UNITED STATES NEWS.

John L. Sullivan is Training Hard for His Coming Battle With Jake Kilrain.

An Important Arrest in the Cronin Case Made Yesterday—Prisoner's Name Unknown.

Gov. Lowery Doing His Utmost to Stop the Sullivan-Kilrain Fight—Troops in Readiness.

CRONIN PARTICULARS.

Chicago, July 5.—Late last night several detectives from the Central Station took their prisoner to Harrison Street Station and locked him up. The greatest secrecy was observed by the officers and from their actions it was evident that they had made an important arrest. They refused to say who their prisoner was, or why he was arrested. It was said that the prisoner was the man who drove Cronin from Conklin's to the Carlson Cottage. Efforts to see the prisoner were futile. The man who drove Cronin from his office and "J. B. Simmonds" are both wanted, but so far neither of them has been discovered. The authorities are doing their very best to learn who it is that is supplying Martin Burke at Winnipeg with money for his defence. The desperate fight is being made to prevent Burke's extradition convinces the police and the State Attorney that he is the man who can furnish the connecting link between the investigators and the financial backers of the crime and also the actual assassins.

BREWERY BURNED.

Cleveland, O., July 5—Early this morning the Oppman Brewery Company's plant was burned; loss $30,000.

A MEXICAN EMBEZZLER.

San Francisco, July 5.—W. E. Burlingame, ex-Cashier of the Socorro County Bank, Socorro, New Mexico, has been arrested here. He is accused of embezzling a large sum of money belonging to the bank. He had $1,700 in his possession when arrested.

WILL STOP THE FIGHT.

Jackson, Miss., July 5.—Gov. Lowery telegraphs sheriffs of all counties to spare no expense to prevent the Sullivan-Kilrain fight taking place. Troops will be held in readiness to move at a moment's notice.

KILLED WITH A BOTTLE.

Atlanta, Ga., July 5.—Daniel Alssen struck Albert Wilson, a stonecutter, with a bottle at Lithmia, Ga., last night, killing him instantly. Alssen was drunk, but escaped arrest.

DROWNED AT A PICNIC.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 5.—By the capsizing of a barge near Forest Grove, yesterday, where a picnic was being held, five young people were drowned.

EMBEZZLERS.

New York, July 5.—Henry Antoine Noll, his wife Blanche Noll and Paul Hamont of Paris, were arrested at Far Rolllowao, to-day, charged with embezzling 165,000 francs from the banking house of Journal & Co., of Paris, last May.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Boston, July 5.—The United States Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, which has under investigation the the relation of Canadian railways to the Interstate Commerce laws and the United States railways, began its session in this city to-day. Senator Cullom presided, and Senators Gorman, Blair, Harris and Regan, of the Committee, were also present. Senator Cullom explained the purposes of the committee's visit and had read the resolution under which the committee is acting. President Bliss, of the Boston and Albany road, addressed the committee. He thought the Canadian roads should not be allowed to enter United States territory unless under the same regulations to which American roads were subjected, unless they paid duties, considering the greater length of roads in Canadian territory, and other existing conditions on both sides. If the law were fairly enforced on both sides, and both sides carried out its provisions, the business of American roads would be so increased as to enable them to deliver their commerce and travel from the West into Boston, and vice versa, cheaper than they were now enabled to do, and cheaper than Canadian roads could do it. A large portion of the shipments of New England to China was carried over Canadian roads at much less rates than on American roads. This business would be taken by American roads were it not for the Interstate law. The only good effect the law had, was to stop temporarily the building of railroads. The law had been but little benefit except in establishing the stability of the through rates, and he thought it could be better obtained by regular pooling. He thought the long and short haul clause was wrong. Some system of pooling would be the best thing.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

New York, July 5.—Dun's Review says: "Though there has been a dullness usual in the holiday week, business has been fairly maintained in volume and is gradually improving in prospects. Fall trade is expected to commence earlier than usual, and the local indications in all parts of the country lead dealers to anticipate an active season. Prices of commodities, in spite of the rise in some speculative markets, have, on the whole, fallen during the month about 2 per cent., and are now hardly 1½ per cent. above the lowest average ever recorded; but there are signs of substantial improvement in the most branches of industry, which impress observers with confidence in the future. The monetary situation, though threatened by large exports of specie demands, is as yet undisturbed. Nevertheless the stock market, which is by many considered an indicator of the future, has been sinking. The average of prices has now declined $321 per share since June 12th, and while the fear of a monetary press hereafter has been a factor of some importance, it is clear that the wars of Western, and to some extent of Eastern railroads, have disheartened many investors and caused much selling.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

New Orleans, July 4.—Sullivan now weighs 202 pounds and severe training has been abandoned, though he will take more exercise than an ordinary man could endure. This morning a football filled with flour or meal, weighing about twenty-five pounds, was tossed for Sullivan to Muldoon and back again at distance of twenty-five feet, Sullivan receiving the heavy ball for forty minutes without a sign of weakness. Neither Muldoon or Cleary could stand it long, so alternated in receiving the ball and tossing it back to Sullivan every ten minutes. Sullivan finished perfectly fresh after his stand against both of them. Those who saw him hurl the ball with a velocity that made Muldoon stagger as he received it, were reminded of the John L. Sullivan of old. After two minutes' rest Sullivan began skipping the rope and skipped a thousand times without stopping. Sullivan is reported to be the only man who ever accomplished this feat. Then after a minute's interval came dumb bells. This was repeated fifty times, causing Cleary and Muldoon to pant and blow, while Sullivan scarcely breathed hard. Sullivan can hit as hard as ever, and has lost none of his oldtime lightning rapidity. Once he hit the ball so hard as to split the leather. His friends say that if he can get a couple of these right-handers on Kilrain's head, the fight will be pretty near over.

The arrival of Sullivan and the enthusiasm of his friends here does not dampen the ardor of Kilrain's friends, whose numbers seem increasing. While the central portion of the city side with Sullivan, the upper sections are largely in favor of Kilrain. At the Southern Athletic Club most of the members seem confident that Kilrain will win. Other members of the club, in support of their opinion, said that men like Billy Madden, Arthur Chambers, and Dominick McCaffery, all of whom know both men well, would not be found on the side of Kilrain if they did not know what they were doing. According to reports received, Sullivan has not near the wind that Kilrain has, and he is, besides, entirely too heavy about the hips.

COMOX NEWS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Our school examinations have passed off with great eclat. Quite a large number of visitors were present, and took great interest in the proceedings. Miss Halliday and Mr. Mundell were two days later in winding up for the holidays, than Mr. Sutherland. Parents of pupils are expressing on all sides their keen appreciation of the indefatigable way in which teachers must have worked in order to have brought their scholars on so rapidly during the last term.

Last Friday morning Mr. Salmond shot a magnificent panther, measuring seven feet in length, after the veracious brute had succeeded in demolishing one of his calves and nearly killing two others. No wonder that when skinned the animal was found to have a lining of fat on the breast which would have done no discredit to a prize Berkshire. If we could manage to extirpate their destructive "felines" by presenting some testimonial to each of our neighbors, who succeeded in killing one of them, we might then manage to "go in for" sheep-breeding with some chance of success. As it is at present what with dogs, panthers, wolves, &c., this, the most profitable of all the farmers resources is all but totally denied us.

Dr. Scharschmidt is just about moving into his new offices.

Mr. William Duncan, of the firm of Duncan Bros., had the misfortune to cut his foot very badly last Tuesday morning. He slipped off the mowing machine, right in front of the knives, when the horses suddenly started.

There was a pic-nic on Monday held at the bridge which crosses the Courtenay River. It was most successful, both as to number of visitors and their enjoyment. The day's pleasure was succeeded by a grand ball in the evening which was held in the Knights of Pythias' Hall. The dancing was kept up until broad daylight, the scene being a most brilliant one when the gaiety was at its height. Many of the ladies' dresses were most recherche, and the hall itself was very tastefully decorated with flowers, evergreens, etc.

Following is a resume of the South Comox School Examination, the exercises of which consisted of the usual Reading, Geography, Grammar, Recitations, and Songs. Provincial Rolls of Honour were awarded as under:

For proficiency—Richard Anderson; regularity and punctuality—George Beckensell; deportment—Maggie McDonald. Two prizes were given by the teacher, viz., a beautiful watch and chain to the boy who had made the most marked progress, George Beckensell; a similar handsome gift, being presented to Maggie McDonald.

On August 25th, 1883, the Comox Lodge, No. 5, Knights of Pythias, was duly organized. The Lodge now consists of 51 members. It has built its own Hall—a building both spacious and commodious. The number of members continues steadily on the increase. The election of officers for the ensuing year was as follows: P. C., J. McKenzie; C. C., J. Bruce; P. E., E. Muschamp; M. of E., S. Cliffe; M. of F., S. Creech; K. of R. & S., J. Sutherland; M. of A., J. Hardy; J. G., J. Derbyshire; O. G., N. Miller. W. Robb was chosen D.D., G.C.

Lord Randolph Churchill Will Stand for Central Birmingham in the Conservative Interest.

All Danger of Complications Between England and the States on the Seal Fishery Question Averted.

RISE IN PRICE OF WHEAT.

London, July 5.—There has been a great rise in prices of wheat and rye at Vienna and at Buda-Pesth. The Russian dock and the Commercial dock on the Thames were destroyed by fire to-day, including a number of timber sheds containing a large amount of timber, and seven barges. Loss, £60,000.

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

London, July 5.—The Daily News says the Parnell Commission will adjourn August the 9th, and that the closing speeches on the part of the Parnellites will be made on that day.

RUSSIAN SECURITIES.

Berlin, July 5.—The North German Gazette advise German holders of Russian securities to accept payment, instead of agreeing to their conversion and re-investing under more favorable conditions.

BANQUETTING MINISTERS.

Belgrade, July 5.—King Alexander gave a banquet on Tuesday, after his coronation, to the Persian and Russian Ministers to Servia. The latter responded to the toast offered to the Czar by the young King.

WILL STAND FOR BIRMINGHAM.

London, July 5. — Lord Randolph Churchill has definitely determined to stand for Central Birmingham, the local Conservatives refusing the dictates of the central authority, who desired that John Albert Bright might be permitted to retain his seat as a Liberal-Unionist.

THE AMERICANS WIN.

London, July 5.—In the shoot at Nunhead this afternoon the Americans defeated the South London team at 250 yards by 28 points, and at 500 yards by four points.

BEHRING SEA.

London, July 5.—The Daily News says that communications which have been passing for some weeks between the Foreign Office here and the State Department in Washington on the subject of the Behring Sea difficulties have resulted in the thorough understanding between the two governments, which will avert the possibility of a controversy in the Behring Sea during the seal fishery.

PARNELL TO "STAR" THE PROVINCES.

London, July 5.—It is announced that Parnell will make a tour through Scotland in the Autumn. He speaks at Glasgow in September, and probably at Dundee and Inverness.

LIBERAL DEPUTATION V. LORD LYTTON.

London, July 5.—Plans which have been talked of for some time by the Liberal National Club and Liberal National Federation to send a deputation, composed of Liberal Members of Parliament to Paris, with an idea of counteracting the effect upon the French Government produced by the absence of Lord Lytton, the British Ambassador, from the opening of the Exposition has been abandoned.

Irish-American Repnblic

Lower California to be Purchased by Irishmen who will form a Republic.

Chicago, July 5.—A number of prominent Irish-Americans held a private meeting yesterday afternoon to discuss the feasibility of organizing an Irish-American Republic, to advance the interests of Ireland and the Irish race. After a lengthy discussion, it was unanimously decided to adopt a plan of action outlined by Wm. Grifin. Accordingly an organization was perfected to be known as the "Irish-American Republican Association," and an election of officers was held. It is the intention of the projectors of the above named Association to organize a land syndicate composed of influential and wealthy Irishmen, and to send representatives to Canada, Chili, Peru and Mexico. The latter country, it is understood, would be willing to dispose of Lower California or the neighbouring State under certain conditions, with the privilege to purchasers of establishing an Irish-American Republic theron. The money expended on improvements, necessaries and land, will be secured by mortgage without interest, or at a very low rate of interest and will be collected in small annual installments. This money will be used to build and equip a navy, organize an army, develop the resources of the country and establish a Republic.

Fall in Fruit.

There was a great fall in fruit yesterday, when G. B.'s wagon upset. The kids reaped a harvest.

Fruit or Meat.

The food which is most enjoyed is the food we call bread and fruit. In all my long medical career, extending over forty years, I have rarely known an instance in which a child has not preferred fruit to animal food. I have many times been called upon to treat children for stomachic disorders induced by pressing upon them animal to the exclusion of fruit diet, and have seen the best results occur from the practice of reverting to the use of fruit in the dietary. I say it without the least prejudice, as a lesson learned from simple experience, that the most natural diet for the young, after the natural milk diet, is fruit and whole meal bread, with milk and water for drink.

The desire for this same mode of sustenance is often continued into after years, as if the resort to flesh were a forced and artificial feeding, which required long and persistent habit to establish its permanency as a part of the system of every day life. How strongly this preference taste for fruit over animal food prevails is shown by the simple fact of the retention of these foods in the mouth. Fruit is retained to be tasted and relished. Animal food, to use a common phrase, is "bolted." There is a natural desire to retain the delicious fruit for full mastication; there is no such desire, except in the trained gourmand, for the retention of animal substance. One further fact which I have observed—and that too often to discard it, as a fact of great moment—is that when a person of mature years has, for a time, given up voluntarily the use of animal food in favor of vegetable, the sense of repugnance to animal food is soon so markedly developed that a return to it is overcome with the utmost difficulty.

Neither is this a mere fancy or fad peculiar to sensitive men or over sentimental women. I have been surprised to see it manifested in men who were the very reverse of sentimental, and who were, in fact, quite ashamed to admit themselves guilty of any such weakness. I have heard those who, gone over from a mixed diet of animal and vegetable food to a pure vegetable diet, speak of feeling low under the new system, and declare that they must needs give it up in consequence; but I have found even these (without exception) declare that they infinitely preferred the simpler, purer, and, as it seemed to them, more natural, food plucked from the prime source of food—untainted by its passage through another animal body.—Richardson in Longman's Magazine.

Oiling the Shears.

Standing in a prominent hardware store the other day, the Stroller watched a lady purchase a pair of shears. She decided upon the size and style desired and tried four or five pairs, rejecting them all because, she said, they "squeaked." But she was finally suited with a pair that didn't "squeak" and went her way. As the accepted pair happened to be one of those first refused, the salesman was asked how the metamorphosis was effected. "That," said he, "is one of the very simplest secrets of the man who sells shears. Observe this." He picked up a pair of scissors which "squeaked" wofully when worked. Then he ran his thumb and forefinger thoughtfully down the side of his nose and rubbed them over the scissors, which came together as gently and noiselessly as though saturated with oil.

"That's all there is of it," he said. "You see, there is always a little oil collected in the corners on the outside of your nostrils. Scrub your nose as hard as you will, the oil will be back there in five minutes. So when a customer comes in, tries a pair of shears and complains that they squeak and come together hard, we can oil them up and make them run smooth without exciting suspicion. What was the oil put on the nose for? To help the hardware man out, I suppose. But then what I have told you is a good thing for all nervous people who don't like squeaky shears to know."—Chicago Journal.

At the North Cape.

At Tromsoe, the sheltered capital of northern Norway, our steamer remained just long enough to allow us to visit an interesting encampment of Lapps, and their reindeer in the neighborhood. The company we visited had pitched their tents on the side of the mountain, and about a dozen or more seemed to live comfortably enough in a space we might portion off for so many hens and chickens. Both men and women were remarkably short, seldom more than four feet high, with eyes wide apart, and flat expressionless faces.

They wore reindeer garments, with leather boots up to the knee, and bright colored hats in form of sou'westers on their tangled locks. At our request the men called loudly to the Lapp-in-chief, who was waiting for a summons upon the hills to bring down his herd of reindeer, and very soon the cries of the dogs and the rattling of the horns of the deer were to be heard, as the beautiful creatures answered to the call of their master and bounded down the hillsides toward us. The patriarchal Lapp, after we had made a few vain attempts at exchanging courtesies, signified he expected a handsome donation for his trouble, and on saying "good by," we noticed that the Norwegian sailors who accompanied us each gave his coin in turn, it being considered unlucky to part with a Lapp without offering some small gift.—Temple Bar.

Oil of Birch Costs Money.

Recently there was sent from Norwich to New York five two gallon tin cans filled with oil of black birch, which was manufactured in Bozrah by John Miner. It is worth $80 a gallon, and the five cans contained 158 pounds of oil, valued at $800, or a little over $5 a pound.

Black birch trees do not yield oil as the maple trees run sap. There is work in getting the tender twigs, and labor in the process of extracting the oil. One ton of twigs yields just three pounds of oil, and it took nearly fifty-three tons of twigs to yield the ten gallons. This oil is used in giving the wintergreen flavor to confections of all kinds.—New London Telegraph.

THE NOBLE ART OF SELF-DEFENCE.

The keen interest exhibited by a very considerable proportion of English-speaking men on either side of the Atlantic, as well as in the Southern Ocean, with regard to the Sullivan-Kilrain prize-fight, shows most conclusively—in spite of the advancement we have made of late years in what is termed civilization—that no amount of law-making can ever hope to eradicate the brute nature which lies just beneath the skin. It is true the Latin race does not exhibit this particular form of savagery, but the Spaniards have their bull-fights, and the French and Italians the duel on the slightest of provocations; which after all is but little better than the love of the old Romans for their Amphitheatre and its gladiators. Let us but tread on the corns of the most courteous and suave of our acquaintance and we shall quickly see a change come over the man. Away flies the French polish in an instant, to be replaced by the barbarous instincts inherited from our forefathers, who taught that one of the most sacred duties of life was to give a blow for a blow. Hitherto we had imagined that these reflections did not apply—at any rate with equal force—to woman. Hence our surprise at seeing the advertisement of a "professor of the noble art" who engages to give lessons in boxing to the "opposite persuasion." Woman is making great progress. We heard last year of a lady Senior Classic, nor do we despair of the arrival of the day when woman's French shall be correct. These achievements are for the "classes," the women whereof are not usually beaten by their husbands. The women of less happy fortunes are to be taught apparently that she who would be free herself must pitch into her husband. The advertising "professor" gives object lessons, in which his pupils' objective is the nose of her lord. Little idyls of domestic life are acted—with the gloves, we hope. The man of the future who on coming home from his labour, aims a blow at a woman will be doubtless met by dodges and feints until his loving spouse lands heavily with her left on his dexter optic causing him to put up the shutters and adopt the early closing movement. As the sporting reporter would doubtless put it in the racy and flowing style of which he is so perfect a master—when once woman has learned to get her lord's head in chancery, fibbing severely with her right, and visiting his kissing-trap so that the claret flows freely, man will think twice before lifting his hand or foot against woman. Thus at least, argues our "professor." He appears to calculate that the man who strikes a woman is usually groggy and a little unsteady on his pins, so that by in-fighting, his partner may have the better of him. One thing, we are inclined to think, has been left out of the teacher's calculations. What if the husband takes to hugging? His weight is almost sure to tell, and his wife may not answer to the call of "Time." After all we are not sure that the "Professor" would not be wasting his time. Why stoop to a mere vulgar brawl when coal-oil lamps are so cheap, handy, and efficacious as missiles. It is to be greatly feared the worthy "Pro." is an idealist. We wish him all success, but it is impossible to believe that science in women, will ever make up for the overpowering strength and weight of man. Besides, man may take lessons in boxing, too, and the woman's advantage will be gone, and the old brutal supremacy restored. No; man, not woman, must tackle the wife-beaters of whom we so often read in our papers from across the herring-pond; and if he does so with a cat-o'-nine-tails, so much the better. Once let public opinion in the regions where wives are beaten take a more decided tone, and women will be much safer than in the arts of the advertising "Professor."

THE COMMISSION ON ROYAL GRANTS.

A QUESTION of general interest to all, because a more or less personal one, inasmuch as it concerns the various members of the British Royal family, is at present agitating the Lower House. Mr. GLADSTONE and his party, says our telegram, have wrung from Lord SALISBURY'S Government the appointment of a Commission which shall settle upon what principles all future grants of public funds to members of the Royal Family shall be made. Our despatch goes on to state that the concession of this Committee was wrung from the Conservative Ministry, and is looked upon as a great Radical triumph. For many years back we have seen clearly enough that a gradual change was taking place in public opinion with regard to these Royal grants. Each succeeding Cabinet finds more difficulty than did its predecessor in office to coax the House into passing the necessary vote of supply. At last comes news that a Commission has been appointed to enquire into the matter. A fact to be remembered in connection with the matter is this. Lord SALISBURY has under ordinary conditions a working majority of about eighty, but on this question of the Commission he, or rather his locum tenens Mr. W. H. SMITH, is in a minority. There is small wonder that the British taxpayer feels uneasy at the unlimited liability which he assumes while compelled to provide for all the offspring of English Royalty; seeing that where the House of Guelph is concerned, there is but small need to utter the well-known prayer of the Arab of the desert, "May their tribe increase." On the other hand the amount to be paid per head of the entire adult population of Great Britain and Ireland towards the maintenance of these royal paupers is not a serious matter; indeed so infinitesimal is it, that from this point of view—and leaving out of sight the principle involved—it is hardly worth consideration. That the Queen is herself well able to provide, at least some portion of the requisite funds, to enable her grand-children to begin house-keeping is undoubted. Rumor states—nor has it so far as we know, been officially denied—that her accumulated savings are in the neighbourhood of ten million dollars. This "nest egg," with the addition of her two million dollars per annum, may well excuse carping critics from suggesting that she should herself accept a portion of her family responsibilities, instead of, as at present, invariably appealing to her "beloved subjects" for the indispensable cash whenever a princeling or princess-ling decides to leave the parent nest and make a home for him or herself. In London alone, it is estimated that no less than forty thousand persons of both sexes don't know, from day to day, where they will get a meal or a bed. This being the case we can sympathise with the expression of opinion which must have been very general, to have caused the Government to have made such a concession as is reported. All parties are agreed that the reigning Sovereign, whether King or Queen, should have an ample allowance from the State, nor do they, so far as we are aware, begrudge the heir-apparent an income which enables him to maintain his position as the "first gentleman of Europe." What they do begrudge apparently, is the payment of the ever-recurring demands for money, made on behalf of healthy young men and women, whose parents appear to think that because Royal blood runs in their veins, that, therefore, they are absolved from the responsibilities acknowledged and accepted by parents in all other walks of life—viz., that of providing for their children.

IRELAND AND THE CHIEF SECRETARY.

IRELAND and the Irish appear to have occupied the rest of the time and energy spared from the discussion on Royal Grants by honorable members. Mr. ARTHUR BALFOUR must sometimes feel disposed to parody the remark which WILLIAM III. made to the Duke of HAMILTON of his day, who was sounding the praises or dwelling on the wrongs of Scotland:—"My Lord, I wish it was a hundred thousand miles away, and you were King of it." If Ireland were a hundred thousand miles away, Mr. PARNELL or anyone else might be crowned King of it, with Mr. GLADSTONE for his Prime Minister, and though Ireland would probably not be much the better, England would be very little the worse. Unfortunately Ireland is not a hundred thousand miles off, and the art of mechanical engineering has not reached that degree of perfection which admits of its removal. Until this solution of the problem by physical separation can be accomplished, political separation, it appears to us, remains impracticable. Whether Mr. PITT was right in describing patience as the quality most necessary of all in a statesmen, or DANTON in giving the preference to audacity, is a point which we will leave our readers to determine for themselves. In any case it is gratifying to reflect that both qualities have been displayed in a most conspicuous manner by the present Chief Secretary for Ireland. To such an extent indeed has Mr. ARTHUR BALFOUR proved himself patient, audacious, persistent and courageous, that it is no very rash prophesy when we assert our belief that the day is not so very far distant when he will be Prime Minister.

A WARNING.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all is dangerous, and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you a life. As soon as you feel that something wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostils obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup It will give you immediate relief.

TOASTMASTER HARKER.

HE HAS HEARD MORE AFTER DINNER SPEECHES THAN ANY OTHER MAN.

Reminiscences of Distinguished Diners. Charles Dickens Was a Ready Speaker. Brought Out the Prince of Wales—Dining 5,000 Doctors.

"Are you still the city toastmaster?"

"No. I gave up my post some time ago; but I am the queen's bailiff at the central criminal court, and am one of the highest servants of the corporation."

"How many dinners have you put through in your official capacity?"

"Four thousand and ninety."

"Most of the great speakers you have heard take something to keep their voice in trim?"

"Well, Disraeli, for instance, always had his butler behind him with a bottle of egg and sherry, which he had ready mixed. Mr. Gladstone, I have noticed, takes sherry, but no egg. The Prince of Wales, he likes hock and champagne. The Duke of Edinburgh, his servant always brings his special brand with him of Russian champagne."

ALL THE CROWNED HEADS.

"Well, Mr. Harker, you have certainly heard more after dinner speeches than any man living. Will you offer some criticisms?"

"Well, I suppose Charles Dickens was the ready a speaker as I ever heard. The words flowed out like a stream, but he was not what I call a good after dinner speaker, because he was so interesting that you wished he would go on forever. Now, that don't do for me, you know. Here I have to stand by with the watch."

"The 'stop' watch, eh?"

"Yes; I've stopped Mr. Gladstone before today." This in a confidential whisper.

"You don't say so."

"A fact. When he is too long I have taken into his ear, 'T-i-m-e, sir! t-i-m-e,' and then he slacks up. With ordinary men I say it to the 'chair,' not to let the room hear me, you know. I never stop a man at a charity dinner. It doesn't do."

"Is the Prince of Wales a good speaker?"

"A glorious fellow. If I had only a sovereign in the world and he wanted it, he should have it. Why, I brought him out in '63, and stood behind him many a time and oft. Does he speak from notes? Not in speaking of himself, never. He has a slip of paper to show the order of the toasts, that's all. What's his favorite dish? Well, he likes sweeties en casse, en papillot, larks, lobsters, oysters. He is very fond of those."

"Well, now, who are the most famous people you have attended?" Mr. Harker looked hurt and his fingers fumbled irritably with his white tie as he proceeded:

"Why, nearly all the crowned heads of Europe. The queen, to begin with. When I brought out the Prince of Wales in 1863, and all his brothers and his sons, the emperor of Austria, the late czar and the present czar, the late Emperor Frederick, the Emperor Napoleon—why, I remember swearing in the late emperor of the French as a special juryman at the Old Bailey when he was nobody. Did he serve? Just like anybody else. He had to serve by the law of the land.

COACHING THE PRINCESS.

"Then I claim to be the person who first induced the Princess of Wales to make a speech in public. I was standing behind her, a good many years ago; it was at a charity dinner or luncheon, and her speech was going to be read by her secretary. I ventured to say: 'If your royal highness would only say a word yourself it would make all the difference,' and she did. The Baroness Burdett-Coutts, too, I induced to speak when she opened Columbia market."

"Well, you heard about your successor who couldn't pronounce Massachusetts? What is the most difficult name you ever had to tackle?"

"The Madagascar envoy's. They were cautions. 'Riandriandrianivo,' as near as I can remember it," said Mr. Harker. 'Rain and rain and dry again,' as Punch called it. The biggest number I think I ever did was 5,000 foreign doctors who dined at the Guildhall, and they said I didn't make one mistake."

"What preparation had you for your onerous duties?"

"In 1844 I shipped with Sir John Ross for the Antarctic expedition. We wintered twice in 76 degs. south; then we went to China, Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, getting remounts for the regiments engaged in the Indian mutiny. I had joined the commissariat then. I came home in the fifties, and served through the Crimean war."

"Any wounds?"

"A bullet in my leg, a gun carriage crushed my ribs, and a slice of my chin cut off with a saber. Pretty tough, eh? I have twenty-six medals and orders, and my collection of autographs is not to be beaten, I think, for I have 600 cabinet portraits of all the famous men and women for thirty years past, with autographs attached."

"By the way, what are your fees?"

"Two guineas for a city dinner and ten guineas if I travel."

"And your uniform?"

"Well, evening dress as often as not now. In the good old days I wore a beautiful velvet dress, with knee breeches and silver decorations, which cost £200. But the city can't spend money like they used to do. They are watched by the newspapers."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Took the Starch Out of Him.

You say that you do not think that a dog has intelligence? Well, you are wrong, and if you had been up around the corner of State and Twenty-ninth streets the other morning you would have acknowledged that you are wrong. Up in that neighborhood, on one of the fashionable avenues, there lives a lady who does her marketing over on State street. Her pet is a pretty little white poodle dog which she keeps immaculately clean. This dog is a dainty little creature, as white as the proverbial driven snow, and always with a delicate pink or blue ribbon adorning his neck. Well, the lady went to market on the morning in question and the dog was with her. The streets were very muddy and sloppy and the poodle did some very artistic work in picking his way across the streets and avoiding puddles. As he crossed State street at the heels of his solicitous mistress his finicky actions were jealously watched by a yellow mongrel who eyed him from the further corner. This cur glared at him until he disappeared in the corner grocery. Then he turned tail, took to his heels and disappeared down the alley back of Dearborn street.

In a few minutes the mongrel cur returned to the corner. He was accompanied by a half dozen dogs, who looked fully as tough as he did. The crowd took up a position in a group near the curbstone and apparently eyed the grocery across the way very closely. Pretty soon the dainty poodle and his fond mistress came out and started across the street the dog skipping puddles artistically. Just about as he reached the middle of the street the signal was given. The group of curs bounded into the muddy street and made a bee line for the poodle. The largest dog took the lead and caught the pet amidships. He did not attempt to bite him—just knocked him about ten feet through the mud, amid the wails of his mistress. Every cur in the crowd took occasion to trample on the poodle with muddy feet, and then they gathered on the opposite curb in a crowd, looked back at their victim and appeared to laugh. The victim was covered with mud and looked as though some one had washed windows with him. And the big mongrel who put up the job looked at his co-conspirators and appeared to say: "Well, we did that gay duck up in fine shape, and I guess we've taught him not to be so gallus hereafter." Dogs are intelligent—there is no question about that.—Chicago Herald.

The Lawn.

The artistic arrangement of the lawn is, to the owner of every country place, a matter of the first importance, or should be. Time was when flower beds plentifully besprinkled its green surface and made of even the smallest plat a very garden of brilliant coloring, attracting the eye of every beholder. But the fashions change here as elsewhere, and behold, now the popular taste would point toward the larger expanse of green with its modicum of shrub and tree, while the old time flower bed and its occupants smile at you through the garden fence.

Care should be taken to have a firm, beautiful sod in the first place, to which end a thorough preparation is essential, and, whether it is to be sodded or sown, frequent top dressing will insure its continued beauty, especially if cut close and often.

As to the arrangement, a continuous variety in form, color and expression would lend themselves to the eye and hand of the true lover of artistic beauty. Here a certain species of tree, dainty and delicate in nature, yet perfectly hardy, would form a beautiful mass when grouped, like the dwarf arbor vitæ and Irish juniper, while there are for separate planting the varieties of Norway spruce, white spruce and hemlock, the larger varieties to be kept within bounds by cutting back, while the dwarfish kinds may follow their will.—Vick's Magazine.

Eating Dog.

The story of Minister Cushing's experience at the table of the wealthy Chinese mandarin, and how, pointing to a particularly appetizing looking dish, he remarked in inquiring tones, "Quack, quack?" only to receive the astounding response, "Bow-wow!" is familiar to every one. But the first genuine case of a free born American electing to eat a piece of man's humble friend is related in the following true story:

Little Brent is a young hopeful of Kentucky ancestry who has spent his less than three years in one of the suburbs of Cincinnati, and has not that familiarity with the country which would make him familiar with all the domestic animals.

Being recently on a visit to the ancestral home in Bourbon county, Ky., he was for the first time introduced to that luxury, a roasted sucking pig, whole, with a roasted apple in its mouth and a blue ribbon decking out its tail. It was supper, and the young man not being permitted to have meat for his supper, looked with longing but hopeless eyes on the delicious vision. At last he turned to an aunt and said, with yearning tones:

"Aunt Belle, is it dinner or supper?" Being assured that it was supper, he braced himself for a last appeal, saying stoutly: "Well, I think I will have a bit of the dog, anyhow."—Youth's Companion.

Gen. Sheridan's Children.

The home of the late Gen. Sheridan is still sad in the remembrance of the death of its distinguished head, but amid all this sorrow there is a quiet joy in the heart of Mrs. Sheridan in her children. The eldest daughter, Mary, is now 13 and bright. The twin daughters, Louise and Irene, named after their aunt and their mother, take after them in beauty, and "Little Phil," just turning 9, is a perfect reproduction of the "Little Phil," the hero of Winchester and Five Forks. In stature and physiognomy he is a counterpart of his father, which is a great source of consolation to his mother. The "Little Phil" of the family shows all the courage and equanimity of the "Little Phil" of history.—Philadelphia Times.

Old Grandpa Fly sat on a bowl,
And overheard the scheme;
Quoth he, "Children, I'm old and wise,
Have had that self same dream.

"Though life so glittering seems to youth,
And everything looks grand,
The world is treacherous at the best—
Be careful where you stand."

Now, when the little flies heard this
Their spirits 'gan to droop,
When—Grandpa Fly slipped on the edge,
And fell into the soup. —Life.

Husband and Wife.

Among other absurdities we have well meaning husbands and wives harassing one another to death for no reason in the world but the desire of conforming to current notions regarding the proper conduct of married people. These victims are expected to go about perpetually together, as if they were a pair of carriage horses; to be forever holding claims over one another, exacting or making useless sacrifices, and generally getting in one another's way. The man who marries finds that his liberty has gone, and the woman exchanges one set of restrictions for another. She thinks herself neglected if the husband does not always return to her in the evenings, and the husband and society think her undutiful, frivolous, and so forth, if she does not stay at home alone trying to sigh him back again.

The luckless man finds his wife so very dutiful and domesticated, and so very much confined to her "proper sphere," that she is, perchance, more exemplary than entertaining. Still, she may look injured and resigned, but she must not seek society and occupation on her own account, adding to the common mental store, bringing new interest and knowledge into the joint existence, and becoming thus a contented, cultivated and agreeable being. No wonder that, while all this is forbidden, we have so many unhappy wives and bored husbands. The more admirable the wives the more profoundly bored the husbands.—Herald of Health.

The Mysterious Wrestler.

In Mr. A. C. Gunter's new book, "That Frenchman," the scene opens in Paris during the last years of the second empire, changes to St. Petersburg and then to the German-Russian frontier. The tale is melodramatic in character, as are Mr. Gunter's other books, but the author states that he has tried to develop more comedy. The advance orders he reports at 40,000. He has introduced as one of his characters "the wrestler in the mask," a man who produced a great sensation in Paris in 1867 and '68. This person was supposed to be some great nobleman who was fond of wrestling. He was in the habit of driving to the scene wrapped in a long cloak, under which he wore his wrestling dress. On his face he had a small, black silk mask. He met all comers and was never defeated. Naturally he was the source of gossip, and the halls or circus was crowded when it was announced that he was to appear.—Current Literature.

Her Moral Character.

Some amusing incidents happen at the civil service examinations which the laws now require to be passed by candidates for official positions and clerkships. It was at an examination here in Boston that a young woman found herself confronted with the question:

"Are you of good moral character?"

She was very much amused at the question and in doubt how to treat it. Calling the examiner to her desk she said about the question:

"I have the reputation of being of good moral character. But you know 'reputation' is what people think of us, while 'character' is what God and the angels know of us, and that I don't want to tell."

The examiner said she need not worry. —Albany Express.

We Want Self Defense.

A New Yorker old enough to know better is reported in The Tribune as having uttered these terribly treasonable protests against some modern improvements:

What with your murderous railroads, your new fangled bridges, your ten story buildings and electric currents over and under and on all sides of you, your life isn't worth a penny at any time or anywhere. If you walk in the middle of the street, the pavement is just as likely as not to shoot up into the air and blow you out of sight. Talk about coast defenses and harbor defenses, what we want is self defense.—Boston Transcript.

Lula's Appeasement.

"Coward! Lying hearted man!" hissed Lula d'Effington between her set teeth when Richard Kurdaleeong replied that she could only be a sister to him.

"Lula, you are excited. Your words do not consist," replied Richard, calmly.

"Trifler! Base ingrate, explain yourself!" was all the outraged girl could utter.

"If I am Richard the lyin' hearted, surely I am no coward."

Another moment and he held the wan corpse of Lula d'Effington prone at his feet.—Binghamton Republican.

How to Rest.

Dr. Jackson's Health Journal says a cat is a sermon to nervous people. She finds the quietest spot about the place, where it is cozy and sunny, or in summer shady, drops down just as her flesh will drop, with each muscle relaxed and goes to sleep. The doctor's cat sermon is that we Americans do not know how to rest or sleep, or how to recuperate and make the most of life. What we need is to know how to relax every time we feel tired or fagged, instead of pegging on under stimulus of tea or alcohol.

To make tough steak tender, take a teaspoonful of salad oil, two teaspoonfuls vinegar, a little cayenne pepper. Lay the steak upon it and let it remain one hour, then turn over and let it lie an hour.

FRENCH LUXURY.

Rich Surroundings of Cabinet Ministers and Their Wives.

I often wonder whether it is, after all, an evil for French ministries to be short lived—unless for the ministers and their wives. If they were not often overthrown the number of persons to taste the sweets of office would be so much less. The constant shuffling of the cards and new deals have also the advantage of preventing the formation of a governmental caste, which would be the most unendurably conservative one that ever existed, and, I doubt not, the most insolent and puffed up. You have no idea in England of the magnificence in which members of French cabinets live. They are housed in palaces, at once handsome, luxurious and snug—a rare combination. Admirably trained footmen are thrown in with the palaces. Lords chamberlain and masters of the ceremonies might take lessons in deportment from the reserved, respectful and self respecting ushers in black, with steel chains round their necks, who show visitors into the presence of the minister on the ground floor or of the ministress on the first floor.

The funiture of a ministry is all very handsome and imposing in the ground floor rooms. All this splendor takes away the breath of an Englishman fresh to Paris, who has been used to the dinginess of the Irish office, and the plain brick house at Whitehall in which the G. O. M. resided when in office. At a French ministry, the foot sinks in winter in the deep pile of the carpets. In summer the oak parquet floors are beautifully polished, giving a charming sense of coolness and dustlessness. Immense windows of the folding door model thrown wide open, if the weather be sunny, afford prospects of velvety turf, old trees, shrubberies and flowerbeds in bright bloom. There is not a ministerial residence that has not a garden spacious enough to deserve the name of a park, and the atmosphere of Paris is free from smoke blacks.

The ministress lives generally on the first floor of the official residence, which is just as spacious and handsome, but more gay and elegantly coquettish, than the ground floor rooms. The sitting rooms of the outgoing prime ministress—the nicest one we have had for an age—were done up for the Duchess de Persigny when she was running her curious rig under the empire. For her pleasure the Garde Meuble, which is an infinite wealth of beautiful furniture, was rifled of some of its most lovely Eighteenth century treasures. The duchess was, on her father's side, the granddaughter of Ney, the cooper's son. On her mother's side she stood in the same relation to Jacques Lafitte, of financial celebrity, who came to Paris with worn out shoes and an empty pocket, but who won the heart of a miserly banker by stooping to pick up a pin in his courtyard, and so was able to make his way to fortune.

Yet the duchess was as dainty as if her ancestors for centuries had been of the duc's class. A crumpled rose petal on her couch would have made her cry out. She afterward had to slave in the house of her second husband in Egypt (Lemoyne, an Orleans attorney) like her great-grandmother. The sitting rooms, the use of which Mme. Floquet enjoys, are done up with rare old brocades and old pink Sevres and Dresden porcelains. The bedrooms are just as elegant, and the dining room is a bijou. All the year round ministresses can have what flowers they please from the state green houses. How, then, could they help regarding themselves as sovereign ladies, were their husbands' tenure of office long?—London Truth.

Brought Home to Her.

A few evenings since a lady who was giving a little private party was saying all manner of severe things about the proposed lottery. In the midst of her pious indignation an old gentleman, sitting on the opposite side of the table, said quietly:

"Madame, did you not once sell me two tickets in a church raffle?"

The woman hesitated, and finally said: "Perhaps I did."

"Fancy cake basket, wasn't it?"

She colored up, and, after an embarrassed cough, said feebly: "I believe so."

"Did the drawing ever come off, and, if so, what was the winning number?"

The lady made a strong effort and said she had forgotten.

"The reason I recalled the circumstance," continued the old gentleman blandly, "was that I noticed the cake basket on the table." And he looked at the aforesaid piece of silver in a smiling way.

There was a dead silence all around the table, for several of the guests remembered having purchased those same tickets, and they couldn't remember, either, just when that drawing took place.—Carson (Nev.) Appeal.

A Famous Painter.

Benjamin West, the famous American painter, was born of Quaker parents in Springfield, Pa., Oct. 10, 1738. When a child he drew a picture of the baby in the cradle, and for his first painting obtained his colors from leaves and berries. He taught himself, and at the age of 16 painted pictures in Philadelphia and neighboring villages. It was at this time that he produced his painting of the Death of Socrates. In 1760 the generosity of friends enabled West to go to Italy to pursue his studies. Soon after he settled in England he obtained the favor of George III, and in thirty years painted over 400 pictures. He died in London on March 10, 1820.—Philadelphia Times.

How Long to Stay.

The proper length of time to stay at a tea has never been defined. Elderly society women who are past the rush and activity of their prime and only go to one tea in an afternoon, sometimes settle themselves comfortably in an easy chair and stay two or three hours chatting with their friends as they come and go. Busy society leaders fly into the house, sip a cup of tea, stay five minutes and dart out again, only to be driven rapidly to another place, thus going to three or four teas in an afternoon.—New York Sun.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's CHLORODYNE.

THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE

Advice to invalids—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c., &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists Medical Hall, Simla, January 5th, 1880: To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London, Dear Sir:—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and judging from their sale we fancy their sojurn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa, and 2nd Dysentery Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general Sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even if the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of the opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's, is A DELIBERATE BREACH OF FAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBE AND PATIENT ALIKE. We are sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, undoubtedly, the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1884.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

Caution—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.

NEW MINES.

The Discovery at Siwash Creek---An Ounce of Gold a Day.

Mr. J. Tallyard arrived from RockCreek last night. In coming out he visited the new mines on Siwash Creek, at the head of Okanagon Lake, which were discovered on Tuesday last. The lower end of the mines runs on to the Indian reservation and the Indians ordered the miners off and pulled out their stakes. For several years it has been known that gold existed on Siwash Creek, and last year the McLean brothers took out $700, but it was not thought that it existed in paying quantities. A number of miners went in about two weeks ago and prospected carefully, with the result that diggings which are believed to be rich were discovered. Since the find an ounce a day to the man has been taken out by those who have their claims opened. The diggings are only about three feet deep to bed rock and very easily worked. There is plenty of water and the miners are of the opinion that at least ten miles of the creek will pay. Two miles of the ten are on the Indian reserve and it is possible that there will be trouble with the Indians. When the stakes were pulled out the miners communicated with Mr. Mara and that gentleman replied that the law gave free miners the right to enter on a white man's land to mine for gold, and that an Indian's rights could not be greater than a white man's. The gold is very coarse. Siwash Creek is fourteen miles from Vernon and easily accessible by wagons. Supplies are cheap and every thing seems favorable for a prosperous camp. At Kamloops there was considerable excitement, and people are flocking to the new camp from all directions.—Victoria Times.

JUST IN TIME.

The Blaze at Mr. Jacob Sehl's Residence Quickly Extinguished.

At about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon an alarm of fire was sent in by telephone from the residence of Mr. Jacob Sehl, Laurel Point. The firemen lost no time in responding to the alarm, and upon arriving on the scene found smoke issuing from two places—the garret being on fire directly above the kitchen, and the shingles of one of the gables on the main building also being in a blaze. The family were at lunch when they discovered the house to be on fire, fortunately before the flames had got any headway, as with the strong wind blowing the consequences could not have been other than disastrous had the fire not been extinguished in its incipiency. It is supposed that a defective chimney was the cause of the fire, which was quickly extinguished, the principal damage to the house and contents being done by water. Mr. Sehl estimates the amount of damage at about $300. The house was insured for $6,000 in the Phoenix, of which company Messrs. Heisterman & Co. are the agents, and for $6,000 In the Liverpool, London & Globe, Hall & Goepel, agents.—Colonist, July 5th.

A New Line of Steamers.

Some two weeks ago telegrams were received by us to the effect that the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company had arranged to run a line of their splendidly fitted boats from Yokohama and China ports to San Diego. No confirmation of such report has, however, as yet reached us. Now comes a rumor that the Northern Pacific intends putting on a trans-oceanic line of steamers between Tacoma on the one side, and China, Japan and Australia on the other. Negotiations are—says the Tacoma News—pending for boats of first-class make, speed and capacity. Details are to be made public almost immediately. The News goes on to state that the O. R. & N. millstone has hitherto prevented the carrying out of such a project on the part of the Northern Pacific, which company has long meditated such a step. Now that this Corporation is at last released of its "old man of the mountain," it purposes carrying out the above plan at the earliest possible date.

Nanaimo Cricket Club.

At a meeting of the above club held last night, it was decided that the challenge from the Vancouver Cricket Club, to play a match at Nanaimo on the 19th inst., be accepted. In future there will be practices on Tuesday and Thursday, from 3 o'clock to 7 o'clock p. m., for all members wishing to attend. The members have unanimously voted the sum of $50 to the lawn tennis club, from the funds, for the purpose of laying out a lawn tennis ground in the cricket field. The return match, Married vs. Single, which had to be abandoned last Saturday, owing to the uncertainty of the weather, will be played to-day at 3 p.m., and we have no doubt that the tables will be turned on the Bachelors.

East Wellington Sports To-Day.

An interesting programme is anticipated to-day. Several private matches are on the tapis.

There is talk of a pony race and three ponies have been entered, we are informed, amongst which may be cited Bob Harvey's "Dobbin," who is a likely winner.

Cricket, shooting at glass balls, quoit playing, and possibly football will be the attractions for to-day.

Dancing on the platform in the evening will wind up one of the most enjoyable celebrations ever held on Vancouver Island.

Ah! There, What is That?

One of the Vancouver photograph's company has broken away from his religious training. Photographs at $3 per dozen at Mr. Sampson's. Well, well I see. Very cheap indeed, but I can tell you n photographer can live at that price, however I will follow suit. I will have my share or burst in the attempt. If you want good work call at my gallery and see, for I am the only practical Photographer in this city. W. P. Coughlan, opposite Windsor Hotel, Nanaimo.

Dentistry.

Dr. Hartman, the prominent dentist of Victoria will be in Wellington, July 15th, and will stay at Wellington for one day only. He will be ready to perform all opperations in dentistry. He will be in Nanaimo on the 16th and 17th at his old room at the Royal Hotel, wishing his patients to be on time. †

Candy Butcher.

The peripatetic "Candy Butcher" has struck the town. Civilization is advancing rapidly and probably we shall soon see the old familiar Savoyard with his hand-organ and monkey in our midst, not to mention the pea-nut vendor and the purveyor of pop-corn.

A Novel Cargo.

Forty-four miles of wire cable has been taken aboard the C. H. Tupper at Vancouver. She is expected to sail next week for Honolulu with her load, which was manufactured in New York.

East Wellington Sports.

The Finest Day's Horse-Racing Yet Seen in the Province.

A JOCKEY THROWN HEAVILY.

Another splendid morning greeted the crowd which assembled to witness the second day's sports in celebration of the 4th of July. The slight rain that fell the previous evening served to cool the air but had no perceptible effect on the dust, which was terrible, flying up in clouds at the least movement of the wind, and being of a very light grey, persons who went out in black, returned in mottled grey, but it is an ill wind that blows no good and T. E. Peck, the genial hotel-keeper, who had a couple of well supplied bars on the ground, dispensed considerable fluid to lay the dust in the throats of the "celebratists."

In spite of all the liquor drunk and the natural excitement attendant upon horse racing, very little fighting occurred and that mostly of the "limp" type as a young lady styled it. Several men got limp and lay down to take observations.

The Baseball match, Wellington v. Fanaimo, occupied the whole morning, and was very interesting.

The races commenced at 2 p. m., and lasted until nearly 7 p. m. There were several well known horsemen and sports on the track, and all agreed that it was the finest race meeting that they had seen in British Columbia, the horses were all entered to win, the track was good, and all events went off with very little delay. The "C" Battery Band, as usual, attracted a great deal of attention, and during the afternoon Mr. Proctor, the conductor, pro tem., favored the audience with a cornet solo that won great praise for him.

The Judges for the horse racing were W. S. Chandler, Esq., James Abrams, Esq., and Dr. Eberts.
Starter—"Doc" LeBallister.

BASEBALL MATCH.

The baseball match, Wellington vs. Nanaimo, for a prize of $40, proved a great attraction, several ladies being visible at an early hour evidently lured out there by a love of the national game of America.

The game was called about 10 a. m., and the toss won by the Wellington team who sent their opponents to bat.

Following are the names and positions of the players:

NANAIMO.	POSITION.	WELLINGTON.
Watson	Catcher	Douglas
Spear	Pitcher	Kennedy
Mallandaine	1st Base	Love
Edwards	2nd Base	Longster
Mitchell	3rd Base	Longstaff
Belsea	R. Field	Saunders
Waklem	L. Field	Thompson
McKinnell	C. Field	Pope
Williams	Short Stop	Manson

The Nanaimo team played well at the commencement of the game and soon ran their score up to eight, while the Wellington men were getting four. Very soon though the Wellington team put their score up to eight, making both scores equal, but the Nanaimo Nine played remarkably well and increased their score to sixteen, while the Wellington score remained at a standstill. In the last innings the Wellington team, amid the wildest enthusiasm, ran their score up to fifteen, and everyone imagined that, as they were playing in such a confident manner, the game was theirs. The store stood sixteen to fifteen in favor of Nanaimo when Edwards made a magnificent catch and won the game for Nanaimo. Messrs. Watson, Spear, Mallandaine and Edwards deserve special mention for their excellent play. For Wellington Douglas proved a first-class catcher, and Kennedy and Thompson deserve great praise for their playing.

HORSE RACES.

First race, ½ mile and repeat; prize, $200. Three horses entered—"Telephone," owned by T. Shaw; jockey, W. Bryant; colors, red, white and blue. "Royal," owned by A. Cassell; jockey, Stanley Jeffreys; colors, brown and white stripes. "Harry B," owned by George Hayes; jockey, J. Millington; colors, blue and white.

On the draw for positions "Royal" won the inside track and the word "go" was given with very little delay.

FIRST HEAT.

"Harry B" 1
"Royal" 2
"Telephone" 3

SECOND HEAT.

"Telephone" 1
"Harry B" 2
"Royal" 3

THIRD HEAT,

"Royal" 1
"Telephone" 2
"Harry B" (distanced).

In this heat W. Levier rode "Royal."

FOURTH HEAT.

In this heat a false start was made and the horses ran around the track, "Royal" coming in an easy winner, but the heat was disallowed.

On running the heat over again it resulted as follows:

"Royal" 1
"Telephone" 2

Time, 62 seconds.

When the judges announced that the Nanaimo horse had won, the wildest excitement ensued, hats being thrown in the air and various other antics were indulged in to show the delight of those who scooped the cash.

SCRUB RACE.

This race was a half-mile and repeat, for a prize of $150. Three horses were entered: "Who'd a Thought It," "Johnny Mac," and "Wellington."

FIRST HEAT.

"Who'd a Thought It" 1
"Johnny Mac" 2

SECOND HEAT.

"Johnny Mac" 1
"Who'd a Thought It" 2

THIRD HEAT.

"Who'd a Thought It" 1
"Johnny Mac" 2

In this heat all the betting was on "Johnny Mac," who seemed to be running well within himself, but soon after the start he left the track, running into the brush, and was only induced to return with difficulty. "Johnny Mac" pulled up on his opponent on the home stretch and only lost the race by a head.

MATCH RACE.

A private race, half-mile and repeat, for $100 a side, was run between W. Haslam's "Dexter" and T. Shaw's "Fanny." Won by "Fanny," who took the second and third heats.

MILE RACE.

This race was one mile dash for $125. Three horses entered, "Coquitlam Jim," owned by G. Black. "Telephone," owned by T. Shaw, and "Harry B," owned by G. Hayes.

"Harry B" was entered to make the race as the programme stated "Three horses to enter or no race." The result was as follows:

"Coquitlam Jim" 1
"Telephone" 2

"Telephone" got a good start but failed to keep it to the quarter, and was only just able to save himself from being distanced.

CONSOLATION RACE.

This race was half-mile and repeat for a prize of $50. Horses that had not won a race only allowed to enter. Only two entered "Harry B" and "Johnny Mac."

First Heat—The horses started well, and "Harry B" soon obtained the lead, which he kept until past the last quarter when he suddenly stumbled and fell heavily, turning a complete somersault, Johnny Mac was very close behind "Harry B" when he fell, and it was only by the most skilful horsemanship that his jockey saved him from striking the fallen horse. Everything was obscured by a cloud of dust, but at last J. Millington, the rider of "Harry B," was seen walking off unhurt. He came to the Judges' stand and claimed a foul, as he stated that "Harry B" had been "heeled" by his opponent. The Judges finally decided to allow the race to Johnny Mac as "Harry B" was distanced. The latter horse was not injured.

FOOT RACE—1 MILE.

This was a match privately arranged between Jones and Hackle for a purse of $50, and was won by Hackle.

Doc LeBallister, starter in the horse races, gave them the word, and they went away well together. At the end of the first ½ mile Jones was about 30 yards ahead, but on arriving at the ¾ mile post Hackle had caught up even with him and eventually won by about 2 feet.

Dancing on the Mammoth platform was indulged in to a late hour last night. Music was supplied by the "C" Battery Band.

COUNTY COURT.

Before Hon. Justice Crease.

The sitting of the County Court was resumed yesterday morning at 10 o'clock.

FOSTER V. HOGGAN.

C. C. McKenzie on behalf of defendant, and G. Norris on behalf of plaintiff stated that no arrangement had been arrived at out of Court and His Lordship delivered the following written judgement:

I have reflected upon the law and facts of this case and the arguments of counsel herein, both as a judge and jury, and the conclusion I have arrived at, in that double capacity, is:

That the boundary line between the plaintiff's land and that of the defendant, is, and shall be deemed to be, and to have been a right line drawn in a westerly direction from a point in the centre of that part of the eastern boundary line which is in dispute parallel to the northern boundary line of Foster's land, to strike a point in the Western boundary line of plaintiff's and defendant's land.

The line connecting such two points to be laid out at the joint cost of the two parties by a land surveyor by posts and permanent marks on the ground, and so laid out to be and be deemed to have been deemed the permanent dividing line between the said lands, that is to say between the land held under the Crown grant of the 27th day of March, 1888, to John Foster and his heirs, and the land held under the Crown grant of the 19th day of February, 1885, to Alex Hoggan and his heirs.

And it is hereby declared and ordered that the land to the north of the dividing line so marked out is and shall be and shall be deemed to have been the land included in the said Crown grant of the 27th day of March, 1888, and the fee simple absolute of the said John Foster and his heirs, and shall be dealt with accordingly, whether for registration or any other purposes whatever.

And it is hereby further declared and ordered that the land to the south of the dividing line is and shall be deemed to have been the land included in the said Crown grant of the 12th day of February, 1885, and the fee simple absolute of the said Alexander Hoggan and his heirs and shall be dealt with according, whether for registration or other purposes whatever.

And I do further order that each party pay his own costs of this suit.

HENRY P. P. CREASE, Judge.

His Lordship warned them that if they took the case to the Appellate Court it might cost them both dear.

L. PAGE V. S. HILBERT.

This was an action brought to recover the sum of $12.60, being the amount paid by plaintiff to defendant to become a member of the United Order of Honor Lodge.

After hearing some very lengthy evidence proving that the money was paid to Hilbert, His Lordship gave judgment for plaintiff, and mentioned several others to whom the same amounts were due, and also suggested that the remainder of the funds of the Lodge in the hands of the Treasurer be equally divided among the membere of the late Lodge.

Lace curtains at cost price. Boys' suits at cost. Carpets at cost at Arthur Bullock's.

New flannel boating and cricket shirts and coats just received at the Box store, Victoria Crescent.
