RUSSIAN TROOPS CAPTURE FORTS AT LEMBERG--INVEST KONIGSBERG

Victory Against Austria Complete Says British Press Bureau Which Officially Announces Siege of Great Teutonic Fortress in East Prussia

GERMAN ARMY, RAPIDLY CONCENTRATED, RAKES CZAR'S CORPS WITH GUN FIRE

Commander in Chief Admits Defeat By Kaiser's Forces--Pursue Flying Enemy in Galicia--Austrians Lose Many Guns, Thousands of Men--Servians to Invade, Slay Ten Thousand

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The British official press bureau says:

"The Russian army is investing Konigsberg. The Russian victory is complete at Lemberg."

Direct advices from the Russian capital give the official report of a battle lasting seven days between the Russians and Austrians around Lemberg, Galicia, in which the Russians were successful, forcing the Austrians to retreat and seizing heavy fortified positions.

The Russians captured 150 guns and the Austrians are said to have suffered enormous losses. In this battle three full Austrian army corps and parts of two others were engaged.

Russia admits a serious defeat in East Prussia at the hands of the Germans. In this battle two Russian army corps were badly cut up and three generals and a number of staff officers were killed.

Konigsberg Sortie Fails.

LONDON, Sept. 3—A Petrograd despatch to Reuters says the garrison at Konigsberg, East Prussia, has made an unsuccessful attempt at a sortie.

Seize Lemberg Forts.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PETROGRAD, Sept. 2.—The following official communicataion was issued by the Russian war office tonight:

"After a battle lasting seven days the Russian army seized heavily fortified fortifications around Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, in Austria-Hungary, about 10 or 12 miles from the town. The Russians then advanced toward the principal forts.

"After a battle yesterday, which was fiercely contested, the Austrians were obliged to retreat in disorder, abandoning heavy and light guns, artillery and field kitchens.

"Our advance guard and cavalry pursued the enemy, who suffered enormous losses in killed, wounded and prisoners.

"The Austrian army operating in the neighborhood of Lemberg was composed of the 3rd, 11th and 12th corps and part of the 7th and 14th corps. This army appears to have been completely defeated.

Hundred and Fifty Guns.

"During the pursuit by the Russian troops the Austrians, who beat a retreat from Guila Lipa, were forced to abandon an additional 31 guns. Our troops are moving over roads encumbered with artillery and convoys loaded with provisions of various kinds.

"The total number of guns captured by the Russians around Lemberg amounts to 150."

The above despatch was sent direct from Petrograd by the St. Petersburg Telegraph agency, the official Russian news agency, and is the first despatch received in New York direct from the Russian capital since the declaration of war.

Russians Admit Disaster.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Petrograd officials frankly admit a disaster to two army corps, including the loss of three generals. This probably refers to the great victory claimed by the Germans in East Prussia, where they claimed the capture of 70,000 Russians.

Following Russian successes against Austrians in Galicia the latter have prepared to evacuate Lemberg.

Million Men Wage Battle.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 2.—A fierce battle is raging in Galicia south of Lublin and east of Lemberg. Nearly 1,000,000 men are engaged on the Russian and Austrian sides. The Russians appear to be overcoming the stubborn Austrian defense.

Railways Aided Germans.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(Delayed.)—A Times despatch from Petrograd filed on Tuesday evening, says:

"Army headquarters today report that, thanks to their highly developed railway system superior German forces concentrated from all parts of the front and flung themselves against about tw of our army corps. These were exposed to an extremely violent fire from the big guns which inflicted heavy losses.

"The commander-in-chief adds to the report, as before, that he trusts that God will help us to carry out our plans successfully.

"On the Austrian frontier stubborn fighting continues."

Defeat Only Temporary Check

LONDON, Sept. 2, 11:27 p.m.—A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says that the battle which has been admitted as a reverse to the Russian troops in East Prussia was fought on the Osterode on the Soldau-Heidenburg-Osterode line.

"Public opinion," adds the despatch, "is not one whit depressed by what is regarded as merely a temporary check to Russian progress in this quarter. Doggedly determined to carry the war through to the end, the Russians do not admit the possibility of ultimate defeat."

Servia to Take Offensive

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, via Paris, Sept. 3, 1.30 a.m.—A telegram received here from Nish says the Servians are preparing to attack and invade Austria, as the Austrian forces for days have failed to confront the Servians.

Servians Slay Ten Thousand

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NISH, Servia, Sept. 2, 9:15 p.m., via London.—An official statement issued today gives new and fuller details of the battle of Janja. The Austrian force, it says, was composed of 200,000 men and held a favorable position. By its retreat it admitted defeat. The Austrians left on the field of battle 10,000 dead and more than 2,000 wounded.

"Altogether," continues the statement, "40,000 of the enemy's troops were placed hors de combat. We have sent to the interior more than 4,000 men whom we took prisoner, and have captured 60 guns, much ammunition, the material for the construction of a 600-metre bridge and a train.

"The battle was of great importance because it was decisive. The enemy retreated to Santzek."

Montenegrins Whip Enemy.

ROME, via Paris, Sept. 3, 2.07 a.m.—The Giornale d'Italia says a squadron of British and French warships has bombarded the entrance to the port of Cattaro, Austria, with the evident intention of destroying the wireless station and the semaphore signals.

INVESTMENT OF PARIS DIFFICULT

French Capital Can Retain Communication With Outside, Writer Declares—Belt of Forts Strong.

(Special Cable to The Daily News and New York Times.)

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Gabriel Honotaux writes to the Figaro that the complete investment of a place 200 kilometres in circumference is impossible. Paris can remain in communication with the second provinces as she is protected by a belt of forts averaging 40 kilometres from the centre. Everything imposes a desperate resistance both on Paris and on the provincial army.

M. Clemenceau covers the same ground as before, concluding:

"Great sacrifices are more easily made in words than in deeds but the interest of France speaks too loud for the weakest to hesitate. Now is the moment to act and live our heroism, not to speak it. Let us do everything for France's safety. Nothing else matters."

Stephen Pichon, under the heading, "Moral Force," writes in the Petit Journal:

"The world knows that France is odiously provoked but the Germans with murders of women, children and noncombatants seem to have returned to the practices of a devastating horde known historically by the term 'God's scourge.' Europe knows this and America will soon know why Germany lies for the purpose of winning American support. I am undiminishingly confident, while our soldiers fight with that traditional courage, the supreme forces battling on our side must also prevail."

Mme. Gilbert wife of the famous aviator, was recently arrested near Claremont Ferrand, at the village of Paray Monial, where she had been informed her husband was being feted on his return from a successful raid. On her arrival she found her alleged husband was an imposter. A warrant has been issued for his arrest, since the real Gilbert was at home. She was herself challenged by a gendarme when trying to return home, who finding her without papers and carrying German uniform buttons, which she had bought from prisoners as souvenirs, promptly arrested her. Her release was obtained with difficulty on the arrival of her father-in-law, with necessary identification.

RUMOR KRONPRINZ WILHELM TAKEN

British Cruiser Said to Have Captured Big Liner Which Has Been Roaming Seas

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Reports were current here today that British cruisers had succeeded in capturing the Kronprinz Wilhelm, the German liner which has been roaming the seas since her sudden departure from here a day or so before war was declared between Germany and England.

Sir Courtenay Bennet, the British consul-general here, had heard the rumor and made inquiries during the day, but said tonight that he had been unable to confirm it from any source.

The Wilhelm, North German Lloyd liner, was taken a war prize into Bermuda, according to the report.

POOR FISH

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 2, 6:25 p.m.—Telegraphing from Copenhagen, the News correspondent says:

"Several private motor boats have left for Cape Skagen, Denmark to search for mines which are dangerous to neutral ships. Persons arriving here from Reval, Russia, today say that while crossing the Gulf of Finland on board a Russian ship they saw a mine explode about a mile and a quarter away. No ships were visible in the vicinity and the captain of the Russian vessel suggests that the mine was detonated by some big fish coming in contact with it."

PARIS WITNESSES BATTLE OF AIRMEN

Two French Machines Engage German Aviators

ZEPPELIN AGAIN ATTACKS ANTWERP

Ten Are Wounded---Rifle Fire Brings One of Craft to Earth

PARIS, Sept. 2, 11.20 p.m.—A fight in the air over Paris took place this evening. Three German aeroplanes hovered over the capital and immediately two French machines were sent up to engage them.

Meanwhile machine guns, mounted on public buildings, kept up a constant fire. By this means one of the German machines became separated from the other and the French machines flew swiftly in its direction. The Germans opened fire, to which the Frenchmen replied vigorously. The engagement seemed to turn to the disadvantage of the German, who mounted quickly to a higher level and, holding this position, was saved from further attack. He finally disappeared in a northwesterly direction over Fort Romainville, after a vain pursuit.

The other German aeroplanes escaped the fire of the guns and, after circling about for a considerable time, disappeared from view.

Bullets Brought One German Down

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 3, 3.40 a.m.—A despatch from Paris to the Mail states that one of the three German aeroplanes which made flights across Paris on Wednesday was brought down by rifle fire and landed in a deserted spot outside the city. The wreck of the machine was found, but the aviator had disappeared.

Zeppelin Bombards Antwerp

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ANTWERP, Sept. 2, via London, 8.27 p.m.—The following official statement concerning the maneuvers of a Zeppelin airship over Antwerp last night and early today was issued tonight:

"A Zeppelin airship was reported at 10.30 last night near the forts to the south of the city and also over the river Nethe. It passed over Alost and Ghent and then returned toward Antwerp and tried to fly over the city, but for a time heavy artillery fire kept it outside the outer fortifications. At 3 o'clock this morning five or six bombs were dropped from it. Later seven bombs were dropped in the parc du Rosignol, close to some houses which have been converted into hospitals and which were flying the Red Cross flag.

"These houses were damaged and 10 or 12 persons slightly wounded. After the bomb dropping exploits the Zeppelin rose and disappeared in the direction of Malines.

Cause Terrible Injuries

"An examination of the bombs showed they had a thin double covering, the two covers being joined together with mushroom-shaped rivets which act the part of bullets and are liable to cause terrible injuries when the covers are burst by the explosion. They are similar to those used by the Bonnet motor car bandits in France.

"This morning the Belgian authorities conducted the United States consul to the Red Cross buildings which were struck by bombs, that he might see the extent of the damage done.

"King Albert also visited the buildings this morning."

ADVANCE OF GERMAN HOST CAUSES FRENCH TO MOVE GOVERNMENT SOUTH

BERLIN IN NEARLY NORMAL CONDITION

American Says He Saw No Refugees, Theatres Crowded, No Food Shortage, People Confident

(Special Cable to The Daily News and New York Times.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—An American citizen, Philip H. Wood, who has just arrived in London from Berlin, gives an interesting account of conditions in the German capital.

"Life is going on practically the same as usual," he says. "There is no more difference than there is in London. The price of food is the same as before the war. The cafes are all open and have their bands playing. Many theatres still have full houses. Save for suppressed excitement there is little to show that Germany is in a state of war. I never saw any refugees."

Mr. Wood, who talked with many people, observed no shortage in the food supply. Apparently no one was taking any pains to be economical. He was told that there was enough food in the country to last 18 months. There was also optimism as to the result of the war.

"The general view was," said Mr. Wood, "that if the Germans do not win they will make it a draw. They are satisfied that their army never can be beaten. Even if they have to retreat from France they are confident that they will be able to defend their own country for an indefinite time.

"I asked two officers if they had considered the possibility of defeat. One said, 'Yes, it may be just possible, but if so we should not be here. In all Germany there would not be 50,000 men left between the ages of 17 and 50.'

Bitter Against England

"My opinion is that the war will be stopped by mediation within a month. But when I suggested it to a German officer he said:

"'It's no good talking mediation to us until we have occupied Paris and St. Petersburg. Then we might listen to you.'"

Mr. Wood found considerable bitterness against England. He was rarely successful in persuading anyone that England was fighting Prussian militarism rather than the German people.

"They think England wants to crush Germany," he said. "They will all fight to the last ditch rather than submit. I saw no sign of dissension among Socialists. English people are treated well."

BRITISH LOSSES NOT EXCESSIVE

Casualty List is Over Five Thousand. Young Viscount Hawarden is Among Dead

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Chronicle says with regard to the casualty list published last night that though it may seem heavy to a nation familiar only with small scale colonial wars, it is not so having regard to the magnitude of operations and the numbers in the force engaged. The divisions and brigades reported on Wednesday numbered about 70,000 before going into action. They fought almost continuously against an immensely superior number and, conducting that most difficult of all operations—a strategic retreat—they lost 188 officers killed and wounded and missing, and 4,939 men. They are not heavy figures in the circumstances and no army could have escaped with so few losses unless it was ably led and behaved splendidly.

The detailed figures:

Killed—officers 36, men 127.
Wounded—officers 57, men 629.
Missing—officers 95, men 4,183.

FOE WITHERS UNDER BRITISH FIRE CAVALRY SCORES BRILLIANT VICTORY

Striking Power of Enemy Begins to Suffer From Terrific Losses Which Have Been Inflicted--British Ruse Draws Germans Into Trap, Five Hundred Slaughtered. Tommy Atkins Displays Efficiency

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 3, 12.10 a.m.—The seat of French government is to be removed from Paris to Bordeaux, which lies 358 miles southwest of Paris.

The proclamation announcing this action refers to it as a temporary arrangement.

Regarding the progress of the battle which the Germans are waging on French and Belgian soil, the French and British officials are practically keeping silent. Troop movements are meagerly reported and it is impossible through these movements to determine how the line of battle is flowing.

The official press bureau has issued the following:

"Continuous fighting has been in progress all day along almost the whole line of battle. The British cavalry engaged with distinction the cavalry of the enemy and brushed them back and captured them.

"The French army has continued the offensive and gained ground in the Loraine district."

An official report from Paris says that a German cavalry corps marching toward the forest of Compiegne engaged the British and that the British captured 10 guns.

Reports declare that the fearful execution wrought by the rifle and shell fire of the allies and by the policy of the British in never allowing the enemy any rest is beginning to lessen the vigor of the German assaults.

Move to Bordeaux.

PARIS, Sept. 2—A proclamation has just been issued by the government announcing that the government departments will be transferred temporarily to Bordeaux.

The proclamation was issued by the minister of the interior who said the decision had been taken solely because the fortified places of Paris, while not necessarily likely to be attacked, would become the pivot of the field operations of the two armies.

The building of supplementary defense works is proceeding vigorously. Several of the gates of Paris were closed to traffic last night.

The proclamation reads:

Frenchmen: For several days our heroic troops have been engaged in fierce combat with the enemy. The courage of our soldiers has won for them several marked advantages but from the enormous pressure of the German forces they retreated. This situation compels the republic and the government to a sad decision.

In order to safeguard the national interests the duty of the public powers is to go away from Paris for the moment.

Will Defend Capital.

Under the command of its eminent chief, the French army, full of courage and spirit, will defend the capital and its patriotic population against the invader. But the war must be pursued at the same time in the rest of the French territory.

The struggle for the honor of the nation and the reparation of violated rights will continue without peace or truce and without a stop or a failure. None of our armies has been broken.

If some of them have suffered only too evident losses, the gaps in the ranks have been filled up from the waiting reserve forces while the calling out of a new class of reserves brings to us new resources in men and energy.

Endure and Fight.

Endure and fight. Such should be the motto of the allied army, English, Russian, Belgian and French. Endure and fight, while on the sea our allies aid us to cut the enemy's communication with the world. Endure and fight, while the Russians continue to carry a decisive blow to the heart of the German empire. It is for the government of this republic to direct this resistance to the very end and to give to this formidable struggle all its vigor and efficiency, it is indispensable that the government retain the mastery of its own actions. On the demand of the military authorities the government therefore transfers its seat momentarily to a point of the territory whence it may be in constant relations with the whole country. It asks the deputies o accompany it in order to form in the face of the enemy a centre of national unity.

Sure to Conquer.

The government leaves Paris only after having assured the defense of the city and the fortified stronghold of Paris by all means in its power. It knows it does not need to recommend calm resolve and sang froid to the population, for the people have shown every day that they have a full realization of their great duty.

Frenchmen, all be worthy of these terrific circumstances. We will win final victory. We will obtain it by our unrelenting will, by our endurance, by our tenacity. The nation which does not desire to perish and which does not retreat before suffering or sacrifice is sure to conquer.

Move Wounded From Paris.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A despatch to the Chronicle from Paris states that orders have been issued for the removal of all wounded from Paris to Rennes and Nantes.

Part of Left Driven Back.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The line of the allies' front originally ran through Cambrai and Le Cateau.

Under the tremendous pressure of numbers of the Germans, who threw away the lives of their men with their customary prodigality, the allies left was thrust back and had to give ground.

This wing consists of four army corps. After it reached—(deleted)—a pivoting movement took place, the right section of these four corps of the left wing resumed the offensive and thrust back upon (deleted) the attack made by the 10th German army corps and the Prussian guard, which lost heavily.

The left section, in which was the British force, was on the contrary, driven further back on to (deleted) and its line now runs north and south from (deleted).

Encircling this angle front into which this part of the allied line has been bent by the sheer weight of the enemy, the German army now stretches in a huge concave line. I referred yesterday to the Germans' evident intention to crumple up the left wing of the allied army and drive it back on the right. They have not yet achieved this aim. The allies left has been driven back but it is by no means crumpled up.

Have One Advantage.

There is one circumstance about the position in which the allied army now finds itself which may be regarded as a hopeful one.

It is that at the angle of their position they appear to have thrust forward a threatening wedge into the enemy's centre. The allies will have the benefit of the engagement that will be resumed at daybreak of moving on inferior lines. That is to say,

KAISER WILHELM VISITS BELGIAN BATTLEFIELDS

(Special Cable to The Daily News and New York Times.)

ABBEVILLE, Sept. 2.—(Despatch to the London Mail.)—A Belgian boy scout named Leysen, who passed through the German lines into Brussels, said that the kaiser arrived at Charleroi on Saturday and viewed the battlefield, later motoring to Mons. He spent Saturday night at Brussels but the boy said he was certain the kaiser took rooms at the Bellevue hotel, which adjoins the royal palace, and that he did not seek hospitality under King Albert's roof.

RUSSIANS DROP GERMAN NAME--CAPITAL PETROGRAD

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PETROGRAD, Sept. 2.—The name St. Petersburg does not appear in any Russian newspaper today. Thus has been observed the imperial edict changing the name of the Russian capital from St. Petersburg to Petrograd, owing to the German form of the name under which the city has been known since its foundation.

Other cities in Russia with German names, such as Schlusselburg, etc., have asked that their appelations be Russianized. It has been suggested also to discontinue the use of German words, such as kammerherr, in court communications and substitute the Russian equivalent.

Mourning dresses are increasing in number on the streets of the Russian capital.

The cross of the military order of St. George has been conferred upon 20 members of an infantry company who distinguished themselves in the fighting in East Prussia. After a Russian battery had been disabled through the wounding of many of the men and the killing of all its horses, the men who have been decorated dragged off the guns under a raking fire from the Germans.

Emperor Nicholas has bestowed the order of St. Vladimir on Gen. Rennenkampff, commander of the Russian forces in the Vilna district, for bravery in the field.

TEACH RECRUITS TO SHOOT DO IT QUICK---KITCHENER

(Special Cable to The Daily News and New York Times.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—"Never mind whether they know anything about drill. It doesn't matter if they don't know their right foot from their left. Teach them how to shoot and do it quick."

These are the instructions which Kitchener gave the officers who are engaged in the work of getting his second army into shape. They throw strong light on the situation. It is a race in which high speed in fitting out the second army, so it will be ready to take its place in whatever field of action may be necessary when Britain's regular army has been utilized, is all essential. From the first it has been evident that Kitchener realized the gigantic character of the work Great Britain has been called upon to do. Events of the past two weeks have to some extent brought the force of his conviction home to the thoughtful section of the British people. The general public, however, still remains strangely, astonishingly, apathetic.

These last few days since the real nature of the situation in France began to be understood, have seen increased movements to enlist.

In the first days after he called for 500,000 men, the war office machinery proved inadequate. Red tape processes hampered the enlistment. In many parts of the country men had to travel miles in order to reach a recruiting office and when they got there they had to go through an appalling lot of formalities.

Some improvement has been made but even yet the war office system of recruiting is imperfect. It is noteworthy that appeals which newspapers are making to the country are now taking a new note.

"Self help. We must rely on our right arm," said the Evening Standard.

"For many weeks yet," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "France, England and Belgium must be resigned to stemming Prussian torrents by their own strength. Tidings of a temporary check to the Russian advance from the east is a reminder of that. De-that being on the side of the angle they can move troops about from one section of their line to another to reinforce at any point more quickly than the Germans can make corresponding movements in reply from one part or another of their concave fronts. There is, therefore, perhaps, some hope that a vigorous counter-attack from (deleted) might succeed in cutting through the German centre and splitting their line into two parts. We may, perhaps, see the British troops falling back with their French comrades on Paris by withdrawing under the shelter of the ring of forts which defend the capital. They would be ready to aid in repulsing the German attacks on these works and would presumably prevent the German cavalry from encircling the city to cut off its supplies and communications on the south.

Germans Made Slight Gains.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

HAVRE, Sept. 2.—By George Renwick—I have been able to gather from a number of reliable sources some additional details as to the fighting which took place during Sunday and Monday in northern France. On the first of those two days the British forces had a well earned and needed rest. To their right, however, the French were fiercely attacked quite early in the day. In the earlier part of the day's encounter the enemy in tremendous strength attacked the French forces in front of La Fere and, as the Germans were in much superior strength, the French commander deemed it advisable to take up a position beyond La Fere. That was the sum total of the German advantage. The attack was renewed on the French in their new position but two desperate onslaughts made no impression on it. On Monday there was severe fighting all along the line but with the exception of a slight gain of ground on the extreme left, around Amiens, the Germans made no progress.

Enemy's Rush Weakens.

I am told that the weakening of German striking power was apparent during the fighting on both days. Several soldiers who saw the terrible rushes of the enemy in the Mons-Charleroi and St. Quentin fighting, told me that their frontal attacks on Sunday and Monday were not nearly so determined.

On Monday I am told part of the British force and a section of the French army on the right of the British succeeded by a feigned retreat in drawing forward in the La Fere region a considerable German force. Entrenched riflemen and maxims punished the enemy severely and forced it back with a loss which must have amounted to between 500 and 600 in killed and wounded.

Rifle Fire Ineffective.

"I do not know what has come over the German riflemen," an officer said to me today, "but our men have become almost totally indifferent to the German rifle fire. While it is going on they do their work, singing, whistling and joking in the trenches."

An army doctor who heard the statement, was able to confirm it in a remarkable way. Of 500 wounded men who had come under his notice or whom he had treated only one was suffering from a rifle bullet wound. All the others had been hit by shrapnel bullets or by bits of shells.

On Monday the Germans did a great deal of artillery work in support of their infantry. This was replied to with maxim and rifle fire and all prisoners speak of the deadly accuracy of both.

I met today a gunner who was in charge of a maxim gun and who at one time found himself right in the centre facing oncoming German frontal attacks.

"But we did mow them down," he said, "the section in front of me must have consisted of 800 men and every one of them got something. We cleaned the whole lot out from the flanks. Others closed up and at last we had to run for it. We were forced to leave the gun behind but luckily a well planted German shell knocked it to bits before the Germans reached it."

Allow Foe No Sleep.

But the allies are not content to remain to be attacked all the time. They are keeping the enemy on the qui vive. The Belgians, French and English are taking pains at keeping the Germans awake. This is accomplished by countless feints, skirmishes and alarms.

The German army, indeed, must be an army that gets no sleep. An officer of my acquaintance was told by a German prisoner, an officer of the artillery:

"We would rather run short of ammunition than be kept constantly without sleep as we have been so often."

These wearing out tactics will doubtless tell a tale just as the tremendous slaughter in frontal attacks must be wearing on the nerves. There can be little doubt of that and I am convinced that it is correct to say that for the moment the German forward march has been arrested and there are other factors combining to destroy what hopes the Germans have of achieving success.

Even with Paris in their possession they would find they were not at the end of the war but faced with a situation which looked like, and, indeed, would be in all reality, the beginning of a new campaign in which the disadvantages were on their side.

So much, I think, I may be permitted to say. The brains of the allied armies are not at rest. They consider what is beyond tomorrow. They are making sure that the future holds no surprises.

Weave Net for Kaiser.

For us it can be stated with confidence that the allies are drawing a net in which the Prussian militarism will be caught and will perish.

As I have said, it is something to see the troops in these regions. But be they veterans or new comers, French, Belgian or English, their quality and high spirits are the same. You look in vain among the ranks of their thousands for a gloomy face. They are just the men one would ask for and anyone who thinks things are going badly for the allies ought to see and talk to those men. Here in the ranks of the army, which is doing the work, there is not a vestige of anything approaching despair. They hold their hearts and heads high. It is the refugees who are the pitiable feature of this war, with its long sweeping lines of armies. I doubt if the worst side of actual warfare can equal the tragic sight it is to see those homeless and often bereaved people flying from their homes.

Germans Beaten Near Paris.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Refugees from Crepy in the department of Oise, 23 miles southeast of Compiegne, report Germans were crushed near there and piles of dead bodies are lying there. A sergeant wounded there witnessed, he said, the annihilation of an entire German division by French artillery.

Reports of refugees indicate that the Germans are now fighting at Compiegne in Oise, which is much closer Paris than La Fere, where last reports had them. The Germans evidently are still advancing and are now about 48 miles from the city.

Allies Gain in Strength.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Daily Mail correspondent at Boulogne this morning reports a regiment of German infantry was cut up and almost completely destroyed by the allies. It was surrounded in a forest. Heavy slaughter occurred during a two days' battle which ended with the retirement of the Germans. The allies' loss also was heavy.

The Germans who are again bombarding Malines tried to move north from Brussels but got no farther than Assebe.

A Times man says that the allies were forced to withdraw again, their line is still intact and the Germans are unable to break through. The allies are gaining in strength all the time.

In several ways the British troops showed great efficiency. A story says one British force mounted quick firers behind bags of potash on which German helmets were placed. They killed a huge number of Germans by the ruse.

Blind Gunner Describes Slaughter.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—One of the 300 British wounded who arrived at Southampton today was a gunner, who was stricken blind while sighting his gun. He said the Germans came up in closely packed lines and the British guns simply slaughtered them. He estimates that throughout the long hours of fighting before blindness overtook him thousands of Germans had fallen.

LIVED FOR YEARS IN MALE ATTIRE

Mystery Surrounding "Hiram E. Calder," Cleared Up by Death of Woman.

The mystery surrounding the life of "Hiram E. Calder," a woman who for 10 years posed as a man, and who for seven years had a woman companion known as "his" wife has been partly cleared up, says a despatch from Tampa, Fla.

A letter from the chief of police of Belair, Md., says Hannah E. Calder was a servant on a farm near there 25 years ago and ran away with the daughter of a neighboring farmer.

Hannah, dressed in man's garb, went with the girl to a minister's house at Hamstead and returned home. Hannah had changed her name to Hiram and in male attire tended bar in Baltimore.

Among the dead woman's effects was discovered a receipt from St. Joseph union, Lafayette place, New York city, for dues for "the homeless child," paid up until March 1, 1888. This is taken to mean that Hannah had a daughter, who passed as Hannah's wife and who was known as Mary Calder.

Mary Calder died here two years ago. "Hiram" erected a handsome tombstone over the grave, closed out "his" grocery business and went to Orlando, where "his" sex became known when "he" went to a hospital and died of pellagra 10 days ago.

ALWAYS A THRILL IN FRESH PLACE

Writer Describes Pleasure of Seeing New Places and Things

The moment when one first steps into a foreign town never loses its thrill for me. It is always the threshold of an adventure, the meeting of a new communal personality, to be grasped and won and made intimate. One sniffs the air in anticipation of what its quality is to be as one feels rolling toward one a welcome of individuality to which one's heart goes out in a rush of response.

The first scene one has in Chartres is one of those perfect things which seem to concentrate in a composed picture all the essential qualities of a place, a picture that seems the very incarnated body of a soul. A very green little meadow, dotted with twisted moss covered trees, surrounded by still canals down below the town; the banks lined with slender, tapering poplars, such as march in solemn state along the canals and roads of Northern France, and give that charming quality to its far-reaching countryside.

Through the poplars of the meadow gleam the white arches of a spacious viaduct with red roofs climbing the slopes of the little valley through which the canals run out of the river Eure. Along the banks walked blue-garbed nuns in their flaring white diers, while in the walks were children rolling hoops and whipping tops. It was the very essence of daily France, its peace, its color, the sweet richness of its immemorial life, the charm of its perfect blending of house and tree and grass, all become through the centuries so personally and as intimately French as the people who inhabit them and love them.

RURAL PARTS OF BRAZIL CHANGING

Although, Because of Country's Size, Not So Rapidly As Cities

The Brazilian rural districts are changing just as the cities, but the change cannot be so rapid. For one thing the country is too big—it is larger than the United States—to be transformed all at once.

Not all the Brazilian country is tropical. The southern part is semi-tropical or temperate. And it is this part of the country that is undergoing change. The coffee plantations are not being transformed, because this industry is fully developed and one coffee plantation is about the same as another. But areas for cattle raising and for general agriculture are being opened up by means of the railways.

An American-English company has acquired nine million acres of grazing land and is importing breeding cattle from the United States and Europe with which to stock it. An American is at the head of this enterprise. Cattle raising in Brazil has to be on a pretty large scale. The Brazilian pigs give larger litters than in the north and there is a very good domestic market for pork. Corn is easily raised, according to a writer in the Christian Herald.

ARROW LAKES PEOPLE URGE ROAD TO VERNON

EDGEWOOD, B. C., Sept. 2.—The expedition from the lower Arrow lake consisting of F. G. Fauquier, J. W. Ford, Dr. Yeld, R. Hughes and Walter B. Johnstone, that set out on Aug. 18 to ride over the 85 miles of trail from Edgewood to Vernon, has just returned. The object while at Vernon was to confer with the Vernon board of trade as to the advisability of connecting the Arrow lakes with the Okanagan by the completion of some 27 miles of road, 58 of the 85 have been already built.

The party expressed its surprise at the great quantity of good agricultural land this road would open up, and the ease with which the highway could be constructed. Four days were spent in Vernon and two board of trade meetings were attended. The general feeling was that this road would be a great factor toward the development of the country. Mr. Laing, the road superintendent, took the party in his car over some recent and beautifully constructed roads that it might gather some idea as to the approximate cost of the connecting link of the road. Edgewood hopes before the end of September to be able to welcome a similar party from the Okanagan.

The tour was exceedingly well organized by Walter B. Johnstone, who acted as guide to the party.

"NATIONAL HERO SERIES" NO. 8

Daniel O'Connell—"The Liberator"

OLD ERIN has given the world many a genius and many a Lover of Liberty, but none greater than the eloquent O'Connell. This noble Irishman unselfishly devoted every moment of his life to regain the Freedom of his Fatherland. His oratory, because of its flaming earnestness, exercised a powerful influence over the House of Commons and hastened many reforms for Ireland. Daniel O'Connell was the first to realize the irresistible strength of a union of millions of Irishmen, and to this end he labored night and day. Huge mass meetings were everywhere organized throughout Ireland and addressed by the masterful O'Connell. When confident of success and with victory in sight he was arrested and condemned to prison. When liberated his splendid constitution was shattered, but he continued until his dying hour to work and pray for Irish Liberty. It is needless to say that Daniel O'Connell was opposed to any Prohibitory legislation which invaded the Natural Rights of Man. He would no more vote for such tyrannous enactments than will our millions of Irish-American citizens. They know that there is no evil in the barley brews and light wines of their fathers—EVIL ONLY IS IN THE MAN WHO MISUSES THEM. For 57 years Anheuser-Busch have honestly brewed honest beers, and they are proud of the popularity their great brand Budweiser enjoys with those of Irish blood. Our Irish citizens have helped to make our nation great among the nations of the world. Seven thousand, five hundred people are daily required to keep pace with the natural demand for Budweiser.

NEWFOUNDLAND HAS WAR SESSION

Parliament to Enact Bill to Finance Regiment to Fight for Empire—Opposition Approves

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Sept. 2.—The war session of the legislature opened today. The governor's speech stated that the purpose of the session was to enact bills for financing a regiment, ensuring public safety by providing a moratorium if necessary, and also for the regulation of the prices of food. He promised a measure enabling the government to appoint a commission to investigate last winter's sealing disasters, for which no adequate authority previously existed, and a measure requiring all sealing steamers to carry wireless equipment henceforth. In both houses the rules were suspended.

The opposition approves of the government's measures and the session will likely close on Saturday. The enlistment for a regiment of 500 men, which was the government offer to the imperial authorities, now totals 700. The St. Johns contribution was 640. The eastern districts, as the men return from the fisheries, will probably swell the number of men to 1,000 or more.

HEBREW FEAST SETS PACE IN WEDDINGS

Eight Day Celebration in Hungary Cost Grand Rabbi Forty Thousand Dollars.

A wedding whose guests numbered over 8,000 persons and whose feasting continued for eight days, was celebrated recently at Sadagora, in Bukowina, one of those remote country districts of Austria-Hungary, where mammoth wedding festivities on a scale utterly unknown in America or western Europe are the rule.

The affair at Sadagora exceeded in magnificence and lavish hospitality any function on record in that district, however. It was a Hebrew wedding. Sadagora enjoys a certain fame in eastern Europe as the seat of the renowned rabbinical dynasty known as the Miracle Rabbis. The bride was the daughter of the grand rabbi of this line, Aaron Friedmann, and the groom, Salamon Friedmann, belongs to a branch of the same rabbinical dynasty at Czortkow. The marriage was arranged by the chiefs of the two families, entirely without the knowledge of the young people. In fact, they met for the first time only the evening before the wedding at a preliminary feast, when they danced together as a sign of their willingness to marry.

The chiefs had taken it for granted that there would be no hitch in their plans, and had invited the rabbinical families of all the Orthodox Jews in Russia, Poland, Roumania, Galacia and Hungary. They came down on Sadagora in thousands. Many were of imposing stature and patriarchal dignity. They wore black silk caftans, low shoes and white stockings, while their ladies were attired in a sort of crinoline and adorned with rich jewels. There were some dressed in the latest modes of Paris and Vienna.

The ceremony took place in the gardens of the grand rabbis palace, guarded by mounted troops. Thousands were unable to hear or see what was going on, so dense was the throng, but all had a hand in the feasting which followed. During the eight days the commissary's books accounted for 200 pounds of fish, 500 head of poultry, 250 pounds of beef, 5,000 pounds of bread and many casks of wine. The grand rabbi was out of pocket to the extent of at least $40,000.

In addition to this he presented the bridal couple with a palace in Sadagora, completely furnished and equipped with a staff of servants. He will meet the entire cost of the household for a period of six years, when it is assumed that the young bridegroom will have attained a position where he can support his family himself.

GERMAN TOWN IS WORLD'S BIGGEST TOY SHOP

Sonneberg, Germany, continues to maintain its supremacy as the world's greatest toy shop, according to an American consular report. Toys to the value of more than $24,000,000 last year were by no means a negligible item in Germany's export trade. Some $6,000,000 worth additionally is distributed at home. The Sonneberg district alone produces one-third of the grand total, or about as much as the entire production of the United States; though our domestic industry has doubled within a decade or so. It is estimated that toys in domestic trade and commerce all over the world have a value of nearly $55,000,000. Young America buys over $6,000,000 worth from Germany, as well as "consuming" most of the home product. It might be suggested that an appetite for playthings is a barometer of national progress.

If the imagination is pleasurably staggered by the thought of 20,000 tons of toys—our annual imports from Germany—just think of the 20,000,000 harmonicas annually produced in the factories and cottages of the Black forest region, as reported by our consul at Stuttgart. This is the "mouth organ," of course, not the harmonica that Benjamin Franklin invented, now usually called "musical glasses.' Harmonicas are the child's favorite musical instrument the world over manifestly. General industry in the quarter of Germany where they are made was well-nigh paralyzed last year. Textiles, machinery, automobiles and all the varied manufactures, whether of necessities or luxuries, slowed down appallingly. But the harmonica industry flourished as merrily as usual. The export trade with all countries and all races was unaffected by the psychology of business depression.

The Duke of Connaught—who Sunday is to inspect the Canadian contingent at Valcartier—the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia, after whom the crack Canadian regiment, the first to be ready for the front, was named. At the rear is Prince Arthur of Connaught, who has been reported as being likely to go to the front.

TELLS OF ATLANTIC TRIP WITHOUT LIGHTS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—J. R. Roe, private secretary to Hon. Dr. Reid, minister of customs, returned this morning from England, where he went some months ago. He had the greatest difficulty in getting a passage, but finally secured one on the Scotian.

Mr. Roe pays a tribute to the skill and daring of the crew of the Scotian. The ship ran without lights and never stopped for fog or ice, nor did a horn blow.

On the first night out the ship was stopped by British warships which played searchlights on the liner until dawn. It was then allowed to proceed.

Speaking of the situation in England, Mr. Roe says that business is proceeding as usual and there is the utmost confidence that the allies will triumph.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3

GERMAN SAMOA, TAKEN BY BRITISH, MOST VALUABLE PART OF GROUP.

In the capture by New Zealand troops of the German possessions in Samoa the British Empire has secured the most valuable islands of the group, which is located about 2,000 miles south of the Hawaiian islands and is almost directly in a line between San Francisco and Australia.

The islands captured became recognized as German possessions in 1899 when by the Hay-Holleben-Pauncefote treaty, drawn up at Berlin, the United States secured the island of Tutuila and Germany those of Upolu and Savaii. The former has an area of 700 square miles, the latter of 500 square miles. Tutuila is 300 square miles in size and the Manua group, also owned by the United States, is 26 square miles in area.

On Upolu, which commercially and strategically is the more important of the German islands, is the fine natural harbor of Apia, the capital city, which was occupied by the New Zealanders. The harbor is in two sections. One of these is open only to small ships but on the other side of a reef which separates the two bays is a harbor which is large and deep enough to accommodate men-of-war and large ocean going craft.

Upolu is in every way the most attractive and valuable island of the Samoan group, the soil in the lower foothills being of an alluvial nature and highly productive. A comparatively small part of Savaii is agriculturally productive.

The chief exports have been cotton, sugar, coffee, cocoanuts and copra. The latest figures of trade available are those for 1901 and in that year the islands exported 12,565,909 pounds of copra, which is a product of the cocoanut, valued at $231,372. The value of importations of the two German islands in 1901 was $373,898 to Upolu and $241,808 to Savaii, compared with $100,000 to the American islands.

The population of the entire group in 1903 was 38,000 of which 200 were British subjects, 300 Germans, 25 French, 100 Americans and the remainder were natives of the Polynesian race. The population of Upolu was 16,600, of Savaii, 14,000, and of Tutuila 5,800.

Through a German company which has been long established in the islands the trade up to the present has been almost entirely in German hands.

From a commercial point of view the islands are probably capable of considerable development under the British flag and the harbor of Apia may prove to be of considerable importance from a strategic point of view to the admiralty.

Togoland in Africa, a German possession which has surrendered to the British and French troops, is on the gulf of Guinea, between French Dahomey and the British gold coast. It has a coast line of 42 miles and extends 325 miles inland, having an area of 33,630 square miles.

The chief products of the country are palm oil, copra, rubber, indigo and lumber. In 1902 the population consisted of 159 Europeans, of whom 149 were Germans, and about 2,000,000 natives, who are Sudan negroes.

Commerce between Germany and Togoland, which became a protectorate in 1884, has been rapidly increasing.

STATUS OF GERMANS AND AUSTRIANS IN CANADA CLEAR.

There is no reason for the alarm which appears to exist among some German and Austrian settlers who are peaceably continuing their work in Canada as to their status. Soon after war broke out the government made it plain that although punishment would follow the discovery of any effort to aid or abet the enemies of the Empire or to perform any other act of disloyalty to their adopted country there was no intention that Germans and Austrians, whether naturalized or not, should be deprived of their property or civil rights or otherwise molested so long as they "quietly pursue their ordinary avocations."

Premier Borden in his speech in the house of commons at the emergency session made the position of the government clear on this point, stating:

We see no reason to believe that these people are inspired by the militaristic tendencies which influence the German government at the present time, and the Austrian government for that matter. We have no reason to doubt, and we do not doubt, that these people will be absolutely true to the country of their adoption. Therefore we have declared that those people who were born in Germany or Austria-Hungary, and have come to Canada as adopted citizens, whether they have become naturalized or not, are entitled to the protection of the law in Canada, and shall receive it, that they shall not be molested or interfered with, unless any among them should desire to abet or aid the enemy or leave the country for the purpose of fighting Great Britain and her allies.

If any of them should be so minded we shall have to follow the law and usages of war in that regard with all the humanity that may be possible.

On Aug. 15 the government issued the following proclamation:

Whereas there are many persons of German and Austro-Hungarian nationality quietly pursuing their usual avocations in various parts of Canada, and it is desirable that such persons should be allowed to continue in such avocations without interruption,—

It is provided that all persons in Canada of German or Austro-Hungarian nationality, so long as they quietly pursue their ordinary avocations, be allowed to continue to enjoy the protection of the law and be accorded the respect and consideration due to peaceful and law-abiding citizens, and that they be not arrested, detained or interfered with, unless there is reasonable ground to believe that they are engaged in acts of a hostile nature or are attempting to engage in acts of a hostile nature, or are giving or attempting to give information to the enemy, or unless they otherwise contravene any law, order-in-council, or proclamation.

In view of this proclamation and the statement of Sir Robert Borden there is not the slightest ground for anxiety among the German and Austrian people who are living in the Dominion and who are quietly minding their own affairs as in the more tranquil times of peace.

Against the people of Austrian and German birth who are making their homes in Canada and are contributing to its development as loyal citizens of the Dominion there will be no hostile action by the government.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

Take the German Trade.

We have imported from eight to 10 million dollars worth of goods from Germany. If we should succeed in manufacturing at home that which we have imported from Germany, Canada will derive from the war a considerable and permanent advantage.—Le Canada.

The Imprisoned German Navy.

The spectacle of the kaiser's fleet, held captive under the guns of Heligoland and Wilhelmshaven, while German commerce has been clean swept from the seas, recalls the happy phrases in which militarism is accustomed to clothe its designs. Germany today is as powerless to protect her commerce as China is, because she can spare nothing from her main concentration for operations elsewhere. A few random cruisers may be afloat in distant waters, but that is because there was no time to call them home. —New York Post.

Wolseley's True Prediction.

At present there is no lack of military prophets among us, but few of them equal to Lord Wolseley, who before leaving London for the Egyptian campaign of 1882 put his finger on the map and named September 13 as the date on which he would crush Arabi at Tel-el-Kebir, the anniversary of Quebec.—London Chronicle.

FEARS OF GERMANS IN CANADA ARE UNFOUNDED

Government Refers to Proclamation Which Says Lawabiding People Will Not be Interfered With

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—The assurance to citizens of Germany and Austro-Hungary that so long as they respect the laws of the country they will not be interfered with, is repeated in an official statement issued this afternoon by the government as follows:

"It has come to the attention of the government that many persons of German and Austro-Hungarian nationality who are residents of Canada are apprehensive of their safety at the present time.

"In particular the suggestion seems to be that they fear some action on the part of the government which might deprive them of their freedom to hold property or to carry on business. These apprehensions, if they exist, are quite unfounded. The policy of the government is embodied in a proclamation published in the Canada Gazette on Aug. 15. In accordance with this proclamation restrictive measures will be taken only in such cases where officers, soldiers or reservists of the German empire or of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy attempt to leave Canada, or where subjects of such nationalities engage or attempt to engage in espionage or acts of a hostile nature, or to give information or to otherwise assist the King's enemies. Even where persons are arrested or detained on the grounds indicated, they may be released on signing and undertaking to abstain from acts injurious to the Dominion or the Empire."

liverance cannot reach the allies from that quarter without time, patience and fluctuations of success."

Then is the editorial in the Westminster Gazette:

"It is useless to predict anything with the information now before us but we may draw hope from the statement issued last night from French official sources that nowhere hitherto have our armies been really broken through and keep our eyes steadily on the main object that the armies, however bruised and battered, shall keep their integrity as a great organized military force and confront opponents seeking to inflict another setback. It might be that, in spite of the stubborn resistance of the allies, Germans will succeed in getting to the Paris lines and we learn that the Parisians are cheerfully getting ready for that emergency. We hope it may be averted, but if not we may rely confidently on the determination of the French people to win victory even out of that misfortune.

"France is fighting a singlehanded duel with a superior opponent. She has great allies who will rally to her cause in proportion as her sufferings are great. She knows as we all know, that she has only to endure in order to frustrate a plan which depends not only on defeating her enemies but forcing them to a quick and humiliating peace."

MERCHANT MARINE PLANS PROGRESS

Congress Pushes Bill to Form Ten Million Dollar Company—No Neutrality Violation, Wilson Says.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The United States war risk insurance bureau, designed to inspire confidence among American shippers and aid American trade expansion, will be opened for business tomorrow at the treasury department. President Wilson signed the act creating the bureau today and tonight Secretary McAdoo announced the appointment of W. C. Delaney of New York, an underwriting insurance expert, as director of the bureau. Mr. Delaney will open an office tomorrow, ready to insure American ships and American cargoes in American ships.

Administration plans as to the merchant marine also took definite form in other directions today. At a conference between the president, Secretary Daniels and members of the naval affairs and merchant marine committee of the house, differences between the two committees were smoothed out and it was decided to press one measure for the object of a government-owned fleet of ships.

Chairman Alexander of the marine merchant committee reported favorably to the house the bill providing for the incorporation of a $10,000,000 company controlled by the government which will buy or build a freight carrying line.

A $30,000,000 issue of Panama canal bonds would be issued, the government accepting bonds of the company as reimbursement.

It was decided at the conference to amend this bill to allow the ships built or purchased by the company to be utilized by the navy if necessary. The amendment is a compromise accepted by the naval committee members for their proposal that a fleet of naval auxiliary vessels be purchased to meet the emergency of trade, the ships being used as cargo cruisers as long as desirable.

President Wilson made it clear at the conference that no violation of the neutrality law was to be feared from the purchase even of some German steamers now marooned in American ports. He agreed with Secretary McAdoo in urging a favorable report on the Alexander bill.

GIPSY'S PROPHECY ABOUT THE WAR

Was the gipsy right? A little while ago there appeared in several German newspapers an account of a supposed interview of the kaiser with a gipsy, when he was quite a young man. "Germany," she told him, "will have a great war in 1914, and," she added, "Germany will 'go under' when she is ruled by an emperor who mounts his horse on the wrong side. His heir will perish on the scaffold." It is significant, if one is at all superstitious, that the kaiser, owing to his lame arm, has to mount his horse on the off side.

HOPE WAR WILL CRUSH KAISER

Italian Socialists Desire That Struggle Should Mean Disaster for Those Who Caused It.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, Sept. 2.—(Via Paris.)—The German Socialist deputies, Hugo Haase and Albert Sudekum came to Italy in an effort to induce the Italian Socialist party to use its influence to have Italy join Germany in the war. The mission failed and the Italian Socialists have now published a protest against what they describe as an attempt against the dignity of Italy. They also express the hope that if a cessation of hostilities is impossible, "the infamous war will crush those who provoked it."

INDIANS SUFFER FROM EUROPEAN WAR SITUATION

Reports Say Trappers Cannot Secure Advances of Supplies From Fur Trading Companies.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—It is said here that upward of 25,000 Indians, living all the way from the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the coast of British Columbia, are so vitally affected by the war that their existence is imperiled and the government will be called upon to save them.

The Hudson's Bay company has been in communicatalon with the Indian department for some days past, asking that government measures be taken for the care and protection of the northern Indians during the coming winter. The company explains that owing to the present uncertainty of conditions so far as the fur market is concerned all fur trading concerns will be unable to make the usual advance of supplies which in past years has enabled the Indians of the north to go forth into the wilderness and do the winter's trapping whereby they can make sufficient not only to pay their debts to the company, but to keep themselves and families over the summer.

FARMERS HOLD WHEAT FOR HIGHER PRICES

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 2.—Despite the fact that the annual fall grain rush from the farms of the northwest to elevators at Minneapolis, Winnipeg and Duluth has started, higher prices, because of the European war, have influenced farmers in holding their supplies for a still further rise, the movement is still considerably below normal.

Wet weather in Minnesota, North and South Dakota also is a factor in reducing the movement. As a result grain men at Duluth predict that the lake movement, unusually heavy late in September and early in October, will be light.

Stocks have increased 342,000 bushels in three days. Of this, 295,000 bushels are wheat. The aggregate now is 4,317,000 bushels of all grains, half of last year's total. Minneapolis wheat stocks are estimated at 1,000,000 bushels, as compared with 7,000,000 a year ago. Two small cargoes were loaded out today, the Bransford taking 74,000 bushels of spring wheat and 126,000 bushels of durum wheat and the Frankwhart with 68,000 bushels of rye and 30,000 bushels of flax seed.

GIVE BANQUET MONEY TO FUND

Canadians of New York to Aid Patriotic Fund—Large Amounts Given in Dominion.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Word has been received here that the Canadian society of New York has canceled its annual dinner as well as all other functions. Instead the funds will be contributed to the Canadian patriotic fund. Members of the club propose to contribute as much to the fund as they would have spent for their guests and themselves at the annual dinner. It is explained this course was adopted at the desire of the Canadians not to indulge in festivities while fellow Canadians are at war and also because of a desire not to appear to disregard President Wilson's message in regard to neutrality by holding functions at which warlike ideas might be expressed.

"So little news has been allowed to filter through to the German army that I have come across German prisoners who would have as soon expected to find Russians opposed to them as the English. For that reason and a totally wrong impression of England's reason for going to war, the German forces on Wednesday assailed the British position not only with determination but with what I can only justly call ferocity.

"No doubt, too, the German general staff was of the opinion that the British force could not stand before an attack by an army twice as strong numerically and much more strong in artillery.

"The attacking forces were well served by their artillery, and that has not always been the case. Generally the artillery fire of the Germans has been rather poor.

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—It is reported here that the Tarantula, the yacht which J. K. L. Ross of Montreal purchased from William K. Vanderbilt, has sailed out of Boston harbor. This yacht, which is one of the most luxurious and fastest afloat, has been twice prevented leaving American waters by the United States naval authorities, the reason being that it had been armored and this might be regarded as a breach of neutrality.

Mr. Ross has presented the yacht to the British admiralty for use during the war. It has been painted the familiar grey color of the British navy.

TRUCKS TAKE PLACE OF MULES IN ARMY

United States Officials Now Use Trucks to Carry Their Heavy Loads

In many quarters, and not least by hat most critical of all truck buyers—he United States army, the actual announcement of a full line of Jeffery trucks has been viewed with the liveliest interest.

The keen interest of the quartermaster's department of the United States army has been aroused by the fact that in the Jeffrey line is found what they call the Quad, a one and a half ton load, four wheel drive and steer truck. The severe and long continued tests which the Quad has undergone at the hands of the army officers has pretty clearly established the fact that what the army mule has been to army field work in the past, the Jeffery Quad, or a car like it, is sure to be in the future.

The fact is that the big Jeffrey organization has turned its attention to the manufacture of trucks in all earnestness. These cars are not merely stop gaps to satisfy the insistence of those few dealers sufficiently farsighed to see the large and growing opportunities of the truck business, but a series of remarkable trucks, headed by the Quad. It is indeed an open secret that several hundred Jeffery jobs are now in active service, and the present announcement really indicates the formal completion of the lines. The merits of the general plan of design have been thoroughly tested in service, so that the cars represent a seasoned product.

The Jeffery Quad was designed primarily to meet the specifications of the United States army which called for a motor driven vehicle that would carry the army load of one and a half and two tons anywhere that four mules could pull it. Motor trucks of the ordinary rear axle drive type have had some success in the army, but never off good roads and rarely in hilly country. Until now there never has been a time when four mules were not the only reliable means of hauling freight over the widely varying road conditions which an army must surmount across open country. The rear drive truck was impossible, but the army mule a pretty reliable burden bearer. In wet weather the mule was he only resource.

So the United States government asked for, and Jeffery built, a truck to do everything mules could any time and anywhere.

The best way to get a mental picture of the superiority of this most interesting Quad is to imagine yourself climbing a steep incline. Think then how vastly easier it is to progress if you can use your hands to pull as well as your feet to push. If your feet slip your hands still pull you forward.

It is on such a system that the Jeffery Quad works. Power is transmitted to all four wheels, and due to a special differential system, as long as one wheel can get traction the Quad progresses. The Quad will push and pull its way over ploughed land, soggy with rain; sand does not feaze it; it will literally climb over big logs placed in its road, and surmount practically any obstacle that offers it anything less than a vertical resistance as high as the centre of the wheels. It won't climb a wall, but it will clamber up a big pile of lumber.

The Quad has a high speed motor of the type made famous by Jeffery. It is carried in three point suspension, is of L head type and is equipped with Bosch duplex ignition, magneto and battery. The bonnet is removable.

A great feature of the Quad which especially commends it for army work in the field is that it uses a large number of duplicate parts, thus simplifying the repair parts question. The front and rear axles are interchangeable, all the wheels are interchangeable, so are the drive shafts and the driving gears, as well as the brakes and many other members.

TAKE-BACK DAY GIVES SOME QUEER RESULTS

One Oklahoma Man Got Halter That He Had Loaned Twenty-one Years Ago.

All the people who live in Carmen, an enterprising town in northwestern Oklahoma, have taken back everything that they had borrowed. They did it in response to a proclamation issued by Mayor J. T. Trevor, designating a certain date as "Take-back-what-you-borrow day," and the results were far ahead of even the anticipations of the city's executive.

Some of them took the things back before the appointed day, so they could say that their hands were clean. So successful was the day, however, that it will become one of annual observance in Carmen, and it is being adopted by other larger cities of the southwest. Mayor Garrett of Muskogee has recently issued a proclamation for such a day in his city.

Mayor Trever of Carmen, while boastful of the success of the day, gives the full credit for originating the idea of Fred Coffman, superintendent of the light and water department of the city government.

"It was this way," Mayor Trever said "Coffman had a grouch because some of the tools were missing from the light and water plant. He remarked that there ought to be a day for people to take back what they borrowed at least once a year. The suggestion had such merit in it that I wrote the proclamation."

People got back things, that day, that they had forgotten. The mayor's wife received an ice cream freezer that she had not seen for two years, and in the meantime it had passed through the hands of at least six neighbors, each of whom had borrowed it in turn. L. A. Salter, editor of the Headlight, was returned a calf halter that he loaned to a farmer in 1893. He has it decorated now and hanging over his editorial desk.

BEFORE SEDAN

Here in this leafy place quiet he lies.
Cold, with his sightless face turned to the skies.
'Tis but another dead—all you can say is said.

Carry his body hence—kings must have slaves;
Kings climb to eminence over men's graves.
So this man's eye is dim; throw the earth over him.

What was the white you touched, there at his side?
Paper his hand clutched tight ere he died;
Message or wish may be—smooth out the folds and see.

Hardly the worst of us here could have smiled—
Only the tremulous words of a child—
Prattle, that had for stops just a few ruddy drops.

Look; she is said to miss, morning and night,
His—her dead father's—kiss; tries to be bright.
Good to mamma, and sweet—that is all "Marguerite."

Ah, if beside the dead slumbered the pain!
Ah, if the hearts that bled slept with the slain!
If the grief died! But, no—Death will not have it so.

—Austin Dobson.

LONDON DISCOUNT SITUATION EASIER

Bankers Buy American Bills—Exchange Down Slightly—Railroad Tonnage More Favorable.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The most interesting financial development as seen from this angle was the greater ease reported in the London discount situation. Despite the extension of the British moratorium some London bankers were reported to be buying American bills, of which the supply was small, however, because of the supposed competition of purchases in connection with initial New York ready payments in London and Paris. Exchange was a trifle easier, both cables and demand being from 1-4 to 1-2 under yesterday's rates. Sight drafts on Paris were a fraction above yesterday but again the quotation was without actual significance.

No change of importance occurred in the local money market. Bids of 8 per cent were made for time loans, but the supply of cash was limited. It was regarded as noteworthy that interior banks are showing a disposition to hold their reserves here intact. Recent action by some of these institutions, especially those which called loans early in August, has been the subject of some criticism.

Cables from Berlin suggesting the opening of the bourse for regular business in a limited way, lacked confirmation among local bankers with influential German connections. The opinion prevailed that any financial operations that may be attempted in Berlin at this time would be on a strictly cash basis.

Regarding the railroad situation, the tonnage outlook appears to be more favorable so far as it has to do with the grain carrying roads.

Tonnage at leading industrial centres has decreased in a marked manner, however, and the day's review of the steel industry indicates that any benefits developing from the war are likely to come slowly.

The Pennsylvania system, it was unofficially stated, purposes making further reduction in its passenger service beginning the middle of the current month. Other leading lines are expected to follow its example.

WHEAT AGAIN QUOTED HIGHER

May is Over a Dollar Twenty-one in Winnipeg—October Oats Close Near Fifty-three

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 2.—Wheat prices opened fairly steady, influenced by American markets. Following the opening there was a good buying in futures and a fair demand for cash wheat and prices strengthened on all months around 1¼c to 1¾c up to noon, October leading. Unfavorable weather conditions practically all over Manitoba and in parts of eastern Saskatchewan and the spring wheat districts of the states were factors in causing the advance. Exporters are still going slow. Wheat closed ⅝c to ⅞c higher.

Cash grain closed: Wheat, ⅛c to ⅞c higher; oats, ¼c to 1c higher; barley, unchanged to ½c higher; and flax, 1¼c higher.

Inspections were 168 cars, as against 169 last year, and in sight were 360.

WHEN HALF THE WORLD IS AT WAR

People of Half Earth's Area Are Involved in Present Conflict.

The land surface of the earth is about 35,000,000 square miles. One-half of this vast area is covered by the flags of the nations engaged in war.

The British empire contains about 11,500,000 square miles; the Russian empire about 8,600,000; France, with her colonies and dependencies, hold about 4,300,000 square miles. The German empire and its African and oceanic possessions include more than 1,200,000 square miles. The Congo Free States is virtually a Belgian dependency and with the Congo State Belgium controls more than 900,000 square miles. It appears certain that Holland and the Dutch colonies will be drawn into the war by the German invasion of Dutch territory. This will add nearly 800,000 square miles to the area involved in the struggle. Austria-Hungary covers about 260,000 square miles. Servia with its recent accretions of territory, has about 25,000 square miles. Montenegro is extremely small.

The total for these warring countries, including their colonies and dependencies, is more than 27,500,000 square miles, or a full half of the land surface of the globe, including 5,000,000 square miles of uninhabitable wastes in the polar regions.

The proportion of the population of the earth involved more or less directly in the tremendous struggle raging in Europe is equally great. More than half of the people of the entire globe live under the flags of the belligerent powers.

The British empire alone contains 435,000,000 human beings, of whom 320,000,000 live in India. The population of the Russian empire is at least 175,000,000. France, with her densely populated possessions in Indo-China, has more than 92,000,000 subjects. Germany, with its African possessions, contributes about 82,000,000 to the war's total. Holland and the Dutch possessions, chiefly in the East Indies, contain over 41,000,000 inhabitants. Belgium, with the Congo State, counts for 28,000,000 more. The population of Austria-Hungary exceeds 52,000,000. Little Servia has about 4,000,000 inhabitants.

The number of human beings living on the globe is about 1,620,000. More than half of this enormous multitude are subject to the powers involved in the titanic European struggle.

Fighting Strength Is Different.

It need hardly be said that the actual fighting strength of European powers with vast colonies and distant dependencies is quite different from figures which measure the population of their possessions. The British empire, with 435,000,000 subjects, contains not more than 60,000,000 inhabitants of European blood who can be counted upon to aid England in her present hour of need. Canada, Australia, New Zealand and to some extent the Union of South Africa will be of real assistance to the mother country.

In Algeria, France has perhaps two million subjects who will be of military value in battling for the French republic. The German colonies are entirely worthless for war purposes.

This is true also of the Dutch possessions and of the Congo Free State, which is connected closely with Belgium. Austro-Hungary and Servia have no detached possessions.

Never in the history of the world was any such proportion of its surface in any sense or degree involved in one gigantic struggle for supremacy. Never before were half the inhabitants of this battle-scarred globe concerned in a war fought on one continent by or by the powers esated there.

There is no precedent for such a conflict as is now raging. Its consequences, for that reason, cannot be foreseen or foretold. Its destruction of human life will probably be beyond comparison with the bloodiest wars that have checked the progress of the human race. The loss of property will set back the foremost industrial and commercial nations of Europe for many years, perhaps for a generation.

TURKEY PUTS BAN ON HEBREW SIGNS.

The Turkish government has issued orders against posting notices in Hebrew upon the dead walls of cities of Palestine. The action is believed to indicate concern on the part of the authorities over the remarkabel revival of the Hebrew language, says a dispatch from Jerusalem.

Although up to 30 years ago classic Hebrew was not ordinarily used by the Jews of Palestine, it is now the common language of tens of thousands of people in Palestine. It is the medium of instruction in many schools, and newspapers, streetcar tickets and shopkeepers' signs are now in Hebrew. It is, therefore, apparent that the authorities will have a hard time if they propose to check the spread of the language.

The revival of the pure Biblical tongue has been, in a measure, forced on the Palestine Jews for reasons apart from the sentimental. Immigration from other parts of the world particularly of the 13,000 Yiddish-speaking Jews from Russia some years ago, made a common means of communication necesary. Yiddish is not understood by the natives, while all Jews know something of Hebrew.

HOW ANIMALS KEEP FLIES AWAY

Our domestic animals, such as horses and cows, are greatly annoyed by the various kinds of flies which settle upon them and were it not that they had the means of self-defence their condition might be pitiable. It is by means of their long tails that the animals are able to drive off the flies and on a warm, sunny day, if we watch the horses or cows in a meadow, we shall see that their tails are constantly on the swing. It is this use of the tail which should prevent anyone from docking a horse's tail. But not only does a horse or pony drive the flies from its own body by means of its tail; it helps its fellows in a similar way, and in its turn receives help from other animals.

NE QUART OF PEANUTS SPREADS OVER PROVINCE

Tsinanfu is one of the important ntres in north China for the collec- n of native produce for shipment Pukow or Tsingtau for trans- ipment to foreign ports.

Twenty years ago an American mis- nary resident in Shantung brought his mission station, when returning m his furlough in the United ites, a quart of California peanuts, ich he gave to a native convert seed to replace the poor, shriv- d native peanut, which possessed le or no marketing qualifications. day this quart of peanuts has read all over Shantung province, re- ting in giving to these people an port trade in this article of 150,000 s a year.

During 1912 there were exported foreign countries 60,000 tons of elled peanuts. It is estimated that equally large quantity went to kow or to Chinkiang over the and canal from Tsinanfu and south- n Shantung, also for shipping road. About 30,000 tons of peanuts the shell are exported from Shan- g to foreign countries, mostly for nfectionery and sale as roasted pea- ts. The shelled peanuts are shipped stly to Europe, the larger quantity ing to Marseilles, for use in manu- cturing toilet soaps. The American rket is taking increasingly larger antities of Shantung peanuts, both elled and unshelled, each year. The anufacturers of peanut butter and e use of peanut oil in high-grade tterine in the United States seem be making the demand larger each ar. The peanut is a fall crop and ipments are made from November June of each year. The price of elled peanuts ranges from $2.30 to United States gold per hundred- eight (English hundredweight uals 112 pounds) at Tsinanfu. It sts 12 cents per hundredweight to ip them from Tsinanfu to Tringtau Tientsin. Selected unshelled pea- ts sell for from $2 to $2.40 per ndredweight at Tsinanfu. They are ipped in large gunny bags

Peanut oil is also an article of ex- rt from this province to the extent about 20,000 tons annually. The lk of the peanuts in this province e produced in the central and south- n sections. Three tons to the acre considered a very good yield, but e average yield is a little more than o tons. One seldom finds one family raising as much as an acre of peanuts. As there are nearly 600 persons to the square mile in Shantung, the farms are necessarily small. The farmer gets about 1 cent (gold) a pound for his unshelled peanuts at harvest time. The price advances to about 1½ cents a pound within six months, as the ordinary farmer has no storage facilities or methods of financing his crops; moreover, there is a certain shrinkage in weight and measure over this period of time.—Exchange.

The Golden Wedge, Myterel Bill No. 1, Myterel Bill No. 2, Goldes Horn, Eureka No. 1, Eureka No. 2, Gold Boy No. 1 and Gold Boy No. 2 mining claims near the townsite of Ymir have been transferred by David Needham to Francis E. Baker.

"What do you consider the greatest achievement of science?"

"Well," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, "after a careful study of values of all kinds I must say that the scientists who started radium at millions of dollars an ounce and then managed to hold the price up, deserve credit for considerable achievement."

..FOR SALLOW, BLOTCHY, ROUGH OR GREASY SKINS

Some skins require constant grooming to keep them from becoming oily, muddy, blotchy or rough, or if such condition has developed, to overcome it. In such chronic cases it is particularly inadvisable to keep piling on cosmetics which clog the pores, collect dust and dirt, making the complexion worse than ever. It is a lot more sensible to use ordinary mercolized wax, which literally absorbs a bad complexion. Apply the wax, like cold cream, before retiring; next morning, in washing it off, you'll wash away fine, flour-like particles of the unsightly cuticle. Repeat for a week or two and you'll have an entirely new skin—soft, satiny, spotless and beautiful as a child's. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any druggist's, is all you'll need.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, here's the best possible remedy: Mix a half pint of witch hazel and one ounce of powdered saxolite and use as a face bath. It works like a miracle, yet is entirely harmless.

THIRD BALLOT DOES NOT ELECT

Again Smoke Comes From Chimney of Sistine Chapel Where Cardinals Vote for Pope

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, via Paris, Sept. 2, 5:20 p.m.—The sacred college of cardinals assembled at 10 o'clock this morning for the third ballot in the papal election but little more than an hour later smoke issuing from the chimney of the Sistine chapel revealed to the anxious throng in St. Peter's square that an election had not been accomplished and the ballots were being burned in accordance with tradition.

It is known that the French, German, Austrian and English cardinals are intensely interested in the developments of the war and daily inquire the latest news.

Aged Cardinal Hurt

The Tribuna says that Cardinal Vanutelli, dean of the sacred college, who is almost blind, fell today and injured his leg. He fainted from the pain, but soon revived and was taken to his cell in the conclave. He is 80 years old.

Cardinal Agrialdi presided over the ballot this morning.

SOCIETY IS FOND OF HIGH GAMING

House Parties Where Playing for Stakes Abounds Attract Englishmen.

How popular card playing for high stakes is among those who call themselves "society" was emphasized recently during the hearing of a case in the law courts by the statement that a certain German baron made "thousands a year" in that way, says a London despatch.

During the present summer there has been a remarkable growth in the number of fashionable gaming houses. It is not in London only that these places have increased in number, but also in provincial centres where sporting gatherings have drawn wealthy persons together.

The fact is that for the modern "sport" with plenty of money to play with, the racing is hardly sufficient. The excitement is satisfying while it lasts, but it is soon over. So that, instead of rushing back to town when the day is over, it is the more correct thing in these days to make a week or two of it at a house specially taken for the purpose.

At Henley a good many of these parties are in full swing every night, and the indications are that the idea is becoming more and more popular The people who take the houses are frequently well known in sporting and other circles, and it is not suggested that things are not all they should be. The games played are commonly old piquet and ecarte, and, of course, bridge and auction bridge have their share of attention.

Stakes are often high and a good deal of money changes hands. The trouble from the social point of view is that there are often marked differences in skill between one class of player and another. On the one hand the hosts will be most likely among the most skilful players in the country. Among their guests there is sure to be a sprinkling of persons, generally young, who have more money than experience. They have gone to Brighton for the "Sussex fortnight," say, with the idea of having the best of "good" times, according to their interpretation of the term, and are prepared to pay for their "flutter."

The are not exactly cheated, for their hosts would not stoop to play even the petty tricks of the professional gambler, but the fact remains that these excited young men—and women, too, in some cases—do find at the end of their stay that they have lost a great deal more than they would have imagined possible.

Sometimes, especially during Cowes week, the scen of the revel is a beautifully appointed yacht, in which case the story is occasionally reversed to the extent that it is the owner who loses to his guests, in addition to providing sumptuous hospitality.

FOOD PRICES RISE SLIGHTLY IN DENMARK

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 2.—Emperor William has announced an amnesty for all Germans convicted of military offences or who emigrated without permission who within three months present themselves for service in Germany, the colonies or on board German warships. The sole condition of the amnesty is that they can prove their recent conduct has been satisfactory.

"During the first month of the war food prices in Denmark have risen on the whole, though not greatly. A loaf of bread, which had cost 16 cents, today costs 24 cents. English sugar, which was 25 kroner per cwt. Aug. 1, today is quoted at 33 kroner. A kroner is equal to 27 cents in American money.

A PROCLAMATION.

(From the London Globe.)

Germans. The whole of Europe is exceedingly unkind.
We simply called on Belgium and we asked if she would mind
If we passed through her backyard to hit the Frenchmen unawares;
But the family looked stiff, and said 'twas no affair of theirs.
They added that they'd rather that we didn't pass that way,
For they'd noticed where we came we generally tried to stay.
And when we showed how cross we were at this sarcastic touch,
They simply turned upon us, and they hurt us very much.
We promised England lots of things if she would not intrude,
But to our great surprise she turned out very rough and rude.
We've never mixed before with such a nasty, horrid crowd!
We are always easy-going if we only are allowed
To have our way in all things, and to do just what we please,
And those who try to stop us must be brought down to their knees.
So, Germans, to your emperor you'll stick through thick and thin,
If you don't then Heaven help you.—William Potsdam, near Berlin.

DRUNKEN GERMANS SACKED LOUVAIN

Newspaper Correspondent Says Troops Who Fired on Friends Were Intoxicated

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Chronicle's Antwerp correspondent says: "One clear fact which emerges from the chaos of conflict in the evidence concerning the sacking of Louvain is that the pretext was a ghastly mistake of the German soldiers. My theory is that the German soldiers who fired upon their own troops were hopelessly drunk and that the tragedy of Louvain is primarily a tragedy of intemperance and only secondarily a tragedy of brutal cruelty, and this theory applies also to Aerschot. I am inclined to believe that the curse of drink played a star part in the German campaign in Belgium."

No Provocation

(Special Cable to The Daily News and New York Times.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—When the White Star liner Celtic sailed today the Belgian commissioners to the United States were among the passengers. At 2 a.m. the admiralty notified the officers of the line that it would be necessary to provide accommodation for the commision. It required some shifting of passengers to make room for the five Belgians, but this was done before the sailing hour.

Carton de Wiart, the minister of justice, head of the misison, took occasion to emphatically deny the story that Louvain was destroyed because the son of the burgomaster had shot a German general. He said:

"There is absolutely no truth in such a report. There was no provocation."

The minister was borne out in this statement by other members of the mission.

SWEEPING TAILINGS NEW BRANCH OF MINING

Sweeping tailings is a new branch of the mining industry which is being made profitable by some Nevadans of Yankee ingenuity. The sands when sacked are shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake, which make an inclusive charge for freight nad treatment of $9 a ton, but on average values in excess of $30 a ton good profits are made even after the royalty has been paid to the company, says a Salt Lake despatch.

This new and profitable occupation first came into vogue in Tonopah in the summer of 1912, says the Eureka Sentinel.

The history of the origin of this industry is rather interesting. In the year 1909 James Carter, who was opening up a small prospect near the Gold Roads mine in Arizona, accidentally discovered that a thin crust which had formed on top of the tailings dump carried considerable values, and obtained a lease from the company that was then operating the property.

One of the men working in this mill investigated the matter very carefully and found the same condition existed on the tailings pond of the Tom Reed.

The tailings from the Tonopah mines run in three separate streams from the Montana, West End, Tonopah Extension and McNamara mills for a distance of nearly five miles to the west, where they meet in one extreme pond, and all of these ponds, within a reasonable distance from the mills carry a thin crust on the surface, which, on being carefully examined, was found to contain excellent values.

A large number of leases have been granted on royalty and are now in operation, and the sweepings frequently give returns from $30 to $40 a ton.

Curious Fact

The condition is rather curious when it is remembered that the values of the ore milled in Tonopah, on an average, are about $18 a ton, and the metallurgical losses only vary from 90 cents to $1 a ton. Hence it is at first difficult to understand why the sweeping of these tailings should yield such very high values. The explanation seems to be that the values recovered are contained in the cyanide solution, of which a small quantity necessarily escapes when the tailings are discharged from the mill. This solution becomes concentrated in the tailings bed and as the tailings dry and cracks are formed in them by the heat of the sun the solution is drawn to the surface, evaporates and is spread as a thin crust over a small portion of the bed, and is easily recognized by its dark color, showing that it contains silver sulphides. This crust is frequently not more than one-fourth of an inch thick and is carefully swept, gathered and sacked, and it has since been discovered that by cultivating the bed in the same way as a field of grain is cultivated the action of the sun produces recurring crops.

The lessees of these tailings have now become quite expert in the gathering up of the valuable sands, and in order that these may not be carried too far down the gulches have dug channels for the outflow from the mills, built dams and spread the tailings over an increased area of ground so as to enable the sun to get better action on the solutions.

Several hundred tons of these sands have already been shipped out of the camp from the tailings formed from all the mills of the camp, and as the output of the mills is well maintained the crop is regarded as a "hardy annual" which will never fail so long as the Tonopah mills are in operation.

An interesting point stated in connection with this industry is that it is only profitable where re-grinding or an all-sliming plant is in operation.

LABOR SITUATION IN BRITAIN BETTER

Unemployment Has Increased But Much More Slowly Than In Previous Weeks

(Special Cable to The Daily News and New York Times.)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The board of trade announces that the percentage of unemployment on Aug. 28 of workmen in the trades insured against unemployment, building, engineering, shipbuilding, vehicle making and other trades, was 6.2, as compared with 5.8 on Aug. 1 and 4.0 on Aug. 7. Thus, while unemployment in these trades is still increasing, the rate of increase is becoming much slower. The present unemployment percentage of 6.2 is well below the estimated average of unemployment in trades in good and bad years.

As regards uninsured trades, the number of workpeople on the registers of the labor exchange on Aug. 28 was 80,687, showing an increase of 1,000 only in the week, as compared with increases of 9,000 in the previous week and 30,000 in the first two weeks of August.

We Can Have Pie

There was once a good woman who couldn't make pies, but had two kind neighbors who kept her supplied with that article of food.

One day her two neighbors got to fighting, and so badly injured one another that neither of them was able to make pies for some considerable time.

What did the pie-less one do? Go without pie? Not much. SHE HUNTED UP A COOK BOOK AND FOUND OUT HOW TO BAKE PIES HERSELF

Canada today is in the position of the-lady-who-couldn't-make-pies.

There are many things she does not make at home because she has been getting them so easily from Continental Europe. But now her neighbors in Europe are at war with one another and so—for some time to come—cannot supply those things.

Canada is too thrifty and serious and sensible a housewife to sit with hands folded at such a time.

While loyally contributing a number of her best sons to help settle things in Europe, Canada will not entirely overlook her other sons who remain at home.

The manufacturers of Canada will get out the recipe book and learn how to MAKE many of the things that Europe can no longer send us because of the war. And in the making of those things the manufacturers of Canada should have the support of the financial interests and the people of Canada.

The manufacturers of Canada are now making much of the woollen goods, motor cars, rubber goods, corsets, millinery, hosiery, silverware—and countless other things—that are used in Canada, and generally speaking are making these goods at least as well as they are being made anywhere else. The people of Canada know that most of these things are being made by the manufacturers of this country. They do not know yet whether the manufacturers of Canada are going to serve them still more by making many of the things that were formerly imported from Continental Europe.

The manufacturers of Canada should tell the people of Canada at this time more than ever, just what they are making and the merits of their products. Let them drive home the facts through the great modern message medium—advertising. Let them use the newspapers to inform the people that they "have the goods." Let them explain that notwithstanding the war the people of Canada CAN have "the pie"—"home-made pie," and all the better for being home-made.

And after the war is over—if not before—perhaps our neighbors in Europe will be coming to Canada for some of this "pie"—importing from Canada some of the things Canada now imports from them.

FIRE REPORTS ARE DISCOURAGING

Winds Cause Some to Break Out Again—Most Dangerous Portion of Season Arrives.

Reports reaching the city yesterday were rather discouraging to the men who are fighting forest fires in the district. Winds which were reported in almost all sections of the district were causing the fires previously under control to get away again. However, every effort is being made by both the government and railway fire fighting staffs to keep the fires from valuable timber and it is urged that any new fires located be immediately reported to them. The most dangerous portion of the season from the point of view of the fire fighters is at hand, it is stated, and the winds that are prevailing make the fires all the more dangerous and the work of fighting them all the more hazardous.

The fire on Cooper creek some miles up from Kootenay lake is reported to be spreading and this morning 15 men are to be despatched to the scene. On Cinnamon creek on lower Arrow lake the fire which had been brought under control has broken out again although it has been kept from valuable timber as yet.

A new fire was reported yesterday near the head of Deer creek about 10 miles from Cascade, while the fires at Midge and Fry creeks on Kootenay lake were reported to be practically out.

HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN FROM CANADA

This Is Number That Dominion Can Send If Empire Requires It, Says Minister

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Various conflicting reports having been published in various parts of the country, the Western Associated Press today asked the militia department for a definite statement as to what force Canada might be prepared to send to the front in an extremity.

As a result it can be stated with authority that the minister of militia has not said that Canada must be prepared to send 1,000,000 men to war. Canada has not any such number available and it would be absolutely an impossibility to arm and equip them.

What the minister has said is that Canada can supply three or five army corps, or, say, 100,000 men. Col. Hughes believes that all Canadians should be trained to shoot.

TEN NEW CLAIMS ARE RECORDED IN DISTRICT

Ten new claims have been located and recorded in Nelson mining district during the past two weeks, according to the records in the office of the mining recorder. The new claims are situated on Rover, Hall, Bayonne creeks and on the Priest river.

At head of Rover creek, the Drummer Extension, by George F. Motion and the Silver Lake by John Cross.

At head of Hall creek, the Lucky Seven, by John Cross; the Copper Belt by George W. Pease, and the Copper Reward by William Davis.

On Bayonne creek, the Tellurium and Silver Mountain by J. C. Hansen.

On Priest river, the Douglas by Douglas H. Irvine, the Nellie A. by John L. Goodwin and the None Such by Edgar I. Irvine.

FORT GARRY HORSE ARRIVAL SURPRISE

Crack Winnipeg Regiment Determined to Be Represented at Front—To Fight As Infantry

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Every day now sees troops from the west going through to Valcartier. Early this morning a train passed through with 10 officers and 233 men from the Fort Garry Horse, and at noon today another detachment, numbering 586, passed through. Hon. Robert Rogers accompanied the regiment as far Montreal.

A singular thing in connection with the arrival of the Fort Garry Horse is that the minister of militia did not know it was coming, no order having been sent to Winnipeg for it to entrain for Valcartier. Col. Hughes, however, was delighted with the ardor of the Winnipeg regiment and the determination to go to the front as infantry if it cannot go as cavalry. That the regiment will be included in the overseas force is certain. The men will be kept together so that if it is desirable to use them later as cavalry they can be turned into a mounted regiment. In addition to the Fort Garry Horse there are already nearly 1,000 cavalrymen in camp and this class of troops will be kept together for the purpose mentioned.

Duke to Visit Camp

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—The Duke of Connaught and Sir Robert Borden are expected to visit Valcartier camp on Sunday next, when the first parade of the overseas force will take place. The entire force will attend divine service in the open.

Hon. Sam Hughes announced yesterday that he had received an offer from a resident of the southern states to raise a regiment of 1,000 men to serve with the Canadian forces. Col. Hughes stated that the southerners who desire to enlist are descendants of good British stock. The minister also makes the important announcement that a number of Montreal men have offered to provide and equip a motorcycle corps 125 strong. The offer has been accepted.

Camp Has Rainy Day

VALCARTIER, Que., Sept. 2.—The intended changes in the armed camp, the migration of troops from one point to another, did not materialize today. Long hours before this great early rising community was astir the heavens opened and rain descended in pitiless fashion, the downpour continuing without abatement until about noon and rendering the postponement necessary. For the same reason there was no musketry practice.

Word has come to Col. Williams today from Ottawa authorizing him to ask for 400 volunteers to complete the strength of the regiment required for Bermuda. Headquarters was practically stormed and it is only necessary to make a selection from the lists of those applying, a task which has not yet been undertaken.

There are tonight 31,728 men in camp and a further 1,500 are on the way. Horses by the score have all day been trooping into the remount department which now contains 3,000, bringing the total number of horses in camp up to about 4,200. Capt. Payne of the Legion of Frontiersmen has had offers from the west of 300 seasoned men, all regulars or with war service to their credit, and practically all British. It was Capt. Payne who brought through from the west the 75 Legion of Frontiersmen who became swallowed up in the Patricias. In that case the contingent of 75 had between them 100 medals.

The captain today received a telegram from the commanding officers of the legions at Saskatoon and Regina where Dr. Cowan, the former candidate for the city, says he can get 100 men of the right kind and that Howard Smith, who served three years in South Africa, would organize them. The other two cities are ready to furnish 100 each and it is not unlikely that Winnipeg will offer to find another 100.

Catch Whisky Peddlers

The assistant provost marshal's men have rounded up more whisky runners today. One of them was seen ignominiously carrying his suit case, closely followed by a police officer, who stood at least 6 ft. 3 in. in his shoes. The assistant provost marshal had three parts of a sackful of the stuff in the marquee this morning dulguarded by several men.

The authorities are dealing severely with those guilty of breaches of discipline. Two men were yesterday fined out of the ranks.

Up to today 1,400 men have been examined by Col. Shillington and his staff. Col. Shillington speaks highly of the health of the men in camp. In three weeks only one death has occurred and that by an act of suicide. There are no serious cases of illness though many are suffering from minor ailments. It will be only a few days now before the rejected men are sent to their homes.

Rogers Gets Command

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Col. Maynard Rogers, formerly of Ottawa, has been given command of the largest regiment which has reached Valcartier. This is the 101st of Edmonton.

Col. Rogers, who has lived in Edmonton for some time, as superintendent of Jasper park, took an active interest in militia work there, as he did in Ottawa. He assisted in the recruiting work at Edmonton, and as a result more than 1,200 men came east in the 101st uniform. A deputation of officers and men of the regiment yesterday waited upon Col. Hughes and asked the minister to appoint Col. Rogers to command the Edmonton regiment. The minister agreed to do so and Col. Rogers now has one of the crack regiments of the force.

Rhodes Scholars to Front

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—Communications yesterday which reached Ottawa from London state that "C" squadron of the King's Royal Horse, which has just been recruited, is composed of Rhodes scholars from the colonies, who are attending Oxford and Cambridge universities. These young men are all athletes and the comment is made that they are a magnificent body of horsemen.

It is said that this squadron will probably move to the front within two weeks.

It is understood that all the Canadian Rhodes scholars are going to the front.

FIELD MARSHAL EARL KITCHENER

"Never mind whether they know anything about drill. It doesn't matter if they don't know their right foot from their left. Teach them how to shoot and do it quick," are his orders to those in charge of the second army of 100,000 British who are needed in France.

MORE NAMES ADDED TO LIST AT ARMORY

Signal Practice Tonight—Members of Bugle Band Asked to Parade—Shoot on Sunday.

The armory was again the centre of interest about the city last night when a considerable number of names was added to the roll of those desirous of enlisting to leave with a second contingent from this district to serve the Empire in the European war. Many of the men also signed a roll as being desirous of joining the proposed local militia unit in event of not being called to the front.

The volunteers to the number of about 25 mustered at 7:30 o'clock and drilled under the supervision of Sergt. T. Keith, while tonight the men who have signed the roll will be given instruction in signalling work by Instructor J. Foster, and all the men who have placed their names on the list are asked to attend. The class will commence at 8 o'clock.

It is expected by those in charge of the enrolment that those who have placed their names on the list will be allowed to enjoy musketry practice at the rifle range on Sunday morning.

Members of the bugle band are asked to parade at the armory tonight at 7:30 o'clock when an organization meeting will be held.

NEW YORK BOOKS IN VALLEY CASE STILL LACKING

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 2.—The evidence in the Valley railway charges against Premier Flemming and H. McLeod, M. P., was finished today and arguments will commence tomorrow.

The lack of the New York books came up for discussion this morning. Commissioner Fisher said it was a pity that they had not been produced. F. B. Carvell asked for the commitment for contempt of the directors if they failed to produce them. The commission would not take this step but suggested that the government might get the books by threatening to cut off the company's funds.

CZECH PEOPLE UNWILLING TO FIGHT RUSSIANS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 2.—(Via London.)—Herr Tadd, the pastor of the Danish church at Carlsbad, reached here today. He reports that the Russian priest, Ryschkoff, attached to the Russian church at Carlsbad, was taken into custody because he held a service of prayer for the success of Russian arms.

Herr Tadd spent some days in Prague, Bohemia. He says the Czech population there is extremely uneasy and is unwilling to fight against the Russian or Servian enemies of Austria. The published reports of actual Czech uprisings in Prague, however, are untrue, he says.
