UNITED STATES NEWS

Sir Julian Pauncefort is Presented to President Harrison

AND DELIVERS AN ADDRESS.

Attempt to Burn a Railway Bridge Over the Yellowstone River in Montana—Railway Strike.

PAUNCEFORTE PRESENTED.

Washington, D.C., May 3.—Secretary Blaine is much improved to-day, and went to the state department at 11 o'clock.

Sir Julian Pauncefort, the new British minister, accompanied by several members of the legation, called and was formally received by the secretary. Later they went to the White House, where Secretary Blaine formally presented him to the president. Pauncefort's address was as follows: "Mr. President, Sir: I have the honor to place in your hands the letter from the Queen, my august Sovereign, accrediting me as her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States. In fulfilling this pleasing duty I desire to express my sense of the distinguished character and special importance of the mission Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to confide to me, and I assure you that no effort will be wanting on my past to worthily discharge the great trust. My utmost endeavors will be devoted to the object which Her Majesty and her people have so much at heart, the maintenance of the relations of peace and friendship which happily exist between Great Britain and the United States, and strengthen, if possible, the many ties which unite those two great English-speaking countries destined to exercise the most beneficial influence for the advancement of civilization and the promotion of happiness throughout the world. I believe the citizens of the United States reciprocate the feelings of amity and good-will, I have expressed, and are animated by most kindly sentiments towards Her Majesty's people. I am also convinced that in my relations with the Government of the country over which you preside, I shall meet with that spirit of justice and conciliation for which its statesmen are so eminently distinguished and such qualities it will ever be my earnest wish to imitate. The circumstance that I enter upon my diplomatic functions at the time of the Washington Centennial when a national tribute is being offered by this country to the greatest of her sons will ever be associated in my memory with the distinguished honor I have had this day, of being presented to the Chief Magistrate of the United States.

TRIED TO BURN A BRIDGE.

Helena, Mt., May 3.—A man named Tully, who was removed from his office as watchman on the Northern Pacific Bridge crossing the Yellowstone River, for indulging in drink too extensively, set fire to the bridge to-day to get revenge on the company. The fire was put out before much damage was done. Tully has been arrested.

THE PENALTY IS DEATH.

Birmingham, Ala., May 3.—The jury in Howe's case to-day returned a verdict of guilty and fixed the penalty as death.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Freeport, Ill., May 3,—The business portion of the village of Forreston was almost completely destroyed by fire to-day. Loss $35,000.

APRIL FAILURES.

New York, May 3.—R. G. Dun & Co's. review of business failures in the United States 185, Canada 29, total 214. Compared with a total of 213 last week and 246 the week previous, and corresponding week of last year 234.

WHOLESALE MURDER.

Edgerly, Pa., May 3.—A merchant named Melwick, living at Blair, shot and killed his wife and two children yesterday afternoon, and after setting fire to his house killed himself.

STRIKE OFF.

St. Paul, May 3.—The car strike has been declared off, and the men will go back at reduced wages.

PERSONAL.

J. McAuley, of the Victoria Lumber Manufacturing Company, went south by the train yesterday morning.

Mrs. Leach returned to Victoria yesterday.

F. C. Gamble, C. E., arrived yesterday by the noon train.

W. J. Jones, for the last year manager of Russel, McDonald & Co.'s store, left yesterday morning for Victoria en route to his old home in Hillsborough, N. B. Mr. Jones during his residence in this city made many warm friends who will always be pleased to hear of his prosperity.

Mr. E. B. Irving who was injured a short time ago in alighting from his wagon is, we are glad to note, fast recovering from the injuries received, and will soon be out again.

Colonel H. A. Bigelow, of Seattle, will arrive to-day from Victoria.

Dr. Hasell, of Comox, arrived yesterday on the steamer Isabel.

J. Freeman, representing J. A. T. Caton & Co., and P. F. Richardson and E. G. Anderson, of Richardson, Church & Co., Victoria, left on the Dunsmuir this morning for New Westminster.

Sergeant O'Connell, late of the Connaught Rangers, arrived yesterday from Comox.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Mayor Bate, J. P.)

A young man of this city, charged with riving over the Long Bridge at a pace faster than a walk, managed to convince the Mayor that the horse took charge and was himself discharged.

Two youngsters were on the penitent stool for riding Enoch Sage's mules with out leave or license. They were shown the act and wept copiously and promised to go to school in future.

George McDonald, on remand, charged with being an accomplice of the hotel thief, was further remanded till Tuesday the 7th inst.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

HORRIBLY MANGLED.

San Francisco, May 3.—A. Funke, a young sugar refinery employee, was caught in a portion of the machinery this afternoon and horribly mangled. He is suffering intense agony and will probably die.

The United States grand jury this afternoon returned an indictment against Jno. Quaile, who was arrested on the 27th April while attempting to smuggle 6 5-tael boxes of opium from the steamer Rio de Janeiro.

REDUCING RATES.

San Francisco, May 3.—Belief exists among the transcontinental freight agents here that the canned goods shippers will be granted a reduced rate at the St. Louis meeting on May 9th.

SKIPPED OUT.

San Diego, May 3.—Edward Marriage, contractor, is missing, and his creditors are anxious to learn his whereabouts, to the extent of about $5,000, a large part of it being due to laborers on contracts completed and now being carried on by himself and his partner. A few days ago in order to pay off the workmen, he borrowed $1,000 from a money-lender named Moll and then departed for other fields.

SMUGGLERS' DODGES.

San Francisco. May 3.—Among the cargo of the steamer San Blas, which arrived yesterday from Panama, were nine boxes of oranges. The boxes were from Mazatlan and were consigned to this city. As the unloading of the vessel's cargo was in progress the boxes excited the suspicions of the customs officers, owing to their unusual shape. The officers opened one of the boxes and were surprised to find that the centre portion of the box was packed with cigars, which were surrounded with oranges. Examination of the other eight cases found them also filled with cigars, all of which were seized and confiscated by the customs officers. The seizure amounted to about $1000.

APRIL FAILURES.

San Francisco, May 3.—The Bradstreet Mercantile Agency reports 64 failures in the Pacific coast states and territories for the month of April, with assets $150,663, and liabilities $321,304, as compared with 65 for the previous month, and assets $359,689, and liabilities $626,785, and 65 for the corresponding month of 1888, with assets $234,074.

NO TRUTH IN IT.

San Francisco, May 3.—A despatch from Washington this morning stated that the navy department had stated that the cruiser Charleston would make her trial trip to-morrow through Santa Barbara Channel. Inquiry regarding the truth of the despatch was made at the office of the Union Iron Works, where the statement was made that there is no truth in the report, as the day for the Charleston leaving on her trial trip had not yet been fixed upon.

GREASER CRUELTIES.

San Diego, May 3.—J. W. Williams, reported to be a colored man of English birth, but a naturalized citizen, writes to the Sun, from Ensenada, a long letter in which he narrates how unjustly he has been treated by the Mexican authorities. He states he was arrested on a charge of firing a pistol inside the city limits which is contrary to the city ordinance. He denied having committed the offence, but was taken to jail and not permitted to give bail. While in jail he was so badly beaten as to be in great need of medical treatment, and he asserts this was denied him. Williams states that he is a dealer in second-hand goods, but that the Mexicans have such a hatred for him that they not only make life miserable, but make it almost impossible to do business there.

SLIGHT DAMAGES.

San Jose, May 3.—The libel suit for $20,000 damages, instituted by ex-school trustee Denike against S. W. Delacy, late editor of the Times, closed to-day, after four day's trial, the jury awarding plaintiff $5 damages.

The ship Robert L. Belknap returned to the V. C. Co.'s new wharf yesterday to finish unloading ballast. She will load coal for San Francisco.

The steamer Southern California is due to load V. C. Co.'s coal for San Francisco.

WELLINGTON.

The ship Kennebec has finished loading coal and will probably sail for San Francisco on Sunday.

The steamer San Mateo sailed from San Francisco for this port yesterday.

EAST WELLINGTON.

The ship Gen. Fairchild has nearly finished loading coal for San Francisco.

The bark Bundaleer is waiting to load East Wellington coal for San Francisco.

The steamer Empire sailed from San Francisco for Nanaimo yesterday.

DISPOSAL OF STOCK.—The last few days have witnessed the purchasing of a large amount of dry goods, millinery and mens furnishings from the cost price sale at Arthur Bullock's. We always contend that in small towns it is impossible to humbug the public as to prices, as they are well aware when an article is offered much below its value, and hence the reason of the crowd of customers to be seen at Bullock's at all hours of the day. So don't fail to avoid yourselves of the opportunity.

Parnell in His Examination Before the Commission Stated that

HE SAW NOTHING CRIMINAL

In the "Martyr's" Fund—Henri Rochefort Disgusted at the Action of the French Government

PARNELL'S EXAMINATION.

London, May 3.—Parnell denied knowing "number one" either under the name of Tynan or any other. Had never heard Egan associated with the "Martyr's fund." He saw nothing criminal in the fund but rather thought it was right to assist the innocent victims of the "Martyrs." A sensational incident, the most remarkable of to-day's examination occurred when Webster quoted the statement made by Parnell during the debate on the Forster bill of 1881, suspending the habeas corpus to the effect that secret societies had then ceased to exist in Ireland

Sir Richard asked Parnell if he believed the statement when he made it. Mr. Parnell, No. At any rate it was an exaggerated statement.

Webster: Did you or did you not misstate the fact when you made that statement?

Parnell admitted he had made the statement knowing it to be wrong or at least extravagant. He further admitted that he had never withdrawn the statement. His purpose in making it was to exaggerate the effect which league had in eradicating secret societies.

1000 GUINEAS.

London, May 3.—The race for the one thousand guineas stakes, distance one mile, was won by Mr. Vyner's Minehe.

POSTPONED.

Paris, May 3.—La France says that the government intend to postpone the general election for members of the chamber of deputies until spring of 1890.

ROCHEFORT DISGUSTED.

London, May 3.—Rochefort has abandoned his journey to Algeria and returned to London. He had applied to the French government for a permit to go to Algeria for the purpose of attending his son's funeral, and had been assured that the necessary papers would be forwarded at once, but they were not sent and he returned here disgusted.

SPORTING NOTES.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

EDITOR COURIER: What is the matter with the Free Press? I see that it had a leader on Thursday evening about its free columns. Is it begging for some one to give it some reading matter to try and fill up with? And he says he is always pleased to publish bona fide communications, provided they contain no "unseemingly language" and do not contain personal abuse.

Would it not be as well if it would drop its personal abuse in its "Echoes from Mount Benson?" For I am sure that there is neither sense nor humor in it. It is an old saying that "too much of a good thing gets disgusting." Why does he not give us something that would be interesting instead of repeating his advertisements three times over? I am sure we are satisfied to see them once. If he can't publish a semi-weekly without doubling or trebling the advertisements he had better publish once a month and then he would be able to give us some news, as he would have time to collect it. Before your paper started he never went out to collect any news except from his office to the court house and back. I should think he ought to feel small to think that he has been in the paper business for the last fifteen years and in all that time he has not been able to give us a paper like your weekly that you sent out on Wednesday. But I think the old man has been so long in the mountains that he is getting in his dotage and wants some one to do a little writing for him. That is why he is pleading to the public to assist him; poor "old man" I feel for him.

SAM.

A WARNING.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all is dangerous, and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nasal is obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

The first of the season Riverside oranges, navel oranges and new cabbages can be obtained at George Cavalsky's. *

A GIRL MINING EXPERT.

She Seldom Errs in Her Judgment on a Claim and Makes Lots of Money.

"Arizona has the only girl mining expert in the world," said Col. John Hull of Tucson to an Examiner representative last night at the Baldwin. "For years she has followed up all the new camps and passed judgment on mines and usually engaged in some kind of business in them, as well as staked out and developed claims for herself. Her name is Nellie Cashman, and she is known throughout all the mining towns of Arizona. Just now she is making a pull for the Harqua Hala mines. She has just been here and bought a restaurant outfit for the new camp, and while her employes set out bacon and beans to the flannel shirted miners for a dollar apiece she will make her locations and begin mining as usual.

"She is a wonderfully plucky girl. It is about nine years now since she first came to Tucson. She was from Dodge City, Kan., and could not have been more than 17 years old. She got to examining the ore as it came out of the Tucson mines, and was soon as good a judge of its value as her brother Jim, who worked in one of them. The boys pretty soon began betting on her judgment, more in fun than anything else, but what was their surprise to find that she was a wonderfully good guesser and hit it close about every time. Her fame spread, and miners, always superstitious, got an idea that to have her around and get her good opinion some way brought luck. She knew where to dig for ore, too, and some of the ore in the Contention was found by following her advice in running a drift.

"Over in Graham county she made a hit one day on copper, and when she went to Tombstone afterwards she passed her judgment on *some mines there. Bill Wiggins sold the Ex*celsior and Grand View mines on her advice, and the only dividend they ever yielded was the $15,000 he got for them. Other mines were bought after she had examined and reported favorably on them. They are good paying properties now. In Tucson, Bisbee, Tombstone and other camps Miss Cashman has conducted general stores and big lodging houses for the miners. She was also in business at Castle Dome. She is as adventurous in pushing forward to a new region as any nomadic miner. No sooner does she hear of a new camp than she starts for it. She has had so much experience that she almost invariably turns it to good account, getting town lots, placer sites and lode claims for next to nothing and unloading at a big profit. At first she did not get out of the camps soon enough. Consequently she has been many times rich and poor. She has indomitable pluck, though, and if she goes broke in one place she soon makes a turn and gets up again. It is phenomenal how nonchalantly she takes a reverse. She is just as level headed, self contained and serene as if she had made a fortune. It makes no difference, so far as appearances go. Miss Cashman is a rather tall, dark eyed girl. She is somewhat angular in appearance and has brown hair. Going about among the mines, or climbing the hills for outcroppings, she wears heavy shoes and strong clothes, usually covered with a cloak, worn negligo. She is a rapid walker and a quick, incisive talker. Her language is good. She is considerable of a reader, and on most all subjects is very well informed. She will be the first woman in the new camp of Harqua Hala, where there are probably now fifteen hundred men."—San Francisco Examiner.

Was There Ever Such a Dog?

A correspondent sent me some time ago an excellent dog story which he had culled from a Sunday school paper published here in Boston. I made an attempt, through my sporting commissioner, to trace the anecdote to its source, but we were not successful. Possibly its publication in this column will meet the eye of somebody who can confirm its truth. The dog's name was Punch, and he is described as a resident of Boston. He had been accustomed to have three extensive meals a day, which his master, thinking quite rightly to better his condition by so doing, reduced to one meal, per saltum. The result is thus described:

Our dog's first day was anxious and expectant. He ate his heavy meal, and barked in vain for his supper. The second was like unto it; the third and the fourth Punch began to consider. The family, watching that midday meal on the fourth day, saw Mr. Punch divide his portion into two equal shares. One of these he seized and pushed under a bench, then, returning, devoured the remainder. At supper time the same performance was gone through. At breakfast "his cupboard was bare," but he had provided for three meals a day, and ever since, like a well regulated dog, puts himself upon "rations."

Can any of my correspondents match or confirm this interesting and not incredible tale?—Boston Post.

Appropriateness of Clerks.

Much has been said and written about the inappropriateness of certain clerks in certain places—a gentleman at a glove counter, for instance, or a lady behind the cigar case of a restaurant. Now let me tell you that those things regulate themselves better than is generally supposed. The one thing that a clerk wants to accomplish is to create a reputation in point of large sales. Sex helps in this to an appreciable extent. One sex prefers to be waited upon by the other, and as a rule you will find an obliging gentleman behind the glove or the silk counter of a store more valuable to his employer than a first class lady clerk. In the same way many of the incongruities of clerking are readily explained. Our heads are more level than some people would suppose, to see us in our surroundings. What is more, storekeepers are just as well aware of this natural or sexual fitness of sales people to special places as we are. It would be well for those who are not to post themselves on the subject.

The next thing, from our point of view, to a place where there is lots of work and little trouble is a place where by some element of natural fitness we can make the annoyance subserve personal success in the matter of sales.—Chicago News.

He Came from Kansas City.

"That reminds me," said a bystander, "of an incident that happened in New York last summer. I was looking over the register at the Murray Hill and came across the name Richard Spooner, Kansas City. I have a friend of that name in Jaytown, Kan., and as I passed out of the hotel entrance I met him face to face. We took a drink together, and I said: 'Look here, how did you happen to register from Kansas City?'

"He glanced up quizzically and answered: 'Well, isn't Jaytown a Kansas city?' "—Kansas City Times.

The Discoveries of Modern Science.

"Hullo, Billy," shouted a Norwich public school boy of the primary division to a parochial school churn, "I'm studying hijine and phizzerology now! Don't teach 'em in your school, does they? They tells yer all about yerself, just how many insisters and molers yer have in yer mouth, and how yer all tied together with ligerments. If these teachers tell the truth, Billy, we're dun up just as carefully as a bundle of dried apples is!"—Norwich Bulletin.

GERMANY AND THE PRESS.

THE Press of the different provinces of Canada, as a rule, enjoy greater latitude than in many countries. It is true that in some of the provinces there has been a disposition to muzzle the press to a certain extent, but taken all in all, there are very many privileges enjoyed by it, which are unknown to the Press of other countries, especially in some of the countries of Europe.

It is a cause for the gravest suspicion when the public men of any country become afraid of fair and legitimate press criticism, and when the Press is proscribed grave fears may well be entertained for the future of their country. A new press law has been presented by the German Government to the Reichstag, which if adopted, will effectually muzzle free discussion in Germany. Professedly it shuts off debate only on those fundamentals the stability which is necessary to the safety of society, but when by law all attacks on or criticism of the monarchy, or the person of the sovereign, of religion, marriage and property are made penal offences, to be punished by three years imprisonment and by banishment from certain districts of the country, it is not hard to say that under a broad interpretation, all discussion of every sort relating to burning questions may be brought to a summary close. Under this law any journal whose writers have been twice convicted within one year may be finally suppressed. It is very apparent to any observer that this new movement is in harmony with the general tendency to absolutism and materialism, now unmistakably dominant in Germany. That great country is fast becoming a military camp, with the interests, the ideas, the aims and objects of a camp. The government is pursuing a consistent policy of repression in every department. Even her universities, which have given Germany her intellectual leadership of the world, are beginning to suffer. In political economy, for instance, the policy of the government has been to steadily discourage the study and to confine it within smaller and smaller limits, so that the importance of political economy in the universities is steadily diminishing.

In the same way, by the prizes offered for the pursuit of applied science—science, that is, which is immediately productive in a pecuniary way—the pursuit of pure science has been greatly discouraged. Germany must have money to support her military organizations and, if necessary, everything will be sacrificed to that, and the country which was once the home of idealism is fast becoming the home of pure materialism. It is for this reason, as well as many others, that the death of the Emperor FREDERICK has so greatly discouraged the most thoughtful people in Germany. It is safe to say that if the Prussian military spirit continues to dominate as at present, Germany will be revolutionized and materialized within the next twenty years. The young Kaiser is fiery and headstrong, and the rashness he exhibits in many ways augurs ill for the internal welfare of his country and for the peace of Europe.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THESE are the days of "Trusts." There is a trust for almost every conceivable commodity, and, in fact, they multiply so rapidly that it is difficult to follow them. There are the "oil trust," the sugar trust," the paper bag trust," the "tin trust," the "iron trust," the "steel trust," all of them combining to form the steal trust; and the "trust" that the poor man tries to obtain when his funds have been reduced to a minimum through the operations of these "trusts," and he is compelled to ask the grocer and the baker for the necessaries of life without showing any "collateral." The latter "trust" is not powerful, and the reason is obvious.

BOULANGER the doughty, has established himself in England. He has taken up comfortable quarters and it would seem that he has made preparations for a lengthened stay in that country. However, he is near France and can keep himself thoroughly posted on every move made on the French political chess board. And there is no doubt that his stay in England will entirely depend upon the political situation in France. Judging from his erratic course, since he first gained any considerable notoriety in France he is a political charlatan of the first water, an adventurer, unscrupulous to a degree and lacking the bravery and elan which go to make up a soldier, and the wisdom and forethought which make a statesman. It is not an unsafe prediction to make that Boulanger's star will, before many months sink so far beneath the political horizon of his country that it will never have time to rise again.

GABRIEL DUMONT, the Lieutenant of Riel, has been permitted to return to the Northwest. After Gabriel's flight, at the close of the rebellion, he wandered into Northern Montana, where he became a ranchman and watched his flocks in peace and safety. Tiring of bucolic life he began lecturing, but was no more successful in that than when he herded cattle on the wild and woolly plains. Through the influence of prominent Rielites in Quebec, amnesty for past offences was granted him and he went to Montreal. After being lionized by his sympathizers he returned to his native heath, and it is now said that he is at his old tricks trying to foment disturbance and create discontent among the half-breeds and Indians of the territories. The Calgary Herald, of a late issue, has the following to say of him:—

"This prince of braggarts has been petted and honored by the Rielite Liberals of Eastern Canada, until he appears to actually consider himself a hero, if not a diminutive deity."

Gabriel will get "fooled" and will go down to the vile dust from whence he sprung, unwept, unhonored and unsung.

AMONG CANNIBALS.

TWO YEARS WITH THE MOST DEGRADED RACE IN THE WORLD.

The Uncivilized Black Tribes in the Heart of Australia—They Are Lazy, Cowardly and Treacherous—Protected by Tobacco and a Revolver.

A remarkably interesting lecture was delivered by Dr. Carl Lumholz, of Christiania, Norway, before the Geographical society at Chickering hall, New York. Dr. Lumholz is a Norwegian scientist who, a few years since, conceived the idea of penetrating the wildest parts of Australia in search of flora and fauna of the country. He has returned from his explorations, having passed two years and more among the least civilized tribes of men now existing, and having trod over land and among nations never before visited by white men.

The most interesting part of his experiences were with the cannibalistic tribes in the heart of Australia, of whom he says:

"Of course, I could not go at once and live with them, but had to work my way gradually. I had, then, been in Australia more than a year, and, of course, had acquired some experience as to how to proceed with them. I now first began to associate with the so called civilized blacks, and through them I, by degrees, became acquainted with other tribes, until at last I lived with natives who were in the most primitive state of life and had never come in contact with a white man. By civilized blacks we generally understand such of the natives as have to some degree been affected by European culture, but the extent of the civilization may be briefly summed up thus—that a civilized black knows that he will be shot dead if he kills a European; that he is greatly addicted to tobacco, and fond of wearing clothes, which he considers more as an ornament than as a useful article.

THE POWER OF TOBACCO.

"The greatest trouble was to get the blacks to take part in my excursions, for they are born idlers and have fundamental objection to any kind of work. Luckily, in the last six or seven months of my stay in that region I happened to find a really good servant. He stuck to me wherever I went, so that my position from the time of his advent grew much more favorable. He was by no means an ordinary black, but was possessed of a peculiar vein of naivete, and so he often blurted out ideas and information of the greatest value. In spite of this, he was not at all free from the treachery characteristic of all the blacks. Nevertheless, he was better than the others and saved my life many a time.

"As far as this method was possible I rode alone, whilst my blacks went on in front, one of them leading my pack horse. At the foot of the mountains a camp was pitched, and here the horses were left behind, whilst the saddles and bridles were placed in a tree, so that the wild dogs could not get at them Then we went up the mountain on foot, the dense underwood there of course being impassable for horses.

"My provisions consisted of fourteen to fifteen pieces of ox flesh, pickled and dried, with a small quantity of wheat flour to be baked into bread in the hot ashes, and some sugar. When these provisions were exhausted, which occurred pretty quickly, we lived, liked the aborigines, on young snakes, lizards, larvæ, eggs and the like. My outfit included a large white woolen blanket that was a standing wonder and a constant envy of the blacks. As soon as I unpacked it they made a clicking noise, expressive of delight, with their tongues, and roared out: 'Tamin, tamin!' (Fat, fat!) Anything that is very good they call 'fat.'

"One of the most important things I brought with me was tobacco, a greater joy to the aborigines than the very best food. At Herbert river the blacks did not know, before the arrival of the whites, of any stimulants at all. The tobacco served me instead of money, and for it they will do anything, even to selling their wives. Among these people tobacco is always smoked, never chewed, and I have often seen a mother, carrying a child on her back, hand it a pipe, at which the child would take a couple of puffs with apparent delight. They often used to send in barter small bits of tobacco, wrapped in gum, to other tribes, and in that way tobacco is known among remote tribes who have never themselves come into contact with Europeans.

"Next to tobacco, my revolver was of the greatest importance to me. Very luckily, the natives, who do not themselves possess even bows and arrows, have the greatest respect for fire arms. It is, however, necessary to keep up your reputation as a good marksman, else you will soon lose their respect. Their astonishment is equally great when you hit a kangaroo in a resting position, or when you bring down a bird on the wing. They were especially afraid of my revolver, which they looked upon as inexhaustible. I made it my business to keep this fear constantly awake, and every night before creeping into my hut, I discharged my baby gun, as they called it, just in order to refresh their minds as to the existence of this dreadful weapon.

PRECAUTIONS.

"Happily for me, I felt in the winter time the cold at night, owing to the great contrast with the heat of the daytime, and in consequence I awoke several times every night and had to wake the blacks to keep the fire burning before our huts. This gave the blacks the impression that the white man slept but little and that he was always on the alert and had the baby gun ready. It was necessary always to be on one's guard, as the blacks are of a very treacherous and cunning nature, and one of the most important precautions that a colonist learns to take is, 'never to have a black fellow behind you.'

"I had a good deal of unpleasantness and many troubles through their deceit and cunning, which often made me so tired and worried that I was on the point of giving up the expedition, but the thought of perhaps being able to make valuable discoveries in this strange and interesting country always kept my spirits up, and I must say that I was not disappointed, but have returned with interesting facts and specimens of natural history new to science, and with an intimate knowledge of the habits and life of the Australian aborigines—one of those unfortunate races that are rapidly dying out. On the other hand I was cheered in my work by the many delightful impressions I received of the grand and splendid scenery around me on my wanderings, sights I shall never forget. When the tropical sun rose in the early morning above the trees of the lofty Australian forest and awakened nature with its bright, dazzling rays, or when the moon appeared above the mountain ridge and threw her pale light over the vast plains below, while the mystic voices of the night birds rang out on the still, quiet night, there was a beauty over the landscape which I could not possibly do justice to if I were to attempt to describe it, and regretted only that I had no companion to share it with me."

An Albany snow shoe club kept themselves in practice during the open winter by putting a lot of spring beds in a circle, covering them with canvas, and tramping over them to slow music.

WHIPPING A FAILURE.

AN EX-WARDEN ON CORPORAL PUNISHMENT OF CONVICTS.

A Veteran "Pen" Keeper Declares That Cruel Punishments Do Not Accomplish Good Results—A Suggestion as to State Reformatories.

"In the light of an experience of nearly twelve years as one of the lessees and as warden of the Missouri penitentiary, I am prepared to state in the most unqualified manner that I believe corporal punishment of convicts is a mistake, that whipping and kindred tortures should be abolished, and a humane system of discipline substituted. Since I retired from the control of the Missouri penitentiary I have visited the leading penal institutions of the eastern cities, and state as my conviction that more work and better work can be got out of the men where the cat o' nine tails is banished."

The speaker was ex-Warden Willis, now a resident of St. Louis, and the listener a Globe-Democrat reporter.

"You are, then, a believer in the power of the state to reform its criminals?"

A BELIEVER IN REFORM.

"Emphatically I am. I am glad you asked the question, for I want to explain myself. It is difficult, I would almost say impossible, to secure the best results under the present system in the Missouri penitentiary. My idea is to build a branch, but to let it be known as a reformatory, and send to it such prisoners as there are hopes of reforming. Such an institution has just been opened up at Huntington, Pa. It was intended to be called penitentiary No. 3, but the legislature changed its scope. Col. McClaughrey, who, in a long term of years, had made the Joliet (Ills.) penitentiary the model of all prisons in this country, is in charge of the Huntington institution, being engaged by the state for life at $5,000 per annum. The prison must not be confounded with a reform school. The inmates are required to work at trades as in other penitentiaries, but they are given advantages, such as night schools, books, opportunities to converse with each other in assembly, etc. Prisoners are assigned to Huntington after the manner followed in New York. In that state all prisoners are sent first to Sing Sing. There they are examined by a board which sits daily, and if hardened or habitual criminals, or of what is called strictly the criminal class, they are put to work at once in Sing Sing, but otherwise they are sent to Elmira, or some one of the other branch penitentiaries, which are much to be preferred. There is in prison life an existence of caste that is as closely drawn as among the natives of India.

"I remember that a negro was brought to Jefferson City one day. I recognized him at a glance as a former prisoner, and I said: 'You have been here before, sir.'

"With a clear voice, in which there was the slightest tinge of pride, he replied: 'Yes, sah, but it was for cuttin', sah.'

"'And what is it now?' I again asked.

"He hung his head sheepishly as he mumbled out, 'Burglary and larceny.'

"And that brings me back to the reformatory. A man who in a moment of passion has shot or otherwise injured another, and who has always been an honest and, we will say, law abiding citizen, must not be made to think that his incarceration puts him on a moral level with the burglars, thieves and cut throats who are his prison mates. Such a man is most likely, in the bitterness of his spirit, to become unruly, and become a subject for discipline. To whip a man of that class is to make him worse. He would feel no contrition for his offense, but while recognizing that he was subjected to the lash he would only cherish bitter feelings.

MODEL PRISONERS.

"Professional criminals make the best prisoners, from a keeper's standpoint. A second or third termer is always eagerly sought for by a contractor. Such a man knows that he has nothing to gain by rebellious behavior, and he sets to work to make life as pleasant as possible."

"The idea of life being made pleasant in a penitentiary is rather a perverted use of the term!"

"Oh, no; some people could be contented, I believe, in the middle of the burning lake. Negroes are a particularly light hearted lot. I often think of an incident illustrating this phase of character. It was on a very bright, but particularly cold December day that a couple of well fed, lusty colored men connected with the kitchen were lounging about the yard, when there was brought to the 'round house' a particularly forlorn specimen. He was a white man, and had been arrested for hog stealing down in the country somewhere, some time during the previous summer. He had lain in jail during the summer, fall and early winter with no other clothing than that which he wore when arrested. The diet was not over liberal, I suppose, and the poor fellow looked like the frame of a man. As he walked across the yard the wind seemed to fairly blow through both his tatters and his anatomy, and he shivered as he felt the blast. One of the negroes glanced at the chattering wretch, and then remarked to his mate, with a contented chuckle: 'Looks like times war mighty hard outside, Bill!'

"'You're shouting,' replied Bill.

"But I want to again answer your question about reform. The police would be apt to mislead you on this subject. While warden I looked into the matter, and while I don't recall the exact figure, the percentage of convicts that was returned to the prison was very small, certainly below 3 per cent. I meet men every day of my life who have done time, come out, settled down among their former acquaintances and lived honest lives. I see, in the course of a year in St. Louis, hundreds of them, in all walks of life, working at the trades, driving team and in higher walks. The rule, however, is for a man who during his confinement has seen the error of his ways to go off to some strange locality and commence life again. Every town in the country has its Jean Valjean. I meet them everywhere, and I travel extensively—men who come up to me and say: 'That term I served with you made a man of me.' The police officer's glib axiom, 'once a thief, always a thief,' finds no echo in my heart. It is not my intention to discuss the whipping feature in detail. Horrible as it is, it is sanctioned by law. It is for the legislature to abolish it. I only give my opinion, based upon observation here and abroad, that better results, both to the men and the contractors, can be obtained without it, or any of the hundred punishments. To take this view, I must stand squarely on the platform that the state's duty is not to punish convicts, but to reform them."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Monkeys Prefer the North.

At Atlanta, a little, squatty Italian, carrying on his back a hand organ, on the top of which was perched a consumptive looking monkey, was seen near the Union depot. "How do you like the south?" he was asked, as he let down his organ and began caressing the monkey. With a shrug of his shoulders and an affectionate glance at the monkey, he said: "Me no lika de wedder. He maka de monk sicka, an' he no dansa lak he do in de norfa."—Savannah News.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE GREAT RUSH.—Owing to the immense number of purchasers visiting MR. BULLOCK'S establishment on Saturday anxious to take advantage of his disposal of his stock at cost, he and his clerks were unable to attend to a great number of customers. He regrets that so many went away unserved, and if possible he would advise some of his friends to shop in the morning when they could be better waited upon. *

FEMALE FOOT GEAR.

Minnie Palmer affects light uppers.

Fanny Davenport is inclined to pointed toes.

Clara Morris takes comfort in glove kid boots.

Mrs. Folsom's feet are always faultlessly dressed.

Mrs. Lucretia Mott adheres to the old prunella shoe.

Marion Harland's shoes, like her principles, are broad.

Lotta wears a shoe that might be taken for Cinderella's.

Modjeska's pedal extremities look well in russet leather boots.

Marie Roze has a real French foot and dresses it accordingly.

Rosa Bonheur thinks it no disgrace to have a good understanding.

Emma Abbott wears French ties until cold weather nips her toes.

Mrs. Langtry's feet are generally incased in "patent leather tips."

Miss Frances E. Willard wears substantial goat skin with low heels.

Mlle. Rhea wears the thinnest of French kids, winter and summer.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett wears a common sense walking boot.

Mrs. Paran Stevens has an English foot, but prefers American shoes.

Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher wears cloth gaiters of the old Congress pattern.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt usually wears cloth uppers and patent leather tips.

Sarah Bernhardt changes the style of her shoes as often as she does her moods.

Miss Abigail Dodge (Gail Hamilton) wears straight goat boots laced high on the ankle.

Mrs. Hicks-Lord varies her shoes with her costumes, and always shows a trim looking foot.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton wears cork soled boots, meant for sturdy yeomen's service.

Miss Kate Field has a fancy for wearing shoes of all nationalities except, perhaps, the Chinese.

Miss Jeannette Chamberlain has a high arched foot, which looks well in a No. 2 AA French boot.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox always wears fancy slippers in doors, with handsomely embroidered stockings.

Mary Anderson wears a sensible English walking boot with a solid foundation, not conducive to corns.

Maggie Mitchell likes an old shoe best; not quite such a dilapidated one, however, as she wears in "Fanchon."

Mrs. Amelie Rives Chanler has a symmetrically shaped foot, which looks well in a Louis Quinze slipper.

Mrs. John Bigelow is sometimes seen in moccasins in public, and is not particular in the size and make of her shoes.

Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnson has an aristocratic foot, and steps as stately as a queen. She is seldom seen in slippers.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe has an utter detestation for new shoes, and clings to her old ones with the greatest tenacity.

Adelina Patti incases her comely feet in dainty French kids. Her fascinating house slippers are marvels in their line.

Mrs. Morton makes a specialty of shoes, and sometimes upsets the equilibrium of her Crispin by unfavorable criticism.

Miss Marion Langdon has a foot as dainty as a fay's, and when tripping in the dance expresses the very poetry of motion.

Cqristine Nilsson wears a shoe long and broad enough for each toe to have a resting place of its own and still have room to spare.

Mrs. Frank Leslie dresses her feet as carefully as she does the rest of her person, and always has her shoes made on the Spanish last.

Mrs. Secretary Whitney is as careful in the fit of her shoes as in that of her dresses, and has them altered until they fit without a wrinkle.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison cares more for comfort than looks in her shoes, but will doubtless put her best foot foremost in the White House.

Mrs. James Brown Potter's feet look best in Louis Quatorze slippers. She has a shapely foot, always neatly dressed, and doesn't mind windy weather.

Miss Adele Grant numbers the style and variety of her shoes with her admirers, but her feet never look better than when incased in black satin slippers.

Mrs. Albert Stephens, nee Brady, wears cloth boots with patent leather trimmings. Her white satin slippers look as though they might belong to Titania.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland never cramps her feet by trying to put a No. 3 foot into a No. 2 shoe, and believes that there is as much character in a foot as in a shapely hand.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, when in health, is frequently seen in arctics that would make a girl of the period almost faint at the mere suggestion of bearing such burdens.

Mrs. Bradley Martin is as great a connoisseur in shoes as she is in precious stones, and while her diamond sun lends brilliancy to the upper part of her body, her faultlessly fitting shoes set off to advantage her shapely feet.

Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague has a foot that would delight an artist's eye. It is always clothed in the nattiest of boots. It used to be the sensation of the day at Old Point Comfort when this pretty woman went down to dip her tiny feet into the water.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Mrs. Harrison is now president of the Merrill Literary society of Indianapolis.

Mr. Labouchere says that Queen Victoria saves more than $5,500 per annum from the civil list alone.

A young woman at Ostend, Belgium, is said to take a sea bath every day in the year, remaining in the water about fifteen minutes.

The empress of Japan, who is soon coming to the United States, will have in her suite two manicures, a dentist, fourteen doctors, ten fan bearers and a vast number of female attendants.

Mrs. Frank Leslie reaches her desk at 8 o'clock in the morning, and usually remains at it until nearly 6. She told a Chicago reporter the other day that her average amount of sleep was not more than five hours out of the twenty-four.

The newest gowns ordered by Mrs. John A. Mackay from the Paris modistes are of surpassing magnificence. One, according to a Philadelphia paper, is of old rose satin, covered with costly white lace and studded with several thousand dollars' worth of gems.

More than 37,000 people in five days were admitted to view Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain's wedding presents. The Puritan maiden seems to have yielded to British curiosity, or perhaps she had learned to understand ways of propitiating the British voter. That her portraits are on view in the Birmingham shop windows is another evidence of her acceptance of political customs.

The largest compressed air establishment in the world is at Paris. It has a plant with 5000-horse power. Begun in 1881 to distribute the power necessary for the driving of pneumatic clocks, it was not long before it was discovered that the air could profitably used for two other purposes—to distribute motive power to manufacturers by day and to produce electricity for lighting by night. The works, which are on the heights of Belleville, on the edge of the city, now occupy an area of 107,500 square feet, or two and a half acres, two fifths of which is covered with buildings.

RICH IN THIS WORLD'S GOODS.

Mrs. Paran Stevens has $3,000,000.

Mrs. Rachel Goff, Cincinnati, $2,000,000.

Mrs. Lawrence has $5,000,000 and is still a widow.

Mrs. Moffitt, of St. Louis, is worth about $3,500,000.

Mrs. Oliver Perrin, Cincinnati, is rated at $2,000,000.

Miss Mary Garrett, of Baltimore, is worth $20,000,000.

Miss Nellie Gould's belongings are worth $15,000,000.

The Misses Drexel are rated at about the same figures.

Mrs. Josephine M. Ayer has $5,000,000, made in patent medicine.

The widow of the late Charles Crocker, of San Francisco, is rated at $13,000,000.

Mrs. Jane Brown, widow of the banker, has a fortune safely invested worth $4,000,000.

Mrs. Robert Goelet, New York, has a fortune of $3,000,000, which her husband made in hardware.

Mrs. Hicks-Lord has $3,000,000 inherited from two husbands. Before marriage she was a poor girl.

Mrs. Joseph Harrison, widow of the man who built the first railroad in Russia, is worth $4,000,000.

The two Misses Armour, Chicago, are said to be worth in their own right and prospectively $5,000,000 each.

Mrs. Griswold Gray, widow, of New York, is worth $2,000,000. She is the daughter of the late Richard Irving.

The richest woman in Pittsburg is Mrs. Schenley, whose fortune, mostly in real estate, is estimated at $20,000,000.

Miss Daisy Stevens, New York, eldest daughter of Frederick Stevens, has a fortune in her own right of $2,000,000.

Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, widow of the paper manufacturer, lives in Philadelphia and has a fortune estimated at $3,000,000.

The richest Indian woman in the world is Mrs. Capt. Tom, of Sitka, Alaska, who has money and property worth $200,000.

Mrs. H. V. Alexander, New York, wife of a lawyer and daughter of Charles Crocker, is worth $8,000,000 in her own right.

Mrs. Leland Stanford has jewels valued at $2,000,000, among them the collection of ex-Queen Isabella of Spain, valued at $1,000,000.

Miss May Callender, New York, is worth $2,000,000. She is an orphan, fond of books and horses and a special fondness for German opera.

Mrs. Thomas A. Scott, Philadelphia, has $5,000,000 in her own right and is one of the richest women in the city. She was Miss Riddle, of Pittsburg.

Mrs. Sarah W. Cates, Kansas City, is a widow with a fortune of $10,000,000, a large portion of which was realized from a real estate investment of $2,000.

Mrs. J. Frederick Betz, of Philadelphia, is rated at $2,000,000 and has a fortune in precious stones. She is a handsome woman, goes much in society and entertains in a splendid manner.

One of the richest unmarried women in the United States is Miss Julia Rhinelander, of New York, who has inherited the fortunes of half a dozen kinsfolk, until she is now worth $15,000,000.

Mrs. Moses Taylor is said to be the richest woman in the country, if not in the world. The latest estimate on her wealth is $41,000,000. She lives in New York, Long Branch and other places, as the mood strikes her.

Mrs. Bellamy Storer, Cincinnati, is worth $2,000,000 in her own right. She was the widow of George Ward Nichols, first president of the Cincinnati College of Music and an energetic and liberal patron of the musical arts.

Mrs. E. D. Standiford, of Louisville, worth $3,000,000, is reputed the richest woman in Kentucky. She was left a widow recently at the age of 23, her husband dying before the expiration of the honeymoon, leaving her his entire estate.

Mrs. Leonard Church, of Hartford, is one of the richest women in Connecticut. She is worth $1,000,000, and, beside being a faithful church goer, she is conspicuous at the races at Charter Oak park, in an antiquated carriage not worth over $50 except as a curiosity.

A cattle queen of vast wealth is Senora Manuela de Moncado, of Mexico. She owns immense tracts of land and has one ranch stocked with 400,000 head of sheep. She is nearly 60 and owns a fine residence on Fifth avenue, New York, where she spends a part of her time.

Mme. De Barrios is a widow with seven children and $7,000,000. She was a South American beauty, and at 14 the dictator wanted to marry her, which her father refused. For this interference the parent was clapped into prison. He was released later, and the marriage took place.

THE LATEST IN JEWELS.

A turquois heart surrounded by diamonds is a new brooch.

Frosted and ornamented with violets, a gold bell is a unique pendant.

A pretty scarf pin represents a morning glory enameled in natural colors.

A novelty in shoe horns is of oxidized silver, etched with birds and foliage.

An odd hair ornament is a sapphire bodied fly with diamond wings and ruby head.

Bordered with tiny pearls, a violet, enameled in natural colors, is a novelty in scarf pins.

Six small leaves of turquoises within a setting of small pearls and diamonds, alternating, make a showy hair ornament.

The etched figure of a female dancer, within a border work of Assyrian pattern, is a pretty design for a silver cake or flower basket.

Rather attractive is a little round silver candlestick, with a fluted border, in the new clouded oxidized finish. A bracket work handle adds to its quaintness.

A perfectly round silver hand glass has a heavy embossed back, ornamented with scenes of field sports. The handle is the figure of a female tennis player.

A tasty little silver water pitcher is a mass of flower embossing over a bed of twigs, leaves and tropical plants. The tray matches it and may be used as a card receiver.

A new silver candlestick represents spread butterfly wings, delicately traced. The thimble into which the candle is fitted and the handle are silver feathers, ornamented with fine bead work.

A frosted gold scent bag in imitation of old gold colored silk, tied with a string of pearls and ornamented with diamonds and rubies, set zigzag, is delightfully quaint as a queen chain pendant.

Worthy of admiration is a silver triplicate mirror, the frame of which is ornamented with fine wave chasing. The back of the inner glass is elaborately etched and the outer cover is inlaid with gold. The top piece represents a silver Cupid holding apart falling curtains.—Jewelers' Weekly.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's

CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE.

Advice to invalids—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c., &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists Medical Hall, Simla, January 5th, 1880: To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London, Dear Sir:—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their salet we fancy their sojurn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa, and 2nd Dysentery Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as general Sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even if the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of the opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's, is A DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBE AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellancy the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Cnancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J, Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to —See "The Times," July 13, 1884.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

(Before His Lordship Justice Gray.)

W. L. Jeffreys vs. W. Beveridge. This was an action brought to recover the sum of $40, being the balance claimed as due.

The plaintiff testified that W. Beveridge has asked him to assume his duties while he was absent for the benefit of his health. He said he could not afford to pay me at the rate of $2.50, per day but would give me $70 which I accepted, I was sworn in on Saturday, the 26th of January. I retained charge of the convict guard till March 13th, Mr. Bray paid me $60 as payment for my services during February. Beveridge also paid me $8 and afterwards offered me $26.50 as payment in full of the debt, which I declined to accept. He refused to pay me any more and said Constable A. Hamilton had drawn the Corporation pay.

Cross-examined by W. Beveridge. You did not tell me that all the money you could guarantee me was $60 per month. You did not say that the man in charge of the chaingang would get me $10 per month from the Corporation. I did not get it. I say the $10 is part of your pay.

Mr. Bray, Clerk of the Court, said he swore Jeffrey in as special constable in place of Beveridge, who directed him to hand over his salary to Jeffrey.

W. Beveridge deposed that he requested Jeffrey to take his place during his leave of absence. I told him he would get my salary of $60 per month. I impressed upon him that he would not get the $10 I received from the Corporation. Jeffrey got my salary and I received the $10 from the Corporation.

I believe that Jeffrey worked about 45 days for me at $2 per day. I offered him $26 rather than create a disturbance, and afterwards paid $22 into court. I told him Hamilton had drawn the Corporation money.

Cross-examined by E. M. Yarwood. Jeffrey agreed to receive my government salary, that is $60. I received an account from Jeffrey the day I tendered him the $26.

W. Stewart, constable, said A. Hamilton was in charge of the chain-gang during Beveridge's absence. Jeffrey was assistant convict guard.

A. Hamilton said he was in charge of the chaingang during Beveridge's absence. I was to receive the $10 from the corporation, but have not yet. I hear it was placed to my account, but do not know.

His Lordship reserved judgment till to-day.

SPEEDY TRIALS ACT.

Wm. Jackson on remand, charged with the larceny of $12 from one George Fishburn, at Southfield, on the 15th ult.

M. Bray prosecuted for the Crown, the prisoner was undefended.

Mr. Bray said the prisoner had previously held a bad record, having been discharghed from jail on April 7th, after having served 3 months for stealing a bottle of liquor.

Witnesses were examined to prove that the prisoner had been at Southfield on the night in question, also that he had changed a $10 bill at the Cranberry Hotel.

Louis Rowan, of the Cranberry Hotel, said he recognized the "gentleman," in the dock.

This led to a small lecture from His Lordship on the right of man to be called a gentleman.

Prisoner said he was an Oddfellow, and met some of the brethren, who gave him money. A Mr, Nelson, of Manitoba, and another man also gave him $10 between them.

Case remanded till 10 a.m. to-day to allow some knowledge of Mr. Nelson to be discovered.

Contract for the New Church.

The contract for the stone-work of the new Methodist Church on Wallace street has been let to A. Summerhayes and A. Henderson. The carpenter work has been given to T. H. Frost. The work of excavation will begin next Monday. It is gratifying to hear that our townsmen have been awarded this work and it will tend to discourage reports that everything that can possibly be given to outside parties is done so. We know very well that such is not the case, but that certain pessimistic persons who fail to obtain contracts they tender for, start these reports. The Methodists are to be congratulated on their energy and enterprise in deciding to erect a new church and equally so for their despatch in setting to work. The contract calls for the completion of the work on or before August 15th.

A Chinese Leper.

Considerable discussion over the question of leprosy among the Chinese in this Province, has been indulged in by the different newspapers, and the attention of the proper authorities has been directed to the fact that this loathsome disease does exist among that people. A Chinaman suffering from leprosy was brought down from Comox yesterday. It is said that he has this disease in a most malignant form and that he is indeed a sickening sight. The local authorities will look into the matter.

Visiting Pythians.

Col. H. A. Bigelow, of Seattle, supreme representative of the Supreme Lodge of the Knights of Pythias will arrive in this city to-day. He will be accompanied by a number of the Victoria brethren and this evening he will institute a division of the uniform rank of the Knights of Pythias in the Pythian hall. After the installation services the visitors will be entertained by the Nanaimo brethren at a grand banquet in the Palace Hotel.

A Work of Love.

The Victoria Times says Bishop Lemens is at present engaged in a very worthy work. From 9 o'clock in the morning till late in the afternoon he finds a pleasure in instructing a class of young Indians in a small house situated in the reserve, in religious and worldly subjects. The work is purely a labor of love on his part, and it is gratifying to learn that he is meeting with success.

For the Asylum.

H. Rowee, the insane man at present in the Nanaimo jail, will to-day be sent to New Westminster, where he will be taken care of at the jail till such time as a vacancy occurs in the asylum. The man was much more violent last night than he has been lately, and doubtless taxed Mr. Stewart's energies to the utmost to attend to him.

Alterations.

We notice that A. Bullock, of Victoria Crescent, is having extensive repairs executed on his store, in the shape of enlarging putting in a plate glass front, and generally increasing the convenience of his place of business, preparatory to renting it on his retiring from business.

Unloading Lumber.

Chinamen were employed yesterday to unload the lumber scow at present in Commercial Inlet. The planks look water soaked, and very few appear to envy them the job.

A Hint.

If the local corps of the Salvation Army would try to attune their voices and keep themalittle more in harmony, would confer a favor upon those who sometimes must perforce listen to them. We don't want any thanks for the suggestion.

Another Hint.

Why is it that our citizens are so unpunctual in attending public meetings of any kind? If a meeting is called for 8 o'clock it is sure to be nine, before all are present, and those who have tried to be on time must await the pleasure of the dilatory. It is a pernicious habit, and altogether aggravating to those who do not how to wait.

A Row Among the Hydas.

A recent advice from Queen Charlotte Islands relates a rather high old time among the Hydas. It seems that some chief wished to give a potlach and accordingly invited his friends and relatives. They, smelling plunder and good gifts, came in great force. The principal item in the potlach was a keg of white man's medicine, yclept whiskey. The eventful evening arrived and the usual grotesque dances were indulged in, the gifts distributed and then the bonne bouche of the evening was produced in the shape of the keg. No questions as to right of possession were asked, but the flowing bowl passed freely and very soon began to tell on our dusky cousins. How the row began no one seems to know, but very soon pandemonium reigned supreme in that hitherto peaceful camp. The bucks first started on each other and their respective wives chipped in just to make things lively. Our informant says that hair flew, skin peeled off and heads were cracked in such a short space of time that he hardly knew what going on. He put off in his canoe and waited just a short way off shore to watch the ending of the racket which if they had been sober enough to reach their firearms and cutlery must have resulted in a wholesale massacre. Luckily the Indians were too much occupied hitting each other with billets of wood and other articles that came handy, to think of getting their weapons. Our informant says that barring a few broken limbs and several severe contusions nothing very serious occurred.

New Outriggers.

Mr. Foreman, of Foreman & Campbell, arrived yesterday on the steamer Dunsmuir from Vancouver bringing with him seven new boats. The boats are principally outriggers, and no doubt will prove very useful in the races of the 24th of May. We think from what we have seen in the past few days that these boats will not be allowed to remain idle on the firm's hands. Nanaimo is taking up sculling strongly and probably in the near future we shall see a boating club organized in this city, which in time will produce several Hanlans, a couple of O'Connors and a Gaudaur or two on the side.

Ancient Order of Druids.

Prosperity Grove, No. 1, Ancient Order of Druids met last evening and the following officers were installed by District Deputy Grand Arch Robert Rivers assisted by S. Andrews, Grand Conductor. Henry Eva Janes, N A, Thomas McLay, V A, John S Greenwell, Sec.; J. Hilbert, Treas, H D Calverley, I G; G Woobank, OG; David Taylor, R H B N G; J Hunter, L H B N G; M Bate, R H B V A; E Pearce, L H B V A. The following were elected representatives to the Grand Grove to meet in San Francisco in June next; R Rivers, J Ganner, S Andrews and M Bate.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The meeting called for the organization of the Nanaimo Board of Trade and the election of officers failed to materialize, a majority of the subscribers to the articles of incorporation, not being present, as by law required. It was resolved to hold another meeting in the anteroom of the Council Chamber on Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when a full attendance is absolutely necessary for the formation of the Board. Mr. M. Wolfe, Secretary, was requested to notify each subscriber that his attendance was necessary and the meeting adjourned.

A Baseball Club.

Why cannot we have a baseball club? We have plenty of material of which good ball tossers are made; the game is healthy and pleasant, and it would form a means of recreation for the youth of the city. Or we might have a cricket club, or both for that matter, and athletic sports would be stimulated immensely. We have already the best football club in the province, and we might make a good showing in baseball and cricket.

With Broken Necks.

Messrs. R. Watkins and W. C. Halleck while fishing in Chase River yesterday, found two deer with their necks broken lying at the bottom of one of the numerous canyons, which abound there. The deer had evidently been pursued by dogs or some other carnivorous animals, and in attempting to jump across the ravine, were not able to do so and met their death on the rocks below.

Accident.

Charles Hoadley, living at Somenos, had the misfortune to dislocate his thigh. Mr. Hoadley was engaged cutting down a tree which, by some means, managed to fall against another tree, and while he was letting it down it slipped away from its support with the result above stated. Mr. Hoadley arrived by the noon train yesterday and was at once taken to the hospital.

An Anniversary

Two years ago yesterday—the 3rd of May—was a time of mourning in this city. About 6 o'clock in the evening on that memorable day the great explosion in No. 1 shaft took place, and numbers of families were plunged into mourning, and 146 brave lives passed away. Let us hope that there will be no similar cause for such sorrow in the future.

Brightening.

The outlook for business is brightening and everyone is wearing a more hopeful look. The coal trade is looking up and an increased number of ships are on their way to load black diamonds. All the people need is a little patience and Nanaimo will come to the front, to use a Latin phrase, "with both feet."

Affaire d' Honeur?

It is reported, says the Standard, that a bloodless duel took place at Beacon Hill Thursday morning. The weapons were pistols, but the seconds had brains enough to load the deadly tubes with powder only. The police are reported to have an inkling of the affair, and arrests may be made.

Marine Surveying.

The Government steamer Sir James Douglas arrived yesterday afternoon and anchored out in the bay. The boat has been employed surveying along the coast and painting bouys in the harbors.

Dr. A. C. West, Dentist of Victoria, will return to Nanaimo, between the 10th and 15th instant, of which due notice will be given. There after the Doctor will make regular visits to this city. See future advertisement.

FACT AND HUMOR.

An English author foreshadows a serious danger to his calling should the Amercian copyright bill become a law. The bill provides that no book shall be copyrighted which is not published in America, and the result would be that American books would be exported to England. "If twenty copies," says this author, "of any given work are sold in England, that market will be looked to which takes the twenty copies. The great English publishing firms will have their principal establishments in New York and their branch houses in London. The American literary journals will gain the precedence, and will acquire greater weight than those in England; and, lastly, books will be written to suit the American rather than the English taste." The real issue, therefore, is "not whether or no few writers would continue to be robbed of their just dues, but whether London or New York shall in future rule the English world of letters." It would end, in this writer's judgment, in the transfer of the English literary centre from London to New York.

Twenty-seven years ago an acorn lodged somehow in the mortar or between the stones of an Ohio court house spire, took root, and sent an oak shoot. To-day a miniature oak grows on the spire, eighty feet from the ground. It draws life from the cement, the "skin of the rock," and the air, but principally from air, as there is very little cement in the spire.—Boston Journal.

One hundred and five collieries are now open in India, which among them mined nearly 1,400,000 tons of coal in 1886. It is not so very long since the chief Indian Government geologist said that he was prepared to eat all the coal found in India.

A gentleman who recently attended service at Whitehall Chapel, London, gives the following inventory of what he saw: Two clergymen, two pew openers, two sextons, two organists, sixteen choristers, seventy-seven lighted candles, and a congregation of thirty-three, including children.

On January 6th, London's consumption of gas reached the highest point ever recorded — namely, 105,046,000 cubic feet. A fog almost unparalleled did it.
