THE GOLDEN ERA.

VOL. XI NO. 47 70 GOLDEN, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 29. 1901 $2 PER YEAR.

C. N. R. OUTLET ON PACIFIC.

Hon. Mr. Wells and Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann Complete Negotiations in Montreal.

Montreal, Nov. 23—The Northwest is to have another outlet on the Pacific coast. Mr. Wm. Mackenzie and Mr. D. D. Mann arrived here on Wednesday, accompanied by Hon. W. C. Wells, chief commissioner of lands and works of British Columbia, and Mr. J. N. Greenshields. The extension of their transcontinental line to the Pacific has been under discussion for some days in Toronto and Ottawa, as well as here. The intention was to build from Yellow Head Pass through Quesnelle, northwest to Skeena river, but Messrs Wells and Greenshields, on behalf of the British Columbia Government proposed that the line should be diverted at Quesnelle, and built southwest to Bute Inlet.

As a result of the negotiations, Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann have submitted a proposition for the early construction of a diversion from Quesnelle, to begin at Bute Inlet and build inland. At Bute Inlet connection will be made by ferry to a point at Seymour's Narrows, on Vancouver Island. The E. & N. line, which now runs from Victoria to Wellington, will be extended northward and connect at Seymour's Narrows with ferry from Bute Inlet. In this way direct connection may be made with Quesnelle and Victoria will become the terminus of Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann's transcontinental line. It is understood that as a result of the negotiations the Dominion Government will give the usual assistance in the way of subsidies for the construction of both lines. Mr. Mann and Mr. Greenshields will go to Victoria early in January to determine the terms and other details with the B. C. Government.

IMPOSSIBLE SCHEME.

American Agitators Organize to Seize Yukon Riches.

The story of the "Great Yukon Conspiracy" is given below as it appeared in one of our exchanges. The whole affair has been so sensational that it would be wise to take even this story with a grain of salt

There was an organized conspiracy to seize Dawson, secure the barracks of the North West mounted police with arms and ammunition, loot the banks and pillage the metropolis of the rich northern gold field. Jas. Seeley, head of the secret service of the Northwest mounted police says that not only was there a conspiracy to overthrow Canadian rule in the Yukon, and loot Dawson, but the scheme hatched by the conspirators was a feasible one, and its its existence not been discovered by the members of the secret service, and nipped in the bud, the raiders could have accomplished their purpose, and after taking Dawson, could have held that place and the Yukon for six weeks or two months. And then—. By then they would be overwhelmed and each man of the raiders would be a fugitive from the avengers.

The conspiracy was born in Dawson and had a branch at Skagway, but no existence in any other point to the south of Skagway, although efforts were made to secure the assistance of pro Boer sympathizers in Seattle and other points in the United States. It It was at Dawson that the plot was hatched last summer. Several American Fenians who had drifted to Dawson got together and formed an organization which was called the Order of the Midnight Sun. A number of cranks and pro-Boers, haters of British rule and others were gathered in, and the order grew until there were several hundred adherents in September, when the members of the secret service in the Yukon became aware of its existence. With over 500 adherents to the projected raid in the north, it was decided to act as soon as the Yukon was closed to travel, and had not the police of the north checkmated the plot, the raiders had laid plans to surprise the force at Dawson, seizing the arms and ammunition in the barracks. The banks were to be looted and the richer placer mines of the creeks contiguous to Dawson raided by detachments of the conspirators. For three or four weeks they expected to be in charge at Dawson, having disposed of the N. W. M. P. and confident that troops could not reach them over the ice for at least six weeks, and the whole treasure thus secured and the place pillaged, they would make their escape.

The secretary of the organization is in Seattle, whither he fled on learning of the discovery of all the facts concerning the plot.—Colonist.

PROHIBITION IN MANITOBA.

London, Nov. 22—The judicial committee of the Privy Council, at its sitting today, advised the King to discharge the judgment of the Court of Kin's Bench, Manitoba, dated Feb. 23, 1901, declaring that the Manitoba Liquor or Prohibition Act to be unconstitutional and void on the ground that the power of the province to pass such legislation does not come within section 92 of the British North America Act, wherein the province has power to legislate in regard to property and civic rights.

Lord McNaughton delivered the judgment, in which the law lords said that although the questions submitted to the Court of King's Bench in Manitoba numbered eleven, only one question was considered in the Court of King's Bench, and their lordships had considered only one question in the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The question was: Had the Manitoba legislature power to pass the Act? If not, in what particular respect had the legislature exceeded its powers? Referring to section 119 of the Manitoba Liquor Act (this section appears to recognize such limitations as section 92 of the B. N. A. Act imposes on the power of the province), their lordships declare that the provisions of sections 119 are as much a part of the Act as any other section and that these provisions must have their full effect in exempting from the operation of the act all bona fide transactions in liquor which come within its terms.

The Court of King's Bench in Manitoba in deciding the Liquor Act to be unconstitutional, said: "It is enough to say that the provisions of the Act are extremely stringent, more stringent probably than anything to be found in any legislation of a similar kind for that matter, and unless the act is to become a dead letter, it must interfere with the revenue of the Dominion, with the licensed trades of the province of Manitoba and indirectly with business operations beyond the limits of the province." These words represent the grounds on which the court of King's Bench in Manitoba declared the Liquor Act to be unconstitutional and in excess of the powers conferred by section 92 of the B.N.A. Act, authorizing the province to legislate in regard to property and civic rights.

The judgment as delivered by Lord McNaughton notes the objections, but goes on to say that in the opinion of their lordships these objections are removed by the judgment of the judicial committee of the Privy Council in the case of the attorney-general of Ontario vs. the attorney-general of the Dominion.

Lord McNaughton declared that five law lords of the judicial committee who heard the case, would advise His Majesty the King, that the judgment of the Court of King's Bench of Manitoba dated Feb. 23, 1901, be discharged, substituting the committee's answer to the eleven questions. The judicial committee of the Privy Council declared that the legislative assembly of Manitoba had jurisdiction to enact the act. Their lordships are of opinion that the answer to question one, answers questions two to eleven and that therefore no useful answer can be given to these questions.

Their lordships further order that there shall be no costs between the parties to this case, the appeal of the attorney-general of Manitoba against the Court of King's Bench.

THE THIRD CONTINGENT.

The following is a copy of the cablegram which has been received by the Governor-General from Hon. Joseph Chamberlain.

To LORD MINTO:

Referring to your telegram of Nov. 21, the Imperial Government gratefully accepts the offer of a corps consisting of not less than 500 men to be raised on the following lines:

The men to be able to ride and shoot.

Imperial Yeomanry rates of pay to be accepted, namely: Cavalry rates to date of embarkation, and Yeomanry rates subsequently.

The Canadian Government to provide horses, saddlery, uniforms, boots, etc., on repayment. The Imperial Government to provide arms.

The officers to be nominated by the Canadian Government and their names submitted to the commander in chief for approval of the secretary of state for war.

The medical conditions to be as for Imperial Yeomanry.

The preference to be given to men who have had previous service in South Africa and to single men; married men and widowers with children to be accepted provided that they understand that no separation allowance will be issued.

Telegraph as soon as possible whether the scheme as outlined above meets with the approval of your ministers.—(Signed) CHAMBERLAIN.

A despatch from Ottawa states that Colonel Evans has been summoned to Ottawa and it is presumed that he is to take charge.

RECRUITING STATIONS.

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—The minister of militia says that the recruiting stations will be the same in this case as for the last contingent.

FIGHTING ON THE ISTHMUS.

Colon, Nov. 25—An armed guard of marines from the United States battleship Iowa has re established transit across the isthmus, and details from the Iowa's marines are now protecting each passenger train. There has been fierce fighting at Empire station, on the railroad line between Panama and Colon, between the insurgents and the troops of the Colombian Government with very heavy losses on both sides.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Thursday, November 28th, was the day set apart by Proclamation to be observed as a day of National giving of thanks for favors received during the past year. This praiseworthy custom, founded by the Pilgrim Fathers is essentially a New World feast, and this first observance of it in the twentieth century, has been entered into with true spirit by all Canada. The year just drawing to a close has been the best in our history. On all hands there is to be found evidence of increasing prosperity, for which due acknowledgement has been made. Locally, we have a satisfactory growth to record, while the Province has had a fairly good year, in spite of many things which were looked upon as retarding its development.

HYSTTRICAL POLITICS.

It is much to be regretted that our province seems doomed to endure for a season one of our periodical attacks of what may be termed "political hysteria." An American corporation, under cover of the V., V. & E. railway, sought to obtain an enormous subsidy from the Provincial Government. Finding this impossible, instead of waiting for a session of the Legislature and then threshing the matter out on the floor of the House, a little coterie of disappointed political hacks are conducting a series of public meetings at which the verdict is always "unanimous" against the Government. As will be seen by our news columns the Hon. W. C. Wells has done valuable work in the short time he has spent in the east, and we have not the slightest doubt but that when the House meets the much advertised "solid Opposition" will be found to have existed only in the diseased imagination of the politicians and newspapers who are at present earning the money supplied by a foreign railway corporation in an endeavor to undermine the stability of the present administration.

PROHIBITION FOR MANITOBA.

The decision of the Privy Council, on the validity of the Manitoba Liquor Act, as given in our news columns, will have a far-reaching effect on provincial politics throughout the Dominion. The temperance party have, as a result of this judgment, a good reason to refuse their support to any party that does not pledge itself to prompt and decisive action on the question of prohibition. As to the practibility of the Manitoba Act there are many differences of opinion, and the measure of success attained by the authorities of the Prairie province in enforcing its provisions will be watched with interest from one end of the country to the other. One thing that will be pressed very hard will be the question of compensation to those whose capital is invested in the liquor trade.

THE TELEGRAPH LINE.

If we were poetical we would like to strike off a few lines about the Golden-Windermere telegraph line, but as we are not we must grin and bear the contemptuous way the Dominion Government has treated us. For many moons we were promised a telegraph line and then it was actually constructed, and many more moons have passed into eternity and the wire hangs uselessly upon the poles. What's the matter with the telegraph line? is asked daily, but none can answer. The Outcrop can only state that we believe the delay at present is caused by our hon. member, Mr. W. Galliher, being unable to decide who shall have the job of handling the lightning Let her go Mr. Galliher; say something anyway. —The Outcrop.

We can readily understand that the good citizens of Windermere district feel somewhat impatient over the long delay in installing the telegraphic service, but the Outcrop is in error as to the cause of the delay. As everyone knows who has taken the trouble to follow the information we have made public from time to time, the delay was first caused by disagreements among the different communities in the Windermere district. When these had been considered no time was lost in securing a competent electrician, Mr. V. F. Dunn, to take charge in the Windermere district. Mr. Dunn has been waiting for the instruments for some time, and has kept the wire between here and Winnipeg hot on the subject. The delay at present is due to the non delivery of the instruments, but by the time this is in print, the probabilities are that he will be at work installing the service. To lay the blame on Mr. Galliher is most unjust as he has worked hard to meet the requirements of the district in this matter.

A QUESTION OF PAY.

The Province, of Vancouver, says that the World, of the same town, is in the pay of the V. V. & E promoters T is hurts the World, and it retaliates by stating that the Province is paid by the C. P. R., and that it has received more than the World ever got from the V. V & E This is where the shoe pinches.

The following would be an appropriate sign for the present aspirant to the vacant seat in Victoria:

MR. BODWELL'S CANDIDATURE.

(Vancouver Province.)

The announcement that E. V. Bodwell is a candidate for the seat in Victoria rendered vacant by the resignation of J. H. Turner, will be received with mixed feelings by the electorate of that city, and by the people of the province generally. Had Mr. Bodwell contested that riding or any riding in British Columbia at the last general election, his nomination would have been applauded not by one, but by every class in the community, and his election would have been beyond a peradventure. His presence in the political arena would have been haled as a promise of better conditions than had yet obtained in our political affairs. It would have been taken by the people as an assurance that men of ability and character were, at length, concerning themselves in the welfare of the country, and were offering their services as guardians of the public interests. With a representative of his stamp in the legislature, the popular mind would have been more easily satisfied that errors in legislation would less easily occur, that the management of the provincial estate would be more careful and intelligent and especially that all fear of sacrifices to individual or corporate greed would at once cease.

Since that time, however, political history in this province has been made very rapidly and the complexion which affairs once possessed they possess no longer. During the last session of the House, the struggle which occurred over the question of railway charters ranged the members of the legislature into two camps, and divested both of all political color. The opposition to the Government was conducted, not on the floor of the House, but in the lobbies and caucus rooms, and was based not on the ground that the general affairs of the country were being mismanaged, but on the claim that an alien corporation should be granted the privilege of constructing a railway through our great mining districts and should be assisted in doing so with the money of the people. The refusal of the Government to concede unreservedly the demands made by the agents and supporters of this corporation resulted in a struggle of unprecedented bitterness in which public feelings and convictions disappeared, and were superceded by a desire to serve personal ends. To the contest against the Government were brought all the malignancy of private rancor and even the best and ablest of the leaders of the agitation against the Government lost in the struggle their sense of discrimination and confused their private feelings and interests with the public good.

The chief figure in this struggle against the Government was the gentleman who is now a candidate for the Victoria constituency. It was he who with an ability which almost achieved success, organized the forces which assailed the Government, and which created disaffection and disloyalty, even in the cabinet itself. It was he who when the efforts to coerce and cajole the Government to his way of thinking, failed of success, organized and directed the campaign in the country—a campaign so skilfully and artfully managed, that for a time it captured popular sentiment, and brought the administration into disrepute. It was he who by his shrewd manipulation of political wires, has since kept the agitation alive, and the popular mind in a state of constant ferment.

Had this struggle never taken place, had the Dunsmuir Government at any time during the session of the legislature granted the bonus to the V., V. & E. Company for the construction of Coast Kootenay railway, Mr. Bodwell would not now be a candidate for the legislature in the city of Victoria; there would not now be any agitation against the present administration, and the Government which brought the session through would still be intact and with an undisputed majority.

Why then is Mr. Bodwell a candidate, and what end does he seek in entering the assembly? Mr. Bodwell was, and is, the solicitor and agent for the corporation which fought hard, but in vain, to secure the bonus for the Coast Kootenay road. His sole opposition to the Government is based on its refusal to grant the wishes of the corporation, and he is a candidate for the legislature with the object of securing a vantage ground, which he could not possess outside the assembly, on which to fight the administration on this issue. Mr Bodwell, as a candidate for the seat in Victoria, is the agent and nominee of the Great Northern railway company, and if he should be elected, he will be owned and controlled absolutely by that corporation During the past year the whole energy of his mind has been directed towards the accomplishment of one end, that of obtaining for the corporation he represents a monopoly of the transportation business in the great mining district stretching from the Hope mountains to Midway, and a monopoly to be bought for it with the money of the people of British Columbia.

Mr. Bodwell, therefore, is in the campaign in no sense a popular candidate, and his election would be a blow, not only to our best interests, but to our sense of political morality, because, elected as he would be, as a corporation representative, it would be a recognition on the part of the people that the members are not sent to the House as guardians of the public weal, and pledged to serve the community; but as the servants of private interests which shall claim their allegiance even where their demands come into conflict with the good of the community,

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I fell for the good derived from it. I was a slave chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for 10 years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full sized bottle."

Rabbi of Cong. Bnai Israel,
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.

AVON SPRINGS, N.Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.:
Gentlemen.—I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effects of Athmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic Asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the 1st of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectively, O. D. PHELPS, M.D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.:
Gentlemen.—I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children and for six years I was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington Street. S. RAPHAEL.

GOD'S LITTLE GIRL.

She left her home in the starry ways
And reached our arms in the April days
We thought to keep her and hold her here,
And our little girl we called the dear.

One pleasant eve when the sun had dipped
Out of sight, and the stars had slipped
Silently back to their wonted ways,
She turned her face with a wistful gaze

Up to the blue of the arching skies.
We knew by the look in her pretty eyes
And the smile that brightened her small face so
It was time for God's little girl to go.

A kiss we dropped on her curly head.
"Sweet little heart, goodby!" we said.
Then unafraid, though the way was dim,
God's little girl went back to Him.

NOVEL CURE FOR INSOMNIA.

The Only Way One Man Can Woo Nature's Sweet Restorer.

"No, I am not through with my day's work yet," said a Seventh street barber as he turned the key in the door of his shop a few nights ago.

"Not through?" asked a bystander who had but a few minutes before left his chair.

"No, sir," the barber continued "I have a customer whom I have shaved every night for nearly three years. It's a fact, and that man wouldn't be able to sleep a wink tonight if I did not go and shave him—at least he thinks he couldn't sleep without it.

"Funny, isn't it? For several years he suffered with nervous prostration, which brought on insomnia. The doctors—and he tried not a few—did him little good. During this time he let his beard grow until he had long flowing whiskers.

"One day his wife asked him if he wouldn't feel better to have his whiskers shaved off. He assented, and I was called in. It was about 9 o'clock, after I had closed my shop for the day. I removed the whiskers and gave his head a good rubbing. That night he slept soundly—the first real sleep he had had for months.

"The next night he suffered with wakefulness. The night following he was just as bad. Finally in two or three days his wife again called me in to shave him. I did so, and that night he got a good sleep. The result is that I was called in every night.

"Finally I agreed to do the work for so much a month, and I am a regular caller at his home every night. I am the last one to see him. After I shave him and rub his head he goes directly to bed. He has had no insomnia since I began the nightly shaving.

"No, it isn't because of any particular power I have over him. Any barber could do it, I suppose; but he won't have any one but me. Yes, it is a bore sometimes when I want to go away; but he pays me enough to make it an object. I must hurry or he will be worrying."—Washington Star.

The Spelling Lesson.

The following illustration of a child's spelling lesson and her apt conclusion in regard to the orthography of the English language is taken from the New York Times:

"Spell toes," said the mother, who was teaching her little daughter, 7 years old, to spell.

"T-o-z-e," answered the child.

"No, dear, that's not right. T-o-e-s spells toes."

"But it sounds like t-o-z-e."

"I know it, but you cannot go by the sound."

Then, in order to enforce the proposition, the mother called upon her daughter to spell froze.

"F-r-o-z-e-s," said the child.

"No; you're wrong again. This time we do use the z and spell the word f-r-o-z-e."

"Huh!" exclaimed the child.

"Now spell rose," said the mother.

The child hesitated. Finally she said, "I don't know whether to say r-o-z-e or r-o-e-s."

"Spell it r-o-s-e," said the mother, "though there is another word pronounced just like it that's spelled r-o-e-s. That word is the name of the spawn of fishes."

The child looked perplexed.

"Just one word more," said the mother. "Tell me how you spell blows."

"Well," said the little girl, who had had quite enough nonsense, as she viewed it, from her mother and had suddenly made up her mind to pay back in kind, "I spell it three ways. I spell it b-l-o-s-e for breakfast, b-l-o-w-s for dinner and b-l-o-z-e for supper."

"I spell it b-l-o-w-s," said the mother.

The child was silent for a minute as if wrapped in thought; then, looking up, she solemnly remarked, "I think, mamma, that the English language was made for persons very, very well educated."

Wawling, Wowling, Caterwauling.

The word "wawling" and its variants "wewling" and "wowling" are fairly common in modern folk speech. Up here in Northumberland we have it "wowling" in Bucks and Oxon I have heard both "wawling" and "wowling" applied to the plaintive or wailing cry of little children. When the "English Dialect Dictionary" extends to "W," Professor Wright will no doubt show the range and nuances of the term, as he has already done with "boll" and "bolling." Shakespeare makes use of "wawl" once at least. See "Lear," IV., vi., in which the aged king tells Gloster:

Thou know'st the first time that we smell the air
We wawl and cry.

—Notes and Queries.

Some Descriptive Writing.

They were beaten, hopelessly beaten. Fate, cruel fate, had decreed for them a death as early as it was ignominious. Without so much as a word, a sigh, a whisper of agony or a breath of resistance they had been consigned to their doom. Even now, naught left of them but the pale white of despair, were they being poured over the lemon meringue pie. They were beaten, hopelessly beaten. It is eggs that we are talking about.—New York World.

Under Difficulties.

"Boys, if you don't stop that racket in there I'll thrash you till you can't stand! Don't you see I'm trying to write?"

"What are you writing, papa?"

But papa didn't answer. He was evolving an article on "Irritability, Our National Foible," for one of the magazines. —Chicago Tribune.

The smallest diocese in the world is said to be that of St. Helena. The bishop, Dr. Welby, receives a salary of $900 and oversees three clergymen. Still he has the title of bishop, which is as sweet as the grapes of Esol to an aspiring church of England clergyman.

Unsightly and Foul Diseases Arising From Impure and Poisoned Blood are Quickly Cured.

Paine's Celery Compound Does the Good Work.

A Cured Man Says: "It Would Mean the use of Pages to Tell One Half of What Paine's Celery Compund Has Done for Me."

That great and noble genius, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL.D., the discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound, spent years in perfecting his prescription before he gave it to a world of suffering and disease. Years of severe tests and tens of thousands of precious lives saved have all combined to make Paine's Celery Compound the present day popular family medicine. Paine's Celery Compound has triumphed over numberless cases of foul and deep-seated blood diseases. It effectuallly cleanses the blood, braces the weak nerves, builds up flesh and a constitution capable of resisting sickness and disease. Mr. A. E. Hammond, Mansonville, P.Q, cured by Celery Compound, writes thus:

"Some five years ago it was my sad misfortune to be afflicted with scrofula sores, of which I had five on one leg and three on the other. These were running sores for four years. In addition to this I was taken down with rheumatism in the small of my back so badly that I could not get off my bed; and to further intensify my sufferings I had sick headache in the worst form.

"While in this condition, a friend of mine, Mr. Perkins, a merchant, of this place, sold me a bottle of Celery Compound, with the express understanding that if it did me no good I should pay nothing for it.

"In accepting this offer, I had no idea of ever feeling under any obligation to pay for the Compound, as I had no faith in its doing me good. To my very great surprise, however, I grew better; and by the time I had used three bottles I was as well as ever, and what I never expected to see was realized, viz.: the sores on my legs were entirely healed.

"It would mean the use of pages to tell one half of what Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. This marvellous cure has been in effect for nearly a year."

MEMORABILIA OF JOHN SHOUP.

Odd Opera House He Built and Other Queer Things He Did.

John Shoup was what they called well off in this world's goods—in fact, he was the wealthiest man in the little town in which he lived. He and Sarah had worked hard and saved until they had a start, and then he had bought and sold cattle and shaved notes until he was able to own a fine house in the country.

In all this he had succeeded, but John had paid but very little attention to his education—in fact, it was a pretty hard job for him to read, however well he might "figger." He liked to be considered the leading man of the town and to keep up appearances he had a fashion of using a great many big words of whose meaning he had very little conception. He was very proud of his new house, and while it was building gravely informed people that he was going to have a "miranda" running around the outside and a "purgatory" on top, where he could go up and view his outlying farms.

He built an opera house on the north side of the square and lighted it with tallow candles. He said he did that because if he put in lamps they might "explore," and the "ordnance" would get excited and "jump right out of the windows." The roller to the drop curtain was hollow and had about a pint of bullets in it, which rattled furiously whenever the curtain went up or down. He said that was because he wanted it different from other theaters. The stage was about six inches higher at the back than at the front, so he could see the actors' feet when they danced. Performers unacquainted with his stage had trouble to keep from sliding off into the orchestra.

He had big landscapes painted on the outside of his window shades by an old fellow who lived down on the creek and also had him paint his portrait—head and shoulders, without any clothes on, his reason being that the styles of clothes changed, and he wanted his true to life.

His mother died, and as he wanted to ship the body to the old home for burial he procured a metallic coffin. When he came to pay for the coffin, he was angered at the price charged and swore that if he ever had to have another he would "telescope" to Burlington and have them send up one of them "italic" coffins.

He had a suit before a justice of the peace with a neighbor in regard to the ownership of a calf. To save attorney's fees he pleaded his own case. As might be expected, the case was decided against him. He didn't seem to understand how it could happen that way and told the justice that, although he was doubtless a very learned man, he had made a great mistake, and if he had been trying the case he would not have decided it that way.—Chicago Times-Herald.

There is a general complaint of wells being dry this fall. As soon as the frost sets in those who have no water will find immediate relief. A better plan is to have the well deepened while the water is low.

The story of the disturbance in Starforth's restaurant last week arrived at Kamloops a full fledged sensation, as the Sentinel wired to the ERA for particulars of "the murder in Golden."

Mr. Frank Deacon, whose skill as a cook is well known, has opened a bake shop in his new building at the south end of the bridge. Mr. Deacon reports that he has had his hands full since he opened, and is making arrangements to install an oven at once.

D. J. Macdonald, of the Dominion Land Office, Kamloops, came in on Sunday's No. 2. We might say in connection with this gentleman's visit that the Dominion Government is prepared to receive application for leases of land for grazing purposes.

While the plumbers were at work in the Queen's hotel, on Saturday morning last, the naptha lamp used to heat irons got upset in some way, starting a blaze in the confined space in which they were working. By prompt and energetic action the flames were subdued, no damage being sustained apart from that done by the water finding its way through to the rooms below. It was a very narrow escape from a serious fire.

The Calgary Herald had an article referring to the products of "the mica claims on Canoe river, owned by Golden parties." This inaccuracy is characteristic of the Herald and we no longer wonder at it. We request the Herald to give due prominence to the fact that the claims are at the Big Bend and are not more than six miles from the Columbia. Also that the average value of the mica will run over $1.50 per pound.

Mr. J. Pinkham received orders on Saturday to hold himself in readiness to go to Nelson. By this change the Curling Club will lose one of its most enthusiastic members.

Golden has received considerable additions to her population in the last few years, but the subscription list of the ERA has not increased in proportion. In order to let everyone in town have a personal acquaintance with our paper we propose to send a copy to every house in town during the month of December without charge.

The Hospital Board desire to express their sincere thanks to the citizens of Golden for their liberal contributions towards the supper of the Hospital ball which was pronounced exceptionally good. Many thanks are extended to the ladies who were interested in the canvassing for the supper and carrying out in general the work which made the ball such a success.

Owing to the disturbance of business in New York city consequent upon the elections held there this fall, the Golden Quartz and Placer Mining Co. suspended operations for the past month. Mr. H Estell has received word that funds will be sent on shortly, to enable him to resume work. The new machinery for No 1 shaft has arrived and will be placed in position and work be gone on with all winter.

A meeting was held on Wednesday evening of those interested in the mica properties in the Big Bend, at which it was agreed that each individual claim owner would give a bond on his property to Hon. F. W. Aylmer, in order to enable him to treat with capitalists for their sale. This action will give Mr. Aylmer a chance to arrange for for the opening up of the Big Bend mica with capitalists who have expressed to him their willingness to invest if the ground proves valuable when thoroughly examined.

Reports from the dredger now at work on the North Thompson river near Kamloops, are most reassuring. About one ton daily is now being saved of the No. 1 product of black sand. Of the No. 2 coarse product a much larger amount. Assays go to show that from $300 to $400 in value are thus being saved, counting the products of both grades. This will require smelting, which will cost, with freight added, only about $10 to $15 per ton, and it is now believed that a net earning of the dredging plant will easily be $100 per day. One great advantage of dredging on the North Thompson is the fact that the current is very sluggish. As a result of the recent tests arrangements have been made for putting on, by an English syndicate, of three or four more dredges of large capacity. The agreement is that all plants shall be in operation by June 1. 1902.
