CECIL RHODES DEAD.

A despatch from Capetown states that Cecil Rhodes died Tuesday night. One of the greatest financial figures in the world has thus closed his career. As an empire builder Cecil Rhodes stands pre-eminent as one of the greatest in the world's history, and his name will be indissolubly connected with the history of Africa.

IMPORTANT CHANGE

It is reported on good authority that the C. P. R. has decided to change the location of its line at Banff so as to materially shorten the distance on that section. It is said that the main line will branch southwards some distance west of Banff. It will be carried through the town, and round the south side of Tunnel mountain. It is expected that the station will be near F. J. Boswell's house. The change will straighten out this portion of the line, and will leave Anthracite at the end of a spur, as the new line will join the present track some distance east of Anthracite.

BRIEF MENTION.

The Ontario elections will be held early in June.

Col. Dent has shipped 9,111 horses from Canada to South Africa.

It is reported that Canada will offer a fourth contingent for South Africa.

According to the London Daily Mail Canada will send 800 mounted troops and 230 infantry to the coronation.

Marconi has decided to erect his wireless telegraph station at Table Head, Glace Bay, Cape Breton.

Fred Bryan, formerly of Winnipeg, has been arrested in St. Paul, charged with killing Harry Morgan, a bar tender.

At a meeting in Chicago Mr. W. Redmond, M.P., made some wild statements, threatening to destroy the English parliament.

In the House of Commons, last Friday, Ralph Smith, M. P. for Vancouver Island, made a strong speech in favor of Chinese exclusion.

The students at Plock, Russian Poland, have revolted. They attempted to burn the technical school and lynch the professors.

Certain members of the Boer Government are said to have approached Lord Kitchener with proposals for peace, but the opinion is freely expressed that they have no authority to speak for De Wet or Delarey.

Owing to the large shipments of potatoes from this province to the San Francisco market, spuds are likely to be scarce on the coast and prices rise accordingly.

LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

Debate on the Redistribution Bill—Dropping of E. & N. Scheme.

Victoria, March 25.—The debate opened in the House to-day upon the second reading of the redistribution bill.

Mr. Tatlow argued that an increase in the membership was unnecessary if the seats were properly arranged on a basis of population.

Hon. D. M. Eberts praised the bill and said it was designed to deal fairly with the whole province.

Mr. McPhillips characterized the manipulation of the Alberni constituency as a gross gerrymander.

Mr. Martin elaborately defended the measure and moved the adjournment of the debate.

The Opposition promise to introduce some amendments in committee.

There is a report in well informed circles that several members of the Opposition have decided to join the Government forces in the House.

Mr. Wells announced that the Canadian Northern contract would be signed to-morrow. As already intimated, the sale of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway is off, and the contractors are seeking an independent charter out of Victoria.

Messrs. Greenhalgh, Holt, Harold B. Robertson and James Mitchell are petitioning leave to introduce a bill to incorporate the Victoria & Seymour Narrows Railway Company, designed to further the new arrangement.

It was announced in the legislature today that Mr. Waddell, the bridge engineer, of Kansas, who supplied the plans for the bridge across the Fraser river at New Westminster, was on his way to Victoria, to award the contract for the substructure. It is estimated that the whole bridge will cost $7,500.

It is stated that in view of the fact that the American shareholders of the E. & N. Railway will not agree to sell the road without the big land grant which is owned by the company, Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann, who were negotiating for the purchase of the road to form the Island section of the Canadian Northern, have decided to build an independent line between Victoria and Nanaimo. They will, however, take over the charter for the railway from the northern terminus of the E. & N. Railway to the north end of the island. The contract between the Provincial Government and the firm for the building of the Canadian Northern through British Columbia has been about completed. As soon as it is ratified Messrs Mackenzie & Mann will commence building from the coast to connect with the line coming west, and which is now built to Prince Albert.

It is also expected that the Government will shortly make an announcement in connection with the construction of the Victoria, Vancouver & Eastern Railway, which is to run from the coast to the Boundary District of British Columbia and ultimately to Rossland.

Victoria, March 26.—The provincial legislature passed the second reading of the redistribution bill yesterday. The Opposition intend to put up a strong fight against the increase in membership in committee, when the real debate on the details of the bill will take place. The re-arrangement of west Kootenay is another feature of the act which will call for considerable discussion, particularly with regard to the proposed disposal of the southern portion of the Revelstoke riding, including the Lardeau and Fish river camps. The Opposition favor the creation of a new riding which will take these camps in with the Slocan, extending as far south as Robson and east to Lardo.

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., has made an offer to the minister of militia to raise a contingent of 2,500 men in Canada to go to South Africa and put down the Boer war. One of the conditions attached to the offer is that Col. Hughes goes in command and another is that he will not be responsible to any British officer except Lord Kitchener or General French, or some British officer who, in the opinion of Col. Hughes, is competent and able to appreciate and take the advantage of Canadian troops.

BOARD OF TRADE.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held on Thursday morning, at which two very important matters were considered. The first was the improvement of the channel of the Columbia river which was recommended by Mr. Keefe, the Government engineer, and for which no provision has been made by the Dominion Government this year. It was decided to write Mr. Galliber about the matter, and Messrs. J. S. Gibb, C. H. Parsons and the secretary were appointed to draw up and circulate a petition to Mr. Galliber requesting him to attend to the matter. The other question was the much needed protection work on the Kicking Horse, for which $4,500 was promised by the Provincial Government last year, conditional on the Dominion Government supplementing it by an equal amount. As Mr. Galliber has not yet secured this sum from the Dominion, it was thought advisable to send a delegation to Victoria to interview the Government and endeavor to have them send that amount at once in order to prevent the destruction of property this summer. Messrs F. W. Jones, Thos. O'Brien and M. Dainard are named as delegates.

AN ARMISTICE.

London, March 25.—The Daily Chronicle, this morning, asserts that an armistice has been arranged, ending the duration of Schalkburg's mission to Gen. De Wet, and that the operations against De Wet, Delarey and Botha will be suspended; also that these three generals have agreed honorably to observe the armistice and to refrain from operations until the return of the envoys to the Boer lines. It is believed, continues the Chronicle, that the envoys, after acquainting Botha with the result of their mission, will again confer with Lord Kitchener, although no second conference has actually been arranged.

PAID THE PENALTY.

Bullock, the man who murdered his friend, Leon Stainton, near Pinoka, was hanged at Ft. Saskatchewan on Wednesday morning. The tracing of this crime home to its author and the tracking of the murderer to the mining camp where he was working under an assumed name, is one of the best pieces of detective work on record and reflects great credit on Corporal Hetherington, of the N. W. M. P., who had charge of the case, and from the slight clue given by the address of a tailor in a little Michigan town, found on the clothes which were on the body of an unknown man found near Ponoka, built up a chain of evidence that the defence were unable to break.

CAMBRIDGE WON.

Putney, Eng., March 22.—The Cambridge crew today fulfilled the expectations of the prophets and won the 59th boat race from Oxford as they liked. At no time throughout the race did Oxford in the slightest degree flatter the hopes of the supporters of the Dark Blue. Any possibly chance which the Oxonians might have had were shattered by the result of the toss giving the Light Blues (Cambridge) all the advantage of the situation.

Mr. F. W. Thompson, general manager of the W. W. Ogilvie Milling Co., and Mr. Charles B. Kesmer, of Montreal, have purchased the entire business, both east and west, of the W. W. Ogilvie Milling Co.

The name of this constituency has been changed by the Provincial Government for electoral purposes. Instead of being called North-East Kootenay it will be known as Columbia.

SMITH CURTIS' CHARGES

On Wednesday of last week, in the provincial assembly, Mr. Curtis moved, seconded by Mr. Hawthorthwaite:

Whereas Smith Curtis, member of the legislative assembly for Rossland riding of the West Kootenay electoral district, has upon the floor of this House, on the 18th day of March, 1912, charged "the Hon. James Dunsmuir, premier of the province of British Columbia, with negotiating to give an excessive subsidy — and without proper safeguards which he himself had heretofore declared to be necessary in the public interest — out of provincial monies and lands, to the Canadian Northern Railway company in aid of its building a line of railway from Butte Inlet to Yellowhead Pass, with a view either to the sale at a greater price than could otherwise be got, of the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway and Comox & Cape Scott Railway companies' railways and rights, or to the bringing of a much greater traffic over the last-mentioned railway lines, such lines being intended under such negotiations, to be utilized in making Victoria city the western terminus of said C. N. Railway, and the said James Dunsmuir being a large shareholder in the said E. & N. and C. & C. S. railway companies, whereby the said James Dunsmuir, would reap a large advantage;

"And also charged the said Premier Dunsmuir and his colleagues, the Hon. D. M. Eberts, attorney-general; the Hon. W. C. Wells, chief commissioner of lands and works; and the Hon. J. D. Prentice, finance minister, members of the Executive Council of the province, with grave misconduct and gross and wilful neglect of their official duty to the province in having J. N. Green-shield appointed and continued as solicitor and accredited agent of the province in the above-mentioned negotiation and in the preparation and approving of the proposed contract between the Canadian Northern Railway company and the province while he was acting at the same time in a similar capacity for the said Canadian Northern Railway company and its chief promoters Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann.

And also charged the Hon. E. G. Prior, minister of mines with grave and wilful neglect in agreeing to said negotiations being continued, and to the continuance of the employment of the said Greenshield to act in said negotiations on behalf of the province.

And also charged lastly, that in the foregoing negotiations and matters the said Premier Dunsmuir has wilfully and grossly neglected his duty to the province, as above set forth, and for no other apparent good reason except that he would thereby reap a personal benefit through the sale of the said Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway and of his charter rights in the Comox & Cape Scott Railway company to, or by the using of such line of railway, as the terminus or link of, the said Canadian Northern Railway, whereby great loss is likely to result to the province and grave discredit is being brought upon the legislative assembly, and the credit and good name of the province is being greatly injured."

And whereas such charges involve the honor of said Premier Dunsmuir and his colleagues in the government, and should, in the public interest, be investigated:

Therefore be it resolved, that a committee of this house be appointed to investigate the said charges, and report the result to this House.

This motion was defeated, the mover and seconder voting for it, the members of the opposition expressing their disapproval of the uncalled for attack on the members of the Executive. Mr. Dunsmuir announced his determination to ask for a royal commission to investigate the charges.

The action of Smith Curtis in making the serious charges against Premier Dunsmuir and the members of his cabinet has had an effect hardly expected by that gentleman, and when the Premier returned to the assembly, he was completely taken out of his seat.

Later developments make his position more untenable, as the deal for the E. & N. has fallen through and a new line will have to be built to give the C. N. R. an entrance to Victoria.

A GOOD STORY OF LORD DUFFERIN.

Early rising was a habit of this great man and added to this was another of playing upon and making himself hail fellow well met with all sorts and conditions of men. One fine morning when the wood pigeons were in season his lordship arose and proceeded to take a walk in the grounds, which were then celebrated for the number of wood pigeons which bred there, (this incident took place while Lord Dufferin was governor of Canada). It so happened that an old French-Canadian named Garriepy, who was a great sport and who was in the habit of shooting over the Government House grounds when, as he thought, all the family were asleep, also rose early and betook himself, gun on shoulder, to the same woods. He had just succeeded in breaking down a picket in the fence and getting into the woods when he saw a man approaching. "Halloa," said the newcomer, "What are you doing here?" "Oh," replied the Frenchman, "there are some good wood pigeons in this bush, but make no noise or the people will hear us."

"Who is there to hear?" asked Lord Dufferin.

"The police," answered Garriepy.

"They will say nothing," said the governor, "particularly when I am here."

Garriepy asked who he was, and told that he had some interest in the place and offered to show the old man where he could get the best birds. Accordingly, the two started, and after the old man had a shot or two and got some birds, Lord Dufferin took a shot and casually asked the old fellow if he had anything to drink. Garriepy, in high glee, produced a soda water bottle filled with whiskey brand, which he offered his unknown friend, who pretended to drink, but did not highly flatter the liquor. Presently he suggested that they might get a better brew inside the house, silencing the old man's objections by saying that he had interest enough to get something. Accordingly the strangely matched pair repaired to the house, where they went into a small room, the furniture making the visitor open his eyes. On some pretence Lord Dufferin left the room, and cautioned the servant not to let Garriepy know who he was. On returning he suggested that the old fellow light his pipe and proposed a drink. "I am very thirsty," said the stranger, "and would like a glass of beer if your interest goes so far."

"Oh I think it does," replied the host, and ringing the bell a man servant in gorgeous drab and scarlet vice-regal uniform entered to know what was wanted. The servant and the visitor stared at one another in unaffected surprise which, on the old man's part, was not lessened when the order for the beer was obeyed by the former. The cork being drawn, the two sat down to discuss the beverage the Frenchman being lost in wonder at his strange companion and his wonderful surroundings. With the untrammelled freedom of the untutored mind the old man criticized what he saw and speculated on what the Governor General must be, until at last he arose to go.

"Who do you think I am?" queried the Lord.

The old man gave it up, and fairly collapsed when he found that he had been hob-nobbing and shooting with the great Lord Dufferin.

Humors of the War.

(Pall Mall Gazette, London.)

If you cannot bring any new ideas to South Africa you can at least bring new clothes. No one will object to this, not even the Boers. Clothes, just at the present moment, are of more use to them than British ideas. The staff officer had three months leave and he went home rejoicing. It was the same staff officer that had first used locomotives as projectiles in war. As he was a man of original ideas, they made much of him at home. So he bought a new kit, and, still rejoicing, returned to South Africa. It was a good kit, from Zeiss glasses to pocket filter—the best that money could buy. But the pride of the kit was a pair of chocolate-colored chamois breeches. When the staff officer arrived at Pretoria he put on these breeches, and they at once made him a column commander.

And the staff officer went to his column and found it in front of a hill, on which were Boers. And the staff officer said: "Where are the enemy?" And they said: "On that hill." "Absurd," said the staff officer. "You cannot know. I will go and reconnoitre!" So he mounted his horse and rode up the hill.

And when the Boers on the top of the hill saw him coming they said: "Do not shoot. Don't you see he is one of the five shilling Yeomanry. He has new clothes on!"

So the staff officer had to hold up his hands, and it showed off his new kit to advantage. So much so that the Commandant covered his tunic, his stock, his glasses, his chocolate breeches and all that he had. And, what is more, he took them even unto the salmon-colored undergarments beneath the breeches, and, if the staff officers own point-poin had not dropped a shell on the side of the hill, they would have taken the staff officer's cholera belt as well. As it was, he returned to his column with only his banyan and his cholera belt; and they said: "Did we not tell you that there were Boers on that hill?" And the staff officer suggested that it was the fortune of war, and borrowed a coat-warmer, British, and a pair of khaki overalls from the supply officer.

And in the evening there came an envoy from the Boer camp with a white flag, and he was wearing the staff officer's chocolate breeches. The staff officer could not grant him an interview, for he had caught a convenient chill on the korje (as a matter of fact he had seen his breeches in the distance, and, though the Boer were them bravely, the nature of the fit hurt staff officers' feelings); so the doctor gave the Boer an audience.

"You captured our general this morning; why were you such fools as to let him go?" said the doctor.

"Don't know that we would be fools to let any British General go!" answered the Boer. "But we did not capture a general at all the same!"

"How do you know?" asked the doctor.

"Well, we can generally tell. A yeoman always wears new clothes, puts his head in the silliest noose, and then uses bad language. You send us lot more generals like that man this morning. We won't keep them—no fear; we'll only take what's worth having about them. You can keep the rest. It won't do you much good."

Remarkable Results From Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills:

To the Editor of the Era:

Sir,—I was troubled with rheumatism for about eight years, and tried a great number of different kinds of medicines without getting relief. Last spring I became worse and I could hardly walk.

It was then that I tried Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and two boxes cured me completely. I have had no rheumatism since taking this.

I am 82 years of age, and can walk now quite smartly, thanks to this remedy wonder.—Mrs. Paul McDonald, Eden Lake, Pictou Co., N.S.

We have yet to know of a single case where these wonderful pills have not been almost entirely successful in effecting a cure.—CANADA CHEMICAL CO., Peterborough, Ont.

They cured me of rheumatism after I had been given up.—Andrew Closskey, Victoria, B.C.

Ex-Ald. Bailey, St. Johns, writes: I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. They worked a miracle in my case and cured me after many years of suffering. I do not think their equal is to be obtained.

Nothink like Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills for the cure of heart trouble, weakness and blood diseases. Have used them everywhere with success.—Dr. E. F. Mann, late of H. M. Forces, South Africa.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills permanently cured me of headache. I suffered for years, and only took two boxes. That is year ago. I have not had a symptom since.—James E. Jackson, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

I do not believe there is a medicine to compare with Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills. They cured me of indigestion and catarrh of the stomach after nine years' suffering.—H. S. Macdonald, G. T. B. shops, Montreal.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for la grippe, rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, catarrh, colic, coughs, backache, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints even when the diseases have been standing for many years, the most stubborn cases will yield. Price 50 cents per box. For sale by C. W. Field.

The Canadian Chemical Company, Peterborough, Ont., will forfeit $10 for any case that these pills do not help.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. Ten dollars will be paid for any case they will not permanently cure.

JEALOUS RIVALS

Cannot turn back the tide. The demand for Dr. Agnew's Little Pills is a marvel.

It's the old story, "The Survival of the Fittest," and "Jealousy its own Destroyer."

Cheap to buy, but diamonds in quality—banish nausea, coated tongue, water brash, pain after eating, sick headache; never gripe, operate pleasantly. 40 doses, 10c.; 100 doses, 25c. Sold by C. W. Field.

"PUT OUT THE FIRE"

Dr. Agnew's Ointment will relieve and cure any skin disease just as surely as it cures the soldier's Erysipelas—the first application kills the "sting."

Little Backham, National Soldier's Home, in Grant County, Indiana, had a very acute attack of Erysipelas. His face and head were in terrible pain with burning and itching eruptions. A druggist recommended Dr. Agnew's Ointment as the quickest relief and cure. He bought a box and found it as good as it promised, and a few applications, to use his own words, "put out the fire and less than a box entirely cured me." Price 25c. Sold by C. W. Field.

GUTTA PERCHA CEMENT.

It is Waterproof and Elastic and is Easily Made.

It is often desirable to join articles with a strictly waterproof cement, and one which is not affected by any ordinary element or condition. An elastic gutta percha cement is easily made and will be found extremely useful to have in the house, being readily applied and of great tenacity. In households where there are children the problem of shoes is sometimes a serious one, and the possibility of putting on a few soles without the trouble and expense of sending to the shoemaker is well worth considering. An excellent cement for this purpose is made by dissolving 10 parts of gutta percha in 100 parts of benzine. When the two are perfectly and smoothly incorporated, add 100 parts of linseed oil varnish. The whole must be shaken and beaten until perfectly mixed. The pieces of leather to be joined should be rasped with a file or other rough substance in order to give the surface a grain to hold by. The preparation is applied to the sole of the shoe and the piece of leather to be affixed thereto. The sections must be pressed together and allowed to dry for some hours—a day or two is better.

This cement is extremely elastic and warranted, if properly made and applied, to resist dampness, to hold the sole firmly in place and to prove extremely durable. It costs but little and is one of those articles that no well regulated family can afford to be without. A cement for repairing rubber boots and shoes is made in two parts. The first consists of 850 parts of chloroform to 10 parts of caoutchouc, thoroughly mixed. This is kept in a glass stoppered bottle and is better if not exposed to the light. The second part consists of 40 parts of oil of turpentine, 10 parts of caoutchouc and 4 parts of resin. These are thoroughly dissolved and kept by themselves.

When mending day comes, mix equal quantities of the two solutions. Clean the rubber thoroughly, roughen it slightly with a file or rasp, have it perfectly dry, coat the rubber shoe and the patch with the preparation and allow it to remain a moment until it becomes tacky. Then unite the two, press them closely together and if possible continue the pressure for several minutes. It is well to allow the mended articles to remain in a dry and warm atmosphere for a number of hours before exposing to wet and cold. If they can be put away for several days without using, it is better. So general is the use of rubber boots and shoes, and such expensive articles are they, especially where there are large families, that any means of prolonging their usefulness is likely to be met with approval.—New York Ledger.

Worked Both Ways.

"Speaking of proverbs," remarked Mr. Blykins, thus bringing to mind the fact that nobody had mentioned proverbs, "reminds me of the loose manner in which they can be construed. When you get right down to facts, a great many of these proverbs don't amount to much."

"They're supposed to be the products of the wisest minds in many cases," replied the young woman who is popular because she listens.

"They are unquestionably. It took exceedingly clever people to make them fit all cases. I was reminded of this during a journey which I recently made. I met at a hotel a friend of mine, who is very economical and very much given to fault finding. I overheard him addressing the landlord with great vehemence. As I came up he turned to me and said: 'It's an outrage! I pay for a place to stay, and I expect to have it habitable. That landlord has given me a room so small that I have to climb into bed over the footboard. It's a case of pure avarice. He wishes to bully me into taking a more expensive apartment.' Then he heaved a sigh and exclaimed, 'Ah, the love of money! the root of all evil!' Later I met the landlord. 'I am sorry that friend of yours was dissatisfied,' he remarked. 'But he told me at the outset how much he desired to pay, and we did the very best we could for him. And now our effort to help him economize has made him a lifelong enemy to the house.' And then the landlord heaved a sigh and exclaimed, 'Ah, the love of money is the root of all evil!'—Washington Star.

The Messenger Boy's Shine.

The messenger boy was shining his shoes in a new way. He was leaning up against the side of a building, with one of his legs drawn up so as to bring a shoe within range of his arm. His outfit consisted wholly of a box of the blacking sold exclusively by street vendors. From this box with the aid of a finger he scooped a heaping teaspoonful of gummy contents with which he carefully buttered the toe of one shoe. Then he began to polish this layer of blacking with the palm of his hand.

"Well," I said, "what are you doing?" "Blackin' me shoes."

"Why are you doing that?" "Some they won't make me go ter th' bootblack as headquarters an get me shoes shined an dock me wages 30 cents fur it."

"How much do they fine you for dirty hands?"

"Nawthin, and I can wash 'em somers."

He didn't, however, but, giving them a hasty dry wash on a piece of paper which he put in his pockets and strolled away.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Wife Mats by the Foot or Yard.

Among the curious things to be seen in the hardware stores nowadays are woven wire doormats for sale by the foot or yard. It is only a few years since the manufacture of the woven wire mat was begun, but these mats have proved to be effective as dirt catchers and so light and easily cleaned that their use has spread very rapidly. During the earlier years of their manufacture each mat was woven and finished separately. Now some of the manufacturers are weaving them in lengths of 50 feet, and in such a way that they will not unravel when they are out. The mats are woven in different widths and done up in rolls like carpet.—New York Sun.

WATCHING FOR REGINALD.

He is Determined to Pursue Him to the Bitter End.

Darby is nothing if he is not sympathetic, and the other day when he was waiting for the train in the Union depot and he saw an elderly woman clad in a drab veil, white cotton gloves, fluttering white ribbons and other palpable proof of bridal attire—when Darby saw her weeping bitterly into a lace handkerchief, he approached her and said gently:

"You seem to be in trouble, my good woman. Can I help you in any way?"

"No; I don't know as you can," she replied; "not unless you can find a man who says his name is Reginald St. Clair; but like enough he lied about that, as I'm thinkin' he lied about ev'rything else, blame his pater! He said he'd meet me here at 10 o'clock this mornin', and here it's 5 in the afternoon, an I ain't seen him nor hair of 'im! He said he'd wear a red flower in his buttonhole, and here I've rushed up to half a dozen men with red flowers in their buttonholes thinkin' they was him, an one came near havin' me arrested 'cause I was so sure he was Reginald I up an kissed him!"

"Who is Reginald?"

"He's a man I've been correspondin' with. I got his name out of a paper where he'd advertised for a correspondent with a view to matrimony. I ain't never seen him, but I've had dozens of letters breathin' devotion and declarin' he couldn't wait hardly until I got my weddin' things ready, and here I sent 'im $100 three days ago 'cause he said he needed that much to furnish furnish our house and was a little short of funds. And here I've come 800 miles, and it looks mighty to me as if Reginald St. Clair ain't a-goin to show up, an if he don't I'll track 'im to the end of the earth an let 'im know he was foolin' with the wrong person when he tried to fool me! He'll give me back that hundred dollars an what I've spent for my trousseau on what it's cost me to come here. I'll let 'im know that—there's a man with a red flower in his buttonhole. Maybe that's Reginald. I'll run an see!"

But it was not Reginald, and the drab clad lady returned to Darby and said with increased ire and bitterness:

"No, it wasn't Reginald. I've about g'n 'im up now, but I'll run 'im down yet, see if I don't!"—Detroit Free Press.

BUSTER'S SOUP.

It Would Have Been Fine if the Meat Hadn't Escaped.

Buster has been making soup.

As has been explained in previous fragmentary biographical sketches ament Buster, he is just a trifle over 8 years of age.

The other day Buster's mother was busy sewing, and Mary, the cook, was out. Buster had two little girls to stay with him.

Like the little gentleman he is, Buster decided he would do the honors properly as host, and so he proposed to make some soup for his guests.

He climbed up to the kitchen sink, filled a saucepan with hot water, climbed down again and, with the aid of a chair, put it on the range.

Then he hunted around and found some potatoes, an onion and some flour. He put these in the pot. Then he put in a handful of salt, all the pepper in the box—about an ounce—and some bird seed. Then he put in the contents of the sugar bowl.

The little girls looked on with undiluted admiration, but presently one said: "Buster, dey isn't any meat in the soup."

"I never heard of soup without meat in it."

Buster looked distressed. He knew the little girl was right, and yet— Suddenly an idea came to him. He jumped from the chair, grabbed the cat and dropped her into the pot.

"Dere!" he said.

"Meow! Pht-pht! Kic-ow-ow-ow!" Pht-pht!" said the cat.

The pot was overturned, and the little girls screamed.

Then mamma appeared. "What in the land of goodness have you been doing?" she demanded, with some excitement. But Buster was too mortified at the escape of the meat from his soup to do anything but howl and say, "The old soup wouldn't stay souped."—New York World.

The Semaphore.

Shortly before the French revolution Claude Chappe at Angers invented a semaphore telegraph, consisting of relays of towers surmounted by movable arms. This plan, with modifications, was adopted in France, England and other countries. In August, 1794, the first of Chappe's lines was completed between Paris and Lille, and on Sept. 1 at noon the welcome news of the capture of the town of Conde from the Austrians was transmitted by it from Lille and announced by Carnot to the deputies in Paris the same evening.

The inventor, who was the first person that received the title of telegraph engineer (ingenieur telegraphique), as head of a telegraphic department in the military service of the first republic, was succeeded in this office by his brothers, Ignatius and Rene. During the directory, the empire and the reigns of Louis XVIII and Charles X numerous lines of this description were constructed in France. Louis Philippe secured the introduction of the electric telegraph, but both systems were in use down to the time of the Crimean war, after which the semaphore was finally abandoned.—Cornhill Magazine.

The Thankful Editor.

"During our absence from the office Wednesday evening last," writes a rural editor, "some evil minded person, thinking that we were seated at our desk, fired a load of buckshot through our window, but as a kind, protecting Providence would have it, the entire load was received by a stranger who was waiting for us in our office. There is no trace of the assassin, and at this writing the stranger who so fortunately filled our place at the time is too weak to talk. Thus is another midnight assassin foiled. The Lord will provide."—Atlanta Constitution.

The ball on Monday night was not as successful as it would have been had it not been Lenten season; many staying away on that account, but notwithstanding this drawback there was a good attendance and a most enjoyable time was spent. The music was, beyond doubt, the best ever furnished for a dance in Golden, and was kept up until 3 a.m. The amusement loving portion of our citizens are under great obligation to the Organists for providing two nights of high-class entertainment, and especially to the organist and pianist, W. The concert given by Cosgrove Orchestra was enjoyed by a fair sized audience, the programme given being varied to suit all tastes. Where all the members of a company are artists it is hard to single out any one in particular for mention but the cornet solo, was specially good and the selection played as an encore, "The Holy City," was particularly sweet. The musical novelties introduced were also very good, and the whole programme given was a treat.

The people of Golden, of whatever belief, are invited to attend, and anyone can enter or leave the church at any time during the service, but while a hymn is being sung is suggested as the best time, as less liable to disturb or attract attention. There will also be an evening service with sermon at 8 o'clock. The services on Easter day will be at 8 a.m., 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. All seats free.

A BOY'S LIFE SAVED.

A Grateful Mother Writes About the Rescue of Her Child.

PAINE'S
CELERY COMPOUND
Triumphed After a Physician's Failure.

Mrs. G. Stone, of Eganville, Ont., grateful for the rescue of her little boy from death, writes as follows:

"I think it my duty to inform you of what Paine's Celery Compound has done for my little boy. He became very ill and had the attendance of our physician, but no good results were apparent. The dangerous turns to which my boy was subject became more frequent, and always worse in winter. He would become pale as death, feet and hands icy cold, and vomiting always followed. He seemed to be powerless, and for days could not lift his head from the pillow. After trying various kinds of medicine we decided to give Paine's Celery Compound for him. One bottle made him well, and since that time he has not been ill. I have every reason to believe he is permanently cured."

In face of such testimony who can deny the fact that Paine's Celery Compound saves life? Hundreds of such letters as Mrs. Stone's are on file for the inspection of doubters.

When your children are nervous, fretful, despondent, sleepless, weak, rundown, have loss of appetite, slow circulation of blood and decreasing in weight, give them Paine's Celery Compound for a week or two, and note well the cheering results in returning health and vigor. We strongly urge the immediate use of the great medicine for all sickly and weak boys and girls.
