RESOLUTIONS TO OTTAWA.

Asking Inquiry Into Importation of Labor into the Province.

The following resolution, passed by the Rossland Liberal Association and wired to Ottawa, tells its own story of the interest that professional and business men feel called upon to take in regard to the repeated importation of foreign labor into the Province:

Resolved, That the secretary wire the minister of mines and Mr. Bostock that twenty-six men are in Rossland from Duluth, Minn., said to be under contract to work in the mines of this Province, and that others are reported to be coming; and this association believes the government should enquire into the matter.

ROSSLAND'S DONATION.

SLAVONIAN LABORERS CAST UPON THE COMMUNITY.

Cared For by the Miners' Union — They Were Going to Sandon.

The influx of twenty-six Slavonian laborers on Monday afternoon caused a wave of consternation to sweep over Rossland because of its inability to help itself; and has been the subject of numerous messages to Ottawa. A mysterious and insiduous rumor had been afloat all day that the city was to be the recipient of such a body, but the story received little credence.

As soon as the arrival of the party was learned of, they were waited on at the station by officers of the miners union, but as they could not talk English sufficient to make their position clear they were taken to Miner's Union hall until something could be learned of them, it being then quite generally believed they were the first of an importation of aliens for the Rossland mines.

While he officers of the union were looking up accomodations for them, the following facts were laboriously elicited from the men, of where they had come from, who had sent them, and for what purpose, and all this had to be eked out through the assistance of an interpreter.

For some months agents have been scouring the states of Minnesota and Michigan for the purpose of engaging men to come to British Columbia to work in the mines. These agents claimed that there was a great scarcity of men in the country compared with the demand for laborers, but that there was no trouble. The pay was excellent, and all who would come here could get all the work they wanted. Such an agent had visited Duluth, Minn., and vicinity. He claimed to be from the Payne mine, at Sandon, and began to get together a crew. He told them that they could earn from $3 00 to $3.50 per diem and have steady work. Under these conditions he engaged these twenty-six men, whom he was to accompany to Sandon and give work, they being required to pay only a comparatively trifling amount—$15 75—toward their transportation. The agent had kept his word to them as far as securing the cheap fare, but had only accompanied them two or three stations from Duluth, when he had disappeared. The journey they had taken alone, with no other ticket or certificate of passage than the conductor's hat check, but whenever there had been a change of conductor they had simply to state that they were going to Sandon, B. C., and it was all right. They thought when they reached Rossland that they had arrived at the expected destination, Sandon, and, as a stubborn animal might shew indignation at deceit, these men expressed the same feeling at being sidetracked elsewhere than where they had expected. They did not, however, seem to care much, so long as they were housed and fed and could have a place to lie down; nor did they seem to be able to comprehend that their condition was not as assuring as it might be. Accommodations were secured for the whole crew at the Dominion hotel, where they were taken for supper, disposing of the food placed before them like so many hungry dogs.

Until Tuesday noon these men remained at the Dominion hotel at the expense of the Miners' union, who then felt that they had done all, and more than their part, and withdrew further assistance.

Six of the party left Wednesday via Red Mountain line for Spokane, the rest remaining up to the present time scattered through the camp, many having expressed an intention to remain in the Province and get work, while others are entirely undecided.

Here these men are, and here they can remain, as far as the law of the land can help the people to rid themselves of them, as long as they wish; for there seems to be no law on the statute books whereby the citizens of Canada can protect themselves against the immigration of as many of this class of workmen as desire to come, or as many as any vicious or unscrupulous person may bring in.

This has been corroborated by the city solicitor, who was called upon by the municipal officers on the arrival of the band, to look up the laws on the subject of immigration, and learn if the men could be returned to where they came, and if it could be done at the expense of the transportation company bringing them in. He has reported that nothing could be done, as there is no law concerning the subject.

It was reported, at first, on the same authority that many stories start from, that the imported men had come to work at the War Eagle or Centre Star mines, and this was credited by some even after the true reason had been given out, but Mr. Kirby stated positively, in an interview with a representative of the miners' union that neither his company, nor any other company in Rossland, according to his best knowledge and belief, had any work for this class of laborers, or had been instrumental, in any way, in bringing them in.

The men's story is no doubt true, and that unscrupulous mine owners association, and its hirelings in the states, can safely be credited with our donation. The association, though no doubt innocent of being instrumental, in any way, of the men being sent to Rossland, deserve the condemnation of all citizens and well-wishers of British Columbia as they are the employers and instructors of the agents doing their dirty work. It is they who started to flood the labor market of the Slocan with this very same class of workmen, and though a settlement has been made in the district, and peace has been restored to a great degree, it will be a long time before confidence can be fully restored in men who, to gain their ends, will resort to such measures as the importation of the class of laborers like the sample lot furnished us. It is plain to be seen that the only real interest these men have in the Province, as a body, is as far as it fills their pocket-books.

There is but one way by which protection can be had, and every voter and resident in Canada should see to it that strict laws on immigration are placed upon the statutes without delay, even if personal sacrifice is necessary to accomplish it. All true well-wishers for the prosperity of the country will cast their influence, as far as possible, to accomplish this, and protect themselves against repitition of the indignities cast upon the citizens of this Province during the past three months.

Montreal was the scene of some little rioting and celebrating, Thursday, over the war news, but nothing of a serious nature occurred.

London gave itself up to rejoicings on Thursday over the relief of Ladysmith. Business was at a standstill, and such a demonstration has seldom been witnessed in the great metropolis.

DISGRACEFUL BEHAVIOR

LEGISLATURE DISSOLVED BY LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

Hon. Joseph Martin Premier—Cabinet—Declares Policy.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 1.—The scenes at the dissolution of the eighth British Columbia legislature by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, today, were the most disgraceful and significant ever witnessed in a British house of parliament. His Honor was kept in waiting some time, after demanding entrance to the house, while resolutions of non-confidence were passed against the Hon. Joseph Martin, who has been appointed premier in place of Mr. Semlin.

As His Honor entered the house, followed by his staff, the representatives of the people, save the newly-appointed premier, left their seats and started for the lobbies, led by James Dunsmuir and the crowded galleries set up a round of cheers for the retiring members. The cheers were changed to hisses and laughter, mingled with calls and mocking, as the Lieutenant-Governor ascended the throne, the jeering being steadily kept up even after his honor essayed to speak. The prorogation was finally delivered amid this disgraceful display of hoodlunism, Joseph Martin being the only audience.

At the conclusion of his speech, the Lieutenant Governor retired, followed by the same insulting calls and hisses, and the members again rushed into the house, all responding to a cheer started by Ellison and Pooley which fairly shook the building.

Can anyone conceive a more deplorable picture than the governor of this Province, and the representative of Her Sovereign Majesty, the Queen, sitting before that rabble in the legislative halls of British Columbia, one of her most loyal colonies, his features drawn, face ashy pale, nervously locking and unlocking his hands, and "silent," sitting there at the utter mercy of that miserable mob, hooted at and openly insulted. It is enough to arouse the ire of every true and loyal Briton in the Province and make his blood boil with indignation.

Then, so soon as his Honor had withdrawn, to go through the farce of seating in the chair Speaker Forester and offering congratulations to the Queen, Buller and Dundonald, and to disperse with "God Save the Queen," to whom they had shown discourtesy and disloyalty. It is disgraceful.

It does not matter what mistakes and follies Joseph Martin has been guilty of in the past, his pluck in holding his stand against public sentiment when every other member of the house, the chosen representatives of the people, had withdrawn, commends him to all, and it redounded to his credit.

If such a demonstration were to be indulged in by any other class of men, they would immediately receive the condemnation of people and press as a mob of ungovernable agitators, rioters, bullies and hoodlums. But these men are gentlemen, (?) and their actions are looked upon as brilliant and sportive.

The appointment and acceptance by Hon. Joseph Martin of the exalted position of premier of British Columbia has been received by the people with no little surprise; but notwithstanding the resolutions of non-confidence expressed by the

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 1900.

For weeks the Record has kept itself very busy trying to impress on the public the belief that a most dangerous class of men, imported and shielded by the miners' union, was the cause of all the labor trouble existing in Rossland and the whole Province. They have called this body of men nearly everything but decent and law-abiding citizens, and have repeatedly warned the public against the dangerous aliens and dynamiters. In consideration of this, we are not at all surprised to learn that the horde of Slavonians thrust upon the community, on Monday, is credited to the usually ascribed cause of all the trouble, the miners' union, though this rediculous story, which is so nonsensical that nobody has yet been found who will take any stock in it, is not known to have started from the usual source of scandal. It is deplorable that the newsmongers about this camp are not as much interested in peace as is organized labor, for if they were there would be far less unpleasant feeling than is apparent at present.

Now that the first feeling of surprise and fear has worn away, a feeling of righteous indignation has taken possession of the citizens of Rossland at their evident inability to protect themselves against the repeated imposition of having importations of laborers, like the gang of Slavonians who arrived Monday, dumped on our labor maket at the pleasure of any unscrupulous person or persons, at any time. Naturally, at first every man looked at every one else with suspicion, no one seeming to have any idea what it could mean; but it is evident that no Rosslander of any class or clan can be held responsible. It is a taste, however, of what the Slocan labor people have been fighting against for some months, and now we can learn the same lesson that has been so dearly learned there—that a defective law fails to protect its people in time of trouble, and allows an unscrupulous class, many of them aliens at that, to flood the country at any time they see fit with an ignorant, illiterate and degraded class of labor that is a menace to any community. We find ourselves in the same position that the miners of the Slocan district found themselves in when their district was being used as the dumping ground of this sort of refuse. They could simply stand back and do nothing but talk, even that being denied them to some extent.

Our local union has been besieged again and again, of late, as a lot of dangerous dynamiters, aliens, etcetera, or as harborers of many of that class. But we would like to ask that publication, which has so much to say on the subject, if they have ever seen on the streets of Rossland, prior to last Monday, a class of workingmen of the stamp of that lot brought in by the very class of men they support in their columns, or through the influence of that class, and on their money? Has it ever been the privilege of the editor of that publication to see on our streets, either mob or individual, armed or decorated, and in the condition as was that individual who paraded our streets on Tuesday morning, an old rifle or musket in one hand and a guitar strapped to his shoulders? Most assuredly he never did. And yet this is the class of labor that has been brought into this Province in large numbess during the past few months by the mine managers' association of the Slocan for the purpose of displacing Canadian citizens and practical miners. If those people and publications, who are expending their energy maltreating unionism and the eight-hour law, want to see the country go to ruin, they have only to keep to the even tenor of their way; but if they have the prosperity and welfare of the Province at heart, they had better use their strength, both physically and morally, in establishing laws for protection against the bringing in of aliens and paupers of so degraded and dangerous a class to perform the manual labor of the Province. The law is our only protection, and while the alien labor or pauper laws remain as they are now, they are as useless to labor as though they never existed.

As an election will, in all probability, shortly follow the overthrow of the Semlin government, it is quite necessary for the welfare of the workmen and the citizens in this country that every man who has a right to become a voter in British Columbia should see to it that his name is on the voters' list. If he is not a citizen of the country, but has been a resident long enough to make it possible to do so, he owes it to the country that supports him to support it as far as he is able, and in no way can he do so much as using his influence with his ballot in making, or helping to make good laws. This can only be done by becoming a citizen, which is not as disagreeable or tedious a process as many think. The only requisites are that a man is of age and has lived three consecutive years as a resident of the country. If these conditions are fulfilled, he has simply to take the oath of residence and allegiance, as printed on page four, and after two months he is declared a citizen, with the full privileges allowed every native-born Briton.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Did not the Record realize that business houses in the east who read its direful description of the condition of affairs in Kootenay, might, not personally knowing the publication, put some credence in its accounts? It seems not. Thinking to strike a telling blow at unionism, they have harped on the same cords of the eight-hour law, labor trouble, the bad outlook for business, etc., till they have nearly, if not quite, accomplished same end, and have not seemed to realize—if they knew it—that there are some small subjects, like some small animals, the porcupine and skunk for instance, that better be left alone.

The Clerks' Protective Union of Butte, Mont., has received the hearty support of every union in the city, as well as the Western Labor union, the Silver Bow Trades and Labor Assembly and the Montana State Trades and Labor Council, in its 6 o'clock closing movement. This is a movement that could not have failed to have had good results, even if pushed some time ago, for there is probably not a mining city or camp in the world where organized labor is more respected and holds so high a place, and where all reasonable demands of workmen are so readily complied with by employers.

The greatest prosperity that has ever been felt in the Slocan is anticipated for the coming season. Nearly every mine in the district is either starting up or putting on more men. The labor trouble itself is not only over, but both men and managers seem to have put the disagreement entirely away and work for the common good and upbuilding of the district.

GLEANED LABOR NOTES.

St. Louis has a tobacco workers' union made up entirely of colored men.

Dayton, O., according to recent compilation, now has over 6,000 trades unionists.

Cleveland, O., journeyman plasterers will demand a scale of forty cents per hour and the eight-hour day for the present year.

The carpenters' union of Vallejo, Cal., has reduced the working day to eight hours, retaining the average of $3.25 per day.

The strike of machinists at the Schoen steel car works, Allegheny, Penn., was settled last week, and the men have returned to work.

The contractor in charge of construction work at Notre Dame college, Washington, D. C., has at last agreed to conform to the union wage and hours.

The General Federation of the Trades in Great Britain now embraces forty trades unions, with an aggregate membership of three hundred and sixty-seven thousand.

The Ohio legislature has a bill, already passed in the house, providing that women must be paid the same wage as men for like services. Penalty for violations is placed at $100 to $500 fines.

The Ymir mine and mill, in Ymir camp, is the only one of the twenty-two mining properties that has refused to deal square with labor and pay the compromise scale of wages. It employs about 150 men, all non-unionists.

Steps have been taken in Revelstoke to form a co-operative meat market. A meeting of about twenty, who were interested in the move, was held in Topping's hall, on Wednesday evening, and at its close twenty shares, at $15.00 each, were subscribed for.

More union men have been let out by the building contractors of Chicago because they refused to work under the new rules. Formerly they had Saturday afternoons as a half-holiday, but under the new order of things are required to work. All therefore refusing to work are paid off and let go. This, it is feared, may tie up all the building now under construction in the city. It is stated by contractors that 75 per cent., or about 4,000 men, have dropped out in the past two months, rather than comply with the new rule.

TOO MANY MEN.

Since the strike has been declared off about fifty men a day have been arriving in Sandon from outside points, mostly from Rossland and Nelson. There are already too many men in the camp, and many of the strangers will not find employment. Outsiders would do well to keep away from the Slocan for a few weeks until more of the mines are in operation.—Paystreak.

UNITED LABOR PLATFORM.

The following planks of a new labor platform to be presented to the next legislative candidates was drawn up by the miners' union, at Sandon, at its last meeting, and endorsed by the Rossland union.

First—We demand of the Provincial legislature the enforcement of the eight-hour law and its application to all branches of manual labor.

Second—Legal recognition by incorporation of labor unions and the extension to them of the same rights enjoyed by other corporate bodies.

Third—To provide for adjustment of wage disputes by arbitration on plans similar to that now in force in New Zealand.

Fourth—To provide for settlement of public questions by direct vote under the initiative and referendum.

Fifth—Government ownership of all railway, telegraph and telephone lines to be constructed, and the acquiring of those already in use as soon as practicable; and to prevent extortion, as far as possible, by the control of all railway, telegraph and telephone lines for public use; and to fix a reasonable maximum rate which they may charge for service.

Sixth—An act to prevent employment of Chinese in any mines factories or public works within the Province.

Seventh—An act to provide proper safeguards to life and health, and to provide an efficient mine inspection system to procure these results.

Eighth—An act to establish county or local government throughout the province. All officers of such, both judicial and executive, to be elected by the popular vote of their respective localities.

PAUPER IMPORTATION.

Resolutions Passed by the Trades and Labor Council Against Slavonians.

The following resolution, passed by the Trades and Labor council at their meeting, Tuesday night, shows the feeling of this body as a unit as regards the importation of foreign pauper labor, and is practically an expression of the sentiments of all working men of every class at the presumption of the men who have inflicted laborers of this class on the people of Rossland:

Whereas, A carload of Slavonian laborers has been dumped on our already overcrowded labor market by the unscrupulous agents of the Slocan mine owners—laborers gathered from the industrial slums of Minnesota and Michigan, ignorant of our laws, language and constitution, a standing menace to our home laborers, evidently intended to goad them to violence; and

Whereas, Regarding, as we do, that these people are the victims of the present industrial anarchy which has stunted their intellectual and moral growth, making itself already manifest by the display of deadly weapons on our streets, well calculated to lead to riot and bloodshed; and

Whereas, That paragon of virtue, the "people's paper," so-called, has been hurling anathemas at alien lawlessness in British Columbia and elsewhere, we would suggest the advisability of turning their guns on the people responsible for the presence here of these Slavonians; therefore be it

Resolved, That as the immigration laws have evidently been broken, we would suggest to the city authorities the advisability of their taking immediate action to thoroughly investigate the matter, and if a breach of the law has been committed, that the machinery of the city government be set in motion to compel those responsible to return these deceived and unfortunate people to their homes, and that the city be remunerated for the expense that may be incurred.

IT REACHES THE LABORING PEOPLE

NO ENSLAVEMENT.

Mr. Dueber Receives Thanks From His Men—Mr. Witter's Report.

A meeting of the Canton branch of the Independent Watch Case Engravers' Association of America was held in the Trades and Labor Assembly hall, in North Piedmont street, Sunday forenoon, for the purpose of hearing the report of Fred W. Witter, who recently returned from the first session of the National Union of Independent Watch Case Engravers' Association of America, in Philadelphia, January 27, 28 and 29. The local branch has a membership comprising every engraver in the employ of the Dueber company, and all of them are so enthusiastic in the cause that there was scarcely an absentee member. Information that President John C. Dueber had declined to consider a request made both by telegram and letter from Secretary Fahy of the Watch Case Manufacturers' combine to join them in combatting the engravers' association was received with pleasure. The men expressed themselves in short talks of praise for Mr. Dueber, and confidence that his action would ultimately result in victory for organized labor over the minute system of employment against which they are allied.

In reference to the organization of the Independent Watch Case Engravers of America and the opposition which has developed, Delegate Fred W. Witter said: "The association had its inception only a few months ago and was formed for the purpose of doing away with the "minute system" of employment and for the elevation of the engravers. The association now has branches in all of the factories in the country, with a combined membership of nearly six hundred watch case engravers. The convention was called in Philadelphia for the purpose of organizing the Keystone engravers and to do away completely with the "minute system," in operation at the Keystone watch case factory in Philadelphia. This minute system, by way of explanation, provides that a case must be engraved every thirty minutes. The men are employed on the basis of six hundred minutes to the day. Whenever more than thirty minutes are taken by an engraver to finish a case, it means that it is taken off his time. Poor workmanship is the natural result, as the only object is to get as many cases completed in a given time as possible. It is also worse than what is designated as the sweating system, about which so much is heard. There are very few engravers who can accomplish the demands of the minute system, and as a consequence they suffer in losing much time that is really employed most diligently. The system was abolished at every factory in the country excepting the Keystone, prior to our meeting in Philadelphia. An organization of the Keystone engravers was effected Sunday, January 28. Monday morning, when the seventy-nine skilled workmen went to work they were notified that their services were no longer needed. The firm had learned of the meeting and had practically locked out the men. Another meeting was called and the shop representatives of the Keystone branch called on the superintendent and were informed that he could give them no information. They later saw Secretary and Treasurer H. L. Roberts of the Keystone company. He even declined to give them an audience and said that he would not recognize any organized body.

The matter was then turned over to the executive committee of the local branch and finally went to the national executive committee. The latter committee has the matter in charge at present, supported by the American Federation of Labor, with which the national union is affiliated. The watch case manufacturers held a meeting in New York and combined to combat the union movement of the Independent Watch Case Engravers of America. Mr. Dueber was requested to join in the manufacturers' combination to break the backbone of the engravers' association, but unfortunately for them he declined. He authorized me to notify the executive committee of the national union, now in session in Philadelphia, which was done in the following telegram:

"Mr. Dueber says to all engravers, 'We will not join. We need no protection. We will not assist to enslave them. We will furnish work for all good men who need work and assist you in any way possible.'"

This stand by Mr. Dueber, you may imagine, is an encouragement to us. As Mr. Dueber has recognized the union in his factory the Canton branch at their meeting Sunday instructed their secretary to write Mr. Dueber, thanking him for his stand in their behalf. You see, had he joined them, pressed cases would have been put on the market by every factory in the country as substitutes for engraved ones, and the union would soon have gone to pieces. But since Mr. Dueber has refused to join the combine he will be able to supply the market with fine hand-engraved watch cases, which the other shops must finally come to if they desire to hold their trade. The locked-out Keystone engravers have now the support of all of the engravers in the United States, morally and financially, as well as the American Federation of Labor and the recognition of Mr. Dueber.

As a result of the existing differences most of the eastern watch case engravers are locked out. Some of them may be taken on here if the troubles are not adjusted soon. It takes years of patient effort to become skilled engravers, and the object of our organization is to place them above common labor.

The reputation of the Dueber company for fine hand-engraved cases has placed them in great demand, and the fact that they can still be put on the market places the company in a position to fill orders no longer possessed by the other concerns. In addition to this, Mr. Dueber has the respect and esteem of every watch case engraver in the country. Yes, and all union men.

MANY A TRUE WORD

Spoken in Jest Is Often Realised in Earnest—Toast at a Banquet.

At a banquet at the Waldorf Astoria, by the Bankers (Mutual Admiration) Association of New York City, one, Simeon Ford, a newspaper and ex-hotel man, in his inimitable, witty and hit-where-it-may style, responded to a toast which, to say the least, must have broken the monotony of the occasion. "As I sit here this evening," he began, "listening to the strains of that fine old bankers' anthem, entitled, 'When You 'Aint Got No Money, Why, You Needn't Come Around,' I was thinking what a grand idea it was for you magnates to get together and settle among yourselves what shall be done, who shall be done, and how you will do them! I have observed that one's reception at a bank varies somewhat with the condition of the money market. Go in when money is easy, and the president falls on your neck, calls you by your first name, and cheerfully loans you large sums of money on your Baloon Common and your Smoke Preferred, and you go on your way rejoicing. The next day, news having arrived that a Gordon Highlander has strained a tendon in his leg while sprinting away from a Dutchman near Ladysmith, or an Irish lady chef has sent home two pounds sterling to her family, money goes up to 180 per cent. a minute, and you get a note requesting you to remove your Baloon Common and your Smoke Preferred and substitute government bonds therefor. And still you wonder at crime. Bankers are too prone to judge a man by his appearance, so that the very men that need the money most have the hardest work to get it. They are apt, especially at the City bank, to discriminate against the fellow who looks like Rockys in favor of the Rockyfeller. Clothes do not make the man! If they did, Hetty Green wouldn't be where she is, and Russell Sage would be in the Old Ladies' Home. If Uncle Russell had to travel on his shape he never would see much of the world. Yet beneath that ragged coat there beats a heart which, as a beater, can't be beat—a heart as true (so the Standard gas people say) as steel. But, after all, banks and trust companies do a lot of good in a quiet way, especially to their directors in a quiet way. It would sometimes be mortifying for these directors to have to attempt to borrow money on certain securities, in institutions with which they are not connected, because, instead of getting the money, they might get six months."

retiring legislators, there are comparatively few expressions of disapproval and dissatisfaction by the people. Mr. Martin's prompt and publicly declared policy has met with quite general approval. He says the government intends to adopt the principle of government ownership of railways, and will build a first-class line from the coast into the Kootenays. The government will recognize the principles evolved in the eight hour law, and intend that it shall permanently remain on the statute books. An effort will, however, be made to bring about kindlier feelings in its regard, and endeavor to create more harmony between miners and mine managers.

The appointment of Mr. Smith Curtis as minister of mines, and Mr. Yates of Victoria as Provincial secretary, have been announced; but there seems to be more difficulty than Mr. Martin anticipated in forming a cabinet. The gentleman still feels confident that he will be able to form a temporary government, though it is evident the new cabinet will be found largely outside the old members. The new election, it is said, will come in about six weeks.

VICTORIA, March 1.—The announcement that Ladysmith had been relieved, added to the surrender of Cronje, has caused a great patriotic demonstration here. Business has been suspended by the advice of the mayor, the schools are closed for the day, and all have joined in the celebration of the victories.

I invite the very worst cases of Infants, Children and Adults, no matter how bad you may be afflicted.

I will pay your fare both ways if you can force the Hernia down in any position with my

New Retainer on.

What Our Leading Physicians Say:

Ottawa, December 20, 1889.

I have much pleasure in testifying to J. L. Armstrong's ability in the mechanical treatment of Hernia or Rupture. He has very successfully treated patients of mine ranging in age from a few months to 65 years of age. Most of these patients were afflicted with very large unmanageable Hernia, which failed to be relieved by all the trusses tried. The principle of this patent appliance seems to be perfect. The support is directed against the seat of the rupture only, and can be manipulated to retain accurately. I unhesitatingly recommend Mr. Armstrong to the consideration of the profession and the public.

HENRY P. WRIGHT, M.D.,
102 Elgin Street.

Ottawa, December 18, 1889.

J. L. Armstrong, Esq., Ottawa:

Dear Sir: In my practice I necessarily meet with many cases of Hernia or Rupture. During the past nineteen years I have had occasion to use trusses of many patterns, with the usual results obtained from belt and spring trusses, viz., very unsatisfactory. Until I recommended your patent appliance adjusted by yourself, all have been little better than useless. I voluntarily recommend any one afflicted with Hernia to apply to you at once, and I have no doubt that every intelligent physician, as he becomes aware of your ability to cure rupture, will gladly recommend you to his patients.

A. A. HENDERSON, M.D.
414 Albert Street.

December 15 1889.

I have much pleasure in recommending to the attention of the profession a Hernia supporter, the invention of J. L. Armstrong of this city. After repeated trials of the instrument, I am satisfied that it is the most efficient truss in the Dominion. As regards mode of application and results, it stands alone in this country, embodying the principle of fixed support, not to say pressure in the treatment of hernia, recognizing as it does that the requisite pressure is afforded by the wall of the abdomen.

Yours truly, C. R CHURCH, M D

FOR LADIES ONLY.

I have the privilege of referring you to several of the most reliable ladies cured by my appliances, including the wife of a prominent minister of the Gospel, wife of a prominent lawyer, wives of two merchants and others, including a LADY 63 YEARS OLD, and mother of one of our most prominent merchants. These ladies have not worn any support from one to four years, and most of them three years.

Testimonials (which fill too much space) to the efficiency of my appliances, above all others, from the following respectable residents of Victoria, B. C., viz.:

L. Goodacre, Esq., Queen's Market, purveyor to H. M.'s Navy, corner Government and Johnson Streets; R. Homfray, Esq., C. E., 3 Quebec Street; J. C. Elliott, Secretary Board of Fire Underwriters; H. Mansell, Esq., merchant, 68 Government Street; J. Giscombe, miner, Fort Street.
