INQUIRY ENDS

Mackenzie King Finishing His Investigation

SECRET OF JAP INVASION

NO STEPS ARE LIKELY TO BE TAKEN UNTIL RECEIPT OF REPORT FROM LEMIEUX—GENERAL NEWS NOTES FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

(Special to The Daily News)

Vancouver, Nov. 26.—From statements made by commissioner King today it is understood that the immigration inquiry will reach both its highest point and close on Thursday when Gotch of the Canadian Nippon company, the books of which organization have been examined by the commissioner, is examined. King said on this point this morning: "If Gotch tells a straight story, as I think he will, I think we have sufficient to make the evidence absolutely conclusive as to the methods adopted in bringing Japanese here. If he does not tell—well, I think I have documents with which to confront him." King said it was of no use to any longer continue the examination of Chinese or Hindu immigrants. Tomorrow he will examine the several heads of the local employment companies. It is understood that counsul Morikawa will not appear at the public hearing to throw light on the testimony on the "Kumeric" incident, but it is stated he has offered to privately explain the matter to Mr. King. His position prevents his being subpoenaed.

Sloan, now enroute to Ottawa, stated here this morning that it is improbable that the government would take any steps towards regulating Oriental immigration until the report of Lemieux had been received.

Vancouver, Nov. 26.—During his recent visit to Chicago, Mr. William Murray, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, learned on excellent authority that congress at its next session is likely to remove the duty on pulp wood. A strong agitation in favor of this radical step is now being carried on by various industrial interests. It is being waged on the ground that the price of lumber in many localities is prohibitive and that unless the duty is removed the effects at reforestration will be nullified. The same arguments are being used in regard to pulp wood, the domestic supply of which is yearly becoming less with a corresponding increase in prices that threaten to abolish the mammoth editions of the big daily newspapers.

When James Sivewright, aged 76, arrived in Ashcroft last week to board a train for the east, en route to his old home in Scotland, he saw for the first time in his life a railway train, and also had his initial experience of being provided with light by electricity. It was after a residence of nearly 50 years in the interior that Mr. Sivewright bade good bye to his friends and to the old country in which he had made a success and announced that he was returning to Scotland to spend the evening of his life.

Crushed between two heavy logs and carried down the side of a mountain with them, Patrick Cummings, a hand logger, employed near Chatham Channel, B. C., received injuries from which he died a few minutes later. Cummings was working with Andrew Gallensky just above the channel when the accident occurred. He was carried down into the water sustaining frightful injuries. Gallensky removed him from the water and placing him in a boat started for Allison's camp across the channel. Before the camp was reached, however, Cummings was dead. Upon examination it was found that his abdomen was badly torn, that his left leg was terribly mangled, that the flesh of his right leg was badly lacerated and that he suffered internal injuries as well. Cummings was forty years of age and his home is unknown.

KOOTENAY'S ATTRACTIONS

Need Far Better Advertising in the World's Metropolis.

Editor The Daily News,—Could not the Kootenay Fruit Growers' association or other body take up the matter of having from time to time a case of apples or other fruit sent to the Canadian emigration offices, London, for exhibition in their windows? I am satisfied that it would bring very good results. The office is at one of the busiest corners of the city, and it is rare that there is not a bunch of people collected in front looking at the specimens of grain and vegetables from western Canada. In conversation with the commissioner of immigration he said that hundreds of people called to enquire as to fruit growing in British Columbia, and that a small exhibit of fruit, together with a few thousand single sheet pamphlets, dealing concisely with the subject would be most effective. The B. C. office is unquestionably doing good work, but being away upstairs on a side street it does not attract the attention that the other office does. Despite these drawbacks there is a steady flow of people to the B. C. office, resulting later in many good settlers, but I believe that specialized leaflets, and exhibit at the London office would do big work at very small cost. The exhibition of provincial fruit now on in which, by the way, Kootenay is very inadequately represented, is attracting much interest at the Crystal palace and other places where shown. In the permanent Canadian exhibit at the Crystal palace B. C. fruit is represented by three or four sick looking jars of preserved specimens.

If the people of the Kootenays realized the number of most desirable, well-to-do people that leave here every year as settlers for parts of the globe possessing nothing like the attractiveness that the Kootenays do, and who with a little judicious work could have the proper information brought to their notice, it is certain something would be done. The booklets issued by the provincial government, while excellent in their way, are better adapted for those who already know something of the province.

Yours truly,
VISITOR FROM THE KOOTENAYS.
London, S. W., Nov. 13, 1907.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

YOUNG ENGLISHMAN'S DEATH AT A LUMBER CAMP

BURIAL OF CHARLES GARRITY IN SLOCAN CITY

(Special to The Daily News)

Slocan, Nov. 26 — Frederick Beard, a young Englishman, was killed at the Patrick Lumber company's No. 1 camp on the Little Slocan on Monday last at 2:30 p.m.

A coroner's jury met at the government office here today to determine he manner of his death. It was decided that death was purely accidental.

The evidence showed that the deceased was standing on the skidway about to place in position a log which the teamster was delivering to him, when he slipped and fell, the log falling on him, causing almost instant death.

Charles Garrity, the Slocan miner who died suddenly at the Windsor hotel, Silverton on Sunday last, will be buried in the local cemetery. The Slocan Miners' union will have charge of the funeral.

The wife and children of Capt. McLellan of the steamer Slocan have arrived from Arrowhead and will spend the winter here.

The wife and children of assistant C.P.R. agent Parker, recently joined him here and will live in Socan.

DANGEROUS ROADS

Nearly a Fatal accident Close to Hosmer—Repairs Badly Wanted

(Special to The Daily News)

Fernie, Nov. 26—The roads between this point and Hosmer are in very bad shape at the present time and since the snow has covered the ground, are in some places extremely dangerous. This week while driving into town one of the contractors on the Great Northern railway construction had a narrow escape from death or serious injury. The road is narrow and very steep in places and at one of these spots his team went over the embankment with the result that one horses had to be shot as it suffered from a broken leg and the rest of the outfit was badly shaken up and damaged. The traffic on this road is enormous especially since the construction of the railway has been under way and as it is bound to increase it is only reasonable that the government shou'd place it in a perfectly safe condition, considering the large reevnue they derive from the district.

POOR LITTLE MAN

Fear of the Law Proved Too much for a St. John Boy

St. John, Nov. 26—George Fairweather, aged 13, cut his throat with a razor in his grand father's home last night and is now in a serious condition in the hospital. Last week a boy was caught taking coal from an Intercolonial car and gave the name of George Fairweather, Broad street. Last night the police called to order the boy to attend court today. Fairweather told the police he ha dnot stolen coal but some other boys must have used his name. He was alone in the house at the time and when his grand mother returned she found him lying on the floor with his throat cut.

HUNTING BIG GAME

Winnipeg, Nov. 26—The rush for licenses to hunt big game in Manitoba during the present season has been without precedent. Yesterday there were 254 licenses issued from the office of the minister of agriculture which makes a record in the history of the province. A great many of the hunters go into the Riding mountain district and around Dauphin as well as to the east of the city. The creation of a game preserve in the mountains will mean that some good shooting ground will be closed and hunters are making the best of their opportunity.

LONDON BRIBERY CASE

Toronto, Nov. 26—The case for the crown closed in the London bribery case today, and counsel for the four defendants moved that they be discharged on the ground that the indictment was bad, that the court had no jurisdiction and that the crown had failed to prove any general conspiracy as charged. The court, however, decided to hear the evidence for the defence and the trial will be continued on Thursday.

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY

B. C. WAS RENTED TO HUDSON'S BAY CO. FOR $1.68.

THE ALASKA-YUKON PACIFIC EXPOSITION.

(Special to The Daily News)

Winnipeg, Nov. 26.—The preparations for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition attracts some attention to British Columbia but it is not generally known that this province was once rented to the Hudson's Bay Co. for seven shillings, or $1.68 in American currency, per annum. This was in 1849.

The Hudson's Bay Co. had been driven out of Oregon but their shrewd commercial sense told them British statesmen were beginning to direct their attention to that portion of Canada lying between the Rocky mountains and the Pacific coast. The directors, therefore, laid plans to secure their power while seemingly allowing the government to stand upon its own feet. By a curious coincident the man at Downing street in charge of colonial affairs was Earl Grey, an ancestor of the present governor general of Canada. While satisfied with obtaining practical sovereignty of British Columbia for a time, the company aimed higher. It intimated that it was "willing" to undertake the government and colonization of all the territories belonging to the crown in British North America and receive a grant accordingly.

So startling a suggestion naturally staggered Downing street, even in those days when it was customary to refer to "those wretched colonies" and the crown promptly suspended negotiations. After an interval the company returned to the attack with the more modest request that it was willing to accept that portion of Canada lying between the Rockies and the Pacific or even Vancouver Island alone, although it remarked that "placing all that territory north of the 49th parallel would have simplified arrangements." Despite the strenuous opposition of Gladstone and the leading London newspapers the Hudson's Bay company was made lord and master of Vancouver Island, subject only to the domination of the British crown and upon the payment of seven shillings annually as rental. This charter was dated January 13, 1849 and stated that the grant was "forever," but events showed the opposition had some grounds for their position as the "forever" only lasted nine years. The great year of gold, 1858, practically saw the last of the Hudson's Bay Co. as lord and master of the Pacific coast province.

At the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition British Columbia will probably be represented by a building which will cost fifty thousand times as much as the whole province was rented for fifty years ago.

CURLING IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

There has been issued from the presses of the Rossland Miner, a very handsome publication, compiled by W. J. Nelson, and entitled "Manual of the British Columbia Curling Association." Every curler in the province should hasten to secure a copy of this really entertaining and instructive production. The book is handsomely illustrated with photographs of noted curlers and of winning rinks in several important contests. The work is not confined exclusively to the record of the B.C. association, but covers the whole of Canada, and contains a chapter devoted to an historical review of curling on the American continent and a good deal of space is given up to curing songs and curiana. In fact the book should interest curlers the world over and it is certainly a production of which the B.C. association may well be proud.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY

PATIENT'S ACTION AGAINST A TORONTO DOCTOR

SERIOUS CHARGES DISPROVED AT THE TRIAL

Toronto, Nov. 26—Miss Appeline Belland sued Dr. Barrington Neville for $10,000 for assault, battery and trespassing. In February last the woman underwent an operation in St. Michael's hospital and she claims that the doctor exceeded his instructions and that he allowed students to witness the operation.

In addition she alleges she was ill treated at the hospital and that a doctor stepped on her hair and pulled some of it out. She also alleges that the nurses tried to do away with her.

Dr. Neville denied her statements. Miss Belland's claim was dismissed, as it was proven she would have died had not the operation taken place.

MAD OR SANE

Trial of the Murderess of Senator Brown

HAD NAMELESS GHILDREN

MARRIAGE NOT MONEY WANTED BY MRS. BRADLEY—TELLING TESTIMONY GIVEN IN REBUTTAL BY THE SON OF THE MURDERED POLITICIAN.

Washington, Nov. 26.—Dramatic scenes marked the proceedings today in the trial of Mrs. Annie Bradley, charged with having killed former senator Arthur Brown of Utah, in this city last December. Dr. Britton D. Evans, of New York, the alienist who testified in the Thaw case, not only declared that Mrs. Bradley was insane when she shot senator Brown, but entered with such vigor into defending his opinion and in denouncing the conduct of the dead senator that Mr. justice Stafford reminded the witness that the late senator Brown was not on trial and was not there to defend himself. He admonished him to refer to the dead man only when necessary to show the effect of his act upon the defendant.

The appearance of Max Brown, son of the dead senator, who was called in rebuttal, was affecting in the extreme. The young man, tall, slender and frail of physique, tottered as he made his way to the witness stand. He carefully avoided looking toward the defendant who sat within ten feet of him. When he told of seeing his father and Mrs. Bradley in the kitchen of their home with jars of fruit they had brought from the cellar at a time when his mother had been called away from the city to the bedside of her dying sister, the defendant laughed and lowered her head in confusion.

But there was no sign of merriment in the face of the witness who replied briefly to all questions put to him and lowered his eyes during intervals in the course of his testimony.

A number of witnesses from Salt Lake, including Max Brown, were introduced by the government in rebuttal. Several of whom testified that Mrs. Bradley, during their years of acquaintance with her, appeared at all times rational and affable. It was brought out that senator Brown had made a proposal to Mrs. Bradley to accept a $5,000 house and $1,000 a year until her youngest child should be 21 years of age, if she would leave Mr. Brown alone, but she indignantly declined the offer, saying that she wanted to marry Brown in order that her children by him might be given a name. During this testimony Mrs. Bradley wept and sobbed, and in the forenoon's session gave every indication that she was about to collapse. She, however, mustered such strength as she possessed and concluded the ordeal in fair condition. The resting of the defence came in the nature of surprise, as it had been expected that the alienists would be kept on the stand for a much longer period.

WANT KOOTENAY TRADE

WINNIPEG'S PROTEST AGAINST NEW FREIGHT RATES

IMMEDIATE ADJUSTMENT OF THE TROUBLE POSSIBLE

Winnipeg, Nov. 26—The first action to be taken by the Winnipeg board of trade with regard to an adjustment of the new freight tariff of the C.P.R. will be to appoint a deputation to meet he officials of the railway company in Winnipeg when an endeavor will be made to arrive at a settlement of the difficulty. The chief trouble will be, it is said, with regard to the rates to the Kootenay but it is laimed there is jus a remote chance that the whole matter will be solved in Winnipeg without the presentation of evidence before the railway commission.

Up to the present time the board of trade has not made a formal protest against the rates, their objection being ha hey have not been given time to thoroughly investigate the matter. It is stated that the wholesale hardware merchants of the city have decided to hold back all freight for Kootenay points until the new tariff is adjusted.

GOVERNMENT COAL MINE

Regina, Nov. 26—As a result of reports submitted to the government by J. J. Davis on the Eagle lake district coal fields the provincial government has decided to operate the coal mine for the benefit of settlers in the district. The action of the government is largely prompted by special circumstances of the case. The fuel problem in the district affected being one of the utmost importance and requiring immediate attention if settlers are not to leave the country. The government proposes to start operations for the establishment of the mine without delay and to get it in active operation at the earliest possible moment. The point where the proposed mine is located is some 40 or 50 miles from the nearest survey line of railway and in a country quite barren of timber.

SHOW SENSE

Rossland Miners Accept Reduced Scale

NO SHUT DOWN FEARED

PROTRACTED MEETING LASTS ALL MORNING—FINAL VOTE SHOWS A MAJORITY IN FAVOR OF REDUCTION OF TWO TO ONE—NO OFFICIAL FIGURES.

(Special to The Daily News)

Rossland, Nov. 26.—The miners of Rossland decided today by vote, to accept a reduction of wages.

There was a protracted meeting at Miners' union hall this morning that was very largely attended, as all the mines were closed down for the express purpose of allowing the miners to meet and fully discuss the situation before taking a vote.

Many speeches were made at this morning's meeting and it is understood that the majority of the speakers favored accepting a reduction of wages, under known existing conditions.

Officials of the miners' union when approached at noon today, declined to give out any statement as to what was said at this morning's meeting and after the vote was taken the same officials declined to give anything more than a general statement.

The voting commenced at 2 o'clock and closed at 6 p.m. A very large vote was cast and it is known that it stood at least two to one in favor of accepting a wage reduction.

It is understood that in future the wage scale will be that in force prior to July 1st last.

All the proceedings leading up to the vote today have been informal, the men deciding the matter upon their own initiative.

The mines will reopen tomorrow as usual and it is undrstood that no close down will now ensue as was feared some days ago.

Rossland people are greatly relieved at the peaceful solution of what, but for the reasonable attitude of the miners, might have been a very serious problem.

Rossland, Nov. 26—The Rossland Miners' union by a referendum vote today consented to reduce the wage scale to that which was in effect prior to July 1. The old wage was $3.50 for machine men and $2.75 for shovellers, with the wages of the other employees about the mine in like proportion. The scale, which went into effect on July 1, was $4 for machine men and $3.25 for shovellers. Today the mines closed down for the purpose of allowing the employees time to discuss and vote on the question of the reduction of wages. The union met at 10:30 a.m. and discussed the question earnestly until noon.

A resolution prepared at the morning meeting providing for going back to the old scale was then voted on. When the union reassembled at 2 o'clock a referendum vote was taken and the resolution carried by a two third's majority. The mines therefore will not shut down as has been threatened for some time past, as the management declared there was no profit since metals went down, under the higher wage scale. And under the lowered scale it will now be possible to make a small profit.

NATIONALIST UNITY.

London, Nov. 26.—Nationalists unity appears to be on the eve of accomplishment. Communications have been passing betkeen the leaders of the party and William O'Brien, member of parliament for Cork, speaking at Ball Yeaullen, Wexford, today, expressed the belief that all nationalist representatives soon would be brought under the same flag.

Timothy Healy, nationalist member of the parliament for the north division of Louth, wrote also expressing his approval of the suggested terms of the agreement but requesting that the question of his readmission into the party should be deferred. It is understood that the terms of the proposed agreement are that the chief work of the coming session of the parliament should be chief secretary Birrell's new university bill, that the agarian agitation in Ireland should be to a great extent suspended and the efforts of the party devoted to securing an amendment to the lands acts through further concessions by the landlords, while preparations should be made to raise the home rule question on Gladstonian lines at the next general elections.

Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard university, contributes to the December number of Mclure's magazine an appreciative and lucid article dealing with the Lemieux Act, otherwise known as the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act, 1907. Professor Eliot is of the opinion that the principles and methods of the Canadian Act should be introduced int American legislation, and he points out that the advantages which this Canadian law has over any legislation existing in the United States may be briefly stated as follows:

(1) There is no arbitration in it, compulsory or other.

(2) It prevents sudden blows aimed by capital at labor or by labor at capital.

(3) It prevents the sudden cessation of industries which have to do with necessities of modern life as fuel, the means of transportation and communication, the lighting of towns and cities, and water and power supplies.

(4) It makes it necessary for the aggressor in an industrial dispute to have a well-considered case which will bear thorough publicity.

(5) It informs the public, which ultimately bears, in higher prices, the burden of all industrial warfare, about the causes and issues of every industrial dispute.

(6) At the same time it leaves unimpaired the rights of any group of men to combine for mutual advantage, and to lock out, or strike, after full public inquiry.

(7) It tends to prevent or restrict secret machinations on the part of both employers and employees, because both know that publicity must come at last.

(8) It gives opportunity, through the intervention of an impartial public authority, for reasoning, conciliation, the removal of misunderstandngs, and an amicable settlement.

"All these favorable effects, he says, the Act produces without abridging the freedom of either employers or employees to maintain strong combinations, and to make joint agreements without any intervention by a third party."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An order forbidding Pullman-car porters to brush the clothes of passengers in the aisles of the cars has been promulgated by the health commissioner of Pennsylvania, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, says the Medical Record, and adds: "The endurance of this noxious custom for so many years is an evidence of the long-suffering patience of the American public. Apart from its glaringly unhygienic features, this scattering of dust through a car and over the already sufficiently dirty passengers has long been voted an unmitigated nuisance. The practise was instituted by the rapacious porters as a means of extorting dimes and quarters from their unwilling victims and has been endured simply because no one wishes to make himself conspicuous by audible protests. It is worse than useless as a means of cleanliness, for the clothes of those first brushed are as dirty as before by the time the whole carload has been curried, and what dirt has not settled back on the external parts of the travelers has filled their nostrils and lungs—not only the dust of the road, but the germ-laden accretions from the garments. Other state boards of health will do well to follow the example of Pennsylvania."

It is high time the city council took some definite action in reference to the electric light and power service. Fully six months have slipped by without promised improvements being made, in fact the service appears to steadily deteriorate. No one seems capable of explaining just what is wrong or of recommending measures to rectify the evil. This is a most inexcusable state of affairs. The ratepayers of Nelson have, in good faith, invested a very large sum of money in the new power plant and they are justified in demanding that the plant be properly operated so as to give an efficient light and power service. The matter is in the hands of the city council and it is up to them to see the present policy of do-nothing be terminated without more ado. If the fault rest with the contractors, the council holds the whip hand and can easily bring them to time if they be so minded. Not only is the wretched light service a cause of great annoyance and inconvenience to users, but the defective power service is the cause of actual loss to operators, who cannot work their plants to anything like full capacity. The city council should take this matter up at once and decide to compel the contractors to complete their contract satisfactorily without further delay. It would be in order, too, for the council to consider the advisability of permitting power users to revert to water motors, for under existing conditions the power users are very unfairly handicapped. They have to pay for an electric power service that they do not get with the attendant disadvantage of being unable to operate their plants to best advantage.

Unqualified satisfaction will be expressed throughout the Kootenay district at the result of the referendum vote in Rossland on the wage question. The outcome means that Rossland mines will be operated as at present during the winter months. A serious setback to the welfare of the entire Kootenay country has been averted by the discretion and good judgment of the Rossland miners and it is not too much to anticipate that the influence of their clear-sighted action will have beneficial effects in the Boundary district. We sincerely hope that the example of the Rossland miners will not be lost upon employers of labor throughout the province. In this instance we have a large body of union labormen voluntarily voting to accept a reduced wage scale. Of course, it is not to be pretended that in so doing they were actuated by purely altruistic motives, but, nevertheless, the vote is an eloquent reply to much of the abuse heaped upon the Western Federation of miners. In this connection, it is appropriate to refer to a matter we discussed some few days ago. It is quite evident now that a very large number of white men will be out of employment in this province during the coming winter months unless large employers of labor give preference to white men over Asiatics. The streets of Vancouver are overrun today by unemployed white workingmen, whilst the big saw mills are running to full capacity, largely manned by Japanese and Chinese. Some excuse may be advanced for the employment of cheap coolie labor when white labor was unobtainable, but there is absolutely no excuse now for the employment of Asiatics in the saw mills and on the railroads. White labor is abundant and if the large employers are possessed of any of that patriotism of which they prate so much when pleading to be allowed to employ cheap labor "for the development of the resources of the country," white workingmen will not be allowed to idly walk the streets whilst Chinese, Japanese and Hindus do the work that should be theirs.

FULL COURT

Text of Decision in Case of Star vs. White

JUDGMENT OF IRVING J

SECOND INSTALMENT OF JUDGE'S FINDING CONTINUED FROM YESTERDAY'S ISSUE—RESULT OF NEW WORK AND QUESTION OF CREDIBILITY.

At the close of the trial the same application was made for more experimental work with the same result; and in the end judgment was given in favor of the defendants.

The learned chief justice proceeded on the ground that the 5th level shows that the vein was continuous and that between C and D27 there was a clearly defined hanging wall and the characteristic vein filling which was to be found in the Slocan Star and Silversmith was to be found in the crosscut run between these points by hi sdirection in December, 1904.

From that judgment an appeal was taken to this court and at the same time an appeal from the interlocutory decision refusing to allow the experimental work to be done was also taken. After the argument this court came to the conclusion that the plaintiffs should have been allowed to have the work done which they contended was necessary for the proper presentation of their case, and we therefore set aside the judgment of the learned chief justice and directed the work to be done, at the places mentioned by Mr. Sizer in his examination in February, 1904.

The parties to the action selected a Mr. Zwicky as a proper person to have the management of the work and under him it was proceeded with and finished about February, '07, and the case came on before us in April last.

Some question has been made as to the convenience of the course adopted. Perhaps it has thrown on this court a greater amount of work than we expected, but it seems to me to have been the only satisfatory solution of the problem we have had to deal with, and as for precedent we have our own action in Hopper v. Dunsmuir, and also the Stanley Park case. And I see that the judicial committee of the privy council has instead of remitting a case to the court at Shanghai, allowed evidence, taken it is true on commission, to be presented to them in the first instance; see Bank of China, etc. vs. American Trading company (1894) A.C., 271.

Looking back now, I feel that we would have experienced the very greatest difficulty in following the complicated details of this case, if we had proceeded in the ordinary way.

Before proceeding with the statement of facts of the case as developed before us, I would like to observe with reference to a contention mentioned by Mr. Bodwell, that he had a judgment in his favor and that it was for the plaintiffs to upset it. I do not look at in that way. In our opinion the case before the learned chief justice had not been fully tried and therefore, we directed that there should be practically a new trial. It would be altogether out of reason to regard a judgment which had been reached, at any rate in our opinion, without full opportunity to plaintiffs to establish their case, as a judgment shifting the onus from the defendants on whom it was originally cast, on to the plaintiffs.

From the reasons for judgment given by the learned chief justice it is apparent that he relied very much on his own inspection of the premises and he was, after having made such an examination, able to decide which of the experts was right and which was wrong.

Now, since then we have had the advantage of the additional work and verbal evidence on both sides, and although we should pay due regard to the opinion of the witnesses formed by the chief justice yet it is for us to form our own opinion as to their credibility.

The new work consisted of three separate undertakings, one at the south where the plaintiffs had said the Slocan Star vein was cut off and terminated by the black fissure.

The middle piece where the defendants had asserted the No. 2 vein would be found, to which vein they attributed ore found in the black fissure.

And the northerly piece of work which the plaintiffs had said, would demonstrate that the wall of crushed material did not stop or turn at B, but continued on to X and beyond.

The new work at the south, in my opinion, completely established the theory contended for by the plaintiffs as to the separate existence of the black fissure. It showed positively beyond question that the hanging wall on No. 5 level and the stopes immediately above it, was not continuous but that the fissure with a filling similar to that found in the black fissure ran out to the south. Mr. Elmendorf admitted (p. 523) that the plaintiffs had exposed by the new work a fissure 28 feet broad and some 98 feet in length, running through the hanging wall of the Slocan Star vein. This fissure was exposed (546) at a point where a certain amount of ore had been left in a corner, and where Mr. Elmendorf had pointed out to the chief justice on his first visit that there was no evidence of a fissure extending out to the south.

The new work at the north in my opinion demonstrates beyond question that a fissure extends from B to X, and as it confirms the testimony given by the plaintiffs' experts on that point I see no reason for not accepting their opinion that it is the same fissure which is exposed by the new work to the south. It completely disposed of the evidence given by the defendants' witnesses that the crosscut B to X was driven in country rock; 413, 727, 813.

Had the chief justice heard the testimony adduced before us I feel sure that he would not have felt confident in accepting Mr. Elmendorf's expert testimony as more reliable than that of Mr. Sizer.

Elmendorf's action in persuading the chief justice not to accede to Sizer's request to have certain work done, in my opinion is cogent evidence of partizanship.

An opinion on a technical matter formed under such guidance can be of little value and when in the light of subsequent evidence that guide admits he was mistaken; I have no hesitation, therefore, in saying that in these circumstances we are not bound, in any degree, by the opinion formed at the view taken by the learned chief justice.

The contention put forward by the defendants at the trial that the vein turned at B. was also in my opinion disproved Mr. Boehmer, a new expert introduced by the defendants on the hearing before us, thought that the real turn was at station 33, and that the vein indications seen in the neighborhood of B. C. and D43 were foot fractures of the same vein;, but his evidence has not shaken my confidence in Messrs. Sizer and Fowler, a confidence reached after hearing their oral testimony before us, and reading their evidence before the learned chief justice.

In view of some of the expressions used by the chief justice in his reasons for judgment I thought it proper to go through the evidence taken before him with very great care and to make some observations with regard to the witnesses examined before him.

In considering that testimony it will be necessary therefore to refer to the evidence given at the trial before him in February, 1903, and again before him at what has been called the second trial, held in July, 1905, and also to the evidence given before this court in April, 1907.

At the point where the A. drift was afterwards run, the plaintiffs' expert (Sizer) at the first trial had insisted that the wall running into the angle on the right hand or west side was different from that on the left or north side. The chief justice was not able to recognize the difference nor did Mr. Elmendorf at that time, but I understand now that he (Elmendorf) admits he was mistaken; p. 552 and 562.

Passing along the fifth level we come to B. In February, 1904, Mr. Oscar White had said that he knew that he was at the turn of the vein (512, 891, 817) that he really began to turn at A (812), 30 feet south of B, but in order to show that there was no sign of a vein or anything "out there," that is to the north of B, he continued the drift to X. He said that he expected (this is in December, 1902) that it would be contended at the trial that there was a vein running in from the northeast across the line BX, and to meet that contention he determined to run this crosscut, BX (512). Now the distance from B to X is 35 or 40 feet (692); the pleadings had been closed for nearly a year and the trial was liable to take place at any time. They knew (815) they had a large body of ore, 12 feet wide, on No 4 Silversmith, about station 9, but Oscar White says that they decided on the 15th December, 1902, to discontinue the turn commenced at A and to run the crosscut B to X, some 40 feet in length. They abandoned something that would affirmatively establish their case, to disprove by negative evidence some contention they anticipated the plaintiffs' might set up. This story does not commend itself to me, nor does it appear to have found favor with the learned chief justice when it was told at the trial. He seems to have received the impression that the defendants had "fumbled" in tracing their vein at this point, and that after overrunning the scent they had harked back to 41, which is about 100 feet north of the spot Oscar White says he recognized as the turn of the vein, and ran the drift 41 to 43, to connect with the Silversmith ore which they knew existed on No. 4 level. I do not know why it was that station 41 was selected as the starting place for the tunnel that was run to the west from 41 to 43, but the reason given by Oscar White for going on to X and subsequently turning to the west at 41 instead of at B, do not satisfy me. To me it looks as if they saw no indication of a turn at B. But this inconsistency alone is not sufficient to justify me in rejecting Oscar White's evidence.

This crosscut B to X the defendants at the first trial said was not in the vein (236) but was in hard slate (415). Having completed that evidentiary work by timbering it up (692) they took their men out and started them, about the end of December, 1902, at station 41, running 140 feet westerly to station 43, not on the vein (235). This work took about two months to run (992) so that in February, 1903, they were at 43, but as yet they had not shown any connection on ore (by following the vein, which they said turned at B, so they hark back from station 43 to B (reaching B in March, 1903) and at the same time continued drifting, first to the south, then to the southeast, then to the southwest, then to the south or southwest from station 50 to station 52, where sometime about September, 1903 (645) they struck a large body of ore (579.)

At the first trial (February, 1904) the defendants' witnesses were strong in their assertion that the vein turned at B.

The plaintiffs, on the other hand, insisted that at B there was no sign of a turn; that the soft fissure filling continued down past B on the left hand upper side 1018, 1207, 1029, and that the crosscut at X would establish that fact; that crosscut was made by Zwicky, and Elmendorf, (p. 510) found there a seam of softer material, 18 inches wide.

Cavanaugh, (p 432) before us, was not prepared to deny that this fissure extended to X. Oscar White thinks the black fissure does not extend to X. That there is two feet of crushed material he admits (p. 464) and that there is a well defined wall running north and south. Now it must be remembered that from 41 down to X was run under Osar White's superintendence and the lagging erected from B to X was put up by him in order to prevent this very filling coming in on him and his men.

I have carefully read the evidence in this case, and I have came to the conclusion that I can place no confidence in Mr Oscar White's testimony. I have already referred to his explanation or excuse for running down to X past B where they subsequently made the drift turn, and I now mention some other incidents. He stated in an affidavit used in resisting the application for an injunction, that they had not taken ore from the ground in dispute to an amount in value of $500 net, was misleading, as he could only reduce it to that sum by making deductions, i.e., cost of development and cost of mining and cost of concentrating; he was not warranted in making unless he expressly stated that he was making such deductions, (p 1528). Again, his statement that he was not aware that there was ore in the bottom of the winze is past belief. Again, as to the intermediates below 5 (p. 1530). He was not can-much to say that this "shut down" is a disaster to British Columbia.

The news of this action on the part of the mine owners was utterly unexpected, "Like a bolt from the blue," your headline described it and no one as yet can say why the mines are shut down. Some ascribe it to a combination to reduce the output of copper and thus raise the price. Others to a game of "freeze out" whereby some of the wealthy stockholders are endeavoring to get rid of their weaker brethren.

The price of copper has fallen considerably but it had been abnormally high and even now it is at a price that should leave the mine owners a handsome profit.

From the point of view of the public it does not matter what is the cause; the mischief is done; how long it will continue remains for the mine owners to say and the management would doubtless resent any enquiries from the "mere public" as a fearful piece of impertinence.

The government of B. C. has made it so delightfully easy for these gentlemen to suit their own interests regardless of everybody else that it will be no wonder if they take advantage of our folly.

They have been paying 2 per cent on the output of their mines and it has amounted to a very large sum, in fact their taxes have been one of the main assets of the B. C. government. Now our minister of finance who collects a three dollar poll tax from the working man who ventures to wear overalls, will next year be able to collect the magnificent sum of 25 cents per acre from the holders of these properties. Thus for a few hundred dollars the entire Boundary country will be tied up.

But no doubt our minister of finance is an eloquent and well-meaning man; he may go to the owners of these mines and implore them to start up and to think of the loss of revenue that the government will experience—or the leader of the opposition may intervene as he did when the strike was pending and the naughty working men threatened to stop work. The management of these mines would doubtless reply perhaps more politely, but nevertheless as emphatically as the Yankee railway king, "The public be d—d."

There is a just and simple remedy for such overbearing and inconsiderate action on the part of our mine owners; it is to tax the mines on their value or more correctly, on the value that the owners themselves put upon their property.

These mines in the Boundary country are considered to be worth many millions of dollars, their stock quotations prove it and it would cost the owners a substantial amount to hold them idle if they were fairly taxed.

Modern economists who are opposed to the doctrines of socialism defend the institution of private property on the ground that it is best for the public welfare. Advantage to the public welfare therefore is recognized as the only logical basis for all private property. It is this principle which justifies the action of our railway commission. It it this that gives moral sanction to the interference of health officers, fire wardens and policemen and those who are opposed to the doctrines of the state socialists will do well to find means to curb the ill-regulated greed of these financiers who treat the public welfare with such contempt.

British Columbia should be a country of homes, the hordes of casual homeless laborers are a menace to our civilization and a disgrace to our institutions, but shall we induce men to acquire homes when the home may be wrecked by the action of a few American or British capitalists?

If there is any gentleman, be he the hon. minister of finance or the leader of the opposition, who can defend our present system of mine taxation or who can show why mining property should not be taxed on its value, I challenge him to produce his reasons or I will meet anybody in debate on this subject.

his approval of the suggested terms of the agreement but requesting that the question of his readmission into the party should be deferred. It is understood that the terms of the proposed agreement are that the chief work of the coming session of the parliament should be chief secretary Birrell's new university bill, that the agarian agitation in Ireland should be to a great extent suspended and the efforts of the party devoted to securing an amendment to the lands acts through further concessions by the landlords, while preparations should be made to raise the home rule question on Gladstonian lines at the next general elections.

BEWARE OF BACKACHE

SIMPLE PRESCRIPTION PREVENTS SERIOUS KIDNEY DISEASE

IT IS SPLENDID FOR URINARY TROUBLE AND RHEUMATISM

More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than from any other cause. The slightest form of kidney disease often developes into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first class physician. Leave patent medicines alone.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home is stated by a well known authority. For some of these such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency, especially at night, painful, scalding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract of Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them up by shaking the bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no better general remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism either, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It clears the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and sift from the blood the poisonous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care ouf your kidneys" is now the doctor's advice to his patients.

NATIONALIST UNITY.

London, Nov. 26.—Nationalists unity appears to be on the eve of accomplishment. Communications have been passing betkeen the leaders of the party and William O'Brien, member of parliament for Cork, speaking at Ball Yeaullen, Wexford, today, expressed the belief that all nationalist representatives soon would be brought under the same flag.

Timothy Healy, nationalist member of the parliament for the north division of Louth, wrote also expressing did. Again, his explanation of his reading the Ruth map (484) is more than nonsensical. I accept Harris' story that Oscar White told him there was no ore between levels, and I do not accept Oscar White's explanation. I therefore refuse to believe his story that when he was at B he thought that the vein or material he had been following up from the south, turned to the west at B.

It is my opinion that when he ran past B he was still seeking the turn in the fissure and that he harked back only when he found he was getting so far to the north that he could not expect to connect with the ore which he knew existed in the Silversmith. In my opinion his evidence is not entitled to any credence and I reject it; and all work carried on by him, or done under his orders I regard with suspicion. The ability of his men to carry into execution his designs is shown by the way in which they covered up the gaping mouth of a crosscut so that, so far as the eye was concerned, it was impossible to tell that there ever existed anything but solid wall and lagging in front of it. It is unfortunate for him that a pile of dirt was left at the entrance to the cross-B to X (1926) when so much turned on the question of the continuation of the wall of material along that line.

Again, it is unfortunate that the lagging should have been so tight in that intermediate below 5 (p.209) that it had to be removed in order that the plaintiffs' experts might point out the crevice they expected to find there—and still more unfortunate that they did find it.

Again, it was unfortunate that a considerable quantity of ore (546) was left in a corner and that subsequently this very place should be selected to establish the fact that the hanging wall of the Socan Star was cut by the wall of soft back fissure material.

Another circumstance to be noted is that just prior to the trial fixed for July, when an inspection of the premises might reasonably be anticipated, the intermediate below 5 was so blocked up with ore that Mr. Sizer was unable to examine it. It was on this occasion also that the pile of dirt before referred to, prevented Mr. Fowler examining from B. to X.

These extraordinary things have occurred too frequently to be undesigned, and I have reached the conclusion that under the management of Mr. Oscar White the ore was manipulated in two places at least to show an apparent turn in the walls where there was in fact no turn.

How Mr. Elmendorf came to say, as he did, that the vein turned at B and that the drift run from B to X was wholly in country rock, and that there was no continuation beyond B of the material they had been following up to B I cannot understand. It is possible that he was deceived by the appearance of the turn of the drift at B and did not examine the extension from B to X with due care. However that may be his evidence before us as to the turn at B is not satisfactory.

In my opinion the wall material through which the defendants ran their No. 5 tunnel continues on to X without any turn at B. and the drift 44 E, D, C, and B. is not in ore, there is no ore in it. It is a mere fracture of the fissure in the slate; see Boemer, p. 339, 340. I am satisfied that when Mr. Oscar White and his men passed B they saw no indication of a turn at B. That point was adopted later, when having run drift 41 to 43 they found a non-mineralized fracture or cleavage leading in a northeasterly direction, which fracture being followed to D minus 27, brought them out at B.
