FRENCH HOLD NEW GROUND IN FACE OF VIOLENT ATTACKS

Take Further Gains East of Fumin Wood

UNWOUNDED GERMANS TAKEN TOTAL 4500

Fighting on British Part of Line is Confined to Artillery

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
LONDON, Oct. 25.—In the region of Verdun, where the French Tuesday made their spectacular drive over a wide front north and northeast of Verdun, they are still holding the ground gained despite heavy counter-attacks, delivered particularly in the region of Haudremont and Dou au Mont and east of the Fumin wood and north of Thenois have gained further ground. More than 4500 German soldiers have been captured by the French in this region. Elsewhere along the front where the French and British are facing the Germans in France little activity except by the big guns, has been known.

Paris Statement.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Last night's official statement reads:

"North of Verdun the enemy delivered three successive counter-attacks in the region of Haudremont and Dou Mont. None succeeded and our front was maintained intact.

"East of Fumin wood and north of Thenois we continued to make progress during the day.

"The number of unwounded prisoners is actually counted exceeds 4500.

"On the remainder of the front there was nothing of importance."

British Statement.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The war office statement issued tonight reads:

"Rain fell again during the greater part of the day. South of the Ancre enemy artillery was active, especially in the neighborhood of Lesars and Mount l'Abbaye.

"Elsewhere on the front there was intermittent shelling on both sides."

ALBERTA RANCHER BREAKS ALL THRESHING RECORDS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Oct. 25.—C. S. Noble of Lethbridge today completed threshing of a crop which defeats the world's record for 1000 acres. He has a total of 41,210 bushels on 950 acres, which is considerably over the 1000-acre record held at Colfax, Wash. Noble still has 3000 bushels left on the 1000 acres. This makes an average of more than 53.86 bushels an acre.

AUSTRIAN PREMIER'S FUNERAL IS HELD

Count Stuergkh's Body Is Taken to His Former Home—Is Succeded by Von Koerber.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
VIENNA, Oct. 25.—The funeral of Count Stuergkh, late Austrian premier, was held yesterday afternoon in the cathedral of St. Stephen. Archbishop Piffle officiated. Emperor Franz Josef was represented by Archduke Leopold Salvatore. The body was taken to Halbornseein, the premier's former home, for burial in the family tomb.

The success or Count Stuergkh is Dr. Ernest von Koerber, now finance minister of Austria-Hungary.

Dr. Frederich Adler, who shot and killed Premier Stuergkh last Saturday, was today turned over to the court where the case is to be tried.

ADVERTISING GIVES U. S. CANADIAN TRADE

Deputy Minister Points Out How Britain Is Overlooking Valuable Business Opportunities.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Persuave American "drummers" in the wake of floods of snappy American advertising are interfering with the United Kingdom's sals in Canada, according to F. C. T. O'Hara, deputy minister of the trades and commerce department, who gave evidence before the dominions royal commission this morning.

"There is comparatively little English advertising in Canada. Britain does not seem to appreciate the Canadian market," declared Mr. O'Hara. "Goods will not sell themselves. They must be pushed. Often manufacturers order overnight from New York goods that primarily come from England, because the goods have not been sufficiently advertised in Canada to warrant the merchants carrying them in stock. The United States maintains 100 consuls in the Dominion, who are always alert for trade opportunities. In the daily commercial reports commercial information on Canada is always listed.

"A consular certificate must accompany all goods exported to the United States and as a small fee is attached in this way, it is known that in many cases the consulates are more than self-supporting and after all the expenses are paid a surplus is sent to Washington.

"There are more than 300 foreign consular officers in Canada reporting trade opportunities to their home governments and only one British trade commissioner and three assistants, who, however, capable they may be, cannot cope with such competition.

"I recommend, with all due deference to the energy and ability displayed by the present British board of trade commissioners in Montreal, that Canada should be subdivided into areas and additional British commissioners should be appointed, reporting to and being directly responsible to the board of trade in London."

Imperial Board of Trade.

Mr. O'Hara said the establishment of trade commissioners representing the sister dominions in Canada, the expense of which, he said, would be relatively small, probably not exceeding $5000, would mak a well-earned return. He favors an imperial board of trade to be established in London that would be informative rather than aggressive by nature, and work in

GREAT OFFENSIVE PERFECTLY TIMED

Germans Sought Vainly to Hasten Attack

HAIG'S RIGHT HAND MAN SEES VICTORY

Tells Associated Press Man Enemy's Line Will be Broken

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
(Copyright by the Associated Press, 1916.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, via London, Oct. 25.—"Can the German line on the western front be broken?"

Next to Gen. Sir Douglas Haig, few British soldiers are in a better position to judge than Gen. Sir Henry Rawlinson, Gen. Haig's right hand man in the Somme offensive.

"Undoubtedly it can," was Gen. Rawlinson's reply to the question which the whole world is asking.

"It was last March," said Gen. Rawlinson to the Associated Press correspondent, "that the present offensive was planned. Sir Douglas and myself looked over the ground and I received orders to prepare the men and material for my part of the enterprise. In stead of undertaking a premature offensive with our unready army, it was decided to take over more front from the French. The decision was most fortunate and a tribute to the judgment of the French that they could hold the Germans at Verdun. Not only could they hold the Germans, but they were able, after giving the enemy the severest handling it had had so far in this war, to join us in the Somme offensive, with results which we all know."

What Germany Wanted

"They say that the Germans hoped to force you to attack prematurely last February," the correspondent suggested.

"Nothing could better have suited their purpose," was the reply, "than to have induced us to attack before we were ready. They had thinned their lines in the east and massed their reserves in the west. Happily, owing to French tenacity and pluck, we were given time to wait for new guns which were beginning to arrive from England in gratifying numbers, and for munitions factories to start the big flow of shells. Roads and light railways had been built for bringing up the immense quantities of munitions and supplies of all kinds requisite for the attack on the fortified lines which the Germans had been nearly two years in building, and for continuing the offensive once it had started.

"The wastage of life and material in so titanic a struggle must be foreseen and calculated and arrangements made for renewal. Our machine must be so organized that no contingency could throw it out of gear and that we should have everything required in abundance for the complicated business of modern war which should enable us to press any advantage gained."

Results Satisfactory

"Are you satisfied with the results?"

"Yes. We have taken position after position and 30,000 prisoners. For nearly four months this new army has kept on attacking; it has asserted its mastery over the enemy, which had 40 years of preparation. The dogged heroic gallantry and tenacity of our infantry have been proven. Despite its desperate counter-attacks, how few prisoners the enemy has taken!

"When in their eagerness our battalions have advanced too fast the resistance was comparatively light and the Germans closed in with superior forces, our men held their ground successfully or died fighting rather than

HAGONDANGE RAIDED BY BRITISH FLIERS

German Blast Furnaces Attacked by Squadron of Areoplanes—Fires Are Observed.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. 11 British bombarding aeroplanes, accompanied by five protecting aeroplanes, bombarded the blast furnaces of Hagondange, on which they threw 1300 kilograms of projectiles, said last night's official French communication.

Several fires were caused by this raid. The aviators were able to observe that the bombardment carried out the previous night on the same place by French aeroplanes had good results and that much damage apparently had been done.

CONCESSIONS ARE WON BY RAIL MEN

Borden's Envoy is Given Credit as Peacemaker

NEW SCHEDULE IS EFFECTIVE NOV. 1

Question of Payment For Preparatory Time is Compromised

(Special to The Daily News.)
WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Final details are now being arranged in connection with the agreement under which the threatened strike of employees of the Canadian Pacific was called off. Officials of the company and representatives of the men are agreed that a large share of credit for ending the dispute is due to G. D. Robertson, vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, who acted in the capacity of mediator at the request of Premier Borden. The premier called upon him at the eleventh hour at a time when no solution of the problem seemed possible.

November 1 Date Fixed.

Nov. 1 has been the date decided upon on which the new schedule, obtained after 19 hours of continuous debating, will be put into operation on the Canadian Pacific railway. At least this is the date which the men are asking, and they are confident from what has already passed between themselves and the company that this date will meet the company's approval.

The *new schedule will bring an in*creased wage and better working conditions for 8000 conductors, trainmen and yardmen, and the representatives of the men will wait on Grant Hall, vice-president and general manager of the company, in the morning to sign the agreement.

At the close of the conference this morning a stenographer was called in to take the phraseology of the new schedule. This form was roughly drafted out and approved, but as the new terms will necessitate making out new schedules, a period of time was required to make out a new and complete schedule.

Can Reject Terms.

It is still within the power of the company or the men to break away and refuse to accept the terms when placed before them, but this is a contingency which is not likely to happen.

In all 80 telegrams were despatched today by the brotherhood leaders. These were amplified with later messages setting out the terms of the agreement which were sent out last night.

The most important question at issue and one on which alone the men had expressed their determination to go on strike if it was not settled, was the one of payment of men for prepar*atory time spent in the yards before* the trains begin to move. At present the men have to report for duty 45 minutes before leaving time and that 45 minutes is spent in making preparations for the trip. On this point the men made a concession, and agreed to give the company 15 minutes for preparatory duties, with the proviso, however, that if over 15 was taken, then the company would have to pay for the whole of the time.

New Schedule Not Drafted

Nothing new developed in the afternoon in regard to the terms of settlement of the dispute between the Canadian Pacific railway and its employees.

The new schedule was neither drafted in full nor signed, and work on this may run into the early hours of the morning.

It is understood that the company will issue no statement until it has been duly executed. The executive of the men has nothing to add beyond their general satisfaction at the settlement, which they acknowledge is in the nature of a compromise, there having been concessions on both sides, but with a net result that they feel they can confidently recommend to the acceptance of their fellow employees.

Announcement of the settlement caused great relief to business circles here, where a tie-up of the heavy fall trade was feared. Over a thousand cars of wheat are passing through Winnipeg daily to the head of the lakes, in the annual rush before the close of navigation, and the crippling of the principal transportation system would have been a bad blow to western industry.

Men Well Pleased

Much jubilation was expressed in a quiet way at the Empire hotel, the headquarters of the men's executive, over the happy termination of a deadlock that for days has appeared to leave no alternative but a strike.

"The company behaved handsomely," said Mr. Murdock in speaking of that angle, "and we are well satisfied."

For the averting of the strike much credit is given on both sides to G. D. Robertson, vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, who at the eleventh hour was asked to undertake the difficult task of beginning again negotiations between the company and the men, when everything had been broken off. His position was a

CANADIANS IN TERRIFIC FIGHT CAPTURE DREADED REGINA TRENCH

HUNS ATTACKING IN THREE PLACES

Are Striving Desperately to Encompass Rumania

VIOLENT BATTLES IN PROGRESS ON BORDER

Drive of Teutonic Allies in Dobruja Region Continues

LONDON, Oct. 25. — From three points the Teutonic allies are working with feverish haste in an attempt to encompass Rumania—from the northeastern and eastern borders of Transylvania and through Dobruja. In the latter region and on the east Transylvanian front further progress in their inroads into King Ferdinand's territory have been made. On the northeast Transylvanian front, however, in engagements with the Russians they have been driven from the heights south of Dorna-Watra.

Keeping up his drive in Dobruja, Field Marshal von Mackenzen has brought his line well above the Constanza-Tchernavoda railway line, the right wing resting approximately on Tachaul, near the Black sea, 12 miles north of Constanza and the left north of Tchernavoda, whence runs the only bridge across the Danube in this region. Whether the Rumanians in their evacuation of Tchernavoda left intact the 14-mile bridge, which would be of immense strategic value to the Teutonic allies in a diversion toward Bucharest has not been made known, but following military precedent, despite the quickness of von Mackenzen's forward push it probably was blown up or otherwise badly damaged.

Further ground on the eastern Transylvanian front on the Rumanian side of the Vulcan and Predeal passes has been given up to the Austro-Germans by the Rumanians, but according to Bucharest the Teutons east of the river Aluta, in Transylvania, have been driven northward, while in the Uzul and Oituz valleys the Rumanians have made advances.

Is Serious Loss.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 26.—The loss of Constanza, Rumania's chief seaport on the Black sea, according to semi-official comment among members of the general staff "puts Rumania in a serious position, but it is not to be supposed it will entail any catastrophe." *Capt. Schumsky, military correspon*dent of the Bourse Gazette, says the success of the Teutonic allies lacks the independence which it appears to have, and means only that the Rumanians have fallen back on a new defensive line from Tchernavoda to the Black sea, slightly northward.

The assault of the invaders along the Constanza-Medijidi line is likened to the Belgian operations in the number of men crowded on a short front. *Col. Shumsky estimates there is a di*vision on every three miles of a 30-mile stretch, a strength said to be seldom exceeded on any front.

Meanwhile the Teuton campaign against Rumania continues to be accompanied by the delivery of a series of blows against the extreme left flank of the southwestern Russian front. From Dorna Watra to the Rumanian frontier, the Austro-Germans are attempting to pierce the Russian line in order to isolate Rumania and prevent the further passage of Russian troops to the assistance of Rumania. The Russians, it is said, have been able to check the offensive at all points on this sector.

ACTIVITY OF GERMAN AGENTS REVEALED

Letters Intercepted at London Show How Enemy is Operating in the United States.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The following two letters, intercepted on their way to Germany, were made public here yesterday. The first one from Max ——, 461, East Eighth street, South Boston, addressed to his brother said:

"Dear Gustave—The Willehad sailed today. I am to stay here till the end of the war. The Willehad will act within the American three-mile limit as a telegraph station for submarines. It has four months' provisions aboard."

The second letter was from the captain of the Willehad, named Jachens, who wrote from New London, Vt., to his sister in Germany, saying:

"I rejoice I am now here as captain of the Willehad. The Koln still lies at Boston. I am here with the Willehad on a special mission.

"Later you will hear from me. I rejoice that I have done something for the fatherland and that I have more to do."

NEW BRITISH LOAN FOR THREE HUNDRED MILLION

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Official announcement was made by J. P. Morgan & Co., today that a new British loan by American bankers, aggregating $300,000,000 had been arranged. It will bear interest at 5½ per cent and is payable in two instalments, one of three years and one of five years.

CONSOLIDATED MAY TAKE OVER PROPERTY

New Stock Issue Said to Be for Extension of Bonnington Plant and Quatsino Copper Purchase

(Special to The Daily News.)
MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—The Consolidated company's proposed new issue of slightly over $2,100,000 to shareholders of record Oct. 21 in the ratio of one new share for every four held on that date, is variously held to be for an extension of the West Kootenay light and power plant and for the purchase of the Coast Copper company's Quatsino properties on Vancouver island.

In a circular to be sent out at once the directors will point out that for an enterprize which produces on a fairly large scale no less than five metals, the capital of the company is small as compared with that of many similar concerns engaged in much more restricted operations. The usual dividends have been earned in the past year with a fair surplus for the profit and loss account. Regular shipments are now going forth from the zinc plant and these it is stated should greatly increase in volume in the future.

Although the Coast Copper company, which has options on a large copper property in the Quatsino district, Vancouver island, will not be mentioned in the company's circular, it is understood that this is the copper property that has been taken over.

The Quatsino holdings at one time were under option to the Stewart Mining company, owners of the Stewart mines in the Coeur d'Alenes, but following an adverse report from an engineer, the option was allowed to lapse. During the life of the option considerable development work was done and it is said that immense bodies of low grade copper ore were proven. No deep development was done, however, and the belief prevails that only work at depth will reveal ore bodies worth while for operations on an extensive scale.

The Quatsino holdings are several miles from June Landing on Quatsino Sound, but a railway line has been surveyed from tide water to the mine workings, and there is no doubt but that this line will be constructed if the Consolidated makes the purchase.

MONTREAL MEN AND WESTERNERS CHARGE

Position Won Three Times Is Finally Held

Forward Drive Made Over Shell-Swept Plain of Mud and Water

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—The Canadian war records office has forwarded to the minister of militia the following report of operations in France:

"The mystery of the Regina trench is solved. The resistance of the Germans at this point has been finally broken and the British are now in possession of a line to which the enemy attached considerable tactical importance. Three times the Canadians had attacked this position. Each time they had successfully broken into the trenches and had inflicted heavy losses upon the enemy, but each time strong hostile counter-attacks had driven them out again.

"The German defenses had been so organized that almost an air of mystery and of hidden danger had come to be attached to the Regina trench. It was known to be strongly built, with many deep dugouts and to be protected by heavy wire entanglements, but the line ran for the greater part below the crest of the intervening ground and could be reconnoitered only by night.

Wounded Bring Reports.

"Wounded men who returned claimed that the enemy rifle and machine gun fire came from behind the trench and that in counter-attacks the Germans appeared to spring from a concealed position immediately in the rear.

"In the big advance of Oct. 21 which carried the British line forward on a front of 5000 yards and to an average depth of 500 yards, the Canadians, with other troops, advanced to the attack of Regina trench. They were succesful. Profiting by former experiences, the artillery made a bombardment on all objects and the entanglements were blown completely away.

"In the general assault the task of the Canadians was a minor but an important one. The actual objective was only a length of 600 yards of the Regina trench immediately to the north of the village of Courcelette. But this formed the right flank of the attack and the Canadian troops were obliged not only to secure their proper objective but also to connect the right of the captured position with the original line in such a manner as to make a defensive flank to the east.

"For this purpose troops from western Canada and Montreal were employed. An Ontario battalion was also to advance in close support.

Charge Through Mud.

"During the night of Oct. 20-21 the assaulting troops took up their position. The night was clear and frosty. The trenches, dug in heavy soil, were half full of mud and water, for there had been much rain during the previous days. The ground about was in a bad condition; churned and beaten into a sticky pulp by the long bombardments. The morning sun could do little to dry the water-soaked earth.

"Shortly before noon the enemy, suspecting an attack began a heavy artillery fire upon our front line. About noon our own guns opened with the full fury of their massed batteries. The concentration was terrific, and

NEW LEGISLATION AIMED AT HIGH LIVING COSTS

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)
OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—The Evening Journal says:

"Legislation which the government proposes to take to deal with the cold increase in the cost of living is outlined today.

"The order in council embodying this legislation has not yet been passed by the cabinet, but it is expected that it will be within the next few days.

"The government proposes to give full power to municipalities to conduct investigations under oath into alleged combines operating in Canada and to investigate the alleged undue advance in prices of foodstuffs. It is also proposed, when an undue advance of prices has been established by investigation, to give municipalities the power to prosecute.

"The government also proposes to appoint a subcommittee of the cabinet, which probably will be Hon. C. J. Doherty and Hon. T. W. Crothers, to conduct investigations into questions and situations affecting the cost of living of a wider influence than is exerted within individual municipalities.

"With regard to the allegation that the operations of cold storage plants have resulted in withholding from public use for an undue length of time, foodstuffs which the public require, the government wil welcome information from parties who can supply it and conduct a rigid investigation.

"In regard to the power being given municipalities to conduct investigations, it was stated that under the order in council they would be enabled to examine individuals under oath and will have the authority to either compel firms to produce their books or send accountants to examine them.

"The underlying policy of this proposed legislation is publicity. It is believed that the fear of publicity will help to prevent an undue advance in prices."

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DEATH OF MAN BURIED BY RATS

(Special to The Daily News.)
NAKUSP, B. C., Oct. 25.—His tomb a lonely mountain cabin in the hinterland north of Grand Forks, and his only burial service that conducted by pack rats, has been the fate of an unknown man, whose body was found last week by Frank Johnson, a trapper.

Johnson, who has a line of traps along the Kettle river about a hundred miles north of Grand Forks, was making his rounds when, late one afternoon *he discovered the cabin on the moun*tain side. He decided to pitch camp for the night and with that object in view entered the cabin. He started a fire and was preparing his meal when, by the light of the flames, his attention was attracted by a huge pile of leaves and rubbish in the corner of the room. Closer investigation disclosed the body of a man, practically mummified by the dry mountain air, and shrunken entirely beyond recognition.

The unknown had "died with his boots on" and from appearances had been dead at least a year, possibly much longer.

Kindly pack rats had conducted the burial services in the only way they know. The body was completely covered from head to foot, without, as might have been expected, being disturbed in any way.

Early next morning Johnson proceeded to Edgewood, the nearest point of communication with the outside world, and notified the provincial police at Nakusp.

Constable J. M. Smith left for the scene, accompanied by Walter Johnson, a local hunter. They will investigate and seek to establish the identity of the dead man.

In the meantime conjecture is rife, Johnson having reported that there was nothing on the body of the dead man to furnish a clue as to his name or manner of death.

A possibility is suggested that the body may be that of an Austrian who escaped from the internment camp at Edgewood a year ago.

Another theory is that the body is that of one of two brothers from Deer Park, who disappeared while on a hunting trip in the neighborhood of the cabin three years ago and was never heard from again.

Owing to the rough nature of the country and the hardships attendant upon such an undertaking the body will most likely not be brought out, but will be buried near the cabin.

conjunction with the trade commissioners in the dominions.

The toy industry in Canada, he said, had received a great impetus from the exhibition in Toronto last March.

Superintendent R. H. Campbell of the Dominion forestry, told the commission that while the patrol established in forest lands was much improved, the loss by fire aggregated $5,000,000 a year in Canada. He said it was now, in the matter of conservation, at the point where Germany reached 100 years ago.

Proportion of marketable timber at the present time is small but the small growth represents billions if it can be preserved and protected from fire.

The consumption of wood in proportion to the population is steadily increasing, he said, owing to the pulp wood products.

Hudson Bay Railway.

The benefits to be derived by the country from the construction of the Hudson Bay railway was the chief topic discussed before the commission in the afternoon.

W. A. Bowden, chief engineer of construction of the department of railways, gave evidence. Mr. Bowden declared that the railway would be 450 miles long and that 332 miles would be completed this winter.

Mr. Bowden outlined the advantages in distance from the grain fields to the sea as compared with the present route by way of Fort William and Montreal. From the grain centre to Port Nelson, he said, was the same distance as from Winnipeg to Forte William, while the distance from Port Nelson to Liverpool was the same as from Montreal to Liverpool.

There was, therefore, a saving in distance equal to that from the head of the lakes to Montreal.

The cost of haulage over this distance was from 5 to 12 cents a bushel.

Time of Navigation.

Mr. Bowden declared that initial information had been proved unreliable. It had been reported the route through the straits would be open for navigation about the end of June or the first of July. The fact is that it was not open until the end of July or the first of August.

The date when it closed varied. By having observation points established along the straits it would, he said, be possible to lengthen the navigation season until after Oct. 23.

"Would the grain be harvested in time to be shipped this way?" Mr. Bowden was asked.

"For August the grain which would be shipped would be what had been left over from the year before. There is always some at the head of the lakes at this time."

"The new grain would come in September and would be shipped in September and October," was the answer.

AMERICANS ON NORWEGIAN BOAT WHICH WAS SUNK

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 25.—Five members of the crew of the Norwegian steamer Snestad, the sinking of which was reported in London despatches last night, were Americans, who shipped here with the vessel when it left for Rotterdam on Sept. 2 with 129,500 bushels of wheat for the Belgian relief commission. The crew was saved.

A CHILD HATES OIL. CALOMEL, PILLS FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, sick, feverish, constipated

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them,.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs". Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmles "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

NOT SUFFICIENT TO SWING RIDINGS

Soldiers' Vote in England May Be Excuse for Demanding Recounts—Ross Cut to Nine

Taking the ridings in alphabetical order, counting of the soldiers' vote in London has proceeded from Alberni to North Okanagan. Following are the final majorities, including civilian and soldier votes, in 24 ridings:

Alberni—Brewster (L), 38.
Atlin—Mobley (L), 56.
Cariboo—Yorston (L), 243.
Chilliwack—Barrow (L), 180.
Columbia—Buckham (L), 266.
Comox—Stewart (L), 20.
Cowichan—Hayward (C), 131.
Cranbrook—King (L), 224.
Delta—Mackenzie (C), 58.
Dewdney—Oliver (L), 137.
Esquimalt—McCurdy (L), 2.
Fernie—Fisher (L), 79.
Fort George—Ross (C), 9.
Grand Forks—Thompson (L), 250.
Greenwood—McLean (L), 283.
Islands—Jackson (L), 4.
Kamloops—Anderson (L), 553.
Kaslo—Keen (L), 81.
Lillooet—McDonald (C), 30.
Nanaimo—Sloan (L), 559.
Nelson—Rose (C), 101.
Newcastle—Williams (S), 120.
New Westminster—Whiteside (L), 184.
North Okanagan—Macdonald (L), 312.

The only riding changed by the soldiers' vote is Delta. The civilian poll gave a majority of six to Paterson, the Liberal candidate. Soldiers' votes counted at Victoria reversed this and Lieut. Mackenzie's majority has now grown to 58.

Several of the Liberals were cut down by the military vote. Mr. H. Stewart of Comox has now a net majority of 20. McCurdy of Esquimalt is down to 2. In the Conservative column Hon. W. R. Ross is cut down to 9 in Fort George. In Esquimalt, Fort George and Islands recounts are certain to be asked for, it is stated, when all civilian and soldier votes have been collected at Victoria.

King Stronger in Cranbrook

John H. Yorston drew away ahead of J. A. Fraser in Cariboo, the London vote increasing his lead of 188 to 243.

In Chilliwack Macken got 8 more than Barrow, which still leaves Barrow a margin of 180.

Dr. Taylor, who is at the front, did not pull up on Jack Buckham in Columbia, the latter gaining 3, making his lead 266.

Capt. Hayward, who already had a good lead over Ken Duncan in Cowichan, was given a majority of 55 by the London count, making his total lead 131.

Dr. King's lead over Tom Caven in Cranbrook was stretched by an additional 19, giving the doctor 224 ahead.

"Honest John" Oliver in Dewdney had his lead over William J. Manson cut down by 3, which was Manson's majority over Oliver on the London count.

Uphill, Thompson, Keen Gain

The Fernie vote saw Thomas Uphill, the mayor, make a stride of 42 toward Alex Fisher's majority, which, however, still is safe at 79.

J. E. W. Thompson in Grand Forks gets two added to his majority, making it an even 250 over Ernest Miller. Dr. McLean's lead in Greenwood was also increased by 16 to 286.

In the Islands riding, Major W. W. Foster, who is at the front, secured a majority of 19 over M. B. Jackson, which, however, lacked four to pull up even with the Liberal.

J. Pearson Shaw fell still farther behind Fred W. Anderson in Kamloops, the soldiers giving Anderson another 13 to add to his majority of 540.

It was a similar story in Kaslo, where John Keen gets an additional two, making his majority now 81.

Archie Macdonald added four to his majority of 26 in Lillooet.

Eleven more of a majority resulted for William Sloan in Nanaimo, and his majority over A. E. Planta, the government candidate, now rests at 559.

Rose Gets 34 More Majority

Dr. Rose, government candidate in Nelson, who already had a lead of 67 over A. M. Johnson, gets another 34 tacked on to his majority.

Parker Williams' lead of 110 over Dr. Drier in Newcastle is increased to 120.

A majority of 67 for Gifford cannot overhaul David Whiteside in New Westminster, who still has a majority of 184.

peculiar one, occupying as he does high executive office in a railroad organization more or less indirectly connected with the strike, and which might easily have become actively concerned in the threatened strike.

He, however, held the confidence of both parties and was able to make representations which drew them together again. Another factor that helped a great deal was the attitude of Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railway. No feeling of rancor has existed between himself and the union leaders, and the conferences were devoid of any personal ill feeling.

Informs Borden

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Sir Robert Borden received the following telegram from S. N. Berry and James Murdock, Winnipeg, today:

"Pleased indeed to advise you that satisfactory settlement has been reached here and there will be no strike. Mr. Robertson served materially in bringing about the happy result."

To this the premier made the following reply:

"Many thanks for telegram. I appreciate the fine spirit in which my appeal has been met and I congratulate you upon the happy issue of the controversy."

Sir Robert sent a telegram similar in wording to George Bury, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railway, in Montreal.

more Zam-Buk. They are asking for it in their letters home. They say that nothing takes the place of Zam-Buk for cuts, burns, blisters, sores, etc.

Pte. J. R. Smith of the "Princess Pats," writes: "Tell my friends, if they want to help me, to send some Zam-Buk. We find it very useful indeed, and we can't get too much of it."

Pte. Johnson, writing home, says: "Mrs. —— has offered to send me a rug. Ask her to send some Zam-Buk instead. It will be of more use here than all the rugs in creation."

Nothing ends pain and heals so quickly as Zam-Buk, and being germicidal, if applied to a wound as soon as sustained, prevents all danger of blood-poisoning. The soldier who carries a box of Zam-Buk in his pocket will be saved much needless suffering. Don't let your friends go without.

Afternoon Summary

Brief Flashes from Yesterday's Telegraph Service to the Afternoon Papers

French Halt Attack.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The Germans made a counter-attack north of Verdun last night in an effort to regain groud won by the French in yesterday's assault.

They attempted to recapture the Haudremont quarries and the Damloup battery. The war office announces that in both cases they were repulsed.

Capture Rumanian Town.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 25.—The Rumanians and Russians have evacuated the Danube town of Tchernavoda in Dobruja, the war office stated today. Tchernavoda is at the point where the Constanza-Bucharest railway line crosses the Danube.

The statement says Field Marshal von Mackenzen's army is continuing its attack along the Dobruja front. The Russo-Rumanian position at Lake Tachaul, near the Black sea about 12 miles north of Constanza, also has been evacuated.

Norwegian Boast Sink.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The sinking by German submarines of five more Norwegian steamships, valued at about 5,000,000 kronen, is reported in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Christiana.

Naval Battle in Arctic.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 25.—A naval battle amidst the ice floes of the Arctic sea, in which German submarines, lying in wait for munition laden merchantmen, were driven off by Russian patrol boats, was reported in despatches received by the Morgenbladt today.

U Boats on Coast.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The U-boats engaged in the raid on commerce off Nantucket have not returned to Germany. This specific statement has been made, the Herald says, in the office of Dr. Heinrich Albert, fiscal agent of the German government. There is no doubt that there is positive knowledge among German officials here as to the present whereabouts of these submarines, the Herald says.

The three U-boats, U-53, U-48 and U-61 are undoubtedly in constant communication with the shore by wireless and are somewhere in the water area between Cape Henry and the West Indies.

yield. This is the spirit we have to work with in our future plans. Our young officers, who knew nothing of war two years ago, have had a schooling of battle. The places of those who have fallen are being filled with chosen men from the ranks as well as from the schools at home and in France."

"You have been fighting the Germans for two years now, general. Have they depreciated?" asked the correspondent.

Enemy Is Weary.

"Decidedly. They are still brave and still a full army, but a tired army. For the first time they have known what it was to face a superior artillery fire and armies which knew their lessons as well as they do. The French and ourselves fight as one army. If either develops an improvement it is shared with the other. So similar have our plans become that I never consider whether I have a British or a French army alongside me.

"The Germans, too, are quick to adapt any new wrinkles from us. We are all learners, even after two years of war.

"After some of our attacks confusion in the German lines and a breakdown of the German staff organizations were evident from the haste with which ill-assorted units were rushed haphazard into the front line. There was lack of cohesion on their part, and even of maps of the area to which they were sent, and this induced confusion which sometimes cost them heavier casualties on the defense than were cost to ourselves on the offensive.

"Gen. Skoboleff once said that in every 100 men there was a small proportion which was naturally brave, a large proportion which would respond to leadership, and again a small proportion which would funk. A small proportion of the Germans have shown tenacious and defiant courage, particularly in their defense of machine gun positions. The great majority have ceased to respond to leadership with ardor. Thus far the funks, who are disciplined into courage, are the ones who have been following their natural instincts of self-preservation and holding up their hands when our men approach in their charges."

"Can the line be broken?"

"Undoubtedly it can and will be sooner or later. All that is necesary is to keep on hammering.

Sees Victory.

"In this war as in every other war, victory must come as the result of moral and physical superiority continued for a sufficient time at a decisive point. The first step is to force the enemy to defense; then superior shell fire, superior man power and relentless pressure in attack must so depreciate his organization and morale that one day he will break.

"The allies, in close sympathy and cooperation, will keep on pressing simultaneously on all fronts until at some point the enemy gives way. It is difficult to say what the result of a break in the line might be, but it will seriously weaken his whole system of defense.

"Our army has not yet reached its zenith of power, nor will it have done so until next spring, or possibly next summer. I think we have reached the top of the hill, but there is an undulating tableland to cross before we really get on to the downgrade portion beyond. This may be steep, it may be quite a gentle slope—but it will be downhill work and comparatively easy."

CANADIANS CAPTURE REGINA TRENCH

the hail of heavy shells and shrapnel fell with deadly force and accuracy.

"The infantry advance began. The men clambered out of their trenches and in long lines dashed close under the barrage; advancing as rapidly as the state of the ground would permit. In 10 minutes the 500 yards of open ground had been crossed and Regina trench was ours."

Officer Is Killed.

"On the right a tragic incident for a moment threatened the success of the assault. Lieut. Scott, son of Canon Scott of Quebec, was advancing at the head of his men and was directing their progress in accordance with the artillery barrage. As the men threw themselves down to await the momentary lift of the guns, Lieut. Scott was shot and killed. His death was not at first noticed and his men still waited for the signal to advance. Not until the barrage had passed beyond the German trench did the men realize the situation. Then with a fierce rush which nothing could check, they dashed at the German trench, eager to avenge the death of their gallant young officer.

"In the meantime, however, the enemy had been able to man its parapet and had opened a rapid fire at this point. We therefore suffered some casualties, but the result was the same. Our men went in with the bayonet and there was short shift for the Germans.

"At some points the enemy, consisting of Prussians brought from the Ypres salient, were eager to surrender They jumped out of their trenches and advanced to meet our men, holding their hands above their heads. Altogether 163 prisoners were taken and between 75 and 100 dead Germans were counted. Among those who surrendered were two or three machine gun crews, who abandoned their guns.

Lived in Montreal.

"One of the prisoners, a sergeant, taken by a Montreal battalion, was a German who was actually living in Montreal at the time war broke out. He had been there for a year and a half, employed as a muleteer. He said that in June, 1914, he hal applied for a passport to the United States but it had been refused to him on the ground that war was imminent and that he would have to hold himself in readiness to return to Germany at a moment's notice.

"Not only was the whole of our immediate objective obtained and the flank protected in the manner intended, but strong parties pushed well out beyond and established posts in certain tactical positions. The operation was entirely successful.

"Consolidation was proceeded with, and during the following night communication trenches were rapidly constructed, linking up the old line with the new.

"Attempts by the enemy to counter-attack were promptly disposed of by our artillery. At 1:30 p.m. several hundred Germans came out from the village of Pys and deploying in the open, advanced with the evident intention of attacking. This wave was blotted out by a heavy burst of shrapnel fire. Only about 60 were seen to reach a forward trench, which was under our direct observation. Here high explosive shells were fired and the trench heavily damaged. Three Germans were seen to be hurled into the air.

Another Attack.

"Again at 2:12 p.m. the enemy came out of a trench in considerable numbers and attempted to make their way down the communicating trenches. Our guns were brought to bear with great effect, and the Germans were seen to fall literally in groups.

"During the afternoon reinforcements in small parties continued to press forward to man certain support trenches. As these were all now visible targets our bursts of fire caused them heavy casualties. Every effort of the enemy to organize a counter-attack was thus frustrated and our men remained in undisputed possession.

"Hostile aeroplanes attempted to come over the lines after the assault but they were driven back.

"Another German gun, a 5.9 howitzer, has been added to the list of our captures in Courcelette. This gun had been cleverly concealed in the ruins of the village by folding doors which hid the emplacements. Recently it was discovered quite by accident, and the gun found to be practically intact, only one of its wheels being injured."

Government Facilitates Building of Vessels on Coast—Means Work for 2500 Men.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 25.—The Dominion government will facilitate the building of merchants ships in Canada for Norwegian register now under way. A telegram from Ottawa received tonight reported that H. H. Stevens, M.P. for Vancouver, who has been interesting himself in the subject, has stated that the order in council had been passed granting the necessary permission to transfer the ships to the Norwegian flag when completed.

Contracts for three vessels valued at $3,500,0000 have already been signed, two with the Wallace shipyards at North Vancouver, and one with Coughlan & Co., in Vancouver, and only required this assurance of the government that a transfer would be granted on completion to become effective.

Orders for seven or eight other vessels will also be given almost immediately and the total value will not les sthan $10,000,000.

When the work of construction is in full swing it is anticipated that not less than 2500 men will be employed at a conservative estimate, and the payroll will be at least $120,000 a month.

SIR SAM HUGHES TALKS ON REJECTION

Asserts That Many Canadian Recruits Have Been Turned Back for Trivial Causes

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Gen. Sir Sam Hughes declared that many rejections from the Canadian ranks which have been made after the troops reached France are unjustified and based on trivial grounds. He declares that men who have passed the Canadian medical examinations and a triple examination in England have frequently been rejected by Canadian doctors in France for flat feet, slight varicose veins and other minor defects which have never interefered with the locomotive power.

Gen. Hughes quoted the case of Lieut. Ashton, who had sent 250 men to France, 50 of whom had been rejected for minor defects.

"The ridiculous part of the system," he remarked, "is the fact that these men have been rejected for flat feet who have walked 600 miles from Vermilion up in the Peace river country to enlist.

"These men have a habit of wearing moccasins in winter and, of course, have acquired flat feet, but this has never interefered with their power of marching."

W. H. North Said to Have Announced Important Developments at Meeting of Directors

A winze is being sunk in the No. 7 level of the Standard mine at Silverton on the clean galena which was recently encountered there, according to a statement credited to W. H. North, assistant manager, in a message received by a Nelson stockholder last night.

Mr. North is said to have informed the Standard directors also that the new ore body in the Alpha claim is maintaining itself under development and that a new find of 3 feet of clean lead ore has been made in No. 5 tunnel.

MINING MEN MEET AT TRAIL, ROSSLAND

Chairman Bruce White of Western Branch of Canadian Institute, Bound for Smelter City

Bruce White, chairman of the western branch of the Canadian Mining institute, reached Nelson from Sandon last night and registered at the Hume on his way to Trail, where he will today attend the meeting of the organization.

Papers will be read and discussed this afternoon. Trail smelter will probably be visited during the day.

Tomorrow the mining men, who are expected to include a number of visitors from Washington and Idaho, will go to Rossland, where they will visit the big gold-copper producers of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company. It is intended to hold a meeting in Rossland tomorrow evening.

As this is not the annual meeting there will be no election of officers.

50,000 TONS OF LEAD BY FLOTATION IN U. S.

The last two years have witnessed the extensive application of flotation to the concentration of lead ores in the United States. All the principal concentrating mills in the disseminated lead district of southeastern Missouri, with an aggregate capacity of daily treatment of 17,5000 tons of crude ore averaging 3.6 per cent lead, have flotation units to handle the slimes and fines. Flotation will also be installed in the Federal Lead company's 2500-ton mill now building. Ore flotation is extensively employed in treating the lead and lead-zinc ores of the Coeur d'Alene district in Idaho. Ore flotation is employed in the treatment of lead and zinc ores at many places in Colorado and some places in other western states. A fair estimate of the additional recovery of lead in 1915, due to the flotation process, is 50,000 tons of metal.

RAIN IS GOOD FOR MINING INDUSTRY

Comes At Right Time to Relieve Shortage of Water in Creeks for Power Purposes

Mining men of the district generally welcomed yesterday's rainfall. Some properties have already experienced shortage of water for power production and many were beginning to have forebodings as to the winter's water supply.

The warm rain yesterday, which extended high into the mountains and melted snow and ice, came at the right time. Mining men hope it will continue for a few days. They point out that soft weather now will soften the ground, which was beginning to harden, and enable the snow when it falls to seep through to the creeks. Frost on top of snow does little damage, as mining men state that experience has shown that the snow will continue to seep away below. It is when the ground is frozen hard before the snow falls that the worst water shortages are experienced.

The Slocan Star mine at Sandon and the Hudson Bay in the Sheep creek district are among those which have already suffered from water shortage. It was due to lack of water for power that work on the Hudson Bay crosscut ceased temporarily. It will be resumed in a few days, it is stated.

Reports from the hills last night were that even at high altitudes the weather was soft yesterday, such snow as lay on the ground turning to slush under the warm rain.

DOUKHOBORS TO DO MUCH LOGGING

Plan to Take Out Between Five and Six Million Feet This Winter for Slocan Valley Mill.

Logging to the estimated extent of between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 feet will be carried out during the coming winter by the Doukhobor society for next summer's cut at the W. C. E. Koch mill in the Slocan valley, which the community has under lease. John Sherbinin, who was at the Hume last night, states that the log output may exceed 6,000,000 feet if conditions are favorable.

Sawing operations have ceased for the winter, but planing is being continued.

A. G. LARSON'S DAUGHTER NOW OUT OF DANGER

The little daughter of A. G. Larson, who has been suffering from blood poisoning, is now out of danger. Mr. Larson brought the news from Spokane last night. He is at the Hume.

CANADIAN NICKEL IS NOT REACHING FOE

British Government Perfectly Satisfied with Arrangements Made by Ottawa to Handle Metal.

LONDON.—Lord Robert Cecil, under secretary for foreign affairs, said recently regarding an interview given by him to the American press, that when he said certain amounts of nickel emanating from allied teritory which were despatched to the United States ultimately found their way into Germany on board the submarine Deutschland, this in a way referred to the nickel from Canada. He assured the Canadian Associated Press that he had no intention whatever of criticizing the arrangements for controlling Canadian nickel or suggest that any nickel from Canada reaches the enemy. The British government is perfectly satisfied he said, with the precautions taken and arrangements made by the Canadian government with regard to nickel.

SOUTH AFRICA MARKET FOR CANADIAN ZINC SHEETS

Under date of Aug. 24, 1916, W. J. Egan, Canadian trade commissioner, Cape Town, writes asking if there is any possibility of securing at any time in the near future zinc sheets from Canada, says the weekly bulletin of the department of trade and commerce. In explanation of the above question, Mr. Egan states that these sheets are used extensively in the gold mines in the Transvaal. The quality as used there is Z. A. 99.20, iron and arsenic with only a trace of lead. The less lead there is the better. Some of the mints use discs as well.

It is intimated that most of the supplies at present are imported from the United States, but they are shipped in odd sizes, so that if Canada has anything to offer in this line these might easily be marketed.

For further information regarding size desired and the gauge, application should be made to the commercial intelligence branch of the department of trade and commerce, says the bulletin.

TO INCREASE OUTPUT AT PRINCETON COLLIERY

Improvements have been made at the Princeton colliery which will add materially in increasing the output of coal at the mine.

SLOCAN MINING MAN IN NELSON WITH BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Parker of Silverton returned last night from Calgary, where they were married on Oct. 21 by Rev. Father Hetherington at the Sacred Heart church. Mrs. Parker was Miss Mary McGree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas McGree of Bassano, Alta.

Mr. Parker, who is one of the staff at the Standard mill at Silverton, has been engaged in mining in the Slocan district for 20 years.

They will spend two or three days in Nelson before taking up their residence at Silverton.

H. E. Dill returned yesterday from a trip into the mountains back of Hall creek and brought with him samples of ore from some claims in which he is interested.

NOTES OF THE MINES IN EAST KOOTENAY

C. M. Keep is shipping ore from the Silver Belt in the Paradise basin, East Kootenay.

A recent deal for the Sitting Bull group on Horse Thief creek is said to have given control of the property to Frank Stockdale, who is working a small crew on the property and taking out ore.

The road from the Lead Queen mine to the railway at Brisco having been put into shape, after having been cut out by snow slides last spring, it is reported that the owners of the property, Thomas Brown and J. M. McLeod, will soon begin teaming ore to the siding at Brisco for shipment to Trail smelter.

R. R. Bruce, who is operating the Paradise mine on Toby creek, is continuing shipments of lead-carbonate ores from the dump to Trail smelter. The government road which is being completed from the eight-mile post to Invermere, on the south side of Toby creek, will facilitate hauling from the Paradise by cutting off several miles of the present haul to the railway.

A NATURAL CONTOUR MAP ON C.P.R. FLATS AT NELSON

By Prof. A. Lakes.

The beautiful and elaborate topographic maps of the geological and other government surveys have doubtless excited the wonder and curiosity of those unacquainted with the science of mappery, as to how such minutely detailed and accurate work could be accomplished and how, by use of so-called "contour lines" such a remarkable effect could be produced upon the eye, giving the impression of a relief model of the surface of a country or a "birds eye" view of the same with its surface irregularities of hill and dale, prairie and canyon. This optical effect is produced by the skilful use of a network of curved sinuous more or less parallel little lines or "contours" drawn according to a given scale, each line representing a vertical height above its fellow line of 50 to 100 to 200 feet, according to prescribed scale. By counting the number of countour lines one above the other, you can tell how high a certain rising ground on the map is above the plain or valley, or how deep below the surface is a river canyon. If the ground is nearly flat or gently rising, the contour lines will be spread out widely apart, coming closer together according to the gradual steepening of the ground. Shrould it reach a steep cliff the lines would come so close together that they would resemble dark shading rather than distinct lines.

Vividly Painted by Nature.

This is the simple idea of a contour line topographic map as we may see it on paper, but it is rarely that we have such a map drawn and vividly painted by nature herself, the canvas being the mud flats, and the paints the different colored rubbish and drift wood and bark deposited in its retreat by the late flood, on the C. P. R. flats or meadows just below Nelson. These intricate and gracefully patterned contour lines are well seen from the Granite road about a hundred feet above the park. It is a striking object lesson as if drawn by a teacher on the blackboard to show what is meant by contour lines and how a contour map is drawn, a subject not easily explained by words or diagrams. Here nature has provided us with a picture of her own which can be read as a glance. The mud of the shore line of the Kootenay and the banks from which the water now at low ebb has retreated are of a dark color and on this the light or variegated lines of the drift debris in all its intricate patterns is delineated and painted. In one case where the flood invaded and partially covered and surrounded the black cinder and slag piles below the railway station the patterned lines of bleached driftwood come out in relief against the dark ground as vividly as chalk lines on a blackboard and as distinctly.

Before these markings are effaced by wind, weather and winter it is worth while to ramble up the Granite road for a short distance and look down at this nature picture on the C. P. R. flats below. This is one of those nature studies of a subject difficult and obscure enough in the lecture room but pleasantly easily and forcibly learned in the field where the thing itself is before us rather than the book theory or description.

PAPER ISSUES CONTINUE ACTIVE IN MONTREAL

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—The early trading today was marked by spectacular activities in some of the paper issues. Riordon rose 9½ above its previous high record, selling at 128½ in the morning, while Laurentide at 216 added 7 points to the high record quotation for the year, established on a rise of 10½ points yesterday. Laurentide was 3 up at 212 at the close, and Riordon 5 up at 124. Pryce Bros., which closed at 110 bid Tuesday, sold at that price, a full rise of 19 points from the last board lot sale on the market and the close was strong at 112 bid.

Other paper issues reacted under profit taking after a firm start.

Iron was the feature of the steel stocks, closing with a net gain of 2¼ points at 69. Scotia rose 1½ to 139¼, coming within a fraction of its high record and retaining more than half the advance. Steel of Canada improved a small fraction to 63.

Apart from Civic Power, the utilities were inclined to dulness. Civic was in heavy demand, finishing at its best, 82½.

A new high of 99⅜ for the new war loan was a feature in bonds.

Total business was the largest of any day this month, amounting to 30,505 shares.

WHEAT CARRIED UP ON WAVE OF BUYING

Values Mount During First Half of Day and Then Crumble Due to Number of Factors.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 25.—Wheat closed weak today at $1.80½ for December and $1.80½ for May, with the market as a whole 1⅞ to 2c above yesterday's close.

Rapidly bulging prices and waves of buying formed the rule in the wheat pit during the first half of the day. Alarming reports were current that the Argentine damage from drought had assumed disastrous proportions and that the possibilities of a substantial exportable surplus in Argentina were being more and more heavily reduced. The fact that yesterday's export sales from the United States were larger than was at first supposed gave a further impetus to speculative buying here which proceeded unchanged until the advance amounted almost to 13c as compared with the lowest figure of yesterday's session. Then prices began to break and they did not stop crumbling for any great length of time during the rest of the day.

Widening out of selling, which accepted the late setback in wheat, was based to a considerable extent on opinions that the advance of late had been too rapid.

In this connection it was said the British government purchases had withdrawn from the market and foreigners were reselling contracts both for immediate and future delivery.

An additional bearish element at this stage was a sudden downturn in prices at Buenos Ayres. Profit-taking by big holders here counted also as a factor in the heaviness which prevailed as the session came to a close.

Oats were relatively stronger, finishing at a net gain of ¼c. The main bullish influence appeared to be on the unfavorable crop outlook in Argentina.

Provisions declined sharply after an early advance. The close ranged from 95c decline to 7c advance.

Flax: Oct., $2.53½; Nov., $2.54; Dec., $2.51½.

MAY MAKE IT INTERESTING FOR VON MACKENZEN.

Interesting possibilities hinge upon the numerical strength of the Teutonic forces engaged in the offensive in Dobruja, upon the Rumanians' strength and whether they rendered impassable the bridge across the Danube at Tchernavoda.

If the armies under von Mackenzen are not sufficiently strong to permit of a serious attempt at an advance across the bridge into Rumania proper without weakening the force engaged upon the northward offensive to the danger point the Rumanians may have decided to leave the bridge undamaged.

The possibility is that von Mackenzen might be persuaded into making an incursion toward Bucharest. If he did so with a small force it would contain no elements of danger for the Rumanians. If he did so with a strong force of his main Dobruja army the Rumanians, with their Russian allies, might initiative a quick counter-offensive, roll up the Dobruja invaders and get behind the force which had crossed the Danube. On the other hand if von Mackenzen has decided to press his offensive northward a Russo-Rumanian army of superior strength might strike across the Tchernavoda bridge and catch the northwardbound enemy in the rear.

WHY BRITISH FIRMS DON'T GET THE BUSINESS.

Newspapers in Canada have on many occasions in the past pointed out that British manufacturers must wake up and employ different business methods before they can hope to obtain the share of Canadian trade which is available to them. More aggressive advertising for goods manufactured in the United Kingdom is the chief need.

F. C. T. O'Hara, deputy minister of trade and commerce at Ottawa, put the case forcibly before the dominions royal commission yesterday when he stated that American concerns were steadily getting a larger proportion of Canadian business simply because they sent out armies of "drummers" and backed up their activities by snappy and sustained advertising.

Canadian merchants do not care to handle the average line of goods unless it is well advertised. They look to the manufacturer to conduct an advertising campaign which will create a demand for the product. Then they will buy it and back it up with their own local advertising. Old country manufacturers must get down to real business or they will lose what they have left of their trade in articles of everyday commerce in this country. Goods have to be sold. They no longer sell themselves.

MINERS ANSWER CALL OF THE PATRIOTIC FUND.

It is in no small measure due to the generosity of the employees of a number of mines in the district who are donating one day's pay each per month to the patriotic fund that Kootenay and Boundary is contributing its share toward maintaining the dependents of the men who have gone to the front.

Statistics issued at the provincial patriotic fund headquarters at Victoria show that many of the mining centres are making a splendid showing in proportion to their population. Mines which are not contributing will doubtless fall into line.

During the coming year the demands upon the patriotic fund will exceed those of 1916 by $3,500,000. Kootenay and Boundary is being asked to donate its share of the increase. The prosperity of the mining industry is one of the chief factors which will enable it to do so.

IF PRICE UNFAIR, PUBLICITY A GOOD WEAPON.

Price-raising combines whose purpose is to play the leech on the pocketbooks of the public thrive best in the darkness. Light is as fatal to them as is sunlight to certain noxious germs. According to a despatch sent out from Ottawa last night the underlying purpose of a proposal to enable investigation by municipalities and on a broader scale of alleged combinations to rob the consumer by using war conditions as an excuse for unjust increases in the price of commodities is to provide machinery for throwing the spotlight of publicity upon offenses of this kind. Power to prosecute is also proposed, but the main object is to use publicity as a weapon.

In a great many cases prices are set by worldwide conditions. Wheat quotations, for example, are dependent more upon crops in the United States and Argentina than upon Canada. But the price of flour, if it should appear higher than the price of the raw material seems to justify, is a fit subject for inquiry. The same condition applies to sugar. In both cases and in many similar instances it is quite possible that existing prices are entirely justified. If they are not, the fear of publicity would go a long way to bring them down.

Leads in Backwardness.

Honduras excels any other republic on the continent in one respect—backwardness. Every little while a revolution tears down any slight prosperity that may have been built. Parents train their sons to become professional revolutionists as we train ours to become lawyers or doctors. A debt of a hundred millions burdens the country. Many a man has four wives to support him, he doing nothing, unless a wife, especially needing help, wishes to hire him at a good wage. Perhaps standards would be higher if life were harder. But where the breadfruit weighs down the trees and a grain of corn planted on Monday will sprout four inches by Friday there is not much incentive to labor.—World's Outlook.

SONG OF A SIMPLE HEART

Will you never come singing down the road?
Shall we never hear your whistle in the lane—
A lilted stave to lighten the days load—
Again?

The Autumn finds us harvesting alone!
Deserted at the dance the maids remain.
Shall we never hear you stumble on the stone
Again?

The laughing lambs will sport in the Spring season,
The throstle will be piping in the rain;
Will you never stone the crawling rooks, with reason,
Again?

Oh, in the fields the horned beasts are straying;
The gathered hay is mouldering in the wain;
On the gross-grown path the unchecked babes are playing,
"He comes, my heart!" But hush! the winds are saying,
"Never again!"

SUPERIOR IS SWEPT BY NORTHWEST GALE

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 25.—A northwest gale accompanied with rain, which has been sweeping over Lake Superior in this section since early morning, has driven almost all vessels to shelter.

Detour reports nothing leaving that point today, all having gone to anchor at the mouth of the river.

SOLDIER WANTS A "FAIR CHANCE," MUST HAVE IT

A soldier limped into a restaurant in Quebec, where he had just landed with a big bunch of other wounded men. A civilian, about to dine, invited the soldier to join him.

"Thanks," said the man in khaki, sitting down, "but I'll pay for my own dinner." He evidently had a wholesome horror of being regarded as an object of charity.

"I respect your feeling," said the civilian, "but see here—my boy's over there and wounded like you. As I can't have him home for his Thanksgiving dinner, won't you let me adopt you as my son for the occasion?"

Only then did the soldier give in.

He talked quite freely about his experience, though disposed to make light of his own trouble. Of all the remarkable things he had noticed, the most extraordinary, in his opinion, was the freedom of the army from that scourge of former wars, enteric fever, owing, of course, to the scientific measures of prevention now in force.

But, after all, the war was now behind him, and he was thinking more of what lay before him.

"It's not charity I want," he declared emphatically, "I just want a chance to make my own way. I've a wife and two children, and the sooner I can get back and make a living for them the better I'll be pleased. Yet they tell me I must have two months' more treatment, and even then I can't go back to my old work."

Fortunately the civilian knew what was being done, and was able to reassure him.

"That's the job of the military hospitals commission," he said. "It's not only at the front that up-to-date scientific methods are being used to keep the men in health. They are being used in the convalescent hospitals here, to give them back the health they have lost, and to find out what work they can do best, and fit them for it."

"And I hear," the soldier said, "that if I have to take up a new job the government will pay maintenance allowances for my wife and children while I'm getting trained?"

"That's true."

"Then it's all right," he said. "People say that jobs won't be as plentiful when all the boys come back. But once I've made a start and got a footing I know I can make good and keep my job. I'm not afraid. But, mind you, I want no charity, only a fair chance. And the other boys will tell you the same thing."

They shall have it, these wounded boys of ours.

"Not charity, but a fair chance."

HISTORY OF THE BAGPIPES

The history of the Scottish bagpipes is recorded much earlier than the battle of Harlaw, which, by the way, supplies the oldest regimental march in the British army, namely, "The Pibroch of Donuil Dhu." Who has not heard of the battle of Bannockburn, in 1314, where the pipe march of the Scots was "Hey, Tuttie Tuttie," the melody of which Robert Burns adapted to his soul-stirring "Scots Wha Hae," or of the famous "Black Chanter" of the Clan Chattan, preserved at Macpherson's castle of Cluny, and a relic of the famous fight on the North Inch of Perth in 1396? But many more and earlier instances could be quoted.

The Highland pipe does make "all the running," but in quite the reverse manner ascribed to it. Anyone who has heard it, say at a church parade at York Minster, to the organ accompaiment, will agree with the writer that it does harmonize, or, again with a full regimental band playing some such march as "The Barren Rocks of Aden," would welcome such a combination on the part of the Scots Guards' band and pipers. It would not only be a surprising novelty to the Sassenach, but a pleasant surprise.—London Spectator.

THE NEMESIS OF NEPTUNE

Compare the experience of the British fleet with that of the allied armies. A success of battles have been fought which, in virtue of the numbers engaged will rank in history beside the great encounters which marked the rise and fall of Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar, Charlemagne, Charles V., Louis XIV. of France and Napoleon. The struggle by land has been continuous and dramatic and the Germans, who have penetrated deep into France and Russia, and overwhelmed Belgium, Servia and Montenegro, have called upon the world to study "the war map." Yet the results which the central powers have achieved are fleeting and evanescent, because they are divorced from the sea, and seapower works surely, if slowly. A parallel may be found in the history of Napoleon. Six years after Nelson's death in the hour of his greatest triumph Napoleon ruled practically the whole of Europe; one nation after another passed under his power. If he could have signed peace in 1812 he would have secured terms which would have left him absolute master of the destinies of Europe. The Emperor William II., has achieved nothing which can be compared with the apparently complete success of Napoleon. He also has endeavored to close his eyes to the influence of sea-power, but Nemesis, in the form of the trident of Neptune, which he once thought to have in his "fist," is casting its shadow over his dreams.—Daily Telegraph, London.

OTTAWA LIBERAL ORGAN CONDEMNS CHIEF'S STAND

E. N. Smith, editor of the Ottawa Free Press, Liberal organ in the capital, in a signed article strongly condemns Sir Wilfrid Laurier's refusal to assist in recruiting. He says:

"The Free Press feels impelled to say very frankly, though with regret, that it is extremely disappointed with Sir Wilfrid Laurier's reply to the prime minister. The position of Sir Thomas Tait whether on or off the national service commission, the duties and powers of the commission toward stimulating and regulating enlistment, it seems to the Free Press, have absolutely nothing whatever to do with the selection of a joint committee of parliament to prepare a call to every individual in the nation to serve the great cause of the war in some capacity or other. We have only too much reason to fear that Sir Wilfrid's refusal on behalf of the Liberal party will be hailed as support for the attitude of certain misguided men whose arguments and conduct in the war crisis have disgusted the vast majority of the Canadian people from coast to coast."

The Free Press asserts that Sir Wilfrid has done a great injury to recruiting.

PRIZES FOR LARGE FAMILIES IN FRANCE

The birth rate presented a serious problem in France before the war. It will be much more so now, as in every other belligerent country. Much interest accordingly attaches to the announcement which has been made by M. Lamy, perpetual secretary of the French Academy, whose visit to Edmonton a few years ago will be remembered, that he is setting aside 500,000 francs to found an annual prize for large families. In order that those will not be attracted who "will make of their fecundity a vile commerce," he is acting in the matter in close association with the church.

Fully convinced, Mr. Lamy says, that it is for the highest interests of France to restore the fecundity of our race, that the most efficacious guide in this duty is religion and that every Frenchman ought to hasten the resurrection of our national life, I wish to aid some of those parents who with willing hearts undergo daily privations in order to see the "home rich with children." The annual revenue of this foundation which amounts to almost 25,000 francs, shall be distributed each year between two of the largest families of French Catholics, chosen from the poorest and most virtuous.

That other agencies will be set at work after the war with a similar object in view is certain.—Edmonton Journal.

NEED 5000 MEN FOR CANADIAN CAVALRY

Opportunity to Be Given to Horsemen Who Have Been Unwilling to Enlist as Infantrymen.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Lieut.-Col. H. A. W. Arnold of the Royal Canadian dragoon reserve, has been authorized by the minister of militia to recruit for the Canadian cavalry depot in England, throughout Canada.

It is understood there are a large number of men in Canada who would be willing to join cavalry units instead of infantry battalions, and it is to reach this class of men that Col. Arnold will undertake his recruiting tour. These men will be sent to England at once and trained in the Canadian cavalry depot there for service at the front. It is expected that when there is more fighting in open country there will be a great opportunity for Canadian cavalry and it is for this purpose that Canadian cavalry now will be recruited. This will give an opportunity to many Canadian horsemen who have not yet felt the desire to go into an infantry unit to enlist at once.

The headquarters of Col. Arnold will be at Winnipeg but arrangements will be made for an assembling point in the different provinces.

MAJOR C. J. MOSS DIES OF WOUNDS

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Major C. J. Moss, son of the late chief justice, Sir Charles Moss, and himself one of the most popular and prominent members of the Ontario bar, has died at the Red Cross hospital at Rouen from wounds.

Major Moss was a candidate in northeast Toronto in the Liberal interest in the provincial election of June, 1914.

"Is my Pat here?" she asked.

"No," replied the desk officer; "but sit down, we're expecting him every minute."

RESOURCES AND NATURAL BEAUTY OF TRANSYLVANIA

BUDAPEST, Hungary.—Now that the fighting has extended into Transylvania and the famous Iron Gates have been passed by the Rumanians, it is interesting to recall the fact that it was just 20 years ago, on Sept. 15, 1896, that the channel of the Iron Gates was declared open in the presence of King Francis Joseph, the Kings of Rumania and Serbia and the diplomatic corps of Austria-Hungary. Previous to that date the Danube in this neighborhood was not navigable by large vessels for upwards of 60 miles of its course, owing to the numerous cataracts and enormous masses of rock projecting from the bed of the river. It was Count Szechenyi who first planned the improvements which rendered the river available for traffic. The gigantic works involved the removal of hundreds of thousands of tons of solid rock and the building of walls and dams representing about the same amount of stone and concrete.

But this part of the Danube is not only commercially important, it is also rich in natural beauty and historical associations and above all many of the great treasures of Transylvania are heaped up here. The Kazan pass, a strikingly beautiful spot, where the bed of the river narrows down from 1100 yards to about 180 yards and where the huge volume of water rushes along its narrow bed between lofty forest-clad hills, was well known to the Romans. This fact is attested to both by the remains of an excellent Roman road and by a Latin inscription still to be seen carved on the rocks opposite Ogrodina, and in which the name of the Emperor Trajan appears.

Other valuable portions of this rich district were also known to the Romans, for example, the powerful spring near Mehadia. The Romans called them Thermae Herculis, and this appelation has been preserved in the modern name, Herkulesmurdo (Hercules' baths.) This exquisite district which has apparently been occupied by the Rumanians, combines the beauty of almost primeval forest scenery with the most modern comfort and conveniences. The glistening white colonnades and brilliantly lighted hotels, seen against a background of dense blue-black pine forest, make a striking picture whilst the winding winding mountain roads lead up to peaks affording magnificent views. The high temperature of the waters accounts for the semi-tropical vegetation, which one is surprised to find there. For instance, the Egyptian lotus flower in the open air in the vicinity of the hot springs.

The Hercules baths, however, are by no means the only celebrated ones in Transylvania. Equally famous is Borszek in East Transylvania, with its sparkling waters. A specialty of Borszek are the "bubbling baths," the entire volume of water being kept in a constant turmoil by the enormous amount of carbonic acid gas. The very strong sulphur springs of Transylvania produce about 4000 gallons of water in an hour. At Szovata are the famous salt baths, and in this neighborhood all the rocks are of a glistening white. The high percentage of salt in the water makes the production of salt very easy and profitable. Kovaszna is so rich in springs, including excellent chalybeate waters that it has very often happened that a spring has suddenly burst forth in a garden to become a permanent source of income to the fortunate owner. In Elopatak the ferruginous waters are so rich in iron that leaves and twigs after lying some time in the water look like metallic objects.

The district of Pokolsar has recently awakened considerable interest by reason of the quantities of combustible gas which have poured forth from the soil. Among the most valuable treasures of Transylvania, however, are its mines. It is a well known fact that the Transylvanian mountains are rich in gold, copper and iron as well as in coal. This is indicated by the names given by the inhabitants to various parts of the mountain ranges. The richest copper producing districts are in the neighborhood of Balanhavas, where the metal is worked at five different levels. Great quantities of reddish water, impregnated with copper flow out from the mines and in the bed of the stream thus formed old iron is placed on which the copper becomes deposited.

In the Hargita muntains quicksilver as well as iron is found. The extensive forests of Transylvania timber in great quantities, principally oak and beech. The great timber yards all worked by electricity, are kept going day and night, and at night the brilliantly lighted yards, surrounded by the dense woods are a striking sight.

WORK OF MILITARY TRIBUNALS INDICATED

LONDON, England.—The amount of work placed upon the tribunals which have been set up by the military service acts is indicated by Sir Vezey Strong, the chairman of the City of London tribunal, in a letter to Mr. Walter Long, president of the local government board.

Up to the beginning of September, writes Sir Vezey Strong, we have had lodged with us claims amounting to no less than 52,468, and during the same period had dealt with and given awards to 40,807 of that number, leaving rather less than 12,000 to be dealt with, on which we are now engaged. The taking away of men from their civil employment must necessarily impose upon the businesses of which they form part, serious inconvenience, and yet so loyal and patriotic have the citizens of London been that only 1550 appeals have been lodged against the decisions arrived at, and out of these appeals, when heard by the appeal tribunal, I canot recall one single case where our decision has been reversed; some have been a little varied, mostly upon fresh evidence, and in the result perhaps postponements granted by us have been slightly extended. This important and extensive work could not have been accomplished within the period of operation had it not been for the fact that all have endeavored patriotically to support the country's needs.

My tribunal has sat in sections daily from 11 a. m. until as late as 8 o'clock and even after that, and it will be readily understood that the preparation of the work and carrying out all administrative details has been a task of great magnitude. As a result of these eight months of daily sittings, the fighting forces of the crown have been augmented by many thousands of patriotic volunteers, while most of those to whom postponement has been granted—in response to the applications of their employers—have been asked to devote a reasonable proportion of such postponement from active service to military training, by becoming effective members of any recognized volunteer corps most conveniently situated to each, so that by the time their respective periods of postponment expire they shall join the colors not as raw recruits, but as men with at least the elements of a soldier's drills and duties already mastered.

We have also secured the most valuable help of many distinguished citizens representing various sections of trade and financial interests who have formed separate preliminary committees for investigation of the many claims lodged. These investigations have in turn been submitted to the representative of the military authorities, with the result that in many cases we have been able to deal with groups of appeals sent in by large employers of labor on behalf of the whole of their staff, although in many cases actually employed in branches located all over the kingdom.

In addition to this regular work of the tribunal we have, at the request of the minister of munitions, examined into the large staffs of the telegraph, maintenance and cable companies hitherto badged, with a view to recommending the munitions department to release some of these men for active military service. To these requests we have given willing service, and are gratified by the acknowledgment of his majesty's minister that our recommendations in regard thereto are highly appreciated by and proved useful to the department.

Members of the tribunal, concludes Sir Vezey Strong, have generously disregarded, if not entirely forsaken, the claims of their own respective businesses, and given unsparingly their time and the advantage of their wide commercial and financial experience unreservedly to the service of the state, in which indeed we have all felt it a great honor and privilege to be engaged.

UNREST IN DUTCH SHIPPING ALLAYED

LONDON, England.—The Great Eastern Railway Magazine, in a "Captain Fryatt Number," publishes an interesting letter showing the moral effect on neutral shipping which the continuance of the running of the Great Eastern railway steamers had. The magazine says:

There was something to account for the peculiar hatred that appears to have been centered upon the unfortunate master of the Brussels. It is not to be supposed that the Germans cared two straws about the fate of the submarine crew, but the exploit occurred at a time when it pointedly demonstrated to a Dutch population, liable to be overawed by their powerful and terrible neighbor, that the submarine terrorism so bombastically announced and so ruthlessly carried out was not competent to keep British shipping off the seas. Although the Germans held half of the Belgian coast, the Great Eastern railway steamers continued to carry cargo into and out of Rotterdam. The following letter to the company, dated April 8, 1915, clearly demonstrates the value attached to the service by the British government:

"I am commanded by the lords commissioners of the admiralty to inform you that H. M. consul-general at Rotterdam has called the attention of the secretary of state for foreign affairs to the highly courageous and meritorious conduct of the masters of the S. S. Cromer, Brussels, Colchester, and Wrexham, which during the whole period of hostilities have run between Rotterdam and Harwich. The fact of these British boats running regularly is reported to have had a great moral effect locally at a time when Dutch and other ships have ceased running and showed nervousness. In forwarding this report the secretary of state for foreign affairs has expressed his appreciation of the services rendered by these officers. My lords indorse Sir E. Grey's approbation, and desire that you will be good enough to convey his thanks and theirs to the officers concerned for their conduct, which has reflected credit on British seamanship."

VALUE OF DUTY ON APPLES POINTED OUT

Tremendous Production in United States Shown in Memorial to Dominions' Royal Commission.

(Special to The Daily News.)

PENTICTON, B. C., Oct. 25.—Some rather interesting facts in regard to the fruit industry were brought to light in connection with the visit of the dominions' royal commission to the Okanagan valley. A memorial was presented setting forth the views of the fruit men, and what they considered necessary for the further success and development of the fruit industry. One matter dealt with was the relation of the prosperity of the industry to American competition and the necessity for the duty placed on apples last winter, when it was raised to 90 cents per barrel or 30 cents per box.

It appears from official sources that in the United States the average commercial production for the years 1900 to 1910 was 35,000,000 barrels, fair prices being paid to the producer. By 1912 production in the states had overtaken the demand, and in 1914 the pack amounted to 86,300,000 barrels, of which 45,000,000 filled all requirements, the balance being wasted, with very heavy losses to the producer. The prices of 1914 were bad enough, but those of 1914 were simply disastrous to the grower. Ten years ago the northwestern states were not in the market as producers of apples. However, orchard planting of immense areas began soon afterward, and was continued for about 10 years. There are now over 350,000 acres in apples in those states, of which only a small proportion is yet bearing. Yet in 1914 they shipped 14,000 carloads, while it is estimated that by 1920 they will be in a position to ship 40,000 to 50,000 carloads. So from these figures it becomes plain that by 1920 there will be enormous overproduction. In 1914 these northwestern states dumped into the Canadian prairie provinces hundreds of carloads, in some instances on a guarantee from the consignee of 30 cents per box, but oftener on consignment for just what they would bring.

In 1911 Canada had 14,830,500 apple trees of which only 50 per cent were bearing. The average production was 5,000,000 barrels or 15,000,000 boxes. Canada exported one and one-quarter million barrels per annum. In 1910 the capital invested in the industry amounted to $127,000,000.

The report also goes into the conditions of the industry in the province, and after reviewing the opportunities in foreign markets concludes with the following recommendations:

1. Preferable protection for the colonies in the British home market.
2. Preferable protection on reciprocal terms inter-colonially.
3. Extension of markets with the allied nations.
4. Assistance either by Dominion or imperial authorities or conjointly—in providing sufficient oversea cold storage space by subsidizing steamship lines with preference for such space to colonial shippers as against foreigners.
5. Subsidizing steamship lines from British Columbia to South America and West Indies to the Panama canal.
6. Amelioration of labor difficulty by assisted settlement.

INJUNCTION TIES UP PROPERTY IN FERNIE

Restraining Order Against J. R. Pollock and Wife Issued for Imperial Bank Continued.

(Special to The Daily News.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 25.—The Imperial bank this morning obtained a continuance of an injunction against Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pollock of Fernie to restrain either of them from dealing with $95,000 worth of securities which it is alleged Pollock transferred to his wife a few weeks before the bank obtained a judgment for $22,457 and costs against him last June.

Robert Smith, who appeared with the application before Justice Morrison, produced an inventory of securities which it is alleged Pollock filed with the bank Nov. 6, 1914, showing Pollock to be worth $95,000. He also produced a letter from the sheriff's officer at Fernie stating that Sept. 13 when he tried to serve a writ on Pollock he discovered that the defendant had no assets to attach.

It is alleged that in April of this year Pollock transferred to his wife without consideration shares in the Pollock Wine company and in the Elk Valley Brewery company, timber licenses, household furniture and other assets. Having obtained judgment on its $22,457 claim the bank is now suing to have the transfers made by Pollock to his wife set aside.

Justice Morrison in continuing the injunction until the trial of the action gave leave to either side to appear in the meantime.

TERRIFIED HINDU BREAKS INTO JAIL

Frightened Native Tells Victoria Police Story of Being Pursued and Threatened.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 25.—Almost insane from fright, occasioned by his belief that fellow countrymen intent upon his death were after him, Sewa Singh, a Hindu workman at the mill of Moore & Whittington, burst into the police station last night. His fright was such that when the police first were apprised of his presence he was attempting to tear off the bars over one of the windows of the jail, evidently under the impression that the bars were on the door. It was nearly an hour before he became calm enough to talk and then his efforts to make himself understood were practically futile.

From what could be learned it appeared he had come from Vancouver recently, intending to recruit a number of his countrymen for a construction battalion. Papers in his possession showed that while in Vancouver he had taken this project up with the military officials. The cause of his trouble, it seems, was the fact that he had acted as a witness for the immigration authorities at the time of the now famous Komagata Maru case and the unsuccessful effort of the load of Hindus to land in Canada was frustrated by the authorities. Since that time several murders have occurred in the Hindu colony in Vancouver, all arising out of the trouble which occurred among the Hindus on that occasion.

Sewa Singh had difficulty in explaining last night that he was talking with others of his countrymen in a house the location of which he could not describe, that the Komagata Maru case and his participation therein was referred to, whereupon one of them reached for a sword hanging on the wall. That was enough for Sewa, who burst out of the house and at top speed made for police headquarters, where he sought shelter. His pursuers, if they actually did follow him, did not come in sight of the police station.

AT THE THEATRES.

Starland

Miss Peggy Hyland, the talented little English actress, whose recent arrival in America to appear exclusively on the screen under the management of the Famous Players Film company, has created considerable newspaper comment, makes her debut to the American public in a picturization of Henry Arthur Jones' noted dramatic success, "Saints and Sinners." This current release on the Paramount program will be shown at the Starland Saturday and Monday.

It is a matter of odd interest that Miss Hyland, who has distinguished herself abroad in the stellar roles of many stage successes, should appear in her first American screen offering in an Englishman's play, and a drama moreover, that won its first success in Europe, repeating its stage triumph later in the United States.

NEGOTIATION OF THE CASTELLO PEAK

ROME, Italy—A communication to the Corriere della Sera relates how, although the towering heights of the Tofana group of the Dolomites and Cima Bois on the opposite side of Val Travenanzes were already in the possession of the Italians, the road along the Val Costeana running from Cortina to the Falzarego pass was rendered insecure for almost a year by the Austrian guns stationed at Castelletto.

Five determined attacks were made upon this height, but although not formidable in aspect when compared with surrounding giants of over 3000 metres, it nevertheless proved impregnable. With advanced posts on Cima Bois and Falzarego, the road along the Costeana was of prime importance to the Italians. Night after night it had to be traversed, the men's feet and the hoofs of the beasts muffled with straw that no sound might reach the ears of the enemy.

The precaution, however, was of little use, as the Austrians knew there must be movement upon the road whether they heard it or not, and it was therefore, kept under fire. Yet night after night the heroic march along the road was made. After the failure of the last attack upon Costello in October, 1915, it was determined to blow up the height that could not be taken otherwise. During November and December of last year two sub-lieutenants took all the necessary measurements and topographical observations.

Garbed in white overalls they carried on their work by night, climbing up the rocks or suspended by ropes over the precipices of Monte Tofana, carrying their trigonometers with them and making difficult and delicate calculations, to be borne in memory until some sheltering projection offered the chance of writing them down by the light of an electric pocket lamp.

In January, by displacing 700 cubic meters of rock with the pickaxe and by blasting, the trenches and sheds for the mining detachment were made on a part of Monte Tofana somewhat sheltered from Austrian fire. Fourteen metres of tunneling and room for the first boring machine were the work of pickaxes alone, and then all the needful machinery was carried by hand along passages exposed to the fire of the enemy some of the pieces weighing as much as six quintels. At the beginning of April boring by machine was started, squads of 30 Alpini taking shifts of 6 hours each. The mine of Castelletto is the largest that has ever been laid, the tunnel ran over half a kilometre into the rock in two branches, displacing 2200 cubic metres of rock. Thirty-five tons of explosive gellatine were used, which represents a greater explosive force than the 70 tons of dynamite used in the big mining operations of the Penama canal. After the explosion had taken place, it was 36 hours before the gasses had dissipated sufficiently for approach to be possible.

The Canadian cruiser Rainbow arrived at Panama last week for supplies.

Trading in New York of Highly Speculative Character—Investment Issues Are Irregular.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Technical conditions as presented mainly by the extended bull account outweighed more favorable developments of a general nature in today's active market, leading stocks again reacting moderately after an early period of irregularity.

The highly professional character of the trading was evidenced by the extraordinary activity of issues having only potential or future value, especially Rock Island, which outranked all other stocks in its extreme rise of 7⅞ to 34⅞ with an overturn of 225,000 shares. Early in the month Rock Island sold at 18.

Other strong and active stocks of the same class included Denver & Rio Grande common and preferred, at gains of 4¼ and 5½ points respectively, with 1 to over 3 points for Missouri Pacific, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Texas Pacific, Lake Erie & Western, St. Louis & San Francisco, Minneapolis & St. Louis and Seaboard Air line.

Together with Rock Island these stocks made up fuly 40 per cent of the total aggregate of 1,240,000 shares.

Investment rails were irregular to heavy throughout, pressure being most marked in Reading and other coalers, as well as Union Pacific and some of the grangers and trunk lines.

United States Steel also denoted bearish activity on its occasional manifestations of strength, closing at 117⅞ its low quotation of the session, a net loss of 1⅛.

High records made during the morning by the sugars were wholly or partly surrendered later.

Total sales of bonds, par value, $6,125,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WELCOME TO BRITISH REGIMENT IN MYSORE

LONDON, England—An account of the welcome given to a British regi- ment in Mysore, India, is contained in a letter written by a soldier in a Lancashire regiment to his home. At the municipal boundary, the writer says, we were met by the three bands of His Highness the Maharaja, and we passed under a triumphal arch with the bands playing "The British Grenidiers." It enlivened our progress through streets gay with bunting and amid shouts of welcome. Every pos- sible honor was accorded to us in a reception such as can rarely have been given to a British regiment in the an- nals of history. We were conducted through the beautiful Curzon park on to the ground immediately facing gov- ernment house.

In the marquess on each side of the drive a banquet fit for a king was spread. Afterwards conveyances of all kinds were placed at our disposal— motor cars, horse, camel and bullock gharries. What a merry lot we were. Our tour through the city was one of unalloyed delight. The Royal zoo, with its magnificent collection, the royal stables, garage, summer palace, all being thrown open for our enter- tainment. At 6 p.m. His Highness, escorted by a wonderfully picturesque and soldierly mounted escort, in at- tractive uniforms of yellow and black, rode up and received a royal salute from the British troops, who were re- viewed. We gave him three British cheers, with helmets off, such as he had never heard before.

A brief march through the streets of the city brought up to Hardinge circle, and then to the courtyard of the Maharaja's palace. The magnifi- cent building suddenly burst into a blaze of glorious light—some 15,000 el- ectric globes shone from every line, every nook and corner into the night providing a spectacle of regal bril- liance. Our commanding officer told us that His Highness, to accord us the greatest possible honor, would permit us to go over his palace. We were impressed into silence as we filed all along the galleries of choice marble, under ceilings beautifully molded, de- licately tinted and gilded.

Passing doors of sandalwood and silver, carved and chased, we entered the throne room containing the bril- liant Mysore throne. It was made of chased gold and set with diamonds presented to an old-time ruler by one of the emperors at Delhi. It rests on four golden lions whose eyes are flashing rubies. A flight of silver steps leads to the seat, which has cushions of gold cloth. Tassels of ropes of pearls hang about the arms. Above these is a golden umbrella with fringe of pearls, set with dazzling gems and on the top of it perches a golden par- rot set with emeralds and diamonds, holding an emerald pendant in its beak. Then we passed into the state room which held every eye in sheer delight as we gazed on the luxurious furnishings. We left the gorgeous awe inspired by its beauty, and were glad to give vent to our feelings when the colonel called for three more cheers for His Highness. Torch bearers met us and accompanied us 4 1-2 miles back to camp, which we reached with thoughts of abiding gratitude. It was a "long, long way" but we shall never forget what such loyalty to Britain means.

AUSTRALIA SOON TO VOTE ON COMPULSION

Commonwealth in Throes of Bitter Campaign Which Has Caused Splits in Parties.

(By Daily News Leased Wire.)

MELBOURNE, Oct. 25.—The Aus- tralian commonwealth now is in the throes of a campaign for and against compulsory military service which was brought on a few weeks ago by the decision of the Hughes government to submit the question to a referendum to be held Oct. 28.

The enlistment situation up to the end of September showed that 103,000 reinforcements had been voluntarily enrolled, additional reinforcements re- quired up to July 1 next are 100,000 and 125,000 men are available accord- ing to the war census "who are fit, single and without dependents."

The government's plan is that volun- tary recruiting is to be continued; the deficiency to be made up by con- scription; men to be called up month by month as required, no compulsory calling up of men under 21 years old, absolute exemptions otherwise are: (1) only sons; (2) single men who are the sole support of dependents; (3) in families which have already furnished volunteers no calling up of the re- maining members of the family up to one-half; constitution of military tri- bunals to hear appeals for exemption.

The referendum question which will be submitted to the electors on Oct. 28 and which the men and women vot- ers of the commonwealth at home and on active service abroad will answer simply with the words "Yes" or "No" will read as follows:

"Are you in favor of the government having in this grave emergency the same compulsory powers over citi- zens in regard to requiring their mil- itary service for the term of this war outside the commonwealth as it now has in regard to military service with- in the commonwealth?"

Party Split.

Since the prime minister came out for compulsory service events have been rapid and dramatic. The Labor party, of which Mr. Hughes was a founder, is split into two factions over the issue of conscription. He with the most of the federal Labor party—that is, those members of it in the com- monwealth parliament—and some members of the state Labor govern- ments of New South Wales and South Australia are ranged on the side of conscription and bitterly opposed to him and his supporters are several members of the federal party, power- ful trades unionist bodies in Melbourne and Sydney and Laborite politicians in several state governments.

Mr. Hughes has been expelled from the political Labor league of New South Wales by the officers of that organization, which represents various unions, but he refuses to recognize their action. Other leading Laborites in public life are under almost as se- vere a ban. The minister of customs, Frank G. Tudors, resigned from the Hughes cabinet recently because he was out of sympathy with his chief on the question of conscription, but to offset the cleavage in his own party, which is growing more pronounced as the day for voting approaches, Mr. Hughes has the backing of his ordi- narily determined political antagonists the Liberals both in the federal par- liament and in the various state houses. The referendum bill which has just passed the commonwealth parliament and provides for the taking of the referendum, was helped through that body by solid Liberal votes.

Quotes Lincoln.

In a manifesto addressed to the vot- ers of the commonwealth appealing to them to vote "Yes" on the referendum Mr. Hughes quoted President Lincoln's defense of a draft at the height of the civil war and added:

"At it was in the northern states in Lincoln's time, so it is with us to- day. Like them, we fight in the cause of liberty. Voluntarism has failed us as it failed them. And we, like them, unless we confess ourselves degener- ate, must tread the path they trod to victory."

RAW COTTON NOW BRINGS HIGH PRICES

Top Level Since Civil War—Figures Above 18c Contrast With 7.15c at Outbreak of European War.

For the first time since the Civil war raw cotton has sold at more than 18c a pound. This high mark con- trasts with the low point registered shortly after the outbreak of the pres- ent war, when cotton sold at 7.15c a pound.

The renewal of the submarine cam- paign by Germany which sent to the bottom a large amount of cotton des- tined for the allies, combined with the sharp increase in domestic consump- tion and a marked falling off in the crop this year due to unfavorable con- ditions over the cotton belt, explain the recent and sudden advance of cot- ton futures into new high territory. The domestic consumption for Septem- ber, excluding linters, of 529,227 bales, was an increase of 30,489 bales over last year, and exports, including lin- ters, for the same month, were 526,346 bales compared with 501,585 bales last year.

An extraordinary situation exists in the spot market. For every bale of cotton offered there is said to be several purchasers. It is now be- lieved that before the next season's crop is marketed a shortage will actu- ally exist for the staple. Since the last publication by the United States government, giving the estimated final production of 11,637,000 bales and the cotton condition 56.3, weather condi- tions have been unsatisfactory, which it is expected will considerably cut down these figures. Another impor- tant factor in assisting the upward rush of prices has been the steady and persistent increase in United States exports of cotton.

Christopher Quinn, of Guelph fell from an apple tree and it is thought his back is broken.

ECONOMIC CONDITION OF NORWAY IMPROVES

CHRISTINIA, Norway—At the pre- sent time shipping and exporting are bringing much money into Norway, but this easily earned capital is not proving beneficial in every instance. Prices are extremely high, and those who have fixed incomes are finding things very difficult. Though the ex- portation of foodstuffs and other ne- cessaries is for the most part prohibi- ted, the producers of such goods are urgin the authorities to grant them licenses or special permits so that they may enjoy the high prices which the belligerents are willing to pay.

The farmers, who form the bulk of the population, envy the shipping and industrial classes for taking the lion's share of the profits ensuing from war conditions. They too, want their share or if possible even more, and the au- thorities who are more or less depen- dent on their vote at the elections are often only too willing to grant licen- ses or special permits in cases where in the interests of the whole commun- ity they ought certainly to refuse.

Prices are thus kept up owing to competition for the goods among the belligerents. The authorities have en- deavored to rectify matters by fixing maximum prices, but in not a few in- stances, this measure, far from being successful has kept up prices artifi- cially when in ordinary circumstances they would naturally have fallen. For instance, during the summer mackerel fishing is an important industry along the Norwegian coast, and this fish is a favorite dish among all classes.

Prices for mackerel used to be very high when fishing first commenced, but dropped gradually as the season progressed. This year prices were ex- ceedingly high at the start; the gov- ernment therefore, fixed a maximum price to prevent further inflation. La- ter on, however, when prices would have naturally fallen below the official maximum, the fishermen insisted that the maximum price should be retained, and thereatened to stop fishing alto- gether or throw their supplies over- board if it were altered. The govern- ment, therefore, had to give in, and by forming a ring compelled the con- sumers to pay the maximum price for the entire season.

The government has likewise been much criticized for what is considered its unpractical methods for dealing with the country's supplies of staple neces- sities, such as grain, meat and so forth. The chief grievance brought against it is that it has shown too much distrust of the leading commer- cial classes, and has cooperated too lit- tle with them to insure success, where- as bureaucratic ideas have been fol- lowed too closely. The British block- ade, together with the mistakes that have been made, have forced prices up to a higher level than that of any other country. People coming from Germany say that prices are even higher in Norway than in Germany.

The high freights have induced all kinds of people to speculate in ship- ping. New shipping companies have sprunk up like mushrooms. The news papers are filled with whole page ad- vertisement inviting people to take up shares in new maritime ventures. Steamers have been bought from Am- erica and Japan at fabulous prices. Shares in old-established, solid ship- ping firms have been purchased at prices showing an appreciation in val- ue of several hundred per cent, and speculation on a vast scale has been indulged in by many sections of the populace. As a result, there has been an enormous amount of extragance displayed, but, if a popular saying may be used, "when peace breaks out" the inevitable reaction is sure to follow.

On the other hand, however, much benefit has come with this influx of money into the country. A large sum of capital has been accumulated into the hands of wise business men for the creation of new enterprises or the extension of old ones on a sound basis and a large part of the industries that formerly belonged to the capitalists in rich belligerent countries have been nationalized by the shares which were held abroad being bought up by Nor- wegian capital. On the whole there is reason to believe that despite such excesses as mentioned, the economic position of Norway has been more firmly established since the war broke out.

GOT ORDER JUST IN TIME TO STOP STRIKE

It Was 1:30 Yesterday Afternoon Before All Messages to Men in This District Were Received.

Cancelation of the railroad strike order which would have become effective at 3 o'clock Pacific time yesterday in this division was sent out in the nick of time to prevent a tie-up. The result was that there was not the slightest delay in operation of trains.

It was not until late yesterday morning that a settlement was finally reached in Winnipeg with the result that it was 1:30 in the afternoon before the Nelson committee got its strike cancelation orders to all the men affected. The orders had to be wired to various stations throughout the division.

Every cancelation order was in code corresponding to a code given each man at the time the strike order was issued.

Local railroad men were doubly delighted to have secured an agreement to their requests and to have avaided a strike and tie-up.

HIGHER THEATRE STANDARDS

LONDON, England.—Gen. Sir H. L. Smith-Dorien, well known for his work during the retreat of the British army from Mons in 1914, has recently been urging in letters to the press that the tone of theatrical performances should be raised to a higher standard.

As a result of his first appeal, he says, he has received masses of correspondence confirming his statement that some action in the matter was necessary. On behalf of the army and of the future of the nation, he urged that it is possible for managers to maintain a higher standard in their performances than they do in many cases at present without losing their patronage, so fulfilling the educative purpose that has been often achieved in the past.
