EIGHT HOUR DAY.

GOVERNMENT AND OPPOSITION ALIKE SUPPORT 8 HOUR SMELTER LAW.

Todays session was the most interesting since the legislature opened. The chief incident was the unanimous adoption of the second reading of Hawthornthwaite's bill to restrict the hours of labor of smelter workmen to eight. The same bill had been defeated at two previous sessions, and upon its re introduction this session, Hawthornthwaite expressed the opinion that it would be killed the third time. However, after Hawthornthwaite had moved the second reading today and Hayward (Cowichan) had expressed his intention of voting for it, Premier McBride rose and announced that he was prepared to support the bill this year.

He stated that his tour of the Kootenay during the recent campaign had opened his eyes and he now realised the necessity of the measure

"No person shall be employed in or about any smelter sorting, handling, removing or smelting ores or matte in any stage of preparation, for a longer period than eight hours in any twenty four hours.

"Any owner, agent, or manager, or anyone acting on their behalf, employing any workman or person in contravention of this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars nor less than twenty dollars for each workman or person so employed, and any workman or person so working for a longer period than specified in section two of this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars nor less than twenty dollars.

"Twenty-four hours for the purposes of this Act, shall mean from midnight to midnight.

"This Act shall come into force on the first day of March, 1908."

Timber "cruisers" of the Canadian Pacific Timber Company, are covering the limits of the company, situated around Trout Lake. It is said that a logging crew will be put on at an early date, on Trout Creek.

CANYON CREEK.

TRAIL BADLY NEEDED TO OPEN UP MERITORIOUS PROPERTIES UP THE CREEK.

When the matter of considering the roads and trails appropriation for the coming year, the fact should not be lost sight of that a trail from Gerrard up the river bottom to the fords, is absolutely necessary for the economic development of the numerous high-grade properties located along this creek and its fords.

The present trail runs along the mountain side and at some points reaches an elevation of 3000 feet above the Lake, where a trail along the bottom would reach the fords by a gradual climb of 800 feet at the most.

We intend in the next few issues to 'write-up' some of the properties giving an idea of the work done, and the ore showings.

At the head of the south fork are situated the Grand Solo and Copper Peak mineral claims, at an elevation of from 6000 to 8000 feet.

The work consists of numerous open cuts, stipping, and two tunnels—one in about 55 feet, the other 100 feet. In the first the ledge is 4 to 5 feet wide, with about 22 inches of mixed grey copper and silica and a four-inch vein of high-grade shipping ore.

In tunnel number two, the face has a vertical depth of about 100 feet, and has a vein of pay ore 24 inches wide, similar to that in the number one. There has been no average test made, but picked samples gave assay values 553 ozs. in silver, and 17 per cent copper. In the face of the tunnel there is now about 4 inches of this ore.

The trend of the vein runs easterly through the Copper Peak and the walls are of slate with a soft gange on the hanging walls.

The Copper Peak claim has some excellent surface showings, but very little development has been done. An open cut has, however, demonstrated the similarity of the ore to that of the Grand Solo.

The owners are Nels Bodine and P. A. Lindgren.

The Ruby Silver group, consisting of five claims, has the same formation as the Grand Solo

On the Good Shot claim a tunnel has been started and is now in about 10 feet. The pay streak is 12 inches wide and of the same grade as found on the Grand Solo. On the Ruby Silver claim, number one tunnel is in over 25 feet and shows a pay streak giving values of 128 ozs. silver, 30 per cent lead and 4 per cent copper. The foot wall is granite, and the hanging wall slate, with 3 inches of soft gange matter. A good cabin has been built for the accommodation of the workers.

The owners, Gus Bergh, Tony Lindgren, Nels Bodine and Martin Nelson intend resuming work on the property as soon as the trail is open.

Next week, the Pedro and Minnie F. will receive attention.

The work on the Calumet and Hecla, at Rapid Creek, is being shoved ahead. On the 17th. the tunnel was in 180 feet and the ground looks very favorable.

Assuming the lead continues down at the same angle, about 20 more feet would tap it.

This property has a splendid go'd showing on the surface. A shaft was sunk a distance of about 75 ft. and carried gold values all the way.

TO WRITE A STORY OF THE WEST

that would have the true ring to it, the author would, of necessity, require to live there for a time at least. He would have to study the characteristics of the western people—have to become one of them, living their daily life and sharing their joys and sorrows. He would have to mix with them socially and in a business way, in short, be a "Westerner" Its a question of knowing local conditions.

The same reasoning applies to the "Leckie Boot" for the Western Miner, the Prospector and the Lumberman.

The makers of the "Leckie Boot" are Westerners with Western experience. They know what to make and how to make it. Its not so much a question of price as of quality. Their sole aim is to make "a better boot for the same money"—and the LECKIE BOOT" is it.

NOTICE.

All those interested in roads and trails in the Trout Lake Mining Division, are requested to attend a meeting to be held on Saturday night, April 6th. at the Oddfellows' Hall, to consider the expenditure of the annual appropriation for such purposes.

Rev Scott Senr. and Mrs. Scott, left on Wednesday morning for Salt Lake City, Utah.

On Monday evening a number of friends gathered at the Parsonage and gave a "God speed" to the reverend gentleman and his wife.

Commodore Jensen of the C. P. R. steamboat service, came in from Arrowhead a few days ago, to size up the situation re breaking the ice.

The commodore says the ice can be gone through in three or four days, and instructed Captain Gore to get down to business at once.

Hurrah! for the commodore.

Bert Fowler came up the Lake from Poplar on Tuesday.

Charlie Copp has gone to Victoria to interview the government on behalf of the Silver Cup Bachelors Club, who have entered a protest against the proposal of the Trout Lake "Bachelor Maids" society to tax the "eligibles."

We expected to have a "write up" on the dance given by the hotel men of Camborne last week.

Our correspondent has failed us, but look out for it next week.

Should the owners be fortunate enough to strike at the present workings, we can look for some excitement around Rapid and Poplar this summer. Jack Chism is in charge of the work.

The Two Vanrevels

By BOOTH TARKINGTON,

Author of "The Gentleman From Indiana" and "Monsieur Beaucaire"

Since the world began idle and industrious philosophers have speculated much upon the thoughts of men about to die, yet it cannot be too ingenuous to believe that such thoughts vary as the men, their characters and conditions of life vary. Nevertheless, pursuant with the traditions of minstrelsy and romance, it is conceivable that young unmarried men called upon to face desperate situations might, at the crucial moment, rush to a common experience of summoning the vision, each of his heart's desire, and to meet, each his doom, with her name upon his lips.

An extraordinary thing occurred in the present instance, for, by means of some fragmentary remarks let fall at the time and afterward recalled, such as Tappingham Marsh's gasping, "At least it will be on her father's roof!" and from other things later overheard, an inevitable deduction has been reached that four of the five gentlemen in the perilous case herein described were occupied with the vision of the same person, to wit, Miss Elizabeth Carewe, "the last, the prettiest, to come to town!"

Crailey Gray, alone, spoke not at all, but why did he strain and strain his eyes toward that empty pedestal with the grotesque carvings? Did he seek Fanchon there, or was Miss Carewe the last sweet apparition in the fancies of all five of the unhappy young men?

The coincidence of the actual appearance of the lady among them therefore seemed the more miraculous when, wan and hopeless, staggering desperately backward to the gable ridge, they heard a clear contralto voice behind them:

"Hadn't you better all come down now?" it said. "The stairway will be on fire before long."

Only one thing could have been more shockingly unexpected to the five than that there should be a sixth person on the roof, and this was that the sixth person should be Miss Betty Carewe.

They turned, aghast, agape, chopfallen with astonishment, stunned and incredulous.

She stood just behind the gable ridge, smiling amiably, a most incongruous little pink fan in her hand, the smoke wreaths partly obscuring her and curling between the five and her white dress, like mists floating across the new moon.

"Hadn't you better all come down now?"

Was it but a kindly phantasm of the brain? Was it the incarnation of the last vision of the lost volunteers? Was it a Valkyrie assuming that lovely likeness to perch upon this eyrie, waiting to bear their heroic souls to Valhalla, or was it Miss Betty Carewe?

To the chief she spoke—all of them agreed to that afterward—but it was Crailey who answered, while Tom could only stare and stand wagging his head at the lovely phantom like a mandarin on a shelf.

"My mother in heaven!" gasped Crailey. "How you come up here?"

"There's a in the roof on the other side of the ridge," she said, and she began to fan herself with the pink fan. "A stairway runs all the way down—old Nelson showed me through these buildings yesterday—and that side isn't on fire yet. I'm so sorry I didn't think of it until a moment ago, because you could have brought the water up that way. But don't you think you'd better come down now?"

CHAPTER VII.

NOT savage Hun nor "barbarous Vandyke" nor demon Apache could wish to dwell upon the state of mind of the chief of the Rouen volunteer fire department; therefore let the curtain of mercy descend. Without a word he turned and dragged the nozzle to the eastern eaves, whence, after a warning gesture to those below, he dropped it to the ground, and, out of compassion, it should be little more than hinted that the gesture of warning was very slight.

When the rescued band reached the foot of the last flight of stairs they beheld the open doorway as a frame for a great press of intent and contorted faces, every eye still strained to watch the roof, none of the harrowed spectators comprehending the appearance of the girl's figure there, nor able to see whither she had led the five young men, until Tappingham Marsh raised a shout as he leaped out of the door and danced upon the solid earth again.

Then, indeed, there was a mighty uproar. Cheer after cheer ascended to the red vault of heaven. Women wept, men whooped and the people rushed for the heroes with wide open, welcoming arms. Jefferson Bareaud and Frank Chenoweth and General Trumble dashed at Tom Vanrevel with incoherent cries of thanksgiving, shaking his hands and beating him hysterically upon the back. He greeted them with bitter laughter.

"Help get the water into the next warehouse. This one is beyond control, but we can save the other two. Take the lines in—through the door!" He brushed the rejoicing friends off abruptly, and went on in a queer, hollow voice: "There are stairs—and I'm so sorry I didn't think of it until a moment ago, because you could have brought the water up that way!"

A remarkable case of desertion had occurred the previous instant under his eyes. As the party emerged from the warehouse into the street Tom heard Crailey say hurriedly to Miss Carewe: "Let me get you away—come quickly!" saw him suddenly seize her hand and, eluding the onrushing crowd, run with her round the corner of the building. And somehow, through what inspiration or through what knowledge of his partner's "temperament," heaven knows, the prophetic soul of the chief was unhappily assured that Crailey would offer himself as escort to her home and find acceptance. But why not? Was it Crailey who had publicly called his fellow man fool, idiot, imbecile, at the top of his lungs only to find himself the proven numskull of the universe! Tom stood for a moment staring after the vanishing pair, while over his face stole the strangest expression that ever man saw there; then, with meekly bowed shoulders, he turned again to his work.

At the corner of the warehouse Miss Carewe detached her hand from Crailey's, yet still followed him as he made a quick detour round the next building. A minute or two later they found themselves, undetected, upon Main street in the rear of the crowd. There Crailey paused.

"Forgive me," he said breathlessly, "for taking your hand. I thought you would like to get away."

She regarded him gravely, so that he found it difficult to read her look, except that it was seriously questioning, but whether the interrogation was addressed to him or to herself he could not determine. After a silence she said:

"I don't know why I followed you. I believe it must have been because you didn't give me time to think."

This, of course, made him even quicker with her than before. "It's all over," he said briskly. "The first warehouse is gone, the second will go, but they'll save the others easily enough now that you have pointed out that the lines may be utilized otherwise than as adjuncts of performances on the high trapeze." They were standing by a picket fence, and he leaned against it, overcome by mirth in which she did not join. Her gravity reacted upon him at once, and his laughter was stopped short. "Will you not accept me as an escort to your home?" he said formally.

"I do not know," she returned simply, the sort of honest trouble in her glance that is seen only in very young eyes.

"What reason in the world?" he returned, with a crafty sharpness of astonishment.

She continued to gaze upon him thoughtfully, while he tried to look into her eyes, but was baffled because the radiant beams from the lady's orbs, as the elder Chenoweth might have said, rested somewhere dangerously near his chin, which worried him, for, though his chin made no retreat and was far from ill looking, it was nevertheless that feature which he most distrusted. "Won't you tell me why not?" he repeated uneasily.

"Because," she answered at last, speaking hesitatingly—"because it isn't so easy a matter for me as you seem to think. You have not been introduced to me, and I know you never will be, and that what you told me was true."

"Which part of what I told you?" The question escaped from him instanter.

"That the others might come when they liked, but that you could not."

"Oh, yes, yes." His expression altered to a sincere dejection, his shoulders drooped and his voice indicated supreme annoyance. "I might have known some one would tell you. Who was it? Did they say why I"—

"On account of your quarrel with my father."

"My quarrel with your father!" he exclaimed, and his face lit with an elated surprise. His shoulders straightened. He took a step nearer her and asked eagerly, "Who told you that?"

"My father himself. He spoke of a Mr. Vanrevel whom he disliked and whom I must not meet, and, remembering what you had said, of course I knew that you were he."

"Oh!" Crailey's lips began to form a smile of such appealing and inimitable sweetness that Voltaire would have trusted him, a smile altogether rose leaves. "Then I lose you," he said, "for my only chance to know you was in keeping it hidden from you. And now you understand."

"No," she answered gravely, "I don't understand. That is what troubles me. If I did and believed you had the right of the difference I could believe it no sin that you should speak to me, should take me home now. I think it is wrong not to act from your own understanding of things."

The young man set his expression as one indomitably fixed upon the course of honor, cost what it might, and in the very action his lurking pleasure in doing it hopped out in the flicker of a twinkle in his eyes and as instantly sought cover again—the flea in the rose jar.

"Then you must ask some other," he said firmly. "A disinterested person should tell you. The difference was political in the beginning, but became personal afterward, and it is now a quarrel which can never be patched up, though, for my part, I wish that it could be. I can say no more, because a party to it should not speak."

She met his level look squarely at last, and no man ever had a more truthful pair of eyes than Crailey Gray, for it was his great accomplishment that he could adjust his emotion, his reason and something that might be called his faith to fit any situation in any character.

"You may take me home," she answered. "I may be wrong and even disloyal, but I do not feel it so now. You did a very brave thing tonight to save him from loss, and I think that what you have said was just what you should have said."

So they went down the street, the hubbub and confusion of the fire growing more and more indistinct behind them. They walked slowly, and for a time neither spoke, yet the silence was of a kind which the adept rejoiced to have produced thus soon—their second meeting. He waited until they passed into the shadows of the deserted Carewe street before he spoke. There he stopped abruptly, at which she turned, astonished.

"Now that you have saved my life," he said in a low, tremulous tone, "what are you going to do with it?"

Her eyes opened almost as widely as they had at her first sight of him in her garden. There was a long pause before she replied, and when she did it was to his considerable surprise.

"I have never seen a play except the funny little ones we acted at the convent," she said. "But isn't that the way they speak on the stage?"

Crailey realized that his judgment of the silence had been mistaken, and yet it was with a thrill of delight that he recognized her clear reading of him. He had been too florid again.

"Let us go." His voice was soft with restrained forgiveness. "You mocked me once before."

UNCLE SAM'S NAVY.

The Attractions It Now Offers to Bright Young Men.

The new law opening to the sailors the avenues of promotion to the commissioned ranks will have a tendency to attract the better class of our youth who are ambitious and whose circumstances have barred them from opportunities for advancement in other directions. In 1901 congress authorized the secretary of the navy to commission each year twelve sailors as warrant officers. To receive this promotion a sailor must be less than thirty years old, must have been in the service seven years, served one year as a first class petty officer and pass an examination upon the theoretical part of his calling. This latter requirement renders it necessary for him to devote his spare time to study. If he succeeds in this test he is given a tentative appointment as gunner, boatswain, carpenter or warrant machinist, and this duty being satisfactorily performed for one year he becomes a warrant officer at $1,200 per year sea pay, with an increase of $100 each year for three years. The fourth year his salary is $1,600 and after twelve years' service reaches $1,800. At sixty-two years of age he is retired on three-fourths pay for life.

Those whose ambition reaches beyond the warrant officer can have it satisfied through faithful and intelligent attention to duty, as, after four years' service in that capacity, the aspirant is eligible to a commission if recommended by his commanding officer and upon passing another examination. A bright and studious young man entering the navy as a sailor at seventeen may in twelve or fifteen years become a commissioned officer and retire at sixty-two with the rank of captain.—Joseph Jenkins in Leslie's Weekly.

One Centenarian In 127,000.

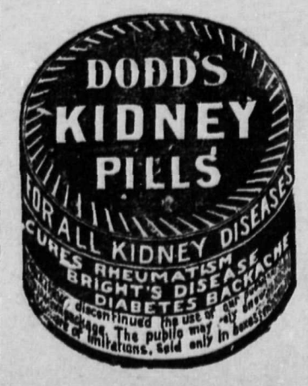
The labors of Sir George Murray Humphry proved that there is about one centenarian to every 127,000 people and that of seventy authenticated cases no one reached 110 years, three only are said to have been 108 and one 106. The full exercises of the various powers, mental and bodily, is conducive to great age, so that there need be no fear of entering heartily, actively and with full interest and energy into the assigned work of life, physical or mental. The inhabitants of any countryside, as in Delabole in North Cornwall, point with pride to the number of hale and hearty octogenarians, nonagenarians and centenarians living among them as an evidence of their healthy evironment and hygienic lives. So in Paris, with its 10,500 octogenarians and 620 nonagenarians, 89 of whom are approaching their hundredth year. Six inhabitants of Paris are more than 102 years of age.—London Hospital.

Thankfulness.

I am no friend to the people who receive the bounties of Providence without visible gratitude. When the sixpence falls into your hat you may laugh. When the messenger of an unexpected blessing takes you by the hand and lifts you up and bids you walk you may leap and run and sing for joy, even as the lame man whom St. Peter healed skipped piously and rejoiced aloud as he passed through the beautiful gate of the temple. There is no virtue in solemn indifference. Joy is as much a duty as beneficence is. Thankfulness is the other side of mercy.—Henry Van Dyke.

Unfair.

Another unfair thing in life—the bride, with a wealth of hair, wears a veil, but the groom, who has a bald spot and really needs a veil to cover it, is denied the privilege.



Your Doctor

Can cure your Cough or Cold, no question about that, but—why go to all the trouble and inconvenience of looking him up, and then of having his prescription filled, when you can step into any drug store in Canada and obtain a bottle of SHILOH'S CURE for a quarter.

Why pay two to five dollars when a twenty-five cent bottle of SHILOH will cure you as quickly?

Why not do as hundreds of thousands of Canadians have done for the past thirty-four years: let SHILOH be your doctor whenever a Cough or Cold appears.

SHILOH will cure you, and all druggists back up this statement with a positive guarantee.

The next time you have a Cough or Cold cure it with

BIRTH OF A HYMN.

A song of national circulation, "In the Sweet By and By," written by S. Fillmore Bennett of Elkhorn, Wis., had its birth in a country store. Mr. Bennett told the story, which is given in "Wisconsin In Three Centuries," as follows:

It was about time for closing business in the evening when J. P. Webster, whose melodies have made Wisconsin famous, came into the store, feeling somewhat depressed.

I said to Webster, "What is the matter now?"

He replied, "It is no matter; it will be all right by and by."

The idea of the hymn came to me like a flash of sunshine, and I replied: "The sweet by and by. Why would not that make a good hymn?"

"Maybe it would," he said indifferently.

I then turned to my desk and penned the hymn as fast as I could write. I handed it to Mr. Webster. As he read it his eyes kindled and his whole demeanor changed. Stepping to the desk, he began writing the notes instantly.

In a few moments he requested Mr. Bright to hand him his violin, and he played with little hesitation the beautiful melody from the notes. A few moments later he had jotted down the notes for the different parts and the chorus.

I do not think it was more than thirty minutes from the time I took my pencil to write the words before the hymn and the notes had all been completed and four of us were singing it exactly as it appeared in the Signet Ring a few days later and as it has been sung the world over ever since.

A NAVAL REBUKE.

Two Admirals, a Captain and a Fool In Manila Bay.

When Dewey's fleet was at Manila the late Admiral Chichester was then a captain. On one occasion Admiral Diedrichs, the German, sent out the Irene on an unrevealed errand and without the customary notification to the commander of the blockading fleet. Admiral Dewey had suffered, he thought, sufficiently from that sort of thing, and so the admiral sent a vessel across the Irene's bows and notified her captain that she would not be permitted to depart without a statement as to her destination. It was not Admiral Diedrichs' mission to quarrel with both the American and the English fleets on this critical occasion, so he sought to find out Captain Chichester's purpose in case of a collision. Going on board Chichester's ship, he angrily exclaimed, "Did you see what Dewey did to my ship?"

"Yes," replied Chichester.

"What would you have done if it had been an English ship?"

"Well," said Chichester, conveniently assuming that the Irene's captain had sailed without orders from Diedrichs, "I'd have put my captain in arrest, and then I'd have gone on board the Olympia and apologized to Admiral Dewey for having such a fool in command of one of my ships."

A Poet's Homely Face.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance, he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who, with Byron and Moore, was dining with him, and said:

"Chantrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What pose would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonmot.

The Canadian Boom.

Consul General J. G. Foster of Ottawa reports that the number of immigrants entering Canada during the fiscal year 1906 was 189,064, an increase of 42,798 over 1905. The emigrants from the United States numbered 57,919, or 14,267 more than in 1905. It is said that each British immigrant costs Canada $13. At that rate Canada got $750,000 worth of emigrants from the United States for much less cost in advertising, free fares, etc. Farmers and servants from the continent of Europe cost the government $5 each.

How He Spent His Fees.

James R. Howe, formerly register of deeds in Brooklyn, received fees amounting to more than $50,000 during his term of office, and he has given them back to the borough in the form of a bronze equestrian statue representing Washington at Valley Forge. The statue, with its pedestal, is thirty-five feet in height and was conceived and executed by Henry Merwin Shrady. It stands in the plaza at the Brooklyn end of the Williamsburg bridge and was unveiled recently with appropriate ceremonies.

OBSTINATE FACE SORES

REFUSED TO CLOSE FOR 4 YEARS

Zam-Buk Healed Them Inside Two Weeks.

Have you some eruption, or sore, or ulcer, or wound, on any part of your body which has hitherto refused to close, no matter how treated? If so, that is a case for Zam-Buk the great herbal balm. The herbal saps and essences in this balm are so powerful that they can heal the worst cases of chronic sores, ulcers, blood poison and skin diseases. Here are proofs of this:

Mrs. W. H. Taylor, of North Bay, Ont., says: "I had a scaly spot as big as a ten cent piece on my face. I had it for four years, and hardly a night during that time went by but what I applied cold cream, or some ointment or other, but it would always be there. I recently applied Zam-Buk, and in about a week's time the spot had disappeared completely. I cannot thank you enough for your remedy, and I tell everyone to be sure and keep Zam-Buk in their house."

Mrs. S. J. Holden, of 293 West Hannah St., Hamilton, says: "My little girl had a running sore on her leg which defied all treatment. I applied Zam-Buk, and in about a week's time the wound was closed. I have found Zam-Buk just as good for other skin troubles and injuries."

Mr. J. H. Hamilton, of Thornbury, says: "The first Zam-Buk I obtained was for a friend who had an obstinate sore on her temple. It had been treated once or twice by a doctor, and would heal up for a short time, but would break out again. Zam-Buk healed it permanently, and it shows no sign whatever of returning."

Similar grateful testimony is to hand from men and women in all parts of Canada. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for all skin diseases and injuries, such as cuts, burns, bruises, eczema, psoriasis, ulcers, scalp sores, cold sores, chapped hands, itch, rashes, tetter, face sores, etc. It is also an unequalled embrocation, and rubbed well on to parts affected cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, colds on chest, etc. All druggists sell at 50c a box, or may be obtained post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Six boxes for $2.50.

DAILY FADING AWAY

The Story of a Woman Made Well by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Bad blood means bad health. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills mean good health. They actually make new, rich blood which strengthens every nerve and every organ in the body. That is why people who use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills feel bright, active and strong. Mrs. Arthur Hanningan, Marshville, Ont., is a witness to the truth of these statements. Mrs. Hanningan says: "For nearly three years I suffered from anaemia (bloodlessness) and during that time consulted and took medicine from several doctors, without beneficial results. My complexion was of a waxy appearance, my lips and gums seemed bloodless. I suffered from headches, dizziness and palpitation of the heart. My appetite was so poor that I did not care whether I ate or not and I grew so weak, and was so much reduced in flesh that my friends thought I was in consumption. As I have said I doctored without benefit, until the last doctor whom I consulted advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I followed his advice, and less than a dozen boxes have made me the well woman I am today. All the symptoms of my troubles have vanished and I enjoy the best of health. I know there are hundreds of women who are drifting into the same condition I was, and to all such I would strongly urge the immediate use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not act upon the bowels; they do not tinker with mere symptoms; they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why they cure common ailments like rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney trouble, headaches and backaches, St. Vitus dance, and the special ailments that afflict so many women and growing girls. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Jiu Jitsu Bubble.

Did anybody ever see anything like the disappearance of jiu jitsu? A year or two ago everybody was listening open eyed to marvelous stories of skill with which slender little men overcame giants by a simple twist of the wrist. Teachers of the mystic art were appointed for West Point and Annapolis. Then the American athletes very obstinately refused to be unjointed by any of the little tricks, but flung the jiu jitsu experts on the floor, and jiu jitsu was forgotten.—Bonne Terre Register.

Why Exercise Heats the Body.

A thinking boy asked the editor one day why running or any other violent exercise makes one hotter. Perhaps all the boys and girls would like to have the question answered for them. The reason is that it quickens the circulation of the blood, makes one breathe faster and thus brings more air (and oxygen) into the lungs. Animal heat is produced by slow combustion, and combustion is nothing more than a union of the oxygen of the air with the combustible body or with some of its elements. When we take air into the lungs by breathing, the oxygen of the air penetrates the delicate vessels and enters the blood, which carries it to the heart and thence to the different organs. Here it makes a chemical union with particles of carbon from the tissues, and that union makes heat. The faster you breathe, therefore, the more oxygen you take in and the more heat is generated.—Chicago News.

Jones' Hat or Jones's Hat.

It is not strange that boys and girls are sometimes bothered over the right way to use the sign of the possessive after a noun ending in s. Good usage is about equally divided in the matter so that either Jones' hat or Jones's hat may be considered correct. Literally speaking, however, Jones's hat is to be preferred, for the possessive form is nothing but a contraction of "his," the original form having been "Jones his hat," and most grammarians say that we should give recognition in the sound to the contracted pronoun. Goold Brown's grammar says, "To avoid a concurrence of hissing sounds the s is sometimes omitted, and the apostrophe alone retained to mark the possessive singular, as 'Moses' minister,' but the elision should be sparingly indulged. It is in general less agreeable than the regular form," and it illustrates the point by quoting "Hicks's" as preferable to "Hicks'."—Exchange.

CHRONIC CATARRH OF NOSE AND THROAT

"At the Advice of Friends I Tried Peruna and the Results Have Been Satisfactory."—So Writes Mr. Pilon.

Mr. Raoul Pilon, 116 Rue Notre Dame, Lachine, P.Q., Can., writes:

"I write you a few words to express to you my satisfaction at being cured. I was afflicted with catarrh of the head and nose and suffered much. I was greatly discouraged. I had a bad cough and bad taste in my mouth in the morning.

"I took treatment for some time without obtaining relief. At the advice of friends I tried Peruna and the results have been highly satisfactory. At the end of four months I was completely cured.

Neglected catarrh becomes chronic, developed into the chronic form longer and more persistent treatment will be required to cure it than if the disease were treated at the onset.

However, Peruna will bring relief whether the catarrh is acute or chronic. If you are wise you will keep Peruna on hand and take a few doses at the first appearance of a cold or cough, and thus save yourself both suffering and money.

Patients have the privilege of writing to Dr. Hartman for free advice. A book on "Chronic Catarrh" will be sent on request.

"Yes, sir; I saw it very plainly."

"It was conspicuous, then?"

The witness seemed puzzled by the new word. He repeated his former assertion.

But he was hoist with his own petard. The witness innocently answered:

"I can see you plainly, sir, and the other lawyers, though you are not a bit conspicuous."

KIDNEYS AFFECTED BY SUDDEN CHANGE

The sudden lowering of the temperature causes the pores of the skin to close, and thus throws on to the kidneys much work which is ordinarily performed by the skin. This, no doubt, accounts for the great prevalence of kidney disease during the fall and winter.

There is no treatment which so quickly affords relief to overworked and deranged kidneys as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because they act on the liver, as well as they kidneys, and when in healthful action the liver does much of the work of filtering the blood, which is otherwise left for the kidneys.

Bright's Disease, dropsy, uric acid poisoning, stone in the bladder, and rheumatism are among the most painful forms of kidney disease, and these ailments can always be prevented by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They can also usually be cured by this treatment, but if you are so fortunate as to be yet free of these dreadful ailments, keep so by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to keep the liver, kidneys and bowels in healthful working condition.

Mr. James J. Jenson, Olds, Alta., writes: "I have been troubled considerably with lame back, which I suppose came from derangements of the kidneys, and I have never been able to find a treatment that was so prompt and effective in curing this ailment as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. At two different times in my life this preparation has entirely cured me of this trouble, and in late years I have found it unnecessary to use any medicine whatever. I feel it my duty to add this statement to the many others which I see in recommendation of this excellent medicine."

Mr. W. Ferguson blacksmith, Teeswater, Ont., says "In my work I have bending over a great deal, and this together with the constant strain on all parts of the body, and the sudden change of temperature when going to and from the forge, brought on kidney disease and backache. At times I would suffer so that I would have to quit work to ease my back and felt so miserable most of the time I did not enjoy life very much.

"As last I decided that I would have to get relief in some way, and having heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a successful cure for backache and kidney disease, I began using them. To my surprise and pleasure they helped me at once, and a few boxes entirely removed my troubles. Thanks to Dr. Chase, I am perfectly cured and hope that others may take my advice and use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

JOHN W. YOUNG

Prince Albert Times.

The west is offering eloquent inducements to the younger journalists of the east, eloquent because the inducements are of the nature of increased financial reward, a chance to enter the political arena, and climb to the top in a country where the nominations are not cut and dried—where every man will be given a place according to his ability, and his courage.

During the past few years the number of these young men who have left the confines of the older provinces to make a place for themselves in the west has been ever increasing, and the effect is being felt proportionately.

One of these is Mr. John W. Young, who in company with the well known young newspaper man, R. P. Laurie, is in charge of the destinies of the Prince Albert Times. Mr. Young is a Chatham boy, was born and brought up there, educated in the same town, and has filled all the reportorial positions on the Chatham Planet, up to the desk of city editor.

The parents of Mr. Young were among the early residents of Chatham, his father was a carriage builder, a man who took an active interest in all public affairs, and was once mayor of the city of Chatham. Both of Mr. Young's parents have been dead for some years.

Equipped with a very fair education and a good measure of self-reliance, Mr. Young accepted his first newspaper position at the age of twenty, and one needs no further indication of his perseverance than that he remained with the same paper through more than eight years, working his way up, till the time of his coming west, when he left the desk of city editor.

Since taking over the Prince Albert Times, from the estate of the late J. D. Maveety, last year, the new firm have more than trebled the plant, and have lifted the Times to a high level in western journalism, taking the Conservative stand, and making their influence felt in no small way.

Mr. Young was married in Chatham in 1904 to Miss Houston, daughter of Mr. M. Houston, police magistrate, and member of the law firm of Houston & Stone.

We predict a bright future for Mr Young in both journalistic and political circles.

THE EVILS OF CONSTIPATION

SPECIALIST SAYS WOMEN IN PARTICULAR ARE SUFFERERS

Why Bileans Prove So Beneficial

A medical specialist states that eight out of ten cases of headache, dizziness, sallow complexion, and various ailments peculiar to women for which he is consulted have their origin in constipation. Although this ailment is very common amongst both sexes, women appear to be the greater sufferers. Bileans cure constipation by stimulating the liver and regulating the bile flow. Bile is the natural purgative of the body. Bileans regulates its secretion.

Mrs. S. E. Laidwin, of 38 St. Paul Street, Toronto, says: "I have taken bileans for constipation and dizziness and found most satisfactory results. Bileans do not cause any griping, and not only cure constipation but also improve the general health."

Mr. A. Monaghan, of Berlin, recently proved this vegetable remedy in a similar way. He says: "For many years I suffered from both constipation and piles. Nothing I have ever tried is to be compared for beneficial result to Bileans. They have made me a different man, and if any sufferer would like to ask me any question on their operation and their value I will be glad to give all the information I can."

Such is the result of exhaustive tests of Bileans. This great vegetable remedy is invaluable also for sallow complexions (due to bile in the blood), pimples, greasy, sallow skin, and blood impurities generally. Bileans also cure indigestion, debility, rheumatism, anemia, female ailment and irregularities, "run-down feelings," liver and kidney complaint, headache, sleeplessness, wind spasms, palpitation, etc. All druggis's sell at 50c a box, or obtainable post free from the Bilean Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Six boxes for $2.50.

The Skunk Industry.

The skunk harvest is on in Maine, and it is expected that it will amount to 150,000 of the odoriferous little animals. Maine produces more than 25,000 gallons of skunk oil every year. The skunk skin is a valuable commodity. Milady who thinks she wears a sealskin cloak would probably be chagrined to know that it is made chiefly of skunk skins. These skins, which are the foundation of many furs of different names, sell for from 25 cents to $2. An average skunk will yield a quart of oil.—Nashville American.

They Cleanse the System Thoroughly.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills clear the stomach and bowels of bilious matter, cause the excretory vessels to throw off impurities from the blood into the bowels and expel the deleterious mass from the body. They do this without pain or inconvenience to the patient, who speedily realizes their good offices as soon as they begin to take effect. They have strong recommendations from all kinds of people.

The Stomach's "Weal or Woe!" — The stomach is the centre from which, from the standpoint of health, flows "weal or woe." Trajan's Column.

Professor Boni, the Italian archaeologist, has just completed his greatest undertaking, the restoration of Trajan's column, this task having consisted in replacing no fewer than fifteen pieces of marble which had fallen out of their places in the column, thus menacing a possible collapse of the entire structure. The grotto beneath the monument has also now been filled in, giving the whole a firmer hold on its foundations, so that no untoward collapse may ever be feared in the future. The loosening of the restored portions had been occasioned by the fall of the bronze statue of the Emperor Trajan which surmounted the column.

How the Parson Tipped the Winner.

The Rev. Herbert M. Neild, who is in charge of the Eastbrook Hall Wesleyan Mission at Bradford, tells of an amusing incident which gained him the ear of workingmen at his services.

"I was announced to speak on horse racing from the title "What'll Win?" In the vestry I found a postcard which read: 'Re your address "What'll Win?" Hackler's Pride is good business for the Cambridgeshire.' Anxious to see what proportion of betting men I had in the more than 2,000 men assembled, I read the card to the crowd. The answering roar at the horse's name told me all I wished to know, and for 40 minutes I had strained attention as I showed that workingmen were being rogued and rooked wholesale by an organized conspiracy on the part of bookmakers, touts, tipsters and trainers. The sequel was astonishing. Hackel's Pride won the race on following Wednesday. As by magic it went through city, and particularly workshops, that the parson of Eastbrook had tipped the winner for the Cambridgeshire."—From the Young Men.

THE FORGOTTEN DEAD.

There Are Few English Tombstones Over Two Centuries Old.

Some years ago there was a correspondence in the papers, the main argument being that there were very few tombstones in the open—that is, outside of a church—which could show a record of over 200 years. Doubtless there are many tombstones of a far greater age, but most of these are now undecipherable from the perishing material used or have sunk deep into the earth, in which case there can be small doubt as to the inscriptions having become obliterated.

The oldest record I have come across was at Godshill churchyard, near Ventnor, where the visitor can see legibly inscribed, "Annie Garde, 1592," but probably some of your readers may know of tombstones bearing an earlier date. The most surprising number of old tombstones clustered together are possibly those grouped at Bonchurch, Isle of Wight, these ranging from 1616 to 1702. In all there are seven, having these dates: 1616, 1619, 1620, 1627, 1646, 1687, 1702.

So far—that is, during a three years' search—I have found tombstones of the seventeenth century at Godshill, Bonchurch, Brading and St. Lawrence (Ventnor), in the Isle of Wight; at Wateringbury, in Kent, where there are several in excellent order; at Tonbridge, Bristol, Ipswich, Harwich, Southwold, Colwyn Bay (old parish churchyard), and at Millbrook, near Southampton.

I might note that in all I have so far found only thirty-five tombstones over 200 years of age.—London Standard.

"THE ARABIAN NIGHTS."

Sir Richard Burton's Translation of the Tales.

"The Arabian Nights" was first introduced to Europe by a Frenchman named Galland, and the first English versions were simply translations of his. Then a Dr. Scott gave a very superior edition, "occasionally corrected from the Arabic." In 1839, however, appeared an English translation entirely from the Arabic, with copious notes and illustrations. It was Edward William Lane's, a gentleman whose long residence in Egypt had fully qualified him for his work. This translation may be said to have held the field until the appearance of one by Sir Richard Burton. Sir Richard was a daring and successful traveler, who had a remarkable facility in acquiring eastern languages. He performed a pilgrimage to Mecca disguised as a pilgrim, a feat as difficult as it was daring. In 1872 he was appointed to the post of British consul at Triest. Here he applied his knowledge of Arabic to making a faithful translation of "The Arabian Nights Entertainments," supplementing his work with copious notes and terminal essays which have been called a mine of curious and diverting information. Its publication caused a great sensation. Details were freely given that had previously been suppressed. But the accuracy of the translation as a whole was candidly acknowledged, and Burton may be credited with having made into the English language the finest translation of these wonderful Arabian tales.—London Answers.

A FAITHFUL DOG.

His Story Has Passed Into History With the Athenians.

Many hundred years ago there lived at Athens a dog whose faithfulness has caused him to be mentioned in history, and in the Grecian city his story is often repeated. The dog guarded one of the heathen temples at Athens. One night a thief stole into this building and carried off some of the most valuable treasures. The dog vainly barked its loudest to frighten the thief and to rouse the keepers, so the man went off with the jewels. But the faithful dog did not mean to lose sight of the rascal, and all through the night he followed him. By daybreak the poor animal had become very weary, but still he kept the robber in sight. The latter tried to feed him, but the dog refused all food from him, and, as he made friends with passersby, he took it from them instead. Whenever the thief stopped to rest the dog remained near him, and soon a report went through the country of the animal's strange behavior. The keepers of the temple, hearing the story, went in search of the dog, and they found him still at the heels of the thief at a town called Cronyon. The robber was arrested, taken back to Athens and there punished. The judges were so well pleased with the dog's sagacity and faithfulness that they ordered him to be fed every day for the rest of his life at public expense.

A Kitchen Pincushion.

A tea strainer formed the foundation for it—just one of the plain, ordinary ones of finely woven wires, but polished and shining as though made of some much finer metal. It was lined with the softest of silk and stuffed with a tiny bag of bran, which, in its turn, was neatly tucked away under a coverlet of silk. A bit of ribbon made a small bow on the handle, and at the same time furnished a loop to hang it up by. Then the wire part was thickly seeded with pins and the novel cushion put in place.

Burning Meteors.

It is supposed that meteors begin to burn when they are within about 125 miles of the earth and that combustion is completed and they disappear at from thirty-five to fifty miles above the earth. When we see a falling star, therefore, we may consider that we have watched it through a flight of about a hundred miles before it finally burns out and disappears from view.

Made It Even.

Curran, when master of the rolls in Ireland, was going one day to a levee at the castle. There was a great press of carriages, when all at once he was startled by the pole of the carriage which followed him crashing through the back of his. He hastily put his head out of the window, crying to his coachman: "Stop, stop! The pole of the carriage behind is driven into us." "Arrah, then, it's all right again, your honor," said Pat, "for I've just druv my pole into the carriage before."

When the Hair Falls

Stop it! And why not? Falling hair is a disease, a regular disease; and Ayer's Hair Vigor, as made from our new improved formula, quickly and completely destroys that disease. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly, and all dandruff disappears.

Does not change the color of the hair.

Ayer's — Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

The little book in each package gives the formula of our new Hair Vigor, tells why each ingredient is used, and explains many other interesting things. After reading you will know why this new hair preparation does its work so well.

Mr. M. N. Dafoe, 29 Colborne St., Toronto, says:

"I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia for years. I have been treated by doctors and have taken many medicines with only temporary relief. Since using Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill I can eat anything the same as when a boy. I find they regulate both stomach and bowels. My old time vigor has returned, so that my spirits are buoyant and temper normal. I give all credit to this wonderful remedy—Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill."

IN ARMOR TIMES.

Strength of English War Horses In the Days of Henry VIII.

The size of the English war horse reached its maximum in the reign of Henry VIII., when the relations of body armor to "hand guns" were analogous to those of the early ship armor and cannon. There was good reason to believe, says the London Spectator, that by adding a little to the thickness of the coat of steel the soft, low velocity bullet of the day could be kept out. So it was for a time. But the additional weight required a still larger horse to carry it. The charger had to be armored as well as his rider, and the collection in the Tower of London shows the actual weight which it carried. The panoply of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, the brother-in-law of Henry VIII., still exists. That of the horse covers the whole of the hind quarters, the back of the neck, forehead, muzzle, ears, shoulders and chest. It is exactly like a piece of boiler plating and fastened by rivets.

The rider sat in a saddle, the front of which was a steel shield ten inches high, covering the stomach and thighs as the "breastwork" on an ironclad's deck covers the base of the turret. The total weight is eighty pounds fifteen ounces. To this add the weight of the rider's armor, ninety-nine pounds nine ounces, and of the rider himself, say sixteen stone (224 pounds), and the total is twenty-eight stone twelve pounds eight ounces, or 404 pounds 8 ounces. This bears out Hollinshead's statement that in the days of Henry VIII., "who erected a noble studderie for breeding horses, especially the greatest sort," such as were kept for burden, those animals would bear four hundredweight commonly.

MAKING OLD OAK.

One of the Tricks of the Cabinetmakers' Trade.

You will have to go a long way before you find a body of men more clever than those cabinetmakers who produce goods to satisfy the desire of the public for furniture made of old and fancy woods. They can transform whitewood into all kinds of exotic woods by means of chemicals, and a chemist would be surprised if he were to have the run of one of those factories for a day.

The manufacture of "old" oak is one of the easiest of their processes. The boards, moldings, panels or whatever pieces are required are made of oak which has just had time to dry sufficiently to prevent excessive warping.

They are then placed in a dark room, on the floor of which and quite close to the furniture to be "aged," are placed several bowls, plates and so forth, of liquid ammonia. The room is then hermetically closed up, and the wood is left for a month or so, according to the age which is required. The coloration will extend to a depth of nearly a quarter of an inch if the room is kept closed for a few months.

That is why there is so much old oak furniture about. Of course, a little reflection would show that it could not be genuine—the forests of the middle ages would not have furnished one-half of it—but people do not always reflect. —London Graphic.

Shoe Buckles.

When Evander Berry Wall, king of the dudes for twelve years and really the most inconspicuous man about town, because he was homely of face and a very bad dresser, besides being rather short and blotchy, undertook to reintroduce shoe buckles he made his first big failure as the sartorial dictator of our "jeunesse doree." I think it was poor Al Claggett who said: "Why, Berry, you make a fool of yourself. Shoe buckles go with long stockings and knee pants. You can't wear 'em with socks and trousers. They interfere with the set of the trousers around the feet. Then, of course, you've got to have a low quartered shoe. Cut it out, Berry, cut it out." Wall immediately quit.

Wearing Glasses.

Wearing glasses need not be permanent. If the first hint of derangement in the eyes is heeded a short time spent under the direction of an oculist will safely tide over the difficulty. It is most restful to close the eyes frequently for a few minutes. This rest does them great good. Particularly should this be done in trains and street cars. Many a headache and smarting pain may thus be saved. Traveling in public conveyances is exceedingly hard on the eyes, even for those that are strong and perfect. The gaze should be confined to the interior of the car. Looking out of the windows to the rapidly changing scenery is a great strain.

No Regrets.

"Hello, old man. Haven't seen anything of you since you got married. How goes it?"

"Thanks, fairly well. But marriage is a costly job! If you only knew what the dressmakers charge!"

"So I suppose you regret it?"

"Oh, no. I married a dressmaker."

They'd Be Grateful.

"I have never taken the trouble to trace my ancestry."

"Well, if your ancestors could speak they would probably thank you for that."

London's Criminal Lists.

There are 17,210 police in London. This, says the report of the commissioner for 1905, issued recently, is an increase of 364 since the previous year.

The number of persons apprehended during the year for all offences was 127,317, an increase of 787. Of these 3,176 were convicted at Sessions, 103,362 by magistrates, 631 acquitted, and 20,068 discharged by magistrates.

Juvenile offences increased from 3,611 in 1904 to 3,672 last year. Burglaries also increased from 474 to 512, while housebreakings decreased from 1,671 to 1,522.

No fewer than 6,186 finger-print identifications were effected by Scotland Yard as against 5,155 in 1904.

A Royal Collection.

According to the Figaro, King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway are making a novel collection, consisting of newspaper cuttings, divided into two albums—true and false. In the latter category are all the comments and stories which have sprung from the imagination of journalists. These are inscribed. "Things we have neither said nor done." It would be interesting to learn in which album they have pasted up the newspaper cutting referring to this collection.—London Tribune.

Just the Thing That's Wanted.—A pill that acts upon the stomach and yet is so compounded that certain ingredients of it preserve their power to act upon the intestinal canals, so as to clear them of excreta, the retention of which cannot but be hurtful, was long looked for by the medical profession. It was found in Parmelee's Pills, which are the result of much expert study, and are scientifically prepared as a laxative and an alterative in one.

"Saved by a Cipher.

The story is told of how a neatly constructed cipher saved Sir John Trevanion's life. This cavalier was taken prisoner and locked up in Colchester castle to await his execution. On the second day of his confinement the jailer brought him a letter, which, as far as the warder of the castle could discover, was merely a note of condolence from a friend. But the letter had been concocted on a cipher to which Sir John had a clew. Every third letter after a punctuation mark of any kind was to tell. What he made out was this: "Panel at east end of chapel slides." On the following evening the prisoner begged permission to pass a quiet hour in prayer in the chapel. The request was granted, and before the hour had passed the panel had done its work and the bird had flown.

A Bird Performer.

Canaries and other tame birds are sometimes taught to perform tricks, but it always has been regarded almost an impossibility to train a wild bird. Andrew Hume, the famous Scotch bird lover, trained one of the wildest of Scotch birds to perform all sorts of remarkable tricks—to jump and keep time with the skipping rope, to perform on the slack and tight rope, climb an upright rope, stand on top of a running carriage, draw cards out of a box, mount a ladder and ring a bell, go round a wheeling stair step by step and fly to its owner's head when called upon.

Fame and Fortune.

"That young physician is working hard."

"Yes," answered the veteran practitioner. "He is on the track of a discovery that will mean fame and fortune. He is trying to invent a new name that will make some old ailment fashionable."

Rhinoceros Horn.

The horn of the rhinoceros does not grow from the bone, but is a mere excrescence of the skin, like the hair and nails. It can be separated from the skin by the use of a sharp knife.

Drum Calls.

About the year 1768 the beats and calls of the drum used in the service were put into a permanent shape. The tattoo, or beat of the drum calling soldiers to their quarters at night, was once called "tap too," from the Dutch word signifying, "No more drink to be tapped or sold."

Careful John Bull.

Enormous sums of money are frequently expended by various Governments to rectify errors, often apparently trivial, in Government printing.

Britain seldom has to put up with such losses, but on the continent and in America carelessness or wantonness in misprinting money orders, telegraph forms, and bank notes had led to serious loss.

The Kaiser's interference in all matters of art has cost the Fatherland heavy losses. One of his first acts as sovereign was to show his subordinates how the Imperial arms should be printed. After many thousand forms and documents had been impressed with these arms a high authority proved to His Majesty that the new design was not only wrong, but also humiliating to himself. Fifteen hundred pounds' worth of papers were promptly reduced to ashes.

In another case the Kaiser subedited the German money order form in such a way that the public could not make head or tail of it. Finally the new form had to be called in, and, along with thousands of unissued copies, destroyed.

The United States some years ago destroyed 4,000,000 telegraph forms owing to the misspelling of a single word.

Bridal Wreaths.

The bridal wreath is usually formed in Germany of myrtle branches; in France and England, of orange blossoms; in Italy and French Switzerland, of white roses; in Spain, of red roses and pinks; in the islands of Greece, of vine leaves; in Bohemia, of rosemary; in German Switzerland, of a crown of artificial flowers.

You cannot be happy while you have corns. Then do not delay in getting a bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure. It removes all kinds of corns without pain. Failure with it is unknown.

Lemons.

Before grating lemons it is well to wash them in a basin of lukewarm water, for on examination it will be found that the outside of a lemon is anything but clean, and if put under a microscope it will be discovered to have tiny black specks on it, which are the minute ergs of an insect.

PASTOR AND PEOPLE PRAISE PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

A Marvellous and Triumphant Record of Victory Over Disease.

No medicine has ever effected as large a number of wonderful and almost marvellous cures as Psychine. It has had one continuous record of victories over diseases of the throat, chest, lungs and stomach. Where doctors have pronounced cases incurable from consumption and other wasting diseases Psychine steps in and rescues numberless people even from the very verge of the grave. Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Chills, Night Sweats, La Grippe, Pneumonia, and other like troubles, all of which are forerunners of Consumption, yield quickly to the curative powers of Psychine.

Mrs. Campbell, one of the many cured, makes the following statement:

I cannot refrain from telling all who suffer of my remarkable recovery with Psychine. In April, 1902, I caught a heavy cold which settled on my lungs and gradually led to consumption. I could not sleep, was subject to night sweats, my lungs were so diseased, my doctor considered me incurable. Rev. Mr. Mahaffy, Port Elgin Presbyterian Church, recommended Dr. Slocum's Psychine to me, when I was living in Ontario. After using Psychine for a short time I ate and slept well, the night sweats and cough ceased. Months ago I stopped taking Psychine, as I was perfectly restored to health and to-day I never felt better in my life. Psychine has been a god-send to me. MRS. ANDREW CAMPBELL, Cottonwood, N.W.T.

THERE have been fortunes made by judicious investment in Real Estate, and more fortunes will be made than ever the next two or three years. The one who reaps the harvest is the original investor, for he has his money on a certainty.

Now let us point out to you that there is no better spot on the Continent to buy Real Estate than TROUT LAKE.

Trout Lake is the prettiest spot in the Kootenays; as a pleasure resort it has no equal. Boating and fishing may be indulged in the year round; while big game in abundance is to the found on the hills. Its climate is superb, there being no great extremes, it being mild in winter and cool in summer. It can boast of some of the finest hotels and residences in British Columbia. Its streets are well laid out and graded. There are two excellent general stores, and a glance at the advertisements in this journal will show that all trades are fairly well represented. IT has never had a "boom"—its growth has been steady. It is the head of navigation, and the terminal of the Lardo branch of the C.P.R. All roads (in the Lardeau) lead to Trout Lake. It is the commercial centre of the richest mineral district on the continent, and has banking facilities provided by the Imperial Bank of Canada; first class school accommodation under the direction of S. Shannon, B.A.; a good water system; government offices; County Court sittings; Methodist Episcopal and Anglican churches and cottage hospital.

There are valuable ranch lands on the outskirts awaiting settlers. Its lumber resources are magnificent, and a band saw mill with a capacity of 60,000 ft. per day is at the head of the lake. The mines tributary are proving out bigger producers every year, with new prospects opening up rich bodies of ore.

There will be a big rush this year, so if you would know more, write at once to either of the agents at the addresses below.
