Prosecute Railroad—Prairie Fire—Princess Kidnapped—London Police Charge—Quebec Earthquake.

EDMONTON, Oct. 9—Attorney-General Cross, has announced that the C. P. R. will be prosecuted for operating freight trains at Wetaskiwin and Strathcona contrary to the provisions of the Lord's Day Act.

FROBISHER, Sask., Oct. 9.—For two days a prairie fire has raged south of this town, the sky for twenty miles being illuminated by a lurid glare. Reports are coming of strenuous efforts to keep back the fire from homesteads, in some places the flames having reached as far as the garden rails.

FLORENCE, Oct. 9.—An attempt has been made to carry off Princess Anne Monica Pia, the youngest daughter of the former crown princess of Saxony, who was married in London recently tn Enrico Toselii, an Italian musician and who is now living at Fiesole.

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—At South Osgoode the body of a young married English woman has been exhumed to settle the ugly rumors that are being circulated around the district. Mrs. Thomas Burns died without medical attendance and was buried within 24 hours.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9.—There has been a big slash in lumber prices by wholesalers here. Twelve dollars a thousand is the reduction on some grades. The retailers have large stocks on hand and sales have been few during the last few weeks.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The royal commission charged with the investigation of London's police is nearly ready, following several months' work, to accuse Scotland Yard and the entire police department of grafting and numerous forms of corruption. The investigation brought to light a police "prejury band" which has caused scandals for years. It was shown that numerous officers were in league to support each other by false testimony to obtain the conviction of innocent persons.

HUNTINGDON, Que., Oct. 9.—A severe earthquake shock was felt here shortly before three this morning. The shock was violent, coming from the south and lasted several seconds, awakening people from their sleep.

WIRELESS RECORD

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 8.—Yesterday, while Marconi experts were testing new cones at the top of the towers of the station at Morien, the operators below picked up a wireless message at Manila, in the Pacific ocean.

The message received was that the American cruiser Philadelphia had arrived their safely.

The Marconi people account for communication with Manila, by the theory that the cone at Manila must have been in perfect tone with that at Morien.

The best previous record for distance was 4,000 miles between Savannah and a United States warship in the South Pacific.

TWO KILLED, MANY INJURED

SEATTLE, Oct. 8.—Two tramps were killed; fireman Gilbert Ernst, of Tacoma, is missing and believed dead; engineer F. N. Myers, of San Francisco, and brakeman Thomas are at Hot Springs seriously injured as the result of a wreck near Weston on the main line of the Northern Pacific. An extra freight westbound, consisting of 30 cars of hay, grain and live stock, jumped the line. The entire train was destroyed, the wreckage catching fire soon after the smashup. The trainmen declare that failure of the airbakes on a heavy firade caused the wreck.

NICOLA COAL

NICOLA, Oct. 9.—Another chapter in the development of this province has been opened. The railway to the Nicola Valley Coal and Coke Company's mine is now completed by a spur one mile and a half long from the Nicola branch and the cars of the C.P.R. are under the tipples. About one hundred tons per day of the coal is being taken out at present and so far the big railway is taking the output.

PROSECUTING RAILWAYMEN

Dr. Mills Defends Policy of Punishing Criminal Carlessness in Employees — No Discrimination.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 8.—Dr. Mills, of the Railway Commission, interviewed today in regard to complaints that railwaymen are being prosecuted too severely for accidents, said:

"Where companies are responsible the Attorney-General of the province is informed of the facts and asked to invoke the law. There is no discrimination against employees. If it so happens that more employees are brought under the operation of the law, it is because investigation shows that in the majority of cases accidents are due to violation of rules by men themselves, and inasmuch as they are the chief sufferers by carelessness which is so prevalent among railwaymen, they should welcome any steps which will place responsibility where it belongs and so safeguard those of their number who observe the standard operating rules of the country."

BOAT CAPSIZES IN RAPIDS

Hunting Party Lose Outfit in River—Had to Give up Trip

Count Felix Hoyos and Count Franz Hoyos and party who left on Saturday last in the s. s. Revelstoke for Downie Creek, from whence they were going to take an extended hunting trip in the Big Bend, returned on Monday having lost the greater part of their outfit in the river. In an interview yesterday afternoon with the distinguished visitors the MAIL-HERALD representative learned that the party had arrived safely at Downie Creek and sent a portion of their outfit by pack horse to Smith Creek, the canoe not being able to carry all of it. On Saturday the party which consisted of the Counts Felix and Franz, T. Edwards, Hugh McLean and A. Villette, started up the river in the canoe and made about six miles that day. On Sunday a series of rapids were negotiated with safety and the party came to the foot of Death Rapids at half-past two. Here, owing to the severity of the current, the party disembarked and proceeded to tow and poll the canoe up stream through the quieter places. Coming to a series of rocks it was necessary to take the canoe a little further out into the river. The counts had hold of the tow line and were dragging the canoe up while the other men cautiously polled from the rocks. Unfortunately on rounding a sharp curve the back sweep of the current caught the craft, rolling it over and tearing the rope out of the hands of those towing. The whole outfit was lost and the canoe rapidly whirled down stream. The men hastened after it as quick as they could and after a hard run over the rocks succeeded in rescuing it. Downie Creek was reached again on Sunday night and there was nothing left but to return to Revelstoke, the journey being made in the canoe as far as practicable. On the trip down, Count Felix shot a fine big lynx.

On being asked what they intended doing now they replied that would probably take a short trip into the hills to hunt bear and caribou. They feel the unsuccessful ending of their river trip very keenly but, as Count Felix said, "the Columbia is indeed a mighty river," they feel that it might have been worse. On being questioned as to their visit to Revelstoke, Count Felix said, "We have enjoyed ourselves very much here. Your citizens are very good. You have a very beautiful little city and from what we can see, a rich and promising one,"

As to his impressions of Canada, he said that he had been to many countries but few came up to Canada. "Your resources," he said, "must be vast, and with capital Canada will be unsurpassable."

Counts Felix and Franz are guests at the Hotel Revelstoke, and will leave shortly for Vancouver, San Francisco, Honolulu, Japan and Russia. When asked as to what part of the Big Bend they were originally making for, Count Franz said they intended going up the Canoe river, across to the Fraser and down through that valley.

TRAIN PLOWED INTO CROWD

Lake Shore Flyer Kills Seven on Track.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8—Without the sound of a bell or warning shriek of a whistle, a great Mogul engine, drawing a train of sleepers in its wake, swept like a comet out of the darkness through Gary, Ind., on Saturday night and plowed a murderous path through a struggling crowd of men and women on the tracks.

Seven were ground to pieces under the wheels of the flying train, which continued on its way at a speed of fifty miles an hour, leaving only blackness, pitiful cries, and shuddering, cowering men and women behind.

On the temporary platform at Gary, without even a station light to guide them, between 100 and 150 persons had gathered to wait for a local train bound to Chicago. This train was almost an hour late, and as the crowd was so great, most of the passengers passed over the westbound tracks in order to enter the train from the side opposite the station.

The attention of everyone was on the approaching local train. The crowd divided and stood back out of danger when it drew up to the station. This train had just stopped and the passengers had not yet left the eastbound tracks to board it when the flyer from Chicago loomed out of the darkness sweeping around a slight curve and dashed into the crowd on the tracks.

FROM THE FAR NORTH

The Hay River District Rich in Minerals

EDMONTON, Oct. 8.—Rev. J. T. Marsh, who has spent fifteen years in the north among the Indians, is in the city. Fourteen years were spent at Hay River post and one year at Fort Liard.

Rev. Mr. Marsh's post is roughly speaking about 1,000 miles north of Edmonton. It is four years since he was down from the north before. Speaking of life in the north Mr. Marsh said: "We only get three mails a year and are entirely shut off from the outer world except by dog teams in the winter and a trip by that method for 1,000 miles is not to be envied.

"The country round the Lesser Slave lake is rich in minerals and when they are opened up the population will rapidly increase. Till then there is not much inducement for the immigrant.

"For 360 days out of the year our continnous diet three times a day is fish and potatoes and the imported luxuries which are your necessities, we scatter over the other five. To take goods to the Hay River post on the Great Slave costs $8 75 a hundred weight and at this rate any importation is a luxury."

THE ORIENTAL PROBLEM

EDMONTON, Oct. 8.—Hon. Senator McHugh, of Lindsay, Ont., who has been making a tour of the West for several weeks, arrived in the city the other day on his return from the coast. His visit to the West is one of pleasure only. Asked in reference to the Asiatic question in British Columbia, he said:

"That is a question the settlement of which lies best with the people of British Columbia. It can be arranged by themselves if they choose on a way out of which no international difficulties may arise. If the people do not want to employ Asiatic labor, let them employ white labor, and there will simply be no opportunity for the others to come in. If they do want to employ the yellow races then the other provinces cannot dictate to them. It is a question, however, whether the province at this stage of its progress does not need Asiatic labor."

TEN YEARS FOR JAP.

CLINTON, Oct. 8.—At the Assizes here last week Mikami, the Japanese accused of murder of a countryman, was found guilty of manslaughter and will spend ten years in prison. The evidence went to show that the prisoner acted under great provocation. The Chinaman Ching Vu You, who was also tried for killing a fellow-Chinaman was found guilty on the indictment of murder and sentenced to be hanged on December 4.

CIVIC PRIDE

In the Canadian West, civic pride is a splendidly developed growth, only to be found in a young and thriving country. The outburst of rivalry between contiguous sections show an earnestness which is refreshing compared with the indifference of older settled communities—it is better that men should vie and even fight with each other in the carrying on of municipal legislation, than that they should spend all their time and energies mooning or dreaming of the past. Above all, public business and matters relating to civic improvement and interest, should take first place and the citizens should further the development of their city with just as much thought, time and care as they do to their affairs, realizing that it is for their own good, indirectly, to aid in the prosperity of the community as a whole in order to derive thier personal subsistance.

STABLE LAWS

The most salient points in the prosperity of any country and nation, and points which have a direct effect on the development are the intuition of good and stable laws. In the first instance, drawn up with a view to benefitting the the country as a whole; in the second instance, when drawn up and approved of by the people, to be left untampered with and stable. The importance of this can never be too seriously realized, when consideration of the facts is taken and the reputation and popularity of the country is at stake. In years gone by British Columbia laws have been subjected to many and various changes and as governments come and go, each have a few alterations to make, which, if not changing the entire face, have left considerable marks of the efforts to effect the change. It is extremely undesirable that the laws of a country, if to be of any use, should be continually tampered with, and capital will in a very short time become timid and uncertain as to the advisability of entering into a country where this state of things is going on, not knowing what the conditions will be once money is invested in the deveploping of resources. The fact of stable laws will encourage capitalists to the province, but continued changes will retard them. It is only by inducing capital into our midst that British Columbia can be fully exploited, and in consideration of this fact it should be our chief aim to give capital a chance to get down to work along certain and regular lines, and not effect measures that will not only cause annoyance to the people, but deter this development which is so essential in the prosperity of our province.

LAWS OF HUMAN HAPPINESS

One of the most popular men of topay is now in Canada, and no visitor has perhaps been received with more general good will and feeling among all people, than Dr. Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London. In the many addresses he has delivered none has had more effect than his appeal to Canadians to support their church, and no matter what denomination he urges co-operation wherever possible. The following from one of his last speeches will instance the spirit with which he touches on the Canadian church-

"There are four things I want the church people of Canada to do. In the first place, to be cheerful, to show that cheerfulness in your every day lives. Religion does not mean you must have dull, sour faces, far from it, it makes everyone happy. You must reflect that happiness and show the world that Christianity teaches the laws of human happiness.

Secondly, hold fast to Church principles. The future of the Church depends on this. Two-thirds of the human race do not yet know those principles and it is your duty in this young country to preserve those principles intact and so help to mould the Christianity of the future on the right lines.

Thirdly, be forward in all that makes for goodness in everyday life, and in the common advantages of civic life. Don't lag behind and grumble if things go wrong. It is your own faults, unless you do your part. Come boldly forward and take your share in the work of building up your cities and nation for the common good.

Fourthly, I want to see our grand old Church take the foremost place in the missionary work of Canada. There is lots of hard work to be done. There is the whole of the Northwest to look after and keep in the Christian faith. I trust you will ponder over and act upon these four things so that when I visit you again, as I hope I may, I shall find you a more numerous, happy, contented, harmonious family."

KNIT CLOSER TIES.

Apropos of the scheme to organize a party of Canadian journalists to visit England, the idea is certainly one which will at once command interest and support. Who know the conditions of Canada better than Canadians and who can describe those conditions better than Canadian newspaper men? "Canada as she really is" should be their slogan, and if the scheme proposed is carried through Great Britain will have Canada laid before her in a manner which will enable those who intend to emigrate to this country to see for themselves in a true and just light the condition under which they will have to live when making homes in Canada. Moreover, the Motherland we trust will take advantage of this visit of her sons and see more clearly how necessary it is that she should take the utmost interest in her colonies and endeavor to conserve that loyalty that her offspring have rigidly felt for her.

NEW WESTERN NEWSPAPER

On Saturday, October 26th, there will be published at Calgary, Alta., a new weekly newspaper, "The Western Homestead." It will be a bright clean weekly newspaper, containing many new features, and will appeal to the people of Western Canada as a good-class weekly journal produced in the West for Westerners.

GAS PRODUCER AUXILIARY

Revelstoke's New Power Plant Embodies Many Features---Canadian General Electric Co. Introduce Patents.

The Canadian General Electric Co., of Toronto, having received the contract for the supply and installation of the new auxiliary light and power plant in the city, will have all their work cut out for them to get things in shape for operation in February. In looking over their plans and methods of their own particular form of gas producer, we see some very interesting points which go to show that the new plant will be economical in use and efficient in operation.

The gist of a gas producer is the passing of steam and air through red hot coal, the resultant gas being washed and cooled is then suitable for the engine. The suction type adopted by the council from plans prepared by the Canadian General Electric Co., means that as the engine piston goes forward it draws a charge of gas from the producer automatically. The plant remains under less than atmospheric pressure, consequently there is no fear of explosion of any sort. This producer is built of riveted steel plates, no cast iron being used, as is often the case, and the chance of cracking due to sudden changes of temperature caused by atmosphere or the injection of cold water on hot metal, is thereby eliminated. In order to raise steam in the plant, different makers use two principles: 1 A system of interval vaporization when the cast iron boiler type situated inside producer is used. 2 An external system, where hot gases from the producer give up heat to some system of boilers which differ in style in various makes. The Canadian General Electric Co. use the latter system, since it possesses advantages. a The external vaporizer can be cleaned while the plant is in full operation and without disturbing the main points of the producer. b This system avoids troubles when hard water is used. c It utilizes otherwise waste heat in gases for raising steam instead of extracting heat from the fire itself, which is not economical. Besides the external vaporizer, the Canadian General Electric Co's. patent raises steam by injecting water through a coil on a steel plate below the fire cage, which is heated by heat taken from ashes and radiation from fire bars; this source of heat is always ready at any time, thus avoiding delay until outgoing gases give up heat to external vaporizer. It is possible to raise steam necessary for the complete plant by the coil only, while the external vaporizer is being cleaned or otherwise out of use, without interfering with continuous operation of the plant. The external vaporizer used is covered by the Canadian General Electric Co's. patent; it is simple and ingenious in pattern, consisting of a gauze covering the cast iron pipe. the gauze acting as distributor of water over the pipe's surface, thus jacketing the pipe itself which carries away hot gases to the engine, with a thin film of water which is quickly turned into dry steam.

In looking at this process the patent of the Canadian General Electric Co. will be found to cover many essential features in gas producers. As the Revelstoke plant will be the first of this sort in the province the results attained will be looked forward to with interest.

OPERATIONS COMMENCED

Big Hill at Field to be Reduced —Tunnelling Resorted to

GOLDEN, Oct. 8. — Macdonnel & Gzowski, contractors for the driving of the two long C. P. R. tunnels on the main line between Field and Hector, have started operations according to a statement made by F. E. Busteed, general superintendent of the Pacific division of the C.P.R.

Although the contractors have not yet secured much of the mechanical equipment, they have already completed their camps, have started grading preparatory to doing the rock work on several miles of line which will have to be built in connection with the alteration of the location of the line, and they have opened up the face of one of the tunnels. Air compressors, rock drills, boilers, derricks and other plant have been shipped by manufacturers, and is expected at Field within a week. When the plant is installed the working force will be increased and the work prosecuted vigorously. These tunnels are being built in order to do away with the Big Hill grade. The grade will be reduced from 4.4 to 2.2 per cent. in a distance of eight miles.

The Ideal Furniture Co. have just unloaded and placed in stock another car of choice furniture.

B. C. TIMBER RESOURCES

Essay by G. Elley which won Prize Offered by Mr. A. C. Flumerfelt for Best Description of B. C.'s Forest Wealth.

The province of British Columbia is endowed with greater natural resources than falls to the lot of most countries, and this is especially true in respect to her timber wealth, the whole province consisting of an almost unbroken stretch of forest, extending from the 49th parallel to Alaska, and comprising the largest and most compact body of timber on the American continent. Along the seaboard the country is good, generally speaking very heavily wooded, underbrush and vines growing in riotous confusion among the standing timber, and rendering progress thru, it impossible in places. In the interior, however, the trees are smaller and more scattered, with an entire absence of undergrowth, their park-like appearance being a pleasing contrast to the almost impenetrable tangle of tree life found in the coast forest.

In dealing with the various forms of timber growth common to the province, Douglas fir (or Oregon pine, as it is sometimes termed) ranks first in importance. This tree has been known to attain a height of 300 feet, ranging from 6 to 8 feet in diameter at the butt, its only rival in size being the redwood of California.

Fir forms about 60 per cent of our marketable timber, and although confined to no particular belt, attains its greatest sizes in the valleys of those rivers emptying into the gulf of Georgia, and on the eastern part of Vancouver island, the latter district being the most densely wooded area in British Columbia.

The age of a full grown fir averages about five hundred years, but specimens six and even seven hundred years are not rare. In the early stages of the tree's growth the foliage is very thick, branches spreading out from the trunk in all directions; these gradually disappear, however, until nothing remains but a few stunted limbs at the top, the lower portions being comparatively free of knots. The bark growth is heavy, of a reddish appearance, and extensively used for tanning purposes.

The commercial value of this wood is to well known to merit extensive mention. For general all round purposes it has no equal, especially in heavy construction work, owing to its ability to withstand enormous strains; and in this respect is equal, if not superior to oak, which wood it is rapidly displacing, especially in the building of cars. Tests have recently been made by railway engineers on several of the large systems with a view to comparing the relative strength of the two woods, and in most instances their reports have been favorable to fir, particularly where long timbers are required. In one instance ten pieces of each wood were selected and a lift made until they broke, with the result that the fir withstood some 600 pounds greater strain than oak, conclusively proving its superiority in this regard, not to mention its advantage in lightness. Fir is also well adapted for house construction, being used in every portion of the building. Mention should also be made of the excellent spars and masts procured from this tree.

Next in commercial importance, as well as size, comes the red cedar. Although indigenous to all parts of the province, this tree does not thrive as well in the interior as along the coast, where it attains an enormous growth, almost equal to that of the fir, especially at the butt, which has a tendency to spread and is generally hollow.

However, the interior, or mountain cedar, as it is often termed, is much closer grained and considered superior in grade to the coast product.

Cedar is noted for its lightness and the ease with which it can be worked, rendering it in great demand for all classes of interior finish and factory work. In the manufacture of shingles however, this wood excels, the British Columbia shingle enjoying a reputation second to none on the continent. Owing to its lasting qualities underground, cedar is much used for fence posts and foundations.

Hemlock grows in abundance along the coast, but is not so common in the interior, except where the rainfall is heavy. Hitherto, owing to the great prejudice existing against it, the product of this tree has not been extensively used. For a great many purposes, however, it is equally as serviceable as fir, which it closely resembles, and is beginning to be more generally called for, chiefly as a substitute for the latter wood.

Spruce, in several varieties, grows in all parts of the province, but its principal habitat lies along the coast. To the south it is found interspersed among the other trees, but further north the greater portion of the timber consists almost entirely of this wood. In the interior the valley of the Columbia river also contains large tracts of first-class spruce. When manufactured into lumber, it is extensively used for home construction purposes, the commoner grades being worked up into box material for which they are admirably adapted, owing to the extreme lightness of the wood and the fact that it is almost odorless.

Neither hemlock nor spruce attain such large proportions as fir or cedar their average height ranging from 75 to 100 feet.

The above mentioned form the bulk of the timber, but do not by any means complete the list. Yellow cedar or yellow cypress, belongs to the same family as red cedar, its dimensions and appearance being similar to the former. It grows chiefly along the northern coast and on islands adjacent thereto. For interior finish this cedar is unequalled. It is also said to be impervious to the attacks of the teredo and lasts well underground. Oak occurs in small quantities on the southern end of Vancouver island, but the trees are stunted and of little value as lumber. Alder and poplar are common all over the southern part of the province, where they thrive best in low lying ground and along the banks of streams. Owing to the softness of these woods they have not so far been considered worthy of attention from a manufacturing standpoint. There are several varieties of maple, the principal being what is known as "broad leaf," on account of its large spreading leaves, making it an excellent shade tree. Owing to the curly appearance of the wood when cut, it is also in great demand for panel work. White pine of a very fine quality also occurs in small quantities. There are numerous other species of tree growth, but as they do not at present possess any commercial value, further reference to them is unnecessary.

Canada takes first place in the list of the world's timber areas, the total forest land of the Dominion being estimated at about 1,700,000,000 acres. European Russia and the United States come next with approximately 500,000,000 acres each; while British Columbia alone contains something like 183,000,009 acres, and a comparison of the above figures will show the prominent position occupied by the province in relation to the world's timber supply. The growth here is much more dense than in other portions of the Dominion, the average yield per acre along the coast and on Vancouver Island being about 45,000; while in the interior it would probably run from 20000, to 25,000 feet.

A RARE TREAT.

It has often been remarked that there are few attractions in the evening in Revelstoke. People want something to do, some place to go. They want to be amused. Well if there is any truth in the above assertion and people really do want a good evening's wholesome amusement they can get it at the Opera House on Friday night when the Revelstoke Amateur Dramatic Club present that most amusing of comedies—"Jane." If you never laughed in your life before you will laugh at "Jane." Your money back if you don't laugh. Reserved seats on sale at the Canada Drug Store, 75c. General admission 50c. ESPERANTO CLUB

On Monday evening the teachers of the city organized an Esperanto Club with the following officers: President, A. E. Miller; vice-president, C. B. Sissons; secretary-treasurer, Miss E. Atkinson. Meetings will be held every Saturday evening from 7.30 to 9.30, the first hour being devoted to teaching and review, the second to individual work, conversational exercises, reading, etc.

It is expected that the first meeting will be held on Nov. 2, and that the course will be completed about the end of March. It was decided to limit the membership to a reasonable number in order to secure good results. Persons desirous of joining the club and who are in a position to attend regularly and punctually, should make application to any of the teachers before next Saturday. The membership fee is $1. Any who are not in a position to attend the meetings, but who wish to obtain the books, may do so by paying 50c. to the secretary,

Bro. F. H. Fretz returned from Victoria last Saturday where he had been to attend the High Court convention, as delegate of Court Mt. Begbie, 3461. Bro. Fretz, who has twice represented the local court as delegate to the High Court, states that the sessions this year were largely attended and were very successful, much business of importance to the Order being gone through. The convention was honored by the presence at its gathering of two Supreme Court officers. Evidence was shown that Independent Forestry is making the most gratifying progress throughout the province of British Columbia.

OBITUARY

There passed away in the hospital on Monday night in the person of Mrs. Margaret Smith, wife of Samual Smith of this city, one of the pioneer residents of Revelstoke. The deceased had been suffering for a long period from an incurable disease, and death came as a merciful release. The late Mrs. Smith was well known to all and was a member of the order of Pythian Sisters, Revelstoke, Crystal Temple No. 3, and it was due to the untiring and unselfish work of these ladies that the last few weeks of the sufferer in the acute stage of her illness, were spent in comfort and care. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, a service being held at Howson's Undertaking parlors and from thence to the cemetery, where the Pythians will hold their rituals over their departed sister. The Knights also will be present, Mr. Smith being a member of Gold Range Lodge, No. 26, K. of P.

The Rev. T. Johnson, of Arrowhead, will conduct the service.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH

As a practical proof of the phenomenal growth of all kinds of vegetables in this section it has just been learned that on the Covert estate, four miles of Grand Forks, B. C., this summer cucumber have grown six feet in length, while potatoes weigh five pounds each. Parsnips can be found on this land in abundance four feet in length, and 14 inches in circumference, while the average crop of onions on this estate is 14 tons to the acre. The strawberry crop was also very abundant this year, many strawberries having been found over nine inches in circumference. The tropical growth on all kinds of vegetables is due solely to the good soil, together with a systematic form of irrigation, added to this an ideal climate to promote the varied forms of growth.

A meeting of the Revelstoke Anti-Tuberculosis Society, will be held in the City Hall on Eriday Oct. 11, at 8 p.m. All members are requested to be present. Ladies are particularly invited. Dr. Fagan will deliver an address.

A large gang of men is now working steadily on the new Columbia bridge here. Six of the masonry piers are completed, while work on the seventh is now going on; the remaining two will be finished as soon as the water will allow.

The attendance at the provincial exhibition on the last day amounted to more than 16,000 persons, while the attendance for the whole six days including Saturday, Sept. 28th, when the first lacrosse match was played, aggregated almost 100,000.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church, wish to state that their former announcement re price of Bean supper were not quite correct. The price of the supper will be 50c.; children under 12, 25c., and special arrangements made for young children. It will be held in the Selkirk Hall to-morrow night.

A Sunday school convention for the Kootenay and Okanagan districts is to be held in the Baptist church at Nelson on Oct. 22-23 24. Three delegates each from all points are entitled to sit. Many notable speakers will attend and subjects of vital importance for all Sunday school workers discussed.

On Thursday, the 10th, the Ladies of the Methodist church will give their annual Boston baked bean supper, the excellency of which has become celebrated. Come and taste the delicious beans and brown bread, jellies and pumkin pies. The young ladies of the congregation will assist at the supper. Don't forget the place and date. Selkirk Hall, Oct. 10th, from 5 till 10 p. m. Admission free.

The New Westminster team won the big lacrosse game from the Tecumsehs Saturday 12 to 6, through superior playing in every department of the game. The result was never in doubt for a moment after the first ten minutes of play, and if the Royal City team had not taken things somewhat easy in the third and fourth quarters, they might easily have scored half a dozen or so more goals. Fast combination work, accurate shooting and dogged determination not to allow the tricky Easterners to break up their defence is what won for New Westminster.

As an indication of what Revelstoke land and soil if properly looked after, can produce, the Hume-Lawson ranch, near Williamson's lake, is a fair instance. Over 40 acres under cultivation will take its place as a ranch among any in the province, and when it is remembered how short a time the cleaning and cultivation has been going on, the result redound far more to the credit of the promoters Vegetables of all kinds are now being shipped away daily; the fruit trees are in excellent condition and the prospect for next year show even more satisfactory results. Mr. Lawson states that they will clear up several more acres this year.

If you don't laugh at "Jane" in the Opera House, Friday night, consult your doctor immediately; there is evidently something seriously wrong with you.
