CHAPTER XX.

TROVE was three days in Brier Dale after he came out of the woods. The filly was now a sleek and shapely animal, past three years of age. He began at once breaking her to the saddle, and, that done, mounting, he started for Robin's Inn. He carried a game rooster in a sack for the boy Tom. All came out with a word of welcome. Even the small dog grew noisy with delight. Tunk Hosely, who had come to work for Mrs. Vaughn, took the mare and led her away, his shoulder leaning with an added sense of horsemanship. Polly began to hurry dinner, fussing with the table and changing the position of every dish until it seemed as if she would never be quite satisfied. Covered with the sacred old china and table linen of her grandmother, it had, when Polly was done with it, a very smart appearance indeed. Then she called the boys and bade them wash their hands and faces and whispered a warning to each, while her mother announced that dinner was ready.

"Paul, what's an adjective?" said the teacher as they sat down.

"A word applied to a noun to qualify or limit its meaning," the boy answered glibly.

"Right! And what adjective would you apply to this table?"

The boy thought a moment.

"Grand!" said he tentatively.

"Correct! I'm going to have just such a dinner every day on my farm."

"Then you'll have to have Polly too," said Tom innocently.

"Well, you can spare her."

"No, sir," the boy answered. "You ain't good to her. She cries every time you go away."

There was an awkward silence, and the widow began to laugh and Polly and Trove to blush deeply.

"Maybe she whispered, an' he give her a talkin' to," said Paul.

"Have you heard about Ezra Tower?" said Mrs. Vaughn, shaking her head at the boys and changing the topic with shrewd diplomacy.

"Much; but nothing new," said Trove.

"Well, he swears he'll never cross the Fadden bridge or speak to anybody in Pleasant valley."

"Why?"

"The taxes. He don't believe in improvements, and when he tried to make a speech in town meeting they all jeered him. There ain't any one good enough for him to speak to now but himself an'—an' his Creator."

In the midst of dinner they heard an outcry in the yard. Tom's gamecock had challenged the old rooster, and the two were leaping and striking with foot and wing. Before help came the old rooster was badly cut in the neck and breast. Tunk rescued him and brought him to the wood shed, where Trove sewed up his wounds. He had scarcely finished when there came a louder outcry among the fowls. Looking out they saw a gobbler striding slowly up the path and leading the gamecock with a firm hold on the back of his neck. The whole flock of fowls were following. The rooster held back and came on with long but unequal strides. Never halting, the turkey led him into the full publicity of the open yard. Now the cock was lifted so his feet came only to the top of the grass; now his head was bent low, and his feet fell heavily. Through it all the gobbler bore himself with dignity and firmness. There was no show of wrath or unnecessary violence. He swung the cock around near the foot of the maple tree and walked him back and then returned with him. Half his journey the poor cock was reaching for the grass and was then lowered quickly so he had to walk with bent knees.

Again and again the gobbler walked up and down with him before the assembled flock. Hens and geese cackled loudly and clapped their wings. Applause and derision rose high each time the poor cock swung around reaching for the grass, but the gobbler continued his even stride, deliberately and, as it seemed, thoughtfully, applying correction to the quarrelsome bird. Walking the grass tips had begun to tire those reaching legs. The cock soon straddled along with a serious eye and an open mouth, but the gobbler gave him no rest. When at length he released his hold the gamecock lay weary and wild eyed, with no more fight in him than a bunch of rags. Soon he rose and ran away and hid himself in the stable. The culprit fowl was then tried, convicted and sentenced to the block.

"It's the fate of all fighters that have only a selfish cause," said the teacher. He was sitting on the grass, Polly and Tom and Paul beside him.

"Look here," said he suddenly. "I'll show you another fight."

All gathered about him. Down among the grass roots an ant stood facing a big, hairy spider. The ant backed away presently and made a little detour, the spider turning quickly and edging toward him. The ant stood motionless, the spider on tiptoe, with daggers drawn. The big, hairy spider leaped like a lion to its prey. They could see her striking with the fatal knives, her great body quivering with fierce energy. The little ant was hidden beneath it. Some uttered a cry of pity, and Paul was for taking sides.

"Wait a moment," said the teacher, restraining his hand. The spider had begun to tremble in a curious manner.

"Look now," said Trove, with some excitement.

Her legs had begun to let go and were straightening stiff on both sides of her. In a moment she tilted sideways and lay still. They saw a twinkle of black legs and the ant making off in the stubble. They picked up the spider's body; it was now only an empty shell. Her big stomach had been torn away and lay in little strips and chunks down at the roots of the stubble.

"It's the end of a bit of history," said the teacher as he tore away the curved blades of the spider and put them in Polly's palm.

"Let's see where the ant goes."

He got down upon his hands and knees and watched the little black tiger, now hurrying for his lair. In a moment he was joined by others, and presently they came into a smooth little avenue under the grass. It took them into the edge of the meadow, around a stalk of mullein, where there were a number of webs.

"There's where she lived—this hairy old woman," said the teacher—"up there in that tower. See her snares in the grass—four of them?"

He rapped on the stalk of mullein with a stick, peering into the dusty little cavern of silk near the top of it.

"Sure enough! Here is where she lived, for the house is empty and there's living prey in the snares."

"What a weird old thing!" said Polly. "Can you tell us more about her?"

"Well, every summer," said Trove, "a great city grows up in the field. There are shady streets in it, no wider than a cricket's back, and millions living in nest and tower and cave and cavern. Among its people are toilers and idlers, laws and lawbreakers, thieves and highwaymen, grand folk and plain folk. Here is the home of the greatest criminal in the city of the field. See! It is between two leaves, one serving as roof, the other as floor and portico. Here is a long cable that comes out of her sitting room and slopes away to the big snare below. Look at her sheets of silk in the grass. It's like a washing that's been hung out to dry. From each a slender cord of silk runs to the main cable. Even a fly's kick or a stroke of his tiny wing must have gone up the tower and shaken the floor of the old lady, maybe, with a sort of thunder. Then she ran out and down the cable to rush upon her helpless prey.

"She was an arrant highwayman, this old lady—a creature of craft and violence. She was no sooner married than she slew her husband—a timid thing smaller than she—and ate him at one meal. You know the ants are a busy people. This road was probably a thoroughfare for their freight—eggs and cattle and wild rice. I'll warrant she used to lie and wait for them, and woe to the little traveler if she caught him unawares, for she could nip him in two with a single thrust of her knives. Then she would seize the egg he bore and make off with it. Now, the ants are cunning. They found her downstairs and cut her off from her home and drove her away into the grass jungle. I've no doubt she faced a score of them, but, being a swift climber, with lots of rope in her pocket, was able to get away. The soldier ants began to beat the jungle. They separated, content to meet her single-knowing she would refuse to fight if confronted by more than one. And you know what happened to her."

All that afternoon they spent in the city of the field. The life of the birds in the great maple interested them most of all. In the evening he played checkers with Polly and told her of school life in the village of Hillsborough—the work and play of the students.

"Oh, I do wish I could go," said she presently, with a deep sigh.

He thought of the $82 in his pocket and longed to tell her all that he was planning for her sake.

Mrs. Vaughn went above stairs with the children.

Then Trove took Polly's hand. They looked deeply into each other's eyes a moment, both smiling.

"It's your move," said she, smiling as her glance fell.

He moved all the checkers.

There came a breath of silence and a great surge of happiness that washed every checker off the board and left the two with flushed faces. Then, as Mrs. Vaughn was coming downstairs, the checkers began to rattle into position.

"I won," said he as the door opened.

"But he didn't play fair," said Polly.

"Children, I'm afraid you're playing more love than checkers," said the widow. "You're both too young to think of marriage."

Those two looked thoughtfully at the

"It's your move," said she.

checkerboard, Polly's chin resting on her hand. She had begun to smile.

"I'm sure Mr. Trove has no such thought in his head," said she, still looking at the board.

"Your mother is right. We're both very young," said Trove.

"I believe you're afraid of her," said Polly, looking up at him with a smile.

"I'm only thinking of your welfare," said Mrs. Vaughn gently. "Young love should be stored away, and if it keeps, why, then it's all right."

"Like preserves!" said Polly soberly, as if she were not able to see the point.

Against the protest of Polly and her mother Trove went to sleep in the sugar shanty, a quarter of a mile or so back in the woods. On his first trip with the drove he had developed fondness for sleeping out of doors. The shanty was a rude structure of logs with an open front. Tunk went ahead, bearing a pine torch, while Trove followed, the blanket over his shoulder.

ONTARIO'S DEATH RATE.

Rate Was 15.0 Per Thousand In February Last.

Returns from 765 division registrars to the Provincial Board of Health show that out of a population of 2,128,320, or 98 per cent. of the inhabitants of the province, the total number of deaths during February were 2,760, or a rate of 15 per thousand. The number of cases of contagious diseases reported is 93 less than in February, 1906, and the number of deaths are 32 fewer. There was a reduction in the number of deaths from scarlet fever, diphtheria, consumption and whooping cough. Of typhoid fever the number of cases reported was 277 less than in 1906, but the number of deaths was the same, indicating that many cases were not reported. There were 21 more instances of smallpox brought to the attention of the department.

The following figures show the prevalence of contagious diseases and the mortality resulting from them:—

	Cases.	Deaths.
Smallpox	76	0
Scarlet Fever	150	3
Diphtheria	156	20
Measles	337	5
Whooping Cough	34	8
Typhoid Fever	34	8
Tuberculosis	170	170

A Romance of the Peerage.

Lady Ernestine Hunt, eldest daughter of the Marquis of Ailesbury, has taken up an entirely new vocation for women. She has started a horse-breeding ranch near Calgary, where she controls about 40,000 acres of grazing land.

Lady Ernestine was well known some years ago as an intrepid yachtswoman, with much more than a superficial knowledge of navigation and kindred matters. She applied to the Board of Trade for examination, with a view to obtaining a master's certificate, but was rebuffed, on the ground that a woman could not qualify as a master, though it is difficult to see why, logically, a woman should not become a sailing-master as much as a Master of Arts—a qualification now open to her in many universities.

Lady Ernestine has been a nurse as well as a sailor and a horse-breeder; and she married, at the age of 27, the second mate of a merchant vessel.

A NEW PACIFIC PORT.

Prince Rupert Will Be a Meeting Place for America and Asia.

Up the coast of British Columbia, there is a land-locked bay on the shores of which a national port is in the making. Interest was first attracted to that spot when the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway offered a prize for a name for the western terminus. Prince Rupert was the name chosen and it is to this Pacific port, named for a cavalier explorer, that the curious gaze of the Canadian public is turned to-day.

Prince Rupert is about halfway between Vancouver and Skagway. Here a "steel-bright arm" of the sea extends inland, encircling Kaien Island and protected from the sweep of the ocean by Digby Island. Between these islands lies the main channel of the harbor. This inlet is sixteen miles long, a mile in width, with an average depth of one hundred and fifty feet. It has the rare advantage of a straight entrance. The difference between high and low tide is twenty-five feet. As a great continental port it possesses a wide harbor, with room for an imposing fleet, an entrance of easy access and deep water close up to the shores, with shelter on all sides.

Stretch of Undulating Land.

The city of Prince Rupert is to be built on the northern shore of Kaien Island, well in from the entrance and near the head of the island. The Oldfield Range, which attains an elevation of 2,300 feet, runs down the centre of the island forming a picturesque ridge. Between the heights and the harbor is a stretch of undulating land about 7,000 feet in width and along this strip Prince Rupert will be built.

The neighboring mainland is called the Tsimpsean Peninsula. The district is well-wooded with an abundance of red and yellow cedar, spruce and balsam. Already on the shore of Kaien Island the city is in the making. Engineers and railway officials are established in primitive offices, while navvies, white, Japanese and Indian, are encamped among the trees. The lodging-house for the engineering staff boasts of a "club-room" on the ground floor where newspapers, magazines and "My Lady Nicotine" minister to the comfort of the members.

To Be An Abiding City.

At right angles to the water-front a plank walk twelve feet wide has been laid and along this thoroughfare several buildings are being erected, among them two stores, a hospital, the mess-house and residences for railway officials. On a height fronting the harbor a large hotel is being built. Even now the wharf affords satisfactory accommodation for steamers.

Prince Rupert is to be solidly constructed from the foundation for it is to be an abiding city. Wide streets, a thorough system of drainage and extensive water supply are among the provisions already considered. Above any other British Columbian scene of the present, it is the spot where one may "see things growing." Within four years trains from Atlantic ports will be running into this Pacific terminus where "all change cars" for the Orient. It will form a curious meeting-place for America and Asia where—

"East is West beside our land-locked blue."

HOW TO HANDLE SNAKES.

Famous Dealer Prefers Them to Tigresses and Was Never Bitten.

"There is not so much danger in handling snakes as persons think. I have handled snakes for twenty years and never have been bitten. After you have studied snakes, their habits and manner of living, you will have little fear of them. In fact, I would rather deal with any kind of a snake than a tigress, for instance, or a wildcat."

This little discourse on snakes was made by Otto E. Eggeling, who is well known in Harlem, and who for many years, both in Germany and in this country, has been handling snakes, procuring them from India, South America and other parts of the world for various menageries and zoological gardens.

He was just preparing to ship a box of rattlesnakes which had come from the Far West to Berlin, where they are to be placed on exhibition. Without the least trace of fear Mr. Eggeling put his hand right in the box, and, catching one of the rattlers by the back of the neck, lifted the reptile out and held him up for inspection.

He was a fine specimen, nearly six feet long, and looked like an ugly customer, but in Mr. Eggeling's hands he was like a pet cat.

"It all depends how you handle them," said Mr. Eggeling. "The most poisonous snake when grabbed at the back of the neck is powerless. Never show in the least that you are afraid when you meet a snake. Those reptiles are quick to notice fear and they take advantage of it. Instead, show that you are master and the snake will disappear."

Fishing Line Worth $2,000.

"A fishing line worth $2,000?"

"Yes, sir."

"I don't believe it."

"It's the truth. It's a codfish line. It's one of those lines to which you owe your Sunday morning codfish balls and your less appetizing but equally helpful cod liver oil. These codfish lines, you see, are frequently eight miles long. They have 4,680 hooks. They'll often land 2,500 cod. No wonder they cost $2,000, eh?"

An Ontario Boy In the West.

Mr. John F. Mitchell, the new M. P.P. for North Winnipeg, was born in Northumberland county, Ontario, in 1862. He attended the Public Schools and Commercial College and after a few years in the United States he left for Winnipeg, in 1881. At that time the C. P. R. was building its road and Mr. Mitchell entered their employ, first as a contractor. Later he joined the mechanical department as engineer. In 1888 he bought a half interest in a photograph studio, soon becoming sole proprietor. He established an extensive business connection and is now engaged as wholesale dealer in and manufacturer of photographic supplies. Mr. Mitchell is a member of the A. F. & A. M., the I. O. O. F., the R. T. of T., and the C. O. F., and has been president of the Association of Photographers of Canada In religion he is an adherent of the Methodist church, and in politics a Conservative. Mr. Mitchell was married in 1890 and lives in a handsome residence in North Winnipeg. He has always taken a keen interest in civic affairs, and was for four years a member of the City Council, and chairman of important committees.

INDIGESTION CURED

By Dr. Williams' Pink Pills After Six Doctors Had Failed to be of Benefit

That gnawing pain in the stomach, sometimes shooting up into the chest, often producing a choking sensation in the throat; fierce pains around the heart; a feeling of drowsiness and a distaste for food—that's indigestion. Its victims are numbered by the thousands. To them life is a burden. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done more towards relieving this suffering than any other medicine. Often they have cured after all other help had failed, as in the case of Mr. Willis Herman, of St. Catharines, Ont., who says: "I had been afflicted with indigestion and stomach trouble for years. At times my suffering was almost indescribable. Sometimes for whole days I was unable to touch food. I dieted and at different times was treated by six doctors but they did not help me; I only grew worse. For a time I was living in New York and while there consulted a specialist but he was unable to give me any relief. I then decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in less than a month I felt some relief. I continued their use for a couple of months longer and gained in weight; my appetite improved; the pains left me and I now feel better than I have at any time during the past twenty-five years. I will always gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to other sufferers believing that they will surely do for others what they have done for me."

When you use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and nerve tonic you are not experimenting—they have been tried and proved successful in thousands of cases. It is their power to actually make new, rich, red blood that enables them to cure such troubles as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, kidney trouble, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis and those special ailments of girlhood and womanhood that cause so much misery. For sale by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Fastest In the World.

Great Britain has built a torpedo boat destroyer which is the fastest in the world. This destroyer, The Cossack, was launched at Birkenhead on Feb. 16. It will make 33 knots an hour, the highest speed hitherto attempted.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup needs no recommendation. To all who are familiar with it, it speaks for itself. Years of use in the treatment of colds and coughs and all affections of the throat has unquestionably established its place among the very best medicines for such diseases. If you give it a trial you will not regret it. You will find it 25 cents well invested.

War In the Air.

Col. J. E. Capper, commander of the balloon section at Aldershot, has given a lecture, in which he deals with the use of the aeroplane on the battlefield.

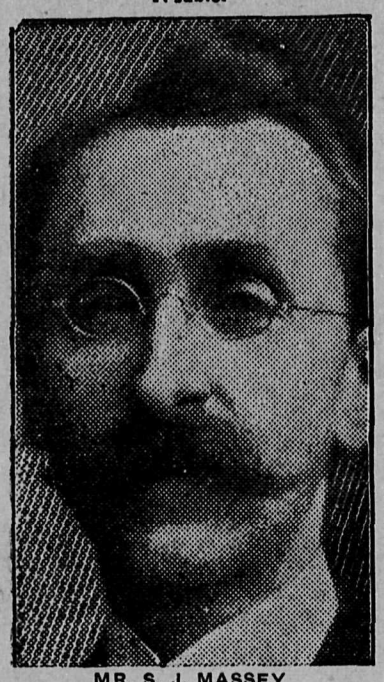
"In the near future me may expect to see both dirigible balloons and motor-driven aeroplanes used as aerial scouts. The former suffers at present from serious limitations, and its great bulk seems to render it most vulnerable in the daytime.

"The aeroplane when it comes will be different. It will move fast and be little liable to injury, as bullet holes in the surface will cause but little damage. It will be able to go considerable distances even against strong winds."

Itch, Mange, Prairie Scratches and every form of contagious itch on human or animals cured in 30 minutes by Wolford's Sanitary Lotion.

STOMACH INDIGESTION

Pe-ru-na Strikes at the Root of the Trouble.



MR. S. J. MASSEY

Mr. S. J. Massey, formerly a resident of Toronto, and a well known business man, writes from 247 Guy street, Montreal, Quebec:

"I wish to testify to the good results I have derived from the use of Peruna.

"Having been troubled for several years with catarrh of the head, I decided to give Peruna a fair trial, and I can truly say I have received great benefit from its use.

"It evidently strikes at the very root of the trouble and good results are soon noticeable.

"I have also found Peruna a very valuable remedy for stomach trouble and indigestion.

"I have no hesitancy whatever in recommending Peruna as a reliable catarrh remedy."

There are several kinds of indigestion.

The trouble may be due to sluggishness of the liver, derangements of the bowels, enlargement of the pancreas, or it may be due to the stomach itself.

In nearly all cases of stomach indigestion catarrh is the cause. The only permanent cure is to remove the catarrh.

Peruna has become well known the world over as a remedy in such cases.

A SKATER'S PARADISE.

Miles of Ice Clad Highways In Northern Holland.

Friesland, the northern province of Holland, is especially described as the true paradise of the skater. Its canals, threading the country in every direction, are in the winter months converted into miles upon miles of ice-clad highways, stretching out in almost every direction as far as the eye can see. The milkman, the butcher, in fact, all of the tradespeople having occasion to travel through the country, use these iceclad canals in going from village to village.

Expert Skaters.

It is only natural that where there are such tempting stretches of ice the natives should be expert skaters, and this is true of the Frisians. The ordinary skater in this country, though he may have his own special footgear for the enjoyment of the sport, always sees to it that the shoes used are good, stout ones. Not so in Friesland. The expert skater there takes off his shoes and skates in his stocking feet, the only addition to his footgear being another pair of socks. The big wooden sabots ordinarily worn by the Frisian are usually carried under one arm when he is enjoying his skating.

So much do the Frisians think of their iceclad highways that the authorities in each city and village, many clubs and individuals, unite in their efforts to keep them in first-class condition and free from snow in the winter months.

Use Sleds to Carry Kits.

One of the best mediums for the transportation of the small kits one taking a skating trip in Friesland needs is the rudely but stoutly constructed Frisian sled, which can be hired at a small outlay. The other expenses can be made equally small. The food served at the little inns along the canals is clean and wholesome and the prices for meals are reasonable.

Then to add to the pleasure of such a trip, at important crossing points there are refreshment tents, where an invigorating drink of hot spiced milk may be had, or, if the travelers prefer, there are many cozy little spots along the line of canals where they may pause and prepare their own luncheons on the ice—in short, it is difficult to conceive of a winter outing affording more healthful pleasure than skating through Friesland.

Petrarch's Narrow Escape.

Petrarch, the famous poet, during middle life lay in a trance at Ferrara for twenty hours and would have been buried in four more—the time specified by law in Italy—but a sudden change in temperature caused him to start up and reprimand his attendants, who had allowed a draught to blow over his bed.

Signals of Danger.—Have you lost your appetite? Have you a coated tongue? Have you an unpleasant taste in the mouth? Does your head ache and have you dizziness? If so, your stomach is out of order and you need medicine. But you do not like medicine. He that prefers sickness to medicine must suffer, but under the circumstances the wise man would procure a box of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills and speedily get himself in health, and strive to keep so.

Bronzing Plaster of Paris.

HOW TO SOW FLAX

Flax seed may be sown from the wheat sowing season on until the middle of June. All things considered, May is the best month in which to sow. A well-worked and fine seed bed should be made by using disk and harrow and sometimes roller also. Not making a seed bed is one of the commonest mistakes of flax growers. The seed is best sown usually with a press drill and to the depth of 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 inches ordinarily, according to the nature of the land. About three pecks of seed per acre are enough, a larger quantity being sown on worn land than on land in good condition.

A Nice Legal Distinction.

A lawyer in the Indian Territory named McGann was the attorney for a farmer who had killed a neighbor. McGann got the man out on bail on the plea of justifiable homicide or something of the kind, and the farmer immediately took his gun and killed the chief witness against him.

Naturally this nettled the sheriff and the judges, and they offered $300 reward for the murderous farmer. "Say," said McGann to the sheriff, "will you give me that reward if I get him?" "Yes," the sheriff replied, and McGann rode out to the hiding place of his client.

The farmer came up, and McGann shot him, took the body back to town and demanded the reward. "How about this, McGann?" asked another lawyer. "Do you think it is in accordance with the ethics of the legal profession to take advantage of your client in that manner?" "Ethics be blowed!" snorted McGann. "I killed him in another case."—Exchange.

Hon. Charles Hyman has resigned his portfolio as Minister of Public Works, and will retire into private life immediately. He has written to Sir Wilfrid Laurier insisting that his resignation be accepted, and he be allowed to seek retirement.

It is reported here that M. Kogoro Tikahira, ex-Japanese minister to the United States, who, it is announced, is to be appointed Japanese ambassador to Italy, is charged to negotiate an agreement between Japan and Italy, connecting this country with the chain of treaties Japan is making with European powers regarding the far east.

June 11th.

To perpetuate the memory of the great navigator who in the latter part of the eighteenth century carried on immensely important surveys on this coast—the man in whose honor this city was named—a bronze statute of Capt. George Vancouver, of heroic size, is to be unveiled by the citizens of Vancouver on April 6, 1911. This date will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the birth of the city of Vancouver, and it is believed that no more fitting act of commemoration could occur than the erection of this monument.

Important negotiations have recently taken place in London between Prince Fushimi and Admiral Yamamoto, representing Japan, and Sir Edward Grey of the British Foreign Office. The purpose of the negotiations is to arrange an extension of the scope of the Anglo-Japanese agreement, so as to provide that Japan shall be bound to assist Great Britain in the event of British control of India being attacked by any other power.

Prince Fushimi, before leaving Ottawa, left £300 with the Government to give to the charities of the different towns he will visit in Canada. The money will be equally divided and handed over to the mayors of the different cities that are entitled to receive it.

May 13th.

A collision occured early Wednesday evening on the Lulu Island branch of the British Columbia Electric Railway system, between a freight car and a passenger car. The passenger car Eburne left the Granville Street Station at 5:15 o'clock with orders to pass an incoming freight at the Ninth avenue crossing, instead of obeying the order the car was kept going and just outside the City Limits a freight motor car with two heavily loaded cars was met. A sharp curve and each car at the top of an incline made it impossible to avoid a collision though brakes were applied and the crews made every effort to avoid a collision. The cars crashed together at the bottom of the hill the freight smashing in the vestibule of the passenger car. Both crews escaped serious injury, but the passengers were seriously hurt and one killed.

William McColl, bookkeeper at the Imperial Cannery, Steveston, died at the General Hospital from injuries to the head.
J. Grauer, Eburne, leg broken
J. Lafond, bruised limbs.
Several Japanese minor injuries.

May 14th.

A deal involving more than $1 000.000 and the construction of an electric railway system from Tacoma to Vancouver, B. C., passing en route through Bellingham, was closed this week, when Stone & Webster of Boston, purchased the holdings and franchises of the Everett Electric Company. This transfer carries with it about 24 miles of road, power houses and suburban franchises, and assures the long talked of Tacoma-Vancouver line.

KISSACK—MELVILLE.

Mr. Robert Henry Kissack and Miss Mary Sim Melville were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, the 8th, by the Rev. Dr. Fraser, at the residence of the bride's father, 132 Lorne Street West. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Melville, and Mr. Alexander Campie Melville supported the groom. Quite a number of friends witnessed the ceremony, which was a very pretty one.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, obstinate, hang-on, chronic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach), it is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

SOUTH VANCOUVER.

The Municipal Council of South Vancouver will meet this Saturday afternoon.

At a joint meeting of the Municipal Councils of Richmond, South Vancouver and Burnaby, held in pursuance of notice, at the Municipal Hall, Burnaby, on Saturday, June 8th, 1907, at 2 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of considering the question of the provision of a water system for the three municipal districts, there were present: Richmond Council, His Worship the Reeve, Councillors Atkinson, Dixon, Trites, Tilton, Williamson and C. M. C. S. Shepherd; South Vancouver, His Worship Reeve Rae, Councillor Almas, C. M. C. W. G. Walker; Burnaby, His Worship Reeve Byrne, Councillors Stride, Love, Anderson, Rumble and C. M. C. B. G. Walker.

The three municipalities have received records of water to be taken from Seymour Creek in the following proportions: South Vancouver, 300 miners inches; Richmond, 250 miners inches; Burnaby, 250 miners inches; and, further, that the three municipalities were owners, as tenants in common, of two quarter sections of land situated on the banks of Seymour Creek, being District Lots 955 and 957, Group One, New Westminster District.

Reeve Rae submitted information obtained by him relative to the approximate cost of a water system. The question having been fully discussed, it was resolved unanimously, on the motion of Reeve Rae, seconded by Councillor Williamson, that the members of the three councils take immediate steps towards obtaining all necessary information relative to a water system, and that the joint Councils meet in June 29th for the purpose of placing before the ratepayers of each municipality a by-law to raise a loan for the sum of $100,000 each for waterworks purposes.

Another meeting will be held on June 29th, at 2 p. m., in Burnaby Town Hall.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

SEALED TENDERS, superscribed "Tender for Normal School, Vancouver," will be received by the Hon. the Chief Commissioner up to noon of Monday, the 24th June, 1907, for the erection and completion of a school building in Fairview, Vancouver, B. C., to be used temporarily as a Normal School.

Plans, specifications, contract and forms of tender may be seen on and after the 13th June, 1907, at the offices of the Government Agent, New Westminster; of the Provincial Timber Inspector, Vancouver; and at the Lands and Works Department, Victoria, B. C.

Each proposal must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque or certificate of deposit on a chartered bank of Canada, made payable to the Hon. the Chief Commissioner, in the sum of $1.000, which shall be forfeited if the party tendering decline to enter into the contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for.

The cheques or certificates of deposit of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned to them upon the execution of the contract.

Tenders will not be considered unless made out on the forms supplied, signed with the actual signature of the tenderer, and endorsed in the envelope furnished.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

MEMORIES.

The children we loved in the past are grown
To men and women and gone away;
And we sit in the dark and we sit alone
And we dwell on the pleasures of yesterday;
Of the winding path through the orchard lot,
Of the old wood lot and the grapevine swing,
Of the dusty roads where the sun
shone hot,
Of the elms where the orioles used to sing.

Of our childhood days and the friends we know,
The girl in ribbons and furbelow;
Of the woods the creeks went twisting through,
Of the little lass with the ribboned hair,
With the sweetly curving lips
and red;
And we sit out here in our big arm chair,
But our hearts are back in the days long dead.

And our minds drift from the girls and boys
We chummed with back in the long ago;
Drift far, far, far to life's grown-up time,
And the little children who used to climb
In our arms to sleep, and who're gone away.

The Function of an Advertisement is first to draw attention and to leave a favorable and as far as possible a lasting impression.

The first and principal object of a very great deal of advertising is not directly that of selling goods, but of establishing a worthy fame—a recognized reputation—to make the goods and the house known. Customers must come with some idea of the goods they seek, the more knowledge the better. With confidence inspired by effective advertising, it is then up to the salesman to do the rest—to make good by courtesy and a skillful presentation of the wares which should be up to all that has been advertised.

THE ADVOCATE is the best advertising medium for reaching Mt. Pleasant People—to gain their favorable attention to your goods and store. Advertising rates reasonable—not in the Publishers' Association high rate combine.

COUGH SO BAD ALMOST STRANGLED

Cold on Chest Would Yield to no Treatment Until We Used

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine

"I could not have believed that any medicine could do me so much good," writes this lady, whose cold was so bad her friends feared for her life.

Mrs. S. M. Moore, Shortreed, B.C., writes: "I wish to state my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which cured me of a cold which a friend said would soon put me in my grave. I had not slept for three nights and would cough until I almost strangled to death. The very first night it eased the cough, and instead of coughing and irritating my throat and lungs I had a good night's rest. If I had not had the experience myself I could not have believed that any medicine could do so much good as this has done me."

Parents who make a practice of keeping Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house have at hand the most certain means of curing coughs, colds, croup and bronchitis, and positively preventing more serious disease. It is sometimes forgotten that few ailments possess more possibilities of danger than a common cold.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine was especially prepared for the children by one of the most skilled and conscientious doctors that has ever practised medicine.

Experience taught Dr. Chase that some of the simple products of the vegetable kingdom possessed most extraordinary curative properties, and he succeeded in so combining these in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as to make a medicine that is at once pleasant to the taste and wonderfully effective.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

"My friend," said a literary bohemian to his friend, an artist, "since we are misunderstood by the world we must form a society for mutual admiration among ourselves. I, therefore, proclaim the superiority of your art, and declare you to be the equal of Michael Angelo. And what do you admire in me?"

"Your good taste," said the other.—Bon Vivant.

SUFFERING BABIES

Mothers can find sure relief for their suffering little ones in Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets are a gentle laxative that do not gripe the little one, and cure all the minor ills of babies and young children. They are pleasant to take, prompt in their action, and, unlike "soothing" stuffs, they never do harm, and the mother has the guarantee of a Government analyst that they contain no drugs harmful to even the youngest baby. Thousands of mothers give their little ones nothing else but Baby Own Tablets when constipation, stomach trouble, indigestion, colds or worms bother the baby, or when the dreaded teething time comes. Mrs. Jos. Mercier, Pleissville, Que., says: "My baby was a great sufferer from constipation, but thanks to Baby's Own Tablets the trouble has disappeared." The Tablets are sold by all druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Do Not Delay.—When, through debilitated digestive organs, poison finds its way into the blood, the prime consideration is to get the poison out as rapidly as possible. Delay may mean disaster. Imitation diamonds are called "paste" because most of them are made of a paste which is composed of red lead, rock crystal, carbonate of potash, borax and white arsenic. This substance is technically known as "straas."

Not a drop of Alcohol

Doctors prescribe very little, if any, alcohol these days. They prefer strong tonics and alteratives. This is all in keeping with modern medical science. It explains why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is now made entirely free from alcohol. Ask your doctor. Follow his advice.

A "Touching" Story.

The young lady who had sat for crayon portrait was not altogether pleased with the result. "It looks like me, of course," she said, inspecting it doubtfully, "and yet I think there are some things about it that ought to be changed."

She suggested that the eyes should have rather more of an upward look, that the right hand should be a little less prominent, that the hair should be made more wavy and that certain changes ought to be made in the drapery.

"That would require a great deal of retouching," said the artist, "and I should have to charge you about $10 additional."

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed with a pout. "I shall have to give it up. Papa won't stand my 'retouching' him to that extent."

A Medicine Chest in Itself.—Only the well-to-do can afford to possess a medicine chest, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is a medicine chest in itself, being a remedy for rheumatism, lumbago, sore throat, colds, coughs, catarrh, asthma and a potent healer for wounds, cuts, bruises, sprains, etc., is within the reach of the poorest, owing to its cheapness. It should be in every house.

Preparing For It.

The S. G. T. C. Goes Coasting

"FELLOWS, I've a jim dandy piece of news for this society," said Rod Crowningshield at the first meeting of the S. G. T. C. for 1906. "I'll give you three guesses as a club. If any one catches on I'll set him up to peanuts, but if all fail, the society will waive my dues for this year and blow me to a dozen fried oysters at Scotty's."

"Yes, we will!"

"Watch us!"

"Nice set of suckers you must think us,'"

"Your odds are too easy, Roddy, my son; give us something worth while!" were the derisive yells that greeted this astounding proposition.

The S. G. T. C. had transferred its regular Friday sessions of arrangement from the coach in the Crowningshield barn to the large, old-fashioned attic of the Wainwright home.

Barton Wainwright, long since recovered from the sprain which followed his brave rescue of Rod's life at Mr. Stanton's chstnutting party in October, was now one of the most popular members of the society that had once refused him admittance. His hated title of Sissy was never heard after that exciting afternoon.

Down the Hill on a Sled

"Chuck it all, Rod, we're not going to guess on those terms of yours, so you might as well spit out your news, or you'll burst with holding it," laughed Hen Newton, who knew Rod's inability to keep a secret, especially if it meant an outing for his beloved "Saturday Good Time Club."

"Well, gentlemen, since you insist—Bill Hempstead has a new bobsled—a beaut!"

A chorus of jeers followed this announcement.

"Get on to the band wagon, Rod. Your news was announced to this honorable body precisely fifteen minutes ago. You would be a gay deceiver and escort a lady home from school, when you should have been presiding over this important conference, would you?" said Tag Smith, giving Rod a friendly punch that sent him rolling headlong on the old cot.

Looking very much crestfallen, Rod said: "Well, what are you going to do about it? Accept?"

"Accept what?" asked the boys.

"Oh, come off! You can't draw me that way. How many can go, and who'll make a move that we put off our skating contest till next Saturday?"

"Honest Injun, Rod, we don't know what you're driving at," said Barton.

Much delighted tnat all his news had not fallen flat, Rodney announced:

"The bob is to be initiated to-morrow, and Mrs. Hempstead has asked us all to a chicken and waffle supper at Oakdale. We are to go out in Carter's omnibus sleigh, and coast all the afternoon and evening. It is full moon and Bill says the hill is out of sight—smooth as glass, and there's gorgeous bumpers."

"Susy goin'?" slyly asked Jack Peters.

"Yes, she is; and so is Marian, so I suppose you'll refuse," replied Rod, with a grin at Jack, whose devotion to pretty Marian Tempest was a standing joke.

Just then there was a knock at the door, and the maid brought in a huge plate of doughnuts and a box of fudge.

"Before we fall to," said Rod, "I appoint Bart a committee of one to write Mrs. Hempstead that the S. G. T. C. accepts with pleasure."

The next day was clear and bitter cold; but young blood does not freeze easily, and sweaters and caps kept every one toasty warm.

The new bob, easily holding a dozen, was "a beaut," as Rod declared—a brilliant scarlet, with strong brakes and steering gear. The mile-long course was straightaway and perfect, and the three bumpers supplied all the excitement necessary for the wild shrieks without which coasting would be tame indeed.

Bill steered splendidly, and there were no accidents to mar the pleasure, though several loads came to grief at the second bumper, and Hen Newton, coasting on a small sled, ran himself head first into a snow-bank and had to be pulled out by the heels.

Any one but old Dinah would have been appalled by the appetites brought to supper, but, as she said to relieve Mrs. Hempstead's fears of too few waffles:

"Doan you fret youse'f, honey; this chile ain't cooked fer a boy's acad'mie twenty years fer nuffin. If dem waffles done give out it's de fust time Dinah ever got fooled on a boy and waffle com-be-na-shun!"

Even a contest for the champion waffle eater, in which Rod, the winner, acknowledged himself stalled at twenty-four, did not exhaust that batter.

The evening coasting was jollier than ever; and the boys and girls would actually have traveled that hill all night had not Mrs. Hempstead reminded them Sunday was not far off.

Barton voiced the sentiment of the whole party when he told his hostess in parting:

"We'll have to change our name for to-night from the S. G. T. C. to the S. B. T. Y. C.—the Saturday Best Time Yet Club."

The TUG of WAR

"Bow, wow-wow!"
Look out for a row,
Dumps found a bone
That Gyp claims as his own.

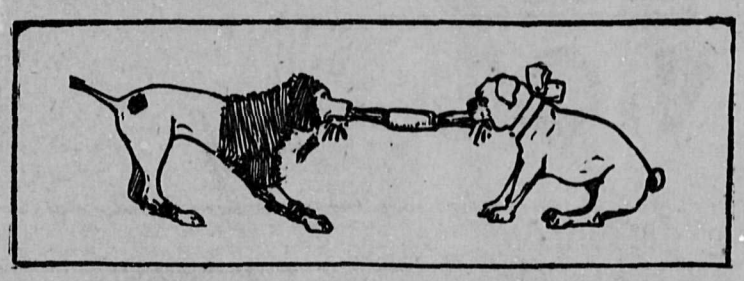
Tug, tug, tug,
Go poodle and pug;
A bone so gay
Had ne'er come their way.

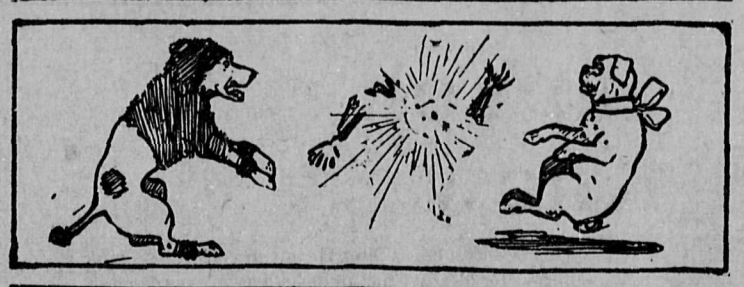
Whine, whine, whine,
"It is mine! It is mine!"

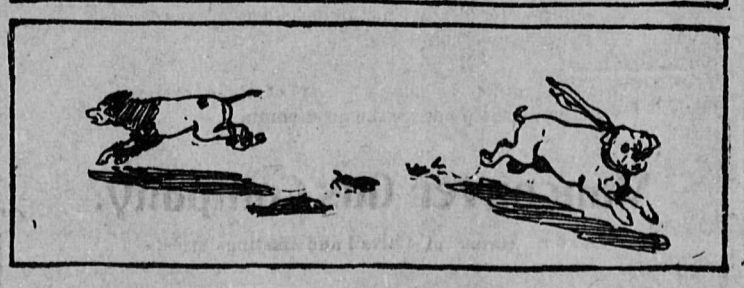
Each cries as he tries
To run off with the prize.

Siss, siss, sizz!
There's a flash and a fizz!
That bone just blew up,
Scaring each little pup.

"Yelp, yelp, yelp!"
As they scamper for help,
Each snarls with a groan,
"You may keep your old bone!"







GIVING CARD PARTIES

Hints for Hostess Who Gathers Her Friends Together

By Eleanor B. Clapp.

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

CARD parties are one of the most popular forms of entertainment all over this country. We grow tired of all other games after a while, but cards seem to be of perennial interest.

Notes of invitation can be written, or the summons may take the shape of a visiting card, with the date and the word "Cards" written in the lower corner. The former style of invitation is used for the smaller affairs, the latter for the more elaborate. The notes should be something like this, varied ,of course, to suit the occasion:

172 Arch street.

My dear Mrs. Brown:

Will you and Mr. Brown join us on Thursday evening next in a game of progressive euchre? We want to have eight tables, and do hope you will not disappoint us.

Cordially yours,
MARGARET SMITH.

March the eighteenth.

Card parties begin about 8 or half past. Before the guests arrive, arrange the card tables in the drawing room and put a pack of cards on each. It is usual to write upon every score card the number of the table and the seat at the table of each player, as "Table 2, No. 4." Divide these into separate piles, being careful to have but two cards from each table in a pile, and place them on separate trays. When the guests come down from the dressing rooms, request the ladies to select their scores from one tray and the gentlemen from another; thus every one can find his partner and his table with very little confusion.

Supper can be either served after the games are finished and the prizes awarded, or, and this is rather the better way, it can be served in an intermission, in which case the guests remain seated where they chance to be at the time, while the servants bring in small white tablecloths and cover each table and rapidly arrange the few pieces of silver required for the simple supper, which can consist of oysters, boned turkey or salad, ice cream and cake, with black coffee, lemonade or claret cup.

If, after the supper has been enjoyed, conversation, music or some other diversion is to be the order of the day, or, rather, the evening, then the refreshments should be served in the dining room, either at small tables or from the buffet.

The newest fad at card parties is for all who have not taken prizes to draw for the "booby" instead of giving it to the worst player in the room.

THE MAID'S PART IN SERVING THE HOME DINNER

By Mary E. Carter

Copyright, 1905, by A. S. Barnes & Co.

THERE are two ways of serving roasts—one where carving is done on the dinner table, the other where it is done at the side table by the waitress.

If carving is done on the dinner table, the maid should stand at the carver's left and take away each plate as he lays a piece of meat upon it. In the proper order of helping she sets the first down before the host's right-hand guest, and then continues on around the table from that point.

While the diners are discussing the roast and vegetables the maid stands quietly, but watchfully, near the hostess, observing quickly when any one seems ready for a second helping, and promptly removes plates of those who lay down the knife and fork.

Salad being the last course in our little menu before dessert, when all the plates have been removed she clears the table of everything belonging to that part of the dinner already served, but leaves all decorations, bonbons and other little dainties.

Of course, all glasses remain until the dinner is over. At this time the large napkin at the carver's place and the one under the soup tureen are taken away so carefully as not to drop a single crumb. This is done by first putting each of the four corners toward the centre of the napkin and then deftly gathering it up, while keeping the corners in the napkin's centre, and allowing no part to fall open.

When the table is free from all signs of the dinner and in perfect order it is ready for the dessert, whatever it may be. In bringing the plates, already arranged for this part of the dinner on the side table, she should be careful to set each one down with the knife side of the plate at the right of each person; by so doing everything else will be in its proper place; the fork at the left, the spoon across the front of the plate.

Each person—when the plates are before all—quietly sets the finger bowl on the table in front of the plate and the doily, at the same time between the bowl and the tablecloth, taking up as little room as possible with individual convenience and never intruding upon the neighbor's space at right or left.

The dessert is then passed in the same way as all that has already been served. When there is pudding or a pie they should be cut, before passing, and a spoon or a pie knife should be under a piece ready each time it is handed.

Fruit is last before the black coffee, which is served in very small cups about two-thirds full. Sugar and cream are passed for people to help themselves. After-dinner coffee is usually served without cream, as most people like it sweetened only, but, as it is always possible for some one to prefer a little cream too, a considerate hostess will see that it is offered.

The manner of holding anything for people to help themselves is one mark of a good waitress. Without awkwardness she should hold everything low enough for people to help themselves without reaching, near enough to avoid spilling and perfectly steady while waiting for them to take whatever they desire.

CLEANING RHINESTONES

RHINESTONES, so say the dealers, may be cleaned with ordinary chalk.

Powder the chalk, or simply take a stick of it and rub over the stones and into the setting. Let the chalk remain for a time, then brush off every particle with a moderately stiff brush and polish with a chamois skin.

It is said that the woman who cleans her rhinestones this way can make her friends believe that she has lately increased her stock of diamonds.

THE HOUSEMOTHERS' EXCHANGE

FROM a pile of letters received in answer to the complaint of the unsuccessful butter maker, I draw one for today's use. It is pertinent and practical:

To the woman who complains that her butter tastes "flat," I would say I suspect that she washes the butter too much, or possibly she does not put in enough salt. I get extra prices for my butter, and I think I may give a few pointers on the subject.

You answer truly that age gives cream and butter a bad flavor. Then the cow's food is an important matter. A weedy pasture affects the taste of the milk. Pure drinking water is another desideratum. The milk must be kept in a cool, odorless place. When it "loppers"—or, as I was taught to call it in my childhood, "clabbers"—skim off the cream before it sours. If sweet, unloppered cream be added, put them well together and let them stand until the sweet cream has thickened. If you have enough cream for a daily churning, the butter will be of a finer quality than if the cream be kept for some days. Let everything be scrupulously clean. Then be sure that the cream does not get too warm. If you have no cellar, set the jar of cream in fresh water, changing this often enough to reduce the temperature to as low a point as may be without peril to the butter-making properties. Cream for churning should never be warmer than 60 degrees.

While churning never pour in either hot or cold water. Warm or chill the cream from the outside of the churn. When the butter begins to "come" continue to churn gently until the flakes gather into a mass. If all is right, it will leave the handle almost clean and collect to itself all floating particles.

I use a wooden paddle and a wooden bowl to handle and hold the butter. I scald, then rub them with salt, and fill the bowl with cold water while I am churning. In taking up the butter, press it against the side of the churn to squeeze out the milk. Empty the chilled bowl of water and put the butter into it, draining off all the milk. Then work the butter into a thin sheet against the sides of the bowl so as to get rid of every drop of buttermilk. Sprinkle the thin, firm sheet—compact and close-grained—with fine salt, allowing an ounce to each pound of butter. Work the butter with the paddle down into the bottom of the bowl, doubling and folding it upon itself. If this part of the work be properly done, you can get out every drop of buttermilk without overworking it. Too much kneading spoils the flavor and makes the butter waxy. If rightly handled and carefully salted, the butter will be of uniform color. Streaked butter means uneven kneading and unskilful salting.

Form the butter into compact rolls, or pack in jars, as you like. Exclude the air and you will have firm, sweet butter, if these directions have been observed.

AN OLD HOUSEKEEPER (Bloomington, Ill.).

Hints on Sweeping

Do housekeepers who have much sweeping to do know that by using a soft cloth and plenty of clean water (with or without ammonia in it), their work would be materially lessened?

Wring out the cloth in the water and wipe the carpet, a breadth at a time, rinsing the cloth often to get out the dirt, instead of spreading it on the carpet.

Then, with brush and dustpan, or broom, brush up what litter may be left.

The carpet will be cleaner, the work will be lighter and the whole process is far more sanitary than the old way, for there will be no dust to fly into the nose and throat.

Try it and see how much more quickly you can get the work done and how much better the carpet will look.

In explanation of this letter, let me say that I have received so much pleasure, as well as profit, from your interesting Corner that I am moved to offer a small contribution to it. M. A. H. (Warren, (R. I.)

Make the small contribution larger next time.

Your method of carpet cleaning is admirable for the young or the slim. For the elderly and the stout, it would, I fear, be more laborious than the old way. When one takes on flesh with years, the blood has an uncomfortable habit of mounting to the head when one stoops or bends over. May I offer, as an amendment to your motion, that in such circumstances the cloth may be fastened to a broom handle and used from a standing position? My hardwood floors are swept with a broom, enveloped in a stout red flannel bag. Could not some such device be resorted to by our elderly or our overplump housemother?

Perhaps some of our readers knew in her youth Miss Sedgewick's excellent domestic story, "Live and Let Live." One of "Lucy's" employers insisted upon having her carpets swept with a hand-brush—what we now call "a whisk broom." Lucy spent an hour daily upon her knees at this work.

"It raises no dust," said the mistress, "and gets all the corners clean. It doesn't wear out the carpet as a broom does. And nothing is the worse for it."

"Except my clothes, ma'am," ventured Lucy, showing a hole in the front of her well-saved frock.

Scrubbing has its disadvantages. A sensible correspondent suggests that a low, padded stool be used to save the clothes and the knees of scrubwomen. It is moved at need, as the worker desires. Will some one carry the idea into execution and tell us how it works?

A Few Favors Returned

Here are a few helps, in partial return for benefits received from the Exchange:

1. A small piece of sal soda put into the water in which glasses are washed makes them shine beautifully.

2. A skewer is fine for cleaning dirt out of corners into which the broom cannot go.

3. Oxalic acid dissolved in hot water and applied to the stained wood of kitchen tables, or to sinks and boilers, will clean the metals and whiten the wood.

4. Save stocking legs to slip on over your arms while at work. They save the sleeves of your gowns.

5. For grass stains on cotton or woolen goods wash in alcohol.

6. Wet tea and coffee stains with cold water and glycerine and let them stand for two or three hours. Then wash with hard soap and cold water—and

To Prepare Hulled Corn

Some one asked how to prepare hulled corn:

Simply boil shelled corn in strong lye water until the hulls can be rubbed off easily, then wash through many waters, rubbing between the hands to remove the hulls. Leave the corn in water over night to remove the taste of the lye. In the morning put it on to cook in an abundance of cold water and boil steadily all day, adding water as needed (use a granite kettle), and stirring occasionally to prevent burning.

When the corn is thoroughly done, prepare as you would hominy, using a little cream and butter, salt, etc. It is an old-fashioned dish, and the thought of it takes me back to my childhood home among the Alleghany Mountains, where ham and hominy, buckwheat cakes and maple syrup formed part of the bill-of-fare in every farmhouse. Other memories are aroused—the "apple parings," where all the neighbors pared and quartered apples until midnight, when they wound up with a supper of wonderful dimensions, and then danced until morning.

It was a simple, homely life in many respects, but the people seemed to get more out of it and lived longer than we do in these strenuous times, when we seem to fall over each other in order to reach that intangible something that we are wearing our lives away for. E. W. G. (Chicago).

Your letter is charming throughout, and I strike hands with you in the tender memories of "a day that is dead." We love to live over the early life, enjoyed as one always enjoys what is new and fresh. There is a subtle, dewy fragrance about the reminiscences of childhood like the breath of wild flowers.

But—I do not agree with you that the former days were better than these. The world is better and wiser than it was fifty years ago. And—here we differ again!—people live and work longer than they lived and labored then. The average of human life has gained five years in the last half century. We work strenuously, but we comprehend and obey the laws of health as our forefathers and mothers never dreamed of doing. The saying that "there are no old people nowadays" has a stout substratum of truth.

"The happiest time is NOW!" Lay this beautiful truth to heart, and the world will wear a different face.

No words from the poet's heart and pen rise oftener to my lips than Whittier's brave "Life Psalm":

And so the shadows fall apart
And so the west winds play;
And all the chambers of my heart
I open to the day.

Removing Stains

WHEN a stain proves unusually obstinate and absolutely refuses to come out by ordinary methods, wet the spot thoroughly and then cover with dry chloride of lime. Let it remain a few moments, rubbing well with the finger meanwhile, and then rinse until all the lime is out. It will generally be found that the stain is gone also. If not, apply again. A second application will remove anything that is removable.

Owing to the nature of the remedy, however, it is far better to make a second application than to leave the first one on until the stain is all gone. The chemical action of the lime removes a portion of the internal fibre of the material and thus eats up the stained part. The proportion of fibre thus removed is so small as to do no injury, but, if left on too long, the lime will insinuate itself, taking a strong hold, and finally bite through the fabric, or weaken it so it will soon wear in holes. Chloride of lime is the base of javelle water, which is so often recommended for the removal of stains, but using the powder itself is more satisfactory in many ways; and, as it can be bought in small cans with a sprinkling top, it is quite as convenient as when in solution.

A DAINTY SWEATER

THE woman who knits sooner or later makes herself, or some friend, a sweater. It is a tedious task, undoubtedly, but the results are most gratifying. A hand-made sweater, besides being much better looking, will stay in shape and generally outwear two or three machine-made affairs.

Strange to say, though, the crocheted sweater is much more quickly finished than a knitted one; the latter is much more popular even for the comparative novice in knitting.

After all, the thing to do is to select a rather plain, uncomplicated style, then get explicit printed directions and follow them exactly.

True, you will be somewhat of a bore to your friends, as your sole conversation for weeks to come will be a monotonous murmur of "knit one, pur' two" and so on. By the way, why will women carry their knitting with them into company, where they are expected to be agreeable? It is an accomplished person who can both knit well and talk well at the same time, despite all one hears to the contrary.

Styles in sweaters vary from season to season as much as any other woman's garment, so the knitter has more or less latitude in her choice. A pretty new style that would be comparatively easy, even for a beginner, is a sweater in plain knitting. The main part of the sweater is in a soft, light wool, with a yoke, belt, cuffs and collar of light blue. The yoke is square, or rather a Dutch neck shape, and the stitch runs horizontally, while that in the body of the sweater is vertical. An open beading between the yoke and collar and at the waist line has an inch-wide blue ribbon run through it, which fastens in pretty bows in front.

Henderson's Directory management places the population of Vancouver at 69,856. Of these 63,000 are put down as whites. As the school population is 6,500, this is likely a conservative estimate. This shows a gain of over 12,500 in a year.

Mr. John Williams of the Vancouver Breweries, Ltd., is recovering as rapidly as could be expected from the injuries he received on Saturday last while out driving in the Park. Mr. and Mrs. Williams, had turned to the left from Coal Harbor on to the road which skirts the water in the direction of English Bay, when the spirited animal took fright at a dog which emerged from the underbrush. Mr. Williams held to the reins for dear life and might have brought the horse up had it not suddenly swerved. It was so unexpected that both the occupants were thrown to the hard ground. A passer-by telephoned for the ambulance. Mr. Williams was taken to St. Paul's Hospital, where his injuries were attended to. Mrs. Williams, while not seriously injured, was severely shaken up.

———:o:———

The new pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church, Rev. J. P. Westman, has won popular favor from the start and promises to be one of—if not "the"—leading preachers of the city. Mr. Westman possesses a genial and magnetic personality, and his manner in the pulpit is natural and his preaching rings sincere and earnest.

A reception was tendered the Rev. J. P. Westman on Tuesday evening in the Sunday School room, the place being filled to the limit by the congregation and visitors from other churches. Mr. Thos. Cunningham occupied the chair and the programme comprised addresses of welcome by Rev. H. W. Piercy of Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church, Rev. James Lundy, supplying Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian Church; Rev. Dr. Robson, Rev. Chas. Ladner, Rev. Jas. Hicks, Rev. J. J. Nixon, Rev. A. M. Sanford. The addresses were all very interesting and filled with the spirit of good-fellowship. After the various ministers spoke Mr. H. H. Stevens read an address of welcome on behalf of the congregation. Rev. Mr. Westman made a short address appreciative of the hearty welcome he had received, and said he would promise to do his best as pastor; he could promise nothing more than the best efforts of which he was capable; he expected to get down to actual work next week and was using this week in getting ready for his pastoral duties. A vocal solo by Mrs. Hicks of the Presbyterian congregation, an instrumental duet (violin and organ), by the Misses Wells of the St. Michael's congregation, and a recitation by Mr. A. G. Taylor, were highly appreciated by the audience and heartily applauded. The Ladies' Aid served choicest refreshments at the close of the programme. The auditorium of the new church was lighted and many took the opportunity of seeing the handsome interior, fine pews and beautiful lights.
