TEUTONS PREPARE TO DIG IN FOR WINTER IN EAST

Driving Power May Have Been Exhausted

STRONG RUSSIAN FORCES FACE THEM

Muscovites Offer Fresh Resistance in Rovno and Dubno Regions

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Either the driving power of the Austro-German offensive against Russia is nearly exhausted or the generals have decided that their armies have penetrated the Russian emperor's domains as far as is considered safe and are preparing to dig themselves in for the winter. This is the opinion expresed by military writers here.

Certainly little progress is now being made and at many points the Germans and Austrians, are contenting themselves with repulsing the Russians' counter attacks. From the gulf of Riga to Grodno Field Marshal von Hindenburg's armies are at a standstill, having apparently made no attempt to cross the Dvina after carying the bridgeheads at Lennewada and Friedrichstadt.

To the north, southwest and south of Vilna, the fall of which has been predicted for some days, the Germans are faced by strong Russian forces who by their offensive made it dangerous for the Germans to push their way westward, north and south of them.

Look For Defensive Positions

The Germans, on the other hand, are massed between Grodno and Kobrin, on the Brest-Pinsk railway, but their immediate object is not obvious unless they are looking for a good defensive position on which to hold the Rusians through the winter.

Further south the Rusians are offering fresh resistance as they are firmly established in a fortified area of which Rovno and Dubno are centres; while in Gallcia they still hold the line of the Sereth river.

With the rainy season a few weeks off, the opposing armies, especially in the marshy region of the centre, cannot hope to carry on the operations much longer and some reports state that the Germans and Austrians are already moving troops to the Servian, Rumanian and western fronts.

Drive Russians Over Dvina.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—The war office issued the following statement tonight:

"At the entrance of the gulf of Riga enemy scouts and seaplanes appeared several times on Sept. 3 and 4 above Viben strait throwing bombs on our torpedo boats. They were driven off on each occasion by the gunfire of our ships.

"On the left bank of the Dvina the Germans brought up reinforcements and directed their main efforts to turning a passage of the river in the region of Friedrichstadt. Owing to the inequality of the respective forces our troops who had crossed to the left bank were obliged on Sept. 3, after a stubborn fight, to recross to the right bank.

"According to detailed reports of the fighting at Freidrichstadt on the same date the withdrawal of our troops was due to the setting on fire of the bridges over the Dvina by the enemy's artillery.

"In the region of Riga and Jacobstadt the Germans have confined themselves to impeding our advance. In the region of Arany on Sept. 3 our troops drove the Germans from the village of Smalniki, capturing over 200 prisoners, including some officers.

"On the lower Meretchanka we sustained on Sept. 3 in different circumstances an onslaught of the enemy, whose advance threatened to cut off our retreat in the Grodno region.

"On the front of the Niemen above Grodno to the river Jasiolda near Bereza Kartuska our troops successfully repulsed the enemy in several sections the night of Sept. 3 and the following day. The enemy nevertheless succeeded in pressing us in the direction of Volkovsk.

"Between the rivers Boryn and Styr the enemy, considerably reinforced, toward the evening of Sept. 4 continued to develop its offensive on the Dubno-Rovno roads.

Attack Turkish Cruiser.

"On the right bank of the Styr to the north of Dubno fighting has commenced.

"In Galicia on the Sereth river the enemy made a determined advance on Sept. 1 in the region of Tarnopol and Tlouste, and in the district around the mouth of the Sereth and on both banks of the Dniester.

"Near Tlouste stubborn attacks by the enemy although reinforced, were repulsed by our artillery. In our counter atacks we took about 300 prisoners, including officers. The fighting continues.

"On the Black sea our torpedo boats under command of Prince Troubetsky, attacked today near Zunguldak the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh and two torpedo boats. There was two hours' fighting and the damaged enemy ships fled in the direction of the Bosphorus, pursued by our two destroyers. They left behind four colliers which were sunk with their cargoes."

Claim No Victory Near Riga

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—No further victories in the Riga region are reported in the official statement issued today at army headquarters.

Additional fighting with the capture of some prisoners is claimed, however, at various other points along the battle line.

The statement says:

"In the eastern theatre: Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg: The situation between Friedrichstadt and Merecz and on the Niemen is unchanged. East of Grodno the enemy retreated behind the Kotrap, a tributary of the Niemen, south of Jeslory. The number of prisoners taken in the battles around Grodno have increased to 3,600. The enemy was again defeated south of Mzvibowo, southwest of Wolkowsk, by troops under Gen. von Gallwitz and 500 prisoners were captured.

"Army group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: Our troops gained their way out of the marsh district at the southeast of Neuydero and north of Pruzana. Further north progress was made, over prisoners and three machine guns being captured.

"Army group of Field Marshal von Mackenzen: The bridgehead at Bruema Kaftuska was evacuated by the enemy under pressure of our attack. In the region of Drohiszyn and south of that point the enemy again offered resistance yesterday.

"Southeastern theatre: The army of Gen. von Bothmer stormed a row of advanced positions on the western bank of the Sereth."

M'BRIDE WELCOMES SIR ROBERT BORDEN

British Columbia Is Proud of Achievements of Prime Minister of Canada

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 5.—Sir Richard McBride yesterday despatched the following message to Sir Robert Borden:

"On the occasion of your safe return to the federal capital from your great imperial mission permit me, on behalf of the province of British Columbia, to extend to you a cordial welcome home and to assure you that we in this province, in common with the rest of the Canadian people, are proud of your achievements at the metropolis of the Empire and are satisfied that the ties of imperial kinship have been measurably strengthened thereby."

To Sir Sam Hughes Sir Richard sent a message which read:

"On behalf of British Columbia I welcome you back to Ottawa and congratulate you on the success of your mission across the water."

RAZED OSSOWETZ FORTRESS TO GROUND

Germans Employed Great Volume of Gas Against Garrison—Russians Fought Gallantly.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PETROGRAD, Sept. 5.—Maj.-Gen. Brjosogzky who was commandant of the fortress of Ossowetz, Russian Poland, which recently was occupied by the Germans after the Russians evacuated it, has presented to Emperor Nicholas a report on the defense of the stronghold.

The report in part follows:

"After victoriously repulsing toward the end of 1914 the desperate assault, which lasted four days uninterruptedly, the garrison in February opened the second phase of the struggle by carrying the fighting into the advanced positions. The subject of this was to gain time to prepare the fortress for a more effective defense.

"February and March were passed in a formidable artillery duel in which the enemy's heavy guns, including the 16-inch, demolished all the buildings and works at Ossowetz. The Germans supplemented the bombardment by infantry assaults, all of which failed. The enemy on March 31, recognizing the futility of its efforts, assumed the defensive, entrenched itself and brought up numerous light guns from the rear and mounted them in fresh positions.

"The lull lasted until Aug. 7, when the Germans delivered an assault after sending 600 asphyxiating gas bombs into the fortress. The garrison, most of whom were poisoned, at first yielded the position, but animated by the officers, made a superhuman effort to dislodge the enemy with the bayonet. The Germans on Aug. 9 began preparations for a serious assault by launching of a double quantity of gas against the garrison which was exhausted and almost incapable of effort but orders were given to evacuate the fortress and raze it to the ground."

CANADIANS ARE DETERMINED TO WIN

No Conclusion Will Be Satisfactory Save Complete Triumph, States Sir Robert Borden

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—During the course of his speech in reply to the civic address presented to him on his return home yesterday, Sir Robert Borden told a story illustrating the determination of many Canadians in England to get to the front. He said:

"The day I crossed from Dover to Boulogne I heard of 1500 Canadian troops that I had not seen at Shorncliffe, 300 of them were going to the front to reinforce the Princess Patricias. The rest were going to fill the gaps in other units of Canadians at the front. So I went to visit them and I was told that a dozen of the boys were being sent back to England. They had stowed themselves away on the transports, hoping to get to the front in that way. Of course, they were going without orders and it was a breach of military discipline, and the military authorities, I suppose, had to turn them back. My own personal feeling was that they should have been allowed to go to the front. I could not but admire their eagerness to fight for their country. I am sure the same spirit animates all our volunteers at home and, indeed, the entire Canadian people.

"The events through which I have passed since leaving the city have been the most interesting of my life. It has been my good fortune to see at the front the splendid soldiers that Canada has sent. In speaking to them I sought to impress upon them the greatness of the cause. To the appeal I made I found most appreciative response. They understand that they are fighting not only for Canada and the Empire but for the destiny of the entire world, the liberty of mankind and the future of civilization. I found a spirit of resolute determination that no conclusion will be satisfactory save the complete triumph of the cause."

AMERICAN WARSHIPS COAL AT PRINCE RUPERT

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Sept. 5.—Five American torpedo boat destroyers, Paul Jones, Stewart, Perry, Preble and Whipple, under Lieut.-Commander Alex. Sharpe, on their way from Alaskan waters to Bremerton, were here tonight to coal. They cruised as far as the Aleutian islands.

LIEUT. STEPHEN DION WAS ON BOARD HESPERIAN

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—Lieut. Stephen Dion of the 3rd battalion, Canadian expeditionary force, was among the saved from the Hesperian. His father, A. A. Dion, superintendent of the Ottawa Electric & Gas company, received a cable tonight announcing he had landed safely at Queenstown.

Lieut. Dion, who was coming home to recuperate from severe wounds, is the former well known hockey player, a member of the Winnipeg Victorias and Ottawa teams.

CALLS SUBMARINE PIRACY BLUNDER

Balfour Gives Reason for Changed German Attitude

KAISER'S NAVY HAS TO ADMIT FAILURE

Neither Dreadnoughts Nor Undersea Boats Have Fulfilled Purpose

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, contributes the following letter to the British press:

"Much has been written about Germany's military methods and aims on land; not so much about its aims and methods at sea. Yet in truth the two are so intimately connected that neither can be understood apart from the other.

"In 1900 Germany first proclaimed its policy of building a fleet against Great Britain and from the point of view of its own ambitions the policy was a perfectly sound one. It aimed at world domination, and against world domination the British fleet from the time of Queen Elizabeth to the present has always been found the surest and most effectual protection. Germans have every reason to be aware of the fact, for without the British fleet Frederick the Great must have succumbed to his enemies and Prussia would scarcely have shaken off the Napoleonic tyranny.

"Whatever may be thought about the freedom of the seas in any of its various meanings, the freedom in England is due in no small matter to British and British sailors.

Hoped to Frighten Britain

"It takes time as well as money to create a great fleet and German statesmen were too wise to suppose that they could at once call into existence a navy capable of contending with a power, such as they saw clearly enough was the most formidable obstacle to their aggressive projects. But they did not on that account doubt the immediate advantages which their maritime policy conferred upon them. They calculated that a powerful fleet, oven though it was numerically inferior to that of Great Britain, would nevertheless render the latter impotent, since no British government would dare risk a conflict, which however, successful, might leave it in the end with naval forces inferior to those of some other power.

"This is the policy clearly, though cautiously expressed in the famous preamble to the naval bill. It is unnecessary to add that the German navy league entertained much more ambitious designs. So far neither the designs of the German government nor those of the German navy league have met with any measure of success. The British fighting fleet has become relatively stronger than it was 13 months ago and there is no reason to suppose that during the future course of the war this process is likely to be arrested.

Teuton Battle Fleet Failed

"It is, indeed, plain that after six months of hostilities Admiral von Tirpitz and the government he served arrived at this conclusion. They saw that the old policy had broken down and that a new policy must be developed; submarines, they thought, might succeed where dreadnoughts and cruisers had failed.

"The change, no doubt, was adopted with extreme reluctance and many searchings of the heart. Admission of failure in itself is unpleasant. Though we cannot regard a government responsible for the Belgian atrocities as either scrupulous or humane, even the most reckless government does not desire to perpetrate unnecessary crimes.

"As to what the German navy must have felt about the new policy we can only conjecture. But German sailors are gallant men and gallant men do not like being put on a coward's job. They know well enough that in the old days which we are pleased to regard as less humane than our own, there was not a privateersman but would have thought himself disgraced had he sent to the bottom unresisting merchantmen with all hands on board,

LINER HESPERIAN TORPEDOED PASSENGERS AND CREW SAVED

German Submarine Attacks Ship 130 Miles West of Coast of Ireland--Ship Is Being Taken to Port Under Her Own Steam, Say Reports

SUBMARINE FIRED WITHOUT GIVING ANY WARNING--PERFECT DISCIPLINE PREVAILS

Attack Was Made At Dusk While Passengers Were Enjoying After-Dinner Promenade, Feeling That Danger Zone Had Been Passed--American Consul States Vessel Carried Gun

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 5.—Rescue boats with passengers and members of the crew of the Allan line steamer Hesperian arrived here today and told of the torpedoing of the liner Saturday evening by a German submarine off the south coast of Ireland.

The passengers were unanimous in declaring the Hesperian was attacked in the gathering night without warning. The only person aboard the vessel who actually saw the under-water boat was a man on watch who says he got a glimpse of it in the distance and reported the fact to Capt. Main.

The passengers declare that the steamer was down by the head when they last saw it but that the vessel was making its way slowly to Queenstown under its own steam.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Allan line steamer Hesperian, with 350 passengers and a crew of 300 aboard, bound from Liverpool for Montreal, was torpedoed without warning by a German submarine off the Irish coast just as darkness was falling Saturday evening. Although the torpedo struck its target, the vessel remained afloat and, according to a statement issued by the company tonight, every soul aboard was saved.

The Allan line officials, however, decided not to give out a list of the passengers.

No submarine was seen and probably it was too dark to observe the wake of a torpedo, but all the passengers and members of the crew who arrived at Queenstown on the rescue steamers today agree that the attack was made by a German underwater boat, basing their opinion on the force of the shock and the great volume of water thrown into the air. This dropped back on the deck, drenching the passengers, who were taking their afterdinner promenade, feeling quite safe in the belief that they had passed the submarine danger zone.

The force of the explosion was tremendous and some of the passengers landed at Queenstown were scantily clad. About 20 of them were injured. There were no American passengers aboard, so far as the American consul could learn tonight, but two members of the crew were American citizens and they were both saved.

Canadian Wounded Aboard

About 30 Canadian soldiers, who were wounded in battle in Flanders, were going home to recuperate. Most of the other pasengers were Canadians returning from a visit to England, or English people on their way to Canada to settle.

The torpedo struck the Hesperian in the forward engine room, and the ship immediately began to settle by the head. Captain Main ordered the passengers and crew into the boats, but with his officers remained on the bridge although at the time he must have felt sure that his ship would go down.

The discipline was perfect, but one of the boats, the falls of which became jammed, capsized and those in it were thrown into the sea. In the darkness confusion naturally prevailed but all were picked up and with other passengers and the crew were transferred to the rescue steamers which arrived in answer to wireless calls for assistance. The Hesperian was about 130 miles to the westward of Ireland when struck.

Pasengers Were Lucky

QUEENSTOWN, Sep. 5.—tMajor J. S. Barres, a Canadian officer who was returing home to recuperate from wounds, said:

"The Hesperian was torpedoed without warning. The deadly missile was discharged at the steamer while it was shrouded in darkness. That there was not an appalling loss of life was no fault of the comander of the German craft. The torpedo struck a vital part of the engine room."

Major Barres assisted the engineers in closing the bulkheads and thereby the inflow of water from the first and second forward compartments was checked. By this means the steamer, which was in imminent danger of foundering, was kept afloat.

According to statements made by some of those who were landed here, the captain of the Hesperian and about 20 of his crew never left the vessel, and the captain told many of his men who had taken to the boats to return who did not respond. So far as has been ascertained by the American consul, who has been making inquiries, there was only two Americans aboard. Both were saved. One of them, named Dolan, of Pittsburg, said that no submarine was sighted. The only idea that the submarine was near was a tremendous explosion which threw up such a mass of water that it swept slean over the forward part of the vessel.

Canadians Rescue Women and Children

Among those who had to swim for it were several Canadians. They were good swimmers and not only managed to keep afloat until picked up, but helped to save some of the women and children. A choppy sea, addel to the darkness, intensified the misery of those in the boats, many of whom were scantily clad.

Among the soldiers returning to Canada was one named Chambers of Truro, N. S., He had lost the sight of both eves, but after the explosion he discovered he had regained the sight of one eve.

Another Canadian officer who remained aboard the ship until the rescue steamers arrived said the steamer was struck by the torpedo at 8 30 in the evening, when it was well out of sight of the Irish coast and everybody on board thought they were out of danger.

Helps Close Bulkheads

With other officers the Canadian says he went below to assist in closing the bulkheads, which was quickly accomplished. The torpedo, he says, hit the liner on the starboard side, somewhere near the second bulkhead and the ship went down by the head to about 35 feet. As the water was more or less confined to the forward part of the steamer, Captain Main was hopeful that he could bring the vessel into port.

The wireless was put out of action as the result of the explosion, but the ship's officer climbed the mast and repaired it, and calls for aid were soon being flashed across the sea.

The first rescue steamer arrived at 9.30 and took survivors out of the lifeboats. Two other steamers came up an hour later and one of them remained with the Hesperian until midnight, when Captain Main reported that he would be able to keep the water down until the vessel should reach Queenstown.

Austro-Hungarian Ambassador Says Duty to Keep Countrymen From Making Arms for Allies

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LENNOX, Mas., Sept. 5.—The right to call a strike of Austrian and Hungarian workers in the big steel mills of the country engaged in filling orders for the allies was claimed by Dr. Constantin Thodore Dumba, ambassador from Austria-Hungary to the United States, in a statement issued tonight at the summer embassy here. Dr. Dumba said he intended to leave tomorrow for Washington to explain his position to Secretary Lansing. This statement was called forth by despatches from London published in the New York World yesterday, making public excerpts from letters and memoranda forwarded by Dr. Dumba to Foreign Minister Burian of Austria-Hungary, which were seized by the British naval authorities from James F. Archibald, an American newspaper corespondent who was apprehended when the steamer Rotterdam arrived at Falmouth the latter part of August. In regard to one of the published statements in which it was said that typewritten memoranda prepared by Dr. Dumba contained information as to how the big steel mills at Bethlehem (Pa.) and elsewhere could be put out of commission, the ambassador said:

"There are thousands of citizens of Austria-Hungary working in the big steel mills at Bethlehem and elsewhere. They are engaged in making munitions of war for the enemies of their country. This constitutes a crime which is punishable by imprisonment and penal servitude, if they ever be brought to their native land.

Admits Subsidising Press

"Many of them are ignorant and do not know that they are doing wrong. It is my position to point out to them that they are committing a crime and do all in my power to keep them from wrongdoing. It is a part of an ambassador's duties to keep his countrymen out of trouble wherever he may be stationed.

"It is difficult to get at these laborers owing to the conditions under which they work and because of the fact that so many are uneducated. I have subsidized many newspapers printed in the several languages of the Austro-Hungarian races and through their columns have told the citizens of the government represent what their duty is. The only way is to inaugurate a peaceful walkout in the big mills where the Austro-Hungarians may be reached en masse.

"It is therefore my duty to make known these facts to my government and I shall leave for Washington tomorrow and call upon Secretary Lansing."

BRITISH MAKE PROGRESS ON GALLIPOLI PENINSULA

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Sept. 5.—An official report tonight says:

"In the Dardanelles since the end of August quiet has prevailed in the southern zone of the peninsula. In the north zone several engagements of quite a spirited nature have enabled the British troops to realize some progress."

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Paris reports that the Turks have delivered an unsuccessful night attack against the British position near the Anzac region, but beyond that no news has been received of the operations in the Near East. There has been renewal of the reports from Athens of dissensions between the Turks and Germans at Constantinople and of the depression among the Turks as the result of heavy losses in Gallipoli.

No evidence of this, however, is to be found among the Turkish troops, who are reported to be fighting with all their old stubbornness.

54 OF GERMAN PLUNGERS HAVE BEEN DESTROYED

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Sept. 5.—With regard to the statement that the chief reason the Germans are preparing to abandon the submarine warfare is because of their heavy losses, it is authoritatively asserted that 54 of the "U" boats have been lost.

A naval banquet was held in England recently to celebrate the destruction of the fiftieth submarine.

ALLIES BUILD MANY LINES OF NEW RESERVE TRENCHES

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEAR NIEUPORT, Belgium, Sept. 3, via Paris, Sept. 5.—Artillery actions in the triangle formed by Dunkirk, Nieuport and Ypres have figured conspicuously in the official communications of the past week but so far flung is the battle line that it requires that one be in either the secrets of the general staff or posesss the advantage of the observers in anchored balloons to determine where such activity is likely to be encountered.

On a day when the official statement referred to activity in the vicinity of Nieuport, Steenstraete and Boesinghe, to the Associated Press correspondent who motored here, there and everywhere in the territory and hearing bursting shells—but never getting within a mile of one—in a most sadly demolished, uninhabited Belgian village, an officer said: "Yes, they bombard this place daily, usually about 2 o'clock."

With booming audible ahead, that was to long to wait and the correspondent's motor car was driven on.

As he was concealed in the undergrowth on a high dune further along the line the correspondent's glasses revealed the Germans lines from which there came occasional white puffs from bursting shrapnel. Officers near him were picking out of the sand pieces of a shell that had burst yesterday. Then a visit was paid to the spot where was concealed a big gun that already had done some firing.

"When are you going to fire again,"

DESPATCH URGES ALLIES TO ACTION

Petrograd Writer Gets Past Censor With Advice to Joffre—Italian Says Better to Wait

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, Sept. 4.—The Giornale d'Italia today prints the following despatch from Petrograd:

"Early efforts by the allies in the Dardanelles and in Belgium are necessary if they expect final victory. It is imperative that the entente allies in the west assume the offensive and draw 20 divisions of the Germanic allies from the east.

"Notwithstanding the approach of winter the Germans will be able to pursue the Russians and this will render the situation more critical than ever."

The fact that this despatch passed the Russian censor was considered remarkable as well as significant in official quarters here.

Best for Allies to Wait

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Writing in Preparasione, an Italian military organ, Col. Barons, the great military critic, who recently visited Gen. Joffre, says:

"Some people, among them the French supreme command, think that in the present circumstances a general offensive in the western theatre can be delayed without inconvenience in order that when it is once begun it can be carried through without interruption.

"There is also an impatient minority which believes that it is best to act quickly.

"The former are right. By pushing its advance into Russia, Germany is marching to disaster and it is far better for the allies to await this event and then strike."

RUSSIAN RETREAT IS MASTERPIECE

Invaders Find Nothing But Black Desert, no Human Beings, no Buildings, no Corn.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Daily News gives the story of an Austrian officer who went through all the fighting of the last few weeks on the Russian front. He calls the great retreat a masterpiece of terrifying and systematic devastation, a second 1812. In a few vivid strokes he shows how the invader found nothing but a black desert, not a human being, not a roof, not a grain of corn.

"An immense sea of flames marked the line of retreat of the Russians," he says. "For miles the roads are bordered by burning houses. Near Sokal, in the vicinity of the monastery of St. Bernard, 200 blackened chimneys show where one of their field hospitals stood.

"They had taken away the wounded and burned the hospital.

"Gen Mistichenko's army is followed everywhere by well organized detachments of Cossacks, whose task is to burn everything behind the army. They carry out their mission pitilessly. When the Hungarian Honfeds entered Krylof every street was ablaze. The heat from this immense brazier was so fierce that they could not pass through the town but had to lose precious hours in a wide sweep around it.

"When Vladimir Colyski was reached it was found to be burning also and behind that were burning villages.

"Waves of this sea of flame rolled over the whole plain of Kovel and engulfed the villages bordering it."

and it can have been no agreeable reflection, even to the German Navy league, that the first notable performance of the German fleet should resemble piracy rather than privateering.

"We may, therefore, safely assume that nothing but hope of a decisive success would have induced the German ministers to inflict this stain upon the honor of their country.

"Yet decisive success has not been attained and does not seem to be in sight.

Britain's Merchant Tonnage Greater

"I claim no gifts of prophecy; I make no boasts of the future. But of the past I can speak with assurance and it may interest you to know that while the losses inflicted upon the German submarines have been formidable, British mercantile tonnage is at this moment greater than when the war began.

"It is true that by this method of warfare many offensive persons, women and children as well as men, neutrals as well as belligerents, have been robbed and killed. But it is not only the innocent who have suffered; the criminals also have paid a heavy toll. Some have been rescued and are prisoners of war; but from the nature of submarines it must often happen that they drag their crews with them to destruction and those who send them forth on their unhonored mission wait for their return in vain.

"Herein lies the explanation of the amazing change which has come over the diplomatic attitude of Germany toward the United States. Men ask themselves why the sinking of the Lusitania, with a loss of over 1100 men, women and children, was welcomed throughout Germany with a shout of triumph while the sinking of the Arabic was accomplished in melancholy silence.

"Is it because in the intervening months the United States has become stronger or Germany weaker? Is it because the attitude of the president has varied? Is it because the arguments of the secretary of state have become more persuasive? Is it because German opinion has at last revolted against lawless cruelty?

"No. The reason is found elsewhere. It is found in the fact that the authors of the submarine policy have had time to measure its effects—that the deeds which were merely crimes in May in September are seen to be blunders."

EARL COOPER WINS 500-MILE AUTO RACE

Gil Anderson of Indianapolis Comes in Second—Finish was the Closest Ever Witnessed

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

FORT SELLING, Minn., Sept. 5.—In one of the most spectacular and closes finishes ever witnessed at the end of a 500-mile automobile race, Earl Cooper of Los Angeles yesterday won the first motor derby over the new Twin City speedway. Cooper was less than one second ahead of his teammate, Gil Anderson of Indianapolis, who finished second. The official time of the two cars was Cooper 5:47:29, Anderson 5:47:30.

Cooper's average speed for the 500 miles was 86.35 miles an hour.

Eddie O'Donnell, who was more than 30 miles behind the leaders, finished third. O'Donnell's time was 6:20:25.

By his victory Cooper, who drove an American car, won $20,000; Anderson won $10,000; O'Donnell $4,500.

Cooper was relieved by John Aitken, an Indianapolis man, for 18 miles. Anderson also was relieved for a shorter distance by Tom Rooney of Indianapolis.

The race, according to experts, was a contest of endurance of cars and drivers.

The machines driven by Cooper and Anderson raced around the course, dancing over the rough spots in the concrete and driving other entries who attempted to hit up a like pace from the contest. Frequent changes in drivers were necessary.

Drivers declared that conditions of the Chicago and Indianapolis courses were greatly superior to that of the Snelling course and that the rough parts made record time impossible.

LARGE SALMON CAUGHT AT BONNINGTON FALLS

(Special to The Daily News.)

SOUTH SLOCAN, B. C., Sept. 5.—Robert Elliot and Henry Fowler of Bonnington Falls caught a Columbia river salmon weighing 35 pounds when fishing at the pool on Wednesday. The fish gave good play, it taking 40 minutes to land it. Fishing has been remarkably good during the past week, some large catches being recorded, W. A. Macaulay, O. W. Humphry and F. J. McGowan being particularly successful.

John Franklin Baker leads the Delaware County league in batting with an average of .407. He has made 24 hits in 59 times at bat. He is also the league's heavy hitter, having six home runs and six doubles. Baker is also the leading run-getter, crossing the plate 21 times in 16 games.

HORN BLOWERS TO MEET LOCAL NINE

Rossland to Play Nelson Baseball Team—Nines Expected to Put Up Good Game

This afternoon the Rossland city band baseball team will meet the local nine at the fair grounds. The horn blowers claim to have a hot aggregation of ball players in their midst and promise that they will keep their opponents doing jig steps all over the field from the time the list hot one zipps over the plate. The home team is equally confident that by the time the musicians get through chasing balls over the outfield they will have no wind left to play "See the Conquering Hero Comes" when the score card is pinned on the board. The line-up will be as follows:

Rossland—Larson, p.; A. Freeman, c.; Moorish, 1b.; Taylor, 2b.; Johnson, s.s.; Peters, 3b.; Jewell, r.f.; P. Freeman, c.f.; Talbot, l.f. Sharkey Isaacson, official mascot of the bandsmen will be on hand with the bat bag and cross the plate for good luck.

Nelson—F. Lucia, c.; B. Whitehead, p.; J. Brennan, 1b.; N. Richardson, 2b.; C. Bradshaw, 3b.; W. Sturgeon, s.s.; W. Hoskins, l.f.; B. Shuttleworth, r.f.; P. Bard, c.f. On the bench, Frost and Swedberg. The game has been called for 3 o'clock sharp. W Shackleton will do the guessing, accompanied by the indicator.

Tom Crowler of England defeated Jack Hemple of San Francisco in the third round of a 10-round match in New York, the referee stopping the fight to save Hemple from a knockout.

CARELESS CAMPERS CAUSE MOST FIRES IN LILLOOET

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 3.—Advices reaching the minister of lands on conditions in the Lillooet district mention that 19 fires have been reported this season the area burned over being in excess of 2,000 acres, without appreciable damage to green timber. In most cases campers caused outbreaks through lack of care. The burning and disposal of logging slash this season has been very satisfactory, 300 acres having been cleared. In addition many permits to settlers to burn slash for the clearing of land have been granted and in no case has a fire got away in any area under permit. Co-operation between the forest service and settlers has facilitated clearing operations, while valuable aid has been rendered in the location and clearing of new trails and the repair of old trails. The activity in land clearing is evidenced by the number of fire permits granted to date, namely, 225.

The season thus far has been exceptionally good for the dry farmer and stock raiser, the crops of hay and grain being remarkably fine and encouraging to the newcomers who have sown small areas this year.

ALLIES BUILD LINES OF RESERVE TRENCHES

was asked of the lieutenant who received the correspondent.

"Whenever they telephone us what the range is and how many shots to fire," was the reply.

Artillery warfare in this sector is as casual a proceeding as the routine of a New York business office.

The big gun looked as peaceful as an old civil war cannon on a village green. So it remained until a directing officer, somewhere in the rear, received the reports of military observers and by mathematical calculations based on their photographs, outlined the next action. The individual artillerist has no more definite idea of the result of his activity than a wireless operator transmitting electric waves into the atmosphere when his receiving apparatus is out of order.

Watching the artillery battle from the dune was like listening to the racket of a Fourth of July celebration in the next town, the celebration in your own town just as likely as not begining when you visit the one from which the noise was heard from afar.

The realities of war is realized only when companies of soldiers return from the trenches saying, for instance, that they lost no men, but that their neighbors had lost 16, or when an American ambulance driver greets one on the roadside with "There is no need to hurry; the man inside died before we could reach the hospital."

Even such an artillery action as that which today is the sole subject of the official communication does not serve to interfere with agricultural progress in this busy corner of Belgium. Peasants were working in the field nearer the German lines than army officers declared to be safe, even for troops unless necessity sent them. Within the sound of artillery, the French, Belgian and British soldiers lie by hundreds and thousands in hospitals, the capacity of some ranging from 2000 beds down to 200, such as the one managed by Mrs. Mary Borden-Turner of Chicago.

Whole brigades of soldiers are constructing second, third and fourth line trenches back of the lines, and covering acre after acre with barbed wire. For one soldier fighting 50 evidently are working at entrenching, building roads, laying tracks and building bridges, in preparation to preventing a German advance through a country where every soldier, however, is confident the Germans will never penetrate.

CRIMINAL FOLLY SAYS LONDON PAPER

Hesperian suggest to the specious communication of Ambassador Bernstorff to Secretary Lansing? In view of the fact that the Hesperian is clearly a liner in the strictest interpretation of the phrase, the outrage affords a salient and damning illustration of German methods of conducting negotiations with neutral powers."

"The outrage," says the Times, "emphasizes the difficulty of showing that the pledges of Ambassador Bernstorff's note marked even the beginning of the end of Germany's submarine campaign, and the shock of the attack on the Hesperian can nowhere be received with a greater sense of disillusionment than in Washington."

The Chronicle characterizes the attack as "a brutal and prompt repudiation of Von Bernstorff's undertaking, which Washington cannot possibly ignore."

"The Hesperian," says the News, "has thrust all minor issues aside. The pledge was made public Wednesday and by Saturday was 'a scrap of paper.'"

The express takes a similar view: "Germany," it says, "has torn up another scrap of paper. The pirate clings to his piracy and America is again flouted."

PLAN ATTRACTIONS FOR TRAIL FALL FAIR

Musical Program Will Be Rendered—Funeral of Albert M. McLean Is Well Attended

(Special to The Daily News.)

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 5.—On September 21 and 22 concerts have been arranged for and an excellent double quartet program will be given during the fruit fair by the following:

Sopranos, Mrs. Davison and Mrs. Murray; contraltos, Mrs. Broderick and Mrs. Boynton; tenors, W. Oddy and R. Tench; bass, L. M. Davison and A. Wheeler, Jr.

A special attraction at the fair will be displays by the Y. M. C. A. of Nelson, whose gymnastic, acrobatic and pyramid team, consisting of 10 persons, will give special performances.

The prize list, which is a most comprehensive one, will be ready for distribution on Wednesday.

Pte. Nick Roderick, Pte. M. Royden and Pte. Fred Weir are in the city on leave from Vernon.

The funeral of Albert Martin McLean took place Saturday, the service being held at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Mr. Hackney officiating. A large number of friends were present, including many members of the Trail Mill and Smeltermen's union.

F. G. Morin's new automobile has arrived from the east and Friday Mrs. Morin and party went up to Rossland and back on a trial run.

The Red Cross society has donated $100 to the base hospital fund.

The appointment of John G. Johnstone has been officially gazetted as pound keeper for the Newtonia pound district.

FIVE RECRUITS LEAVE NAKUSP FOR VERNON

(Special to The Daily News.)

NAKUSP, B. C., Sept. 5.—People of Nakusp and Glenbank to the number of several hundreds were at the wharf on Friday to bid farewell to the five new recruits on their way to Vernon camp to join the 54th Kootenay battalion. These were Horace North, Percy North, Bert Herridge, Frank Rushton and Charles Gregory. In addition there were Sergt. Craft and Pte. A. Burling, returning from furlough. The Nakusp brass band played patriotic music, two of the recruits, Herridge and Gregory, being members of the band. The school children were allowed 30 minutes from their studies in order to be present. All the boys were the recipients of many presents from the townspeople.

On Thursday night a large number of friends gathered at the residence of Mrs. Gregory at Glenbank to do honor to her son Charles, on the eve of his departure for Vernon camp. Rev. J. S. Allen made an address praising the young man for his patriotism in offering his services to his country in time of distress.

Mrs. F. W. Jordan of Edgewood is visiting Nakusp with her son George.

DAM WILL BE BUILT AT CHRISTIANA LAKE

(Special to The Daily News.)

CASCADE, B. C., Sept. 5.—Meetings of the Cascade Conservative association have considered a letter from the Grand Forks central association concerning work on the Kettle river dam at Christiana creek outlet. The letter was the outcome of deliberations between the Dominion public works department and the fisheries department at Ottawa. It provided for an outlay of $3,000 and suggested November as the best date for commencement of work. The local association recommended that work begin not later than the first week in October in view of weather conditions.

On Thursday M. Myers was a visitor to Orient, Wash., and T. Lubitz returned to Grand Forks hospital for further treatment.

Mrs. Barber of Deep Creek, Wash., was a Cascade visitor.

Mrs. Coomber of Grand Forks with her daughter, Florence, has arived at Billings to join her husband.

On Tuesday I. R. Poole, secretary of the Mountain Lumbermen's association, took his family to Nelson from Christina Lake after a stay of two months at their summer home.

Wyldes; solo, Sergt. Lee. Prof Leu acted as accompanist. During the program the Eagles' band rendered selections. After the concert dancing was indulged in.

LINER TORPEDOED; PASSENGERS SAVED

liner carried mounted and visible on its stern a 4.7-inch rifle.

The consul's message, dated 1 p.m. today, follows:

"The Allan liner Hesperian torpedoed by German submarine 70 miles southwest of Fastenet at 8.30 o'clock Saturday evening. One or two Americans on board; none lost. Loss of life about eight. Vesel has not sunk. Admiralty boats landed passengers and troops at 8.30 this morning. Have returned to bring Hesperian here (Queenetown). Due about 9 o'clock tomorow morning. There were about 45 Canadian troops on board, unorganized and mainly invalids. Also 4.7-inch mounted visible on stern. Vessel bound for Montreal."

Proceeds Under Own Steam

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—Cables were received here today by Capt. Walsh, marine superintendent of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and A. H. Allan of the Allan line, stating that the submarine's torpedo hit the Hesperian in the bow, close to No. 1 and No. 2 compartments, and the vessel took water rapidly. There was then about 10 feet of water in the bow.

The mesage gave the further information that a number of British ships arived on the scene soon after the torpedoing in answer to wireless calls, and they drove the submarine away.

The Hesperian was badly down at the head, but was able to proceed under her own steam.

All Are Landed

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—In a statement issued tonight the Allan line says all of the passengers who were on the Hesperian have now been landed. They comprise 51 first class, 123 second class and 144 third class. For special reasons the steamship officials decline to issue a list of passengers to the press.

Do Not Believe Gun Aboard

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—Allan line officials in Montreal do not credit the statement attributed to American Consul Frost at Queenstown in a despatch to Washington, that the Hesperian carried a 4.7-inch rifle.

"So far as we know," said one official of the line tonight, when asked the question, "the Hesperian did not carry a gun."

Felt Violent Impact

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 5.—Ronald Whiteway of London and his wife were passengers on the Hesperian. He said:

"We were sitting on the upper deck, the weather being delightful, when about 8.30 o'clock Saturday evening we felt a violent impact which almost knocked us out of our chairs.

"In less time than I can tell of it a huge volume of water rose almost as high as the masts and, breaking, drenched us to the skin. We had thought we were out of the danger zone and were discussing the possibility of of a pleasant voyage.

"The lifeboats were quickly lowered and rowed away from the steamer, only the captain and officers and some of the crew remaining.

"The steamer apparently was struck on the starboard side, but as it was nearly dark the torpedo could not be seen. After the explosion the Hesperian settled down by the head. Rescue steamers were soon on the scene and took the pasengers aboard."

CROWN NEED NOT GIVE INFORMATION DEFENSE ASKS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—Magistrate P. A. Macdonald ruled yesterday that the counsel defending the ex-cabinet ministers, Sir Rodmond Roblin and Messrs. Montague, Howden and Coldwell, charged with conspiracy to defraud the province of Manitoba, are not entitled to fuller particulars as to the charges from the crown at this stage in the proceedings. He held that the present hearing is merely a preliminary trial and that the crown need not furnish the information sought.

THE DECISIVE VICTORY OF THE MARNE

This week marks the first anniversary of the battle of the Marne, the decisive victory of the allied forces which marked the turn in the tide in the western theatre of war. For days the French and British troops had been retiring before an enemy overwhelmingly superior in numbers, equipment and organization. Frequently only the bravery, determination and self-sacrifice of individual regiments and brigades saved whole armies from destruction. Those were dark days for the people of France and the British Empire.

Then came the news that Von Kluck's flank had been turned, that the German rush had been stemmed and that the allied forces had taken the offensive. The battle raged for days before it resulted in the rapid and sometimes disorderly retreat of the German armies. The enemy suffered tremendous losses in men and material and still greater loss in morale.

The battle of the Marne shattered the German legend of the invincibility of the German armies; it gave to Gen. Joffre, the commander-in-chief of the allied armies, that confidence of the French people without which he could not have cleaned out the dead timber and made the reforms in the French army which the retreat toward Paris and the pursuit of the enemy after the victory of the Marne showed to be necessary. Above all things it established the individual and collective supremacy of the French and the British soldier over his German opponent.

GERMANY TEARS UP ANOTHER SCRAP OF PAPER

Liners will not be sunk by our submarines without warning and without safety for the lives of noncombatants, provided that the liners do not try to escape or offer resistance.

Three days after that pledge was given by Count von Bernstorff to Secretary of State Lansing at Washington a German submarine has broken it by attacking the Hesperian. That the Allan liner did not sink and that no lives appear to have been lost does not affect the case. Germany gave no warning, the Hesperian offered no resistance, it did not attempt to escape. The circumstances of the attack are practically identical with those of the destruction of the Arabic. One report states that the Hesperian carried a 4.7 gun. This has not been established, but even if it is true it did not make the liner a war vessel nor justify the nature of the attack, either under international law or under terms categorically set forth in Germany's promise of three days ago.

The attack on the Hesperian is notice to the world at large that a solemn pledge by Germany on Sept. 1, 1915, is just as much a "scrap of paper" as on Aug. 4, 1914.

WHERE CONSUMERS INCREASE COST OF LIVING

The California Fruitgrowers' exchange has carried out an exhaustive investigation with the object of showing exactly how much the jobber and retailer added to the delivered cost of the oranges distributed by the exchange for the growers. The figures are of general interest for their bearing upon the low price received by the producer and the relatively high price paid by the consumer and also for the conclusions which are taken from them.

The investigation showed that the dollar which the consumer paid for California oranges was divided among those handling the fruit as follows:

Retailer, 33 cents; jobber, 8.2 cents; exchange selling cost, 1.5 cent; freight and icing, 20.5 cents; packing expenses, 7.4 cents; picking and hauling, 2.4 cents; producer, 26.7 cents.

Concerning the large percentage of the final cost which goes to the retailer, the Sunset Magazine remarks:

"In other words, the responsibility for the high cost of living rests with the consumer who insists upon a grocery store in every second block and demands that every quarter's worth of fruit—bought on credit and ordered over the telephone—be delivered at once and forthwith.

"The grocers and fruiterers who appear before the referee in bankruptcy by far exceed in number those who die scandalously rich."

Germany's policy of blood and iron has been given a new meaning by the decision of the Berlin government to make an issue of iron coins.

A correspondent of the Calgary Herald says that Canadians do not know how to cheer. He'll revise his opinion when Constantinople falls.

As Punch remarks, the pessimists who declare the war will last at least five years longer might as well make it 50 years and be really thoroughly happy.

The Ottawa Street Railway company has decided that a 3-cent fare must be paid for babies in arms. Some babies should be charged $3 and given a private car or be equipped with maxim silencers.

Nelson welcomes the Rossland band both for the neighborly spirit which inspired the visit and for the excellent music which has been provided by the accomplished musicians of the Golden City for the enjoyment of the people of this city.

A member of the Asquith cabinet, Right Hon. Charles Masterman, says that one who has a right to prophesy thus informed him of the probable course of the war:

A year of preparation.
A year of conflict.
A year of victory.

Anyone who desires to emulate the example of the Kansas farmer who imprinted a wet kiss which he had saved up for five years full on the lips of William J. Bryan would have to be more than affectionate to succeed in delighting the public by giving a similar exhibition with Roosevelt. He would need to train as a footracer, wrestler and boxer.

Protection Against Insanity

The American people desire a sane Germany, but if they cannot have a sane Germany they certainly will not rest contest with a maniac Germany running at leange and trampling down all the rights and liberties of mankind. We know of no force that can compel sanity, but there are forces by which rational people can protect themselves from the depredations of the insane.—New York World.

The Eternal Trend

Germany prepared for war. She correctly estimated the value of organization and munitions. In every other respect her calculations were grotesquely wrong. We, on our side, are able to accept reverses with undiminished confidence, because our faith is built upon a rock. We know we must win because we believe in "the eternal trend" towards righteousness, justice and peace. We acknowledge our shortcomings. We are alive to our deficiencies. But our confidence is unshakable.—London Express.

Gen. Joffre's Real Head

Unfirm caps make all men look more or less alike, and a newspaper sketcher of Gen. Joffre—without his cap—protests against the portraits of him that have been published. Gen. Joffre in his uniform cap looks like any ordinary man in the same headdress. But get him without his cap, "the impression is that of massiveness," for the "great grey head," the "ir on chin," can be seen. One feels that the French commander is not depending upon that hat which conceals his brains.—London Daily Chronicle.

COLD STORAGE

"I'll give you a position as clerk to start with," said the merchant, "and pay you what you are worth. Is that satisfactory?"

"Oh, certainly," replied the college graduate, "but—er—do you think the firm can afford it?"

A LIBERAL TRIBUTE.

There will be few Canadians who will cavil at the fact that the King has been pleased to confer knighthood on the Canadian minister of militia. It must be admitted that General Hughes has shown tremendous enthusiasm and energy and an abounding patriotism, and that whenever he has opened his mouth on the question of the war he has spoken like a soldier. Furthermore, he appears to have realized at the outset the magnitude of the duty devolving on Canada, and to have taken steps accordingly. The rapidity with which a relatively huge military organization was evolved in Canada was remarkable. In Great Britain it is the positive side of General Hughes' work that is seen and appreciated. We ourselves feel proud of the great force of soldiers which the militia department, with the backing of both political parties, has been the instrument of raising, and the honor now conferred on the head of that department will give Canadians the gratifying feeling that their efforts are appreciated at their full worth. Personally General Hughes is well deserving of the honor, for he has worked hard and unremittingly, and we join in congratulating him upon it.—Montreal Herald.

NO PARALLEL.

Apparently our German friends, under the leadership of Count von Bernstorff and under the orders of Berlin, have moved in and undertaken to direct the political, industrial, and financial activities of the American people with a proper regard to Germany's interests and no regard whatever for anybody else's interests. The thing is so colossally impudent that it would be laughable if it were not so grave.

The same point of view is disclosed in Germany's attitude toward von Tirpitz's murderous policy of submarine warfare. It suits Germany's purposes to tear up all international law relating to the rights of neutrals on the high seas, and so Berlin tells Americans to keep out of the way or take the consequences. Who are Americans that they should pretend to have rights that interfere with Germany's methods of carrying on a war?

How is it possible to argue with a nation in that frame of mind? How is it possible to carry on diplomatic or other relations with a government that has gone mad? No parallel in all history can be found for the case of Germany.—New York World.

ONE YEAR AGO JOFFRE ROUTED GERMANS IN BATTLE OF MARNE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Sept. 1.—The battle of the Marne began in the late hours of tonight a year ago, yet some of its details will be cleared up only when all the official reports and documents are available.

The respective strength of the armies during the battle of Charleroi and the retreat, the number and position of Gen. Maunory's forces during the retreat and the preliminary maneuvers and the number and origin of the reinforcements sent to him during the battle are disputed questions. The reasons for the sudden obliquing of Von Kluck's forces on approaching Paris are also in doubt. Little by little, however, the principal developments of the battle have been established approximately.

Though the execution of their plans had been retarded a fortnight by the resistance encountered in Belgium the Germans, in their vast circular movement pivoting on Metz, reached the line of the Sambre and the Meuse Aug. 21 with at least 25 corps (900,000 men) while the allies had assembled only 17 corps (680,000 men) including two British corps. The allies, counting upon several days' resistance by the fortress of Namur, took the offensive on Aug. 22 with the object of piercing the German lines at the junction of the Sambre and the Meuse and cutting the armies of Von Kluck and Von Bulow off from the rest of the German forces.

Spoilt Allies' Plan.

Namur fell in a few hours; the army of Gen. Foch (120,000 men) concentrating behind the centre, was not yet ready to go into action and the plan of the allies was compromised. After partial successes around Charleroi and on the Meuse the first division of reserve at Dinant was thrown back and the third corps at Marchiennes sustained a grave reverse, weakening the centre, held by the army of Gen. Lanrezac. Gen. Langle de Cary on his right had been checked in the Ardennes and Ruffey on the extreme right was in difficulties with the army of the crown prince of Prussia at the frontier of Luxemberg. On the extreme left the British troops around Mons were violently engaged with greatly superior numbers, constantly increasing and gravely threatening their development.

14 Days' Retreat Begins.

The British general was informed by Gen. Joffre Aug. 23 that the enemy was sending three more corps upon his left. Gen. Smith-Dorrien's second corps was already giving ground. Such was the beginning of the 14 days' retreat during which the allies covering 140 miles distance on the left wing fought continual rearguard actions and some important engagements that checked the advance of the Germans and prepared for the battle of the Marne according to plans said to have been definitely fixed Aug. 27 by orders in Joffre's own hand.

Gen. Langle de Cary obliged the Duke of Wurtemberg to recross the Meuse and hold him there 24 hours, retiring orders from Joffre that he must be at Launois Aug. 29. At Launois and Rethel he held the same forces from Aug. 28 to 31 before continuing his retreat. From his position facing the Ardennes to the front of the Marne he had fought 10 whole days and covered 60 miles with his forces intact.

Gen. Lanrezac attained a success at Guise but was ordered not to follow it up; the situation was not yet favorable for resuming a general offensive.

The retreat of Gen. French was attended with the greatest difficulties. The Germans, sending ever increasing numbers of soldiers by forced marches against his left, necessitated violent and desperate counter-attacks. At Cambrai he sustained the fire of the artillery of four corps; he lost 6000 men from the 23rd to the 26th before being disengaged by a heroic charge by Gen. Allenby's cavalry. The army of Gen. Maunory, afterward called the army of Paris, partly constituted on Aug. 26 near Amiens and popularly supposed not to have been in action until Sept. 6, appears to have gone to the support of the British contingent on Aug. 29, in the region of the Somme, where it administered a severe check to Von Kluck's right. The superiority of numbers was too great, however. After every effort the allies found increasing forces on their left and the lines extended continualy further west. The Germans occupied Amiens and continued on as far as Beauvasis. This strengthening of the line and the obliquing of the army of Gen Franchet Esprey (formerly the army of Larezac) to the left, created a gap between that army and the army of Gen. Langle which was filled by the new army under Gen. Foch, in process of formation during the battle of Charleroi.

Tried to Turn Allies' Left.

Von Kluck's army, whose objective was supposed to be Paris, was officially reported Sept. 4 as obliquing to the southeast, with the apparent intention of neglecting Paris and pursuing his efforts to turn the allies' left. At the same time the army of the crown prince on the left descended along the western edge of the Argonne. There were two theories of the sudden change in the direction of Von Kluck's march—one that he was pursuing the enveloping movement; the other that he had discovered the army of Paris on his right flank and by a clever dodge to the southeast avoided the menace of being enveloped himself. In the light of further disclosures the former theory seems to be the good one. The oblique movement continued after the partial check at Compiegne and Chantilly by way of Beauvasis, Dammartin and Meaux. Senlis and Compiegne were evacuated by them Sept. 5. The advance guard reached the region of Provins, 30 miles southeast of Paris and 20 miles south of the Meuse.

Joffre Orders Battle.

The "trough" or semi-circle prepared by Joffre's orders was in position and the German armies had so far marched into it on Sept. 5 that General Joffre was able to issue orders for a general attack the next morning, in order of battle as follows: Maunory northeast of Meaux, ready to cross the Ourqe between Liszy sur Ourcq and Nay en Multien in the direction of Chateau-Thierry.

The British army on front of the Changis-Coulommiers, facing the east, ready to attack in the direction of Montmirail.

Fifth army of Franchet Espery between Courtacon-Esternay and Sezanne, ready for attack in direction of the north.

The seventh army of Gen. Foch, covering the right of the 5th army and holding southern issues of the Saint Gond marshes. Offensive by these armies to be taken Sept. 6 in the morning. The following day Gen. Joffre reported his disposition of the allied troops by orders to the 3rd and 4th armies as follows:

"Fourth army of Ken. Langle de Cary, stop movement southward, turn about and face enemy, combining its movements with third army which was to debouch to the north of Revingy and take the offensive toward the west.

"Third army will attack the left flank of the enemy which is marching to the west of the Argonne."

The formation of the position into which the German armies marched was that of a wide trough; Maunory and the French formed the side toward Paris; Franchet d'Esperey, Foch and Langle formed the bottom, while Sarrail's army formed the side toward Verdun in the Argonne.

Zouaves Begin the Battle.

Sept. 6—Maunory's Zouaves and Moors began the battle of the Marne in the early hours of Sept. 6 by recapturing the ridges of Marcilly, Barcy, Chambry and Penchard, while the 7th corps also advanced to the north.

From dawn the British army and the army of Gen. Franchet d'Esperey were heavily engaged with Von Kluck and Von Bulow's right. The British, facing a general northeasterly direction, attacked the German line in the angle of the trough. After 10 hours' continual fighting the pressure on the British on the front and that of the 5th army on its right diminished. Hard pressed on his flank by Maunory, and with his communications threatened, Von Kluck was obliged to weaken his centre by sending two corps (80,000 men) to the support of the overwhelmed fourth corps on the Ourcq. The withdrawal of these troops was concealed by a particularly violent atack in which were sacrificed a great number of men.

During the afternoon Von Kluck was obliged to repass the Grand Morin and abandon Coulommiers, but succeeded in maintaining himself on the right bank. The army of Franchet d'Esperey also gained ground.

Driven Before Bayonet.

The Senegalese riflemen drove the Germans from the village and the environs of Joysur Morin at the point of the bayonet. Several villages were taken and retaken and the fighting continued by moonlight, the French troops taking three more villages.

The strongest shock of this first day's fighting was supported by the 7th army of Gen. Foch. After resisting the pressure of the first assault a vigorous counter-attack realized a gain on his left before Mondmen. The sixth army of Langle de Cary though just arrived, also attacked vigorously along the entire front.

The army of the crown prince of Prussia had just taken up its position before the Argonne and began an attack, which Sarrail repulsed.

Duball in the Vosges pushed back the forces of Von Herringen and De Castlenau held the Grand Souronne de Nancy against the attacks of the crown prince of Bavaria.

Von Kluck Averts Disaster.

Sept. 7.—On the morning of Sept. 7 Maunory found in front of him not only the single corps of the preceding day but 120,000 men. Von Kluck had skilfully accomplished the conversion of his forces and for the moment disengaged his flank and saved the entire German army from disaster.

Several villages were retaken by the Germans and the pressure everywhere was severely felt. The day was saved for the army of Paris by the 2nd Zouaves around Etrepilly, where the most violent attacks were repulsed, at such cost to the Germans that they found it necessary to burn their dead. The British troops accentuated their advance, punishing severely the cavalry divisions of the Prussian guard by remarkable charges of the 9th lancers and the 18th hussars.

Franchet d'Esperey took at the point of the bayonet Vieux Maisons and Pierreby on Von Kluck's left and after several violent combats crossed the Grand Morin, occupied Jouy-sur Morin definitely and took position on the Petit Morin.

Foch Outnumbered.

Foch, overrun by numbers on his right, held good until the 11th corps weakened; then established his line a little in the rear of the front Salon-Gogancon-Contatre-Allemand.

The 12th corps of Langle de Cary's army badly punished, was sent to the rear to be reorganized. Six battalions of this corps—the least tried—sustained alone the attack of 25,000 Germans all the evening.

The German attacks were arrested around Compiers by the 13th division of the 21st corps, which lost its chief, Gen Barbade as well as Col Hamont and a great many other officers.

The army of Gen. Sarrail and that of the crown prince of Prussia continued their duel without result.

Gen. de Castlenau, before Nancy, having lost the plateau of Amnace, retook it and held it while Dubail in the Vosges maintained his advances.

Furious Charges Weaken Foe.

Sept. 8.—The morning of Sept. 8 found the position of the wings little changed from the beginning and the allies' successes limited to the gains of the British forces and the army of Langle de Cary. The fighting was continued all night. The army of Paris at the extreme left weakened but the centre held firm by grace of the furious charges of the Algerian and Moroccan troops that created gaps in the enemy's ranks, in each case immediately filled. The day passed in attacks and counter-attacks. Villages were taken and retaken. At the cemetery of Chambry a great many officers and soldiers of the 3rd Zouaves were killed and finally the lines began to bend back in the direction of Neufmoutiers.

The fourth corps, commanded by Gen. Boelle, brought from Alsace and retarded en route by the exodus of civilians from Paris, arrived—one division went to the support of the British troops, the other reinforcing Maunory. The situation of the army

THE WAR ONE YEAR AGO.

The Austrian army has been operating in the direction of Kholm and is retiring repulsed by the Russian troops which have taken numerous prisoners.

The Russian troops have surrendered Przeworsk, west of Lemberg, the Austrians' last strongly fortified city in Galicia.

Gen. Joffre's plans are being steadily carried out. The allied forces acting on the offensive have been successful in checking and forcing the Germans back in the northwest.

The Germans who finally captured Termonde after prolonged fighting and heavy losses, have voluntarily evacuated it after destroying the city.

A German aeroplane flying in the neighborhood of Londerzeel, to the west of Malinos, was fired upon by the Belgians. The wings of the machine were injured and was brought down and the two occupants made prisoners.

SYNOPSIS OF COAL MINING REGULATIONS

Coal mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories, and in a portion of the province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 per acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district of which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections or legal subdivisions of sections and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available, but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon. If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-agent of Dominion lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

CANADIAN PACIFIC BECOMES MORE ACTIVE

Rises Three Points in Final Dealings on New York Market—Close Has Strong Undertone.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—All the familiar holiday aspects were presented by yesterday's two hour session of the stock exchange. Trading was listless and irregular in the first part but became more active at a generally higher level later, with numerous net gains.

In the final dealings Canadian Pacific became active and strong, rising 3 points to 154⅝. United States Steel also made its highest quotation at that period, selling at 75¼, ⅞ over yesterday's close. In the main the best prices were scored at the end, the market then showing a strong undertone. Total sales amounted to 163,000 shares.

Foreign exchange was a negligible factor, there being virtually no dealings in remittances to Europe except a few bills on London, for which a rate of 4.66⅞ was quoted.

Among the railway returns for July were Great Northern, showing a net loss of $545,000, with a net gain of $622,000 for Norfolk & Western. General Electric reports were more favorable. Crop reports were favorable and business in the west good.

Local banks failed to make the predicted large cash gain, despite the heavy gold inflow; the actual increase being only about $5,000,000. An increase in cash reserves was made, totalling almost $210,000,000, which is a new record.

Yesterday's bond market was irregular with total sales par value $125,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call during the week.

CANADIAN STOCKS IN TORONTO ARE DULL

TORONTO, Sept. 5—Canadian stocks were extremely dull yesterday. So meager was the business that the local exchange might have been closed without loss to anybody. In sympathy with New York, Canadian Pacific was bid up to 154 without transactions. Dominion Steel sold at 42 and Nova Scotia at 83, or 3 better; Mackay unchanged at 78; Canada Bread bonds, 93; Steel of Canada, 32¼ bid, or practically unchanged. There were no dealings in bank stocks.

New York exchange on Canada is at ⅛ premium.

WHEAT DRIVEN TO NEW LOW PRICES

Bear Sentiment too Determined to Allow Export Demand tb Have Much Effect.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 5.—Wheat yesterday was driven to lowest prices for the crop, on general selling by commission houses and local pit traders, the market at the close showed a net loss of 1⅝ at ⅞ to 2 cents with September at 94; December at 90⅝ at ¾, and May 94⅝.

Oats declined ¼ to ⅜ at ½ net. Provisions finished irregular, the range being represented by December pork which had a drop of 5 cents and October ribs, which rose 10 cents.

Wheat was under bear influence throughout the session. Domestic and foreign price making were factors. Many holders, faced, with a double holiday before trading is again resumed sold freely to protect themselves over the closed period. There was a fair export business but in the face of the determined bear sentiment this had little effect.

10,005 TONS OF ORE SHIPPED TO TRAIL

Last Week's Receipts at Consolidated Smelter Are Largest for the Year

For the first time this year shipments during one week to Trail smelter passed the 10,000 tonnage mark. Twenty-one mines shipped during the week, sending in a total of 10,005 tons of ore for treatment. The total for the year up until Saturday amounts to 328,651 tons, an increase of about 70,000 tons over the shipments for the same period last year. The following is a statement of the amounts shipped to Trail last week and the totals for the eight months past:

VANCOUVER PATRIOTIC FUND HAS RAISED $148,000

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 5.—Collections to the amount of $148,000 are credited upon the books of the Vancouver branch of the Canadian Patriotic fund for the year since the war started. This fund was started as a citizens' war fund on Aug. 11, 1914, and was the first war fund of its kind to be established in Canada. The Vancouver fund was amalgamated and became affiliated with the Canadian patriotic fund last February.

The Vancouver branch distributed during the year, $115,000. Families receiving assistance numbered 1490. This whole amount of nearly $150,000 has been raised by private subscriptions throughout greater Vancouver and the payments have all been made in cash from this fund. In addition to this, however, supplies of various kinds have been purchased.

WIFE OF BELGIAN CABINET MINISTER RELEASED

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—Mme. Carter de Wiart, wife of the Belgian minister of justice, charged with corresponding with her husband, and sentenced last May to three months imprisonment, has been released. She is expected to reach Basel tomorrow, where she will meet her husband, who has come to Switzerland for that purpose.

After Mme. de Wiart was arrested in Belgium it was stated that she had been taken from that country and placed in a prison in Berlin. It was announced last night from Havre that in deference to a wish expressed by the king of Spain Mme. de Wiart would be released from prison, but would not be allowed to return to Belgium.

NELSON NEWS OF THE DAY

An application was made in supreme court chambers yesterday for change of venue in the case of Mrs. J. E. Harris against Peter Veregin, the well known Doukhobor leader, now residing at Brilliant, B.C. The plaintiff wanted the case set down for hearing in Vancouver in case there should be no sitting of the supreme court at Rossland. The action is for $18,000 which the plaintiff alleges is due her as commission on real estate transactions. The application was allowed to stand over until the Rossland list is announced.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

GERMANS ROUTED ONE YEAR AGO

of Paris became critical as the result of the retreat of the 14th division of the 7th corps.

Von Bulow Driven to Retreat.

The British forces, reinforced by one division of the 4th corps, made further gains, taking many prisoners and several cannon. The army of Gen. Grachet d'Esperey, after eight hours' hand to hand fighting, entered Montimrail and the army of Von Bulow, leaving 7000 dead and a large number of prisoners, was in retreat all along the line.

Gen. Foch at dawn declared to his troops:

"The situation is excellent. I order again a vigorous offensive."

The retreat of part of Von Bulow's forces before Franchet d'Esperey broke the German line and facilitated the efforts of Foch's army on his right. The key to the heights of Sezanne, the plateau of Mondement, where Prince Eitel Frederich of Von Kluck's staff had conferred and dined with Von Bulow, was the centre of attack. The artillery drove out the staff after which the Moroccan riflemen penetrated the park of the chateau—were driven out, attacked again and repulsed.

A third assault succeeded and in the park law 3000 Germans, including two generals. Whole battalions of French troops were annihilated there. Fre Champenoise and Somme-Sous, after Sezanne, fell into the hands of Foch's army. Somme-Sous, counter-attacked by the Prussian guard, remained in their hands only for the time necessary for the French troops to re-form.

Finds Gap Between Germans.

Two regiments of the 12th corps charged and drove out the 4th regiment of grenadiers of the Queen Augusta and the 40th regiment of grenadiers of the Emperor Francis Joseph.

A vital development of the day's fighting was the discovery by aviators of a gap between the armies of Von Bulow and Von Hausen, the effect of Vonn Bulwo's retreat, leaving Vo Hausen's right flank exposed. By an audacious and opportune maneuver Gen. Foch massed his right in this gap under cover of the night before Von Hausen's flank and threw his adversary back upon the marshes of Saint Gond in disorder.

The German losses there were heavy.

The army of Langle de Cary was heavily engaged around Vitry le Francois, which was partly in flames. At Pargny and Maurupt le Montay both sides lost heavily in hand to hand encounters. By a night attack the French infantry took the village of Etrepy, almost entirely burned, and the surrounding region. A little progress was made also to the left of Vitry le Francois..

Serrail, menaced with envelopment by a combined attack from forces coming from Metz and the crown prince's army in front, sent his cavalry against the forces from Metz and continued his infantry attacks in front. Fresh troops from Strassburg resumed the violent but vain attacks upon the heights of Amanace. The German losses here were extremely heavy but less than on the heights of St. Genevieve where de Castlenau's troops inflicted such losses on the Bavarian reinforcements from Metz that they were obliged to retire upon the village of Atton.

Dubail, obliged to abandon Luneville to the enemy, held them in check elsewhere and retook the sumimt of Mandory and Fourmeaux.

Army of Paris Victorious.

Sept. 9.—The position of the army of Paris which had become critical the evening of Sept. 8 had not improved the morning of Sept. 9. Heavily outnumbered, it appeared little likely that the position could be held without reinforcements. Gen. Joffre ordered Maunroy to resist, just the same, to the last man. The formation of the line had been so modified that the army of Paris described an angle, one side of which faced the east and the other north. Three thousand men of the 7th corps, pitted against one entire division, began an attack at Marville and the action became general. During nine hours the battle ragged incessantly. Encouraged by news of successes of the other armies, Maunory's men redoubled their assaults. Gen. Mangin, with the 5th division, by a desperate charge near Acy en Multien, hurled back the forces in front of him, nearly destroying the regiment of Magdeburg. Bayonet charges by the African troops relieved the pressure near May en Multien, and toward the end of the day the Germans, having lost nearly half of their forces, were repulsed all along the line of the army of Paris. The fourth corps of landwehr was signaled coming to the relief of Von Kluck's flank from Bethel. Maunory's army was exposed to a decisive attack by fresh troops. Maunroy appealed to Gen Gallieni. The governor of paris requisitioned 500 taxicabs, drays, etc., and sent 20,000 men to his support across Paris.

Manteuil le Haudoin and its vast petroleum stocks were in flames. The troops, most of them, had been without food for three days—only the Moors, habituated to fasting—seemed capable of further effort. The Germans seemed equally exhausted, for their attacks weakened.

British Defeat von Kluck

The British forces, continuing their progress, threw von Kluck's centre back upon the Marne from Vareddes-Thiery; they had gained 20 miles in two days, taking prisoners and booty every hour. After 17 failures the British engineers succeeded in throwing a bridge across the Marne at Vereddes, threatening von Kluck's rear. They crossed at La Ferte-Sous-Jouarre at noon in close pursuit. A detachment of cavalry, meeting two squadrons of German cavalry toward Chateau Thiery, charged through and charged back again. After traversing both squadrons then charged them again in front. Von Kluck's entire army was now in full retreat, abandoning wounded and material and losing prisoners. The British forces discovered that von Kluck's troops lacked ammunition for their mausers. Many cannon and prisoners fell into the rands of the British army during the day.

The army of Franchet d'Esperey advanced in unison with the British troops close upon the heels of the enemy and only the German batteries, posted on the slopes north of Chateau Thiery, saved the retreat from developing into a route. The German losses on this front exceeded even those of the left. At Espernay they left 8,000 unburied dead after four days' fighting. Near Chateau Thiery they had emptied the reservoir that supplies Paris with water from the Nesles, filled it with dead and covered the bodies with earth.

Foch Catches Prussians in Rear

Foch pushed ahead also with the 7th army after the capture of Mondement, throwing the Prussian guard into the marshes of Saint Gond. A stubborn resistance was offered there in the parts where defense works could be organized.

Foch succeeded in taking these works in the rear, driving thousands of the guards so precipitately from the safe routes that they sank into the slime of the marshes. Several batteries of artillery were lost there and the 7th army took many prisoners.

The army of Langle de'Cary, pressed by fresh troops brough from Belgium, maintained its position, while Sarrail repulsed a violent attack by von Heringen with the 16th corps.

As the result of the bloody battles of Dieulouard and St. Genevieve Nancy was entirely disengaged and the Bavarians retired from Pont a Mousson into the Bois le Petre, and Dubail and the Vosges progressed in the regions of Luneville and Baccaret.

Sept. 10.—The morning of Sept. 10 Gen. Maunory was informed of the general retreat of the armies of von Kluck, von Bulow and von Hausen. Vereddes and Lizy sur Ourcq, evacuated in haste, were found crowded with German wounded. At Eteprele piles of carbonized bodies were seen and dead and wounded were found in all the ravines and thickets, behind hedges and generally at every spot where the soldier seeks protection.

The British troops, continuing their pursuit, took 13 more cannon and a few hundred prisoners and great convoys of supplies and ammuhition. The army of Franchet d'Esperey, in spite of the fatigue of the five days' fighting, after 14 days' retreat, forced its advance and reached the line of Chateau Thiery, Dornmans taking four cannon, 1,500 prisoners and a convoy of 50 baggage wagons. The loses of von Bulow's army on this front were nearly equal to von Kluck's.

Attack Duke in Flank

Foch's 7th army, marching on Epernay and Charlons sur Marne, took prisoners and booty and supported the army of Gen. Langle de Cary by attacking on the flank of the forces of the Duke of Wurtemburg. Langle de Cary entered Vitry le Francois, which was full of wounded, and progressed toward Sermaize. The struggle between the Crown Prince and Sarrail was still undecided. At Thriacourt Sarrail captured ammunition and on the other side of the Meuse the Germans completed the destruction of the forts of Troyon and attacked Sarrail's rear, but were repulsed. They tried to cross the Meuse lower down toward St. Mihiel, but the French 3-inch guns destroyed each bridge as soon as thrown across.

Foe Retreats in Disorder

Sept. 11.—The army of the Duke of Wurtemburg, previously attacked in the centre, gave way and retreated in disorder, while the armies of von Kluck, von Bulow and von Hausen took up positions on the line of the Aisne.

This was practically the termination of the battle, though the army of the crown prince held its ground until Sept. 12, when it began to retire slowly.

The best estimates of the forces engaged placed the Germans at 1,275,000 and the allies at 1,125,000. The French are said to have lost 30,000 killed. The Germans left 50,000 dead, while 250,000 wounded of both armies were picked up during and after the battle by the allies' stretcher bearers.

The number of prisoners taken is still unknown.

TWO ADDITIONAL NAMES TO OLD TIMERS LIST

The names of two Kootenay old timers, it has been pointed out, should have appeard in the list of names given by Capt. F. P. Armstrong and published in The Daily News of Saturday. Michael Phillips of Tobacco Plains, who, it is claimed, was the discoverer of coal in the Crow's Nest and has been a resident of Kootenay since 1864, in which year he came to Fort Shepherd in the service of the Hudson's Bay company; and A. B. Fenwick of Fort Steele, who ran the first steamboat, which was called the Mud Hen, on the Kootenay river and lake in 1884. When Capt. Armstrong issued the list he explained that it did not purport to be a full list, but represented only the pioneers whom he happened to meet during the past year.

Nelson News of the Day

FORMER NELSON MAN IS ON COMMISSION

C. McLean Fraser, One of Those Appointed by Government to Probe Sea Lion Menace

G. McLean Fraser, at one time principal of the high school here and recently of the biological station at Nanaimo, is a member of the royal commission appointed by the federal government to investigate the menace to the salmon fishing industry which the presence of sea lions in the north Pacific constitutes and to ascertain the most efficient means to get rid of them. The other members of this commission are Dr. C. F. Newcombe of Victoria, Prof. A. T. Cameron of the department of physiology in the university of Manitoba. W. Hamar Greenwood is secretary. The commission is to proceed with its alloted work at once.

A bounty of $2 each on sea lions is paid by the federal government, and the sum of $5,750 has this year been thus far paid in this way. Most of them were caught off the north end of Vancouver island, in Queen Charlotte sound, and on the Sea Otter group of islands. The canners of Rivers inlet spent $2,400 last year in atempts to lessen the destruction of these animals.

ROSSLAND BAND MAKES BIG HIT

Musicians From the Golden City Delight Citizens of Nelson at Several Concerts

Large numbers of Nelson citizens turned out to the concerts given by the Rossland city band which arrived in the city on Saturday for the weekend and gave two concerts yesterday, one in the afternoon at the city park and the other in the evening in the band stand on Vernon street.

On its arrival on Saturday evening the band marched from the train to the corner of Ward and Vernon streets and gave a short concert outside the Hume hotel, where the members are staying. Saturday evening shoppers forsook the stores and formed an appreciative audience on the street. Owing to the lack of sufficient light Bandmaster C. J. Miles was compelled to cut the concert short, and many regrets were expressed by the citizens that the band was unable to give a longer program.

Yesterday afternoon some of the bandsmen were taken in motors to the city park as the guests of M. R. McQuarrie and D. G. Kurtz. Those unable to find room in the cars were taken to the park in a launch provided by the city. On arriving at the park the members were welcomed by Ald. A. S. Horswill, who represented the city, on behalf of the mayor, who was out of town. Ald. Horswill announced that during the visit of the band to the city the street railway service would be at the disposal of the members and that they were privileged to use the cars free whenever they so desired. During the afternoon the band gave a concert to the great enjoyment of the visitors at the park.

In the evening a large crowd attended the concert given at the band stand on Vernon street, both sides of the road being closely packed with citizens eager to get within good hearing distance. The program was well chosen and each number was received with enthusiastic applause, many encores having to be given before the audience was satisfied. The Sunday night program was as follows:

March—"Steadfast and True" ..... E. L. Teike

Echos From the Operas, aranged by Byers

Waltz—"Among the Lillies" ..... Hume

Selection—"There's a Little Spark of Love Still Burning"—Leo Feist

Overture—"Valmonte" ..... Keifer

Selection—"When You Wore a Tulip" ..... Berlin

Overture—"Arcadia" ..... Barnhouse

The members of the band will be the guests of the city on a launch trip up the lake this morning and a ball game has been aranged for the afternoon at the fair grounds between the bndsmen's nine and a local ball team. During the afternoon another concert will be given.

PRESBYTERY MEETS AT GRAND FORKS

Reports Show Progress—Rev. R. W. Robertson of Rossland to Go to Front

A meeting of Kootenay presbytery was held at Grand Forks on Sept. 1, Rev. C. L. Cowan, Waldo, moderator of the presbytery, presiding. Among the clergymen present were: Revs. R. van Munster, Nelson; W. K. Thomson, Cranbrook; W. R. Robertson, Rossland; Dr. Ferguson and W. Wood, Kaslo; M. D. McKee, Grand Forks; W. G. Blake, Nakusp; A. M. Shannon, Rock Creek; G. A. Hackney, Trail; A. R. Munro, Phoenix; R. E. Gow, Creston; and S. C. Studd, Midway.

In presenting his report on home missions, Dr. Ferguson, superintendent, stated that all the men manning the fields during the summer had done remarkably well under adverse circumstances and no special grants of money would be needed.

Rev. W. R. Robertson of Rossland applied for leave of absence on condition his application to the war office to go as a chaplain is received favorably. His request was granted and congratulations extended to Mr. Robertson. The moderator and the clerk were empowered to act in conjunction with the Rossland congregation to fill his place.

Rev. Mr. Blake of Nakusp announced that he intended resigning with the view of going east. Mr. McFee spoke very highly of Mr. Blake's abilities as pastor and of his excellent executive qualities and of the great loss the presbytery would sustain in his removal, but wished him God-speed in his new sphere. At the same sederunt Mr. Shannon's resignation of Rock Creek church was accepted. He also goes east. Mr. Shannon's good work was also taken note of.

The work in the different churches was discussed and ministers were advised to do their best to get their congregations to measure up to their responsibility in regard to the budget. The questions of evangelistic missions in all the churches, the work to be done by local ministers, was discussed.

A public meeting was held on Thursday evening, when a full church greeted Rev. J. S. Henderson, Vancouver, and Rev. Principal Lloyd of Saskatoon. Both expressed confidence in the victory of prohibition at an early date.

Thanks were tendered to Rev. M. D. McKee, his wife and his congregation for their bountiful hospitality to the presbytery. The presbytery adjourned to meet in Nelson in February, 1916.

FRUIT GROWERS RECEIVE WARNING

Government Inspector Visits City Market and Warns Vendors Against Violation of Law.

Following the visit of the government inspector to the Nelson city market on Saturday the attention of the vendors was called to section 320 of the Fruit Marks act, which reads as follows:

Every person who by himself or through the agency of another person, packs fruit in a closed package intended for sale, shall cause the package to be marked in a plain and indelible manner in letters not less than half an inch in length before it is taken from the premises where it is packed:

(a) With the words "packed by" and with the initials of his christian names and his full surname and address, or, in case of a firm or corporation, with the firm or corporate name and address;

(b) With the name of the variety or varieties, and

(c) With the designation of the grade of fruit which shall include one of the four marks, viz., Fancy, No. 1, No. 2, No. 3.

It was pointed out by the inspector that producers who neglect to comply with these requirements are liable to fine or imprisonment. The board of directors of the market have urged the vendors at the Nelson market to exercise every care in seeing that the regulations of the act are complied with.

FIRE DRIVES OUT CAFE PROPRIETOR; LEAVES CASH

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—At an early hour this morning an explosion in the Aetna cafe on Portage avenue warned the proprietor, the only person in the place, of a fire which spread so rapidly that he was compelled to leave the cash he was counting and rush to the street. The explosion occurred in the kitchen, which almost immediately became a mass of flame, and before the fire was got under control the cafe and fruit store with their $65,000 contents were gutted. Only $12,000 insurance was carried on the stock and fixtures. The building was an old-one-storey affair, the value of which will probably not exceed $25,000.

TO TRAIN AVIATORS IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Col. W. H. Merritt Offers $10,000 to Defray Part of Cost—New Club Is Formed

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 5.—To encourage aviation in British Columbia, Col. W. H. Merritt of Winnipeg, before leaving last night for the east, offered $10,000 toward the establishment of an aviation school, provided $30,000 was raised for the same object in this province. The offer was made through H. O. Bell-Irving, one of the founders of the newly organized Aerial club of British Columbia, of which J. G. Shultz has been elected president. The club has already secured one flying machine and instruction of the first class will commence this week.

As the result of negotiations by Vancouver's industrial commissioner, the Hamilton Aerial Manufacturing company of Seattle may at an early date establish here a plant for the manufacture of aeroplanes and hydroplanes. There is also a movement among a number of citizens to present the war office with at least one aeroplane.
