THE TYEE SMELTER.

Description of the Great Industry Established Here.

The Interesting Process of Treating the Ores.

The work on the Tyee Smelter is progressing very rapidly, all the heavier work, as noted in Wednesday's LEADER, excepting the machinery, is about completed. The end of the present month will see everything well under way. Already two large ore bins with a capacity of 1,600 tons have been completed, into which, in a week's time, the company expect to dump their first car of ore. From these bins four tracks built on trestle work, run over the roasting grounds; between these trestles will run three travelling bridges, of which one is completed; the others are under way.

The ore bins have been provided with doors, so that by only turning a handle the cars can be filled with ore, taken out to any trestle on a perfect system of rails, and placed on the travelling bridges, which take the ore to whatever part of the roasting ground is desired.

These roasting grounds have a capacity of 5,000 tons. The process of roasting the ore is a very important one. Layers of cordwood are placed over the ground, on top of this fuel the ore is spread to a certain depth, and then the wood pile is kindled. This is only necessary when a pile is started, as the ore burns freely, on account of the large amount of sulphur it contains, and sulphur ignites at quite low temperature.

When the sulphur has been burned out and the ore sufficiently cooled off, it is then shovelled directly into cars, which run in cuts between the roasting grounds. This is the first time that the ore is touched by a shovel since it leaves the mine. From these grounds the burnt ore is conveyed by a tramway which is now nearing completion, to a large bin near the furnace. This bin is divided into three compartments for the different ores; these compartments together have a capacity of 1,000 tons.

be a smoke stack seven feet in diameter and 90 feet high, built of steel in three 30 feet sections. This chamber is provided with a number of iron doors to facilitate the cleaning out, which will have to be done once in a while.

Work is now being done on the foundations for the large blower, which weighs 24,000 pounds, and the piers for the boiler house. Behind the boilers a great deal of excavating has been done to make room for the bunkers, which will hold coal for the boilers. Near the boilers it is the intention to instal an electric light plant to light the works.

Between the furnace and blower a space of 60 feet has been left open for further extension, and behind this space and the blower a large retaining wall has been built. The present water supply of the smelter will be obtained from a large tank which is being constructed on the upper side of the E. & N. track, the water being piped from Rock Creek.

As soon as the city waterworks are ready it is understood that the smelter will draw its main supply from that source. As can be readily believed the smelting operations described in the foregoing paragraphs call for an immense and constant supply of cold water, not only for the "shotting" of the slag, but for the water-jacket of the furnaces. The raising of the steel smokestack is going to be no easy job. It cannot be bolted together on the ground and hoisted intact owing to liability of buckling; it will, therefore, have to be raised to place in sections. The height, 90 feet "from turret to foundation stone," will insure the carrying off of most of the fumes safely.

One is struck, in going over the works under the courteous guidance of Mr. Thomas Kiddie, the manager, with the solidity and permanent look of all the structures. Everything is built on the genuine British plan of thoroughness even to the minutest particulars. Another point is the economy of space; everything is arranged so as to save time and labor in handling the product. When the work is in full swing everything will move in its exact order like clock work, from roast pile to the shotting hole and the matte room. Mr. Kiddie has around him a staff of experts, in their various departments, several of whom were with him at Van Anda and in other parts of America in the smelting business; so that the business of the Tyee Copper Company at this point should be carried on in the most satisfactory manner to all concerned.

BLOOD POISONING.

Much wonderment is being expressed in Nanaimo at the strange coincidence of two well-known miners dying within a few days of one another from what is alleged to be blood poisoning. Many people seem to think that it is an extraordinary thing that a strong, healthy man should succumb to an apparently contemptible scratch on his hand.

Yet, if the same men had been bitten by poisonous snakes, sustaining a puncture of the skin so small that a microscope would be required to discern the aperture through which death had entered their veins, no wonder would be expressed at all, but the public would accept it is a perfectly natural consequence of the bite.

Before the days of Lister the percentage of deaths from blood poisoning was frightful; so much so, indeed, that it set him studying the matter with his wonderful faculty of concentration of mind. It did not take him very long to discover the cause of the loss of so many cases—it was uncleanly surgery, carelessness in cleansing wounds from the moment of infliction until the healing process began. He introduced what has been recognized as probably the greatest advance in medicine in modern times in antiseptic surgery.

The modern surgeon devotes his utmost skill, first to cleansing the wound, resorting to treatment which to the uninstructed might seem the exaggeration of care. His instruments are sterilized with extreme scrupulousness; the wound is treated with powerful antiseptics, the wrappings and bandages are changed incessantly, the faintest symptom of sepsis in the wound is attacked with renewed vigor; and yet, with all this extreme care cases do mysteriously acquire enough of the deadly poison germs to lead to fatal results; though nothing like the number that used to be lost.

The general condition of the patient must be such as to favor the spread of the disease; it is improbable that a perfectly healhty man will die of a scratch that has been allowed to become dirty, unless, of course, some specific deadly poison has got into the wound; the perfectly healthy man will generally shake off the attack, as he does attacks upon his health almost every moment of his life; but if his health be impaired, if his vitality has been lowered through excesses of any kind—working too hard, over-eating, drinking, or worry, the entrance is provided for the disease, and a culture bed for the propagation of the deadly germs.

No one should neglect a scratch of any kind; it should be cleaned out thoroughly; washed regularly and frequently with strong antiseptics, and the dressings changed often. So important is a little knowledge of this kind that the soldiers of the British and other armies are now being instructed how to attend to slight wounds on the battlefield, so that we shall not have to mourn so often for stalwart fellows lost to their country's service because of a mere flick with a sabre, a scratch with a bayonet point, or a trifling skin break from a bullet or fragment of shell.

Out in this Western country we are fearfully behind the times, or in every great colliery there would be classes of the St. John's Ambulance Association teaching the miners, railway servants, police and others the invaluable art of first aid to the injured. Why should not something of the kind now be started in Nanaimo as a result of the lamentable and untimely deaths of those two fine men?

This whole business of first aid to the injured is in a disgracefully crude state in this part of the world; life is held too cheaply, even by the men themselves. A man died a little while ago on the beach at Hastings, near Vancouver, in presence of a huge crowd of men, not one of whom knew how to tackle a case of supposed drowning. A little knowledge may be a dangerous thing, but absolute ignorance is deadly. We should like to see the St. John's Ambulance Association classes started all over British Columbia.

Miss Agnes Deans Cameron, the Victoria school-ma'am, who startled the world by discovering that Rudyard Kipling's books are fit for boys to read, has thrown Victoria into "convulsions" again with an article on the old Broughton Street School. Victoria is rapidly ousting Boston as the North American Athens, seat of intellectual illumination and "culchaw."

Denmark sets an example to the world by decreeing that the doors of the university are to stand open to the poorest lad in the country if he demonstrates his intellectual fitness. In Denmark, as in Switzerland, the university, the secondary schools and the common school (Folks school) are treated as three branches of one organic system.

Grand Duke Boris of Russia took a Chicago girl's shoe, filled it with champagne and drank it to her health without getting drunk. We always heard the Russians had Gargantuan capacity for strong liquor, but this fellow must have stronger nerves than his bibulous ancestor, Peter the Great.

Menelik, King of Abyssinia, has prohibited importations of alcoholic drinks into his kingdom. Offenders are punished by having the stuff forced down their throats until they are dead. We expect to hear of a strong tide of emigration from this country to Abyssinia shortly.

Professor Virchow was an ardent cremationist. He used to say that every difficulty in the way of the universal adoption of this sane method of disposing of the dead had been swept away except one—the prejudice of the clergy.

The British Academy has declined to admit Herbert Spencer to its membership. Poor, ineffectual British Academy, how wretchedly managed it must be to miss such a chance of immortalizing itself.

Strange to say, while crime has decreased in England, fraud has increased remarkably. Crime usually numbers fewer victims than fraud.

MR. TEUSZ'S DEATH.

He Succumbs in Victoria to His Terrible Injuries.

Universal sorrow was expressed throughout Ladysmith by all who knew the late Peter Teues, of First avenue, on learning that he had died in the hospital in Victoria, on Wednesday, as a result of the severe injuries sustained by him in Extension mines last Monday. It was feared at the time that Mr. Teusz was brought to his home here that he could not recover from the shock, and these fears unhappily proved only too well-grounded.

While the widow and family—to whom the tender sympathy of this whole community goes out in their sad hour of bereavement—have lost a kind and affectionate husband and father, Ladysmith has lost one of its best citizens. No person in this community was more highly respected or better liked than the late Mr. Teusz. He was a most worthy man, and to know him was to be his friend. THE LEADER joins the citizens of Ladysmith in a heartfelt expression of sorrow at his untimely death, and of deepest sympathy with the sore-stricken widow and family.

Mr. Teusz was 53 years of age, and had been in the employ of the Wellington Colliery Company many years. He worked in Wellington before entering the Extension mines.

Solemn requiem mass was held in Ladysmith Roman Catholic Church yesterday morning, conducted by Rev. Father Verbeke, and with a very large congregation present. The remains were then taken to Nanaimo by special train at 10 o'clock, accompanied by a great number of sorrowing friends, and were interred in the Roman Catholic cemetery in that city.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

CITIZEN EXPLAINS.

Editor Leader:—I am sure the citizens of Ladysmith will feel relieved to know from the explanation of the self-confessed "Fat Fellow," that there was no covert insult in the carriage in the procession having the banner "Ladysmith Skinners." Had it borne the banner "Ladysmith Teamsters" there would have been no misunderstanding as to its significance, and while the word "skinner" is not found in any Dictionary as defining "Teamster," it may have such meaning, locally speaking, but I hope not here, to Ladysmith teamsters. I wish to correct "Fat Fellow" and put him right in the position he seems to have taken in regard to himself personally. In my letter I said nothing disparaging of him or the Skinners; I only asked for an explanation I thought was due the citizens of Ladysmith, as I did not consider there were any Skinners here. I did not ask the "Fat Fellow" to explain his "ticklish position." I saw nothing ticklish about it; but I asked the "Fat Fellow," who seemed so "tickled," etc., these were my exact words, nothing wrong implied in them, as fat people are noted for being jovial and good natured. It seems I was wrongly informed about his citizenship and I beg to stand corrected. As to being a "natural born citizen," I do not know that it makes him or any one else any the better for that—siwashes are "natural-born citizens." In reference to my property holdings in the city, I do not know that that cuts any figure, it surely would not in comparison to the amount owned by the "Fat Fellow," and as to my occupation, we all can't be Skinners in the same line. I hope for his own peace of mind, he will read "Citizen's" letter over again and he will see there is nothing in it in the nature of a personal attack on him or the Skinners. Requiescat in pace.

ODE TO CAPE BRETON.

(By Capt. McLeod.)

Air: "My Maryland."

My Island home so dear to me,
My well loved home beside the sea;
Thy mountains grand and forests green
With verdant slopes and vales between.
A welcome fond I seem to hear,
In murmurs of thy clear pure air;
While rippling brooks and ocean foam
Laugh round my own sweet Island home.

Thy men and women, where'er they go,
Receive respect, esteem and love;
Their generous and willing hands
Have carved their way to distant lands,
And few the spot on earth's green sod,
But where their busy feet have trod,
Yet turns our hearts where'er we roam,
To thee, our well loved Island home.

My Island home, oh, may I rest
When life is o'er, within thy breast;
My dirge the never-ending roar
Of waves that dash upon thy shore.
There in some shady, leafy dell,
Life's tumult o'er, I'll sleep as well
As 'neath some mighty marble dome,
Locked in the breast of my Island home.

GEORGE THOMSON,

Assessor,

South Nanaimo Assessment District,

Ladysmith P.O,

SERIOUS FIRES.

Severe Outbreaks Close to Ladysmith This Week.

Early in the present week several very bad forest fires broke out at various points around Ladysmith, and spread at an alarming rate.

One of these, a very dangerous one, occurred in the fine belt of heavy timber just behind the town, and its progress kept the residents on top of the hill in a state of anxiety all Wednesday night. Many acres of the finest timber have thus been destroyed.

Another very serious and threatening outbreak took place in the thickly timbered region around Fiddick's junction. At one time the mill buildings of the Ladysmith Lumber Company were in imminent danger of being swept away in the terrible ocean of flame all around them. Fortunately a timely change of wind diverted the fire and saved the mill.

Near the head of Oyster Harbor several fierce fires made havoc of the fine timber there, the destruction of this valuable property being appalling. Besides these large fires, many smaller ones could be seen in the range behind Ladysmith adding their contribution to the immense cloud of smoke which hung over the country and obscured even the sun's light.

These fires are considered to be almost wholly due to the carelessness of white campers, who seldom see that their fires are put out properly, and who, as a rule, kindle a bonfire fit to roast an elephant, for the purpose of boiling a mouthful of tea.

Capt. Yates yesterday took the Str. Tellus to sea.

Mr. T. D. Conway went down yesterday to Chemainus.

RAMBLER'S NOTES.

Jottings Around Town by a Free Lance.

Joseph Mottishaw and John Alexander, adventurous young men of this town, left lately for Texada island in an open boat, with lots of food and in good cheer. They expect to get there in three days, and it is hoped that they will arrive at their destination in safety.

The fat fellow returned last Wednesday with a good brace of grouse and a good drenching, too.

Some more of our local sports were out for the day, but only got a good wetting and no birds.

Tom Service, Billie Bolton and Robert Walkinshaw got in from a prospecting trip. They say things are in good shape for mining on their claims.

"Citizen," no insult was intended by the little cubbie house of Gus Hill's on Labor Day at Nanaimo, more of a joke, and all for fun; don't get hurt about it.

Labor Day in Ladysmith next year, is a good idea.

Mr. G S. Mottishaw, of five acre lots, was in town selling some choice fruits and vegetables. Patronize the white farmer.

The readers of THE LEADER congratulate it on its first anniversary, as a clean and above board newspaper.

Lots of talk about moving the post-office close to the Grand. It is in a good stand now. Leaving well enough alone has made lots of fortunes.

CHURCH SERVICES.

Methodist Church—Rev. W. G. Tanner, B.A., pastor. Sunday: 11 a. m., Sabbath School; 7:30 p.m., evening service.

Catholic Church—Services every Sunday as follows: Mass at 8.30 a.m. and 10.30 a.m. Benediction at 7 p.m.

First Presbyterian—Sept. 14, morning service at 11, Sunday school 2:30, evening service 7:30. Evening subject: "The Minute Philosopher."

Church of England—September 14th; 11 a.m. Matins and Litany; 2.30 p.m. Sunday School; 7 p.m. Evensong. Rev. Mr. Christmas will conduct both services.

Fred Marriott, publisher of the San Francisco Newsletter, was nearly murdered by two men who objected to an article about a lady friend. Marriott will recover.

FOUND—A sack of clover seed on road south of Ladysmith. Owner can have same by paying expenses. Apply to A. S. Christie.

Business at the C.P.R. telegraph office here is increasing steadily, and already justifies the company in having opened the office.

See those nobby toilet sets at Rolston's.

One of the latest business rumors is that Messrs. D. Spencer & Co., of Victoria, will open a big dry goods store here before the end of the present year.

Messrs. M. W. Waitt & Co., are seriously considering the advisability of opening a branch of their business in Ladysmith.

Those dinner sets at Rolston's are beauties.

Messrs. A. R. Johnston & Co's big steel safe arrived from Extension on Thursday, and has been deposited at their store in Oddfellows' building.

Guns, rifles, ammunition of all kinds at Rolston's.

Not every day you get a chance to visit Vancouver, returning same day, for one dollar. Get your ticket for tomorrow's big excursion.

See those pretty glass table sets at Rolston's.

Str. Tellus left for San Francisco yesterday morning with 3,500 tons of Wellington coal.

Lively repairs all kinds of English, Swiss and American watches.

Str. San Mateo is now loading a full cargo of Wellington Coal at the Ladysmith wharves for California.

If it is a nice clock you are looking for we have them from $1.00 to $18.00. W. H. Lively, Ladysmith's Leading Jeweler

An Italian miner and his Chinese helper were accidentally killed in No. 4 Union mines, Thursday, by a fall of rock.

Judge Harrison held county court here Wednesday. There were several garnishee cases disposed of.

Mary had a little ring;
It shon with beauty rare.
She said it was her engagement ring
And was bought at Lively's store.

Mr. John Thomas has purchased the property belonging to Capt. Macleod, High street.

Mr. Myers, of Extension, will open in a few days a first-class restaurant in the handsome new building just finished on First Avenue, opposite Mr. Lively, the jeweler's store.

Wideawake boys can make money selling the Ladysmith Leader. Apply at Leader office.

Mr. J. Maclennan is hauling the pipe for the waterworks, and has the pipe laid alongside the trench for a considerable distance. More of the pipe arrived this week.

An absurd rumor, originating in Nanaimo, was afloat yesterday, to the effect that 14 men had been blown to atoms in the Union mines Thursday. It was absolutely without foundation.

Mr. Thomas Kiddie, manager of the Tyee smelter here, tells the Colonist that Ladysmith's prospects of becoming a copper camp equal in importance to Mount Sicker are excellent. Ladysmith may before long come to look upon the coal industry as of secondary importance.

Dr. T. Glendon Moody, dentist, Victoria, will be in Ladysmith today, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 13th, 14th and 15th, at the Abbotsford Hotel, prepared to do all kinds of dental work at moderate prices. Dr. Moody will visit Ladysmith professionally twice a month after this.

Messrs. Scoulin and Ward have begun the erection of the fine business block which is to adorn the corner of First avenue and Roberts street. It is understood that all the available space in the building has been leased already.

Great progress has been made on the new road between Chemainus and Ladysmith. Mr. Macmillan and his strong force of men are making a splendid job of it. This bit of road will be the best in South Nanaimo district when finished.

The wayside inns on the road between Ladysmith and Nanaimo are doing a fine business now owing to the great increase in travel between the two towns. The recent road improvements have stimulated traffic considerably.

Mr. John May, of Nanaimo, who secured the contract for the erection in Ladysmith of the buildings for the Union Brewing Co., of Nanaimo, will start work on Monday morning on them, with a strong force of men.

So dense was the clouds of smoke from the various forest fires around Ladysmith on Wednesday that the sun's light was quite obscured early in the afternoon and the moon could not fill its contract to supply the stipulated quantity of illumination.

Take this chance to visit Vancouver on the cheap and sail with the Joan tomorrow morning at 8.15 from the Transfer wharf. She sails for Ladysmith on the return journey at 6 o'clock. One dollar round trip.

If you want to get a nice ring remember we can make anything you want. W. H. Lively, Jeweler.

The Ladysmith Leader

JOB PRINTING PRICES.

THE LEADER Is ready to prove to anybody who wants to save money on Printing that this shop's prices are lower than those of any other office in the country. Having satisfied ourselves on this point we shall be pleased to compare notes with any who doubt.

The quality of THE LEADER'S job work is equal to anything produced in the Province.

THE LEADER employs only skilled union workmen, receiving the full union scale of wages; its prices and quality are always up to the accepted standard.

Ladysmith merchants and others who send to Victoria, Vancouver and other places for their job printing can save money, time, misunderstanding and annoyance by investigating THE LEADER'S statements as published here. When we cannot print certain classes of work we tell you so, we do not take your order, have it done elsewhere and charge you middleman's commission.

Our Motto Is:—"Square dealing; one price for all; our best work in every job." No trouble to estimate. Call and see us about that job printing work you are wanting and we will save you money.
