CASE OF DEFENSE

Many Witnesses to Be Called to Contradict Orchard's Testimony.

Review of State's Case to Date—No Conclusively Corroborative Evidence as Yet to Support Orchard's Story.

(Special to The Daily News)

Boise, Idaho, June 22.—Interest now centers upon the case the defense will present in the Haywood murder trial. But little can be learned respecting the defense that is to be set up, excepting as it has been indicated in the court proceedinges so far, nor is there much knowledge about the witnesses to be called. There are many here already, the number being placed by those who are in touch with the situation at from 50 to 75. It has been said that they will have 200 to contradict Orchard's statements. One of their witnesses 's a man named John Dempsey from San Francisco who it is said, will testify it was he who got the registered letter containing money claimed by Orchard to have been received by him under the name of Dempsey.

W. F. Davis, who was at the head of the strike committee at Cripple Creek in 1904, is also here. It is understood he will testify tending to contradict Orchard's statement respecting the Vindicator explosion and will deny that he authorized Orchard to commit the crime. There are witnesses present who will testify that Orchard was in the employ of the mine owners' association at that time and that he was shown special favors by the military. Joe Alech is on the ground. He is the man who Orchard stated helped him to steal 600 pounds of dynamite with which to blow up a non-union boarding house at Globeville, Colorado. Max Malich is also prepared to deny that he asked Orchard to blow up a business rival of his.

Pat Moran, of Cheynne, is also present. He will deny that he went to Denver in 1904 for Orchard and got money from Pettibone for him.

Paul Corcoran, who was convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary in connection with the riot in the Coeur d'Alenes in 1899, being afterwards pardoned, is another witness present. He will contradict certain statements made by Orchard respecting the meeting held by the Burke union on the morning of the blowing up of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mill. Mr. McGee, who formerly lived in Wallace, is here to testify to a statement made to him by Orchard showing he was planning to kill Steunenberg for revenge.

One of the stories respecting the line of defense is that it will be claimed Pettibone was Orchard's banker. The latter, it is stated, made a great deal of money gambling and gave it to Pettibone to keep for him. Hence some of the payments made to Orchard. Billy Easterly and Onie Barnes, both of whom Orchard connected with the Cripple Creek outrages, are here to contradict him.

Boise, June 22—The closing of the case for the state leaves the trial of Wm. D. Haywood midway finished and from now on the defense assumes the aggressive, the prosecution is on the defensive. The state will carry on an aggressive cross-examination and then present testimony in rebuttal, but its main showing is already before the jury. As to the murder of Steunenberg, which is the crime specially charged against Haywood, the state has made the following showing:

Jack Simpkins, a member of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners, went to Caldwell three months before Steunenberg was murdered under the assumed name of Simmons and lived with Orchard. He left Caldwell at the end of a week, but returned in less than a day. His movements are shown by independent witnesses and hotel registers. Haywood sent $100 to Simpkins on Dec. 21, 1905, nine days before the murder of Steunenberg. A letter from Denver, showed by its being addressed to "Thomas Hogan" that the writer knew the address of Orchard. The letter also contained the statement that "that" had been sent to "Jack" on December 21, 1905. Orchard testified that Pettibone, one of Haywood's co-defendants, wrote the letter. Without his making any request for it, legal aid was offered Orchard within two days after his arrest through attorney Fred Miller of Spokane.

Four letters were sent to the second Mrs. Orchard at Cripple Creek, three from Orchard and one from Haywood, at various times in 1906. It is said that they not only showed evidence of an effort to conceal Orchard's whereabouts from his wife, but to make an alibi for him. Orchard swore that Haywood was a party to the plan and that to carry it out Paddy Mulloney, a member of the federation at Cripp'e Creek undertook to deliver the two letters he wrote at Denver and dated San Francisco and that Marion Moore, a member of the federation board, carried the third letter to Nome, Alaska and there mailed it. The letter which was produced with its envelope, bore the Nome postmark. Haywood's letter to Mrs. Orchard bore the date of November, 1905, when Orchard and Simpkins were at Caldwell, and made the statement that the last writer had heard of Orchard he was in Alaska. Aside from the word of Orchard Haywood's letter is not supported by any evidence.

Haywood, Pettibone and Orchard were placed together on two or three occasions in Denver, between the spring and the fall of 1905, and Orchard lived at Pettibone's house as a guest during August, 1905. Articles from the Miners' Magazine, and some testimony as to the Coeur d'Alene strike of 1899, show animus toward Steunenberg on the part of Haywood and other leaders of the federation. As to the general conspiracy alleged by the state the general showing has been as follows :

Orchard has been traced through all the more important movements connected with the alleged attempt on the life of Fred Bradley at San Francisco by independent witnesses. His testimony as to the poisoned milk has been corroborated by the chemist who analyzed it.. It has been independently sworn that while Orchard was in San Francisco Pettibone, using false names, telegraphed money to him twice through the Postal Telegraph company and that a registered letter or package was sent to San Francisco from Pettibone's Denver address under a name used by Pettibone in sending on of the telegraphic remittances. Other than by Orchard's word it has not been shown that the explosion at Bradley's house was caused by a bomb. The casing of the so-called Peabody bomb has been produced and its history largely proved by outside witnesses from the time it was made in Denver until it was dug out of the ice in the Coeur d'Alene river. Miss Peabody confirmed one detail of the Orchard testimony as to one of the attemp.s to shoot her father, and Orchard's test mony as to his journey to Canyon City to kill ex-governor Peabody is given confirmation by the testimony of William Vaughan, Orchard's traveling companion. Orchard went to Canyon City ostensibly as an insurance agent and the state has produced a letter of recommendation written to the insurance company by for him by Pettibone.

BRIDE'S UNPLEASANT WALK

Morning of Marriage Rose in her Sleep and Walked into a Pond

Pilot Mound, Man., June 2.—A story of a very remarkable case of somnabulism has occurred at Pilot Mound. All preparations had been made, the invitations were out and it was the fifth morning of the month of bride's that the wedding bells were scheduled to ring, when one of Manitoba's rising young ministers was to be married to an estimable young lady, the daughter of one of the parishoners.

On the evening previous the young lady retired with a sister in unusually good spirits, contemplating no doubt the great event of the morning. When early dawn arrived the bride elect was found missing from her chamber and after a careful search, the prints of her feet were discovered leading from the house. Rain having fallen the previous evening the feet marks were easily traced by her fathr to a rushy pand sven miles distant. Enquiry at a nearby house revealed the fact that she had been taken in hand and was being cared for. The young woman, only scantily clad, having walked into the water until it reached her shoulders before waking. The wedding came off that evening and the happy couple are now spending their honeymoon in eastern Canada.

POLITICS IN ONTARIO.

Reorganization of Dominion Cabinet Looked For.

Toronto, June 22.—Prominent Ontario liberals are frankly looking for a general reoragnization of the dominion cabinet on the return of sir Wilfrid Laurier. The feature of this proceeding which will have great interest to this province will be the probable invitation to George P. Graham, leader of the liberal opposition in the legislature to become one of sir Wilfrid's ministers before he next goes to the country. That this will take place is the general anticipation of prominent liberals who stand high in the counsels of parliament. Mr. Graham is recognized as the man who has made a success of his short leadership of the provincial forces. He has grown in public favor and his campaign of meetings has demonstrated his platform strength.

GROWTH OF BAPTIST CHURCH

Thirty new mission stations have been instituted in the cities and in the frontier towns. Fifty-four new men, including ordained ministers and missionaries and students, have been added this year, making a total of 133 men on the missionary staff of the church. Adding pastors and assistants, the number is increased to 161. The total sum collected for home missions was $16,510.15, an increase of $7345.60 over last year, when it stood at $9165.51.

TEAMSTERS WIN FIGHT.

Montreal, June 22.—After a two days' contest the 350 striking teamsters of the Dominion Transport company won their fight, being granted 15 cents a day additional pay.

This relieves the Canadian Pacific freight situation which was becoming serious regards the movement of inward and outward shipments. The prosecutions for breach of contract against the men will now be dropped.

FATAL TRAIN WRECK.

Getting Ready to Work California-Giant—New Wage Scale July 1

Rossland, June 22—The California-Giant company is repairing its machinery and extending its air pipe line from the compressor on the California to the Giant territory. J. A. Miller, late foreman of the Granby has been appointed superintendent and the states that development will soon be commenced.

The mining companies here have decided to pay miners $4 a day instead of $3.50, as heretofore; shovellers, $3.25 instead of $3, and timbermen $4, and shaftmen $4.50, on and after July 1. Some companies have made a formal announcement of the raise and by others it is tacitly understood that the raise will be made. The Miners' union did not demand the advance, which was voluntarily made without pressure, owing to the advance of wages in other camps, and as a result of which many miners left this camp to go where the wages were higher. It is thought that the advance will result in a full supply of men being obtained, as Rossland is one of the pleasantest mining camps in the country to work in.

FUSHIMI IN VANCOUVER.

Vancouver, June 22.—Prince Fushimi was given a royal greeting here today by both whites and Japanese. The latter were divided into two camps, each planning festivities in their own manner, but no clash occurred. Fushimi this afternoon visited the local industries, the Japanese quarters, winding up with a drive round Stanley park. Tonight a lantern parade of Japanese over a mile in length marched to the hotel to greet him. He leaves for Victoria tomorrow afternoon.

This afternoon a spark set fire to the storage yard of the Vancouver Lumber Co. Before it was controlled it swept over one-third of that area, destroying lumber to the value of $50,000. A fortunate change in the wind turned the fire from the million dollar plant, which escaped injury. The neighboring mill district was saved by the good work of the firemen.

Ottawa, June 22.—Speaking at Aurora, Aylesworth said that Dr. Sproule's address at Vancouver in reference to Laurier's and Fielding's visit to Rome, was "religious bigotry, intolerant and unworthy of a true Canadian."

Lemieux spoke on the unity of the races, the conciliation act and postal reforms.

The amount obtained by forged cheques on the inland revenue department was between $400 and $500. One cheque was cashed May 15 and the other one June 1. The police cannot find any trace of the guilty party. A book of blank cheques was stolen from another department and the thief left no trace.

MARK TWAIN AT WINDSOR

Is Honored Guest of King Edward at Big Garden Party.

Windsor, England, June 22.—More than seven thousand guests assembled in the grounds of Windson Castle to attend the magnificent garden party with which king Edward wound up Ascot week. The gathering was representative of all classes of society and social life, including members of the royal family, the king of Siam, prince and princess Andrew of Greece. The diplomatic corps, members of parliament, bishops and dissenters, a large representation of Americans, many military and naval officers and a host of notabilities.

The royal party had their quarters in two large marquees, where the visitors thronged to pay their respects. The bands of the Horse Guards and Grenadiers furnished the music. The company also massed on the east lawn, a splendid stretch of grass, around which are the castle golf links and made a most impressive scene. Many tons of flowers were used in the decoration of the tents in which the refreshments were served. Ten sepcial trains brought the London guests and all the roads leading to Windsor were crowded with motirs.

This was the first royal garden party since the late queen Victoria's, in 1897, which became known as the "consolation party." On which occasion delegations from the city bodies presented addresses to the queen after her jubilee.

Through a misunderstanding of the attendants some of the prominent leaders of parliament and others were unceremoniously shut out of Buckingham palace during the jubilee presentation and were greatly hurt, hence the queen gave a garden party to which she invited the injured members, for the purpose of placating them.

John Burns then as now, a labor member from Battersea and at present president of the government board, attended on that occasion and drew down on himself the denunciatins of his socialistic followers for "truckling to royalty."

During the past ten years Mr. Burns has presented himself at many aristocratic functions and was on hand early today in morning dress as commanded in the invitation.

The king of Siam, who was an object of deep interest, wore a frock coat and high silk hat.

William Crooks, labor member of parliament for Woolwich, appeared in company with Mr. Burns attired in a sack coat and high hat. Altogether the party was a most representative social assemblage of all varieties of persons prominent during king Edward's reign.

Mark Twain was the center of attraction at the king's garden party at Windsor this afternoon and besides meeting the king and the royal party, shook hands with several hundred notables. Upon his return from the garden party he declared that he was not a bit tired and had thoroughly enjoyed himself.

He was accompanied to Windsor by John Henniker Heaton, the "The father of imperial penny postage," who introduced him to the king's guests on his way to the pary, including sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Fridajof Nansen, sir Henry Mortimer Durand and Ellen Terry. He heartily congratulated Miss Terry on her recent marriage and the two shook hands enthusiastically. After tea, which was served on the lawns, ambassador Reid presented Mark Twain to king Edward and queen Alexander and the king and the humorist spent a quarter of an hour in conversation. The king laughed heartily at Twain's jokes. The queen also joined in the conversation and was much amused when Twain asked if he could buy the Windsor castle and grounds from her majesty.

Then the king called on him to meet the other guests. He introduced Mark Twain to the king of Siam, the duke of Connaught, prince Arthur of Connaught and others.

Prince Arthur is to receive a degree at Oxford at the same time as the American humorist and he remarked that he would collapse if called upon for a speech. Thereupon Twain offered to undertake to speak for him.

Mark Twain wore the regulation frock coat and silk hat at the garden party.

Speaking of his reception there he said: "His majesty was very courteous. In the course of the conversation I reminded him of an episode sixteen years ago when I had the honor to walk with him when he was taking the waters at Hamburg. I said that I had often spoken about that episode and said that whenever I was the historian. I made good history of it and it was worth listening to, but that it had found its way into print once or twice in unauthentic ways and had been badly damaged there. I added that I should like to go on repeating this history but I should be quite fair and reasonably honest and while I should probably never tell the story twice in the same way I should at least never allow it to deteriorate my hands.

"His majesty intimated his willingness that I should continue to disseminate that piece of history and added a compliment, saying that he knew good and sound history would not suffer at my hands and that if this good and sound history needed any improvements, beside the facts, he would trust me to furnish these embellishments.

"I think it is no exaggeration to say that the queen looks as young and beautiful as she did thirty-five years ago when I saw her first. I didn't say this to her because I learned long ago not to say an obvious thing, but to leave an obvious thing to commonplace and inexperienced people to say.

"That she still looks to me as young and beautiful as she looked thirty-five years ago is good evidence that ten thousand people already have noticed this and have mentioned it to her. I could have said it and spoken the truth, but I have been too wise for that. I have kept the remark unuttered and that saved her majesty the vexation of hearing it for the ten thousand and oneth time.

"All the report about my proposal to buy Windsor Castle and its grounds is a false rumor—I started it myself."

Mr. Clemens has announced that he will be a passenger on the steamer Minnetonka sailing for New York July 13. This prolongation of his stay abroad has enabled him to accept a few of the hundreds of invitations that are pouring in on him.

The staff of Punch invited him to a dinner at the Savoy on July 9, but he intimated his preference to dine in the famous "Punch" room at the Punch office and the dinner will be given there. Mr. Clemens considers this one of the greatest honors of his visit.

HAGUE PEACE CONFERENCE

The Hague, June 22—The first and second committees of the peace conference met behind closed doors this afternoon.

M. Bourgeois, president of the first committee, delivered an eloquent speech in favor of the principle of arbitration, strengthening the Hague tribunal and freeing it from international prejudice, touching also on compulsory arbitration. He was frequently applauded.

M. Bergeart and M. Asser inaugurated the work of the second committee, pointing out the humanitarian principles introduced in the rules of land warfare and the possibility of still further diminishing its destructiveness.

The Hague, June 22—M. Beernaert in his speech congratulated the countries of the American continent in joining Europe in the blessed work of peace which he said was a good augury for the success of the conference.

The second committee which was subdivided into two sub-committees, one presided over by M. Beernaert, will deal with the amelioration of the rules of land warfare. The other, presided over by M. Asser, will deal with the rights and duties of neutral powers in times of war and also with the opening of hostilities.

In the first committee M. LaBara, the minister of Meixco to Belgium, read an important study on the subject of conventions for compulsory arbitration which was received with general applause.

The German and English delegations presented separate propositions on the subject of the proposed international prize court and the French delegation presented a project on the subject of arbitration.

The first committee was also divided into two sub-committees both presided over by M. Bourgeois, one on arbitration and the other on the prize court. The French delegation announced the presentation of two projects, one referring to the rights and duties of neutral powers and the other to the opening of hostilities.. The Russian delegation presented a proposition on the subject of the opening of hostilities.

The committee, evidently in order to avoid hurting the feelings of the Japanese, concluded that up to the present there is no distinct international understanding on the subject of the opening of hostilities, holding that each country can affirm that its point of view in this connection is correct. The committee must, therefore decide whether to maintain the status quo or establish international rules for the opening of hostilities.

In the second committee general Horace Porter presented a proposition not to collect debts by force whenever the debtor nation expresses a wish to submit its obligations and its extent to arbitration.

Germany proposed an amendment to the rules of the conference of 1899 regarding the pacific settling of disputes.

Baron d'Estournelles de Constant proposed an amendment to the rules of 1899 regarding commissions of enquiry and also recommended the simplification of the procedure.

Senor Barra suggested that the resolutions of the conference held in Mexico in 1899, and of the conference of Rio Janerio of 1906 and the conventions existing between the South American countries be utilized in drawing up a compulsory arbitration convention.

SHEARING UNDERWAY.

Alberta's Wool Crop Will be a Record One—Lamb Crop Large.

Lethbridge, Alta., June 22.—Shearing has begun in this district. Large gangs are now at Grassey Lake and Purple Springs and other gangs will begin at Chin shortly. About 100,000 sheep will be shorn this year. The wool crop is an average one in weight and the quality is good. Indeed the wool in southern Alberta is the finest in Canada. The sheep all have a strong drop of merino blood. Last year the price was seventeen and one-eighth cents. This year it is expected eighteen at least will be realized. The lamb crop is the largest in many years running from 75 to 95 per cent of the ewe bands.

CLEMENCEAU SUSTAINED

French Prime Minister's Vigorous Measures Endorsed.

Order is Rapidly Being Restored in Disturbed Wine Growing Districts of France —Military Troubles Subside.

Paris, June 22.—Premier Clemenceau was able to give to his colleagues at this morning's meeting of the cabinet a generally hopeful report of the situation, the belief being that the worst is over.

The ministers decided that under the circumstances an din view of the bloodshed it would be out of harmony with his own and public opinion for president Fallieres to attend the coming festivities at Rouen and Bordeaux. He intended to review the fleets and attend a reception on the U. S. armoured cruiser Washington. The arrangements for the president's visit have thus far been cancelled as well as all the ministers' engagements at festive functions in the immediate future. During the discussion of the events in the south, the minister of justice mentioned that among the persons arrested were members of local royalists, thus bearing out the cabinet's idea that a great deal of politics is mixed up in the movement. General Ballout's report of the mutiny of the batallion of the seventeenth regiment of infantry at Agde has reached war minister Picquart, the former attributed the mutinous condition of the soldiers to the terrorism of the mob of wine growers, who, he said attempted to forcibly prevent the mutineers from entering the barracks at Beziers after their surrender.

The chamber of deputies today passed, practically unanimously, all the clauses of the wine frauds bill, previously adopted separately, thus enabling the government to put the measure into immediate effect, and remove the principal grievances of the wine growers. The remainder of the clauses of the bill will be taken up without delay.

By a majority of 104 the chamber of deputies this afternoon voted confidence in the government and gave the ministers a free hand to employ the measures they think best to reestablish order in the disturbed southern departments.

N. P. A. A. O. REGATTA.

Nelson Crews Will Leave on Wednesday Night for Lake Washington.

The Nelson crews for the N. P. A. A. O. regatta will leave for lake Washington on Wednesday evening going over the C. P. R. to Vancouver and from there to Seattle by steamer.

Nelson will be represented in the junior fours by Charles Lea stroke, N McIntosh 3, A. Ferguson 2, and A. Bishop bow. McIntosh and Bishop rowed in the juior fours last year. Lea and Ferguson are new men from whom much is expected. The crew have been training faithfully and they hope to give a good account of themselves.

This is the first season the Nelson boat club have been able to enter in the singles or doubles, as previously they had no racing boats. Last spring they secured a double and a single shell, both of the latest and best designs. A. Poole and F. Nott will row the junior doubles next week, and the pair that beat them will, it is promised, realize that they have been racing and racing hard.

D. DesBrisay, who has a wide reputation as an oarsman, has been training the crews, and has entered for the senior singles. His chances for carrying off the much coveted medal is said to be of the best. Much credit is due the trainer for the excellent work he has done. Next week should show gratifying results.

The crews will carry with them the best wishes of the community. They have sacrificed a good deal in the time spent at practice, and in going to the regatta. The entry in the local oarsmen at lake Washington is a good advertisement for the city and the club should be encouraged and supported by the citizens at large.

The regatta will take place on July 3 and 4 and the men are going down in good time so as to be ready when the time comes.

WILL NOT STAND FOR I. W. OF W.

Denver, Col., June 22.—The convention of the Western Federation of Miners adopted the first five sections of the proposed new constitution and laid the sixth section on the table. This section is designed to make the federation the mining department of the Industrial Workers of the World. The fifth section of the preamble is considered to pledge the federation to socialism. It reads:

"We hold that industrial union and the concerted political action of all wage workers is the only method of attaining this end," referring to the "emancipation" of the working classes. The new preamble is still to be adopted as a whole, and will then go to a referendum vote before it is finally incorporated in the constitution.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

It is the intention to issue the next number of The Daily News from our new quarters on the corner of Baker and Ward streets. Our new press has been erected and as soon as a long overdue supply of paper arrives, we shall enlarge to eight pages.

Without any rash promises we hope in the course of the next few weeks to issue regularly a greatly improved paper. We have ordered a complete new stock of advertising type, so that when we can publish an eight page paper we expect to be able to give our advertising patrons far better service, from a typographical point of view than has been possible of late.

The improvements we are making to our plant are in line with the improved conditions now so generally noticeable throughout the Kootenay district and in Nelson particular. Our aim has been to keep abreast of the times and to give Nelson a daily paper that would be a credit to a town of twice the size. This is not the most profitable way of conducting a newspaper, but having unqualified confidence in the future of the town and district, we believe in laying deep and strong the foundations of this paper's hold on the community.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"Encourage the Press," is the caption of a recent timely editorial in the Victoria Colonist, from which the following excerpt is taken: "Very few people realize what an important factor in the life of a community the newspaper is. Its existence depends so vitally upon the progress of the city, that day in and day out all concerned in its production are constantly engaged in devising ways and means to advance the interests of the community. The duty of the newspaper in this regard is an ever-present one of the first magnitude; and there are very few newspapers which are neglectful of it. If we were to examine closely into the history of all communities, which have made such strides along the path of progress as to have achieved conspicuous success, we would undoubtedly find that its press has been responsible in no small measure for it. In most instances there is prompt and ready disposition on the part of a community to recognize the value of its newspapers as factors of progress. There are exceptions; but nothing is to be gained by examining too closely into a situation which gives promise of improving to a degree which will ultimately remove any cause for reproach. Enough has been said to demonstrate the expediency of "encouraging the press." Believe in its sincerity, in its loyalty to the community, in its endeavor to advance every movement calculated to benefit the city. Join hands with it in securing full consideration of specific projects for development and progress. Regard it seriously. Most of what appears in the press, as an expression of opinion, at all events, is not hastily prepared, but the result of careful deliberation. So, when the press feels it incumbent to call for united action on the part of the people, it may be taken as a certainty that the wisest course to pursue is to give a response that will be immediate, sympathetic and generous. Of course, in saying this we have no reference whatever to questions of a political character. It is only by the cultivation of the principle of co-operation between the people and the press that any community can hope to accomplish those ends which are born solely of unity and harmony."

At the royal garden party at Windsor yesterday, king Edward paid special attention to Mark Twain, this was a characteristically tactful action that will be appreciated by all the king's loyal subjects. There is no living writer to whom the king of England could more fittingly pay honor than to Mark Twain, who is a great deal more than the greatest of living humorists. Mark Twain is really one of the heroic figures of the age. The pluck and high sense of honor he displayed, when, at an advanced age, he found himself ruined by the failure of the printing house with which he was connected, can only be likened to the course pursued by sir Walter Scott under very similar conditions. Mark Twain is a brave, kindly humorist, one of the noblest men who have adorned the paths of literature in any age. In honoring the great American writer king Edward honored himself and the nation over which he rules. Oxford university is to confer a degree upon Mark Twain and it can truthfully be said that no better choice for this mark of appreciation could have been made.

The latest topic receiving editorial attention in Toronto is, "Where can the hired man wash his feet?" This does not give promise of being a particularly odorous topic of discussion, but it is fully up to the level of the customary dog-day newspaper topics. The World takes the matter very seriously and intimates that it is one of national importance, in which Hon. Sidney Fisher, dominion minister of agriculture should personally interest himself. It is certainly desirable that the hired man should wash his feet and Ontario should enact a provincial measure compelling every farmer to provide adequate conveniences for this operation. One would judge from the tone of the articles and letters in the Toronto press that it is not customary for Ontario farmers to bathe or to provide conveniences for those of their employees who have any desire to be cleanly. Presumably Ontario farmers are so godly that they have no use for cleanliness.

It will be remembered that during the sessions of the imperial council a report was sent out by the London Daily Mail that sir Robert Bond, premier of Newfoundland, had created a scene at the conference because of what was alleged to be unfair treatment of his colony in the matter of the fisheries dispute. The next day Winston Churchill, in the commons, branded the Daily Mail story as an "impudent fabrication." Subsequently the Daily Mail endeavored to put itself right by declaring that it had received word from sir Robert Bond that its story was substantially correct. Correspondence since published puts the Daily Mail in an even worse light than before. Not only did it impudently fabricate the story of the alleged "scene" at the conference, but its claim to have received a telegram from Bond expressing approval of what it said is now shown to be absolutely unfounded. Yellow journalism seems to be taking a strong hold in London, particularly on the papers owned and controlled by the Harmsworths.

ORDERS WERE DISOBEYED

Fernie, June 22.—No. 6 prospect, Coal Creek, in which the explosion occurred yesterday resulting in the death of two men and the injury of two others, was entered today and the cause of the explosion discovered.

It appears that about one hundred feet from the entry and two hundred feet from the face a tool box was placed in which there was the best part of a tin of dynamite and a box of caps, the shots which were lighted in the fact of the entry on going off must have in some way jarred the caps in the tool box and set off the powder, no part of the mine is injured past the tool box the air on the inside forming a cushion so that the whole force of the explosion expended itself towards the mouth of the tunnel.

The men had been repeatedly warned about keeping powder or caps in the mine and it was strictly against the rules. An inquest will be held as soon as the two injured men are able to attend it and mine inspector Morgan will probably make his report after the inquest.

Interviewed this morning, R. G. Drinnan, general superintendent, stated to your correspondent that there was absolutely no trace of any gas explosion in the mine and that the accident was entirely due to the explosion of dynamite caused by the men's own carelessness and in direct disobedience to orders.

GRAFT IN BRITAIN.

Contractors of British Cruisers Guilty of Carnegie Tactics.

London, June 22.—"Grave irregularities" is the term the parliamentary committee on public accounts, gives to certain conditions in the navy, on which it issued a report today. The committee found that a widespread custom was the acceptance of commissions from contractors by petty officers, but the report adds that severe disciplinary measures have been adopted to suppress the custom. The committee objects strongly to the action of the admiralty in contracting for the construction of the armoured cruisers Invincible, Inflexible and Indomitable without competition, although the admiralty officials explained that they wished to keep the plans secret. The committee finds that the builders of the battleship King Edward VII, secretly patched up a defectively cast rudder, which the government was obliged to replace. The builders gathered together a few of their employees on a certain Sunday, and by electric welding concealed a huge fault in the rudder. The report of the committe says: "We hope it will not again be our duty to investigate a case where a British firm for commercial advantage will callously hazard lives of hundreds of their fellow countrymen."

SILVER MINES BOOMING

NEW LISKEARD BUSIEST CAMP IN COBALT DISTRICT.

New Liskeard, Ont., June 22.—Now that the snow has entirely disappeared, New Liskeard is the business silver camp in the Cobalt district. Toronto is the starting point for a stampede of humanity in thousands and tens of thousands, all setting their faces towards the wilderness in quest of fabulous fortunes, struggling, fighting, bribing, and beseeching, in the effort to reach the goal an hour in advance of the others. In the crush are people of all nationalities—miners from the Yukon, Cripple Creek, Australia, Siberia, millionaires from New York, San Francisco, Paris, and Berlin; hawk-faced men who scent *out investments for every great syndi*cate of capital known to the world; titled Europeans, penniless immigrants starving in the train of the excitement and hoping to pick up sudden wealth by the mere act of stooping for it; gamblers, thieves, merchants, clerks, politicians, farmers, preachers—all rubbing shoulders, all catching the contagion and growing stark mad together. Unless the signs are misleading New Liskeard is going to be the center of a great mining boom. What has happened in the way of speculation at Dawson city will be but child's play compared with what is to follow. Distance puts but frail barriers against the mad rush which is now in progress. There is no Edmonton trail to lead astray the eager foolish; there is no sea voyage to Skagway and no long trip by dog trains over the mountain trails; there are no heavy initial expenses to sift out the unready. The Cobalt region is easily accessible and there is scarcely a through train moving today on the continent or a vessel heading for America on the Atlantic but carries its passengers ticketed to Toronto, yet thinking of Cobalt, only of Cobalt, and the riches there that others have overlooked. In Toronto alone there are thousands who have decided to slip up here and have a look round—just a look round. From the moment they enter the railway coach most of them will be in the grip of the most engrossing passion that ever laid hold of men—the quest for wealth, instant and unlimited, hidden beneath the surface of bountiful old mother earth. Scouts have been and are in New Liskeard for almost every big corporation and combination of capital in Canada —not digging with spades nor blasting the rock with dynamite, but getting options on claims here and there, ready to pounce down hard wherever a new streak of ore is revealed and ready to rouse any man out of bed at any hour and buy his claim at any price from one thousand to one million dollars, as its worth is verified, either as a mine to operate or a property to sell. If New Liskeard is what it seems to be, the loose money of the whole world stands ready to offer itself right on the spot, as a convenience in buying, selling or developing. For one man of sinew who will go there to work, a thousand will rush thither to buy, to sell and to give good luck a chance to serve them. Land booms have come and gone but consider what a land boom would be with every vacant lot a possible Golconda; with the agent of Rothschild bidding against the agents of Rockefeller, Vanderbilt and bankers' syndicates. Thing, too, of the area over which the excitement may spread in a country bounded only by the Hudson's Bay, prospected but superficially so far, and now to be ransacked by experts from every mineral region in the world, and by every claim salter in the business.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

New York, June 22—Every weak, and in fact every day, brings out new styles in millinery and the selection of summer hats for the vacation wardrobe is a more bewildering task than ever. There is no hard and fast rule this summer regarding what shall or what shall not be worn, although there are one or two shapes that have become immensely popular. The mushroom shape is for the moment in great favor, but this very popularity is likely to be its undoing, as it is worn by both young and old. However, there are mushrooms anod mushrooms, and the smart hats bear little resemblance to those that lack that indispensable quality. The shape too, is not becoming to every woman by any means and besides has an unfortunate tendency to make the wearer look much older than a smaller and friskier shape. Much depends upon how the bandeau is put in the mushroom hat, for if it is not wide enough or is too large the hat goes down on tthe head too far and is too all-enveloping to be becoming. The Charlotte Corday shape is suggested in the hats of straw and lace combined, the crown being of lace with ribbon bows and roses arranged always in becoming style.

Hats that have the brims turned up sharply at one side are as a rule more becoming than those that cover more of the head. This season trimming inside of the brim is again in fashion and the smartest of bows and rosettes of velve and satin ribbon are massed together, resting on the hair. An extremely smart black crin hat with upturned brim had only on the crown a stiff trimming of rose velvet ribbon and a charming spray of two pink roses and green leaves. Another hat all in black had a succession of rosettes with tiny buckles under the brim, while at one side of the crown was more of the ribbon and some high aigrettes.

Flowers are highly fashionable this year and all sorts of combinations in coloring and kinds of flowers are to be seen. Field flowers, especially daisies, are thought charming, while sprays of mignonette are most cleverly combined with the brighter flowers. Old colored roses are also popular, of a size and color never seen in the natural flowers, but immensely satisfactory for trimming. Blue roses, combined with blue ostrich plumes, make an especially striking effect.

A great deal depends, too, upon how the hat is placed upon the head. Many of the hats this season are worn at an entirely different angle to that originally intended by the designer, and it must be admitted look much better for the change. Very few of the shapes are becoming without they have their brims, which stand out from the head, filled in underneath with puffs, curls or plenty of soft tulle. There must be no hard lines against the face, and yet the first inspection of the hat discloses nothing but hard lines and acute angles, the brim standing several inches from the head at the back or sides, or as in what is known as the new mushroom shape all around the head. The mushroom shape in its modified form savors somewhat of the artistic and picturesque and when it is becoming it is certainly a most charming style. Young girls with lots of fluffy hair look best in those hats and the bows of ribbon tulle flowers and feathers that are piled upon them do not seem to be too heavy for them.

All sorts of weaves in straws are fashionable, although the preference if for hte lighter and more transparent. Crin, in spite of what the milliner tried to do, is again to be much used, but the extremely fine straws are much smarter, the best hats being light in weight, no matter how many trimmings there is on them.

An important part of the new hat is the crown, which this year has assumed much larger importance than last year. There does not appear to be any fixed law as to what the size and exact shape shall be but the crown must be evident. The most attractive shapes have a twist of velvet or ribbon just around the medium size and medium shape crown. The more eccentric have a succession of bows, or rather one stiff bow at the left side, while directly in front there is no trimming at all.

The scarf trimmed Panama is in most of its forms rather a youthful type of headgear and when cleverly bent and trimmed it is perfect in its effect of piquancy and a pretty hat for summer morning wear. Leghorns are regarded with favor by the French designers.

The Dolly Varden and poke shapes, the bell and mushroom brims and crowns, the huge full crowns of silk and lace, all the ideas which the milliners have deveoped in the season's hats, have artistic possibilities but they also demand an artstic wearer, and the ordinary wearer should lean toward conservatism.

The coiffure should be well looked to with the new hats and even when the coiffure coils and puffs, the effect of the new modish hat is yet not a thing of beauty. Tre narrow front brims and the wide drooping back brims seen upon so many of the new models, the tendency of setting the hat well gack on the head instead of having it droop over the face, the huge scarfs and bows and plumes, falling low in the back, all these give to unaccustomed eyes a bizarre and absurd impression, but we shall become accustomed to them as we become used to the tiny tip-tilted shapes of yesterday.

And now a word or two on the subject of the lingerie hat. The present headpiece of that style does not present the slightest resemblance to the flat and somewhat commonplace affairs which answered to the name some years ago. In fact lingerie seems to be a generic name used by milliners to describe their most costly creations. So heavily are the delicate materials wrought with hand work that they fairly droop with their own weight, and where by any chance a few inches of the materials remain in their natural beauty, one sees insettings of real lace framed with dainty borders of hand work, oftentimes this frame work setting wandering off across the lace medallions and finishing in some dainty flower or scroll design. While there is a decided tendency toward the mushroom shape, a few were noted in modified sailor design, and now and then a model was noticed that followed the lines of the poke bonnet.

CRUSHING LIBERAL PRESS.

Russian Government Resort to Severe Repressive Measures.

St. Petersburg, June 22.—The government's repressive campaign against the liberal press to prevent hostile criticism of the dissolution of parliament and the new electoral law continues vigorously. Dispatches from many cities report that enwspapers have been fined from $500 up. The limit being cities report that newspapers have been suppressed and their editors in several instances have fled. The fines collected at Moscow yesterday amounted to $7500. Such representative organs as the Ousktya, Viedomosti and Russkoe Slove, were fined without explanation.

Kiev, June 22.—Lieutenant Vuyakhevich, who participated in the suppression of the recent mutiny of the sappers' batallion has committed suicide.

Kootenay Fruit Lands

Burton City and Fire Valley Fruit and Farm Lands are the best sellers now.

15 months ago I purchased from original locators about 5000 acres of Fruit Lands near Burton City. Since then I have been getting the titles and having them subdivided into 10, 15 and 20 acre blocks. One month ago I began to advertise them and have disposed of nine 15 acre blocks and twenty-one 20 ac. blocks, averaging more than one block per day.

1—The land has a good surface loam with a clay subsoil.

2—It is free from stones.

3—It is nearly level and has a gentle slope, none of it being more than 100 feet above the lake.

5—They know I have had a wide experience in fruit lands and am prepared to prove any statements mentioned here.

6—Because I am a practical fruit grower, having over 2500 fruit trees on my home farm, and buyers get the benefit of my experience.

7—I am also prepared to clear land, plant it and care for it until such time as my customers are prepared to take it over.

A SNAP

one improved 20 acre fruit farm for sale fronting on the lake, has a nice beech and in a good locality, 2 1-2 miles north of Burton City. 5 acres cleared and ploughed, 175 fruit trees, a nice creek runs through the property soil is good and no waste land. Daily boat service. This is one of the prettiest places on the Arrow Lakes and will make a nice home in the heart of the fruit growing district.

Price $100 per acre, 10 per cent. down, balance can be arranged

NEW SMELTING PROCESS

INVENTION OF ALFRED LOTTI OF MARSEILLES, FRANCE

(Lead and Zinc News)

Alfred Lotti of Marseilles, France, has invented a new process of smelting lead and copper ores, of which the following is a specification:

The object of the invention is to provide means whereby ores containing the sulphides of lead and copper can be desulphurized to a considerable extent by the aid of waste heat of the smelting process and at the same time the desulphurized product can be agglomerated into a form eminently well adapted to subsequent reduction in a blast furnace, the operation whereof is thereby greatly facilitated. This will be appreciated from the well known fact that the capacity of a furnace is increased and the cost of smelting correspondingly decreased in proportion to the coarse material in the charge. In the present practice sulphide fines have to be roasted in special furnaces, usually with the application of heat from carbonaceous fuel, which is always necessary in the case of lead sulphide ores, and after roasting the ore can be charged into the blast furnace only in limited proportions or must be sintered or compressed into briquets, all of which expedients involve extra expense.

It is well known that in the preparation of a charge of lead or copper ore for smelting in the blast furnace it is not only advantageous but also often necessary in order to obtain a satisfactory fusion, to have a certain proportion of the charge in lump form and, further, in many cases to have in the charge a certain proportion o slag from a previous smelting, the proportion of old slag sometimes employed, amounting to 30 to 35 per cent of the weight of the charge.

In adding old slags, rich or poor, to the charge, they are broken up to suitable size after having cooled, and are then mixed with the ore in the desired proportion. In this method of operation the heat of the slag is entirely lost, although the heat is considerable, amounting ordinarily to about 400 calories per kilogram of slag, and, moreover, it is difficult, if not impossible, to obtain an intimate mixture of the slag with the ore during the subsequent fusion.

A study of the agglomeration of lead and copper ores with slags already in the state of fusion employing a proportion of the slag varied according to the character of the ore indicates in most cases, with minor modifications to conform to the particular conditions in each case, that by throwing the ore into a predetermined proportion of molten slag and stirring rapidly or mixing of any other system which permits of a good sub-division of the slag and ore a spongy incandescent material is produced, dense fumes of sulphur, sulphur dioxide and sulphur trioxide being evolved at the same time. In the case of lead ores the material thus produced consists of the sulphide of oxide of lead mixed with slag. If this spongy and friable material still at the temperature o combustion of the sulphides be subjected to a current of compressed air in a suitable apparatus or to the oxidizing influence of air in other suitable ways, the remaining sulphur n the ore is to a large extent burned off, the temperature of the charge rising considerably during this process, even to the degree of a bright red heat. During the oxidization of the charge by means of the air blast, fumes of sulphur dioxide and sulphur trioxide are disengaged and sometimes also yellow fumes of sulphur, which will condense in globules if the ore is pyritous. After one to three hours of this treatment the desulphurization of the ore which can come in contact with the air is completed, and the charge entirely agglomerated forms a single block, remaining, however, of a spongy character. It is only necessary then to break it up to a suitable size as preliminary to smelting in the blast furnace. It may, however, be passed on directly to the blast furnace, the block remaining still red in its interior, and this is in general advantageous in order to facilitate the elimination of any remaining sulphur and save fuel. The physical character of this material, which consists of slag intimately mixed with ore, is very favorable to a good and rapid fusion. Moreover the mixture of the sulphide of lead with the sulphate and oxide formed during the treatment with air is very favorable in the subsequent smelting since these compounds of lead react to produce the metal.

It sometimes happens in this process that ores rich in sulphur produce in the smelting a little more matte than if they were treated by the ordinary method of roasting; but in such cases the difficulty may be overcome by retreating a certain proportion of the matte, crude or roasted, along with the ore. This system has the advantage of oxidizing, to a large extent, the matte, which then acts as a flux in the subsequent smelting.

In the application of the process to low grade copper mattes and to the sulphide ores of copper, arsenical or antimonical, it is to be observed that their agglomeration in the reverberatory furnace or in the various forms of mechanical furnace that are in use is impossible, and it is therefore necessary to employ such material in granular form in the smelting furnace or else to make it into briquets, both of which methods are expensive. By this process such ore can be desulphurized and put in excellent form for smelting at considerable economy. In the case of raw ore it is mixed with the proper proportion of molten slag. In some cases a variable proportion of silicious sand, or preferrably of finely crushed flourspar rich in silica, is added prior to treating with air. In other wise the charge is blown with air, the treatment varying according to the quantity of sulphur present, the character of the gangue, etc. The treatment with air is done while the mixture is still hot, the sulphides being at the temperature of combustion. The rapid treatment with air of material containing about 15 per cent sulphur produces an elevation of temperature sufficient to melt a portion of the sulphides and scorify a certain proportion of the gangue. After one to three hours a block of material easily fusible is discharged from the apparatus.

This method is not to be confused with the treatment of copper mattes in the Bessemer converter, since neither the principle nor the apparatus nor the end to be attained are the same. The object of this process is to achieve a preliminary desulphurization of the crude ores and present the desulphurized ore in the form eminently well suited for subsequent smelting in the blast furnace. The process, therefore enables a double economy to be achieved; first a saving in the roasting of the raw material, since in most cases the heat of the slag and that of the combustion of the sulphur are sufficient to effect the desulphurization and agglomeration of the charge, and second, in the subsequent smelting, since the preliminary operation converts the ore in a form that is most economical for reduction in the blast furnace.

Calcareous gangues or basic gangues in general are not favorable to the process if they occur in too great quantity.

Briefly, this process includes the following:

1. The process of mixing sulphide ore with molten slag and passing air through the mixture.
2. The process of adding sulphide ore to molten slag, affecting an intimate mixture of said elements and passing air through the mixture.
3. The process of adding sulphide ore to molten slag, affecting an intimate mixture of said elements, and treating the mixture with air to effect desulphurization.
4. The process of adding silicious matter to sulphide ores or matte, roasting the mixture, adding the roaster material to molten slag, effecting an intimate mixture of said elements and treating the mixture with air to effect desulphurization.

STOCKS FOR THE WEEK

ANOTHER SHARP ADVANCE SHOWN IN COAL STOCKS

(Reported by B. B. Mighton & Co.)

Tradings in stock locally for the past week were enlivened by flurries in one or two securities, with the general condition of the market firm and active.

The feature of the week's tradings was the sharp advance in International Coal from 68 cents to 77 cents. This rally it is rumored was due to the increase of the dividend from 4 per cent to 6 per cent. Should this report be verified a still higher price will be asked.

Dominion Copper showed a slight decline and the present price is being taken advantage of throughout the surrounding district and a large number of shares bought. B. C. Copper remained almost stationary, fluctuations of only a point or so taking place. Rambler-Cariboo declined several cents, which was no doubt due to no reports being made public anent the general meeting of this company held recently. Sullivan had a slight advance and continues firm. Higher prices will undoubtedly be in order shortly, in consequence of the improved conditions of the property and the change in the personnel of the directors of the company.. Alberta Coal though holding its high price, was inactive with but few sales recorded.

LISBON SCENE OF RIOTS

POPULAR FEELING AROUSED AGAINST PREMIER.

POLICE FIRE ON MOBS AND SEVERAL LIVES ARE LOST.

Paris, June 22.—Dispatches received there last night from Lisbon by way of Madrid report that popular hatred of the system of government by decree instituted by premier Franco after the dismissal of parliament in the beginning of May has had as its outcome in barricade fighting between the troops and the people, and much bloodshed. The premier made a journey from the capital to Oporto in the hope of obtaining popular endorsement of his policy, but at every station between Lisbon and Oporto crowds hissed and hooted the train as it passed. Oporto received the premier with crepe banners in place of flags and insults instead of hoped for cheers. When the dictator returned to Lisbon there was a furious riot outside the railway station. Cavalry charged the mob and infantry fired into it. The officers' commands were drowned by cries of "Death to the dictator." Revolvers were freely used by the crowd and a young officer was mortally wounded. A neighboring square was filled with killed and wounded, laid out in rows. The principal fighting occurred under the windows of the hotel Dux Angle. Several English visitors witnessed the struggle. It is said that the people fought for hours with sticks and stones against the soldiers who fired volleys. Women with their aprons filled with stones supplied missils to the men and urged them on. Republican leaders harrangued the people to revolt. Barricades were built and the cafes were invaded, the mob breaking up the furniture for their extempore fortifications. The chief Lisbon cafe was completely destroyed. The mob fought with great fury, undismayed by the volleys of the troops. Thursday was a day of mourning for the dead. All the newspapers appeared with deep black borders, and on business offices and private houses flags were flown at half mast and windows were draped with crepe. Last night the troops were again firing on the people in the public squares. Most serious events are expected. The spirit of revolt is widespread. The censorship is strict.

Mail advices from Lisbon show that the conflicts between the police and the people on June 19 and 20 were much more serious than indicated by the censored dispatches from the Portugal capital.

Calvary had to be called out to disperse the mobs, which met the charges with revolver shots. The rioters raided the cafes ,armed themselves with bludgeons formed of iron and marble, bottles and so on and fiercely attacked the police and troops.

The latter fired several volleys, two rioters were killed and over a hundred were wounded, six of them sustaining mortal injuries.

A decree has been issued authorizing the civil government of Lisbon to suspend newspapers which incite disorder. It is understood that premier Franco wished king Charles to issue a decree suspending the constitutional guarantee, but the king, who came to Lisbon expressly to confer with the premier, refused to do so.

ACCEPT THE INEVITABLE.

Two Cent Rate to go Into Effect on all U. S. Railways July 1.

Chicago, June 22.—The Inter-Ocean today says: "Passenger rates on all railways of the United States will be reduced to 2 cents a mile. The lowering of the price and complete abolition of the old 3 cent rates will begin on July 1." This was the decision reached in Chicago yesterday after long and heated discussion by the leading railroda presidents of all the western and transcontinental railroads. It was not a formal agreement but it is equally binding, for two large roads doing a transcontinental business are said to have served an ultimatum to the others that they would put the rate into effect immediately.

Following the meeting, officials of several of the roads admitted that they had been obliged to bow to public opinion and anti-railroad legislation. They said that no further fight would be made on the 2 cent laws already passed and that the roads would accept the inevitable.

STRIKE OF TELEGRAPHERS

Ogden, Utah, June 22—Two carloads of telegraph operators from Baltimore and Philadelphia, in charge of six Pinkerton detectives, passed through Ogden today on their way to San Francisco to take the places of the strikers.

San Francisco, June 22—Western Union superintendent May said today that between 50 and 60 operators were at work. All former employees requesting reinstatement will be dealt with as individuals. Superintendent W.L. Storer of the Postal Telegraph company said: "Nearly one-third of our former office force is on duty and business is being handled of course subject to delay. The outlook is encouraging.

Excellent Fruit Crop Assured—Lumbering and Mining.

Creston, June 22.—The weather is ideal for the strawberry crop and a bumper one it is sure to be. There have been no summer frosts this year and all fruits are looking in first class condition.

The sawmills and logging camps are very busy and the money they circulate is making everybody happy.

EVERY MAN HIS OWN DOCTOR

The average man cannot afford to employ a physician for every slight ailment or injury that may occur in his family, nor can he afford to neglect them, as so slight an injury as the scratch of a pin has been known to cause the loss of a limb. Hence every man must from necessity be his own doctor for this class of ailments. Success often depends upon prompt treatment, which can only be had when suitable medicines are kept at hand. Chamberlain's Remedies have been in the market for many years and enjoy a good reputation.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints.

Chamberlains Cough Remedy for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm, an antiseptic liniment for cuts, bruises, burns, sprains, swellings, lame back and rheumatic pains.

Chamberlain's Salve for diseases of the skin.

One bottle of each of these five preparations costs but $1.25. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

CIRCUS TRAIN WRECKED

Greenfield, Mass., June 22—Four men attached to the Washburn animal show were injured in a wreck of the circus train today on the Turner Falls branch of the Boston and Maine railroad.

Owing to a broken rail, a flat car carrying a caged lion and a property wagon on the latter, in which six men were sleeping, was thrown off the track and rolled down a ten foot embankment. The four men injured were caught under the wreckage. They will recover.

MUTINEERS SUBMISSIVE

Adge, France, June 22—Six hundred men of the 17th infantry who mutinied yesterday and marched to Beziers under arms, returned to their barracks here today. The officers of the 17th regiment met the penitent mutineers at the railroad station, mustered the men and marched them to their quarters. Many persons witnessed the arrival of the soldiers but there was no demonstration.

Rancher Bangs, one of the oldest settlers in Fire valley, lost his residence by fire on Friday morning. The house and contents were completely destroyed but the barns and outbuildings were saved after a hard fight.

J. J. Campbell is delighted with the first large shipment of strawberries sent from his Bonnington ranch. Archie Gravenor who has a ranch on the Silver King wagon road, will send a good consignment of strawberries east this week.

Interest in log rolling is being taken by local lumberjacks. A report was handed in yesterday from a Michigan contest, where George Mayo and W. Labelle struggled to down each other for four hours without success. The men used pike-poles and finally agreed to drop the poles. After another half hour's fight Mayo won. The celebration committee hope to have a keen contest here next Monday week.

His lordship bishop Dontenwill will administer the sacrament of confirmation at the church of Mary Immaculate this morning before high mass. Professor Fred Feuerbach, organist, has been engaged all the past week in tuning and putting the church's fine pipe organ in shape, and the instrument, the only one of its kind in the city, will be used at today's services. Mrs. Roth, a recently arrived songstress, will sing Gounod's "Ave Maria" during the offertory at both services. During the day the trustees will present his lordship with the cancelled mortgage on the church, the building being now free of all incumbrances.

As announced in yesterday's issue, the deal for the sale of the Hume hotel has been completed and the purchaser, G. P. Wells, will take possession on July 1. Belville Tomkins will be installed as manager and the services of Frank Wash will be retained. The consideration was not given but it is said to have been about $45,000 or $50,000. Mr. Hume proposes soon to start on a long desired tour around the world, and he will probably arrange his affairs and become a globe trotter before very long.

WARD THE WINNER

At the gun club's weekly shoot yesterday W. A. Ward succeeded in winning the Union Metallic Cartridge company's first prize with a score of 365, he being given six birds in the handicap. For second place three of the shooters tied, a somewhat remarkable fact out of 500 birds. Ink, Wells and Mawdsley each scored 344. The first two started at scratch, while Mawdsley was allowed four birds. In the shoot off at 25, Ink got 20, Wells 19, and Mawdsley 19, the latter winning second place on his allowance of four. The prizes are four pewter mugs and a gold locket.

In the weekly shoot at 50 birds, the scores were: Ink, 42; Wells, 38; Mawdsley, 34; Ward, 32, and Gordon, 31.

The contest for the U.M.C. trophies has been carried on all this season at the weekly shoots and terminated yesterday.
