PARLIAMENT PAYS LAST TRIBUTES

Both Houses Adjourn in Respect for Strathcona

ELOQUENT ELEGIES FROM LEADERS

Whole Country Mourns Death of Great Canadian--Message from England

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—Today the leaders of both political parties in the senate and the house of commons paid earnest tributes to the great Canadian who passed away in London yesterday. At the conclusion both houses adjourned until tomorrow in respect for the honored dead. Graceful tributes from Right Hon. R. L. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the commons, and Sir George W. Ross and Hon. Senator Lougheed, in the upper house, bore evidence of the high regard in which the late high commissioner was held in parliamentary circles, and of the great work which he had performed in consolidating Canada and materially advancing the Dominion's progress.

Of those who were colleagues of Lord Strathcona in the house of commons only 12 are now members. They are Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Speaker Sproule, Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. J. D. Hazen, Hon. J. D. Reid, Hon. David Henderson, William Smith (of South Ontario), Reuben L. Truax (of South Bruce), Col. Sam Hughes, W. B. Northup (of East Hastings), W. F. Maclean (of South York), and W. H. Bennett (of East Simcoe). Each of these men retains memories of the late high commissioner when, as the member for Selkirk, and later of Montreal centre, he occupied a place in the house.

"It is fitting, I am sure all the members of both sides in this house will agree," said Right Hon. R. L. Borden, "that we should pay a tribute to the memory of the great Canadian who has passed away. I speak of Lord Strathcona as a Canadian because, although born across the sea, his life's work was almost altogether carried on in this country, to the service of which he consecrated many years of his life.

"When one looks back upon the great span of years over which his lifetime has stretched, one is tempted to recall all that has transpired in his majesty's Dominions on this side of the Atlantic since Lord Strathcona came to this country at the age of 18. At that time there was much political unrest in Canada, carried in some parts of the country even to rebellion. At that time we had not achieved the right of self-government or many of those constitutional liberties which have since been developed and have come into force from time to time. From 1838, when, I think, he first came to Canada, during the period of his life which succeeded, he saw what one might call a complete transformation of the northern half of this continent.

"He had been a prominent figure in the house of this country before he undertook, at the age of 76, to discharge the duties of the high office of high commissioner for Canada. My right hon. friend knows perhaps better that I do the devotion which Lord Strathcona gave to those duties. I have known many man in my lifetime who have been inspired by a high sense of duty, but I do not know of any man in my acquaintance and knowledge who had been inspired by a higher conception of duty than was Lord Strathcona. As the weight of years pressed on him, it was almost pathetic to see the devotion with which he insisted on performing even the minor duties of his position. In all the time I have known him—and that was in the later years of his life—I was struck with the fact that time did not seem to have dimmed the freshness of his spirit, the vigor of his will, or his strength of purpose.

"The duties of the office which he discharged were always important and sometimes delicate, and it is satisfactory to us to remember that no man more than he had a high pride in his country, in all that it has achieved, in all that it might achieve in the future, and no man more than he had a deeper interest in all that concerns the honor, dignity and interest of Canada, nor was more concerned to do his duty.

Set Great Example

"I need not recall to the memory of members of this house the notable events of his great career. Through many different conditions he advanced with indomitable will and great strength of purpose to great things, and for many years he was truly a great imperial figure. I think that the example of his life may well be an inspiration to us Canadians. Some one has said many years ago that Thomas Carlyle spent his life in preaching earnestness to the most earnest people in the world. Some lessons in earnestness, perhaps, might not be thrown away upon the people in the British dominions, and I am sure that the earnestness of purpose set forth in the record of Lord Strathcona may well serve as an example to all Canadians.

"It is not for me to speak at length of his great public service. In the office which he filled he performed great and important public service to

PREMIER M'BRIDE IS SUGGESTED

Many Names Being Mentioned as Possible Successor to High Commissionership.

(Special to The Daily News.)

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—The appointment of Sir Richard McBride to be the new high commissioner in London is considered in some circles here to be a strong probability. Sir Richard's qualities as a tactful diplomat and statesman as well as his physical intellectual and social distinction appeal to the people here as well fitting him for the new position. The fact that he declined an important appointment in the Borden government on its organization and whispering at that time that something bigger was in store for him are recalled now by leading Conservatives.

Other names mentioned are those of Hon. Adam Beck, Sir Edmund Osler, Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. G. E. Foster and Sir Hugh Graham.

BODY TO LIE BESIDE WIFE

Lord Strathcona's Last Wish Was to Be Buri[illegible] Highgate Cemetery.

(Western Associated Press Special Cable.)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The funeral of Lord Strathcona will take place on Monday at Highgate cemetery, where he will be laid to rest beside the body of his wife, who died November 12. This course will be taken at the desire of his lordship, expressed a few hours before he lapsed into unconsciousness. The government was prepared to offer a place for the great Canadian in St. Paul's cathedral, or even in Westminster abbey, but when the suggestion was made to the Baroness Mount Royal and Strathcona she stated that it was her father's wish that he should be laid beside his wife with as little ostentation as possible.

It is certain, however, that a national memorial to the dead high commissioner will be placed in St. Paul's cathedral or in the historic hall of Westminster abbey.

Chancellor's Tribute.

Right Hon. David Lloyd George, speaking to the Daily Mail, said: "One can only regret the removal of such a figure. The empire has lost one of its greatest citizens."

Donald McMaster, M.P., paid a tribute to the indomitable spirit, the supreme optimism and the quenchless faith of the man who had done most to make Canada what it is today.

Among the various stories regarding Lord Strathcona published in the newspapers is one relating to a difficulty he had with the garter king-at-arms when he was ennobled. He presented his design for his coat of arms, but the official objected that it was not correct, pointing out that Lord Ilkeston was not allowed to have a stethescope on his coat of arms. The garter king-at-arms demurred at Lord Strathcona's design for a crest because it contained a representation of a railway tie, but he was eventually compelled to accept the prosaic emblem of Canada's first transcontinental railway.

Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt, colonial secretary, speaking at Hastingden, said Lord Strathcona was a great pioneer in all that was best in North America.

Beck May Succeed.

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Close friends of Hon. Adam Beck today stated there was a serious possibility of his succeeding Lord Strathcona as Canadian high commissioner at London. It is said that quite recently Mr. Beck received a letter from Lord Strathcona, in which he expressed the wish that he might be followed by Ontario's power minister.

May be Roblin

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—In discussing the possibilities for high commissionership of Canada in London, Sir Rodmond Roblin, premier of Manitoba, is regarded here as strongly in the running. It is the general opinion here that the choice will fall on one of the provincial premiers, and probably on the premier of Manitoba, because of his high social standing and general popularity in the councils of the ruling powers in Ottawa.

EXPLOSION WRECKS SHOW BUILDING

Three Men Killed and Six Are Injured

WORLD'S CHAMPION HORSES KILLED

Boiler Explodes at Ottawa Fat Stock Show—Death and Ruin

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—After a continuous search by a gang of 40 men amongst the ruins of the Fat Stock building, which was wrecked by the explosion of a boiler at 8:05 this morning, it was given out officially that the list of dead still stood at three, and the list of injured at six at an early hour this morning. One of the bodies is at an undertaker's rooms, unidentified. The other two have been positively identified as Napoleon St. Denis, 93 Victoria street, Hull, and John W. McDonald, 103 Kent street, Ottawa.

The list of killed and injured is as follows:

Dead

Napoleon St. Denis, 93 Victoria street, Hull, aged 42, butcher, married, leaves wife and family.

John W. McDonald, 103 Kent street, city, married, no children, butcher, in employ of B. Slattery.

Unknown man, believed to be cattle drover, about 40 years old.

Injured

Stewart Ross, 103 Catherine street, Ottawa, suffering from a scalp wound and injuries to back.

F. A. James, Arlington avenue, Ottawa, left side and arm hurt, slight internal injuries, not serious.

A. G. McCallum, 237 Laurier avenue, Ottawa, foot sprained.

J. Ponts, 199 Bank street, badly shaken up, not serious.

T. Perry, Montreal, head cut, not serious.

Joseph Press, 82 Main street, Eastview, butcher, rib broken and face cut.

One of the most famous strings of horses in the hunter class in America was wiped out by yesterday's accident. They were the horses of George Pepper, Toronto, which included some world's champions.

Of the seven horses belonging to this owner, six were killed and one is thought to be dying. "That string of horses," said W. F. Carberry, the trainer and rider, "is the result of almost a life's work. For 15 years I have been showing horses for Mr. Pepper here. They are all dead now but Outpost, and we do not expect we can keep him alive. It wipes them out entirely."

Sarah Moore is the famous jumper which beat a $30,000 mare at Madison Square Garden last fall; Calgary Lass was the highest jumping pony in the world. It was 6 ft. 6 in. She was blown up through the debris of the explosion full 100 ft. into the air, passing entirely over from north to south of the roof of the Howick pavilion.

Other losers: W. Rodden, Montreal, few horses, value about $17,000, including Blue Mouse; Col. Allison, of Morrisburg, a hackney stallion, valued at $5,000; R. Ness & Son, Howick, Que., four stallions, valued at about $10,000; D. J. Greig, Brysonville, Que., two geldings, valued at $400 each; W. Nesbey, Howick, Que., one yearling stallion, valued at $500; McDougall Bros., Ormistown, one Clydesdale filly, valued at about $300. There were about 25 horses killed and others injured and the total value of the horses lost will reach $600,000.

Howick pavilion, where the winter fair opened Tuesday, was practically wrecked by the force of the explosion which was probably due to the boilers in the engine room being suddenly filled with cold water while at red heat. The property loss will likely total $82,000, including livestock. It is said that the Ontario government will be held liable for damages in the event of claims being entered.

The executive board of the Ottawa winter fair met at Howick hall and issued the statement to the press regarding the Howick pavilion disaster:

"So far as at present learned, there have been three lives lost and six persons injured and removed to the hospital.

"Loss of horses has been particularly severe, some considerable loss of sheep, swine and poultry also having been sustained will fall heavily on exhibitors. The building is wrecked to such an extent as to render the continuance of the show impossible, and accordingly discontinuance has been decided upon and exhibitors have been notified to remove their exhibits.

"Resolutions of condolence with the friends and families of the unfortunate men whose injuries were fatal and of sympathy with those who have suffered loss or injury have been passed by the committee.

"Officers of the association have been instructed to render all assistance possible to exhibitors having injured animals requiring attention. There seems little doubt that the disaster was caused by an explosion of one of the boilers connected with the heating apparatus of the main building. Should an investigation be held, the committee will be glad to aid in any way possible.

"The work of clearing away the wreckage is proceeding under the direction of the city engineer and will be continued until completed."

POLICE PATROL AT LAKE SASKATOON

Trip Took Three Months—Two Horses Lost, Rest Played Out—Found Man and Girl

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 21.—The two mounted policemen, Sergeant Harper and Constable Stevenson, sent out from Athabasca Landing on Nov. 4 to arrest Asa Hunting, who was charged with the abduction of 15-year-old Mildred Shaw, have arrived at Lake Saskatoon. This information was received here today by Supt. McDonald, of Athabasca Landing, over the long distance telephone. The superintendent came to Edmonton yesterday.

The girl had been staying with a man and his wife, who were acting as her guardians. On Nov. 4 the warrant was issued for Hunting's arrest and Sergt. Harper, Constable Stevenson and Guide Harrington were detailed northward to execute it. From trappers it had been learned that the man and girl had located in Porcupine Valley, which is at the foothills of the Rocky mountains. At first they built a shack 100 miles north of Lake Saskatoon and later moved into the valley, 35 miles further north.

In the valley, Hunting built a shack for himself and the girl, and had the latter dress herself in boy's clothing.

Sergt. Harper left with eight pack horses and 30 days' provisions. The trip, however, consumed almost three months. Only two horses were lost on the trip, though the rest were almost played out. All are in fine shape and well.

CONSTABLE TELLS STORY OF ESCAPE

All Arrangements Made in Percy Hagel's Office—Got Money from Plum Coulee

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21.—Robert Reid, constable of the city police force and one of the two officers guarding John Krafchenko when he escaped, today, before the royal commission, made a full confession. By his confession he implicates Percy Hagel, John Buxton and John Westlake. Constable Flower, his fellow guard, he clears of all suspicion.

Reid is the second man implicated in the escape to appear before the royal commission and make a confession, which implicated Percy Hagel, Westlake, and Reid himself.

Reid appeared before the commission today at his own request and made his statement voluntarily.

At this morning's sittings of the commission, Constable Flower told his straightforward story of his actions when the escape was made, failure on the part of his guard mate to back him up being his justification for not making a fight. Reid's story was interpolated into Flower's hearing, the older constable having requested a hearing.

Reid had formerly withstood a seven-hour gruelling before the commission, which ostensibly had justified his conduct, but today he completely reversed the sworn statements he had before made. He was assured beforehand that his new statements would not be used in evidence against him.

In the witness box Reid told how he personally had given the rope, Key and revolver to Krafchenko two days before the escape, when Flower's back was turned. The loosened bars in the widow, he said, had been tampered with while Ryan, the day guard, was asleep in the cell.

The constable stated further that all the arrangements for the escape were made in the office of Percy Hagel, Krafchenko's counsel, and Krafchenko had sent him to see Hagel. He made the remarkable statement that he did not know what had induced him (Reid) to help Krafchenko.

Buxton had given the gun to Reid in Hagel's office, and the number had been filed off in Hagel's presence. Hagel had told him that Westlake, who was to hide Krafchenko after his escape, could be trusted to do it without "squealing." Hagel had gone to Plum Coulee to get $400, he said, to handle the case. He did not know whether he got it or not.

Reid also affirmed that Hagel said an automobile would be waiting to carry Krafchenko away when he escaped. Krafchenko himself had first said he would make a bluff with the unloaded gun in order to escape, but Reid brought cartridges later on to put into the gun.

Constable Flower, in his evidence, had stated that when debating whether to attack Krafchenko, he heard a cartridge click in the automatic and thus knew it was loaded. As to the automobile, Krafchenko had told him he had a car of his own, which he had stolen in the States, and this would be waiting for him on his escape.

As to the money Hagel was to get from Plum Coulee, Reid, after some pressure by counsel, said Krafchenko had told him he had given $500 of the money to Ward Brooks, who lived near Plum Coulee. Brooks had an underground passage between his granary and his haystack. Brooks, Krafchenko had said, was as ex-convict. From him Hagel was to get the money to conduct the defence.

Reid told his story this afternoon in a simple direct manner, as though he were not trying to hide anything. He appeared completely subdued. Thomas O'Donnell, a friend of Percy Hagel's, whose name was mentioned several times by Hagel during his first hearing before the commission, was today arrested on a vagrancy charge. It is surmised that he will be brought before the commission to tell what he knows about the escape, but the police will not verify this, but will hold him on the vagrancy charge.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL AT CHAHKO MIKA

Many Choirs and Choral Societies Expected

OPEN HOUSE FOR PUBLIC MEETING

Athletic Meet and Children's Sports to be Among Attractions

The Chahko Mika celebration, which it is proposed to hold in Nelson during the week commencing July 13 of this year, again met with hearty approval and endorsation last night when a largely attended meeting of representative citizens was held in the board of trade rooms.

In connection with the suggestion that a musical festival should be held during the Chahko Mika several of the speakers of the evening heartily endorsed the step and a committee composed of R. C. Teviotdale, N. C. R. Merry and W. O. Rylett, who will associate with themselves some of the leading musical leaders of the city, was appointed to look after the arrangements. This event, it is expected, will bring choirs and choral societies to the city from all portions of the west, and will be held in connection with the flower festival, which itself will be a feature of the big gala week.

George Horstead, manager of the opera house, offered that building to the committee in charge of the event for the purpose of arranging a "get together" meeting of citizens, when the project will receive full discussion and every feature of the event will be laid in a complete manner before the people by a capable speaker on the subject. The offer was accepted with the thanks of the committee and the meeting will be arranged for a later date.

That one day of the week be devoted to an athletic meet was the suggestion put forward by James Thompson, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., which also met with hearty approval. It was stated that many of the crack athletes of the coast cities were looking forward to the Chahko Mika and that doubtless if such an event were held it would be a drawing card to many. On behalf of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Thompson stated that the officials would be only too glad to take charge of the field meet and he offered the assistance of his association in every way in fostering the week of sport.

Another suggestion that was made was that the school children should not be forgotten and that events should be furnished in which they might compete. Field sports, flag and other fancy drills were among the things that were suggested that might be included in the children's program and it was unanimously decided to incorporate the suggestion in the plans for the event.

KRAFCHENKO'S PLAN BANK ROBBERY

Expected to Take Railway Men's Pay from Bank of Commerce Clerks.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21.—That the threatened "job" which was to net the bandit, Krafchenko, $60,000, was the holding up of clerks of the Bank of Commerce, carrying the monthly payment of Jan. 15 to the employes of the Canadian Northern railway, is now beginning to leak out. During his hiding after his escape, Krafchenko lamented being unable to "pull off a job on Jan. 15, which had $60,000 in it," and it is now being told that on Jan. 15, the employes of the Canadian Northern railway did not get paid at the shops as usual, but had to go to the depot for their money. It has leaked out that the company had a tip as to a threatened holdup, and took these precautions, the reason for which has only just been discovered. As this was before Krafchenko's statement was made, the company officials are trying to trace the source of the tip, but with little success so far. The police are helping their investigation in the hope that the man who started the hint that led to the extra precautions will be able to throw more light on the matter.

TRANS ATLANTIC RATE WAR PROBABLE

Demand of Hamburg-American Line for Increase in Steerage Passengers Is Rejected.

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

PARIS, Jan. 21.—The North Atlantic pool conference at Paris broke up without consenting to the demands of the Hamburg-American line, for an increased percentage of the total proceeds of steerage passengers carried by the lines belonging to the pool. The Hamburg-American line alleges that the percentage of the total profit allowed would be unfairly small when ships of the Imperator class, each carrying 1,500 steerage passengers, come into service.

The conference was unable to meet the demands of the German line in this matter. Subsequently at the expiration of the pool on Jan. 31, the companies other than the Hamburg-American, will be at liberty to enter into arrangements among themselves with regard to rates.

EMPIRE'S VALHALLA FOR STRATHCONA

British Press Urges Westminster Abbey or St. Paul's as Great Canadian's Resting Place.

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

LONDON, Jan. 21.—Many public men and the press are strongly advocating the interment of Lord Strathcona's remains in St. Paul's or Westminster Abbey. The Daily Chronicle in this connection editorially urges that his body be laid to rest in St. Paul's. "Public sentiment," he says, "would be wholly with the idea."

Surely a man who has played so great a part in the empire should rest in one of its temples of fame.

The Daily Press suggests interment in Westminster Abbey. The dean of the abbey, stated to an Express reporter: "I think it most possible Lord Strathcona will be buried in the Abbey. A memorial service will probably be held on Monday at noon."

Bishop Boyd Carpenter, the subdean, said there seemed a strong feeling in favor of the abbey funeral, and he had telegraphed the dean on the subject.

The Daily Telegraph entirely commends the proposed interment in St. Paul's and is fully assured so conspicuous a tribute of honor and respect would be wholeheartedly approved throughout the king's dominions.

JAPAN PLANS NEW MOVE

Dissatisfied with Replies of United States on Land Ownership Legislation—Foreign Minister's Statement.

TOKIO, Jan. 21.—Japan regards as unsatisfactory the replies made by the United States to her protests in connection with the California alien land ownership legislation, according to a statement made today by Baron Makino, the Japanese foreign minister, in a lengthy address to parliament. He continued:

"Japan recognizes the necessity of elaborating other plans for the solution of the question. The nature of these plans, I am as yet, unable to report."

FIVE YEARS FOR ROBBING HIS EMPLOYERS

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—Five years in Kingston penitentiary yesterday was the sentence meted out by Judge Winchester in the county criminal court to Robert M. McKay had been a constant patron of bookmakers, about town and has been fooled by them to the tune of $50,000.

SUBMARINE LOCATED

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

PLYMOUTH, England, Jan. 21.—The British submarine A7 which sank to the bottom of Whitesand Bay on Friday last, during maneuvers, was located today in 23 fathoms of water, four miles from shore. The submarine is lying a little east of the spot from which she disappeared. The discovery was made by one of the searching vessels.

It was too late to start raising operations, which will begin at daybreak.

MINERS DESIRE NEW LEGISLATION

Say Compensation Act Should Cover Sunday Work

INSTRUCTORS IN FIRST AID NEEDED

Contract System of Work Condemned--To Elect Officers by Referendum.

Declaring that the recent decision of a Vancouver judge in which the dependents of an injured working man could not collect under the Workman's Compensation act because he had been working on Sunday was likely to inflict a great hardship on the working class, District No. 6 of the Western Federation of Miners at its annual convention in Nelson yesterday passed a resolution asking for provincial legislation which would make compensation payable for injuries or death occurring on Sunday as well as on other days of the week.

Increase of the maximum amount collectable under the act from $1,500 to $1,800, to conform with the new Washington state measure, and to make the provincial compensation statute cover cases of lead poisoning at smelters, mines and mills, and also miner's phthisis was asked in another resolution.

Belief in the effectiveness of the general strike to obtain some measure of justice for working men was expressed in a resolution which declared that workers must be prepared at all times to use the strike as a weapon.

Systems of piece work, contract or bonuses in mining were condemned as being detrimental to workers in that they were means of causing men "to speed up" and to ultimately reducing the wage scale, increasing the number of accidents and adding to the ranks of the unemployed by making it necessary for fewer men to be employed.

Charging the provincial government with having permitted its statutes to be violated by the mine owners on Vancouver island the convention also condemned the government for sending troops during the strike.

In future when a mine defaults and does not pay its employes such cases will be reported to the district executive and handled by that body in order to save expenses.

Strong condemnation of the Lemieux act was voiced by speakers to a resolution passed against that measure.

Officers by Referendum.

Members of the executive board will be elected by referendum vote of the members instead of at the annual convention as formerly. A resolution suggesting that the annual convention should be held in September or the early part of October was referred to the committee on constitution and by-laws.

Strong support was given to a resolution asking the provincial government to send doctors to mining camps to give the men instruction in first aid, but a clause requesting that it be made obligatory for shift bosses and foremen to hold first aid certificates aroused considerable discussion and the resolution was referred to a committee to be redrawn in accordance with the views expressed.

That a resolution calling for the laying aside of 2 cents per member per month for the support of the Socialist party was covered by the constitution was the report of the resolutions committee, which was adopted after a long discussion on the political question.

In another resolution which was passed endorsement of the Socialist party of Canada was recorded.

Fellow feeling and hearty sympathy for the striking miners in Michigan was expressed in several resolutions. One called for telegraphic expression of these sentiments, another urged all locals which had not already done so to assess their members one day's pay per month each in aid of the strikers and their families, and a third provided that the executive should forward $100 as a donation. Many local unions are arranging concerts and dances and similar means to raise funds for the strikers, it was stated.

The convention will continue this morning.

The president's report was adopted as a whole on motion of Frank Phillips and W. H. Ferguson after it had been discussed clause by clause.

Dominion Congress Discussed.

From Silverton was a resolution objecting to the payment of a per capita tax to the Dominion Trades and Labor congress, a matter covered by a resolution presented later in the convention by Kimberley local.

D. D. Murphy explained that the resolution objected to the proposal that money should be raised to send a delegate to the Dominion trades and labor congress. The expense was unnecessary, as any representations which a union wished to make to parliament could be made through the local member for the district concerned. If the union were not regarded as of sufficient importance to be notified of the actions of the congress he

FRUIT PEST INSPECTION DEBATED BY INSTITUTE

(Special to The Daily News.)

KELOWNA, B. C., Jan. 21.—The annual meeting of the Farmers' institute took place in the board of trade building, but only a small percentage of the members attended. J. E. Reekie presided. He pointed out that the membership had increased during the past year from 76 to 118 members, thus placing Kelowna in sixteenth place on the list of institutes in British Columbia. Efforts had been made by the department of agriculture to secure live stock for breeding purposes, but the expenses entailed had been prohibitive. It was gratifying to note that the facilities for procuring stumping powder had been made use of to the extent of nearly $1,000 worth. The auditor's report showed a substantial increase to the balance in the bank. The election of a board of directors for the ensuing year followed, consisting of: President, M. Hereron; vice-presidents, G. L. Allan, R L. Dalgleish, F. Bell, J. Lytle, H. S Rose, A. W. Dalgleish, C. C. Prowse and J. Leathley. The auditors appointed were D. W. Jones and C. G. Buck. The election of a secretary-treasurer was left to a meeting of the directors, while a vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring officers. The delegate, Dr. Jones, was requested to support the project of securing cheap money for farmers.

J. L. Pridham introduced the resolution that: "Whereas, pests and diseases are gaining a foothold throughout the district a more efficient system of scientific inspection is necessary;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that a regular systematic inspection be made of all orchards and that the maximum time between visits made from April to September, inclusive, be not more than 3 days; and further, that if the present staff is unable to cover all the ground, its number be increased sufficiently to do so, in order that no time be lost in putting men into the field to instruct growers re hold-over cankers and blight diseases."

Dr. Jones moved that L. E. Taylor be requested to ask that the entomological society make investigations with a view to seeing whether there is any possibility of bees carrying infection from infected trees in this district and storing it in their hives. It was also proposed that the delegate to the convention should represent to the authorities the necessity of having the Canadian thistle exterminated.

Mr. Pridham proposed that the following letter should be sent re the views of the meeting to the minister of lands:

"Dear Sir: The contents of this letter were passed at a meeting of our institute. We should be glad to hear from you as to what steps are being taken to facilitate the advancement of bringing before the public here your proposed irrigation act previous to its being submitted to parliament, as we understand it is your wish to do so. We also learn through the press that a committee has been appointed for this purpose. We would ask if you would kindly give instructions to the members of the committee to hold a public meeting in Kelowna as soon as possible, giving due publicity to the same, so that any suggestions on the act may be forwarded to you before the act is brought up in the house. We should esteem it a favor if you will send a reply by return."

The meeting then adjourned and at a brief meeting of the directors, held later, B. C. Meyrick was reappointed secretary for the ensuing year.

ENJOYABLE CHILDREN'S PARTY AT ROCK CREEK

(Special to The Daily News.)

ROCK CREEK, B. C., Jan. 21.—Rev. A. M. Lloyd gave his first children's party at his new house on the Kettle Valley orchards on Thursday, Jan. 15. The young people present were: F. King, the Misses Nita, Maud and Jean Richter, Victoria Shillock, J. Lardin and Donald Stevenson. Dancing was indulged in and such games as musical chairs, charades, etc., were played. J. Lardin and D. Stevenson distinguished themselves in the parts of Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday; Mrs. J. Richter, Miss Henderson, Miss Harrigan and Mr. Gray assisted and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

H. Whiting, of Kettle Valley, left on Jan. 19 for Victoria as delegate for the Greenwood Conservative association and Farmers' institute.

H. Nicholson has gone to the coast as delegate for the Rock Creek Conservative association.

H. Farmer, Vancouver, was a visitor last Monday at Kettle Valley.

At the annual meeting of the Greenwood Conservative association, held at Greenwood auditorium on Jan. 19, the following were elected for the affiliated associations: Rock Creek, Major Glossop and H. Whiting; Midway, J. McMynn and F. Roberts; Boundary Falls, R. Lee; Anaconda, A. Bombini; Eholt, J. McKellum; Deadwood, C. Hammerstein.

FANCY DRESS CARNIVAL AT KELOWNA ROLLER RINK

(Special to The Daily News.)

KELOWNA, B. C., Jan. 21.—The new roller rink recently opened in Kelowna held a most successful fancy dress carnival. About 200 skaters were attired in a heterogeneous assortment of costumes, the prize being secured by Miss Hubie, who made an excellent facsimile of the military figure shown on advertisements of "Sweet Caporal" cigarettes.

An innovation to the rink appeared in the form of a tea stall, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Bebb.

Considerable interest has been aroused by the proposal of the government to erect an armory, and the retiring council proposed to give a site in the corner of the park. The park site was voted for by a majority of 165 out of 222 votes.

A very close contest was experienced by the candidates for the positions on the municipal council and the following is the result of the polling: Mayor, J. W. Jones, by acclamation. Aldermen—D. W. Sutherland, by acclamation; W. C. Duggan, by acclamation; R. A. Copeland, 126; F. A. Taylor, 119; W. E. Adams, 111; D. H. Rattenbury, 105. W. B. M. Calder's number of votes was 103, and being such a close follower of Mr. Rattenbury he asked for a recount, but the figures remained unchanged.

The position of publicity commissioner will shortly be vacant, owing to the retirement of W. Beaver Jones. The city authorities have found it advisable to reduce the salary of the position.

PENTICTON ELECTIONS

(Special to The Daily News.)

PENTICTON, B. C., Jan. 21.—Little interest was taken in the municipal elections held here, there being contests in only one ward and for school trustees. W. A. Mackenzie headed the polls for both school trustees and councillor for Ward 1. A. H. Huntley was elected as second councillor in Ward 1, with A. Beatty and J. R. Mitchell as the other two school trustees. R. S. Conklin is the reeve by acclamation, together with Councillors Dynes, Mutch, Eraut and Anderson. Dynes was a former resident of Nelson.

Track laying on the line of the Kettle Valley east from Penticton was begun today.

NEW FLOAT NEEDED AT CRAWFORD BAY

Conservative Association Passes Resolutions—Telephone Communication Desired by Settlers

(Special to The Daily News.)

CRAWFORD BAY, B. C., Jan. 21.—A general meeting of the Crawford Bay Conservative association was held in the hall recently for the purpose of framing and forwarding certain resolutions. P. J. Locke occupied the chair and was supported by the secretary, A. J. Watson. The following resolutions were unanimously passed:

1. To R. F. Green, M. P., stating the inadequacy of the present float and warehouse, and asking that the Dominion government appropriate monies for a larger structure to be built during the present year.

2. To R. F. Green, M. P., thanking the member for his past efforts to obtain telephonic communication between this section and the outside, and expressing the hope that he may in the near future be successful in obtaining this long-felt want.

3. To Neil F. Mackay, M. P. P., endorsing the resolution forwarded by the local Farmers' institute to the Victoria convention re the gun tax and trappers' license.

4. An invitation to the executive of the Kaslo Riding Conservative association to hold their next annual convention at this point, when they would be assured of a hearty welcome.

O. H. Burden went to Howser the beginning of the week with M. B. Wescott, the provincial engineer. Their visit was in connection with the big bridge which the government is shortly putting across the south end of the lake.

The directors of the Farmers' institute held a meeting on Saturday evening in preparation for the general meeting to be held at the hall.

Mrs. Moody spent several days visiting friends at Mirror Lake last week.

W. Houghton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Houghton, is home on furlough for a short time. He is serving with Strathcona's Horse in Winnipeg, where he has gained a reputation as a rifle shot, his early practice as a member of the Crawford Bay Rifle association having proved useful to him.

Provincial Constable Williams came in from Kaslo on Thursday, returning on Friday. He was on a trip of inspection.

Mrs. Locke and son, Mrs. Dale and Gordon McGregor were Nelson visitors, who returned by Friday's boat.

The organization meeting of the Crawford Bay Women's institute has been called for Friday afternoon next at 3:15 in the public hall. There will be a dance the same evening.

PUBLIC SWIMMING BATH IS VERNON PROJECT

(Special to The Daily News.)

VERNON, B. C., Jan. 21.—Vernon is to have a public swimming bath built this coming summer in Polson park, if the efforts of the ratepayers association can prevail upon the city council to authorize the necessary expenditure. At the regular monthly meeting last Saturday night the project was unanimously endorsed, and a committee, consisting of W. G. Simpson, J. I. Beatty and John Thomas, appointed to investigate. It is proposed to utilize springs in Polson park and to livert part of Kalamalka lake into big concrete pools.

Has Live Commissioner

Richard Obee, publicity commissioner for Vernon, submitted to the association a report of his year's work. Since April Mr. Obee has sent out 23,000 pieces of literature, receiving 838 inquiries by mail, received more than 1,000 callers at the board of trade rooms, and has used 4,000 letter heads. One factory is assured for the coming spring, and three more are negotiating for concessions from the city. Nine families have been brought in. Weekly news letters are sent to about 100 newspapers in the eastern provinces, the United States and Great Britain, and 87 industrial concerns have written to inquire as to factory openings here.

W. H. Smith, successful mayoralty candidate, and the members of the newly elected city council, took the oath of office on Saturday morning.

Miss Kerr has on several occasions been released after undergoing hunger strikes, only to be rearrested as soon as her health warranted.

MEETING OF WINDERMERE BOARD OF TRADE CALLED

Association Has Made Rapid Progress—Activities Cover Wide District—New Skating Rink

(Special to The Daily News.)

INVERMERE, B. C., Jan. 21.—The notices to the members of the Windermere district board of trade, calling them to the annual meeting, have been issued. This asks for their attendance here on Friday, Feb. 6, the meeting to open at 2 o'clock p.m. At this meeting the affairs of the board for the past year will be gone into, officers for 1914 elected and a program laid out.

The board was first organized in 1911 with a membership of 13. During the year 1912 this number was increased to 43, while in 1913 it rose to a memebrship of over sixty. It is thought that a further increase will be made in 1914. During 1912 the body became incorporated under the Provincial Benevolent Societies act and in 1913, by reason of the increased population in the district, it was further advanced by securing a Dominion charter. Its work covers the whole of the Windermere mining division, with this part as its centre. The Windermere mining division extends over a distance of 80 miles from north to south and approximately 40 miles from east to west. Within its boundaries are great irrigation works and untold mineral deposits. The scenery is magnificent. Only this year is it really going to come into its own by the long looked for construction of the Kootenay Central railway, being a branch of the Canadian Pacific system, which will traverse the whole of the Columbia-Kootenay rivers valleys and join the main line of that railway on the north with its Crow's Nest Pass branch on the south.

The large covered rink at Athalmer was last week opened for the first time to the public. It is on this sheet that the chief games of curling in the bonspiel will be played. This bonspiel is under the direction of the Royal Caledonian Curling club of Scotland and opens on Jan. 20.

REPORT OF CRANBROOK AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATION

(Special to The Daily News.)

CRANBROOK, B. C., Jan. 21.—The secretary's report of the Cranbrook Agricultural association gives a resume of the work of the past year. It says in part:

A comprehensive and fairly generous prize list was compiled. The prize list was published earlier than usual and was followed by a long list of special prizes. In response to an oft-repeated demand for Caledonian sports the directors decided to make these the feature of the fair. From a financial standpoint the results were very disappointing, as the program failed to draw anything like the crowd that a racing program always brings out.

The outstanding features of the fair were the livestock, the poultry and the school exhibit. The livestock parade was an eye-opener to many and would certainly prove to outsiders that Cranbrook was at least not in the background where thoroughbred stock was concerned.

Taken all in all the directors are to be congratulated on the showing they made in the face of so many unavoidable setbacks. Money was hard to get and several subscriptions of $50 and one of $150, as well as the expected municipal grant of $200, were not to be obtained. Then came the storm to raze the buildings, but a special grant of $1,000 obtained from the government by our esteemed member saved the situation in that respect. Up to the present no depreciation has been allowed on the buildings. This year more than $1,000 has been spent on them and although they are in better condition than ever before yet the book value is entered at the same figure as last year. The expenses in the way of salary have been greatly curtailed, only $425 being spent, as against $965 last year.

All prizes have been paid in full. Rule 2 had to be enforced on account of the falling off in gate money caused by the fair being held during the Spokane fair and by the storm which knocked the bottom out of the business on the first day. This rule reads that when there are not three exhibits in a class the first prize money shall not be paid. This worked well enough except in the registered male classes in the livestock. The directors have come to the conclusion that these classes should be exempt from that rule, as a district like this is hardly ever likely to support more than a couple of pure bred registered males in any one breed, and the owners of such animals deserve the best treatment possible as they are benefactors to the place.

The thanks of the directors and stock raisers are due to those gentlemen (of whom there are many) who despite the money tightness came forward and helped so liberally to make the exhibition of 1913 a credit to the district and a distinct and unmistakable sign of the great agricultural progress that is being made in the Cranbrook district.

The financial statement was as follows: Interest on units, $146.63; preparation of grounds $1,019.03, less government grant of $1,000, $19.03; printing, advertising, etc., $451.84; miscellaneous expenses, $346.60; prizes, $1,932.72; maintenance of premises, $362.96; salaries and help, $435; postage and express, $34.50; other payments, $121.10; total for year 1913, $3,850.38; loss and gain forward, 1912, $68.70; Lethbridge dry farming congress, $186.63; amounts written off, $72.22; total, $4,177.93. Donations—Government, $900; local, $886.25; not paid, $64; total, $1,850.25; membership, $163; rents, etc., $157, not paid, $22, total, $179; gate receipts, $911.75; entry fees, $141.07; miscellaneous, $298.55; total, $3,543.62; loss for year 1913, $306.76; total loss to date, $634.31; total, $4,177.93. Cash on hand, $4; cash in bank, $104.20; bills receivable, $137.50; grounds, $5,367.75; buildings, $5,781.49; office furniture, $70; accounts receivable: subscriptions $199, advertising $40, rent $10, total $159; total, $11,623.94. Mortgage payable, $3,000; endowment fund, $5,100; debenture stock, units, subscribed $4,000, not paid $190, total $3,810; accounts payable: interest on units $293.04, accounts $5.21, auditor $50, total $348.25; total, $12,258.25. Balance being loss to date, $634.31.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 22

LORD STRATHCONA.

The death of Lord Strathcona removes from the public life of the British empire a noble figure and takes from Canada a staunch friend and a public servant devoted to her interests and never weary in promoting her welfare. Lord Strathcona has died as he had lived, in harness, engrossed to the last in public affairs. His old age was as a lusty winter, frosty but kindly, and he has been gathered to his fathers full of years and honors. Long will his memory remain green in the hearts of his fellow countrymen, and so long as wheels turn on the great transcontinental railway which his efforts so largely created he will not lack a memorial.

It is for his work in connection with the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway that Lord Strathcona will popularly be chiefly remembered, and for his accomplishment in this respect Canada owes him a deep debt of gratitude, none the less profound because his courage and indomitable preseverance in the face of discouragements that would have overwhelmed a less sanguine soul won for himself wealth and honors and repute. It is perhaps not too much to say that Lord Strathcona accellerated the development of the west by a decade, for had the transcontinental project which he championed fallen a failure, as it would have done but for his financial genius, dauntless energy and enthusiasm, when and by whom would it have been revived? In his latter days as high commissioner Lord Strathcona placed the crown upon his life's work. He became to the people of Great Britain, in some sense, the embodiment of Canada and its opportunities: he was, probably, the most prominent and most widely known of all the public men of the British dominions beyond seas, and he neglected no opportunity to promote the interests of the land whose welfare he had so much at heart.

Lord Strathcona possessed in a high degree the best traits of the race from which he sprang, allied to an abnormal prescience and breadth of vision. His determination brooked no defeat, his courage was daunted by no obstacles, his shrewdness found for him paths through difficulties to others impenetrable, he knew men and how best to awaken their interest and sympathy, his faith in the future of the Dominion was unquenchable, his financial instinct unfailing, his judgment unerring. He played his part at a time in the history of Canada when his qualities were most needed and had widest scope. He won success; he did more—he deserved it.

With wealth he showed that he had charity—charity not of the vainglorious type which repays itself by the monuments that it rears to itself, but unassuming and sincere. Lord Strathcona's gifts in private probably equalled those of which the world has heard, great as they have been. He was inspired by genuine patriotism, by love of Canada and empire, and his equipment and dispatch of Strathcona's horse to the empire's war in South Africa was a noble idea, nobly conceived and nobly carried out. He was simple-minded, devoted to the spouse with whom he had linked his fate in the early days of his career, approachable, unostentatious, a fit product of the boundless and breezy west where lay much of his life's work.

Lord Strathcona's death removes a link with the past and deplenishes that dwindling company of those who took a prominent part in laying the foundations of the Dominion as it is today. Born in the reign of George III, he lived under six British sovereigns. From the days of the stage coach and postchaises he lived to see the era of automobiles and aeroplanes. When he came to Canada in the first year of Victoria's reign the voyage across the Atlantic in sailing ship took six weeks, now accomplished in six days or less. Then the fertile prairies of the west were regarded as a frozen waste and British Columbia as a desolate sea of mountains. Lord Strathcona lived to see a transformation in the face of nature and in the ideas of men and no one contributed more to that change than he.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

A Tough Leg.

Scotland reports having had a cow with a wooden leg. We wondered at dinner yesterday just where it came from.—Port Arthur Daily News.

Wireless Transmission.

To prophesy that some day in the not too distant future Signor Marconi will definitely announce the success of his wireless telephone, experiments would almost be a platitude. It is safe to state that no living scientist knows so much about the practical side of wireless transmission as Marconi, and in modern progression this is the very best asset.—Sydney Record.

Current Comment.

In all the heated and protracted argument concerning the tango and other lately devised dances, it is to be noted that condemnation comes chiefly from persons whose habits of thought and standards of conduct impel them to denounce dancing as a pastime whenever opportunity offers, and that, in the sane judgment of unprejudiced observers the new dances are objectionable or not according to the way they are danced. The tango can be a graceful and beautiful dance, it can be, and is, made ugly and vulgar by dancers who lack a sense of decency. Precisely the same things could be said, and were said, in former years of the polka and the waltz.—New York Times.

THIS DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

This date 101 years ago must have been a red-letter day in the life of Gen. Procter, who, in the story of the war of 1812 generally appears as a foil to the heroic figures of Gen. Brock and Chief Tecumseh. On January 22, 1813, however, this frequently unfortunate soldier did achieve a brilliant success. He was then in command of Detroit, captured by Brock during the previous summer, and learning that the American Gen. Winchester, "with upwards of 1,000 men, being the right wing of Harrison's army," was on the way to attack him, and had occupied Frenchtown, on the River Raisin, he marched out to check his advance. Procter's force consisted of about 500 regular soldiers and militiamen and 600 Indians, under a chief named Roundhead. Winchester's post was strongly stockaded, but Procter made a fierce onslaught on the place before daybreak and succeeded in capturing the American general and nearly half the force, while many other Americans were killed or wounded. According to the lists sent to Governor Prevost the number of prisoners exceeded that of the white troops on the British side, and for once at least Procter received the warmest praises for his gallantry.

LONDON OVERCAST

LONDON, Jan. 21.—London overcast maximum 33; minimum 30.

Paris frosty; maximum 30; minimum 26.

AT THE THEATRES

At the Starland tonight and a matinee today at 2:30 o'clock will be shown "Ivanhoe," in four parts. Following is an excerpt from the Calgary Herald:

"It looks as if everybody who is able to ride or walk is going to see 'Ivanhoe' during the engagement of that picture at the Rex. The picture in all its splendor opened at the Rex yesterday and crowds flocked to the popular photoplay theatre to see this wonderful film dramatization of Sir Walter Scott's noted novel.

"The attendance at night was so large that hundreds were turned away but they still had the opportunity of seeing the picture by going across the street and to the next block, where the Monarch, by arrangement with the Rex exhibited the picture at night. By this means hardly a soul was disappointed. This was the first time in the history of motion pictures in Calgary that the same film was utilized at two theatres at the same time. The identical pictures as exhibited at the Rex were at the Monarch and the orchestra of both theatres played the same incidental music.

"On all sides could be heard words of praise for the marvelous presentation of 'Ivanhoe' and the filming of this beautiful thrilling and romantic story was not in vain. Calgarians were eager to give the picture a hearty welcome and all that had been said of the films in advance was proved when the crowds applauded the many stirring scenes and situations. Time and again 'Ivanhoe' was cheered when he appeared on the screen and the pathetic figure of Isaac of York created a heart interest that could never have been equalled had the play been presented by a dramatic company instead of a photoplay cast.

"Scenically, the picture is a work of art. The light and shade effect throughout is exquisite and the camera men came in for words of praise from the spectators. Truly, 'Ivanhoe' is a masterpiece and it is to be regretted that the engagement is only for three days."

CONSTABLE'S MURDERERS REFUSED LEAVE TO APPEAL

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 21.—The British Columbia appeal court declined today to allow the the appeal on behalf of Davis and Clarke, murderers of Police Constable Archibald of Vancouver. Three of their lordships agreed that the conviction was a proper one and should be upheld, while Justices McPhillips and Martin dissented on different grounds, both technical. The chances are that relatives of the men will now attempt to appeal to the supreme court of Canada at the February sitting. The execution has already been postponed until March 5.

The case has excited great interest because one man only did the shooting, while the other stood by. Clarke's real name is Herman Behrens, and his parents live in San Bernardino, Cal. Davis' parents live in Toronto and are paying the expenses of his appeal.

PANAMA CANAL READY FOR TRAFFIC

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PANAMA, Jan. 21.—The Panama canal has reached such a condition of completion that a large ocean steamer could now pass through, according to a statement today by Col. Goethals. There is 30 feet depth of water through the Culebra cut, and the Couracha slide, and it is Col. Goethal's intention to send a Panama railroad steamer through the canal in April. Both ends of the canal are practically all installed, the electrical work and cleaning up remaining unfinished only.

TOOK INTEREST IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

(Special to The Daily News.)

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 21.—The eulogy spoken by the premier on the death of Lord Strathcona at today's sitting of the house will rank as one of the greatest oratorical efforts ever delivered in the legislative chamber. Sir Richard McBride has for many years been a close personal friend of the late high commissioner for Canada. In seconding the resolution of condolence to his family, Parker Williams spoke of Lord Strathcona as a man born of the multitude, a man who retained his faculties unimpaired to the end, a man of high character and great resources.

The lieutenant-governor appeared in person in order to give his sanction to the bill validating the payment of expenses to those members who have been serving on royal commissions. On his departure the premier moved the following resolution:

"That this house has learned with deep regret of the death of Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, and desires to express its high appreciation of the great services he rendered during a long and honored career to the Dominion and to the empire.

"On behalf of the people of British Columbia this house desires to extend its sympathy to the Hon. Margaret Howard and the other members of the family.

"And that his honor the lieutenant-governor be requested to forward, through the proper channels, to his royal highness the governor-general of Canada and to the Hon. Margaret Howard, copies of this resolution."

Supporting the resolution the premier said:

"Throughout his long life Canada was ever in the forefront of Lord Strathcona's vision. Even in his advancing years he evinced the very keenest interest in its welfare; he was a citizen of Canada to the last and was the sponsor in Great Britain of many great schemes of development throughout the Dominion

"It is not an idle task in this hour to speak of the interest which Lord Strathcona took in the work of advancing education, in the construction of highways and in the largest sphere in the building of railways in this country, more especially through the prairie provinces. Lord Strathcona confined his activities to no one particular section of this great Dominion and to no one branch of its development. He was one of the leaders connected with the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway across our continent and great credit is due to him for having pressed forward the great undertaking until it finally stretched from ocean to ocean.

"When we consider all these things in the great perspective of history one cannot for a moment doubt the unflinching courage, the splendid faith and the unbounded optimism that this man had in the Dominion of Canada, the country he loved so well. It is true that in his latter days he amassed considerable wealth; it is equally true, however, that he never forgot the responsibilities which the accumulation of this wealth imposed upon him, and he regarded it as a solemn duty to so order his going that at least some part of that wealth should be distributed for the betterment of his fellowmtn. His contribution to charity assumed splendid and munificent proportions and no worthy charity was ever brought to his attention that did not receive a quick and generous response.

"Lord Strathcona took a deep and special interest in the affairs of British Columbia and a pride in the advancement of the province, and many times he went out of his way to show some special mark of favor toward this section of the Dominion of Canada. I do not wish to insinuate that he neglected any portion of the country, but he always felt that being so far removed from the central government as we were that he should devote special attention to the business of this province.

"We in this province have always appreciated his great labors on our behalf and in a humble way by naming the provincial park on Vancouver island Strathcona park we have tried to make some small recognition of the many favors he has showered on us.

"I would add a word on behalf of the agent general, who both in his letter and in his conversation with me has frequently impressed upon me the knowledge of the interest which the high commissioner always took in the work of the agent general's office."

In seconding the resolution Parker Williams, member for Newcastle, said:

"An old man has passed away and from the brief attention I have paid to his history I learn that he was born of the multitude and of democracy, which perhaps was the basis of that strength which carried him to the wonderful age of 94. He was a man of immense energy, of a sober cast of mind and so, we must conclude, of careful habits, because character in the last analysis is merely the structure that is built up on habits and experience.

"The fates were kind to Lord Strathcona. Wealth and all that wealth can bring were his, together with an abundance of honors. But in addition to these things he enjoyed what is perhaps the greatest prize that any man can have, especially a man of his extreme age, in that to the last his faculties appeared to have remained unimpaired. And again the fates were kind when the final summons came. Sleep hid from his vision the dread reaper whose advent men so much fear.

"Wealth and position were his in the highest degree. Lord Strathcona possessed much that was not attributable to these material sources and for that reason we are glad of the opportunity of paying tribute to his memory."

The resolution was passed in silence and the premier moved the adjournment of the house.

Canada and to the empire. Besides that his many benefactions for great imperial purposes are known to all men so that I do not need to do more than allude to them today. I consider that it would be a fitting tribute to respect of his memory that this house should stand adjourned until tomorrow, and I now move, seconded by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that the house do so stand adjourned.

"But before doing so, I should like to read to the house a message which has been received by high royal highness the governor-general from the secretary of state for the colonies, Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt. It states:

Message From England

"'I desire on the part of his majesty's government to convey to your royal highness, to the government and the people of Canada an expression of deep sympathy in the loss which the Dominion has sustained by the death of Lord Strathcona, high commissioner for Canada in London for the past 17 years, the sympathy of his many friends in the empire. His name has been for many years a household word among us, embodying to all the though of Canada and her marvelous progress as well as of his own notable career, distinguished by large public usefulness and magnificent liberality, and his memory is assured of an honored and abiding place in the annals of the Dominion to which he devoted his faithful service to the end.'

"In conclusion, I am sure that I may, on behalf of Canada, of all the members of this house and of all the people of this country, convey to his daughter, and to all members of his family, the assurance of our deepest sympathy."

Sir Wilfrid Eloquent.

In seconding the motion to adjourn, Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke as follows:

"Whatever might have been proposed or suggested by the government to do honor to the memory of the illustrious dead, whose loss we deplore, we on this side of the house might have heartily and willingly agreed, believing that whatever might be done would hardly express the deep sense of regret which now prevails, from one end to the other of this land. Since Sir John Macdonald's time, I don't know that there has been any Canadian who on departing this life, has left behind him such a trail of sorrow as Lord Strathcona. He is mourned by his majesty the king, whose personal friend he was, by the peers of the realm in whose illustrious house he had found an honored place; by the authorities of commerce and of finance in the commercial and financial metropolis of the world, who had found in him an equal; by the poor of London, to whom on repeated occasions he was the incarnation of benevolent providence; by the people of Scotland, the land of his birth, with whom he never completely severed his connection, and in Canada by all classes of the community, rich or poor, high or low, of whatever creed or race it might be. The universal sense of sorrow is a tribute only bestowed upon men of strong personality, and to this class he undoubtedly belongs. Perhaps the secret of this regret, so universal and so deep, may be found in the fact that wherever he passed, whether it was amongst those with whom he came in contact, whether it was the Indians of the forest or the prairie, or the most eminent political or commercial man in Canada, the peers in London, he ever created a deep, lasting and profound impression.

"When the territories of the northwest and Ruperts land were acquired by Canada, Donald Smith, as he was then, had acquired over the then distant territories a paramount interest; an influence of which they, in these later days, have little conception and which was invaluable to Canada. It may perhaps be truly said that without that influence the transfer which was not accomplished without bloodshed, would have been more tragic than it was. His services in this connection never have seemed to me to be properly appreciated and certainly they have never been too highly extolled. Up to that time and for some time afterward, the policy of the Hudson's Bay company was to keep these distant lands purely as a hunting ground, but the keen business instinct of Lord Strathcona showed him that no force could resist the tide of advancing civilization and with characteristic promptness he at once took steps to make a change and the steps which he took were then eminently valuable to Canada. He realized that the first need was communication between the east and the west. At that time railway communication had advanced westward only to the Mississippi river and he organized, as we remember, a powerful syndicate to give communication by rail from Minnesota at St. Paul to the Red river and from that point by water up to the junction of the Red river with the Assiniboine at a place which has since become famous as the city of Winnipeg. But this was only a preliminary step; he bent his whole mind, and he gave his whole soul to the project of having the eastern provinces connected by rail with the provinces of the west, and hence the project of the Canadian Pacific railway. It is a matter of history that in the construction of that railway, he took a most eminent part, but it is not perhaps as well known as it ought to be that before the Canadian Pacific railway became an accomplished fact, it was often periously near collapse and it was due to the splendid courage of Lord Strathcona and his associates who more than once risked their all, that at last the Canadian Pacific railway came into being.

"We are proud to remember that he was at one time a member of this house, and those who had the privilege to be his colleagues can testify that his sound judgment, his moderate views, his dignified conduct, always commanded the respect of all sides of the house.

"It is due to the government of Sir Charles Tupper to say that it is to that government we owe the appointment of Lord Strathcona as high commissioner at London, and no wiser selection could have been made or ever was made for a high office. My Right Hon. friend, the leader of the government, has given some inkling of Lord Strathcona's intense devotion to duty in that office, and, as the Right Hon. gentleman has said, perhaps I am in a better position than he to know the particulars in that regard Lord Strathcona's devotion to duty, his courtesy in business and social matters, his generous hospitality and above all, his ever watchful eagerness to put Canada to the front in all matters, whether important or unimportant, his daily attendance at his office, and his whole conduct made him certainly an ideal high commissioner. The manner in which he discharged his duties there was a constant source of pride to his countrymen.

"Everyon knows that his private life was on a par with his public life. He was a model husband, a good father and a true friend.

"It was his privilege to attain a very great age, and perhaps it was still a greater privilege to him to have realized, if he cared indeed to realize it, that as he advanced in years, he grew more and more in the respect, admiration and affection of his countrymen. His on the whole, was a fortunate life, and it must be told that whatever he acquired of wealth, or reputation, of fame and of public esteem, he fairly won and fairly deserved."

The motion to adjourn carried and the house rose immediately.

In the Senate.

OTTAWA, Jan. 21.—Senator Lougheed said it was doubtful if any page of romance pictured as interesting a career as that of Lord Strathcona. He had risen from the humble position he occupied in a small Scotch village, to one of the most commanding figures in the heart of the empire.

"By the death of Lord Strathcona," he concluded, "it may be said that Canada has lost its greatest pioneer and empire builder, a great diplomat, its most beneficent giver, its most picturesque figure, and a man whose name for generations to come will occupy the largest space of any of its sons on the historic page." Mr. Lougheed moved that out of respect to Lord Strathcona the senate should be adjourned.

In seconding this, Sir George Ross said that one of Canada's greatest men had fallen by the wayside.

PETITIONS OUT FOR NEW SCHOOL

Residents in Cemetery Road District Will be Approached for Signatures—Conservatives Meet.

Petitions for the establishment of a school near the head of Stanley street which would serve the residents of the Cemetery road and the surrounding district, will be circulated during the next few days for signatures.

At a meeting of the executive of the South Nelson Conservative association last night a committee composed of H. H. Crofts, W. Slader, A. Fietz, William Holmes and W. S. Stanley was named to circulate the petitions. The association has received from James H. Schofield, M. P. P. copies of the school act and information regarding the formation of the proposed new school district.

It is proposed to establish the school for the convenience of the residents of the Cemetery road district from which the distance to the Nelson public school is considered too great

FATE OF CABINET HANGS IN BALANCE

Today's Cabinet Council Critical—May Be Split on Naval Issue—Opinions Conflict

(Western Associated Press Special Cable.)

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The belief that today's cabinet council will be a critical one inasmuch as it will deal with the final decision as to the naval estimates, is the predominant feature in this morning's papers. The Unionist journals make varying estimates of the alleged division in the cabinet as between Mr. Churchill and Lloyd George, some of them estimating an equality with the premier neutral.

The Radical papers ridicule the idea of these ever being conflict in the cabinet, pointing out that any contest between the first lord of the admiralty and the chancellor of the exchequer is merely the usual tussel between a minister who is at the head of a spending department and he who has control of the purse strings.

The cabinet's discussion over the naval estimates will probably take two days at least, but a full attendance of all the ministers is assured.

The Standard (Conservative) expects the cabinet to patch up an arrangement which will postpone the naval difficulty, though it points out that the only result of this will be to throw the Ulster question into greater relief and it emphasizes Mr. Churchill's supposed pro-Ulster attitude.

The Telegraph says that the demands of the admiralty have been reduced to the lowest possible limit.

The Chronicle (Liberal) declares that while there is no doubt that the naval demands have created a considerable financial difficulty, there is no reason to believe that an agreement cannot be arrived at, which, while providing for the vital needs of the country, will abstain from a provocation of the armaments race and will eschew unnecessary expenditure.

LORD STRATHCONA'S FORTUNE TWENTY-FIVE MILLIONS

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—A Toronto financier who has been in close touch with Lord Strathcona estimates the late commissioner's wealth at $25,000,000.

The most profitable investment of Lord Strathcona is put down as his acquirement of the controlling interest in the Great Northern railway. The second most profitable development is the Northern Pacific railway. Probably the largest of his purely Canadian ventures was his interest in the Hudson's Bay company, whose stock he practically controlled.

His next best venture in Canada is the large block of Canadian Pacific railway stock which stands in his name. He was also holder of Montreal stock, as well as being president of the Royal Trust company.

MINE WORKERS MADE PROGRESS

Hundred and Twenty-Five Thousand New Members of Mine Workers —Thirteen Million for Defense

(Western Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 21. — Sharp criticism of former Governor W. E. Glasscock of West Virginia and of Governor E. M. Ammons of Colorado for what he termed a hostile attitude towara labor in connection with the coal miners' strike in those states was made here today by John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, read at its annual convention.

Friendly relations of the United Mine Workers with the Western Federation of Miners were touched upon by Mr. White, who expressed regret at the recent deportation from Calumet, Mich., of C. H. Moyer, president of that organization.

He surveyed the negotiations that ended in the Cleveland agreement in connection with the interstate joint movement and said this agreement gave the organization great impetus.

"Our union is solvent," said Mr. White; "it has clothed, fed and housed the strikers and their families; protected men against oppression; secured the highest mining rate in its history without the aid of a serious strike; the interstate joint movement has been rehabilitated and more than 125,000 new members have been added, all of which should be gratifying to every true friend of the trades union movement."

"I not only advocate biennial conventions," Mr. White continued, "but in harmony with my report to the last annual convention, we should seriously consider changing the basis of representation in our international conventions and adopt a different method—one that will give the rank and file the right to choose the delegates and at the same time reduce the number of men who will represent them. The cost of our conventions is enormous and the drain on local treasuries for maintenance of delegates is an item worthy of thoughtful consideration."

Three Million for Defense

"In our district, sub-district and local union treasuries there are more than $3,000,000, every dollar of which can be used as defense purposes," said William Green, secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America in his annual report.

The monthly relief assessment of fifty cents a member will be continued, the report states, and, with the regular income, will be sufficient to continue the coal miners' strikes indefinitely.

The mine workers expended $1,621,942 in relief work among its striking members during 1913, according to Mr. Green. In addition the striking copper miners in Michigan and strikers in other localities were aided from the war chest of the coal miners. Total expenditures for all purposes in 1913 amounted to $2,102,261.

Among the largest disbursements of the year were $661,000, sent to the striking coal miners of Colorado; $584,000 sent to the strikers in Vancouver, B. C., and $318,000 to West Virginia. There was expended in legal fees in defense of actions against the labor men $9,810.

The Mine Workers in October, 1913, had a paying membership of $402,347, an increase of $32,529 during the year. Balance in the treasury, November 30, 1913, was $278,032. The yearly income of the treasury is slightly less than two and a quarter millions, according to the account of disbursements.

"During the year, two new districts were formed and 339 new locals organized."

"The point I wish to emphasize is, that we have helped in West Virginia, Colorado and elsewhere in response to a call from the non-union men of these fields. We are not invaders, brutal anarchistic agitators as some of the enemies of organized labor say we are, seeking a monopoly of labor in violation of law. While, of course, not wholly unselfish, we are and have been in a large measure altruistic. We have spent much money and sacrificed a great deal. If we were only self-concerned, we would keep our money and save our energy. But not so, we have gone as helpers, responding to appeals from those less fortunate without regard to color, creed or nationality.

MINERS' BENEFIT CONCERT IS WELL PATRONIZED

Fully 300 tickets were sold for the concert and dance in aid of the striking miners on Vancouver island which was held in Eagle hall last night under the auspices of the Nelson trades and labor council. During the evening Marcus Martin, of Moyie, spoke a few words on the strike situation on Vancouver island which were received very appreciably. At midnight a luncheon was served by the members of the council.

Among those who took part in the musical program were: E. Lupton, Miss Campbell, Miss Dot, and Master Frank Phillips, Miss Sarah Phillips, D. Forteath, Mr. Stewart of Rossland, Mrs. D. Chapman, Miss Chapman and the Nelson Mandolin club which furnished the music for the dancing.

NEWS OF THE MARKETS

ISSUE BY PACIFIC GREAT EASTERN

Debentures Underwritten at Ninety-Five—Canadian Industrials Strong —Consols Bound Upward

(Western Associated Press Special Cable.)

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The stock markets opened dull and dropping, the favorable news from the Rand accentuating the realizing, but there was a cheerful recovery in the afternoon and a strong close with a further reduction in the bank rate. Consols bounded up to 73 15-16, and gilt-edged securities sympathized with moderate demands for investment despite the new issues announced during the day.

Dominion of Canada loan scrip was quoted at 2¼ premium.

The death of Lord Strathcona had a depressing effect upon C. P. R., but afterward the stock strengthened on inside support and closed firm at 219½. Dealers here do not believe that Lord Strathcona's holdings are liable to be marketed. There were but fractional changes in G. T. R., and trading was mixed. Land shares were quiet, but Canadian industrials and South American tractions were strong in spots.

The chief new issue of the day was one for $7,500,000 by the Pacific Great Eastern railway. The issue is of 4½ per cent debentures guaranteed by the British Columbia government. They have been underwritten at 95, with a commission of 1½ per cent. A 4½ per cent loan for $4,500,000 by the city of Gothenburg, Sweden, was underwritten at 98½, and a big block of Argentine treasury bills have been placed on the bill market.

Call money was quoted at 2 per cent., and bill rates again declined, three months' paper being negotiated at 3 per cent. The money market is uncertain as to whether the bank rate will be reduced from 4 to 3½ per cent tomorrow.

Sir Felix Schuster, presiding at an annual meeting, said that the abundant harvest in western Canada had largely offset the monetary stringency bred of a too rapid expansion. The difficulties were recognized, the banks were cautious, but though the pace was slacker and a continuance of brisk development seemed assured.

Cables from Johannesburg state that the labor leaders are secretly trying to precipitate another general strike, but that the government has thorough control of the situation.

The prospect of a long continued struggle between organized labor and the South African government is, however, depressing to operators.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN INVESTMENT SITUATION

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Dealings in both stocks and bonds were on an enlarged scale today and prices rose steadily.

An important factor was the marked success of New York state's offering of $517,000,000 of 4½ per cent bonds. The sales of this issue at about 106, and the large over subscription gave evidence of the improvement in the investment situation. The price which the bonds brought had an immediate effect on the securities market. Quotations of the bond "when issued" which opened around 106⅝, shot up to 107⅞.

Total sales of bonds, par value, $5,665,000.

PRICES SCORE ADVANCE ON MONTREAL MARKET

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MONTREAL, Jan. 21.—The advance in the local stock market, which showed some signs of halting on Tuesday, was resumed today and substantial gains were shown by the majority of the active issues. Stocks of wide market influence like C. P. R., Power, and Brazilian, were conspicuous in the rise, all three rising to a new high levels for the movement and closing practically at the best.

Strength of C. P. R. in outside markets brought no activity in the stock here but quotations were at a substantial advance 1 to 1½ points above Tuesday. Other features of the market were Shawinigan, which rose 2 to 138, Ottawa Power which rose on active trading from 162¾ at the opening, to 165 and finished 164¾, and Macdonald which jumped 2½ to 20½ and closed 20¾. Textile, Laurentide, Winnipeg railway, Twin City and Detroit were other issues to show an advancing tendency.

WANT AD HOROSCOPE

JANUARY 22

Famous men born on this date are Francis Bacon, the eminent philosopher, born in 1561 and the poet Byron who was born in 1788 and died in 1824. These men have the strong characteristics imparted by the governing planets Saturn and Uranus and show the remarkable mental qualities imparted by the sign of this birthdate, Aquarius.

The very strongest and the very weakest people are born under this sign.

The strength and the weakness of Aquarius people lie in their own hands entirely. Determined to achieve the highest and best, they succeed, but are apt to be easily discouraged and should cultivate greater self-reliance and more initiative.

The birthstone is a sapphire. The Want Ads would be helpful in securing a position as a sales person, an agent, or a bookkeeper.

MINERS DESIRE NEW LEGISLATION

was in favor of dropping the per capita tax.

Frank Campbell thought that the congress had done good work. It had been proposed that the contribution from the Western Federation of Miners should be from headquarters, but as the district was represented in the British Columbia Federation of Labor, which sent delegates to the Dominion congress, some had thought the representation was sufficient, but the speaker took the view that the metalliferous miners or the coal miners, or both, should be represented. If necessary a per capita tax to pay the expenses should be levied.

The matter was left over for further discussion.

Discuss Socialism.

A discussion of Socialism followed a resolution calling for the laying aside of 2 cents per man per month for the support of the Socialist party. The resolutions committee declared the matter was covered by the constitution, which provided for funds for educational work and which called also for support of the Socialist party.

H. A. Stewart of Rossland asked if support of the Socialist party were the only political action taken by the district, was not the present convention for the purpose of political action, for securing favorable legislation for the behefit of the miners of British Columbia? Legislation for the working class was just as good, no matter what party it was brought in by, he said.

Frank Campbell of Trail said the Socialist representatives at Victoria were the only men who had put legislation on the statute books for the benefit of the working class. The constitution was not definite enough; he wanted district No. 6 to come out in the open and support the Socialist party.

George Fleming agreed that the constitution did not cover the Trail resolution. He favored the proposed appropriation.

A. H. McPherson said he was not a Socialist and objected to any political party receiving funds from the district. Socialism had been a bone of contention in the district and better work could be done if politics were left alone and the district were placed in the position of being able to appeal to parliament simply as a body of unionists.

William Lakeland quoted the constitution to prove that it covered the resolution.

Marcus Martin supported the resolution. The stage had been reached when it was necessary for the organized working class to, come out flat-footed and say where it stood. It should support any political party that offered to give what the working class required. He described the idea of keeping politics out of union affairs as threadbare. The working class was always running up against the political machine and bashing its head, he said; politics could not be kept out of. He blamed the Liberal party for the Lemieux act and credited the Socialist party with having placed a compensation law on the books. He instanced Granby Bay and the refusal of the Granby company to allow an organizer on its property and the result of the McCormick case as proof that the district should concern itself with politics. "We are an industrial body, but unless we join for political action we shall be as useless as a sixth wheel on a wagon," he said.

A. A. Taylor said that the object of the provision in the constitution was for educating men to think and he could not see that any party had done as much good for the working class as the Socialists. He would like to see a law which had been put on the books by the Liberals or Conservatives that was not for their own advantage. The time had come when the constitution should define clearly what educational purposes meant. Education should be directed to teaching men to think clearly and rationally and to express their thoughts by the ballot.

Mr. Stewart said that any movement for the benefit of the working class was Socialistic. It would take a long time to evolve Socialism, probably 50 years, and he thought direct political action, to secure desirable legislation from the existing governments, was the solution of the problem. Capital ruled in the United States and it would soon in Canada if direct political action were not taken. Nothing much could be accomplished in securing support for Socialism unless it could be shown that Socialism would bring results. The people wanted to know what Socialism would be and how it would come into existence. Socialism would come through evolution and that would be through political action under the present system. If the working men cared to do so they could have working men nominated as Conservative and Liberal candidates. If the members of parliament were working men what did it matter if they were Liberals or Conservatives? It was useless to attempt to force Socialism on any one, it had to come by education. He believed in Socialism, but he was opposed to the methods of the party representatives who had aroused prejudice. If Socialism were understood everyone would support it, but it could not be forced on anyone. "Go after the parties in power and show them that we want legislation; go to the nominating conventions and select your candidates," he declared.

Mr. Martin said Socialism would come when the working class supported it. He was not opposed to securing

PAPER READ ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Votes for Women Tends to All that is Noble and Good Says Speaker

A very interesting and enjoyable time was spent at a meeting of the Nelson Equal Suffrage league, which took place last Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. I. L. Hirsch. The president of the league, Mrs. S. A. R. Macdonald delivered an address as follows:

"Before introducing the speaker of the evening I would like to say a few words as to the general trend and spirit of our organization. I hold that the spirit of an organization is its most important part; and to keep that high and unwavering and courageous must ever be our foremost aim.

Our direct and immediate object is, of course, to secure the suffrage for women on the same terms as those on which it is, or may be, granted to men. Our general objects include the spreading of information on the subject of equal suffrage, the awakening of a keen and vital interest in the cause among those who have hitherto given it little thought, and the fostering of a strong and loyal comradeship between all who are helping in the work. It is work, we earnestly believe, of tremendous importance in the progress and development of the race. It is work which offers a field for all talents, a scope for every beneficient energy. It is work which calls for the united efforts of men and women—for, what hinders one is harmful to the other, and until equal opportunity and equal power are open to woman and man, the soul of humanity can not attain the best ideal. Tennyson's much-quoted dictum is so apt and so forcible that you must pardon me if I repeat what is, of course, as familiar to you all as your A. B. C.

"The woman's cause is man's; they rise or sink Together, dwarfed or god-like, bond or free."

Mrs. Macdonald's address was followed by a very interesting paper on woman suffrage by R. W. Scott, as follows:

"To thoroughly deal with the question of analyzing women's suffrage would be a long business. It would involve the whole question of how the present system of the suffrage came to be a task that I neither feel myself qualified to do, nor were I so qualified would I inflict on you tonight. There can be no doubt that in the middle ages women had the right to vote, and to appear personally in the Shire courts. Anyone, however, who has an idea of English history knows what was the condition of the roads in that period—veritagle quagmires; and to add to other dangers often infested with thieves. Under these circumstances these women who had the right, preferred to allow themselves to be represented by deputy—the person being sent being usually the bailiff. I think we can hardly blame them for that—yet it has always seemed a strange thing to me that a certain class eager to show the slight tincture of knowledge they possess; they should put forward the statement when asked their opinion on the subject—"Well, I do not think women ought to have the vote, since, when they did have it they made no use of it and allowed the subject to go by default."

"There was no legal barrier to women voting until 1832. A long search in government offices among musty old files, however, does not produce any evidence of their doing so. The lawyers who framed the bill in 1832 must have had this in mind, for, instead of using the name person in the bill they used throughout the word man. That lawyer (or lawyers) was the real person who brought all the trouble. And, since lawyers are proverbial stickers for words it is no surprising that in an appeal in the English courts they maintained the lawyer (or lawyers) of 1832, stating that in their opinion man in the text of that bill meant man and not person.

I can, however, congratulate the Canadian lawyers on their freer reading and interpretation of the laws. The case is well known and I should like to bring it before this society. A Miss French applied to the Barrister's society of New Brunswick for admittance and was refused merely on the grounds of her sex. She therefore took the case to law and the society was compelled to admit her. The lady practised for some time in that province and when she came to British Columbia went through the same procedure with the same result. She is now practising as a barrister in Victoria. So, for two of the provinces in the Dominion, there is hope.

The most common objection that we are met with is, that woman's place is in her home. According to these erudite philosophers the sole duty of woman is housekeeping in general (the rearing of children, darning and mending the family wardrobe varied by a few puerile amusements such as reading a light novel, doing a little crochet work or indulging in a shopping expedition) I should like every woman to have that opposing argument brought to her notice in all its bareness and baldness. How, then, any of them could refrain from joining the suffrage movement would astonish me.

"Another contrary argument is—What do women know of politics, anyhow?. They would only make a mess of things all around. I wonder what political ideas the people of 1832 who were given the vote had? I say, but little, but to a certain extent they have made good and I am sure that women under similar circumstances would have kept pace with them in their education, or even outstripped them. This argument also appears under various guises, such as, what do women know of business, etc. The person who makes such statements would generally make but poor showing in any business examination, and if he had a business of any size it would be strange, indeed, if I could not find women in his office.

"The medical argument brought against us is a harder one to meet. We are told that statistics prove that women have, on the average, less weight of brain than men. I think we must grant that premiss; but, then it has never yet been conclusively proved that great cranial capacity invariably means great mental capacity, and secondly, the period during which women have actually had to depend on that faculty is a short one. It is highly probable that women are only in the dawn of their evolution and they have yet to achieve greater things than men have ever thought of. I have, in fact, never yet heard one sound, logical, irrefutable argument why women should not have the vote, though I have heard and do know some very good ones why they should have it.

"The best argument is that it is really no gift when we talk of giving women the vote—rather should we talk of restoring to them a right wrenched way from them by the subtlety of lawyers in the past century. If we are to continue to regard woman as she was regarded then by all means she is not to have the vote, but if we are to take into consideration that is the women of the twentieth century who are calling for the vote, then it must be accorded to them. In the past women have been regarded either as the slaves or the playthings of men. Today in every walk of life man is looking to woman to be what she was originally designed to be—a helpmate to man.

"To fulfil that purpose in all its entirety and beauty it is obvious that she must be regarded as his equal, for a true companion, a true friend, a partner in all the word means, must surely be equal. So that as far as men continue to refuse the vote to women they are really acting against their own development, acting according to a lower standard of ethics and ideals than they should. Men belittle themselves, not women, when they refuse to grant so just a demand as the right to vote.

"When we come to regard one class of women, viz: The woman who owns property in her own name, the injustice of the law is apparent. The keynote of the American rebellion was taxation without representation is tyranny. That principle seems now acknowledged by any amateur politician yet, how they can reasonably admit this fact and yet continue to refuse the vote to women passes comprehension, and is far from being in accord with that boasted perquisite of the male sex, their sense of logic.

The principle of women's suffrage is again worthy of support when we consider the fact that the laws men make have to be obeyed by women The laws themselves reflect this masculine basis. I have merely to ask any thinking person as proof of this to regard the unequal way in which the female sex is treated in regard to divorce. "Their legal position again in regard to illegitimate children is such as to reflect no great credit on men. Last of all, as a glaring instance of unqualified men's tyranny in this respect in the province in which we live may I quote the fact that it has no married women's property act, and unless the husband takes special care at his death, his wife, has no legal claim to his estate. Admitted the act allowing this was a good thing when it was passed, yet it is on a par with other treatment of women. Conditions are changed but the letter of the law stands as before.

"Again, for years the morality of our cities in Canada has been such as to call for the greatest condemnation by any one who has any moral sense Men have been content to allow this state of affairs to go on. I have no doubt that the motto votes for women means purity in civic and provincial domestic affairs.

"I could go on showing reason after reason why women should have the vote but of what avail. As I said before in this paper, there cannot be produced a single valid logical objection why they should not have it—argument and reason are overwhelmingly in their favor.

"Votes for women tends to all that is noble and good and progressive. To keep them in their present position is to state that we prefer slaves to companions, vice and crime to goodness and probity, in fact that in all things we prefer retrogression to evolution."

General discussion ensued, after which names of new members were handed in. About 20 have already become members and many others have stated their intention of joining the league. The next meeting will take place on Tuesday evening, Jan. 27.

Chew Food Thoroughly

In these days of soft, mushy foods and quick meals, insufficient mastication of food is often responsible for stomach trouble, headache, biliousness, constipation, dull brains, and various other ills.

Generally these troublesome results can be avoided or corrected by having a regular daily ration of all that could be obtained through Liberals and Conservatives. If it were possible to nominate a labor man as Conservative or Liberal candidate he would like to see it done and then to watch the results. The public was opposed, prejudiced and very bitter against any movement that had ever been advanced by the working men for their own good, he declared.

W. B. McIsaac contended the speakers were out of order; the resolution did not call for a political discussion, he said.

D. H. Vignaux thought the best should be made of present conditions and he could not see that it was not possible for a working man to be nominated as a Conservative or Liberal He had seen as good labor men be longing to one party as to the other The object should be to educate the working party.

W. H. Ferguson moved that the convention support the Socialist party.

Q. Work said he would not vote for a man because he was a Socialist, or a Liberal, or a Conservative, because he had known rascals in all three parties. He knew much good legislation which had come from both old political parties. The party in power which had passed the Washington Workman's Compensation act was overwhelmingly Republican. In the United States every act for the benefit of the working classes had been passed by the old political parties. Labor unions were just as much combines as the trusts, yet President Wilson had exempted them from the Sherman anti-trust act. He referred to other legislation and said that he was not defending any party, but wished to give credit where it was due. He did not say that Socialism was wrong, but he believed good could come also from the other parties.

The moving of the previous question ended the discussion.

From the Moyie union was received a vote of thanks to other unions for the assistance rendered James Roberts. The committee named to audit the accounts in this connection held by Frank Phillips reported that they were correct.

A resolution endorsing the Socialist party as being the only party representing the working class and endorsing the actions of the Socialist members in the legislature was passed.

Condemns Government.

Speaking to the resolution condemning the government for its actions in the Nanaimo strike Mr. Stewart said that while every working man in the province was in accord with the resolution, what was needed was legislation to prevent a recurrence of such action.

Mr. Campbell said the more the government were hit on that one spot the more tender that spot would get. The miners on Vancouver island had been treated worse than Turks; they were all British subjects and all they had asked had been industrial freedom, industrial justice. They were fighting the greatest fight that had been fought in the history of Canada, he declared.

A resolution thanking the United Mine Workers of America for assistance rendered the striking miners in Michigan was passed.

Condemns Lemieux Act.

The Lemieux act was generally condemned.

Mr. Stewart thought something should be offered in the place of the act and suggested that a resolution of a constructive nature be forwarded from the district to the British Columbia federation.

Mr. McIsaac remarked that the Lemieux act had never proved satisfactory to labor.

"Don't lose the right to strike" was the burden of a speech by Mr. Campbell, who favored the removal of the Lemieux act from the statutes.

In district 18 W. L. Phillips declared the act was called the "Lemon act," it had been designed by the capitalist class to fetter the labor class. Experience in the west was that the act had worked against the advancement of labor. The Lemieux act had been recommended in England by Sir George Askwith because the employers needed an act to enable them to continue their tyranny. He condemned the act as tending to crush initiative on the part of labor.

Mr. Stewart moved as an amendment to a motion to adopt the resolution that the British Columbia federation be asked to work for the repeal of the act. Mr. Vignaux seconded the amendment. The motion as amended carried.

Sunday Labor.

Regarding claims for compensation for workmen injured while employed on Sunday Mr. Campbell said that the Lord's Day act did not cover mines and smelters and that consequently compensation could be collected by miners and smeltermen injured on Sunday. The decision referred to covered a case where the employer of the injured man had no right to have him working.

Glen Marshall thought the interests of the workers as a whole should be considered.

Mr. Stewart, F. W. Perrin and Percy W. Johnston also contributed to the discussion.

William Phillips understood the companies could refuse to pay compensation for persons injured on Sunday.

W. L. Phillips said district 18 had used the judgment as a reason why men should not work on Sunday except on special occasions.

Mr. Vignaux said many miners in isolated places were very glad to work on Sunday, another point was that many miners needed the money. If a man worked on Sunday, no matter under what condition, he should receive compensation if injured.

Mr. Fleming did not see how a man could refuse to work if a company instructed him to do so. Mr. Marcus took a similar view. He favored the resolution.

Mr. Perrin opposed the principle of the Lord's Day act.

One hundred dollars was donated to the Michigan strikers on motion of Frank Phillips and Frank Campbell. Payment was left to the incoming executive.

Discussing a resolution from Kimberley calling for the appointment of a delegate to the Dominion trades and labor congress, Mr. Murphy expressed the opposition of Silverton to the proposal and seconded a resolution by Percy W. Johnston turning down the resolution on account of the financial aspect of the case.

Favor First Aid.

Speaking of the resolution regarding first aid instruction Mr. Taylor referred to accidents from gas and similar cases where valuable assistance could be given if someone at hand understood first aid.

Mr. Stewart thought mining companies should be compelled by law to keep pulmotors on hand for use in case of accidents from gas

Dangers of the use of medical appliances in the hands of unskilled persons were referred to by Mr. Martin.

Mr. Taylor replied that he thought from a humane point of view there was little to be feared and that much good would be done.

Frank Phillips also spoke of the value of having at least one first aid man at each mine. He spoke of an occasion when a seriously injured man had been 48 hours on the way between a mine and a hospital. He thought miners would welcome first aid instruction. Legislation was not necessary, but he thought the government would send instructors to the mines.

At the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine the men were paid while practicing the use of the pulmotor and similar apparatus, said Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Murphy spoke of an occasion where he saved the life of William Davidson by employing first aid. He referred to the provincial labor commission before which Mr. Phillips and Mr. McIsaac advocated first aid instruction.

Mr. Campbell and Mr Johnston supported the proposal.

Shift bosses and foremen were usually first called to an accident and therefore should be qualified, it was explained by Frank Phillips, and Mr. Taylor urged that someone in authority should direct first aid operations. Every miner should understand first aid, declared Mr. Phillips.

Glen Marshall thought that the resolution should make no reference to shift bosses or foremen.

Value in Coal Mines.

In coal mining shift bosses had to hold certificates, said W. L. Phillips, who considered the matter of the utmost importance. Fatalities in coal mining would have been 50 per cent higher at Coal Creek if it were not for the pulmotor and other first aid devices, he said.

William Phillips suggested that the resolution should read that legislation be passed to compel companies to have a committee at each mine qualified in first aid.

The resolution was referred back to the resolution committee, the framers of the resolution, William Phillips, W. L. Phillips and H. Stewart, to be redrawn.

Officers by Referendum.

It was reported that a referendum vote had decided that while the officers should be elected by a referendum vote, they need not be nominated by at least four locals and that the president should not act as organizer during his term.

It was decided that the convention should nominate candidates for the executive and that the names should then be submitted to referendum vote.

There was a long discussion on a proposal from Rossland that the question as to whether a lawyer resident in the district instead of at Fernie should be secured by the organization should be put to a referendum vote. It was decided to leave the matter to the incoming executive, with instructions to obtain terms from as many lawyers as will tender, the choice of counsel for the year being put up to a referendum vote.

That a $3 a day minimum and a compensation act on the same lines as that of the state of Washington would be recommended by the labor commission was the belief expressed by Mr. Campbell during a discussion.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, croup, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16-ounce bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best-known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiacol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR A. MACDONALD COMPANY

(By Daily News Leased Wire)

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21.—G. T. Grant, president of the A. Macdonald company, Limited, of this city, retired from this position at a meeting here yesterday. The new president elected is W. P. Riley, who was formerly the vice-president and general manager. Mr. Grant is president of the Dominion Bond company, of Toronto, and was instrumental in the formation of the new corporation, which bought the business of Alexander Macdonald. Mr. Riley was formerly in the wholesale business at the head of the lakes, and came to this city to assume the position of general manager of the new company. Mr. Grant arrived in the city yesterday to attend the meeting of the board of directors, and will leave again for the east today. In connection with the change in the presidency of the company, the announcement was made by Mr. Grant that a local board for the A. Macdonald company, Limited, would be named in a few days, and would at once enter on the discharge of the duties of the position. It is understood that practically all of the arrangements have been made for this change, but none of the names could be obtained from Mr. Grant or from Mr. Riley.

A. R. Heyland, of Kaslo, was a Nelson visitor yesterday. He was registered at the Hume.

CHOIR PREPARES FOR CHAHKO MIKA

Nelson Select Male Voice Choir Re-Organizes—Club Rooms to Be Secured—Socials Planned

With the 1914 Chahko Mika carnival in view, an event which, it is urged, will call for the assistance of every local organization having the interests of the city of Nelson at heart, and which will vie with each other in presenting the best drawing card, the members of the Nelson Male Voice choir have already set themselves the task of preparing a musical program that will delight the many visitors during the carnival week.

At specially convened meetings, held in the studio of F. Warner-Smith, large numbers attended with a view to reorganizing the choir and to prepare a new set of rules. After careful deliberation and with the unanimous vote of the members present, the choir adopted the title of the Nelson Select Male Voice choir. During the four years of the existence of the choir it has always been found somewhat difficult to get the various parts well balanced, and the idea now is to make up the choir of active, associate and honorary members, and in addition it will now only be possible to gain admission to the membership of the choir by first undergoing a voice test examination and afterward by ballot. The intention of the committee is not so much to have numbers as to have quality and with this end in view, the associate members, so soon as they become proficient will be drafted into the active or concert membership of the choir.

R. C. Tevlotdale, the secretary-treasurer of the choir, states that great enthusiasm is being displayed by the members in the hope of taking part in the Chahko Mika program and he also desires encouragement to the music-loving men of Nelson to apply for membership and get the advantages of choral tuition.

A practice and club room are being arranged for, where not only practices may be engaged in, but where members may also meet. It is intended to provide lectures and literature so as to encourage a keener interest in the study of music. The rooms are to be secured also with a view of holding musical socials from time to time.

Mr. Tevlotdale is convinced that Nelson stands second to no other city in the Dominion, taking its population into account, in regard to its musical talent, and he argues that no better attraction can be provided either for its citizens or to its visitors during the carnival week than to promote the erection of a concert hall where not only the Nelson Select Male Voice choir, but many other vocal and musical attractions from outside centres will go to make up one of the most pleasing and satisfying events of the Chahko Mika.

The following officers and committee have been selected for the 1914 session:

President—W. Pascoe.
Vice-President—H. Waters.
Secretary-Treasurer—R. C. Tevlotdale.
Librarian—R. F. Irwin.
Conductor—F. Warner-Smith, F.G.O.
Committee—A. G. Brown, D. Evans, J. Hall, D. Rees, W. J. Waters.
