CONSERVATIVE "FIVE HUNDRED" COMING TO REVELSTOKE

Leaders of Political Life of B. C. Will Gather in Convention City Oct. 24th and 25th.---The Local Delegates.---Visitors to be Banquetted

Revelstoke will be invaded on Thursday and Friday next, by an army of notables, including the largest constellation of political stars ever gathered together on one occasion in the history of Interior British Columbia, when some five hundred accredited and ex-officio members of the Provincial Conservative Association, will meet in convention in this city. A preliminary skirmish in the shape of the Annual Convention of B.C. Municipalities, which will be attended by some eighty delegates, is timed for the 22nd and 23rd, to be immediately followed by the big demonstration.

The delegates elected to represent the Revelstoke District at this great Conservative rally, are W. R. Reid, Ed. Trimble, W. S. Rennie, H. J. McSorley, C. B. Hume, Sam Irvin, W. Fleming, Rand Gibbons, S. Sutherland, R. D. McDonald, whilst the Hon. Thomas Taylor, as representative, and Mr. Theo. Wadman as member of the Provincial executive, each have a vote, giving the Revelstoke District twelve votes in all.

In addition to the discussion of purely party affairs, the convention will have under consideration, many important matters of general Provincial and National interest. The various organizations comprising the association will table resolutions on subjects of varied nature, and the broad basis of the Constitution, and the variety of the interests including every shade of industrial and civic policy represented by these five hundred gentlemen present from every section of the Province, are a sufficient guarantee that the proceedings will be invested with a more than usual interest alike for the members of the convention themselves, and for the watching public.

The chief social function of the meeting, will be the great banquet, to be staged in the central hall of the Y.M.C.A. on the evening of the 24th. The Ladies Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A. have this banquet in hand, it will be by far the largest affair ever attempted in this city, seats will be provided for some 500 guests and those who are best acquainted with the capabilities of the ladies of this city, are the most confident that this function will be a triumphant success

The far famed lady cooks, who preside over the fat larders of Revelstoke, will furnish of their choicest culinary productions, an elaborate toast, list will be honored, whilst among the after dinner speakers who will enliven the proceedings with their eloquence are the names of the most prominent orators of the Pacific coast province.

The moment of this convention is auspicious, our city is on the eve of another remarkable advance in business, wealth and importance. October skies may not furnish that wondrous curtain of sunshine and gold in which setting can best be seen and enjoyed the matchless beauty of our city and surroundings. But the citizens of Revelstoke will have all the greater opportunity to display the the warmth of their hospitable welcome. And if we should be favored with a last touch of the glories of the departing summer, it will serve to bring out in greater relief, the preparations made for the welcoming and accommodation of our visitors.

A Fine Specimen

What is declared by Capt. F. P. Armstrong of Golden to be the finest cariboo ever secured in the Big Bend country was shot a few weeks ago by a party consisting of Captain Armstrong and Pete Bergerham and Gus Hedstrum of Revelstoke. The animal was shown at Revelstoke fair and is being mounted by H.W. Edwards of the main line city, who in a letter to Captain Armstrong, who was at the Strathcona last night, says:

"I have the honor to congratulate you on the splendid cariboo you have secured, the finest, I fully believe, ever got in the Big Bend district. I have taken the measurements of the specimen, which are as follows:

"Length from nose to tail, 7 feet 6 inches; height from foot to top of shoulder, 4 feet 9 inches; around neck one foot from horn base, 42 inches; around chest, 65 inches; number of points on horns, 25; length of best of horns, 40 inches; width between horns 30 inches; weight, estimated, 475 pounds.

"Remarks—In perfect condition; pelt in good order; horns unbroken and not scratched; usually fine dark colored face."

The animal was first sighted in the river about 30 miles above Revelstoke Wounded by a bullet from a rifle of one of the members af the party, who were in a canoe, the cariboo headed up the mountainside, where it was despatched by a shot by Mr. Bergerham

Captain Armstrong will leave this morning for Kootenay Landing and expects to return to the city tomorrow evening.—Nelson News.

Free Stumping Powder

Victoria, Oct. 16.—As an advance step to what is hoped to be a more general system of aid to settlers in clearing timbered lands in this province, the department of agriculture has issued notification to the various agricultural societies and farmers institutions that it is prepared to issue supplies of stumping powder to bona fide settlers free of cost upon conditions which shall be equitable both to the settler and to the province. Any settler who is desirous of benefiting from this boon can obtain details of how to secure it from his provincial representative from the secretary of his local agricultural society, of the farmers' institute or, failing both these, by direct application to the minister of agriculture.

The suggestion has been made that the government should assist settlers by direct grant. That suggestion is under consideration. Meanwhile the prior step has been taken of providing settlers with the material with which to attempt the work of stumping. This should be successful in view of the fact that the explosive material is provided and only the individual effort is required. But if this experiment does not give the results expected, then further action may be taken by the government, but in the meantime the supply of free powder is considered as a distinctly advance step. It is one given by no other province and is another proof of the desire of the government to extend aid and co-operation to the settlers where it can be done to the public advantage.

REVELSTOKE THE CONVENTION CITY

Municipalities of B. C. Meet Here Oct. 22 and 23.--- Problems of Municipal Government Will Be Discussed.

On the 22nd of October, the Convention of British Columbia Municipalities 1912, will commence their sittings in the Drill Hall, Revelstoke.

The Union of B. C. Municipalities, to give the organization its official title, was formed on September 29th, 1905, for the purpose of enabling civic bodies throughout the province, to co-ordinate, and work together for the furtherance of all those important and diversified subjects coming within the scope of Municipal government and enterprise. Each succeeding year the proceedings have taken on an additional interest, the entire range of Rural and City Corporation activity is now included in the wide scope of the discussions, and from every section of the province, will this season come to Revelstoke, men representative in the truest sense of the civic life of British Columbia.

The program includes a variety of subjects, and the results of their deliberations, when approved, will be submitted to the government, with a view to action in the direction of reform or amendment of the Municipal Clauses Act, along the lines indicated. Suggested alterations of or additions to existing legislation will be put forward by means of resolutions, and thoroughly threshed out on the floor of the convention.

It is significant of the importance attaching to their proceedings, that many of the most valuable improvements in civic procedure and law have owed their origin to the yearly conventions of this body.

The president of the Association is ex-Mayor Planta, of Nanaimo, Vice-President, Mayor Lee, New Westminster; with Reeve Bose of Surrey, as Secretary Treasurer. The Executive number among its members, ex-Reeve McNaught, North Vancouver; Mayor McNeish, also of North Vancouver; Reeve Dick, Mission City; Alderman Enright, Vancouver; with our ex-Mayor Hamilton of Revelstoke. These gentlemen, and seventy-five other accredited delegates will all be in attendance.

Papers on allied topics will be read public questions as effecting municipalities openly discussed by experts in the various subjects, and the sittings of the convention are open to the public.

On Wednesday evening, 23rd Oct., the visitors will be tendered a banquet, and everything will be done to make their stay in Revelstoke as profitable and pleasant as possible.

Many of the members will remain over until the Conservative Convention timed for the two days following, namely the 24th and 25th October, have risen from their labors.

Go to Howson's for Dinner Sets.

The "Grandmothers" and "The Ten Little Chinamen" will make you laugh on Tuesday night at the opera house, Tuesday, Oct. 22nd.

UNION LABEL

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1912.

During the coming week, Revelstoke is to be the scene of two great conventions, the Municipalities of the Province meeting on the 22nd and 23rd, and the Provincial Conservative Associations sitting on the 24th and 25th of October.

Both these are affairs of importance the latter being recognised as the greatest and most influential body to hold annual session within the limits of British Columbia.

It is therefore of the utmost importance that every citizen should do his utmost, to render the stay of these visitors in Revelstoke, a most pleasant and profitable occasion, and everyone must unite in assisting the civic officials, public bodies and organizations who are working towards the end that the distinguished company of guests may depart from us well satisfied with the manner in which they have been treated here.

Whatever can be done in the way of cleaning up our streets, and decarating the business premises should certainly be attended to; no opportunity should be lost, of speaking the truth concerning the vast agricultural and mineral resources of our district, or of pointing out to visitors, the matchless natural beauties of our surroundings.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

To old world notions I adhere,
And often times I shed a tear;
When dreaming of those nobler days
When women still had women's ways

There was a time, how queer it seems
When women were of earth the queens;
When chivalry, e'n death would dare,
For but one kiss, from lady fair.

Alas, what change has come about,
The suffragette with noise and shout
The shrieks, the clamor and the blows
The vulgar air, the common pose.

Mans' life, always a desert space,
Had women as a shady place;
Alack, instead of shade we get,
The noisy, reckless suffragette.

With modest charm and beauty dowered,
Enthroned in manly hearts she towered;
Whilst our more modern lady Grace,
Prefers to slap men in the face.

In vain of course mere man points out
Real woman's work, beyond a doubt
Home, husband, child she now disdains,
For politicians dirty games.

O women, once enthroned so high,
Why for mans' baser duties cry;
And stooping from your grasp let go
The virtues that became you so.

I beg you, pause, ere throw away
The precious rights you have today
Lest through all time, your sex repent
You bartered All, for Parliament.

—"Englishman."

HISTORY OF MINING IN PROVINCE OF B. C.

Very Interesting Account of the Opening of Great Interior.—Other Mining News

The second of two articles written for the Montreal Family Herald and Weekly Star on the history of mining in the province of British Columbia has appeared. The first is a sketch of the discovery of gold, of the coming of the miners of their lucky strikes and of the conditions under which those early British Columbians lived. The second supplements it with a brief account of the opening of the interior of that great province.

With but few exceptions the earliest gold miners in British Columbia entered the province by way of Victoria, coming here from San Francisco, and the Panama by boat, and then following the rivers to the gold fields of the interior. Some little time passed, after the gold fever broke out before many eastern Canadians were "panning" the gold-laden gravel of the Yale and Cariboo, the reason of this being the difficulty of reaching the goldfields from the other side of the continent. Finally the movement commenced, and parties of gold-hunters began making their way across the prairies from the Red River settlement, over the Rocky mountains, and thence down the Fraser and the Thompson rivers to the "diggings," where, in many cases, the acquiring of fortunes was a matter of only a few months.

"At first it was customary for miners to outfit at Victoria," writes Morice in his history of the northern interior of British Columbia, "and then to make for Lake Douglas by steamer, whence they proceeded over the Pemberton portage and the other lakes, on which steamers also plied, up to Lillooet. They were then 47 miles from Clinton. A wagon road just been constructed between the two places by Gustavus Blin Wright, the great roadbuilder of the interior, a man of great energy and daring plans It was then decided to connect the terminus of this highway, Clinton, with Yale, along the forbidding defiles of the Fraser river, and push thru the green timber up to great interior as far as the Cariboo mines. A mule trail had already been cut from Yale to Boston Bar, a distance of twenty-five miles. In the course of 1863-63 this was converted into a regular wagon road, which was built in three sections by as many parties. From Boston Bar to Clinton as many as five different contractors had the work in hand; and it is a wonder that, with so many minds at work the result should have been such a uniformly perfect piece of engineering that even today the traveller who lazily glides along the banks of the Fraser river in the cars of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, cannot help admiring the audacity and skill displayed in its construction." By 1863 the road had reached the mouth of the Quesnel and two years later it was at Barkerville, the heart of the gold diggings.

Barkerville—named after W. Barker a lucky miner, who had located there—was then the town of the district. In its hotels a bed meant a sheet or blanket spread on the floor of a loft The ordinary hotel meal consisted of bread, bacon and beans, and it cost $2.50, but the traveller could add two eggs to this bill of fare by paying $1. As late as 1864 potatoes sold in Barkerville at $90 a hundred pounds.

In 1865 a small four-page weekly newspaper made its appearance in the town, and it sold for one dollar a copy. It was called the Cariboo Sentinel and was the property of a Mr. Wallace, publisher, editor, advertising manager, compositor and pressman. It was a paying venture.

For a number of years the price of food products remained high through out the district, but they declined somewhat from those paid at Barkerville during its early years. This decline was due to the building of roads, and to the bringing in of flour and rice; and in time tea and sugar were to be found in all the camps.

"By the side of the boon conferred on the country by its opening to the commodities of civilization," writes Morice, "came a terrific curse, which at the end of 1862, afflicted the southern end of New Caledonia, and almost converted it into an immense graveyard. Smallpox, brought up from the coast, played havoc among the Chilcotin Indians, causing such suffering that almost those parties only who were away in the mountains, were left to represent the tribe. Coming north the plague next attacked, in November, 1862, the Southern Carriers, stationed in the valley of the Blackwater, who, flying through the woods crazy with fever and fright, communicated the contagion to the inhabitants of Peters lake, where only eight persons survived. Then it extended its ravages from Hohu lake at the source of the Mud river, to St. Maty's and Morice lakes, where the majority of the inhabitants succumbed.

"At first corpses were hurriedly buried in the fireplaces, where the ground was free of snow and frost. Then the survivors contented themselves with throwing down trees on them; but soon the dead had to be left where they fell."

The very violence of the disease and the severe winter weather checked the spread of the pestilence, because the natives were no longer able to flee from place to place, carrying contagion to other tribes and camps.

Before passing from those early days in the interior of British Columbia, let one reference be made to a man who appeared in the earlier sketches—to Peter Dunley, who discovered the famous Horsefly mine; or rather was directed to it by a young Indian. Dunlevy became wealthy, and after his gold mine was worked out, he engaged in trade in the upper country, where his "luck" continued. On one occasion he was going up Manson creek in company with a provincial officer named Edgar Dewdney, when Dewdney, who had to do the cooking while Dunlevy looked after the horses, left the matches so near the fire that they all ignited and were, of course, destroyed. It is related that they had to journey on for miles before they could procure a supply of matches, which were finally obtained from an Indian camp. The point of the episode is this: Edgar Dewdney, after holding various offices in the west, entered the Canadian house of commons, and, in 1888, became minister of the interior and superintendent of Indian affairs in the cabinet of the late Sir John Abbott, and he held the portfolio for four years. He was afterwards lieutenant-governor of British Columbia. This is almost current history, and yet Mr. Dewdney had been the companion in the wilds of British Columbia of the discoverer of the Horsefly mine. And thus one realizes that, measured by the history of eastern Canada, the early days of the interior of British Columbia are not far distant. A few years have brought great changes to the Canadian West.

PROGRESS CLUB TAKE ACTION

The Progress Club met in regular meeting in the city hall on Tuesday evening last. Some thirty members were present. Vice-president Gordon occupied the chair.

Secretary W. H. Horobin read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted.

DEPUTATIONS.

Miss Dorothy Davis, a representative of the equal suffrage league, by leave of the meeting was granted ten minutes in which to place her views before the club. Miss Davis pleaded for votes for women on the grounds of justice and equality, and because women are demanding a direct voice in the affairs of the nation by virtue of the fact that women were tax payers and citizens.

Vice-president Gordon thanked the delegation on behalf of the Progress Club, and expressed the opinion that a large number would be present on the 6th November in Revelstoke.

SCHAFER BOOKLET.

Secretary reported that the manuscript of the Schafer booklet, had been received and was now under consideration by the Publicity committee.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Letter from Vancouver Progress Club re B.C. Development League was received, stating that a meeting held in Vernon, Oct. 23 and 24 would consider the matter, and asking for a delegation from Revelstoke.

Mr. McCarter—All B.C. will be here on those dates, why not hold the meeting here.

Mr. Kincaid—Is it advisable for us to tie up with the coast and expect them to help us here.

Mr. McDonell—If this is a provincial movement, we should get in.

C. B. Hume—This is a very important thing, there are many propositions where we would benefit from union, but it is a very unfortunate time to do so.

Mr. McCarter—We have read the interview of Hon. Price Ellison that something should be done to finance land clearing operations. This organization has some such idea in mind, and good might be accomplished. Two delegates might be sent.

A. B. McCleneghan—I agree with Mr. McCarter, the time is coming when united action is needed and this district should be represented at the Vernon meeting and I make a motion accordingly.

Chairman Gordon—The Board of Trade might send one delegate and the Progress Club one delegate.

A. B. McCleneghan—I amend my motion to read one delegate from this club.—Carried unanimously.

Naming of delegates left in hands of Board of Trade.

Secretary Horobin put in a request from the residents of Sicamous that the Progress Club support the proposals for a road connection Mara to Revelstoke, thus giving access to Sicamous. Mr. McCarter. There is an appropriation for part of this work, but the balance of the work might be hurried along by resolution or other action by this club.

Mr. McCarter—I move the Secretary write the Public Works Committee accordingly.—Motion carried unanimously.

EXTEND TELEPHONE

Mr. McCarter—There is also the request of Mr. Abriel and Arrowlakes district settlers for 'phone communication with Arrowhead and the lakes

I move that the Secretary take up with R. F. Green to request his influence in securing such extension of 'phone line Nakusp to Arrowhead and that the co-operation of the Board of Trade and Conservative Association be requested.—Carried.

A similar motion dealing with phone communication between Revelstoke and Sicamous was also moved, seconded and carried.

The Secretary was instructed to communicate such resolutions to the Conservative Association at Malakwa Sicamous and Arrow lakes and request their co-operation.

ACCOUNTS

Sundry accounts were ordered paid by the treasurer.

Benefits Fruit Growers

Nelson, Oct. 17—"The new freight rates tariff, which was the result of a conference at Vernon, gives British Columbia fruit growers an advantage in Alberta and many parts of Saskatchewan over their chief competitors in Washington and Oregon," said Mr. R. M. Winslow, provincial horticulturist, who has been visiting Nelson.

"Regarding the estimated yield, the figures supplied to the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Union about two months ago, will, I am sure, be very materially increased when the total yield has been marketed. During the past five weeks I have been touring all parts of the province and there is no question but that the crops are all greater than at first anticipated.

"Previous to the organization of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Union there were only about 100 members. During the past four years it has grown to a much more powerful body and has now a membership of over 800. It is doing invaluable work wherever general reforms can be effected. The revision of freight rate charges and transportation matters generally have occupied close upon four years and now the union will turn its attention to the necessary regulations in grades, marks and packages, to meet the changing market conditions."

Enjoyed Western Trip

Victoria, Oct. 17—Upon leaving the boundaries of the province of British Columbia, His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught wrote to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, expressing his thanks for the kindly welcome given himself and the Duchess by the people of British Columbia. The letter, which was received by Hon T.W. Paterson yesterday was as follows:

"My Dear Lieutenant-Governor—On leaving British Columbia I write to you to say what great pleasure my journey through the province has given me, and how highly appreciative the Duchess and I have been of the reception we met with everywhere and of the trouble which has been taken to decorate the houses and towns wherever we have been.

"Should you think fit to do so, I hope you will take steps to make this letter public. Believe me, yours very truly.

"(Signed) Arthur."

You can buy DOMINION PRIDE RANGE at Factory Price

Direct from the Largest Malleable Range Works in Canada

THE price which the Dealer quotes you on a Range is made up like this — Manufacturing Cost + Manufacturer's Profit + Jobber's Expense of Handling and Selling + Jobber's Profit + Retailer's Expense of Handling and Selling + Retailer's Profit + Freight.

By our direct "Factory to Kitchen" selling plan all these charges are cut out except the actual manufacturing cost, a small profit, and freight. The difference to you is the difference between the $41 to $49 which you pay for a "DOMINION PRIDE" Range and the $69 to $78 which you would have to pay the Dealer for a Range which cost as much to make.

Are you anxious to contribute $25 or $30 to the middlemen?

Forestry in Revelstoke

Monday, the 14th inst., was social evening in Court Mount Begbie, of the I.O.F., and the court room was filled with members. Welcome guests were Brother and Companion Plumb, D.S.C.R., who came up from the Okanagan for the occasion.

The business order of "Good and Welfare" opened with a debate on the resolution—"Resolved that, in view of the very large increase of membership in this court, the best interests of Forestry in Revelstoke would be served by creating another court." Forceful and eloquent speeches were made on the question, but those against the resolution were much better and advanced the best arguments. I was finally concluded by an inspiring address from Bro. Plumb, and the members present with one exception (the mover) voted to hold together as one court. The debate did a lot of good, and members expressed their firm conviction that, in consequence of the views brought out and the decision arrived at, that Court Mount Begbie would double its membership in the coming year, and become the banner Forester Court in British Columbia.

The debate concluded, Bro. H. V. Morgan, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that he, as an object lesson in the advantages in holding together, had an impromptu vocal and instrumental program to submit. The Court decided to hear it and the following was rendered:

Song, Eileen Alannah, Bro. H. V. Morgan.

Song, My Ain Folk, Bro. G.W.Bell.

Song, In Old Madrid, Bro. Whitby.

Song, Won't you buy my Pretty Flowers, comp. Morgan.

Cornet solo, Bro. Bond.

Vocal duett, Larboard Watch, Bros. Morgan and Brierly.

Song, Barney take Me Home, Com. Cameron.

Humerous talk, Scotchman at Home and Abroad, Bros. Atkins.

Song, Thora, Bro. Whitby.

Song, Love's Old Sweet Song, Bro. Bell.

Comic song, Golden Slippers, Com. Morgan.

Cornet Solo, Bugle Calls of the British Army, Bro. Bond.

Refreshments were then served.

Miss Alice Bell performed the duties of accompanist in a very finished manner.

It was a revelation to all who listened that there was so much really good concert material in the court; and again it was decided that another very good reason for remaining undivided had been produced. As it looks now, the coming winter sessions of Court Mount Begbie, I. O.F., promise to be the most lively and enjoyable ever held in the order, and members friends and others contemplating joining the Foresters would do well to hand in their applications as soon as possible. To get protection for yourself, to aid others and to enjoy yourself in good company in the meantime, the Foresters invite your co-operation now.

In the Baptist church on Sunday next the pastor, Rev. E. J. Chave, will speak on the following subjects: Morning, "The Vine and the Branches," evening, "The Cross and the Crescent." The Rector of St. Peter's church will preach morning and evening, tomorrow, Sunday.

On another page will be found the program of the concert to be given in the opera house on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Bible Classes of the Presbyterian church.

Doc Trebeck, who has been employed by the C.P.R., as night watchman at Laurie tunnel, near Illecillewaet, has been in the city the past few days. He is en route for Haney, B. C., where he will be employed as water inspector. Old Doc is well known in Revelstoke and is a great Scotchman.

The concert given by St. Peter's church last night, was a great success. The opera house being well filled with an appreciative audience; the rector and wardens wish to express their appreciation of the efforts of those talented artists who so kindly volunteered their services, and to thank the public generally for their liberal patronage.

With the view of providing entertainment for the visitors to our city who will be attending the Conservative convention next week, the local entertainment committee have arranged with the Revelstoke Orchestra to give a dance and supper in the opera house on the evening of Friday Oct. 25th. All our friends are requested to attend and assist in making this a huge success. Tickets—Gentlemen, $1.50, Ladies free. Out side delegates will be provided with complimentary tickets at the convention.

Mr. Henry Kipp of Chilliwack, who was paying a visit to his daughter, Mrs. A.J. McDonell, recently, would strongly urge the Revelstoke fruit growers to organize and keep alive the fruit growers' association. He himself ships all his marketable fruit and produce to the consumers in Alberta and Saskatchewan district. Mr. Kipp has for some time utterly refused to in any way deal with the middle men in the fruit and produce industy in Vancouver, as he says that as grafters they rank alone. He would recommend that Revelstoke ranchers send one man to the prairie provinces to arrange markets with the consumers until they grow sufficient fruit to warrant their shipping by the car. Conductor Charles Kipp his son, received an honor recently, when he was directed to control the Royal train from Sicamous to the Okanagan and back to Arrowhead, which conveyed the Governor-General and party over the line.

The Forsyths

The Orpheum theatre was again crowded to the doors by audiences last evening and they went home satisfied with the evening's entertainment. Eight high class acts of vaudeville, supplemented with two reels of first run photo plays, made a long but entertaining entertainment. By special request the Forsyth Co. will remain one more day, as it so happens that they are a day ahead of their schedule on the mainland, which enables them to do this, and tonight will present an entirely new programme. No vaudeville artists ever showing in Nanaimo have been the equal of Forsyth's entertainers, taken as a whole, and tonight will see them at their best. —Herald, Nanaimo, B.C.

The citizens of Revelstoke will now have an opportunity of having in their midst as an instructor, a noted musician in the person of Professor Leo Louis Covres, who has decided to locate here. Professor Covres has had a vast experience as a teacher of both vocal and instrumental music. For a period of twenty-two years he held the position of grand master in the Italian army, besides holding various other equally responsible positions. Elsewhere in this issue will be found a standing advertisement of Professor Covres music class and parents would do well to investigate the Professor's methods of teaching before sending their children elsewhere for music lessons.

If any of Professor Covres pupils show marked ability he will, if it is any object in order to perfect their training teach them gratis.

A Progressive Idea

Thanks to the energetic action of a committee of citizens, visitors during the forthcoming conventions, are to have the opportunity to enjoy a sight of some of the picked exhibits of fruit and vegetables, which excited such admiration at the recent Revelstoke Fall Fair.

It was felt that the occasion when so many prominent strangers will be in Revelstoke, should not be missed, to make an eye opening demonstration of the agricultural possibilities and actual products of this section, space was secured in the very suitable ground floor store in the Howson block, on McKenzie avenue. Here will be staged a showing of what the soil of Kootenay is growing, gathered right from the orchards and fields of the agriculturists who are turning land into gold, by cultivation of the acres adjoining this city.

Parties who have suitable exhibits are requested to hand same in at once to Mr. Kincaid, in order that the agricultural resources of our country may be adequately represented.

THE HISTORY OF B. C. POLITICS

penditure being calculated as spread over but the very short period of a half decade. What His Majesty the King thinks of the most conspicuous figure in Provincial public life, as a great British Columbian, a great Canadian and a great Imperial personality is indicated in the recent bestowal upon him of a high order of knighthood.

While it is not claimed for Sir Richard McBride and his government, that they alone have been responsible for the happily changed local conditions since the dark days prior to 1903, it is unchallengeably true that the administrative policy of the present Provincial leaders has chiefly caused or contributed to the bringing about of conditions now in evidence, and the material sugmentation of the streams of progress by the infusion of new life into Provincial affairs. Lest it be said or suggested that British Columbia's progress during the past decade has been a favored class progress—that the financier, the manufacture, the merchant and the speculator are prosperous at the expense of the worker, let it be remembered that a higher percentage of the population in British Columbia than any other province of the Dominion, or in any state of the American union are the owners of their own homes, that work and good wages are at all times at command here, and that none in this favored country fail of success save the constitutionally indolent, improvident, vicious or unfit.

To illustrate, imperfectly and sketchily of necessity, the substantiality of British Columbia's upbuilding under the Conservative regime, reference to the public accounts shows that Provincial expenditures during the five years precedent to the acceptance of the premiership by its present incumbent exceeded the net revenue by $3,670,000. In the first five years under McBride and Conservative government, conditions were reversed and the net revenue exceeded expenditures by $5,000,000 odd.

The net revenue of the Province increased from 1898-9 to 1903 by only $413,000. From the latter year to 1907-8 it increased $3,340,000, on the other hand the net expenditure increased for the first period by $1,208,000 and for the second mentioned period only $824,000. For the present year alone the revenue was estimated at $10,387,880 and it is much more than probable that this amount will be very considerably exceeded.

Whereas in 1903 the treasury was empty and bankers looked with extreme disfavor upon any extensions of credit to the government, today the Province of British Columbia has $6,500,000 in gold dollars in the banks and bearing arranged interest while on current account (despite the special payments out of approximately $900,000 and $1,100,000 respectively for the Songhees reserve and the recovery of the Columbia & Western subsidy lands)in addition to which there is on agreements of sale of Crown lands, due to the people and amply secured, about $12,000,000, bearing 6 per cent. interest, so that within the reach of the hand of the province has at this present time approximately $20,000,000 in liquid assets; while in comparison with its gross general assets its liabilities (although necessarily large) are but a bagatelle.

It is of record that in 1903, when the McBride government came into being, the annual revenues of the province were in the neighborhood of $2,000,000; last year's returns show a sum approximating $11,000,000 as the total treasury collections for the twelvemonth, representing a five hundred per cent increase within eight fiscal years—the increase if calculated to date would be about eight-hundred per cent.

In 1903 there was but $300,000 odd expended on roads, bridges and similar reproductive public works; in 1911 there was upwards of $5,500,000 so expended. This year the sum total will have grown to $8,500,000 or more

It is also a fact that the population of the province has very much more than doubled during the McBride regime; that private property values in the province have doubled under the present government; that whereas in 1902 there was on all sides commercial and industrial depression, these closing months of 1912 find British Columbia experiencing such prosperity as this section of Canada has never before enjoyed and with sure promise of its continuation and growth in unprecedented degree; and that, despite the immensity of expenditures inevitable in connection with the vast system of extended public works to keep pace with and promote population growth and industrial development, taxes, instead of rising are being annually reduced and more equitably distributed, it being promised that the approaching session of the legislature will witness yet further diminutions including the abrogation of the much decried Provincial Revenue (or Poll) Tax.

Governmental success in policy and in administration exists, however, not alone in conservation and augmentation of revenue with reduction of taxation where possible. And the Conservative government and policy in British Columbia have done and are doing much more. Chiefly through the personal efforts of the Prime Minister, the Canadian Northern has been induced to come into British Columbia as a strong competitor with the Canadian Pacific for transcontinental, Pacific ocean and local transportation business and as a promoter of colonization and industrial activities contributory to traffic, Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann with their associates having already invested roundly $100,000,000 in substantial Provincial industrials as an immediate result, while $150,000,000 is in process of expenditure on various important railway enterprises within the province making conveniently accessible the rich lands, forests, mines and fisheries of the country.

To enable the people in all parts of the province to reach the railways, import their supplies without undue expense and market their products advantageously, the Department of Public Works under Hon. Mr. Thomas Taylor, and his energetic lieutenant, Mr. W. W. Foster, is developing a thoroughly comprehensive scheme of trunk roads building, with inter-provincial and international highways, fine modern bridges, etc., which will involve the investment of many millions during the ensuing few years—this money of the people being returned to them in exchange for labor, material, etc., while greatly assisting population growth and industrial expansion. A splendid Provincial National Park is, also under Hon. Mr. Taylor's supervision, being laid out, Vancouver Alps, which will vie with and developed in the heart of the the Yellowhead and Banff national parks in scenic charm and tourist attracting power. Public buildings are being provided in all parts of the province adequate to the necessities of the various branches of the public service and worthy of this richest and most favored of the sisterhood of provinces.

A scientific forest conservation and perpetuation policy is being worked out under what is universally commended by experts as model woods and forests legislation, by an extra-efficient expert staff, Hon. Mr. Ross herein (as in the lands, surveys and other important departments over which he exercises control) displaying a genius for administrative organization emphasizing the wisdom of his selection for the important department over which he presides. Public educational facilities are being perfected and made more practical under the keen supervision of the Minister of Education, Hon. Dr. Young, while steady and satisfactory progress is being made in the establishment of a great Provincial University. Other features of this Minister's many sided activities are expressed in the provision of the best modern facilities for the care and cure of the mentally afflicted and for the preservation and safeguarding of the public health. Under Hon. Mr. Ellison, the functions of the Department of Agriculture are being enlarged and the development of the farming industry, in all its branches encouraged, stimulated and assisted so that British Columbia may in time become self-maintaining and its agriculturists share in the general prosperity at the earliest possible day.

In brief, each and all departments are working together smoothly, progressively, scientifically, to carry on the country's affairs economically and efficiently and to promote its growth and the prosperity comfort, happiness and well being of its people.

And this is the acme of good government, so recognized by the people and by them declared whenever they are given opportunity to express themselves at the polls.

But even with the splendid accomplishments of the past few years, said Sir Richard McBride in the course of a speech at a banquet tendered him in Victoria a few nights ago, "more than ever do I believe that we in British Columbia are only at the commencement of things—that we have not begun to get into our stride—that we are as yet in our earliest pioneer and preliminary effort— and that, after all, the great and major operations which are to bring British Columbia into her own still lie before us." But we may say and properly too, that the work done by the government since 1903 ought to be accepted by the people as a token of the earnestness of the administration to proceed along safe lines and to give to this province that measure of efficient administration which alone will bring her into her own and make her that splendid part of the Empire which nature has destined her to be.

Mr. Shatford (C.), was here re-elected by acclamation. Votes upon the register, 959.

At the election of 1909 Mr. Shatford's vote was 404 and that of his opponent, Mr. Elmhirst (L.), 205. Conservative gain, 1912, 555.

VANCOUVER

Messrs. McGuire, Bowser, Tisdell, Macgowan and Watson were here re-elected, the only change in the city's representation in Parliament being not in the composition of that representation but in the order of seniority. Dr. McGuire, who in the last parliament had been junior member for Vancouver, is now thus the first member for that city. Hon. Mr. Bowser, heretofore first member, is now second, Mr. Tisdell third, Mr. Macgowan fourth, and Mr. Watson (second member heretofore) fifth. The Conservative total vote at the last election was 25,338 and the Liberal but 14,283, Socialist candidates polling 5767 and Mr. S. Greer (Independent) 897. At the last previous general election the recorded totals for the several parties and the champions were:

Conservative—Bowser, 5441; Watson 5202; Macgowan, 5190; Tisdell, 5051; McGuire, 4826.

Liberal—Sinkler 4110; Macdonald, 3984; Wade, 3942; Stables, 3356; Campbell, 3227.

Socialist—Kingsley, 1883; Pettipiece 1428; McKenzie, 1231; Garvey, 8227; McGregor, 1218.

A curious feature of the last election in so far as Vancouver city is concerned is found in the fact that the vote polled was very much under that recorded in the election of 1909, the result no doubt of apathy and a general acceptance of the result as a foregone conclusion. The votes credited to the several candidates in 1909 are thus found to amount in the aggregate to 51,316, whereas the aggregate of the counted votes in 1912 is 46,285. The Conservative vote showed a falling off of 372; the Liberal vote 4336, and the Socialist vote 1210 Details of the vote of 1912 are here appended:

VICTORIA

The capital city presented in the last election a result paralleling that in Vancouver, all its old representatives in the Provincial house being returned with only a slight shifting of positions. The Premier, Sir Richard McBride, K.C., M.G., headed the poll as before, Messrs. Nehnsen and Thomson, however, exchanging places In 1909 the verdict of the people was recorded in these figures:

Conservative—Bride, 2856; Davey, 2503; Behnsen, 2497; Thomson, 2465. Aggregate, 10,321.

Liberal—Morley, 2218; Oliver (J.), 2216; Drury, 2031; Houston, 1875. Aggregate, 8,340.

C. P. R. POLICE

"An Imperial police force, having for its cardinal principles 'Civility, Sobriety, Cleanliness, Moral and Physical courage.'"

That is the substance of instructions issued to the head of the police department of the Canadian Pacific Railway company by the vice-president in charge of western lines. That official had long thought of the problem, for it is a problem, this assembling a police force to take care of the public, enforce the laws, to be composed of higher grade men than had previously been employed and above the spotter type and bearing none of the relations to either the public or the employees which those individuals are supposed to bear; a force that must agree with city and provincial forces, and at the same time be independent of the latter, while working in close conjunction with them.

He had known of the trials that confronted both city and company departments in endeavoring to assemble a police force that had for its one object the enforcement of law and the proper treatment of the public. He had also known that as a rule company officials did not assimilate with those of the city. Why, was not for him to find out, but he did determine that he would place the police force of western lines on a plane whereby heads of departments in cities and towns on the line could no longer say officers sent out by the company were not of right calibre to mix with city departments, for that had been said.

The result was he ordered the head of the railway police to recruit a force extending from Fort William to Vancouver of army veterans. But there must be something besides the mere title of army veterans before they get a place on this imperial police force. They must have served their term of enlistment, they must have the service medal; they must have a discharge from the Imperial army or from the Royal Northwest Mounted police without the shadow of a blemish.

It was something of a task that he assigned to the chief of the department and it is not yet completed, of the 150 men required he has about 80. Every one of these fill the bill. When you see a police officer on duty at the stations of the Canadian Pacific Railway wearing the uniform of the company he will also have a little ribbon on his left breast. It is a duplicate of the ribbon that carries the medal he has earned by distinguished service in the army of Great Britain or on the Royal Mounted police service. That ribbon means that the wearer has been trained in the school that means rigid discipline, lessons that teach him to hold his temper and to recognize that the public is a hard master, for the public is a hard master and if one doubts it, all he has to do is to follow one of the officers as he undertakes to tell the public what time the trains arrive and depart, what it costs to get to a certain point and if he thinks it will continue to rain all summer. If he will not venture an opinion on the latter subject the traveller threatens to report the officer for insolence, for the principle duty of this police force is to see that the public is helped while travelling; to see that travellers are informed of the arrival and departure of trains and to answer the thousands of questions that only the public can ask. In the detection of criminals and the general watchfulness necessary to protect the property of a great company like the Canadian Pacific Railway this police force endeavors to supplement, as far as possible, the work of officers of city and province wherever possible.

At present the force is divided into four divisions to correspond with the railway divisions:—Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Each division is in charge of a chief inspector who has under him two inspectors, a senior constable and all the constables of that division, the headquarters of the chief inspector being at the headquarters of the general superintendent of that division. The chief inspector and the two inspectors do not wear the uniform but the senior constable is an army man of years of experience most of them having been sergeants in the Imperial service, all under the general supervision of the chief of the department at Winnipeg.

The first duty to which a new man is assigned is at Winnipeg so that he may be directly under the eye of the chief of the department until he has become ground in the work that is expected of him. He has pointed to him the necessity of complying with the cardinal principles on which the force is disciplined, "Civility, Sobriety, Cleanliness," after which he is drafted to the other division.

The uniform is in itself a mark of distinction. It is a design passed by the vice-president and many complimentary terms have been given it by civilians as well as by police authorities. So well has the uniform been received there have already been requests from other railway company officials for the pattern. When His Royal Highness the Governor-General of Canada, visited the west he more than once complimented the vice-president on the excellence of the CP.R. police and not only did he compliment the vice-president but he recognized several of the men on the force by having them in the Imperial army

The police force of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, western lines, is something to be reconed with It has all the powers of the regular police in the territory in which the road operates, and the men are schooled in rendering all the help in their power to preserve peace in that territory and has come to be recognized as a powerful adjunct to the Dominion, city and provincial police, and could be solidified almost into a powerful unit of Imperial defence.

Mr. Ed. Adair of Vancouver, is in the city attending the Conservative convention as a delegate from that city. Mr. Adair is the guest of Mrs. A. C. Lee, Fourth street.

Miss Margaret McMahon's name was inadvertently omitted from our list of prize winners at the Revelstoke Fair. This little girl won third prize for writing for children between the ages of 8 and 12 years.

Correction—The Mail-Herald is advised that the correct name of the engineer in charge of the Dominion party now engaged on the survey of the Columbia river, is Mr. W.F. Richardson, of Kamloops.

Selkirk Lodge No. 12, will meet on Thursday, Oct. 24th, at 7:30 p.m. instead of 8 o'clock, the usual hour. A large turn out is looked for as important business is to be transacted, including the initiation of several candidates. It is also expected that Bro. Fred Davey, Provincial Grand Secretary, will visit the lodge.

Contractor E. C. Fromey returned a couple of days ago from Golden, where he has been for several weeks superintending a $10,000 contract for the erection of a two-storey cement drug store block for J. A. Buckham. Mr. Fromey made a record on this contract when he completed the roof of this block just six weeks from the time the first sod was turned on the building site. Mr. Fromey says Golden is prosperous. He returned to the mountain town by Tuesday morning's train and will return to Revelstoke again on Saturday next.

In the Special Pictoral Annual edition of the Vancouver Saturday Sunset, we observe some very fine photographs of Revelstoke, taken from the summit of Mount Revelstoke. These pictures are accompanied by a write up of Capital of Canada's Alps which does ample justice to the scenic attractions, and natural resources of the district. These pictures and articles were contributed by Mr. W. H. Hotobin, Secretary of the Revelstoke Progress Club. We observe that the Sunset make-up man got himself a little twisted, and inserted a photo of Kamloops with the title of Panoronmic View of Revelstoke, this is regarded locally as a very serious slur upon our fair city.

Members of the Woodmen of the World and their friends are having a social evening in their lodge room this evening. An interesting program has been arranged, including progressive whist.

Mr. J. M. Kellie has returned from Tete Jaune Cache where he has been in connection with the starting of the erection of one of the largest saw mills in B. C., which is being installed by a syndicate of Montreal capitalists. Mr. Kellie being their British Columbia representative.

Mr. E. P. Ross, who for the past three years has held the position of assistant resident engineer to the C.P.R. on the Revelstoke division has moved to the coast, where he has been appointed superintendent of terminals at Vancouver and New Westminster. Everyone who knew Mr. Ross will be pleased to hear that the C.P.R. have thus taken this opportunity to show their appreciation of his services. While Mr. Ross has been on the Revelstoke division his work has extended from Kamloops to Field All the C.P.R. employees with whom he came in contact with during his inspections etc., speak most highly of him and regret his leaving Revelstoke Mr. Ross leaves many friends who will greatly miss him and all wish him every success in his new undertaking.

With the possible exception of "The Scarlet Mr. Ev'ls" who played here to large audiences a few years ago, we question whether there has ever been an opportunity of local playgoers witnessing a really high class Pierrot entertainment. The "Versatiles" who are at the Empress theatre on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 25 and 26, have played in nearly every country where the Union Jack flies and are second to none in their style of performance. The introduce all the latest London song successes in their own inimitable way. In the "Versatile" performance, clever comedy and tuneful numbers go hand in hand with refinement. They will give a complete change of program on Saturday afternoon and again Saturday evening.

Revelstoke Caledonian Society will open their winter sessions with a grand dance on Thursday, October 31st, at 9 p.m., in Selkirk Hall. The Revelstoke Orchestra has been engaged to furnish the music, and an enjoyable time is an assured fact, as it will be an old time "Gatherin' o' the Clan" for Revelstoke. The price of admission is only $1.00 per couple, so that everyone and his whole family should be in attendance on the night of the 31st.

Mr. Harry Hoyland, the purveyor of comedy, with Mr. Stuart Whyte's "Versatiles," who are appearing at the Empress theatre next Friday and Saturday, like most people in the theatrical profession, has had some funny experiences. On one occasion some years ago wilst with a dramatic company, it was decided as business was bad, to put on "East Lynn," always a sure drawing card. At the last moment, the lady who should have played the part of Miss Carlisle, the garrulous spinster, was taken very ill. No substitute could be found amongst the ladies of the company, and at the last minute Mr. Hoyland borrowed a black satin dress from the lady at whose house he was staying and appeared in the part with great success. This is probably the only time in the history of the play that the part was ever played by a "mere man."

Poultryman Meet

A meeting of the Revelstoke Poultry and Pet Stock Association was held on Monday evening last at R. M. Smythe's Hall. The report of the Show committee was presented and adopted.

All poultry prizes were paid on the evening of the last day of the show. The coops cleaned and sprayed with disinfectant, leaving them ready for next fall's fair. Other routine business was disposed of.

After adjournment a judging demonstration was taken part in by all present. Three cockerels were placed under examination and their respective defects and merrits were determined by reference to American standard of perfection, which is in use by all poultry judges. It might be incidentally mentioned that a cockerel placed by the judge at the recent poultry show as first prize, was only awarded a second place by a majority of those taking part in the demonstration. A similar demonstration will be held in November at the next meeting of the Association when Rhode Island Reds will be under discussion.

Views Taken from Mt. Revelstoke

Photographs of Revelstoke and district with the plan of the auto road showing the amount completed up to October, 1912, were premenently displayed amongst the fruit exhibit in the Howson block.

After this exhibit is closed the photographs accompanied by a write-up will be sent down to Portland, Ore., and will occupy a prominent place in the building of the Portland Automobile Club. These photographs are the combined efforts of C.D. Macdonald and W. H. Horobin, two of Revelstoke's well known boosters.

Conductor Lawrence Mack Killed

An unfortunate accident in the C.P.R. yards last night shortly after the arrival of No. 1 passenger train at 9:20 snuffed out the life of freight conductor, Lawrence Mack, only 22 years of age. Mack's train was about to pull out, east bound, and he had just handed the orders to the engineer, climbing into the cab to do so. He alighted from the cab to signal the switchman just as the detached engine from the passenger backed down on the next track. The noise of the escaping steam in starting up prevented Mack from hearing the approach of the light engine, which killed him instantly, severing the head completely from the body. Deceased was popular all along the line and his tragic death will be a shock to his many friends. He was promoted to his present position about a year ago, running between Kamloops and Revelstoke. The remains were removed to the Kamloops undertaking parlors and the funeral arrangements will be announced later An inquest was commenced by Coroner Dr. Archibald at 2 o'clock this afternoon.—Inland Sentinel.

Revelstoke "The Capital of Canada's Alps"
