ANOTHER TAX FOR CHINESE

City Council May Cut off the Oriental Vegetable Pedlers.

Question Will Be Referred to Attorney General for an Opinion.

At the meeting of the council last evening after the reading of the minutes, the report of the finance committee was read, recommending the payment of the regular payroll account. The report was received and adopted. A letter was read from the city solicitor regarding a by-law to regulate city laundries, stating that the city had the power to pass such a by-law and define where the laundries should be situated.

A second letter from the solicitor raised a small storm. It was regarding the power of the council to tax the sellers of fruits and garden produce. The letter was to the effect that according to the present working of the act such a tax could be imposed. The sum mentioned for a tax was $25.

Mayor Fletcher stated that he had been approached on the street by a number of prominent citizens and he believed that public opinion was strongly against enforcing a prohibitory law against the Chinese peddlers.

Aldermen Morrison, Drew, Irving and Scanlan strongly supported the enforcing of a tax on the Chinamen.

Ald. Hamilton thought it was all right to put a tax of $5 every six months on the Chinamen, but was against prohibiting them altogether. The Chinese were able by handling the produce as they did to sell it very cheaply, and if they were shut off it would be a hardship on a number of people who now found it hard enough to get on as it was.

Ald. Scanlan disagreed with Ald. Hamilton regarding the great difference that would be made if the Chinamen were stopped from selling vegetables. In other cities and towns a market bylaw was enforced and producers of vegetables and fruit were not allowed to peddle except after certain hours. It was an injustice to the merchants who paid taxes and licenses, and even if some of the people did not like the idea of the Chinamen being stopped it was not right that an injustice should be perpetrated on such merchants to please them.

Mayor Fletcher said that however else it was regarded it must be remembered that the Chinese vegetables were home grown, and the Chinese gardeners were getting land into cultivation around Nelson that but for them would probably always have remained a wilderness of rocks. The vegetables sold by the merchants were almost entirely imported from the other side of the line.

Ald. Irving was of the opinion that the Chinamen should be allowed to peddle their vegetables but they should also be charged a license. He considered that $25 was small enough to charge.

Ald. Hamilton objected to this. The Chinamen were a great convenience to a large number of people who but for them would get but little in the way of fresh vegetables. Ten dollars a year was plenty.

Ald. Selous stated that if the aldermen were the means of putting in force such a law, which would necessitate the housewives of the city "putting on their best, bib and tucker and walking down town every day to a market for fresh vegetables for breakfast or lunch that there would be trouble."

Ald. Morrison—If the merchants drop the carrying of fresh vegetables altogether can the Chinese supply them? At present if a Chinaman by any accident does not call at a house and the customer has to come down town for the vegetables they are aggrieved if the merchant has not a good assortment.

It was finally decided that a letter should be sent to the attorney-general requesting information as to whether the council could impose a license on the Chinese peddlers.

Bylaw 110, to prevent the spread of tuberculosis was finally read and adopted. It was also decided that placards containing the principal regulations to be enforced, especially the one against expetorating on the sidewalk, should be printed and placed in conspicuous places.

The report of the auditor for the quarter ending March 31, was read and referred to the finance committee for consideration.

The council then went into committee of the whole to consider the arrears in water and light rates.

ASSIZE COURT.

Four Civil Cases That are to Be Brought Before It.

So far four civil cases have been set down for trial at the approaching assize court. These include:

Payne Mining company vs. F. H. Wilson, a adverse action of the Return mineral claim against the Tonic fraction.

McQuillan vs. Fry, an action brougt by the consul general of Ecuador, resident at Vancouver, against A. C. and F. L. Fry, over an interest in the Joker and Cody fraction mineral claims. This case is said to cover the same ground as that of the celebrated Callahan vs. Joplen in which leave to appeal to the privy council was refused.

Lever vs. McArthur, an action for damages against the defendant for injuries sustained upon a pile driver at Kootenay Landing.

Fraser vs. Davis, an action to recover the sum of $55 representing the value of assessment work done.

WHITE STAR GOES IN.

London Merchants Alarmed Over the Great Morgan Merger.

London, April 28.—The Shipping Gazette this afternoon says: "While it is perfectly true that the White Star line has not been sold to the American syndicate, and that the present owners of shares retain their holdings, the statement made Saturday did not fully represent the real position. We are authoritatively informed that while there will be no sale of White Star shares, there will be an exchange of shares for those of the new company. In this way the financial interests of the White Star in the combine will be established. The two great German companies will, on the other hand, make no similar exchange of their shares for those of the new company, but they will enter into an agreement binding them for ten years, and renewable for another 10 years, by which their co-operation is secured. The simplest way of indicating the real position is to describe the companies concerned as entering into a pooling arrangement. It follows that there will be no competition between them at the ports with which the individual steamship corporations have hithreto been more particularly identified.

In the house of commons today, the president of the board of trade, Gerald Balfour, replying to a question, said the board had no power to require the disclosure of any agreement for the transfer of a British ship to a foreign owners nor to require the White Star line or other lines which had entered into an agreement combination to disclose the terms of their agreements with the American syndicate, or to produce any documents showing the status of the persons, who, under the agreements, acquire a share in the control in the ships concerned.

PRINTERS MAKE A DEMAND.

Toronto, April 28.—The Toronto Typographical union has made a demand upon the newspaper publishers for a new scale for compositors and linotype men employed on the morning papers. At present the compositors receive a minimum of $14 per week, and a bonus of eight cents per thousand ems on all matter set over 23,000 ems per night, making the average wage about $18. Compositors now receive a minimum of $14 per week. The men demand a flat rate of $21 per week for linotype men, and $18 per week for compositors. They demand the rate to go into effect on May 8. The publishers have refused to meet their demands.

Halifax, April 28.—There are now 1,700 men in the fourth contingent camp at the Exhibition grounds.

CURTALING PRODUCTION

Drop in Copper Lets Out Some of the Le Roi Miners.

No Truth in the Story That the Mine Will Shut Down.

Rossland, April 28.—The effect of the drop in copper values was felt in this camp today for the first time when one hundred and twenty men were laid off at the Le Roi mine. In the course of a few days the services of forty more will be dispensed with. The crew of the mine will then aggregate some four hundred and fifty men. The employees laid off have been taken from all the levels except the 1,050 foot level. In the various levels bodies of ore exist in which the values are not sufficient to return an adequate profit with copper at present quotations and the extraction of ore from these bodies has been suspended, hence the cut in the force. Ore shipments will be curtailed for a time, but there is a possibility that the output may be brought back to 6,000 tons weekly, within a short time, if ore from the number one dump is shipped. Alarmist reports were circulated locally that the mine might close down permanently for a time. This is flatly contradicted in the strongest possible terms.

ROSSLAND GAMBLERS.

Prosecutions Launched Against Them Under the Criminal Code.

Rossland, April 28.—The suppression of gambling in this city has not extended to the card games, black jack and stud poker, and James Lawn, claiming to act for a number of citizens, is prosecuting the proprietors of all places where the games were operated, under the statute relating to common gaming houses. Today's police court was occupied with the hearing of the first case, and the city hall was crowded. Most of the week will be occupied in hearing the balance of the cases, and Police Judge Boultbee has withheld his decision in the initial action until all are completed. The allegation was made that the informant was animated by private spite for losses at the roulette tables, but this has been denied under oath.

MURDERED AT SCHOOL.

Boy Kills a Girl and Says it Was Accidental.

Kingston, April 28.—Beatrice Holland, the 14-year-old daughter of George Holland, engineer on the Kingston and Pembroke railway, lies dead in her home, and Eric Sharp, the 15-year-old son of Henry Sharp, the Princess street grocer, is locked up in the police station charged with murder. The boy and girl attended th Frontenac school. According to the stories told by schoolmates the girl was in the habit of bothering the boy. Today, in the cloak room, she tipped his hat off several times and finally Sharp told her if she did it aagin he would shoot her. When the girl left the shcool in company with companions, Sharp was waiting outside. As she appeared he drew a revolver and fired. The bullet lodged in the girl's temple, death being instantaneous. Sharp ran away, but delivered himself up to the police about 7 o'clock. He declares the shooting was accidental. He admitted he threatened to shoot her, but declares he had no intention of doing so. When he pointed the revolver at her, it went off. An inquest will be held tomorrow. Both families are grief stricken over the horrible affair. Young Sharp is rather a fast young man and is addicted to cigarettes and novels.

JAMES VAIR DEAD.

MURDERED AT NOTCH HILL

Alfred Ledger the Victim of a Drunken Man's Anger.

The Coroner's Jury Return a Verdict Against Louis Pauquette.

Kamloops, April 28.—[Special to The Daily News.] Louis Pauquette shot and killed Alfred Ledger at Notch Hill, a few miles east of here, on Saturday night. Pauquette has been drinking hard for two months past. Saturday night he went to Ledger's house armed with a loaded rifle and demanded beer. Ledger, who was engaged in making up a bed took no notice of him, and Pauquette infuriated at receiving no reply fired at him. The ball entered the chest, smashing a rib and penetrating the liver. Ledger died immediately of internal hemorrhage. The weapon used was a Snider rifle.

Ledger's wife was in the room at the time of the murder. Pauquette struck Ledger on the head with the rifle after shooting him, and then turned upon Mrs. Ledger, striking at her with the weapon. She ran out of doors, followed by Pauquette, but he lost her in the darkness. Pauquette went west and was arrested at Shuswap, on his way to Kamloops. He confessed the crime and said he was in love with Ledger's wife. He is now in jail here. An inquest was held at Notch Hill today and a verdict of murder rendered.

HIGHLANDER MINE.

Output Will Be About a Carload of Concentrats a Day.

Kaslo, April 28.—[Special to The Daily News.]—The Nelson Daily News reporter paid a visit to the Highlander mine at Ainsworth on Friday last and in an interview with Maxwell Stevenson, Jr., the manager, obtained the information that the company operating the mine are so far well satisfied; everything is running full blast and it is expected that the output will be about a carload of concentrates a day. The intention is to increase the capacity of the concentrator in the near future. The ore at present is all coming from the 1,200 foot level, all ground above that being a reserve. This mine is noted as having the deepest pay ore tunnel in Canada.

The delayed K. and S. train arrived in today at noon and regular service will hereafter be resumed. For the past few days transfers have had to be made at Payne Bluff and consequently only light freight and passengers could be handled. The report as to the building of machine shops by the company is confirmed, and remarks are heard to the effect that it certainly is time that the K. R. and N. Co., and those controlling it, did something towards building up Kaslo, and that if the C. P. R. were running here they would long before have recognized the advantages of this city as a summer resort and doubtless would have ere this erected a suitable tourist hotel.

YORK IS MAYOR.

Slocan City, April 28.—[Special to The Daily News.]—In the mayoralty bye election held here today A. York was elected over John Bull by a majority of 16, vote standing 49 to 33. The campaign was short but hot, winding up with a warm meeting in the music hall on Saturday evening. York's majority was swelled by several outside votes.

Seven recruits left here today for South Africa. They were given an enthusiastic send off with procession, band, etc., headed by American and British flags.

SUCCESSFUL MISSION

Many Farmers Are Coming to Ranch in Boundary Country.

Eastern Canada Showing a Renewed Concern in B. C.

Grand Forks, April 8.--Percy F. Godenrath returned today after spending three months in eastern Canada on behalf of W. H. Covert in an endeavor to interest agriculturists and fruit growers in the possibilties of the Kettle river valley. He stated that his mission was successful and that during the summer months there will be many prospective settlers for the Covert coloniation enterprise. Wherever he went in Nisgara and in the eastern townships districts especally, the fruit exhibit he had with him attracted much attention. Speaking of capital for mineral development, especially coal deposits, he said: "Consideralbe interest is being manifested in this direction. In Toronto there is a renewed tendency towards British Columbia mining enterprises. One instance, is that of the successful flotation of the Ashnola Coal Co., holding eight claims in Similkameen valley. Within two weeks some $25,000 was subscribed for development purposes. The commercial success of the Granby company has done more than anything to restablish confidence particularly in the Boundary properties. Montreal is closely following the progress of this great enterprise."

Mr. Godenrath will shortly proceed to the Similkameen district on behalf of Toronto people.

The 22 recruits enlisted here for service in South Africa left here this afternoon for Halifax and were given a patriotic send off. In honor of the event a half holiday was declared. A procesison headed by a band escorted the recruits to the depot. The school children, several hundred in number, marched in the ranks. As the train pulled out the soldiers were enthusiastically cheered.

Gus Anderson, while demented, attempted to commit suicide last night by stabbing himself over the region of the heart. He inflicted 14 knife wounds He will die.

REV. MUNROE'S FAREWELL.

In an Eloquent Sermon He Bids His Congrgation Goodby.

Rev. William Munroe, pastor of the Nelson Congregational church leaves for Vancouver this morning, by way of Seattle and Tacoma, whither he goes for the purpose of accepting the pastorate of the Central Congregational church. Mr. Munroe during his stay in this city made a host of friends who will regret his departure. He leaves behind him a reputation for earnest, effective work and of an eloquent and convincing pulpit orator and it is felt by his friends that he has a promising career before him. He will be succeeded by Rev D. H. Reid, who for the past year has been pastor of the Congregational church at Phoenix. On Sunday evening the Congregational church was thronged by the members of the congregation and others who assembled to hear his farewell sermon. Mr. Munroe took for his text, "Abide with us for it is toward evening and the day is far spent." He said in part:

Wherever I go I find men and women divided into two great classes. Those who think great thoughts and try to live up to them. Those who live from day to day, who seem to believe in the doctrine of total depravity and try to live up to it. While laboring in this city it has always been my aim to teach those who think that it is their duty to influence those who do not think. It has been my aim to help all with whom I have come in contact to feel the power of the unseen life and the touch of the unseen hand and the hope of the life that sweeps us on forever.

The fabric of the past two years is woven with experiences in which we have been mutually concerned. The joys of success have been mingled with the tears of the sorrowing. But as I look back over the days that we have spent in working together for the Master I thank God that running all through I can trace the golden thread of reliance upon an unceasing and infinite love.

I have tried faithfully to do my best. Unceasingly I have strived to serve this congregation and this city to the best of my ability. I have done my best to use my influence to silence the hateful voices of spite and ill-considered antagonisms so often heard in the west. It has always been my aim to point men to the moral law as the only effective remedy for the innumerable irritations that disturb our province. When questions of general interest, concerning the general welfare have come before the community I have searched for the right and having found it I have tried regardless of consequences to stand true to its demands. When strife threatens to divide men there is no other safe course than this, search earnestly for the right and having found it remain unalterably faithful to it. More and more am I convinced that in the teachings of the Christ we have the only workable solution for the great seething problems of today. Search where you will, the claims of socialism however good its economic theories may be, the claims of capitalism however enticing its assurances are, the claims of denominationalism however gilded they may be, search where you will and I believe you will come back from your search and will testify with me tonight, there is no other name given among men by which man's life may be saved and made perfect here and hereafter. There is no other teaching can solve the problems of the race. Believe in Him. Believe in His church. With all it failings and mistakes and shortcomings it is the best institution in the world today outside of the Christian home. There is nothing else can take the place of a right relationship to God and to man. Throughout the two years that I have been here this has been the burden of my teaching. Were I to remain here for twenty years instead of two my message to this city would be essentially the same.

Once again the onsweep of time has brought me face to face with removal to another work. Our day together is far spent. Twilight has come and my prayer is that Christ will abide with me and with you. In His name I ask that you will be earnest in making the most out of life. That you will be always ready to look truth in the face and not shrink from its rebuke. That you will uphold and strengthen every reform that has for its aim the betterment of the life of the city or the church or the province or your fellow men in their great solidarity of interest. I ask that you refuse to countenance meanness or revenge and that you try to be governed by your admirations as you look steadiy towards some high ideal. I ask that you have Christ abide with you. As our day together has faded into the twilight let us ask that Christ will abide with you and with me as our pathway now separates.

GOVERNMENT IS WEAKENING

Will Meet Opposition's Views on the Question of Foreshores.

Subsidy Will Be Granted to the Coast-to-Kootenay Railway.

Victoria, April 28.—[Special to the Daily News.]—The opposition tied the government this afternoon on a motion to adjourn until tomorrow, the vote being 17 to 17, Martin and Gilmour being absent. Hon. J. D. Prentice, though still ill, delivered his budget speech. He said the overdraft by June 30, would be $1,768,000. The principal feature of his speech was the intimation that the government would float a new $3,000,000 loan requisitioning the unused authority for previous loans, and selling the total up to the figure named to meet necessary public works. He also intimated that this loan might be floated in New York instead of London. Tatlow, of Vancouver, criticiesed the budget for the opposition.

The railway committee submitted a recommendation today that companies receiving subsidies from the province must buy steel rails and rivets in British Columbia or Canada provided they can get them at the market price prevailing in Britain or the States.

Premier Dunsmuir sails on May 10 for the coronation. His honor the lieutenant-governor was not invited, as reported.

The government will submit a fisheries bill conceding the principle of competition for foreshores. It will also submit a railway bill providing aid for Mackenzie and Mann for their Coast-to-Kootenay and Midway and Vernon railway schemes.

TARTE NOT FAVORABLE.

Thinks Western Members Want Too Much From the Government.

Ottawa, April 28.—[Special to The Daily News.]—In the house today, Davis, Saskatchewan, on a motion for papers as to the cost of the Montreal harbor said that Quebec should be the national port, and that the government should build a road from there, connecting with the Intercolonial, across the continent to Port Simpson on the Pacific coast. This, he said, was necessary to take out the crops of the west. Minister Tarte, in reply, said the western men wanted too much.

Nelson, B. C., April 21st, 1902.

NELSON IS ALL RIGHT.

It is admitted that Nelson did not enjoy as great prosperity during the past half year as previous to that time, and it may be that there are a few more buildings here than there are tenants for, and that business is quieter than it has been. This does not justify, however, the assertions made by a few that the decadence of the city has commenced, and it will never be larger or more important than at present. In support of their contention they ask: "What is there to make Nelson any larger than it is?"

The same query could have been made after the first house was located here in 1887. Since then the city has grown till now it has about 6,000 people with a large and growing business, a railway centre from which more cars arrive and depart than from any other city in southern British Columbia. It is the government headquarters for the southern district of Kootenay. It is the headquarters for the superintendent and district freight and passengers agents of the Kootenay branches of the C. P. R. and a divisional point for its railway shops. It is the northermost terminus of the Great Northern railway. It is a port of entry for the Kootenay customs district. It is the established business centre and distributing point of southern Kootenay. It has four banks and much of the financial business for the surrounding divisions is transacted here. It has already established in its midst several industries, the leading one of which is the Hall Mines smelter, which when in full operation gives employment to about 200 men. Besides this there are founderies, machine shops, sawmills and factories which are increasing in size and importance each year. The fleet of steamers, which ply on Kootenay lake and its tributaries makes Nelson its headquarters and with the growth of the country adjacent to the lake will increase in number. Owing to its low altitude, compared with most of the Kootenay towns, Nelson has a mild, salubrious and healthy climate, its educational advantages, its amusement facilities, its gently sloping townsite and picturesque appearance, make it a most desirable residential centre. Its schools are well conducted and up to date and make it an important educational centre.

Its taxable property is assessed at $2,333,000, which does not nearly represent its actual value. The rate of taxation is low. The city owns its own light and water plants and has spent something over $300,000 on public utilities since incorporation in April 1897. It has well paved streets, a good sewage system, is well lighted and can compare very favorably with any city in the province of the same incorporated age.

All of these results, and they are such that our citizens can point to with pride, are the outcome of the fine geographical location of Nelson, the fact that the city lies at the head of navigation on the west arm of Kootenay lake, the development of the mining section that lies around the city, the fact that it is railway and business centre, and to the enterprise and the ambition of the citizens. It is true that the mining industry has been under a cloud for some time past owing to low prices of silver, lead and copper, but this is only a temporary condition, the result of over production and should soon pass away. Already the prices of copper and lead are advancing and should go higher. As the main reliance of Nelson is on mining the depression in that industry is felt here.

It must be remembered, however, that mining nowhere in the Kootenays has reached its maximum. Last year the production of the lode mines of southern British Columbia was 37 per cent greater than it was the previous year and this was so in spite of the strike in Rossland camp and other conditions which tended to largely curtail the output of ore. It is fair to presume that the percentage of increase this year will be still larger, as there is an improvement in the prices of metals and prospect of a further rise in lead, owing to the establishment of a lead refinery, and the absence of labor troubles, and it is probable that the increase will be 40 per cent. higher than it was in 1901. This shows that the mining industry is growing, and that it will continue to grow no one can deny.

In answer to the query put by our pessimistic friends as to "What will make Nelson grow?" we answer that it will increase in size and importance with the natrual growth and importance of the mining industry. In order to augment that growth the same energetic spirit that founded Nelson, that cleared away the primeval forest which covered its site, that made streets through the solid rock and built brick stone and wooden blocks along these streets, that constructed roads and trails to the mines, that took advantage of every opportunity that came to advance its interests, must be kept up with undimished energy. If this is done, with the same energy that was displayed by the pioneers, Nelson will in a short time have doubled its population and will have become a place of twice the importance that it is at present. This cannot be done by sitting down and bemoaning the fact that we are passing through a temporary depression. Let us be up and be doing.

CURTIS' FREE PASS BILL.

Hon. Smith Curtis, member for the Rossland riding, has introduced an act which provides that every railway company operating a railway for the transportation of passengers within British Columbia shall issue and give free transportation within the limits of the province, as first-class passengers, on all cars and trains carrying passengers, to the following persons: To every member of the legislative assemby, and, in a case of dissolution, for three months thereafter, to every one who was a member at the time of dissolution, to every judge of the supreme and county courts of the province, to the surveyor of taxes and inspector of revenue, and to the assessor of taxes of the province. It further provides that where a railway company owns, operates or controls steamboats or steamships, plying within the waters of British Columbia, or waters adjacent thereto, it shall give transportation to all of the aforesaid classes of persons on such vessels.

Another provision provides that each company shall on or before February 1st of each year hereafter cause to be delivered to the provincial secretary a statement of the list of names, with places of residence, of all persons, not officials of some railway company, residing in the province to whom during the preceding year, a railway pass or free transportation was given, stating also the reason in each case why such pass or transportation was given. Failure upon request to issue or give the aforesaid transportation to any of the persons mentioned, or to make the return to the provincial secretary shall render the company in each case liable to a penalty of $500 to be recoverable under the provisions of the act respecting summary convictions.

Mr. Curtis' act, if it is adopted, will simply make law of what has long been a custom of furnishing transportation to legislators and other public functionaries. The idea that is at the root of the custom is that the leigslators as servants of the public and in the transaction of official business are entitled to free transportation to and from their places of residence to the capital. The evil of the custom was in the fact that the railways in return for the courtesy extended expected legislators to be not hostile to their interests, regarding the transportation furnished as a sort of insurance against enactments in opposition to their interests. The law, if it is passed, will do away with this objectionable feature, as, in that event, the provincial solons can accept transportation as a right guaranteed by the law instead of receiving it under the rose and as something of which they were in a measure ashamed of as the accepting of a pass carried with it a sort of a stigma. The law should be put into effect, but it should be amended so that the railways should receive compensation for the haulage of the legislature, but it should be at a reduced rate, the same as is granted to members of political and scientific conventions. The province, we believe, should be sufficiently large spirited and have enough fairness to pay for the transportation of the officials enumerated in the bill submitted by Mr. Curtis, as well as those who are not mentioned in the instrument.

The feature of the bill requiring the submision of the names of persons to whom passes are given would tend, we believe, to do away with a form of bribery that is all too common. Those who receive such passes would be chary about accepting them when they know that their names together with the reasons for the issuance of the passes to them, would become a matter of public record.

THE STEAMSHIP COMBINE.

The assumption is that the new steamship combine will be run on similar lines to those on which the United States steel combine are conducted. The men who have formed and control the steamship combine, also control a very large portion of the railroads, and they are the controllers, also, of the steel combine. The effect of this powerful combination needs no pointing out. Their holdings and interests are in industrial enterprises do not end with those mentioned. These several combines are but the factors of a stupendous scheme for obtaining control of an enormous amount of the world's trade. With industries, railways, and steamship lines—and all of these vast concerns in themselves—at their command, all working in harmony under the direction of one management, they will hold in their hands an influence on commerce which will go far towards the realisation of what W. T. Stead calls the "Americanisation of the world." There is one feature of the new combine that appeals strongly to the sentiments of the British. It is understood that as long as the present arrangements respecting Admiralty contracts are in force the ships concerned in those arrangements will sail under the British flag, but that after the expiration of that time the American flag will float at the masthead. It has long been the proud boast of the Briton that England, using the word in its broadest sense, was supreme on the seas both as regards her mercantile and His Majesty's navy and that she would hold the supremacy of the sea no matter what might befall. To see our ships sailing under another flag, even though it belongs to a nation begotten of our own flesh and blood, would not be a sight that the average Britisher would regard with equanimity. It is alleged that Mr. Gladstone, a quarter of a century ago, predicted that the United States would wrest from England the position she then held as the supreme commercial power of the world. At that time, however, the great strides since made by the colonies was not dreamed of, the spirit of imperialism now so ardently rampant from one end of the empire to the other was not conceived of. It would not be a safe prophecy to make at this time because the signs of the times are not in keeping with it. The indications all point the other way. The empire is just beginning to feel its feet, it is yet in its infancy, and the growing time is at hand. The whole genius of the Anglo-Saxon race does not dwell in the United States. Much of it must of very necessity abide there, for are they not our kindred? But the vital energies of the race are found wherever the British flag floats in the breeze, and those energies will not rest quiescent while the commercial integrity of the nation is threatened. In the United States England has a competitor worthy of all the energy she can throw into the work of maintaining her position in the world of commerce. That she can emerge from such a contest with credit there can be no doubt in the minds of those who have unshaken faith in her ability to keep the laurels she has won in the past.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One estimate places the spring cleanup of gold on the Klondike at $30,000,000. This will be a welcome addition to the world's stock of the yellow metal and will serve to make times better and money easier for a year or two along the Pacific slope where most of the gold first comes in company with the fortunate miners who extract it from the rich placers of the Yukon. The season in the Klondike has been a good one, the conditions favoring the operations of the miners.

The Highland regiments in South Africa under the new army regulations will be compelled to discard the national dress. The Highland regiments, both officers and men, feel keenly the loss of their national dress. The matter might be compromised we believe, by allowing the Highlander to retain their national dress for parades and other show occasions and by using the regulation uniform only in actual service in the field The dress of the Highlanders is a very healthy one owing to the great thickness of the cloth protecting the abdomen and the medical authorities allege that the Highlanders enjoy greater immunity from stomachic troubles than any other troops.

MINING NEWS.

The free milling ledges in the vicinity of the Queen group promise to give that section considerable importance. A report reached this city yesterday that an important strike had been made on the Hideaway group. A vein of free-milling ore, which is 10 feet wide, has been uncovered. The ledge was sampled across its width and found to average $61 to the ton. Messrs. McArthur, Waldbeser and Broadfoot, the owners, are considerably elated over the find and say that they will at once put on an increased force and begin shipments to the Hall mines smelter in this city. The Hideaway group adjoins the Queen group. The find has occasioned considerable excitement in the vicinity of Salmo.

A. R. Fingland, superintendent of the Monitor, at Three Forks, was at the Phair yesterday. Mr. Fingland reports that the strike made a short time since in the fourth level is perhaps the most important that has yet been made on that property. The ore body was found on the first, second and third levels, but not so strong as on the fourth level, where the recent strike was made. The paystreak is about three feet wide and the values are about the average of the ore found nearer the surface, which has given smelter returns of from $120 to $150 to the ton. Mr. Fingland left for home early this morning.

Work at the Poorman mine is progressing favorably. From the 330 foot shaft two drifts are now being run on the vein at 150 and 300 feet respectively. The ore body continues to improve and there is now a considerable body of ore exposed which assays in the vicinity of $100 to the ton.

EMPIRE STOCK COMPANY.

A good house greeted the Empire Stock company in its opening engagement at the Nelson Opera house last evening in Prince and Lady. The play abounds in the pathetic, but there is a vein of humor running through it, furnished by W. Edmund Carroll as Ross Bolton, the typical theatrical manager, Oswald Roberts, as Sir John Balfour and Will H. Roberts, as Sampson Craft, the scheming lawyer, were particularly good in their parts.

The ladies of the company, on whom fell the heavier work of the performance, well upheld the parts assigned them. Corine Walton, as Jessamine, the America lady, showed much talent in a difficult part, as did also Louis Roberts, in the double roles of Mrs. Carew, and Lady Derwent, and Leila G. Bill as Twister, the theatrical star.

Little Margorie Mandeville, daughter of Will H. and Louise Roberts, showed herself a clever actress despite her tender years, and in her specialties, in singing and contortions, certainly carried off the honors of the evening. She does different specialties each evening, tonight giving an imitation of Lew Docksteader in I'll Break up This Jamboree, and a novelty skirt dance. During the week she will also give imitations of Cissie Loftus and Vesta Tilley.

The company tonight appear in The Convict's Daughter with Little Margorie playing the soubrette part of Sadie.

Lost Opportunity.

EVERY time a package goes out of your store which does not contain some advertising matter, you are losing an opportunity to make your store the store of the town.

Each package you send out is proof that a sale has been made. Every sale is supposedly of goods that are going to give the customer full value, and are going to give satisfaction. This will create a favorable impression. Every sale proves that some person has shown a disposition to trade with you.

Now this disposition is either great or small. In either case it can be made greater. And one of the most effective methods to bring about this desired effect is to place the advertising matter in the packages you send out.

AT THE DAILY NEWS JOB OFFICE

A specialty is made of turning out "Advertising Matter." It will pay any store-keeper to adopt the suggestion offered above.
