AN ICE WORM.

THE GLACIERS IN DANGER OF BEING EATEN UP.

Scientists Make an Astonishing Discovery.

This age must be one that is wearing and tiring for liars. Old Munchusen and his tribe never would have won even passing attention had they lived in this century. No man can invent lies that are one-half so wonderful as are the truths that have been discovered in the last few years and that are being discovered almost every day now. Another liar, and one who held the palm not long ago, has just been relegated into obscurity by fact. He is the man who started the story a few summers ago that the ice crop had been ruined by a new worm, the ice-worm, which burrowed in the ice and destroyed it in great quantities.
Like many wildly ridiculous things, the tale had the effect of startling news at first glance, and it was not till a moment's thought had been given to it that one discovered the fact that it was a hoax. So it was passed along cheerfully, and no doubt most readers of the World have laughed over it.
And now comes dry, solemn sensation-hating science, and announces that there has been

FOUND IN A GLACIER

In the United States several new species of a worm called Mesenchytrous. And the worm with that hard name is nothing more or less than an ice worm, a worm that lives in and on ice and snow and dies if it is taken into a temperature even a few degrees higher than is that of his cold home.
Henry J. Bryant is the scientist who has found this new creature in the ice of the Malaspina glacier on Mt.
St. Elias. The discovery was made during a long tour of exploration of the glacier of this giant mountain and the attention of the party was first called to the creatures by the sign of curious patches on the white snow.
He says: "The snow-worms were first observed a few hundred yards from our first camp, on the edge of the snow mantle of the glacier, which extended to within a few feet of the terminus face of the glacier. The snow mantle, which in places was six or seven feet in depth, had entirely disappeared, exposing the hard, compact ice of the glacier. The elevation of the first snow camp was 520 feet above the sea level. Here but few specimens of the worms were noted. At our second camp in the snow, elevation 1,202 feet, they were abundant in places, as also at our next camp, elevation 1,680 feet, where their presence in large numbers irregularly dispersed presented the appearance of

BLOTCHES OF COARSE DUST

on the snow. Our base camp was on a small expanse of snow-free ground on the south slope of a range at an altitude of 1,750 feet. A few worms were observed on the adjacent snow of the main glacier at a somewhat lower elevation; but I do not recall seeing any representatives of this species on any of our excursions in the upper snow fields of the region. During the month of June and early part of July, while the snow is comparatively dry, they appear about 4 o'clock in the afternoon on the surface and move sluggishly about, their dark color being quite conspicuous against the white background. They remain on the surface during the night; but when the sun appears in the morning they again burrow into the snow. They were widely distributed over the entire snow field of the glacier, diminishing in number toward the edges. There was no uniformity in their dispersion. We did most of our staiding at night, and frequently passed patches of snow several hundred yards in extent without noticing any specimens, and then would come to irregularly defined areas, which seemed to support colonies of them, where the snow showed shadows, dusky patches caused by their presence in considerable numbers.
As showing their sensitiveness to heat, I frequently observed

THEIR ACTIVE WIGGLING

as soon as a piece of snow containing them was taken in hand. Later in the season, when the melting is further advanced and the snow saturated with moisture, the worms appear to become more active, and can be observed moving about in the shallow pools and lakesets which form on the surface of the glacier. When the snow entirely disappeared and the hard ice surface of the glacier appeared, the snow-worms were observed in the water which formed in the narrow crevasses. In my notes of August 2nd I find the following: "Collected some black worms to-day in a crack of the glacier—found them in the water of a high, narrow crevasse. Observed them on the edge of the submerged snow at a depth of five feet below the surface.
The worms seem to have a browner color than when found on the snow earlier in the season. Some of the specimens I obtained had also distinct whitish bands around their bodies." This variation in color is noticeable in the specimens collected in spring and late summer. As may be supposed, there is a marked absence of animal life on the surface of the glacier which has an estimated length of 70 miles, and a width of 30 or 30 miles. Wild geese were found nesting on the terminal moraine near the coast in June.
The desolate monotony of the snow horizon was broken only on two or three occasions by the appearance of two species of Arctic gulls. Six species of moths, four species of spiders, one new species, and a number of flies, which include two or three new species were collected on the glacier.

The only insect found associated with the snow-worm was a minute black thysanuran, which resembled at first glance a flea. These insects were found continuously and constantly associated with the worms in the dry snow, and, later on, in the pools of water. They were very active, and leaped about like fleas. In no instance were lichens observed associated with the worms, although at several localities on the glacier.

PALE CRIMSON SPOTS

on the snow indicated the presence of the minute plants, which give rise to the "red snow" frequently observed by Arctic travelers. The mean temperature of day and night on the expedition has not yet been computed, but I should estimate that the mean temperature at night was about 32 degrees and in the day about 55 degrees." The snow-worm lives and grows while maintaining a bodily temperature which can seldom vary much from the freezing point of water. According to Mr. Bryant it lives during the summer in the melting snow, and the water derived therefrom which collects in hollows and clefts in the ice. During the night, the period of its activity, when it comes to the surface of the snow, the mean temperature of the air is about 32 degrees. When the sun shines the worms descend into the melting snow—a veritable freezing medium which must keep their small bodies continually chilled to their own temperature. Professor Russel, who also saw the worms on the Malaspina glacier, confirms Mr. Bryant with this statement: "In the early morning before the sunlight touched the snow, its surface was literally covered with small, slim, black worms, about an inch long. These creatures were wriggling on the snow in thousands; but as the sun rose and made its warmth felt, they disappeared beneath the surface. They are not seen when the temperature is above freezing." Professor Russel adds that he has observed smaller worms on the snows of Mount Rainier, Wash.—Vancouver World.

A WANDERFUL CASE OF DIARRHOEA.

A PROMINENT VICTORIA EDITOR Had almost given up, but was brought back to perfect health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Read His Editorial.

From the Times, Hillside, Va.
I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hope of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to-day and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—

AN ENTHUSIASTIC CITIZEN.

What Mr. Dolmage tells the Toronto World.

Golden, B. C., Aug. 18.
Your note to hand, and I just thought I would write and tell you what wonderfully discoveries of mineral have been made on Timber Limit No. 18. If the limit has been stripped of timber it has not been stripped of its mineral—copper and gold. There have been five localities made lately on it. A Montreal company have bought two of the prospects and have a gang of men working them. They have struck a great ledge of copper ore, which assays $180 in copper and $8 in gold to the ton. There are other claims there that have raised in price since the excitement over this. There are locations near here every day and it is expected it will make one of the largest mining camps in British Columbia.

There has also been a big discovery further up the river, near Windermere.
The Red Line Claim, an English company bought it for $110,000.
It has assayed 1000 ounces in silver and 917 in gold. There is great mining excitement here now. Kioshike is not in it now. Your respectfully, J. Dolmage.

Report of W. F. Robertson, Provincial Mineralogist.

BALRATH GROUP.

After following this ledge in 25 feet N. 70° W., the tunnel bears off to the left (S. 60° W.) for 125 feet, cross-cutting the country rock, here consisting of fine grained quartzites and cutting on the way several small quartz stringers running irregularly. At this point a drift was run to the right for 15 feet in the country rock, but without result. The main tunnel makes a bend still further to the left for about 15 feet, and in so doing cuts obliquely the 1st vein; here about 10 feet wide, at a point not exceeding 15 to 20 feet from where it was uncovered in the open cut already referred to.

A shaft, said to be 45 feet deep, is on the property, very well timbered and provided with a horse whim, but it was so filled with water that I could not get down. This shaft is clearly not in line with the course of either of the ledges exposed, and I was unable to discover any outcroppings to indicate upon what it had been sunk.

MIDDLE FORK OF THE SPILLI- MACHENE RIVER.

So far locations on this stream have been pretty well confined to the vicinity of its source, the trail to which starts from the Columbia river, at Carbonate Landing. At the landing horses can usually be obtained, and good accommodations are provided at the hotel, conducted by C. Cartwright.
The trail, after leaving the landing, crosses over the summit into the valley of the North Fork, below Loon Lake, thence climbing over another summit into the valley of the Middle Fork, which it follows. The trail is a good one, well kept and not very rough.
The distance from the landing to the head of the Middle Fork is about 80 miles.

VERMONT CREEK.

A number of small prospects located on Vermont Creek, one of the tributaries of the Middle Fork, and a large amount of work has been done. Some years ago a considerable quantity of ore was shipped from here and hauled over the stage road down to Wells Landing. Much of the ore, however, never got further than the river bank, where it was left, as being too low grade, the result of having no competent assayer at the mine to guide the sorting of ore.

As very little work has been done on the creek in the past two or three years, I did not visit the old workings.

COPPER CREEK.

On this creek a number of prospects are located, some said to be very promising, but not as yet developed to any extent.

CARIBOO BASIN.

This basin is situated at the head of Cariboo Creek, which flows from the north into the Middle Fork, about 24 miles from Carbonate Landing. There are a number of locations in and around the basin, the most important of which are noted below.

ELLEN D. MINERAL CLAIM.

Located in the Cariboo basin, at the extreme upper end, add at an elevation of 3,900 feet. It is a 1,500 x 600 Crown Grant, owned by L. B. Keyser and J. C. Joffe, of Golden. On this property there is a 65-foot tunnel on a 6-foot quartz vein, carrying a pay-streak of iron sulphides, averaging about 2 inches wide, from which streak good values in gold are said to have been obtained. The rest of the vein is not mineralized and does not carry values.

BUCKSKIN MINERAL CLAIM.

Is a Crown granted claim adjoining the Ellen D., and is held by the same owners. Elevation 8,700 feet. A tunnel driven in 50 feet crosscuts a number of small quartz stringers, and near the face has cut a quartz ledge 24 to 30 inches wide, carrying a small percentage of iron sulphides containing values chiefly in gold.
I am of the opinion that the quartz in this locality does not carry free gold, except near the surface, and as a result of the decomposition of the sulphides.
(To be Continued.)

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form and may be given as confidently to the babe as to an adult. The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval and praise it has received throughout the United States and in many foreign lands. For sale by all druggists,

"Keep to the Left."

(Vancouver World.)

The rule of the road, "keep to the left," is not so much honored in the observance on the streets of Vancouver as it ought to be. This can hardly be the result of ignorance, for the rule has been established long enough to make it thoroughly known. But drivers of teams and riders of bicycles, either through forgetfulness or through wilful wrongheadedness, very often ignore it, to the consequent confusion of traffic and sometimes actual damage. Many people are so constituted, unfortunately, that an appeal founded on regard for the public good has no chance of reaching them. In such cases it would be well if the machinery of the law were set in motion to teach the lesson that there are rights possessed by all in common, and that one set of men cannot be allowed to usurp them to the injury of others.

Dreyfus Sentenced to Ten Years Imprisonment.

Reims, Sept. 9.—This afternoon at 8:10 o'clock the judges of the court-martial returned a verdict of guilty against Dreyfus.
The court stood 5 to 2 for the condemnation of the prisoner. The court found extenuating circumstances.
The crowd outside greeted the verdict with cheers for the army.
The prisoner was sentenced to ten years imprisonment.
There is great excitement here and throughout France.
The verdict of the Court Martial at Reims has shocked the world. The note of condemnation is universal.
Dreyfus will be spared the crowning infamy of degradation, in all probability. It is possible that the prestige of France may suffer yet another well-deserved blow in the boycotting of the Paris Exposition by her sister nations.

IF THE DOCTOR SAYS DIE

Too many People are Willing to Take Him at His Word—This Man Didn't—South American Kidney Cure Turned the tables
"You may live a week—You might live a year!" This is the consolation his physician gave a well-known manufacturer in Toronto eighteen months ago. Diabetes and other kidney complications had a fast hold on him; but he's living, and hale and hearty to-day, and gives the credit to South American Kidney Cure—the greatest of all kidney specifics. There was improvement after one bottle, and three more effected the cure.

TORONTO PRESS THROTTLED.

The strike of the T. Eaton & Co.'s employees has placed beyond a doubt the soundness of our long held belief that the Toronto papers are in serfdom and that the Toronto department stores are their masters. Here is an important fight between employe and employer; several hundred cloak makers are daily and nightly parading the city streets; they hold public meetings and the best men of the land speak for them; Mammoth audiences pass resolutions of sympathy for them. In short it is the most important item, in some respects, that has come before the Toronto press in many months, yet we must read Ottawa and Montreal papers in order to learn the meaneat details of the strike. The Toronto press is mum. Not only does it refrain editorial notice of the strike, but it will not even give it a fair report. The octopus has the press by the throat and this accounts for the all-white record of the octopus. Citizen & Country.

EXPERT THIEVES

STOLE BONDS VALUED AT $57,000.

Scotland Yard Detective Effects Arrest at Donald.

A Scotland Yard detective made an important arrest at Donald on Monday in connection with the theft of bonds worth $57,000 which were stolen from a London, England, stockbroker, recently.

About two months ago Messrs. M.
Christie and W. G. O. Crick arrived at Donald and commenced preparations for a trip to Teaneau Cache gold fields. Two weeks were spent in outfitting, during which the visitors spent their money in a most lavish manner. The best pack horses available were purchased and several men engaged to accompany the party.
A few days after Messrs. Christie and Crick's pack train had started, a gentleman arrived from London and made a number of enquiries into the movements of the party. He took up his residence in Donald and people soon ceased to connect his arrival with the luxurious travellers who had gone to the goldfields.

On Monday the pack train and its leaders returned. Immediately upon the arrival of the travellers in town the London visitor appeared on the scene and producing a warrant placed H. Christie under arrest. Crick however, made a hurried exit, and has not since been seen. The warrant under which Christie has been arrested, it is alleged, charges him with being implicated in the theft of bonds worth $57,000, which Crick is accused of having stolen and which were negotiated by Christie for the sum of $3,000 sterling.

The detective is a Scotland Yard officer and has tracked the men from London and through the States.

Sudden Death.

We regret to record this week the sudden death from heart failure of Mr.
John Holbert at Firlands on Monday, Sept. 11th. The deceased had been complaining for some time of his heart troubling him and early Monday morning he was found dead in bed. The remains were brought to Golden on Tuesday per steamer Selkirk, and interred in the Golden cemetery Wednesday morning. The funeral took place from St. Paul's Church, Rev. H. B.
Turner conducting the service.

The deceased was 23 years of age, and came to this country in the spring from Burke's Falls, Ontario. Since coming to this district he was employed on Mr. H. E. Forster's ranch at Firlands. Deceased was a brother of Mrs. Thos. Alton, of Golden, for whom much sympathy is felt.

W. A. CARLYLE GOING TO SPAIN

Mr. W. A. Carlyle, at present general superintendent of the properties of the British American Corporation in Rossland, has received the appointment of manager of the historic Rio Tinto copper mines in Spain.
Mr. Carlyle expects to assume his new position on January 1, but will not take charge of the Rio Tinto till April 1, as it will take him fully three months to familiarize himself with the property. He will hand over the charge of the B. A. C. properties to his successor, who has yet to be appointed on Dec. 1.
Mr. Carlyle's salary as manager of the Rio Tinto will be about $25,000 a year, in addition to which he will have a fine house rent free, as well as free light and fuel, and all the servants he desires.

BOERS DEFIANT.

CHANGE FOR THE WORSE IN THE TRANSVAAL SITUATION.

The Boers Request an Explanation as to the Massing of British Troops on the Transvaal Frontier.

Pretoria, Sept. 8.—At the desire of the Transvaal government Mr. Conyngham Greene, British diplomatic agent here, communicated to Sir Alfred Milner, governor of Cape Colony, and British high commissioner in South Africa, an enquiry as to whether an explanation should be given in regard to the mobilization of British troops on the Transvaal frontier.

London, Sept. 8.—The Transvaal situation has changed since yesterday for the worse. The Boer request for an explanation as to the massing of British troops on the frontier of the Transvaal is an ominous note of irritation and impatience, which, at such a critical stage, can scarcely be interpreted as anything but defiance.

Both here and at Cape Colony, the tension and armistice continue. Whether tomorrow's cabinet council will afford immediate relief is still a question of great doubt. The more conservative believe that the cabinet will only put a time limit on negotiations, and the interim will be merely a repetition of the anxious time which has marked the past few weeks.

Cape Town advices say the Afrikaners regard the last Boer reply as evasive; while others regard it as designed to entangle the two governments in further negotiations. The average opinion of the British press is inclined to regard it as the last straw which will break the back of the most long suffering diplomatic camel.

The second edition of the Morning Post today contains a special dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, the capital of Natal, saying an ultimatum will be forwarded to the Boers to-day.

Cape Town, Sept. 8.—Midnight—The Boers, it is positively stated, are concentrating on the border.

London, Sept. 8.—The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Johannesburg: "It is reliably reported from Pretoria that a special military train, with a body of armed men, was dispatched to the Natal border on Tuesday night with an equipment of several heavy field guns and a quantity of ammunition."

The Johannesburg correspondent of the Times says: "As showing the mental attitude of the Boers, I quote the remark of an influential government official, supposed to be an enlightened man, whose name, if disclosed, would cause surprise. 'Don't worry,' he said, 'we've licked the English twice already and we will give them such a flogging this time as they never got.'"

A special dispatch to the Morning Post from Pietermaritzburg says that the 800 Boers who left Pietermaritzburg for Standerton, about fifty miles from the frontier, pushed on to Volksrust, close to the Natal border, where they are now encamped. The same correspondent says that the arrangements for the defence of Newcastle, in Natal, are now practically complete.

CANAL BLOCKED.

Ship Wrecked in St. Mary's River, Closing Up the Sea to Navigation.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—A serious loss will be occasioned to the upper lake shipping industry by a block which had occurred at Sault Ste. Marie canal by the wrecking of a large ship laden with iron ore in St. Mary's river, effectively blocking the channel for all boats drawing more than 13-1/2 feet of water. Stopping St. Mary's channel even for a few days at the present time involves a very large loss to vessel owners. Canadian owners will of course lose less in proportion than the Americans, and will not, of course, be very much hurt, as the proportion of the Canadian deep draft vessels was comparatively small. The Canadian Pacific railway line from Owen Sound to Fort William will be prevented from sailing and two vessels of the Northern company which ply to Lake Superior ports will have to sail lighter than usual or also tie-up for the time. The Rosedale, Bannockburn and other Canadian grain carriers using the well and canal only draw fourteen feet and by loading light can get through the old Canadian channel of thirteen and one-half feet. The carriage of Canadian wheat from Fort William to Buffalo and of American wheat and iron ore from Lake Superior to Lake Erie ports will, however, be almost stopped as the vessels engaged in that traffic are of great size and cannot possibly get through till the blockage is raised. In the present congestion of traffic this is a very serious thing for the owners of grain in Lake Superior elevators.

Kick From the Standard.

London, Sept. 8.—The Standard makes an editorial protest this morning against insinuations from America that Great Britain has "rejected Canadian dictation and abandoned the Canadian claims in the Alaskan affair."

Summer Theater Blown Down.

St. Thomas, Sept. 8.—The summer theatre at Plover Park was blown down by a terrific storm at 8 o'clock yesterday. The players were preparing for a performance at 8:30 when the building collapsed. John Spurr, a young man about 24 years old, who resides on Courtis street in this city, and connected with the theatre, was badly injured. The rest were taken from the ruins and escaped with various cuts and bruises. The structure was a new one, being erected about three months ago.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—The preliminary trial of William Weir, president, and F. W. Smith, and F. K. Lemieux, respectively director and accountant of the Ville Marie bank, charged with making a false statement concerning the circulation of the bank to the government commenced yesterday morning. The officials of eighteen banks were examined. The bank's statement gave its circulation as $361,870, while witnesses testified that they hold in their respective banks notes to the aggregate of $487,885. The case was adjourned for a week.

ANTI-MONGOLIAN.

Mr. McInnis Makes a Somewhat Inflammatory Speech at Nanaimo.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 8.—W. W. B. McInnis, M.P., was somewhat inflammatory in his speech at Nanaimo on Labor day, when he said he would resign his seat because of the failure of efforts to secure anti-Mongolian legislation. He said that at the next session the matter would come up again. If the government then refused to do anything they must take the matter in their own hands. It was a serious thing to counsel violence, but there would then be no other recourse open to them.

Fell Into a Separator.

Lindsay, Sept. 8.—A threshing machine accident happened last night on the farm of Edward Costello, a farmer, living a few miles east of the town, by which Michael Powers, a lad of nineteen years lost his life. The young man was employed on a threshing and at the close of the day's work was cleaning up the machinery when part of the woodwork on which he was standing gave away. He fell into the machine and went through it and was passed out to his fellow laborers on top of the stack in a severely mangled and torn condition. He lived but a few hours.

Pleased With the West.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Mr. D. McNeill returned to Montreal last evening, having completed his first trip of inspection to the coast in the capacity of assistant general manager of the Canadian Pacific railway. Speaking of the crops in Manitoba he says, the like has never been seen before in the history of the prairie province. He estimates the cash value of the present year's crop near $30,000,000. The result will be a stimulating effect to every branch of trade in the country. Mr. McNeill returns to Montreal perfectly satisfied with all he saw and is delighted with the crops and country. He predicts a largely increased volume of immigration west next season.

Charged With Conspiracy.

London, Sept. 8.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, referring to the report which the public prosecutor will submit to the senate sitting as a high court to try the persons charged with conspiring to bring about a change in the form of government, says: "The report will include written evidence of the collusion between the anti-Semites and Royalists. A letter from the Duke of Orleans to M. Andre Buffet has been seized, proving that the pretender has been subsidizing and fomenting the labor agitation, with a view of provoking the government to call out the troops, and thus produce a revolutionary outbreak."

Hotel in Flames.

New York, Sept. 8.—Garden City hotel, of Garden City, L.I., is burning. All of the 160 guests are safe. The volunteer fire departments of the neighboring towns are endeavoring to save the buildings from total destruction. The damage is already $50,000.

THE BROTHER OF JIM.

By WILLIAM HENRY SHELTON.

(Copyright, 1899, by the Author.)

"What are you fellows doing in there?" he cried. "The devil will be after you afore long if you don't get up and move on."

"I'm well enough where I am," replied Henry. "Go on yourself."

"What kind of an idiot be you anyway?" growled the strange soldier, striding over into the company of the two men and the horse.

He had a bandage about his head which was stained with blood but he carried his gun with a jaunty swing and appeared to have no consciousness about his own ability to get away from the devil, whenever it pleased him to proceed.

"Say, what's the matter with you anyway?" the strange soldier continued, looking down at Price and tormenting him with the butt of his gun.

"I'm shot through the lungs," said Henry. "I've got to die, and I don't want to be bumped along on a horse."

"Sorry," said the stranger. "What's the other fellow got to say about it?"

"He's dead," said Henry, with a deep groan, as he tried to shift his position.

Spence came a step nearer to the tall soldier in order to make a closer examination of his bandage. "Got poked in the head, didn't ye, stranger?"

"Stranger be blanked," returned the tall soldier. "My name's Smith. He mentioned Spence to one side and addressed himself to Price. "If you're shot through the lungs, you better be set up on end, young feller. You'll breathe easier that way. We can't all of us get off with a scratch like I did. Come, now!" he continued, straddling Price's body and lifting him by the shoulders. "It won't hurt but a minute and you'll feel a heap better."

With a quick leap he fastened his grip on Jim's collar.

Henry winced with pain and sat back against the tree with a groan.

"Had it dressed?"

"No, no," said Henry, with a gasping in his speech. "It's no use. It's all up with me."

"Bleedin' inside," said Smith. "I see. Mebbe it can't be helped, but it certainly goes ag'in my grain to leave you here to die—Sh! Hold your tongues, boys; there's somethin' comin' on the road."

Smith caught Spence by the arm and held up a warning finger. At the same moment a mass of figures rose above the brow of the hill, and two guns of the cavalry with mounted cannons came dashing down the slope with din of galloping hoofs, jingling sabers and clattering tools, through which the heavy breathing of the horses could be distinctly heard. A scramble down the hill, a double rumble over the bridge and presently only the babbling of the brook above an undercurrent of rapidly retreating sound.

The rush of the flying section quickened the pulses of the three men, and the heavy silence that followed was eloquent of peril, imminent if undefined. The horse, which had been frightened at first, sidled against the dead man and threw up his head with an appealing whinny that was prolonged in a succession of hoarse bleatings in his throat and chest.

A heavy sigh came from the ground where Price was lying. "Save yourselves, comrades," he said. "It's a dying man against two useful lives. The country needs 'em—Here his words ended in a gurgling cough."

"I believe you, young feller," said Smith, swinging his rifle to his shoulder and shoving up the bandage on one side of his head. He had forgotten for the moment that the clothed rag was not a cap, and the effect on his expression was grotesque in the extreme. "You boys better get a move on 'em," he said as he started for the road.

There was another rumble of wheels and the shifting and turning of a pursuing section on the brow of the hill. This time the black figures were swallowed up among the trees on the ridge directly overhanging Price and the dead man. Smith dropped the butt of his gun to the ground with an oath and came back on his toes, listening to the voices up above him and to the tramping in the timber. When he heard the gun trails fall on the hollow ground with a rattle of chains, followed by the scrambling of teams and the bumping of wheels over obstacles, he squatted down in his tracks without speaking, and the dead man, observing his action, lay down by his side, keeping a hold on the bridle reins.

The lid of a lumber chest creaked and fell with a bang. Somebody in authority swore frightfully. The twigs crackled under running feet, and the hammer heads beat on the shells like striking blows with a wooden mallet in a barrel.

"One gunner cried, 'Ready—fire!' There was a rushing overhead like the passing of a giant rocket, but this was nothing to the strange vision that appeared to the eyes of the three men by the brook.

A halo of light enveloped the gun and showed the four numbers "broken back" outside the wheels. The arms of the gunner were extended above his head like a letter Y. No. 1 with the sponge, No. 2 over opposite, the man with the thumbstall and the man with the lanyard which was still writhing like a snake above his head, flashed out for an instant, revealing distinctly their solemn faces, and as the light faded they sprang on the wheels to roll the gun up from its recoil. Smith uttered a low exclamation of surprise as the straggling figures melted into the darkness, but Henry Price bounded from the ground like a rubber ball and yelled at the top of his voice, "Jim, Jim Price!" Even the deaf man heard him and understood.

Henry's call was answered promptly by a voice from the hill.

"Is that you, Hank? Well, well!" And with the last word there was the crash of a body through the bushes, which made it plain that Jim was coming with leaps and bounds for an interview.

Such amazing activity in a dying man, coupled with the surprising events which had preceded and were following it, struck Smith and Spence dumb. They could only stare open mouthed at the dancing figure before them, uttering inarticulate sounds of joy which served to guide Jim through the brush to his brother.

The other gun was fired at the instant Jim burst on the scene, so that he seemed to be swept out of the darkness by the undercurrent of the shell that rushed through the night overhead.

"Doggone it!" exclaimed Jim, shaking Henry's hand limply and experimentally, as though he doubted if it were real flesh and blood. "I thought I killed you when you rolled down that bank."

"Jim," said Henry, "I've tried my best to get killed for three days because I thought I'd murdered you, and here you turn up fat and sassy with not so much as 'thank you.'"

"You're another," cried Jim. "Sound as a nut and aggratin to the last."

"I'm shot through the lungs," said Henry.

"You are? You ain't?" cried Jim. "Let me feel of you." And he began fumbling about Henry's breast. "You fool, there ain't a scratch on you. You always had too much imagination. Come, smarty, here's the ball rollin' about in the slack of your shirt above your belt."

"The dencel!" said Henry. "I ain't wounded!"

"Strike me dead," cried Smith, projecting himself into view with the gory bandage cocked over his right eye.

Jim had believed that he was alone with his brother, and at the appearance of such a menacing third party he took a precautionary step backward.

"How are they at home, sonny? How's mother's rheumatics?"

"Come and see!" cried Henry, and with a quick leap he fastened his grip on Jim's collar. At the same moment the flying section which had passed so recently opened fire from the opposite hill in reply to the Confederate guns.

For a space the darkness overhead was streaked with burning fuses and between the shrieking of the shells and the roar of the guns Smith was unable to catch a word of the argument that was passing between the brothers, who were flopping about the ground like two chickens with their heads chopped off.

As nature became exhausted, the two combatants rested in each other's arms, making an occasional spasmodic flop and then subsiding.

"I always was your match, Jim Price," gasped Henry. "And now I ain't wounded—like I thought I was—I'll send you home to mother—if it takes!"

What the proviso was did not appear, for Henry's jerky sentence was swallowed up in the rush of two shells trailing fire overhead, and the whites of Jim's eyes looked bloodshot in the light of the guns.

Henry never relaxed his grip on his brother until the firing ceased, and then he handed his prisoner over to Smith and deaf Spence, who tossed him on the back of the horse. Jim was too exhausted to talk at first, but before the party had proceeded far on the road he began to remonstrate against such unbrotherly treatment.

"Now you shut up, Jim," said Henry. "If you knew what I've been through in the last three days on account of you, you'd know I'm fond of you. I'm a little beat myself, but there are some things I want you to explain to my captain."

Mascagni's Visit to Verdi.

In a Florentine musical paper, La Scena Illustrata, Mascagni tells the story of a visit which he paid to Verdi with his wife and children. Verdi was installed in his favorite suit of rooms at the Hotel Milano. He loves children, and before long he had the bimbi perched upon his knee. Mascagni had come to Milan to conduct some orchestral concerts at La Scala, and he had a great deal to say about his programmes and his novelties.

The old man listened with interest to his descriptions of works by Scandinavian and Slavonic composers, which are rarely heard in Italy, particularly those of Svendsen and Tchaikovsky. After a time Mascagni heard him murmur, as if talking to himself, "Who would have thought in my time that people like that would know how to compose music!"

His One Good Act.

Judge Hubbard of Cedar Rapids, Ia., was in his time quite a character, writes a correspondent of Law Notes. The governor who appointed him to the bench resumed the practice of law after the expiration of his term and occasionally practiced in Judge Hubbard's court. On one occasion the judge ruled against the former governor, and the latter, waxing indignant, indulged in several remarks in regard to "man's ingratitude" and "benefits forgot."

The judge soon wearied of such insinuations and fixing his eagle eye on the former governor said, "Let me tell you, sir, that the only worthy action of your entire administration was when you appointed me judge."

WERE DEATH ON CORN.

The Doc Gives a Little Lesson in Natural History.

"There used to be an eccentric old character in our neighborhood," said a planter from one of the upper parishes, "who went by the name of Doc Johnson. He had never been 40 miles from the settlement in his life and was barely able to read and write, but he was naturally a sort of Jack of all trades, and somehow or other he acquired a tremendous reputation for sagacity.

"Whenever an argument arose among the country folks Doc Johnson was pretty certain to be called in to decide it, and he would rather have decided than to have admitted ignorance on any subject some of his statements of fact were amazing in the extreme.

"One day a farmer in the vicinity received a letter from his son, who had moved up to Iowa, saying, among other things, that the corn crop was looking bad and the country was being overrun by immigrants. The last word stumped the old man, and after puzzling in vain over its meaning he happened to see Doc and called him in. Johnson knew from the peculiar warmth of his greeting that he was going to be asked to solve some knotty problem and at once assumed the wisest air.

"Doc," said the farmer, pointing to the mysterious passage in the letter, "what in thunder does that boy mean by immigrants? What air they like, anyhow?"

"Johnson spelled through the paragraph, and, noting the reference to the bad corn crop, began rapidly to put two and two together.

"Immigrants!" he exclaimed to gain time. "Why, I thought everybody knewed what they was!"

"Air they critters?" asked the farmer cautiously.

"They is," replied the Doc, "a kind of er cross between a 'possum and a coon, and I'll tell you what," he added impressively—"they're jest simply death on corn."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A BRAVE WOMAN.

How a Drunken Husband Was Made a Sober Man by a Determined Wife.

A PATHEIC LETTER.

"I had for a long time been thinking of trying the Sumaria Prescription treatment on my husband for his drinking habits, but I was afraid he would discover that I was giving him medicine, and the thought unnerved me. I hesitated for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much intoxicated and his week's salary nearly all spent, I threw off all fear and determined to make an effort to save our home from the ruin I saw coming at all hands. I sent for your Sumaria Prescription and put it in his coffee as directed next morning and washed and prayed for the result. At noon I gave him more and also as supper. He never suspected a thing, and I soon boldly kept right on giving him the medicine. I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness, and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving husband, comfort, and everything else dear to a woman's heart. For my husband had told me that whiskey was the stuff and he was taking for his relief, as he had done from his promises before. He never has, and I am writing you this letter to tell you how thankful I am. I honestly believe it will cure the worst cases."

A pamphlet in plain, sealed envelope, sent free, giving testimonials and full information, with directions how to take or administer Sumaria Prescription. Correspondence considered carefully and confidential. Address: The Sumaria Remedy Co., Jordan street, Toronto, Ont.

Fish as Fighters.

The inhabitants of Cochon China and Siam have known the fighting capacity of a savage little fish for many years, and have long been in the habit of making matches between those owned by different men, just as Mexican match gamecocks and some American and Englishmen bull pups. When a match is made the parties to it having laid their bets bring their specimens of the fierce little Betta pugnax in globes of water. Both are put into one globe and without a moment's hesitation they fly at each other and do not cease fighting until one of the combatants is killed by the other.

It is only a year or two since specimens of this fish were brought to Paris, but now many are owned in Paris, and it is said that the demand for good specimens is constantly on the increase. They are beautifully spotted with red and blue and would attract attention in any aquarium by their colors alone. The savage nature behind the beauty would hardly be suspected.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Two MINARD'S LINIMENT is the Best.

Leaving a Record. "You will not refuse my last request!" pleaded the condemned criminal. "No," replied the jailer. "What is it?" "I want to be photographed in the act of eating my last meal, so that when it is written of me, 'On the morning of his execution he ate a hearty breakfast of ham and eggs, coffee and fried potatoes,' the proof will be at hand to show that I am not the base slays of custom!" His request was granted, and the hardened wretch, implacable to the last, made his farewell breakfast of pie and whiskey.

They Keep the Keys.

Visitors to Tangier and other settlements of Morocco notice the keys that are carefully kept in safety in the houses of some of the families of ancient descent.

These keys belong to the houses in Spain once occupied by the Moors before their expulsion from their homes many centuries ago. The Spaniards occupy these old houses, but the descendants of the Moorish owners still guard the keys in the hope that the day will come when they can return to Granada and once more resume control of the property which their forefathers lost to Spanish arms.

Blighted Hopes.

MAKING WALL PAPER.

The Interesting Process Briefly and Instructively Described.

The manufacture of wall paper is singularly interesting. First, a web of blank paper is set in a reel behind a blotching machine; two cylinders bring the free end of the paper into the machine, where a roller working in a color pan puts a large quantity of color upon the paper in blotches. Then a set of flat brushes, called jiggers, brush quickly back and forth, thus spreading the coloring matter evenly over the surface of the paper.

As the paper comes from the blotching machine a workman takes one end of it, wraps it around a stick and places the stick across two parallel endless chains, and the paper is thus carried up an incline. When 18 feet of it has run out, the chains take up another stick that lies across them and carry it up as they did the first stick. A third stick soon follows the second, and thus the work continues until the entire web of paper has been run out of the blotching machine.

The chains in their working hang the paper in loops over a system of steam pipes, and it is thus thoroughly dried before it reaches the end of the chain-work, where it is again wound into web form.

Wall paper designs are first sketched on paper and then transferred to rollers of the size required. It is necessary to prepare as many rollers as there are colors in the design. Thus, if the design requires printing in eight colors, eight rollers must be prepared.

When all of the rollers are ready, the artist directs his workmen, and each one is given a color. A workman to whom that color has been given takes a roller to his bench, sets it firmly in the grasp of a vise, and, with hammers, files, brass ribbons and brass rods, goes to work. Every bit of the design that is to be in green is traced out for him, and he carefully reproduces it in relief on the roller.

When his work is finished, the roller bears on its face, in raised brass, green, leaves, etc., and at the proper time and place will put the green coloring and shading just where the designer intended it should be. In like manner the other rollers are made ready for use, and they are then taken to a press that has a large cylinder of the width of ordinary wall paper. There are grooves around the sides and the bottom of this cylinder, into which are fitted the rods on the ends of the rollers, and when in position the faces of the rollers just touch the cylinder. An endless cloth band comes to each of the rollers from below (each band works in a color pan), which contains in liquid form the coloring matter to be carried on the roller to which the band belongs.

Each roller is placed in such position that the part of the design upon it will strike exactly in the spot necessitated by the relative position of the other rollers.

When all is ready, the paper that has passed through the blotching machine is placed between the cylinder and the first roller, the cylinder and the rollers revolve rapidly, and soon the paper is beautifully printed. At each of the endless cloth bands there is a steel scraper called a doctor, and it is the doctor's duty to prevent too much liquid from the other pans from getting on the rollers.

The wall paper press throws off ten rolls of paper a minute, and each roll contains 10 yards. It is said that stamped paper for walls was first manufactured in Holland about the year 1555. Some of the very costly wall paper in use nowadays is beautifully embossed and hand painted.—Philadelphia Times.

How Kallente Explodes.

Tests made with the new explosive, kallente, show that it has some properties of marked superiority to dynamite. Instead, for example, of being largely composed of an incombustible, baselike, infusorial earth, eucalyptus leaves and tinfole bark are used, these containing a large quantity of gas and their combustion adding to the force of the explosion. The whole compound, in fact, is explosive, and this, it is claimed, increases its efficiency and economy at the same time.

In some experiments at Sydney, as noted in The Mining Journal, four holes were drilled to a depth of 10 feet, and each was charged with 12 pounds of the kallente; the charge was fired by electricity and dislodged with comparatively slight upheaval some 200 cubic yards of stone; there was little noise and hardly any perceptible smoke or fumes. These qualities, it is thought, indicate that kallente is a desirable explosive for military as well as for mining purposes.

"Lead Me Your Ants."

A plague of small ants is worrying the good housekeepers in the lower part of town. The little pests get in the sugar bowls, play havoc with cakes and pies and drown themselves in the jelly and fruit preserves. It is well known that the large black ants devour the little red ones, and one bright lady introduced several of the big black ants into her home in order that they might eat the little ones up, and now the house is free of the small pest. Since the bright woman made her successful experiment her neighbors frequently run over and ask: "Mrs., will you please lend me your big black ants for a day or so? I want to borrow them to eat my little ones."—Breckinridge News.

Stamps on Posters.

France is trying hard to surpass Germany in the matter of red tape. Advertiser posters must bear revenue stamps, varying in value according to the size of the poster. A man who affixed a 15 centime stamp on a poster that should have had only a 5 centime stamp has just been fined 150 francs, or $35 for the offense.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE

For Once Ferguson's Brain Acted Quickly Enough.

"George Ferguson," sharply exclaimed his wife after the visitor had gone, "I wouldn't for worlds be as big a hypocrite as you are!"

"In what way," he demanded, "have I been acting the hypocrite?"

"You know very well enough. When Cousin Jerry showed us the picture of the young woman he is going to marry, you said, 'She's as pretty as a picture!' and you know she is homely enough to loosen the paint on a brick wall."

George scratched his chin and rejected a moment.

"Mrs. Ferguson—madam," he said, "don't accuse me of hypocrisy. She is as pretty as a picture—her own picture."

Even then it did not occur to Mrs. Ferguson to retort that this explanation didn't help him any, as the photograph surely was retouched.

What the Science of Medicine Has Done.

"But is it not difficult to keep hens in the suburbs?"

The pale, gaunt man with the hollow eyes gazed deprecatingly.

Of course, now and then a hen with a weak heart or something would succumb to malaria, but only now and then.

Just What He Needs

"What in the world did you buy that piece of land for?" was asked of the visionary citizen who suddenly decided to take up his residence outside of the city. "The soil is unproductive and sour."

The Allan's new Clyde built steamer

"Bavarian" 1200 ton, twin screw, description of which was given at time she was launched from Denny & Co.'s yards Dumbarton, has just completed her trial trip which proved a great success. Her average speed for the voyage was seventeen and a half knots. This steamer is to be perhaps the speediest as well as the largest vessel trading to Montreal, in fact larger than the majority of steamers sailing from New York.

It also demonstrates the fact that passengers may now make as good time via Montreal as any other route, the difference in speed being equalized by the shorter route via the St. Lawrence.

The "Bavarian" is a model of perfection for as far as safety and comfort is concerned. The interior decoration and furnishings are of the highest order; thousands of incandescent lamps illuminate every part of the boat. She has superior accommodation for all classes of passengers. The first cabin accommodation is situated in the steadiest and widest part of the ship. The maximum number of cabin passengers to be carried is 800. Special attention has been given the second cabin, many new features which will add to the comfort of passengers, will now be found by those taking that class of accommodation. In fact she possesses all the comforts and conveniences that delight the heart of the ocean voyager.

The third class accommodation has not been overlooked. There is a nice sitting room for women and smoking room for the men, also separate rooms for men and their wives.

She filled the want called for by every one in regard to the fast Atlantic service. By this steamer the passage can be made from Winnipeg to Liverpool in a little over eight days and without any of the inconveniences of transferring a long distance from the steamer.

20 YEARS TORTURE.

A Belleville Lady, Whom Doctors Failed to Help, Cured at Last by Doan's Kidney Pills.

No one who has not suffered from kidney disease can imagine the terrible torture those endure who are the victims of some disorder of these delicate filters of the body. Mrs. Richard Rees, a well-known and highly respected lady of Belleville, had to bear the burden of kidney complaint for over 20 years and now Doan's Kidney Pills have cured her when all else failed.

Her husband made the following statement of her case: "For 20 years my wife has been a sufferer from pain in the back, sleeplessness and nervousness and general prostration. Nothing seemed to help her. Doctors and medicines all failed, until we got a ray of hope when we saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a positive cure. She began to take them and they helped her right away, and she is now better in every respect. We can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers, for they seem to strike the right spot quickly, and their action is not only quick but it is permanent."

"I cannot say more in favor of these wonderful pills than that they saved my wife from lingering torture, which she had endured for 20 years past, and I sincerely trust that all sufferers will give Doan's Kidney Pills a fair trial."

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who loves her infant but should keep on hand during the hot weather a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There is no remedy so safe and so effective for the diarrhoea of infants, and none has the endorsement of so many Canadian mothers who have proved its merits, and therefore speak with confidence. One of these is Mrs. Peter Jones, Warkworth, Ont., who says: "I can give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry great praise, for it saved my baby's life. She was cutting her teeth and was taken with diarrhoea very bad. My sister advised me to get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle and it cured the baby almost at once."

GOLDEN is the key to the Upper Columbia Valley the head of navigation on the Columbia River, and the centre of an extensive stock-raising and ranching country, extending from the headwaters of the Columbia River in the south to Tete Jaune Cache in the north.

The important mineral discoveries recently made in the Golden and Windermere districts, together with the fact that transportation is now assured at an early date by a railway running the length of the Columbia and Kootenay Valleys, from Golden to Cranbrook, ensure great activity in the mining camps of North East Kootenay. Negotiations are also proceeding, which will ensure the operation of the Golden Smelter within the next few months.

THE GOLDEN TOWNSITE now offered forms the only land available for the extension of the building area.

Present prices are favorable to investors, who will find it to their interest to purchase before a further rise takes place.

Plans may be seen and prices and terms obtained on application to

No sale of lots is valid until purchaser receives agreement for sale signed by Townsite Trustees.

ATHALMER.

Head of navigation on Columbia River. The most central point in Windermere Mining Division. Extract from Report of Minister of Mines for 1898: "A wagon road could be built from the 'Salmon Beds' ATHALMER—at a reasonable cost, and will be so built as soon as it is justified by the mining development." Dry climate, charming scenery, perfect boating on lake and river, and good fishing and shooting in immediate vicinity. Level surface with gravel sub-soil, to build upon; cold, clear water the year round for household purposes, and splendid water power close to town. Large and complete saw-mill (30 M. daily capacity) on the ground assures cheap lumber.

Terms easy, particularly so to investors wishing to build.
