Aimar Sato Denies Having Given Japanese Terms of Peace

Declares He Has Been Misquoted and That He Knows Nothing of Humiliating or Any Other Proposals of Peace

New York, July 29.—Aimar Sato of the Japanese peace delegation, has made a statement to the Associated Press in which he denies that he has ever in any interview, given any outline of the terms upon which Japan will negotiate peace or that he has announced that Japan will make any demands whatever. Mr. Sato said:

"I wish it to be clearly understood that I have never given out anything that could be construed as a demand of the Japanese peace commission nor anything that could be taken as a condition upon which Japan would enter into negotiations for peace. I wish also to deny that I am the spokesman for baron Komura. Sensational articles have been published which are false and in which I have been misquoted. I do not know upon what terms peace may be negotiated. I do not know what the Japanese envoys will consider as peace terms. I know of no humiliating or other demands."

WAR PARTY IS GAINING

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The intimation of Mr. Sato, of baron Komura's party, that Japan will claim full indemnification of the cost of the war, besides the island of Sakhalin, has gained recruits for the war party from among the class which has hoped that Russia would be able to offer the railroads to Port Arthur and Dalny, the island of Sakhalin and other valuable concessions in lieu of a direct cash indemnity.

The war office is not slackening preparations for continuing the war in case the peace negotiations are not successful.

The gap in general Linevitch's army caused by the losses at Mukden, has been filled, and the railroad is working to its fullest capacity carrying reinforcements to form fresh troops.

A despatch from Irkutsk announces the completion of work on the trans-Baikal line. In order to relieve traffic on the railroad, prince Hilkoff, minister of railroad communication, has sent three steamers loaded with rails, and a flotilla of rail steamers by way of the Arctic ocean to the mouth of the Yenisei river, whence they will be transported to Krastnoyarstok, within 400 miles of lake Baikal.

TO VISIT KING CHRISTIAN.

But Kaiser First Stops the Schleswig Expulsions.

Copenhagen, July 29.—Emperor William, who will visit king Christian next Monday, will stay for three days at Bernsdorff Castle, the summer residence of the king.

In anticipation of the visit, and apparently in fear of hostile demonstrations against emperor William, the German legation tonight issued the announcement that expulsions from Schleswig, Prussia, will be stopped. These expulsions have for a long time been the subject of much resentment.

ABOUT THEIR CALIBRE

Fears Entertained That Russians Have Sunk Sealing Schooners.

Victoria, July 29.—Advices from Hakodate state that great uneasiness is felt over the sealing schooners Hokusei and Kaga. On the former are four Canadians, three from Victoria, R. Findlay, Charles Grant, and Wm. Williams, and one from Toronto, F. Cochrane.

The vessels have not reported since May and fears are expressed that they have been sunk by Russian cruisers.

BRITISH CANADIAN MAILS.

To Be Landed According to Season at Sydney and Rimouski.

(Special to The Daily News)

Ottawa, July 29.—The cabinet has had under consideration for some time past the question of the mail contract between here and Great Britain. In future contracts it has been decided to provide that during the season of the year when boats run south of Newfoundalnd mails will be landed at Sydney, when they run by the north route the mails will be anded at Rimouski.

ROSSLAND MINES TO CONSOLIDATE

White Bear Wishes to Acquire the Contiguous California

Rossland, July 29—There is a movement on foot to consolidate the White Bear and California Mining companies. The management of the former company is taking the initiative in the matter. The White Bear has reached a depth of 900 feet and should the deal go through it is proposed to extend a crosscut from the lowermost workings of the White Bear into the territory of the California and from this crosscut to explore the ground with diamond drills. There is an 80 foot wide iron capping on the California and it is thought that somewhere in its ground there are some good ore shoots. As the California has been idle for the past four or five years, it would seem that an alliance that would result in restoring it to activity would be advantageous to its stockholders.

The shipments for the week were: Le Roi, 1975 tons; Le Roi, milled, 310; Centre Star, 2310; War Eagle, 1500; Le Roi No. 2, 60; Jumbo 200; Spitzee, 60; total for the week, 6415 tons; total for the year to date, 195,193 tons.

EIGHT FURNACES GOING

THAT WILL BE THE GRANBY RECORD IN NEAR FUTURE

MEANS CONSIDERABLE INCREASE IN PAYROLL

(Special to The Daily News)

Phoenix, July 29—A. W. Hodges, general supreintendent of the Granby Consolidated, states that the best of progress has been made at the Granby smelter with the improvements and new installation of furnaces and machinery, although labor has been a little short at times. Still the long flue dust chamber is now well on towards completion, and the new brick smokestack is up 100 feet. He is bending every effort now to have everything ready for connecting about the 10th of August, when he expects to close down the present battery of six furnaces for perhaps a week. When blown in again the eight furnaces will commence reducing ore at the rate of 2700 tons per day, requiring somewhat of an increase of men at the smelter and an increase of perhaps 100 men at the company's mines here.

NEW POWER LINE

Construction Proceeding Rapidly—Substations at Phoenix and Other Points

(Special to The Daily News)

Phoenix, July 29—Lorne A. Campbell, general manager of the West Kootenay Power and Light company and of the British Columbia Construction and Distributing company, which latter company is building the new high tension power line into the Boundary from Bonnington falls, on the Kootenay river, when here a day or two ago, stated that there are now 300 men employed on the clearing of the right of way for the new line from Rossland to Phoenix, with about 90 men on the new work for increasing the poower capacity at Bonnington. In about two weeks, Mr. Campbell expects that the right of way work will be empleted. Hundreds of poles are now being delivered on the completed right of way, and are being installed rapidly.

It is the intention of the company to get as much done as possible during the prevalence of favorable weather, though it will probably be some time before the current is turned on. In a few days work will be started on the 50x50 fire proof substation to be erected in Phoenix, and other substations will be built at Grand Forks and Greenwood. In addition to the concerns now using electricity in the Boundarp, it is quite probable that the Dominion Copper company and the C.P.R. at Eholt, will be users of light and power from the new line. The British Columbia Copper company and the Granby company have already contracted for a supply of this power whenever it can be delivered. Whether it can be ued here soon enough to prevent the power shortage that occurred last winter in the Boundary, on account of the low water at the Cascade power works, remains to be seen.

SALE OF RACE HORSES

Security and Other Well Known Animals Disposed of

New York, July 29—Every horse in E. E. Smathers' eastern racing stable was sold at Brighton Beach today and excellent prices were realized. The star of the sale was the two year old Security, the winner of the $25,000 great trial stakes, who was sold to Pat Dunne for $10,500. Security is a half brother of Ort Wells and Dick Wells

Pat Dunne also bought Rapid Water for $5800; Burleigh for $5600 and Jake Saunders for $4100. Ala Russell went to Mr. McCarron for $2800. The once great McChesney, for whom Mr. Smathers paid $30,000, was not offered today, but has been sold to J. G. Waggin at private sale. He will be shipped to the Haggin Elmendorf stud in Kentucky.

SPOTTED FEVER OUTBREAK

Many Cases Are Reported From Carleton County

Toronto, July 29—Dr. Hodgetts, secretary of the provincial board of health, has just returned from Carleton county where he has been investigating the outbreak of cerebro-spinal meningitis or spotted fever. At Carp one doctor reported four deaths out of eleven cases. Another on the Quebec side of the Ottawa river had six cases in one house. The disease seems to have gained a footing in the neighborhood of Pembroke and two deaths have occurred in the Ottawa hospitals.

GOSSIP OF GRAND FORKS

[Special to The Daily News]

Grand Forks, July 29—The many friends of judge Leamy will be pleased to learn that his condition has much improved during the last few days and that hope is by no means abandoned of his recovery.

Mrs. Hector Kelly died yesterday morning at 1 o'clock, the cause of death being heart failure. The deceased lady had been ailing for some time.

Thomas McIntyre, formerly of the hardware department of the Hunter-Kendrick company of this place, is making arrangements to open up a hardware store here in the near future. He has rented the store formerly occupied by W. H. Itter and company on Bridge street.

PORTLAND RACE A FIASCO

Nelson Boys Practically Abandon the Contest

Portland, July 29—The Portland rowing club was given the decision in the rowing race today over the Nelson, B.C. crew, after the Nelson boys had practically abandoned the race, which was a succession of fouls and mishaps, caused principally by the inadaptability and inadequacy of Guild lake as a racing course.

UNFAVORABLE TO BRITAIN

German Emperor's Recent Efforts to Readjust the Balance of Power

Anticipated That Alliance With France will Offset any Diplomatic Manoeuvres of the Restless Kaiser

London, July 29.—The British government is still in complete ignorance as to the motive for emperor William's manoeuvres, but it is assured that his efforts will ultimately be directed toward a readjustment o fthe equilibrium of Europe, which was loosened by the removal of Russia from the scale as a sea power.

A high official said to the Associated Press today:

The alarm created by the press of Europe during the past week was undue. The situation is not warlike, though it naturally requires that Great Britain shall make a move to prevent it becoming dangerous. The British government is convinced that any alignment of the powers arranged by emperor William would be on the opposite side of the scale from Great Britain and makes no secret of its desire to effect an agreement with France, considering that such an agreement would preclude the menace of any alliance emperor William could then bring about."

Whether this project has been formally broached to France the Associated Press was unable to ascertain, but indications are that the French government is awaiting the divulging of the German emperor's program.

CHINA MEANS BUSINESS

WILL INSIST UPON INDEMNITY FROM RUSSIA.

FOR YEARS OF ILLEGAL OCCUPANCY OF MANCHURIA.

Berlin, July 30.—The Lokal Anzeiger prints an interview with "a prominent Chinese diplamatist, evidently the Chinese minister at Berlin, who says that the dowager empress and the emperor have sent a circular letter to all viceroys and governors and to Chinese ministers abroad, asking them to state fully their views as to what attitude China should take in the settlement of the Manchurian question.

The diplomatist further states that China is determining what indemnity to demand from Russia, which will include not only the reduction in public revenues during the war, but a sum sufficient to cover damage through years of illegal occupation of that country. It is thought that Japan will keep her word and hand over Manchuria to China, but he thinks it will be impossible for China to install the old form of government there, since the improvements the Russians and Japanese have introduced make a modern system of administration necessary. The diplomatist concludes:

"China will no longer play the role of a mere spectator, but will assert its claims with energy in the Portmouth negotiations, and interesting developments will certainly follow.

CUTS COMMUNICATIONS

JAPAN'S ADVANCE BETWEEN HARBIN AND VLADIVOSTOK.

LANDING AT AMUR MOUTH NOT UNDERSTOOD BY RUSSIA.

Khersu, Manchuria, July 29.—The Japanese are apparently concentrating in considerable force far to the eastward, with the aim of operating against Kirin and Ninguta, and getting in between Vladivostok and the Russian Manchurian army.

It is reported that the Japanese have landed at several places in the Siberian littoral, between Nicholaievsk and Dekastries, and that the telegraph line has been cut. These landings, however, are by small forces.

The rains are moderating and the roads are passable. The wet weather and great heat are affecting the health of the army, and stomach trouble among the troops is increasing. Some cases of typhus have been reported but the disease is not epidemic.

CHANDLER EGAN WINS

Takes Western Golf Championship After a Hard Struggle

Chicago, July 29—Chandler Egan today won the western golf championship for the third time, defeating his cousin in the finals by 3 up and 2 to play. The champion succesfully defended his title, but was one down at the end of the 21st hole. By great work he squared matters at the 28th hole and won the 29th, 30th and 31st holes in succession. The next three were halved and the match ended on the 34th hole, 36 holes being the match, a double round.

MERELY AN ARMISTICE

JAPAN'S TERMS TOO HUMILIATING FOR RUSSIA

GOVERNMENT URGED ON ALL SIDES TO CONTINUE THE WAR.

St. Petersburg, July 29—The tone of the Russian press grows more warlike as the peace conference draws nigh and the government on all sides is urged to resist humiliating demands, even at the cost of continuing the war.

"Peace on the Japanese terms as outlined by Mr. Sato," says the Russ, which is the first paper to comment seriously on the Sato interview, "can only be an armistice." The Russ, which has now the largest liberal following, found the Japanese far from moderate, and sees little chance of the ronfergnde ending successfully, if Mr. Sato has correctly stated the Japanese position; but it appears to believe that baron Komura's spokesman is acting "on his own responsibility," or scents a possible bluff to pave the way for the acceptance of actual and more moderate terms by Japan.

The Sviet continues its fault-finding with the "tactlessness" of the visit of secretary of war Taft and Miss Alice Roosevelt to Japan while the United States is the host of the peace plenipotentiaries.

MOLLY HUGHES BONDED

GERMAN CAPITALISTS TO CONTROL NEW DENVER PROPERTY

MINE WILL BE DEVELOPED AND SHIPMENTS MAINTAINED

The revival of interest and activity in mining, evidence of which are reported daily from all parts of Kootenay, has at last reached the shores of Slocan lake, once the best known district in the whole of Kootenay. A bond has been taken on the Molly Hughes group of mines at New Denver, and the new manager has announced his intention of procetding at once with active and extensive development work.

Negotiations have been carried on for several weeks. They were finally closed yesterday when a substantial first payment was made by the local representatives of the prospective purchasers.

The Molly Hughes is one of the earliest locations in the Slocan district. It is owned by Harry Clever, Thomas Avison, Hugh Sheran and George H. Crawford, all of New Denver. Like many other rich properties in the same belt it remained undeveloped through several years of depression in the mining industry.

About a month ago the owners decided to reopen the mine and resume operations. The work was conducted on a very small scale but to excellent purpose. The last shipment contained ore running 170 ounces silver to the ton. The whole shipment averaged over $90 in silver to the ton. The lead values are also considerable.

About a fortnight ago William Brenner, acting for German capitalists, who are seeking profitable mining investment, began negotiations for a bond. The conferences have been held principally in Nelson, Bruce White acting for the owners and Sharp and Irvine for Mr. Brenner and his principals.

The negotiations ended yesterday, a bond being given for 13 months, with the option of purchase at the end of that time.

W. Brenner, who is already on the ground will be manager of the property. He has nanounced his intention of putting to work at once a sufficient force of men to carry on development work and also to maintain shipments.

Coming close on the heels of important mining deals, not yet quite closed, in the neighborhood of Silverton, the news is already having a very encouraging effect upon the lake district.

NELSON'S NEWS OF THE DAY

W. J. Astley, the Nelson boat man, has recently added to his stock of pleasure craft. He builds his own boats, and although the demand has been unusually great this summer he has been able to accommodate all customers.

Yesterday morning a man named Hetherton got his right hand caught in the machinery at the Kootenay River Lumber company's sawmill. He was taken to the Kootenay Lake general hospital, where house surgeon Dr. Campbell attended to his injuries. Two fingers had to be amputated.

The garden party next Wednesday afternoon and evening at the residence of Mr. Will Irvine, under the auspices of the Altar Guild of St. Saviour's church, promises to be a very enjoyable affair. The city band will be in attendance and there will be songs by Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. McLeod, Mr. Grizzelle and others. Refreshments will be served.

TO BEAT THE RECORD

Strenuous Efforts of an Automobilist at Cape May

Cape May, N.J., July 29—Walter Christie failed to break the world automobile record for one mile on the beach here today. he made three trials, his best time being made on the third attempt, when he sent his 120 horse power machine over the mile course in 38 -2 5seconds, or nearly 6 seconds above the record. Rain spoiled the sport, and it is believed that Christie would have come close to the world's record if the rain had not softened the sandy track.

It is possible that he will make another attempt tomorrow or on Monday to lower the record.

DECLARED INSANE.

Vancouver, July 29.—Thomas B. Harris, formerly a C. P. R. conductor, has been adjudged insane by a medical commission consisting of Dr. Wells and Dr. Procter of this city. He was removed to the provincial asylum yesterday afternoon. The unfortunate man is not violent, but suffers under the delusion that he is a great mechanical genius. Great sympathy is expressed for his family in its sad affliction.

FEVER IS EPIDEMIC

South and North Feeling Alarmed Over Spread of Contagion

Tennessee Has Quarantined New Orleans and New York is Following Suit--Many New Cases Have Been Reported

New York, July 29.—With no less than 25 cases of possible yellow fever detained under observation on the quarantine island, Dr. A. H. Doty, health officer of the port said tonight that 24 hours must elapse before it could be absoultely determined by bacteriological tests whether any of the suspects were infected with the dread plague.

Two sailors, both apparently seriously, were taken today from the steamer Seguranca which arrived from Colon and were isolated in a specially prepared pest house on Swinburne island. Eight more of the crew who had been ill during the voyage were convalescent, and seven passengers, two from the first cabin all of which showed abnormally high temperatures, were taken to Hoffman island, to be detained until the results of the blood examinations are known. In addition to these, two suspects were taken to Hoffman island today, from the steamer Eldorado from New Orleans. There remains on the island six cases from the steamer Avona, which recently arrived from Colon.

New Orleans, July 29.—The deaths from yellow fever today were 7; total deaths, 45; new cases to day, 30; cases previously reported, 230; under treatment at present, 75.

Memphis, July 29.—Following the quarantine established by Memphis and Chattanooga, the entire state of Tennessee today closed its doors against New Orleans and other points where yellow fever is prevalent. This action was taken at a joint meeting here of the state, city and county board of health.

MACLEAN MAY LEAD REVOLT

If R. L. Borden Does Not Refuse Salary of $7,000.

Toronto, July 29.—The "five journalism" of Toronto keeps its people in a fever of unrest. At the Canadian club a few years ago Rev. Dr. Robertson pointed out the danger of the irritant press, and how it kept it readers in a state of mental inflammation. The Toronto newspaper men never travel to see their country. When they go away they buy a sleeping birth and they bring their torrid atmosphere with them. They do not learn anything about Canada because they are trying to teach.

All this might be applied to the attitude of the Toronto newspapers on the salary increases. The Mail, Globe and World lead the attack, and W. F. Maclean, M.P., of the World, loudly confesses that he did not draw the extra $1000, though there are many people who wish he would—and say he should—while others are mean enough to say that he did draw it, but wants to keep it for a few days.

It is learned from Ottawa that nearly every member pelted into the cashier and drew the extra $1000 for the session just closed—the very day after the bill passed. Maclean wants the conservative party to take advantage of the stormy protest being raised against the salary and indemnity increases of the parliamentary members, the senators and judges.

He is going to call upon R. L. Borden to refuse the $7000 granted him as leader of the opposition, claiming that it is a chloroforming grant.

If Borden does not refuse the $7000 it is Maclean's intention to lead a revolt against his leader. He does not believe in Borden, says he never did, and does not think he ever will. As the World man observes, an opposition to be effective must be populistic, socialistic and energetic.

At the Albany club it was said that if Borden really needed money the conservative party could pay him. But one wise old man present said there was a mighty difference between the verbs could and would. That was his experience.

WILL DEFEND HIMSELF

Senator Depew Returns to Answer the Equitable Charges

New York, July 29—United States senator Chauncey M. Depew arrived tonight from Southampton on board the American line steamship St. Paul. Senator Depew freely admitted that his pleasure trip had been cut short. "I have come back to the storm centre," he said. "A man cannot fight his battles three thousand miles from home, and as charges reflecting upon me have been made, I have come back to state my side of the case. Tonight I have nothing to say about the Equitable, nor the loan made the Depew Improvement company, or as to my resignation.

"As soon as I can go over the papers in these various matters, get the official news as to what has actually transpired in my absence, I will give out a statement that will cover all these matters fully. At the proper time I shall give to the public all the information I have so that they may know as much as I do about the Equitable and transactions in which I am interested."

BOYCOTT IS EFFECTIVE

LARGE ORDERS HAVE BEEN CANCELLED IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, July 29.—Louis Getz and Hero Getz, of the Getz Bros. & Co., a large importing and exporting house, have received a cable from Shanghai which reads as follows:

"Cancel all orders. Boycott of American trade is effective among Chinese merchants. All business is entirely suspended."

This cable is from R. H. Van Sant, manager of the Getz branch house in Shanghai. None of the goods which the firm is now preparing for shipment to China will be shipped. Getz Bros. & company must cancel orders to the value of many thousands of dollars. Louis Getz is making arrangements for the meeting of the commercial bodies of San Francisco. Mr. Getz said:

"We shall cancel many orders for flour, meat, hardware, provisions, canned goods and many other things. We have a branch house in Shanghai and were about to open another in Hong Kong. Our Shanghai house will have to suspend business and all work on our Hong Kong house must cease."

YET ANOTHER COUNCIL

CZAR HESITATES ABOUT GRANTING FREE INSTITUTIONS.

QUESTION OF REPRESENTATION TO BE AGAIN CONSIDERED.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The meeting of a special committee consisting of ministers and several members of the imperial family and other members of the council of state, which has been summoned for a final consideration of the project of a national assembly, will be held at Peterhoff on August 2, under the direct presidency of the emperor.

Another general revision of the project is not intended but the emperor has summoned his advisers to consider the vexed question of the nature of representation in the assembly, which was left unsettled by the council of ministers, and will take counsel before giving the imperial sanction to the project. If the verdict is favorable to the promulgation of the reforms, an imperial manifesto may, in accordance with the emperor's desire to commemorate the birth of grand duke Alexis Nicholasvitch in some signal way, be made on August 1, the birthday of the heir apparent.

The Bouligan scheme has undergone modifications in the council of ministers which meet the objections of the liberals, the author of the original project proving to be most conservative member of the council.

REPLY IS EFFECTIVE

Britain Does Not Regard Baltic Sea as Being a Mare Clausam

Despatch of British Fleet to the Enclosed Waters Thought in Russia to be Aimed Against Intrigues of Kaiser

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The approaching cruise of a British squadron in the Baltic sea being announced on the heels of the meeting between emperor Nicholas and emperor William, has created a great stir here, and has given a new turn to conjecture regarding the purpose of emperor William's trip to Russian waters.

The German emperor now is credited in some quarters with a design to enlist Russian support in securing for the Baltic the status of a mare clausam and the immediate declaration that the British fleet intends to pass the Belts is regarded as Great Britain's cry of checkmate. Nothing official is obtainable concerning the cruise, the foreign maintains that it has not been apprised of its purpose nor of the details of its program, and it declines to discuss the subject seriously in the absence of further information.

WANTED IN LONDON

Fruit From Nelson District Asked for by Metropolitan Dealers

James Johnstone has received through R. M. Palmer, secretary of the bureau of provincial information, a letter from Garcia, Jacobs and company of London, asking for British Columbia fruit.

Garcia, Jacobs and company are the largest fruit dealers in the world. Their letter states that they consider the quality of British Columbia fruit second to none, and that they will be pleased to receive shipments direct. They ask especially for Newton Pippins, and Cox' Orange Pippins.

Mr. Johnstone said that he knew of no local grower producing Cox' Pippins and only one producing Newtons. There is no reason, in Mr. Johnstone's opinion, why both varieties should not be raised in the district.

The one fruit grower, who is in a position to ship Newton Pipping is Harry Williams, who has 50 trees of that variety in bearing. Mr. Johnstone visited Harry Williams' ranch yesterday afternoon. He says that while the first view of the orchard and its location is rather unpromising, the trees and the apples are, without exception, the finest he has ever seen.

Lieut. Hallett's ranch was also visited. The improvement effected in one year, largely by Mr. Hallett's own labor, is almost incredible. The market value of the property is considered to be increased more than three fold. Mr. Hallett has about 500 acres of good land and his property, will, in another year, be one of the most valuable on the lake.

ROCKEFELLER DISSECTED

Ida M. Tarbell, the well known authoress of "The History of the Standard Oil Company," concludes a remarkable character study of John D. Rockefeller in the Ausust number of McClure's Magazine.

Miss Tarbell is at a loss to know whether to describe Mr. Rockefeller as a psychological puzzle or a hypocrite. She does decide, however, that from the point of view of the student interested in finding out what effect a certain career has on the public Mr. Rockefeller is a hypocrite.

"The great public," she says, "does not deal in nice psychological distinctions. It takes the facts at hand and goes straight to the evident conclusion. It says this man has for forty years lent all the power of his great ability to perpetuating and elaborating a system of illegal and unjust discrimination by common carriers. He has done this in the face of moral sentiment, in the face of loudly expressed public opinion, in face of law, in the face of the havoc of his operations caused at his very side. For forty years he has fought to prevent every attempt to regulate the wrongs the system wrought, and when he failed to do so he turned his craft and skill to finding secret and devious ways of securing the privileges he desired. He has done more than any other person to fasten on this country the most serious interference with free individual development which it suffers, an interference which, today, the whole country is struggling vainly to strike off, which it is doubtful will be cured, so deep-seated and so subtle is it, except by revolutionary methods."

The kind of life Mr. Rockefeller has lived and the ideals he has stood for and impressed upon the business world, Miss Tarbell declares, have worked infinite harm to the American people.

"Our national life is on every side distinctly poorer, uglier, meaner for the kind of influence he exercises. From him we have received no impulse to public duty, only lessons in evading it for private greed; no stimulus to nobler ideals, only a lesson in the further deification of gold; no example of enlarged and noble living, only one of concealment and evasion; no impulse to free thinking, only a lesson in obscuring vital ethical issues by dressing them in the garbs of piety and generosity.

None of those higher things which the public has a right to demand from the man to whom it permits great power are returned to it by Mr. Rockefeller. For Mr. Rockefeller has none of these things to give. He has nothing but money, and never was there a more striking example of the impotency of money! He has neither taste nor cultivation, ideals nor potent personality. He is not a great man, not a human man. He is a machine—a money machine—stripped by his overwhelming passion of greed of every quality which makes a man worthy of citizenship. He has not made good. He cannot make good. It is not in him. He has nothing the aspiring world needs. On the contrary, that for which he does stand is a menace to our free development, not only or chiefly our free development in commerce, but, vastly more important, our free development in citizenship and in morals."

On every side of us the Rockefeller practice of separating morals strictly from the business in hand is winning adherents. It is this saturation of all forms of American life with commercial Machiavellism, she says, which forces a study of John D. Rockefeller on those interested in our ethical and intellectual tendencies.

"He symbolizes the thing—is, as far as we can see, the very essence of the thing. Admit him to be the unconscious victim of his time—the inevitable result of the qualities he inherited—or did not inherit—explain him as you will, justify him if you can, there still remains the fact so tragic for Mr. Rockefeller that he is the founder of a creed charged with poison. With what weapon is society to meet the exponent of a corrupting creed but analysis, ruthless and unflinching. It is only the courage and thoroughness with which she has studied and labeled her own products that has ever helped her to improve these products. Since the world began her progress has been in proportion to her knowledge and her judgment of the men who symbolized the influences of a period. History is but a museum of dissected heroes, warriors, kings, philosophers, their records stripped bare, their influences traced to their flowering. Sooner or later every man who has left a stamp finds his way to the cruel table, his place in the melancholy galleries. Mr. Rockefeller much as he dislikes the light cannot escape the fate of his own greatness. All his vast wealth spent in one supreme effort to evade the judgment of men would be but wasted, for a man can never escape the judgment of the society which has bred him, and the greater the power to which he has risen the stronger the light in which he must finally and eternally rest."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Several former dominion cabinet ministers are excluded from participation in the new annuities by the five-year limit. Among them are sir Henri Joly, lieutenant governor of British Columbia; colonel E. G. Prior, one time premier of this province; sir Charles A. P. Pelletier, A. R. Angers, J. C. Paterson, Edward Blake, William Ross, W. H. Montague, A. Desjardins, L. O. Taillon, David Tisdale and Hugh John Macdonald.

There is a rumor current in Montreal that Hon. Andrew G. Blair will re-enter politics, and this rumor prompts the Star to remark that Blair's whole history is a record of "coming to the top" after emerging from a "tight place." He was defeated in the earlier days of his provincial career in New Brunswick. Yet he managed to hold power by the "North Shore deal," whereby interested lumbermen rallied to his side—it is said, for a consideration. He was squeezed out of his old constituency of York, but managed to secure another seat and his paramountcy. In 1900 his friends admitted his defeat at the hands of Hon. George E. Foster, a week before polling day; and yet he won by a stunning majority. His protest against the Grand Trunk Pacific after his resignation from the Laurier government brought him the chairmanship of the Railway Commission. His resignation from that office has brought temporary retirement. Mr. Blair, be it remembered, is still on the sunny side of 65. His has been a political life, and there is no guarantee that he has set aside further participation in it.

PRIEST AND PROSPECTOR

CORSICAN FATHER COCCOLA AND IRISH JAMES CRONIN.

ROMANTIC INCIDENTS IN EARLY DAYS OF MOYIE.

Moyie, July 29—In all my wanderings throughout the far northwest I have seen no spot that I would rather call my home than this. I have seen cities like Spokane and Portland and Seattle and Winnipeg and Vancouver, for whom the fates have decreed renown and greatness such as once belonged to Athens and Genoa and Venice, but these do not appear to me as places where I should like to abide forever and close my allotted span of life. The city too often is a melancholy solitude, masks and faces crowd the thoroughfares and there one finds an utter absence of the feeling which sees in each human destiny a sail bound for a distant and mysterious port, to which at least we owe a heartfelt bon voyage.

On the shores of the moonlit lake and in the shadow of the mighty pine clad rills there is a community of human fellowship which is the very antithesis of that "sauve qui peut" spirit which pervades the city and this latter day world.

It was that that sent Chateaubriand a wanderer over the face of the earth, an infidel in intellect and in heart until once again in the midst of the solitudes of forests and mountains new dreams came to him and he electrified the world therewith. Well did Byron write "My altars are the mountains and the ocean" for they are teachers and companions for those that will listen to them and love them.

Cities breed selfishness and cynicism, but not always, for the saint of the Kootenay, though born in Corsica, was educated in Rome. I refer, of course, to father Coccola, whose student days were passed in the shadow of St. John Latern and Colosseum.

The youth reared in the heart of Rome becomes imperceptably a dreamer. He sees that "Empires and worlds go down. Time waves to dissolution," and on, the Roman stage history becomes luminous. It was here that the Corsican youth, of whom I write, began to dream strange dreams and to realize the emptiness and hollowness and mockery of all the greatness and glory that once radiated from the imperial city. And then the thought came to him to go forth from the Eternal City and seek in distant lands and climes some savage race to whom he should bring the knowledge of the Crucified and the light and, perhaps, the joy of civilization; and thus a generation ago we find the young Corsican, a priest, sailing across the broad Atlantic with heart and mind bent on bearing the gospel to the savage red man that dwelt in darkness and ignorance in the wildest mountain regions of the American northwest. One summer eve long, lang ago, this Corsican priest, father Coccola, lit his camp fire in the heart of the wilderness of East Kootenay. White folks were rare in the Kootenays 30 years ago. The Hudson's Bay Co. had some forts along the lakes and rivers where its hunters and trappers traded with the Indians, but even so, the Kootenays were less of a white man's land than was Central Africa or Afaghanistan. A few adventurous spirits had indeed pierced the fastenesses of the Kootenay. William Fernie, an English sailor, had explored the passes leading into the dreary plains of Alberta, and he had found coal measures that might, he thought, in ages to come be valuable to the white men, but for all this it was the red man's land when first father Coccola lit his camp fire on the bank of Kootenay.

The advent of the pale face has ever been, on this continent at least, the signal of the red man's decay. Whole tribes and races of the aborginies in North and South America have absorbed the teachings of the gospel and aspired to the modes and trappings of civilization; but the very touch of the white man has been fatal to the independence, vitality and existence of the red man. That fact is fully realized by the dying races that once ruled this western world and yet they listened to father Coccola and absorbed his teaching and sang the hymns that he composed to the weird music of their savage tribes. Under his influence the Kootenay Indians became Christian to a man. He taught them to plant and to prune, to sow and to reap, and to discard the wigwam for the frame building and the log cabin. He reproduced in the Kootenay the wonders that the Jesuits wrought on the banks of the Parana centuries ago.

They received the teachings of father Coccola something after the manner of the Chaldean shepherds, who bear the glad tidings of great joy that heralded the Messiah's coming. But the sceptics among them noted that father Coccola did not raise the dead nor did his teachings save the living from death. Indeed it seemed to the tribe that the new religion speeded the extinction of the race and an Indian brave, named Peter, either assumed, or was assigned, the duty of slaying father Coccola. Somehow the missionary heard of it and as Peter rushed at him, brandishing his deadly weapon, the priest calmly awaited him and with outstretched hands exclaimed "Come on Peter, I am ready to die for you, as I have lived for you." The coolness and bravery of the missionary saved his life and from that hour every Indian in the Kootenays knew him to be a man of God and none more so than the Indian brave that essayed to slay him.

How that Indian has loved father Coccola ever since! It was he that hunted for weeks and weeks through canyon and creek and precipice, and over mountains for some hidden mine to sell to the white folks for gold enough to build a church for father Coccola. He found the mine on the crest of the mountain overlooking the wondrous beauty of Moyie lake and he hastened back to father Coccola with samples of his discovery. Chance led James Cronin to the St. Eugene mission at the same time and father Coccola offered Cronin half the mine if he would locate and acquire title and develop it. This Cronin did and subsequently sold the priest's half interest for $12,500. Father Coccola built Indian Peter's house and gave him $500 and with the balance he built the church at the St. Eugene mission.

The Indians do not see as much of father Coccola as in the long ago, in those glorious summers when he came over the mountains and taught them all the beautiful things of the Christ and his world. Away up in the valleys towns have sprung up and some thousands of Italians and French and Austrians have found homes and employment there. William Fernie's coal properties have already developed into the world famous Crow's Nest Coal mines and father Coccola has had to leave his beloved Indians to minister to the Italians and French and Austrians delving in the mines. If the truth be told they need his ministrations far more than the red men of the Kootenay. His Indians lead lives of Arcadian simplicity and innocence, but the white folks of the coal camps have brought hither the vices and the passions of the old world's effete civilization.

Not all of course, for here at Moyie, where at eve upon the lovely lake is heard the plaintive hymns of the Kootenay Indians, I see another sight and listen to other accents that recal Ireland's wonderful story and the fidelity of its race for well nigh two thousand years to the very ideals that father Coccola but yesterday planted among these Indians of the west. Over yonder perched above the lake, amid flowers and lawns is the home of James Cronin. Thirty years ago he too, was a dreamer young and happy, and with a heart as bounding as the skiff he saw dancing upon the waves of the magnificent bay of Bantry that laved the shores of his Irish home.

But Ireland; a land of enchanting loveliness, of prolific richness of soil, of monumental wealth in story and tradition and folklore, had no niche and gave no opportunity for fame or fortune to James Cronin. He knew that he was fated to eat the bitter bread of exile and he wept many a salt tear as he bade farewell to the roof-tree under which he was born and as he gazed in mute good-bye on the cliffs and isands that make part of the rock bound coast of Bantry. To America he came with the bone and the muscle and brawn and brain, and, what is best of all, the ideals of Celtic Ireland. Those ideals are the glory and the hope and the salvation of the exiled Irish. When they are lost then chaos and night might come again. It was those ideals that made Thomas Francis Heagher the incomparable orator and deathless soldier of his age. It was those same ideals that have enabled millions of heart broken Irish exiles to become prime factors in the upbuilding of the new world.

I am not going to tell here how James Cronin has grown and prospered until he has become the most renowned captain of the mining industry in Canada. The St. Eugene mine that Indian Peter and father Coccola induced him to develop is the great silver-lead mine of Canada and one of the richest in the world. It is adding from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 a year to the world's wealth. It pays from $30,000 to $40,000 a month in wages and a like sum to transportation companies and in May last it earned $80,000 of net profits. James Cronin is the father of the mine. He developed it from the grass roots, and recently when Rossland was overwhelmed with years of bad management, James Cronin undertook to reorganize and reconstruct its whole mining industry and he has transformed it as only a wizard could do.

F. A. Heinze is undoubtedly the greatest mining operator known to fame on the American continent. His instinct or genius in discerning underground wealth is the most wonderful thing I have ever known or read or heard of. Long after Marcus Daly and W. A. Clark and the Boston & Montana people had had their pick and choice of the Butte camp, Heinze followed them and picked up mine after mine of fabulous wealth that they had ignored or discarded as worthless. Such wonderful success as Heinze's cannot be mere chance alone. He had the strange second sight of the miner for ore hidden underground. That is exactly the gift that has made James Cronin the wonderful captain of the mining industry that he is and his absence of side, of pretentions, or swagger and his deep sympathy with, and unfailing kindness for the men who work for him or with him make him the best liked and the best loved mining manager I have known.

Moyie was far in the wilderness when father Coccola reached the Kootenay 30 years ago. The face of the white man had hardly ever been reflected in its waters. On its shores now is the nascent city of Moyie and over there is the St. Eugene concentrating mill, planned and built from the first to the last by James Cronin himself. It handles 500 tons of galena ore daily and saves 90 per cent of the values in the ore. Moreover, along the shores of the lake there rolls a transcontinental railroad that will take you in a palace car to Chicago, Montreal, New York or Boston. That is the Crow's Nest Pass line of the Canadian Pacific, which is now building into Spokane, and which within a year will be the shortest and best route across the continent to Spokane, Portland and Seattle and Vancouver. The country that father Coccola discovered a generation ago was peopled only by a few white adventurers and the savage, whose sole delight was the chase, is gone forever. Steamers and railroads, mills and factories have robbed it of half its beauty. But it is better thus for they are the prelude to the upbuilding here of a new world of happy homes.

To me at least the transformation is not unpleasant. Only last night I sat upon the verandah of the Cronin villa and beheld the moon come up in all its fullness from behind the forest clothed mountains above the lake. I had watched the last remnant of the dying day and not a cloud obscured the sky and the lake that a little while ago was purple and gold in the rays of the setting sun is now bathed in the soft light of the cold, fruitless precipices and the woods are all deeper in the moon's reflected light and all is calm for the winds are still and not a ripple disturbs the surface of the lake nor doth the tiniest wave break in foam upon the shore. It is the hushed stillness of the summer eve and now there comes out through the open window the strains of the softest music. One of the daughters of this Irish exile is waking the echoes with the self-same harmonies that roused the Gael to deathless heroism ere the Julian race dropped the Roman sceptre or before the Goth ceased to be a savage. The children of this Irish exile were all born in the land through which the Columbia and the Kootenay flow, but to them as to their sire their richest treasures are the music, the folk-lore, the traditions and the faith of ancient Ireland. How full of pathos and how soothing is that music as it is wafted across the lovely lake! But now from yonder shores where the Indian hunters have camped for the night comes other music, wild, wierd and plaintive. The Indian is singing in his own barbaric tongue and in his own wild way the very psalms and hymns that awed Cloves and Alaric and nerved Christiandom in the long conflict of the cross for the sovereignty of the world.

DOINGS OF FRUIT MEN

DAILY SHIPMENTS TO EAST KOOTENAY AND ALBERTA

The Kootenay Fruit Growers' association, while not yet much more than a year old, has already fully justified its existence and the sacrifices of time it entails upon its members. By its efforts the provincial association has been induced to hold two meetings here, which have been very beneficial to all the members, and especially to those whose experience of fruit growing is brief.

The representations of an organized body have affected what the requests of individual growers could never have done; the Dominion Express company has placed a special car on the route from Kootenay Landing to Winnipeg to handle shipments of fruit and vegetables from Nelson and the district.

Organized effort and advertisement have made known the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of the Nelson district in a way that no private effort could have done.

The association's agitation for the appointment of a resident fruit pest inspector has not yet been successful, but it has undoubtedly warned the public generally of the danger of fruit pests, and has impressed upon orchardists especially a sense of their duties toward their neighbors.

The members of the association are not satisfied with having accomplished so much in so short a time. They aim at nothing less than preserving the fruit of the district absolutely free from pests, and they mean to secure, as far as they possibly can, absolute honesty in the fruit trade. The public must know on all occasions whose fruit they are buying, and where it is grown.

For the attainment of these ends it is proposed that at the next meeting of the association, which will be held in the city hall next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, resolutions shall be adopted, recommending the addition of the followng to the regulatons under the provincial horticultural act:

"That it shall be unlawful for any person, merchant or dealer to receive any box, crate or other package or parcel of fruit, which does not bear the name of the producer and shipper and the locality where grown.'

"That it shall be unlawful for any box, crate or other package or wrapper, which has contained fruit, to be used second time for that purpose, but the person, merchant, dealer or consignee, shall destroy or cause to be destroyed, any box, crate or other package or other wrapper in which the goods were received.

Other matters to be discussed at the meeting will be the expediency of sending exhibits of fruit to Brandon, Regina and Indian Head for the fairs to be held at those places during August. Another matter to come up will be arrangements for a Nelson or Kootenay, contribution to the British Clumbia fruit exhibit at the Royal Horticultural society show in London, which has already been determined upon by the government.

Meanwhile shipments of fruit and vegetables are being made daily to Slocan, the Boundary, East Kootenay and Alberta. Cherries, raspberries, gooseberries and currants form a regular part of the freight carried by the steamer Moyie to Kootenay Landing, where it is loaded in a special car. Practically all the fruit available for shipment finds ready sale as soon as it is ready.

RUSSIA IS CIVILIZED

Will Not Forget to Seal Credentials of Peace Envoys

St. Petersburg, July 29—The foreign office was today shown Mr. Sato's reference to the possible delay in the peace conference because of the faulty credentials of the Russian plenipotentiaries as had happened in the peace negotiations following the Chinese-Japanese war, where the Chinese plenipotentiaries were found to be at fault.

The reply made by one official was "Mr. Sato seems to forget that Russia is a civilized nation which has made treaties before and that, therefore, does not omit seals."

Who's your Ruler— your Brain or your Stomach?

Napoleon abused his stomach by injudicious eating. At Waterloo, his stomach retaliated. Acute indigestion kept him from the field for some time. And the day was lost. A box of Fruit-a-tives—and the Bonapartes might still be on the throne of France.

Most people don't realize what a good friend, or a bitter enemy, their stomach can be If they treat it right, they forget they have a stomach. If they abuse it, they never forget for a moment they have one—and a mighty uncomfortable one it is.

The stomach is a muscular churn that secretes gastric juice. When food enters a well-taken-care-of stomach, there's plenty of gastric juice ready to liquify the lumps, break up the fats, separate the starch, etc. To do this completely, the stomach churns the food—sends it whirling round and round until thoroughly mixed and dissolved.

If your stomach does all this with never a pain—heaviness—"heartburn"—then you don't need Fruit-a-tives.

Fruit-a-tives put a tired, overworked stomach on good terms with itself. They strengthen the stomach muscles so the churning will go on with all its old time vigor—assist the secretion of the digestive fluid and encourage complete digestion.

Heartburn, flatulency, heavy feeling after eating, indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach—are simply the result of tired stomach.

Fruit-a-tives take away the CAUSE of all these troubles.

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets.

"I want to say a word in regard to Fruit-a-tives. I have had Stomach and Liver Trouble some ten years and have tried different remedies, but Fruit-a-tives are the best of all. I am better than I have been for years and cannot praise them too highly.

I have tried many different kinds of medicine for my son. He had Bilious Attacks ever since he was three years old, and since he began taking Fruit-a-tives he has been so well.

If it is ever my chance to recommend Fruit-a-tives, I will always be ready to say a good word for them."

MRS. JOHN COLINE, Aylmer, Ont.

Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices in tablet form. An Ottawa physician discovered that by combining the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes in a peculiar way, the medicinal action of the fruits was intensified many times.

While Fruit-a-tives are helping the stomach to get strong and well, they are also making the liver active, curing Biliousness and Constipation, purifying the blood, making you eat and sleep well.

One 50c. box of Fruit-a-tives is a drug store in itself, as far as keeping the whole family in good health is concerned.

Make sure that your druggist gives you "Fruit-a-tives"—not something which is said to be "just as good."

For sale by druggists everywhere, 50c. per box, or sent direct by mail on receipt of 50c. for one box or $2.50 for six boxes.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

New York, July 29—The frock of white serge is the corner stone of the foundation of the seashore outfit, and this year the women who affect such costumes are reveling in an unusual wealth of smart white serge models from which to choose. White mohair frocks, too, are many and popular but even mohair will not stand wear and dampness as well as good serge, and despite the approval of fashion many women will have none of mohair.

But white serge for all its widepread popularity, is dear, even to the ultrafashionable. White cloth, too, is made into modish seashore cotsumes of all classes, from the coat and short skirt morning frock to the elaborate dinner gown enriched with Irish lace and embroidery, but the tailored frock of white cloth is more costly and less fitted for general utility than one of serge, and the latter stands as first favorite for certain purposes.

Still retaining their popularity are the little costumes with plaited or circular skirts and plain tailored double breasted short coats, either on box lines or fitted in the back and straight in front. These in white serge, with heavy white pearl or gold buttons are as delightful as they are simple. Supplementary collars and cuffs of linen in some soft color are made with some of these frocks, and others have embroidered white linen collars; but it is doubtful whether such accessories add to the cachet of the costumes or detract from it.

Long fitted singlebreasted coats are made for other white serge costumes, and these often have the coat collar in black velvet. A few imported frocks of this sort show also buttons covered with black velvet.

A deep emerald green velvet is substituted for the black upon other French models, and with a parasol of sea green and a repetition of the green in the hat this color scheme is distinctly attractive. Green silk stockings and white shoes, laced with broad soft grosgrain ribbon of the same green would consort amicably with such a costume, and this use of white shoes with contrasting lacing and hosiery is, by the way, extremely chic for the outing wear.

An all white morning frock of linen, serge or other material with a note of blue or green or red introduced in this way and in parasol and hat, is a delightful toilet for beach wear, yachting, driving, etc., but all white shoes and hosiery are preferred by many women and are more generally worn this summer than ever before.

White silk or lisle stockings plain, embroidered by hand, open work, or inset with handsome lace are sold in tremendous quantities, those with inset lace designs being often very expensive and favored for wear with elaborate frocks. White stockings embroidered in very tiny scattered designs in colors are liked too, and the popular Saxe blue is perhaps the color most often seen upon the white ground.

Returning to the white serge frocks, the French makers have introduced many novelties in cut and line. Tht empire idea that has taken so firm a hold lately appears here, as elsewhere, and empire coats, long or short, are made up in white serge or white cloth with skirts to match and with severe tailor finish or with collars, cuffs and motifs of heavy open work embroidery on linen.

White fiber braid or soutache trim some of the white serge or cloth models and are often used with excellent effect, though the most stylish tailors are using braid less than they did earlier in the season, and the soutache when it is used is more likely to be set on in fine vertical lines rather than in the scroll designs.

Bands and cut out motifs of white taffeta are applied to some of the suits in white serge cloth, and if skillfully used may give originality, yet detract little from the desired severity of line and fashion.

The bolero is of course to be reckoned within the province of the tailored frock of white wool, but it occupies a place less prominent than that accorded to it in other fields and is not a favorite with the makers.

For the women who cannot wear long coats, shorter models are provided, but these short coats are usually of the hip length type, rather than short boleros.

One new coat seen in white wool and striking a middle course twixt the dressy and the severe had a folded girdle passing snugly around the back and sides but slipping through slits on each side of the front and leaving the plain front to hang straight. Another good model from a popular English tailor is in three-quarters length and has rather full shaped skirts set on in a seam that runs up in an unusual line at the sides, suggestive of Directoire ideas. There are vertical pockets opening in the skirt fronts, big pearl buttons fastening the double breasted fronts and a collar with wide revers and with a little braid on blue cloth for finish.

The pockets of these white tailored coats are often important details in the finish adding much to the individuality of the garment. Square pockets with buttoning flaps, such as are in evidence upon the three-quarter semi-fitting coat with slot sleeves and square gold buttons, are popular, and there are certain large pockets with flaps tapering to a pointed tab which runs under a little strap instead of buttoning.

ONE DOLLAR SAVED REPRESENTS TEN DOLLARS EARNED

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. This being the case he cannot be too careful about the unnecessary epxense. Very often a few cents properly expended, like buying seeds for the garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a fe wcents but a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

This remedy is for sale by all druggists and dealers.

Synopsis of Regulations for Disposal of Mineral on Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory.

Coal—Coal lands may be purchased at $10 per acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 320 acres can be acquired by one individual or company. Royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2000 pounds shall be collected on the gross output.

Quartz—Persons of eighteen years and over and joint stock companies holding free miner's certificates may obtain entry for a mining location.

A free miner's certificate is granted for one or more years, not exceeding five, upon payment in advance of $7.50 per annum for an individual, and from $50 to $100 per annum for a company, according to capital.

A free miner, having discovered mineral in place, may locate a claim 1500x1500 feet by marking out the same with two legal posts, bearing location notices, one at each end on the line of the lode or vein.

The claim shall be recorded within fifteen days if located within ten miles of a mining recorder's office, one additional day allowed for every additional ten miles or fraction. The fee for recording a claim is $5.

At least $100 must be expended on the claim each year or paid to the mining recorder in lieu thereof. When $500 has been expended or paid, the locator may, upon having a survey made, and upon complying with other requirements, purchase the land at $1.00 per acre.

Permission may be granted by the Minister of the Interior to locate claims containing iron and mica, also copper in the Yukon territory, of an area not exceeding 160 acres.

The patent for a mining location shall provide for the payment of a Royalty of 2 1-2 per cent of the sales of the products of the location.

Placer Mining—Manitoba and the N.W.T. excepting the Yukon Territory—Placer mining claims generally are 100 feet square; entry fee, $5; renewable yearly. On the North Saskatchewan River claims are either bar or bench, the former being 100 feet long and extending between high and low water mark. The latter includes bar diggings, but extends back to the base of the hill or bank, but not exceeding 1000 feet. Where steam power is used claims 200 feet wide may be obtained.

Dredging in the rivers of Manitoba and the N.W.T., excepting the Yukon Territory—A free miner may obtain only two leases of five miles each for a term of twenty years renewable in the discretion of the Minister of the Interior.

The lessee's right is confined to the submerged beds or bars of the river below low water mark, and subject to the rights of all persons who have, or may receive entries for bar diggings or bench claims except on the Saskatchewan River where the lessee may dredge to high water mark on each alternate leasehold.

The lessee shall have a dredge in operation within one season from the date of the lease for each five miles, but where a person or company has obtained more than one lease one dredge for each fifteen miles or fraction is sufficient. Rental $10 per annum for each mile of river leased. Royalty at the rate of two and a half per cent collected on the output after it exceeds $10,000.

Dredging in the Yukon Territory—Six leases of five miles each may be granted to a free miner for a term of twenty years, also renewable.

The lessee's right is confined to the submerged bed or bars in the river below low water mark, that boundary to be fixed by its position on the first day of August in the year of the date of the lease.

The lessee shall have one dredge in operation within two years from the date of the lease, and one dredge for each five miles within six years from such date. Rental $100 per mile for the first year and $10 per mile for each subsequent year. Royalty same as placer mining.

Placer Mining in the Yukon Territory—Creek, gulch, river and hill claims shall not exceed 250 feet in length, measured on the base line or general direction of the creek or gulch, the width being from 1000 to 2000 feet. All other placer claims shall be 250 feet square.

Claims are marked by two legal posts, one at each end, bearing notices. Entry must be obtained within ten days, if the claim is within ten miles of a Mining Recorder's office. One extra day is allowed for each additional ten miles or fraction.

The person or company staking a claim must hold a free miner's certificate.

The discoverer of a new mine is entitled to a claim 1000 feet in length, and if the party consists of two, 1500 feet altogether, on the output of which no royalty shall be charged, the rest of the party ordinary claims only.

Entry fee $10. Royalty at the rate of two and a half per cent on the value of the gold shipped from the Yukon Territory to be paid to the Comptroller.

No free miner shall receive a grant of more than one mining claim on each separate river, creek or gulch, but the same miner may hold any number of claims by purchase, and free miners may work their claims in partnership by filing notice and paying fee of $2. A claim may be abandoned and another obtained on the same creek, gulch or river, by giving notice and paying a fee.

Work must be done on a claim each year to the value of at least $200.

A certificate that work has been done must be obtained each year; if not, the claim shall be deemed to be abandoned, and open to occupation and entry by a free miner.

The boundaries of a claim may be defined absolutely by having a survey made and publishing notices in the Yukon Official Gazette.

Petroleum—All unappropriated Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and within the Yukon Territory are open to prospecting for petroleum, and the Minister may reserve for an individual or company having machinery on the land to be prospected, an area of 1920 acres for such period as he may decide, the length of which shall not exceed three times the breadth. Should the prospector discover oil in paying quantities, and satisfactorily establish such discovery, an area not exceeding 640 acres, including the oil well, will be sold to the prospector at the rate of $1 an acre, and the remainder of the tract reserved, namely 1280 acres, will be sold at the rate of $3 per acre, subject to royalty at such rate as may be specified by Order in Council.

BLACK FISSURE A MYTH

CHIEF JUSTICE REFUSES REQUEST FOR FURTHER WORK.

The defendants, the Byron N. White company, owners of the Slocan Star mine, scored a victory yesterday at the trial of the Sandon extra lateral rights case which has been in progress here since Tuesday last before chief justice Hunter.

At the conclusion of an able argument by Mr. Davis yesterday morning, applying on behalf of the plaintiffs, for a direction from the court that still further explanatory work be done at the workings under review, the learned presiding judge refused the application, his lordship saying that originally he had asked for some explanatory work to convince him which of the expert theories advanced was the correct one. His visits of inspection to the mines, and the subsequent evidence offered on whatever additional work had been done had convinced him of the existence of the Slocan vein in its entirety, as contended for by the defendants. That being so there was no object in directing further work to be done and he refused the permission asked for.

Mr. Davis immediately announced that in view of his lordship's expression of opinion, he would ask for a stay of the trial, until the full court could pronounce upon the plaintiffs' application for further work. The learned counsel added that he did not now propose to offer further testimony and desired to obtain the judgment of the full court before arguing the whole case.

To this proposition the chief justice replied that he knew of no precedent or authority for postponing a trial in order to allow of an interim application being appealed. He would consider any authorities Mr. Davis had to offer. Mr. Davis agreed to furnish the court with certain cases supporting his application to stay proceedings pending an appeal to the full court, and the second hearing of the famous case came to an abrupt end.

Should the court subsequently come to the conclusion to refuse a stay as asked for, the argument of counsel on the evidence now in will be heard on a day to be agreed upon. Meanwhile the defendants have obtained what they doubtless well consider a decidedly favorable decision, which they will naturally try to hold on to.

In making his formal application for more work, Mr. Davis made a passionate appeal to the court, declaring that a refusal to grant the plaintiffs' reasonable request would amount to a denial of justice. As the case stood the plaintiffs were compelled to fight with tied hands, were compelled to meet their well equipped adversaries unfairly and without weapons, and counsel's voice rang out in indignant protest as he pleaded for permission to get all the easily ascertainable facts on record, in a case which would only terminate with a decision of the highest court in the realm, the privy council, adding that if they were allowed to have the work done they asked for, and it showed that their contention was wrong, they would be satisfied and quit all further litigation.

Mr. Bodwell spoke briefly in reply, directing his argument to demonstrating that the work asked for would not advance the case before the court. The plaintiffs had had an opportunity of convincing the court that their contention was the correct one, they had signally failed to accomplish this and were now simply asking for another chance. If it were given them they would find excuses for asking for still further work, and the limit had been reached.

For the present at all events the case stands over and whatever may be the subsequent determination at the coast, Nelson will witness no further proceedings for some time to come.

Meantime the owners of the Slocan Star say their hands are tied up, as they are unable to mine, the way some of the levels are closed, except at great expense, and possibly the whole property may have to be either closed down or only very partially worked. Oscar V. White, the mine superintendent, said, after the adjournment of the court yesterday, that no definite announcement could be made for a few days, until Byron N. White was consulted, as to what the Slocan Star mine owners would now do in the way of mining, pending some further disposition of the extra lateral rights suit.

The proceeding have again demonstrated what was clearly shown in a similar suit at Rossland some years ago between the Iron Mask and the Centre Star, the utter uselessness and absurdity of what is known as the apex law, now fortunately repealed. As an unsatisfactory litigation maker the law in question is unequalled, and all mining men rejoice that it is no longer in force save for claims recorded during the brief period the law remained on the statutes.

When the court opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning E. P. Davis, K.C., on behalf of the plaintiffs made a formal application for leave to do further experimental work at specified points in the already partially explored mine levels under review.

Counsel referred at length to the position take by expert Frank L. Sizer ever since the case began, that certain specified additional work would prove beyond all question the truth or falsity of the black fissure theory advanced and consistently maintained by him. The defendants had tried to laugh Mr. Sizer's contention out of court. He had been derided as a "vein finder," but he had never ceased to declare that he was at all times willing, and anxious for a practical test. He had made affidavits in support of previous applications for more work and the plaintiffs had urged upon his lordship time and again, not merely at this stage of the proceedings but most persistently, almost to the point of rudeness, that they should be permitted to prove or disprove their contention.

In view of the position taken by the plaintiffs it was a remarkable state of affairs that the defendants, in actual possession of the workings in question and in spite of all the new work they had done since the case came up for trial, had never dared to do the little work which the plaintiffs and their experts asked for. They had never ventured to do any of the work which the plaintiffs wanted done, and which the plaintiffs had always contended would prove or disprove their case.

Counsel then read several lengthy extracts from Mr. Sizer's evidence showing what additional work the expert asked for right along and what it would prove if done. They were not, however, confined to Mr. Sizer's opinion, said counsel, Mr. Elmendorf was distinctly on record in the plaintiffs' favor, and in view of their own expert's testimony the position taken by the defendants in so urgently opposing the doing of further work was extraordinary, and very significant. Mr. Elmendorf had sworn during the trial, regarding some of the work asked to be done, "I do not think it would settle the case but it would be a very strong point in your favor." At another point Mr. Elmendorf had stated that if the work to be done proved what the plaintiffs said it would, "It would be a very strong proof of the correctness of your contention." Again, Mr. Elmendorf had stated after much pressing, "That would be another additional strong piece of evidence in your favor. It will prove that the black fissure is an independent and separate fissure," and, added Mr. Davis: "That is just what we say, and have always contended for."

Mr. Fowler's testimony was referred to as a strong corroboration of all that Mr. Sizer had urged. Mr. Fowler had sworn that the new work asked for, would satisfy the court that the black fissure existed at the critical points under discussion as an entirely independent fissure from the Slocan Star vein.

Counsel then traced proceeding from the first suggestion of the doing of additional work made by the court up to the present time, and the invariable attitude taken by the plaintiffs in the matter.

The plaintiffs desired from first to last was to get this work done. They wanted all the evidence obtainable on record and have tried their utmost to induce the court to order the doing of the work. As it was the plaintiffs were compelled to fight with their hands tied, compelled to fight without weapons. They were forced on to trial and prevented from getting their evidence, prevented from getting a fair hearing of their case, owing to lack of the evidence sought for, even at this stage of the proceedings.

"Prove our 'absurd conclusions' are wrong," said counsel, 'and we are satisfied and will quit. My client does not love fighting for the sake of fighting. He is the most uncompromising client I ever met, until you convince him that he is wrong. What he asks now is that all the facts go on record for the use of the higher courts. What he asks can in no way injure the defendants, their mine, or their case, if he is wrong, and to refuse his reasonable request will be a denial of justice."

For the defendants, Mr. Bodwell urged that if the pending application were granted, still further work would most surely be asked for. Originally the plaintiffs' experts were convinced that the vein did not turn at point C in the Silversmith ground. Now that additional work has been done at this point, proving that the vein does turn, and connecting it with the Silversmith ore body, what is their position. Why they will not believe the evidences of their senses. They are still adhering to their former contention, though the court was now probably in a position to say if their judgment on obtained facts was to be relied on in any further work.

The experts would be sure to find some conditions in the new ground if it is opened up, upon which to found another application for still further work. Why should the trial be longer delayed to the great detriment of the defendants. No reasonable grounds had been advanced that if the work now asked for were done, the court would be further instructed in any way whatever.

The court—I simply asked to have that work done, which would satisfy my mind of the truth or falsity of what was claimed. It was my own suggestion entirely. The two mining engineers had nothing to do with the matter. I said that I was left practically to conjecture as to which of the two theories was correct and I wanted convincing proof.

Mr. Bodwell—The hanging wall of the black fissure and that of the vein at the turning point are one and the same if the plaintiffs want to be sure that they get behind that hanging wall, we will have to go working forever, for all time.

Mr. Sizer has always a string on the end of the experimental work he wants done.

The court—The experts should not be deprived of their rights, merely because they have an assortment of fissures to come and go on.

Mr. Bodwell urged that Mr. Fowler advanced the case of the plaintiffs no further than his brother expert, he was merely a repetition of Mr. Sizer.

Mr. Davis accused his learned friend of "unconscious irony" in crediting the defendants with a lack of good faith in order to get their application granted.

The court—The work was ordered to be done by me after I had heard what both engineers had to say. I assumed the entire responsibility.

The court—Yes, it depends upon the spectacles.

Mr. Davis—They can and do differ honestly enough. The new drift from C to D27 is a case in point. What we ask to be done here will prove or disprove our contention absolutely. Why not do it. A man who is not a mining man, let alone not a mining engineer, may be very easily misled by existing conditions underground in a mine.

Then the court at once delivered judgment refusing the plaintiffs' application. His lordship said:

"As matters stand at present I am convinced that this black fissure is a myth, and that the Slocan Star vein and the Silversmith vein are one and the same. In that case I am not justified in ordering more work done. The only reason I asked Mr. Bodwell to consider it was that some court of appeal might consider that the evidence before it was not sufficient to come to a conclusion, and therefore it might be advisable with the object of preventing further litigation, or for a new trial, that additional work be done now, but as the defendants have not considered it advisable to assent to that proposition, I do not propose to order that work done. But I propose to give force to my own convictions. When Mr. Davis comes to go over the whole case in argument, he may be able to shake my convictions, therefore, I reserve to myself the right to order that work be done if I see fit. In the meantime the application is refused."

Mr. Davis promptly asked for a stay of further proceeding until he could get an appeal on before the full court on the question of doing further work. "We think the doing of further work vitally important," said counsel, "and we see no reason in attempting to argue the main question, without the new work."

Mr. Bodwell protested that he knew of no practice which would warrant the court in staying proceedings at this stage to permit of the full court being appealed to.

The court—I will be glad Mr. Davis if you can give me some authority.

I will put in some authorities, said Mr. Davis, and in the meantime I have not thought about the argument on the main case; that had better take place at Victoria, where the law books necessary will be available.

Mr. Bodwell then put Mr. Elmendorf in the box again in rebuttal. Only a few questions were gone into, and very briefly. The chief point brought out was that the witness declared that at the point in the bend of the vein, where Mr. Sizer had said work had already opened up three sides, and he asked that the fourth side be opened up to justify the black fissure theory, Mr. Elmendorf said the work had already been opened up on five sides, and that nothing could be proved by opening up the sixth or remaining side.

The court then announced that when Mr. Davis' authorities were put in the question of granting a stay of proceedings pending an appeal, would be considered. The court then finally adjourned. Further proceedings will come up at the court.

In addition to refusing leave to the plaintiffs to do more work as asked, the judgment of the learned chief justice is of added significance from the fact, that subject to hearing the argument of counsel he definitely decides in favor of the defendents' vein theory as against the plaintiffs' black fissure, and Mr. Davis practically admits that without evidence from the new work asked for, he does not hope to alter this decision. If the defendants can hold the position they now have, they will start up to the higher courts with a pronounced decision in their favor.

Two prospectors, who returned to Nelson last night, report having had a thrilling experience during the afternoon of Friday afternoon, July 21st, the day of the gale. They had camped among the burnt timber near the Yellowstone mine, in a hollow, to some extent sheltered from the wind. Their canvas was stretched between two limbs of a tree. Their first warning of danger was the fall of another tree, one limb of which missed the head of one of the prospectors by three inches. They took up a position behind the only green tree in sight, and tried to keep a lookout. But trees were falling in and from all directions. At one moment they saw six trees descending. The task of dodging finally became too heavy and they made a bolt for the nearest bare spot. They sat out the remainder of the storm on a bare rock hog-back. It wasn't homelike but it was less nerve racking than the shelter of burnt timbtr.

A large number of business men who intend to visit the Portland exposition have expressed their willingness to arrange dates so as to make up a special Kootenay excursion under the auspices of the Nelson board of trade. Within a few days it is expected, the matter will be sufficiently definite to enable the committe to fix a date and engage cars.
