SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Important Addresses by Prominent Men

The second British Columbia Provincial Sunday School convention will be held in this city on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 27, 28, 29. The principal speaker will be W. C. Pearce, International Superintendent of the adult department. This promises to be the greatest religious gathering ever held in the province.

The general theme is "The Twentieth Century Sunday school organized for effectual work." The different phases of the organization and work of the up-to-date Sunday school will be discussed. The Sunday school should be the right arm of the church in all lines of Christian effort, hence this convention will endeavor to show what the Twentieth Century Sunday school should do in training workers in soul winning, in character building, in moral reform, in reaching the homes, in reaching the neglected masses, and many other live questions.

The first session takes place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The following gentlemen will give the addresses of welcome: Mayor Lindmark on behalf of the City; Rev W P Freeman for the Churches; and F W. Laing on behalf of the local Sunday schools W. C. Pearce, of Chicago, will also address the meeting, taking as his topic, "The World's Greatest Syndicate."

Wednesday morning at nine o'clock the convention will open with a devotional half-hour, and at five minutes past nine, the doors will be closed until 9:30.

The afternoon session starts at 2 o'clock and the evening at 8 o'crock.

Amongst those who will be present from outside points are Rev. J. T. Ferguson, J. Patrick, of Nelson; Rev. F. J. Rutherford, Rev. A. Kenmure, Slocan; Rev. Dr. Osterhout, Vernon; Principal Sawyer, LL.D., of Summerland College; and Stuart Muirhead, general secretary, of the I.S.S.A., for British Columbia.

Anniversary Festival

The seventeenth anniversary festival of the Methodist church was held in the Selkirk Hall on Thursday evening in the form of a sumptuous "bean feast." A large quantity of delicacies of every description consisting of Boston beans, pumpkins, lemon and apple pies, and other things too numerous to mention, for which the ladies aid of this church are noted, had been prepared, and arranged in dazzling and tempting display before the large crowds that surged into the hall about supper time. The cold atmosphere outside made the genial warmth within doors all the more pleasant, and in spite of the quantity of good cheer prepared, there was not enough left over after the "inner man" had been fed to fill the proverbial twelve baskets. During the supper a good programme of instrumental music was rendered by prominent and talented members of the church. Young and old alike spent a most enjoyable time, the excellent supper to which all did ample justice, permeated all present with a feeling of benign and genial bonhomie, a trait of character for which the worthy and popular pastor of the Methodist church sets a good example

CORONER'S INQUEST

Jury Returns Verdict of Accidental Death

The inquest on the body of Alex. M. McLennan, who was killed at Sicamous on Monday evening while acting in his capacity as brakeman, and switching cars, was held in the city police station on Wednesday afternoon by coroner Dr. Hamilton. From the evidence produced it showed that owing to the curve in the track at Sicamous where switching was done, the brakemen could not see each other and no one saw the accident happen and knew that anything serious had occurred until McLennan was heard to cry out. The head brakeman ran up and found the deceased pinned between the drawbars of the cars. He at once gave the signal to the engineer who pulled the cars apart and released the unfortunate man. The conductor at the time of the accident was in the station house No direct evidence was brought to show how the accident exactly happened and the jury brought in the following verdict:

"We find that the deceased came to his death by being caught between the drawbars of the cars while switching at Sicamous. We find also that death was accidental and that no blame can be attached to any person or persons.

COLUMBIA TRAFFIC BRIDGE

Mr. Gamble States That Work Will Soon Commence

F. C. Gamble, chief provincial engineer, came up from the south on Thursday evening en route for the coast. Mr. Gamble stated that the plans for the new government traffic bridge across the Columbia River at this point were well in hand and would be completed almost at once, when tenders would be called for the work. He said that there would be ample time to complete the bridge reasonably early next year. Mr Gamble also said that the soundings and surveys for the piers of the structure were all ready and the location had been decided some little time ago which would be a little above the present C.P.R. bridge. He corroborated Mr. Fulton's statement that the bridge when completed would be a credit to the government. In connection with the new bridge over the Illecillewaet River, too, plans were already prepared and tenders would be called shortly.

From these statements it appears that the winter season should be busy as far as government work goes. We understand that the provincial government and the C.P.R. have locked horns over the matter of the closing by the C P.R. of the Eagle Pass wagon road crossing, 1⅛ miles west of here, and that neither side is at present disposed to give in to the other. The question will in all probability be left to the Railway Commission to decide

YOUNG CONSERVATIVES

Enthusiastic Meeting—Election of Officers

An enthusiastic and well attended meeting of Conservatives, young and old, took place on Wednesday evening in the Conservative Association rooms in the Burns Block. The occasion was the election of officers of the Young Conservative Club, and incidentally an evening's entertainment for the faithful.

A long and first-class musical entertainment was provided, and a good time was enjoyed by all present. T. Taylor, M.P.P., Mayor Lindmark and others gave eloquent addresses, touching on the issues of the day, as well as general matters of home interest. It was decided that entertainments and social evenings be held every Wednesday. The following officers were elected:

President—W. A. Sturdy.
1st Vice—W. A. Chambers.
2nd Vice—E R. Beale.
Secretary—J. G. McLean.
Executive—W. A. Smythe, B. R. Blacklock, G. Bell, E. R. Beale, Neil McEachern.

The meeting on Wednesday was one of the largest and most successful of any held in Revelstoke. A large number of new names were added to the list of members and the Young Conservative Club is established on firm lines.

BOARD OF TRADE

Fire Limits in the City Discussed

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held last night in the City Hall with good attendance.

President F. B. Lewis took the chair. H. Cunningham-Morris was appointed as secretary pro tem.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Several communications were read and disposed of.

The question of the Columbia traffic bridge was discussed. Robert Gordon stating that Mr. Gamble, the engineer, informed him that the plans were nearly ready. Mr. Gordon also said that in all probability the new Illecillewaet bridge would be constructed by days' work. In discussing the Dominion Government dam, Mayor Lindmark said that the Board should express its thanks to Mr. Aylmer for the success of the work and a resolution was passed that the Board express its satisfaction in the completion of the work as carried out by Mr. Aylmer. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Mr. Aylmer and the Minister of Public Works.

Mayor Lindmark brought up the question of fire limits and the advisability of having the same The question was fully discussed and the dangers of fire traps in many parts of the city commented upon. The Board felt that limits should not be to small. The matter of fire limits by law and building permits was fully taken up and a resolution was passed that the Board expresses its opinion that the time has come when the question of fire limits in the city should receive the careful consideration of the City Council

R. Tapping then brought up the matter of his being turned down in the appointment as manager of the Revelstoke booth at the Calgary fair. He dramatically accused the Board of insulting him and giving him the cold shoulder and of stating to him what was not true. After a severe questioning of several members of the Board who explained what they knew of the affair, the matter was concluded to the evident satisfaction of all concerned.

A resolution was passed appointing H. Cunningham Morris as secretary of the Board for the balance of the year.

The meeting then adjourned.

HOSPITAL WHIST PARTY

Successful Event on Thursday Night

The progressive whist party held under the auspices of the Ladies' Hospital Guild took place on Thursday evening at the City Hall. Those who looked after the ticket selling report every one sold. About sixteen tables were filled and play was kept up till a late hour. The feature of the evening was an excellent supper served in the Council chamber which was really a credit to those who were instrumental in preparing the same, the sandwiches, for which Revelstoke ladies were famous, were pronounced first class. The evening passed most pleasantly, and after the tally cards were collected and examined, the following were declared prize winners. Mrs. Tomlinson, Miss Betty McLennan, Rev. C. A. Procunier and Mr. Elliott.

The affair was voted an unqualified success and nothing marred the proceedings until the end, when some person or persons with a poor idea of a joke, got busy with the ladies wraps, rubbers, cloaks, etc., mixing them all up and doing more or less temporary damage Such actions on the part of such childish and inconsequent persons call for vigorous comment and it is hard to believe anyone in Revelstoke could be so foolish as to play a trick like this, and then think it funny. Naturally the ladies feel sore and indignant, but, however, nothing serious resulted. We can add, with apologies to Kipling, the whist party recessional.

"The tumult and the chatter cease;
The irate card players soon depart;
In city hall reigns a heavenly peace!
Sweet stillness lulls both head and heart.
Why muse on cloaks and duds upset?
We'll just forget. Oh! Just forget."

HOW TO VOTE

One man, one vote, is a right not a privilege and such a right should be appreciated accordingly. Throughout B. C. to-day there are hundreds of men who are considering which party they will cast their votes for. The right to vote is a right that is sometimes taken too lightly and at this time it is not out of place to consider the questions of using the franchise and of how it should be used. Such a right should be appreciated with the keen realization of its consequent duties. One of the chief questions that confronts a man, is, as to which party will he favor best for his province and which party is the most earnest as a party to further the interests of his province. The other main questions will be, "which of the candidates should be favored from the personal standpoint." Ancient history is more or less immaterial. The record of an administration seeking a return to power is the consideration on the other hand. Take, for instance, the present campaign, the voter will question the record of the Laurier government, question what of the credit is due to itself and what to its predecessors and question also those things to which the opposition takes exception. He must decide in his opinion whether the majority should rule or whether those who believe one way on a certain question should be handicapped by the requirement of a 60 per cent. vote; he must decide whether it is right or wrong to guarantee millions to wealthy corporations and he must decide whether he thinks many things right or wrong. Many voters will reach the conclusion that many of the objections to the administration are points well made, so that many of the objections are not so serious as claimed; and some that parties are well balanced. Even where one is firmly convinced that one party is unquestionably more deserving than the other, the personal equation must be taken into consideration. In every case a man, voting, and especially when voting for the first time, should see that he votes for a man who will add to the upholding of the nation on which side he might be. But whatever be the conclusion the thinking man might reach, it is most important that he should cast his vote according to his conscience, although in these days of political strife that does not count for much. Once he does that if it be possible, he will always maintain that independence, even if he becomes a party man, that is so much needed in the development of the highest type of democratic citizenship.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS.

Apropos of the recent sad death of brakeman McLennan, who was killed at Sicamous on Monday while on duty, the mortality in railroading in every branch on the continent cannot but be a subject of comment. For its age and advantages as a civilized country, this North American continent enjoys the reputation of being the most progressive of all civilized sections of the globe. It also, according to statistics, suffers from the reproach of being the most indifferent to human life. A recent despatch from Ottawa states that on Canadian railways alone 2,135 persons were killed and 10,655 injured in five years because of accidents. During ten years the United States' railroads killed 10,367 persons and injured 63,417. To use a pertinent illustration; within the last decade there were killed and injured on the Canadian and United States railroads an approximately equal number to that totalizing the killed, died of disease and injured during the South African war. Simply because these are results of railroad accidents and devoid of the spectacular interest attaching to engagements on the field of battle they pass with little comment without reaching the heart. The men who follow railroading and who have the responsibility daily in their hands of human life and property and who lose their lives while in the discharge of their duty, are no less heroes than the soldier in battle, but who go down to their graves unhonored. Railroad accidents really ought to carry an even greater appeal to the public attention, because they are, in a great measure, preventible, and might be largely eliminated were advantages taken of latest developments of mechanical invention. In the interests of the travelling public and of those who earn their livelihood on the railroads, is it not time that governments should address themselves to this question and insist upon groper methods and measures for the protection of passengers and employees? Expansion is all very well, but it ought not to be made at the cost of life and limb.

B. C. TRAFFIC INCREASES

Crops Have a Marked Effect on Business

F. F. Busteed, general superintendent of the Pacific division of the C.P.R., who was in Winnipeg last week, said:

"Everything is progressing rapidly in the coast province," and traffic is now very heavy. The good crops in Manitoba and the western provinces are, of course, responsible for it all, not that there is much wheat moving in the coast province, but because the good crop in Manitoba has restored a feeling of confidence. The lumber traffic is particularly heavy for this season of the year and all the mills are beginning to receive larger orders. Heavy shipments are being sent east to the consumers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The tourist traffic is, of course over and in this department the year's business was such that the company officials were well pleased. All through the summer months the travel was heavy and thousands of people visited the famous resorts in British Columbia."

SCIENTIFIC LAND CLEARING

By-products of Brush Land will Cover all Cost

That every acre of bush land on the Pacific coast contains the raw material which, if handled in the right way, will return to the owner of the land enough profit to more than pay for the clearing has of late been demonstrated in a practical and convincing manner.

There are hundreds of thousands of acres of land in the province of British Columbia which would become first-class agricultural land the moment it is in condition for the plow. Up to date the cost of the clearing of this land has been such that the average settler could not undertake the job on any but the smaller scale, and then in some manner in which his own labor formed the principal item of cost.

It is through the chemical utilization of woods that all this will be changed.

The stumps and roots of the Douglas fir, left by the loggers, are rich in turpentine, of which about ten gallons can be made from a cord of such material. Then there is the charcoal and tar, both of which are worth money and find a ready market.

From cedar leaves and twigs some remarkable results are obtained. The marvels of coal tar, and the manifold products that can be had from this substance are almost rivalled when it comes to the destructive distillation of this class of wood.

Chief among the results thus obtained is borneal, a commercial source of camphor, and other by-products of oils of great value and commercial use. Borneal is valued at 50c. to $1 a pound.

A simple calculation will show what a source of help the marketing of this oil might prove to be in the clearing of logged-off lands. Assume that in an acre of underbrush two cedar bushes each yielding 100 pounds of twigs and leaves, grow upon each square rod. At this rate, each acre would yield 16 tons of twigs and leaves, or about 320 pounds of oil. This would mean a gross income of from $160 to $320 per acre.

A small combination plant consisting of a donkey engine, saw mill and retort for extracting chemicals from refuse wood is suggested as an outline of a mechanical device calculated to reduce costs and increase the savings in land clearing operations. Explosives and steam power are economically used and savings of by-products are contemplated, which make use of nearly all material on the ground. Instead of moving stumps to the plant the operator can move the retort to the field, extract the chemicals, transport them to the plant, which would then become a refinery. The sawmill attachment could be used to cut and prepare the lumber from small timber and rejected logs left by the lumbermen; thus the waste timber could be used for erecting small buildings and fences.

To remove the stump, first break it up with powder, then with donkey pull it out and haul the pieces to the retort, where they will be prepared by the saw for charging the retorts. The refuse that is poor in chemical values can be used for fuel in the furnace. The little saw can take care of any timber left on the ground, and thus can be utilized every particle of timber.

Another important point worthy of consideration is the preservation of the natural fertility of the soil. The timber is disposed of in such a manner as to avoid the destructive burning caused by the old method. Several years and much cultivation are required to restore to its natural productiveness soil once burned by excessive heat.

The cost of this portable plant including all necessary paraphernalia for conducting field operations, not including steam and pumping plant, should not exceed $1,200. The operating labor cost would be about $8; amount of wood treated, about 6 cords, from which would be obtained 240 bushels of charcoal, valued at $20; 240 gallons of distillate, chiefly tar, with some second-grade turpentine valued at $25. This would give a net return of $37 for the wood at the retort, or about $9 per cord.

The value of land advance so rapidly as it approaches a condition for cultivation that it would appear as if there should be no difficulty in financing such a plan where the settler has even a few acres, and that co-operation on the part of small holdings would solve the problem in more ways than one.

There is little doubt but that the near future will see the beginning of this simple and practical plan for the reclamation of the bush lands that have presented so many difficult problems to the settler of small means in the past.

It will mean millions of dollars for British Columbia in the next ten years, and is a matter which the government should not allow to go unproved for want of an experimental plant.

CARIBOO MYSTERY

Search will be Made Again for Missing Baronet

Deep mystery surrounds the announcement that the provincial authorities of British Columbia have been requested to again try to investigate the circumstances attending the disappearance of Sir Arthur Curtis, Bart: who vanished on the overland trail to the Yukon ten years ago.

ON THE CARIBOO ROAD.

It may be remembered that a Mr. Pocock led the "Star pack train," which started from Ashcroft in June, 1898, bound for Klondike, Sir Arthur Curtis being his partner.

It was after crossing the Mud river, while the party were camped for the day searching for strayed horses, that Sir Arthur mysteriously disappeared. After weeks of fruitless searching, the party were forced to return to Quesnel finding no trace of the missing baronet.

Beginning tomorrow evening Rev. W. P. Freeman, pastor of the Baptist Church, will preach a series on "The Seven Words from the Cross." This will be most interesting and instructive series, based, as it is, on the central event in the world's history.

The two comic subjects "The Last Day of the Maid," and "The Three Thirsty Moving Men." In the first picture it shows how the discharged maid gets even with her employers on the last day and the latter picture shows how to handle furniture in the moving.

Early on Thursday morning R. Tapping saw a fine coyote standing near the C.P.R. track in front of the section house, at the end of Campbell avenue. Owing to its position in front of the house Mr. Tapping dared not use his rifle, and the beast, scenting danger, made off up the hill.

Severe snow storms in the east have demoralized the C.P.R. traffic during this wek. It is reported that five were stalled at Medicine Hat, Maple Creek, Swift Current and Crowfoot, and that the snow drifts have been very heavy. In many parts there were snow drifts over 12 feet deep across the track.

Among the buildings and premises in the city that do not require electric heating just now are the Conservative and Liberal committee rooms. Sufficient hot air is generated in those places to warm their occupants with an abundance left over to keep the whole atmosphere round in a condition of ferment.

Advices from Alberta state that one of the worst snow storms ever experienced at this time of year has been raging for the past few days in many sections, demoralizing traffic and doing considerable camage. In Revelstoke we are enjoying fine, mild weather, which is invariably found in this, the capital of the "Banana Belt."

A successful complimentary banquet was tendered to G. Petrie, superintendent of construction work at Rogers Pass, at the "Happy Home," at the Pass, on Tuesday last. Mr. Petrie was the guest of Engineers Crick, Crawford and Hill, and a large and jovial gathering sat down to the banqvet prepared. After doing full justice to an excellent menu the guests indulged in a social evening. The occasion of the banquet was Mr. Petrie's departure from Rogers Pass for Field, and the assembled guests took this opportunity of publicly expressing their esteem of the guest of honor.

The funeral of the late Alex. M McLennan, C.P.R. brakeman, who was killed at Sicamous on Monday last, took place Thursday morning at the Y.M.C.A. A large number of the deceased's comrades attended the ceremony and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, of which the deceased was a member, were present in full force. The Rev. W. C. Calder read the service in the Y.M.C.A. parlors at the conclusion of which the remains were conveyed to the depot. Besides the B. of R. T., in whose hands were all arrangements, a large number of others followed in the cortege, including the Ladies auxiliary of the Trainmen. The remains were placed on board No. 96, en route for Nova Scotia where they will be finally interred at River Dennys, the deceased's home. The body was accompanied by Alex. D. McLennan and Miss K. McLennan, cousins.

Tuesday evening the Y. M. C. A. Life Problem class will meet, the topic being "Narcotics and Stimulants." This group of men have a splendid assortment of subjects for discussion and the club is becoming quite popular.

In spite of the notices issued by the corporation warning the public against scattering paper round the streets, quite a lot of fresh paper is noticeable. Not only that but orange peel and banana skins are common objects just now on or near the sidewalks, a veritable trap of downfall for the unwary pedestrian. Another disgusting practice which is largely carried on in the city is that of expectoration or spitting promiscuously about the streets and sidewalks. This habit besides being a filthy one is dangerous in the extreme, owing to the millions of germs of disease found in more or less all sputum. Since tuberculosis and consumption are so rampant in Canada, the community can ill afford to take any chances. These germs are carried into almost every home, on the boots, on mud on the clothes, on the hems of ladies' skirts, and in many other way. Stringent measures should be adopted to put down this habit and all offenders summarily dealt with.

SPORTING NOTES

Art Burn, the Calgary runner, who has been shouting for a long time that he can trim Tom Longboat, has entered for the Montreal fifteen-mile road race which takes place today. If Burn does not get cold feet like he did at Lindsay, the question will be settled.

The Alert basket ball team made a good showing last Wednesday against the Road team, and were only beaten in the last few minutes play.

Next Wednesday the Gym team play the Shamrocks, and a fast game is anticipated.

It surely looks as if the road race on Thanksgiving Day would be run on snowshoes. However, we hope not. Haycock of Malakwa is making fast time according to reports and our local boys will have to hurry up some.

The Senior class meet Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 8 p. m. Grading contest next Tuesday night.

Is Burt training for the road race? I don't think.

Revelstoke Conservative Association

To the Electors and Citizens of Revelstoke:

The Conservative Association of Revelstoke Riding wish to inform you in the most emphatic manner possible, that they neither as an Association or through any individual representative, had anything whatever to do, directly or indirectly, with the postponement of a Liberal meeting summoned for Tuesday, the 20th, neither have they made any arrangement of any kind for a meeting on the 27th instant, and any statement to the contrary is absolutely false and apparently circulated to explain the abandoned Liberal meeting of Tuesday night.

Having, however, every reason to desire a joint meeting at some suitable date at which all parties would have the opportunity of expressing their views, the Association now publicly challenges their opponents, if they are acting in good faith, to appoint a committee of three to meet and arrange with a similar committee appointed from this Association, for such a joint meeting.

As arranged in a proper manner, a meeting of such a nature would no doubt be most acceptable to the electors and citizens of this city.

Approved and issued by the Executive of the Conservative Association at a meeting held this Tuesday evening, October 20th, 1908.
