VOL. 20. NELSON, B.C., SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 7, 1922. NO. 215.

DE VALERA TAKES EMOTIONAL FAREWELL OF DAIL EIREANN IN SPEECH OF RESIGNATION

Blows Both Hot and Cold; Talks of Retiring to Private Life; In Same Breath Speaks of Selecting New Cabinet if Reelected; Both Sides Resent Diversion of Dail Eireann From Treaty Question; Anxious for Speedy Vote; De Valera Satisfied if Vote Taken in 48 Hours.

DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—Eamonn de Valera today before the Dail Eireann, re*signed his post as "president of the* Irish republic."

Later, however, he was understood to say that he would postpone his decision to leave office pending a vote on the peace treaty with Great Britain if the statement that whatever happened he would retire to private life; but also in the same breath he spoke of selecting a new "cabinet" if he was reelected chief executive.

Assertions Conflict

From these conflicting assertions, the inference was drawn by those attending the session of the Dail Eireann that if the treaty was rejected, De Valera would remain in office and endeavor to negotiate a treaty with the British government on the basis of his alternative proposal, but that if the Dail accepted the treaty he would definitely retire from public life.

The Dail adjourned this evening at seven o'clock to meet again tomorrow for further discussion of the treaty. Several of the members stated tonight that a vote on the treaty undoubtedly would be taken before seven o'clock Saturday evening.

Supporters of the treaty continued to express confidence that it would be ratified by a small majority, but the people of Dublin are showing great anxiety over the outcome. With the Dail so divided, fears are entertained that acceptance of the treaty will not necessarily solve Ireland's troubles and fears were expressed in some quarters today that there is great danger of internal strife.

Resignation Is Emotional

De Valera threatened to resign during a private session of the Dail Eireann this morning at which an eleventh hour attempt was being made by the peace committee to effect an agreement between the opposing factions on the treaty. When the Dail convened in open session, he announced his resignation in the course of an eloquent speech, during which he was moved to such depths of emotion that tears stood in his eyes and his voice occasionally was choked with sobs.

The members of the Dail appeared much affected by what seemed the farewell of its "president" for whom, whatever their views on the treaty issue, they have shown during the debate they entertain the most profound respect.

Sidetracks Srtaight Vote

The announcement of the resignation of De Valera was received with manifest irritation by leading supporters of the peace treaty, who regarded it as a means of sidetracking a straight vote on the issue. Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins both urged the desirability of carrying out the agreement for a direct vote on the treaty, while Michael Cosgrove pointed out that any consideration of De Valera's speech of resignation must be postponed until the matter in hand was disposed of. He carried the speaker with him in his contention that the president's resignation, which might equally as well have been tendered a month ago, was not at the present time an urgent matter within the meaning of the standing orders of the Dail.

Choose Between Policies

De Valera made it plain in his speech of resignation that his object was to enable the Dail to choose between what he called the representatives of two fundamentally opposed policies, Irish republicanism and British citizenship. He said he would *not carry on without having full con*fidence in his "cabinet" some of the members of which had divulged to the press a document that he had asked should be regarded as confidential. If he should be reelected, he said, he would choose his own cabinet and must have full and sole command of all resources and materials for the defense of the Republic.

Later on he complained of the interference of Michael Collins with the army in relation to the kidnaping of the correspondent of the London Times. This, he said, showed that undivided control of the Republican army was vital.

In his speech announcing his resignation, De Valera described himself as having been for four years successful in reconciling and keeping united the two opposing schools of opinion represented by Charles Burgess and Arthur Griffith. He said this unity had been maintained till the treaty was signed in London, which had brought about an inevitable breach. He appealed to his record as a soldier and expressed great scorn for tricksters in politics with which he had had experience during the past few weeks. The "president" waxed eloquent when he referred to having been reared in a laborer's cottage in Limerick and in his uncompromising declaration for Ireland's seperate nationality. He said that he was not now even tecnically a British subject and that he would die without becoming one. Though he was not a member of the Irish Republican brotherhood, he said, he hoped when he died he would have a Frenian grave. These declarations invoked the loudest cheering from his supporters that he had received since the Dail began its session.

Anxious For Speedy Vote

The protest against diverting the Dail Eireann from the main point in dispute before it, namely, the ratification or rejection of the treaty, revealed the leaders on both sides of the controversy as equally anxious for a speedy vote, and eventually Mr. de Valera declared that if a ballot was taken within 48 hours he would be quite satisfied.

Meanwhile, although he did not say so expressly, it was understood that his resignation would be held in abeyance

DUBLIN, Jan. 6.—Eamonn de Valera rose at once on the reassembling of the Dail and delivered a long set speech. He recalled the history of his connection with the movement until now the Dail had reached a point when the cabinet was as completely and irrevocably split as was possible. The separation was not on personalities but on absolute fundamentals.

The cabinet had since Dec. 6, 1921, been trying to keep together nominally as a unified executive, but the time had come when that must be ended.

Stands for Fundamentals.

If he were to keep the chief executive authority in the republic, De Valera added, he would be in duty bound to preserve the republic and use all means at his disposal. The Dail could not have one section of the cabinet standing on one policy and the other on a fundamentally opposite poffcy, one meaning preservation of the republic and independence and the other meaning subversion of that independence. His fundamental creed, De Valera declared, was government of the Irish people, by the Irish people, for the Irish people. Anything which detracted from the fundamental authority of the people was abso*lutely against his principle* and a subversion of nationality. He entered politics as a soldier, standing for the principles of those who proclaimed the republic in 1916. When he went to Clare he read their proclamation and told Clare he stood for that. The people had been told they had no right to rebel, as it was called, because they did not represent the people, but that was an untruth. It was proved historically that the men of 1916 represented the heart, soul and aspirations of the Irish nation. No nation taken under duress or otherwise could disprove that.

Holding Balance.

De Valera described his position as one of preserving the balance between Charles Burgess, the Sinn Fein "minister of defense," who surrendered the military leadership to him, and Arthur Griffith, who surrendered the political leadership. He was, he declared, a sort of connecting link between the two sides.

This was successful for four years. A union of these forces was absolutely essential to national success. There had been no question of asking the Irish to enter into an arrangement making them subject to the crown or to require allegiance to the British King, De Valera said.

If war was attempted, the speaker continued, the people would face it and the Irish delegates were told this and were informed that the sooner the British cabinet realized it the better. The document brought by the delegates from London on December 2 was inconsistent with that position.

Arthur Griffith, he said, declared he would not break on the point regarding the crown, so it was clear that this would involve a split in the country. A promise accordingly was given that a document involving the making of Irish citizens British subjects would not be signed till submitted to the Irish parliament.

He was certain that this promise would be fulfilled, De Valera said, that when he heard an agreement had been reached he said: "We have won." But when he saw in the newspapers that the agreement reached was one absolutely inconsistent with Irish tradition and against the state as it stood, he knew that a practically irrevocable step had been taken.

Cites Switzerland

De Valera said he had been pressing in his efforts to achieve peace. There was the view of an Irish state as a sovereign independent state and the view that Ireland should be a sovereign state, absolutely isolated, such as Switzerland.

He attacked that political problem and he saw nothing in the proposal he made inconsistent with the complete independence of Irish nationality. He had drafted his proposal roughly, and it was presented, just as drafted, to the cabinet. It had been asked that it be regarded as a confidential document, but that confidence was broken and he could not try to "carry on" unless he had confidence in the members of the cabinet.

Document a Red Herring

This document has been used as a "red herring" across the tracks, De Valera said, but that he felt he was doing something, not merely for Ireland, but for a reconciliation of the two peoples. The treaty, if signed, could not bring peace for the Irish people would be rebels against British authority, they would not be British subjects.

Neither technically nor otherwise, the speaker asserted, was he himself a British subject, and thank God he would die without being one. This statement was greeted with cheering. De Valera said he had been reared in a laborer's cottage and was enabled to know what the Irish people wanted by examining into his own life. He was not a member of the Irish Republican brotherhood, but, when he died, he hoped he would have a Fenian grave. Again there was cheering. He said he stood definitely for the republic proclaimed in 1916 and constitutionally established in 1916.

Continuing, De Valera said that on his resignation the cabinet went out with him. If reelected he could have a new cabinet, but if the people reelected him he must have full use of all the resources of the republic to defend the republic. He then could offer the British people and the peoples of the states of the British Commonwealth terms of peace as set out in his proposal.

The people in Ireland would deny the right of the British parliament or the British crown, or any other foreign government legislating for

PRISONERS SET FREE

The release of many Irishmen from prisons after the signing of the settlement treaty in London was marked by scenes of great enthusiasm. Here are some of the freed Sinn Feiners being greeted as they left jail.

CONFERENCE PROSCRIBES USE OF GAS

Approves Piracy Penalties; Now Seeks to Ban Chemicals.

WASHINGTON, Jan.. 6.—A five power contract to impose the age-old penalties for piracy against naval commanders who violate accepted laws of naval warfare was approved today by the armament committee of the Washington conference. It completed the formula for suppression of U-boat terrorism at sea and the committee then moved toward a proscription of gas warfare on sea or land. Again Mr. Root drew the resolution to effect the prohibition. Again and immediate five power contract to abandan gas or other similar chemical weapons as beyond the pale of human tolerance is proposed, to be worked out later by world agreement into the fabric of international law, and again it seemed certain that war in future would be stripped of others of the horrors of German ingenuity let loose upon the world.

Italy gave prompt adherence to the anti-gas project as a real step in the path of progress and civilization.

Adjournment of the committee prevented the views of other delegations from being presented, but all were said to favor the ban on gas warfare.

It was not definitely decided tonight whether the anti-gas declaration was to be incorporated in the voluminous treaty that will be required to cover the naval understandings.

ASKS EXTENSION BAKER ENQUIRY

Bowser Challenges Premier to Broaden Scope Game Board Investigation.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6.—Premier Oliver is challenged to broaden the scope of the game board inquiry to include an investigation of the provincial government's moving picture department or to lay himself open to the suggestion that he intends "to stifle all such investigations" in a letter from Hon. W. J. Bowser, leader of the Conservative opposition, dated January 3.

Mr. Bowser wrote to the premier on December 30 asking an extension of the powers of the Shaw commission now investigating the administration of the game board. Mr. Bowser drew attention to his evidence before the commission, stating that he could produce witnesses to prove misappropriation of public funds in connection with the moving picture department. To this first letter the premier replied that he could not grant this request. Mr. Bowser's challenge followed.

QUEBEC HOLDS TO TRADITIONS OF OLD FRANCE

Manchester Guardian Discusses Question of Titles for Canadians.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(By Canadian Press cable.)—Discussing the supposed desire of the people of the province of Quebec to reestablish the conferring of titles upon Canadians, the Manchester Guardian states that the province is tinged with the aristocratic traditions of old France, and this hankering for titles will meet with short shrift in the rest of the Dominion. The typical Canadian of the middle west and west, the Guardian says, has a deep suspicion of such honors and a contempt which he does not hesitate to voice for his wealthy compatriot who pushes into English "society" and secures an affix to his name.

The Guardian refers to the report of the committee on titles which was discussed in the Canadian house of commons when Sir Robert Borden was premier, the sentiment of the house then being opposed to continuing the conferring of titles on Canadians, and says that a move now to reestablish title conferring, even if advanced in all sincerity by Quebec, would not likely fare better.

VETERANS VETO CANTEEN PLANS

Consider Funds Matter for Dominion Government; Request Hold Fund.

SASKATOON, Jan. 6.—Saskatoon veterans vetoed the four suggestions proposed by the C. E. F. canteen fund committee and set out on the ballot form for the disposal of the C. E. F. canteen fund tonight at a mass meeting of returned soldiers, on the ground that they were all problems of reconstruction and should therefore be handled and financed by the Dominion government. Following a keen discussion a resolution was passed unanimously to the effect that the government be requested to hold the fund, amounting to $2,000,000, in abeyance for six months, in order that returned soldiers throughout the Dominion may have further opportunity to fully discuss the matter before making final judgment.

A proposal that the fund be utilized for the establishment of a home for aged and infirm soldiers of Canada, similar to the Chelsea Pensioners' hospital in England, was vetoed for the same reason.

REMOVE BEER RESTRICTION

VICTORIA, Jan. 6.—It is understood that the recent order restrictinng the sale of beer on government permits is to be cancelled. The order limited the quantity purchaseable on one permit in one day to two dozen pints, with a view to limiting the activities of beer clubs. The restriction is to be removed.

OPINION AGAINST EARLY ELCTION

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(By Canadian Press cable.)—Inquiry in political circles today showed that the prospects of an early general election do not appear so strong as they were a couple of days ago. Many persons in authority take the view that the government's appeal to the country will be deferred until autumn. A pronouncement by Sir George Younger, the coalition Unionist member for Ayr district, against the early dissolution of parliament has already had effect in persuading doubtful Unionists that an early election would be a mistake.

BREACH OF MILITARY ETIQUETTE

Press Correspondent Recounts Experiences as Sinn Fein Captive.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—That he published news concerning the Irish army which had not been authorized and that the views put forward by him did not represent the views of the army in Cork was the charge formulated against A. B. Kay, correspondent of the London Times in Dublin, at a military court of inquiry held in a lonely homestead in a remote part of Cork, to which his captors took him from Dublin after he was kidnaped Thursday.

Recounting his adventures in the London Times, Kay says the commandant of the "First Cork brigade" declared at the inquiry that he was responsible for Kay's arrest. The evi*dence supporting the charges was an* article Kay sent to the Times from Cork, based on a conversation with the local liaison officer.

Secretly Discuss Verdict.

The liaison officer testified, admitting that he talked to Kay, but asserted that he did not sanction any interview. The court discussed its verdict secretly and when Kay was brought before it he was told that if he would make a declaration that he had not interviewed officers or men of the army (the liaison officer not being recognized as an active officer) he would be permitted to go, otherwise he would be deported. Kay made his statement to the court, after which he was taken to Cork, from which place he motored back to Dublin.

"Cork may take credit for a feat of audacity," says Kay, commenting on the incident, "but from the point of view of the Republican army in Dublin it was a gross breach of military etiquette, and Cork received a distinct warning in my presence that any other such attempt would have awkward consequences for Cork."

Kay adds that when he arrived in Dublin he learned that Chief Liaison Officer Dalton had proposed to offer himself as a hostage to the British government for Kay. Tribute is paid to the courtesy of his captors by the correspondent.

RATEPAYERS REJECT BURDENS EASEMENT

SWIFT CURRENT, Jan. 6.—Swift Current ratepayers today rejected the agreement between the city and its creditors for an easement in the taxation burden, by a vote of 524 to 142. This agreement, arranged by the city council of 1921, provided for the collection of taxes, and also the administration of monies received, part to be paid on the city debt and the remainder to carry on necessary city works.

The agreement was to be presented to the legislature of Saskatchewan for its official approval, but this appears unlikely as a result of the vote today.

Judge W. O. Smythe was one of the principal objectors to the proposed agreement whereby two city representatives and three bondholders' representatives had the disposition of funds. He declared in letters and at a public meeting that the creditors were powerless to appoint a receiver as had been suggested in the event of Swift Current not carrying out the provisions of the proposed agreement.

The 1922 council must now start work on another agreement.

GRAIN BROKERS SHORT ON CASH

Quigleys in Difficulties; Creditors Mostly Farmers; Survey Finances.

REGINA, Jan. 6.—A preliminary survey of the finances of the firm of E. E. Quigley, grain brokers and bond dealers, show a shortage of about $80,000, according to figures submitted to some 75 creditors, principally farmers of the Regina district, at an informal meeting held here today.

A preliminary statement submitted by the auditors showed total liabilities of about $85,000, exclusive of $20,000 liabilities to secured creditors in Winnipeg. The total gross assets were reported to be in the neighborhood of $15,000. Of the total $85,000 liabilities, $19,000 is due on cash grain, it was stated.

The majority of the creditors are farmers, the losses in some cases ranging from $4000 to $8000. Some of the creditors, who had shipped grain in carloads, had not received a cent in returns, it was stated.

VICTORIA, Jan. 6.—Rev. Charles Rogers Littler, until recently rector of St. Michael's church at Royal Oak, is dead at his home here, aged 60 years. He held incumbencies in Gladstone, Man., Selkirk, Man., and Regina, Sask., before coming to British Columbia.

GERMANY AND RUSSIA TO MEET ALLIES IN ECONOMIC INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Month of March Set for Momentous Gathering at Geneva; Russia's Entry to Conclave Conditional on Abandoning Bolshevik Propaganda; Lloyd George Appeals to Allies to Forget Prejudices and Cooperate for Economic Rehabilitation of Europe.

CANNES, Jan. 6.—Definite action looking to the rehabilitation of Europe from an economic standpoint was taken at the first session of the allied supreme council here today, when unanimous approval was given for the calling of an international financial and economic conference in which Germany and Russia are to have a part. Sometime during the first two weeks of March has been set for the momentous gathering and Genoa, Italy, has been designated as the place where it shall be held. An invitation to the United States to participate has been extended through the United States ambassador to Great Britain, who is here as official observer for his government.

Bars Bolshevik Propaganda.

Russia's participation in the Genoa conference is conditional upon acceptance of a number of conditions, namely, that she cease Bolshevik propaganda abroad, that she undertake not to attack her neighbors and that she recognize all the honorable obligations entered into by preceding Russian governments. Premier Lloyd George took the most important part in the deliberations, speaking for an hour. In his opinion, a time for decisive action had been reached if the economic structure of Europe was to be saved.

Describing the present meeting of the supreme council as the most important since the armistice, he declared that the public opinion of the world demanded that the allies take wider responsibilities to revive Europe.

The premier sounded a warning that the allies themselves must solve the problem of rehabilitating Europe economically and he appealed to them to forget their prejudices and cooperate to this end in view.

Points out British Claims.

Given the floor immediately after, the French premier, M. Briand, had welcomed the delegates into the grand salon of the Cannes Yacht club, Lloyd George launched into pointed references regarding the French claims growing out of the war. He said the British were equally entitled to put forth claims, since their taxes as a result of the war were twice as heavy as those of any other country.

At the afternoon session it was decided that Russia, Germany, Bulgaria, Austria Hungary and all the other European powers should be invited to the conference, but no mention was made of Turkey.

Canada Will Participate.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—While pending official advices on the action of the supreme council at Cannes the attitude of the Dominion government toward an international economic conference can not be determined, little doubt is felt in official circles that Canada will participate. Canada, it will be remembered, had representatives at the international financial conference at Brussels, held under the auspices of the League of Nations.

GRAIN GROWERS ENTER POLITICS

Outline Program for Convention; Invite Crerar and Colleagues.

REGINA, Jan. 6.—A request for the entry of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' association into provincial politics has been received by the central office of the association and will be brought before the annual convention in February here, thus insuring a place on the agenda for a discussion on the provincial political situation.

An announcement to this effect was made tonight by J. B. Musselman, managing director, at the conclusion of a two-day session of the executive. It was also announced that considerable correspondence from locals congratulating Hon. J. A. Maharg on his action in withdrawing from the provincial government was presented to the executive.

One of the primary objects of the meeting was to draft an outline program for the coming convention. It was decided to invite Hon. T. A. Crerar to the convention, and all the elected Progressives of the province will be invited to be with him on the platform at one of the evening sessions open to the public, when it is expected Mr. Crerar will outline the federal political situation. His remarks will be supplemented by some of the other members of the party in the house of commons. It is proposed in this manner to give recognition to all candidates elected to the federal parliament from this province on the Grain Growers' platform.

CHINESE DECLINE JAPANESE OFFER

Adjourn Shantung Conversations Sine Die; Proposals Unacceptable.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Shantung conversations between the Japanese and Chinese delegates were adjourned sine die late today when the Chinese declined to accept a Japanese counter proposal for payment of the Kiao Chow Tsinantu railway by a 15-year loan redeemable in China in five years upon six months' notice.

Japanese delegates found unacceptable the two Chinese alternative proposals "in their present form," providing for a single immediate cash payment or instalments covering 12 years, with an option to take up remaining notes within a shorter period. The Chinese offer included the appointment of a Japanese chief engineer.

Opportunity to Drop Proposal.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Some small amount of newspaper comment has appeared here intermittently with regard to the proposal to bury a Canadian unknown warrior at Ottawa. DE VALERA RESIGNS

Ireland and would use all the means they could to prevent Great Britain holding Ireland by military force or otherwise.

Michael Collins wanted to know on De Valera's statement if the Dail could discuss document No. 2 or No. 3.

Formally Resigns

De Valera answered that he had formally laid before the house his resignation as chief executive and with that went also the cabinet.

"Let the house choose between the two policies," he added.

Arthur Griffith said it had been given by the "president" that a straight vote should be taken for or against the treaty and he regarded this as an unfair attempt at closing the discussion. De Valera said he would not take the responsibility for being the defender of the republic any longer.

A suspension of the order of the day to enable De Valera's resignation to be considered was then moved for debate. Mr. Collins said he had tendered his resignation to De Valera, who refused it. If the treaty was rejected, he added, the president could have any cabinet he liked. The speaker declared that the morning session of the Dail had been hindered in receiving the report of the peace committee by "three or four bullies."

Collins Makes a Bull

There were loud cries of "withdraw," to which Mr. Collins responded: "I will withdraw, but the spoken word cannot be recalled." The house broke into laughter. Mr. Collins declared the motion was simply a political dodge and he condemned the "Tammany" methods.

Mr. Burgess said that if Mr. Collins meant him as a bully his acceptance of the taunt would be measured by his respect for the character of the men making the charge and that, therefore, he would take no notice of it.

Harry Boland said he had come from the United States to vote against the treaty and support De Valera. He said he thought Mr. Collins, if he had any Tammany hall training, might have kept his bullying for premier Lloyd George. De Valera, in explaining why he must resign, said there must be some one in authority.

Rancor Over Kidnaping

A journalist had been kidnaped and Minister of Finance Collins had sent men to recover him. Mr. Collins had no right to send anybody. That was the function of Minister of Defense Burgess.

"I sent the men under orders of my superior officer," Mr. Collins replied.

"We cannot have divided responsibility," De Valera answered.

"I am a straight, plain dealer. I have met crooked ways with the straight; if we meet crooked methods by similar methods we are done. Political trickery sickens me. I have got here in this house the strange sort of dealing I had in the United States with other people of the same kind. I stand exactly where I stood. I knew what others apparently did not know when they were on the edge of the precipice and I would have halted there and nothing could have dragged me across it."

Agrees to Early Vote

In conclusion De Valera said if there was a vote in the house within 48 hours he would be quite satisfied. Arthur Griffith agreed to this, declaring that the vote might be taken at the latest on Monday. The motion for a suspension of the order of the day was then withdrawn and the debate resumed on the main motion.

Dr. McAllaghan, of Mayo, opposed the treaty and Dr. White, of Waterford, supported it. When James Robinson, of Tipperary, spoke in opposition, his remarks drew from De Valera an interruption, the president saying the army would keep up its discipline.

Several of the other members of the Dail also spoke for and against the treaty and the session adjourned.

Regarded as Good Sign.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—News of Eamonn de Valera's decision at Lloyd George's official Downing street residence was considered a good sign, in the sense that it indicated De Valera's recognition of his lost cause and that the supporters of the Anglo-Irish treaty would prevail. A telegram was immediately dispatched to Lloyd George at Cannes.

CIVIC MEETING CONGRATULATES MAYOR AND ALDERMEN ON THE SPLENDID FINANCIAL SHOWING

Acclamation of Entire Council Is Proposed; Nomination Papers Made Out; Choquette Reports on Finance, Bell on Works, Turner on Parks, Cunliffe on Power and Water, and Emory on Gas.

Last night's civic meeting in the city council chamber was almost unique in the history of civic meetings in Nelson, in that the citizens had a surplus of gratifying proportions to enthuse over, and after the various members of the council had accounted for the conduct of their several departments, congratulations were literally showered on them, for the work they had done and the showing they had made as servants of the public. Mayor C. F. McHardy presided, and was flanked by his aldermanic colleagues, Ald. C. D. Shaw alone being absent for unavoidable causes. Every member of the council had a good reception, and Mayor McHardy largely contented himself with making explanatory remarks after each of his colleagues, making no set speech himself. Ald. L. H. Choquette, as chairman of the finance committee, had the lion's share of the talking to do, owing to being called to his feet by various questions, and he became, along with the mayor, more or less the lion of the evening. All the members of the council, however, shared in the glory, and it was insisted that the good showing had been made by hard and earnest work, by close cooperation of all the members of the council, by the good work of the city's servants, headed by the city's "financier," City Clerk Wasson, and also by the aid of a little luck thrown in.

Seven-man Council

Additional chairs were put in to accomodate the crowd of ratepayers expected, but there were a few vacant ones, though about 80 or 90 persons were present.

In opening the meeting, Mayor McHardy stated that the gathering had no political significance, and the council had called it in order to be able to place the city's affairs before the ratepayers in a clear and orderly manner, and in order that all questions arising, could be satisfactorily answered, he had secured the attendance of all the city officials who were at the heads of departments. The only point he wished to make, so far as he was personaly concerned, was that he had carried out his pledge, made when he sought election as mayor, to have a "seven-man council." Every man on the council had worked hard, and had shared equally in the joint responsibility for whatever had been accomplished, and, carrying out this idea, each would report on the department over which he had presided.

Big Margin of Assets Says Choquette

Ald. Choquette, chairman of the finance committee, gave a general view of the city's finances, commencing with the situation respecting the city's assets and liabilities. The bonded debt in round figures was $595,000. The sinking fund consisted of $300,000 invested in Victory bonds and in the city's own debentures and $38,000 in the savings account, and there was on hand about $8000 in cash. If the amount in the sinking fund was subtracted from the bonded debt, there was still owing the sum of $249,000.

Against this there were a number of valuable assets, the first of which was the power plant, which had originally cost $305,000, but which now was worth $400,000 or $500,000. This gave a profit of $8,000, beside doing free lighting that was worth $10,000 a year.

There was also the water works system, which, though still owing $7000, had paid its way, and was earning large surpluses annually. It was worth $75,000, and its net earnings this year were $25,000. It would be good for two or three years yet, and in the next three years would earn $75,000 for the city above expenses. If these profits were set aside, the city would not have to borrow money when it became necessary to put in a new system.

The sewer system, on an investment of $25,000, earned profits of $4000 or $5000.

There were also the gas plant, and the street railway.

These two plants could be scrapped from consideration, and the city would still have $200,000 more than its debt in assets, without counting the fire hall and the schools.

Increase Solely For Schools

Ald. Choquette explained why the tax rate was raised last year, declaring that he alone was responsible, and that he had insisted on it. He said the estimates were made out to come within the old tax rate, and that out of a proposed levy of $100,000, the item of $20,000 was put in for streets, the same figure as for several years. Then the school estimates came in, and they were $11,000 more than expected. They had to be accepted, cutting the streets down to $9000. As incidentals always arose that ate up a few thousands, he felt that there would be practically nothing for streets. As a matter of fact, incidentals did come to $7000, such as the retaining wall that had to be put in to stave off litigation, the new vault that was necessary for the protection of records and maps that would take $20,000 to replace if they were destroyed by fire, and the item of $3000 in relief. With the old rate, therefore, there would have been $2000 for streets. He therefore insisted on raising the rate to provide in additional $11,000, necessitated for the schools.

Touching the schools, Ald. Choquette said he did not want to make any comment beyond asking the citizens to note that the schools cost $57,000 net, in addition to having water and light free, and that if the Sisters should close their school, there would be additional children to be cared for, who would cost the city at least $20,000 more.

Several Wizards Helped

He disclaimed being the wizard, who had made this financial surplus, but claimed that it was certainly the doings of someone on the council. A surplus of $25,000 had never been achieved before. He gave the mayor credit for "making us work like Trojans," allotting the work fairly among the aldermen, and making them meet three and four times a week, to attend to the city's buisness. The surplus arose because the council stayed within its estimates, while the receipts outran them, partly by good luck, and partly through the financing of the city clerk, who, however, was the last man who wanted to be patted on the back. The $300,000 of the sinking fund that had been invested all bore 5½ per cent interest, which was 2½ per cent more than it had drawn while lying in the bank, and as Mr. Wasson had got numerous blocks of debentures around 92, some of it was yielding as high as 7 per cent on the actual investment. Mr. Wasson had pulled a lot of those things this year.

Ald Choquette's speech was warmly applauded.

McHardy Discusses Schools

Mayor McHardy did not permit Ald. Choquette to get away with the exclusive responsibility for raising the tax rate last year, declaring that the whole council shared the responsibility.

Counting Fairview for four months, the schools cost a gross amount of $81,467.41 last year, the mayor said. It was not for the council to say whether that was too high or too low—that was between the citizens and the school board. But if, unfortunately, there was an increase in the cost of the schools, it was the city council that got the blame, because it had to raise the tax rate.

At Victoria, the mayor said, he with other representatives of the Union of Municipalities put it up to Premier Oliver and Hon. John Hart to take over the hospitals and the schools. When they turned that down, the union asked that the government make to the municipalities a per capita grant per child. That also was declined. It was understood, however, that the government at the late session would give the councils something to say as to the grant. The expected legislation, however, did not materialize.

It was, however, for the citizens of Nelson, to express themselves as to what should be spent on education out of the civic revenues. The water works and other public utilities had to keep the city going, and it was not fair that the city should be robbed of all its revenues derived by taxation.

Answering a question by W. A. Thurman, Ald. Choquette stated the government grant for the schools the past year was $15,729.

Bell's Five Blocks

Ald. John Bell's exposition of the public works committee's work was very brief. He said there was little for him to say, as Ald. Choquette would not give him any money. But with what money was available five blocks of crushed rock surface had been put in. Various persons, who wanted various little things done, like sewer extensions, had felt hurt because these things could not be done for them, but the reason was lack of money. The council started off with with great ideas, but when the end of the year was reached the money was gone, and little was done. He advised putting in younger men to run the city's affairs, young men who might have something on the side that he knew nothing about. (Laughter).

The mayor explained that Ald. Bell's outstanding trait was modesty. Silica street had been given one of the finest surfaces in the city, at a cost of only $1500, then a block had been improved leading to the C. P. R. flat, and a stretch from Kootenay street along Vernon, Josephine street to the wharf, and other sections, including near Chatham street in Fairview. The council had wanted a bylaw, but the tax notices came out at the same time, and looking back, he hardly blamed the property-owners for defeating the bylaw. However, a great tourist traffic from the prairie was going to develop, and the question of permanent highways must be faced soon. What work had been had been permanent, and this was much better than the old system of putting in the money on repairs. He figured that a man assessed for $550 would only pay $1.50 a year, for the permant highway that had been proposed.

The Revenue Producers.

Ald. W. M. Cunliffe, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, next reported, claiming for the two revenue-producing services under his direction "an exceedingly good showing." In the power and light department, he said, the policy of the committee was to keep down all expenses that could be reasonably avoided, at the same time doing everything to increase sales. As a matter of fact, some of the capital expenditures provided for in the committee's estimates were not incurred, as it was found that the department could get along without them, but against this extra expenditure was incurred to make various extensions that brought new customers. The principal expenditures were on capital account, and should not rightly be considered as chargeable to revenue. These particular expenditures would produce considerable new revenue during the coming year.

The cash receipts from power and light were $64,812, and the expenditures $35,868, giving an operating profit of $29,044. Compared with this the 1920 cash receipts were $59,080, with expenditures of $32,-7.8, giving an operating profit for 920 of $26,202. Add to the expenditures what was due for interest and sinking fund, and deduct the expenditures that were properly chargeable to capital account, and make a reasonable allowance for the free light furnished for the streets and public buildings, and there was a net profit of about $16,000. And this did not give the department credit for the power for the street railway.

A profit of $25,000 was shown by the water department, whose debentures were nearly paid off, and whose expenditures had been kept down to merely the usual repairs. The mayor thought something should be done by way of new construction, but he thought with Ald. Choquette that the system could go on a few years yet, possibly with increased maintenance charges.

The fire department cost about the same as last year, as about $2000 provided by the estimates was not used, as it was decided to get along without the additional fire hall asked.

Of the $110,000 levied, $55,000 went for interest and sinking fund, and the schools absorbed all the rest. The power plant and the water and sewer systems were paying for everything else, Ald. Cunliffe declared.

His speech was warmly applauded.

Street Railway.

Ald. Shaw not being present, the mayor asked the city clerk to report for the street railway. Mr. Wasson accordingly read from the street railway report the essential figures, showing that the receipts were $20,-828.04, against $20,517.05 the previous year, while the disbursements were $23,049.48, against $20,831.14 the previous year.

The mayor explained that the accident at the car barn, which was due to a bumber not having been put in when the building was built, was the cause of the relatively poor showing in this department.

Ald. George Turner, chairman of the parks and cemeteries committee, feared that he was going to be the gloom of the proceedings, as he had no revenue to show, the utilities under his charge not being noted as revenue producers, while on the other hand he had done nothing but spend money, exceeding his estimates in every case. (Laughter.) As a matter of fact, he gloried in that showing, having no apologies to make for what he had spent. Unlike Ald. Bell, he was not going to apologize, either, for the showing in public works. The council had just so much to spend and spent it.

His cemetery estimate had been exceeded by $1000, and the money had been well spent.

Turner for Isolation Hospital.

He had also exceeded his estimate on health, and his only fault was that he had not exceeded it enough. The council should have gone ahead and built an isolation hospital. It would be quite an expense, but would be a good investment nevertheless, and it was badly needed.

Ald. Turner declared there was at least one other department that could be made to pay better, and that was the gas department. If the gas mains could be extended at certain points more users could be secured, thus providing more revenue without it costing any more to make the gas. He had wanted the council to do this last year, but his views were not adopted. The extensions would cost $8000, but the plant would be enabled to break even, and that was better than going into the hole

The street railway had gone a little behind, but that could not be helped.

He characterized Ald. Choquette as a great finance chairman who had done great work. At the same time he did not think the council entitled to a terrible lot of credit merely because it had a few dollars in the bank. However, it was better to be within the mark rather than to have overstepped it. (Applause.)

The mayor pointed out that the city engineer had spent a lot of time on the map of the cemetery, bringing it up to date. It was many years behind. There was still some to be done this year. The road also should be improved.

What the city had done at Lakeside park was a valuable work and visitors from Calgary had assured him it was admirable. The city had spent some money in supervised play for the first time, with splendid results. With children growing up the city had to pay for them in one way or another, and it was wiser to pay for them with proper play than with broken windows and lawlessness.

Develop Gas System.

Alderman A. D. Emory's gas department was the last of the civic departments to be reviewed. He gave details of the revenue and expenditures and showed that the cash receipts had grown from $13,000 in 1920 to $16,000 in 1921, while the disbursements had only grown from $18,000 to $19,000, the deficit being $2000 less than the previous year. He believed that the gas plant had not received a square deal up to two years ago, and although there were many to knock and to say that it would never pay, he was firmly convinced that it could pay, and would do so shortly. A part of the year's disbursements was on meters, which should be considered a capital charge. It was untrue that boosting the gas lessened the sale of electricity, for only a few could afford electric ranges, while every one could afford to use gas if it was made available.

He pointed out that the big block of vacant land behind the gas plant afforded an opportunity for a spur track over which the coal cars could

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

...sily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Trail Smelter Tonnage a Record.

Final figures show that Trail smelter last year broke all records in the tonnage of ore treated.

The total for the twelve months was nearly 412,000 tons, this including both customs shipments and ore from the company's own mines.

If the Consolidated company in dull times, when mining and smelting have exceptional difficulties to overcome, can establish a record such as this, what may the district not hope for in good times?

And mining conditions are getting better. There is every reason for expecting that still more new records will be made during the next few years.

A Worth While Accomplishment.

Great Britain has not succeeded in its movement to banish the submarine as an agency of warfare, although the United States supported the proposal.

It has been successful in securing a declaration for the abolition of submarine attacks on merchant ships. In future international law will hold an attack by a submarine on a merchant ship to be unlawful. It is placed in the same category as the use of dum-dum bullets and firing on the Red Cross.

An outlaw nation, such as Germany became in the late war, may violate international law. It may say, as Germany said: "We care nothing for law. We are superior to all law. In any event war is a necessity and necessity knows no law. We are out to win at all costs." There is no way of preventing a nation from adopting this attitude, though modern history has not many examples of ruthless, lawless war to its discredit. But, if it cannot totally be prevented, it can at least be made increasingly unprofitable, by the establishment and encouragement of the strongest possible sentiment against it. Germany tasted bitterly the power of world sentiment against violation of the rules of war.

The declaration of the powers at Washington may not prevent an outlaw nation from attacking merchant ships by means of submarines, which experience has shown to result in murderous attacks on non-combatants without warning, but it will at least definitely place this method of warfare outside the pale. That is something gained.

SPEYER EXPLAINS

Only Communicated With Sisters in Innocent Way, Says Denaturalized Baronet.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Sir Edgar Speyer, international financier and former privy councillor of Great Britain, in a statement here today concerning the report of the British naturalization revocation committee, which recommended that his British citizenship be revoked because of charges of disloyalty during the war, gave his explanation of the incidents upon which the charges were founded.

What the committee characterizes as trading with the enemy, Sir Edgar said, consisted of "trifling transactions in arbitarge and exchange with a reputable Amsterdam banking house."

The chief allegation, that of communicating with the enemy, consisted solely of his "communicating with my sisters and their families in an entirely innocent way."

REPRIEVE PAULSON

VICTORIA, Jan. 6.—An order was granted in supreme court chambers this morning at the application of the attorney general's department for postponing the execution of the death sentence imposed on Alexander Paulson, who was to have been hanged on January 25. The reprieve, which was occasioned by the fact that Paulson is required to give evidence in the trial of Allen Hutchinson Robinson for the murder of William F. Salisbury at Vancouver on April 12 of last year, was extended until June 20 of this year. Robinson is the alleged accomplice of Paulson in the murder of Mr. Salisbury.

Efficient Housekeeping

By Laura A. Kirkman

SERVE BEAN DISHES FOR SUPPER

On these crisp nights, when a hearth fire seems good, one's appetite is keener and one naturally feels the need of hearty suppers. Egg dishes, cheese dishes and bean dishes solve the problem of the housekeeper who does not wish to serve meat at night as well as at the noon dinner. Try the bean dishes in the following two menus:

Bean Stew Marie
Wholewheat Crumpets
Tea Preserves
Raisin Loaf Cake

Bean Stew Marie: 1 cup navy beans, ¼ pound salt pork, 1 can corn, salt, pepper. Soak the beans overnight in cold water. In the morning drain them and put them in a kettle with 2 quarts of water and the salt pork. Boil slowly until the beans are soft, then add salt and pepper to season and the can of corn. Let boil up and serve very hot. This tastes much like succotash.

Whole Wheat Crumpets: Scald 1 pint of milk and add to it 2 tablespoons of butter and 1 tablespoon each of salt and sugar. When it has cooled to the luke-warm stage, add ½ cake of compressed yeast dissolved in ¼ cup of tepid water. Stir in about 1¼ cups of whole wheat flour (that is, enough of these two flours mixed to make a good drop batter). Cover and let rise overnight. In the morning stir it down, beat hard, and turn it into hot greased muffin rings that have been placed on a hot greased griddle. (Fill the rings half full of the batter; it will rise to the top of the rings). Bake slowly. Then cool and toast on both sides. Spread at once with butter and serve hot.

Raised Loaf Cake: Beat the yolks of two small eggs until very light, then add to them ½ cup of butter which has been creamed with 1 cup of sugar; stir in 2 tablespoons of sweet milk, 1 teaspoon each of ground nutmeg and mace, a scant half teaspoon of baking soda which has been dissolved in a very little hot water, 1 cup of light bread dough, the stiffly whipped whites of the 2 eggs, and ¼ pound of mixed raisins and currants which have been dusted lightly with flour. Beat this batter vigorously and turn it into a greased loaf cake pan; let it rise to twice its bulk, then bake in a moderate oven for 40 minutes. (If you want to make it still richer, add a little shredded citron to this recipe when adding the raisins and currants). Many housekeepers make a practise of baking such a loaf cake as this every time they bake bread as it depletes the quantity of bread dough but slightly, and makes a delicious cake for suppers.

Mock Chile Con Carne
Coffee Corn Muffins
Stewed Prunes with Cookies

Mock Chile Con Carne: Wash 1 pint of kidney beans and soak them in cold water overnight. Next morning cover them with fresh cold water, bring to a boil, drain, throw away this water; cover once more—this time with boiling water—and cook until the beans are tender. One-half hour before they are done, put into another saucepan 6 tablespoons of olive oil, add 4 sweet peppers finely chopped (and 1 small hot red pepper if you wish), 1 large chopped onion and 1 pint of thick canned tomato. Cook for 30 minutes, then stir the beans into this saucepan. Simmer for 15 minutes more, seasoned to taste with salt. Serve with fried bacon arranged over top of dish.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however owing to the great number received So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

The Lighter Side

USE MANY BASEBALLS.

NEW YORK.—Thirty-three thousand one hundred and ninety-two baseballs were used in the National league last season, President Heydler reported at the annual league meeting.

Many of the spheres were used, of course, in practice, but figured on a basis of 154 scheduled contests the circuit clubs used something around 215 balls each day of the season.

Styles

By Lenore

There are a number of ways in which to finish the neckline of a navy blue tricotine frock, but according to some French dressmakers only one way this season that is smart. And that is the bateau line. But if you are a little tired of seeing this neckline so often, here is an interesting way in which to vary it.

The frock is one of those designed by a clever American manufacturer whose models are known to college girls throughout the country. The waistline is slightly below the normal, and the front section of the wide skirt extends below the hem. Two folds of self-material form the girdle.

BUTTER PRODUCTION HIGHER

OTTAWA—(By Canadian Press)—The average price per pound for butter throughout Canada in 1920 was 56.96 cents, compared with 54 cents in 1919. All provinces except Manitoba and Alberta, showed an increased production. The production of creamery butter in 1920 was 111,691,718 pounds, valued at $63,625,203, compared with 103,890,707 pounds, valued at $56,371,985 in 1919.

The price of cheese did not vary much over the two years, averaging 26.20 cents in 1920 and 26.79 cents in 1919. The quantity of factory cheese produced in 1920 was 149,201,856 pounds, with a value of $39,100,872. The only provinces which showed increased production were Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

The Dairy Products blue book for 1920, issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics, states further that there were 3161 dairy factories operating throughout Canada in 1920, comprising 1045 creameries, 1683 cheese factories, 405 combined butter and cheese factories and 28 conderseries. The number of cows which furnished milk to the factories was 1,718,999.

For the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1920, the quantity of butter exported was 13,361,020 pounds; of cheese, 142,767,545 pounds; of milk and cream prepared, 52,035,783 pounds; of fresh milk, 1,689,377 gallons; of fresh cream, 1,276,792 gallons. The total value of export dairy products for the year, $58,345,022.

During 1920 the total quantity of butter imported amounted to 1,104,625 pounds, and of cheese, 479,934 pounds.

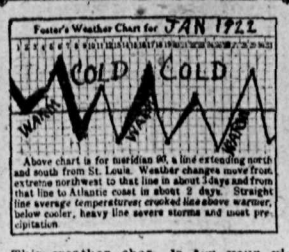
FOSTER'S WEEKLY WEATHER BULLETIN



Above chart is for meridian 90, a line extending north and south from St. Louis. Weather changes move from extreme northwest to that line in about 3 days and from that line to Atlantic coast in about 2 days. Straight line average temperature; crooked line above warmer, below cooler, heavy line severe storms and most precipitation

This weather chart is for your vicinity. Dates of month are at top. Warm waves are expected to reach your vicinity near dates where crooked line goes to tops; cooler than usual where they go to low points. Storm waves follow warm waves. Severe storms and increase of precipitation are indicated by widening of the zigzag temperature line.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The week centering on January 11, will average colder than usual on meridian 90 from the Gulf of Mexico to far north. The high temperature of that disturbance will be in northwestern Canada about January 9, on and all along meridian 90 January 11, and in eastern sections January 13. A cold wave will be in northwestern Canada near January 11, on meridian 90, 13, eastern sections, 15. Top of a great high temperature wave will be in northwestern Canada near January 15, on and all along meridian 90, 17, eastern sections, 19. These will progress eastward as usual.

The forces in these storm features will begin to increase near January 13, and will be at their greatest about 16 and 17. First paragraph above tells you where each of the three storm features will be on January 16 and 17. No great snows nor floods are expected from these severe storms, but near the 10-year averages of such weather events. The place where the ocean waters are being evaporated is too far away for the moisture to reach this continent in large quantities. Our great snows, rains and dangerous storms do not occur when only small amounts of moisture are conveyed to the storm centers on the continent.

I have repeatedly told you that the amount of precipitation in North America would be less than usual from Oct. 1921, to April, 1922, and that American winter wheat would be injured by a shortage of moisture. But you must read more carefully. I did not say that all sections of the continent will get that kind of cropweather. Thousands of readers misunderstand when I said I would reply to all inquiries about cropweather. That did not mean I would send you a whole year's cropweather forecast for your immediate section and pay the postage.

In at least two-thirds of the sections that border on the Gulf of Mexico, winter truck gardening will not more than pay expenses up to about middle of April and after that date a drouth will affect some sections of that Gulf coast. As the cropseason progresses toward its close in the fall of 1922, the unfavorable winter cropweather of the extreme south will change northward over the continent from two-thirds bad to two-thirds good, making the average of our North American crops for 1922, about equal to the 10-year averages. These conditions promise success to North America so far as our crops can affect the continent. Business will surely have no reason to complain as to the general good influences that a sufficiency of crops will bring. Of course, such good fortune never extends to all sections. If it did the market values would go so low that farmers would be losers.

There is another danger to the success of agriculture in North America. If Europe, Asia, Australia, Oceanica and South America should produce crops equal to those of North America we could not sell our crops for enough to pay the expenses of production. How much would it profit the people of North America to know these conditions a year in advance? Before the end of 1922, I will prove and demonstrate that I know them. When the public is convinced that I do know them I will give all the facts to the public if it will show me how to get back the money I have invested and get pay for the 46 years labor I have given to it.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL PAYS FOR SKINS

Farris Declares He Paid $210 for Beaver Fur for Wife's Coat.

VICTORIA, Jan. 6.—Hon. J. W. DeB. Farris paid to Dr. Baker by cheque the sum of $210 for the beaver skins which went into the making of the fur coat which he gave Mrs. Farris as a Christmas present, the attorney general testified before the game board inquiry this morning.

This, and the announcement of J. N. Ellis, K. C., that Premier Oliver had decided the scope of the inquiry could not be widened to include Dr. Baker's administration of the provincial moving picture department, were the features of the morning session of the investigation being held by Magistrate Shaw.

When the inquiry opened Mr. Farris was on hand and asked permission to be sworn and go on the stand to answer some of the charges which Inspector Hird had made at the Tuesday morning session. After consulting the various counsel present this request was granted by Magistrate Shaw.

Farris Gives Evidence.

"I want to say this about the beaver coat to which reference was made here yesterday: If Mr. Moore had taken the trouble to cross-examine Dr. Baker, who knows the facts, it would have been fairer to me," said Mr. Farris.

"No opportunity has been given me to cross-examine Dr. Baker," replied Mr. Moore.

"You could have been here if you had wanted it," said Mr. Ellis.

"Excuse me. In the early days of the inquiry I had not been retained by Mr. Pooley," replied Mr. Moore.

"No skins were given to me," continued Mr. Farris. "I purchased certain dressed skins which Dr. Baker told me were available. I had him that I wanted to buy some to have a fur coat made for my I gave Dr. Baker a cheque for $2 payment for the skins."

"Who were the skins purch from?" asked Mr. Moore.

"I don't know. Dr. Baker told but I don't recollect who they w replied the attorney general.

At this point Mr. Donaghy, co for Dr. Baker, arose to point out the purchase of dressed beaver is no crime. Dressed skins, he should not be confused with tho the raw. It is no crime to buy

MURDOCK APPEALS FOR COOPERATION

Asks Employers and Employees to Get Together; Prevent Time Wastage.

OTTAWA, Jan. 6.—Declaring that "Canada needs, must have, and will have cooperation between employer and employee," Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, in an appeal made public tonight issues a call to employers and employees to get together on their 1922 wage and working condition agreements in order to prevent the wastage of possible working days during the coming spring and summer.

Mr. Murdock points to the condition in the building industry last spring, when many working days were wasted in arbitrating disputes. He appeals to all classes to unite in an endeavor to have 1922 agreements settled before March 31. Mr. Murdock's appeal follows:

"The labor department of the Dominion government can not be successful in performing its intended functions without the cooperation and assistance of Canada's citizenship, both employers and employees.

Misfortunes Attend Delay.

"Conditions in years gone by, and especially during the past year, have indicated the misfortunes incident to delaying the making of agreed understandings between employer and employee and this has been more particularly in evidence and detrimental to the public interests in many parts of Canada in connection with the building trades.

"The year 1921 saw, in many cases, weeks of spring or summer weather wasted because agreements as to wages or terms of employment had not been reached between those representing the employers' committees and the various classes of building trade workers in certain cities and other localities.

Suggests Time Limit.

"The minister of labor requests the earnest cooperation of all of Canada's citizenship at the present time, to the end that an earnest effort may be put forth by employer and employee, especially in the building trades, between now and not later than March 31, to secure agreed understandings as to wages and conditions, so that prompt movement in the direction of creating and maintaining business activity during the spring and summer months of the present year may obtain.

"The department does not assume to determine for employer or employee what their agreements as to wages or conditions should be, but does urge as a public duty that employer and employee should reach common, mutually satisfactory ground of agreement prior to March 31, so as to insure that valuable outside working weather during the spring and summer may not be wasted.

"Canada needs, must have, and will have, cooperation between employer and employee."

CHARGE VIOLATION ANTI-GAMBLING LAW

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6.—Warrants charging nine directors of the Business Men's Racing association, promoters of the fairgrounds meet which opened last Monday, with permitting violation of the Locke anti-gambling law by bookmakers operating at the racetrack, were issued today.

The district attorney announced he would cause the arrest of every bookmaker and cashier each day they operate at the track and that on each succeeding charge an increased bond would be required.

R. S. Eddy Jr., manager of the fairgrounds meet, today reiterated his statement that the action would not interfere with racing.

NELSON BRANCH HAS WONDERFUL RECORD OF CONSTRUCTIVE WORK FOR VETERANS AND DEPENDENTS

A year's record of constructive work for the returned men and dependents that it would be hard to equal is disclosed in the following annual report of the Nelson G. W. V. A., read at the annual meeting Wednesday night by President H. H. Currie:

Comrades: A bare enumeration of the leading activities of the Nelson G. W. V. A. during the past year will show that, whatever the shortcomings of this branch, it has not been inactive. It has been most distinctly on the job, whether the work of the moment was rendering help in specific cases, defending a principle, inculcating patriotism, suggesting beneficial legislation, or working generally in the interests of those whom it is our special object to serve. It has carried on under handicaps not realized by those on the outside, and the retiring executive can say in all sincerity that the colors of our organization have not been lowered while in their custody. Furthermore, the branch has improved its position in a material sense and ends the year with a fine morale that augurs well for the future.

Teaching Patriotism.

One of the tenets of our organization is to keep green the memory of those who died, and another is to inculcate ideals of patriotism, and both these we have sought to exemplify.

Our branch initiated Ypres day essay contests in the Nelson schools.

It originated the movement which secured official recognition in the schools of British Columbia of Ypres day and Armistice day.

The Dominion command's appeal to the manufacturers of newspaper cuts to feature patriotic subjects and the great Canadian dates is our achievement.

In addition, we decorated our sacred graves at an impressive Ypres Sunday service, secured fitting recognition of Armistice day in Nelson, promoted the wearing of the Flanders poppy, and cooperated in the movement for a Nelson war memorial, at present hanging fire. It has been our sad duty to follow many comrades to their last resting place.

Legislative Work.

In our consideration of public questions we have hewn to the line in keeping politics out. The beer question was the only one on which we felt upon to give advice to a government on an active political issue. Our stand on that, in favor of club licenses, seemed to us justified from every angle, and was apparently unanimous.

Apart from this political matter, we have been particularly active in studying and suggesting legislation having to do with the returned men and the dependents of those who went over. We have persistently pressed for more generous provision for the tubercular, and have also given our influence in various quarters for renewal and enlargement of the housing scheme. Some of our proposals are in the records of the Dominion, as well as the provincial, convention.

The branch has done its full duty by the organization at large. It sent two delegates to Chilliwack, armed with nine resolutions, all of which passed, but its fight to secure the next convention failed. The West Kootenay zone representative, however, was chosen from this branch, and later became the executive member for the eastern interior. We were also represented at Port Arthur, our delegate acting also for other West Kootenay branches, and being called upon to head a standing committee. Our costs for the two conventions were $124.75.

Work for Returned Men.

Our organization has been at the service of those requiring aid, with or without affiliations, and numerous adjustments are now pending with various Dominion departments.

The cause of the Camp Lister settlers, in respect to interest rate, has been pleaded, thus far unsuccessfully, but is now being made the subject of a campaign with our provincial legislators.

We proposed to the city council a street bylaw to provide economical means of relief, but withdrew our suggestion later when its usefulness came in question.

Our scheme for a wood yard is in abeyance, as the right tract of timber has not yet been found.

Representations have been made to the city council on various matters, including the administration of the housing scheme, the possibilities of a further housing loan, and as to the poll tax rebates to disabled returned men. Incidentally, Mayor C. F. McHardy's earnest efforts to secure the additional loan referred to should be noted, no public mention ever having been made of this fact.

As an incident in our work we assisted with the soldiers settlers' competition at the Nelson fair and secured from the merchants generous special prizes.

Our actual benevolence has been very limited, unfortunately, owing to the very limited nature of our funds.

Branch Activities.

In connection with our local organization, in March we gave Nelson a ski jumping carnival, out of which we emerged neither richer nor poorer, but having added to our credit with the public.

The branch also staged one of the best Dominion day celebrations that Nelson has had, and was able to add five $100 Victory bonds to the building fund that we instituted at our last annual meeting. We have now 11 of these in the bank. This event also provided $50 of the $80 we gave toward the war memorial.

Several smokers and dances were put on, as well as a skating carnival, and these were mainly successful.

The year recorded the passing of the G. W. V. A. band, which in the past had been a great asset. In the interests of the community it was incorporated with the City band, in midyear.

Trail branch on Dominion day paid us a fraternal visit, which we hoped to, but as yet have been unable to, return.

Our Christmas activities are too recent to require mention.

Internal Problems.

Our great problem during the year was that of internal organization. Successive changes in the secretaryship handicapped the branch greatly, and there was also a change in the presidency, due to the departure of Comrade W. Holmes for Victoria. Our secretary's post is now well taken care of. Since this last change has occurred our membership and funds have been in better shape. We are now, however, without a tenant for the hall, and the house committee does not favor having one.

Our small dry canteen, which should be capable of considerable development, has not as yet fulfilled the hopes entertained for it.

A monthly audit is being instituted by Comrade W. Swannell, who has consented to act as auditor.

To our Ladies' auxiliary the thanks of the branch are due for many and valuable services rendered.

Kokanee chapter, I. O. D. E., came into our life with the Poppy day campaign, and since with valuable contributions. Its aid and support are fully appreciated.

We were able to give these two organizations an inkling of our feeling toward them at an "at home" we gave in their honor.

The Vabagonds put on for our benefit two performances of "The Follies of 1920," which were of great assistance.

We were also under obligation to the city council in connection with the Dominion day celebration, to the school board in connection with the Ypres day essay contests, to the City band for services too numerous to specify, to the Salvation Army in connection with our annual church parade, to Trinity Methodist congregation in connection with the Armistice day service, to the Dominion government for the use of the armory, to the Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Nelson and District Women's institute in connection with the Christmas tree, and to the C. P. R. orchestra for musical services. If we were to name the individuals who have rendered us assistance in various ways the list would be endless.

As president, I can not close this review without referring to the work of the executive. Though its composition greatly changed during the year, fortunately there were good men with which to fill the gaps as fast as they occurred. The branch, and the returned men of Nelson, owe much to a small and devoted circle whose efforts have known absolutely no limit. If this circle could be sufficiently expanded there would be nothing beyond the reach of our branch.

Recommendations.

I respectfully submit the following recommendations:

1. That we aim at adding $1500 to $2000 to our building fund during 1922.
2. That we have a perpetual membership campaign, and unceasingly endeavor to enroll new members.
3. That we study how to make our clubhouse more of an institution.
4. That an endeavor be made to branch out into sport.
5. That we have a hospital committee.
6. That we have one trustee instead of three, that said trustee be bonded, and that he be elected annually.
7. That we place the realization of the Nelson war memorial among our primary objects of the year.

It is possible that this will be the last year that we will use the name of the Great War Veterans' association—that within 12 months we will be a component part of a larger union of ex-service men. If this is perhaps to be the last year that we use the name that has gathered about it such traditions of service, let us see that in our hands during this year the name "G. W. V. A." increases, and does not diminish, in luster.

Fernie Branch Honors Two Faithful Officers

Fernie Branch.

The spirit of true comradeship was fully manifested at the banquet arranged on Monday last for the purpose of presenting Comrades H. A. Bryant and D. F. Markland with tokens of appreciation and esteem for valuable services rendered during the past year as president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. There were no lack of would-be Carusoes. Comrade Tom Morrison manipulated the ivories in his own inimitable way. A willing staff of stewards, under the direction of Comrade F. Yearby, administered to the requirements of the inner man. When the Mutzine had been freely circulated Comrade R. Billsborough, as chairman, in a few well chosen words explained the main feature of the gathering and called upon Comrade Dr. Carson to make the presentation. The doctor eulogized the two recipients and their services. Comrades Markland and Bryant suitably responded. The tokens presented were, for Comrade Bryant, a gold signet ring, with the G. W. V. A. badge inset; for Comrade Markland, a gold watch, suitably inscribed. A number of our comrades of Coal Creek were present and contributed largely to the vocal part of the proceedings. "Auld Lang Syne" was sung in the wee sma' hours.

Several of our oldtime members from outside districts spent the festive season with us renewing old acquaintances.

That the good work of the G. W. V. A. is being recognized is evidenced by the interest taken in our work by the civilian population of this city, our secretary receiving requests for information from numerous enquirers.

Our visiting committee reports Comrade H. Mitchell progressing favorably in Fernie hospital, where he has been undergoing repairs resultant on an accident sustained while following his employment in the mines here.

President Bryant is expecting being removed to Vancouver hospital, owing to a recurrence of his wound troubles.

Comrade James Ward is recovered from his recent severe illness.

Comrades D. F. Markland and J. Ward have signified their willingness to allow their names to go on nomination for aldermanic honors at the forthcoming municipal election.

Our entertainment commitee, in conjunction with the Ladies' auxiliary, is arranging a reception social on the occasion of the visit of the "Maple Leafs" to this city on Friday next.

Kaslo Branch Busy Under New Executive

Kaslo Branch.

The annual meeting of the Kaslo branch of the G. W. V. A., recently held, was well attended and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown by the members. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, J. A. Riddell.
Vice president, D. McLellan.
Secretary-treasurer, R. Kreuger.
Executive, W. Hendricks, J. Goodenough, M. Elder.

Many suggestions were brought out which would tend to put the club on a progressive and live basis.

Since the annual meeting we have held two dances and a whist drive, which were well patronized and enjoyed by all.

During the coming winter the organization intends to be quite active and let the public know we are alive and are out to further the interests of the returned men and their dependents.

DELAYS DIVORCE SUIT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The Stillman divorce suit hearing set for Montreal next week will not be held because James A. Stillman, the plaintiff, refuses to pay the $7500 costs required by his wife, it was announced today by C. J. Sullivan, chief counsel for the banker.

SORES SPREAD ALL OVER FACES AND BODIES

Mrs. Howard Houlette, Waskatenau, Sask., writes: "I wish to tell you of the benefit we have received by using your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters.

"My children started to break out on their faces in small, white pimples, which kept getting larger each day. Pus would form under the scabs and they would come off, and each time the sores would be larger; some were as large as a twenty-five cent piece, and would spread all over their bodies. I was nearly in despair and sent to the village for a bottle of good blood medicine. The druggist sent me a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters which I commenced giving them at once.

"In about ten days I saw an improvement and they grew steadily better each day, and in one month the sores had all disappeared."

All blood and skin diseases are caused by bad blood, and to get it pure and keep it pure you must remove every trace of the impure and morbid matter from the system by a blood cleansing medicine such as

MART CONTINUES IRREGULAR COURSE

Trading Slackens; Call Loans at Lowest Figure; Petroleum Strong.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The stock market today continued its recent irregular or reactionary course. Dealings diminished visibly, however, and there were only occasional traces of involuntary liquidation. Advices from out of town sources, including Chicago, were most reassurring, although the suspension of a small bank in St. Louis directed further attention to financial conditions in that section of the country.

Call loans fell from 4½ to 3½ per cent at midday, the latter figure being the lowest in six months. Time money rates also relaxed, 30 and 60 day loans being made on mixed collateral at 4¾ per cent.

Oils, shippings and motors rebounded 1 to 2 points from yesterday's final prices, but fell back before the close.

The American and Baldwin Locomotives, Mercantile Marine preferred, American International and Mexican Petroleum were among the few especially strong issues.

Rails moved within fractional limits. Total sales were 600,000 shares.

Liberty bonds added to their recent recovery, but industrial issues eased and foreign offerings showed no definite trend.

Total sales, par value, $17,275,000.

A most significant fact is the relative change in the source of borrowings. In 1920, Canada sold two thirds of her new bond issues in the United States. In 1921, only about 45 per cent were sold in the United States, the remainder being nearly all absorbed at home.

TORONTO BOARD

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—There was a material increase in trading today. Mexican Light and Power common made one of its rare appearances on the active list, selling at 7, an advance of 2 points from the last sale in October. Steamships sold 1½ higher at 15.

There was heavy trading in bank stocks, with an irregular showing.

Continued strength was shown in the bond list, all the Victory bonds moving forward from 10 to 15c. and the 1931 war bond going up 30 points.

MONTREAL LIST

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—Trading showed little breadth of character on the local stock exchange today. Brazilian led the market and gained half a point, closing at 28½. The second most active stock was Smelters, which also gain half point, the closing sale being at 19½. The loss of five points by British Columbia Fishing wiped out a gain of a like amount made last November, the issue closing at 20. Detroit Railway advanced 2 points.

Trading in bonds showed considerable strength. Eight issues scored gains, most noteworthy among which was an advance of three points by Dominion Testile to 98, a new high level.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—Produce prices quiet.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 37 to 38.
Eggs—Selected, 48.
Potatoes—Per bag, car lots, 95c. to $1.00.

DOMINION TRADE

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6.—Although business conditions throughout Canada have shown little change during the best past three or fours months, with the exception of the usual holiday trade ,and there is no doubt but that a brighter atmosphere prevails in manufacturing, wholesale and jobbing circles, says the weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust association.

Montreal, Toronto, Quebec and the east report little change in conditions, Groceries, drygoods, boots and shoes and men's and women's wear all report a little more activity. Retail trade, which quieted down after Christmas, has picked up to an unexpected extent in larger cities and in country towns merchants are looking at things from a better angle.

Winnipeg and Manitoba wholesalers are, generally speaking, quiet. The greatest care is being exercised in the granting of credit to country points with the result that trade is being curtailed to a considerable extent. Retail trade in the larger cities is fairly good, many merchants say. There seems no doubt whatever but that retailers have yet to take their losses before anything like normal trade can be expected.

Regina, Saskatchewan and points further west report wholesale trade only fair and retail in country towns slow. Collections throughout the west are still slow.

WESTERN EDITORS PLAN ADVERTISING SCHEMES

REGINA, Jan. 6.—To plan a system for handling advertising contracts on a cooperative system editors of country weeklies of the four western provinces are in convention here today. The meeting opened at 1 o'clock in the offices of the bureau of publication in the parliament building.

During the morning representatives of the Saskatchewan Press association held a session to wind up the year's program of cooperative advertising.

THE TORTURE OF INDIGESTION

Thousands Made Miserable By This Trouble

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Relieves It

What is Indigestion and what causes it? As you know, solid food must be changed into a liquid by the stomach before it can be taken up as nourishment by the blood.

The stomach acts as a churn. It is covered by a strong, muscular coat and lined with a soft, delicate membrane which secretes the Gastric Juice which digests or dissolves solid food.

When food enters the stomach, the muscular coat squeezes and presses the food from end to end, or churns it, with the gastric juice to dissolve or digest it.

But—if the stomach muscles are weak—or if the dissolving fluid is poor or insufficient—then food cannot be digested properly and you have Indigestion.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the most wonderful medicine in the world for strengthening the stomach muscles and providing an abundance of pure, full-strength dissolving fluid to completely digest every meal. "FRUIT-A-TIVES" does this because it keeps the kidneys active, the bowels regular and the blood pure, which insures pure Gastric Juice.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" will correct your Indigestion or Dyspepsia and enable you to enjoy every meal. Try it.

SOCCER WORLD MEASURING UP CUP TIE TEAMS

Brentford Hopes to Beat Cup Holders; Spurs Leave Nothing to Chance.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(By Canadian Press cable.)—The soccer world here is absorbed in the discussion of the respective merits of tomorrow's English association cup tie teams. The usual bustling games on the present frostbound grounds are likely to add to the already heavy casualty lists which are handicapping many clubs, so that final selections of teams must be, in some cases, left until the day of the games. It is, however, noteworthy that little special training is being done.

Tottenham Hotspurs, in view of their recent experience against Brentford in the second round of the London cup, when the latter forced a second meeting at which they only lost by 2 goals to 3, will leave nothing to chance. Walden, Wilson and Walters are doubtful starters for the Spurs. A record crowd is looked for and Brentford entertain hopes of knocking out the cup holders.

Woolwich Arsenal after last Saturday's display are endeavoring to field the same side against Queens Park Rangers, who, with one exception, are at full strength. Chelsea reports 12 possibles and perhaps Hoddinott will replace Cook at center. Other forwards and halfbacks are as yet doubtful, and the team is none too optimistic.

Millwall's long list of nonstarters leave 16 possible, while Fulham will travel without Ducat, whose valuable cup tie experience will be a great loss to the team, especially as Plymouth are strengthened by the return of Hill, their clever center. Clapton, who rely on their Christmas holiday eleven, will, for the first time in 15 years, enter a cup tie competition without the services of their veteran center, Parker. Westham will play a reconstituted forward line Kay returning to center half. Crystal Palace are placing confidence in the last Saturday's combination, but are unlikely to win on Everton's recent form.

Derby is unlucky, having the two center halves of the team suffering from influenza and their skipper has broken down. Both the Nottingham sides are hopeful, being fully represented. The Forest have already two league victories to their credit over their opponents, Bristol City. Simms although not yet thoroughly fit, will assist Luton against the weakened Portsmouth team.

COULDN'T DO HOUSEWORK HEART WAS SO BAD

Many women get weak and run down and unable to look after their household duties owing to the heart action becoming impaired or the nervous system unstrung

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy instead of sick and wretched. But how can a women be strong and healthy when day in and day out she has to go through the same routine of work, sweeping, dusting, cooking, washing, etc. Is it any wonder that the heart becomes affected and she gets irritable and nervous, has hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells and can't sleep at night.

To all women whose heart is weak and whose nerves are unstrung we would recommend as the best remedy to tone up the system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. Daniel Bezanson, Loganville, N. S., writes: "As I was troubled with a weak heart for nearly two years I am writing to tell you what your great remedy, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, has done for me.

"My heart was so bad at night I could not sleep, I would take smothering spells, and was so weak I could not do my housework. I tried two doctors, but got no results A friend advised me to try your pills. I used six boxes and am completely relieved. I think they are the best remedy for heart trouble there is."

The Saskatoon team showed vast improvement in form and in the third period put on a speed burst that evened the score. For a time the Eskimos were threatened with defeat, as the Crescents hurled attack after attack on the visiting goal. Arbour, who played brilliant hockey throughout, took matters into his own hands and broke the tie, notching two in quick succession. Just before the curtain dropped Keats staged a typical Keats rush and brought Edmonton's count to eight.

TRAIL AGAIN WINS VICTORY

Visitors' Scientific Hockey Is Too Much for Hardest Efforts of Local Seniors.

Though playing their hardest and best game of the season the Nelson seniors again suffered defeat in the clash with Trail staged here last night. The score was 6-3, in favor of the visitors. It was a really hot battle, hammer and tongs all the way, and so satisfied the big crowd of fans that they hollered for the visitors to a man at the close of the game. There were no penalties.

Nelson was beaten simply because the visitors played an infinitely better combination game. While the local boys tried to force a victory with sheer hard work, long effective shots and individual rushes, they had not enough coordination.

Play opened very determined. Scoring commenced at 3 minutes, when Patton, the brilliant Trail center, broke in on a pass, flashed down the ice, cleared the defense and as Boyce rushed him slipped the puck into the net. For some minutes the Nelson forwards crowded the visitors around their own goal, Carrie, Ferguson and Murphy doing brilliant work. The puck came back to Richardson, who on one of his individual bursts was checked. H. Lauriente took the puck, negotiated Murphy and scored the second in 12 minutes. A minute or so afterward Richardson came out on another rush, supported by Ferguson. They cleared the forwards. Richardson, going down the wing, drew out McIntyre and passed to Ferguson. Ferguson took it like a bird and shot the first tally for Nelson amid thundering cheers. The jubilation was short lived. Almost from the faceoff H. Lauriente notched the third for Trail.

The home boys delighted the fans by scoring during the opening minute of the second. Madden, well down on the wing, shot and worked the trick. At this time the pretty combination work of the visitors had forced itself on the fans. Lauriente's, Patton's and McDonald's passing right in front of the Nelson goal was extremely pretty and might have produced results but for Richardson chipping in. When the puck was again at the other end the Nelson boys crowded the visitors again for several minutes by sheer hard work, during which Madden, Richardson and Carrie sent in hot ones. Combination saved the visitors. Their wings trailed by the center, flashed down the ice with McDonald at the puck. Murphy went for it, McDonald passed right across and F. Lauriente sent it traveling right into the net at 16 minutes. Lauriente scored again in 18 minutes. Taking a pass, he beat it with his center and wing trailing him, negotiated the defense, cleared Boyce, who came out to rush him, and shot in the open goal. The score stood Trail 5, Nelson 2, at the end of the period.

Nelson battled up strong in the third. The going was tough for seven minutes, when Ferguson again set the fans pawing the air when he emerged from a melee and shot the third for Nelson. McIntyre and Cavie put up a wonderful defense, checking and breaking in on the play as the pace became tremendously swift. There was a barrage on the Trail goalie, but he was equal to it. At 10 minutes F. Lauriente put the sixth goal through for the visitors.

The lineup was:

Trail.	Position.	Nelson.

CITY OFFICIALS CONGRATULATED

come right up to the plant and discharge the coal at the furnace door, whereas now the coal had to be shoveled out and wheeled in a barrow 200 feet. Each car now cost $17 to $18 to unload. Beside eliminating this excessive cost a spur track might also produce an actual revenue, as it might be leased for warehouse purposes. The city engineer was of the opinion that this was feasible.

Alderman Emory gave great credit to Superintendent Stringer for his good work. He stated the engineer and Mr. Stringer had worked out a map showing where extensions of mains could advantageously be made.

Being a resident of the West Arm in the summer, Alderman Emory has taken a great interest in the proposed power and light line up the West Arm and warmly advocated it. The line would cost $15,500, he said, and the council was willing to go ahead on a guaranteed revenue of $3000 a year. Signatures had been obtained for a revenue of $2300, and he believed this could be run up to $2700. He was in favor of going ahead on the latter figure, and in a year or two the $3000 would be equaled or exceeded. (Applause.)

Acclamation Proposed.

The mayor now threw the meeting open, and L. K. Larsen was the first to accept the opportunity to praise the council for its showing, declaring it had done remarkably well. "I move that you go in again by acclamation," he said, this sentiment being received with applause and laughter.

For nearly an hour the information given by the city fathers was discussed by various citizens.

Alderman Choquette took occasion to correct the report that the mayor's frequent trips to the coast were at the city's expense. He said the mayor went as a delegate to the Union of Municipalities, and on one other occasion, when he was at Victoria for five days waiting to join the city's delegates on the Ymir road matter, the council made him accept $50. On all his other trips, when he did great work for the city on the side, the city was at no expense whatever.

The alderman also justified the appointment of the city engineer, pointing out that, among other things, for the first time the city was having a correct map of the water mains, which heretofore had existed only in the head of the city's faithful servant, Jimmy Harris.

The engineer had also taken levels in Fairview for the improvements that would have to be made there.

Mrs. Ross on District's Quota.

Mrs. Hugh Ross, one of the school trustees, said, speaking as a resident of the school district, and not as a trustee, that Ald. Choquette's figures did not show that a considerable portion of the school taxes were derived from the portion outside the city. The expenditure was held up as being derived from the city, at the expense of those in the city.

This was also contended by Alf Jeffs.

After considerable discussion, in which Ed Ferguson also participated, at the mayor's suggestion Mr. Wasson worked out the exact figures, announcing that the amount derived from outside the city last year was $6393.46.

T. J. Scanlan said that was splitting hairs. The simple fact was that the city's whole tax levy was eaten up by the sinking fund and the schools, leaving all the city's work to be done out of revenues provided by the city's public utilities. He warmly congratulated the mayor and council on their conduct of the city's affairs, declaring they had must—just the kind of record he had predicted for them a year ago.

Ed Ferguson asked light on why his taxes had doubled in two years, admitting, however, that the council was a good one. He asked how this increase had been necessary.

Mr. Wasson, called on by the mayor to reply, stated that some properties on which the improvements provided the larger portion of the taxes, would have in experience along those lines. Where the land was the important factor, however, there would be little difference.

In 1919, he said, the rate was 37½ mills on land and 20 mills on 10 per cent of the improvements. In 1920 it was 40 mills on land and 14½ mills on improvements, and last year it was 44 mills on land and 17½ mills on 50 per cent of the improvements.

Sinking Fund Achievement.

Mr. Foster asked where the $15,000 came from that had been paid into the sinking fund beyond the year's quota.

In reply, Ald Choquette reviewed the various ways in which the council, with the help of the city clerk had achieved this sum.

Mr. Foster said the feat in paying up the sinking fund for the first time since 1908 was a notable one. Three years ago it was $75,000 behind, he understood. He hoped successive councils would now keep it intact.

A. S. Horswill, John Smith and W. S. King were other speakers who spoke in congratulary vein, and eventually a vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Scanlan, was unanimously adopted, thanking both the city officials and the city council for the year's good work.

At the suggestion of Mr. King, after the meeting various prominent citizens remained and nominating papers were made out for all the members of the retiring council and for Samuel Barton, the retiring police commissioner.

FIFTEEN CAUSES ORIGINATE FIRES

Chief Boyd Is in Statistical Mood When Writing His Annual Report.

Fifteen different causes originated fires or gave rise to calls on the fire department in Nelson during 1921, and to fire losses amounting to $21,095, according to statistics compiled by Fire Chief Frank L. Boyd and filed at the city hall as part of his annual report. In numerical order these causes were: Chimneys 5, brush fires 4, sparks from chimneys 3, back draft from chimneys 2, ash bin 1, backfire in automobile 1, drying wood in stove 1, children playing with matches 1, electricity 1, furnace 1, false alarm 1, gasoline torch 1, overheated stovepipe 1, unknown 1, lighted pipe 1. Of the 25 alarms 14 were received over the telephone and 11 were rung in from boxes, the total being 12 more than the previous year.

In responding to the alarms the auto truck covered 27 miles, and it also took 15 miles of practice runs, while the department laid 6750 feet, or a mile and a quarter, of 2 1-2-inch hose at the fires, raised 140 feet of ladders and used 148 gallons of chemicals.

Fire Risks Quarter Million.

Being in a statistical mood when he made out his report, Chief Boyd delved extensively into the subject of insurance, showing month by month the value of the buildings in which fires occurred, the value of their contents, the amount of insurance carried on buildings and contents, and likewise the losses. The total risks were over a quarter of a million dollars, as shown by the following summary:

	Buildings.	Contents.	Total.
Risk	$189,475	$90,750	$280,225
Insurance	76,650	57,300	133,950
Losses	7,123	13,972	21,095

The cost of maintaining the fire department was $11,223.87, classified as follows:

Salaries	$9,332.55
Fuel	535.55
Insurance	333.50
Maintenance of horses and stable supplies	633.55
Auto maintenance	74.47
Telephones	78.00
Expense to Pacific coast fire chiefs' convention	100.00
Miscellaneous	136.80

If his recommendations for enlargement of the force and additions to equipment are carried out, the 1922 maintenance will cost, he estimates, $14,910.

In his inventory Chief Boyd enumerates 132 separate classes of equipment or supplies.

Department Has Six Buildings.

The department has six buildings—the brick fire hall on Ward street, the old frame fire hall on Josephine now used as a storage warehouse by the electrical department, a frame building on Observatory street used by the works committee and three frame sheds for hand reels situated on Hall and Front, Stanley and Richards and on Slocan street west of Cottonwood creek.

It has a team of bay horses, a combination hose and chemical motor truck carrying all fire fighting equipment, a horse-drawn hose wagon, a sleigh, an old combination hose and ladder truck, and two hand hose reels. Its stock of hose includes 5450 feet of 2 1-2-inch rubber lined cotton hose, of which 2500 feet is in first-class condition, and 200 feet of 3-4-inch chemical hose. The Gamewell alarm system has 15 boxes and a striker with tower bell.

The roster of the department is as follows:

Name and position.	Yrs. in service.
F. L. Boyd, chief	12
J. G. Ballantyne, assistant chief	13
Alex. Dingwall, driver	8
Thomas Bush, chauffeur	4
William Sutherland, chauffeur	8
Samuel Butler, driver (months)	8
