WASHINGTON HEARS HOW PLUNGERS ARE DESTROYED

Mines, Underwater Telephones and Nets Used

DREADNOUGHT STILL SUPREME AT SEA

Probably 70 of German Craft Have Been Put Out of Action

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Great Britain has discovered and has put into operation means of combatting the submarine ,which, according to official reports to the United States government already has resulted in a loss estimated at between 50 and 70 German submarines. The report declares that the British admiralty confidently believes it has crushed the German undersea craft. New modes of offense and defense that may revolutionize naval warfare have been adopted and high British naval officers are of the opinion that, unless the effectiveness of the submarine is increased, it will no longer constitute the menace that it has been to commerce and battle fleets.

The British censorship has prevented the disclosure of details concerning the developments. Within the last three weeks, however, confidential reports to various government departments from representatives in European capitals of neutrals as well as belligerent countries have confirmed the British admiralty's view that an effective means of dealing with the submarine has been found.

Dreadnought Still the Mainstay

These reports are being closely scrutinized on account of the bearing they may have upon the naval policy of the United States. They reaffirm officers of the navy in their conviction that the dreadnought still is the mainstay in warfare on sea, and tend to dissipate the profound impression created by the spectacular and for a long time apparently unsuppressed operations of the German U boats around the British isles.

According to the reports destruction or capture of 50 submarines actually had been reported several weeks ago and it was regarded as possible that the number might have reached 70. A dinner was given recently in London which, while not a formal state affair, was attended by high government officials in celebration of the destruction of the fiftieth underwater enemy. Reports of the dinner apparently were suppressed by the censor in accordance with Great Britain's policy of keeping Germany in doubt as to how many boats have been destroyed.

Telephone Detects Them

While the greatest secrecy is thrown around the means employed, the United States government has information concerning the principal methods which have been successful in meeting the German war zone campaign. A submarine telephone has been developed by which it is possible to detect the approach of a submarine by sound from observation boats or stations planted off shore connected with points of the mainland.

For the capture of the craft whose presence has not been detected or even suspected, the government's reports describe how huge nets have been stretched across the channels through which the submarine may be expected to pass and in open waters, near steamship lanes or in the vicinity of warships, nets suspended with floats have been cast. From patrol boats on watch the floats pulled beneath the water showed that the submarine had become entangled. Then patrols congregate at the place and when the submarine comes to the surface, as inevitably it must to disentangle itself, it is destroyed by gunfire or captured.

A special type of mine also has been devised and which is laid in large fields that has proved particularly dangerous to submarines approaching steamer lanes. The German method of supplying submarines with oil and provisions either at sea or from concealed places along the coasts of the British Isles has been ferreted out and practically disposed of. This compels the boats to return to the bases at more frequent intervals and leaves them only comparatively a short time in positions and equipped for effective duty.

Aeroplanes Discover Others

Aeroplanes are described as exceedingly useful in locating and following the trail of submarines. They can detect one even 100 feet beneath the surface. It is the habit, the reports say, of the German submarines to slip into favorable positions along the steamer lanes and lie on the bottom for long periods, rising occasionally to the surface for observation and other purposes. As the batteries are not exhausted by this method, the boats not being in motion, only a brief stay on the surface is necessary to renew the air supply and take a hurried observation. Undersea boats adopting these tactics have been the most difficult to catch. Here the aeroplanes have shown their great usefulness as the comparatively shallow water along much of the British coast makes it possible for the aeroplane operators to see the ships lying on the bottom. The aeroplane notes the position and notifies the nearest destroyer or patrol boat, which speeds to the spot and waits for the submarine to rise.

GERMANS SELL BOOTY AT BERLIN

PARIS, Oct. 1.—On receiving information to the effect that the booty taken by the Germans at Lille is being sold at a department store in Berlin the French government has entered a protest with neutrals against such sales. The protest is based on a letter from an officer of the German military school at Litcherfelde to a German prisoner interned in the French camp at Fougres, announcing the sale.

FEARS SHORTAGE OF GRAIN CARRYING TONNAGE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1.—Hugh M. Baird of Baird and Botterell, grain exchange, has just returned from an eastern trip. He was in Montreal and Chicago and has the fololwing to say with reference to the ocean movement of wheat:

"I talked to grain men, brokerage agents and freight and shipping interests and find that while Montreal harbor is full of tonnage, at least 75 per cent is for munitions of war. About the only chance that wheat shippers have is to get a tramp steamer of which few are available.

"Hower, occasioally there is a little space available in regular line boats, but this is a mere bagatelle. In another six weeks the port of Montreal will be closed and I can see no likelihood of any volume of grain getting out of there in that period. It was evident from my conversation with vessel and grain men that little prospect of relief from the government is looked for. Buffalo is today the pivotal point through which the great bulk of the Canadian grain of the northwestern states must go to seaboard and it will be nothing short of a miracle if within the next three weeks there is not tremendous congestio nat that point.

"One of the things that has helped to hold our market steady is the fact that the United States winter wheat crop, which has moved and which was bought freely by Britain and the allies, is proving a bad milling propsition and a great deal of it is reselling at the seaboard while they are replacing it with Manitoba's.

"The fact that they are doing this shows that they are not in immediate need of wheat."

ANTI-TREATING LAW TO GO INTO EFFECT IN LONDON

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Oct. 2.—A formal order declaring London and surrounding districts to be an area under the Defense of the Realm act in which the practise of treating is prohibited and a further dilution of spirits is allowed, was issued last night. No order was made regarding the hours of opening and closing of public houses. The measure becomes effective Oct. 11.

In order to prevent residents of London being able to evade the regulations by going a few miles out of the city the whole metropolitan district and parts of the counties of Essex, Hertford and Kent are included in the prohibited area. The central board in charge of the liquor traffic will, it is understood, next deal with night clubs, which flourish in central London and which now keep open until the early hours of the morning.

EXPECT BALKAN OUTBREAK SOON

Allies Prepare for Attack By Bulgaria

FRONTIER FIGHTS ALREADY REPORTED

Entente Troops to Support Servian and Greek Armies

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The hope expressed yesterday that war in the Balkans might be averted virtually has been abandoned, according to the belief expressed in official quarters.

The statement made by Sir Edward Grey, foreign minister, in the commons yesterday afternoon concerning the rumors that Austro-German officers have arrivel in Bulgaria, just as they did before Turkey threw in its lot with the Germanic allies, is taken by officials to mean that Bulgaria, too, has definitely decided to join them.

Such a move by Bulgaria would result in the entente allies being called upon to keep their promise to support with all the means in their power those Balkan states whch remaini friendly to them who are menaced by the threatened Bulgarian aggression.

Athens Expected It.

Athens never had much confidence in the Bulgarian assurances that Bulgaria's mobiliaztion was quite innocent, it was asserted here yesterday and the other capitals now have been forced to the same conclusion. There is nothing to indicate the attitude Rumania has taken but it has always been taken for granted that its friendship for Italy and France assured its continued support of the cause of the entente powers.

The question arises as to what assistance the entente allies could give Greece and Servia. It is suggested that an agreement with Greece be made that for every soldier sent by it to help Servia the allies would land a soldier and equipment at Saloniki to protect Greek territory to the south and when the time came to march against Bulgaria. It is probable that this would be only one of the steps taken against Bulgaria, should its attitude continue provocative which officials now consider it to be, despite the fact that a large majority of the people in that country are believed to be still friendly to the entente allies, especially Russia and England.

German Influence Gains.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A depsatch to Reuter's from Athens says:

'Latest advices from Servia and Bulgaria point to German influence gaining ground daily. It is naturally concluded that the chances of maintaining peace in the Balkans are remote."

Allies Ready to Defend Servia.

PARIS, Ot. 1.—The Temps announces that France and Great Britain already have taken military measures to defend Servia and Greece against Bulgarian aggression.

The Temps does not indicate what armed steps have been taken by the allies, nor is anything official available respecting their military dispositions. It is presumed in military circles here, however, that a formidable expedition will land either at Kavala or Salonika or that it is already landing.

The indications are that Italy and Russia are co-operating with France and Great Britain in the execution of this joint movement, although the actual military forces probably will be drawn from Great Britain and France, and that the Italians will lend their

$365,000,000 IS ALREADY SUBSCRIBED

Mammoth Loan in States Expected to Be Absorbed by Tonight—West Still to Be Heard From

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Subscriptions amounting to approximately $365,000,000 appeared to be in sight Thursday night toward the $500,000,000 issues of joint Anglo-French bonds, according to a declaration made today by the president of one of the largest national banks in the city. This would leave $135,000,000 to be taken and it was his opinion that today and tomorrow would see the entire amount placed.

The $365,000,000, it is assumed, represents the total pledges tabulated up to Thursday night and includes the chief large bank subscriptions and those of wealthy individuals entering the list of underwriters. It was also thought that this total covered subscriptions from every section of the country, although this was not stated.

The books will be left open in all probability for several days. Middle western and western banks are yet to be heard from and the wants of some of them remain to be ascertained. It might be discourteous to close the door while they are at the threshold; hence there probably will be no final casting up of totals until ample time—four or five days—will have been afforded all to come in.

KING SPEAKS OF GENERAL OFFENSIVE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—A personal telegram of congratulation from King George to President Poincare and Gen. Joffre today removed any doubt as to whether the present onslaughts of the allies constitute the beginning of a great drive.

King George sent warm congratulations on the successes won by the French troops "at the outset of our common offensive."

President Poincare replied with a similar message recalling the victories won by Gen. French and the British.

VICTORIA PEOPLE WERE NEAR PANIC

Submarine Purchase Made Coast Feel Safe

PAYMENTS WERE ALL PERFECTLY REGULAR

Naval Officer Examined Craft Before Taking Them Over

(Special to The Daily News.)

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 1.—Sir Charles Davidson, holding a royal commission from the Dominion government empowering him to inquire into war contracts, opened an investigation today at the local parliament buildings into the circumstances attending the purchase of the two submarines known as C.C. 1 and C.C. 2 for the defense of the Pacific.

S. S. Taylor, K.C., of Vancouver, was given a hearing and explained he had been retained by the provincial Liberal association to appear, and, if permission were granted, to cross-examine those called. His lordship stated that it was impossible for him to consent.

W. J. Goepel of the treasury department was the first witness. He produced a certified copy of the check for $1,150,000 which had been paid for the boats. He was followed by F. L. Crawford, manager of the Victoria branch of the Bank of Commerce, who gave particulars of the cashing of the check. It had been presented by J. B. Paterson, manager of the Seattle Construction & Drydock company, from which the submarines were purchased. The total of the amount payable on the check held by Mr. Paterson had been divided into three sums, two of which had been made payable in New York funds and the other in Seattle funds. The former two made up the bulk of the aggregate, only $200,000 being paid in Seattle. The latter, according to documents in his possession, had been deposited to Mr. Paterson's credit and $160,000 of this went to the Seattle company for work done on the boats.

Submarines Relieved Panic

Mr. Crawford later was asked as to the condition in Victoria at the time of the purchase of the boats. He declared that there had been an incipient run on the banks, which had only been subdued when the government declared currency legal tender. He said that, owing to the city's exposed situation, the bankers had been somewhat alarmed and that local gold and securities had been transferred to interior points. Constant telephone messages had been received by him asking whether it would not be wise to take women and children away until something more definite was known of the plans of the German cruiser Leipsic and other vessels of the German Pacific fleet. Motor cars also had been held in readiness; in fact the condition might be described as approaching panic. He had no hesitation in saying that the advent of the submarines had a quieting effect. People believed that an attacking war vessel would have a difficult time cruising up the comparatively narrow waters of the straits without being

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A despatch to Lloyd's from Christiansand, Norway, says:

"The Norwegian lighter Florida, bound from Christiana for Hull, laden with pip props, in tow of the Norwegian whaler Whangoroa, was set on fire last night by a German submarine 40 miles of Naze, southern extremity of Norway. Two others vessels were seen on fire. The Whangoroa put in here."

RUSSIANS ARE HOLDING FIRM

German Progress Is of Small Importance

MUSCOVITES GAIN VILLAGE OF GOULI

Are Attacking Between Dvinsk and Volhynia and in Galicia

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Oct. 1.—In the east the Russians appear to be making a much better effort to hold their positions for, except just in front of Dvinsk and in Volhynia, the Germans claim to have made no progress, while between those two points and in Galicia, according to a Berlin official report, all the attacking is being done by the Russians. Indeed, the Russian troops by countering the attack which Field Marshal von Hindenburg launched at Lutsk from the the northwest have succeeded pretty well in straightening out their line from north to south.

Germans Flee.'

"On the lower Serewethch, east of Novo Grodek, our troops without firing raided the villages of Jourki and Kerelitz. The Germans fled to their main positions, throwing away their arms and ammunition. Near Korelitzy they left about 100 dead—killed with the bayonet.

"By a sudden attack in the region of Novo Zelki on the Serewetsch southeast of Novo Grodek, the Germans were repulsed and prisoners and trophies captured.

"Zariethchie and Denischinovti, southeast of Baronwitch, the enemy has been driven over the river Stchara.

"On the middle Styr in the Obore region, southeast of Kolki, the Germans, after preparation by heavy artillery, attacked our troops.

"After gaining not more than 100 paces and sustaining enormous losses they broke and fled in disorder. A fierce fight is proceeding south of Kavoki. According to reports received an Austrian aircraft which was making a reconnaissance of our extreme left, flew over Rumanian territory in order to escape our fire.

"It is stated that during the fight of the last few days on the Styr the Germans and Austrians employed explosive bullets almost exclusively."

Germans Gain Footing.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 1.—The following official statement was issued tonight:

"German attacks in the region of Mishof, on the railway east of Mitau, were unsuccessful. German aeroplanes threw bombs on Ust-Dvinsk, Riga and the station of Oger, but without causing any military damage. In the region of Grendzen, northwest of Lake Svenden, after a heavy bombardment, the Germans attacked and seized some of our trenches. The fighting continues.

"German attacks in the region of Behroff on Lake Medum and against the defile near the northern extremity of Lake Drisiitaty were repulsed.

Russians Carry Town.

"We carried by assault the town of Dunilovitch, northwest of Lake Medziol. The enemy was disloged from the village of Ajouny in the Dunilovitch region and from the Medziol station.

"In the region of the village of Gouli, slightly east of Lake Norotche, our cavalry attacked infantry protecting enemy convoys and seized a number of wagons and 70 prisoners. At another place we captured over 100 wagons and horses and dozens of prisoners, many Germans being sabred in the pursuit.

BIG OFFENSIVE TO BE DRIVEN HOME

France Amply Provided with Big Guns and Shells—Victory Said to Be Underestimated.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—France intends that its great offensive along the western front shall be driven home.

"This is a great offensive but it has only begun," said Senator Stephen Pinchon, former French minister, in an interview today.

"It will be thrust home before it stops. Until the present we lacked materials. We had no heavy artillery and our ammunition supplies were insufficient. Now we are amply provided with everything we need, both in big guns and shells."

The military critic of the Temps estimates that the battle in Champagne is likely to last wo weeks.

"It cannot continue without incidental checks," he continues, "but the allies on the whole front today are in a good situation. The soldiers are filled with ardor. The supply of munitions is abundant. Artillerymen are obtaining extraordinary results. Fine weather enables the aviators to observe accurately the effects of the fire."

The critic states that the official communication from the far ministry underestimates rather than otherwise the result attained.

ALLIES CLOSE CABLES 48 HOURS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Because of military necessity, all Europe will be isolated for the next 48 hours from the rest of the world so far as telegraphic and cable communication is concerned.

This does not apply to censored press dispatches. It is believed this action was taken to cloak some extraordinarily important military movement which it is feared might be communicated to enemy countries by spies.

FRENCH PRESS FORWARD IN ARTOIS

Only Gain Small Footing in Some Trenches

Artillery Bombardment Is Heavy--Aircraft Damage Hun Positions

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The offensive of the allies in the west and the deter*mination with* which the Russians are opposing the Austro-German advance in the east are the absorbing topics.

The news from the two fronts is considered here as the best for many months.

The French and British forces apparently have made no further progress except in the region of Neuville in Artois but, on the other hand, they have been successful in repulsink the German counter-attacks and so far as known have held virtually all the ground gained.

French Advance Further.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—New progress for the allied troops in the Givenchy wood, the capture of additional German machine guns and prisoners in the Champagne region, and the stopping of a German bombardment in the Argonne by a French counter-offensive are reported in the French official report tonight. The official statement says:

"Some new progress has been realized in the southern part of Artois.

To th ast of Souchez we have made prisoners of 61 men of the Prussian guards and rescued some French prisoners who had been in the hands of the Germans since Sept. 29.

"In Champagne an attack between Auberve and La Pirecveuem has enabled us to take from the enemy more machine guns and about 30 prisoners.

Germans Employ Gas.

"The Germans have directed on our new positions an intermittent bombardment in which they used shells which irritated the eyes, causing them to run water. Our batteries have efficaciously responded.

"Violent bombardment of our trenches in the region to the north of La Hullette has been stopped by our fire from bamb throwers on the Ger*man trenches.*

"Some shells have been thrown from a long range on Verdun and Nomeny by the enemy's batteries, which were immediately counter-attacked by our artillery.

"We have on our part cannonaded at long range some trains in the station of Vigneulles les Hattonchatel and caused two violent explosions.

Airship Hits Stations.

"In the Vosges, in the environs of Violn, a demonstration of the enemy which was accompanied by cannonading and rifle fire, has not been followed by an infantry attack.

"Our airship Alsace bombarded during the night of Sept. 30-Oct. 1 the junction of Amagne-Lucquy and the stations at Attingy and Vousiers. The airship was shelled all along the way, especially at VousiersJ, where it found itself surrounded by numerous clusters of incendiary rockets. The airship has returned safely to its base after fulfilling its mission, having been hit only by a few splinters of shells, which caused no damage."

No Change on British Line.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—There was no change today in the situation on the British front in the western theatre of war, according to an official report from Field Marshal French.

The communication from Gen. French, under date of 9:18 p.m. Friday was as follows:

"On Sept. 29 the enemy made several attcks on our posiions norhwest of Hulluch. Severe fighting coninued all day, with the result that we maintained all our positions except on the extreme left where the enemy gain 150 yard of a trench. Our position has been firmly consolidated.

BAD WEATHER CONDITIONS HAMPER ITALIAN ATTACKS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, Oct. 2.—The following official statement was issued last night:

"In the mountainous part of the theatre of operations frequent heavy fogs hampered the work of the artillery, but enabled the infantry sometimes to make bold raids in small groups, which approaching the enemy's positions, destroy the accessory defenses, open up large breaches in the barbed wire entanglements and alarm the defenders.

"In the Tolmino section our troops during the night of Sept. 30 attacked all along the front from Mrzli to Vodil Monte Nero and the heights of Santa Maria and Santa Lucia, succeeding, notwithstanding the enormously difficult terrain, rendered still worse by the bad weather, in conquering strong enemy detachments and taking a certain number of prisoners. The enemy in force counter-attacked violently, and the success we realized at the price of strenuous efforts on the left wing of the spurs of Mrzli and Vodil could not be maintained. On the right wing of the heights of Santa Maria and Santa Lucia it was on the contrary possible to strengthen and maintain the ground conquered."

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—On official report says:

"Italian war theatre: On the Tyrolean and Carinthian front yesterday there were only artillery combats. The attacks against our fortified positions west the Bombasch ravine, previously reported, were repulsed by our sharpshooters.

"Early yesterday morning strong forces of the enemy thrise attacked unsuccessfully Mrlivrh and the south slopes of this mountain. The Italians suffered severe losses. The attacks against some points of the bridgehead at Tolmino were also repulsed."

ARREST THOMAS KELLY IN CHICAGO; CHARGE FRAUD

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1.—Thomas Kelly has been arrested. The charges are perjury, conspiracy to defraud and obtaining money under false pretenses.

The local contractor was arrested on a street of Chicago tonight by two city detectives acting on the request of J. McRae, commissioner of police for Manitoba.

Extradition proceedings will be taken at once and it is understood Kelly will fight. When arrested he would say nothing, but similtaneously with his arrest, R. A. Bonnar, K.C., and Commissioner McRae left Winnipeg for Chicago to start the proceedings to bring Kelly within the jurisdiction of the courts he has refused to appear before.

The charge of perjury deals with Kelly's evidence under oath before the public accounts commitee of the Manitoba legislature.

The conspiracy to defraud charge embraces practically the same facts which have been placed against ex-Premier Roblin, and Messrs. Coldwell, Howden and Montague. hTe third allegation sets forth that Kelly received unlawfully payments on the parliament building contracts in excess of $800,000.

According to well informed sources Kelly had been under surveillance for some time. He spent most of the summer at Detroit lakes, Minnesota, but recently left that country and went east.

It was this journey which precipitated his arrest. The crown knew that sooner or later when it wanted Kelly he would fight extradition to the last. As long as he was in Minnesota the crown believed its case for extradition unbeatable but when Kelly left for Chicago they concluded from certain evidence to hand that he was making for South Carolina.

LORD PETRIE DIES OF WOUNDS RECEIVED IN ACTION

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Among the deaths at the front announced by the war office are those of Lord Petre, a lieutenant in the Coldstream guards, who succumbed to wounds received in the recent fighting in France, and Lieut. Maurice Henry Nelson Hood, eldest son of Viscount Brydeport, who was killed in the Dardanelles. Lord Petree was 25 years of age. Lieut. Hood was born in 1881.

It had been their first separation and during one week the young husband had sent his dear little wife ten letters, 15 picture postcards and four telegrams. Why then this touch of coldness in her welcome on his return?

"Dearest," he whispered, as he drew her to his manly bosom, "what is the matter? What have I done to upset my little ducksy wopsy?"

"Oh, George," she replied in broken tones, "you didn't send me a kiss in your seventh letter."

George thought like lightning for a moment before he replied: "I know I didn't, petey, but I had steak and onions for supper and you wouldn't like me to kiss you after eating onions, would you?

Pretty, Wavy, Curling Hair Without Hot Iron

Let me tell you of a simple method which is a favorite of the belles of a certain exclusive social set. I'm sure you would like to know of it, because it will give your hair such a pretty curliness and lustre and permit you to do away with the ruinous waving iron forever. Just get from any druggist a few ounces of ordinary liquid silmerine and at night apply a little with a clean tooth brush, drawing this down the full length of the hair. In the morning you will have a real surprise, the fascinating, fluffy, wavy effect will appear so natural, and there will be no greasy, gummy, streaky or other unpleasant trace of this harmless liquid.

You can exercise for hours in the gymnasium, dance all evening in a heated ball room, or take a long motor trip, without fear of your hair losing its curl—indeed, you won't need to use the silmerine again for a considerable time.—Mona Morrow, in The Clubwoman.

seen and attacked by the underwater craft.

Naval Officer Tested Them

William Allison, the provincial auditor-general, having given further testimony as to the signing of the check for the purchase of the submarines and as to the authority therefore, another important witness was sworn in in the person of Lieut.-Commander Bertram E. Jones, R.N. It was he who took over the boats on behalf of the Canadian authorities, having been commissioned to do so by Lieut.-Commander Pilcher, of the Esquimalt station. He told of leaving port aboard the tug Salvor on the morning of Aug. 5 with the information that he would meet at a point about five miles off Trial island the craft it was proposed buying. He was given a check with the directions that if, after a thorough inspection of the submarines, he were satisfied that they were worth the full price, he was to pay for them and take charge.

Following instructions the submarines were picked up at the rendezvous. He made a thorough inspection and finding them in good order made payment and brought them to Esquimalt. In answer to questions by Mr. Thompson he said that he had no reason to doubt the soundness of his initial judgment, although it was based on an examination necessarily hurried. He stated that from the date of their arrival in Victoria the boats had been in constant readiness for active service except on those occasions when they were docked for ordinary cleaning and overhauling.

J. D. Paterson of the Seattle Construction & Drydock company occupied the stand throughout the afternoon. He recounted the entire story of how he got in touch with the provincial authorities and of his experiences in bringing the boats from American to Canadian waters. Not a little of his time was occupied in a detailed account of the disposition of the money received in payment, every cent of which, paid by the provincial government and subsequently met by the Dominion, was traced. Receipts were produced indicating that the bulk of the amount had been paid to the Electric Boat company of New York, the original contractors, that what was owing the Seattle Construction & Drydock company had been received by that concern and that a balance of $40,000 had been left to his credit. He denied with the utmost emphasis that anything had been paid to any person, party or any organization in Canada as a commission.

Premier McBride and Capt. W. H. Logan will be the witnesses at tomorrow's session.

No Commissions Paid

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 1.—At this morning's session of the submarine inquiry being conducted by Sir Charles Davidson four witnesses were examined. Each was asked if he had heard of the payment, directly or indirectly, of any commission or had any knowledge of the promise of future payment of any commission or gift of a private nature or to party funds. Each answered in the negative.

Lieut. B. E. Jones, R.N., who inspected the submarines prior to the final purchase, and who passed over the stipulated amount, was the most important witness called at the morning session of the court. He stated that acting on orders he had proceeded to sea in company with Engineer Lieut. Woods on board the tug Salvor. His orders were to proceed to a point five miles south of Trial island and to there await the arrival, about 3 a.m., Aug. 5, 1914, of two submarines. He was to inspect these and if they proved to be efficient vessels he was to pay over a check which had been given him to the representative of the Seattle Drydock company, to take command of them and proceed to Esquimalt.

Examined Boats Thoroughly.

In answer to Mr. Thompson's questions the witness declared that he had followed out his instructions. He thoroughly examined the submarines, spending two hours on each. He found them to be satisfactory.

"Did you pay over the check to J. V. Patterson after the inspection?" said Mr. Thompson.

"I did, sir."

"And you took command of the vessels and brought them to Canada?"

"Yes, sir."

"I do not suppose that Mr. Patterson mentioned to you the payment of any commission?"

The witness smiled broadly and answered emphatically, "No."

Sir Charles Davidson—Was there any payment of any commission, or any promise of any payment of a commission that you know of

"Not that I know of, sir."

Continuing his story under examination, Lieut. Jones said that he had received a receipt from Mr. Patterson for the money paid over and this he had turned over to Lieut. Pilcher on his return to Esquimalt.

Craft Are Efficient.

Questioned at great length regarding various reports about the alleged inefficiency of the submarines, Lieut. Jones declared that they were as seaworthy, as easy to handle and as efficient as any boats of the same tonnage in the British navy that he knew of. He had had five years' experience in submarine work prior to taking command of the two vessels here. When asked more particularly regarding the radius and working of the submarines he intimated to the court that he would rather not give details in open court might which might be regarded as contrary to the best interests of the nation, and in this his wishes were respected.

He again repeated his assurance that the submarines were efficient fighting craft. They had been amply tested in diving and firing torpedoes. The day after their arrival at Esquimalt, he continued, one of the boats was diving for the instruction of a crew.

Questioned by the court regarding the crew, Lieut. Jones said that the greater portion of the members of the crews of the two vessels were volnn, crews of the two vessels were volunhe had a few former naval men.

Transaction Strictly Regular.

Deputy Minister of Finance W. J. Goepel was the first witness called. He produced the original check drawn in favor of the premier and marked "For special purposes." He told at considerable length the manner in which the check was drawn, it being issued on the authority of a special warrant signed by the lieutenant-governor Aug. 4, 1914. The check itself was dated Aug. 1, 1914, but this, he said, was a matter of bookkeeping and later at the request of the commissioner produced other vouchers and canceled checks to show that predating checks was often done in his department.

He declared that he knew of no irregularities whatsoever in regard to the whole transaction.

W. Allison, provincial auditor-general, and W. L. Crawford, Victoria manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, gave similar evidence. They said that the transaction had been carried out in strictly routine form.

Patterson Tells of Sale.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 1.—J. V. Patterson, president of the Seattle Construction and Drydock company, the firm which constructed the two submarines, the purchase of which the British Columbia government is now the subject of inquiry of Sir Charles Davidson, royal commissioner inquiring into war contracts, occupied the witness box for the greater part of the afternoon at the court which is sitting in the parliament buildings here. The witness, who gave his opinion of Canada and Canadians in no complimentary manner, told a most interesting story of the sale of the submarines, originally intended for the Chilean navy, to the representatives of the Canadian authorities, declaring emphatically that there was no suggestion of any irregularity on the part of Sir Richard McBride and those associated with him in the transaction.

He did not attempt to cover his own part in the deal, but seemed to glory in the manner in which he had outwitted the American authorities and the representatives of the Chilean government in getting the boats out of neutral waters. He enlivened his testimony with many flashes of humor and satire.

"In July of last year you were assembling several submarines at your works in Seattle?" asked John Thompson, commission counsel, upon Patterson taking the stand.

"Before answering that question," returned the witness, "I want to ask a question; what is the object of this inquiry?"

The court—To discover the truth ser.

Witness—Oh!

Knew Coast Was Unprotected.

Proceeding with his story in answer to question of Mr. Thompson, the witness said that he was in Vancouver when the kaiser issued his ultimatum and thought that he might dispose of the two Chilean submarines which his company had been carrying for some time.

"Having known of the ridiculous unprotectedness of the British Columbia coast, I thought that a few public minded people might be left, willing to purchase two of the best and most efficient boats of their kind in the world," the witness said. Having in mind the necessity of the Dominion he continued, he came to Victoria and in the Union club, met Mr. Thompson, Capt. Logan, F. S. Barnard, now lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, and two members of parliament whose names he had forgotten. He told them that the submarines could be secured but mentioned no price.

Pressed by Mr. Thompson to be more explicit in regard to dates, Mr. Patterson exclaimed: "I can't. All this is ancient history to me. I wasn't taken up with this little transaction altogether."

He remembered, however, that he returned to Seattle and had been called up over the telephone by Capt. W. H. Logan in rgard to the boats. Several conversations followed and the price was stated, $1,150,000.

"And what did Capt. Logan say?"

Patterson Fixed the Price.

"He whistled. I fixed the price myself," was the reply.

The Electric Boat company of Newberry, the contractors of the Chilean government, wanted more than $700,000. Some other person had also spoken over the telephone asking for confirmation of the price, but he could not say who it was.

Later Capt. Logan and a naval lieutenant, who was disguised as a hobo, had come to Seattle. "And," said Patterson, "I told them I would take the check or whatever way it was to be paid on the border line. I would not cross the border until I was paid. I said I would take the position of the border from the chart and wait there for the payment."

Continuing, he said he did not leave util he was informed by wire that the money was ready. On arrival at the appointed place he failed to see any boat waiting for him "and I said if they have gone back on me I will show the boats in our waters and consequently made an appearance while the Iroquois was passing. The Salvor bearing Lieut. Jones and Capt. Logan and another man of whom he was suspicious, arrived and an examination was made of the boats and the money was paid over and upon Lieut. Jones insisting upon a receipt, one was written on the back of an envelope. We had no paper on board; we didn't even have whiskey, was the statement of the witness, in explanation.

Ask Other Belligerents as to Worth.

On arriving at Victoria he met Premier McBride, who asked hi if the price paid was a fair price for the boats and he replied that it was extremely fair and that in reality the boats should have brought more money.

"If you want to find out what they are worth just try to sell them to a belligerent nation," was his advice to Sir Charles Davidson.

Questioned regarding the refusal of the Chilean government to accept the vessels, he said that the Chilean government was "broke" and as an excuse for refusing to accept them overloaded them on the trial trip and as a consequence the boats did not "function quickly" but as engines of war they were perfect every respect.

Patterson was not the only amusing witness of the day for Richard Ryan, janitor of the parliament buildings, declared with pride that he represented the prime minister in the final negotiations for the purchase of the ships. He had been sent with the check to Lieut. Pilcher and had accompanied the naval party on board the Salvor.

Victoria Was in Panic.

"You examined the submarines?"

"Yes."

"Are you an expert?"

"Yes; I was in the painting and decorating work for the naval authorities and while my work was painting I could tell pretty quick whether any plates had been doctored."

Bank Manager W. L. Crawford, recalled, told of a panic which existed in Victoria at the outbreak of the war, because of the supposition that the Leipsig, a German cruiser, would attack that port. All the gold and and securities in the bank were sent east, he said, and automobiles were held in readiness to transport the citizens away. The arrival of the submarines allayed the general alarm, he said, although it was many months before the gold was brought back to the coast.

panies was cut up. Its survivors were made prisoners."

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Petrograd correspondent of Reuter's sends the following:

"Military writers in the light of the ltest despatches are of the opinion that the great German thrust east of Svintsiany (on the main line of the Warsw-Vilna railwy) may be considered at an end. The enemy being forced toward the Dvinsk-Vilna railway, the Russians are straightening out their front to the south of Dvinsk and west of Vilieka, and in general the enemy's offensive from Riga to the Pinck region has been arrested. It is pointed out with satisfaction that the enemy, although greatly reinforced, apparently has been unable to follow up the recapture of Lutsk."

Claim Russ Attack Collapses.

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—The following official statement was issued today:

"Russian war theatre: In East Galicia there is nothing of importance to report.

"A Russian attack near Novo Alexiniec collapsed before our infantry fire. On the Ikwa and in the Volhynian triangle fortress region the situation is unchanged.

"On the Kormy river the Austro-Germans have again gained ground. Russian counter-attacks there were repulsed. During one of these counter-attacks Austro-German troops captured two officers and 400 men and one machine gun. In the battles of the last two days in this district we took altogether 10 officers and 2400 men prisoners."

ARREST KELLY IN CHICAGO

favor upon extradition, judging from the great difficulty, in fact, the practical impossibility of extraditing any lawbreaker from that state. The crown in Manitoba therefore concluded that it wolud start the fight at once, in order to get the best consideration for its extradition case. So when Kelly stopped off at Chicago and took the best room in the Blackstone hotel the crown wired at once to the Chicago police and requested Kelly's arrest.

Edward Anderson, K.C., and W. T. Sweatman, Kelly's counsel, have left the city and it is understood they have gone to their client's aid and to represent him in the extradition fight which will take place in the courts of Chicago.

No Formal Charge.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 1.—No formal charge was preferred against Thomas Kelly, who was arrested here tonight but he was held at the detective bureau, where he consulted two attorneys on a course of action. Kelly was dressed imamculately and carried a gold headed can. He talked freely of the weather, politics and almost anything except the case. The detectives said the way they traced Kelly was through Attorney Thripple who left Winnipeg a few days ago.

A detective followed Thripple, who registered at the Blackstone hotel. Then by watching for Kelly they finally saw him walking along the street. Detective Moody, accompanied by Lieut. Larkin and Sergt. O'Brien of the Chicago police, recognized the gray-haired contractor. They addressed him but he at first denied his identity. After he was locked up at headquarters he admitted he was Kelly and asked for attorneys, who spent several hours trying to arrange bail. He will have a hearing before the United States commissioner Saturday.

EXFECT BALKAN OUTBREAK SOON

aid in the Mediterranean and the Russians on the Black Sea front.

The allied movement, it is stated here, is designed to offset the agreement said to have been made between Bulgaria and the Teutonic allies under which Bulgaria will act against Servia before Oct. 15. It is understood that Great Britain felt disposed to await the result of that eventuality but that France favored an immediate initiative for the purpose of overcoming any Bulgarian menace to Servia before it could be put into effect.

Mobilization Answered Allies.

The minister of one of the Balkan states said today that Bulgaria had never replied to the joint note of the triple entente allies submitting Servia's concessions to Bulgaria with regard to Macedonia. Instead of replying, this minister said, Bulgaria had ordered a mobilization within a few days after it received the allies' note. This mobilization, in the opinion of the minister, was in itself an adverse reply and he expressed the belief that Bulgaria did not intend to make any further answer to the allies.

The minister said he considered two courses open to the allies, first a peremptory ultimatum to Bulgaria to demobilize immediately and second, a military expedition to safeguard Servia before Bulgaria's project could be carried into execution Oct. 15. There are indications in Paris that both these moves are under way or in contemplation and the Temps' definite announcement appears to assure the early execution of the expeditionary move.

Clash on Frontier.

TURIN, Oct. 1.—There already have been several clashes between Servians and Bulgarians along the frontier, according to reports received here.

Hun Officers Aid Bulgars.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Sir Edward Grey, British foreign secretary, announced this afternoon that German and Austrian officers were arriving in Bulgaria to direct the Bulgarian army.

The secretary said this was a fact which the allies regard "with the utmost gravity."

SOFIA, Sept. 29—Delayed in transmission—M. Malinoff, former premier and now leader of the Democratic party, before acting on the proposal that he accept a portfolio in the cabinet of M. Radosvaloff on Tuesday visited the Russian and British ministers to convince himself as to the real intentions of the triple entente governments toward Bulgaria.

The previous afternoon M. Malinoff had a four hours' conference with King Ferdinand. What M. Malinoff's decision may be with regard to entering the cabinet is not yet known. Hope is held out here that the Balkan situation may be settled peacefully. The impression is gaining ground that Bulgaria by retracing its steps will invite a situation which might become dangerous after the war.

Nish Key to Situation.

The only means for the prevention of a Balkan war, in the opinion of high authorities in Sofia, seems to be the immediate cession by Servia to Bulgaria of the uncontested zone in Macedonia without reservation, and an acknowledgement of Bulgaria's right to occupy the zone forthwith. In well informed circles it is stated that the key to the situation lies in Nish and not in Sofia, and that the triple entente governments in order to settle matters must become active there.

Premier Radosvaloff yesterday when receiving prominent members of the agrarian parties said that Bulgaria's hands were not tied by obligations to any belligerent group and that the negotiations concerning Bulgaria's claims in Macedonia were proceeding.

It has been learned in authoritative quarters however that the time left for pourparlers is short, since the Bulgarian government realizes that further delay without some positive action is likely to jeopardize Bulgaria's interests.

CONCERNING ITALY'S ARMY AND ITS FIGHTING VALUE

If hitherto there had ever been any doubt as to the issue of this deadful war being favorable to the allies, it must be dispelled by the action of Italy in making common cause with them and throwing over three million men into the scales of battle on their side. No wonder the German press is furious; for, apart altogether from the military value of the Italians when confronted with European troops, which is still rather in the nature of an unknown quantity, they will have the effect at least of drawing towards their front the bulk of the Austrian army, thus rendering very much easier the task of the Russians as against the Germans in Galicia and Poland. If only Rumania would now also follow the lead of Italy, the game would be altogether up. One can scarcely estimate the fighting value of the Italians from their conduct of the Tripoli campaign, though it certainly was not carried on with the vigor and resourcefulness with which we ourselves have ever prosecuted our desert and other wars against semi-civilized races, again in Abyssinia, anno 1896, the Italian attempt to establish a protectorate over that Ethiopian kingdom came to most frightful grief at Adowa, when a force of 25,000 men under General Baratieri was practically wiped out by the warlike followers of Menelik. Of this force, it is true, only 9000 were Italian regulars, the others being native levies, and more than two-thirds of it were killed or wounded. It was the greatest disaster that had ever befallen a European army in Africa. But the Italians were not too proud to learn wisdom from adversity.

Thirty years previously, in 1866, the troops of Victor Emmanuel had also been badly beaten both on sea and land—at Lissa and Custozza—by the Austrians, against whom they had taken the field as the allies of the Prussians. The decisive blow of the campaign was struck at Koniggratz, and, though the Italians on their side of the theatre of war had got the worst of the fighting, they nevertheless by the terms of peace managed to come in for Venetia; and it is to recover the Italian territory still retained by the dual monarchy that they have again taken the field against the Hapsburg possessors of their racial territory. But they are much more likely to show up better this time than in 1866, when they were defeated by the Austrians, and even in 1859, when, as the allies of the French, they did much to secure the crowning victory of Solferino over the Austrians, which brought them Lombardy. But there is every reason to hope that in their impending campaign against the Austrians, the Italians will far surpass the valor which they displayed against them in 1859, and that they will also prove themselves to have profited by their adverse experience in other campaigns. Since 1870, when the national unity was completed by the entrance of Victor Emmanuel into papal Rome during the French war, Italy has been perhaps the most progressive of European nations. It is astonishing what a united people can do. For one thing, Italy is perhaps the most prolific country in Europe, her population having increased relatively, more rapidly than that of Russia and Germany. In Brooklyn alone there is a colony of 50,000 Italians, with a quarter all to themselves, while Argentina is fast becoming a South Amreican Italy.

In England and Wales, according to the last census, there were over 285,000 foreigners, of whom in round numbers 95,000 were Russians (mostly Polish Jews), 53,000 Germans, 28,000 French and 20,000 Italians. Of the 12,800 aliens returned as waiters and other hotel employees, Germany contributed 4660, Italy coming next with 2900, so that in proportion to her population the Appennine peninsula furnishes far more of our waiters than the Fatherland. Hitherto the popular conception of Italy is that it is a country of macaroni and madonnas, popes and painters, Carbonari conspirators and Carrarra marble, opera singers and Bologna sausages, brigands, organ-grinders, fiddlers and confectioners. But that is by no means all. For it should be remembered that Italy is peopled by a race who are the direct descendants of the ancient Romans, the finest soldiers the world has ever seen. Who may be said to be the three greatest men of action that ever lived? Caesar, Columbus and Napoleon—all men of Roman-Italian race, for, of course, the greatest soldier of modern times was by birth a Corsican and of pure Italian descent. There is now certainly a good deal of mixture in the Italian race, including even German in the northern parts; but on the whole I should say that it is the purest in Europe and that it enjoys the advantage of Roman heredity to a degree unsurpassed by any other people, including the Rumanians.

Among other things the ancient Roman was a born engineer—witness, to speak of nothing else, his viaducts and aqueducts and his military fortifications; and did not even Caesar and his "Royal Engineers" throw a wooden bridge across the Rhine at Bonn in the incredible space of 10 days? The modern Italian, too, inherits the Roman faculty for the construction of public works. When we gaze in admiration at our own beautiful cathedrals, how many of us realize that most of them were built by gangs of Italian masons? While many of our continental railways, the marvellous tunnels through the Alps, and even our own Forth bridge, were mainly the handiwork of operatives from Italy. It is computed that there are now about half a million of those deft and frugal Italian workers scattered throughout Europe, direct descendants of the men who, as Caesar's legionaries, all trained artificers of some sort, raised the bulwarks which they were called upon to defend, and who created works which, after the lapse of 1000 years, are still the marvel of the world. Rich in soldiers of the very first rank, Italy has also always been not less so in prominent statesmen. A recent writer justly remarks that "the Italian is probably the shrewdest and most far-seeing diplomat on earth. He is the oldest at the game and his hand has lost none of its cunning. Modern Italy is the best proof of his genius. For the past 40 years her course has been beset with an innumerable host of difficulties, and had she been in the hands of any but the most superb steersmen she would have been wrecked long ago."

SOLDIERS SUFFER FROM NERVE CASES

This Is More Especially True of the Ypres Survivors—Men Need Long Rest

LONDON.—"Nearly all our cases are nerve cases," remarked a Canadian medical officer recently encountered by the Toronto Mail and Empire correspondent in a hospital, "and especially in the Ypres survivors there is a certain look in the eyes which it is difficult to banish." The doctor went on to say that long after the wounds were healed there men needed massage treatment and rest, combined with social intercourse and pleasant surroundings such as to make them forget not only the field of battle, but the military life. For this reason he preferred a hospital which had nurses on its staff, and which was on a small scale. This idea is being followed to some extent by the establishment of small convalescent homes which act as auxiliaries to such large institutions as those at Bromley, Kent, and Monkshorton, near Shorncliffe.

The convalescent home recently establisher at Luton House, Sellin, near Canterbury, by Mrs. Sandford Fleming is one of those auxiliaries, and though the work done is on a limited scale as compared with bigger establishments, it is of special value for that very reason, inasmuch as it is essentially a home and not an institution.

Luton House is a country residence in one of the prettiest parts of Kent, stands in its own grounds, and the windows overlook well-trimmed lawns, tennis, croquet and bowling lawns, all of which are used by the patients for recreation. The men live in the house and beyond being amenable to the sergeant in charge for good behaviour, they are free from military rules of camp life.

Besides Mrs. Fleming and Miss Lewis (secretary) there is a staff consisting of Sister Francis, Sister Wallace, and Nurse Pipes and Nurse Dickey (the two latter V. A. D. nurses). In the first month, just completed, there were 73 patients registered, and already additional accommodation is being provided by the taking over of a cottage next door. This will be known as the Josephine Bogert ward ,and will be equipped by money from New York contributors. Miss A. E. Redpath of Montreal now residing in England, has kindly loaned a Tolbot landaulette car, and Miss Blackett of Dover has also donated a car to the hospital, the vehicles being very necessary to keep in touch with Monkshorton and Canterbury.

The presence of the Canadians is much appreciated in a small village such as Selling. They make a difference to the congregation at the parish church on Sunday morning and can be relied upon to lend a hand for any good work. The hop-pickers were just arriving by train from London when the Mail and Empire correspondent reached Selling recently. Local ladies had provided a refreshment for the east-end of London visitors and several Canadian soldiers were busy helping both to hand out refreshments and to preserve discipline. The "squire" was good enough to show Sergt. McHeard, Sergt. Volkert and the Mail and Empire correspondent over the hop fields and the arrangements made for the annual invasion. There were practically no able-bodied men, but there were numerous women with families of small children. Huts after the style of a military camp were provided with hampers of rations. The visitors were invited to sample some pickles and jam, but pleaded just having taken a meal.

Sergt. McHeard of the 2nd battalion Peterboro, Ont., has taken charge of discipline at Luton House. He went through the South African war and was knocked out at Ypres on April 23. Besides being "gassed" he was buried in a "Jack Johnson" hole for some hours, being wounded in the thigh with shrapnel. Sergt. W. C. Volkert, R.M.R., 14th Montreal Royals, was also wounded at the same time and while in the hospital at Cardiff gave an interesting story to the Mail and Empire. He is still suffering from sciatica. Sergt. Volkert has sent to the Walker Hardware company the battered remnants of a fountain pen, a pencil case and a whistle, which were in his left breast pocket. Fortunately these articles caused the bullet to glance aside, probably averting a fatal shot. Lance-Corp. Jack Ash, 1st battalion, Chatham, Ont., was with his regiment in the mid-June action at Givenchy. He was shot in the left knee and has been in the hospital at Southampton. He told the Mail and Empire that he saw the action of Lieut. Campbell, who received a post-mortem V.C. for working a machine gun on a man's back. Pte. Gerald C. Boileau of Halifax, but of the 13th (Royal Highlanders), found himself back in his ancestral home. His ancestors had settled near Canterbury after the revocation of the edict of Nantes, but his father and mother emigrated to Canada. Pte. Boileau enlisted at Vancouver, was sent to Quebec and drafted into the 23rd Montreal, and then later into the 13th. He was sent back to England suffering from heart strain. He spoke in grateful terms of the officers' kindness and especially of the way in which Lieut. Molson had looked after him when sick. Pte. Gordon B. Carling, P.P.C.L.I., of Ottaw (grandson of the late Sir John Carling), is also at this hospital. He was knocked out on May 8 and has five bullet wounds, though not of a serious nature. Pte. W. A. Train, 5th battalion, of Merrit, B.C., was hit in the hand and by shrapnel in the head at Ypres in April, and, when convalescent in Devonshire, was shot accidentally while with a shooting party. Lance-Corp. G. L. Green, 1st battalion, had a very bad leg, but the massage treatment at Luton House had made a crooked limb straight.

Other patients encountered were Pte. M. A. Duffin, 14th Montreal, Pte. R. Sheldon, 13th Royal Highlanders, and Norman White, 3rd field ambulance, of Newfoundland.

GREEK QUEEN BLAMED FOR BALKAN SITUATION

Did Masterful Woman Overpower Constantine and Venizelos Who Had Promised Men.

OTTAWA.—That it was the masterful and nagging tongue of the Queen of Greece who is a sister of the German kaiser, who prevented Greece from entering on the side of the allies when the first Dardanelles attack was made and stopped the capture of Constantinople, was the opinion of Prof. James P. McNaughton, professor for 25 years at Robert college, Constantinople, expressed at a Canadian club lecture here. It was utter folly, he said for the allied fleet to attempt to get through the Dardanelles without supporting land forces. These troops had been promised by Greece but Greece had not sent them because the queen insisted that the king declare his neutrality. She "nagged" him, said the lecturer and "it was her nagging that defeated France and England."

"I fully believe that if England and France had got into Constantinople early this spring there would have been such a revulsion of feeling in favor of Britain that the Turks would have risen in support of the allies," said Mr. McNaughton. He thought that if the opinion of the intelligent Turks were taken, three-quarters would be for England. The Germans at one time feared the Turks would turn on them, for the Turks detested the Germans. If a Turk were asked what he thought of the Germans he would simply shake his head and say that he wanted England, wanted her now, and wanted her badly. The Turks would side with England if the Dardanelles were forced.

"Why had Britain and France not got there? There had been much confusion of thought of the matter. But one important point was generally overlooked. It was utter folly to bombard the forts without land troops to aid. Neither France nor England could spare the men About 30,000 Australians and 14,000 New Zealanders were in Eygpt. For England and France to attempt to force the Dardanelles without troops was folly unless promised land troops. The fleets could have got through but they would have been trapped. They must have land forces. Then there came a lull of two months. Where was the hitch?

"Venezelos, the Greek premier, had promised the allies aid. He had said that just as soon as the way was prepared a Greek army would clear the Turks from European Turkey. But that is just where the Greeks failed The queen of Greece is a sister of the German emperor, and she is a German 'emperor' herself; strong, despotic, intolerant, masterful. The king is popular; the queen is detested.

"There is no doubt in the minds of those in touch with the situation that it was due to her nagging, backed by the emperor, that really defeated France and England," said Professor McNaughton. The king said Greece was going to be neutral; Venezelos resigned.

"There is the reason why today France and Britain are not in Constantinople," said the speaker. "If Greece had been faithful there is no doubt but that the powers would have been in Constantinople three months ago." He said that for six or eight weeks there was a lull. Bombardments of the forts were reported, but they were merely for home consumption. They had not a man. There were no land troops, and the allies were powerless.

German officers came down, smuggled over the Bulgarian railways. They brought large armor and big guns. If they had got through before then the Queen Elizabeth could have shattered every fort. It would have been a sort of triumphal entry. The topography of Gallipoli lent herself to fortification and when England and France landed they found the enemy completely armed. There were guns in the hills overlooking the valleys, which were the only means of landing; there were machine guns and trenches. Sharpshooters picked off the officers of the British naval forces. The Turks had half a million men down there equipped and entrenched.

Professor McNaughton enlarged on the magnificent bravery of the Australians and New Zealanders.

He knew nothing in history so magnificent. The professor said that even if Bulgaria declared only her neutrality, it would relieve 150,000 Turkish soldiers in her northern borders, while then the Germans could cut through Servia. She undoubtedly would give a passage to German troops. Greece would undoubtedly enter the conflict, but he doubted whether Rumania would unless Russia could send her aid.

"GOD SAVE OUR MEN."

Second Stanza for National Anthem Which Is Winning Great Popularity in Eastern Canada.

A recently composed second stanza for the National Anthem, which has been received with enthusiasm in Eastern Canada, and which is being sung in connection with the mapority of church services of Toronto, is as follows:

"God save our splendid men,
Send them safe home again;
Keep them victorious, patient and chivalrous,
They are so dear to us
God save our men."

MOTHER! YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, FROM CONSTIPATION

If tongue is coated, breath bad, stomach sour, clean liver and bowels

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful today often saves a sick child tomorrow.

If your little one is out of sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, mother; see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat; full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs"; then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

SHOULD BE STRIPPED OF HIS NEW CANADIAN HONORS

Dr. G. L. Robinson, professor of biblical literature and English at McCormick theological seminary, Chicago, on Wednesday was honored with the degree of doctor of divinity by Knox college, Toronto. On Thursday he gave out an interview in Toronto in which he declared that Great Britain was as much to blame as Germany for the war because its naval development was a setoff against Germany's military preparations. He also asserted that Great Britain's attempt to cut off supplies from Germany by means of the blockade was "savage and inhuman." He showed his "neutral" spirit by also rapping Germany.

Dr. Robinson should be politely but without delay told to get out of Canada and Knox college should immediately cancel the honorary degree which it has conferred upon him. Canadians have no use for "neutralists" of the Dr. Robinson type and they are justified in expecting their educational institutions to exercise greater discretion than was displayed in the granting of a degree to the Chicago pedagogue.

Canada is willing and anxious to honor learned men who are friends of the British Empire. Its face is sternly set against honoring college professors given to the expression of the "hyphenated-American" line of thought voiced by Dr. Robinson in Toronto.

IS BULGARIA TO CHOOSE THE SHADOW?

Opinion in the capitals of the entente nations appears to incline to the view that it is practically certain that Bulgaria will join the central empires and Turkey. For months Czar Ferdinand and his ministers have hesitated between the bone offered by the allies and the shadow offered by the Turko-Teutonic alliance.

Should yesterday's expectation be fulfilled, the people of the entente nations and the great majority of neutrals will be surprised not so much that Bulgaria has joined the Unspeakable Turk, about whose atrocities she talked so much in 1912, but that she should have been misled into the belief that an alliance with the central empires and Turkey would lead to the attainment of her aspirations.

Rather than secure its future position and a greatly enlarged territory by accepting the concessions offered by the entente Bulgaria now appears to have decided to endeavor to win everything it wants by joining forces with the losing side. It seems to be embarking upon a policy of national suicide with the same naive trustfulness in German boasts which marked the entry of Turkey to the war.

ANNOUNCED GERMAN PLANS FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Much has been written of the preparations which Germany made for this war but the people of the United States are taking unusual interest in a statement by William T. Hornaday, head of the New York Zoological garden. He met a German military attache, Count von Goetzen, while on his return from the Spanish-American war. To Mr. Hornaday the count predicted the war in Europe and stated Germany's intentions toward the United States. Mr. Hornaday writes:

Apropos of a discussion between Count von Goetzen and myself on the friction between Admiral Dewey and the German admiral at Manila, Von Goetzen said to me: "I will tell you something which you better make note of. I am not afraid to tell you this, because if you did speak of it no one would believe you, and everybody would laugh at you.

"About fifteen years from now my country will start her great war. She will be in Paris in about two months after the commencement of hostilities. Her move on Paris will be but a step to her real object, the crushing of England. Everything will move like clockwork.

"Some months after we finish our work in Europe we will take New York, and probably Washits place Rxr- UDz I ini? I , -(n.yi ington, and hold them for some time. We will put your country in its place with reference to Germany. We do not propose to take any of your territory, but we do intend to take $1,000,000,000 or more from New York and other places."

It is not Germany's fault that the program has not been carried out.

BULGARIA WOULD HAVE BIG JOB ON HAND

[illegible] garia enters the war its army [illegible] f a million men will be confronted by no mean task. To assist Germany it must send a force against Servia and co-operate with the Teutonic armies which will hammer at the western frontier of Servia in an attempt to cut a way through and open communications between Bulgaria and Austria and between Austria and Turkey.

Along its southern coast it must be prepared to resist invasion by the allies from the sea and on the borders of Macedonia, the section of Greece which it covets, it must also defend itself against assaults. From the whole Servian border it will be open to attack.

If Rumania joins Greece and the allies there will also be heavy pressure from the north.

The suspicion grows that Germany is supplying a golden lining for Bulgaria's war cloud.

For the second time in its history the world's series next week will have to take second place as a news feature.

King George's message to France leaves no doubt as to whether the big offensive movement in the west has begun.

The fact that $350,000,000 of the big Franco-British loan has already been subscribed for in the United States shows that the American people know a good thing when they see it.

A few more advances by the allies in the west like that of this week and Germany's home guard will be called upon to aid in defending Der Faderland.

Knox college, Toronto, has made a mistake which it can rectify by sending Dr. Robinson back to Chicago stripped of the Canadian educational honors which it has conferred upon him.

If the allies' 48-hour ban on telegraph messages, exclusive of press despatches, does nothing else it is giving the world a fine opportunity to indulge in the interesting occupation of guessing as to what is happening.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

If the Dream Should Come True.

Herr Bernad boast that a "victorious military Germany will no longer be the same political Germany as formerly." We wonder what sort of monster it will be, should Providence scourge the world by realizing the dream. And what light and freedom will there be in other lands?—New York Evening Sun.

How Long?

As the situation now stands there is nothing to prevent other outrages like that of the Arabic so long as submarine commanders are permitted to conveniently "think" that their victims intend to ram. And when we ask for disavowals and reparation we will be politely told that the question can be debated at The Tague, and, perhaps, adjusted to our satisfaction—some time after the war is over. How long will the administration at Washington endure this policy of shuffle and evasion?—New York Times.

Switzerland.

Probably it would take somebody as well up in statistics as this same correspondent seems to be to figure the number of the world's inhabitants that know, and the number that do not know, that 41 per cent of the Swiss are farmers and only 5½ per cent of them have anything to do with the harboring of strangers. Those who don't however, certainly form a group far greater than those who do, and this is not unnatural.

The Switzerland we all hear and read about—yes, and the Switzerland some of us see—is composed almost wholly of "scenery," with the incidental but necessary hotels, restaurants and boarding houses. It's little wonder, therefore, that we forget the possibility that for the Swiss themselves there is quite another Switzerland. But even the most important of us might have suspected it from all we have been reading lately about the Swiss army.—New York Times.

FIGHTING THE LOAN.

German opposition to the loan, however, found popular manifestation in "the street." Early in the afternoon sandwich men apeared at the Morgan corner with blazoned taunts for those who are taking part in the negotiations. One of the men, who was dressed in a comic opera conception of a British soldier, carried a banner which read:

KING GEORGE and the COUNTRY
Needs $1,000,000,000.
ENGLAND IS CHEERFULLY WILLING to Sacrifice
THE LAST AMERICAN DOLLAR
SO COME ACROSS.

Another banner contented itself with the fling, "Billions for King George!" But a third was more verbose. It read:

WALL STREET'S SHAME!
The Money Trust is Lending Billions of American Dollars
to
BANKRUPT ENGLAND, FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

Each of the banners carried a modest announcement that the only way in which to keep fully appraised of actual conditions was by reading George Sylvester Viereck's Fatherland.—New York World.

COMMUNICATIONS

WANTS TRAILS IN MOUNTAINS KEPT OPEN

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir,—A great number of trails have been cut in early days by those who are the true pioneers of the Kootenays and these trails have been the chief means of opening up a considerable mountain region to those in search of minerals, timber or sport. Countless miles of these trails have meen made without any expense to the country and have been in fact a free gift to the public. A great majority of these trails lead those who care to follow them to the higher altitudes, six, seven, eight thousand feet. In the comparatively small area bounded by the railway from Kaslo to Rosebery, by the Slocan lake and river, by the Kootenay river and lake to Kaslo when you have reached an altitude of six or seven thousand feet you are in the midst of scenery which is at least equal to that which thousands of tourists and others spend considerable sums of money in going to Switzerland and other countries to look at. For instance the south fork of the Kaslo river rises in a series of little lakes surrounded by rugged bare rocks and small glaciers: the head of Lemon creek (7250 feet) is in two picturesque lakes in a wild area of white heather; Kokanee creek has its origin in a perfect gem of a lake which on a sunshiny day is of a deep turquoise blue, and it is fed by a small glacier of a hundred acres or so in extent which also gives a portion of its waters to Kaslo lake; Woodbury and Coffee creeks are born in the large glacier on the north and east sides of Kokanee mountain the centre of whose three peaks is 94000 feet above the sea. At the proper season of the year the Alpine flowers are a sight which is alone worth the journey; for those in search of game there are goats and grizzlies and for the artist every conceivable kind of mountain scenery that he can wish for.

On behalf of the pioneers of this district I submit that it is worth while preserving and keeping open these trails that they have made in order that tourists, sportsmen, artists, lovers of natural history and others may be enabled with safety and the minimum of fatigue to visit these mountain regions and enjoy a healthy and congenial holiday. The annual expense of doing this work would be very slight and I think entirely negligible in comparison with the benefits that would result. Let me give just one example near home. Kaslo lake, that natural storage reservoir for the waters of the south fork of the Kaslo river, is a most convenient and ideal location for a headquarters camp. At the present moment this can be reached by pack horses from two directions; on the east from Kaslo by a good wagon road 20 miles in length and thence by a short trail, which is places is even now very indistinct and hard to follow, and on the north from Slocan lake by way of Ten mile creek, a slightly shorter route but the proportion of trail to wagon road is reversed. Both these routes I have cut out this last summer with only a very few hours' delay, as they were not much obstructed. There should be two other routss open; one on the west by way of Lemon creek, from near the head of which is a good trail enabling one to reach either Nelson via Duhamel creek and Willow Point, or the Slocan valley, at the Lemon creek railway station. The portion of this route between Kaslo lake and the Lemon lakes is all but obliterated. I had intended coming out this way, but did not care to spend the time and labor necessary to re-open this way sufficiently to make it passable for the packs. A fourth route should be to the south past Kokanee lake. To open this route there is wanted only about half a mile of train on the upper edge of a rock slide on the west side of the lake and then this would be an easy route from the Balfour hotel by Kokanee and the Molly Gibson wagon road. Somewhere about 16 or 17 years ago a pack train came through this way from Slocan lake to what is now known as Kotto's and returned.

There are a number of men today working claims and prospecting, living the lives of hermits year in and year out, near the heads of many of these trails who, I fell sure would, for no large wage, be prepared to keep the trails in their vicinity in order and who could be depended upon to do honest work without being under the daily supervision of a road foreman, and who from their knowledge of the mountains and the tracks of the snow sides could in many instances improve the alignment of the trail without the preliminary expense of a survey.

This is my case for the preservation of the work of many of those who helped in no small way to lay the foundations on which is now being built up the lasting prosperity of this country, and to your readers and the public I leave the verdict.

CHARLES W. BUSK.

Deer Park, B. C., Sept. 28.

THE WAR ONE YEAR AGO

Russian territory is now cleared of the invaders, who are fleeing in disorder through terrible country, pursued by the Russian cavalry.

The Germans are endeavoring to hold their fortified positions along the East Prussian frontier from Wirballen to Lych. The Russian troops up to October had captured 1000 German troops and several pieces of artillery.

The steamer Ardmount loaded with grain, which left Dover for Zeebrugge, Belgium, struck a mine. The crew of 35 men was saved.

Prince Fredriche, the third son of the king of Bavaria, has been seriously wounded in the left side by shrapnel.

On the left wing to the north of the Oise the battle continues with great violence. The result remains indecisive. The allies have been compelled at certain points to yield ground. On the remainder of the front there is no change.

The German cruiser Leipzig was coaled and supplied near Magdalena bay from the cargo of a German freighter.

French cavalry executed a daring raid back of the German lines, where they blew up a raidroad tunnel and escaped before their presence was discovered.

TO THE DEAD.

(Translated from the French of Maurice Magree by Mrs. Garrett P. Serviss.)

Without shroud, without bouquet and without inscription,
Without cross, without iron railing,
without funerary stone,
They sleep beneath a hillock among the furrows.
To embrace them and close their eyes,
they have
Only the earth, their mother, with her rayless fair,
Her caress of clay and her kiss of stone.

The morning trumpet does not awake
them;
Henceforth they will have for song and for music
What in the hollow willow the old vine
sings,
And what on the deserted bridge the
lost dog howls,
For—companion in the melancholy
nights
They have only the cricket wandering over their humble mound.

Where, then, is the loved one, the precious form,
That was pressed so tenderly in our arms?
Where bow to speak low to one's love?
Where shall the knees of unhappy
mothers kneel?
In showing them the silent immensity
They will says, "There!" How vast the tomb!

Yes, there is the land and the kingdom
of the dead,
Afar, the town contorts its abandoned
body,
One sees its blackened sills and riddled domes.
It lifts its arm of towers and phantom
belfries
Lean over the broken and dismantled
lodgings.

The fields are henceforth empty and solitary,
It is iron or lead instead of grass that grows
On the shallow borders of the great skeleton forests,
And one fears to see rising from the ground
Hands with holes, mute faces,
To attest to heaven all this misery.

But nothing can consume you, O dead,
Neither time nor the work of the rain
or the sand.
You are made of imperishable substance,
You will be reborn for us like a living
treasure,
And cultivated furrows will spring
again into life,
The wood of the poplars or the flesh
of the golden wheat.

Of what use a tomb with its upright cross?
The flower quickly fades and the marble is too heavy.
You will live under the unmarked earth forever.
O ye dead, you will be warm in the frosty nights!
We have made of the web of thought
Beds of memory and cradles of love.
—New York Times.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA SURE OF VICTORY

Ch. De Mullevie Says Both Nations Prepared to Carry Struggle to a Successful Issue.

According to the statement of Ch. De Mullevie of Cognac, France, who is making a visit to the district and is at present in the city, a guest at the Hume, the people of France were assured unofficially as far back as last August, when the chevalier was in Paris, that sufficient ammunition would be on hand by the end of September or the beginning of October to place that country on the same fighting basis as the German empire.

De Mullevie declares that everywhere in his country where he had visited he had found the same cheerful outloow on the future of the struggle. No doubts, he says, are in the minds of the people as to what the outcome of the war will be. They are prepared for a long and bitter struggle and do not minimize the strength of the enemy, or the great difficulties that lie in the path, but, he says, every Frenchman realizes that the time has come to revenge the wrongs which they feel they have suffered at the hands of Germany in the past and they are determined to carry on the struggle with the same burning zeal that the crusaders of old pursued their holy wars.

Russians Confident of Victory.

In Petrograd, where De Mullevie was a visitor early i nthe year, he says he aws told by some of the bankers and influential business men that the government, realizing its unpreparedness, had stated that it might be necessary for Warsaw to fall and even for Moscow to be yielded to the Germans and Austrians, but that this would only be incidents in the magnitude of the struggle that Russia would put up and that the war would be doggedly fought out until the Prussian forces were swept out of the country, if it took 10 years to do it. The apparent great German victories in Russia, he said, were not having a disheartening effect on the people of that country. They felt that there is plenty of time and that when Germany is exhausted Russia will but be beginning to feel her strength and that eventually she will sweep the German forces from the country.

"Yes, sir."

"I don't think so," replied the mother. "What gives you that idea?"

"Oh," said Mabel, "there aren't enough places to look."

BRITISH ISLES SHEATHED IN METAL

After having spent eight months in England and taking advantage of every opportunity to study the operations of the British navy, J. Herbert Duckworth is able to produce in the New York Sun one of the most interesting articles that has appeared on the subject, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. He says:

"Fenced in with barbed wire, her coasts deeply furrowed with trenches, protected seaward by fields of deadly mines and watched by ever active patrols of destroyers and seaplanes—the eyes of the battleships that lurk in their bases ready to pounce out upon the enemy—England's geographical position is something to be envied by the other warring nations. She is protected by something far more efficacious than the most cunningly devised trenches—the great natural moat of the North sea.

Isles Sheathed in Metal.

"And art supports nature. The British Isles are sheathed in metal. The island kingdom is buried under a shield of almost impenetrable armor. London, the heart of the Empire, is embedded in a 'Ring of Steel.' Heavy guns from her forts from Aberdeen in the north to Harwich in the south frown toward Germany; more guns at Dover, Falkestone, the Isle of Wight Portsmouth, Portland, Plymouth and Falmouth guard the English channel; fortress artillery at Point Carnsore in Ireland and Holyhead in Wales stand guard at the southern entrance to the Irish sea, while heavy pieces at Ballycastle in Ireland and Wigtown in Scotland perform a similar service at the northern doorway. Marconi stations are dotted in prodigal profusion around the two islands; behind impassable rows of barbed wire at every conceivably possible landing place of an invader troops stationed ready to be whisked to the point of attack; small patrol boats search the half forgotten coves on bleak and lonely parts of the west coast of Ireland and of the Highlands of Scotland for secret German submarine bases; seaplanes, submarines and destroyers—the grand fleet's auxiliaries—keep incessantly circling the Kingdom on the lookout for enemy sea and aircraft.

Fleet Costs $2,500,000 a Day.

"Naturally, when I first reached England I wanted to know what had become of the navy that Premier Asquith has said costs $2,500,000 a day to keep afloat. was told that it was 'lost somewhere in the grey mists of the North sea' and that it was not strung out in a huge semi-circle in front of Heligoland waiting to be sent to the bottom by undersea boats. By piecing together such trifles as admiralty warnings and instructions to pilots posted at naval bases, by portions of the fleet at such places as Dover, Sheerness, Portsmouth and Harwich—in short by keeping one's eyes open it was possible to build up a shadowy outline of the general plan that costs incidentally $10,000,000 a day, by which England has succeeded in completing her isolation, warding off invasion and cutting off Germany from the outside world.

"I have seen at the Hendon and Brooklands aerodromes officers of the naval air service and of the royal flying corps—the pilots of the air fleet, it is now known on the authority of the under secretary of state for war, numbering 7000 aircraft. I have watched these airmen at ar games, practising at attacking zeppelins and preparing for the promised grand aerial raid on Krupps and other vital spots in the enemy's territory. At present England has 16,000 men at work turning out aeroplanes. In addition American constructors are working day and night rigging machines for Great Britain. Up to June 30 the United States had shipped 250 aeroplanes, valued at $2,000,000 to England. There are now standing orders for 60 machines a day until the end of the war.

Guard Passageways.

Except for her submarines the German fleet is effectively bottled up. It is believed to be absolutely impossible for an enemy vessel to run the gauntlet through the Straits of Dover owing to the immense mine fields that choke the 18-mile-wide channel and the 15-inch guns that dominate the situation from Dover to Calais. Not even a submarine can pass down the English channel, thanks to the maze of submarine nets and traps that have been set To get out submarines must make the circuitous journey by way of the neutral three-mile limit off Norway. There are one or two tortuous channels left open among the deadly fines for friendly and neutral merchantmen that can only be traversed with the aid of an authorized pilot. These channels are guarded by 40-knot torpedo boat destroyers and seaplanes. The British government has notified Washington of the location of several other mine fields in the North sea.

"The northern way out into the world for the German fleet is almost as effectively guarded as that to the south. All the channels between John o' Groat's, the northermost point of Scotland and the Orkney and Shetland islands have been set with mines and submarine traps, or blocked with captured Germany ships that have been filled with rocks and stones and sunk in the fairways. Between the Shetlands and the Norwegian 'three-mile' limit are other mine fields. Somewhere in the neighborhood of Kirkwall or cruising between the Shetlands and Scandinavia is the main body of the grand fleet of battle cruisers and dreadnoughts, anxiously waiting for "The Day." With steam up other squadrons of warships are stationed at such ports as Aberdeen, Dundee, Rosyth, Hartlepool, Harwich, Sheerness, Chatham and Dover, ready to outflank any German flotilla that may venture forth."

In spite of scoldings, Helen persisted in running away from home. One day, after a longer absence than usual, her mother asked: "Helen, dear, does not your conscience trouble you?" explaining that her conscience was a little voice speaking within.

Helen answered: "Oh, yes, mamma; that little voice is always saying: 'Run faster, faster, Helen; your mother is after you.'"

Valuable Discovery in Complexion Beautifier

Because of its peculiar power of absorption, also because it serves every emollient purpose, ordinary mercolized wax is perhaps the most valuable complexion beautifer discovered within recent years If one uses this she needs no toilet cream. Some use powder afterwards but this is not necessary. This rule for applying mercolized wax has been found very satisfactory: Wash the face with warm water, drying lightly. Before thoroughly dry, anoint the face with the wax, but don't rub it in. The favorite way is to use before retiring, allowing it to remain on all night and washing it off in the morning with warm water. All druggists have this wax in original one-ounce packages.

For the removal of a wrinkled or flabby condition there's nothing better than to bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Beneficial results are quickly noticeable.

FORMER KOOTENAY POLICEMAN IS FINED

L. R. Forbes Charged in Jersey, Channel Islands, With Violating Defense of Realm Act.

Leswick Reid Forbes, of Marine Villa, St. Aubin, Jersey Island, appeared before the court of that island on a representation by the attorney-general, for infringing the Defense of the Realm Regulations Consolidated by exhibiting a bright naked light from one of the windows of his house, this being taken by certain persons as signals.

The attorney-general said that he had received orders from the lieutenant-governor to see that certain lights be obscured at night. They did not suggest that Mr. Forbes tried to communicate with the enemy, but he had neglected to comply with the regulations. Certain persons had seen the light, and a person walking backward and forward before it gave it the appearance of signals; Such acts, innocent in themselves in peace time, were not safe in war time. In England strict measures were taken to enforce the regulations. The attorney-general felt sure the court would agree that his excellency did not wish to proceed by means of a prosecution, but that the inhabitants should take notice of the regulations and govern themselves accordingly.

Counsel for the defense said his client regretted very much there should have been a contravention of the regulations. Mr. Forbes was not at home on the evening in question, but informed him that his wife, who was alone was walking about the room with the window open not thinking there was any harm; she had no intention of infringing the regulations. His client was a Canadian by birth, had lived for many years in British Columbia, and had been chief constable at Kootenay; he had lived in Jersey for three years. He had served in the South African war, took part in the assault on Diamond Hill, and was present at the taking of Pretoria and Johannesberg.

Counsel said his client thought the regulations would not apply to his house, but rather to houses situated on the top of the hill. He did not wish to evade any responsibility, but felt bound to say that he was not at home when the police were communicated with. He regretted the affair very much and left the matter in the hands of the court.

The attorney-general said there was no question as to Mr. Forbes being an honorable citizen and a gentleman. Nevertheless the infringement had been committed in an area specified in the advertisement which was published in the newspapers. He asked that a fine of £5 be imposed. The court could reduce the amount if they so wished, but that was what he asked for.

The court was of the opinion that the defendant had adopted the right line of defense in declaring as he had that he regretted the occurrence. It felt that a fine of £1 would suffice.

The attorney-general remarked that if there should be another prosecution the court would no doubt deal more severely with the delinquent.—Jersey Weekly Post, Sept. 4.

Melindy, bereaved of her husband, consulted her young mistress on the proper year to disclose her grief.

"Ah wants a black hat, an' a black dress, an' black shoes, an' black gloves, an' a whole blank hank'chief, ma'am."

"Oh, no, Melindy," her mistress protested. "Not a solid black handkerchief."

"Honey," remarked Melindy impressively, "when Ah mourns, Ah mourns."

GET BEHIND A GUN!

(By Lance-Corp. J. Beynon Nicholas.)

Where the Belgian peasant labored, not a hundred miles away,
Where the Belgian housewife carolled
and their children used to play,
There the golden fields are gory—outraged by the Mailed Hand,
And the Prussian Vulture gluttons on the vitals of the land!
All the sounds of peace are silenced
by the ruthless roar of guns,
Love dishonored, Life disbowelled by the heartless lust of Huns!
And the stricken nation calleth from its ruins o'er the sea,
"Britain, saviour of the nations! I can only look to thee!"

Men of England, do you hear it?
Are your souls unstirred and cold?
Does not weakness in its anguish
Move your pity as of old?
By your British wives and mothers
Safe within the circling main,
Shall your sisters in their peril
Call your vengeance down in vain?
Men of England, rise in anger!
Rouse the Viking in your blood!
Put away your modern mildness
And unmask your ancient mood!
From the desk and from the workshop
Spring to meet the maddened Hun!
Get behind a gun, my brothers,
Get behind a gun!

O'er the earth—where'er it bloweth—
flag of blood and snow and sea,
From their graves, unmarked, forgotten, where they fell to make us free, Lo! I see the spectral heroes of old battlefields arise!
And they stare towards Old England
with grim question in their eyes.
Wellington and Drake and Nelson,
stepping forward from the shade,
Wakened from their noble slumber by this furious cannonade:
And they speak in accents solemn what their fearless souls decree:
"Britain—sentinel of freedom—we are looking now to thee!"

Men of England, do you hear them?
Hearing, will you not obey?
Shall the cause of England's glory
Find you less prepared than they?
Will you yield their blood-won trophies
To the maw of German Huns?
Shall Britannia's sword of conquest
Pass dishonored to your sons?
Men of England, rise in anger!
Rouse the Viking in your blood!
Shed the ways of peace and pleasure
And unmask your warlike mood!
Spring to fight as fought your fathers!
Do again what they have done!
Get behind a gun, my brothers,
Get behind a gun!

From the trembling generations waiting in tomorrow's dawn,
From the prophets of the ages mourning helpless and forlorn,
From the saint within the cloister,
from the trader in the mart,
Comes the same grand call to England
to be faithful to her heart.
In the shadows pauper millions raise to her their piteous cry,
And the stars who watch o'er beauty
are imploring from the sky:
All the voices of humanity in one great
call agree:
"Britain, guardian of our progress, we are looking all to thee!"

Men of England, do you hear them?
Hearing, will you not come forth?
Is the cause the mother fights for
To the sons of trivial worth?
Nay; the blood of Balaclava
Still makes riot in our veins!
We shall yet sweep on in triumph
O'er the European plains.
Men of England will not falter
When the soul of England leads;
Ne'er will Briton stand unheeding
While a brother Briton bleeds!
Forward, warriors! Arm for battle!
Cleanse this murder from the sun!
Get behind a gun, my brothers,
Get behind a gun!

FIRST TIME PHILLIES HAVE WON PENNANT

Enters World's Series After Having Fought Thirty-Four Season's for Right to Contend

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—For the first time in the history of the world's series the National league will be represented by a Philadelphia club in the struggle for premier honors of the professional diamond. Not since the organization of the senior major league back in 1876 has a Quaker City team in this association won a pennant until the present season.

During the 40 years of the National league existence, Philadelphia has fought for the flag no less than 34 times and it remained for Manager Pat Moran to lead the Phillies of 1915 out of the wilderness of baseball despair and into the light of the world's series. The home of William Penn was represented by a club in the opening year of the organization but the following season dropped out and did not reappear as a pennant contender until 1883.

From that time until the present Philadelphia has annually figured in the league race but with rather indifferent success. The position of runner-up to the winner was achieved in 1887, 1901 and 1913, while the depth was reached in 1897 when the Phillies finished in tenth place out of a field of 12 clubs.

Other cities from time to time have tried to capture a senior league flag without success for 22 have had their names borne by teams since the formation of the league in 1876. None has been more persistent than Philadelphia, however, and the fans of Quakerburg are entitled to wide latitude for celebrating. Of the 22 National pennant hunting cities but eight have ever accomplished the feat of capturing a flag. Chicago leads with 10, Boston is second with nine, New York third with seven, Pittsburg fourth with four, while Baltimore and Brooklyn are tied with three each. Providence is credited with two and Detroit one. Other cities that have tried and failed include: Cincinnati, St. Louis, Buffalo, Cleveland, Hartford, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Louisville, Milwaukee, Syracuse, Troy, Washington and Worcester.

Athletics Have Done Better

Pennants and world's series are not new to Philadelphia, however, for Connie Mack had won six American league flags and three world's championships with the Athletics, but it was not until Moran took charge of the National league club that the senior association pennant chasers forged to the front and broke a record of 34 years' standing by bringing to the Quaker City a National league banner to hang along side the numerous buntings that Mack and his Athletics have garnered from the American league and the world's series. The complete record of the Philadelphia National league club, showing the finishing position since 1876, is as follows:

1876—7	1894—4	1905—4
1883—8	1895—3	1906—4
1884—6	1896—8	1907—3
1885—3	1897—10	1908—4
1886—4	1898—6	1909—5
1887—2	1899—3	1910—4
1888—3	1900—3	1911—4
1889—4	1901—2	1912—5
1890—3	1902—7	1913—2
1891—4	1903—7	1914—6
1892—4	1904—8	1915—1
1893—4

From 1884 to 1902 there were 12 series played with a total of 80 games and it has been estimated by old time fans and players that the average attendance at these contests could not have fallen far short of 3000 per game. Such being the case another total of 240,000 must be credited to the world's series figures, bringing the grand total up to close to 1,650,000. Allow 200,000 for the coming play and it will be seen that before the world's championship of 1915 has been won the attendance figures for the entire play of this premier title of the baseball world will have passed the million and three-quarter mark.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Argo Football club of Toronto has sent over 100 members to the front. Of this number 10 have been killed and 24 wounded.

hTe fair directors have expressed their thanks to the Scotch and English football players who put up such a keen game at the Nelson fair.

Bill Killifer, famous Philadelphia catcher, is counted upon by Moran to do the bulk of the receiving in the coming world's series. Killifer is recognized as one of the finest all-round backstops in organized baseball.

Duffy Lewis and Dutch Leonard are sure to figure largely in the world's series for the Boston Red Sox. Lewis is the idol of the Boston bleachers and is a very steady and reliable hitter. Leonard, although not up to his last year's form, has pitched good ball in the last few weeks of the season.

The Boston American club has purchased Outfielder Frank Gilhooley from the Buffalo club of the International league.

Shocker, the Ottawa pitcher, who did so well against the Leafs, has been drafted by the New York Yankees. The same club has also secured Whiteman, the slugging outfielder of the Montreal Royals.

Ping Brodie, formerly of the White Sox, has refused to join the Yankees, by whom he was drafted, unless Manager Donavan raises the salary ante.

FAIL TO DRIVE FRANCO-BRITISH OUT

The hostile counter-attacks have now weakened.

Recover Most of Ground.

"On the afternoon of Sept. 29 near Hooge the enemy fired a mine under our trenches south of the Menin road, gaining a footing on our front line. Counter-attcks delivered on Sept. 30 recovered ll but smll porion oatttettee recovered all but a small portion of the trench lost.

"Today there has been no change in the situation on our front.

"During the last seven days our aircraft have been active. Seventeen air combats are reported in only one of which was a British machine worsted. A German machine was brought down inside our lines. Yesterday attacks were made on the railway in the hostile area. The main lines are known to have been damaged in 15 different places. Five and probably six trains were partially wrecked and the locomotive sheds at Valenciennes were set on fire. Considerable interference has been caused to the German railroad organization."

Belgian Line Shelled.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The official communication issued by the Belgian war office today says:

"There was a bombardment of Ramscapelle during the night of Sept. 30-Oct. 1. Today German artillery has manifested a little more activity than on previous days in the bombrdment of Ramscapelle and Caeskerke and the shelling by means of heavy projectiles of various points on our front.

"Fighting by means of bombs has taken place in the repion of Dixmude. Our artillery has reponded vigorously and dispersed some fortification workers to the south of Dixmude."

PHILLIES HAVE BULGE ON BOSTON

Dope Says Battles Will Be Won by Strategy of Pat Moran and Carrigan.

(Dy Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Success—and failure—in a world's sesies clash depends largely upon the manager; upon the strategy, on the alertness, the coolness and the courage of the leader in critical moments. When the Red Sox meet the Phillies next week in the classic battles of the 1915 baseball year they will be led by Irishmen, two of the gamiest, brainiest men that ever held the steering wheel of a baseball machine. Both are wonderful leaders, yet in the final analysis Pat Moran of the Phillies must be conceded an edge over Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox.

Moran, throughout the year has made but few tactical blunders. He seems to possess the ability to do the right thing at the right time. A dozen times during the year he let his pitchers remain in the box when it seemed that the opposition would belt him all over the lot. On other occasions he has derricked twirlers when it seemed foolish to do it. Yet in practically every instance his judgment resulted in victory.

Moran has put in pinch hitters when it seemed foolish to the fans and he has permitted supposedly weak hitters to go to bat in regular turn in critical moments. It looked like baseball suicide. Yet Moran playing with his hunches has won. No manager in modern baseball has handled a team with such delicate, wonderful judgment as Moran has handled the Phillies; and yet the Phillies have won.

Carrigan, on the other hand, has not had as much to contend with. His team is a team of sluggers; his pitching staff is an all-star cast. He was rarely called upon to face a rear crisis because when the Sox actually got under way there was not much left to to do but to sdeculate on how many runs they would win by. In occasional pinches Carrigan has shown exceptional judgment but he has not been tested as often as Moran.

But a world series battle is one in which crises are frequent. It is one in which a call is made on all strategical powers of the leaders involved and because Moran has been tested day after day throughout the year and he has stood practically every test, it seems that in managerial skill if in nothing else the Phillies have a slight bulge on their American league rivals.

And whereas objection to the constitution of such proposed pound district has been received from twelve proprietors of land within such proposed district;

Dated this 17th day of September, 1915.

W. J. BOWSER,
Minister of Finance and Agriculture.

THOUGHT BOY TOO YOUNG FOR BATTLE

"It was here that I began to hate that little lieutenant," said the civilian.

Not a fool precisely. Just absurdly and damnably jovial. He was too young for this sort of business, to begin with. For all a slight coloring of tan his soft cheeks looked as though a Wednesday and Sunday shave would do them quite well. He was short and ruddy and smiling and almost—not quite—plump. The civilion thought bitterly that he looked almost kittenish. One could almost pet him. The civilian thought he'd really like to see this boy at tea in London. He would bring something sincere and youthful and invigorating into the stale air. But here——

"The fool's actually laughing," said the civilian to himself, choking back his anger. "Why do they let such pups go to war?"

First Experience Surely

He finally decided that it was the boy's first experience at the front, boy didn't know—he didn't have imagination enough to fill in the picture—that he was in imminent, momentary danger of death. Just an empty headed kid. Why, he wasn't even properly dressed for the part he had been sent out here to play in. He wore a private's cap and there was something wrong with his kilt and one legging was leather and the other woollen. The boy made a shocking bad joke and the others laughed at it. The grey haired senior among the officers patted the boy on the back.

"Spoiled, that's what," said the civilian. "Somebody's nice kid and he's blundered into a man's game. Of course they all like him. We like young pups when they're still falling over their own feet, but it's a shame to send an innocent, round eyed, tomfool boy like that to the firing line."

Would Speak About It

The civilian smiled grimly at the jokes that passed in that little muddy wallow, over which the shells were continually flying. It was his duty to smile. He was the guest. But he determined that when he got the chance he'd say somthing to the elderly officer, who happened to be an old friends. He'd speak to him about permitting these joking, careless, uncomprehending children to risk their lives in this way. For decency's sake they might have waited until he was grown. The civilian was frightened and he knew he was frightened. He wondered if he would have to come again into this death-stained target that jarred and trembled with the leaping of the shells. When they were by comparison safe in the car and were on their homebound way he led up to this protest deftly.

Not Even His Own Kilt

"I suppose that men have to do with all sorts of makeshifts in the way of clothing at times," said he. He proposed to tack something on about that careless, laughing youth back there in the control station. The eledrly man laughed.

"If you're thinking of the boy's kilt," said he, "don't blame him. It isn't his kilt anyhow. He doesn't wear a kilt when he has his own clothes."

The civilian thought it might have been a masquerade. But the elderly man didn't take the suggestion kindly.

"He had his clothes torn off his back by rifle fire," said he angrily. "He had to wear something—by the Lord!" He glared at his old friend the civilian. "That boy's cap has been shot off his head five times and his cigarette has been shot out of his mouth and the match with which he tried to light another was extinguished by the wind of a bullet. That boy is Smythe—V. C."

Little Round-Cheeked Boy

Then the civilian remembered. Smythe is the youngster who dragged a box of bombs down a trench, under a hail of shells, over and through the bodies of men who had been dead under the July sun for days. His men were killed to the last of them in the effort but he got through, and the English were able to hold a vital angle in the line. He won the Victoria Cross and the whole-hearted admiration of a world.

But the civilian will always recall him as the innocent, almost cherubic, merry boy who laughed at the shells shrieking overhead. To his dying day that civilian will say to himself when the name of Smythe, V. C., is mentioned:

"He was just a boy. Just a little, round-cheeked boy."

"Who is that fellow so loudly advocating national preparedness?"

"That's Dolbay. He never has an umbrella when it rains."

Display Advertising FOR Thanksgiving Shoppers

Now that Thanksgiving Day is only six more shopping days away, it would be advisable for all those who intend taking advantage of the numerous offerings that are made by the merchants through their advertisements to start shopping early. Store windows will be appropriately decorated for this occasion, exhibiting goods that are advertised for your inspection, etc.

It now remains for the merchants of Nelson to make this Thanksgiving one long to be remembered. Advertise fully your line of Thanksgiving goods, explaining for the buyers' advantage, the qualities, prices, quantities, etc., etc., so that the out-of-town buyer may be able to take advantage of your offerings as well as the Nelson public.

Fall goods of all kinds will, of course, be in demand, boots and shoes, heavier clothing, furs, overcoats, etc. Townspeople will be stocking their cellars with vegetables of all kinds for winter use and, in fact, all lines of merchandise can be advertised successfully at this particular time of year.

Remember—Advertising is the engine of business and the wheels are kept running only by continuous, persistent, logical reiteration of the essential value and superiority of your product.

U. S. STEEL LEADS MARKET UPWARD

Volume of Business Expands to Turnover of 1,610,000 Shares—Coppers Higher.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—With United States Steel as leader today's market gained fresh strength and moved to greater heights on an expanding volume of business. In the first two and last two hours transactions averaged about 340,000 shares per hour with some diminution at midday. Only for that brief breathing spell the days' dealings would have exceeded all records for years. Even so the turnover amounted to 1,610,000 shares

Steel alone contributed almost 20 per cent. Attention was focused upon Steel from the beginning fith its initial offerings of 12,000 shares at 79⅞ to 79⅝. Before noon it had risen to 80½, on individual offerings which ran up to 10,800 shares. Toward the close it reached 81¾, or within a fraction of the best quotation since 1911, when the stock was seemingly on an assured 5 per cent dividend basis.

Coppers and certain of the utilities which figured conspicuously yesterday, United Railways common and preferred, Philadelphia Company and Pacific Telephones and Telegraphs were again active at higher prices during the forenoon but fell back later when some of the war shares regained prominence.

Westinghouse was the outstanding feature of that group, advancing 7¾ to 132⅞. General Electric also became prominent rising 4¾.

Interspersed with the dealings were numerous spectacular movements in General Motors, American Coal Products, Virginia Coal & Coke, American Steel Foundries, the fertilier issues and various other stocks of a nondescript character. Realizing sales again matched buying orders in the final dealings resulting in comparatively minor reverses from top quotations. At no period during the session did the railroads show more than a moderate degree of strength and trading in these issues which at all times was negligible, showed weakness at the close.

In the last hour some selling of Canadian Pacific showed heaviness in other transportation shares.

The only feature of the bond market in which trading was large was the higher prices quoted for Copper convertible issues. Total sales, par value were $4,390,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

CANADIAN STOCKS DISPLAY BETTER TONE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—Canadian stocks displayed a somewhat better tone today, the Steel issues being sympathetically affected by the strength of United States Steel in the New York market, while a new feature was presented in a demand for stocks of Canada Steamships. Iron rose to 48, its best price of the week and closed at 47¼. Scotia improved ¾ to 88. Steel of Canada was unchanged and dull on small business, but offerings at the close were marked a small fraction higher at 34¼. Other stocks in the war order group were quiet but Locomotive and Bridge showed fractional advances and the closing range of prices for Car was off only ¼. Lyall gained ½ to a new high of 34.

Moderate demand for Canada Steamships common was accompanied by the first important buying of the preferred stock since spring. The close was 59½, with offers at 59¼.

BIG CROP ESTIMATE HAS BEARISH EFFECT

Wheat Output in United States Expected to Amount to Nearly Billion Bushels.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 1.—Estimates that the wheat crop of the United States this season would amount to nearly 1,000,000,000 bushels had a bearish effect today on prices. In consequence the market closed easy, a shade to ⅝ at ½ net lower, with December at 95½ at ¼ and May at 96⅞. Oats lost ½ to ⅝.

In provisions the outcome varied from 15c decline to a rise of 30c.

Announcement that a leading expert figured the domestic yield of wheat for 1915 as reaching the record breaking total of 998,000,000 brought an immediate downturn in the market, although previous quotations had shown decided strength. The early advance had been due mainly to Liverpool despatches telling of the scarcity of supplies and of an increased demand from British millers. After the setback which followed the issuance of a bearish crop estimate here the market rallied because of large export clearances and as a result of the slowness with which domestic terminal stocks accumulated. Free selling by leading firms, however, quickly occasioned a fresh decline from which there was no important recovery. The bears in wheat contended that advances in prices at Liverpool failed to balance the current increase of freight rates on the great lakes and on the Atlantic. Moreover, Winnipeg dealers were said to be negotiating to send liberal amounts of Canadian wheat to Minneapolis.

Oats were affected by the bearish action of corn. Active demand from packers who had made recent large export sales gave much needed support to the provision market.

LAPSED MINING LEASES SOUGHT

Sprague, Wash., Financiers Endeavor to Get Property Near Cranbrook—Homestake Changes Hands.

CRANBROOK, B. C., Oct. 1.—W. T. Harker, Charles Mackenzie and J. S. Lucas, mining men from Sprague, Wash., are in the city endeavoring to get some of the mining leases which have been allowed to lapse by the original stakers. If they are successful in getting these leases in sufficient numbers they say they are prepared to spend a good deal of money in developing the claims. Mr. Harker is regarded as an expert mining man and is a principal in one of Washington's largest mining syndicate. While here they will confer with Hon. W. R. Ross, minister of lands and mines for the province, in connection with their proposed operations.

A deal is reported wherein G. W. F. Carter of the local government offices figures as purchaser of Gus Theis' interest in the Homestake gold mine, located at Perry creek, near Cranbrook.

BIG LUMBER CARGOES FROM FRASER MILLS

VANCOUVER.—The lumber steamers Holtye and Llangorse are due at the big plant of the Canadian Western Lumber company at Fraser Mills this week, where they will load a cargo of 5,000,000 feet, all told. The Holtye will take 4,000,000 feet while the Llangorse will receive 1,000,000 and will pick up the rest of her cargo at other points. Both cargoes are bound for the United Kingdom.

With the completion of these two cargoes the Fraser Mills plant will have shipped by water alone during the last month 8,000,000 feet, the Llandudno and the Orange River having each taken over a million and a half.

COPPER EXPERTS NOW CHANGING OPINIONS

Bears Were Frightened at Production, but Military Use is Absorbing Red Metal.

Up to about a fortnight ago there were two views respecting copper among producing and selling interests—one bullish, the other bearish, says the Mining World. It is unnecessary now to discuss the reasons for the bullish view. The bearish were based chiefly on the enormously increased production, the weight of which was considered bound to tell. Consumers also held this view and deferred further purchases, even requesting producers to anticipate contractural deliveries, with the expectation that later they would be able to buy copper much cheaper.

Recently there was a change of opinion among those selling interests that previously had been bearish. The reasons for this were two—a growing belief that the military use of copper is much greater than any previous estimate, no matter how large; and the perception that regardless of the increase in production, refining capacity imposes a limit that cannot be overstepped. It is significant that there is but little additional refining capacity in preparation, the only important construction of this kind being at Great Falls and Tacoma.

Confirmation of this theory is to be found in several important things that have recently transpired. Thus it is well known that recent refining contracts have been made at $20 per ton, whereas $15 was formerly regarded as a fine price. Moreover, although the British embargo on crude ore was lifted under certain conditions the unusual disparity between the prices of electrolytic and standard has continued, showing that refiners are not in a position to buy standard freely. Finally it is a matter of more or less common knowledge that several copper producing companies are having to pile up blister copper in consequence of inability to have it refined.

At the beginning of 1915 the electrolytic refining capacity of the Uniter States was about 148 million pounds per month. At the middle of 1915 it was about 152 million pounds. The new construction that is now going on will raise it to about 164 million pounds, but this will not be attained until the end of the year and it may be that the new plant at Great Falls will not be ready until 1916. Included in the foregoing figures is the small capacity—about five million pounds per month—for electrolytic lake copper.

NOONDAY TUNNEL NEARS COMPLETION

Sandon Mining Activities Are on Substantial Basis, Says J. B. White—Slocan Star Work Satisfactory

The 600-foot tunnel at the Noonday mine, near Sandon, on which work has been in progress for some time, is nearing completion, according to the statement of John B. White of Spokane, who returned yesterday from visiting his interests in the district and is staying at the Hume.

The tunnel has already been driven about 400 feet, he says, and it is expected that the work has been done on the property, he says, in the way of new buildings and the surveying for a pipe line for the compressor, from one of the neighboring creeks. A three-mile wagon road, which has been built by the government to open up the properties in this vicinity, he says, is now complete and is proving a great help to the miners in their operations.

At the present time 10 men are at work on the Noonday property. These men, he says, are chiefly engaged in stoping ore from the upper and lower tunnel. Most of the ore that is now being taken out, he states, is coming from the second level, although recently some very rich findings were made in the lower workings.

At the Slocan Star, which was also visited by Mr. White, work, he says, is going forward most satisfactorily. Thirty-five men are at work and regular shipments are being made. Large quantities of zinc concentrates are being stored at the mine and it is expected that arrangements will be made at an early date to have a considerable percentage of them treated. Mr. White expressed himself as being entirely satisfied with the work that is being carried on in the district, and states that, in his opinion, the work that it is of a thoroughly substantial nature.

WOMEN PANICSTRICKEN, RUN BEFORE TRAIN; BOTH KILLED

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1.—Crushed beneath the wheels of an engine while walking along the right of way on the Canadian Pacific railway near the Ogilvie flour mills this afternoon, Tiny Kuczyk, aged 27, was decapitated and Mrs. Stanley Tarkyz, a woman who was with her, was struck a glancing blow which injured her to such an extent that she died about two hours later in the hospital.

There will be an inquest Monday. The engine was in charge of Engineer Wallen of Kenora.

The two women with a companion, who escaped uninjured were walking along the track when the accident occurred. A freight train proceeding in a different direction reached the three women at almost the same time as the engine. They became panicstricken and attempted to cross the track on which the engine was approaching. Two of them were too late.

THIN & NERVOUS BABIES

Suffering Little Ones cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Five months-old Infant who weighed only 7 lbs.

So thin his Mother Shuddered to undress him.

Never believed he could live.

But now bright and well Cured absolutely by

DR. CASSELL'S TABLETS.

Here is matter to interest every mother throughout this great Dominion; the frank, grateful testimony of other mothers who have proved Dr. Cassell's Tablets a real help in winning back health for their suffering little ones. And the cases are not in any way exceptional; they show just such splendid results as any mother may expect from systematic use of this valuable medicine. Dr. Cassell's Tablets have proved their worth in Great Britain, where their sale is the largest of its class, and in the Britains beyond the seas their reputation is advancing rapidly.

Now read what a happy mother has to say of Dr. Cassell's Tablets. She is Mrs. Fern, of 82, Desborough-road, Eastleigh, Hants, England, and her story is as given to an interviewer. She said:—

"When I think of all that Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my little baby I bless the day I heard of them. I am convinced they saved my child's life.

"My little Harold was a fine baby when born, but soon he began to ail, and when a few weeks old I had to have advice. For four months baby was under treatment, but no good came of it; the child only got worse. It was pitiful to see him, he was so appallingly thin. His little bones stood out all over his body. We could easily count the joints in his backbone; his shoulders were hollowed in like pits, and his cheek-bones stood up like ridges. It made me shudder to undress him, he was such a frail little skeleton of a baby. He could not keep anything on his stomach, not even the breast—and I'm sure I am healthy enough. We had ever so much medicine, but baby seemed doomed. Once I really thought he was gone, he lay so still and his jaw had dropped. The anxiety was terrible. Often and often I have sat up with my poor little Harold waiting for the end. But thanks to Dr. Cassell's Tablets it was not to be.

Baby Fern.

"Harold was 5 months old, and weighed only 7 pounds, when we first got Dr. Cassell's Tablets. Actually in two days there was improvement, and now, two months later, he weighs over 12lb., and is ever so bright and well."

LOST USE OF HER LIMBS. Now Strong and Well.

Every day proof is added to proof that Dr. Cassell's Tablets possess striking power to renew healthy nerve action and thus to restore activity where even the power to move has been lost! Particularly is this so in the case of children; and numberless cures have been effected, and are constantly being effected, both here in Canada as well as other parts of the Empire. Mrs. Parsley of Chapel Hill, Braintree, Essex, England, said: "Baby was only about a year old when she began to lose the use of her limbs, and soon became quite helpless. Of course, we were very much alarmed, and when we were told the child would not be able to walk for years, we almost lost hope. We had the best treatment we could find for her, but nothing seemed to help the child at all. Indeed, instead of getting better she just wasted away till she was a mere frame. She hardly ate anything, and was so weak and ill that it could not seem possible she could recover.

"Then we gave her Dr. Cassell's Tablets. The first effect of the Tablets was that the baby got sound, natural sleep. Then she improved in general health, and gradually power returned to her, until baby got stronger and stronger, more plump, till now she is quite cured."

MAY THE KING EAT UP HIS FOES, WISH OF SHEHU

A letter which might have been inspired in Bagdad in the days of the thousand and one nights has been sent by the Shehu of Bornu, with £1000 as a war gift to King George.

Already this Central African tribe has given £3500 and many cattle for war funds, and the present gift is in celebration of the fall of Garua, the Cameroons town which fell to an Anglo-French force on June 10. The letter, which is addressed to the governor of Nigeria, is as follows:

In the name of God, the Compassionate, the Merciful. Praise be to God. Peace be to His Prophet.

This letter is sent by the slave of God, Abubukr Shehu of Bornu, son of the Shehu Ibrahim, son of the Shehu Umar, son of the Shehu Mohaman Lamino Kanemi.

I, Shehu of Bornu, established by the authority of the King of England, write to our well-wisher, the representative of the King of England, Governor Lugard, salutations. Blessing and greatness be with you!

We have received the news that God has given victory to the King of England in the capture of the German stronghold. When he heard of the fall of Garua our hearts were filled with joy. We rejoiced greatly and all our people, by reason of the victory. Three days were spent in public rejoicings and sports in the Dandal (the great square in the Bornu capital.)

When our rejoicings were finished I called my councillors together. We took counsel together. We said that the sum of £3500 which we contributed to the war chest in the month of Zulkaadah was not enough. I and my councillors were agreed upon this. We said that we ought to make a further contribution in order to strengthen our Lord the King of England, in order that he might eat up his enemies.

The Wazir, the Liman Amsami, said toto me, "Oh, Shebu, although you have sent many cattle and sheep to Kola to the soldiers at Mora behold, this is not enough." Our treasurer, Mallam Muktar, said to us, "There is no lack of money in the native treasury. The taxes will be paid shortly." For this reason I and my counsellors desided to offer a contribution of £1000 in thanksgiving for the victory.

We pray to God every day that He will continue to give victory to the King of England in all parts of the world. May Almighty God give him victory and long life. You, Governor Lugard, who art before us, may God lengthen your days. Sallutations!

Written on Wednesday, the 17th day of Shuabah, in the year of the Hijra 1333.

MORE ANCIENTS WHO FORETOLD THE WAR

Soon there will be little credit given to the prophets who foretold the war, so numerous have they become. Thirty-two are memtioned by Sterling Heilig, an American correspondent in Paris; and these 32 have but lately come to light, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. The utterances of many of them were so obscure when delivered that the wonder is they should have been preserved; but now they are clothed with the clearest meaning. Undoubtedly the most curious prophecies are those contained in a set of eight of paintings, the work of Richard de Toussaint, in 1629. They have been kept in the treasury of Mont St. Michel all these years, valued as paintings, the inscriptions which now have so much significance being baffling mysteries to all who attempted to understand them. The most cheering thing about all the prophecies is that they predict ultimate victory for the allies, though they insist that before Germany is completely overthrown there will be great sufferings.

The Prophetic Paintings.

The first picture shows eight crowned figures, by name, France, Spain (low countries), Germany, England, Italy, Poland and Muscovia. (We know how vividly Poland is concerned at present; and Muscovia is Russia.) Only Germany bears arms and a shield. Into her ear the demon of discord whispers. The second shows a palace in a city all commotion. Men look anxiously over a balcony. It is Paris, and the inscription runs: "Woe to thee; repent, city of philosophers." The third is Rome, with the arch of Titus, etc. Its inscription, which was always deemed incomprehensible, indicates the date of these dire doings: "Woe to thee; repent, Rome, when thy walls shall hear the praise of the letter 'K.'" The fourth shows seven figures, Germany being omitted. They stand in a field, their naked swords on the grass. A flying angel hovers above one of their number, displaying the inscription: "Listen to him, because he is our friend!" The fifth shows the pope, seated, blessing the seven leaders, not eight. In the sixth they chase the Turks from Europe. The seventh continues the destruction of the Turkish empire. And the eighth, with the words, "Prophecy found in the tomb of Constantine," shows a tomb covered with emblems. It is the tomb of untruth.

England to Crush Germany.

Ancient though these paintings are, they are hundreds of years younger than some of the original prophecies which they are supposed to illustrate. The oldest of them is that called of St. Thomas Aquinas in the year 1227, of which the following are the paragraphs which seem to hint at the present situation:

"Woe to you Liguria (northwest Italy), and to you, blood-soaked Flanders.

"The schism will be overthrown when the Oak (England) in its fall crushes the Wild Boar (Germany).

"Weep, Babylon prophetic name for Paris), what sad days threaten you!

"The kings advance from the four corners.

"The arrow from Italy speeding toward the east will cut a currow to plant the true vine of the Savior."

In the thirteenth century Ansilme, Bishop of Suniam, referred thus to the Paris of the future:

"Alas, city of pains and passions,
Within your walls, what killed and bleeding!
The dragons break from their eggs armies for mutual war.
An innumerable multitude will be devoured by the sword."

The Letter K.

He is was, too, who warned the City of the Seven Hills against the day when the letter K should be praised within its walls; and has been pointed out the letter K is remarkably prominent in this war. We have among others kultur, kaiser, K K. bread, kathedral, kolossal, katastrophee, kamarade, kapout. An ancient Breton prophet, whose utterances have been preserved, but whose name has been forgotten, predicted a day "whn chariots shall march alone, and the horses of the prophet throw fire by head and tail; when the Sexons of the north and east shall join hands to kill France; when Paris, corrupt city, shall be broken like a hive."

The Sky-Burning Kaiser.

Another Breton prophesy made about a hundred years ago by the Cure of Maumusson said of Paris:

"Between the cries of 'All is lost' and 'All is saved' there will be, so to speak, no interval, no more than the time to turn a flapjack."

This prophet has considerable honor because he foretold the second empire, the republic, and the grand monarch. It is true that the grand monarch has not yet arrived, but Nostradamus, the greatest of profane prophets, calculated that he would appear 73 years after the end of monarchical government, and after a tremendous war. If this prophecy is to be fulfilled the grand monarch will come in 1921. Nostradamus, too, in 1560 made remarks which are interpreted to predict the invasion of France by Germany, and the arrival of the kaiser at Rheims. He refers to the invader as "sky-burning," which is by no means an inapt description.

"I don't like to find fault, Mr. Landlord," said Dixie Ipsit, addressing the proprietor of the Ocean View House, "but didn't I understand that our arrangement was that all bills were to be presented weekly?"

"Undoubtedly, sir," replied the landlord.

"Well, I think you had better notify your mosquitoes of the fact, sir," said Dixie. "About 10,000 of them are presenting their bills nightly."

GRUBBED IN DARKNESS TO MEET WHIM OF SICK MAN

Sergeant Tells of Brother Sergeant Who Got Machine Gun Barrel for His Trouble

(From a Member of the British Columbia Battalion.)

That same old "Somewhere," across the Channel, Sept. 5.—Some Blessed Demoiselle had sent my chum a box of cigars. Perhaps you can guess who was a popular boy in camp that night. Even his high mightiness the sergeant deigned to notice us. He was rewarded.

It was afternoon and hot. We had eaten and were full. Bully beef and fried cheese washed down with much tea from capacious cans and superimposed with much marcalade and jam—for generosity had gone abroad among our friends—gave us a sense of peace -on -earth -good- will- toward-menness which almost included our next door neighbor, Fritz.

We meditated on many things. There is, as it were, a "north" to the conversation of Tommies at the front. No matter where the discussion may start, as surely as a mariner's needle will eventually point in a certain direction, so certainly will any group of soldiers sooner or later find themselves discussing military decorations—especially those that are overduc, in the estimation of the speakers.

The Sergeant Speaks

We of the cigars had arrived at that point. The sergeant gave evidence he was about to make protracted utterance. He ceased to be a parallel with the horizon and carefully adjusted himself into an angle of approximately 110 degrees, with a can between his back and what had been the base of a German trench. He seemed to debate whether it were worth while to spend time he might devote exclusively to nicotine's charms, in talking to us. We were young. But then, the box was not empty. Perhaps that decided him to speech:

"As to unrewarded value," he said, "now listen to me." We did. "There is a machine gun sergeant in our battalion, who shall be nameless (he himself is a machine gunner and at once we were suspicious) who deserves a decoration if anybody does, and I'm not casting any brickbats at Mike O'Leary, either." He surveyed us from under the peak of a very much depressed cap. We grunted as the best way of expressing non-committal interest, sympathy and surprise.

"Well, we had just relieved the 1st brigade at G——. The first thing we did was to take a peek at what we had in front of our noses—besides sandbags and earth. Fritz had got a fool notion into his head the night before that he'd like to picnic in that trench. The boys had received him warmly, but somehow Fritz thought he couldn't stay, though a few of the party decided not to go back, and lay down in between the trenches.

"We surveyed them through our periscopes just to see if they had settled down for eternity or just as a temporary derangement. They seemed quiet enough, poor devils; but what most interested one of the sergeants, not the one I was telling you about, was that several machine gun parts that he though he could use in his business lay scattered around out there.

"He thought he'd go out as soon as it was dark enough not to make it absolutely certain Fritz would insist on his staying out there with the other lingerers.

"Now the sergeant next on our right, who is the hero of this story, got precisely the same idea, and expressed it. So they talked it over between them and agreed on a fair field and no favors—a free-for-all and findings keepings.

"He was rather impatient, that sergeant on the right. Before it was properly dark he was over the sandbags and playing Red Indian on the war path. All the boys watched him as well as they could. He got to the gun parts, stopped and then went on.

"Of course they couldn't make out what was going on; and it was so long before he showed up again that they began to think the Dead March was the next order of proceedings. Presently he bulked in over the parapet and dumped down a casualty. The way he talked to that delirious son-of-a-gun would make you think the blighter had stolen his last dime and graciously replaced it with a shirt-button. Swearing like a trooper? No, sir, I wouldn't compliment any trooper with that flow of language. An expurgated edition of what he was trying to say was that the blank blank fool had gone blank blank crazy with the blank blank heat out there all day and wouldn't come in till he'd had a drink and that he (the sergeant) didn't happen to have the Thames or the Rhine in his pocket—with a few more blank-blanks.

Casualty Wanted a Cap

"But that sergeant didn't really get into his stride—didn't really 'get liberty,' as the Scotch say about praying—until he came to the part about how the casualty acted when he found he'd lost his cap. He wouldn't come in without that cap. No, sir. He started to kick up such a racket about it—and it was within a hundred yards of the enemy's trench—that it came to this: either the sergeant had to find that cap instanter or duck for it to the tall timber before Fritz got the notion a general attack was on and turned on the machine guns and rifle fire. As it was, they were banging away quite interesting enough all the while.

"When they made that sergeant they left out the 'quit' part. He'd set out to bring in that casualty and he was going to bring him in. If he wouldn't come without a cap, he'd get a cap for him. So he started grubbing about in the darkness among dead Germans and things for a cap. He expected every minute to hear the single pop that starts the whole fireworks with flares and all the fixings specially for his funeral.

Wanted It Very Badly

He grubbed away for a cap like a crazy man after treasure. The pop didn't come, and presently he stumbled on a cap that might have been the casualty's—and might not. He jammed it on the mutt's head and started him on the home trail.

"You'd have thought that would have been enough for that sergeant for one night. Not on your life! He'd started out to get machine gun parts and he meant to have them, too. The sergeant on the left got the tripod stand but our hero cornered the barrel.

"I don't grudge it to him. He deserved it—and something more," said the sergeant.

We assented.

HE VALUES KELLY WORK AT $777,593

About Half of Caissons Went to Solid Rock Foundation, Declares Architect.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1.—With only one important crown witness yet to be heard—Prof. Brydone-Jack—the preliminary hearing of the former cabinet ministers was this afternoon adjourned until next week.

Prof. Brydone-Jack, who was one of the consulting engineers on the parliament buildings, will be subjected to considerable cross-examination, but as any other witnesses who may be called will deal only with minor points, the case will be brought to a conclusion on Wednesday. It is stated that there will be no formal addresses by counsel.

Upon the conclusion of this case it was sated by R. A. Bonnar, chief of the crown counsel, today, the charge of perjury against J. W. Howden and of the destruction of public documents against Sir Rodmond Roblin and Hon. Dr. Montague will be proceeded with in the same court. George R. Coldwell is not named in these charges.

Proceedings today were lacking in features of spectacular interest and the morning and afternoon sessions were brief. J. H. G. Russell, an architect who made an exhaustive report for the present government on the work done on the buildings, was the principal witness this afternoon. He produced his report, which was entered as an exhibit, despite the objections of the defense.

Mr. Russell valued the work done on the buildings by the Kelly firm at $777,593. He had inspected 15 caissons and found the concrete in some good and some bad. He was able to find no specifications for the caissons. He found that of these 15 six went to rock and seven were from 4 feet to 9 feet above the rock, while in the other two he could find no rock. From this he assumed that about half the caissons went to solid rock foundation. He valued the caissons work at $228,198.

There was no foundation stone as provided in the specifications.

P. G. McTavish, accountant in the provincial architect's office, and H. B. Johnston, employed in the same office, were the other witnesses called this afternoon. Mr. McTavish swore that he had received three or four of the applications for payment for the caissons from Lawrence Kelly, most of such applications being accompanied by letters, he said, as they had been handed to the royal commission. They were not produced.

Mr. McTavish stated that he had been uncertain as to the system under which the caissons were to be paid for—whether on a contract or the basis of cost plus 10 per cent.

WIFE'S DEVOTION FOUND MAJOR

Five Times Struck, Eye Out, Brain Spattered, Modern Surgery Made Him Whole.

(By Mary Adelaide Snider in the Toronto Telegram.)

Homeward bound from a hospital in England, Lieut. Brown of Galt was basking in the sun on the Missanabie's boat deck. Slowly, by the exercise of what the communiques describe as "tremendous pressure" he was forced in self-defense to talk about his wounds.

"Oh, I," said he, "was only shot through the lung. Yes, the bullet went right through, but a bullet's not half as bad as shrapnel. There's Major Mercereau over there. He could tell you the difference between a shrapnel and a bullet wound. Shrapnel tore the side of his head open so that his brains hung down over his face. He could not speak for three months. He was in hospital with me convalescing. Got acquainted helping teach him to talk again. We used to touch a chair and say 'What's this, major?'

"'It's a——,' he'd start hopefully, then look puzzled grope vainly in his memory and we would have to supply the word.

"'Oh, yes, chair,' he'd say, delightedly, with that smile of his. You know how his eyes dance even before his lips part."

The glance of the young lieutenant rested affectionately on the man of whom he spoke.

He was a clean-cut officer of 30, with dark blue eyes and fine white teeth. His scarlet-banded staff officer's cap and khaki tunic of the corps of guides with him major's crown became him well. Yet there was something in the way he sat in his deck chair which faintly suggested the college mortar board and gown. As a matter of fact 12 months ago he was a Canadian professor in Harvard university. And now he had just learned to talk.

Weeks and months of companionship in the long, hard pull for life had made there brother officers firm friends. Like the other soldier aboard it was always of the "other fellow's bravery or fortitude" they spoke—not their own. If, however, you gleaned particulars from someone else they could occasionally be cajoled into verifying or even modestly supplementing them.

The dancing laugh showed in Major Mercereau's eyes when a few moments after Lieut. Brown had pointed him out he was told that the scarlet on his cap and shoulder straps had misled people into thinking that he was not one of the wounded, but merely coming home on war office business.

"I was wounded five times at Ypres before they got me," said he simply, but just a little slowly and carefully. "The only wound at all serious was where shrapnel tore my side under my left arm. Some of the others helped me with first aid and by binding my arm down I was able to keep going.

"Oh, yes," he assented, "it would have put me to bed at home, but," he added gravely, "if you went down at Ypres it was all day with you."

"I was carrying a message from Gen. Currie to the trenches when shrapnel got me on the side of the head and I fell. I thought I picked myself right up again. I did not know that I had been lying there for an hour or two and that the general had been told I was dead; that shrapnel had blown my head off. He was surprised when I walked into headquarters and said: 'I can't get in, sir; you will have to send someone else.'

"I don't remember much after that. I know I had my hand to my head. They say I pushed my brains back into place and held them there. Gen. Currie said I looked as if half my face had been blown away.

"They took me to a hospital at Bayeaux. Surgeons there removed the shrapnel from my brain and dressed the wound. I woke up six or eight days later. My speech and my memory were gone. They kept asking my name but I hadn't any idea what it was. One thing worried me—that my people wouldn't know what had happened to me. But I didn't know who they were or who I was.

"My home is in St. Johns, N.B. My wife had come from there to England early in the war to be nearer me. I was reported wounded and missing. She crossed to France in search of me. She asked at all the hospitals if they had an unidentified Canadian officer. Bayeaux answered 'Yes.'

"She reached Bayeux just two hours after I had been sent out—nobody knew where—nor who, for I was still speechless.

My wife thought it likely I'd be at Boulogne. She found me there. I heard them say my wife was coming. I did not know I had a wife when I heard them, but when she came I recognized her. Still I could not speak.

"Another operation t'en disclosed more shrapnel on the brain. It was taken out. My wife talked to me of the children, but I could not recall them at all.

"From Boulogne I was sent to the Royal Free Hospital, London, where they reserve a ward for officers

"Lieut. Brown was there. Talk about a wound—he was shot through the lung and nearly bled to death. How he got back to the trenches alone, far enough for someone to pick him up and carry him to a dressing station, is a marvel. He lay so long on the field that it is amazing he had any blood left.

"In London they discovered abscesses and some more shrapnel when they opened my skull the third time. After that I began to improve. My memory returned gradually. They thought I was paralyzed. I heard the surgeon say so one day when describing the case to another doctor. I managed to say, 'I'm not.'

"He insisted also that I had lost the sight of the left eye—the one that had been knocked out.

"Yes," reluctantly admitted the major when exclamations forced him to go into details, "That was one of the minor injuries I spoke of. Shrapnel hit my cheek just underneath and tore the ball loose so that it hung down on my cheek, but at the dressing station they put the eye back in position and bandaged it. I was able to go back to duty until I got this last wound in the side of the head.

"I finally convinced the surgeon that I was neither paralyzed nor blind. But it took me three months to learn to talk.

"Wonderful? Yes," and the major's cupped hand stole up to his head as though he were again holding in the brains the Germans had so nearly spilled. The outlines of the scar, resembling in sie and shape a gentleman's calling card, stood upright, showing faintly above the ear. It looked as though the piece had been taken out and put back again. Hair almost concealed it.

"The operations were wonderful," he admitted readily. "But my getting back from the trenches wasn't anything more than hundreds of others did.

"Why," he continued, admiration glowing from every syllable, "there was a man in our trench shot in the head. The bullet went clear through and carried part of the brain with it.

"We picked him up and put him to one side. The fight was too hot just then to do more than get him out of the way. We knew he was done for.

"After a while there was a lu' We looked round and there he was sitting up in a corner smoking a pipe. 'You're shot through the head. You're seriously injured,' we told him. 'Oh, I think I san get back, said he.

"None of us could help him to the dressing station. We knew that. Nobody could take anybody back at Ypres. That's why you thought yourself lucky if you only got minor injuries and could keep going. Once down you stayed down, as a rule.

"That chap with the hole in his head and part of his brain gone, started alone for the dressing station. He got far enough back from the firing line that when he fell somebody carried him in. He's back in the trenches fighting now."

PRISONERS IN RUSSIA ARE TREATED WELL

Germans Are Kept Separate From Others—Their Privileges

LONDON.—Sidelights on the life of Russia's prisoners in the Siberian detention camps are given in a letter received by a British merchant in Moscow, a translation of which is printed in a London newspaper.

"At the present time," says the letter, "we have 14,000 prisoners on our books—6000 in the villages and 8000 in town. A further transport of 10,000 prisoners will be brought in within a month.

"The Germans are kept separate from the other nationalities. For two hours in the morning the prisoners are allowed to take gymnastic exercises, to play games, sing, or play music. Gardening also is allowed. The prisoners may smoke in places especially alloted. They get the same food as our Russian soldiers.

"Every fortnight a Russian bath is provided, and every one must make use of it. This time of the year the prisoners go to bathe in the river at least once a month."

The letter says the Germans are denied certain privileges accorded to the other prisoners, but the treatment of all is good. No prisoner needs to work more than five hours a day. The sanitary conditions are considered satisfactory. The officers get 50 roubles ($25) monthly and must provide their own food. Each house has a kitchen and there is a servant for every five officers. All complaints of ill-treatment, the writer says, are attended to immediately and those who are guilty are punished.

WHY CONSULATE AT CAIFFA WAS SHELLED

Turks, Influenced by German Consul, Had Disturbed Bones of French Soldiers.

PARIS.—An official communique not long ago stated that a French man of war had bombarded the little town of Saiffa on the Syrian coast. The reason is given in the following account of an eyewitness:

"One morning the superior of the monastery of Mount Carmel, who resides at Caiffa, was called to the governorate and told by the military governor that it was intended to destroy the monument erected to the memory of the fallen French soldiers before the sanctuary of Carmel. As, however, it was not desired to touch the cross that surmounted the monument, he was requested to remove it. The superior expressed the hope that the memorial plate that was on the pyramid might be left and that the remains beneath might not be disturbed. He was assured that the dead would be respected but that he must lose no time in removing the cross.

"Accordingly he had some laborers go to remove the cross, which had been forged or iron by the French sailors themselves. He had not yet finished when some Turkish soldiers and officers arrived and assisted in the work, but instead of giving it to the superior, the officer in charge declared that he had orders to deliver it to Jemel Pasha.

"Thereupon the troops, under instructions from the captain, began to demolish the monument and placed the bones of the French sailors in a barrel. By dint of vigorous protests, the superior at last obtained leave to deposit the remains in a cave, or old tomb and there they were laid and covered with a sprinkling of earth.

Put It in His Pocket.

"It was learned that this odious sacrilege had been instigated by the German consul and abundant proof was adduced. A report was transmitted to the French government and the cruiser Enrest Renan was dispatched to Caiffa. Anchoring off the town a launch was sent off with a white flag and a letter to the governor. He was absent but the commandant was given the missive and instead of reading it he put it in his pocket with the disparaging remark that it was 'merely some French message.' Two hours after the peacable town was astonished by a cannon shot and a shell falling on the petroleum depot.

"The commandant now hastened to open his letter and read that in reprisal for the insult to the French monument and the desecration of the tomb at the instigation of the German consul, in two hours the German consulate would be bombarded and that although no harm was intended to the adjoining houses, it might be as well to evacuate them.

The consul was warned immediately and just had time to pass his children out of the windows and make his own escape before the first of the 12 shots for the consulate came through the roof. The eleven others followed with such accuracy that one of the last ones passed through the very hole made by one of its predecessors and went on to hit a neighboring wall. When the cannonade ceased the Turk*ish officers rushed up to see the effects* of the practise. When the Ernest Renan saw from its decks this tableau it could not resist playing a trick and again hoisted the red pennant that had been flown during the bombardment. Immediately the whole staff took to fl'ght on horseback and on foot.

NEW WARSHIP PLANS CAREFULLY GUARDED

WASHINGTON— Hull plans of the two 32,000 ton superdreadnoughts, bids for which were advertised recently, are being closely guarded by navy department officials, as they include new ideas as to defence against torpedoes.

It is understood, however, that the experiments with floating caissons, begun immediately after the effectiveness of submarines was demonstrated in the European war, have thrown light upon the problem of guarding ship's bottoms from torpedo attacks and the provision has been made in the plans for the new vessels for a greater subdivision and possibly for a greater amount of armor over vital sections.

Navy experts are applying their theories in actual practice in reaching their decisions. Specially constructed caissons are tested with full charges of explosives. At the same time experiments have been in progress with chain torpedo nets suspended with the ships. The new ships will virtually duplicate the California class in appearance. They will have the clipper bows adopted for the California, carrying 12 14-inch guns, mounted 3 to a turret and will make 20½ knots an hour. In size the ships will be the maximum that can pas sthrough the Panama canal, 640 feet in length and 97 feet beam.

The annual harvest festival services of St. Saviour's church will be held on Sunday.

The Baptist Sunday school will hold rally day tomorrow. Changing from summer to winter arrangements the school will meet at 2:30 p.m. The adult classes will resume their winter plan of work. W. P. Freeman will address the school.

Nelson News of the Day

ASSIZES OPEN AT 11 O'CLOCK MONDAY

One Attempted Murder, One Theft, One Assaulat and One Abduction Case on Calendar.

At 11 o'clock on Monday morning the fall assizes will open at Nelson, four cases being on the calendar, consisting of an attempted murder charge, a case of alleged theft, a charge of assault and one case of attempted abduction. Fred C. Moffatt will act as crown prosecutor. Chiefe Justice Hunter will preside.

It is stated that the first case to be dealt with will in all likelihood be that of Rex vs. Sims, for attempted murder. In this case it is charged that Sims, who is a resident of Arrow Lakes Park, assaulted his wife and attempted to kill her last May. It is claimed that while the couple, who it was supposed had always lived together in harmony, were engaged in some repairs to the cellar of their house, Sims attacked the woman and beat her over the head with a piece of wood. He then, it is charged, informed the neighbor that she had fallen down the stairs and killed herself. After being removed to the hospital Mrs. Sims recovered and as the result of her story a charge was laid against the man.

For some time the police were at a loss to attribute any motive for the deed until a search of the house revealed some letters which it is alleged were from a woman living in Alebtra, in answer to letters written to her by Sims proposing marriage. Sims is a man past middle life and has been married twice. A. M. Johnson will appear for the defense.

It is expected that the second case to be dealt with will be that of Rex vs. Dewitt, for theft. This case involves the disposition of a gold brick, which, it is said, is valued at nearly $600. It is charged that Dewitt disposed of the brick to one of the banks in the city after having already assigned it to a firm of lawyers as security for a loan of $400 with which to carry on mining operations.

Rex. vs. Greenwood, Norman and Keinsberg for assault. The charge in this case was laid by John St. Denis of Slocan City, who states that Feb. 10 last the accused men entered the dwelling house in which he was and assaulted him. The verdict in this case, it is expected, will hinge on the possibility of identification.

She last case on the calendar is one of attempted abduction which occurred in the neighborhood of Revelstoke and which is being brought to Nelson for trial. No papers in this case have been received, as yet, by the crown prosecutor and the details of the charge are therefore unknown.
