since no one moved, but just gazed helplessly on the scene.

"One, two, th——" shouted the desperado.

approved in favor of the V. W. & Y. It was about this point that the contest grew warmest. It was pointed out to the commissioners that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway Company already had approval under provincial regulations of a route following the same lines. It was further contended that because of the contour of the ground there was practically only one feasible route along the North Shore.

At this point the chairman inclined to the opinion that they would be compelled to have their engineer go over the ground to verify the statement as to only one feasible route. Strong objection, however, was made to the delay that would thereby be necessitated.

The chairman asked the V. W. & Y. representatives how it would suit them if the board approved the plans of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Brige Company and gave the V. W. & Y. running rights over those lines. This, however, was not acceptable.

The chairman then asked how it would answer if the application were adjourned for one year to give the V. W. & Y. Railway Company an opportunity to show some signs of an intention to actually build a railroad. The V. W. & Y. representatives asked what this would mean if they did not build within the year. "It would mean," replied the chairman, "that we would not listen to you any more. Well, we might possibly give you running rights over the line of the other company."

At this juncture Mr. John Y. McNaught gave the Board a review of the history of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company, pointing out that it had been called into being because of the many years for which the V. W. & Y. Railway Company had held their charter and had done nothing. He emphasized the strong demand of the people for the construction of the bridge. He pointed out the fact that the municipalities had subscribed liberally of public moneys to assist the project, that a large subsidy had been procured from the Provincial Government and that the subsidy of the Dominion Government had been greatly increased, that Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company was really a public utilities company, that their system would constitute a terminal railway system for harbor distribution, that it would be owned and controlled by the people and operated for the public benefit and not for private gain. Moreover, the company was in position to proceed with construction of their plans were approved.

Asked by the chairman, Mr. H. H. Stevens, M. P., stated with reference to the increase granted in the Dominion subsidy that it was only after considerable difficulty that he had succeeded in securing that increase, and the fact that the bridge was to be made a combined railway and traffic bridge, carrying vehicular, pedestrian and electric railway traffic, had proven an important factor in his ultimate success.

The chairman then proposed that the hearing be adjourned for one year. Mr. Burns asked at what date the next sessions of the board would be held in Vancouver. The chairman replied in either October or November, but that length of time would be too short to allow the V. W. & Y. opportunity to accomplish anything tangible. The chairman's suggestion was then accepted and the order was made as follows: "We approve of the plans of the Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company for the construction of a bridge over the Second Narrows on the plans to be submitted to the railway engineer; work to be commenced within 30 days after the approval of the plans by the engineer of the board, and to be completed within two years. At the same time we approve of the revised location of the V., W. & Y., showing its approach to the bridge to the east of the first line, it being understood that the Burrard Inlet Bridge and Tunnel Company will pay to the V., W. & Y. any cost to which they may be put in altering their plans to suit the revised location of the bridge. We approve of the change in the southerly approach to the bridge as it makes a better crossing over the C. P. R.

"The application of the Burrard Bridge and Tunnel Company for the approval of its railway line is to stand for one year. At the expiration of that time the board will deal with the matter as it stands then, it being understood that the V., W. & Y. will show some signs of life and diligence in the construction of its line in the meantime."

Immediately upon the reading of the decision Mr. Burns drew the attention of the board to the fact that the bridge plan submitted showed a span of two hundred feet and he presumed that the decision carried with it the approval of the span. The chairman asked if anybody present had any objections to make against a two hundred foot span, and upon no objections being made he declared the two hundred foot span approved.

Following up this advantage the solicitor of the Company reverted to the matter of the railway lines of Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Company and secured an amendment approving that section of their lines from the northern end of the bridge eastward to Deep Cove, the previous order adjourning the application for one year being made applicable to only that portion from the bridge westward to Horseshoe Bay.

"Are We To Be Scavengers For The Government?"

CAPT. CATES' REPLY TO ALD. DICK'S SUGGESTION REGARDING DRIFTWOOD DEBRIS

A brief meeting of the ferry directorate—or rather, a fraction of that body—was held on Friday afternoon, Mr. H. C. Wright, Mr. W. L. Boult and Capt. Cates being present, the first named director occupying the chair.

A letter was read from Mr. S. F. Bicketts, manager of the North Arm Steamship Company, explaining the recent tactics of the "Defiance," which on a certain occasion backed out of her wharf apparently clean across the bows of the ferry. The company's letter explained that the captain had backed away from the wharf with his helm hard-a-starboard before he noticed the ferry. There were scows at the end of the other dock, but he quite expected to clear before the ferry was too close. The engines, unfortunately, stuck on the centre and failed to respond quickly to the bells for full speed ahead, consequently he was left longer than was intended in the position referred to. The letter proceeded to express regret that the incident had occurred, mentioning at the same time that the captain was in the right according to the rules of the road.

A communication also came from Mr. Charles H. Hewitt notifying the board of a mishap that had befallen him through a sliver of wood on the wharf, which had necessitated the purchase of a new pair of boots. The matter was left in the hands of the manager.

Mr. H. H. Stevens, M. P., wrote informing the board that he had already had the matter of driftwood debris before the minister of marine and fisheries and would take pleasure in supporting the directorate's letter with a further reference to the matter.

Commenting on this question, Capt. Cates made reference to Alderman Dick's attitude when the matter came up at the last meeting of the council. The alderman's suggestion was that, since the ferry company had lost $3,000 through the nuisance in question, it should amalgamate with other shipping bodies and itself do something towards clearing the harbor instead of appealing to the government. Capt. Cates described this view as an absurd one. "Are we going to be scavengers for the government?" he demanded. He also desired to know what they were going to do with the debris complained of; where they were to dump it under the circumstances. The only reasonable course, the captain argued, was the one adopted—that of appealing to the government to attend to the matter.

Mr. Boult mentioned that the board had received no official intimation from the city council, so that no notice need be taken of Alderman Dick's suggestion. He considered the council should be written to and asked for a reply to the board's letter.

Capt. Cates reverted to Alderman Dick's attitude, saying that it was an absurd thing for an alderman to get up and say.

"It seems to me we shall soon have to be asking Alderman Dick what we are to have for breakfast," observed Mr. Wright.

The topic then changed to that of lifebuoys, Capt. Cates stating that in his opinion those shape like a horse shoe were a great improvement on the circular ones at present used by the company. They were more easily handled by a person unaccustomed to the manipulation of lifebuoys and were altogether more modern.

"FRIENDS INDEED" TO NORTH SHORE ADVANCEMENT

The sessions of the Board of Railway Commissioners just concluded in Vancouver have proven of the utmost importance to the North Shore, having produced decisions whose effects will exert a most beneficial influence in local progress.

The unfortunate obstacles which had arisen of late to further obstruct the construction of Second Narrows bridge had proven particularly vexatious to that great body of citizens which is closely interested in the advancement of the North Shore and its interests, inasmuch as they developed after it was thought that all difficulties had at length been overcome and that an immediate commencement of construction operations might be anticipated.

The local public had been looking for ward with hopeful anticipation to the sessions of the Board of Railway Commissioners in the confident hope, that with their proverbial regard for the interests of the people as such, and with their customary promptitude and [illegible] the Board would [illegible]es and clear the [illegible]ion of this im-ber of successful candidates throughout the province. In the high school promotion examinations the local high school came through with a "possible" every candidate having successfully passed the examinations. In view of the number of candidates who went up for examinations from the local high school, this record of one hundred per cent. is exceptional to a degree and cannot fail to establish a most enviable reputation for the local institution in educational circles throughout the province.

There is no feature of a community which wishes to attract and to hold a desirable class of families as permanent residents, that is more important than the educational features which that community has to offer and it is evident that in this respect the North Shore is in position to assure parents that no superior facilities to those offered by the North Shore in the way of public schools are to be found in British Columbia.

Rice Lake Dispute

phatically objected to these comments, and was supported in his objections by Alderman McRae. Alderman Dick, however, persisted that the remark he had quoted proved irresponsibility on the part of the alderman. "You would doubtless notice, gentlemen," Alderman Dick continued, "what happened when we started giving figures relative to the last three weeks. That report of the engineer's upon which Alderman Foreman is working is three weeks old. There is a very strong attempt, apparently, to refuse the figures relating to the last three weeks. The figures for the last three weeks have been below the engineer's estimate. They have been below the figures put forward here tonight as possible contract prices. If that is not irresponsibility on the alderman's part, what is? The last part of the tunnel has been driven at $13.50 a foot. The cost per foot during the last three weeks has not exceeded $19.50. Is this proposal to call for tenders, then, looking after the interests of the ratepayers? These men who are prepared to tender—or at least one of them—are men who have been fired out there for incompetency. These are the men who put forward figures, which are then put up to the city. Why, one of those men came to me before he got fired and asked me if the city would not give him a contract without bonds. That is the kind of figuring that has been produced before us. There are three of four sore foremen who got fired and who have been going round the city streets trying to make trouble in a vindictive way, and that is all the trouble there is out at Rice Lake. The men out there are working hard. If you let a contract to one of these contractors and he falls down on his contract, what are you going to do? The completion of the work would have to be postponed so that you might go to law about it."

The Mayor: "I have been asking Mr. Grant concerning the recent progress made and he tells me that during the last 24 hours they have tunneled a distance of 7 feet 4 inches. The work is being well done out there at the present time. The city engineer has looked into this matter several times and his recommendation to me is that we stick to the present method."

Alderman Irwin: "It seems that at present work is proceeding in a most satisfactory manner. We have no evidence before us tonight showing that this is not so. In the absence of a recommendation from the engineer, I see no good reason for calling for tenders.

Alderman Biss: "I cannot see my way to support the motion. The water committee has taken up this question several times and can see no reasonable object to be gained by calling for tenders. It would be an injustice to any contractor to ask him to tender under such conditions. As to the original estimate of the engineer, Mr. Hanes' estimate must necessarily have been only a guess, since no boring had been done."

Alderman Fraser: "On the report tonight, if we are doing the work at $13 a foot, I should not feel justified in accepting a tender unless it was very low indeed. I would like to see this motion withdrawn in order to see how the work goes along."

Alderman Foreman: "There is no report in here tonight at all. The engineer has brought in no report. My figures were based upon the last official report of the engineer. There has been no other since. When I want anything of this kind I want it from the engineer and from no one else.

As to Ald. Biss's statement that Mr. Hanes' estimate could only have been a guess, I contend that Mr. Hanes is not the kind of man to guess at this sort of thing at all. The report I am speaking upon is the only report we can possibly work on, and according to that report the work is being done on an average of $36.50 a foot.

Ald. McRae, while willing to remain a seconder of the motion, admitted that he was not quite satisfied with the way in which the motion had been handled.

Ald. Irwin assured Ald. McRae that he would be quite in order in withdrawing his support from the motion for which information Ald. McRae thanked Ald. Irwin very much.

Ald. Biss persisted in his argument that Mr. Hanes' estimate could have been nothing more than a guess. In order to have been sure he would have certainly to have bored.

Ald. Dick: Mr. Hanes told me only this afternoon that the estimate was only a guess. He told us last year that it was only a guess. There was no boring done and no soundings made and they did not know what sort of ground they were going into.

The mayor then formally put Ald. Foreman's motion to the meeting. The voting was then recorded as follows:

Ayes—Ald. Foreman and McRae.
Nays—Ald. Dick, Ald. Biss, Ald. Fraser and Ald. Irwin.

His Worship proclaimed the motion defeated.

Interesting Boxing Program Pending

The North Vancouver Athletic Club has arranged a program comprising nine boxing bouts for Friday evening, when a smoker takes place at 8.30 in Larson's Pavilion which should magnetise an unusually big crowd.

The cream of amateur boxers of this section will be seen, including Gil Martin, middleweight champion of Canada. Martin is billed to go three rounds with "Bob" Tarn, while Frank Barrieau, welterweight champion of the Dominion, will clash with "Mickey" Welsh, a welter who comes highly recommended.

"Bob" Williams and Ed. Russell, at 135 pounds, will fill out the light weight division bout, while Paul Peterson and Stanley Clements, two of the best featherweights in this city, will also come together. "Kid" Lee and "Art" Fox of the Hastings A. C., have also agreed to go on for the regulation number of sessions, while two midgets, Dern and Hughes, who claim their weight at 80 pounds, should furnish an excellent go.

"Sam" Good, the Hastings A. C. lightweight scrapper, and Snyder, should furnish an exciting bout. Snyder has the appearance of a lively bird and it is just possible that Good may run against a Trojan.

Since the advent of William Bracken (brother of the well known Spokane wrestler who is at present running a club in San Francisco) as boxing instructor for the local club, quite a number of capable glove wielders have been produced. Following the tuition of the new instructor, who has an exceptionally long string of notable victories to his credit, the local institute should quickly provide both the Hastings and Vancouver Athletic Clubs with plenty of competition.

Of Interest To Lynn Valley

Lynn Valley Day committee will meet in the Institute Hall on Friday evening at 7 o'clock for general business.

A special general meeting of the Lynn Valley Athletic Club will be held in the Institute Hall on Friday, August 2nd at 8 p.m. Business: Consideration of football fixtures.

Lynn Valley is booked to play the Albion cricket club at Victoria on Aug. 17th. As special rates are given to clubs, the secretary would be glad to receive the names of any who are desirous of accompanying the team on this trip. The team leave Vancouver midnight Friday and start playing at Beacon Hill Park at 10.30.

The Tennis Club's illuminated concert and dance takes place tomorrow evening on the court, Allan road, from 7.30 p.m. The arrangements have been distributed over several committees and will consequently be well handled. The spot is ideal for an affair of this sort and should the present weather continue there promises to be a record crowd.

The home team were defeated by Cedar Cottage on Saturday, the scores being 17 to 61. The home side batted first and from the disastrous dismissal of their mainstay Mr. J. G. Farmer, a panic seemed to set in. For the visitors T. Reid took 1 wicket for 8, E. Seymour 5 for 7, S. Stephens 2 for 0. Lynn Valley averages were: J. Thomas 4 for 21, W. H. Brownlee 1 for 8, W. J. Bartlett 1 for 6, H. G. Sharp 3 for 14. The fielding on both sides was excellent all round and the next match between these two clubs should be more interesting.

A special general meeting of the Lynn Valley Conservative Association was held last evening in the Institute Hall for the purpose of passing a resolution whether or not they should separate from the Richmond Central Association. Mr. R. P. Purdie occupied the chair and the secretary, Mr. E. V. Stuart, after the adoption of the minutes of the previous meeting, read the correspondence. The principal item was a letter from the North Vancouver Association informing them of a resolution passed at the last meeting of said association to separate from Richmond and asking for the support of the Lynn Valley Association. Mr. J. Duval objected to a discussion on the grounds that insufficient notice had been given according to the association's bylaws, and after a lengthy debate the meeting adjourned for the purpose of considering the situation.

A meeting of the property owners of the district was called last night in the Institute Hall to discuss the government's reversion on subdivision. Mr. J. Duval presided over a large attendance. Mr. E. V. Stuart acted secretary pro tem. Reeve May was the principal speaker for the evening. During his visit last week to Victoria, he, with Councillors Bridgman and Loutet, waited upon Premier McBride for the purpose of ascertaining all information possible with reference to the section reversion. However, it was discovered that Commissioner MacDonald's report had not been laid before the government. The Premier promised that immediate steps would be taken to settle the dispute as soon as the commission's report was received, which was expected to be in on Monday, the 29th July. The following delegates were elected to interview the Premier within two weeks: Reeve May, Councillors Bridgman, Westover and Loutet, Ex-Alderman A. J. Henderson, Messrs. J. M. Fromme, J. Duval, Thompson, Tinn, J. P. Crawford, R. L. Thompson, P. King, R. Purdie, S. E. Earl and R. Brown, including as many more as are interested who may be willing to pay their own expenses. The following bodies are to be asked to cooperate: North Vancouver City Council, North Vancouver Board of Trade, N. Vancouver District Council, North Lonsdale Conservative Association, North Lonsdale Ratepayers' Association, N. Arm Ratepayers' Association and Lynn Valley Conservative Association. Reeve May was appointed chairman of the delegation and R. L. Thompson secretary. After a vote of thanks was extended to the reeve and councillors for the interests in looking up the matter while in Victoria, the meeting adjourned.

At a meeting of the residents of Lynn Valley and district in the Institute Hall on Monday evening to discuss a date for the official opening of Lynn Park and Suspension bridge, Mr. J. Duval was voted to the chair and Mr. E. V. Stuart secretary pro tem. A unanimous resolution was passed that this day should be called Lynn Valley Day and the date was fixed for Labor Day, September 2nd. Publicity Commissioner Lawlor and Mr. S. Allman briefly addressed the meeting, giving their views of what Lynn Valley Day should be. A working committee was formed to take up the matter, consisting as follows: Reeve May, Councillors Bridgman and Westover, Publicity Commissioner Lawler, J. M. Fromme, J. G. Farmer, H. Douglas, J. Duval, E. V. Stuart, R. Brown, H. Thompson, R. L. Thompson, J. Barker, E. S. Earl, J. Gould, J. W. Bartlett, R. P. Purdie, S. Allman, J. H. English and H. E. Sharpe. A resolution was passed to ask the council to grade Lynn Valley Road from Langworthy to car terminus for this occasion as the bylaw had been passed for local improvement and that the council should be asked to write the N. V. City Band for their services for Lynn Valley Day, it being understood that the district donate annually $50 to the Band. The meeting adjourned for the working committee to elect officers. Mr. J. Duval was again appointed chairman for the working committee and Mr. W. J. Bartlett secretary. The following committees and chairmen were elected: Advertising, Publicity Commissioner Lawler; Sports, R. P. Purdie; decorating, R. L. Thompson; refreshment, Mrs. J. M. Fromme and Mrs. P. Westover; concert, A. Earle Waghorne; inauguration, S. Allman; finance, J. Gould; prize, J. Barker; Scouts, J. H. English and E. Sharpe; transportation, J. P. Crawford; program, E. S. Earl. The meeting adjourned at 10.30 p.m.

A slater who was engaged upon the roof of a house in Kirkcaldy fell down the ladder and lay in an unconscious state upon the pavement.

One of the pedestrians who rushed to the aid of the poor man chanced to have a flask of spirits in his pocket, and to revive him began to pour a little down his throat.

"Canny, mun, canny," cried a man looking on, "or you'll choke 'im."

The "unconscious" slater slowly opened his eyes and said, quietly—"Pour awa', mun, pour awa'; ye're daein' fine."

Oil Fuel Saves $1289 Monthly

MANAGER PRESENTS REPORT ON COMPARATIVE COST OF OPERATING COAL AND OIL

In compliance with the request of the board of ferry directors the manager of the company, Mr. T. M. Heard, at Friday's meeting, submitted a report on the comparative cost of coal and fuel oil on the ferries number two and number three. The report was read to the board by the secretary, Mr. H. E. Kemp, and the directors unanimously expressed their satisfaction with its purport.

Mr. Heard's statement is as follows:

"During the last months that the steamers were using coal as fuel, the cost was $2,500.00 per month, in addition to which was the wages of two men at $70 each engaged in coaling the steamers from the scows at nights, making a total of these two items of $2640 per month.

During the past thirty days the average consumption of fuel oil on steamer No. 2 has been 22 barrels per day; on steamer No. 3 31 barrels per day, making 53 barrels per day for 30 days, 1590 barrels at 85 cents, $1351.50 per month; making a difference of $1289.50 per month in favor of fuel oil.

In addition to this there is a considerable saving in wear and tear on the steamers; the cost of cleaning coal bunkers, bilges and the whole steamer in general, upon which it would be a hard matter to place an estimate.

Following is a report of the cost of the oilburning equipment on steamers Nos. 2 and 3. This only covers that part of the equipment which the agents of oil burning equipment proposed to furnish in their tender of February 21st, 1912, the amount of which tender was $1,700 for each steamer:

MANY INTERESTING EVENTS KEENLY CONTESTED

LOCAL CONSTABULARY FORCE WELL REPRESENTED ON PRIZE ROLL

The annual sports and Highland games of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, which took place on Saturday afternoon on the Recreation Ground, constituted the most successful so far held under the society's auspices. This satisfactory state of things was rendered possible by a lavish response on the part of local athletes to the society's exhortation to enter for the several events, by an equally lavish attendance on the part of the general public, and by a great deal of solid hard work by those responsible for the arrangements generally. Many cups, medals and prizes were secured during the afternoon, which was gloriously fine, and these trophies were presented to their respective snatchers by Mrs. McNeish, in the unavoidable absence of her husband, Mayor McNeish.

The national character of the games naturally vested the Highland dancing with more than ordinary interest. The winner of the "fling" competition was little Daisy Dowie, who, although not yet twelve years old, has already to her credit quite a string of successes of this kind. These successes were materially evidenced by a number of medals worn on the breast of her Scottish costume. To the weird capable piping of Mr. McGrure Daisy danced into the first place in this particular class, her interpretation of the national dance being extremely graceful and clever. Other competitors were Miss Hannah Grahame and Miss Jean Grahame, both of whom executed the "fling" admirably and were the recipients of warm applause from the spectators.

Another popular event was the tug-of-war. The trophy in connection with this contest was secured by the Odd Fellows' team, who pulled right nobly with the respective Apollos of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society and the Knights of Pythias. The triumphant aggregation was captained by W. Pollock, and comprised T. Buell, Oscarson, Gauld, McWilliams, Prout and Anderson. The Knights were represented by Phillips (captain), Hampton, Kennedy, Hutchison, Eisenman, Reid and Prime, while the Society's team consisted of Findlay (captain), Swanson, Fleming, Wheelins, Work and Deas. This event was confined to lodges and must be won thrice, not necessarily in succession, in order to obtain possession of the Irwin Challenge Cup.

As an athletic event the veterans' race was a decided success, Mr. Alexander Grant, aged 64, being vanquished for the first time by Mr. J. C. Williams, who is ten years his junior.

Other victories of the day were as follows:—

Quoit Main (16 yards)—1, Robson; 2, Deas.

100 Yards Race—1, A. G. Shannon; 2, A. Martinson.

Long Jump—1, A. J. Shannon; 2, T. Martinson.

Five Aside Football (Boys, 15 and under, confined to board schools, city and district)—McNaught Challenge Cup and badges, cup to be won thrice, not necessarily in succession—The Lonsdale School, who defeated Ridgway School after the latter had vanquished the third competing school, the Lynn Valley.

Putting the Shot—1, A. Grant; 2, C. Bruce.

High Jump—1, Ole Edge, 5 feet 2 inches; 2, T. Martinson, 5 feet.

Throwing the Hammer—1, J. Gray, 95 feet 6 inches; 2, G. Gauld, 79 feet 6 inches.

Five Mile Race—1, J. Hamilton; 2, W. Miles.

Tossing the Caber—1, A. G. Shannon; 2, C. Bruce.

Quarter Mile Race—1, A. J. Shannon; 2, A. H. Martinson.

Pole Jump—1, A. G. Shannon, 8 feet 11 inches; 2, James Grant.

Five Aside Football, confined to lodges and public works (McNeish Challenge Cup and badges)—St. Andrew's Football Team, who defeated Order of Eagles men and the Dickenson team.

One Mile Race—1, A. H. Martinson; 2, T. Martinson.

Tug of War—As above.

Half Mile Race—1, A. H. Martinson; 2, T. Martinson.

Two Mile Walking Event—1, A. Emerson; 2, C. D. Morris.

Hop, Step and Jump—1, T. Martinson; 2, A. G. Shannon.

Veterans' Race (handicapped)—1, J. C. Williams; 2, Alex. Grant.

Highland Fling—As above.

All the above events were confined to North Vancouver with the exception of the Highland dancing, which was open to all comers.

During the afternoon refreshments were available at city prices, thanks to the Ladies' Society. In its entirety the program was carried through most successfully, and more than a passing tribute is due to the society's secretary, Mr. J. Findlay, who had devoted unstinted energy to the arrangement of the afternoon's events, and to Mr. W. T. Grahame, the society's treasurer. The following is a list of officers and directors of the society, all of whom are willing and enthusiastic workers when any event of Saturday's nature is pending: President, Mayor McNeish; first vice-president, A. Y. Tullis; second vice-president, J. Y. McNaught; secretary, J. Findlay; treasurer, W. T. Grahame; chaplain, Rev. Ronald McLeod; warden, J. Clark; directors, J. Swanson, George Shepherd, and R. Simpson; standard bearer, J. Swanson; musical director, John Alexander; bard, Professor E. E. Macnaghten; piper, A. McMillan.

Local Sculler Wins Junior Singles Championship

V. B. ALLEN OUTCLASSES HAVELY AT SHAWNIGAN LAKE

The local sculler, who won the best race at Indian river last Empire Day, V. B. Allen, to wit of North Vancouver's civic treasury department, added to his laurels on Friday last by winning the junior singles championship at the international regatta at Shawnigan Lake. According to the Victoria press, Allen won by several lengths after a stiff fight in the earlier stages. On the same authority it appears that in the singles the favorite, T. Hay Currie of the J. B. A. A. and J. Havely of Portland made a strong fight until the half way mark was passed, but then the favorite dropped astern, out classed. Allen and Havely crossed the line with a spurt, but Allen won with a decisive lead in 10.22.25.

V. B. also entered the senior singles on Saturday but broke his scull at an early stage of the race.

Vancouver Exhibition

Vancouver's third annual exhibition which opens at Hasting's Park in that city on August 10 and running until August 17 will have as comprehensive and varied a showing of exhibits as any annual show of this description in the Dominion of Canada.

Taking each section of the big fair one by one, they will be filled to capacity with exhibits from all parts of Western Canada. The stock shown will be the best that money can buy and the horses at the horse show are some of the finest in America. The horse fanciers of the Terminal City have made a name for themselves in regard to the quality of their stock and the annual horse shows which have been held in Vancouver are said to be equal to any in America with the exception of New York city.

Agricultural and horticultural displays will be a strong item in the make-up of the show. The districts of British Columbia are entering in competition for a large cash prize and diplomas and the best produced will be shipped to Vancouver. Through the energy of H B. Brown and the co-operation of many mining men in British Columbia the mineral display is now known as one of the most complete shown at any fair in the Dominion. Hundreds of mining men, owners, operators and prospectors congregate at the grounds each year on the lookout for some good from the newly discovered claims whose owners are anxious to get in contact with the men interested. A prominent mining company of New York will have an expert present during the show with orders to gather in any sample shown that looks good and follow the matter up.

Two crowning features will be the driving matinees which will be held on the half mile track daily for prizes aggregating $21,500 and the Motor Show of the B. C. Motor Trades Association. The fastest horses on the Pacific Northwest Circuit have been entered for the driving and an average of six races a day with from fifteen to twenty entries will be the rule. Every firm in the Motor Trades Association has taken space in the two motor show buildings and the very latest in automobiles will be shown.

With all the exhibits emblematic of every stage in the industrial and agricultural world, the general public always looks for a line of harmless amusement which is always such an adjunct to such an event. In this regard the exhibition management has taken considerable interest and the result will be pleasing to the thousands of visitors who will crowd the grounds daily. A veritable Coney Island will spring up before the opening day and crowning these will be the feature fire works display and pageant entitled the "Conquest of Mexico" which will be produced every evening under the supervision of Hitt Bros.

August 10 is preparation day and the grand opening of the exhibition will take place on Monday morning, August 12.

The Question of Introductions.

The question of introducing seems to be a perpetual worry to some people. The following suggestions may be helpful:

The first thing the introducer should remember is to pronounce the names distinctly. A rather distressing occasion that gave a feeling of discomfort and dislike on one side and an agonizing remembrance on the other was where a lady on being introduced to another made a remark concerning a third party which, while not derogatory, might have been somewhat more complimentary. To her dismay the second lady remarked: "Yes, I have noticed that peculiarity in Margaret. She ought to break herself of it. She is my sister, you know."

Of course lady No. 1 did not know, but there existed a coolness forever thereafter. If the names had been distinctly pronounced the incident could not have occurred.

It is an accepted fact that each individual is not to be introduced to all those present where an affair is at all large—only to a few immediately at hand who will, most likely, in turn introduce her to others. It is also an accepted fact that if a guest is departing just as another is arriving they need not be introduced unless there is reason for presuming they are to meet in the future, so an introduction is superfluous.

A young woman is always presented to an older, an unmarried to a married woman, a man to a woman unless it be a distinctive case where some distinguished official high in standing is the guest of honor, when both ladies and gentlemen are presented to him.

A young man is presented to an older one, and men always shake hands, whereas this need not be followed unless desired by two or more women introduced.

A hostess makes her greeting the more cordial by shaking hands with her guests. It seems more hospitable, but it is not at all obligatory. Some tactful remark as to mutual acquaintances or neighborhoods or possibly some taste for "Shakespeare and the musical glasses" helps to break the ice when strangers are introduced. A tactful hostess will take a young man to a group of girls, introduce him to each separately and leave him, knowing they will "do the rest."

Engagement Fetes.

Pink is the proper color for an engagement luncheon. Since every one delights in strewing the path of a bride elect with roses these flowers make the most suitable decoration for the table. For the rest the arrangements may be simple or elaborate, in accordance with the tastes of the bride and with her means or those of her parents.

She and her family take the initiative in announcing the engagement. Often their friends are asked to call on one or more afternoons—the Thursdays of a month, for instance, when the bride and her mother will be at home. It is usual to serve afternoon tea with cake or sandwiches, or both. These affairs, however, should be simple and informal. The groom's relatives and friends are, of course, asked and should make it a point to come. If the parents of the young man live in the same city as those of the bride they call upon the latter at an early date. They usually give a dinner also or show hospitality in some form to their son's fiancee and her parents. The latter ask them in return.

The friends of the engaged couple give entertainments in their honor, luncheons, theater parties or dinners, as they find convenient.

If the bride elect is a business woman and has no free afternoon in the week she should arrange to be at home on Sunday afternoon to receive her friends. If she has religious scruples on this point, then she should name one or more evenings when they may call.

Her young friends may, if they please, send her a teacup and saucer or some small and inexpensive gift. Wedding presents have become so expensive and are such a tax on the friends of the young couple that all sensible people should oppose the innovation of giving engagement presents in addition.

Two Sets of Manners.

A girl who wears a soiled, wornout, tumbled dress to the home breakfast table and has the whole family helping her hurry into something decent looking when she hears the man's step on the front stoop is going to make that man pretty generally miserable. The chances are marriage will relieve her of any responsibility she may have felt in keeping up appearances, and the soiled kimono will often extend through most of the day. Runover heels, gaping belt lines, armies of protruding pins, are all so many danger signals in the marriage market.

Good Form in Dress.

Young girls and women who must dress on very little money should realize that she who is most admired by men and women both is the one who dresses simply, but who selects her clothes carefully so that all that she wears corresponds in style and in color.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN N. SMITH

LOAFING DE LUXE.

GIVE me a country wild and free.
A dash on the open plain,
A pony that never needs the spur
Or a tug at the bridle rein,
And give me as well, if it's not too much,
As I come from the trackless course
To the sheltered cabin home at night
A man to curry my horse.

A lonely walk on a lonely trail
With an old time silent guide,
The mountain looming just ahead,
Behind the plains flung wide.
Oh, there is joy that will, I vow,
Beat sailing in a tub
If when we camp at eventide
The guide will cook the grub!

To follow far through brake and brush
The panting grizzly bear
And after some exciting hours
To track him to his lair
Is pleasure only those may know
Who once the thrill have felt
If one can have a good strong man
To carry home the pelt.

A camp far in the wilderness,
And slipped the city's yoke,
Where one need only doze and dream
Or sit around and smoke.
As a retreat both sane and sweet
This can't be praised too much
If one can have a crew of men
To do the chores and such.

Better Than a Trade.

"He is founding a new religion."
"Has he got a great idea?"
"You bet he has."
"What is it?"
"That there are easier ways of getting a living than working for it."

Knew the Kind.

"I have a theory."
"Pshaw! A theory is no good."
"Isn't it, though?"
"No; you have to put it into practice before it amounts to anything."
"Oh, I do, do I?"
"Sure! What else is it good for?"
"To sell to some fellow who thinks he is smarter than I am."

No Use.

"I want to tell your fortune."
"Oh, go away!"
"But honest I do."
"You can't."
"Why?"
"It isn't big enough to listen to you."

Saved Him.

"There is so much dishonesty in business these days."
"I am happy to say that not a dollar of my money is tainted."
"How much have you got?"
"Ninety-five cents."

Severe Test.

"It wouldn't do to have women vote."
"Why not?"
"They don't know anything about government and public men."
"Can you name the vice president offhand?"

Incomparable.

"Did he lose his heart when in Chicago?"
"Worse than that."
"What—his pocketbook?"

Felt It in a Bunch.

"How did you feel?"
"All in a daze."

EPWORTH LEAGUE

Miss Ella Markle, the temperance vice president of the League, was responsible for a most instructive meeting last night. Rev. Mr. Prosser of the Baptist church was the speaker of the evening. At the commencement of his address he said that there was nothing startling or new to be said on the subject of temperance, the most remarkable fact being the general apathy of every one to the dreadful havoc wrought by intemperance. Continuing, Mr. Prosser gave a suggestion for combating the evil which is more comprehensive and more thorough than the usual method. He advised at first to get all the information we could on the subject, even using actual personal observation. Once that was obtained it would be more easy to spread education along the temperance line. If the people were so taught that public opinion would look with favor on an agitation for reform, something would inevitably be accomplished by the legislation which would be bound to follow. Mr. Prosser stated that many people were opposed to temperance reform for the some reason that an Irishman gave at a certain lady's wedding. On the minister asking the customary question he objected "For," said he, "Oi'm fond of the critter meself." In conclusion the speaker reiterated his advice, information, education, agitation and legislation.

The league is indebted to Mr. Prosser and looks forward to hearing him again in the not far distant future.

The Civic Mail Bag

The city council last night received a letter from Gwillim, Crisp and Mackya, who wrote on behalf of the owners of certain property on 3rd street complaining of damages sustained through the lowering of the grade of the street. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

The council ordered an inspection of the new steam roller recently delivered.

Bael and Co. wrote assuring the council that they did not blame them a bit for being out of patience with the factory for not giving full information regarding the oil sprinkler shipped to them. However, the company was now glad that the council had the sprinkler. As a matter of fact, the city clerk explained, the sprinkler in question had not yet arrived.

Mr. J. C. Gill requested the continuation of the sidewalk eastward on 16th street as far as Queensbury avenue with a crossing to the car track. The letter was referred to the Board of Works.

Mr. Edward Mahon's letter relative to the securing of controlling interest in the Burrard Inlet Tunnel and Bridge Campany by the municipalities interested was read, and on the suggestion of Ald. Irwin it was decided to have a copy of the company's charter forwarded for examination.

Ald. Dick also thought a copy of Mr. Mahon's letter should be furnished each member of the council so that the matter might be intelligently discussed at the meeting of the council on Thursday night.

Chief of Police Davies reported that the department had investigated the killing of Mr. A. E. Crickmay's colt by blasting and believed Oscar Wentworth, a subcontractor of Thompson & Stuart, to be the responsible person. Evidence was enclosed backing this belief. It was decided that Mr. Crickmay be written to this effect.

A letter from Mrs. William Seale asking for a street light on the corner of 12th street and Ridgeway avenue evoked from the chairman of the fire and light committee a statement to the effect that the committee had made a journey through the city in order to ascertain the approximate number of lights that would probably be required during the coming winter. The committee considered that the early part of October was a suitable time to instal those that are deemed necessary.

A request from the secretary of the Horticultural Society for a donation to the prize list of the society's fall show was referred to the finance committee.

It was decided to hand over to the joint civic advertising committee a letter from the secretary of the Anglo Welsh Male Choir in regard to the arrangement of a series of concerts on the North Shore.

The matter of completing the sidewalks in connection with the Lonsdale school before the school again opens was referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

The following reports of committees were adopted:

Water Committee—

Recommended that the mains be extended to accommodate residents in the vicinity of 28th and View streets.

Board of Works—

Re letter from L. Watts Doney asking for grade at the corner of Keith Road and Boulevard. Recommended that Clerk be instructed to write stating that grade has not yet been established but that whenever that has been done it will be intimated to him.

Re letter from J. Wylie Donaldson asking for grade on 9th and Queens bury Avenue. Recommended that a reply be sent as above.

Re application of Mr. Daniel R. Young for clearing of 22nd to 28th streets D. L. 616 Held over in order that the committee and the engineer might examine the ground.

The chairman intimated that he had obtained a price of $1.60 per yard for the delivery of rock at the city wharf for macadamizing of Forbes avenue. It was estimated that teaming from the wharf to the Avenue would cost 60 cents per yard. As crushed rock can be delivered from the city quarry for $2 per yard on the job it was recommended that the work be done by the city.

Recommended that the guarantors of Tolosoy and Varr, who have the contract for grading St. George's and Forbes Avenue be notified that work on this contract has been stopped and that the city looks to the guarantors to finish the work.

An offer from the B. C. Refining Co. to supply road oil at the rate of $1.45 per barrel of 35 gallons, plus $1 per ton towing to the city wharf was considered. After some discussion it was resolved that the question of the quantity to be ordered be left over.

The city engineer produced a recommendation for the macadamizing of 1st street from Mahon to St. David's ave. The committee considered that the proposed work was on too large a scale and requested the engineer to alter his recommendation making it read from Mahon to St. Andrew's avenue.

The engineer produced a recommendation for the grading of 3rd street from Mahon to Forbes.

Recommended that this recommendation be accepted and the work be advertised.

THE ULTIMATE VICTIM

The grocer stood in his little store;
He had washed his windows and swept his floor,
And he said, I wonder who'll make a roar
On the cost of things this morning.

No odds what's wrong and no odds what's right,
My load of worry is never light,
For somebody comes in and wants to fight
On the cost of things this morning.

These fresh-laid eggs, do you understand,
Were bought and bargained from hand to hand
And the price went up as the eggs went—and
I am blamed for that this morning.

This flour, this sugar, this bag of salt,
They came by routes that made prices vault,
For the cost of things this morning.

The people rage and papers howl,
The reformers shout and the voters growl,
And the housewife's face wears a bitter scowl
When she orders things each morning.

Producer, railroad and middleman
Each makes the product pay all it can—
And the folks put me in the roasting pan,
For the cost of things each morning.
