(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, June 16.—The following official statement was issued tonight:

"Operations of the army of the Orient from June 1 to 15: In the region of the Vardar river and Lake Doiran, both artilleries have been active during the whole fortnight. Bombardments were violent June 4, 8, 10 and 15. There has been no infantry action of importance. A few patrol encounters have taken place in the mountainous region west of the Vardar. On the Struma the Bulgarians fortified themselves hastily in the region of Fort Rupel, without penetrating any further into Greek territory.

"Aviation—The enemy's aeroplanes have shown little activity during the last fortnight. Our machines bombarded enemy camps and organizations at Petrio, June 1; at Petrio, Gievgheli, Istip and Radovitza, June 7; at Fort Rupel, June 11 and at Petrio and Strumnitza, June 14. Martial law was proclaimed in Salonika June 3. Its application did not cause any incident."

Belgian Statement.

Several artillery actions have occurred on the Belgian front. The region of Dixmude has been the theatre of a rather violent reciprocal bombardment."

Bombardments at Verdun.

LONDON, June 16.—Around Verdun the French and German armies were inactive during the day, there having been only intermittent artillery bombardments.

Paris says it has been confirmed that the French attack on Thursday on the slope south of Le Mort Homme resulted in the capture of German trenches on a front of about two-thirds of a mile.

British Statement.

The following official statement was issued tonight.

"Last night we successfully exploded mines in the neighborhood of the Souchez sector and at Cuinchy. An enemy mine was exploded near Givenchy, but did no damage.

"Today the hostile artillery was unusually active, immediately north of La Bassee canal and in the Loos salient. The trenches of Zellebeke were shelled heavily for a brief period this afternoon. The remainder of the front was quiet."

AMERICAN NOTE BEING EXAMINED

Statement Is Made by Sir Maurice De Bunsen

FRANCE AND BRITAIN ACTING TOGETHER

Efforts Are Being Made to Handle U. S. Mails Speedily

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 17.—Sir Maurice De-Bunsen, under-secretary of the foreign office and formerly British ambassador at Vienna, made the following statement to the Associated Press today regarding the American note protesting against the interference with the neutral mails which was forwarded to the French and British governments May 24:

Joint Consultation.

"The note is being examined by the British and French governments in consultation. The views of the French government have not been received in London; therefore, it is impossible to make any pronouncement upon the contents of the note. Meanwhile it may be pointed out that the United States lay special stress on the necessity for expedition in dealing with neutral mails to reduce to a minimum delay and avoid inconvenience to American interests. This point in the meorandum was communicated to the United States ambassador April 14, explaining that the postal censors had perfected the organization of a separate department to deal with such mails and, in view of this improved organization it is possible to assure the government of the United States that in the absence of wholly exceptional circumstances, the total delay caused to ordinary correspondence of neutrals from the time the mails were unloaded from the ships carrying them, to the time they were delivered by censors to the British posoffice for transmission to their destinations would not in the future be more than three to five days.

"The British government has not been content with this mere assurance, but every day it attempting still further to perfect the organization of censorship and it belives that in the future American citizens will have less and less cause to complain of delays in the passage of their correspondence to neutral European cities.

Ready to Hear Inquiries.

"The British government wishes particularly to emphasize a readiness to receive from American citizens inquiries regarding any particular delayed or missing letters, together with particulars, such as date of mailing, the name of vessel carrying such letters, so such cases can be thoroughly and immediately examined into.

"The government wishes it realized in America what an enormous organization is needed to deal with the thousands of mail bags in a few hours and the extent of success already achieved in dealing expeditiously with all this mass of correspondence.

"The America note embodies various different legal arguments, and, in fact, it takes the allied government some time to examine them and consult together. The answer does not in the least affect the energy with which the British government is attempting to meet the practical needs of the situation in a business-like spirit by perfecting the organiaztion and thus preventing hardships to neutrals.

DEMOCRATS HAVE ROW OVER SUFFRAGE PLANK

Democrats have row over suffrage pk

Serenity of Sessions at St. Louis Shattered for Time, Then All Is Harmony Again

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 16.—The Democratic national convention finished its work today by adopting the party platform exactly as approved by President Wilson and submitted by the resolution committee, including the plank on Americanism and that favoring woman suffrage, but not until the harmony of its three sessions had been disturbed with a row over the suffrage plank.

It was finally voted into the platform by a ballot of 888½ to 101½. The entire platform was then adopted without roll call.

The convention then convened.

PRINCE RUPERT MAY GET PLANT BURNED IN VANCOUVER

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 16.—One result of the $500,000 fire that took place recently on the waterfront may be the transference of the plant of the New England Fish company to Prince Rupert, according to a statement made by W. J. O'Brien of Boston, one of the directors of that company, who, with E. P. Randlett, another member of the board, is here on a tour of inspection of the damage caused by the fire recently estimated at $200,000.

The directors will also visit Prince Rupert.

FLOODS MENACE FERNIE BRIDGES

Using Dynamite to Save City Water Supply

3 BRIDGES CARRIED OUT BY HIGH WATERS

225th Battalion Quarters Abandoned--Other Areas Are in Danger

(Special to The Daily News.)

FERNIE, B. C., June 16.—Three bridges, one near Olson and two near Hosmer, have been washed out and the Fairy creek bridge here over which is piped the city's main water supply, as well as the other four bridges in Fernie, are in great danger of being destroyed by the flood in Elk river which tonight was seven feet above the low level, having raised two feet within the past 24 hours.

Gangs of men were kept at work all day setting off blasts of dynamite along the banks of the stream to break jams of driftwood while other workers hauled tons of ballast with which the middle pier of the Fairy creek bridge was reinforced after it had begun to shift under the pressure of great drifts.

Bridges Are Guarded.

The work on the Fairy creek bridge which was started in the nick of time, it is believed will be effective. Guards have been stationed near this bridge and also at the others. Two of them are Great Northern bridges.

The flood waters have already done extensive damage. This afternoon the floor of the skating rink in which the men of the 225th battalion were quartered was afloat and the surrounding locality was inundated. The soldiers were obliged to leave the building in the greatest haste and every available vehicle was requisitioned by the military authorities to save equipment and stores. The soldiers are temporarily bivouacked in the city park.

Other Damage Done.

Damage has also been done in portions of Fernie Annex and in West Fernie and if the water continues to rise other areas will be covered.

Arrangements have been made to obtain water for the city from the Coal Creek emergency reservoir in the event that the main water system is put out of commission by the washing out of the Fairy creek bridge.

Reports that reached the city tonight were that much apprehension is felt in the Kootenay valley south of the city where the Kootenay river is now over 16 feet above the low level and is raising rapidly.

WILL BUILD BIG LUMBER MILL

American Firm Has About Completed Arrangements for Erection of $4,000,000 Plant.

VICTORIA, June 16.—A further evidence of the impetus which has been given to the lumbering industry in British Columbia during the past six or eight months is seen in numbers of inquiries which are being made to the government by individuals desiring to get into the lumber trade.

Perhaps the most important of these is a big American firm, Messrs. Wilson Brothers, who have large holdings of timber on the Nimpkish river on Vancouver island, and who have been recently conducting negotiations looking to the acquirement from the government of certain water rights on that river. The arrangements it is expected will shortly be completed and will result in the construction of a plant which will cost from three to four million dollars.

This firm commenced negotiations as early as last February for privileges which would enable them to generate power for the operation of a big saw mill. Their proposition included the raising of the Nimpkish lake at least 96 feet and to dam the river. They figured on developing at least 30,000 horse power and will provide an outlet for what is said to be one of the finest areas of timber in British Columbia.

The Nimpkish river is a small stream on Vancouver island, immediately opposite Alert Bay. Its output of salmon has amounted to about $100,000 each year, and the chief difficulty in the way of the company securing the concessions desired was this industry. The problem was to put in the dams required by the company and at the same time provide facilities for the fish to run the river, so as not to interfere with the rights of the fishermen.

Wilson Brothers will go ahead with the work as soon as the water record has been transferred to them.

COUNTER ATTACKS FAIL TO CHECK RELENTLESS RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE

MASSED AUSTRIAN DRIVE BROKEN BY ITALIANS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

ROME, June 16.—Austro-Hungarian troops estimated to number 18,000, attacked in dense formation the Italian positions on the Asiago plateau yesterday but were repulsed, leaving piles of corpses before the Italian trenches, says an official statement given out by the war office here today.

BRITISH LINES ON TIGRIS ADVANCED

Trenches East of Kut el Amara Are Pushed to Within 200 Yards of Turkish Forces.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 16.—The British official press bureau today gave out a statement dealing with the operations in Mesopotamia as follows:

"On the north bank of the Tigris, east of Kut el Amara, our trenches have been pushed to within 200 yards of the Turks at Sannayat.

"On the south bank Imma Mansura has been occupied. This place is 3½ miles south of Magasis.

"A successful punitive expedition has been made against the Arabs who persistently cut the telegraph wires north of Hamar lake. Two hundred cartloads of grain and some sheep were taken from the raided hostile Arab tribe.

"Three of our Tigris barges were sunk by Turkish artillery June 10.

"The imaginative Turkish communication of Thursday was founded on the foregoing."

BLOCKADE METHODS MAY BE ALTERED

"Will Be No Slackening," Says Lord Cecil, Telling of Discussion at Paris Conference

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 16.—As a result of the discussion of the blockade at the recent allied conference in Paris conclusions were reached which will remove many misconceptions held by the neutrals, according to Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, who attended the conference as a British representative. What these conclusions were Lord Robert Cecil would not state, but he asserted that the blockade would work better as a result of the conference.

Asked if there would be a tightening of the blockade, Lord Robert paused for a long time before answering, then he replied with a laugh, "There will be no slackening."

Further than that he would not commit himself. He said the main object of his going to Paris was to make sure that the allies should agree absolutely as to the blockade policy. There was little to be done to achieve this, he declared, and both governments, the British and the French, were completely agreed as to what should be done.

Lord Robert reiterated that the allies did not wish to interfere with neutral trade except such as was to the benefit of the hostile countries.

TOWNS CAPTURED IN GERMAN EAST AFRICA

Further British Successes Reported in Eastern Part of District—Krupp Guns and Stores Taken.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 16.—The British forces operating in the eastern part of German East Africa have made further advances according to an official statement issued tonight, which follows:

"Kwedizwa, six miles north of Handeni, has been occupied; also the village of Kilimajnaro, close to Handeni. A large force is encamped near the Handeni water supply.

'Near the important station of Korogwe, the wagon bridge over the Pangani river has been secured by the British.

"The island of Ukerwe, north of the German post of Mausa, on Lake Victoria, has been occupied and two Krupp guns and stores taken."

PATTERSON HAS REFUSED PRESBYTERIAN APPOINTMENT

TORONTO, June 16.—John A. Patterson, K.C., announced today that he had refused the appointment of the Presbyterian general assembly to the chairmanship of the finance board. The task, said Mr. Patterson, of raising $1,631,000, the amount of the budget for next year, was one which requires the undivided attention of the appointee to the position.

LONDON BOARD WILL INVESTIGATE HIGH PRICES

LONDON, June 17.—The board of trade has appointed a committee headed by John M. Robertson, M. P. for the Tyneside division of Northumberland, and including other members of the house of commons and economists, to investigate the rising price of commodities and recommend remedial measures.

WHOLE COMPANY LOST FORDING RIVER BUT REGIMENT PRESSES ON UNDAUNTED

Armies of Czar in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukowina Are Advancing Steadily, Taking Thousands of Prisoners and Much Booty

With Capture of 14,000 in Fighting Around Lutsk and Buczacz Toll of Men Taken Now 170,000 --Attacks Near Kovel Broken

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 16.—The forward drive of the Russian armies in Volhynia, Galicia and Bukowina continues with apparently undiminished success. From the Pripet marshes southward to Czernowitz the forces of Gen Brussiloff, according to reports from Petrograd, are throwing back counter-attacks and are advancing steadily against the Austrian armies.

In 13 days the Russians have made prisoners of about 170,000 men and have captured immense stores of war booty, according to the Russian war office.

Southeast of Lutsk and northwest of Buczacz the Russians have gained further successes. In an action on the Pluchevka river south of Lutsk, more than 5000 men were captured after the attacking Russians had forded the river.

The fighting continues northwest of Buczacz where the Germans are cooperating with the Austrians, but the Russians report the capture here thus far of 6000 men from the Teutonic allies.

Attempts of the Austrians and Germans to take the offensive on many sectors of the long front were repulsed, says Petrograd. The Russian war office also reports the repulse of attacks in the region southeast of Kovel, one of the objectives of the present Russian drive.

Berlin reports the capture of 400 Russians during the attack on a German position north of Przewloka.

Austrians Giving Ground.

The chief gain of ground announced by the Russians in the last 24 hours was on the Austrian centre which, up to now, had held comparatively firm. The Russians claim to be breaking this resistance. The main contest has been on the front just north of Buczacz, on the Stripa river.

For the time being the rapid movement on the wings of the cavalry dash in Volhynia toward the Kovel junction seems to have slackened somewhat. The morning papers today print only brief specials from Petrograd and some of these give evidence of considerable delays in transmission. An explanation of these delays is given in a despatch from the Daily Telegraph's Petrograd correspondent, who says:

"It is likely that the course of events will become a little obscured during the next few days, for much depends on the secrecy of maneuvers for which the Russians have now got free play."

A semi-official statement published in Petrograd says:

"The absence of official communications of the names of places occupied or the directions taken by Gen. Brussiloff's army do not mean any retardation in his advance. On the contrary his progress continues without intermission. The broad corridor caused by our break through the enemy's lines in the direction of Lutsk continues to widen and is assuming an enveloping character in relation to the enemy's flank. The advance, however, cannot go on indefinitely at the present speed, for the element of unexpectedness to which was due much of its early success, cannot be maintained for the period of a fortnight. Steps must be taken for removing the wounded and prisoners, for bringing up fresh supplies and for other work necessary in the freshly lengthened lines of communication.

"'Moreover, the immediate aim of the Russian aggression is not to recapture certain towns or areas, but has in view the destruction of the vital organization of the enemy's military power, which are his armies."

In connection with the report of the fall of Czernowitz the News' Petrograd correspondent says:

"The Austrians, before leaving Czernowitz, entrusted a small committee of various nationalities with the duty of hadning over the town to the Russians."

Austrians Out of Czernowitz.

The Telegraph's Petrograd correspondent, wiring yesterday, says:

"'The news of the entry of the Russians into Czernowitz has not yet been received. The latest information was that the Russians were in the nearest suburbs, while the town had been rendered untenable to the Austrians. The Austrians were compelled to make a desperate stand owing to their imprudently delaying the evacuation."

The same despatch reports the Russians have succeeded in making another big breach in the Austrian line near Tarnopol.

According to Bucharest despatches, the hopes of the Russians of relieving the Italians already have been accomplished, as the Austrians are pouring troop trains eastward from their southern positions. The despatch says that 36 troop trains passed through Pressburg, Hungary, within 24 hours and that the Austrian forces in Albania are all hurrying north.

Capture More Men.

PETROGRAD, June 16.—The capture of an additional 100 officers, and 14,000 men was announced today by the war office.

The Russian successes in the offensives along the southern front are continuing, the statement declares.

The Austrian armies have lost their power of coordination and are reduced to practically half of their fighting strength. Two deep thrusts into the Austrian lines are advancing relentlessly and threaten a blow to Austria from which it may never recover. The statement follows:

"The supreme commander, the czar, has received the following telegram from the king of Italy: 'I am in harmony with the whole Italian people in expressing the sentiment of profound admiration for the victorious development of the powerful offensive of your majesty's armies and send to you the warmest and most friendly congratulations. Being convinced that the efforts thus happily commenced will lead to definite success, I pray you to accept the assurance of my undying friendship'.

"On the front of the army in the south the fighting continues. The enemy has suffered heavy losses in encounters with our troops. The following details of the operations in many sectors have been received:

"In the course of a powerful but fruitless counter attack by the enemy in the region of Sokul, north of Ropitche, we took prisoners 20 officers and 1500 men.

"In the region west and southwest of Lutsk, during the pursuit of the enemy, our cavalry fought several successful engagements. Northwest of Kremenez our soldiers of Gen. Sakharoff's force, after a desperate fight, dislodged the enemy from his fortifications on the Pluichevka river, between Kozin and Tarnovka, by a vigorous assault.

ATTACK OF CANADIANS IS DESCRIBED BY EYEWITNESS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, June 16.—How the Canadian troops gallantly and successfully assaulted the enemy position and regained lost ground is told in the "eyewitness" official report from the front today.

The brunt of the fighting fell upon the Highlanders from Montreal, Toronto and the west along with the western Ontario battalion, all of them attached to the first division.

The remarkable assault by the Canadians resulted in our lines being established practically in the same position as before the fight.

Three German officers and 150 men were captured.

The casualties among Canadian officers in the last two weeks total 395.

The Statement

The text of the official statement follows:

About midday of June 6 the enemy opened a violent bombardment on the left sector of our defenses. In the afternoon four mines were exploded directly under our front line system at Hooge.

The companies of our 28th Northwestern battalion, holding this section, suffered severely and the remnants of the garrison were unable to hold the Germans in check when they launched an attack immediately after the explosion.

The enemy occupied our front line, but all his attempts to advance beyond that point were defeated by machine gun and rifle fire directed upon him from our support trenches and strong points.

Simultaneously with this attack the Germans attempted to seize trenches further to the south, but were everywhere repulsed with great loss. At one point of the front a small party of the enemy succeeded in entering one of our advanced trenches, but was

MAY DECIDE TO ABANDON GROUND CANADIANS WON

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

LONDON, June 16.—The correspondents of the London newspapers at British headquarters in France, sending details of the recapture by the Canadians June 13 of part of the ground lost at the beginning of the month, reveal the following new information:

"The new divisional commander, successor to Gen. Mercer, deferred assuming the command so that he could lead his old brigade.

"As the advance progressed it became evident that the British artillery fire, since the ground was lost, had been even more effective than was hoped, and the Germans had failed to consolidate the ground in their usual thorough manner. Only two machine guns were mounted in the area covered by the attack.

"The Canadians retook trench after trench, the resistance varying greatly at different points. They cheered lustily when they found that the Germans had not discovered a quantity of supplies and ammunition the Canadians had left behind.

"In one place in the attack about 40 Germans who fought desperately were killed to a man. One officer and 158 men surrendered. The officer was glad to escape from the battle, to which he had resigned himself when our bombardment began. 'I knew how it would end,' he said. 'We had orders to take this ground and we took it, but we knew you would come back. You had to do so. So here I am.'"

The correspondents say that it is possible that the position will be abandoned again voluntarily. The trenches have been battered beyond reconstruction, deep digging is impossible because of the wet weather and sodden ground, and the position, in the judgment of the higher command, may not be worth what it would cost to hold it."

EYEWITNESS DESCRIBES CANADIANS' ATTACK

quickly ejected, leaving behind one wounded man.

During a bombardment of our line a large German mortar shell, weighing more than 60 pounds, pitched over the parapet and fell into a trench held by our 5th western cavalry battalion. A lance-corporal, Roy A. Edmonds, of this unit, dashed forward and picking up the bomb pushed it back over the parapet.

A second or two later the missile exploded. By his prompt and gallant action Edmonds undoubtedly saved the lives of several comrades.

Numerous Artillery Duels

After the attack on Hooge artillery duels occurred daily. June 12 our batteries were all combined in a bombardment of the positions captured from us June 2. The fire was continued until dusk and was resumed at midnight with increased intensity. At 1 a.m. June 13 an attack was delivered by our infantry.

On the left the western Ontario battalion bombed its way up to our original line, although encountering considerable opposition, while two of our Scottish battalions and a Toronto battalion, in a magnificent advance, rushed rapidly forward until they had recaptured the whole of the high ground known as Mount Sorrell and Observatory ridge. About 150 unwounded Germans, including three officers, were taken prisoners.

Assisted by our supporting battalions, our troops entrenched themselves on the approximate line of our original front trenches, which had been almost obliterated by the German bombardment of June 2. The length of the front recaptured was more than 1500 yards. Several attempts to counter-attack by the German infantry were frustrated by our artillery fire.

A Splendid Way to Reduce One's Weight

There is, perhaps no one thing that shows the passing of your youth so much as the horrible tendency of some of us to put on too much weight after we have reached the age of 25 or 30. However young our face may appear, our figures "give us away."

"The cause of this overstoutness is that our stomachs convert the food we eat into fat because ther is not enough oxygen in the blood to produce a proper combustion to destroy the fatty tissue. To reduce your weight go to a good druggist and get oil of orilene in capsule form and take one after each meal. It is sold only in original sealed packages. Oil of orilene taken at meal times gives you all the benefit of the food you eat and at the same time dissolves the fatty tissue from any part of the body where there is excessive fat. In this way many have reduced their weight at the rate of about a lb. a day and no flabbiness is left.

Any druggist can supply you or a large size box will be sent on receipt of postal note or money order for $1.00. Address D. J. Little Drug Co., box 1240, Montreal, Can.

FAIL TO CHECK RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE

pany was engulfed and died a heroic death, but the valor of their comrades and their officers resulted in the disorderly flight of the enemy.

"Seventy officers and 8000 men were taken prisoners and two guns, a great many machine guns, 1000 rifles, cartridges and enormous reserves of barbed wire captured in this action.

"By an equally successful coup our infantry with heavy support from the artillery, captured Rostock wood, south of the Potchaieff, taking prisoners, machine guns and bombthrowers.

"By a heroic effort the troops of Gen. Stetcherbatchoff's army yesterday overthrew the Austrians in the region of Gouvoronka and Gullovady on the west bank of the Stripa.

"Northwest of Buczacz the engagement with the Austrians and the Germans continues unceasingly. So far we have captured 6000 prisoners, guns and machine guns.

"An enemy aeroplane has dropped bombs on Tarnopal.

"Our Cossacks have taken prisoners seven officers and 600 men. The approximate total of yesterday's captures is 100 officers, 14,000 men and a quantity of war waterial.

"On the Dvina front, farther south in the region of Popesie there has been an exchange of artillery and rifle fire. Our artillery made a violent attack yesterday in the region of Dvinsk. Enemy attempts to take the offensive in many sectors were everywhere repulsed by our fire."

A semi-official communication issued here last night says:

"The operations near Baranovichi, to which some persons were inclined to attach importance were nothing more serious than a reconnaissance in force, undertaken to obtain information as to the enemy's strength, which the simple forms of scouting had failed to reveal. The Germans' attack in the Narocz and Dvina districts differed in no essentials from the local plunges which the enemy has frequently made on these sectors."

AUTOINTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

The Dangerous Condition Which Produces Many Well Known Diseases.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THIS TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" — The Wonderful Fruit Medicine — will Protect You

Autointoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels.

Instead of the refuse matter passing daily from the body, it is absorbed by the blood. As a result, the Kidneys and Skin are overworked, in their efforts to rid the blood of this poisoning.

Poisoning of the blood in this way often causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Disturbed Stomach. It may produce Headaches and Sleeplessness. It may irritate the Kidneys and bring on Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, and Rheumatic Pains. It is the chief cause of Eczema — and keeps the whole system unhealthy by the constant absorption into the blood of this refuse matter.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Autointoxication or self-poisoning — as "Fruit-a-tives" acts gently on bowels, kidneys and skin, strengthens the bowels and tones up the nervous system.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

LIEUT. H. H. BOURNE REPORTED MISSING

Son of Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Bourne, of This City, Enlisted at Cranbrook

His many friends will regret to hear that Lieut. Herbert Hallowell Bourne, second son of Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Bourne of Galt, is today officially reported in the casualty list among the missing in the recent heavy fighting in which the Canadians took part. The parents, after an enquiry made to the Militia department at Ottawa, received word that outside of being reported missing, the Militia department had no further information at present but would cable to England for fuller particulars.

Lieut. H. H. Bourne, was in the employ of the Imperial bank before enlisting. He was teller at the Galt branch and was transferred west, and at the time of enlisting was accountant in a branch at Cranbrook, B. C. He enlisted with the Kootenay Rangers and on going to England was transferred to a Mounted Rifle unit and had been at the front about two months. Lieut. H. Bourne when a resident of Galt took a very important part in sport and played with the local rugby team. He is married and his wife is at present living in Vancouver. The missing soldier has two brothers and one sister—Charles of Weyburn, Sask., Steven H. of Galt, and Miss Elsie of Toronto.—Galt Reporter.

Regulate Kidneys AND Relieve Constipation

Gin Pills are acknowledged to have the largest sale of any proprietary medicine in Canada—an achievement solely due to their remarkable virtue as a Kidney and Bladder remedy.

But users of Gin Pills have discovered that this invaluable remedy also acts as a mild cathartic. The evidence of hundreds of letters we have received establishes the very logical fact that in compounding a medicine to heal and tone up the Kidneys and Bladder certain of the ingredients have a stimulating effect upon the other organs, especially the bowels.

It is important to know, in the case of constipated patients, that Gin Pills do not act harshly on the bowels; there is no griping, but a gradual and gentle restoration of the function. Try Gin Pills for constipation. In thus relieving the bowels, you safeguard yourself against possible Kidney trouble.

Gin Pills are 50c. a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50 at your dealer's. A trial treatment will be sent upon request, to 16

COMPENSATION ACT ANALYZED BY BRITISH COLUMBIA LABOR LEADER

JAMES H. M'VETY, PRESIDENT OF FEDERATION, POINTS OUT HOW OTHER LEGISLATIVE ENACTMENTS FOR INJURED WORKERS ARE SURPASSED BY FAR-REACHING MEASURE PLACED ON STATUTE BOOKS AT RECENT SESSION AT VICTORIA.

(By James H. McVety, President B. C. Federation of Labor.)

When the Ontario Legislature passed the Compensation Act drafted by Sir William Meredith it was considered the best piece of legislation of the kind on the continent, both from the standpoint of number of workmen covered and its provisions generally.

The British Columbia government, however, in its act just passed made at least sixteen distinct improvements that are of benefit to the workmen, quite disregarding the numerous changes that will enable the employer to more easily comply with the law.

Rescue Work Covered

For the first time in history of compensation legislation, workers engaged in rescue work in the coal mining industry are covered, the government conceding that even though the men engaged in this hazardous work are not, in many cases, regularly employed by the company on whose property the accident occurs, frequently coming from other properties to assist, they are engaged in saving both lives and property and should therefore be protected during the time they are engaged in that work at the expenses of the industry benefited.

"Gas Committees" Included

Practically the same line of reasoning applied to the case of men elected by their fellow miners, or appointed by the Chief Line Inspector under the provisions of the Coal Mines Regulation Act on "Gas Committees" for the purpose of inspecting the workings of mines to ascertain if there is sufficient gas to make their operation dangerous. Holding that they were a protection to the property and at the same time reduced the number of accidents, the government included such work even though the wages of the committeemen were paid by the miners instead of by the owners of the mines.

Workers in Small Plants Included.

Under the Ontario act the board is given power to exclude small employers and their workmen where the number employed does not exceed four or six. It was held here that from the standpoint of the workmen as well as the employer that an accident would if a number of people were badly injured, bankrupt the employer and result in the workers not receiving any compensation and as a result all industries that are included under the act are covered, regardless of the number of employees in any shop or factory.

Short Waiting Period

The majority of acts require workmen to be disabled for one or two weeks before any compensation is paid, this practice resulting in 40 to 70 per cent of the injured workmen not receiving any compensation whatever as they completely recover before the waiting period expires. The B. C. Act pays after a period of three days.

Unable to Assign Compensation

In Ontario the board permitted to allow workers to assign their compensation and because there is no medical aid provisions in the act of that province, the workers are required to assign their compensation to the hospitals before they are admitted. This has been remedied by taking away from the board the power to permit assignments or attachments of any kind.

Compensation Provisions Better

Where children receiving compensation are invalids their payments do not cease at the age of sixteen years, but continue until they recover their health or die. Widows are paid a flat rate of $20.00 in both Ontario and B. C. but the Ontario act contains a provision that where $20 amounts to more than 55 per cent of the wages received by the husband, the compensation is reduced correspondingly. This section is omitted from the B. C. act. A minimum of $5 per week is fixed in this province for the protection of women and apprentices and the compensation cannot be less than this amount unless the wages are less, then the full wages are paid. Compensation is also paid in this province where the worker has suffered facial disfigurement.

Board Unble to Commute Claims

It has been alleged, in some states, that compensation boards have induced injured workmen to settle their claims for lump sum payments and that these settlements have been to the disadvantage of the workmen. Under the B. C. act the board is unable to commute without the consent of the workmen, except where the reduction of earning capacity is less than ten per cent.

Unlimited Medical Aid

Neither Ontario, Nova Scotia or Washington aets make any provision for medical aid for the workmen, although the absence of this provision is conceded in all three places to be a serious ommission. California, Ohio and New York have limited medical aid provided entirely at the expense of the employer, but the first and last of these states has a waiting period of two weeks during which the injured workmen receive nothing but the medical aid. Here, by agreement between the employers and the employees, injured workmen are to receive unlimited medical aid, transportation, hospital service, crutches and artificial limbs, with a waiting period of only two days, but will contribute one cent for each day worked to the medical fund. Any deficiency in the fund will be made up by assessing the employers. Arrangements at present in operation that are satisfactory to the workmen and secure the approval of the board will be allowed to continue and the workmen who are enrolled in any existing scheme will not require to contribute one cent per day.

Individual Liability Abolished

In this province all employers are placed on exactly the same footing, all pay their assessments to the board and the workmen receive their compensation direct from that body, instead of, as in Ontario, allowing the railways to pay their injured workmen without the payment going through the hands of the board, this practice causing serious suspicion that workmen were being required to accept less than they were entitled to under the law.

Form of Notice Simplified

A lot of red tape in connection with the notice the injured workmen are required to give has been done away with, this being made possible through the inclusion of the medical aid features.

Board Enforces Safety Rules

The board is given power to appoint advisory committees consisting of employers and workmen to draft rules for the safety of the workmen and these rules become law after their adoption by the board. In Ontario no provision is made for giving the workmen representation on the advisory committees.

Non-Resident Alien Dependents

In Nova Scotia and Ontario no compensation is paid to dependents unless they are residents, except where the country in which the dependent is resident would pay compensation to a dependent residing in Nova Scotia or Ontario. This, it is contended by representatives of the workmen, gives the employers the benefit of the lower rate of wages paid to foreigners and also reduces the expenses of compensation because the dependents are mostly non-residents. Particularly is this true in British Columbia where such a large number of Chinese who are required to pay a head tax of $500 for themselves and each of their families that come to the province. Despite the objections of the employers, who contended that compensation should not be paid in such cases, or if any payment was made it should be on the basis of the relative purchasing power in B. C. and the country in which the dependent reside, the government decided that all workmen should be treated alike and that no advantages would accrue to the employer of foreign labor over their employers who had given a preference to Canadians. The objection that money is being sent out of the country can best be met by the employers themselves realizing that the fewer Asiatics employed, the smaller the amount of money that will go to dependents resident in China, Japan and India.

BULL ATTACKS AUTO; STRIKES IT AMIDSHIPS

ANDERSON, Ind.—Fred T. Barber and some friends were driving toward the city in Mr. Barber's new automobile recently when the car was attacked by a large red bull. The bull struck the automobile with such force that one of the doors was stove in and the rear fender of the car was bent. The bull was standing in an open lane when the automobile approached. When it saw the car it suddenly made a dash toward it, striking it amidships. The persons in the automobile were freightened, but escaped injury. The bull did not seem hurt and appeared to be glaring defiance at the machine as it walked away.

STARVATION FACES SEVEN MILLIONS

Only Two or Three Weeks Between Belgians and Death for Want of Food

"There would be wholesale starvation within two or three weeks if the importation of food into Belgium were stopped," is the statement made by an official of the Rockefeller Foundation, which with the Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, has done much to relieve the suffering among the wives and children of Belgian soldiers and the aged non-combatants who are suffering from the fortunes of war.

Wholesale starvation in this instance means over three million people and added to them four million more, who must look to food sent from Canada, the States and South America for their sustenance. Everyone who has reviewed the history of Belgium since the first of August, 1914, has been appalled at the terrible things which the Belgian people have passed through at the hands of the enemy. Everyone has heard of the atrocities of the early days of the war, of the reign of terror in Belgian cities and country places but these fade into insignificance before the great shadow that now hangs over the entire populace—the possibility of death by starvation—an end ignominious in view of the heroism of the soldiers of the little country, and a death reflecting discredit on the civilized world.

Belgium expects the worst from her enemies, from her allies she has the right to expect assistance. In view of this the Belgian Relief Committee 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, the one source through which supplies can safely be transported to Belgium, asks Canadians to help bridge that three weeks, the end of which means sure starvation. The committee is asking Canadians to come to the rescue. A dollar means at least starvation averted a month for one person. There are seven millions facing starvation so much is needed and Canada is asked to give generously in this hour of her prosperity.

COFFEE GOOD ONLY TO CURE SNAKE BITES

CHICAGO,—Coffee is not only contributory to most of the physical ills of man, but is also a potent cause for idle gossip, domestic ills and divorce. So, S. H. Aurand told the Illinois Homeopathic Medical association, in session here. Coffee, he said, is a "strong stilogic factor," promoting neuralgia, myalgia, rheumatism, gout, general muscular and nervous heart, congested kidneys and hardened arteries. About the only good Dr. Aurand found for it was as an antiseptic in case of snake bites.

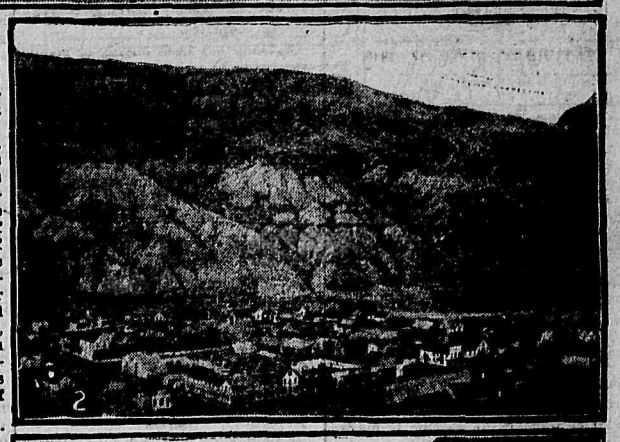
Rankin—Have you ever stopped to consider how the other half lives"?

Phyle—I don't have to.

Rankin—Why?

Phyle—Because half of the time I live that way myself.

A Trip Through the Caribou Country



ON the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is a little town crowded in between the Thompson River and the tracks of steel that span a continent and a Dominion.

It's time table name is Ashcroft, the southern doorway of a famous British Columbian region known as the Caribou country. For nearly seven hundred miles northward the route extends, for long years one of the most picturesque stage routes of the continent, a route operated by the "B X," as the British Columbia Express Company is locally known. For many a long year the stages and freighters climbed the hills, and crept, no, rather galloped down grade, on this unique thoroughfare—ten, eight-horse freight teams and capacious stage coaches drawn by the pick of the stables.

But to-day the automobile has invaded this mountain realm and there are still traditions of what happened and what was said when the Guggenheimer copper kings sent in the first motor car and had a fight for the right of way on a narrow bit of road with a huge freighter. It was a battle royal, chiefly in the language of the western type!

No know of no roadway in all Canada that offers a greater variety of human interest. Nature is revealed in an infinite variety of scenery as she exhibits her varied moods. Shacks of the old-timers survive alongside of comfortable modern homesteads. Here a semi-arid hill bears only sage brush, there an irrigation ditch has turned a desert into a garden. Nearby is a beautiful stream, opening into a series of lakes, while a few miles along the way cascades leap from the upper levels. Indian villages alternate with the white man's town, and the Oriental looks out at you from his shop or laundry or cook place. It is a meeting place of the nations is this Cariboo road.

Every mile is reminiscent of the gold rush of the 'Fifties, when thousands of adventurers, afflicted with "the narrowing lust for gold," penetrated the wilderness from which few ever emerged. Legend and tragedy abound in the tales of the old-timers, as the lonely and neglected graves add their pathetic note.

One doubts if there is another stretch of country in Canada's far-flung area that is quite like the Cariboo trail. Evidences abound of untold mineral wealth. Forests clothe many a hillside. Thriving farms are appearing in fertile pockets in the valleys, a large aggregate of business is transacted along the route and the entire region affords an ideal and unique route for the traveller who is looking for new scenes and fresh experiences.

ARE THE ALLIES ABOUT TO STRIKE IN THE BALKANS?

Last night's official statement from Paris indicates that operations show a tendency to become more lively on the Balkans front. The report states that the allied forces which are based on Saloniki have taken part in no infantry engagements of importance this month but that violent artillery actions occurred on June 4, 8, 10 and 15.

Observers of the war have been looking expectantly to this front for developments for some weeks. The artillery activity which is now reported may well be the prelude to operations of greater magnitude.

The entente has powerful armies at Saloniki. The enemy forces opposed to them are composed almost entirely of Bulgarians. The country is topographically well adapted for defensive operations but if it is the intention to take early action to drive the enemy out of Servia and cut Teuton communications with Turkey the present time would seem to be opportune. The Austrians are too busily engaged against the Russians and Italians and the Germans against the Russians and on the western front to send any but weak reinforcements if they should find that their Bulgarian ally is hard pressed.

THE NEW WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT

James H. McVety, president of the provincial federation of labor, in an article on the new British Columbia Workmen's Compensation act, which The Daily News publishes this morning, points out that the measure passed at Victoria last month is superior in 16 distinct respects over that of Ontario, which has hitherto been regarded as the best legislation of the kind on the continent.

He touches on some of the features of the act, mentioning that men engaged in mine rescue work and on "gas committees" are included, as well as those working in small plants, that the waiting period is shorter, that the compensation provisions are better, that compensation payments cannot be assigned and that there is no individual liability by employers.

He also refers to the provisions for medical aid and the use of safety appliances. Not only do these clauses benefit the workman but they will have the effect of benefitting the employer through reducing the period of injury during which compensation will be needed and the number of accidents in the various classes, thus lowering the assessments.

These are details of the act that cannot fail to assist in the satisfactory working out of the principle of state insurance without litigation which has been adopted, which will save to the employers and employees legal expenses and a very large per cent of the expenses and profits of the casualty insurance companies which have been carrying the risks in cases where the employers have not themselves borne them.

FIGURES SHOW THAT CANADA'S PROSPERITY IS GROWING

Statistics which are the barometers of trade in Canada indicate the marked improvement which is taking place in conditions all over the country. Exports are soaring and the fact that imports are also increasing—although the balance of trade is still very much in favor of Canada—shows that developments which ceased temporarily on account of the war are again being carried on.

Bank clearings in May were $327,465,700 more than in the same month of 1915. Every clearing house in the country reports an increase and Vancouver is among the eight centres showing the largest growth.

Earnings of each of the three great transcontinental railroads, which last week grew 44.6 per cent, showed a marked increase in May, 1916, over May, 1915. The Canadian Pacific reported an increase of $5,191,000; the Grand Trunk of $662,634 and the Canadian Northern of $1,367,500.

Canada's total import and export trade for February was $112,644,257, a growth of $44,000,000 over May, 1915, of which $26,000,000 was in exports. Detailed figures for April have not been issued but there is a gain in the country's total trade of $47,000,000. These figures are the more notable when it is considered that Canada's trade in 1915 established a record.

Building permits also indicate improved conditions, the average gain for the British Columbia cities reporting in April being 41.29 per cent.

DRAWING THE BLOCKADE CORDON TIGHTER

Canadians are content to leave such questions as the blockade of Germany to the authorities who have charge of this feature of the entente policy but the announcement by Lord Robert Cecil that there will not be the slightest slackening in the cordon which is helping to strangle Germany will be received with general satisfaction.

The discussion of the blockade at the entente conference at Paris was apparently intended to prepare the way for further action designed to prevent the enemy trading through neutral countries.

Germany has been buying or selling very little through Scandinavia and Holland in recent months, but if that little can be prevented from trickling through the blockade it will be so much the better. The more stringent the blockade the earlier will the enemy be compelled to capitulate.

Carranza is getting so many notes from Washington that he is entitled to count himself in the kaiser class.

If Lord Kitchener had done nothing but issue the warning in August, 1914, that the war would be a long one, he would have earned the Empire's undying gratitude.

If President Wilson's note means that the American soldiers are going to stay in Mexico until Gen. Carranza brings order out of chaos they have a long visit ahead of them.

A semi-official statement from Petrograd explains that the immediate aim of the Russians is to destroy the Teuton armies. Both the Austrians and the Germans have already discovered that.

It is illustrative of the supremacy of the Russian forces during the offensive now in progress that the Teutons in a counter-attack near Sokul not only failed but lost over 1500 men in prisoners.

Mining conditions in Kootenay and Boundary were never more favorable than at the present time, but owners of properties whose value has not been proved by adequate development should not make the mistake of insisting upon terms that would keep investors out.

Lovers of the rose may look forward to a splendid exhibition at the annual show which will be held in Nelson on July 5. The event has been a success from the first and the prospects are that the display this year will be the finest that has yet been seen in British Columbia. Every rose grower should make a point of preparing now to show the choicest of his blooms.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING

Germany's Dead.

The president of the imperial grain board is quoted in a despatch from Athens as saying: "To Germany's reserve of 400,000 tons of grain must be added 80,000 tons representing the decreased consumption by the army." Dead men eaot no bread.—Waterbury American.

It Would Suit Germany Nicely.

Germany would like to have the sea commerce of all countries made inviolable even in case of war—warships to fight each other, but not to touch merchant ships, even of the enemy. This would be an admirable plan for Germany; it would promote her relative power immensely. Germany is the principal military power of the world and Britain the principal naval power. Take away the power of Great Britain to interfere with the enemy's sea commerce and you have Germany at once at the head of all the nations of the world by reason of her superior military system.—Boston Transscript.

END OF THE KYTE COMMISSION

After meandering on its tedious way for several weeks the Kyte fuse commission has reachec an end of the taking of evidence and listening to speeches by lawyers. Nothing now remains but to receive the report. Most people have long since ceased to read the published accounts of the proceedings and have decided to wait patiently for the findings of the commissioners. The whole matter has proved so complicated and so obscure that the average citizens came to the conclusion that the mental task of following the testimony was more than it was worth.

One or two things, however, stand out quite clearly. The effort to connect Sir Sam Hughes with the receipt of money from government contracts has proved futile. His reputation for personal integrity has not been smirched in the least. The worst that can be said is that he may have shown bad judgment in reposing confidence in his friend Col. J. Wesley Allison. The question whether Col. Allison was entitled to any percentage on business transactions with the shell commission and, if so, whether he succeeded in getting too much, remains to be decided. The only other point is whether larger contracts could not have been with advantage given to Canadian firms, instead of to an American firm at prices said to be exorbitant. Apart from these two matters the whole nebulous collection of accusations has disappeared.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the commissioners Sir William Meredith and Mr. Justice Duff, will be able to draw up a report which they can both sign with clear conscience. If they agree, the public will be glad to accept their opinion and let it go at that. But if it so happens that Sir William Meredith, broad-minded man of the world and former Conservative, comes to the conclusion that what has been disclosed doesn't amount to anything, while Judge Duff, a former Liberal, sternly bent upon the reluctant performance of disagreeable duty, feels bound to condemn somebody for something or other—what will the average citizen think? We know what the answer is, but we are afraid to say it until the commission has been dissolved and has lost the power of punishing for contempt.—Winnipeg Telegram.

ATTITUDE OF THEOLOGIANS.

The greatest tragedy of this war is the incomprehensible attitude of German theologians and teachers regarding the brutal and immoral methods by which their country carries on war. Forty years ago Paul Lagarde, one of the chief moulders of German thought, wrote: "In the year 1518 the standard of faith was the Bible; in the year 1871 it became the State." The result is seen today in the inability of Germans to understand the horror and contempt with which their conduct throughout the war is viewed by the allied nations and by neutral countries. It is the most appalling example in all history of a highly educated people, under the tutelage of the state, turning its back deliberately on the moral standards that have regulated human conduct since the earliest dawn of civilization: Impregnated with the crude materialism of the state, which asserts the claim to override the laws of God and man, the German church has degenerated into paganism. With it Christianity can make no peace.—Toronto Globe.

THE IRON DUKE'S CRITICS.

Mr. Asquith's caustic reminder to his newspaper critics that they are the unconscious imitators of the slanderers of Pitt and Wellington may be easily confirmed by casual reference to the life of the duke. "At no period of the war," writes Maxwell, 'had Lord Wellington escaped annoyance from the press. Success or disaster brought no respite from its attacks. If a failure occurred at home it was represented by the opposition newspapers as a national calamity equally fatal and irremediably; and even victory was turned to fatal account, for by exciting expectations which no human means could realize the periodical writers of the day laid the sure foundation for popular disappointment.

Yet the Duke of Wellington, like Mr. Asquith today, remained calm, if sarcastic. "If I had been capable," he said, 'of doing what these gentlemen expected I should now, I believe, have been in the moon." They had long expected him at Bordeaux; nay, "I understand there are many of their wise readers (amateurs to the military art) who are waiting to join the army till headquarters shall arrive in that city; and when they shall hear of the late Spanish battle I conclude that they will defer their voyage till I shall arrive in Paris. But you may depend upon this—first, that I shall neither myself form nor encourage in others extravagant expectations." — London Chronicle.

POINCARE'S BATTLECRY.

If the various and diversified statements made of late by European statesmen concerning the war, that of President Poincare of France stands out as forceful as a battlecry. M. Poincare, speaking of peace, says Germany must come to the allies and ask for terms, not name them.

This announcement, coming from the head of the French nation, will be accepted as strikingly significant. France with the enemy already on her soil has more to lose than any other nation at war by an enemy onrush. She faces the peril of all the evils imaginable, should the horde of Huns sweep over her. If there was any doubt as to the coming decision at front, M. Poincare would not be talking like this. That he is confident, even defiant, bespeaks unlimited confidence in the progress of the war.

In the midst of many strange rumors, President Poincare's unequivocal and forward attitude brings cheering assurance. The allies have the situation well in hand and they are not forced by the situation at the front or by the exigencies of diplomacy to whimper about peace.—Montreal Mail.

KITCHENER'S SCHOOL

Mr. Kipling's tribute to the great soldier whose loss the whole British Empire mourns at this time, have been many and varied, but perhaps his "Kitchener's School," in "The Five Nations," written in 1898 to celebrate the founding of a college for the Sudanese, is the most characteristic.

The poem is accompanied by the following explanatory headnote:

A translation of the song that was made by a Mohammedan schoolmaster of Bengal infantry (sometime on service at Suakim) when he heard that Kitchener was taking money from the English to build a Madrissa for Hubshees—or a college for the Sudanese, 1898.

Oh Hubshee, carry your shoes in your hand and bow your head on your breast!
This is the message of Kitchener who did not break you in jest.
It was permitted to him to fulfill the long-appointed years;
Reaching the end ordained of old over your dead Emirs.

He stamped only before your walls, and the Tomb ye knew was dust;
He gathered up under his armpits all the swords of your trust;
He set a guard on your granaries, securing the weak from the strong;
He said: "Go work the waterwheels that were abolished so long."

He said: "Go safely, being abased. I have accomplished my vow."
That was the mercy of Kitchener.
Cometh his madness now!
He does not desire as ye desire, nor devise as ye devise;
He is preparing a second host, an army to make you wise.

No: at the mouth of his clean-lipped guns shall ye learn his name again,
But letter by letter, from Kaf to Kaf, at the mouth of his chosen men.
He has gone back to his own city, not seeking presents or bribes.
But openly asking the English for money to buy you Hakims and scribes.

Knowing that ye are forfeit by battle and have no right to live,
He begs for money to bring you learning—and all the English give.
It is their treasure—it is their pleasure—thus are their hearts inclined:
For Allah created the English mad—the maddest of all mankind.

They did not consider the Meaning of Things; they consult not creed nor clan.
Behold, they clap the slave on the back, and behold, he ariseth a man!
They terribly carpet the earth with dead, and before their cannon cool,
They walk unarmed by twos and three to call the living to school.

How is this reason (which is their reason) to judge a scholar's worth,
By casting a ball at three straight sticks and defending the same with a fourth?
But this they do (which is doubtless a spell) and other matters more strange,
Until by the operation of years, the hearts of the scholars change:

Till these make come and go great boats or engines upon the rail,
(But always the English watch near by to prop them when they fail);
Till these make laws of their own choice and judges of their own blood;
And all the mad English obey the judges and say that the law is good.

Certainly they were mad from of old; but I think one new thing,
That the magic whereby they work their magic—wherefrom their fortunes spring—
May be that they show all people their magic and ask no price in return,
Wherefore, since ye are bond to their magic, O Hubshee, make haste and learn.

Certainly also is Kitchener mad. But one sure thing I know—
If he who broke you be minded to teach you, to his Madrissa go!
Go, and carry your shoes in your hand and bow your head on your breast,
For he who did not slay you in sport, he will not teach you in jest.

WHY NOT JUST "BRITISH."

In a newspaper office everybody becomes painfully aware of the objection which Scotchmen have to the use of the word "English" as applied to inhabitants of Great Britain. Every slip of that kind is followed by indignant remonstrances. But we had scarcely realized that the same objection to the use of "English" is felt by the British from overseas. A letter which we publish in our columns today signed by a number of men serving with the army, conveys the information. Yet we are beaten when we try to think of the appropriate and comprehensive word which would cover the English-speaking race in all the lands over which King George exercises his sway. "Britisher" offends the ear. "Colonists," as applied to those in the outlying parts of the Empire, is bitterly resented by the people it is supposed to cover. "Dominionists" is worse still from every point of view. Who will give us the comprehending word which will embrace all and leave no branch of the British race feeling raw at neglect?—Westminster Gazette.

BOILING DOWN THE LAW

When fondness for poultry got a man of the South into trouble, and he heard in court, "The State of Louisiana against Samuel Washington," he threw up his hands in despair, saying: "That settles it, Judge. The whole state of Louisiana against dis poor nigger. I lays down and pleads guilty." This story of the power of legal verbiage has evidently not impressed the British legislators who revised the Indictment act and cleared away all the archaic, laborious and terrifying phrases that have been for years repeated to prisoners in the dock. The old voluminous formula has burdened British criminal proceedings since the early days of legal history. The unending document described the many forms of the crime of the terrified prisoner in terms of impressive mystery.

Everything now seems slipping from under the feet of the criminal law. It is provided that parchment is not necessary, and durable paper will suffice. This paper need not be united in one roll. Felonies and misdemeanors may be united in one indictment. The admonitions which brought to the mind of the indicted the origin of all sin and wickedness are cut out. He will no longer be accused of "not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being moved and seduced by the instigations of the devil." Under the old indictment there was great wealth of detail showing care lest any iota of crime escape. Thereby hangs a moral, for the clerks of assize were paid by fees, and every count that could be crowded in, under or in connection with the offense brought its price. When an ancient humbug survives the light of understanding it is generally discovered that somebody is finding it profitable.

When a prisoner was able to purchase much law under the earlier system he might escape while the court was tangled in the indictment. The nets spread for him were sometimes too elaborate. But, whatever the uses and abuses of the old phraseology, prisoners and courts will have to get along without them. Conservation, iconoclastic tendencies, humane consideration for the trembling prisoner, the nation that the law, like the Sabbath, was made for man, have combined successfully to indict the indictment.—Toronto Globe.

PLUGGING CONSIDERED AS A JOKE

"The people of Alberta are quite amused over the plugging investigation in this province," says Peter Lessard, M. L. A. of East Edmonton, who tells the Sun that it is quite preposterous to believe that plugging should have elected M. A. Macdonald. It is not known how much of an authority Mr. Lessard may be, but it has been stated that John T. Scott, alias Stewart, alias Wright, was highly recommended by members and supporters of the Alberta Liberal government for his late position in the Provincial Liberal association of British Columbia. Scott (alias Stewart, alias Wright) came here from Edmonton, where he seems to have been so successful in the kind of campaign work that his party required as to justify the leaders in recommending him to Mr. Macdonald. Possibly Mr. Lessard is one of Edmonton's sponsors for this entertaining campaign manager. The former associate of the Edmonton politician may also have caused his friends much amusement in Alberta. To add to the joy of the occasion here he had an associate also recommended and sent hither by Alberta friends. This is the gentleman whom Mr. Pearce, alias Thompson, late assistant plugger under Scott, alias Stewart, alias Wright, described on oath as having been charged with the duty of steering the pluggers from poll to poll on election day.

The valued Sun seems to reflect Mr. Lessard's amusement, as might be expected since Mr. Scott, alias Stewart, alias Wright, and Mr. Pearce, alias Thompson, were members of the Sun staff before they entered upon the more active duty of handling the pluggers. But it is surprising to find the Sun speaking of any plugger as a "Seattle thug." This is rank ingratitude and disloyalty to Mr. Macdonald. It should be remembered that each of these Seattle thugs is six or more of Mr. Macdonald's constituents. An alien plugger who offset ten votes for Tisdall should be mentioned with deep respect by the organ of the party for which he voted so often. There are many Liberals of high standing and ripe years who have not given so many votes for their party in their whole lifetime as one of these thugs cast in a few fleeting hours.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

FERNIE TIMBER FIRE IS NOW UNDER CONTROL

(Special to The Daily News.)

FERNIE, B.C., June 16.—The danger developed by the bush fire which started near here Thursday has considerably diminished. Both these are now considered to be under control unless very unfavorable conditions should arise.

The Fairy creek water supply dam and reservoir is still cut off, but apart from the disagreeable appearance of the water due to falling ashes no further inconvenience has been suffered. The officer commanding the 225th battalion has placed the men of A company at the disposal of the civic authorities should their assistance be required in coping with the situation.

AT THE THEATRES

At the Gem.

"The Crown Prince's Double," showing for the last time tonight at the Gem theatre, is the last of the V.L.S.E. series to be shown at the local photoplay house. The management feels that while the V.L.S.E. pictures are unusually good that the Triangle productions are far superior and on this account they are canceling the V.L.S.E. and in their place substituting a second Triangle program. This new arrangement will give the Gem Triangle programs four days a week, while the other two days will be ably handled by the Mutual Masterpieces De Luxe. This combination makes as nearly an ideal program for the week as it is possible to procure.

Starland.

Photoplay lovers are promised a rare treat today in "Pudd'nhead Wilson," a picturization of Mark Twain's famous novel. The eminent character actor, Theodore Roberts, handles the title role in a very effective manner, bringing out the subtle humor of "Pudd'nhead Wilson" in a way that will charm everyone.

The latest Paramount Travelogue and a Ham and Bud comedy entitled "Ham at the Beach" complete a very strong program.

Monday, June 19, John Barrymore, the celebrated comedian, who was seen here in "Are You a Mason?" will present one of his greatest successes, "An American Citizen." Tuesday Charlie Chaplin will be featured in "A Night at the Show," a picturization of the famous sketch, "A Night in an English Music Hall."

Pte. Ernest Kinahan has been wounded, according to word received yesterday by his mother, Mrs. Kinahan, of Nelson. He went to England with the 54th Kootenay battalion and appears on the nominal roll of that unit. It is believed, however, that he went to the trenches with a draft, as no intimation has been received that the Kootenay battalion has been sent across the channel.

Pte. Kinahan is a son of the late Thomas Kinahan, an Indian mutiny veteran, who was city weighmaster for some years. He was a fireman on the Canadian Pacific railway at the time of enlistment.

IMPERIAL ORDER MAKES GOOD REPORT

Will Send Tobacco and Cigarettes to Members of A Company, 54th—Other Work Planned.

The treasurer's report of the Nelson chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for May, as submitted at the meeting of the chapter Wednesday showed a cash balance on hand of $448.83 over and above all expenses.

Much work is being planned for the summer months by the members of the local chapter, which will include the sending overseas to each member of A company, 54th Kootenay battalion, parcels containing a generous supply of tobacco and cigarettes. Considerable work of this kind has been done in the past by the Nelson Chapter and it is planned to do everything possible to keep the boys from home well supplied with all the little luxuries and comforts that they long for and find difficult to get.

The Nelson Daughters are also arranging, in addition to Red Cross and other patriotic work they have on hand to take an active share in the "Giant Jam Gift" to the men in hospitals and trenches that is being undertaken by the united chapters within the province. This will be in the nature of a huge shipment of jam, jellies and preserves which will be sent as a provincial gift from the order as an addition to the supplies provided for in regimental orders and will have the additional attraction for the men of having come from home.

The treasurer's statement for May is as follows: Balance of cash on hand May 10, $110.69; fees, etc., $4.70; proceeds of raffles, $17.75; Red Cross subscriptions, $6.50; sale of lily of the valley, $100; flag day receipts, $268.10; meetings and concerts, $85.50; total, $593.24.

Disbursements were as follows: Expenses of concert, $8.10; paid out for Red Cross supplies, $98.05; contributed to patriotic fund, $25; taxes to head office, $7.25; flags, $3.20 and stamps, $2.80 Total, $144.41.

It was reported that 208 yards of flannel and 300 yards of gauze had been used in the manufacture of a variety of Red Cross supplies. The raffle for the cariboo head has been completed. Ticket No. 232, which was held by Mrs. W. N. Ward, won the prize.

"VIKING" OFFICER IN CITY LOOKING FOR RECRUITS

Scandinavians Being Asked to Join Countrymen in British Battalion for Overseas Service

Lieut. Leifur Oddson of the 197th battalion of Winnipeg arrived in the city last night in search of Scandinavian recruits to that overseas unit.

The 197th, which is known as the Viking battalion, is under the command of Lieut.-Col. A. G. Fonseca and has now 560 me nof Scandinavian origin in its ranks. Lieut. Oddson states that rapid progress is being made in recruiting, as practically all of the men enrolled are acting as recruiting agents and are writing to their friends to join, with the result that it is anticipated by the officers, that it will very soon be fully up to strength.

The battalion is now housed at the exhibition grounds, Winnipeg, and has what is regarded as one of the best parade grounds in that city. Particular attention has been given to the culinary department, and good food and plenty of it is served at every meal, while the motto "Cleanliness is next to godliness" is strictly observed. The sleeping quarters are comfortable and clean, and the sanitary conditions have been brought strictly up-to-date.

SPECIES OF FISH PUZZLES LOCAL ANGLERS

Some doubt exists in the minds of local fishermen regarding the species of a fish caught a week ago by Mrs. Lockwood of Willow Point, just below Ferndale Park. In a letter received from Thomas Lockwood re describes the fish as being 17 inches in length and 15 pounds in weight and as having broadred stripes extending for its full length on both sides. The flesh was salmon colored. Mr. Lockwood states that opinions are divided on the question of what kind of fish it was.

DOLLAR MEANS LIFE TO THE BELGIANS

Belgian Relief Committee Continues Its Appeal for Food for Destitute.

MONTREAL.—While England, the States and Canada have done much in the way of contributions to the relief work that is being conducted among the destitute people of Belgium a report from Herbert Hoover, the head of the commission in charge of the relief shows that approximately 50 per cent of the relief given has come from Belgians and Belgians institutions abroad. This is conclusive proof trat these Belgians who can are assuming their shares in the burden of caring for the needy in their devastated country.

With this in mind the Belgian relief committee of Montreal has assumed that Canadians are willing to bear with their allies a part of the care of the wives and children of those noble men who so heroically sacrificed all in the first days of August, 1914. From the committee rooms a new call has bone out Belgium is again on the verge of starvation. The committee asks Canadian men and women to do something—some little thing—that will mean so much to these people, whose comfortable homes are now but mere shelters and whose plentiful tables have become bare.

The daily sustenance of nearly 7,000,000 of these women and children is three slices of bread and a pint ou soup and now conditions threaten to even reduce that. Canada is asked to help. Asked to save the lives of these people, who will otherwise die of starvation.

A dollar sent to the Belgian relief committee, 59 St. Peter street, Montreal, goes a long way when spent by this organization in Belgium. A dollar may mean a life—the life of some little tot whose father is fighting our battles "Somewhere in France."

DO YOU SUFFER FROM Palpitation?

If there is no heart disease Dr. Cassell's Tablets will cure you.

Palpitation may be due either to weak disturbed nerves, and a debilitated system resulting from vital exhaustion, or to flatulence arising from dyspepsia.

In either case the only rational treatment is to nourish your nerves and to strengthen your digestive organs. That you can always do by taking Dr Cassell's Tablets.

The proper course is to take Dr Cassell's Tablets twice daily, and Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief at night. The first brings new strength and vitality, the second restores digestion and clears away the harmful matter from which flatulent gases arise. Follow this course and palpitation will soon cease to trouble you. We make only one reservation. If you have actual heart disease (which is rare), you should see a specialist, all other forms of palpitation these Tablets will certainly cure. Here is an extract from a letter written some time ago by the late

Major-General Sir John W. Campbell, Bart., C.B.:—I have pleasure in stating that I have derived great benefit from Dr. Cassell's Tablets, and have found them remarkably effective in restoring nerve energy and physical vigour. I have every confidence in recommending them."

TREND OF NEW YORK MARKET IS DOWNWARD

General Selling Movement Is Precipitated in Final Hour by Reports from Mexico.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, June 16.—For the first hours of today's session the market was left largely to its own devices, with few noteworthy changes, except for some irregularity in specialties. In the final hour reports of an alarming character regarding Mexican affairs precipitated a moderate but general selling movement, rails and other specialties yielding 1 to almost 2 points from their early best, with greater declines in various speculative issues.

The railroad group, aside from Reading and Norfolk & Western was unusually inactive, minor rails, chiefly Lake Erie & Western, Peoria & Western, Toledo, St. Louis & Western and Kansas & Texas were elevated 1 to 2 points on small transactions and Louisville & Nashville made further favorable response to the resumption of the regular 7 per cent rate of dividend.

American Beet Sugar was the leading specialty, scoring an early decline of more than 2 points, which it soon recovered, but lost later.

Copper and zinc shares, the latter selling exdividend, were subject to persistent pressure.

Crucible Steel featured the so-called war issues with a substantial gain, but fell back with the balance of the list.

United States Steel followed its course of the last week, manifesting early strength which was soon dissipated. Total sales of stocks amounted to 380,000 shares.

Foreign exchange was more active with concurrent advances in sterling and francs, while marks eased a small fraction.

Bonds were irregular, with a failing off of yesterday's heavy offerings of Anglo-French 5s, that issue, however, remaining heavy. Total sales, par value, $2,675,000.

Panama coupon 3s and registered 3s declined ½ to ¼ per cent, respectively on call.

WHEAT PRICES DROP TO NEW LOW LEVEL

Decline Caused by Bearish Sentiment Regarding Harvest Outlook and Export Situation.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

CHICAGO, Ill., June 16.—Bearish sentiment regarding the harvest outlook and the export situation forced wheat today down to new low prices for the 1916 crop. The market closed nervous, ¾ to 1⅛ off with July at $1.01⅝ and September $1.04.

Oats varied from ¾ decline to ¼ advance and provisions showed a rise of 5 to 22½. Minimum prices of the day were reported on wheat in the last half hour when the market was sensitive to the effect of a comprehensive report from a leading authority indicating that the weather had been favorable of lte. Sles of 1,000,000 bushels for export were made at Duluth as a result of the late break in prices, but the fact was not confirmed in time to have any influence on the market.

Discouragement over the apparent lack of export demand for wheat handicapped the bulls to a serious extent right from the start. Much stress was put on the fact that the decline in ocean freight rates had not seemed to cause any increase of shipments from the United States. In this connection talk was current that the outcome would be a revision of vessel tonnage to South America and Australia.

Oats were governed chiefly by the action of other grains.

Commission house buying said to be based on improved cash trade gave support to provisions.

TORONTO MARKET ACTIVE BUT IS FAIRLY STEADY

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

TORONTO, June 16.—There was but little improvement as far as activity on the stock exchange was concerned, Canada Cement and Canada Steamship being the only two issues to show anything like liveliness.

The market as a whole remains fairly steady, however, and brokers state that it is significant that stocks are in limited offerings. The demand for the Canadian war loan adds interest to the report that a further credit is shortly to be authorized by the Canadian banks for the imperial government.

Maple Leaf Milling holds steady around 94. Canada Cement was steady. The directors are expected to meet in the near future and act on dividend matters.

STERLING EXCHANGE 4.75,87.

NEW YORK, June 16.—Sterling exchange steady; 60-day bills, 4.72.62; demand, 4.75.87.

ADVOCATES HAND SORTING OF ORE

W. R. Ingalls Points to Its Advantages —Subject Will Be Discussed at Sandon Meeting.

One of the subjects upon which discussion will be invited at the meeting of the western branch of the Canadian Mining Institute, to be held at Sandon, on Tuesday, June 27, is that of ore sorting. The following is an excerpt from the report of the zinc commission, 1906, being observations made by W. R. Ingalls in his report on mining and milling conditions as found in Ainsworth and Slocan districts at that time:

"There are many mines which can neither afford a mill nor can economically deliver their ore to some other mill. For these the only resource is hand-sorting of blende in the same way that the galena now produced is hand-sorted. The method, however, can be generally much improved by the introduction of some mechanical devices to facilitate the work.

Has Many Advantages.

"Hand-sorting seldom receives the degree of attention which it deserves. It is one of the simple things that is disregarded in the desire to have a mill, to do evertyhing by machine, and to crowd the ore through. The advantages that may be derived from hand-sorting are coming more and more to be recognized and it is being introduced as an accessory process in some of the largest and most expensively equipped mills. A good deal of the zinc ore of Wisconsin, Leadville, Colo., and Park City, Utah, is prepared by hand-sorting. No one, therefore, need be ashamed to resort to this simple process or feel that in doing so he is not up to date and economical. There is, perhaps, no district in which hand-sorting can be applied with more advantage than in the Slocan, both in connection with the mines which have mills and those which have not, for two reasons, viz., the galena is very rich in silver, wherefore the more it can be separated coarse the higher will be the saving, and the blende is almost always associated with siderite, which cannot be separated by jigging and tabling with any considerable degree of cleanness.

Saves Clean Mineral.

"Hand-sorting has the advantage of saving clean mineral from unnecessary crushing, therefore avoiding loss in slime; of separating two minerals of equal, or nearly equal, specific gravities, like blende and siderite, or blende and pyrites, of saving in cost of plant. It is not likely to be any more expensive in direct cost than a cheap process of milling, like jigging; it is apt to be a good deal cheaper than some of the more expensive processes, like cyaniding. The cost of picking depends chiefly on the size of the pieces of ore and their specific gravity. It is obviously cheaper to pick out lumps of 2 inches in size than ¾-inch size, while lumps of a heavy mineral, like galena, weigh up faster for the same expenditure of labor than a light mineral, like quartz. It is apt to be uneconomical to pick ore smaller than ½-inch size. Ore of 1-inch size can generally be picked to advantage. With labor at 30 cents per hour the cost of picking galena ought not to exceed 60 cents per ton, or 90 cents per ton for blende, and it may be considerably less if the ore is favorable. Even these figures do not compare unfavorably, however with the cost of milling in the Slocan, which can scarcely be done for less than 60 cents per ton of crude ore if blende recovery be aimed at.

Must Be Systematic.

"In order to do hand-picking effectively there must be a systematic method. The pickers should not have to do any breaking of the ore, which should be done by a jaw-crusher, if the quantity be sufficient to warrant the installation, or otherwise by men sledging with long-handled hammers. The broken ore may be delivered to a stationery picking table, or to a movable one. The former is the cheaper to install. Among the movable tables the circular, revolving table is cheap and convenient. A traveling belt is also very convenient to pick from. These devices, together with methods and results of picking, are fully described in 'Richards' Ore Dressing' and in 'Ingalls' Production and Properties of Zinc.' It is unnecessary to enter into further discussion of the subject here, but attention may be called to certain important points, viz.:

"1. The ore should be rinsed with water, so as to make the minerals show distinctly.

"2. The picking room should be well lighted.

"3. The pickers should be able to throw the ore from them; not draw it toward them.

"The usefulness of systematic hand-picking in the preparation of the zinc ores of the Slocan can not be too strongly emphasized. The owners of small mines instead of waiting for some one to come forward to build a mill should get to work themselves, pick out for shipment what ore they can, save the cullings, and prosecute the development of the mine until the time comes when a mill is really justified.'

MINES PUT IN NEW PIPE LINES

Many Improvements Are Being Made to Water Equipment of Properties in the District.

Construction of new plant at the Florence mine near Ainsworth includes the installation of 2500 feet of wooden pipe line to carry water to the new mill upon which work begins next week.

Another property which intends to put in a long wooden pipeline is the Yankee Girl at Ymir. This line will be approximately two miles in length.

The Slocan Star at Sandon is proposing to install one and a half miles of wooden pipe line and the Krao at Ainsworth has plans completed for putting in 2500 feet.

The developments are all in connection with improvements to existing plants and construction of new plants at the various mines.

PRICE MOVEMENTS AT MONTREAL ARE IRREGULAR

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MONTREAL, June 16.—Canadian stocks were more active today for a time, the market displaying some strength. The later course of prices was irregular, however, chiefly under the influence of a reaction in the New York list and except for a few specialties final changes were unimportant.

Bonds continued strong, although the dealings were on a somewhat smaller scale than the days immediately preceding.

The action of the three most active stocks of the day, Steel of Canada, Cement and Iron showed no pronounced changes in market conditions. Steel of Canada rose ½ to 63¼; reacted to 62⅝ and finished unchanged at 62¾. Cement rose ¼ to 72½, but finished ¼ off for the day at 72. Iron improved ½ to 58, relapsing to 57⅛ and closing at 57½. Transactions in each of the three stocks comprised about 1000 shares.

Bridge opened at 223 or 2 off from last sale, rose to 226 and finished at 225¾ bid against 220 Thursday. Ogilvie rose 6¼ above last sale quotation to 135¼ and finished at that price bid.

Scarcity of stock was evident in both issues as transactions in Bridge were less than 350 shares and in Ogilvie only 225.

Canadian war loan bonds sold again at the high record quotation of 99⅝ and closed firm at 99½ bid. Montreal Power, 4⅛s improved ¼ to 92¼.

Total business 6112 shares, 366 rights, $18,300 bonds.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK REPORTED PROMISING

Despatches to Dun's Review Say Conditions in West and Northwest Continue to Improve.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

NEW YORK, June 16.—Despatches to Dun's Review from branches of R. G. Dun & Co., in leading cities in Canada indicate that the movement of seasonable merchandise in most lines is well maintained and prospects for the immediate future, at least, are decidedly favorable.

In the far west and northwest business continues in satisfactory volume and the tendency generally is to further improvement.

Gross earnings of all Canadian railroads reporting to date for the first week in June show an increase of 44.6 per cent as compared with the earnings of the same period a year ago.

Commercial failures in the Dominion last week numbered 21 as against 27 last week and 54 the same week last year.

GRANITE-POORMAN GOLD BRICK LARGE

Clean-up from 18-Day Run Is Made—Much Remains on Plates—Concentrates Run High.

One of the largest gold bricks to reach the city for some time was deposited in a local bank by Barney Crilley of the Granite-Poorman mine Thursday. It ran around $8000 and was the clean-up from 18 days' work at the mill.

In addition about $2000 worth of gold remained on the plates and elsewhere, as the mill was not stopped for a complete clean-up, and there was a large output of concentrates during the same period. The concentrates run about $2000 to the car.

ADD TO EFFICIENCY OF SLOCAN STAR MILL

New Tables and Vanners Are Being Installed—Oil Flotation Process To Be Put In

Improvements which are being made at the Slocan Star mine at Sandon include the installation of 10 or 12 new Wilfley tables and Frue vanners, a pebble mill and a new oil flotation system, together with a new power plant and air compressor plant and an aerial tramway to Sandon. These improvements will add greatly to the daily capacity and general efficiency of the mill.

It is reported that a new strike has recently been made on the No. 8 level. The showing has been struck in virgin ground and promises to develop into a big ore shoot.

At the present time the mill is turning out about 10 tons of silver-lead concentrates a day, which run about 90 ounces in silver and about 80 per cent lead and about 20 tons of 40 per cent zinc which carries good values in silver.

NEW LIGHT THROWN ON GREAT SEA BATTLE

Two Hours After Returning to Port and Recoaling British Fleet Was in Shape for Action.

LONDON.—As showing how little the British fleet was thrown out of gear, it is known now that a couple of hours after returning to port all British vessels were recoaled and ready again for action excepting the lost vessels and the Marlborough, the latter having been somewhat severely hit by a torpedo, though able to return to port. Moreover, the Warspite also was not sunk, as the Germans claimed, and though hit was perfectly able to return. The Marlborough avoided three torpedoes before being hit. The Queen Mary, Indefatigable and Invincible were blown up, the explosions most probably being caused by gun fire.

The fight began at 10,000 to 12,000 yards, about 3:15 p. m. and its main phases concluded toward 9:30 p. m., two destroyer actions occupying the night, during one of which the British destroyers sank a battleship. Balancing the losses, the British fleet lost no battleships while the Germans certainly lost one and probably two.

The British lost three battle cruisers, while the Germans lost one, and probably two. The British lost no light cruisers; the Germans lost three, possibly four. The British fleet lost eight destroyers, the Germans lost six. The British lost three armored cruisers and the Germans lost a submarine and have a number of battleships, battle cruisers and light cruisers at least damaged. It is believed only some 11 British battleships, besides cruisers, destroyers, etc., fired shots in the battle. All reports to the admiralty show that the spirit of the officers and men was splendid.

German Plan Frustrated.

Above all, while not in any way minimizing the losses of ships and of very gallant men, the admiralty consider the essential facts are that the German scheme which drew the fleet from port was frustrated, that the battle cruisers engaged the whole German fleet and suffered not unexpected losses, that on the approach of a portion of the main British fleet the whole German fleet took to its heels and that then so completely did the British demonstrate their command of the sea that they could search for their foes until morning in German water near the German base and then return at their own convenience over a long stretch of mine-infested waters to their ports.

An earlier cable dispatch says on Saturday afternoon the Christian Science Monitor representative secured a very different view of Wednesday's fleet action than that which prevailed on the issue of the first admiralty communique. That communique was the first information to hand and the admiralty gave the tale of British losses with a candor which commands respect. The admiralty would, however, have been justified in stating at that time that a portion of the British fleet had engaged the whole German fleet and driven it headlong to its ports. The important fact showing the real meaning of the action is that Sir John Jellicoe's fleet covered the whole field of battle throughout the night action, and the following morning, searching for something to shoot at and finding nothing returned the 400 or 500 miles to its base at its leisure during the following day. Moreover, the German enterprise to the north, whatever that was, had been foiled.

German Losses.

In achieving the latter point the British fleet suffered losses, but such it expects in driving the German fleet to its ports. The Germans are now beginning to admit their losses, it is pointed out. They now admit having lost the heavily armored dreadnought Westfalen, 18,600 tons, commissioned 1909, with 12 11-inch guns and a speed of 20 knots. On the other hand the British tale of losses in the first communique has to be modified. In any case, the process of attrition can be borne better by the British than by the German fleet.

The admiralty has but one regret, namely the loss of gallant and skilful officers, and men, notably of Admiral Hood, whose wife is an American; Capt. Sowerby of the indefatigable, formerly British naval attache at Washington, and of Captains Frowse and Cay of the Queen Mary and Invincible, respectively.

From start to finish the battle developed four phases, namely a battle cruiser action; fight between British battle cruisers and Germans supported by the whole main fleet; fight between the main German fleet and a portion of the main British fleet, and finally destroyer engagements throughout the night. At the beginning of the fight, when Admiral Beatty engaged the German battle cruisers there lay concealed in the mist the main German fleet, and in conclusion, this mist alone, saved the Germans from much heavier losess.

Fought in German Waters

The whole engagement, it is emphascized, took place in German waters near the German base, and had the position been reversed and the Germans had had to return 500 miles to port, not a single vessel, it is maintained, would have arrived there. Good fortune this time did not wait on Admiral Beatty's squadron, which after turning the German battle cruiser squadron's flank and getting between it and its base, found itself compelled to engage the whole of the German fleet hidden in the mist, being thus caught between two fires. When a portion of the British main fleet appeared on the scene the Germans immediately fled.

SKIN OF WHALES FOR WHITE SHOES

SEATTLE.—Ten tons of skins of the beluga, or white whale, received from Bering sea are being shipped from Seattle to eastern shoe factories to be made into white shoes, now so popular among young women. The Cook Inlet and the new fashion has stimulated the hunting of the animal. Only the inner skin is used, but it is so thick that four sheets of thin leather may be obtained by splitting. Glove factories also are seeking beluga skins.

400,000 COTTAGES MUST BE BUILT IN ENGLAND

LONDON.—There is at present a shortage of 400,000 cottages in England. Besides this shortage, there are old and unsanitary areas that ought to be cleared away. The building of these new cottages with a view to providing discharged soldiers with work after the war and removing a cause of emigration is the subject of a general scheme devised by the National Housing and Town Planning council. It also forms another instance of the way the war has dissipated England's indifference to her internal problems.

One of the main causes of complaint among leasehold farmers and farm hands is the poor housing. Ancient cottages with the lower floor flush with the groud and the roof thatched with straw may be picturesque, but they are damp and a main cause of the rheumatism from which the country people suffer so much. Of the 400,000 cottages, about 120,000 are needed in the rural districts. Families are now cramped into small quarters, living in old and mouldy homes or new and cheply built affairs that have no modern ideas or improvements.

The provision of homesteads with small holdings and the intensive cultivation of the soil, reforesting, the reclamation of wastes, the settlement of disabled soldiers and sailors on the soil and town planning schemes involving new main roads, playgrounds and open spaces, are a part of the program of the housing council.

Prof Hermann S. Hering, C.S.B., will lecture on Christian Science next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Christian Science church. (3313)

Do you really know how to shave?
Make this striking test and see.
SO many men do not know how, that this is not intended as a joke. Most men take twice the time necessary and undergo unnecessary torture. A simple test will show whether you are among them.
Shave one side of your face with the preparation you now use. Then shave the other side with Mennen's, following the directions contained with every tube. You will be astounded at the difference—not only in the way your razor acts and how the two sides of your face feel, but in the shorter time it takes you to shave with Mennen's.
The reason is that Mennen's is absolutely different in composition from every other preparation. It took three years' experimenting to perfect it. It requires no "rubbing in"—no relathering—no lotions.

TORRENS LAND TITLE SYSTEM BEING TRIED

System of Registration Found in Chicago to Give Greater Security and Economy

CHICAGO, Ill.—The Torrens system of registering land titles appears to be getting into full swing here. For some time more business has been done in Cook county, far and away, than anywhere else in the United States under the Torrens plan. Interest and information regarding the system are more general today than at any other time since the system finally went into operation, in 1897, by the first state law of the kind. The registrar of titles of Cook county, Joseph F. Connery, is now endeavoring to extend its use until it becomes all-inclusive.

Of the many definitions of the Torrens system, one of the most effective was given by William E. Russell in his inaugural message as governor of Massachusetts, in 1891, when he said: "Under the Torrens system an official examination of title is substituted for an unofficial one and the result when sufficiently ascertained is given conclusive effect in favor of the owner and his title made perfect against all the world. In effect, under the Torrens system the state provides a proper court in which anyone can have his rights in relation to a piece of land declared established, not only as against particular persons who may have an adverse interest, upon special notice to them, but also as against everybody."

The system works cheaply and expeditiously. As James S. Fardy, chief examiner of the local office puts it, the system amounts to opening a set of books with the county. When your title is proved and registered, you are on the books of the county as its creditor for so much property. Whatever obligations stand against the property are down against you on the debit side. Transfer of property is made as simple as transfer of stocks. Registered real estate can be transferred in the United States in 24 hours, at a fee of $3.

Support of the judges on the bench, of many members of the bar association, and of the Chicago and Cook county real estate boards, the out and out indorsement of the latter and its campaigning for the system, considerable recent newspaper publicity given the system in series of explanatory articles—these and possibly other factors, coupled with the fact of quick service at the Torrens office, have brought to the Torrens system here a popularity it has never before enjoyed.

The most important steps toward promulgating the system have come recently in the use of the plan by coordinate branches of the government. These are the decisions of the board of county commissioners to buy only under registered title, whenever possible, and the recommendation of the finance committee of the city council that, in future, all property purchased by the city be registered under the Torrens system. It has been estimated that this year's purchases by the city for schools, parks, playgrounds, etc., will total $2,400,000. Some of this will be lost to the Torrens in condemnation proceedings, it seems probable, but the bulk will make a neat addition, if the council passes the recommendation as expected. A fair share of the county board's purchases of lands for forest preserve, if the courts do not cancel the $1,000,000 expenditures proposed, may also go under the plan. County and city authorities are awakening to the advantages of using their own facilities. What revenue there is in this phase of the transactions will go to the benefit of the county, not, as heretofore, to private interests.

One other step is now in preparation by the registrar which, if taken successfully, will bring all Cook county under the Torrens law with a rush. The Illinois land registration act provides that the title to every piece of property that is filed in probate court or any other court for administering the estates of deceased persons must be registered under the Torrens system. As yet this compulsory feature has not come up for constitutional decision, and the judges, dealing leniently, have allowed those who did not wish to register to let it pass. The majority have taken advantage of the permission. Registrar Connery is now preparing to get a decision on the constitutionality of the compulsory provision. If this feature of the law is held unconstitutional a supplemental compulsory feature will be asked from the next legislature.

The annual report of the registrar, covering a number of years, shows 1913 to have passed the last two years, but registration has gone forward at such a rate this season as to promise a new high record for 1916.

Cook county property now under the Torrens registration is estimated by Registrar Connery as totaling $100,000,000. This figure is so much higher than the scheduled value of property chiefly because of improvement made after registration. The registrations include a little over 100,000 single lots, about 1500 blocks not subdivided into lots, and about 5000 acres not subdivided into blocks. In all of the Torrens registrations, the officials report, there has been but one claim brought against the county. That was for $300, due to a judgment being left off. The claim was promptly paid in full.

If the compulsory feature in reference to estates be enforced, al lof Cook county will be under the Torrens plan within about 25 years, Registrar Connery figures.

As to what Torrens registration costs in Cook county, the charge is $25, plus $1 a thousand dollars on the valuation. Thus, if a house worth $5000 is to be registered, it will cost $30. If 500 lots are to be registered, they go through for $25 plus $1 a thousand. Whole subdivisions are being registered. Recently a big realty dealer registered 277 lots of a value of $1000 each. The charge was $280 and $25 for the application, so it cost him a little over $1 a lot to register. The purchaser of one of these lots is given a warranty deed to his lot, and he pays $3 to file the deed, and that is all. After the title is once registered, as has been stated, it never costs more than $3 to make a transfer, provided there are no other memorials against the property.

Objections to the system as in vogue here seem to be pretty well met. As against the charge that it is difficult to borrow money on registered property, Recorder Connery points to mortgages made in March, under the system, totaling $1,074,993. Only once before, in last December, did the mortgages on Torrens property run higher, then reaching $1,263,660.

Now it is possible that through an oversight, error or ignorance of some factor, a clear title may be given under the Torrens plan, when in fact it is not clear, and subsequently so develops. This is a possibility in any guaranteed title system, public or private. The company or the state or the county then has to make good whatever loss has befallen through its misplaced guarantee. There is a fund for this purpose in Cook county, raised by a charge per thousand of valuation, and now totaling $45,000. It has been said that this fund is too small to stand any serious losses, and also that it would take a long delay to collect from the public treasury, whereas a private concern, in behalf of its good name, would settle its losses quickly.

To eliminate these objections the county recorder has obtained an opinion from the state's attorney's office that Cook county is liable for losses in excess of the fund, though no appropriation be made for the purpose, thus putting the entire county behind the system. Also a further opinion that the board of commissioners of Cook county have the power to adjust and allow claims upon recommendation of the registrar, and that such claims can be settled without a law suit. In short, if a loss is established, it can be settled by the county board immediately on recommendation from the official head of the Torrens system.

A feature of the local system which has proved of great importance is the maintenance of its own abstract plant. Because of this it is not necessary to go to an abstract company in the course of registering a title. The advantage lies in the saving. The county's charge for abstracting, report the officials, is about half that asked privately.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS HOLD FINAL SESSION

HAMILTON, Ont., June 16—The closing business sessions of the Canadian Manufacturers' association were held Thursday on board the steamer Corona, on the trips to and fro from Niagara Falls, where the military camp was inspected.

Among the resolutions passed were: That the association would approve any scheme for complete and effectual mobilization of the entire resources of Canada in men and materials, which should be placed unreservedly at the disposal of the country; that the gov*ernment be memorialized to bring* in legislation providing for daylight saving.

It was also advocated that the government liberally encourage the establishment of a shipbuilding industry in Canada on a permanent and profitable basis and that a special committee be appointed to press for action and work out details.

PROVIDING WATER AT FRONT IS PROBLEM

Hundreds of Wells Bored to Supply Troops—Forests Cut Down—Butchers Provide Delicacies

Railways are capable of rendering invaluable services, and military experts consider that it is impossible to lay too much emphasis on the importance of laying down behind the trenches an absolutely complete system of railways. However, railways are not by any means the only problem which has to be solved by the first bureau of the General staff. After building fresh lines of normal gauge and constructing hundreds of miles of narrow gauge lines, this bureau has to face the question of roads.

In the Champagne Pouilleuse the question or roads is particularly difficult. Such roads as there were were bad owing to the nature of the soil, and they were necessarily few and far between in so impoverished and so sparsely populated a district. Here again the military engineers went to work on a rational plan.

A general scheme was drawn up to provide the army with all the highways necessary for its communications. Since the Champagne was capable of swallowing up tons of stones without any apparent effect, the new roads were laid on logs wherever the foundations was bad. These corduroy roads, as they are called, since the logs are laid side by side, like the ribs in corduroy, have performed inestim*able services, it has been possible to* bring up heavy artillery across a perfect sea of mud.

They are kept as well as is possible in the circumstances. The tremendous strain upon them inevitably makes them far from ideal from the point of view of the motor car, but they are perfectly passable, both for automobile and horse-drawn vehicles. Mud is really a minor matter so long as the convoys can pass.

The Water Supply

Before the war drinking water was almost as scarce in the Champagne Pouilleuse as in the desert, and the military engineers have had to bore hundreds of wells to supply the troops. Unfortunately water is only struck at a great depth. The matter, however, was taken seriously in hand by the high command, and gangs of professional well-sinkers, drawn from the soldiers mobilized, were formed. The result is that the country is now covered with points d'eau (water provision stations), which, though less romantic, are quite as precious as the oasis of the desert. Endless difficulties had to be faced in the boring of the wells. At certain seasons those that had not been sunk deep enough ran dry, and all that could be drawn from them was a curiously obnoxious species of mud. These wells were at once doubled, one shaft being used as far as possible, while the second shaft was driven down to a point at which fresh water would certainly be foud.

Now the organization is complete. At fixed points along the Decauville railways cisterns have been erected, and into them water is pumped by machine power. Pipes are run on wooden supports in such a way that the tanks can be filled with the least expense of time and labor. Drinking troughs have been provided for the horses, which in the past had been watered with the greatest difficulty.

In some cases, where there is reason to suspect the purity of the water—particularly in places where there has been very heavy fighting—a general system of water distribution has been arranged. Pipes have been laid down from springs at a considerable distance and a whole tract of desert country, inhabited for the moment by large bodies of troops, has been provided with a permanent water supply such as many towns would be glad to boast.

Wood Scarce

In the Champagne Pouilleuse there is a scarcity of wood, as of everything else except mud. Before the war there were a certain number of small pine woods, but the pine trees never grew big and did little more than exist in its inhospitable soil. Since the war these woods have been cut to pieces in the front line by French and German shells, and in the rear by the axe of the engineers. Now such woods as are left are urgently needed for cover, since experience has shown that in modern warfare woods possess a far greater military value than was ever supposed.

For the organization behind the lines endless supplies of wood are needed. All the water installations, for instance, are built of wood The soldiers' cantonments and the ambulances require thousands of square feet of planks and tons of hewn logs are needed for the corduroy roads. This wood has to be brought up from the rear. A good deal is provided by the forest of the Mountain of Rheims, and, as a general rule, it is sawn up into the planks required by the temporary sawmills established just in the rear of the fighting zone. No little time and thought have been given by the First Bureau of the establishment of these sawmills at points where they will be most useful and best provided with means of communication.

The principle on which the entire French organization is based is that of assuring a minimum of waste. This principle is particularly well illustrated by the system of meat supply. As a general rule it may be said that the army is provided with fresh meat, and frozen meat is only used to make up for a shortage, which in the circumstances is inevitable.

On the day when I visited one of the most important meat depots behind the Champagne line 30,000 fresh meat rations had just been served out, and a deficit of 10,000 rations had been made up by the frozen meat brought from abroad. The system is as elastic as possible, thanks to the Paris motor omnibuses, which are used to convey to each depot just that amount of frozen meat that will make up the deficit of fresh meat. Everything is done to prevent unnecessary carrying to and fro, as motor buses are a severe strain on the roads.

The military slaugter-houses, to which the cattle are driven, are extremely clean and well equipped, and the commissariat officers take the greatest pride in the fact that no part of the beasts killed is wasted. One of them remarked rather sadly that this statement was not absolutely correct, although they hoped it would soon be so. They possessed an apparatus for heating the blood and converting it into manure but unhappily so far they had not been able to find a buyer. However, they hoped that the farmers of the interior would soon take off their hands the only by-product of which they had been unable to dispose.

The Succulent Delicacy

The French soldier is particularly fond of tripe, which makes a welcome change in his rations, and the army butchers now provide him with appetizing dishes of that succulent delicacy. The troops are also supplied with home made sausages, which were being "smoked" in savory fashion over a fire of wood shavings and onion peel, the latter intended to give a special flavor.

The hides of the slaughtered beasts are salted and dispatched, according to their size, to various tanneries in the interior. The horns are also sold and represent a considerable economy to the state.

The poilus are all agreed that their food is both varied and excellent, and that its system of distribution is as perfect as possible. Not the least of its advantages are the care and skill with which every description of waste is obviated. No pains are spared to ensure the state getting the fullest value for its money, and continually ever since the beginning of trench warfare the general organization has been imporved and developed until it has reached a pitch of perfection hitherto unknown.

Prof Hermann S. Hering, C.S.B., will lecture on Christian Science next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Christian Science church. (3313)

MANUFACTURER PAYS TRIBUTE TO SIR SAM

Head of Great Canadian Commercial Body in Session at Hamilton Talks on War

"Canada's debt to Sir Sam will only be known when Canada's part in the war is written."

—J. H. SHERRARD, Pres. C.M.A.

HAMILTON, Ont. June 15—Over five hundred delegates are in attendance at the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' association which opened today at the Royal Connaught hotel. The fact that morning session began on city time caused some confusion and considerable delay.

J. H. Sherrard, of Montreal, president of the organization, in his annual address, after touching on Canada's part in the war and the prosperity that the making of war munitions had brought to the country, paid tribute to the minister of militia.

"Canada's debt to Sir Sam Hughes will only be known when Canada's part in the war is written," he said.

"But it is a great satisfaction and relief to Canada generally that the unfortunate investigation which has interrupted his very urgent duties has cast no shadow upon his integrity."

WORLD CONSUMPTION OF EGGS INCREASING

Demand Abroad and at Home Insures Continuous Return for Judicious Investors.

As an edible the egg is unsurpassed, says an agricultural department bulletin, issued at Ottawa. Its nutritive properties in several respects are unequalled while the uses to which it can be put in the preparation of food are innumerable and variable. Its instrument of being possesses the advantage of cleanliness and cheapness in keeping. Every family with a back yard and outhouse, if the municipal regulations do not isterfere, can maintain a hennery and every family can thus have that always desirable modicum—a fresh egg. In addition it is questionable if any better way can be found of practising the call of the day for production and thrift.

The consumption of eggs is increasing in every part of the world and increasing too at a rate that guarantees a fair and continuous return for any judicious investment. Abroad the demand is incessant, while at home the increase is well indicated by the fact that whereas in 1891 the consumption in Canada per capita was only 11.8 doen, in 1911, according to the census returns, it was 17.39. That the consumption has continued to develop in this country, has gone far ahead of the domestic supply, is proven by the statement made on the warranty of official figures that in 1914 we exported only 124,002 doen eggs and imported the significant total of 11,274,108 dozen. Last year there was some improvement but a vast deal remains to be done if satisfactory use is to be made of the opportunity that is offering.

Great Britain formerly imported immense quantities of eggs from Russia and from the Scandinavian countries. These sources of supply, if not entirely cut off, are seriously diminished in ability. With facilities for shipping in a fresh condition Canada has an opportunity of meeting the deficiency. To accomplish this not only must the number of poultry breeders be multiplied, but increased watchfulness be manifested in, tending the flocks and in the selection of stock. The average Canadian flock produces 5 eggs per hen. The world's record is 314 eggs laid in one year by one hen, Lady Eglantine of Delaware. Just as there are pedigree milking cows, so there are bred-to-lay fowl. It will pay you to find out about them. A good breed of poultry is no more costly to keep than a poor breed, and is infinitely more profitable. Having the fowl, the next thing is to see that the eggs are kept fresh. Candling is a simple method of testing eggs. A candling apparatus and instructions for handling may be secured free from the federal department of agriculture.

In these times when there is a marked scarcity of male labor and production of foodstuffs is so much called for, there is no more advantageous and healthful manner in which women and children can be employed than in the care of poultry A light and pleasant occupation asking only the application of intelligence and attentiveness, with sympathy, it is in reality a pastime. If instruction is required, or information needed either or both can be had on application to the provincial department of agriculture or to the federal department for pamphlets and bulletins on poultry and eggs and the candling of eggs. Private culture could increase supplies thousands and thousands of dozens, thus releasing quantities for the export trade and farmers and their families could in many instances duplicate their output several times withcomparatively little additional outlay and no great amount of extra exertion.

"On the one hand it is doubtful if there is any more nutritive and wholesome food to be had for the household than eggs, while on the other it is certain that a large increase of production will benefit and enrich the country. In the hospital the use of eggs is ever on the increase and in the camp they are ever welcome guests. They can be made component parts of numerous articles of food that can be sent and supplied to the men in the trenches and if gathered quickly they can be placed in cold storage and shipped fresh in quantities across the ocean.

ATTU ISLAND, Alaska, is farther west of San Francisco than that city is west of Eastport, Maine. To the average American or Canadian the very name is synonymous with gold and glaciers, but of the country itself he knows less than of any other spot on the continent. He doesn't realize that Alaska contains fiords equal to those of Norway, that Alaska contains more than two hundred immense and unmatched glaciers, some of them near neighbors to active volcanoes, such as Wrangell, whose smoking summit forms the eastern end of a chain of living and dead lava peaks a thousand miles long. Nor does he realize the climatic variations that are to be found in Alaska, where the coldest month of Sitka is no colder than that of St. Louis, the warmest months of San Francisco and Juneau are of identical record; and yet Point Barrow, on its northern fringe, is 300 miles within the Arctic Circle and has no sun for forty days out of every year.

Leaving Vancouver in a comfortable Canadian Pacific "Princess" steamer, the traveller wakes next morning to his first view of the typical and wonderfully beautiful scenery of the solemn fiord country. Seymour Narrows ushers him into smooth, island-dotted waters that lead to Alert Bay, where he may see fifty-foot totem poles and a modern hospital by the cedar lodges of the Kwatiutis.

At evening time Queen Charlotte Sound is reached and for the first and only occasion during the trip the vessel rides open water while the whale spouts in the offing and the basking shark lies in the last sunshine.

River Inlet, Namu, Bella Bella, Millbank Sound, Finlayson Channel, they all slip by in the night as the ship steams northward. Morning brings Swanson Bay, where there is an immense mill turning Douglas firs into paper pulp.

At the mouth of the Skeena a fleet of salmon boats is encountered and passengers leave for many points on the river, which is navigable for 180 miles.

Cape Fox marks the southern point of Alaska and soon Ketchikan is reached, a modern town solidly planted on the most difficult of hilly ground. Copper has made Ketchikan, but the tourist will perhaps be more interested in the vanishing Indian with his woven baskets than in the advancing miner.

Wrangell Narrows is a fascinating and pulseless shadowland, where the vessel goes too slowly through the widening channel to break the reflection of the midnight sun in the solemn northern waters. At the end of the passage glaciers are sighted for the first time. These huge and awe-inspiring ice are characteristic of Alaska. In Sumdum Bay a hundred or more may be seen along the walls. The scenery is of the wildest description and the plunging bergs keep the fiord roaring like some vast foundry of the gods. Farther north, the Taku Glacier stretches a mile wide along Taku Bay, the largest of forty-five ice streams emptying their gorgeous colored bergs in the path of the steamer.

At the bottom of a sheer 3,000 foot mountain, Juneau has ensconsed itself as the capital of Alaska, and is a well-built city, although there couldn't be found a naturally level spot on which to place a single large building. The townspeople are up-to-date, phenomenally healthy and entirely sane despite the rush created past of the district and its present dependence on gold mining.

After leaving Juneau there is an all-day trip up Lynn Canal to Skagway, the end of the journey and the best-known town in Alaska. In the wild days of '98, Skagway was the door through which all trail-hitters struck for the gold fields, taking the line of the present White Pass & Yukon Railway. The Canadian Pacific steamers remain long enough for the passengers to take the road as far as White Pass, or up to White Horse, if a sufficient number wish to explore the dizzy peaks, the terrific gorges and sounding glaciers of the north country. The round trip from Vancouver lasts nine days.

DOUKHOBORS MAKE THEIR OWN CANS

Operate New Factory at Brilliant—Establish Another Brickyard—Look for Big Berry Crop.

Construction has been completed by the Doukhobor community at Brilliant of a plant for the manufacture of tin cans for use in the society's jam factory at that point. It is proposed to turn out about 150,000 cans this year. Can-making operations have already commenced.

John Sherbinin, business agent for the community, also announces that the society has established a new brickyard. It has one at Grand Forks and has now commenced operations near Winlaw where brick is being made from blue clay.

Another enterprise of the Doukobors which is being operated at Brilliant is a wood-pipe factory. This is run whenever the community needs pipe for irrigation works or other purposes.

Mr. Sherbinin anticipates that the strawberry crop this year will be exceptionally heavy. It is late, but the crop gives evidence of being very large. Mr. Sherbinin was not prepared to say whether the Doukhobors would be in the market this season for berries from ranchers. The high price of sugar, he said, made it problematical as to whether the community would jam or can any except its own produce. The community is buying its sugar from Vancouver this year.

COLLIE DOGS USED TO HERD REINDEER

OSHKOSH, Wis.—Two pure white Scotch collie pups, a pair of thoroughbred dogs specially selected for their herding instinct, have left Oshkosh for what is said to be the northernmost white man's habitation in America. The dogs are bound for Point Barrow, Alaska, where they will be used to herd reindeer belonging to the United States. Thomas Gordon, a Scotchman, who went to the Arctic when a boy of fifteen, working on a whaling ship, is the man to whom the dogs are consigned.

"See that man over there? He is a bombastic mutt, a windjammer nonentity, a false alarm and an encumbrance of the earth."

KEEP OUT GERMAN GOODS AFTER WAR

Parliamentary Conference Considers Measures to Avoid Dumping Process When Hostilities Cease

PARIS, June 10.—The international parliamentary conference, which has just been held with so much success *here, discussed, among other mat*ters, the question of precautionary measures to be taken against the influx of German goods after the war. Exportation from Germany, if not completely stopped, has been seriously fettered. consequently, huge stocks of merchandise have accumulated. According to reliable information, this accumulation of stock is the result of a definite scheme planned long ago by those who direct the affairs of the Empire, the merchants interested having been aided financially by the state. People have even gone so far as to place a valuation on this accumulated stock, and it is rumored that the figure, exclusive of the value of the goods which would be found in normal times in warehouses concerned principally with export, had on January 1 reached $1,800,000,000.

It is, of course, difficult to verify this information. We know that certain German industries—for instance, cotton, wool, leather, india-rubber, etc.—are suffering from the shortage of raw material brought about by the blockade, and that great difficulty has been experienced in supplying the needs of the army and civil population of Germany. The in*creasing difficulty in obtaining labor,* owing to the urgent necessity of filling up the ceaseless gaps made in the ranks of the army, must also be taken into consideration. But, in spite of this, the moment Germany is again able to export her goods without hindrance, she will have great quantities of certain merchandise ready, especially metal articles, certain chemical products, toys, electrical apparatus, optical and scientific instruments and fancy goods.

Must Sell Quickly

These stocks the Germans will endeavor to sell as promptly as possible. They will do this because their country will have to pay for the enormous purchases of raw material which will have to be effected; they will also do it in order to recapture immediately their place in the markets of the world *and to establish commercial connec*tions which, once created, will be continued to their profit.

The result will be analogous to the "dumping" systematically carried out by the Germans before the war. There will be seen markets crowded with articles selling at absurdly cheap prices. There are people who consider that dumping, when it is practised on the individual markets, is all to the advantage. They reason that if people from abroad come to us with cheap goods, we should unhesitatingly take advantage of the fact.

But this view—although the notion emanates from a simple doctrine and corresponds with good commercialism —is inexact. The economy which is practised by purchasers of a certain category, thanks to the dumping of foreign-made goods, is dearly paid for by the lasting damage done to the competing home industries. It would be difficult to exaggerate the harm which would be done by the enormous dumping of goods which our enemies are apparently preparing for.

Will Arrange Protection

The international economic conference unanimously agreed that it was necessary to take steps against the danger that is threatening. It drew the attention of the allied governments to the matter, and invited them to consider steps—such as special temporary protection, and even the requisition of German stocks—that could be taken to ward against it. The requisition of the German stocks, it may be pointed out, would be more than sufficiently legalized by the requisitions that our enemies have themselves carried out in the allied countries which they have been able to occupy.

Tremendous Competition Feared

But this is not the only matter in which the allied governments will have to exercise great vigilance after the war. Other questions will demand their attention. There will be, for instance, tremendous competition among the nations for raw materials and for freights. Industries, which have adapted themselves to the special needs of the war will have to return as far as possible to their original state, but they will not be able to return exactly to what they were, for conditions will no longer be the same. New adaptations will therefore be necessary. After the enormous up*heaval caused by the war, an exceed*ingly difficult period of transition will set in, and if our nations are to traverse this period of transition in the best way, it will be necessary to attack the new problems of a tack the new problems in a practical manner, placing aside all preconceived doctrines. Whatever leanings they may have towards the solution of economic state problems, whether they pin their faith on the efficacy of free trade or protection, it will be the imperative duty of the allied powers to exercise for a certain length of time after the termination of the war a strict policy of defense against the enemy countries, and to maintain among themselves, from an economic point of view as strict a solidarity as during the war itself.

POODLE IN SUIT, AND BIG LAWYERS BATTLE

AKRON, O.—A little French poodle that slipped his collar and got away in transit from McConnelsville, Pa., to Barberton, O., will be the subject of a litigation that will employ some of the highest priced attorneys.

Ervin Echard of Barberton is suing the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the recovery of the dog. Since the poodle escaped the company has sent two dogs to Echard, but he says that neither of them was his, therefore the suit.

The railroad attorneys will attempt to prove that one of the animals submitted was the missing poodle.

"How did Smith make his money?"

"By judicious speculation."

"And how did Jones lose his fortune?"

"Dabbling in stocks."

MUDDY, PIMPLY SKIN?

Many people with disfigured complexions never seem to think that they need an occasional cleansing inside as well as outside. Yet neglect of this internal cleanliness shows itself in spotty and sallow complexions, as well as in dreadful headaches and biliousness. It's because the liver becomes sluggish, and waste matter accumulates which Nature cannot remove without assistance. The best

Nelson News of the Day

PIONEER MINER JOINS C COMPANY

Pte. A. D. Wooler, Original of Salvation Jim Hubbard of "The Trail of '98."

Like a romance from the combined pens of Jack tLondon, Robert W. Service and Rex Beach, is the story of Andrew Donald Wooler, known in a hundred mining camps and cities from Dawson to New Mexico as "Dad" Wooler, for 33 years prospector and frontiersman and now a private in the ranks of C company, 225th Kootenay battalion, C. E. F., at Nelson.

Born in Quebec, orphaned before he even knew his parents, a street gamin, selling papers and living off his wits on the streets of Montreal, lumberman, gambler, gunman in the gold camps of the Klondike, California and New Mexico, Wooler has now for the first time in his life turned his attention to soldiering.

Blue-eyed, ruddy-cheeked, and wind and weather tanned, he carries with him the philosophy of "something about to happen just around the corner" and "fresh adventure for each fresh day." Wooler, who spent 10 summer and seven winters prospecting in the Klondike, was a close friend of Robert W. Service, the Canadian poet and novelist, and the original of the character of Salvation Jim Hubbard in "The Trail of '98." While he declares that in several points the author has drawn upon his imagination, still he says the history of Salvation Jim is also his. One of his most cherished treasures is a little volume of "The Songs of a Sourdough," which Robert W. Service presented to him in Dawson City in October, 1910, and which carries the author's autograph.

In the early days in the mining camps when the currency was "dust," the prospector admits to having lived the life of the time. He never could stack cards, he says, owing to an injury to his left hand which he received in a Quebec lumber mill at the age of 13, but the other tricks of the card table were not beyond his knowledge and practice and it was easy money in those days when every man was a law unto himself and the devil take the scrupulous. Breaking away from the Yukon with a .44 in a shoulder holster under his left arm, he followed a man who had done him an unforgivable injury for the length of a continent and spent three years of fruitless waiting and watching in New Mexico for a chance to settle accounts on the basis of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."

In those years of drifing with pack and prospecting tools, many small fortunes passed through his hands. In the early days the placers were rich with nuggets, and money came easily and went with prodigious speed in wild speculation and to friends who were looking to be staked. Life was hard and easy by turns, but withall irresistibly fascinating.

It was a period of "long chances" and Wooler took them, took them alone and without a partner, but in the words of Francois Villon, the greatest of all vagabonds "Booze and the blowin's copped the lot." So with a different philosophy and a less riotous outlook on life, this man of many adventures has for the past few years lived the life of the prospector, and has won a reputation in the mineral camps of the coast as a thorough, reliable prospector who knows all that a man may know of minerals.

During October, 1911, he prospected on Vancouver island and later drifted down into Nevada and was on his way to Phoenix when he met Lieut. B. G. Rennie and decided to throw in his lot, as a native born Canadian, with the Kootenay boys of the 225th battalion.

FOUR MORE BOYS TO JOIN THE 196TH

McVicar, Borland, Johnson and Robinson Will Leave Tonight by Coast Train for Vancouver

Four more Nelson boys will leave tonight to join the 196th university battalion at Vancouver. They are William J. McVicar, J. H. Johnson, Harry Robinson and David G. Borland.

All four are well known in Nelson. McVicar has spent almost all his life in the city and has for the past five months been a member of The Daily News editorial staff. He will be the eleventh to go from The Daily News office. J. H. Johnson was born in Ashland, Wis., and is a son of O. J. Johnson, 220 Silica street. He has spent nine years in the city, attending both the Central and high schools and has been employed as a clerk in the Canadian Pacific railway district freight office.

David G. Borland has been a resident of the city for the past year, coming here from Grand Forks to assume the duties of teller in the Royal Bank of Canada, which position he held at the time of his acceptance for overseas service. Borland is the son of the late D. G. Borland of Vancouver, his mother and three sisters having their home in that city at the present time. He has one brother in the service of the Bank of Montreal at Trail. During his stay in the city he has won a name for himself in athletic circles as a lacrosse player.

Harry Robinson, who is the youngest son of Fred Robinson, 313 Hall Mines road, and manager of the Western Canada Lumber company at Gerrard, is another member of the Royal bank staff, having been in the employ of that institution for nearly a year. He received his education in Nelson, having attended both the city schools.

Social and Personal

Capt. D. C. McMorris is on a trip to the coast.

C. M. Kingston of Grand Forks is a visitor to the city and is a guest at the Hume.

Miss Lane of Calgary is visiting the city and is registered at the Strathcona.

Miss Olga Freeman arrived in the city on a visit yesterday and is a guest at the Hume.

G. A. Emes of Vancouver has arrived in Nelson to take up his residence at his summer home and ranch at Nine-Mile. He is a guest at the Hume.

F. W. Durham of Nelson, who has enlisted here with the 211st American battalion, is expected here this week to report for duty. Mrs. Durham will remain in Nelson during her husband's absence.—Vancouver World.

S. N. Ross of Salmo has returned from three months spent in Minnesota and eastern Canada and will leave for his home this morning. He was for two months at Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Ross has been undergoing an operation.

J. A. M. Patrick of Yorkton, Sask., one of the counsel for the Doukhobor society, is in Nelson in connection with the suit of Harris vs. Verigin, which is down for hearing at the supreme court sittings which continue next week.

O. H. Wall of the Robson street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, Vancouver, has arrived in the city and assumed the duties of teller in the local branch in place of David G. Borland, who leaves tonight for the coast to join the 196th university battalion.

The wedding of H. B. Bellis and Miss Katherine Lenzmann took place Thursday at 316 Richards street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. M. Wright of St. Paul's Presbyterian church. J. Savage acted as groomsman while the sister of the bride was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Bellis will make their home at 808 Mill street.

P. T. Legg of Crawford Bay, a seaman on H.M.S. Rainbow, stationed at Esquimalt, arrived in the city last night with Mrs. Legg and two children after spending his leave of absence at his ranch. He will leave for the coast today to rejoin his ship. Mrs. Legg and children will return to Crawford Bay. They are guests at the Hume.

ROLAND ELLIS HAS ARM SHATTERED BY BOMB

Roland Ellis of Boswell, who went to England during the early days of the war and obtained a commission in the imperial forces, was hit by a trench mortar bomb last January and had his right arm shattered, according to news which has just reached E. Crease of Nelson. The injury involves the permanent loss of the elbow joint. He will probably be in the doctor's hands all this year, but hopes, with the aid of an artificial joint, to regain at least partially the use of the arm.

The regular weekly public market will be held this morning in the market building on Vernon street.

Proper Treatment for Liquor Drinkers
LIKE EVERY OTHER AILMENT, IT REQUIRES THE RIGHT KIND OF REMEDIES

Drunkenness is a poisoning and like all other conditions due to poisoning is curable if the proper means, methods and medicines are employed. The origin of alcoholism has been positively defined. The end is ever and always the same to the slave of drink. Physicians, as a rule, do not make a specialty of treating alcoholism, which the Neal Institute in Cranbrook, B. C., emphatically does.

The Neal Three-Day Liquor Cure is the only safe treatment for drunkenness.

The patient from almost the very first dose has lost all desire for drink and when he finishes the treatment on the third day is thoroughly himself again.

There are no dangerous hypodermic injections used in the Neal treatment. Twenty-four doses of internal treatment are all that is required to cure any case of alcoholism. The medicine is purely vegetable and harmless as spring water.
