A WEST FORK CLAIM

Bonded to P. McMillan of Toronto.

MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS

In the Morrison Mine to Consider the Assessment Question. Mining Notes.

This week P. McMillan, of Toronto, secured an option from H. E. Mitchell and Thos. Murray on the Gold Drop mineral claim for $8,000. The option is for three months, and terms of payment $4,000 cash and balance in stock. The Gold Drop is situated on Dry Creek, a tributary of the West Fork of Kettle river, and is about three miles from the town of Rendell. Two assessments have been done on the property. At a depth of 10 feet the ledge is four feet in width, giving average assays running from $50 to upwards of $100 in gold and silver. Mr. McMillan has gone te Toronto, and on his return in the course of a month or six week, development will be commenced on the property.

A meeting of the local shareholders of Morrison stock was called for yesterday afternoon to discuss the two-cent assessment being levied. There is a growing feeling among local and eastern stockholders that assessments are becoming too numerous, and that amounts collected are not being devoted to development of the property solely, and also that the managing directorate are too expensive. The matter will be taken into the courts if redress cannot be had otherwise. The mine is considered one of the best in the Boundary district, and, although a sufficient sum has been furnished to place it on a shipping basis, the property is not yet in a position to make continuous shipments.

There is a possibility of work being shortly resumed on either the Hidden Treasure or the Gold Bug mineral claim, in Deadwood camp. These claims adjoin and are situate between the Mother Lode and the Morrison. A. Drucker, the owner, is now here on a visit and during the week he went over the claims with a view to determining what work appears to promise best results. A tunnel was run into the hill towards the Morrison in 1899, but for some time past the claims, which have been crown granted, have not had any work done on them.

A. G. Davis, superintendent of the Rambler group, returned to Greenwood this week, after a two-weeks' visit to Fairhaven and other Puget Sound cities. Mr. Davis went to the coast to consult with stockholders in the company for which he is local manager. He reports business good in all the cities he visited.

Walter G. Stephan, who has been in charge of the ore sorting plant at the Mother Lode mine, went out on last Wednesday's train to Rossland, en route to his home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Two burros, for use in hauling ore cars at the 200-foot level of the Mother Lode mine were brought over from Carson last Tuesday.

THE MORRISON.

The following notice of assessments with information relating thereto, has been issued by the Morrison Mines, Limited:

Spokane, Wash , April 23, 1901.

Assessment No. 10 of One Cent per share has been levied by the directors of the Morrison Mines, Limited, and same must be paid at this office on or before 20 days from date.

Also Assessment No. 11 of One Cent per share has been levied by the directors of the Morrison Mines, Limited, and same must be paid at this office on or before the 5th day of June, 1901. In default your stock will become delinquent and liable to be sold.

Yours truly,
A. F. OLIVER,
Secretary.

The above assessments were levied to pay off an indebtedness of about $5,000; to continue the development work at the mine; to build a spur from the mine to the railroad, a distance of one and one-fourth miles; and to add additional machinery.

On the 21st day of February last the Morrison company entered into a contract with the Standard Pyritic Smelter company, at Greenwood, to handle the ore from the mine. The contract called for about 70,000 tons of ore and under the said contract the Smelter company was to do the mining and smelting, all ore shipped from the mine to net the Morrison Company not less than $1.00 per ton, and from this up according to the grade of ore. In order to carry out their contract it was necessary that a railroad spur be constructed, and in the agreement entered into a provision was made that the contract should not take effect for 90 days, during which time the spur could be built. We have recently been informed that they do not intend carrying out the contract. It is now the intention of the directors to try and make a contract with some other smelter, and if successful, to begin construction of a spur at once. Should we not be successful in contracting our ore at the present time, the money will be expended in the further development of the mine, and the spur constructed as soon as a satisfactory contract for the ore can be made.

When the contract with the Pyritic Smelter people was entered into, we fully believed the agreement would be carried out, and we therefore cut off assessments; and if said contract had been carried out no further assessments would have been levied. The mine is now in position to maintain a large daily tonnage, and as soon as a reasonable and fair contract can be made, regular shipments will be maintained.

Respectfully,
F. H. OLIVER,
Manager.

LE ROI, ROSSLAND.

The secretary of the Le Roi company has just made public some interesting information regarding the position of the company on March 1st last. On that date the indebetedness to the Bank of Montreal was $775,000, against which there was matte in transit to the refinery and ore at the smelter of an approximate value of $1,085,000. In explaining this big overdraft at the bank the secretary said: "Unfortunately this ore does not become cash immediately, and in the meantime it is necessary to develop the mine and pay for the machinery and wages. Had the smelter been completed, as was expected, by the middle of January, the increased returns would have enabled us to pay off our indebetedness to the bank pnd start with a clean sheet."

THE ATHELSTAN.

D. Oxley, manager of the Athelstan, in Wellington camp, was in town yesterday. Shipments of ore from this property to date aggregate about 1,750 tons, of which 1,200 were sent out during 1900 and 550 since the beginning of the present year. No ore is being shipped at present but it is expected that arrangements will be made later to resume shipping. The development work done on this claim consists of about 260 feet of sinking and raising and 185 feet of drifting and crosscutting.

SMITH CAMP CLAIMS

Work of Development Has Been Resumed.

THE REPUBLIC AND NONE SUCH

Are Now Shipping Ore to the Smelters—Oldest Locations in the District.

A carload of ore from the Republic group, near Boundary Falls, was sent to the Greenwood smelter early in the week, this being the first shipment made from those claims. The group includes the Republic, Last Chance, Non Such and Hidden Treasure claims, all adjoining, and situate about a mile north-west of the Boundary Falls townsite. The Non Such has the distinction of being the oldest location in the Boundary district, that is to say its record has been kept continuously on the books of the district mining recorder ever since the location was made by W. T. Smith in 1886. There may have been one or two locations made in the district before the Non Such but if so they were not kept on record from time of first record to the present.

The group has been owned for the last five or six years by the Republic Gold Mining company, of Spokane, Mr. Smith having been its managing director ever since its organization. The claims are all crown granted and consequently there has not been any necessity to do work on them during the last two or three years. The development work done on them to date is as under: Republic, shaft 100 feet; Last Chance, shaft 100 feet and crosscut 25 feet; Non Such, shaft 50 feet, raise 67 feet, lower tunnel 350 feet and upper tunnel 330 feet; total 1,022 feet of underground work. Only surface prospecting has been done on the Hidden Treasure. The ore is generally quartz, containing values in gold and silver. That from both the Republic and Last Chance is freely mineralized with galena and iron pyrites and is generally in appearance one of the nicest looking ores yet found in the district, although it does not show so much native silver as that from the Gold Bug and D. A. claims, located north-west of Greenwood by D. A. Holbrook. It is intended to continue making small shipments of ore from the Republfc group to the Greenwood smelter.

OLD IRONSIDES AND KNOB HILL.

Ore shipments from the Old Ironsides and Knob Hill group of mines for the month of April totalled 18,904 tons. For the four months of this year ending April 30, the tonnage was 73,522 tons. Adding last year's tonnage of 64,535 tons the aggregate to the end of last month was 138,057 tons.

Six 3¼ and three No. 0 Little Giant drills were lately received at these mines, and last week a 5x5 auxilliary hoisting engine was ordered from the Jenckes Machine company. The extensive additions it is proposed to shortly make to the machinery and plant, with which to operate the mines on an increasingly large scale, will include a 40 or 45-drill air compressor, two large air receivers, about 40 machine drills, a large rock crusher and a full complement of boilers—probably a battery of about 600 horse power. The compressor will be a cross compound condensing Corliss engine, with compound air cylinders, and it is likely to be similar to those in use at the Centre Star and War Eagle mines at Rossland, which can be driven by either steam or electricity. The rock crusher will probably be one with a daily capacity of 2,000 tons. Should this additional plant be put in, as it very likely will be, the Old Ironsides and Knob Hill group will then have the biggest power equipment in the Boundary district.

UNION NOTES.

The undermentioned labor organizations were formed in British Columbia during the month of March: At Vancouver, a building trades council, composed of two delegates from each union of the building trades; at New Westminster, a longshoremen's union, with a membership of 130, including all the longshoremen in that city; and at New Westminster a tramway employees' union, numbering 22 members with other applications for memqership. It is announced that the Vancouver city council will in future require the union label on all clothing made for its civic officials. During the month deputy inspector W.T. Cokeby, of the provincial government service, returned to the United States 27 Japanese, who had crossed into Canada in violation of the provincial Act in this connection.

REVENUE COLLECTIONS.

Inland revenue collections at the Greenwood office during the month of April amounted to $863.95, and customs duty collections to $2,493 41. The collections in both departments for the four months ending April 30th totalled $18,744.76, as under:

January...	$1,523.51	$1,680.60	$3,204.11

To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." THE NO. 7 MACHINERY

Was Started Up During the Past Week.

DEVELOPMENT BEING DONE

Consists of Enlarging and Retimbering the Main Shaft and Drifting.

Steam was got up for the first time early in the current week in the new 100-horse power boiler lately installed at the No. 7 mine, in Central camp. The No. 7 is the only mine being worked in that camp at the present time. It is owned by the No. 7 Mining company, of New York, the principal shareholders being also leading members of the British Columb.a Copper company, which has done such extensive and successful work in developing the Mother Lode mine, in Deadwood camp. The No. 7 was acquired under bond by Col. John Weir for himself and New York associates about the same time as they secured the Mother Lode, and it was first worked, concurrently with the latter, in 1896-7. A shaft was sunk 139 feet, and between 400 and 500 feet of crosscutting and drifting was done at that depth, this work resulting in its being conclusively shown that the lead gave excellent promise of proving permanent. The ore is quartz, mineralized with galena and carrying values chiefly in gold and silver. Surface croppings indicated that the lead was continuous for about 700 feet in the northern part of the claim, but higher up the hill, to the south of the shaft, an old ravine, filled with wash, cut it off. A prospect shaft sunk still farther south picked up the lead again. After the year 1897 very little work was done on the claim, only sufficient to fulfil the requirements of the law in this connection, until a crown grant was obtained, and since then no work was done underground until this year. When the No. 7 company was organized, a year or more ago, mine buildings were erected, mine timbers and cordwood were cut and other preparations were made for further opening up the mine, but this intention was abandoned for a time, and attention was concentrated on the Mother Lode. Now, however, conditions being more further favorable, the No. 7 is to be developed.

Brief mention was made in the Miner last month of the plant a short time previously taken up to the mine and of the work done in it since the resumption of operations. The machinery, plant, etc., include a class A Ingersoll-Sergeant straight line air compressor, capable of running three to four E 24 drills, two machine drills, an air receiver, a 100-horse power horizontal return tubular boiler, a Lidgerwood hoisting engine with 32-inch drum and cylinders 8¼x10, a number 5 Cameron sinking pump, a Northey tank pump, a Northey duplex boiler feed pump, feed water heater, shaft skip, four ore cars, 500 feet of steel rope, 1500 feet of pipe, 1000 feet of steel rails, and a lot of sundries. The development work done lately consists of enlarging and re-timbering the main shaft and of running about 170 feet of drift. Besides this a prospect shaft has been sunk 45 feet on an adjoining fraction belonging to the No. 7 group. About 125 tons of ore were taken from the drift at the 65-foot level and some 25 tons of this were sent to the smelter at Greenwood. A gallows frame is now being erected and matters generally on the claim are being put in shape for getting out ore regularly. Frederic Keffer, of Anaconda, is the company's mining manager.

LOST $47.

On Sunday last, Chas. Martin, the Government shoemaker, left his house about 12 o'clock and returned about 4. During his absence, someone entered the building through a back window and stole $47 in gold and silver, which he had in his trunk. A purse, containing $117 in bank bills, which he had thrown on his bed, was overlooked by the thief.

Strawberries and all kinds of fruit received daily at the Candy Factory.

A carload of fine potatoes at Bannerman Bros., only $1.50 per cwt.

LOCALS AND PERSONALS.

Born on the 29th ult., to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goforth, of Greenwood, a son.

E. Kerfoot, Greenwood street, has a fine display of vegetables from Ferguson's ranch.

Rev. B. H. Balderston is in Rossland attending the district meeting of the Methodist church.

J. H. McFarlane is about again after three weeks' illness, first with la gaippe and afterwards with pneumonia.

Announcement has been made that the Phoenix miners' union will hold a ball at Phoenix next Friday night.

J. W. Mellor is inviting tenders for the erection of a stone and brick building on Copper street, Greenwood.

A. F. H. Meyer, clerk and storekeeper at the Mother Lode mine, was on the sick list for two or three days this week.

J. C. Haas left by yesterday's train for Spokane. He purposes returning to Greenwood about ten days hence and will then probably arrange to remain here.

Wallace O. Wright has been appointed secretary of the Greenwood club in succession to A. Ferguson, who lately resigned. There were four applicants for the position.

Mrs. Keffer has been successful in growing roses during several seasons. Just now she has in her greenhouse at Anaconda, three beautiful white tea roses which are almost perfect blooms.

Julius and Mrs. Ehrlich returned yesterday from their honeymoon trip. They visited Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and cities of Southern California. Mr. and Mrs. Ehrlich are residing on Silver street.

The Rossland Industrial World has become a daily, and is now The Evening World. It is well patronized by advertisers, neat typographically, gives a full telegraph and local news service, and is independent politically. The Miner wishes the World success.

There was an attendance of between 40 and 50 members of Boundary Valley Lodge No. 38, I. O. O. F., at the anniversary service held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening. The singing was a special feature of the service, particularly a trio by Messrs. Harris, Smith and Whiteside.

When the amendments to the Mineral Act proposed by the Minister of Mines was submitted to the provincial legislature last Tuesday night strong feeling was shown, it is stated, during their discussion against any change being made this session, and it was considered probable that none would be made.

J. W. H. Smythe, manager of the Greenwood branch of the Bank of Commerce, who was the representative of the Greenwood board of trade on the delegation to Ottawa to request the federal government to assist the silver-lead industry by bonussing the manufacture of lead products, has returned from the east.

Fred Roy has completed the requisite formalities, so the Inland Revenue collector at Greenwood has released to him his stock of tobacco leaf, and he is now at liberty to commence the manufacture of cigars in Greenwood. He is commencing operations in Jas. Sutherland's building adjoining the Greenwood hotel.

A. N. Pelly has returned from a trip to the Bridge river district, above Lillooet, where he is interested with Leslie Hill, C. E., in a gold mining venture, of which W. Barktr, formerly of the Skylark and Jewel mines, in this district, is now in charge. Mr. Barker's numerous friends in the Boundary will be glad to hear that he is well and, as usual, doing good work.

Rain and melting snow together caused the water in Boundary creek to rise considerably early in the week and as a result the cribbing put in last fall near the Auditorium has been damaged. The city engineer had several men at work for two or three days putting in rocks and willow cuttings to prevent more of the gravel being washed out from behind the crib work, so that it is not now likely that more damage will be done at this spot by the water.

Robert Denzler, one of the pioneer prospectors of Greenwood camp, has returned to the district on a visit and is saying at the Imperial hotel, Greenwood. He was one of the locators of the War Eagle claim, in Greenwood camp, which location was recorded on August 20, 1891. Later he acquired some valuable mining interests in that camp, including the Snowshoe, of which he held a third when it was sold to the British Columbia (Rossland and Slocan) Syndicate, Ltd., now operating it. He is accompanied by J. S. Johnstone, who also lately came up from Spokane.

A despatch sent from Grand Forks to the Nelson Miner states that a charge has been made that J. K. Johnson, who is police magistrate at Grand Forks, withheld $100, collected by him on a judgmeat obtained by Burr Heffiman against E. Kelly. After pressure had been brought upon Johnson to compel payment he gave Heffleman a check which was dishonored upon presentation at the bank for payment. The further statement is made on affidavit apparently covering the charge as regards with-holding the money but carefully avoiding the matter of the dishonored cheque allegations.

The tennis season was opened at Greenwood last Saturday afternoon, when a number of members of the Greenwood tennis club, with several friends, met at the club's court in the northern part of the town. The gathering included about a dozen ladies and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. The ground selected by the second tennis club, organized about a fortnight ago, for its court has been cleared and levelled and no pains are being spared to make of it a really good court. Being near both the business and residential parts of the town, the new court will be found to be conveniently situared.

At a public meeting held on Wednesday evening, it was decided to give a complimentary smoker to the men in Greenwood who lately returned from active service in South Africa. A subcommittee has in hand the making of arrangements for the entertainment, which will be held in the Auditorium on the night of Monday, 13th inst. It is hoped that Alex. Shaw will have returned by that date, although his relatives here have not yet received definite information as to when he was to leave England

It is stated that about 188,000 shares of Morrison stock were represented at last night's meeting, held to consider the recent assessment levy. Resolutions were adopted calling upon the directorate of the company to produce at the registered office of the company certain share registers and other books of record and an estimate upon which the last assessments were based.

Several men employed in connection with the surveys now being made in the district by the V. V. & E. railway company came to town this week. To-day they are making camp up at the Last Chance mine, within a mile of Greenwood. It is stated that 14 or 15 men will be engaged in endeavoring to find a practicable route for a railway between Midway and Phoenix, as a part of the Coast-Kootenay road. Messrs. Kennedy and Bell are expected to arrive today from Grand Forks, and the former, who has general charge of all the surveys being made by the V. V. & E. in the Boundary district, will leave Mr. Bell in charge of the local party. Mr. Bell only lately arrived in the district from the east.

R. M. Palmer, of Victoria. and Thos. G Earl, of Lytton, are in the city. The former is a special commissioner appointed by the provincial government to make enquiries relating to agricultural produce, markets for the same in this province and the north-west, and freight rates charged between the producing districts and such markets; also as to what agricultural produce, fruit, etc., comes into the province from Eastern Canada and the United States respectively. Mr. Earl is here inspecting fruit and nursery stock and other horticultural matters.

Under the auspices of the citizen's band there was given in the opera house on Thursday evening one of the finest Scottish entertainments that has ever been held in Stratford. Mr. Garvin Spence, Scottish vocalist, was ably assisted by Miss Flora McDonald, who in her rendition in the several duets showed remarkable dramatic talent and a rich voice. They are, without doubt, star performers of the first order. The audience, though small, through some unforeseen reason, were electrified by the great vocal and dramatic ability of the singers, and should occasion bring them again they no doubt command a bumper house.—Stratford Herald.

WAS TURNED DOWN

Tramway Bylaw Thrown Out.

THE COMPANY WANTED A CINCH

And Were Raised Out—Other Business Transacted at the Meeting.

All the members of council, with the exception of Alderman Miller, were present at Monday night's meeting. There were also quite a number of citizens present to hear discussion on the tramway bylaw. H. C. Shaw presented final agreement of the tramway promoters, and stated that no further concessions would be made by his principals. City Solicitor J. P. Myers-Gray was present to advise the alderment on legal points. After discussing the bylaw in committee for about an hour, Clause one was defeated, all voting against it excepting the chairman. This vote settled the tramway proposition.

Communications were read and disposed of as follows:

From Wm. Downie, superintendent of the Columbia and Western railway, stating that he had given instructions for removal of dam on Boundary creek. Received and filed.

Fire chief reported names of firemen who turned out to fire at Reco laundry, recommending payment. Report received and filed and amounts ordered paid.

From I. H. Hallett, asking that water be turned into pipe on Long Lake street, and enclosing $3.75 as payment for city water for his garden. Clerk asked for instructions on this request, as some expense would be necessary in order to make connections. Referred to waterworks committee.

Tenders were received from Allmacher & Wilson, F. J. Mitchell, B. L. Wood and W. Elson for furnishing clothing for city pplice. Referred to a spocial committee composed of Aldermen Ross and Sullivan.

From Beath & Orak, account of $50 for amount due them on wagon trade with city. Referred to finance committee.

Alderman Sullivan, chairman of street committee, recommended that council should lower sidewalk on south side of Greenwood street to grade in accordance with agreement entered into with Miller Bros. City engineer was instructed to call for tenders for lowering sidewalk to grade, and also for construction of a crossing on Gold street at end of Block J., contractors in both cases to pay union scale of wages. On this motion Alderman Ross voted nay.

Alderman Ross reported an indigent down with typhoid fever at Ladysmith hotel. He suggested that the city should either hire physican at stated salary, or procure hospital accommodation for indigent sick, as the present arrangement was too expensive. Referred to board of health.

Alderman Caulfield introduced street sprinkling bylaw, No. 62, which was read a first and second time.

It was moved by Alderman Naden, seconded by Alderman Caulfield, that the $5,000, now placed to the trust account of the city be transferred to the general account. Carried. This is the amount deposited by the tramwa company as forfeit in case of non-fulfilment of contract with city.

Council adjourned.

We observe that our esteemed contemporaries, the Revelstoke Herald and the Greenwood Miner, have enlarged, and present not only a neat typographical appearance, but are truly metropolitan in proportions. Revelstoke and Greenwood are to be conaratulated along with the Herald and Miner, for there is no surer indication of the growth and prosperity of a community than when reflected in the business like appearance of the paper printed within its limits. It is a sure barometer. The Herald and Miner are all right and so are the towns in which they are published.—Trail News.

SATURDAY, MAY 4, 1901.

The city council did just what the majority of the electors expected them to do with the tramway agreement Monday night. The bylaw which it was proposed to submit to the people, would have tied up a very valuable franchise for twelve months, without any guarantee that the promoters would build the tramway or be instrumental in the erection of another smelter in Greenwood. The smelter proposition is not a very pressing one at the present time, nor will it be until the mines are further developed. The three smelters of the district can handle the output for the next twelve months. If Mr. Breen intends building a smelter for the Stemwinder group in Greenwood camp, it will take at least a year's development before the properties will be in a position to ship regularly two hundred tons per day, so there is no urgent need of another smelter for some time to come.

An outside subscriber wants to know all about the company working the "booming" placer system on Rock creek. The Miner is not in a position to give any information about the prospects of the company. Many experienced mining men in Greenwood say that the theory of "booming" is all right, and have backed up their opinions by putting money into the scheme. Whether the results will bear out these opinions remains to be seen. The greater part of the stock of the company is held by local men, and if mining men on the ground are willing to gamble on the proposition, the outside investors are at least taking no greater risks than local men. To the person unacquainted with mining, any investment is a gamble. He is compelled to depend upon the opinion of another person, and that opinion may be either interested or disinterested.

It is amusing to read the reports from South Africa in regard to the marvellous captures of cattle by the British. Now and then half a dozen Boers are caught, but, on the whole the quarter of a million British soldiers who are scouring the veldt seem to be warring chiefly upon the live stock of the Republics. The intrepid General So-and-So goes out on an expedition and returns with enormous flocks of sheep which he surrounded and captured in the most dashing style, the four footed foe being unable to make any resistance to the mountain howitzers, pompoms and bayonets of the enemy. There never was such fighting in all the world's history as Britain's warriors are now engaged in, and the success with which they are waging war upon the dumb animals of Boerland would make a Chicago meat packer turn green with envy.—Bossburg Journal.

The publisher of the Bossburg Journal, A. A. Anderson, is the last person from whom such a criticism of the British would be expected. Mr. Anderson lived for a number of years in Vancouver and was at that time considered a level-headed young man. A short time ago he was elected as representative to the state legislature at Washington. The Miner then said Mr. Anderson was too honest to be a successful politician. It appears that the Miner was wrong in its estimafe of the man. The Journal will please note that the British have not violated any of the usages of civilized nations, as was done in the capture of the Filipino leader by General Funston.

CARIBOO HYDRAULIC COMPANY.

In the annual report of the provincial minister of mines for 1900 the district gold commissioner said of the Consolidated Cariboo Hydraulic Mining company: This is undoubtedly the largest hydraulic plant in the province and will take rank with the largest in the world. During the past five years most elaborate preparatorp work has been prosecuted uninterruptedly, from one to two hundred men having been engaged During the process of opening up the property to its present state something like half a million dollars in gold dust has been produced. As the mine can hardly be said to be fairly opened up as yet, and as practically all the enormous preliminary expenditure for ditches, flumes, dams, piping, etc , has been met, satisfactory dividends seem eventually assured.

From the report of John B. Hobson, manager of the company on its operations for the season of 1900 it is learned that 1,843,938 cubic yards of gravel, etc., were washed during the season, producing 20,471 ounces of gold valued at $350,085,77. This gave an average yield of 18 98-100 cents per cubic yard of gravel washed and an average product per washing day of $2,041.30. The financial results of the seasons operations were the most satisfactory of any year in the company's history. A summary of the accounts for 1900 shows that the bullion yield for the season was $350,085.77 and miscellaneous receipts $3,080.30, giving a total revenue of $353,146.07. The operating expenses were $151,181.72, depreciation $2,177.03, and head office expenses $1,907.58; total $155,366.33. This left a credit balance on the seasons operations of $197,879.74, or within a fraction of five per cent. on the company's capital of $4,000,000.

The following particulars are taken from the manager's report for the year 1900: The property comprises thirty-four placer mining leases, aggregating 2,584 acres of land, covering, for a distance of abovt ten miles, the auriferous deposits of a system of ancient rivers. The deposits included in the company's property vary from 400 to 600 feet in depth from surface to bottom of channel. The quantity is estimated at 500,000,000 cubic yerds of high grade auriferous gravel that is available for future washing by the hydraulic process. The average gold tenure is moderately estimated at twenty cents per cubic yard and the total gold content $100,000,000. The company's water supply system consists of 33 miles of well constructed canals, having a capacity for delivering at the nine 5,000 miners' inches of water under a head of 420 feet. The mine equipment includes a portable hydraulic plant of four lines of 30-inch and 22-inch rivited steel pipes, aggregating 6,000 feet, and six No. 8 Hydraulic Giants, with deflecting nozzles, varying from six to ten inches in diametor. The gold saving appliances consist of a double extended system of sluices seven feet wide by four feet deep, aggregating 2,380 feet in length. This system of sluices is paved partly with end-wood sluice blocks one foot thick, and partially with improved longitudinal steel riffles. Fixtures and longitudal steel riffiles are on hand for the installation of two undercurrents for the recovery of flour-quicksilver, fine gold, platinum and osmiridium that cannot be recovered in the ordinary sluices. The melting plant consists of three fitted with iron Liebig condensors for distillation of quicksilver, having a capacity for treating 12,000 ounces of gold at a single charge; two furnaces for melting, and other appliances for handling ingots of gold weighing up to 12,000 ounces; also a complete assay outfit for determining the value of bullion.

The total expenditure up to 1899 inclusive was $439,026 and the gold yield $528,000. Adding the figures for 1900, as given above, it would appear that the total receipts to the beginning of 1901 were $881,146 and the expenditure $549,292, leaving a balance to the good of $286,854. It may be of interest to add that the ingot of gold sent from this mine to New York last October weighing 9,058 ounces and valued at $154,848, was described in New York newspapers as the largest single lump of gold ever received in the city.

THE SULTAN'S JUBILATE.

You gush about your emperors,
Your kaisers, kings and czars,
"Just puppets all," compared with us;
The "Sultans of the cars."

We rule this blooming nation from
Acadia to the Sound;
And never was invented yet
Dominion so profound.

To rule like kings, by love or fear,
Is ancient, foolish rot;
We rule; decreeing what shall grease,
The frying pan and pot.

We pay our nabobs handsomely,
And give 'em lots o' snaps;
In gratitude, they help us buy
The common sort o' chaps.

And O'! the market's glutted;
We can buy 'em at a price
That holds 'em down to wish bones,
And a little bread and rice.

This keeps 'em nice and 'umble,
Just the proper frame of mind.
Control the grub, and yo'll control
The lot o' human-kind.

Sometimes the crowd at Ottawa
Pretends to make a fuss,
They bluff, an' talk o' taxin' us,
Their bark ain't worth a cuss.

We treat the gentry 'ansomely,
We never grudge a pass,
An' he as can't reciprocate's
A blind, ungrateful ass.

In this refrain we don't complain,
Knee deep in clover yet,
Whilst foolish tools don't know enough,
To get in, out the wet.

Oh say! the tribute flows our way,
Day-long and thro' the night;
In every rib our Sultanship
is tickled with delight.

With a noble band of spotters,
With the blacklists' magic spell,
We trace our prey like Pinkertons,
And run 'em plumb to

Well, never mind geography,
Some places on the map,
Like some left out, would only suit
A chilly kind o' chap.

We've got the land, the ships and cars,
We've got the road-bed too,
We work it "All Canadian,"
Or we work it by the "Soo."

It all depends on "Business."
St. John's or Halifax,
We'll make it Portland, Boston,
Do but whisper "Income tax,"

So care we cheerfully bequeth,
To kaiser, king and czar,
Your empty dinner pails fill up,
And drink "The Seepeeaar."

AT THE CEMETERY.

To one not heedful of the slowing augmenting number of deaths that occur as time passes, in this comparatively new district it comes as somewhat of a surprise to find that there are about a hundred graves in the Greenwood cemetery. And yet when one counts those of his own friends and acquaintances who where members of the community but who have during this comfour or five years passed away the last and then adds the large number to their rest, it may be, were strangers to him, it comes home to him that since the town had all who, died either when came into existence, of seven in it or within a radius terred for eight miles, have been inhumed in the local burying ground, one hundred would not nearly represent the total number. Not that the mortality is unusually large here, but that as the years pass the aggregate number of deaths necessarily increases until, as already suggested, it surprises those who do not ordinarily observe its gradual mounting up.

The ground set apart for burial purposes is distant about three miles north from the business portion of Greenwood. It has been thoroughly cleared, enclosed by a neat picket fence and platted. The soil is sandy, so that no difficulty is experienced in grave digging. When cleared not a single tree was left standing, consequently the couple of acres fenced have a very bare appearance. This objection will not, however, permanently remain, for already young pines or firs are springing up, so that two or three years hence there should be a number of shapely indigenous trees ornamenting this "God's Acre," as in older lands a burial ground is frequently designated.

Entering the cemetery through the southern gate—by the way, it is a pity that it is not someone's duty to see that the gate is not left open after burials take place, else is the fencing of little use as a protection to the graves from damage by horses and cattle—the first grave to catch the eye is that of "Baby Branson, aged five," which bears inside its simple inscription the single word "REST." It is pathetic to note the number of infants' graves there are here, suggesting that Death has been no respector of persons, but has claimed as his own numerous little ones whose loss has darkened homes previously made brighter by their presence. The name Laura Johns on one small grave recalls the memory of a three year old child who a little more than twelve months ago was the light of a home at the Mother Lode mine. Baby Swanson died at Phoenix, and near by one reads the names of Baby Sewell, Baby Wood and Thomas Butler, the last the infant son of one of Greenwood's pioneer residents. There are other diminutive graves, but attention is turned from them to observe the large proportion of men, and comparatively young men particularly, who have found their last resting place in this quiet spot. It seems, judging by the story told by a number of the inscriptions, mostly pencilled on plain boards, (probably to identify the locations after removal from the old cemetery) that death here finds most victims among men ranging between the ages of 25 and 40. How many tales of tragic and premature ending to lives once full of promise of lasting to the allotted three score and ten, might be told of those whose earthly remains lie hidden beneath the mounds raised above their last, long homes. Here is the grave of George Edwards, who met an untimely death in the Jewel mine at Long Lake; there are seen the all too brief words, "McCormack, killed at Old Ironsides;" again, it is Samuel Feora, cruelly murdered for his money and his murderer still at liberty, with no effective steps ever taken to bring him to account for his crime; and yet again, a block of grey granite, in which are cut these words: "In loving memory of Robert Brash Miller, Dominion Land Survey, who died at James creek, Jan. 23rd, 1899, aged 42 years." brings up the recollection of one who wandered from a railway survey camp to meet a lonely death in the snow. Tragedies truly, for here lie rash David Bryant, who had many friends alike among townspeople and prospectors, and E. A. Bielenberg, the "Count," as he was familiarly called. Poor Bielenberg, lying within sight of the group of mineral claims, distant but a mile or so, the sale of which gave him his start in this district on what might, under other conditions, have proved the road to wealth. Like many more of us he had his faults, but "Requiescat in pace." Over another grave is an inscription: "Sacred to the memory of Richard Noble Taylor, died December 30, 1896," of whom those who in Greenwood's early days had the privilege of his friendship had nothing but kind words to say. He it was who of this town's pioneer residents, led the way to death's dark vale, for he was the first to break life's circle in the embryo city and go to that dark bourne from which no traveller returns.

The single word "Paton" on a stake reminds earlier residents of another good fellow to whom death came without warning, heart disease suddenly striking him down. A head board bearing the lettering "F. L. H. Robbins, born Amherstburg, Ontario, October 30, 1870, died Phoenix, B. C., October 25, 1899," tells the brief story of another untimely death. Another inscription is singular in its preciseness of detail: "In memory of R. E. Caverly, born September 26, 1868, died March 27, 1900, age 31 years, 6 months and 1 day." A fenced plot is the grave of Chas Peterson, connected with whose death were circumstances peculiar in their painfulness. That unfortunate man was killed by a fall of rock in a working on a mineral claim on Boomerang creek, a tributary of the West Fork of Kettle river. The camp was an isolated one—miles away from any other. In it were only two other persons, viz., the wife and the mining partner of the deceased. When the death occurred the newly made widow had to spend hours alone with the mangled body of her dead husband, an agonizing experience, whilst the partner went away for assistance. Enough of such reminisences.

Before concluding with the mention of the graves of two of the very few women buried here, mention will be made of two others whose bodies also lie in this cemetery. George Shipley, who only a fortnight since departed this life, was well known in the town and district. The other was an old timer in a truer sense of the word than is generally meant when used. For instance, the district Pioneers' society acknowledges as pioneers all who came to the district up to the summer of 1894, from those old veterans, Charley Dietz and "Jolly Jack," down to the spick and span dude, whom the designation "pioneer" so ill befits. But the late Jim McConnell was a veritable pioneer, for he was at Rock creek as early as 1862. He was a native of Tyrone, Ireland, and much might be written of the vicissitudes of his changeful life, but this is scarcely the occasion with which to associate much detail of it. Briefly, though, it may be stated that he was about 1864-5, foreman or manager for the late Judge Haynes, long a cattle king at Osoyoos, who in 1875, assisted him to secure the land at what was then known as Grand Prairie but now as Grand Forks He was the first man to drive cattle from the Boundary to the Northwest, his accomplishment of taking 400 head over the old Dewdney trail and thence through the Crow's Nest Pass having long since been regarded as no mean undertaking. Later he owned the Rock creek coal lands, which he sold to the Thompson-Wood syndicate. He lived for a while in Victoria and went thence to California. Then he drifted back to the Rock creek district, in which he spent the closing years of his life, until his removal to the Greenwood hospital, where he died on May 8, 1898.

The most pretentious tombstone in the Greenwood cemetery is one "In memory of Margaret Currie, wife of Thomas Hardy. Born July 30, 1862, died June 25, 1899." It is solid and handsome, the upper part red granite on a base of gray granite. Over the inscription are clasped hands, carved out of the granite. This monument is enduring and in excellent taste. In another part of the cemetery an enclosed plot marks the grave of Alice Palmer, a general favorite, cut off in the bloom of young womanhood, and one whose early death was widely deplored. Of course there are numbers of others buried here of whom interesting notes might be made, chiefly miners and prospectors, but for the present nothing more will be added than that Chinese inscriptions and partly burned wax tapers mark the graves of two Chinamen, whose remains will very probably be some day removed to the Flowery Land.

THE WINNIPEG.

Under date of April 29th Richard Plewman, managing director of the Winnipeg Mines, limited, issued a circular letter in which it was announced that the winze on the No. 2 north vein of the Winnipeg was then down 100 feet and that drifting east on the ore body had commenced. This drift will be known at the 400-foot level. The winze in going down from the 300-foot level passed through 73 feet of solid ore, two feet wide at the top and twelve feet in width at the bottom. A bunk-house, to accommodate 35 men, is now being built at the mine.

CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

In a write-up of the financial institutions of Seattle, Wash., the Star, of that city has the following to say of the Canadian Bank of Commerce:

"It would be impossible to adequately treat of the great Northwest region, including Washington, Oregon, British Columbia, Alaska and the Yukon Territory, without special mention of that powerful financial institution, the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which throughout this country has become typically representative of strength, usefulness and helpfulness. In a spirit of giving credit to whom credit is due, it must be justly acknowledged that no financial institution American or foreign has done more for the development of this section of the world than has the Canadian Bank of Commerce. This statement, of course, must be considered inclusive of the Bank of British Columbia which on January 1st of the present year—the first day of the new century—united its existence with the Canadian Bank of Commerce under the name of the latter bank. The Bank of British Columbia had occupied a leading position on this coast, and enjoyed a prestige in financial circles the world over. But its headquarters were in London, and owing to the inconvenience of administering its affairs by a board of directors on the other side of the Atlantic, it was decided best to make overtures for a merger with a chartered bank of Canada, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, whose eastern reputation is second to none, and whose business in this western country was already of a highly satisfactory character, was selected as the institution most desireable with which to open negotiations. After a thorough inspection and verification of the assets, cash on hand, etc., of the Bank of British Columbia by Mr. J. H. Plummer, the Assistant General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, aided by an able staff, the deal was finally consummated, by which these two great banks became one. This consolidation has made the Canadian Bank of Commerce a veritable Gibralter of finance. It has now sixty-seven branches, the largest number of branches possessed by any financial institution of the New World. It has a paid up capital in gold coin of $8,000,000, and a reserve fund of $2,000,000. It had deposits on January 31st of $45,755,750, with cash resources of $19,918,441, and its total assets reached the large sum of $63,833,446. The stockholders, of whom there are over 2,500, and who include some of the most prominent people on both continents, are subject to double liability, so that in the ordinary course of human events depositors are secured absolutely.

"It is in connection with its northern business that the Candian Bank of Commerce has won especial fame for it was one of the pioneers in this business. When it located its branch in Dawson, Yukon Territory, it marked the northernmost point in the North American continent—if not in the world—that had yet been benefitted by banking facilities. This was in June, 1898, before the opening up of the railroad through White Pass, and when the region was almost inacessible to intercourse with the outside world. The Canadian government recognized the enterprise, as well os the solidity and standing of the bank, by making it its exclusive financial agent for the Klondike region. Its operations in connection with the purchase of gold dust and nuggets, and the issuing of drafts and letters of credit within this region, are as might be supposed, enormous in scope. In fact, one-third of the total gold treated by the assay office at Seattle in 1899, and one-quarter of that of 1900 was sold it by this bank. The bank next established agencies at White Horse, Skagway and Atlin, which, with its branches at Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, New York and London, England, together with its 56 other branches in Canada, gives it special facilites for handling the business of miners and merchants of the Klondyke and Pacific coast, and makes it one of the best equipped financial institutions for doing business in this country. In its business dealings with the people of this rapidly growing Northwestern ountry, the bank has achieved a great and well deserved popularity.

"The headquarters of this bank are at Toronto, Ontario, where it is located in a building that is one of the architectural features of Canado. It was established in 1867, the Hon. William McMaster being the first President. It enjoys the unique distinction of having never missed a dividend, and its capital has never been reduced. Probably no bank more thoroughly covers the world through correspondent institutions, and its letters of credit afford accommodation to travellers in all parts of the world, no matter how remote.

"The present head of the bank is the Hon. George A. Cox, who is also President of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, and of the Canada Life Insurance Company, the latter being the strongest institution of its kind in Canada He is also the moving spirit of many other prominent financial institutions in that country. The direcirrs include such men as Robert Kilgour, who is the Vice-President, and James Crathern, William B. Hamilton, Joseph W. Flavelle, Matthew Leggat, John Hoskins, K. C., LL. D., W. E. H. Massey and A. Kingman. The chairman of the London board is Sir Robert Gillespie.

"Mr. B. E. Walker, a man of acknowledged ability, second to none in banking circles of America, is General Manager, ably assisted by Mr. J. H. Plummer, the Assistant General Manager. Both these gentlemen have the advantage of a training of upwards of thirty years in the best banking circles and are eminently fitted for the management of the great bank whose business they control. Mr. A. H. Ireland is Inspector and Superintendent of Branches, with Mr. V. C. Brown as his assistant. Mr. H. H. Morris, who has been connected with the bank almost from its inception, is Western Inspector, with headquaaters at Vancouver, B. C.

"Mr D. A. Cameron, who has been in the service of the bank in various aesponsible positions for upwards of twenty years, and who is highly esteemed in local business circles, is the Manager at Seattle."

THIS AND THAT.

The Greenwood Times and the Miner having recently doubled the size of their publications, speaks well for their home town. These steps will do more to convince the outside world of the progress of that community than could otherwise be done.—Cascade Record.

A mine manager in Phoenix has caused the arrest of several persons lately for relieving him of a Chinaman at the city limits, which he had secured at Greenwood. As the people of Phoenix are strongly opposed to having any celestials in their town, it would have been wisdom on the part of this manager to have hired a white cook It is just such bull-head-edness that causes so many labor troubles.—Similkameen Star.

A correspondent propounds a question anent the national flag. We think there is something in what he says. There is really only one flag in the British Empire and that is the Union Jack. We may speak of the flag of St. George or that of St. Andrew, or that of Ireland, but they are not national or even racial enblems. The Canadian ensign stands on another footing, for while the Jack is the same as in the flag of Great Britain, there is a distinguishing shield on the flag. While we have no great objections to any one hoisting any flag he wishes for purposes of ornament, we fancy that most British subjects would be quite content to see no other one than the Union Jack displayed in official places.—Colonist.

Reporters in the press gallery of the Legislature have been notified that they must not "make a note on" anything that comes under their observation in the corridors of the Honse. It is customary in all free countries for the employees of newspapers in gathering news to act on their own discretion, their work of course being subject to the supervision of the editors. It is seldom indeed that there has been complaint in British Columbia of the press straying beyond the bounds of its legitimate domain. The reporters of the Times will pay no attention to orders emanating from a source which has no authority to issue such instructions. The next ukase will probably be that the press gallery has been closed.—Victoria Times.

LETTER FROM W. S. KEITH.

D. C. McRae yesterday received the following letter from W. S. Keith, who left Greenwood between two and three months since to join the South Africa Constabulary:

Steamer Montford,
Easter Sunday, 1901.

Dear Mac.—Well we have been nine days out from Halifax and hope to be at Cape Verde sometime tomorrow. We have been rather unfortunate so far, having lost two men since sailing by death in hospital and one man by jumping or falling overboard. The only man of our troop who has been sick is Nicholson, of Greenwood, but he is getting allright now. There are more than 1,200 troops aboard, and counting ship's crew and officers, about 1,400 in all, but we are as comfortable as could be expected, much more so than we were in the Ottawa cattle sheds, which were simply rank, i. e. the grub served out was rank, and a large number were sick.

We have seen nothing of interest since we started, but have been favored with delightful weather and a calm sea. We have no idea yet as to our destination in Africa but will probably get information at Cape Verde. It is rumored that the western troops will go direct to the front, if there is any front when we arrive, while the others will go direct to Magersfontein for a few weeks for drill and then be sent in detachments for patrol duty. I hope such will be the case.

The western men are larger, healthier-looking and older than the eastern troops and will no doubt at first stand hardships much better.

When you have time to spare write to me the Greenwood news. My address will be "B Squadron, Canadian contingent, South Africa Constabulory, Cape Town or elsewhere." This address will catch all the Greenwood boys.

Yours truly,
W. S. KEITH.

McGILL SCHOOL OF MINES.

The staff and students of the summer term at the school of mines in connection with McGill university left Montreal on the 1st inst. by C. P. R. for British Columbia. The party, which consists of 25 persons, goes first to Banff, and proceeds thence to the coast to see coal mines on Vancouver island and probably the copper ore deposits on Texada island and on Howe Sound. Returning they will visit the Kootenay and Boundary districts, going thence back east by way of the Crow's Nest pass.

Wednesday afternoon Hugh Sweeney was drowned in Boundary creek. In crossing the creek on a pontoon bridge above the railway station, he and a companion named Sullivan fell in. Sullivan managed to reach the shore about sixty yards below where the accident occurred, but Sweeney was carried down the stream to Anaconda, where the body was taken out. Coroner Jakes held an inquest Thursday morning and a verdict of accidental drowning was returned by the jury. Deceased was well known in the city and was about 40 years of age. The funeral took place this morning from the undertaking rooms of T. M. Gulley & Co.

E. T. Agate left on Wednesday for Seattle, where he will join L. M. Rice, C. E. C. E. Ingersoll, who also came to Greenwood a few weeks ago in connection with the projected survey of the proposed Greenwood-Phnenix tramway, has gone to Seattle as well as Mr. Agate whom he proceeded to Seattle. The two men Mr. Rice had engaged to do field work on this survey have joined one of the V. V. & E. railway parties.

An attempted shooting was aired in the police court this week, or, more correctly speaking, it was not sufficiently aired. The woman in the case did the shooting, but missed. The aldermen of Greenwood should pass a bylaw providing instruotion in pistol practice for belligerent females. Citizens, as a rule, have no objections to gun practice by experts, but when a woman gets a "hunch" that she can shoot, and misses three men at one shot, something should be done for the protection of the respectable element of the community. In a small city like Greenwood, a miss in pistol practice, such as occurred Monday night, may safely be termed a calamity.

R. E. Gosnell, secretary of the Bureau of Provincial Information, has issued a circular letter, as follows: "In view of the proposed early re-organization of the Agent-General's office, London, Eng., I am instructed to make a collection of photographs, illustrative of the province at large. Representative views of mining, agriculture, fishing, shipping, public works and buildings, business blocks and residences, churches, schools, scenery, etc., etc., are desired. I write to solicit your co-operation in securing such views as may be available respecting your district. Good, clear, well finished photographs—not less in size than 8x12 if possible—are wanted, and at as early a date as possible."

OUR SOLDIER BOYS.

When the message was sent that the Empire
Was in need of the pick of her sons,
To shew to the wily old Burghers
There were others could handle their guns,
And the Empire so loyally responded,
Sending thousands to join in the hunt,
Greenwood's voice was heard in the chorus
For she sent her share to the front.

Then here's to you, Jacky de Lecky,
And here's to you, Palmer and Shaw;
And here's to O'Brien and Harris,
We're proud of you, boys—Hurrah!

We followed them in all their marches,
We rested with them on the veldt;
When they stormed a drift or a kopje,
And a card to his victim Death dealt,
We eagerly scanned the despatches
For the skirmishers standing the brunt,
Dreading to see of the number
The names of our boys at the front.

When revielle had sounded at sunrise,
None were so eager as they
At the order "Inspan and out lager"
To keep in the track of the fray.
Yet when night fell they met round the campfire
When others had lain down to rest,
To join in the song and the story
Of peacefuller days in the West.

And when we would hear of a village
Where the order was given to loot,
We knew that our boys wouldn't pillage,
And wouldn't go off on a toot;
No chickens or porkers would suffer,
No Burgher be eased of his "blunt,"
Saloons and the like would be tabooed
By all of our boys at the front.

The full dress rehearsal is over,
The curtain's rung down; the applause
Of their King and a grateful people
They've earned and justly, because
They cheerfully did their duty;
And now they're dismissed—Exeunt—
But their country will ever remember
Them, and their deeds at the front.

Rendell is your opportunity.
