Wedding Bells

McLEAN—STITT.

On Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock the wedding occurred at the home of Rev. Bacon-Hillocks, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, of Dr. Ernest H. S. McLean, of Revelstoke, and Miss Ralphia Weir Stitt, of Spencerville, Ont., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Stitt, of that place, and niece of Ralph Weir, of Ellarslie, Alta., with whom the bride has been visiting for the past few weeks.

The bride was tastily attired in a smart travelling suit and was attended by Mrs. (Senator) Lougheed. After the ceremony, the young couple enjoyed a dainty little repast and left on the 2:15 a.m. train west for their future home in Revelstoke, where the groom has an extensive practice, and is very popular among his townspeople.—Calgary Herald.

Boosting B. C. Fruit Industry

Mr. J. Vestrup, of Nakusp, secretary of the Arrow Lakes Agricultural Society, passed through Revelstoke on Wednesday en route for a three months advertising campaign on the prairies. Mr. Vestrup took with him about 30 varieties of apples grown in the Arrow Lakes district, and also a valise full of fruit culture literature. Mr. Vestrup is a booster for his district and there is no doubt but that a large amount of success will attend his efforts to put before the prairie citizens the benefits of life on a fruit ranch on the Arrow Lakes.

Wood Used for Shingles

Ten species of wood are used in the manufacture of shingles in Canada, of which cedar is the most important. Reports received by the Forestry Branch at Ottawa show that over nine-tenths of the two billion shingles produced in Canada during 1910 were of this species and that over one-half of these were western cedar cut in British Columbia. The consumption of spruce and white pine has decreased suddenly in 1910, eighty-two per cent. less of the former being made than in 1909, and scarcely one-fifth the usual amount of white pine being produced. Nova Scotia and Quebec cut most of the spruce shingles. The white pine shingles are mostly of the species Pinus monticola and are cut in . British Columbia. Nearly three million more of hemlock shingles were produced in 1910 than during the year previous and of the total of fifteen million pieces, over nine-tenths was produced in Ontario and Quebec. The above four species furnished over ninety-eight per cent. of the wood used in shingles. Balsam, douglas fir and jack pin although of less importance were used during 1910 in increasing quantities and for the first time, tamarack and red pine were reported as shingle wood. There was less fluctuation in the value of the species than formerly. Balsam shingles were the cheapest at $1.48 per thousand and tamarack the most expensive at $2.49.

NEW WESTMINSTER BANK ROBBERY

A Big Sum of the Stolen Money Found Under the Sidewalk--Detectives Hard at Work

Vancouver, Nov. 3—A sum exceeding twenty-four thousand dollars, in notes and gold, the proceeds of the New Westminster bank robbery were found hidden under the planks of the sidewalk a few blocks distant from the scene of the robbery. Some city workmen made the find. The notes were damaged by their long stay in the wet ground. The gold was in a bag, the latter being rotted by the dampness. The booty was evidently hidden by the thieves after they made their effectual efforts to escape in a motor car taken from a neighboring house. Arrests are said to be imminent.

The Pinkerton detectives at work here on the Bank of Montreal robbery have received a telegram announcing that some of the money stolen from the bank has been found in Eastern cities, but neither the amount nor the places where it was found are stated. Curiously enough, the information was received almost immediately after the discovery of the buried loot in New Westminster.

Attraction Extraordinary

The coming of the famous Jolly Della Pringle Stock Company is announced by the managers of the Edison theatre, and absolutely one of the best organizations that ever came to Revelstoke is promised. Miss Della Pringle the star of this popular company has an enviable reputation throughout the eastern States and is fast becoming a favorite in the Canadian provinces. Miss Pringle engages the best players in the dramatic field and selects the highest class plays. Each production is staged in an artistic manner, and every detail is carefully looked after. The public demand the very best, and Miss Pringle fully lives up to that demand.

The gowns worn by this clever star are a work of art, and beyond all doubt the handsomest and most gorgeous ever worn by a stock actress. The press unite in saying "...hen you see Della Pringle and her excellent company, you see the best in the land.' Miss Pringle comes to the Edison theatre commencing Monday, November 6th.

Curling Club Meeting

The annual meeting of the Curling Club was held in the City Hall on Tuesday evening. Present, A. E. Rose, chairman, Messrs. R.S. Squarebriggs, J. G. Barber, B. A. Lawson, F. M. Gibson, G. H. Knight, C. B. Hume, C. R. Macdonald, R. McDonald, F. Terry, C. Newsome, W. Stone and C. M. Field.

The financial statement for the last year was read, and showed the club to be in a good financial standing. The balance to the credit of the club from last year being $217.96.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—Hon. Pres., A. E. Rose; President, C. B. Hume; Vice-President, Rev. Mr. McIntyre; Secretary, C. M. Field; Treasurer, C. R. McDonald; Executive committee, Messrs. H. N. Coursier, F. M. Gibson J. H. Hamilton, G. H. Knight, R. D. McDonald and J. G. Barber.

DENOUNCES DEFAMERS

Vancouver, Nov. 2—Superintendent Balmer, of the city parks is much disturbed over the report that is being circulated by some sinister-minded conspirators that the cougar recently playing a star engagement in Stanley park was nothing but a tame cougar, let out for the purpose of attracting attention to the park.

"It is a most base fabrication," said Supt. Balmer this morning. "That was a real, eight-foot, wild and ferocious, sure-enough cougar, and came from the wilds of the hills. The only tame cougar that we have had in the park for some time died of gout some time ago, after enjoying a life of ease and luxury for four teen years. If those who are telling the tame tiger story had met the late terror in the zoo in the moonlight, I warrant you they would have told different tales."

PICTURES THAT DO NOT PLEASE

The action of the Toronto city council in prohibiting the display of moving pictures which make a blatant parade of the United States flag will no doubt be of general advantage by impelling the United States manufacturers of picture films to exercise some discrimination in the selection of the reels sent to their Canadian patrons. The offensive glorification of the United States flag at the expense of the Union Jack in pictures shown in the British dominions has for some time occupied the attention of the Overseas club, and the action of the Toronto city council will in all probability go far to eradicate the grievance against which the club has been protesting.

Canadians show a cosmopolitan tolerance of the display of foreign emblems, and the flag of the United States is treated in Canada with a respect not always accorded to the Union Jack in the republic to the south. This is as it should be, but when it is expected that tolerance should be extended to displays in Canada of unpatriotic pictures, glorifying a foreign county at the expense of British reputation, the line has been passed.

Moving picture theatres are largely attended by boys and girls and the pictures have an educational tendency which can be neither sound or detrimental. No loyal Canadian would suggest that the children of the Dominion should imbibe their knowledge of history from books colored to suit United States prejudices which deprecate British aims and achievements and magnify United States accomplishments beyond historical perspective. It is equally objectionable that the pictures placed before them should be similarly perverted, and should inculcate an exaggerated idea of the achievements of the United States and a contempt for British ideals.—Toronto News.

No Chance for Safety

Chehalis, Wn., Nov. 2—With the death from burns of Miss Bertha Crown, shortly before midnight the list as a result of the Imperial Powder Company's fire was brought up to nine today. All the dead were girls who were employed in the packing department of the plant, where the fire started in some unexplained manner, and ignited the uncovered powder which lay on the long counters of the mixing room. Seven of them died where they stood and their bodies were so badly burned that only one that of Miss Ethel Sharp, could be readily identified. Four of the galvanized iron buildings, with powder and equipment, were burned, entailing a property loss of approximately $20,000.

There were twelve men working in other parts of the plant. They say they heard the girls' shrieks and the next moment the whole interior of the mixing room was ablaze. There was no explosion, the powder being of the kind that burns but does not explode except when confined. The men rushed to safety through the exits, but the girls, penned between the counter and the wall, had absolutely no chance to save themselves. As soon as the news reached Chehalis, a mile from the plant, scores of persons rushed to assist in extinguishing the fire. Miss Crown had been dragged from the burning building a few seconds after the explosion, but by the time rescuers had arrived the conflagration was so hot that no aid could be extended to the girls within

Favor Annexation

Fremont, Neb., Nov. 2—"Nine-tenths of the people of my country favor the annexation of Canada," declared Champ Clark, speaker of the United States house of representatives here today, "And I don't care who hears me say it."

Beginning with a speech here this morning, Speaker Clark was scheduled to make addresses in twenty-one towns in the third Nebraska district in the interests of Daniel V. Stevens, Democratic candidate for congress to succeed the late Representative Jas. P. Latta.

"I am willing," he said, "to make this proposition: You let me run for president on a platform calling for the annexation of Canada, insofar as this country can accomplish that end and let President Taft run against me, opposing annexation. Why, I would carry every state in the nation."

COMMISSIONER RETURNS

Predicts a Great Future for the Peace River Country

Thos. Jamieson, gold commissioner for the province of British Columbia at Fort St. John, arrived in Edmonton last night, on his way back to spend the winter in Victoria, after two years in the Peace River country. He is registered at the St. James hotel.

Mr. Jamieson is an enthusiastic believer in the prospects of this great undeveloped country and asserts that all that is necessary for its immediate opening up is the entrance of the railroads.

To a Bulletin reporter he dilated at some length upon his favorite topic. It was not the fulsome talk of one who knows not whereof he speaks but it was that of a man who is intimately acquainted with his subjects and knows the conditions and prospects of his adopted land.

In addition to the position of gold commissioner, Mr. Jamieson is a gardener, extraordinary, having conducted an experimental farm at the post. He modestly informed his interrogator that he had grown vegetables the superior of any he had ever seen. In a two-acre patch, near his office, he had raised every variety of garden vegetable which matured long before the frost arrived. Even tomatoes and corn, which require a particularly suitable climate for their proper maturation, had both done wonderfully well. An acre of oats which had been sown during the first week in June gave Mr. Jamieson one of the heaviest yields he had ever seen. With ordinary cultivation the crop had grown to a height of over six feet.

Regarding the future prospects of Fort St. John, Mr. Jamieson was particularly enthusiastic. Fifty miles up the Peace river from Fort St. John there is a tract of fifty square miles of anthracite coal at Hudson's Hope, near the Peace river canyon, which belongs to the British Columbia government. There is also practically unlimited water power to be had at this canyon. It has been estimated by engineers that there is as much power at this point as at the Niagara Falls, on the Canadian side.

"It is quite natural to suppose," said Mr. Jamieson, "that where we have power, coal, a great agricultural country and an excellent supply of timber we will some day have a big town."

In regard to the particular work with which he is connected, Mr. Jamieson had very little to say. "All the rivers show good prospects of gold," he said, "but only a little prospecting and practically no mining have been done yet. With the coming of the railways this feature of the country's resources should be very rapidly developed.

According to Mr. Jamieson, Fort St. John is little more than the name yet, and is only waiting for the opening up of the country to advance by leaps and bounds. There are two stores, a government office, two church missions and a few settlers. During the past summer a large number of government surveyors made Fort St. John their headquarters. Some of these were engaged in running base lines, others were laying out the boundaries of the Dominion government's block of 2,500,000 acres while many others were engaged in surveying townships and sections.

A fairly good crop of oats and all kinds of vegetables was gathered this year. The settlers have not gone in for raising wheat as there is no market for this commodity yet. The oats averaged very high. Potatoes on the whole, were one of the best crops Mr. Jamieson had ever seen.

The returned gold commissioner referred to Hector Tremblay, the pioneer farmer of the Pouce Caoupee prairie, who goes in for diversified farming on a large scale. He has been in the country forifourteen years and combined ranching with farming. He owns seventy head of cattle and 35 head of horses. These winter out very successfully, subsisting almost entirely on the luxurant growth of peavine which reaches a height of five and six feet. Mr. Tremblay was about the only farmer who raised any wheat during the past year. He grew a small quantity which matured well and gave a good yield.

Mr. Jamieson's trip to Edmonton was uneventful. It took him just two weeks to make the journey and after his two years in the wilderness he expressed a delight at getting back to civilization. From Fort St. John to Peace river crossing he went by canoe, thence to Slave Lake by team from Slave Lake to the Athabasca by steamer and down the Athabasca to the Landing by boat thence overland by stage to Edmonton.

He expects to leave this week for Victoria, where he will prepare his annual report on mining conditions for submission to the British Columbia government.—Edmonton Bulletin.

PART OF LOOT FROM WESTMINSTER BANK

Seattle Policeman Thinks He Saw it in San Diego--Believes He Was Entertained in Saloon

Seattle, Nov. 2—That the gray-haired leader of the gang of bank robbers which looted the Bank of Montreal, at New Westminster, of 9258,000, was entertaining a Seattle policeman, the veteran George Sheehan, unawares in a San Diego, Cal., saloon several days ago and then awoke to the fact that his companion's curiosity was too keen in the matter of the bank notes he was spending, is the belief of the San Diego police and Pinkertons. The suspected bank thief disappeared before Sheehan could arrest him or turn him over to the police.

For two days after his apparent identification of the thief, Sheehan kept the matter of the suspicions locked in his own breast when he failed to relocate his man, say the San Diego police. It is believed that Sheehan was after the entire reward himself.

Sheehan since last night has been helping search for a stranger with the bank roll. The police are satisfied that he is the leader of the bank robbery gang and they are confident of getting him.

The story, as told in San Diego, is that Sheehan, who has been a member of the city police department for many years and has been laterly serving as a guard and jailor at the Hallard sub-station, met the suspected bank thief in a San Diego saloon last Saturday night while on his vacation.

What followed was natural. The stranger, about fifty-eight years of age, slightly grey and with an English accent, looking for a companion selected Geo. Sheehan, who is about the same age, Sheehan, with his wide sombrero, looks like a typical rancher or cattleman of the southwest plains.

In paying for a drink the stranger peeled off a new ten-dollar Canadian bank note and displayed a roll of large size and apparently all Canadian bank notes of $10 and upwards. It was Sheehan's curiosity, however, in asking for a closer look at the bills that aroused the man's suspicions, Then, according to the San Diego advices, the stranger suddenly left before Sheehan could act. Sheehan kept the secret for a couple of days while he looked for the thief on his own account. Then, when his approaching departure left no other alternative, he acquainted the San Diego police and the Pinkertons with the facts of the case.

Stirring Up Religious Trouble

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Sir Wilfrid's right-hand man in the province of Quebec, made his first speech since September 21st last night at a meeting of the St. Louis Liberal club. After declaring that the Liberals had at least carried six provinces out of nine, the speaker said that it was prejudice, not reason, that had won the day for the Conservatives and given them an overwhelming majority in Ontario.

The presence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the Eucharistic congress had, he said, done much to cause religious antagonism; but he attributed the Ontario vote in a large measure to the indiscreet, unwise and imprudent sermons of Father Vaughan. Father Vaughan's arraignment of Protestantism as a soulless religion had been peculiarly ill-timed.

HEROIC CONDUCTOR

Overlooked His Own Sufferings to Aid Others

Calgary, Nov. 2—Passengers who were on the ill-fated Canadian Pacific express that crashed into a freight on a siding at Wessex, five miles north of Crossfield, yesterday morning, and who have returned to this city, praise most highly the heroic behavior of Conductor Geo. Clark, in charge of the passenger train.

It appears that when the crash came, Conductor Clark, the baggageman and the brakeman, were riding in the baggage car. The train was moving at approximately thirty miles an hour and the impact was such that it drove the tender of the engine right back through the baggage car, smashing it into kindling wood and hurling the greater portion of the roof part to one side and a large quantity of baggage into the ditch.

When the frightened passengers, who had been awakened by the shock, came running forward from the coaches, the conductor was nowhere in sight. The baggageman and the brakeman had extricated themselves from the debris, apparently not much the worse for their experience, but the conductor who had been riding with them could not be found. The natural assumption was that his mangled remains were buried beneath the wreckage.

Just as a search was being instituted, however, he came crawling out of an opening in the end of the baggage car.

On freeing himself, Conductor Clark's first concern was for the passengers and he dispatched a brakeman with a lantern to protect the rear end of his train from any other that might be following. Then he entered the train and went about among the passengers to ascertain how many were injured. He found among the passengers a doctor, and a trained nurse, whom he hastened to the aid of the injured trainmen.

When he had done all within his power to assist the injured and see to the comfort of the passengers he sat down in one of the rear seats in the day coach completely played out and apparently suffering great pain. On noticing him passengers offered to bring the doctor, but he declined the services of the physician, saying: "No, let him stay where he is. He has enough to do to attend to the others, and I can wait."

It was not until after all the others had been looked after and made as comfortable as was possible under the circumstances that he would permit the physician to examine him.

It was found that he had been injured even more seriously than some of the others. Two of his ribs were broken, his legs were lacerated 6and skinned, and he was badly shaken up. His wounds were dressed and with the other injured trainmen he was removed to an hospital where he is doing as well as can be expected.

J. Houston, the engineer who was so badly scalded, is said to be on the road to recovery. His injuries are not expected to be fatal. Both the baggageman and brakeman are doing well.

FIRST STORY OF BATTLE OF TRAFALGAR

Communicated by Vice-Admiral Collingwood to the Lords of the Admiralty

Following is the first "story" of the battle of Trafalgar, as communicated to the lords of the admiralty by Vice-Admiral Collingwood. It appeared in the London Times of Nov. 6, 1805:

Admiralty Office, Nov. 6th

Dispatches, of which the following are copied, were received by the admiralty this day at 1 o'clock a. m., from Vice-Admiral Collingwood, commander-in-chief of his majesty's ships and vessels of Cadiz:

Euryalus, off Cape Trafalgar,
Oct. 22nd, 1805.

Sir,—The ever-to-be lamented death of Vice-Admiral Lord Viscount Nelson, who in the late conflict with the enemy fell in the hour of victory leaves to me the duty of informing my lord commissioners of the admiralty that on the nineteenth instant it was communicated to the commander-in-chief from the ships watching the motions of the enemy in Cadiz, that the combined fleet had put to sea as they sailed with light winds westerly, his lordship concluded their destination was the Mediterranean, and immediately made all sail for the straits' entrance with British squadron, consisting of 27 ships, three of them sixty-fours, where his lordship was informed by Captain Blackwood (whose vigilance in watching and giving notice of the enemy's movements has been highly meritorious) that they had not yet passed the straits.

On Monday, the 21st instant, at daylight, when Cape Trafalgar bore E.by S. about seven league, the enemy was discovered six or seven miles eastward, the wind about west and very light. The commander-in-chief immediately made the signal for the fleet to bear up in two columns as they are formed in order of sailing; a mode of attack his lordship had previously elected to avoid the inconveniences and delay in forming a line of battle in the usual manner. The enemy's line consisted of 33 ships (of which 18 were French and 15 Spanish), commanded in chief by Admiral Villeneuver; the Spaniards under the direction of Gravina were with their heads northward and formed their line of battle with great closeness and correctness; but as the mode of attack was unusual, so the structure of their line was new; it formed a crescent, convexing the leeward, so that in leading down to the centre I had both their van and rear abaft the beam; before the fire opened, every alternate ship was about a cable's length to windward of her second ahead and astern, forming a kind of double line, and appeared when on their beam to leave a very little interval between them, and this without crowding their ships. Admiral Villeneuve was in the Bonaventure in the centre, and the Prince of Asturias bore Gravina's flag, but the French and Spanish ships were mixed without any apparent regard to order of national squadron.

As the mode of our attack had been previously determined on and communicated to the flag officers and the captains, a few signals were necessary, and none were made except to direct close order as the lines bore down.

The commander-in-chief, in the Victory, led the weather column and the Royal Sovereign, which bore my flag the lee.

The action began at 12 o'clock by the leading ships of the column breaking through the enemy's lines, the commander-in-chief, about the tenth ship from the van, the second in command about the twelfth from the rear leaving the van of the enemy unoccupied; the succeeding ships breaking through in all parts, astern of their leaders and engaging the enemy at the muzzles of their guns. The conflict was severe; the enemy's ships were fought with a gallantry highly honorable to their officers; but the attack on them was irresistible, and it pleased the Almighty Dispenser of all events to grant his majesty's arms a complete and glorious victory. About 3 p.m., many of the enemy's ships having struck their colors, their line gave way; Admiral Gravina, with ten ships joining their frigate to leeward, stood towards Cadiz. The five headmost ships in their van tacked and standing to the southward, to windward of the British line, were engaged, and the sternmost of them taken; and the others went off, leaving his majesty's squadron, 19 ships of the line of which three are first-rates—the Cantissima, Trinidad and the Santa Anna with three flag officers, viz., Admiral Villeneuve, the commander-in-chief; Don Ignatis Maria D'Aliva, vice-admiral; and the Spanish rear-admiral, Don Bathagar Hidalgo Cisueros.

After such a victory it may appear unnecessary to enter into encomiums on the particular part taken by the several commanders; the conclusion says more on the subject than I have language to express. When all exert themselves zealously in their country's service, all deserve their high merits should stand recorded, and never was high merit more conspicuous than in the battle I have described.

The Achilles (a French 74), after having surrendered, by some misman agement of the Frenchmen took fire and blew up; two hundred of her men were saved by the tenders.

A circumstance occurred during the action which so strongly marked the invincible spirit of British seamen; when engaging the enemies of their country that I cannot resist the pleasure I have in making it known to their lordships The Temeraire was boarded, by accident or design, by a French ship on one side and a Spaniard on the other; the contest was vigorous, but in the end the combined ensigns were torn from the poop and the British hoisted in their places. Such a battle could not be fought without sustaining a great loss of men. I have not only to lament in common with the British navy and the British nation in the fall of the commander-in-chief, the loss of a hero whose name will be immortal and his memory ever dear to his country; but my heart rent with the most poignant for the death of a friend to whom by many years intimacy and a perfect knowledge of the virtues of his mind, which inspired ideals superior to the common race of men, I was bound by the strongest ties of affection; grief to which the glorious occasion in which he fell does not bring consolation which perhaps it ought. His lordship received a musket ball in his left breast about the middle of the action, and sent an officer to me immediately with his last farewell, and soon after expired.

I have also to lament the loss of those excellent officers, Captains Duff of the Mars, and Cooke of the Bellerophon. I have yet heard of none other. I fear the number that have fallen will be found very great, when the returns come to me; but it having blown a gale of wind ever since the action, I have not yet had in my power to collect any reports from the ships.

The Royal Sovereign having lost her masts, except the ottering foremast, I called the Euralus to me while the action continued, which ship lying within hail made my signals—a service Captain Blackwood performed with great attention after the action I shifted my flag to her, that I might more easily communicate any orders to, and collect the ships, and towed the Royal Sovereign out to seaward. The whole fleet were now in a very perilous position, many dismasted, all shattered, in thirteen fathoms water off the shoals of Trafalgar; and when I made the signals to prepare to anchor, few of the ships had an anchor to let go, their cables being shot; but the same good Providence which aided through the day preserved us through the night, by the wind shifting a few points and drifting the ships off the land, except four of the captured dismasted ships, which are now at anchor off Trafalgar, and I hope will ride safe until these gales are over.

Having thus detailed the proceedings of the fleet on this occasion, I beg to congratulate their lordships on a victory which I hope will add array to the glory of his majesty's crown and be attended with public benefit to our country.

I am, etc.,

(Sg.) C. COLLINGWOOD.

Buffalo Bill Retires

Richmond, Va., Nov. 2—Col Wl Fl Cody, "Buffalo Bill," retired from public life last night. His show was packed off to winter quarters and his Indians were sent to their tepees. Buffalo Bill intends to spend his remaining years in the west, where he has helped to make American history So far as public exhibitions are concerned, he has shot the ashes from his last cigar and chased the last Indian.

During a career which began as a pony express rider, and led him through more varied life than the average man, Col. Cody became known as one of the most picturesque figures of American life. The sobriquet Buffalo Bill, he earned in the early 60's when he contracted to furnish buffalo meat to the laborers on the building of the Kansas Pacific railway, and in less than eighteen months he killed 4,280 bison.

Attack on Canadian Banks

Winnipeg, Nov. 1—In discussing the case in which John K. McLeod and Gordon Nagle with embezzlement and attempted arson, Police Magistrate Walker yesterday arraigned the banks as "simply shops for turning out criminals." He arraigned the system which permitted continuous thefts without investigations, saying. "Why can't banks get a system by which the boys can be checked up? The sooner they shut their doors the better for the world. As things are they are simply shops for turning out criminals. The boys are technically guilty, but to my mind the institutions are equally culpable for their negligence, which make crime possible."

The boys, who have pleaded guilty, were remanded for sentence.

HEAVY DRINKER CURED

Samaria Cured Him, and He Helps Others

A man who has been released from the awful cravings of drink, and whose first thought is to help others, shows the spirit of true brotherhood and philanthropy. Read his letter:

The Samaria Remedy Co., Toronto, Ont.:

Will you please send me book on drink, also circulars relating to your vaunted remedy for the drink habit? I wish to hand these to a friend who is going to ruin through drink. You will remember that I have taken your remedy, and I find it all you claim it to be. I never think of taking or using strong drink in any way, as all desire for it has left me. I cannot speak too highly of your wonderful remedy. You may use my name in any way you wish in public.

"H. Lllywhite, Brigden, Ontario."

Samaria Prescription is tasteless and odorless, and dissolves instantly in tea or coffee, or can be mixed with food. It can be given with or without the patient's knowledge. It removes the craving for drink, builds up the system and restores the nerves. Drink becomes distasteful and even nauseous.

Drink is a disease, not a crime. One drink of whiskey always invites another. The inflamed nerves and stomach create a craving that must either be satisfied by more whiskey or removed by scientific treatment like Samaria Prescription. Samaria Prescription has been in regular and successful use by Physicians and Hospitals for over ten years.

If you know of any family needing Samaria Prescription, tell them about it. If you have a husband, father or friend that is drifting into drink, help him save himself. Write to-day.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE of Samaria Prescription, with booklet, giving full particulars, testimonials, price, etc., will be sent absolutely free and postpaid in plain sealed package to anyone asking for it and mentioning this paper. Correspondence sacredly confidential. Write to-day. The Samaria Remedy Co., Dept. 46-49, Colborne St., Toronto, Canada. Also for Sale by C. R. Macdonald, Druggist, Revelstoke, B. C.

JUST A LITTLE

Different, a little more stylish, a little more up-to-date, a little newer materials, as well as some other little details, marks the difference between the coats we sell and the ones from other factories. We have just opened another lot of those stylish reversible tweeds which are the proper thing in coats this season. These include a number of pretty coats for misses or small women, warm, light and comfortable, and you will find them the very newest on the market.

DRESSY BLOUSES

As shown in our centre window, are certainly the prettiest lot ever brought to the city. The kimona sleeve, in a dozen different styles, and in exclusive patterns. You will find the best values, combined with the newest materials in our showing.
