ARE WE GOING TO HELP THE DOUKHOBORS TO GET CONTROL

Before the present election got well under way, D. D. McLean, Liberal candidate, was questioned concerning rumors that his party was proposing to put large numbers of Doukhobors on the list.

Mr. McLean denied the allegation and publicly expressed disapproval of any proposal to register the Doukhobors.

Following the statement, The Nelson Daily News congratulated Mr. McLean and, also, Mr. Esling, who had expressed similar views. The Nelson Daily News pointed out then and repeatedly since that time that any attempt to give the Doukhobors political power in West Kootenay would have to face an outraged public opinion.

The objection, primarily, is not to the Doukhobors as farmers, or as Russians. The objection is to placing in a position of DANGEROUS POLITICAL POWER a mass of people, as yet lacking qualifications to vote with knowledge upon federal or provincial affairs, and controlled by a single leader who in addition to his powers as head of what purports to be a limited liability company, also appears to wear the mantle of the spiritual leader, known as "Peter Lordly," whom he succeeded.

Not so long after Mr. McLean had so emphatically discountenanced the idea of placing Doukhobors on the list, the public learned that the party represented by Mr. McLean, and controlled by him in this riding, had appointed a Doukhobor enumerator at Brilliant and that this Doukhobor enumerator had compiled a list of purportedly qualified voters consisting entirely of Doukhobors and 24 in number.

That was bad enough. It was followed by what is known as the Crescent Valley incident in which counter-affidavits and statements on the public platform by Mr. McLean in various places in West Kootenay attracted public attention.

Mr. McLean endeavored to give the impression that he had no connection with any scheme to place the control of this riding in the hands of a mass of Doukhobors. And 24 wasn't so many, anyway.

But what do we learn now? We find that during the three days of revision of the voters list, three days in which those who have been inadvertently omitted from the original list were supposed to have their names added, or in which any errors in spelling and so on might be corrected, NO LESS THAN 140—AND POSSIBLY MORE — DOUKHOBORS HAVE BEEN ADDED TO THE LIST AT BRILLIANT.

This is no "revision" of the list as contemplated by the act. IT IS A DELIBERATE ATTEMPT TO PLUG UP THE LISTS WITH 140 DOUKHOBORS, a few of whom may understand Canadian affairs, but who are members of a body which has persistently and consistently flouted and violated Canadian laws—a body which has unhesitatingly taken the position that it preferred its own theories to observance of the laws in this country in which it lives. We all know the extent to which the laws governing births, marriages and deaths and the school laws have been violated.

Now, under the direction of the emissaries of Mr. McLean, at least 140 of these Doukhobors at Brilliant have been placed on the list with the object of reducing the majority which will be given to Mr. Esling by the people of West Kootenay who are supporting him.

But there is worse to come. There is a provision in the Elections act under which on election day voters who have been omitted from the lists may take an affidavit that they are qualified and they then may cast their votes.

UNDER THIS PROVISION THERE IS A SCHEME TO CROWD DOUKHOBOR VOTERS INTO POLLING PLACES ON ELECTION DAY, TAKE THEIR DECLARATIONS AND GET THEM TO VOTE FOR MR. McLEAN.

The Nelson Daily News does not make this charge without thorough investigation. For some time this plan has been in preparation. A number of Doukhobors who, of course understand their compatriots, have been going from village to village telling the Doukhobors to go to the polls on election day and to vote for Mr. McLean.

These workers for Mr. McLean have been distributing cards showing where the cross is to be marked.

Doukhobors have been told that as they object to paying any taxes, sending their children to school and so on, that they need a change of government and THAT TO OBTAIN A CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT THEY SHOULD VOTE FOR MR. McLEAN. The majority of the Doukhobors, understanding little or nothing of Canadian affairs, believe the story they are told—which is that if they vote for Mr. McLean they will be voting for a change in government.

It's a clever story — if anything of that kind can be regarded as clever — but it is effective, for the reason that Mr. Esling has been the sitting member at Ottawa since 1925. To vote for Mr. McLean looks like voting for a change to an uninformed mass of voters such as are the majority of Doukhobors.

But that is not all.

ON SUNDAY LAST A MEETING OF ELDERS OF THE COMMUNITY WAS HELD AT BRILLIANT. It was addressed by a prominent Doukhobor and a non-Doukhobor associate of the community. These speakers told the elders that the Liberals had been responsible for bringing the Doukhobors to Canada, that only the Liberal government had given them any favorable legislation, and that they should see that all who possibly could do so should go to the polls on election day and vote.

The Nelson Daily News has sympathy for the Doukhobors. It realises their merits as farmers; it realises their other good qualities; but it also realises the menace to government in Canada, and particularly in British Columbia, if these people, in their present state of lack of knowledge of Canadian and British Columbian affairs, should get into a position of power.

They might control the riding of West Kootenay. They might control the riding of Yale. This is the federal position. Provincially, with their faculty of

10 TOWNS IN RUINS SOUTH PART, ITALY

1,000 Injured and 10,000 Homeless; Shocks are Continuous

PEOPLE IN TERROR OF LIVES JUST NOW

Naples Panic-Stricken; Supply Trains Rushed in; Plants Closed

NAPLES, July 23—(AP)—Amid the vineclad hills of the Appenines the simple peasant folk of southern Italy tonight had counted their dead to the number of 679 in half a score of towns tumbled to ruins by a series of terrific earthquakes which began an hour after midnight and had not ceased to vibrate this evening.

Government estimates placed the injured at more than 1000 and the homeless at 10 times that figure.

Melfi, picturesque mountain city, perched perilously upon the crater of the extinct Monte Vulture, was an area of ghastly debris. Even the ancient cathedral whose history in its several phases goes back to the ninth century, was wrecked.

The almost inaccessible nature of the areas devastated made difficult the work of succor and the enumeration of casualties. Most of the town hit the hardest are off the beaten paths of tourists, with poor transportation and almost inaccessible altitude.

RELIEF ORGANIZED

Several supply trains have been sent to points on the railroads in the interior from Naples and hundreds of relief workers tonight were penetrating the recesses of the agricultural area offering relief to the still terror-stricken victims.

The quake stunned all Italy. It was the worst earth shock since Messina was all but obliterated in 1908. The first shock came an hour after midnight. Its own awful nature was supplemented by a tremendous electrical storm over virtually the whole affected area.

The shaken area extended from the Tyrrhenian sea to the Adriatic but the coast settlements suffered less in proportion than the mountain populations. Naples experienced several hours of panic with many houses and scores of casualties. Among this city's victims was the Among this city's victims was the all Neapolitan history had this classic city experienced such starmad night. A frenzied populace raced through the streets apparently heading nowhere.

Tonight the work of rescue proceeded as rapidly as the means available would permit. Wrecked bridges, snapped communication wires and many other obstacles had

HOMES VACATED, FOREST FLAMES BAD ON ISLAND

Settlement of Langford Station in Danger; Settlers Fight Fire

VICTORIA, July 23—Two forest fires of serious proportions are now burning on Vancouver island. Fire at Trout lake west of Menzies Bay, and north of Campbell river, which started from lightning last week, and which was reported as under control yesterday, is evidently out of bounds again according to reports received here today.

A blaze which started just off the island highway near Langford station today began sweeping toward that settlement. Fanned by a westerly breeze, the flames made great headway despite the efforts of 30 rangers, assisted by residents, to check their spread. Nine homes in the vicinity were vacated this afternoon.

More than 700 acres are covered by the Trout lake fire, and additional fire fighters are being rushed from here to help cope with the situation. The blaze late yesterday reached a stand of green timber.

Murder of Real Estate Man, Mystery

TORONTO, July 23—(CP)—Phillip G. Rumbold, Tonawanda, N. H., real estate man, who was found murdered in his car near Port Credit, Ont., was insured in an amount from $30,000 to $50,000 against death by accident only, it was revealed today on the arrival in Port Credit of investigators from Buffalo, N. Y., representing the insurance company with whom Rumbold carried the policy.

WHOLE OF GERMANY MOURNING THE LOSS

Von Hindenberg on Triumphant Tour Cancels His Engagements

COBLENZ, Germany, July 23. —(AP)—Thirty-six bodies recovered from the Moselle river and fragments of a broken pontoon bridge tonight marked the tragic end of what promised to be one of the most joyous occasions in the life of Venerable President Von Hinderburg, who four days ago started from Berlin on a triumphal tour of the liberated Rhineland.

Gloom shrouded the Rhineland, until yesterday the scene of memorable rejoicings, and spread over all Germany. Radio programs, social functions, and festive celebrations were called off everywhere as on expression of national grief.

But sorrow was deepest in the city, for it was here that the tragedy occurred. It was, for the most part citizens of this town, who anxious to see the illumination of the former fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, on the right bank of the Rhine, overcrowded the frail bridge that spans the estuary of the Moselle river its confluence into the Rhine. Scores uncounted were drowned.

President Von Hindenburg immediately cancelled his engagements at Treves and Aix-la-Chapelle, instead, he attended memorial exercises in the city council hall and spoke a few words of sympathy and then departed for Berlin, where he arrived shortly before ten o'clock tonight.

The Coblenz tragedy is the second within a fortnight to try German nerves. It came less than two weeks after the Neurode mining accident, in which more than 150 coal miners lost their lives.

TRANS-CONTINENT FLYER IS INJURED IN PLANE WRECK

Makes Forced Landing Near Butte, Montana in Pitchy Black Night

BUTTE, July 23.—(AP)—A possible factured skull and cuts about the eyebrows are souvenirs borne by Major Gilbert H. Eckerson to testify to the abrupt ending of his Portland, Ore., to New York flight.

Eckerson, who crashed on a bench about 33 miles southeast of here last night, was brought to the hospital here today. His plane is wrecked.

The flier said he does not know how the accident occurred. He fixed the time at about 11 o'clock last night and believes he must have hit some obstruction in landing. The night was black, he said.

He recovered consciousness about 9 o'clock this morning when a farm girl found him lying near his wrecked plane.

MILLION IN GOLD SHIPPED, CANADA; TWO MORE TODAY

NEW YORK, July 23—The movement of gold to foreign countries, begun last week when exchange rates became favorable, gathered momentum today with announcements of shipments totalling $15,000,000 of the metal to France and Canada.

The International Acceptance bank shipped $1,000,000 in gold to Canada.

MORE COMING

MONTREAL, July 23—A further shipment of $3,000,000 in gold from New York will reach Canada tomorrow, it was announced here today. With the arrival of this shipment the gold imported this week will amount to over $5,000,000.

THE PAS, Man., July 22.—J. H. Wilson, after a year at Moose Lake Indian school some 60 miles east on the canoe trail, as teacher, is en route south to Regina, Sask., His successor at the school is Rev. Herbert Cannon, from Wycliffe College, Toronto.

140 More Doukhobors Are Placed on Lists of Voters, Brilliant

One hundred and forty additional Doukhobor names have been added to the voters list at Brilliant.

With the original list of 24 added by the Doukhobor enumerator, Kanakin, this brings the total Doukhobors who have been put on the list at Brilliant to about 164

The additional names were added when the enumerator sat as revising officer.

These facts were made known yesterday. They were not realised earlier because there was delay in getting out the revised list, owing to the fact that it was not sent to the returning officer, A. M. Grimmett, on the proper form. Mr. Grimmett had to send the list to Revelstoke and it has not yet been returned.

Mr. Grimmett stated yesterday that at the other chief Doukhobor centres no names had been added dur- in the days of revision.

Orchestra Leader Gives Sailor a Lift; He Turns Out to Be His Own Son

Father and Son United After 21 Years in Strange Way Victoria

VICTORIA, B. C., July 23.—(CP)—J. W. Kenyon, well-known Victoria orchestra leader, and his 22-year-old son, Wilfred, of the Canadian navy are reunited today after a separation of over 21 years.

When Wilfred was 10 months old he and his mother left Nanaimo, British Columbia, and the family got out of touch with one another. As a young boy Wilfred went to sea and later joined the Canadian navy in which position he holds the rating of stoker. His father as a bandsman and the son as a sailor had taken part in the same parades in Victoria and as recently as May 24 the son marched ahead with a detachment of sailors and the father followed playing in a militia band. Neither knew the other.

The meeting happened quite casually the other day. Mr. Kenyon saw the sailor alone on Douglas street; he drew up his car to give him a lift. During the ride he asked him his name. Surprised that it was Kenyon he asked him for his first names.

"Son, I'm your father," said Mr. Kenyon to the six foot three stoker.

Explanation followed and doubts and misunderstandings swept away.

BILL SUPPORTING NAVAL TREATY IS READ SECOND TIME

LONDON, July 23.—The bill supporting the London naval treaty tonight passed the second reading in the house of commons without a division. Giving effect to the naval reduction compact signed recently, the action corresponds in its effect to the recent senate action in the United States on the London treaty.

Parliamentary Secretary G. G. Ammon explains that under the British legal system a treaty, although it might be binding and have effect on the British government, could not be enforced in law courts against private individuals unless suporting legislation was passed.

Under the Washington treaty Britain entered into certain agreements not to build or provide by private shipbuilding certain vessels of war. The London treaty contained alterations of three agreements. To give effect to them the commons was asked to approve the bill.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie Draws Crowd at Coast

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 23.—An ovation was accorded Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of immigration, and Liberal standard bearer for Vancouver Center, when he addressed a large audience of east end electors tonight.

British Columbia's cabinet minister dealt chiefly with the government's legislation for ex-service men, the Dunning budget, Imperial preference, unemployment, the Peace River country connection with the Pacific, and the obligation of the Dominion government to take over the Pacific Great Eastern railway liabilities from British Columbia.

DIES AT RIPE OLD AGE OF 101 YEARS

He was born at Hawkesbury, Ontario, September 25, 1828. He left Canada in 1885 and was postmaster at Mendota, Lewis county, for 35 years.

Besides his daughter, two sons, John and James Dandy of Abbotsford, British Columbia, survive.

SUSPECT THAT LIGHTNING HAS STARTED FIRES

Only Five Fires Reported to Forest Branch Last Night; Expect More

Just how many fires had resulted from the various lightning storms that passed over the district last night was not known yesterday afternoon with the exception of two that had been reported from Crescent Valley and two or three that had been reported from Kaslo. Extent of these fires had not been learned last night.

The lightning storm that could be seen from Nelson yesterday afternoon proceeded up the Slocan valley toward the Lardo country and forestry officials strongly suspect that a trail of lightning fires have been left. These had not been reported last night.

In order to locate any of these fires that may be scattered throughout the district the forestry plane that is stationed at Nelson will make an aerial survey of the district today.

LONDON, July 23.—(C. P. cable) —An important development in the Empire free trade crusade occurred today when a group was formed in the house of lords, pledged to do their utmost to secure Empire economic unity. This group will act, whenever possible, in cooperation with any similar group in the house of commons. FORTY-FOUR BOYS AT VANCOUVER FOR SAIL INTO ALASKA

VANCOUVER, July 23—Forty-four hale and hearty young men who are accompanying George Buchanan millionaire Detroit philanthropist on his eighth annual "on-to-Alaska" tour reached Vancouver today over the Canadian Pacific railway to commence a busy day for sightseeing and ocean bathing. As guests of the Vancouver park board, the Buchanan boys visited English Bay, toured through Stanley park and the harbor. They sail tonight at nine on the Canadian Pacific steamer "Princess Louise" for Alaska.

NOT GUILTY PLEA FAILS IN EVENING

In Default of Fine Verigin Faces 30 Days in Prison

ONE DOUKHOBOR WAS ASSAULTED

Citizens Give Evidence Shows Leader Used Violence

GRAND FORKS, July 23.—Peter Verigin, president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood and spiritual head of the Doukhobors, pleaded not guilty in police court here tonight to a charge of causing a disturbance in a public place, but was convicted of the charge, and was sentenced by Police Magistrate Arthur F. Crowe to pay a fine of $50, or in default to 30 days imprisonment at hard labor in the provincial jail at Nelson.

The Doukhobor leader paid the fine.

It was on Monday night that the disturbance occurred which led to the charge being laid by Provincial Constable W. Greenwood, Bridge street being designated as the site of the offence, which was stated to consist of "screaming and incommoding peaceful passers-by."

After the disturbance a Doukhobor reported to the police that Verigin had assaulted him, but by the time the Doukhobor leader was located Tuesday afternoon the aggrieved individual changed his story and stated he could not swear it was Verigin who had hit him.

SERVED ON COLONY

Constable Greenwood's investigation of the case, however, had elicited such definite facts regarding the rumpus, that the officer laid a charge to cover them, and this afternoon he served Verigin with a summons, at the Doukhobor colony a couple of miles out of the city.

At tonight's police court trial, five witnesses, residents of Grand Forks, testified for the prosecution establishing the facts regarding the disorder, it being shown that the Doukhobor leader came into town shouting and howling at the top of his voice, collected a crowd, and used violence, the evidence incidentally bringing out the fact of the assault that was not at issue.

Verigin, speaking through an interpreter, took the stand in his own behalf, to justify himself, but called no witness.

Constable Greenwood prosecuted.

It is reported the Doukhobor leader left after the court session, for Nelson.

LANGFORD FIRES NOW CONTROLLED

VICTORIA, B. C., July 23.—Fire which broke out today in bush and dried grass near Langford lake and for a time threatened the settlement and timber in the vicinity was successfully brought into control before night by forestry crews. Men were left on duty tonight to guard against a fresh outbreak.

mobility, the ease with which they can be moved from riding to riding, they could control not less than five provincial ridings. If they controlled five provincial ridings they would control five provincial members. Five provincial members often have controlled our legislature.

THE COMMUNITY DOUKHOBORS AS THE VIRTUAL DICTATOR OF BRITISH COLUMBIA—IS THAT A PLEASANT THING TO CONTEMPLATE?

If the Doukhobors controlled federal and provincial members, how would profit Peter Verigin or whatever other leader of the community might be in power? He would control patronage. He would be able to get jobs for his men on government work, he would be able to secure contracts, he would have a position of power that no one can contemplate with anything approaching approval.

This is not a political matter. In the next election, the Doukhobors might vote Conservative or Labor or Farmer or anything else. It is a matter of vital import to every resident of West Kootenay and Yale who wishes to be master in his own house, and who does not wish to see power in the hands of a community which flouts our laws and which neither understands nor cares for the policies and the principles of our political parties.

To what extent the scheme to fill up the ballot boxes with Doukhobor votes will succeed we will know on the evening of July 28. The point that is certain is that IT IS MR. McLEAN AND HIS POLITICAL FRIENDS WHO HAVE CREATED THE DANGER and that, no matter what may be the politics of the voter, he has to consider when casting his ballot whether he wants to encourage the movement toward Doukhobor domination of West Kootenay or not.

EAST KOOTENAY ALSO REFUSED CENTRAL POLLS

Col. Lister Urges Nelsonites not to Let Liberals Win By it

SAYS ES[illegible] KNOWN AS A [illegible] WORKER

Has Done [illegible] for Returned Men than any Soldier Member

Commenting on the "unfortunate position" of Nelson, Trail and Revelstoke, which are denied the central polls which the Elections act permits, and are compelled to scatter all over their areas in order to vote, Lieut.-Col. Fred Lister, C.M.G., M.P.P. for Creston, speaking with Hon. R. L. Maitland at the opera house Tuesday evening in support of W. K. Esling, candidate for re-election, said he could not imagine why one candidate should have refused to agree with the others for central polls.

CRANBROOK THWARTED

There was exactly the same situation in the East Kootenay, Col. Lister said. Though Cranbrook had always voted at a central poll, and the voters desired to have this convenience in this election, and the Conservative candidate gave his consent, the Liberal candidate, by refusing his consent, made it impossible to have the central poll.

Why did these two Liberal candidates refuse their consent in these cases, and thus entail endless confusion and inconvenience on the voters? Col. Lister said the only inference to be drawn from the very peculiar facts of the case was that by making it as difficult as possible for the people to vote the Liberals expected to derive some profit.

He exhorted voters not to get fed up and quit if they found they had mistaken their polling place, which would only fall in with the Liberal plans to deprive them of their votes, but to stay with their duty and see the thing through.

RETURNED MEN'S FRIEND

Col. Lister declared he was proud to assist Mr. Esling, whose record as member for the past two parliaments was before the electors. He was universally known as a worker, and he was never so happy as when doing something for a constituent.

Mr. Esling, he declared, had done more for the returned men in his terms in parliament, than any returned soldier member of the house, a fact that was widely acknowledged. Being in public life himself, Col. Lister stated, he was often applied to by returned men who had matters to take up, and as most of the relations that returned men had with governments were with the federal government, it fell to his lot to turn over a great many cases to Mr. Esling to take up. In many cases Mr. Esling got 100 per cent for the men concerned, and in all cases he got something.

He was confident that the returned men of West Kootenay would on the whole support their best friend, Billy Esling.

LABOR CABINET WITHSTANDS ON ATTACK 136-33

Labor Socialists Rebel on Appointment of Lord Hudson

LONDON, July 24.—(Thursday)—(AP)—The MacDonald government early this morning defeated an attack by 63 Labor Socialists with the aid of Conservatives and Liberals, the vote giving the MacDonald forces victory by 136 to 63.

The rebellion came during an unusually late session of the house of commons. It was caused by the government's recent appointment of Lord Hunsdon, noted industrialist, to the public works loans board.

This aroused the anger of the extreme Laborites because in 1926 Lord Hunsdon referred to miners as enefies of the people and this morning they moved thaw his name be withdrawn from the board.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, resisted strongly for the government and an angry scene followed, with bitter remarks on both sides.

Many Laborites abstained from voting on the motion and the government would have been beaten except for the support of Conservatives and Liberals.

FIRST POLLING NELSON TODAY, ADVANCE POLL

Location of Monday's Polling Places at Last Settled

First voting in West Kootenay in the Dominion election will doubtless take place this evening simultaneously at Nelson and Revelstoke, where the advance polls will be open from 7 to 10 p.m., for the use of railroad employees, sailors, and commercial travellers, who have obtained from their registrars the necessary certificates to qualify them to vote in this way. The Nelson advance poll is located in K.P. hall, where the votes of those specified will be accepted tonight, tomorrow night, and tomorrow from 2 to 10 p.m.

After numerous changes, in some instances a poll having had four locations, the polling places for Nelson, for use on Monday, are believed now to be permanently settled, though changes were made even yesterday. As now arranged, by securing schools, armory, stores, only about half of the polling places will be private houses.

NELSON POLLING PLACES

The 17 polls will be held at the following 12 polling places, four polls being double ones, while in one case two individual polls are allotted to the same polling place:

88. Gas station, Gordon road.

LIEUT.-GOV. BRUCE REPORTED HURT; NO CONFIRMATION

Train Dispatcher Declares Report Reaching Him in Peace River

EDMONTON, July 23—Rumors of Lieut.-Gov. Bruce of British Columbia being injured some time today during his visit in the Peace River country were discounted late this evening when the Canadian Press correspondent got in touch with the chief dispatcher in the town of Peace River.

According to the dispatcher, the British Columbia party was at Hythe, the end of the steel of the Northern Alberta railways, today and the program was to take the party around the adjoining districts.

The dispatcher expressed the opinion that in the event the British Columbia lieut.-gov. had suffered an injury, he would have been notified.

There is still just a possibility that some accident may have occurred and that the party has not returned to their special car which is stationed at Hythe.

HOOVER TO TAKE UP MATTER OF McBRIAN'S

ST. PAUL, Minn., A fine of $600 imposed on Major General J. H. MacBrien, president of the Aviation League of Canada, for alleged failure to report his arrival in the United Sttes by airplane, is to be the subject of an investigation by President Hoover's office. This was made known today in a letter from George Akerson, secretary to President Hoover.

Major General MacBrien flew from Ottawa to Chicago, thence to St. Paul after notifying the former city customs officials, by wire, of his intended arrival. Because Chicago has not been designated as an official port of entry, no customs agent recorded his arrival.

After reaching St. Paul, General MacBrien said he made another effort to report his entry but local representatives of an airways company said they could not find a customs agent. The next day, however, customs agents took General MacBrien into the customs department where the fine was imposed and paid.

Tourist Trend to Canada Due Curiosity and Liquor Laws

NEW YORK, July 24.—The "foreign" touch to travel and Mr. Volstead bear an equal share in popularizing travel of tourists from the United States to Canada, according to a recent editorial in the New York Times.

"Counterpart of the famous Irish bridge which separated one river bank from another would be the American-Canadian frontier which connects two great peoples," the Times says.

"Last year, according to the statisticians at Ottawa, the Dominion was visited by no less than 4,508,808 automobiles of foreign registration, which means, of course, the United States. The calculators at Ottawa assume three passengers to a car, and so arrive at more than 13,000,000 American visitors to Canada.

"The figures are stupendous, and remain so even when allowance is made for repeaters and for American professionals drawn across the border by considerations other than the color of French-Canadian civilization, the trout fishing or the mountain scenery west of Banff. Something like one-tenth of the American people visited Canada in 1929. This would easily be several times the number of American visitors to any one section of the United States.

"The cynic who hastens to say it is all liquor is wrong. Were we now as free and independent as we were before 1919, it is still certain that the spread of the automobile would have sent millions of American tourists into Canada for that "foreign" touch which is part of the joy of travel. But unquestionably Mr. Volstead has helped."

NO NUDE BATHING NOW IN TORONTO

TORONTO, July 23.—Nude bathing, never encouraged in Toronto, was legislated definitely out of existence by the city council today. The bylaw in effect the last 30 years which permitted bathing in the natural mode in certain sections of the city was amended by the city fathers today to read that bathing suits must be worn sufficient to "prevent indecent exposure."

BENNETT SAYS IS CERTAIN OF TURN, MONDAY

Voters Straining Leash Waiting for Chance Cast Ballots he Says

OWEN SOUND, Ont., July 23. — (By Thomas Green, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—In probably the most vigorous speech of his campaign, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, here tonight warmly declared that "when a prime minister is clutching for power, beaten, defeated, gone, and grasping out, says: 'I stand for Great Britain first' it is an insult to the Canadian people. The first duty of a Canadian statesman is Canada, a Canada within the Empire."

The Conservative leader had reference to the reported speech of Premier King at Barrie. Heatedly Mr. Bennett condemned the prime minister for "daring to try to impune the love of the Conservative party for the British Empire while his followed Ligouri Lacombe in Quebec Laval, Two Mountains, is denouncing me as an imperialist and an Englishman."

The opposition leader charged that Mr. King after adopting a "don't provoke" attitude on the tariff in respect to the United States and suggesting in parliament to increase the British preference was "flapping and wrapping himself in the assumed mantle of patriotism," he continued. "The people will stamp their disapproval of this government in no uncertain way and are waiting and straining at the leash for July 28 to record their disapproval."

SABLE LIGHTHOUSE AIDED BY BRITAIN

HALIFAX, N. S., July 23. — Sable Island ,that "graveyard of the Atlantic" off the Nova Scotia coast, has always figured in the news. An item reproduced by the Halifax Chronicle from an old newspaper file of June, 1826, tells how the British government granted an allowance of 400 pounds sterling for the support of the lighthouse on the island, providing a similar sum was contributed by the legislature of Nova Scotia. The grant was regarded "as a first instance, if indeed any were wanted, of that liberality which distinguishes the gifts of our maternal government". The writer felt that Canada (now Ontario and Quebec) and New Brunswick should contribute to the upkeep of the lighthouse. The item read as follows:

"By the last packet advices have been received from the British government allowing 400 pounds sterling per annum towards the support of the establishment on the Island of Sable, providing a like sum be contributed by the legislature of the province. This grant we consider amply sufficient for the purpose, and as a fresh instance, if indeed any were wanted, of that liberality which distinguishes the gifts of our maternal government. While upon this subject we would beg to remark that we cannot see on what principle of justice Canada and New Brunswick can refuse to furnish a certain quota of the expenditure for this establishment. They reap the benefit as well as we do. For example there have been five vessels cast away upon the Island this season—two of these, the ships Elizabeth and Agamemnon, sailed from St. John's, and the last ship, the Nassau, was bound to Quebec. It is in fact, an establishment the expenses of which ought to be borne by the commercial interests connected with the whole continent of North America; and we are much inclined to hope that the correspondence which has been opened by his Excellency with the neighboring provinces, on this subject, in consequence of an address by the Assembly during the late session, will end by making such an arrangement as will be due to our claims of justice."

Children who object to mathematics in school should be reminded that they will soon be adults and have to pay contract."

An Offer to Stay Proceedings Against D. D. McLEAN AND THE VANCOUVER SUN BY A. E. Watts

If the Liberal Candidate will publish a retraction and an apology and get the same BEFORE THE ELECTORS in the same effective manner as the damaging propaganda was secretly spread long before Watts knew it. WATTS will stay proceedings against McLean under the Electoral Act in the Police Court,

AND will withdraw writs in the Supreme Court for $20,000. against McLean and $30,000. against the Vancouver Sun.

The above covers all the untrue charges made by McLean re. WATTS and the TORIES financing him for the purpose of splitting the vote against McLean, under which charge if true WATTS considers that he would be a base TRAITOR to the Electors and would deserve Jail instead of a place in the House of Commons, but is ready to forgive the guilty one if he will retract and call back the awful lies and apologize. But it must be done promptly.

Tiny Tots at 'Red' Camp Rail at Law and Order on Farm Near Toronto

Youngsters, Trained by Communist Instructor, Display Prowess For Soviet-minded Parents; Attack Teachers, Police

TORONTO, Ont., July 21.—Faces lit with the frenzy of revolution. Hands clenched atop arms outstretched to defy law and order. Voices shrieking defiance to King and country. Heads bowed before the banner of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Little children responding to the wand of a propagandist instructor.

This was the scene witnessed by two Telegram reporters when they visited a farm property near the Kingston road fifteen miles east of Toronto recently.

MEET ON SECLUDED FAR

The site used for the Communist reunion is a wooded bowl, flanked east and west by giant maple and pine trees, carpeted with grass and tall Canadian field daisies. Above were ominous storm clouds, frowning as if in anger at the scene below.

The Telegram reporters sat in the afternoon on one of the slopes of this bowl, while below a motley array of parents was grouped in pow-wow style of the Indians around a knot of little children who hurled threats of dire vengeance upon he "malevolent" public schools.

Then came the sound of voices, children's voices, singing the "Third Internationele," and round a corner came another group of tots, one holding aloft the Red flag.

The emblem of the Soviet Union had worked on it sickle for agricultural workers, a hammer for factory employees, the two crossed, and at the bottom left corner, a script, which the reporter couldn't read.

CHILDREN MARCH

Behind the flagbearers marched a 100 children, ranging in age from six to 14, chaperoned by a swarthy physical instructor, whose orders belched with military precision, they obeyed. As they marched, they sang But they sang in German, or German intersperesed with Yiddish, intelligible only in the occasional word — "Pioneer," "Revolution," "Communist."

Behind the children came their parents, friends, sympathizers, among whom were noted several Red agitators arrested at Queen's Park meetings and demonstrators on Labor days.

The gathering, 300 men, women and children, arranged itself around a table on one side of the west slopes of the bowl, the children being apparently the actors, their parents the audience.

First item on the agenda of the meeting was a speech by the swarthy instructor who directs the physical activities of the camp, from the tents of which the children had come. The speech was delivered in German-Yiddish. It lasted fully 15 minutes, the while the children listening intently, and the parents clapping and shouting approval at odd intervals when something spicy was directed against "capitol."

Speech over, the children had their parts to play. First a small boy, trained to the letter recited something in Yiddish-German. Then a little girl had a poem, this time in English. The poem, which was entitled, "Crazy Land," was to the effect that the world was a very topsy turvy sort of a place, where the people who did all the useful work were poor, unfed, improperly housed, and where those who did no work at all were living in the lap of luxury.

LAD'S POEM ATTACKS ROYALTY

Then another little boy with another poem in English, his rendition earning him much handclapping. His chief growl was against the king and queen, whom his poem described as "useless personages" or institutions, the removal of whom he considered most beneficial to mankind.

Several other poems and recitations, all on the communist theme, some in English, but most in German, were rendered, the actors giving evidence or histrionic ability with the imprint of Communist agitation.

Followed a playlet. A group of childre nwere in public school with the teacher at her desk. While the language was unintelligible, it appeared that the teacher had been guilty of lauding the institutions of this fair land of Canada, and the children, Communist fathered and mothered, objected. Pandemonium reigned, when the children, overruling attempts on the teacher's part to secure discipline, began shouting revolutionary sentiments, defiance to the police and to law and order. It ended with 20 small fists being shaken at the teacher and what she represented, and by the children marching out singing "Solidarity For Ever."

Group singing of revolutionary and Communist songs was the next on the order of official business for the meeting, lusty young voices ringing out into the chilling air.

SING RED ANTHEM

"What's all this about?" The reporters hesitated a minute before rising to their feet in manner similar to the rest of the gathering, who as the children began to form into line, had, with one accord, found its feet. With the red flag at the head, the troupe of children, many of whom had also been given small banners inscribed with Hebrew script, began to march away from the arena. Whispers "The International" passed round the crowd. Hats were doffed. Everybody stood, some stiffly at attention. The children were singing the Soviet national anthem as they slowly marched from the arena back to the grounds on which stand the tents where they are staying for the summer.

Parents moved off behind, to form into little groups, excitedly gesticulating and congratulating each other on the prowess of their offspring. The reporters moved off and took up a point of vantage near the tents.

Three small boys approached. "Buy a button?" said one.

Interested, the two Telegram reporters bought two buttons for two dimes. On the button was "Young Communist League — Membership Drive." Fully fledged members of the league, and with the red buttons on the lapels of their coats, the two Candian reporters felt themselves at complete liberty to survey the territory from a closer angle.

CARICATURE POLICE

Near the tents was a large notice board on which were a number of caricatures, one of a "Toronto Christian politician," fat, well fed, addressing a horde of the unfed, unkempt workers; another of a Toronto school teacher, imbued with "capitalistic" sentiments, addressing children quite annoyed about it. There were a couple of essays by children at the camp, making derisive remarks about the manner in which the Toronto police pull out their billies and whack "earth-saving" Communist agitators over the head. But the notice assured readers that it would not always be so, the "workers" would some day triumph, and the police would not live so happy ever after.

Caricatures also showed small boys shaking tiny fists at big policemen, and making remarks which if one could translate would probably mean "Go to Hades" or suitable paraphrasing of such.

Meanwhile, the children were playing basketball, football, other games, in the vicinity of the tents. Close at hand were a number of trucks all bearing the names of merchants in the city.

Throughout the morning, these trucks had brought from the city of Toronto, loads of Red-minded parents, to go out to see their children spending the summer months in a camp a short distance off the Kingston road. Movement of these trucks full of Socialistically-looking people had occasioned no comment. Ostensibly they were going to pay a Sunday visit, to spend the day in the country. Ostensibly, the children were at camp, under the tutelage of a trained physical instructor. They were there for the good of their health. Actually, the camp proved to be a training ground for young Communists. Young Canadian-born children, were being imbued with utter disgust and hatred for the nation which was giving their parents their living . . . most of the parents were foreign-born.

"Yes," said one man in reply to a carefully put question from the reporter. "It's very good for the children . . . and . . . very good for the grownups, too."

Here is the Record!

Mr. Esling Asks the Liberal Speakers to Reply

The policy of a government is best understood by the record of its votes on those matters in which the people of this district are keenly interested. The votes of the Prime Minister and his cabinet must therefore be the policy on which every Liberal candidate in Canada must stand, or else he must repudiate the King administration.

BENNETT WILL ACT

Speaking at Edmonton on June 14, Hon. R. B. Bennett said: "When elected, I will call Parliament together at the earliest possible moment to provide at once the remedy for unemployment, which is work for all who can and will work. If there be those who think that their idleness, now unsought, may by aid of government be continued at their will, they mistake my meaning and my purpose. I will help them to help themselves, but I will not help them to remain in idleness. I will act for the common good. That is my guide, any other would surely lead me astray."

In emphasis of this policy, Mr. Bennett, speaking at Winnipeg on June 9, pledged himself to aid in the construction of highways, to provide a Pacific coast outlet for the Peace River, to increase harbor and storage facilities on the Pacific and Atlantic; to complete the Hudson Bay route and develop the St. Lawrence waterway.

THE NEW TRAFFIC BYLAW

Nelson city fathers have adopted a new traffic bylaw which should be studied by all motorists. In short the new bylaw makes Baker street, and other main streets, stop streets to traffic wishing to enter them. This is a step in the right direction.

However, with increasing automobile traffic in the city it will not be long before a regular signal system is needed on the main street corners. This would regulate the traffic and also the pedestrian. This system is working out in many centers across the boundary which are about the same size as Nelson.

A DESERVING FAMILY

Social workers should take heart from an incident that has just been reported by Miss Martha A. Dickinson, Windsor city clerk. She tells of a family which has been receiving charity from the city, and which, now that the father has secured steady employment, has announced its intention of immediately paying back the cost of the relief to the authorities.

Those engaged in charitable work have many disappointments and encouragements. Many of these come from people who are helped, and who show no sign of gratitude or appreciation; who, in many cases, prove themselves totally unworthy of the solicitude shown on behalf. One such case as that just recorded should help to restore anyone's lost faith in human nature.

TO INJURE CANADA DOESN'T AID THE EMPIRE

We all want to build up Empire trade. It is obviously good business to do so. But it must, if the Empire as a whole is to profit, be accomplished along sound, and not unsound, lines.

It accomplishes nothing for the Empire as a whole to take trade away from Canada and give it to some other part of the Empire.

How can we strengthen the Empire as a whole by weakening Canada?

He had found fault with his stenographer for altering a sentence in one of the letters he had dictated Her reply was that she thought he meant what she had written.

"I dont' want you to think," retorted the prominent Nelson lawyer, sharply, "I want you to take down my words accurately and then put them into type on the machine, neither adding nor leaving out anything I may say."

Later in the afternoon the typist brought back the following letter for signature:

"Dear Smyth. Spell it with a y although that's pure swank on his part, of course. In answer to your letter of—— Look up the date. We can quote you $50 a ton for the Walter, what's the most we can charge this old blighter? Very well. We can quote you$50 a ton for the goods free on board. If he accepts we shall have to make sure of our money beforehand, for I don't trust him. Awaiting the pleasure of your esteemed order, Yours faithfully."

That Body of Yours

By JAS. W. BARTON, M.D.

BUILDING UP YOUR HEARRT RESERVE

In a case of pneumonia or typhoid fever, the patient is apparently progressing favorably when he begins to look and feel weak, and stimulants become necessary.

What is the matter.

Very often it is because the heart muscle begins to falter, begins to run rapidly and less regularly.

That power it had within it to keep it going, hour after hour, is lessening. This power is known as the heart "reserve", something that enables you to engage in hard exercise or work, and to fight off the ailments that attack you.

For years it was thought that this power to pump blood was due to a nervous impulse sent from the brain to a little bundle of nerve tissue on the right side of the heart.

However, it was found that heart tissue could beat even when not connected to this bundle of nerve tissue.

Then a research man discovered that by injecting a liquid extract made from a certain portion of the heart near the location of this nerve bundle that the heart muscle would beat or contract.

Other research men then found that an extract made from other portions of the heart would also make this heart muscle beat or contract.

This made it appear that the heart muscle itself had a substance within it that had the power to make the heart contract.

This was thought then to be the source or cause of heart "reserve"; something within the heart substance itself.

However, research men found that an extract made from the liver also had the same effect, and also, an extract from the skin.

What does all this mean?

That there is a substance in the heart muscle that helps to make it contract, but that other organs and tissues likewise help to supply this juice or extract.

In other words the strength of your heart to overcome an ailment, to keep on working against difficulties, depends on how good it was when it was given you by your parents, how free you have kept from infection, how well you have to overcome infections, upon the exercise or work you have done; and last but not least the condition of the other organs and tissues of the body.

The lesson of course is that by keeping that body of yours in good general condition by common sense care as to food, sleep and exercise, you are really building up your heart reserve.

HOT WEATHER STAINS

Even though you may send your weekly wash to a steam laundry, you will want to remove those summer stains before the clothes or linens have been sent, as follows:

Ice Cream Stains: Because of the fatty content of cream, this sort of stain is treated like a grease stain —that is with gasoline or naptha (not near heat or flame) if the material is non-washable; or soak wash goods in strong borax water and cold water, followed by warm and wash with white naptha soap water.

Peach Stains: All fruit stains except peach stains will yield to the pouring of boiling water through the fabric.

Peach spots, however, should be wet and then covered thickly with cream of tartar before being placed in the sun. Obstinate peach stains must be removed with Javelle Water (buy this at any drugstore and follow directions which come with it.)

Perspiration Stains: As the perspiration of the arm pits in alkaline, such stains must be taken out by dipping the stained part of the clothing into a weak solution of muriatic acid, which is a poison, then rinsing in water containing a little ammonia. Repeat as often as necessary. The perspiration from all other parts of the body, however, is acid and therefore must be treated with alkaline applications such as the following: Wet the goods with suds of borax soap and lay in the sun; or sponge with strong borax water.

Tar Spots: Sponge with alcohol or with chloroform; or with turpentine, followed by benzine.

Grass Stain: Wet with molasses or glycerine, let stand one hour, and wash in tepid water, then in soap and hot water. Or saturate with kerosene and wash as usual.

WATTS POINTS OUT ERROR IN REPORT OF HIS RECENT MEETING

To the Editor The Nelson Daily News:

Sir—I am very sorry to trouble you, but a serious error in the report of meeting at South Slocan which says that I said "that I 'SPENT' thousands of dollars in capturing the Daily News, from 'the Liberals for the Tories'."

In this I used the word "RAISED" which states the fact, the other word if I used it would be untrue. As I have sent out several thousands of copies before I noticed the error. Kindly give this rectification a prominent place, thanking you for your kind attention.

Yours truly,

ALDERMAN COATES SAYS TOO MUCH COMMITTEE WORK

Public Not Informed Enough of Doings of the City Council

REFERS TO OFFER FOR POWER PLANT

Still of Opinion Offer Dropped too Suddenly; Urges an Audit

To the Editor The Nelson Daily News:

Sir—With reference to your published report in the Daily News of the 23rd inst. regarding the $2,000,000 offer for the city power plant and street railway system, I consider that the way this matter was published does not give me a fair showing as to the position in which I stand on this offer.

If the full report of the council proceedings on the 21st together with the electrical engineer's report were published, it would put an entirely different angle on the matter.

In the first place I took a determined stand against the matter being railroaded by referring it to the council in committee and went on record as being opposed to the matter being considered in committee as I maintained that this was a vital question and the public should know exactly what was being done.

In my opinion too much is discussed in committee and the public are kept in ignorance as to what the council is really doing.

The committee's first resolution put was to turn the offer down. In fact the resolution proposed was "That the offer be not accepted."

It was only after heated discussion that the resolution was changed and the werds, "That the offer was insufficient," were included in the resolution.

I am still of the opinion that before the matter be closed a firm of chartered accountants should be engaged to show exactly how the city power plant and street railway system stands as regard assets, liabilities, etc.

The offer distinctly stated that if the council gave it consideration an interview could be arranged and further matters discussed.

I do not consider it good business to turn down such an offer without going into it fully from every angle.

As an elected alderman I consider it my duty to draw this to the attention of the ratepayers in view of the fact that an undertaking of such magnitude cannot be decided in a session of about 50 minutes duration. As in that period the questions involved cannot be discussed intelligently.

Yours truly,
J. F. COATES

FRASER VALLEY SCENE OF FIRES IN THE TIMBERS

VANCOUVER, July 23.—Two fires have broken out on Dominion timber lands in Fraser valley on the mainland. One is on the logging slash of Abbotsford Timber Co., but it is stated, no standing timber is being endangered.

The other is of a far more serious nature. It is at Vedder Crossing, near Chilliwack, on the property of the Campbell River Timber Co. It started last night in fallen timber. The wind is variable, with a brisk breeze in the afternoon and evening, and is carrying the blaze towards some green timber, which is stated to be right in the path of the fire.

E. Wamsley, Dominion crown timber agent, says he has 100 men fighting this fire. There is nothing to be alarmed at up to the present, he states, but unless weather conditions change the situation may become serious.

With the continuance of the hot dry weather and wind to fan the flames, conditions are becoming extremely hazardous throughout the district, forestry officers state. A similar situation exists throughout the province, it is said.

What the Press Is Saying

A GREAT ROAD PROGRAM

British Columbia is today engaged upon the carrying-out of an elaborate road programme, as the despatch from Victoria in Sunday's Province showed. At the last session of the legislature an act was passed increasing the gasoline tax to 5 cents a gallon, and this increase, capitalized, has been put to work on the opening and grading and surfacing of highways. One need go no further than the Fraser valley to see evidences of activity. Formerly, the road between Vancouver and Chilliwack was long and crooked, dusty in summer and deep in mud in the wet season. A transformation has been effected. The road has been shortened and straightened. Difficult grades have been removed, soft places have been rocked, dusty stretches have been rebuilt and oiled. The road to Chilliwack is rapidly becoming a first-class highway.

Across the river, the same sort of transformation is being effected. Miles have been cut off the road between Vancouver and Agassiz, and grades have been reduced at the same time. Shortly we shall have a magnificent circular motor road running up one side of the river and down the other, the link between the two being the new Agassiz ferry. What this new highway will do for Vancouver and the Fraser valley may easily be imagined. It will bring the valley, which is a great fertile producing area—and capable of producing much more than it has ever done—right to the door of Vancouver. This should mean development for the valley and business for the city. It will also provide a lure to Vancouver motorists who, by testing out the circular tour, may be led on to see more of their own province instead of turning for their outings to the surfaced highway of the states to the south.

But one need not go so far as the Fraser valley to see evidence that the road programme is under way. One can see it on the north side of Burnaby lake where the Pitt River highway, which will presently enter the city over First avenue, is in course of construction. And in other parts of the province work is under way, on Vancouver island, in the Kootenay country, in the Okanagan, in the Cariboo, in the central interior, on the northern transprovincial highway which will some day be through to Prince Rupert, and on the northward-pointing road which will yet be pushed on to Alaska. New roads are being cut and old ones improved, and hundreds of men are being employed.

British Columbia's elaborate programme of road-building, road extension and road improvement was not arranged with the idea of relieving unemployment. It was conceived last year, before unemployment developed. The money for the work was provided, during the winter, while there was still hope that the summer would bring better times. Now, the work comes most opportunely, providing a livelihood for hundreds of British Columbia citizens who would otherwise find themselves in hard circumstances, and filling up the bottom of what might otherwise be a very serious depression indeed. It is entirely to the government's credit that, when it found a time of depression ahead and employment at a low ebb, it went on with its programme of work and made no attempt to curtail it. And it is not very much to the credit of the Liberal candidates in Burrard that he should attempt to decloud issues in the election and muddle the minds of his constituents by trying to persuade them that the provincial government has done just the thing it hasn't done. But Dr. Tolmie and his minister of public works, Mr. Lougheed, need not worry. They have cuttings and fills, smooth-surfaced highways, steam shovels, graders and gangs of busy workmen to speak for them. Against such things the feeble words of lone candidates are not of much effect. —Vancouver Province.

PEAK OF POWER

Not long ago Henry Ford announced that "if all the men of 55 years were removed from industry, there would not be enough brains to carry on." To maintain a proper balance of efficiency, oldsters are necessary to direct the youngsters, he declares.

Now come the doctors and reinforce Ford's position. Dr. J. A. Britton of Chicago says to the American Medical association that industry "makes a serious mistake in discarding a man when he reaches the age of 45. When this is done, the ten years of a man's life in which he attains the maximum of efficiency are thrown away." At this age he delivers more in "judgment, stability and loyalty." Muscular agility and power may begin to wane; but the higher qualities are on the increase.

When industry thinks a man is at his peak but a year or two, the question arises, "What peak?"

The pugilist is decrepit at 30; the baseballist is an old man at 40. In the ministry, law and medicine, he is too youthful at such ages. He may go off half-cocked. He lacks reserve power and experience. His ideas are half-baked.

As a warrior, however, he is too old and is rejected. He will not plunge in and take chances. Experience robs him of daring. He ceases to drive at break-neck speed.

Youth stops not at prince or president; but wisdom and thought save lawsuits. Nature can hardly be beaten in balancing the ages. Each needs the other. Youth alone can climb the mast and fling out the sails; but the old hea dog must be at the tiller in time of storm. He knows the reefs and tides.

Every commercial firm needs the go-getter for a salesman. He needs hustle and bustle to deliver the goods. But age must sit on the swivel chair, and consolidate the forces and maintain a good bank balance. A car needs both brake and engine; for there are as many down-grades as up-grades. The firm that acquires no new life dies of dry rot; the concern that lets out its older heads will go up in smoke.

The highest priced of all business characteristics are not brute force and sheer energy; but judgment, stability and loyalty. Thousands of institutions are started, but never finished. Youth has initiative; but age has discretion and bottom. The world needs both and values increase as you advance.

Our country has gone to seed one the youth movement. Youth is heroic in fight; but age saves us from war and destruction.—Los Angeles Times.

CRESTON VALLEY SCHOOL BOARDS ARE REELECTED

District Again Name Retiring Members in Most Cases

CRESTON, B. C., July 23.—All the school districts in Creston Valley have had their annual meetings during the past week, and reports of proceedings would indicate that great respect has been paid to economy in administration. For the most part the retiring trustee has been re-elected for the customary three-year term.

At Kitchener, G. A. Hunt, who has been chairman of the board ever since the school was established about 12 years ago, was favored with still another re-election and A. G. Strudwicke was again the unanimous choice for auditor. Kitchener is looking for a new principal but is in no hurry to make a final choice. For the year just closed no less than three principals had charge of the school.

At Camp Lister John Bird was again re-elected for three year's service, with A. R. F. Bernard chosen to serve out the two-year term of Mrs. D. J. McKee, who has resigned, with Mrs. Fred Powers making up the third member of the board. A sum of $400 was voted to finance the year with. The former principal, Miss Curtis, is expected to return.

At Canyon the veteran F. Knott was also started orf on his fourth three-year term of active service and issuported by John Nygaard and John Johnson, with Hilton Young the choice as auditor. At Canyon $1900 was voted to run educational affairs with, a sum slightly lower than previous years. Principal H. Stephens and Miss Vera Lister, who made up the staff last term, are likely to return.

ERICKSON MAN RE-ELECTED

At Erickson it was a case of re-electing E. E. Cartwright for another trio of years, and with Mrs. Frank Putnam and R. M. Telford composes this year's board of education. E. J. C. Richardson is auditor. The good work of the teaching staff, Miss Jessie White and Miss Walker, was tangibly appreciated with each getting a raise of $100 a year.

At Huscroft, John Huscroft takes up the burden of trustee for another three years, and associated with him will be Albert Tedford and Harry Helme, with Mrs. Charles Huscroft the popular choice as auditor. Huscroft voted $400 to run the school with, as they anticipate having to pay fees for a couple of students under 15 years who will be at Creston high school. Huscroft must find a successor to former Principal Miss Hazel Hobden, who joins Creston public school staff September 2.

At Alice Siding W. H. Mather came back again for service until 1933, and is supported by John R. Miller and Victor Carr, who have been associated with school work at Alice Siding for several years. George Constable was re-elected auditor. Alice Siding also requires a new principal to replace John Lukas, who turned in his resignation at the end or the term. Attendances at Alice Siding have reached the point where this year, for the first time in a number of years, a couple of students were sent up to write Grade 8 promotion examinations, and there are at least three Grade 8 students again the coming term.

At Wynndel $200 was voted for school purposes and George Huscroft made his bow as a school trustee, and will be asosciated with J. G. Abbott and W. J. Cooper. T. Sexsmith is auditor. Wynndel last year tried out a married couple in Mr. and Mrs. McGregor as school staff and liked it so well that both have been given a raise in salary if they return for 1930-31. Unexpected action was taken by the meeting in voting to discontinue renting the old school until such time as the structure is moved on to a new location. As the old schoolhouse is the only hall in that area and dancing a popular pastime, everyone is wondering what move will be made in the matter.

At Sirdar John Cameron succeeds himself as a three-year trustee and Mrs. Sid McCabe is again named auditor. The other trustees are R. Bleumenauer and George Cam.

A year ago several of these districts showed some real interest in establishing a central high school, presumably at Creston, where fourth year high school work could be taught, but this year the subject received little or no consideration.

Just as Paris has got women so accustomed to evening slippers which match the gown that anything else is unthinkable, Paris thinks up something different, for the newest evening slippers in the city of light are in a color to contrast with the gown, and in crepe or satin, the foot-gear is red, green or purple with a black gown, any shade with white, and suit your own taste with gowns of other tints.

"WE TAKE OFF OUR COATS"

"We are firm believers in the thought that industrial success for Britain lies not in subscription or adherence to any political cry or creed, but by simply taking off our coats and getting to work,' said the managing director of a motors company, London, England, in announcing the beginning of the manufacture of trucks at Luton, England. The operation will employ from 3000 to 4000 British workmen, and the trucks will be 75 per cent British, increasing later to over 90 per cent.

TWO MILLION SOULS IN NELSON

Such Would Be the Case If There Were As Many People To Every Automobile As There Are at Present in Russia

After all, the business of putting the world on wheels is only just beginning. Russia, for instance, covers one-sixth of the earth's surface, yet has a total automobile registration of only 24,000 or one car to every 6130 inhabitants.

In contrast, Canada has 1,168,188 cars, or one car for every eight people. If Canada had her present population and only enough cars to match Russia, she would have 1,524 cars; in other words, as many cars in all of Canada as there are today in Brockville, Ont., 1,439; Carleton County, N. B., 1562; Hull City, Que., 1534; Duncan, B. C., 1637; St. Boniface, Man., 1529, or Nelson, B. C., and district, approximately 1600.

If Nelson and district, which now has a licence issue of approximately 1600 for a territory of 42,000 population, or one car to every 26.5 persons, had cars on the same ratio as Russia, or one car to every 6130 inhabitants, there would be about one and a quarter cars in Nelson, if one can figure cars in quarters, and a grand total of about seven cars, where there are now 1600.

NELSON WITH TWO MILLION SOULS

On the other hand, if Canada had her present car registration and a poulation per car to match Russia, the poulation of Canada would be 7,160,992,440.

On this same line of figuring if Nelson and district had its present car registration and a population per car to match Russia, the poulation of the district would be about 9,808,000 and of Nelson about 1,634,- or pretty close to two million!

But, getting back agin to world motorization, if there were cars in Russia, as in Canada, on the basis of one for every eight people, Russia would have a car registration of 16,346,666, which is 16,342,666 more cars than she has now.

The present Russian car registration is matched by any one of the following Canadian cities: Hamilton, 22,985; Vancouver, 37,355; Winnipeg, 24,505.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., July 23—Attorney-General W. H. Price of Ontario, speaking here tonight, placed responsibility for the Smoot-Hawley tariff schedule, recently adopted by the United States, insofar as it is inimical to Canadian exports," on the Liberal government and its former representative at Washington, Hon. Vincent Massey.

Col. Price charged that the Liberal administration, by a policy of vacillation and drift, "and by pandering to the United States, had undermined Canadian prestige at Washington."

EXTENSIVE HEAT CAUSES FAILURE OF BRIDGE LIFT

WASHINGTON, July 23.—This is a heat story vouched for by engineers of the District of Columbia highway department. Workmen who attempted to operate the draw bridge over the eastern branch of the Potomac river yesterday found the iron had expanded in the sun and the lift would not bulge. Boats that were waiting, kept on waiting until the sun's rays grew a little less potent in late afternoon and the metal contracted.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

Here's the Latest

When we take to the water, we are quite uniformly clad in our swimming suits but, when we bask in the sun, we may express our personalities along various lines. For instance, we may adopt trousers—long full ones that fall like a skirt, if we would be smart, this season. And, of course, navy blue shantung suits the water perfectly in with a V neck-line slips over the trousers color and fabric. A white sleevless blouse in middy fashion. It is virtuallly backless, the tapering shoulders forming crossed suspenders in the back. And a jacket of polka dotted shantung tops it all, as shown in the Vogue sketch at the left. This jacket has seven-eigths length bell-shaped sleeves and a small standing collar. But perhaps Milady is more conservative and prefers to wrap herself in a beach robe, such as the one shown at the right in the ketch, of novelty cotton, cut with a mannish air. On the right is a photograph of Bessie Love wearinga unique slip-on printed jumper which hides her bathing suit, but which reveals the low-back cut of the suit.—Sketch is by Vogue.

BOY CARAVANERS VISIT HERE FROM SOUTHERN STATES

Visit Doukhobor Settlement; Impressed by Kootenay River Scenery

ONE BOY MAKES A HOLE IN ONE

Scare Colored Servants With Bear Skin; See Bull Fight in Mexico

A friendly invasion of Nelson took place Tuesday when 48 Alabama and Georgia high school boys stopper here for a day on their educational tour of the western states, and Canada. The touring party known as the Georgia caravan travelled in a large motor coach two trucks and two other vehicles, all chartered for the purpose.

Attended by five colored servants and instructed by several men and women the boys are visiting all points of interest in the west. The Kootenay district which greatly pleased the campers will be the only part of Canada touched in the tour. Next year the caravan will visit more of Canada.

The boys and their instructors were especially struck with the beauties of Bonnington Falls. While here they visited the Doukhobor settlement at Brilliant and the golf course where Billy Kingdon, one of their number made a hole in one. Two of the party visited the Nelson Daily News and were shown around the plant. One, Ben Gibson, is aviation reporter on the Atlanta Georian, and is covering the trip for that paper.

The caravan left Atlanta City, June 11, and is expected back about the middle of next month.

The project was planned and organized by D. W. Johnston, head of a boys school in Atlanta. During the trip they visited 19 states also touching Canada and Mexico.

They visited in north Florida, Texas, Los Angeles, Losemite, San Francisco, Spokane and many other points of interest and came to Nelson Monday night via Spokane. They left Nelson yesterday morning and will visit Yellow Stone national park.

In Juarez, Mexico, the boys witnessed a bull fight, and in Colorado saw the Grand Canyon and the painted desert.

While camped on the border Monday night one of the boys found a bear skin and decided to have some fun with the colored servants. They warned the colored men that the country was infested with bears and in the evening they placed the skin near the camp in such a position that it gave the appearance of a vicious bear looking in on the camp. When the colored servants came along they made a noise and one flashed a light on the skin and the servant, seeing what he thought was a large bear, fled to the woods.

Later in the evening the cook car took a wrong road and carrying the joke still further one of the boys crawled into the vehicle draped with the skin. The one of the servants who saw the apparition appear jumped through the window and fled.

Many other interesting events were recounted by the travellers while in the city. The boys range from 12 years up and all report having had a splendid time.

Throughout the trip, so far, none of the boys have been sick despite the fact that they have visited in many different climates and many altitudes. The campers have been favored by perfect weather, and have thus far escaped rainstorms.

THIS SAFE BABY MILK SOLVES VACATION NEED

by Mary Blake

Do I dare to take the baby? How often I have heard anxious mothers ask that question—mothers who have needed the change of a restful vacation at the lake or seashore but have been afraid to expose a tiny baby to the dangers of a doubtful milk supply.

Well, this summer Mother can go—and take the baby—with a carefree heart and a clear conscience. For some of the greatest authorities are now recommending as the very best milk for bottle-fed babies, a milk that you can get anywhere and that can't possibly cause those intestinal infections that so often come from milk obtained in localities where the health precautions are not absolutely reliable.

Safe—and more digestible

This baby-saving milk is unsweetened evaporated milk. It is absolutely safe because it is first sealed in air-tight cans and then sterilized, destroying all bacteria. It is safe wherever you buy it—you can get it at the most primitive country store and know that your baby's milk will be perfectly pure and wholesome.

And not only pure. For this wonderful milk is actually more digestible than milk in any other form. It forms softer, flakier curds, marvelously like those formed by mother's milk. And the large fat globules that make ordinary milk hard to digest are broken up by a process called "homogenization", each one divided into a thousand infinitely tiny ones that cannot tax the baby's delicate stomach.

Vitamins and minerals too

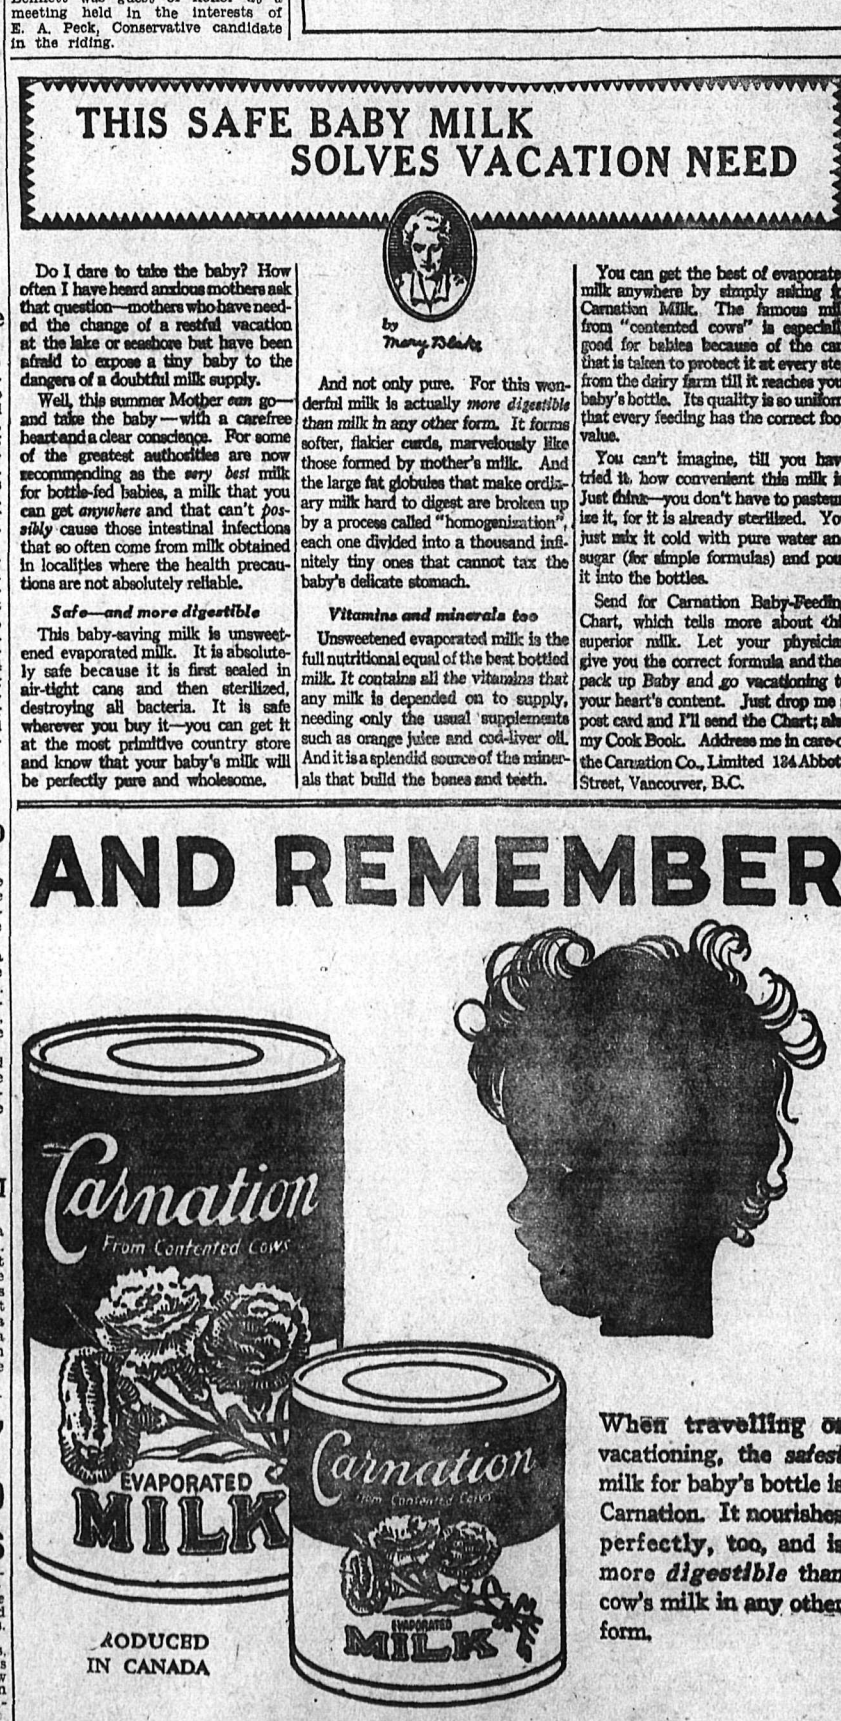
Unsweetened evaporated milk is the full nutritional equal of the best bottled milk. It contains all the vitamins that any milk is depended on to supply, needing only the usual supplements such as orange juice and cod-liver oil. And it is a splendid source of the minerals that build the bones and teeth.

You can get the best of evaporated milk anywhere by simply asking for Carnation Milk. The famous milk from "contented cows" is especially good for babies because of the care that is taken to protect it at every step from the dairy farm till it reaches your baby's bottle. Its quality is so uniform that every feeding has the correct food value.

You can't imagine, till you have tried it, how convenient this milk is. Just think—you don't have to pasteurize it, for it is already sterilized. You just mix it cold with pure water and sugar (for simple formulas) and pour it into the bottles.

Send for Carnation Baby-Feeding Chart, which tells more about this superior milk. Let your physician give you the correct formula and then pack up Baby and go vacationing to your heart's content. Just drop me a post card and I'll send the Chart; also my Cook Book. Address me in care of the Carnation Co., Limited 124 Abbott Street, Vancouver, B.C.

AND REMEMBER



PRODUCED IN CANADA

When travelling or vacationing, the safest milk for baby's bottle is Carnation. It nourishes perfectly, too, and is more digestible than cow's milk in any other form.

Babe Bothered By Plane Putting

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Golf is a strange game. I've seen Babe Ruth, who would stroll nonchalantly up to the plate and sock out a home run with a pitcher throwing fast balls at his head and fifty thousand pop-eyed fanatics yelling at the same time, miss a two foot putt and blame it on some planes over his head.

It reminds me of the story Jock Hutchison tells of the petulant player who, in his extremity of nervousness shouted, "Who could putt with these d——d ships sailing up and down the lake!"

Speaking of lakes, Jack Burgess, pro at the Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, Country club, tells of a golf course where one of the hazards was a small lake.

A visitor asked his caddie what the members thought of this as a hazard. The caddie replied, "Well, ye ken, we've an old Scotch major here. When he goes over the lake he says, 'Well ower the bonnie, wee lake, ma laddie,' but when he goes in he says, 'Pick me ball out 'o that beastly sewer!"

PATENAUDE RACE MAY NOT BE RUN

Coeur d'Alene and Spokane Men May Not Bring Their Fast Boats Here

That the Patenaude shield race to be staged on August 13, as the main feature in the regatta, may not take place unless A. Paulsen of Coeur d'Alene brings his fast hydroplane to Nelson, was the announcement made by L. F. Gilbert, owner of The Lady Bird, Tuesday. J. Pedicord of Spokane recently wrote Mr. Gilbert stating that it was impossible for him to send a boat and that he thought Mr. Paulsen, who had been having trouble with his boat, would probably not bring his boat either. These two men in the past years have taken keen interest in the races and have always been first in attempting to lift the title by purchasing faster engines and making adjustments to their boats.

Mr. Gilbert has been working on his boat "Lady Bird" for some time now and has several adjustments made and is looking forward to the race should these men see fit to send boats.

At a meeting of the launch club George Ferguson and G. Bunyan were chosen as judges for the races, A. H. Green starter and J. B. Gray, timer.

Out board races will be of keen interest this year as many fast boats are being brought in from the coast to compete. A triangular two and a half mile race will be the main feature of the outboard races. The C.P.R. barge will be placed at the end of the wharf for those who wish to see the races. The final rules and regulations have been drawn up.

6000 SEE TOD MORGAN BEAT SPOKANE MAN

SPOKANE, Wash., July 23.—(AP)—Tod Morgan former junior lightweight champion, showed what ringside experts termed championship form in winning a six-round decision over Don Fraser, Spokane lightweight, tonight.

After feeling out his opponent for two rounds, Morgan opened up in the third and in the fourth sent Fraser down for a nine count with a hard right cross to the chin. The former champion battered his heavier opponent to one knee for another nine count in the fifth but the rugged Fraser weathered the storm and was on his feet at the end of the sixth.

It was Morgan's first trial as a full-fledged lightweight. He weighed 133, five pounds less than Fraser.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, was given an ovation when he entered the ring to referee the main event.

Oldtimers termed it the largest fight crowd in Spokane's history, estimating attendance at 6000.

Saskatoon, Sask., July 23.—Fort Worth, with Jockey Rennie up, won the six and a half furlong handicap, the feature event of this afternoon's program at the exhibition track. The Keeton-owned gelding jumped into the lead from the barrier and was never threatened.

Sanabar finished second with Euphrosyne third. The place horse paid $13.60 for a $2 ticket.

The longest price of the day was returned by Son of Midway in the second race on the card, a five-furlong sprint when he paid $49.40 across the board.

Sammy Baird was the leading jockey of the day with two victories to his credit.

INLAND PET. NO. 1 IS IN PRODUCTION

LETHBRIDGE, July 23.—Inland Petroleum No. 1, financed by Crows Nest pass and southern British Columbia mining men, drilled into production last night and is rated a 225-barrel well with the bit only six feet in the sand.

A 5,000,000-foot flow of gas, which has been saved and will be marketed, was struck at 247 feet and the oil was found at 2522 feet, rising 2000 feet in the casing. The well will be put on test before it is decided as to whether or not it will be deepened.

Grain Vessels Are Tied Up by Large Elevator Congestion

WELLAND, Ont., July 23—Almost 2,000,000 bushels of grain is lying afloat in Port Colborne harbor in seven upper lake vessels waiting to unload.

The congested condition of the government elevator, relieved a little the end of last week, has become worse during the past two days, with the arrival of the Glen Eagles, Quedoc, Prindoc, and Durham. Several canal-size vessels are on their way to Port Colborne, however, and some of the vessels now waiting will get out within the next few days.

— Stella Wins Again —

At the annual women's National A. A. U. title meet of the United States, held in Dallas, Texas, this month, Stella Walsh of Cleveland, the sprinting sensation of the year, defeated Betty Robinson of Chicago, the winner of the 100 metre sprint at the 1928 Amsterdam Olympics in 11 1-10 seconds. The photographs above shows the finish of final with both wonder girl sprinters reaching the tape almost at the same time. On the left is Betty Robinson with her typical finish. On the right is Miss Walsh, with every muscle straining to defeat her rival. This photograph resembles to a marked extent the finish of the 100 metres at Amsterdam, with Bobby Rosenfeld in the picture instead of Stella Walsh.

GREAT GOLFERS OF CONTINENT TEE OFF TODAY

All Except Bobby Jones Are at Hamilton For Big Event

HAMILTON COUNTRY CLUB, Ancaster, Ont., July 23—(By William D. White, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—The heavy artillery of practically all of the great golfers of the continent, save Bobby Jones, greatest of them all, will resound over the beautiful rolling Ancaster links tomorrow as the first round of the Canadian open championship gets underway.

Majority of the stars who will bid for the Dominion open title reconnoitered the course today and judging by the brilliance of these practice rounds, old man par is in for a thorough trouncing.

MacDonald Smith, the dour Scot, achieved the best practice round today. He stroked his way smoothly around the course to return with a 66, including an unlucky five on the 17th hole. Johnny Farrell shot a 67 and appeared in fine shape. Tommy Armour of Detroit did the same, but long Jum Barnes did the same, but long Jim Barnes holder of the title, he doesn't tell his score, in fact, he doesn't take the practising here very seriously. But the defending champion, four times winner of the crown, is distinctly "on his game."

Walter Hagen gave warning that he would be a factor in the present tournament when he shot a 67.

The players were followed by a fairly large sized gallery in today's practice rounds.

Horto nSmith of Joplin, Mo., who electrified the gallery early in the week by disposing of the first nine in 33, is looked upon as a serious threat. MacDonald Smith is given the edge, in locker-room gossip, to finish the championship as winner or runner-up.

Play starts tomorrow at 8:30.

Eighteen hole rounds will be played on Thursday nad Friday, those within 20 strokes of the leader going into Saturdays 36-hole final rounds.

INTOXICATION IS BLAMED FOR AUTO CRASH NEAR HUME

Alleged to have been intoxicated while driving a motor vehicle E. Berg of Nelson was confined in the city jail here last night after the vehicle he was driving crashed into that of J. H. Woodburn of Trail about 100 yards west of the curve on High street by the Hume school. The accident occurred about 8:30 in the evening.

Though the cars were travelling at a comparatively moderate rate of speed considerable damage was done when they crashed.

Mr. Woodburn was proceeding toward Nelson when the accident occurred and was accompanied by several members of his family. Mr. Berg was alone in his car.

Occupants of the cars were not injured in any way.

Bennett Predicts Government Charge

EXETER, Ont., July 23—(CP)—Through the flag-draped streets of the town, Hon. R. B. Bennett was paraded this afternoon, and given a civic reception.

The people of Canada, Mr. Bennett declared, "are so aroused, so interested in the problem on this country they have determined we must have a change of government." Victory is in the air for the Conservative party. From telegraphic advices being received, he proceeded, and from what he had seen at every point in his tour there is evidence of a deep and abiding interest in the affairs of the Dominion and a grim determination to have a new government.

Conditions prevailing, Mr. Bennett went on, could not continue, "without grave menace to our national life."

PLAN TO RESIST

VIENNA, July 23—(AP) —The Neue Freie Presse tonight stated that four Hungarian national associations today constituted themselves an anti-Hapsburg league for the purpose of counteracting the restoration of the Imperial dynasty.

THE FAN'S OWN
Sport Column

A MORAL FOR PROMOTERS

It is a generally well-known fact that managers with a boxer to build up, often choose the safest way to bring him into the limelight—that is by arranging for him to meet a number of "set-ups" over which to climb to higher places. Promoters in a position to provide big-money fights are never fooled by a long string of victories over fighters whom they are quite aware were "set-ups". But many of the fans are and when a boxer has a long string of victories the followers clamor to see him in action against whoever happens to be at the top of his division. And the promoter, although knowing that the challenger's victories are no credit to him, is forced by the demand of the fans to give him a chance. That then is the reason for the "set-ups".

MAY NOT NEED THEM

But often these boys who are being sent in against "set-ups" do not need them. They could beat the best in their division. R. E. Kirby, Nelson sportsman, who discovered and gave George Harlow local heavyweight, his start, is "dead set" against "set-ups". He has stated so more than once. True, he has always felt before any of Harlow's battles that the man going in against the local boy didn't stand a show but what manager doesn't figure his boy is the best? And you probably couldn't yet convince any of Harlow's victims that Harlow is the best man.

"CAN LICK 'EM ALL"

Questioned the other day whether or not Harlow's battle last Wednesday at Spokane when the Nelson boy knocked out Shephard, Oakland Negro heavy, in the first round, was or was not a "set-up" with the idea of building George up on the other side of the line, Kirby, who saw the fight, did not answer either way but said in effect: "George doesn't need any "set-ups". He can lick 'em all".

"Set-ups," when they are not needed may do more harm than good. One would not think that Primo Carnera, Italian giant, would need a string of "set-ups". They were provided him, however, probably for the money they would bring in, and such has been the clamor all over the country about "frame-ups" and so on, that Carnera dared not cross the International boundary line for fear he could not again enter the United States. And now comes the announcement that Washington Immigration officials have refused a six-months' extension of Carnera's legal stay in United States and that he and his manager, Leon See, must vacate at once.

Unless the pair were only after the money they could get in small sums, and not the heavyweight championship of the world, the honor and large purses, they must now see their mistake in providing "set-ups" for a man, whom to all appearances, did not need them.

Railways Together With Government To Aid Farmers

REGINA, Sask., July 23.—(CP)—Plans for the relief of farmers in the dried-out areas, to the southwest of Regina, are now being put into effect, the railways cooperating with the provincial government. This is the second year relief has had to be supplied to the drouth-stricken districts.

Today it was announced that the railway companies have agreed to assume half the cost of transporting haying outfits, hay and straw between the needy areas and haying grounds. The provincial government also assumes half the charges.

Outfits, it is understood, will be sent to haying grounds on Indian reserves, the Carrot river valley and The Pas district.

Later special rates will be granted by the railways for the transportation of grain for fodder into the dried-out sections of the province.

TWO MILLIONS RETURNED WHEN SCHMELING WON

Foul Clause in Many Wagers; Many However Lost Out on It

Between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 failed to change hands on the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey heavyweight championship bout due to the latter's foul blow, it has been disclosed. Most wagers laid with commission houses along Broadway and Wall street were with the understanding there would be no play in case of a foul either way. W. L. Darnell & Co., J. S. Fried Co., and other large brokers already have returned approximately $1,000,000. However, it is estimated some coin was cleaned up in wagers that excluded foul clauses.

Schmeling's fluke win upset one of the biggest gambling coups sprung in New York in some time. At ring time odds of 2 to 1 were offered on Schmeling, the Boston gob being a heavy favorite with the wise element. So sure were many of Sharkey's backers, they failed to consider a foul. It was no secret in New York Sharkey was expected to get the best of everything due to his connections. When the German dropped to the floor in the fourth round claiming a foul, Schmeling partisans feared Referee Jimmy Crowley would count him out.

FOUL CLOSES

For the past year New York gamblers have injected foul clauses in their wagers. Often fighters on the verge of a knockout, or without a chance to win, punch low to keep their record intact from a loss. It is claimed Joe Dundee, while welterweight champion, wagered $50,000 on himself against Jackie Fields. The latter had Dundee in a bad way, and according to reports, Joe fouled out to save his $50,000. Certain gamblers in the west discarded this foul aggreement and were nipped plenty because of Sharkey's illegal glow.

In the meantime, there is a lot of speculation in New York concerning the result of the fight. The close friendship of Chairman Farley and James Joy Johnston, arch enemy of Schmeling and Joe Jacobs, and Farley's sway over Commissioner Muldoon have stirred a lot of gossip, especially since the New York foul rule, which would have forfeited Sharkey's money except for the number of rounds he performed and would have suspended him for six months was waived previous to the fight. The action of Referee Jim Crowley floundering about the ring for seven minutes before making a decision and being told four times by Judge Barnes it was a foul before he decided and the shouting by Chairman Farley to the referee and two judges, "Don't say anything, keep quiet", added fuel to the chatter. And one of the unsolved puzzles is why Sharkey fouled his way out after establishing a lead that so much of the money wagered on the bout carried the foul clause is significant what the so-called wise element thought of it.

CHAPTER SIX

All through the morning Dolores rode. Hour followed hour, the girl and the horse swept on in a mad, snorting, unleashed career across the empty and unreckoning prairie. High into the tottering noon climbed the sun, until the heat of its perihelion was like a feverish curse over the land, but Dolores would not pull up for rest nor for water, nor yet for shade.

The only relief for her then was a physical violence of sensation that must obliterate all other feelings. The loss, the humiliation, the disappointment, the finality of her situation could not be faced. Speed, aching bones, sore joints, dizzy brain must blur the edge of her inner torture.

Through the sunny hours she raced, as if outrunning pursuit. But she knew that no one followed her; indeed, Dolores would have been transported with joy if Buddy had come after and forced her back with him, even if he had dragged her by the heels like a wild pony. But there was no hope of that. Draconi might howl curses and stamp his booted feet, but his troupe must press on with all speed to make their next village that same evening and he would find a new star. Buddy would suffer the martyr's agony and pity himself as a Canio among the Draconi pagliacci; as if he needed to have smashed their love, the pious, hopeless fool!

At every thought of the uselessness of it all, Dolores fiercely urged on her horse, slapping her small hands angrily against his shoulders and screaming at him as if she were a riding lamia, full of the female demon's bitter spite. She screamed at Billy until her breath was gone, and he went charging forward, his tail stiffly out, his mane bristling, his eyes staring and wild, as if the torture jiggle of her mood were now communicated to his lean brown legs.

Headlong through the hours they raced while a mocking wind sped whistling by, until Billy had had enough of it and wanted to quit. At first she would not let him rest, but kicked into his flanks and beat his neck with her fists until he neighed and galloped on again, and her mad thoughts were deafened down by the hoofbeats of the crazy flight. At last, when they came to the slope of a narrow stream, Billy refused to go further. He was drooping and foaming, his mane and shivering limbs were dripping wet and the once maddened eyes now were glazed over with a mortal weariness.

She rubbed him down and soothed him and tethered him before she threw herself on the bank of the stream and stared at the noisy, shallow water. Aching with fatigue, she felt utterly exhausted and depressed; her mind was like a charnel house, filled only with the corpses of old thoughts, lying in unfinished attitudes, stiff and lifeless. In the troubled waters just below her, the image of her face was reflected, shaking and distorted, only a mangled replica of her beauty, and yet, as she realized, a precise simulacrum of her mood.

If only she might cry or else sleep, but her pride would not yield to her the one relief, nor would her excitement bestow the other. A quivering in her throat remained still-born and stubbornly would not be a sob, while the bleared memory of Buddy stood like a sentinel, forbidding sleep.

Her eyes lingered on the weird reflection of her face in the water, as if it were some oracle, willing to be interrogated. What was it that had brought upon her this sudden disaster? Without any oracle, Dolores knew the answer to that shabby riddle. Buddy had felt he had the right to a divorce only because Adelia had abandoned him. The minute she expressed the wish to return and pleaded a mother's natural right to her child, he was in conscience bound to meet her halfway and with Patsy by the hand.

"She is a liar!" Dolores began aloud, instinctively lightening her mood with the shallowness of speech. "She is as bad now as she ever was; she just couldn't stand aside and see us be happy, that's all; but she's making him believe in her and she will cheat him again and again. He will see—but it will be too late then. What is the matter with people? Way does he think he has to take her back? There's no sense to it. Is he crazy, or am I crazy?"

Then she began to reproach herself for not having anticipated the outcome. Why had she not realized that Buddy's wife would never willingly let him find happiness with another woman? What a giddy-headed fool she had been, not to foresee that. To the splendor of the first love she had given herself up without a question. Nor to Dolores did the courtship with a married man appear as the outlawed affair the conventions of her time stamped it. Her mother was a Creole woman with a great deal of tolerance for all affairs of the heart, especially her own. No moral scruples had stayed Dolores from Buddy, because she had felt the sin was all on the part of his wife. In her whole-hearted gift of herself, she had not doubted that Buddy, too, was giving up everything for her. She had suspected him of no reservations. Now she wondered if she had not always loved more than he; if from the first, in the back of his head, there had not been some guilty belief that God had joined him to Adelia and that no other woman might permanently sunder them.

No longer did it seem to her that her flight from him restored to her any of her lost dignity. Really Buddy had fled from her like a man who covers his face with his hands. At this shameful realization she trembled and wondered how anyone could live a whole lifetime with such a naked memory. She closed her eyes, and wished she were a little girl again, writing her poems. Why had she been tempted back to show life, when it was all rough and common and beneath her—and she a poet. Ah, if she only had pencil and paper this moment, what a poem she could write!

Here again, the struggle for expression seemed to be an anodyne for her pain.

That forlorn and unattainable wish fluttered within like a cry lingering in a dark place. Words and rhymes began to chatter in her ears as in those olden days, and she itched to write them down; she fretted for pencil and paper where there were only trees and sky, water and waving grass, and a weary steed.

If only she might make a poem of all this, and find a rhythmic mesmerism in its repetition. Words tumbled restlessly in her uneasy head, laboring to be written. "Come back to me!" was the burden of the song; "Come back to me!"—if only Buddy had come back to her she would have shown him that bright days lay before them, and that all the starry nights they had known together were but the prelude of the beauty they were yet to share. If he would but come to her now, her burning lips would set a hot seal on their reconciliation. Why couldn't they both play truant to the circus of Draconi; yes, and to the circus of life, too, and wander like nomads over these green spaces, primitive, loving and free? The past then would seem only a sweet dream to herald a new and braver and better reality! Way did he not come after her? "Come back to me!" whispered through her brain like a threnody; "Come back to me!"—why didn't she have paper and pencil?

The child was only seventeen.

Then with a mournful sentimentality, the poem changed, and she began to wonder how Buddy would feel and what he would say, if he were to follow her and then find her, dying in some lonely cottage. Ah, then he would not think of Adelia—or would he? Surely he would think only of Dolores then; his conscience would not make him run from her if she were dying and called to him. A storm would be over them both, she decided; a strom that would lift its back arms toward the sky. At the glad sight of Buddy's face, loving and tender again as she had known it all this glamorous year, she would listen no longer to the wailing of the low-voiced wind, the moanings of the freezing and the starving and the dying who seemed to bear her ghostly companionship. She would let her lover take her cold hand in his, and she would say to him: "Look down into my eyes, the while I question you, and if you love me answer me! Oh, answer me!" What would she wish him to answer. She would ask him if there were not somewhere for them a gleam of peace on all this tiresome earth. Did not one oasis cheer all this desert world? The lines ran through her mind, awkwardly, like blinking, golden chickens stumbling foolishly from their shells. "Answer me!" cried the poem in her head. "Oh, answer me!" She would ask Buddy to speak to her tenderly, to think of her lovingly; she would release back her hair, and then take her cold, tear-stained face against his. And she would whisper to him then, "Let my lonely life creep into your warm bosom, knowing no other rest but this." Folded away in her lover's arms ,how little would she take notice of the storm! The darkness might press its black forehead against the window-pane, but she would not be afraid, for love would hold a lamp in her little room to blot out all her fear.

By John P. Boughan, Associated Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, July 23—After an almost straightaway upturn of about 12c a bushel from recent low prices, the corn market today hesitated and lost pose. Forecasts of showers indicating a halt in widespread crop damage from heat and drought had much to do with bringing about a selling movement that was also inspiring by strenuous efforts whch May traders made to grab profits while the grabbing was good. Tending to stiffen prices again however, at the last was an official estimate that the corn crop of one of the largest corn producing states of the union, has been curtailed 45,000,000 bushels by drought and excessive heat of the last two weeks.

Closing quotations on corn were irregular ranging from ⅝c setback to ⅝c gain compared with yesterday's finish and about 1½c under today's top figures. Wheat closed nervous ¼ to ¾c net lower with oats ⅜c off ⅜c up and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

BEES PREFER HIVE WITH GLASS SIDES SAYS INVESTIGATOR

A Russian investigator reports that bees prefer glass hives to the dark houses we've been keeping them in all these hundreds of years.

Not only do they prefer the new type of hive, but this investigator says they are healthier, produce more honey, and are actually happier.

We may have been wrong all these years about bees so the College of Agriculture and the Provincial Department of agriculture are cooperating to check up on this Russian bee-keeper. Two glass hives have been installed at Point Grey under he direction of W. J. Sheppard, provincial apiarist, and may be seen by calling at the University of British Columbia. Special information can be obtained from the provincial apiarist.

U. S. APPLES APPEARING NOW, COAST MARKET

Gravenstein, Yellow Transparents Arrive At Vancouver

LATTER FROM WASHINGTON

First Whole Car of B. C. Raspberries Is at Saskatoon

Market news letter, issued under date of July 18, says:

VICTORIA

Weather warm and dry. Raspberries and loganberries are on the market in large quantities. The wholesale price on raspberries is $3.60 per crate for No. 1 quality and $2.40 for loganberries. The first shipment of California Bartlett pears was received here yesterday morning containing 15 boxes. These were examined and found to be infected with Codling Moth. The shipment was condemned and returned to Seattle. Five crates of imported raspberries arrived here this week. These, we are informed, are the first to be imported for the last ten years. We notice by the imports into Vancouver that 1589 crates of raspberries have been received on that market during the past week.

Wire received from J. A. Grant, markets commissioner, from Winnipeg. "Weather has been exceptionally warm this week coupled with electric storms and rain. It is great weather to create a demand for seasonable fruits such as berries, cherries and canteloupes. Fruit arrivals from B. C. continue to be in line with the demand. Several cars of berries and cherries will arrive tomorrow and the market is all ready for them. A large departmental store has a big sale on today and expect to move about a carlot of watermelons as side incident in the sale. Prices are unchanged on all fruits. The B. C. quotations on potatoes early this week were considerably higher than Minneapolis quoted on Kansas potatoes and being within two freight days of Winnipeg as against B. C. freight days, seven cars were ordered from Minneapolis before the new B. C. price of $35.00 was named. The $35.00 price is only a few cents less laid down than southern quotations. There is a good movement in all perishable prdouce just now. Local head-lettuce, rhubarb and mostly all local vegetables will supply this market from now until frost. No rebates on raspberries have been allowed on this market to date."

VANCOUVER

The weather has remained fair during the past week. The raspberry deal remains on a firm basis and prices are practically the same as those of a week ago. There is a good shipping demand from growing points at good prices from prairie markets and this keeps the local market clear with an edge to the demand. Strawberries are still coming in limited quantity and wholesale about the $2.50 figure. It has been a slight season and the public appetite does not appear to be as satiated as is usual at this period. Moorpark apricots are as yet supplied from Washington, no Okanagan arrivals being as yet able. Prices are already at a low level, $1.15 to $1.20 per box, due to some extent to heavy shading of profit by both wholesalers and retailers. It is problematic as to what receipts may be expected from upper country points. Cherries are somwhat cheaper than a week ago and the deal is nearing an end. Gravenstein apples are now on the market from California and wholesale at $3.00 per box. Yellow Transparents, Dutchess and Red Astrachan apples from Washington points are also in and wholesale at $2.25 as against $2.50, the price of a ago. Bartlett pears are also in from California at $4.75. Peaches from California are now fairly and plentiful in several of the early varieties and sell at $2.00 to $2.25 with a tendency to slip to the lower price. There are also a few light arrivals from Washington. The market is rather heavy on plums and some difficulty is experienced in moving them out before deterioration takes place. As a result there is much jobbing at figures which are governed by expediency. Hothouse tomatoes remain at the same figure as previously quoted but the market is rather inclined to the weak side and some reduction in price is a possibility. The peak of production is past, however, an dno heavy break such as occurred a couple of weeks ago need be expected at least before the Ashcroft and Kamloops field product comes on the market in quantities. New potatoes have fallen off considerably in the last few days and in some cases are quoted at $1.65 per sack wholesale while there are quotations as high as $2.00. The controlled price to growers is $35.- per ton.

Fruit and vegetables imported into Victorian and Vancouver during the week ending July 17th. Washington and California: Apples, 1777 boxes; pears, 490 boxes (15 boxes received in Victoria were condemned and returned) plums, 921 boxes, peaches, 1724 boxes. Washington: apricots, 6370 boxes; prunes 95 boxes; cherries, 215 lugs; raspberries, 1594 crates. California: canteloupes, 2527 crates; casabas, 7235 in bulk; celery 597 boxes; grapes, 783 crates; green corn, 150 crates; tomatoes, 650 lugs.

EDMONTON

Business is good. The Annual Fair is on and this greatly stimulates the demand for practically all fruits and vegetables. New apples, peaches, apricots and plums are now arriving from Washington, two cars having been received during the last two days. Mixed cars of fruits and vegetables are arriving from B. C. These contain cherries and apricots, tomatoes, cucumbers and mixed vegeables. Cherries are plentiful, but this week's demand will be heavy. They are arriving in excellent condition. The market is short of strawberries, raspberries and loganberries and prices are holding firm. The tomato market is firm with fair to good demand. Besides the express and mixed car arrivals of B. C. hothouse tomatoes we have received another car of California field stuff. These are being sold at around $5.00 per lug of 28-lbs, while B. C. hothouse tomatoes are bringing from $4.00 to $4.50 per 4-bskt. crate. Cucumbers are plentiful and are moving slowly. B. C. celery is coming in small lots and is of fair quality although very small compared with California stock. New potatoes from B. C. are arriving in mixed cars and also five cars were received during the last two weeks. Local grown new potatoes are also appearing and will be in fair volume by the end of the month. Onions are coming from Washington, two cars having been received during the last two or three days. These are new crop Yellow and are of good size and quality, being fairly well cured and sell to the retail trade at $4.00 per cwt.

SASKATOON

The weather here is hot and it is having a very favourable effect on the fruit rade, which has been good in nearly all lines for the last ten days. Strawberries are cleaned up and we received the first whole car of B. C. raspberries on the 15th. They were of good quality and arrived in good condition. They are selling briskly at $4.00 to $4.50 per crate. California plums, peaches and apricot supplies are very light, the trade evidently waiting for Washington and B. C. stuff. Cherries from B. C. are moving freely at slightly lower prices. Bings and Lamberts are $3.00 to $3.25 and Royal Anns and Windsors $2.75 to $3.00. New potatoes from B. C. are finding a very brisk demand and moving in good volume at $4.00 per cwt. Celery from Armstrong is arriving in very good condition and sells at the same or a slightly higher price than the California product. There is only a limited sale for hothouse tomatoes as Tenessee lugs are now on the markte and will practically shut out the hothouse product. Vegetables from B. C. arriving on this market compare favorably with the imported stuff.

SEATTLE

Peaches are coming in freer offerings. Early Rochester freestone peaches are of exceptionally fine size and color, which places them in strong demand at $1.75 to $2.00 a crate, off the Walk. Local buyers are paying $65.00 per ton for apricots. Forty-eight cars of apricots have been shipped out of Wenatchee district this season to date. Canteloupe prices are higher Sales out of he car were reported mostly on a basis of $3.50 a crate for Jumbos and $3.00 for Standards. A firmer tone is reflected in the potato market. Sales out of the car were mostly on a basis of $1.75 per 100 lbs.

Market quotations on the new California crop of dried prunes, canned peaches and pears are about 50 per cent less than last year. The California canning peach crop is 450,000 this year as against 170,000 for last year.

40 OF NEW TYPE REFRIGERATOR CARS ARRIVE

Leave Revelstoke Destined for Points in the Okanagan

REVELSTOKE, B. C., July 23—Forty of the latest type of refrigerator cars, especially designed for handling British Columbia's fruit crop moved ou" of here in a special train for Penticton over the Canadian Pacific railway today.

The cars are of the basket bunker type and caused considerable interest here where they have been on public display during the past few days. They are of all-steel construction and ice containers are literally baskets of heavy wire mesh, two such baskets being placed in each end of the car, researches having proved that by splitting the body of ice at both ends of the car four additional ice surfaces are exposed to circulating air.

"Introduction of these cars is an effort on the part of the Canadian Pacific railway to further meet the requirements of Okanagan fruit growers and shippers," said Oscar J. Donaghy, supervisor of perishable traffic for western lines who is accompanying the train of new cars. The cars, he explained, were built in Montreal and Hamilton to plans prepared by the C.P.R., during the run to Penticton cars are being dropped off at Armstrong, Vernon, Kelowna and Summerland to be demonstrated later by Mr. Donaghy. Growers of the Okanagan valley are greeting this new and improved method of shipping fruit with enthusiasm.

STRAWBERRY CROP SHORTAGE FELT BY JAM FACTORY

McDonald Company Busy With Local Fruits; No Jam Movement

J. A. McDonald, manager of the McDonald Jam company, yesterday stated that with the exception of strawberries other fruits being packed this year were supplying local demands. The strawberry crop has been such that only a half pack of this fruit was handled at the jam factory.

At the present time the factory is packing raspberries, apricots and gooseberries. These fruits are keeping even with local demands.

The cherry supply at the jam factory is short this year, also.

Mr. McDonald stated that in other years jam movement had started in July but this year nothing had moved as yet and it is not expected that there would be any demand until the first of August. He attributed this to the flood of cheap jam that has crowded the market to the exclusion of the first class product.

COMMISSIONER OF FRUIT SPEAKER AT WILLOW POINT

J. Forsyth Smith Tells of Popularity of B. C. Apples, London

WILLOW POINT, B. C., July 23—There was a very well attended meeting at Crystal hall Monday to hear J. Forsyth Smith, frui" trade commissioner in London, who is making a tour of the province. Mr. Smith was accompanied by R. G. L. Clarke, of Vancouver chief fruit inspector for British Columbia.

Mr. Clarke in a short address emphasized the importance of the inspection service, pointing out that in 1916 the staff consisted of himself and two assistants who were employed only six months in the year, while in 1929 seventy-three men were employed at this work. This increase in the inspection service was almost entirely brought about at the request of the growers and shippers themselves. Mr. Clarke expressed appreciation of the hearty co-operation that exists between the members of his staff and the growers and shippers generally, and maintained that a continuation of the relationship would make for the success of the industry.

B. C. APPLES POPULAR

Mr. Smith, who is making his biennial tour of Canada in the interests of the fruit industry, was glad to state that B.C. apples are not only maintaining but increasing their popularity on the British and Continental markets, even in the face of very keen competition from the United States. He also emphasized the importance of the inspectation service although it was not so generally appreciated in the other provinces. In the case of certain continental markets where cash buying is more in vogue than in Great Britain, the inspection certificate was valued very highly, and invariably insisted upon.

The work of the Empire Marketing Board in educating the public to buy Empire fruit in preference to foreign was very important and was undoubtedly getting results. A government regulated required that all fruit offered for sale should be plainly marked with the counry of origin, and to assist the retailers in this work they were being supplied with price tickets featuring a male leaf for identification of Canadian fruit. Canadian shippers could therefore be assured of the sympathetic attitude of the British consumer, but it would be unreasonable to expect this to continue unless a high standard of quality were maintained. Advertising must also be consistant and continued over a long period of time to get results.

THE EMBARGO

The embargo on the importation of C grade apples from the United States, owing to the discovery of apple maggot, might not be an unmixed blessing, as this fruit must find an outlet and might have an effect on the domestic markets. There was also the possibility of the ban being applied to Canadian fruit if this pest is discovered.

A number of films were shown which were very much appreciated, one of which, depicting the various operations in he picking, grading and packing of B. C. fruits, showed some views taken in J. J. Campbell's cherry orchard. Other films shown were: Niagara Falls; the Imperial Fruit Show; the handling of boxes and barrelled apples at the docks and views of Conven Garden, Glasgow and Paris markets.

The meeting was under the auspices of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' association and C. S. Squires, director for the district, was in the chair.

NAPLES, Italy, July 23.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and 10 injured by the collapse of buildings during sharp earth shocks here today.

Two were killed and five injured in the collapse of an old palace. A bby was killed and five persons badly hurt when the fifth floor of a house crumbled under the shocks.

SPOKANE BOYS SEEK RECORD, TREE-SITTING

Two to Start Today With Third Handle "Refueling Ship

SPOKANE, Wash., July 23.—Two North Central boys and one from Havermale junior high school intend to break all tree-sitting records in a poplar tree they have selected.

"We intend to fight it out in this poplar, if it takes all summer," Erwin Ressa, W511 Sharp, leader of the intrepid three, said. His companion in the tree will be Fritz Barrett, 15, W442 Cataldo, Havermale junior high school pupil. The third, who will handle the "refueling ship," will be Matt Merrick, 17, W522 Dean avenue, and a classmate of Erwin.

"We have picked a tree on Dean avenue, between Stevens and Howard streets, and obtained permission from the owners for its use. It is a big tree with broad limbs and plenty of foliage," Erwin said. "No, we don't intend to take any mattresses up with us, only pillows, and we have arranged a system of pulleys with which food, drink and other necessities can be raised to us.

WHAT TREE SITTERS WEAR

"What will we wear? That depends on the weather . If it rains Merrick will raise up umbrellas or raincoats, whereas if the hot weather continues we exepct to wear bathing suits, with Merrick promising to turn the hose on us at intervals.

"Our diet will be light, as our only exercise will be that which we can gain by climbing from limb to limb and back again.

Erwin says they plan to start the contest, either at noon or 6 p.m. tomorrow, the hour for the start depending on the weather. "If the day is unusually hot we will not mount to our perch until 6 p.m., thinking it better to sit through the coolness of the night and enter the heat gradually, rather than start out with the sun at its height. We shall not make the mistake of eating ice as that endurance flier did, and our diet has been carefully arranged to give us the greatest strength.

"GLORY" FOR SPOKANE

"We have nothing to do until school starts and hope to bring to Spokane the glory of the tree sitting championship of the world. The 238-hour record of Bill Kearney of Kansas City does not worry us. If any one can even live that long in Kansas we should have no difficulty in sitting in our poplar until the school bell rings, so far superior is our glorious outdoors."

STORM CAUSED DEATH YOUNG AIRMAN, NORTH

Plane Overturned by Gust of Wind on Ice-Cold Saskatchewan Lake

EDMONTON, Alta., July 23.—A story of a terrific storm which beat across the face of the earth and of a heroic battle by Dale Atkinson, Western Canada Airways pilot, in the freezing waters of Lake Nisku, northern Saskatchewan, to save the life of his passenger, was told today with the arrival of the body of the passenger, Woodrow "Chuck" Eagle, 17, of The Pas, Man., brought from the north by airplane.

Atkinson came out with the body in an airplane piloted by W. E. Gilbert.

Eagle died when Atkinson, running into a terrific windstorm which had attained the proportions of a typhoon, swung about, raced to Lake Nisku, landed and was pushing to shore. A cross gust of wind lifted one wing of the machine high in the air, toppled the airplane over on its back, and threw the occupants into the water.

Fighting his way down through the turbulent waters which had been swept into fury by the storm, Atkinson smashed his way into the cabin of the machine, found that his passenger was not there, and dived several times in an effort to find him.

Near exhaustion, Atkinson gave up the uneven battle and swam the dozen yards to shore. The fatality occurred on July 15 and the pilot waited until the water gave up the body on July 19.

Lake Nisku is 35 miles from Ile a la Cross and north of Buffalo lake, in northern Saskatchewan.

Coroner Dr. E. A. Braithwaite of Edmonton questioned Atkinson here and ruled that the occurrence was an accident due to atmospheric conditions.

The airplane is to be salvaged.

10 TOWNS IN RUINS SOUTH PART, ITALY

been tossed in the path of the relief workers by the upheaval of nature. Motorcars made little progress over unaccustomed routes. The highways of the area are notoriously undeveloped and rail lines passed through many gorges into which the quake had tumbled avalanches.

TUNNELS FALL

Several tunnels upon the road to Melfi, where 180 persons perished, according to official figures, fell in and blocked service beyond restoration for many days.

The quake tonight visited its first after effect on this city when the authorities closed scores of manufacturing plants whose walls were cracked and in perilous condition. Thousands of workers thus were thrown out of development.

Four provinces of the sunny, smiling peninsula were converted into "no man's land." In the several larger towns and the few cities at the center of the quake district dawn brought scenes whose horror beggarded description . Villanoca, according to government agents who had reported a death list of 350, was by far the heaviest sufferer. The town was practically wiped out. Among the victims, were the mayor and his entire family.

1000 BUILDINGS DOWN

Rionero, often visited by quakes in other years, suffered at least 20 deaths; San Sossio Baronia reported 14 dead and 100 injured; Rapollo, a score dead and 30 hurt; Varile 11 known dead, with 40 injured. Rionero is known as the "home of the flowers," and a celebrated city among tourists of the more ardent group who penetrate far into the hills.

Fully 1000 buildings were destroyed in Melfi and Rionero.

Authorities tonight veiled the possibility that the death list thus far supplied would be materially increased. With torchlights and every other available illumination the ruins of scores of towns were being searched and emergency hospitals were filling up with victims.

A London observer declares: "The dress designers seem slowly but surely to be imposing their will upon women in the matter of long dresses, for they may now be said to have had a complete victory as regards evening dresses, all of which are at least ankle length and many trailing afternoon dresses already come to the calf and below it; and the frocks of Ascot, of loveliest flowered chiffons and filmy laces, were as long as those for evening wear.

HON. MR. MAITLAND TELLS OF ESLING GOSPEL, ROSSLAND

Thinks Dunning Budget Greatest Yarn Spinning Industry

ROSSLAND, B. C., July 23.—"Billy Esling's gospel is to do something for some one every day," said Hon. R. L. Maitland, speaking in Velvet hall at Rossland this evening. Mr. Esling studied not only political questions but the need of those around him, said Mr. Maitland. The speaker said that he was proud of having assisted the Conservative candidate, when Mr. Esling first entered public life in British Columbia, in the provincial campaign of 10 years ago. Mr. Maitland sketched the various issues of the campaign, stating that Mackenzie King was the only man in Canada who would not realize the seriousness of the unemployment problem. The number of people travelling in box cars usually showed the degree of hard times in the country and it was increasing rapidly, he stated.

While five freight trains passing through Kamloops recently women were revealed seeking that means of transportation. Mr. Maitland reviewed the effect of the tarriff lowering on several industries and raised a laugh by calling the Dunning budget the greatest yarn spinning industry of modern times.

Lorne A. Campbell acted as chairman and predicted the electors of West Kootenay would double the majority given Mr. Esling in 1926.

MAITLAND AND BORDEN SPEAK, SMELTER CITY

Pay Tribute to W. K. Esling As Member For Kootenay West

TRAIL, B. C., July 23—Describing the Conservative candidate as a persistent worker for the common good, Hon. R. L. Maitland, minister without portfolio in the British Columbia government, and Dr. L. E. Borden, of Nelson, M.P.P. for Nelson, spoke here tonight in the K.P. hall in the interest of W. K. Esling, Conservative, seeking reelection as member of parliament for Kootenay West. Both of the speakers attacked the King administration and the tariff policy of the Liberal government. A. Ewing, presiding, stated Mr. Maitland had made the finest speech to date.

Mr. Maitland pointed to the failure of the woolen, glass, farm implements, lumber and fishing industries as contributions to unemployment. He charged the King government with being inconsistent and with bargaining with the progressives to retain power. He said the Liberal government was bound together with cords of hypocricy.

Dr. Borden appealed for consideration of Mr. Esling's work on behalf of the returned men and district generally. He believed that the Conservative representation in the house would increase largely in the prairie provinces. He declared that the present government had not "unanimity in it own ranks."

FIRST VOTES IN CAMPAIGN TO BE CAST IN EVENING

OTTAWA, July 23.—First votes of the election campaign will be cast tomorrow night. In roughly 200 electoral districts, railway employees and sailors have the privilege of the advance poll, and through every province of the Dominion candidates are doubling every effort. Speakers are out by the hundred. The radio adds to the almost endless flood of words.

Back in Ontario, the prime minister paused to say a word or two for Miss Agnes MacPhail, as she was the only woman member of Canada's last three parliaments, so Miss MacPhail is now the only remaining candidate to fly the colors of the United Farmers of Ontario. He had not always agreed with Miss MacPhail, premier King said, in Miss MacPhail's constituency, but at all times, when the government was hard pressed, Miss MacPhail had "stood beside us." He thought Liberals of South East Grey had acted wisely in not putting up a candidate against Miss MacPhail. "So far as I am concerned," he added, "the one enemy is the Tory party."

PREMIER KING AND HON B. R. BENNETT HONORED BY LEGION

OTTAWA, Ont., July 23.—(CP)—Dominion honorary life membership in the Canadian Legion is being offered the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, and the Honorable R. B. Bennett, Sir William Clark, high commissioner for Great Britain and the Honorable Kean Knight, until recently the minister of France in Canada, in recognition of their outstanding services in the interests of the returned soldiers body and to the Legion. First occasion of Dominion honorary life membership being awarded since the inception of the Legion is announced by Lt. Col. L. R. Lafleche, president of the Legion.

NON-PREFERENCE TO CANADA GIVES SURPRISE IN N. Z.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, July 23.—(Vancouver Province cable)—Surprise is expressed in commercial circles here that the new tariff does not mention Canadian preference and it is remarked that an absence of preference on Canadian timber will disappoint the recent delegation to New Zealand . Local timber merchants express the opinion that a Canadia preference was omitted with the object of bargaining for a lower duty on New Zealand butter. One merchant said the government should have left the duty on larger lumber unaltered and placed a bigger increase on the smaller sizes.

The quality of the bigger lumber was superior as it was more mature.

Regarding the Canadian preference Premier G. W. Forbes said: "The two governments have been discussing the matter and have arranged a conference between representatives of both countries which will take place as soon as possible. The New Zealand government has been endeavoring to induce Canada not to impose an increased duty until a tariff agreement can be made and implemented by legislation. Owing to the Canadian elections it has not been possible to settle this point satisfactorily. It is, however, in my opinion, very important that negotiations between the two governments be commenced at an early date. I have arranged that Dr. Craig, comptroller of customs, should leave for Canada on August 1 to open his discussions with the authorities at Ottawa and carry the matter as far as possible before the Imperial conference. Dr. Craig will then proceed to London to assist at the Imperial conference."

LONG CONFAB IS HELD. GANDHI

But Couple Seeking Settlement in India Refuse to Make Statement

POONA, India., July 23.—(AP)—For more than for hours today Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, held a discussion with Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, Liberal leaders who sought an interview with him for the purpose of attempting settlement of the present civil disobedience campaign.

The conference was held at Heroda prison where Gandhi has been interned for several months as an outgrowth of the Nationalist movement for independence in India.

The secret of the interview of the two peacemakers was well kept. Neither would reveal what took place and M. Jayakar appealed to the press not to say anything which might disturb the balance of the present delicate situation adding that a word out of place would do great harm.

Mrs. J. Heister and Mrs. Dave Wade were convenors for the Sisters and Fred Deacon and L. Renwick for the Knights.

Reasonable Tariff Conservative Plan Declares Guthrie

WINNIPEG, July 23—(CP)—Not a "high" tariff policy but a reasonable tariff that would protect Canadian industry was what the Conservative party advocated, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, former house leader of the Conservative party, told a large audience here tonight. In the first of two western speeches, Mr. Guthrie emphasized that the consumer must be protected. He speaks at Regina tomorrow.

The Conservative government that he was confident would take office next Monday's elections would see to it that "no manufacturer, no agriculturist, no person would take advantage of the tariff increases through enhanced prices."

Competition for the trade of the country would keep prices at a fair level, contended the former minister of national defence. "Our principle is competition always—combination never."

PREMIER KING MAKES ATTACKS UPON FERGUSON

Charges Corruption in Road Work; Says Ferguson Playing For Vote

CHESLEY Ont., July 23. — (By Ray Brown, Candian Press Staff Correspondent) — Charging corruption in connection with provincial road building Premier Mackenzie King tonight directed a concentrated attack against Premier G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario, with Premier Ferguson the prime minister associated the Conservative governments in New Brunswick and Saskatchewan.

His charge, in brief, was that the provincial government in these three provinces had held up expenditures from appropriations provided for road building until a short time before the present election in order to buy up votes."

An effort was on foot, Mr. King asserted with great emphasis, to build up "a great Tory machine," which would control in municipality in province and in Dominion.

"Let me show you how it works," he continued, "This year the province of Ontario had voted the sum of $10,000,000 to spend on road building.

"Did they spend it at once?" he asked. There had been a condition of unemployment, he reminded his listeners. But no, "They did not spend it," he asserted.

"Why?" queried Mr. King, "Because," he assured forcibly, "they were holding it to use on the eve of election to buy up votes in different parts of Ontario."

TWO DEAD AFTER CLOUD-BURST IN YORKSHIRE, ENG.

Other Fatalities Feared; Many Families Imprisoned in Homes

WHITYBY, Yorkshire, Eng., July 23—(AP) —Two lives are already known to have been lost and other fatalities are feared on consequence of a flood that followed today upon a cloud-burst in the valley of the Esk river.

The last connection with the village of Sleights, in the center of the flood area, was severed late today, when the telephone wires broke down.

Many families throughout the area are imprisoned in the upper floors of their houses.

The train service has been dislocated over a wide area.

Spectacular rescues are effected by the life saving crews, who did particularly effective work in Ruswarp. From one house a woman and four children, who had climbed to the roof, were hauled through the flood to safety by means of a breechs buoy brought into play by the coast guard.

From another house five people were rescued by the coast guards with life saving apparatus at a time when the water had already reached the bedroom windows.

Twelve people were rescued from the upper story of a mill.

The town Crier of Whitby tonight patrolled the streets and warned the populace that the water supply would last for only 48 hours. The pipes from the reservoir had been broken.

STEVENS APPEALS ON BEHALF PORT OF VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 23.—Vancouver as a great manufacturing and industrial center, not merely a transient shipping point, was visualized by Hon. H. H. Stevens tonight in an address before a capacity audience here.

To make this vision materialize proper leadership was essential, he emphasized, and that leadership, he asserted, was not to be found in Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his Liberal government.

The government, he contended, by lowering tariffs on the woollen industry and the iron and steel industry had crippled these industries, cut down employment in Canada and driven Canadians into the United States.

Vancouver and Canada could not realize their destinies undar Liberal policies, he averred, not even under the new budget.

Car driven by Mr. Drake of Montana, a visitor here, and Dunc McLennan collided at an intersection, considerable damage being done to both cars, No one was injured, Mr. Drake's car was proceeding along Howland avenue and Mr. McLennan's was going along Thompson street.
