San Francisco, January 15.—The will of Louis Sachs, a dry goods merchant, was filed for probate today. The estimated value is $2,000,000, half of which he left his widow, the remainder to relatives and charitable institutions.

The International Society for the Colonization of Russian Jews was incorporated today for the purpose of providing for settlement of colonists upon lands of the corporation and to receive gifts for that purpose. The capital stock is $1,000,000.

A working girls' union was formed in this city last night. It is the first of the kind on the coast.

Washington, January 15.—Senator Stanford from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds today reported to the Senate favorably the increase by $400,000 of the sum already appropriated to the purchase of a site for a public building at San Francisco.

The Rumor Doubled.—Several commercial houses of this city received and sent cables to and from Chili today. No cipher messages, however, were carried, all such being prohibited. No news regarding the situation was received. Nothing was received here today by commercial houses regarding the situation in the Argentine Republic and the rumor of a revolution there is doubted.

The Cradle of the Deep.—New York, January 15.—The steamship Bokkanna Bay, which left Bremen on December 11th for this port, and about which some anxiety has been felt, arrived here this morning. Captain Lega reports having experienced a succession of gales, during one of which the rudder was so disabled that they were compelled to put into St. Michaels for repairs; in another, their decks were swept of everything movable, the bimini-cloth smashed and life boats knocked to pieces.

An Afflicted Turk.—VIENNA, January 15.—It was announced yesterday that Sadallah Pacha, the Turkish ambassador to Austria, was suffering from the effects of a fit. There was considerable mystery about the exact nature of the minister's illness, and today it transpired that he had attempted suicide. He tried to strangle himself while in his bath, and falling in this, attempted to suffocate himself by turning on the gas. When found, he was apparently dying. The physicians have succeeded in restoring respiration, but not consciousness, and it is thought that death is only a question of a few hours. The minister's act is attributed to family troubles. The pacha is afflicted with an incurable disease, and a favorite daughter recently went mad.

St. John's, N. B., January 15.—A car load of Prince Edward Island horses was shipped by the Canadian Pacific on one of their special horse cars from here to British Columbia. There were fifteen mares and a valuable Percheron stallion.

BOILED ALIVE.—AURORA, Ont., January 15.—The daughter of William Geddes, aged 19 months, fell into a pot of boiling water. The mother, hearing the child's screams, at once rushed to its assistance, but before her arrival her little one was so badly scalded that death resulted a few hours later.

THE FLOUR MILLS BURNED.—LONDON, January 15.—The East End flour mills, property of William "Pops" Tacke, who is on a visit to this city, is seriously ill at Grey Nunnery.

On the Taps.—The concert to be given by the choir of the Holy Trinity Church in Saint Leonard's Hall, on next Tuesday evening, promises a treat to those who enjoy really good vocal music, and in this city they are not few. A fine programme of favorite music has been arranged, and the talented members in the choir will be assisted in their efforts to make the occasion thoroughly successful by Messrs. Evan Thomas, Hamber and Delbruck, of Vancouver.

Mr. Delbruck has made an enviable name for himself in Vancouver musical circles. Messrs. H. G. Ross & Co. and W. J. Walker & Co. are handling the tickets, which are placed at the usual popular prices.

Contemplate an Exodus.—We had the pleasure of a call yesterday from Mr. W. J. Mathers, who has just returned from a most enjoyable trip in the East. Mr. Mathers is looking in the pink of health, and expressed himself pleased to get back to British Columbia and Westminster again. In his eastern tour he noted many improvements and changes going on, and was eagerly asked by many to meet for information about this Province. Mr. Mathers says that an extraordinary amount of interest is felt by the eastern people in British Columbia, and from all appearances there will undoubtedly be a considerable exodus from Ontario this summer, especially among the agricultural community. Every scrap of literature referring to the Province is read with the deepest interest by the people in the East, and the eyes of the whole population seem to be turned this way. Many are preparing to settle up their affairs in the Pacific Coast or somewhere else in British Columbia. Mr. Mathers thinks that immigration from the East this spring and summer will far exceed that of any previous year.

DENVER, January 16.—A Cheyenne special says: Mysterious signals flash every night from the peaks of the Big Horn range within thirty miles of Buffalo. The intelligence desired to be expressed is conveyed in three bright columns that arise but for an instant. The word is not understood even by old frontier men. A telegram from Buffalo says the people are greatly alarmed. That town is on an Indian trail, and in a valley once called "A Lucky Battle-field" by the redskins. Though 2,400 miles inland Buffalo is a city of nearly 4,000, with electric lights and waterworks. Ranchmen have flocked to the place. They have equipped a militia company and 100 stands of arms are provided for the use of citizens. There is a company of infantry at Fort McKinney, three miles away. A correspondent says this force is scarcely sufficient to protect the town. Governor Harber telegraphed from Douglas that the Central Wyoming scare had subsided, and the militia would not be ordered out.

THE SILENT SIOUX.

PINE RIDGE, S. D., January 16.—Since the order went into effect for the hostiles to turn in their guns, less than seventy-five have been surrendered, and these are old and useless. General Miles is growing restless at the action of the Indians. He has positive information that they are trying to keep their rifles from the custody of the Government. Official information was given to the press today that unless the redskins surrendered their guns General Miles would begin a forcible disarmament. With this move in view, General Miles has ordered that no civilians shall visit the hostile camp, as their presence would be likely to embarrass, should there be a fight. The general said today that the Indians were still sullen and ugly. Before they broke camp yesterday, they wantonly destroyed a new mowing machine belonging to a rancher. They then entered rancher George Kauffman's house and destroyed his pictures and dishes. Gen. Miles held a council today with Young-Man-A-Fraid-of-His-Horse, High Hawk, Turning Bear and Two strikes, and told them to bring in the rest of the guns. Turning Bear replied they had no control over the Indians from Standing Rock and the Cheyenne River Agencies, but they would hold a council with them this afternoon and endeavor to induce them to surrender their arms. Five hundred rifles were under Little Chief, started today for the Tongue River where they will join their tribe.

An Indignant Matron.
EDITH MORRISON LANGRISH, NURSE—Please permit me, in the name of common humanity, to raise my voice in protest against such a scene as was witnessed this morning, when a hundred people, chiefly composed of young men (who ought to be thoroughly ashamed of themselves), were admitted by crowds of women, to see a poor old Indian close to death. How those in authority could sanction such a proceeding passes my understanding, especially as they are men who call themselves "Christians" (Heaven save the mark), and who hold official positions in the church. Such things are not allowed in England, and it is a disgrace to the British flag that it should be allowed here. It is degrading, and utterly demoralizing to my mind to encourage such a morbid curiosity in the minds of our young men, and the women those in authority are made to understand their duties, since they have no sense of human feeling, the better for society at large. Again, I say, shame; and it ought to be spelt in the very largest letters.

THE ELECTRIC POWER HOUSE.

Great Progress Being Made in All Departments of the Work.

A member of the London staff visited the electric light power house yesterday afternoon. Strong forces of bricklayers, masons, carpenters and machinists are engaged in doing their best to finish the building and put the engines together as quickly as possible. The big fly wheel is being put in place. It is in two sections and will be bolted together. The great driving engine is being rapidly got ready for action. It is a beautiful piece of machinery and looks quite capable of supplying power for twice the service required. The flooring in the dynamo and engine room is not yet laid, but will most probably be commenced next week. The driving engine rests upon a bed of solid brick, concrete and masonry, reducing the chance of vibration to a minimum. The boiler room is practically finished, and all the connection pipes to supply steam to the engine room are ready for coupling. The two boilers have already received their baptism of fire, and have been found satisfactory in every respect. Each boiler contains eighty-six tubes and is sixteen feet long. They were built by John Inglis & Sons, Toronto. Next the boiler house is the fuel house, which is built upon a somewhat peculiar plan, resembling a pyramid resting upon its apex. This is to facilitate the removal of the fuel from the boiler when required to feed the furnaces. From the Royal City Planing Mills, distant about 200 yards, is being constructed a wooden trestle about 24 inches square, leading to the fuel house, and which will be forced through the pipe to the fuel house by means of a sort of pneumatic pressure. This is done by powerful steam-driven fans, and any one desirous of seeing the system in operation can gratify his curiosity by a visit to the Royal City Planing Mill yards, where it is in use to clear away the rapidly accumulating saw refuse every day.

The new power house and adjoining buildings have a very handsome appearance as viewed from the street a little distance away. And no doubt when the building is finished and the machinery working regularly it will be a source of attraction to many who take pleasure in watching the engines at work. Then the formerly bleak and unlighted expanse, known as the swamp, will begin to look like a living part of a living city. Many of the choicest men in the community agree that the angle formed by the hill west of the Royal City Planing Mill, and partially enclosing that extensive tract of level land, extending from the river back to the rising ground, will, at no distant date, be the scene of Westminster's heavy industries, such as foundries, machine and boiler shops, ship building yards and factories. This prophecy is already beginning to be fulfilled.

The sound of various kinds of hammers were audible in the neighborhood of the new ferry boat yesterday. Riveting was actively in progress in the various parts of the machinery, while the carpenters rushed the work with the same activity as has characterized their section of the contract lately. The boat will resemble a floating pyramid more than anything else when completed, but will doubtless meet the requirements expected. The work on the engines is advancing steadily, and may be finished some time in February, if no unlucky accident supervenes.
