SEVERE ORDEAL

Evelyn Thaw Still Under Cross-Examination by Jerome

May be Kept in Witness Box for Several Days Yet—Jerome Finds Prisoner's Wife no Mean Adversary

New York, Feb. 20.—In conducting today his cross-examination of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw at the trial of her husband, the district attorney brought out the fact that in 1902 Stanford White deposited the sum of $1350 with a New York Trust company, with instructions that it be paid to the Nesbit girl, at the rate of $25 per week. Mrs. Thaw frankly admitted receiving a number of checks from the Trust company, but she would not admit that there was a provision that she should receive the money only when out of employment. The prosecutor spent nearly the entire afternoon trying to make Mrs. Thaw reply that this was true, but as often and in as many ways as he put the question she gave the answer: "I don't remember." Mr. Thaw's inability to remember a number of other things about which Mr. Jerome questioned her was by far the most material element in the cross-examination. The district attorney delved into the witness' past life with a familiarity as to detail and general knowledge that at times seemed to amaze all who heard it, not excepting the defendant's counsel themselves. Mr. Jerome indicated early in his questioning that he had no disposition to spare Mrs. Thaw's feelings in any way whatsoever. He interrogated her pointedly as to her men acquaintances of the past. He laid especial stress upon her acquaintanceship with James A. Garland, who figured for the first time in the case. Mrs. Thaw said that she knew Garland before she met White.

"Weren't you named as co-respondent in the Garland divorce case?" asked Mr. Jerome.

Mrs. Thaw was shaking her head, when Mr. Delmas sprang to his feet with an objection. He demanded that the record of the divorce case be brought into court, that it might speak for itself. Justice Fitzgerald overruled the objection, but Mr. Jerome withdrew the question. Mr. Jerome questioned the witness about her manner of posing for artists, and brought from her a denial that she ever posed in the nude. Mr. Jerome insisted on details on the subject. He did not mince words. Many photographs of Mrs. Thaw were introduced in evidence. During the morning session he plied the young woman with questions as to what disposition she made of the letters written to her by Stanford White. Some, she said, had been destroyed and some she gave to her husband. In the midst of the district attorney's examination with regard to the letters, and when he was pressing her for an answer as to what had become of some of them, Thaw leaned over and whispered to his counsel, very audible to those nearest, "Stanford White stole them."

Attorney O'Reilly thereupon said aloud "Stanford White got them."

"If cousel wishes to testify we will be very glad to have him do so," Mr. Jerome remarked sarcastically. Later on Mr. Jerome indicated that he had in his possession a number of letters written by Stanford White to Evelyn Nesbit. He said he would show her the letters to see if they would not brighten her memory a little bit. He changed his mind, however, and the letters were not produced.

Mr. Jerome demanded that Thaw's counsel deliver to the court letters of Stanford White they have in custody, but they made no response. Mr. Jerome was assisted materially in his cross-examanation by typewritten statements made by Mrs. Thaw's mother and by Howard Nesbit, her brother. He consulted the statements from time to time, and Mr. Delmas let this fact become known to the jury by remarking upon it.

Mr. Jerome's cross-examination may require several days. He jumped about today from one part of Mrs. Thaw's story, one period of her life, to another, in a way that baffled any attempt to tell how far he has progressed with his attack. He apparently intends to take every advantage of the ruling of yesterday, which allows him wide latitude in testing the credibility of the witness.

Mr. Delmas, contrary to expectations, interposed few objections today. He is evidently preparing for an extended redirect examination and this with Mr. Jerome's cross-examination on the redirect, promises to keep the prisoner's wife on the witness stand indefinitely.

Mrs. Thaw seemed perfectly self-composed at every stage of the cross-examination; at times her voice trembled perceptibly but almost always it was clear and emphatic. She fenced with prosecutor incessantly, corrected him at times as to assumptions from previous answers and occasionally told him his questions were entirely too long to permit of a proper answer. She seemed to be swayed by the district attorney's mood, she answered him in the same low tone. When Mr. Jerome became aroused and snapped questions at her in a loud voice, she replied in kind. When the prosecutor persisted with a question she had answered two or three times, Mrs. Thaw would finally reply with emphasis on each word, speaking slowly, distinctly and definitely.

The defandant was always alert to catch every word. He seemed impatient at times at some of the questions put by the prosecutor and kept up a running fire of whispered comment with his attorneys.

DEATH OF CENTENARIAN

He smoked since he was 12 years of age and drank moderately all his life. He was born in Ireland in 1796 and resided here since the early fifties. His mind was clear to the last. He lived under five British sovereigns. His constant companion latterly was a great grandchild nearly one hundred years his junior.

LOCAL CONSERVATIVES

ANNUAL MEETING PASSED OFF HARMONIOUSLY

OFFICERS APPOINTED FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

The board of trade rooms were crowded to the doors last night when the conservatives of the city held their annual meeting. The gathering was enthusiastic and unanimous in its proceedings and there was a total absence of the old time divisions that used generally to characterize tory meetings in this city.

R. S. Lennie occupied the chair and captain D. C. McMorris was appointed secretary. The chairman, after calling the meeting to order, made a brief address in which he touched upon the recent provincial elections, and then referred to the coming dominion contest.

F. A. Starkey, seconded by Jacob Dover, moved that the association be known as the Liberal-Conservative association, and after assenting remarks from W. A. Macdonald, R. W. Hannington and some others, the motion carried unanimously.

The chairman nominated R L. Borden and Hon. Richard McBride as honorary presidents, and the motion carried amid applause.

John A. Kirkpatrick was nominated honorary vice-president by Jacob Dover and the nomination carried unaimously.

R. S. Lennie was unanimously re-elected president, on motion of Wm. Irvine.

Jacob Dover nominated W. Irvine as vice-president. The other naminations were Fred Starkey, Dr. W. O. Rose and George Horstead On a ballot being taken Mr. Irvine was elected 1st vice-president, and Dr. W. O. Rose, 2nd vice-president.

Captain D. C. McMorris was unanimously elected secretary and W. R. McLean, treasurer.

For the executive committee of twelve some twenty-nine names were put in nomination and on a ballot being taken the following were announced as the ones selected by the meeting: F. A. Starkey, D. M. Macdonald, J. A. Irving, J. E. Annable, E. C. Wragge, W. A. Macdonald, P. Lamont, Charles Walmsley, C. Sewell, Wm. Gosnell, George Motion and Joe Thompson.

The counting of the ballots for the executive occupied over an hour and the time of the meeting was filled in by addresses from R. J. Clark, W. A. Macdonald and others.

Resolutions declaring confidence in and approval of the leaderships of R. L. Borden and Hon. Richard McBride were passed unanimously and the meeting adjourned.

After the meeting a conference of the executive was held.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE

Australia and New Zealand Desire a Permanent Council

Question of Reciprocal Admission of Barristers and Surveyors to Practice Throughout Empire

(Special to The Daily News)

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Correspondence presented to partliament shows that suggestions for the reciprocal admission of barristers and land surveyors to practice throughout the empire and a uniform system of patents of simultaneous adoption throughout the empire, will be taken up at the approaching colonial conference.

Lord Elgin wrote earl Grey on the point as follows:

"The question of reciprocity is complicated by technical considerations, and it is doubtful whether a discussion could at present result in anything further than an academic resolution on the question. A uniform system of patents has been the subject of much corresponden e since the last conference. So far it has been found impossible to overcome difficulties in the way, similarly, a majority in the government think that public opinion in this country is not ripe for the adoption of the metric system."

Australia has proposed a permanent imperial council with a secretary and staff and regular meetings and asks for a system of intercolonial preferential trade and return preference from Great Britain to the colonies. She suggests an imperial defence scheme for the colonies and urges that the British protective shipping policy be adopted, also proposes measures whereby the colonial office may acquire more intimate knowledge of the colonies with which they have to deal. New Zealand takes practically the same stand as Australia on the subjects of preferential trade and imperial council and further suggests that colonies be not fettered by imperial treaties in making reciprocal fiscal arrangements.

Private bills' committee this morning passed Duncan Ross' bill, incorporating the Rivers' Improvement company.

A. B. C. MOBILIZATION

WESTERN TROOPS MAY GO INTO CAMP AT KAMLOOPS

SUGGESTION BROUGHT BY COL. C. M. McDOUGALL.

Lieutenant-colonel C. M. McDougall, of No. 1 military district, stationed at London, Ont., the offic r who is in charge of the series of provisional schools of instruction now being held in British Columbia, was at the armory last night for the first time since the local school opened. He reached Nelson the evening before on the delayed coast train and found the new class hard at work under the direction of Q.M. Sergt. White. Col. McDougall says he will not be able to give Nelson as much time as had been expected It was understood that the local school would last for a month or six week, but this will now be impossible. It seems that the colonel was allowed but two months to cover the whole of British Columbia. As the two months will expire with the 1st of March, he does not expect to be allowed to remain in Nelson much beyond that date. The work here will accordingly be pushed on as rapidly as possible. In order to cover more ground, those taking the officer's course will from this on atten l an extra class at noon each day.

Col. McDougall brought word that a movement is on foot for a mobilization of all the troops in British Columbia at a summer camp to be held at some convenient centre—possibly Kamloops. Everything is in the air at present; but if the various corps concerned are sufficiently anxious for the camp it will probably be arranged. Vancouver is working hard for it; and when the subject was broached last night the reception it received indicated that Nelson will be just as enthusiastic.

Col. McDougall was one of the officers who went to South Africa in 1899 with the first Canadian contingent. He is an experienced officer, having been in the service for many years, and is well qualified to perform the difficult duties now assigned—those of training and examining officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned, who are anxious to secure certificates of efficiency and yet who are precluded by circumstances from taking a course in one of the permanent military schools.

The vote ended the contest against the senior Utah senator of three years standing. Every available seat in the senate galleries was occupied during the voting and the floor was crowded with members of the house of representatives and employees of the senate. At the close of the voting senator Smoot was given a reception in the republican cloak r om.

END WAS VERY SUDDEN

MRS. SUSAN McHARDY DIED YESTERDAY MORNING.

HAD RISEN UNAIDED BUT A FEW MOMENTS BEFORE

Very sudden was the end of Mrs. Susan McHardy, mother of Charles F. McHardy, of the brokerage firm of McDermid & McHardy, who died at her son's residence yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. Mrs. McHardy, who was over 72 years of age, had been quite feeble for some time and of late had suffered severely from la grippe. But she was quite bright and cheerful and on Tuesday had been around the house as usual. She had had a presentment that she would not live long; but in spite of this she awaited the end w th perfect confidence and without worry.

That end, however, came sooner than any one expected. On Tuesday evening she spent some time with her son, putting all her business affairs in shape; and when she retired she contended that she did not feel over wearied by the effort. Wednesday morning, shortly before 9 o'clock, Mr. McHardy, who was downstairs, heard his mother fall in a room above. He went to her at once, but before he reached her she had found strength to rise unaided. She was laid on the bed, and received every attention loving care and medical skill could suggest; but in little more than five minutes she passed away.

Mrs. McHardy came to Nelson some six years ago with her husband, J. F. McHardy, to visit her son, C. F. McHardy. Within two weeks of their arrival, Mr. McHardy died very suddenly. Since that time Mrs. McHardy has made her home in Nelson

She leaves three children to mourn her loss, Charles F. McHardy in Nelson, Hardy McHardy in Toronto, and a daughter at Clinton, Ont.

The funeral, which will be private, will take place from Mr. McHardy's residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock, service at the house being conducted by Rev. J. T. Ferguson in the absence of Rev. R. N Powell

LOSS OF CATTLE SLIGHT

CARDSTON RANCHER REFUTES THE STORIES OF EXCESSIVE LOSSES

WEATHER WAS SEVERE FOR FEW WEEKS BUT NOT EXCEPTIONAL

Winnipeg, Feb. 20—Martin Woolf, one of the best known ranchers of Cardston, Alberta, was in the city today on his way to Ottawa where he is to interview several of the ministers in reference to matters which concern ranchers and others in southern Alberta.

Speaking of the condition of the ranchers in his district, Mr. Woolf said that the losses of the ranchers had not been in the least degree above the normal, the average loss throughout the district would not reach five per cent, a loss which ranchers in southern Alberta figure on every year. The weather was more severe than usual for a few weeks, but no inconvenience had been caused to anyone and there was no loss of cattle; all snow was taken off in a few days by a chinook wind and on the 14th of February there was a baseball game on the public square in the town of Cardston. The weather has continued very pleasant since that time.

PLUMAS SHOOTING CASE

LYLE COMMITTED TO STAND TRIAL FOR MURDER

PRISONER IS BELIEVED TO BE OF UNSOUND MIND

Plumas, Man., Feb. 20—Coroner Rose of Gladstone, impannelled a jury and held an inquest today on the body of James Alexander, shot dead near Plumas, and brought in a verdict that the victim came to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by Wilson Llye. Lyle is an Irish bachelor, 35 years old and has no relatives. He was taken to Gladstone where magistrate Cory committed him to stand trial for murder. It seems that Alexander and Lyle were neighboring farmers; the former pressed Lyle to come and help him draw hay, after Lyle had repeatedly refused. So Lyle told Alexander he would shoot him, and he took up a shot gun and fired, the shot going under Alexander's left shoulder, tearing off the bottom of both lungs. He then laid the gun on the bed and dragged Alexander in and laid him on the bed beside the gun, then he went and notified Miss Alexander that he had shot her brother. Lyle is considered to be crazy although he talks sensibly enough. To a private party he said he was possessed and forced to shoot. He said that Alexander provoked him to it. He realizes his position for he said to one of the neighbor's wives: "I guess I have go myself in a pretty tight corner now." The victim was well known for his religious tendencies, almost fanatical; he was very active in Sunday school work.

STOCK EXCHANGE HOLIDAYS

LEMIEUX'S LABOR BILL

Vigorously Opposed by the Various Railroad Brotherhoods

Ralph Smith Strongly Endorses Measure —Trainmen Fear That Wages May be Reduced Pending Inquiry

(Special to The Daily News)

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—Hon Rodolphe Lemieux's bill to prevent labor strikes and lockouts is being vigorously opposed by trainmen. Their desire is to prevent the reduction of wages during an investigation into labor troubles.

Ralph Smith, in the house today pointed out that all union men favored investigation. One great feature in England was to get employers to disclose their business to the public. As for railway men they had developed the principle of unionism to a higher pitch than any other organization. This was by the principle of a "collective bargaining." This was so complete that all difficulties were settled between the men and the company. Up to the point of a strike the railway men were not affected. The bill then stepped in and said before either of the parties go on strike, before a conflict starts, the public must know the whole circumstances by means of public investigation, the right to strike was not taken away but merely prevented while negotiations were going on. A strike on a public utility by a highly organized body of trainmen affected the public just as much as if it were brought about by an unorganized body. It seemed that while the opposition had declared in favor of the principle of the bill, they were now desirous of taking part of this back.

NELSON'S NEWS OF THE DAY

The want of hotel accommodation in this city at even this, usually the quietest season of the whole year from the hotelman's point of view, is being severely felt. With out any special cause many of the hotels have been unable to accommodate late arrivals for several days past and in some instances private residences have been sought for sleeping quarters. One cause assigned has been a steady stream of intending ranchers who put up here until their new quarters can be built. There is every indication of an unusually large number of arrivals early this season and when the regular tourist crowd starts in, it will lbe a difficult question how to accommodate them. It is a pleasing, but rather perplexing problem, and more hotels seem to be the only solution.

Reports from Spokane last night indicated a further block on the American railways. The O. R. and N. is held up again, there was no connection with the coast over the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific has five express trains held up in the east. The C.P.R. coast train reached the city about 12 o'clock last night.

An important special meeting of the board of trade is called for this evening in the rooms at 8:30, to consider the application of the eastern paint men to lower the import duty on lead, placed on the tariff at the last session of parliament, on the request of the B. C. lead miners. By mistake the notices sent out calling the meeting, announced that the qutstion to be discussed was the zinc situation. There should be a large attendance this evening as the matter to be discussed is decidedly an important one.

ALBERTA'S OIL FIELDS

WITH DEVELOPMENT WILL BE THE RICHEST IN THE WORLD

WILLIAM ALDRIDGE FIRST DISCOVERED OIL IN ALBERTA

(Special to The Daily News)

Pincher Creek, Feb. 20—William Aldridge was the first man to discover petroleum in Alberta. He took up his first claim in August, 1899. This was in southern Alberta, some 40 miles south of this town. That year he took out about 30 gallons of oil which he distributed to whoever was interested. The following year he was approached by Seattle oil men, but at that time his title was not complete so the deal fell through. His first means of gathering the oil was somewhat crude. He built a sluice box and shovelled the oil saturated gravel into it. He says it looked as if someone had poured black molasses on the gravel. At the end of the sluice was water, and as the oil trickled out it floated on the water. He would then drop an oat sack into the mixture and when the oil has soaked up he would strip it into a boiler which he had packed in with great difficulty. When he had enough he would boil the oil down to get the water out and then he had to pack it ten miles to get it to a wagon, the country being very rough. By wagon he took it to Cardston where he sold it to the people at $1 per gallon. Even by these crude methods he was able to gather some 50 gallons daily.

Mr. Aldridge made several attempts to sink a shaft through the clay-gravel surface but was unsuccessful. Before the world, or even his neighbors, knew where the oil was coming from, he had built nearly four miles of wagon road from his claim to a less rock and wild country, but before he had his road completed an oil company came in and insisted upon sinking a shaft on his claim, for which he had not yet received the title. The company struck oil at a depth of 1200 feet, but the flow belonged to Aldridge.

All over the surrounding country the oil has been lying in surface seepages for many years and old time hunters and troppers have told of the oil wealth of the district for the past quarter of a century but it is only within the past year that the people have begun to realize that Aldridge is the discoverer of the richest oil fields in the world. Oil experts from Pittsburg and Summerlands have stated that with development there are no oil fields in existence which can compare with those of southern Alberta.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW

Kentucky Case Similar in Some Respects to Harry K. Thaw's Case

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 20—A case similar in many ways to that of Harry K. Thaw was decided by the court of appeals today. In reversing a judgment sentencing James A. Shipp to life imprisonment for killing J. A. Smith for alleged improper relations with Shipp's wife, the court holds that it was competent for the defendant to tell the jury of a confession to Shipp by the wife regarding her relations with Smith. The confession he says she made to him two days before the killing. The court decided that it was not competent to prove her chastity as rebuking the idea that she would have made such a confession to her husband. Shipp swore he shot Smith on sight after hearing the story. A new trial is ordered.

INFLUX OF AMERICANS

Anticipated This Year's Immigration Double That of Last

Edmonton Flooded With Enquiries From Intending Purchasers of Farm Lands —Prepared to Pay Cash

(Special to The Daily News)

Edmonton, Feb. 20.—The time is fast approaching when the annual march of immigration to western Canada will commence—when trains will be hurrying westward laden with Americans for the great wheat country. Already the first faint sounds of the approach of this army, a mightier army than has been, are being heard, and before spring has fairly opened the great wave of immigration will be surging toward the "Last West." That the influx of settlers from all parts of the world will be greater than ever is to be expected, and that the tide of immigration from America will be greater than ever is admitted by the authorities in the central states. Last year nearly 70,000 Americans migrated to Canada. This year that number will be almost doubled. No surer proof of this can be had than the fact that for the past few months enquiries from all parts of the United States have been pouring into the boards of trade and publicity bureaus. To come down to figures secretary Fisher, of the Edmonton board of trade, has received no fewer than 6560 enquiries from Americans who are desirous of settling in Alberta, asking for all possible information about the country. While a large percentage of these people wish to homestead, a number of them are anxious to buy and instead of enquiring the price of quarter sections as they have done in the past the majority of those willing to buy want half sections and some of them state they are prepared to pay spot cash for whole sections in they can be suited. This promised influx of settlers is not due to the efforts of the Western Canada Immigration association or to any similar body, but to those Americans who have come to Canada and made good, and written back to their friends and told the true conditions existing here. Farmers who sold all they had in the wheat growing belt across the line to come to Canada, finding they can grow better wheat, more to the acre and at less expense than in the United States and added to this those who have growing families can purchase farms adjacent to their own for their growing sons at any price from $5 to $10 per acre and at this price can obtain the best wheat land in the world. From day to day the farming districts are extending northward and the further north, the better the wheat, seems to have been the experience of those who have squatted on the borders of civilization.

NEW FORESTRY SUPERINTENDENT.

Chief Clerk of Timber Branch to Succeed E. Stewart

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—In case of Lafferty vs. Lincoln, in the supreme court yesterday, Chrysler K.C., made application to the full court for special leave to appeal from the supreme court of the northwest territories in the matter of the conviction of a physician and surgeon for having practised his profession within the province of Alberta without having registered under the recent statute passed by the legislature of that province. In addition to questions raised upon the merits, the constitutionality of the statute is challenged. Mr. Hayden for the opposite party did not oppose the motion. In view of the importance of the questions at issue the court exercised its discretion by granting the special leave to appeal applied for.

H. Campbell, chief clerk of the timber and lands branch of the department of the interior, has been appointed superintendent of forestry in succession to Stewart, resigned.

AN OPPORTUNE MEASURE

The industrial disputes and investigation bill, introduced by minister of labor Lemieux, which is now under discussion at Ottawa, is in many respects a notable measure. In effect it aims to prevent strikes and lockouts on railroads and in coal mines. If the bill become law, before a strike or a lockout can be declared in the mining and transportation industries, the public by means of a public inquiry shall be put in possession of the facts. Opposition to the bill is offered by the railroad brotherhoods. The railroad men object to the right to strike being curtailed. As a matter of fact the proposed measure does not take away the right to strike, it simply aims to prevent a strike pending an investigation.

The second reading of the bill was adopted in the commons without a division, the leader of the opposition expressing approval of the principle, but intimating that he would have preferred a straight compulsory arbitration measure, on the lines of the New Zealand law.

In moving the second reading of the bill, Mr. Lemieux said the issue involved was not a party, but a national one. The measure was both liberal and conservative—liberal in the sense that it was a step forward, and conservative in that it supplied a restraining influence on the relations which should govern capital and labor. Experience taught them that strikes and lockouts endangered life and property, and that when life and property were in jeopardy, society was menaced. Then the rights of society became greater than the rights of participants on either side in any struggle, and if that was true the duty of the legislature was to intervene. Explaining the delay which had taken place in bringing the bill forward for second reading, he said it was his desire that ample time should be afforded the public to consider the measure. The bill had been before the public since a few days before Christmas, and he was satisfied that the object he had in view had been fulfilled. He had met many large employers in the country, and without exception they were satisfied with the bill. He had also gathered the views of the press in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, and, generally speaking, the papers of these countries viewed the proposed legislation with favor. He had met a great many labor associations too, and with only one or two exceptions he had found that they gave unqualified support to the measure. The legislation was based upon careful study of the working of similar legislative enactments in other countries far advanced on the labor question, and also upon the opinion of the highest authorities and most important commissions in industrial disputes. It was also a progression along the line of their own legislation. Mr. Lemieux proceeded to quote statistics showing the number of strikes and lockouts and the number of people affected thereby in Canada and other countries. The total number of disputes in Canada between 1901 and 1906, inclusive, was 715, and 142,027 work people were affected. Out of every 10,000 population in Canada 43 were immediately affected No statistics, however, could describe the agony of many homes after the bloody affray at Buckingham, or the hardships and sufferings which might have taken place in and around Lethbridge had not the coal strike been settled. No statistics could describe the intense hatred and bitterness created by the Hamilton street railway strike. Such occurrences not only involved danger to the families of employees and employers, but to the state, and consequently the necessity of dealing with such matters was of the utmost importance. Broadly speaking, the public utilities to which it was particularly intended that this measure should apply were those industries, such as mining and transportation, which were natural monopolies, having other industries dependent upon them. It was the intention to establish a tribunal which would investigate the circumstances and give to the public an intelligent opinion upon the respective rights and relative position of the parties before any strike or lockout was declared. In connection with this matter they had to acknowledge the great work accomplished by sir William Mulock in the interest of the laboring classes. By sir William Mulock the labor department was formed, and he, having been a wage-earner himself, knowing the difficulties of the laboring classes, brought forward the legislation which had been so greatly to their advantage. He introduced a bill containing the principles of compulsory arbitration, and it was then found that public opinion was opposed to it, but that there was a general feeling in favor of compulsory investigation, and in 1903 the railway labor disputes bill was introduced, containing that feature. Since then there had only been one railway strike, that of the telegraphers, which was settled by putting into force the powers of investigation. The principle embodied in the present legislation, extending the principle contained in the railway disputes' bill, had received the recommendation of every commission which had sat in connection with industrial troubles for the last ten years, and of the best known authorities in the industrial world.

Proceeding, Mr. Lemieux referring to the labor legislation of New Zealand, said that no land was without strikes, even New Zealand, and the conditions which had made compulsory arbitration possible in that country were very different to those which prevailed in a vast country like Canada, especially when it was also taken into consideration how interwoven were the labor and industrial questions of Canada and the United States.

Mr. Verville, the labor member from Quebec province, speaking in support of the bill, maintained that the only conclusions to which any committee of investigation could come was that strikes took place because there was no understanding between employers and employees. He might not favor every provision of the bill, but he strongly supported the principle of the legislation, because he hoped it would bring employers and employees together and put them on a platform of equality. He believed that after an investigation public opinion would do the rest. While he might personally favor compulsory arbitration, he considered it was impossible to have it in Canada because of the proximity of the United States. He could vouch that the Trades and Labor Congress of Canad was strongly in favor of the principle of the measure.

In view of the perfervid declarations of McBride government supporters during the late campaign in regard to the Chinese immigration question it is somewhat surprising to find the Vancouver News-Advertiser, the chief government organ on the coast, published and edited by the president of the council, taking the Vancouver Board of Trade to task for not endorsing a petition to the dominion government asking for the removal of the Chinese head-tax, under certain restrictions. The News-Advertiser denounces this action on the part of the board of trade as "a most remarkable evidence of an inconsistent and retrogressive policy." Strong language this and wholly at variance with the utterances of government speakers during the campaign, when every effort was made to persuade the electorate that it was the liberals who wanted to facilitate the immigration of Chinese.

GAME PRESERVES.

Curator of Provincial Museum Wants Two Established.

Victoria, Feb. 20.—A matter of much interest to the sportsmen of the province will be brought to the attention of the government by F. W. Kermode, curator of the provincial museum, this week. He will recommend the establishment of two large game preserves in British Columbia, one on the mainland and the other on Vancouver island. While, owing to the presence of the E. & N. railway land grant on the island, there will be some difficulty in choosing a suitable location, the area for the mainland has been practically decided upon.

In his efforts to secure these necessary preserves for the protection and breeding of the wild game of the province, Mr. Kermode has been aided very materially by William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Park, who is an enthusiast on big game in this province, and has made several expeditions in the Kootenay country. His work, "Camp Fires in the Canadian Rockies," is the standard work on sport in East Kootenay. His efforts have been ably seconded by James M. Phillips, of Pittsburg, a prominent man in the steel industry, who is also an enthusiast on the subject of the proposed preserve.

The Colonist says: Negotiations looking to the establishment of a large game preserve in Kootenay are in progress. An effort is to be made to establish something of the same kind on Vancouver island, and there is a large area in the northern part of the province, which by and bye may be set off for that purpose with advantage. The best feature of game preserves is that they do not encroach at all upon agricultural regions, and only to a limited extent upon useful forests. We are unable to say at present how far they would affect the development of mining. Under proper restrictions game preserves would prove an exceedingly valuable asset to the province. Every year the number of people who wish to hunt big game is increasing, and no people in all the world spend money more freely.

We suppose that British Columbia must be the best game country in America. It has a greater area of wilderness, and its wild animals are of the kind in which the true sportsman delights. There is also a spice of adventure about hunting in our mountains, which will add immensely to its attractiveness. Therefore if the idea of game preserves can be worked out without unduly interfering with other interests, we should be glad to see something accomplished, and we are satisfied that the public would approve.

CHAMBERLAIN'S CONDITION

Completely Broken Down Physically, But Mentally Alert.

London, Feb. 20.—An interesting and authoritative statement concerning the health of Joseph Chamberlain is published today. It does not confirm the worst rumors, but it shows that Mr. Chamberlain is completely broken down physically although he is mentally alert. He passes most of his time indoors at Highbury, his Birmingham residence, but when the weather is fine he drives in a carriage in the grounds of his estate or on unfrequented roads in the vicinity. He seeks to avoid the public gaze. He never stays outside the house more than 45 minutes at a time. He sometimes spends considerable time in his orchid house, as the temperature in these buildings suits him, or he will be wheeled in an invalid's chair about the grounds. He occasionally takes a short walk supported by his stout stick, and the arm of his wife, but the invalid chair is always at hand.

LAURENTIAN GOLD MINE GOLD

(Special to The Daily News)

Wabigoon, Ont., Feb. 20.—The Laurentian, which experts claim to be the richest gold mine on earth, has passed out of the control of Anthony Blum, of Boston. With a capital of $15,000,000 the Hugo von Hagen Exploration Co. was formed to acquire a 51 per cent interest in this mine. It is reported that a few months ago Mr. Blum received an offer of $5,000,000 cash for this mine which he refused saying he would consider nothing less than $25,000,000. A well known mining expert said of this property: "The Laurentian mine has more high grade gold ore in sight than any other mine in the world."

POOR EVIDENCE OF FRIENDSHIP

Toulon, Feb. 20.—The action of the Russian squadron which is anchored in this harbor, in buying provisions from Greek and German houses has incensed the French merchants, who have placarded the city with denunciations of France's ally, and have forwarded indignant resolutions to marine minister Thomson.

KING MAY ATTEND GAME

CANADIAN LACROSSE BOYS TO TOUR ENGLAND.

SPECIAL MATCH ARRANGED FOR HIS MAJESTY.

London, Feb. 20.—The visit of the Ottawa Capitals, who, according to present arrangements, will leave Canada on April 5th next, is looked forward to with great interest in sporting circles here, and English lacrosse players hope to demonstrate to the visitors greatly improved form to that which was shown when a Canadian team was over here some years ago. Around Manchester, which is the headquarters of the North Association, the Ottawa boys are likely to find foemen worthy of their steel, especially when the games will be played under British rules. The main difference between the English and Canadian rules is that in the former, no body-checking is allowed, except by getting right in front of the opposing player, which is known as "blocking." Under English rules it is not an uncommon thing to see a fast and nimble player dash the whole length of the field with scarcely coming in contact with an opposing player. The clubs of the Northern Association have the reputation of playing the game with more zest and more after the Canadian style than do the southern teams. Some of the members of the northern teams are in favor of introducing the body check, though as yet their voices are faint, but even now the referees do not care to notice every small infraction against this prohibition. Any attempt to legalize the body check would meet with most opposition from the southern people, who play the game rather for amusement than with the desire to win, and they consequently resent any innovation which would tend to make the game "ungentlemanly."

Lord Strathcona is taking a great interest in the coming trip, and has personally volunteered to do everything in his power, both in Canada and England, to make the visit a success. Though rather early to speak of the matter, it is understood that a great match is to be arranged at Lord's Cricket ground against a representative English side. Strong efforts will be made to prevail upon the king to attend the match. If this came to pass, it would be the first time his majesty, since he came to the throne, attended a match of any description, and it would, of course, be taken as a great compliment to the Canadians..

CAPITAL'S SCHEDULE

Dates of Play in the British-Canadian Series.

London, Feb. 20.—The representative of the Canadian Associated Press has been informed that the Capitals are expected to arrive on April 12 and they will be present the following day at Lord's cricket ground to see the match between the North and South. Their first match will be on April 18, possibly against a London team. The Capitals then go west and will probably play at Britsol and Cardiff on April 20 and 22 and at Lord's in London, April 27. There will also possibly be games at Cambridge and Oxford April 29 and 31, and May 1 at Manchester, where they will play four matches, presumably against Lancashire and Cheshire and a team composed of Northerners and Southerners.

MILITARY CAMPS

Winnipeg, Feb. 19—Col. Evans, D.O.C., states a brigade camp will be held for military district No. 10, the camp to be located in the vicinity of a rifle range, dating from June 11 to 22 inclusive, and will consist of the following units: The 12th Manitoba Dragoons, the R.C.M.R.; 16th Saskatchewan Mounted Rifles; 13 Field Battery; 96th regiment from Port Arthur and Fort William district. Another cavalry camp will also be established at Calgary dating from June 25 to July 6, inclusive. Troops encamping at Calgary, will be the 15th Light Horse, the Canadian Mounted Rifles, and Alberta Rangers.

OR YOUR MONEY BACK.

Read this letter from Mrs. Gargill. Has it not the ring of truth? Does it not describe your own sufferings? And does it not point the way to quick relief?

"For three years I suffered more than I can tell with terrible pains in the small of my back. When I stooped over, it seemed as though I would never be able to straighten up. I tried Kidney Pills for a year and a half, but was getting worse all the time, until advised by my neighbor to try "Gin Pills," as she had been almost similarly affected, and had been completely cured by them. I took three boxes of Gin Pills, and almost from the first dose I began to feel better. Now I am pleased to say I can do as good a day's work as ever in my life without feeling tired out. Before getting Gin Pills I had to have a girl to do my housework, but now I can do it all myself, including the washing. I will always recommend Gin Pills for kidney trouble.

PETROLEUM IN CANADA

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY REPORTS ON DOMINION'S OIL FIELDS

KOOTENAY AND CARIBOO ARE THE B. C. CENTERS

The geological survey paid special attention in 1906 to the Canadian mineral oil industry, and one of the members of its staff was instructed to visit, during the field season the localities where boring operations were being carried on, more particularly in new fields, in order to draw up a reliable and unbiased report on the subject. The investing public is certainly in need of such information so as to be able to distinguish earnest and legitimate ventures from more or less doubtful ones.

That the oil industry is far from declining is shown by the fact that the production in 1905 exceeded that of 1904 by over 300,000 barrels—the figures of 1906 are not yet available.

Ontario is still altogether responsible for the output, although very active operationsin search of oil have been going on for the past two years and a half in all parts of Canada, from Nov Scotia to the northern parts of British Columbia. It would seem as if the bounty of one and a half cents per gallon of crude petroleum produced, which the dominion government granted by the act which came into effect in 1904, had greatly stimulated prospecting and boring for oil; results have followed this activity; the limits of some of the older producing fields have been extended, new pools have been discovered and new areas are being energetically prospected. Our readers might perhaps read with interest a brief synopsis of the developments which have taken place, within a comparatively short time in the oil industry. We will, therefore, give a short account of these in the various provinces, which will be taken up in their geographical order from east to west.

In Nova Scotia oil has long been known to occur, the most promising locality being in the lake Ainslee district, Cape Breton, island. In 1905, and 1906 boring operations for oil have been going on actively. The syndicate operating there intend to go on with the work in 1907.

Another locality in Nova Scotia where a bore hole in search of oil has recently been put down is at Cheverie, where a depth of over 1000 feet has been reachel. Operations will also be continued there.

New Brunswick has a small producing field at Memramcook, where several wells are regularly pumped, although the output is small. There exists, however, in New Brunswick, a possible source of petroleum which perhaps has not received all the attention that it deserves. In Albert county there exists large deposits of bituminous or oil bearing shales, from which the oil could be extracted by distillation and these deposits under prudent management may yet become a feature in Canadian oil industry. The possibilities of these oil bearing shales have at different times been mentioned by members of the Canadian geological survey. A similar industry is being carried on very successfully in Scotland.

In Gaspe, province of Quebec, operations in search of oil have been carried on for the last ten years on a very large scale, but the results, so far, have been disappointing. More than 50 holes have been bored, one of which reached a depth of 3700 feet.

Ontario is responsible for practically the whole Canadian oil production. The following fields are located in the southwestern peninsula between lakes Huron and Erie. The older oil pools or oil producing areas, have been described at different times, and it will be sufficient to mention here that the Petrolia district has been yielding steadily snce 1862, the Oil Springs pool is about contemporaneous, and since then other oil areas have at various times been brought in, such as Bothwell, Moose, Leamington, Dutton, Thamesville, Wheally, Tilbury and others most of which are included in the counties of Lambton, Kent and Essex. The feature of the oil industry in western Ontario has been the discovery of the new producing areas of East Tilbury township, where a pool, which promises well, was struck in the vicinity of Berlin.

On Manitoulin island, boring operations were actively carried on during 1906 by five different companies. This field has not yet contributed to the Canadian producing area.

In western Canada, throughout all the provinces a great deal of energy is being displayed in prospecting for petroleum. In Manitoba bore holes are being put down at two places at least, where surface indications have been reported, or where signs of the presence of oil were said to have been found on sinking wells of water. One of these places is at Manitou in southern Manitoba, and the other is at Neepawa on the Minnedosa branch of the Canadian Pacific railway. Deep boring operations are also being carried on in Saskatchewan and in Alberta. The latter province is more especially prominent in this drecton. There are at present some 12 or 15 deep drilling rigs, prospecting various areas between the international boundary line on the south and the lower part of Athabasca river in the north.

In southern Alberta oil has been struck in two wells at depths slightly exceeding 1000 feet. It is reported that these wells could be pumped and made to y ield; but the lack of means of transportation is a drawback at present. However, prospecting is going on very actively, and should the results obtained in this section, which lies south of Pincher Creek, justify it, a pipe line or a railway spur, both of which are feasible, would be constructed.

At Calgary and at Medicine hat drilling rigs are in operation and at the latter place provision has been made to reach a depth of 3000 feet.

In the northern part of Alberta search for petroleum is being carried on in the vicinity of Fort McMurray on the Athabasca river, some 300 miles north of Edmonton. The extensive outcrops of tar sands in this region have frequently been referred to by various members of the geological survey. These certainly indicate the presence of oil bearing strata, and there is but little doubt that where the underground structure and other conditions are favorable large accumulations of oil have been gathered, and this far north country may become quite a factor in the production of petroleum in Canada.

In British Columbia two companies were working in southeast Kootenay in 1906. The boring operations were being carried on in the vicinity of the oil seepages which were recognized and mentioned by Dr. Selwyn, the late director of the geological survey, as early as 1888. The depths reached in this district have not yet been carried down sufficiently far to be conclusive one way or the other.

Some work has also been carried on in the Cariboo district, from where very promising indications have been reported.

In conclusion it may be said that a great deal of earnest and systematic work in search of new oil fields is being carried on in nearly every province in Canada, and it is to be hoped that success will crown the many ventures in the near future. It is too sanguine to expect that the hopes of all shall be realized, but even if on'y a few of them should be successful the benefit the country would derive from these new finds would make up for many failures.

ONTARIO'S MINING LAWS

NEW MEASURE INTRODUCED INTO THE LEGISLATURE

GENEROUS BOUNTY TO ENCOURCOURAGE HOME SMELTING

Toronto, Feb. 20.—The much discussed mining legislation, which was foretold in the speech from the throne, has been introduced by Hon. Mr. Cochrane, minister of lands, forests, and mines, in the legislature and read a first time. It took the form of three bills The first, entitled "An Act to Encourage the Refining of Metals in Ontario," is a plan whereby the smelting industry will be greatly benefited, and the necessity of exporting ores to be treated in the United States, it is hoped, will be eventually obviated. A scale of generous bounties is provided on the production of refined cobalt, nickel, copper, and arsenic and certain compounds. This will remain in force for a period of five years. The funds for the payment of these subventions will form part of the revenue obtained as a result of the second measure, which is designed to secure for the province a share of its great mineral resources. It is known as "An Act to Supplement the Revenue of the Province," and provides for the imposition of a tax on the acreage of mining properties in the unorganized districts. It also levies a tax on the yearly profits of all working mines above the sum of $10,000. The amounts to be exacted will be inserted by resolution later when the bill is discussed. The third bill, 'To Amend the Mines Act of 1906," serves to make clear a number of sections of that statute beyond question.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc.

NEGLECTED COLDS THREATEN LIFE

(From Chicago Tribune)

"'Don't trifle with a cold,' is good advice for prudent men and women. It may be vital in the case of a child. Proper food, good ventilation, and dry, warm clothing are the proper safeguards against colds. If they are maintained throughout the changeable weather of autumn, winter and spring, the chances of a surprise from ordinary colds will be slight. But the ordinary light cold will become severe if neglected and a well established, ripe cold is to the germs of consumption what honey is to the bee. The greatest menace to child life at this time of the year is the neglected cold." Whether it is a child or adult, the cold slight or severe, the very best treatment that can be adopted is to give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a trial. It is safe and sure. The great popularity and immense sale of this preparation has been attained by its remarkable cures of this ailment. A cold never results in pneumonia when it is given. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

London, Feb. 20.—At a meeting of the Imperial defence league in the army and Navy club last night lord Roberts, who presided, said the British nation could not loose sight of the fact that all the new equipment of Germany was aimed at Great Britain. The fact was, he said, Germany must have space to colonize in and suitable space for that purpose could only be had after defeating England. Directly Great Britain was reduced to the rank of a third rate power Germany would be world supreme.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

MRS. THAW ON THE STAND

ALL DAY SUBJECT TO JEROME'S CROSS-QUESTIONING.

DESPERATE EFFORT TO BREAK DOWN HER STORY.

New York, Feb. 20.—There was a great rush of curious persons anxious to see Evelyn Nesbit Thaw under the ordeal of cross-examination at the criminal court building this morning, but only those provided with special credentials were permitted to enter where the trial is in progress. Even under these restrictions every available seat was occupied as court convened.

District attorney Jerome was early in the court room. Mr. Delmas was a few minutes late in reaching the court. He came in behind Thaw, who sat in his accustomed chair, and patted him affectionately on the back. Thaw smiled at him and for a minute they whispered together, each with his arm about the shoulders of the other. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was immediately recalled that Mr. Jerome might continue her cross-examination again. Her face was slightly flushed as she took her place in the witness chair with her usual little smile at her husband. Mr. Delmas moved his chair inside the witness box. When Mrs. Thaw saw him she smiled faintly and then turned her eyes to district attorney Jerome, who sat before her.

The latter began by showing Mrs. Thaw's photograph of herself taken in a kimono, and asked her if she could recall the date of the picture.

"I think it was taken in 1904."

"Where did you live after your return from Europe in 1904 until the time of your marriage?"

Mrs. Thaw gave eight or nine addresses.

"Was the defendant present when this photograph was taken?"

"I don't think so."

"Did not the defendant give you the kimono?"

"Yes."

Mr. Jerome exhibited another photograph and asked when it was taken.

"Late in 1901, I think."

"Were you acting that time?"

"Yes."

"What company?"

"Florodora."

"Was this a Florodora costume?" asked Mr. Jerome, referring to the photograph.

"No it was the red dress my mother gave me, and the red cap Stanford White gave me."

"How long did you live in Philadelphia?"

"I don't remember."

"How old were you then?"

"Fourteen."

Mr. Jerome, by his next few questions, indicated that he did not intend to spare the feelings of the young woman in any way. He interrogated her sharply as to the details of her dress when she was posing for artists in Philadelphia and New York. He persisted in certain questions even after Mr. Delmas had objected, and insisted on having definite answers, though Mrs. Thaw usually said she could not remember.

"Was there any exposure of the person or did you wear the so called artistic draperies?"

"I would not say that," replied the witness, "I posed in a Greek dress and a Turkish costume."

Mrs. Thaw testified that she and her mother first lived in West 38th street and her first employment was in the Florodora company. She took a photo of herself to the editor of the Broadway Magazine and it was published over the name of Evelyn Florise. Reporters were given other pictures by her mother.

She acknowledged meeting and corresponding with Ed. Marks, a vaudeville manager. She said she visited a warehouse with Thaw, Warren and Hartridge but did not remove any letters. Mr. Jerome asked: "Have you any letters from Stanford White?"

"I did have."

It developed that the letters yesterday identified by her were written by White to another girl.

"Where are Mr. White's letters?"

"Mr. Hartridge has some of them."

"Was there a single word of impropriety or indecency in Stanford White's letters to you?"

"I don't remember."

"Have you a copy of the letter you wrote to Mr. White from Boulogne?"

"No."

"Do you remember its contents?"

"No."

She testified that she gave 14 letters to Thaw in Paris in 1903. Afterwards she received them from Thaw's valet and gave them to Thaw again, presumably after he had shot White.

All these letters, she said, were received from White while she was abroad in 1903 and were given to Thaw. She also gave him some letters which she had received before that time. She did not know where they were now.

Mr. Jerome spent an hour or more on White's letters, Mrs. Thaw declaring that the 14 letters which Thaw gave to Hartridge were the only ones she positively knew were in existence, but she said others might be in a trunk in Paris. Mr. Jerome would ask occasionally a pointed question. Mrs. Thaw would reply with an emphatic nod, "I didn't say that."

"Did you in 1903 take letters from a warehouse in this city?"

"Yes."

"Were some not sent you afterwards?"

"Yes; White sent me a trunk from the warehouse and it contained some papers, but no letters."

"Why didn't you give Thaw all of White's letters?"

"I didn't say that."

"You said some were in a trunk in Paris?"

"I said they might be."

"Didn't you retain some letters?"

"I don't think that I did."

"Thaw was pressing you all the time to give him all the details of this affair with White, wasn't he "

"Yes."

"You gave him the letters before your marriage?"

"Yes."

Mr. Jerome then turned to the story the witness told her husband, and Mrs. Thaw declared it was true.

"How long were you unconscious in the 34th street house at the time of your experience with Stanford White?"

"I don't remember."

"Was it after midnight that you became unconscious?"

"Yes; I think it was."

"Was it before daylight?"

Mrs. Thaw hesitated; "Yes; before daylight."

Mr Jerome read from Mrs. Thaw's direct examination that she sat up all that night. She replied that she meant the rest of the night after she had been taken home."

"When did you first meet Ted Marks?"

"I think it was in 1900 or early in 1901."

"You received letters from him?"

"Yes."

"Up to that time your relations with your mother were friendly?"

"Yes."

"There was nothing to show that your mother was willing to sacrifice you for a pecuniary consideration?"

"No." (Indignantly.)

In all the troubles you went through you never thought anything but that your mother lacked judgment?"

"No."

"What were the letters Ted. Marks wrote you?"

"He said he had seen my picture and would like to place me on the stage."

"When did you first become ambitious to become a great actress?"

"Before I went to Philadelphia."

"When you came to New York you already had this ambition?"

"Yes."

"How long were you with Marks that Sunday evening?"

"I don't remember; I remember going to a restaurant with Mr. Marks, but I don't know whether it was that night."

Mr. Jerome asked what Mrs. Nesbitt thought about her daughter going on the stage.

"Mama said I ought not to go without her," replied the witness.

"At this time did you know Frances Belmont?"

"No."

"Or Edna Goodrich?"

"No."

"Or James A. Garland?"

"No."

Mr. Jerome next asked about a man named Pope or Popely. He wanted to know if he had not lived at the same house with her.

"Not while I lived there," replied the witness.

"Have you seen him since 1903?"

"I may have passed him on the street."

"I don't mean that way?"

"No," with a stamp of her foot.

Mrs. Thaw told of a visit with her mother to the office of Mr. Fisher, a theatrical manager. They had a letter from Marks. It was on this occasion that Fisher said he was not running a "baby farm." He finally agreed to take Miss Nesbitt with the understanding that her mother should go with her.

"How long did you play in Fisher's Florodora company?"

"After several weeks in the chorus I went into the cast. That was early in the summer of 1901. Late in July I went with the Geisha."

"Your mother came for you every night?"

"Yes; until I met White."

"Who introduced you to White?"

"Edna Goodrich."

"Where did you meet Miss Goodrich?"

"She was playing in Florodora."

"You and she were friendly "

"Yes."

"Did you see very much of her?"

"No."

"When she introduced you to White was that the first time you had been anywhere with her?"

"Yes."

"During the time you were in the Florodora company had you ever been out?"

"Yes."

"With whom?"

"With my mama and Mr. Garland."

"Where did you meet him?"

"At the boarding house in 38th street."

"Did you ever write any letters to him?"

"I don't remember; I might have."

Mrs. Thaw said that her mother was pleased with Garland's attention and that she and her mother went yachting with him Saturdays.

"Is it not true," went on Mr. Jerome, reading from a paper, "that in 1901 you were getting unruly, that your mother still stuck by you, and that a married man—" at this point Mr. Delmas objected to Mr. Jerome reading from what he termed "a statement of Evelyn Thaw's mother."

"If the district attorney wants the mother's testimony in, he should produce her on the stand," said he.

"I'd like to know that it is possible. You know where she is?" said Mr. Jerome.

The question about Evelyn becoming unruly was allowed to stand.

"No," she answered.

"Is it not true that the married man was James A. Garland and that he was getting a divorce, and that your mother and you frequently quarreled about him?"

"No." (Indignantly.)

"Is it not true that you went alone with him on the yacht?"

"Mama and I, yes."

Another objection to the question whether she had been co-respondent in Garland's divorce suit was sustained.

After more questions regarding her association with Garland: "Did George W. Lederer have anything to do with your going into the Florodora company cast?"

"Not that I know of."

"During this time did you ever pose for an artist in the nude?"

"Never."

"Ever have any casts made in the nude?"

"No."

"Did you not in 1901 have such a cast made?"

"No."

She had never heard of Mr. Wells, a sculptor. Her acquaintance with Garland ceased when she met White.

"It is not true that Garland became annoying when you lived at a certain apartment house and your mother got the telephone girl to refuse to send up his card?"

"No."

"Did your mother meet you every evening at the theatre?"

"I remember going once with mama and another lady."

"Did your brother, Howard ever go to the theatre for you?"

"Once, when mama was sick."

"You know your brother's writing?"

"Yes."

"Is this his signature?" Mr. Jerome showed the witness a document, concealing all but the bottom of the last page.

"Yes."

EDMONTON TO DAWSON

MILITARY HIGHWAY TO BE CONSTRUCTED IN THE SPRING

WILL CONNECT YUKON WITH HEART OF CANADA.

(Special to The Daily News)

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 20.—As soon as weather permits in the spring a party of Royal Northwest Mounted Police will leave here to surpervise the construction of the all-Canadian military highway between this city and the Yukon. Captain McDonald, now at Hazelton, will start north from that point. He will have charge of trail blazers, bridge builders and road makers. They will have hundreds of miles to cover through an uninhabited country which a few tried to get through in the early rush for the Klondike. To connect the Yukon with the heart of Canada a course will be blazed and bridged and pack routes cut through one of the wildest territories on earth. At Fort Graham captain Camios is wintering, ready to commence work in the spring. This party did considerable work there last year but owing to the fact that they were unable to get sufficient food for their 40 horses they were obliged to send them back to Athabasca landing, hundreds of miles from Fort Graham. Not only will this long route, when finished, connect the heart of western Canada with the frozen north for military purposes in time of trouble, but will afford a long wanted highway by which trappers and prospectors can get in their supplies and ship out their products.

ENDORSE LEMIEUX BILL

TORONTO DISTRICT LABOR COUNCIL UNANIMOUSLY APPROVE

AMENDMENT TO ONE PROVISION ASKED FOR.

Toronto, Feb. 20.—The District Labor council have unanimously endorsed the general principles of the Lemieux labor bill, the vital principle of which is compulsory investigation of labor disputes under government authority. The various clauses were discussed, and the one to which the only objection was taken was the following: "It shall be unlawful for any employer to declare or cause a lockout, or for any employee to go on strike on account of any dispute, prior to a reference of such dispute to a board of conciliation ,or during the pendancy of any proceedings in relation to such dispute before a board under the provisions of this act." After some discussion it was decided to ask the government to amend this clause, so that the employers will be prevented from forcing a reduction of wages pending arbitration, because the bill as it stands deprives the men of the right to strike in the meantime. It was also thought that one clause in the bill should also be amended to include unincorporated unions. Mr. J. G. O'Donoghue, barrister, explained the various clauses, the benefits that would accrue therefrom and the elements of equity contained in the bill for the employer as well as the employee. The bill would by reason of the publicity its operation would give in enabling the public to know the matters under dispute on both sides meet with the general approval of the council.

SUFFRAGETTES RELEASED.

Sir Charles Dilke's Bill to Enfranchise Women Introduced.

London, Feb. 20.—A dozen women suffragists were released from prison this morning and subsequently were entertained at luncheon by their colleagues. Much enthusiasm was aroused by the reading of congratulatory messages from the National American Woman Suffragists' association, which closed its convention in Chicago yesterday, and from the Woman Suffragist league of New York.

The text of sir Charles Dilke's bill to enfranchise women and remove women's disabilities was issued this morning. It provides for enfranchising every registering man and women of full age residing in the area where an election, either parliamentary or local, is being held, and that nobody shall be disqualified by sex or marriage from being elected to either house of parliament or the local bodies, or from exercising any public functions whatever. It is similar to the bill sir Charles introduced last year and which was defeated.

HUGHES IS MAKING GOOD

Recommends Removal of Incompetent Official.

Albany, Feb. 20.—Governor Hughes sent to the senate today a special message recommending the removal from office of state superintendent of insurance Otto Kelsey. In the opening paragraphs of the 2500-word message the governor says:

"I recommend the removal of Otto Kelsey from the office of superintendent of insurance. With respect to life insurance, New York is easily the most important jurisdiction in the United States, if not in the world, and the vasts interests involved imperatively require, and it should be a point of honor for the state to maintain, a fearless and efficient administration of its supervising department, commanding the confidence of the people.

"I recommend Mr. Kelsey's removal because as head of this department he has conspicuously failed to perform obvious duties of the first importance, and his neglect has demonstrated his unfitness for the trust confided to him."

The message was read and on motion was referred without debate or comment to the committee on judiciary.

JAPANESE EXTENSION

Tokio, Feb. 20—The tone of the leading newspapers this morning in commenting on the settlement of the San Francisco school question is eminently pacific. They appear reconciled to the situation in view of the last clause in article 2 of the treaty with the United States. The Nichi Niche says that it will withhold judgment concerning the success or failure of Japan's diplomacy until the naturalization question is settled. Minister Hayashi in an explanatory interview, calls attention to the fact that when the present treaty was concluded Japan had a great object to attain, the removal of consular jurisdiction. Before this achievement could be realized some sacrifice was necessary.

"I remember," said he, "that that clause was inserted at the express wish of the American government because the approval of the treaty could not be secured in the United States without it."

Honolulu, Feb. 20—Governor Carter has received a request from secretary of state Root to notify agents of steamship companies that Japanese laborers in Hawaii, with passports for Hawaii only, will not be admitted to the mainland. The steamship Mongolia, which sailed for San Francisco yesterday carried over 300 Japanese from here.

Washington, Feb. 20—The president at noon today signed the Immigration bill.

MANLY OFF TO VICTORIA

AN OLD TIME RESIDENT OF GRAND FORKS SEEKS NEW PASTURES

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION IS MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

(Special to The Daily News)

Grand Forks, Feb. 20—Lloyd A. Manly of this city, is winding up his business affairs with the intention of moving to Victoria, and expects to leave early next month. He will dispose of his wholesale liquor business here and sell the premises where it is carried on. Only last summer Mr. Manly built a handsome residence on the east side of the city. Pending the sale of the property Mr. Manly's family remains here. Asked as to his intentions, Mr. Manly said: "I expect to move my offices to Victoria at once as I find that point will be more convenient in every way as a distributing point, and also in connection with other operations I may carry on. At present I havt an option on a business in that city, which I shall most likely take up, though I am bound to add that in some respects it is the wrong time to leave for I firmly believe that an advance movement will be witnessed here this year which will mean much to the city and district."

L. A. Manly is one of a family of five brothers who have long been associated with this district. Mr. Manly followed his brother Dr. Manly, now of Republic, into the Kettle valley in the early 90's. After settling on the land east of the present townsite, he later on, in conjunction with his brother, John, secured interests in the land on which this city now stands, and placed the townsite of Grand Forks on the market. L. A. Manly became mayor of this city in 1899 and again in 1900. He was president of the board of trade on one or two occasions and president of the Grand Forks racing and athletic association. For some time past Mr. Manly has carried on a wholesale liquor business and is also president of the provincial Licensed Vintners' association ,whose head office will now be in Victoria.

E. Duford, proprietor of the Queen's hotel, and long a resident of this place, died on Tuesday morning from pneumonia. Mr. Duford had been suffering for some time but showed signs of recovery and his death was a shock to his many friends here. The deceased was of French extraction and was 67 years old.

The covered rink of the athletic association was attended by some 300 people last Monday night to witness a hockey match between two scratch teams and various racing contests. There is some good hockey material in the place and next year Grand Forks should be able to send out a good team. The directors of the athletic association, though hampered by many delays, have succeeded in giving the town a capital rink, roofed with corrugated iron and of good size. Next year, if finances permit, it is proposed to add curling rinks to the present building. The land and building cost some $3500, and the total indebtedness of the association is now only some $1200. Fred Clark, the president of the association, has worked steadily and well to bring the affairs of the association into good shape, and has been ably assisted by the board of directors.

CLAYTON'S HARD LUCK

Is Attacked with Diptheria While awaiting Trial in Provincial Gaol

It doesn't often happen that people are prevented from going to gaol even if sent there under due process of law, but just at the present no more prisoners will be taken in at the provincial gaol. The cause is a simple one. A. Clayton, the man charged with assaulting one Verrinder, on Dec. 22 last, and who has been confined in the provincial gaol ever since, awaiting trial, has developed diptheria and the gaol has been temporarily quarantined by the medical health officer. For a week at least no prisoners will be received and none will be allowed to leave the building. Clayton has been isolated.

Both the medical health officer and the gaol physician are at a loss to account for the case. They surmise that some prisoner who had been suffering from the disease just previous to his committal, brought in the germs but no particular case is known.

Clayton, who has been locked up since Dec. 24, was to have been tried by judge Forin today on the charge of assault, laid against him. As a result of an assault Verrinder lost his right eye and went to Spokane to have the injured member removed. Proceedings were stayed while Verrinder was recovering from the effects of the operation. Now the accused is taken ill and a further delay is necessary. The type of the disease in Clayton's case is not a virulent one, but it will necessarily be some time before he can be tried.

DISCOVERY OF TIN IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, N.S., Feb. 20.—Hundreds of prospectors are rushing to New Ross, where valuable discoveries of tin have been made. It is pointed out that as the world's great tin mines are becoming exhausted, and in view of the high prices now prevailing the discovery of the new deposits here will be a matter of significance.

CAPITAL COMING TO B.C.

HOPEFUL VIEW OF A. J. McMILLAN, OF LE ROI MINE.

WILL BE BIG INFLUX OF SETTLERS FROM ENGLAND THIS YEAR

Winnipeg, Feb. 20.—A. J. McMillan, of London, England, managing director of the Le Roi Mines company, left today for Rossland to remain several months. The Le Roi paid a dividend of 3½ per cent for the past year, this being the first dividend paid for seven years past. The mine is said to be looking well, but the company, in common with others operating in British Columbia, has had great difficulty this winter on account of shortage of coal and coke, which has resulted in a reduction of output of ore. It is hoped that normal conditions will soon be restored.

In answer to enquiries, Mr. McMillan stated that capital was coming this way, and would come in still larger volumes when the market gets a little easier, as experts think it will a few months hence. By way of illustration he mentioned that he and some influential friends in London were raising money with a view to financing sound enterprises emanating from western Canada.

As to immigration, the Canadian government officials in England told him last month that they expected more people to leave Great Britain for Canada than ever this year. Mr. McMillian said that lord Starthcona had done, and was still doing magnificent work for Canada, and in England Canadians were a unit in thinking that he would continue as commissioner.

ABOUT TO LEAVE MICHEL

DR. McSORLEY TO PRACTISE ON THE COAST

DEATH OF AGED LUMBER-JACK—EX-TREASURER OF OTTAWA

(Special to The Daily News)

Michel, Feb. 20—Dr. McSorley, for many years company physician here, has decided to leave Michel and expects to leave here about April 1, and will locate at some point on the coast, probably at Prince Rupert. The doctor's career in Michel has been a very successful one. As a surgeon he has no equal in this part of B.C., many cases for operation having been brought here for his treatment from other points. From a financial standpoint Michel is a very poor field for a doctor, not but what there is plenty of work, each man at work in the camp pays $1 per month for doctor's fees. Out of this he is compelled to maintain the hospital with two nurses, furnish all medicines needed in the camp and pay rents for his building, aggregating $100 a month, leaving as a balance on the right side of the ledger, a sum less than is earned by any ordinary salesman or store clerk. The local Miners' union has taken steps with a view to raise the amount paid towards maintaining the hospital with the hope that Dr. McSorley will remain here .

John Averill, an aged lumber-jack, died in Michel hospital Monday morning of old age. He was brought here from Sparwood about a month ago, but he gradually sank, until the end came. The deceased came to the Pass some seven years ago from Ottawa. He was well educated and was a man of good social standing in the capital. However the excessive use of liquor caused his downfall and finally drove him from friends and social standing to exile in the far west. He was for several years treasurer of Ottawa. The funeral was held here today from the morgue at the hospital. Interment was made at Michel cemetery, Rev. Mr. Kinney officiating.
