FIND BODY OF WEALTHY COAST RANCHER WANTED FOR MURDER

BODY IN RIVER NEAR SCENE OF THE SHOOTING

Intense Search for Cosens Spencer Comes to an End

SOUGHT SINCE SEPTEMBER 11

Killed Ranch Storekeeper and Wounded Ranch Manager

WILLIAMS LAKE, B. C., Oct. 29—The body of Cosens Spencer, 60-year-old rancher of the Chilcotin country, in the interior of British Columbia, was found in the Chilcotin river this afternoon by little Charlie, an Indian. Spencer has been the object of intense search since September 11 following the murder of Edward Smith, ranch storekeeper, and the wounding of the ranch manager, Walter H. Stoddart.

The body was discovered in the river just below the scene of the shooting. It had become fast among some drift logs. Coroner E. R. Hance, of Hanceville, was immediately notified, and it is expected he will hold an immediate inquest.

The shooting of the Smith Stoddart occurred at Deer Creek ranch, one of Spencer's several large and valuable properties. It is thought that Spencer became suddenly deranged. He grabbed a gun, shot Smith dead and then turned it on Stoddart. Spencer then fled, taking the gun and a belt of shells with him. Meanwhile Stoddart, seriously wounded, managed to get into the truck which the men were loading at the time.

He drove a distance of three miles where the truck overturned. Three hours later he was discovered in a sinking condition and taken to a farm house for medical attention. Subsequently he was removed to Williams Lake hospital where it was found necessary to amputate his left arm.

Spencer was one of the best known men in the Chilcotin country. He was a pioneer resident of British Columbia and was classed among the wealthiest of ranchers. In recent years his purchases of pure-bred cattle and horses had been on an extensive scale and attracted wide attention.

GOES TO ENGLAND

OTTAWA, Oct. 29—E. C. Mieville, private secretary to the governor-general, left here tonight for England, where he will spend about five week.

W. G. CAMERON, A RESIDENT IN B. C. 70 YEARS, IS DEAD

VICTORIA, Oct. 29—Victoria lost one of its best known figures in official life and a resident of 70 years standing in the death today at the St. Joseph's hospital of William George Cameron.

He was 77 years of age and was a native of California.

At one time a member of the provincial house, for many years an alderman and of more recent years in the position of city lands commissioner, Mr. Cameron served this city for nearly 40 years.

DR. BORDEN ILL, UNABLE ATTEND HEALTH MEETING

Royal Commission Hears of Spread of Cancer in This Province

VICTORIA, Oct. 29—The prevalence of cancer in British Columbia, the spread of the disease in recent years and the efforts of the medical profession to minimize its seriousness by early treatment, were explained to the royal commission on state health insurance and maternity benefits this afternoon by the cancer committee of the British Columbia Medical association.

The delegation included Dr. C. W. Prowd, chairman of the cancer committee; Dr. J. W. McIntosh, city health officer of Vancouver and E. Courg. They asked for an explanation of the status of the medical profession in regard to cancer if health insurance is established in British Columbia and also sought to ascertain the views of the commission in regard to treatment policies after insurance is in effect.

The commission this morning met to discuss the terms of the report to be presented to the legislature and tentatively discussed the principles which will govern the drifting of the recommendations. The session was attended by C. F. Davis, Cowichan-Newcastle member in the legislature, Dr. J. S. Cillis, M.P.P., Merrit; George S. Pearson, Nanaimo; and W. F. Kennedy. Dr. L. E. Borden, M.P.P., Nelson, was absent through illness.

Lone Bandit Gets $7000 From Bank

BRUSSELS, Ont., Oct. 29—(CP)—A lone bandit, armed with two revolvers, held up the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia this afternoon and escaped with nearly $7000.

The robber took the bank staff by surprise. "Stick 'em up," he told the bank manager, driving he and his staff into the vault.

Brussels is a country near Wingham. Provincial police are spreading a net over the district.

Establishment of Empire Tribunal Is in Its Hands

SUB-COMMITTEES HAVE BUSY DAY

Discuss Problems Over Sandwiches; Allow No Lunch

LONDON, Oct. 29. — (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Today was a day of subcommittees at the Imperial conference.

The committee on communications, which has been considering the erection of an Empire broadcasting station, encountered both financial and technical difficulties. The cost of the central station, which would be built in England, is estimated at 40,000 pounds, or about $194,000, a year for the first five years. How the cost would be allocated has still to be determined.

Relaying stations would have to be constructed at a number of points to ensure proper reception. The idea would be to broadcast a regular radio program, including news bulletins, throughout the Empire. According to the skeletonized plan already submitted there would be four separate hours of broadcasting, and Canada, owing to the difference in time between the Dominion and the old country, would have devoted to it the early morning hours, so that the program would arrive before Canadian radio listeners had gone to bed.

SANKEY REPORT

The Sankey committee, headed by the lord chancellor, expects to have its draft report ready for the Imperial conference tomorrow. The

LOG OF R-101 LOST IN FIRE

Such Is News Revealed at Inquiry Into Huge Disaster

LONDON, Oct. 29. (AP)—Because charred bits of the R-101 log were all that searchers could find after the giant British dirigible was destroyed by fire in France October 5, widows of the 48 victims today were asked to produce copies of reports of letters written by their husbands concerning the dirigible.

The loss of the log in the fire was made known at the government's public inquiry into the disaster by Sir William Jowitt, attorney-general, who made the appeal for aid in procuring documentary evidence bearing upon the condition of the ship.

Flames which reduced the R-101 to a mass of twisted steel probably obliterated most of the evidence which would have solved the mystery of the crash, it was indicated in Sir William's closing summation of preliminaries.

The log was found almost wholly unreadable. Sir John Simon, chairman of the court of inquiry, said, however, that he understood some of the officers had kept private diaries on the trial flight of the airship. He asked that a minute search be made for such information.

18 KILLED IN WRECK, FRANCE

PERIGUEUX, France, Oct. 29—(AP)—An obstruction of undetermined nature on the railway track here early today caused the derailment of the swift Geneva-Bordeaux express and killed at least 18 persons.

The dead taken from the wreck thus far included two engineers, since the train was a double-header, one fireman and 15 passengers. At least two score passengers were injured, with more than 80 of them already taken to hospitals.

The wreck occurred in the dark hours of early morning. Slumbering passengers were awakened in fright after a formidable shock, following which the two locomotives left the tracks and some of the coaches behind telescoped one another.

PLAIN CLOTHES OFFICER SHOT

TORONTO, Oct. 29 — Joseph Shields, a plain clothes officer of the Toronto police force was shot in the face tonight in a melee with a gang of four or five young men. Two of them were captured and are under arrest. Shields' wound is not considered serious.

Many Deny Asking Baldwin to Resign

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(C. P. cable)—The members of the Conservative party who are alleged to have signed a statement last night calling for the resignation of Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin from the party leadership met again tonight under the chairmanship of Col. John Gretton. They drew up an explanation, or elucidation, which was sent to the leader.

RT. HON. MR. BALDWIN

During the day several members whose names appeared on the manifesto which was published in the morning newspapers denied placing their signatures on it. Legal action, it was intimated, might grow out of the affair.

Colonel Gretton tonight admitted that there had been a meeting of members last night who discussed the leadership. "On behalf of the members who attended that meeting," he said tonight, "I am authorized to state that publication of the alleged proceedings and the list of names is inaccurate and was made without authority."

And there the matter stands until the party meeting tomorrow.

CHEF IN LOCAL CAFE WINS AT LEAST $10,000 IN SWEEPSTAKE

Ticket Bought Long Weeks Ago May Net W. H. Swain of Nelson up to $25,000; Confirmation Received

Bought long weeks ago for a dollar, in fact so long ago that it was almost forgotten, a sweepstake ticket on the Cambridgeshire stakes, representing a horse that was drawn in the race, will net W. H. Swain of Nelson at least $10,000. Corroboration of Mr. Swain's good fortune arrived yesterday in the form of a telegram from the sweepstake's headquarters in Newfoundland.

Mr. Swain, who is head chef in Pitner's cafe bought his dollar ticket last summer at Ainsworth where he was chef at that time. Yesterday morning a telegram awaited him which caused him some little consternation for it was initialed "W. P. Swain". There was nobody in Nelson by that name so he wired Newfoundland and received the official confirmation in form of his number, name, and the person's name who had sold him the ticket.

Mr. Swain is assured of at least $10,000 and if the horse that his ticket represented ran in the race he stands to collect in the neighborhood of $25,000.

NEVER WON BEFORE

"This is the first time I've ever won anything in my life," declared Mr. Swain last night. He admitted, however, that he had always had

POLICE RAID IN PORT ARTHUR IS CAUSE PROTEST

Property of Communist Agents Secured; No Arrests Made

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 29.—(CP)—Following a quietly executed raid on Bay street buildings in which police secured a quantity of papers and literature, said to be property of communist agents, the Canadian Labor Defence league today announced a protest meeting would be held.

Printed posters, appearing in downtown Port Arthur, described police action as follows: 'Police of the town,' with the aid of the provincial police, raided the homes of private citizens and the office of the Agricultural Workers' Industrial Union of Canada and took away all the books and papers of the union. They took all the papers of the unemployed organization of Port Arthur and the books and papers of the Canadian Labor Defence league. They smashed and broke the locks and ransacked the office in the most brutal manner."

City police were accompanied by provincial police and one member of the detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted police, which arrived here Monday to stand by in case of further communist and unemployed demonstrations. No arrests were made, Chief of Police George Taylor said.

"We got quite a pile of stuff but I haven't had a chance yet to go through it all," the chief remarked.

FORECAST OF NEW CABINET IS CONFIRMED

Tolmie Announces New Line-up Following Resignations

JONES CUT OUT FOR FINANCE

Shelly Resignation Not Unexpected; Bruhn Experienced

VICTORIA, B. C. Oct. 29.—Reorganization of the cabinet of Premier S. F. Tolmie was completed today when the rearranged slate of ministers was sworn in by Lieutenant-Governor Bruce at Government house.

Following the request yesterday by the premier to every member of his cabinet to send in their resignations all were received by this morning, and the ceremony at Government house completed the changes.

Hon. F. P. Burden retires from the government, and his place as minister of lands is taken by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, former minister of public works.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, former president of the council, takes the portfolio of public works.

Hon. W. C. Shelly, former minister of finance, becomes president of the council.

Hon. J. W. Jones, former speaker of the legislature, becomes minister of finance.

It is rumored that Mr. Burden will go to London as agent-general for the province, succeeding F. A. Pauline.

Major changes in the reorganized cabinet were the appointment of Hon. J. W. Jones to the portfolio of finance, the appointment of Mr. Bruhn to that of public works, and the transfer of Mr. Lougheed to the minister of lands. It is understood that it is possible that further changes may be made at an early date.

NOT UNEXPECTED

The resignation of Hon. W. C. Shelly as minister of finance was not unexpected. His health has been indifferent during the past few months, and is said to demand relief from his present onerous duties. As president of the council, however, he will still be closely identified with the government.

Mr. Jones was elected to the legislature in 1916 and has splendid knowledge of provincial financing, owing to his study of the matter since that time. He was chief financial critic for the Conservative opposition when the Liberals were in power, and is credited with an extensive knowledge of the fiscal affairs of the province.

As president of the executive council, Mr. Bruhn proved an able officer of the government. He entered the provincial house in 1924 and represents the district of Salmon Arm. He has an extensive knowledge of all parts of the province, and should be well equipped for the post of minister of public works.

Under Mr. Lougheed, the new minister of lands, it is expected that a complete reorganization of the land policy of the province will be undertaken. It was Mr. Lougheed who accompanied Premier Tolmie to Ottawa to negotiate with the Dominion government for the return of the railway belt and the Peace river block to British Columbia.

Mr. Burden will likely go to London immediately to replace Mr. Pauline, who was appointed by the former government. He rendered distinguished service to the province in England, but it is understood he has been anxious to retire for some time.

BRITAIN PROTESTS RED PROPAGANDA

LONDON, Oct. 29—(AP)— The British government announced in the house of commons today that protests had been made to Soviet Russia regarding propaganda spread in the Empire by the third internationals.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, related how Great Britain advised the Moscow government that it had not kept its pledge to cease propagandizing, after inquiry had developed that the third internationals had been working not only in England but elsewhere in the British Empire.

JARVIS TAKING CHINESE TO BE DEPORTED, COAST

Ma Shoon Chan, Trail Chinese dope peddler, left yesterday in custody of Warden W. R. Jarvis of the Provincial jail here, for Vancouver from where he will be deported to China. Chan was arrested and convicted in Trail on a charge of selling opium and was sentenced to six months in jail and to pay a fine of $300 or in default to serve a term of three months in jail. Chan has served his term and paid the fine.

LLOYD GEORGE RAPS ONE AND ALL IN HOUSE

Asks Baldwin's Reason for Rapping Premier MacDonald

THEN ATTACKS THE PREMIER

Asks for Debate on Government's Palestine Policy

LONDON, Oct. 29. — (By Gorge Hambleton, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Toying with his eye glasses, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader and war-time premier, stepped lightly into the parliamentary fray today. He had ironies for everyone. As he glanced around the house of commons, of which he is a veteran entertainer, his shafts flew from side to side.

"What reason had Mr. Baldwin to complain if the prime minister turned down the food taxes?" he asked. "For did not the Conservative leader himself turn them down last May?"

On the matter of the food taxes, Mr. Lloyd George exclaimed the prime minister and Mr. Baldwin had kissed. "Yes," continued Mr. Lloyd George, turning Baldwin's phrase of yesterday, "and the echo of the osculation sounds around the Empire."

The Liberal leader did not profess to think much of the government's legislative program. It was given a menu which lacked vitamins; there were no red corpuscles in its blood.

"When the government dies," Mr.

SOLLOWAY AND MILLS FINES HALF MILLION

Solloway Pays $200,000 Toronto Court; Mills $50,000

PLEAD GUILTY ON ONE COUNT

Toronto City and Province Ontario Fight Over Money

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—Despite the fact that the $250,000 fine imposed on Solloway and Mills today for "bucketing" in stocks has been deposited in the provincial government treasury, the city of Toronto is not without hope that eventually the money will come to the city.

"We have the money in our coffers now," said Hon. W. H. Price, attorney-general for Ontario, tonight. "It is going to stay there."

City Solicitor C. M. Colquhoun commented as follows: "The city may enter a claim for the fine. If the privy council hands down a decision in our favor in regard to the Aemilius Jarvis fine, we stand a good chance of getting the Solloway-Mills money."

PLEAD GUILTY, ONE CHARGE

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—Pleading guilty to one charge of what is commonly called "bucketing," the crown dropping two other charges of conspiracy to defraud and affect the price of stocks, I. W. C. Solloway was fined $200,000 and his partner, Harvey Mills, $50,000, here today.

The fine was paid immediately on the closing of the case, in one marked check for $250,000. It was signed I. W. C. Solloway, and was made out to A. E. Trow, marshal of the court of criminal assizes, who endorsed it over to the provincial treasurer.

This closed a case which has aroused nation-wide interest owing to the huge organization the two men had built up in a little over two years, which stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific, including almost every town and city in its network of branch offices.

Solloway and Mills were convicted in Calgary last summer on charges connected with the operations of their firm in Alberta, between May 1 and December 31, 1929. On June 28 last, Solloway was sentenced to four months' imprisonment and fined $225,000, and Mills was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, with a $25,000 fine.

The sentences were appealed by Hon. J. F. Lymburn, attorney-general of Alberta, who claims they were inadequate for the offence. Both men were granted bail pending the appeal.

With the payment of the fine imposed today this makes a total of $500,000 the two men have paid in fines this year, equally divided between Ontairo and Alberta.

TORONTO, Oct. 29—H. H. Rimmer, of the Canadian National Electric Co., Ltd., of Tordonto, was today re-elected president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers at the annual meeting here today.

TRAIL'S DELEGATION TO THE CAPITAL REQUESTING ROAD IMPROVEMENTS IN THE DISTRICT MEETS WITH SUCCESS

Trail-Rossland, Trail-Columbia Gardens-Fruitvale Roads Benefit

VICTORIA, Oct. 29—Trail's delegation this morning received the assurance of Hon. R. W. Bruhn, the new minister of public works, that work would be undertaken at once on the relocation of the balance of Trail-Rossland highway and on the Trail Columbia Gardens-Fruitvale road.

The delegation was warmly received by premier and members of the cabinet, who show lively interest in Trail and Rossland and appreciate the activity of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company at this time.

The premier and Hon. R. W. Bruhn have accepted an invitation to visit Trail in November.

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 29—President L. F. Tyson of the board of trade explained that the invitation to the premier and the new minister of public works was extended this morning after receipt of a telegram from W. A. Curran, who with S. S. McDiarmid, city engineer, comprises the delegation, asking whether the board would extend the invitation.

MIGHTY FINE

"That's mighty fine work," Mayor A. A. Milligan informed of the news at noon today, was enthusiastic in congratulating the delegation. He believed the benefits to accrue would be many.

"I'm sorry I was not here to take part in the discussion of the board of trade and the city council," the mayor said. "But I think Alderman

WARNS OF WAR

"Indirect war" is being made constantly "on the kingdom in preparation for military war," according to Premier Benito Mussolini, shown above, when he made an appeal for all Italy to fight for Fascism. "The youthful strength" of Italy was demonstrated the following day when the blackshirt militia marched in every city and village throughout Italy.

DOUGLAS SPIERS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT IN LEG BY MISS FERN MORRIS ON HUNTING EXPEDITION NEAR NELSON

When the .22 caliber rifle being loaded yesterday afternoon at Five-Mile by Miss Fern Morris, of Nelson, accidentally discharged, the slug struck Douglas Spiers in the back of the right leg about six inches below the hip. The bullet passed by the outside of the bone, inflicting only a flesh wound.

It appears that the party of five young people were proceeding out the railroad track and reached Five-Mile, where they hoped to bag some game. Several of the party including Douglas Spiers were walking a few yards ahead when the gun was accidentally discharged.

Ernie Harlow, who was one of the party, went to the nearest phone and secured Vic Malaszczuk's car to bring the injured boy to the hospital.

Dr. J. P. Gussin attended him.

Other members of the party were Angelo Marapodi, Jimmy Leeming, and another girl, whose name could not be determined last night.

Two Innocent Youths Who Served Half-Year Are Now Cleared

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29.—Lionel Fontaine and Ernest Lacasse, who served half a year in penitentiary for a holdup now confessed by two other youthful Ottawans, were formally acquitted of the charge in county court today. In erasing the convictions from the records of the wronged youths, Judge A. Constantinau declared it had been a clear case of mistaken identity.

The latest court episode in the peculiar tangle which saw Duncan Larocque and Eugene Barnabe confess to holding up an Ottawa milk driver and robbing him of some $300 while the other youths were serving four-year terms, was brought at the request of Fontaine and Lacasse after they had been freed. The hearing was ordered that the youths might be cleared of the stigma in open court. Despite the fact Larocque and Barnabe pleaded guilty of the holdup some months ago and received reformatory sentences of two years definite and a like period indeterminate, Burton Simpson, the milk driver, maintained throughout the latest proceeding that he could not possibly be mistaken in his identification of Lacasse and Fontaine as the masked bandits who held him up at dawn on November 2, 1929. Both Barnabe and Larocque re-admitted their guilt in the crime from the witness

MATCHBLOCKS FROM NELSON WILL TRAVEL

To Soon be Known in England and Scotland as Well as in Canada

CAPACITY PRODUCTION NOW AT NELSON PLANT

Powell Company Building a Matchblock Factory in Spokane

R. E. Horton, manager of the matchblock plant of the W. W. Powell company here, states that in the near future the Nelson matchblock will not only be known across Canada but in England and Scotland as well.

Up until the present time all the round match splints have been manufactured in either Canada or the United States. In the old country match manufacturers have always turned out a square splint. These square splints were made from aspen and cottonwood obtained from Sweden and Finland.

PUTTING IN NEW MACHINES

Now, the old country firms are putting in the machines that turn out the round splints that can be made successfully only from white pine. Since the western white pine, from which the Nelson matchblocks are made, is of a finer quality than that procured elsewhere on the continent, Mr. Horton sees a wide business field opening up in the old country. The matchblocks for export will go to the coast and thence by ship to the old country via the Panama canal. Some 45 days will be required for a shipment to get from Nelson to England or Scotland.

At the present time the Nelson factory is running capacity production of about 25,000 to 35,000 feet per day of match blocks. In doing this some 42 girls and 22 men are being employed in and about the matchblock factory.

Mr. Horton expects that the plant will be running full capacity for at least another month yet and perhaps longer.

Mr. Horton further states that the W. W. Powell company will soon start construction of a matchblock factory in Spokane with the same car-a-day capacity as the Nelson plant. The new factory will take care of the entire American business of the firm.

SANKEY BODY EXPECTED TO REPORT TODAY

report, dealing largely with constitutional issues, covers three main grounds, the channels of communications to be adopted as between Britain and the dominions; the advisability of extending in practice the machinery of dominion autonomy as recognized in the Balfour report of 1926; and the establishment of an Empire tribunal for the hearing of disputes between different units of the Empire.

The appointment of governors-general is understood to come under review. The British government, it is learned, holds that advice on a proposed appointment given by a dominion government to the King should continue to pass through United Kingdom channels.

The constitutional committee members were so intent on their work today that they did not adjourn for luncheon, being content to discuss the political status between sandwich munches.

One economic subcommittee worked on the application of a quota scheme to British purchases of canned fruit, fish and dairy products.

CRANBROOK, B. C., Oct. 29.—Cranbrook police department is taking steps to insure a sane Hallowe'en. As a result a letter has been sent to the various school principals and has been read to the students.

The letter reads in part:

"As an aftermath of last year's Hallowe'en celebration, this department received a large number of complaints from citizens regarding the mischievous behavior of a number of our boys. This is most unfortunate, as at that time the Rotary club devoted considerable energy and expense in order to entertain the young people at the children's playground.

"Apparently the endeavors made were not appreciated by a certain number of our youths, whom I may say are fairly well known to us.

"This year I would ask that our young people be good enough to refrain from damaging other people's property, to respect the property of others as they would their own. Last year some boys took a cowardly delight in annoying and molesting aged and infirm people.

"We trust that for the honor and good name of our boys that this conduct will not be repeated, as steps are being taken to see that they are severely punished if they do."

INQUEST DELAYED BY ILLNESS OF CHIEF WITNESS

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29. (CP)—Serious condition of W. R. Bawlf, Winnipeg grain broker, tonight occasioned adjournment for three weeks of the inquest into the death of Ruth Bannon, 29, in an automobile accident a week ago. Miss Bannon was riding in a car driven by Bawlf when it overturned on the Stonewall highway outside the city. She succumbed to injuries.

12 CANADIANS JAILED, SEATTLE

Youths Say No Attempt Was Made Stop Them From Entering U. S.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 29—(AP) A spokesman for 12 young men charged with entering the United States illegally, told the judge here today that federal officers let them cross the line unmolested but that a few hours later a man who insisted on giving them a ride in an automobile turned out to be an officer and drove them to jail.

"If they didn't want us here why didn't they stop us at the border?" Paul G. Scoules, 22, of Ontario, asked Judge Jeremiah Neterer. "Canadian officers at the border told up to go ahead as far as they were concerned. Uniformed men at the U. S. customs house at Blaine watched us and said nothing."

All 12 who said they were looking for work, were ordered deported and given one year jail sentences each.

JUDGMENT ON HALIFAX RATE CASE, PUBLIC

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29. (CP)—Three varying decisions which have the effect of negativing the application of the Halifax harbor commission for a freight rate adjustment on eastbound traffic over the Canadian Northern railway were made public today by the board of railway commissioners for Canada. A straight negative decision was delivered by Commissioners Thomas Vien and J. A. Stoneman. A suggestion of an alternative rate was advanced by Commissioners S. J. McLean and Calvin Lawrence, and an affirmative decision was rendered by Chief Commissioner H. A. McKeown and T. C. Norris.

WALPOLE SELECTS ALL LITERATURE IN WORLD TODAY

LONDON, Oct. 29—(AP)— Hugh Walpole, the novelist, said in a speech today at King's college that there were only six books in the world worthy of being called literature. He listed them as follows:

War and Peach, by Tolstoy.
The Iliad, Homer.
Pride and Prejudice, Jane Austen.
The first volue of Keats' Poetry.
Arabia Desirta, Doughty.
Canterbury Tales, Chaucer.

"As widely divergent as can be," was Mr. Walpole's comment on his selection.

HUGE WELCOME IS PLANNED, VARGAS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 29. (AP)—The federal capital was excited tonight on hearing that Getulio Vargas, the new provisional president of the United States of Brazil, had reached Sao Paulo on his journey northward, and preparations were made for a great welcome to the man who began the revolution early this month.

While dispatches from Sao Paulo state that the time of Vargas' arrival here is indefinite, it is planned that he be given a greater reception than that accorded Captain Juarez Tavora yesterday.

ARMED THUGS GET HAUL, WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29. (CP)—Two drug stores in residential districts of Winnipeg were held up tonight. Three thugs, armed, marched into Berryhill's store on the fringe of the downtown area, trussed up a clerk who was closing for the night, and fled with $60. The amount obtained in a raid on Jenkins' store in the south end of the city was not immediately known.

SETTLERS ASSOC. FORMED, ONTARIO

KAPUSKASING, Ont., Oct. 29—The Northern Ontario Settlers association, with an initial membership of close to 100 settlers was organized here today. Te object of the association is to weld the settlers in the newly-opened districts into a strong organization for mutual help and to seek to influence public opinion on behalf of northern homesteaders.

ASK PREFERENCE FOR B. C. WOODS

Cable Sent to Stevens In London by Bureau of Coast Board

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 29.—Dispatch of a cable to Hon. H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, by the wholesale bureau of the board of trade, urging a preferential tariff for B. C. soft woods in other units of the British Empire, and a petition to the B. C. government to make the load on the lumber industry as light as possible, were suggested by J. G. Robson, prominent lumberman, and one of the delegates who toured Australia and New Zealand in the interests of the industry, as two measures which would help materially in rescuing the trade from the doldrums in which it is now languishing.

Mr. Robson, addressing the bureau at their luncheon today, informed his hearers that the lumber industry paid one-third of the wages in the province, and that it also contributed on-third of B. C. revenues, Mills in B. C., he declared, are at present running at 50 per cent capacity, with prices down 30 per cent in all foreign markets.

TO EMPLOY 20,000 MEN, U. S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29.—Plans of the shipping board to advance $15,000,000 in loans toward construction of ships to cost a total of $50,000,000 gave definite assurances today of employment for at least 20,000 men. That number may be occupied for two or three years as rebuilding of the continues.

$12,000 LOOT IS STILL MISSING

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29—Detectives of the Central police headquarters made records in the fast round-up of alleged bandits in the Transcona Bank of Toronto robbery on October 18, but they have had little success, despite diligent search, in locating the majority of the $12,000 loot.

Ten persons were arrested in connection with the robbery, one is now under sentence of three years in the penitentiary, three others have been committed for trial, and charges are pending against the others. Only $3000 of the $12,000 secured by the bandits has been recovered, and a "mystery man" is believed to have escaped with the missing $9000.

38 CHILDREN ARE KILLED, SAVAGES

TOKYO, Oct. 29. (AP)Reports to the war office tonight indicated Formosa savages, who went on the war-path Monday, killing scores of men, women and children, were concentrating heavily eastward of the village of Musha.

The tribesmen evacuated Musha today without fighting, leaving behind many mutilated bodies. A dispatch from Taihoku, Formosa, said 86 bodies, including those of 38 children, were found in the ruins of Musha.

Fears that scores of other Japanese in isolated police stations and small settlements north and east of Musha had met a similar fate were expressed in official and newspaper dispatches.

KING WILL PLACE WREATH ARMISTICE

Will Again Attend Service Which Caused Illness Two Years Ago

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The King is planning to be present at the coming Armistice Day service at the cenotaph and will place a wreath on the memorial.

He will be accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Duke of York.

It was when attending this service two years ago that His Majesty was believed to have caught a cold which started his long and serious illness. He did not attend last year's ceremony.

WILY BASQUES DUPE CUSTOMS OFFICERS

Aided by Remote Passes of High Pyrenees Basques Gain Livelihood on Franco-Spanish Frontier

PARIS, Oct. 29—(By Josephine Hambleton, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—The long nights and the Autumn rains enable the Basque to follow his ruling passion of passing contraband. And never was country more accomplice to the smuggler than the country of the Basque in the Pyrenees.

There are barren peaks traversed by paths known to not more than half a dozen men. There are lonely inns at the end of abandoned ways, with the enigmatic sign over the door, in a strange language: "Lodging not guaranteed". There are canyons at the bottom of which flow streams green as the ocean depths—mysterious hidden corridors which connect France and Spain, 1500 feet below the surface.

Every mountain pass has its tale.

The other night, 60 magnificent horses, ridden by strangers, passed through St. Jean Pied-de-Fort, a mountain town above Biarritz, on a road leading down to Spain. For days horses and riders dallied at the desolate inn within a stone's throw of the frontier. While laces, tobacco, wines pay a heavy duty going into Spain, the export of horses and cattle is forbidden.

CLAIM TO BE PILGRIMS

The guards were naturally on the alert, for a road less propitious for the passing of 60 horses could scarcely be found. It was only a narrow defile between granite peaks rising 2000 feet on each side. Still the strangers dallied. They explained that they were pilgrims on their way to a distant shrine.

Sunday, the cure of the neighboring village, announced a special service for the following day. The Bishop of Pampalona—an old Spanish city founded by Pompey—would attend. The cure besought all the countryside to do honor to the visiting prelate. When the episcopal carriage appeared at the frontier, it was met by the most splendid cavalcade ever seen in those parts. All the youth of the countryside, the smartest cavaliers, were in saddle, dressed in white, with red sashes and blue berets. The 60 pilgrims made a sombre spot of color in the gay procession. Finally, to the sound of the vesper bell, cavalier and pilgrim escorted the bishop back through steep mountain defiles which had seen the armies of Caesar, Pompey and Charlemagne. Over the frontier, the calvacade wound down the pass of Roncesvalles where Roland met his death. By moonlight, prelate and clerks, in pious procession, reached Pampalona. It was not noticed at the moment that the 60 had quitted the escort shortly after the frontier was crossed. Nor was it expected that the sombre habit of the pilgrim disguised redoubtable contrabandists.

FAIL TO RETURN

Now, posted on the grey walls of a desolate inn, one may read this notice: "The — October, at nightfall, it was remarked that a company of so-called pilgrims accompanied the procession of the Bishop of Pampalona on 60 horses from Tarbes, from France into Spain. None of those horses have returned to France. The riders are hence invited to present themselves at the customs office at such and such an hour, failing which—"

In short, relations betwen the riders and the republic are likely to become more and more strained.

The riders have not returned.

UNKNOWN GUEST BELIEVED CAUSE FIRE AT NAKUSP

Leland Hotel Saved by Prompt Action of Nakusp Brigade

NAKUSP, B. C., Oct. 29—On Saturday at five o'clock in the morning the fire alarm sounded. A fire occurred in one of the rooms of the Leland hotel. The contents of the room, including bed, bedding, table, except the dresser, were demolished. The prompt action of the fire brigade saved this from spreading and completely destroying the hotel.

As this room had not been rented, and had been inspected the previous day, it is evident that some one had "stoleh" a sleep. The culprit probably entered by means of the fire escape and was smoking in bed.

W. J. Pratt, the proprietor, declared that a similar offence had occurred on several previous occasions.

THE FIREPLACE

Always clean and brush the hearth of the fireplace before cleaning the room, and never get into that bad habit of sweeping dust into the fireplace. You only have it back in the room again within an hour.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

So Easy to Make

Tempting Pancakes with Aunt Jemima are ready in a few minutes

"P'se in Town, Honey"

It seems like magic that pancakes, so toothsome, so delicious, can be made so quickly. Just stir milk or water with an equal quantity of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour, cook on a moderate fire, and presto! golden brown pancakes that make your mouth water.

In plantation days, Aunt Jemima's pancakes were famous throughout the Old South, a land of epicures. Today, in Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour the identical rare flours come to you ready mixed. You get the same appetizing flavor but require only a few minutes to make.

Buckwheats, with their satisfying tang, can be made just as easily with Aunt Jemima prepared Buckwheat Flour, or, for variety, try waffles, muffins, or pancakes rolled in jelly. Keep both kinds of Aunt Jemima in the pantry and be ready for any demand.

LUCKY GIRL

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Catherine Paige marries her wealthy, elderly employer. Alfred Farnsworth. During her mother's long and serious illness she fell heavily in Farnsworth's debt, and marriage seemed the only way out of her financial difficulties.

"Is there anyone else, anyone you love?" he asked her before the wedding, and Cathie said no. It was true, for she could hardly count her youthful infatuation for Gordon Moore, who once paid her attention and then forgot all about her.

Returning from her wedding trip, Cathie is struck with the gloomy, almost sinister quality of Farnsworth's house with innumerable Chinese servants under the supervision of an ancient fat Chinese, Cheony, and a solitary white woman, Marguerite.

Marguerite, who has been in the family service for years, *warns Cathie that the Farns*worth men are not to be trusted. Farnsworth warns Cathie against the maid. This worries her, and Cathie becomes lonely and homesick.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Cathie's fork went clattering to the floor. A Chinese boy in an immaculate white coat deftly replaced it with another.

"By the way he was shocked to hear that you were married."

SHOCKED BY NEWS

"Shocked?" Cathie tried to sound flippant. "Are marriages shocking? Really, those wild parties that you two go on are infinitely more exciting." And in her heart she was crying . . "He was shocked . . he didn't want me to get married . . . he remembered me . . and I never knew . . I never knew . . ."

"Oh, yes—exciting," the other girl was saying. "That's about all you can say for them. I'm sick of it. What does it mean? Nothing. Look at me, slaving at a desk, and you—" she made a sudden, angry gesture, sweeping in the whole luxurious room—"you have everything! Lucky, my God, you must have been born with a gold horse-shoe in your mouth!"

"No," Cathie said, "not—not so lucky."

For a moment they looked at each other, understanding, pitying . . anything might have happened. They might have cried in each other's arms, comforted, trusted . . And then pride came back.

"I've never believed much in luck," said Cathie with a toss of her head.

"Well, I wouldn't say you were lucky in your stepchild!" Miss Darrow covered the last traces of emotion with her nervous little laugh. "I hear he docked on the Berengaria Saturday. He and his blushing bride. That's one little ray of sunshine I don't envy you!"

Cathie said "I've never met Chester."

PRIVATE JOKE

"Then you have something to look forward to," Miss Darrow said indulgently. She smiled to herself as she sipped her coffee, as if she were contemplating a very, very private joke.

"Another strawberry tart?"

"No thanks. After I've been on a drinking party I never care for much the next day."

Conversation languished. At quarter to two Miss Darrow decided that she really had to go back to the office. Cathie sent for the car.

"Come have lunch with me some time!"

"Thanks for the lovely lunch. Goodbye!"

"Godbye!"

That night, Mr. Farnsworth said: "Oh, by the way, Catherine. About my sceretary. I'd just as soon you didn't cultivate her, dear."

"I had her to lunch today," Cathie said, softly.

"Yes. But it would be as well not to repeat it, don't you think?"

"As you wish."

"There's no particular reason why my secretary and my wife should have anything in common."

ONE EXCEPTION

Except that your wife was a stenographer, too, Cathie thought. But she didn't say it. It wouldn't do any good. Nothing would do any good. Besides, Mr. Farnsworth had returned to the evening paper.

Cathie spent most of her days with her mother. Everett drove her there, and called for her when she was ready to come home. Sometimes he waited outside, napping comfortably at his place behind the wheel of the big, blue car. On such occasions, Mrs. Hennessy watched him patiently from behind her lace curtains, shaking her old gray head dolefully from time to time. Mrs. Paige had the best of her now. Cathie visiting so often, and taking her mother out to drive in the blue limousine . . Her Lillian hardly ever showed herself, and then just for a five-minute call.

"Ma," Cathie asked, "Can I have Jean come and stay with me for a little while? She'd love it and I—"

"Indeed, you can not!" Mary Paige cried warmly. "She's got enough high falutin' ideas already without you putting any more—"

"Oh, mums! It wouldn't—"

"No, Cathie. It wouldn't be for the best."

"Ma, aren't you ever going to visit me?"

"Sure, Cathie, a little later. But right now I've got my h'nin' and a little dress I want to run up for Ruth and . . Later, Cathie. Gracious goodness, child, what's the rush? Now sit quiet while I lay the cloth, and we'll have some tea."

COMPANY IN HOME

There was a new teapot now, and no more "bites" in the pantry. "I'm company," Cathie felt, rather sadly. It wouldn't have mattered so much except that she was also "company" in Mr. Farnsworth's house. She unearthed an old school book with "The Man Without a Country" in it and read it that night, for the first time with understanding and pity . . Awfully hard, not to really belong anywhere, even when it's your own fault . .

She brooded over what Miss Darrow had said about Gordon Moore. Believed, disbelieved . . not that it made any difference. And Chester coming . . something else to worry about. She had been expecting him for a week, nevertheless it was a shock when he did arrive.

YOUNG WOMEN RECEIVE THRILLS ON THE DESERT

Motoring From Capetown to England; The Lions Sniff

CAIRO, Oct. 29—(By The Canadian Press)—Miss Margaret Belcher and Miss Budgell, the tw English girls who are on a motor-car tour from Capetown to England, told of remarkable adventures when they arrived here the other day. They left Capetown on April 1, and their exciting journey has taken them through Johannesburg, Salisbury, Bulawayo, Abercorn, Tanganyika, Nairobi, Jubi, Khartoum, Wadi Halfa, Sheliel, Assuan, Luxor, Assiut and Cairo.

In all the 4,800 miles they have covered they have had no real trouble with their motor-car, and only five tire punctures. They had a thrill however, when the car caught fire, 100 miles from the nearest town. The girls extinguished the flames with sand.

While passing over a pontoon bridge the car fell into a river, but was undamaged. Miss Belcher and Miss Budgell slept at nights in a tent attached to the car, and twice lions came sniffing round. The native peoples encountered always proved friendly, and the chief of a wild tribe in Uganda gave the travellers a hut and food and placed a guard of five farriors over the hut at night-time. Heavy rains enforced a fortnight's wait at Khartoum.

Between Abadia and Abuhamid the girls were lost in the desert because their Arab guide accustamed to camels, was bewildered by the car. They ran short of water, but were put right by wandering Arabs. When lost a second time they encountered many difficulties in hills and watercourses, but eventually reached a railway station.

Miss Belcher is the daughter of C. E. Belcher, a retired wine merchant of Northcourt, Abingdon, Berkshire. She is 27 years old. The travellers, both of whom are girl guides, left Egypt by liner from Brindisi. They drive through Italy and France on the final stages of the journey.

HALLOWE'EN GAMES

Several reader friends have written for suggestions on games to be played at the Halloween party. Of course we all know the time-honored favorites—"Bobbing for Apples", "Biting the Apple Suspended by a String", and the "Apple Paring Contest". But most hostesses feel that they would like some newer, more original games and contests sprinkled in among the old ones. Here are two:

Fortunes from the Witch's Cauldron: Have a large cooking pot placed over covered sticks in some corner of the living room. Imitate "fire" by hiding an electric flashlight under strips of red tissue beneath the sticks, with the bulb lit. Inside the cauldron have strips of black crepe paper in which are hidden small strips of colored paper—no two colors alike. Now, here is where the hostess must use her memory. For each strip of colored paper is for a different guest, and the message which is type-written on each strip is particularly applicable to the particular guest who receives it. For instance, of one guest considers himself more or less of an inventor, the hostess should (before the party) write on a yellow strip of paper: "You will originate something that will startle the world", and of course she will have to remember that that yellow bit of paper is for that one guest. If a girl guest longs to travel, the hostess should write on a red strip: "You will find your Fate on foreign shores" and then make sure that that particular girl gets the red strip. It would be possible for her to glance at a memorandum (in her lap) to remind herself which color goes with each guest, if she cannot trust her memory.

Grotesque Contest: Provide crepe paper, shears, imitation "horns" made of cornocbs and secured to strips of cotton to go over the head, long "whiskers" and "beards" of horsehair mattress stuffing, feathers, and other such articles, then tell each guest that he must, in ten minutes, try to make himself or herself as grotesque as possible. Award a prize for the best result.

NUT BRAN GEMS

Mix together two tablespoons of dark molasses, one teaspoon of baking soda, three-quarters of a teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon of melted shortening, one egg well beaten and three quarters of a cup of sweet cider. Mix together one cup of bread flour, three cups of bran and three-quarters of a cup of chopped nut meats, and combine with the first mixture, alternating with one and a quarter cups of sour milk. Beat well and bake for 30 minutes in oiled gem pans.

THREADING EMBROIDERY NEEDLE

An embroidery needle can be threaded easily by taking a short piece of sewing thread, putting the two ends together, and pushing through the eye of the needle. Then put the yarn through the loop formed and pull it through the eye.

Friend Told Her Fortune

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am only a junior and sadly in love with a classmate. A friend told my fortune saying I would marry a blond man. He is a blond. Every once in a while, at school, I can feel his glance on me—and when I do, I picture him as a model husband. I think of having a home with three or four children and this "dream lad" as the man. They say he is the handsomest lad in our room in junior high school.

Sometimes I have a feeling that he doesn't care for me—when we were first in the same classroom I used to turn all red when our eyes met. When I don't show how much I care he seems to notice me more but when I notice him, he doesn't pay any attention to me. There is another girl in school I think he loves. Whenever I talk, his name naturally rises to my lips, but I hold it back because I can't help blushing. Do you think this has any effect on him?

ANXIOUS

Your letter is typical of a girl in love for the first time. And while it's undoubtedly very delightful and thrilling, it's probably interfering a good deal too much with your school work and other daily routine. Waiting for the glance that makes you blush will probably get you an "unsatisfactory" on your school report. As you say, when you notice the boy too obviously, he pays less attention to you than when you pretend indifference. Perhaps if you don't notice him at all, he may take a little more interest in you.

Visions of the "model husband" and the three or four children are all too much in the future to bother your head about. If you'll buckle down, study a language or stenography, it will help you to get ahead faster, than wasting your time day-dreaming which is likely to become morbid.

Just Wasting Her Time

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past five years a certain man has been coming to see me regularly, he takes me out motoring in his car and to various places of amusement—and, yes, I'll admit we do a little petting too. But he never said a word about MARRIAGE. When he first came to see me, other men used to come too, but one by one they have fallen off and this friend now has me all to himself, as the impression is among our relatives that we are engaged—but we're not.

I am 28 but look younger. The other day my sister and her husband came from California. My brother-in-law is the downright sort. He asked me if we were engaged. I said no, and I couldn't tell you all the things he said. My mother is now up in arms as the result of my brother-in-law's attitude. My sister wants to take me back to California with her. Mother says I should speak to my friend first—between them all I'm nearly crazy. What would you suggest?

LENA C.

I don't wonder you feel upset. And I'm delighted you've a chance to go to California where I hope you'll forget about the man who has wasted five years of your precious youth. I wouldn't ask him his "intentions" either, if he knows you're going away and doesn't say anything—it's obvious he hasn't any intentions.

In an almost identical case, a girl told one of these "time-wasters" that she was going away, and asked him if he's care.

He answered, "Very much, indeed," and went on to say he was unable to ask her to marry him as he had an insane wife from whom—according to the law of his state—he was unable to get a divorce. Unlike your affair, this one had gone on for ten years. The girl has never married—the insane wife is still living.

The Beauty Box

By Helen Follett

Hours of highly-energized conversation can create more fatigue bugs in the feminine system than a morning at the washtub. Few women realize the reaction of the nerves to prolonged jabbering and chattering. A sound, steady nervous organziation is vitally necessary to perfect health and has much to do with beauty. It is acquired by cultivating poise, restraint and an easy manner. Let the gabby talkers paste this paragraph on their mirrors. It is an idea worth keeping in mind.

Every head of hair has moulting periods, times when more than the usual number of hair depart. They come usually in Spring and Autumn. During these sessions the scalp needs vitalizing massage, steady pressure with finger tips outspread to move the scalp away from the skull. A simple tonic is castor oil thinned with an equal amount of alcohol. Part the hair, apply the oil along the partings, begin the pummeling. Brushing is helpful. Every hair that the brush removes is already dead.

When washing powder pads, don't wring them. Shake so that the fuzzy surface fluffs and hang on the water faucet to drain. Chamois skin covers of nail polishers can be washed. Wash cloths should be changed every day. Powder boxes should be kept covered, combs and hair brushes washed with laundry powder and a hand brush before each shampoo.

Too much tummy calls for bending exercises. Send the body forward, keeping the legs rigid; then send it back. Place the hands on the hips, bend from side to side. Send the torso around in a circle lowering the head. Take the soldier's position—chest high, head up, heels together—bring the hands above the head, then to the floor without bending the knees.

Eating between meals and at bedtimes is a bad habit. The stomach is a muscular sac. Like any muscle it should have periods of rest. Too much sugar in the diet will cause headaches not unlike those produced by alcohol.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Knowles, Edgewood avenue, when their eldest daughter, Alice Lillian, was united in marriage to Leeheart M. Langill, second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Langill of Nelson. Rev. W. C. Mawhinney officiated. Mrs. Mawhinney played the wedding march. The bride was beautifully gowned in a creation of pale green and gold baronette satin on long lines, with large picture hat to match, long white kid gloves, slippers and stockings to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. The maid of honor, Miss Jessie Knowles, wore a becoming gown of pale yellow georgette crepe and hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Florence Kellogg, donned a frock of salmon pink with a felt hat to match. Gertie Cooper as flower girl wore a salmon pink frock of taffetta finished with a lace collar and carried a basket of autumn flowers to match the bride's dress. The bride's mother wore a becoming gown of pale yellow flat crepe with corsage of roses. The groom's mother wore a stunning dress of black flat crepe. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome leather purse while the bride's gift to the groom was a watch and chain. The bridesmaid's gift was a dainty dinner ring, the flower girl receiving a basket of handkerchiefs, and the maid of honor a fancy vanity case. A set of gold cuff links was the gift to Clarence Ward, the best man. The marriage took place under an arch of chrysanthemums with a wedding bell as a center. The living rooms were decorated with pale green and white streamers, roses and carnations and yellow chrysanthemums. Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served which was followed by toasts to the wedding party which were made by Rev. Mr. Mawhinney. The Nelson Bugle band of which Mr. Langill is a member, provided splendid music and presented Mr. Langill with a handsome dinner set. A beautiful chime clock was given Mr. and Mrs. Langill from the Nelson Iron Works. JACK FORREST TRAIL PIONEER DIES SUDDENLY

Labor Superintendent From C. M. and S. Suffers With Stroke

HE HAD RECENTLY VISITED SCOTLAND

Arrived in Trail in '92; Always Worked at the Smelter

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 29—John W. Forrest, labor superintendent for the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company, died early this morning, following an extremely short illness. Mr. Forrest, who was 56 years of age, was born in Middlegate, Scotland.

Coming to Trail in 1898, Mr. Forrest had been a smelter employee for 32 years. He had acted as furnace foreman and as foreman of the lead refinery, and for the past two years had filled the position of superintendent of the labor gang.

After two years' residence in Trail, Mr. Forrest returned in 1900 to Scotland, where he was married, returning about three months later with his bride. It was an unusual coincident that Mr. Forrest made a second return trip to the old land 30 years later, on almost the same date.

About May 15 of this year, owing to ill health, Mr. Forrest went to Scotland, coming back to Trail about September 15. He had been working for only 30 days when he died. He would have been 56 years of age November 10.

Funeral services are being held over pending the arrival of two sons from distant points. Interment will be made in the Rosaland cemetery.

Besides his wife Mr. Forrest is survived by seven sons: David, James, John, William, Robert, Arthur and Lorne; one sister, Mrs. George Shaw of Trail, and two brothers, William of Warfield, and James of Scotland. David, who is in Winnipeg, is expected home tomorrow, William, of Los Angeles, should arrive Friday evening.

Mr. Forrest was an enthusiastic curler and two years ago had a rink made up of himself and three sons.

THE MISSES DAVIS OF GRAND FORKS VISIT IN SPOKANE

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Oct. 29—Jim Miller, of the Union mine, spent the week end at his home here.

Misses Catherine and Wilma Davis spent the week end with friends in Spokane.

Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Kingston left Monday morning for a week's visit to Vancouver and Victoria.

Mrs. H. Lightfoot is visiting friends in Trail.

KEEP THE ASHPIT CLEAR

How do you clean the ashpit of your furnace? It should be cleaned every time you shake the fire.

The ashpit has been made so as to permit sufficient air to pass into and through it to properly burn the fuel and to keep the grate from becoming injured through overheating. If ashes are left in the ashpit they make proper air circulation impossible, they hinder combustion and cause the grate bars to become warped and bent.

It is a bad practice to leave ashes under the grate to check the fire. On mild days, when this is necessary, an accumulation of ashes may be allowed to remain on the grate but never under the grate, so if you want good service from the furnace be sure and clean out the ashpit every time immediately after shaking.

Hilter's Thre at of War

The program of the German Fascists, as stated by one of their number in the Reichstag, is something to cause the former Allied countries to sit up and take notice.

If Hitler were in power, backed by a Fascist majority, that program would be a direct challenge to the former Allies, a challenge which would mean peace or war according as they did or did not consent to wipe out all the safeguards and penalties they thought it necessary to write into the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, says the Edmonton Bulletin. It continues:

Hitler is not in power. But his party in the Reichstag is nine times stronger than it was before the general elections a few weeks ago. It is already strong enough to cause the Government to recast its whole economic policy in hope of checking the revival of the nationalist spirit to which the Fascists appeal. That it is a growing party its political opponents plainly recognize, and it is possible that another election may make the Fascist program the national policy of Germany.

Unless and until that happens, it is the German Hitler and his "brown shirts". But the countries which dictated the Treaty of Versailles can strengthen the government, not the former Allies, who will deal with hands of the Government at Berlin if they make plain that the Fascist threat is noted abroad, that its significance is understood, and that they intend to be prepared to protect themselves and their rights should its authors gain power.

One reaction, it is to be hoped, will be a slackening in the former Allied countries of the demand for the reduction of armament to the point of disarmament. Germany now has a new navy. It has the most efficient dirigibles ever built. It is a strong contender for airplane supremacy. With a growing political party in Germany threatening to bring these into use, and to adopt universal military service, to back its demand for the abrogation of the Treaty of Versailles, it is time to have done with theories and face facts.

Hitler has destroyed the pleasant dream that no country now contemplates restoring war to further its national aims. He expressly declares that he will resort to war to put through his program, unless the former allies consent to the scrapping of the treaty and the attainment of his other objectives without resistance. That surely is plain enough to arouse apprehensions even in the mind of a pacifist.

No Spinsters in Antolia

There are no spinsters in the eastern province of Turkey. Every woman, be she 16 or 60, can boast of a husband. Marriage is an easy matter in Anatolia. It is sufficient to find a girl one likes; the rest comes easily. A dollar and a quarter is enough to cover all the expenses of the wedding and even the poorest shepherd can find that sum hidden under his mattress.

The people who live in the eastern provinces have two aims in life, food and marriage. The eastern Turk will remain hungry, miserable, poor, but never without a wife. As soon as a boy has reached his eighteenth birthday he is married, and often he marries even younger. And if a man is 20 and is not a father of at least one child he is pointed out as a curiosity in Anatolia.

Fur Farming Industry Is Growing

News reports from Creston and district, and from other parts of the Kootenays indicate that trappers are already setting out their lines for the winter catch.

In other portions of the district fur farming is being carried on extensively and promises to become an important industry for the Kootenays.

The fur industry, and particularly fur farming, is growing by leaps and bounds across the Dominion. Latest available figures show that the fur farming industry today represents a capital value of $22,980,617 of which $16,401,453 is invested in fur bearing animals.

While Prince Edward Island, Ontario and Quebec lead the Dominion in fur farming, British Columbia is climbing to the fore. Fur farming in the past has been confined mostly to foxes and muskrats but it is now branching out and the otter, coyote, silver-blue fox and beaver are newcomers to the fur farming industry.

American and English explorers who have been delving not far from Prague have brought to light examples of pottery, bracelets, tools and arrows that seem to confirm the existence of a Nordic community at that spot early in the bronze age or more than 5000 years ago. It seems to be mighty hard to hide things away from the pick-and-shovel brigade of the modern museum.

There are so many revolutions going on in the Latin republics that a good many folks are wondering when Venezuela will break out. The citizens there are not in the habit of taking a nap when there are disturbances all around them.

What the Press Says

COMMITTEE COME BACK?

An Ann Arbor, Mich., judge has apologized to a man he was obliged to fine for carrying concealed weapons. The man was a collector who did not feel that the money he was forced to carry was immune to the operations of America's new banditti. Furthermore, the judge declared that if he had his way he would arm the public to shoot it out with the bandits.

All of which, of course, shows a deplorable state of affairs in the Republic to the south of us. But it also raises the question as to whether the law against carrying concealed weapons is not working for the protection of footpads and hold-up men. If the latter are practically assured that their victims are unarmed does it not mean that it puts their calling on a more secure business basis?

Of course criminals will always get arms just as the thirsty will always get liquor. And also a community made up of "gun-toters" is unthinkable. But Uncle Sam is more and more coming under the control of the gangster, and who shall say that the vigilance committee of frontier days may not come back to do the work that has grown too heavy for the courts and the police.—Toronto Telegram.

DENTIST OUSTS THE PLUMBER FROM RANKS OF THE RICH

Count that day lost on which some enterprising thug does not seek to deprive some dentist of his surplus wealth.

Time was when the plumber was the acknowledged owner of great riches. But that was in the good old days when an occasional man went down to the grave with the teeth provided by a beneficient Providence.

But science has changed things a whole lot. Nowadays if a man has a pain in his right toe or a twitch in his left arm or a set of slightly twisted eyes, it's off to the dentist for him. His teeth come out—painlessly—and their room and place is taken by a hand-made set of Crown Derby that produce pain only in the pocket.

And the enterprising burglar who reads the daily press and keeps abreast of the times naturally goes where the money is.—Toronto Telegram.

THE PROHIBITION ISSUE

The growth of sentiment against the eighteenth amendment is alleged, but it is difficult to point to any increase of wet sentiment in the next Congress, based upon the nominations already made. A tremendous overturn would be necessary in order to bring about the passage of a joint resolution in Congress proposing repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment. No such overturn is in sight. If the drift toward a wet Congress is in process it is very slow. —Washington Post.

INHERITING THE EARTH

Ambassador Morrow's statement about the duties of a diplomatic representative should be put in the manual of instruction for the use of all expecting to enter the service. It would be as well for all others visiting foreign countries to keep his advice in mind. Begin with the things mankind has in common, and instead of treating superciliously and haughtily the differences, seek to understand their significance. His own brief career has been an example of such diplomacy in its highest expression. He has admirably defined in his own practice what he has urged in words upon others. He has ably defended the interests of his own country, but he has shown respect for the rights and the institutions and the traditions of the nation to which he has officially represented us. —New York Times.

EMPIRE DEFENSE

The difference between a World-Empire, loosely strung together, and so-called Great Powers, compactly established within continental frontiers, is constantly overlooked or disregarded. The British Empire is cast to fill the Imperial role; which demands many more accessories than suffice for the lesser parts played by European states. In the edges of Great Britain's continental neighbors and prospective associates in peace-preservation, she may appear sufficiently provided for that purpose; the security of her huge Empire is no great concern of theirs. That is a matter of deep interest to the Empire's enemies, who the more they are persuaded that it exists mainly on goodwill, the sooner will they be encouraged to "call the bluff".—Lieut.-Col. Baird Smith in the Fortnight Review, London.

FACTS MATCH FICTION

There is the old story of the attempt to sell the courthouse to the unsuspecting, innocent visitor to the city. Yet only recently a bona fide advertisement appeared in the columns of the Kingston (N. Y.) Freeman offering the Ashokan reservoir for sale to the highest bidder.

The Ashokan reservoir is the most important part or New York city's water supply. Yet it was actually offered for sale for nonpayment of taxes, and only a hastily applied-for court order restraining the sale stopped the proffered bargain.

It is explained that a dispute over the assessment of the property had arisen, and was still pending. Meanwhile the enterprising town officials of upper New York state had taken this occasion to rebuke the great city. —The Nation.

DEPRESSION IN CEYLON

At the present moment two of the biggest agricultural industries of the Island are prostrate under the blows of adversity . . . As regards rubber, it may be contended with perhaps a fair degree of plausibility that it will recover sooner or later; but even this cannot be said for the cocoanut industry. The adverse conditions affecting cocoanut products—the competition of ground nut, cotton seeds, soya bean and whale oil owing to improved refining methods—are more or less permanent, and the best that can be hoped for in the future is that the cocoanut planter may be just able to hold his head above water.—Colombo Times, Ceylon.

DOLE-DRAWERS AT THE SEASIDE

There is an ironical flavor in news that dole-drawers in Lancashire who have gone to the seaside to take a pleasant outing are chartering motor coaches for the purposes of returning to their home towns and signing-on at their labor exchanges there in order to retain the benefit of the dole. This is one more example of the fashion in which the dole habit is becoming ingrained and the disastrous effect which it is exerting upon the character of those who draw it.—London Daily Mail.

Declares More Humanity Is Needed in Hospitals

Many people who have had practical experience of the modern hospital will probably endorse the sentiments of Professor Francis Peabody, of Harvard medical school, regarding the relations of patient and doctor within the wards of institutions devoted to the care of the sick.

Professor Peabody's remarks are contained in a little book of 48 pages recently published entitled "The Care of the Patient," and are addressed in particular to medical students and hospital internes. Should this generation of budding physicians and surgeons take his message to heart, the lovable, old-time "family doctor," now often described as being in danger of extinction, would most certainly be revived, with not one detail of modern skill and scientific aids to diagnosis and treatment removed from his equipment. Not less science but more humanity, understanding and sympathy within the wards of the hospital of today, is Professor Peabody's plea. In the following quotation the situation as Peabody sees it is very graphically summarized:

"When a patient enters a hospital, the first thing that commonly happens to him is that he loses his personal identity. He is generally referred to, not as Henry Jones, but as 'that case of mitral stenosis in the second bed on the left.' There are plenty of reasons why this is so, and the point is, in itself, relatively unimportant; but the trouble is that it leads, more or less directly, to the patient being treated as a case of mitral stenosis, and not as a sick man. The disease is treated, but Henry Jones, lying awake nights while he worries about his wife and children, represents a problem that is much more complex than the pathologic physiology of mitral stenosis, and he is apt to improve very slowly unless a discerning interne discovers why it is that even large doses of digitalis fail to slow his heart rate. Henry happens to have heart disease, but he is not disturbed by that so much as he is by anxiety for the future, and a talk with an understanding physician who tries to make the situation clear to him and then gets the social service worker to find a suitable occupation does more to straighten him out than a book full of drugs and diets."

Earnestly, too, the Harvard doctor tells the interne how golden is the opportunity he has, in the first interview with the nervous, scared and suffering patient on his first appearance in the ward, when, by kindliness, tact, and sincere sympathy, he can remove much of the strangeness and dread, and often gain a lifelong friend. This intimate, personal bond, he says, forms the greatest satisfaction in the practice of medicine, and is just as possible to achieve in a big hospital as anywhere else. In conclusion he gives the secret of successful care of the patient as being in "caring for the patient."

Firemen, Enginemen Protest at Board Action on Delivery

To the Editor,
The Nelson Daily News.

Dear Sir: I have been instructed to inform you that at the regular meeting of the above organization on this date a resolution was passed as follows:

"That this lodge has read the resolution passed by the Nelson board of trade opposing mail and letter carrier delivery service which has been proposed for this city, and we believe that this action is directly contrary to the wishes or the majority of the citizens of the community. Also that the board has no right to publish such resolutions until they are assured that such action is representative of the wishes of the people."

Ten Commandments for Husbands

Thou shalt not nag thy wife.

Thou shalt take no notice of any other woman if she be pretty, neither shalt thou praise her, that thy wedded felicity be continued and that thou mayest dwell happily in the bonds of holy matrimony.

Thou shalt not swear or use any other unseemly language in the presence of thy wife.

Remember that thou mayest consider thyself the head of the household but that thy wife is really the predominant partner and that she will have the last word in any argument that may arise between thee.

Honor thy wife and pretend to honor her relatives that thy days may be long and without recriminations.

Thou shalt be careful to avoid even the appearance of flirting with thy neighbors.

Thou shalt not make unseemly comments about the food or the service or the home and above all thou must not make comparisons of any kind to the detriment of thy wife.

Thou shalt not turn on the radio to loud music when thy wife wishes to talk for a woman must have her say and the wise husband will play the part of listener.

Thou shalt not be jealous of thy wife or annoyed if she enjoys the company of other men, remembering thine own limitations and picture to thyself how tired any woman must be to live with thee all the time.—Prince Rupert Daily News.

London's Queer House

Would you believe that in London there is a five-storey house complete with front door, windows, and balconies, but only five feet thick from front to back and possessing no keyhole, door bell, letter-box or inhabitants? asks "Tid-Bits." Well there is, and if you want to see it you have only to ask a taxi-driver to take you to No. 23 Leinster Gardens. He will probably think you are pulling his leg, for most of them know all about it.

Here is the story of this queer house that isn't a house at all. Many years ago the Underground Railway built a line through Leinster Gardens, one of London's most dignified residential quarters. The inhabitants of the Gardens protested violently against the hideousness of an open sulvert at the mouth of the tunnel beneath them So the railway people covered it up by building a dummy house, complete in every detail.

The house has been the scene of many practical jokes. Not long ago hundreds of invitations were sent by some jester to a party there. Meantime it is always providing puzzles for trade canvassers and others who ask policemen where to find the letter-box and the doorbell that do not exist.

Flying With the Sun

The reports from Germany about a new airplane, now being manufactured in secret, which is expected to fly from Berlin to New York in five or six hours at an altitude of 35,000 or 40,000 feet have been received everywhere with skepticism. The science of aviation is making remarkable progress, but it is taking no Brobdingnagian leaps. The stratosphere plane, as the dispatches from Berlin call it, has yet to show that it can make a successful flight of any sort. There is no need yet to order fresh bunting for the city hall or to put the official scroll maker to work on a new masterpiece of welcome.

It is interesting, however, to speculate on what flight at such a tremendous speed will mean if it ever becomes a reality. The great-circle distance between Berlin and New York is approximately 3470 miles. To fly that distance in six hours would require an average speed of 578 miles an hour, or 9.64 miles a minute; to make the hope in five hours the plane would have to cleave the air at the startling rate of 694 miles an hour, or 11.57 miles a minute. Such velocities, while slower than those of rifle bullets, are comparable with the speed of the slowest artillery projectiles; they are extremely slow in contrast to the speed of meteors, which dash through the upper atmosphere at 25 miles a second. There is no danger, therefore, of the stratosphere plane being burned up by friction with the air.

Since the local time difference between Berlin and New York is five hours and forty-nine minutes, it would be possible by covering the distance in precisely that time to keep the sun in the same position in the sky during the whole flight. If the westward dash started at noon in Berlin it would end at noon in New York. On the return journey, however, the plane would be flying against instead of with the sun and the day would be greatly shortened. A plane might New York at 6 a. m. and after flying only 6 hours arrive in Berlin to find the clocks registering 6 p. m. Most interesting of all would be the possibility with such a plane, provided that it would carry enough fuel, of flying westward all the way around the earth with the sun on the meridian. It could be done easily in the latitude of Berlin, but at the Equator a speed of more the 1,000 miles an hour would be required. —New York Sun.

PACIFIC COAST BOYS LEAD THE WELTERWEIGHTS

Young Jack Thompson, Present Champion, Hails From There

CORBETT, McLARNIN FROM THE WEST, TOO

So Is Jackie Fields, Lining Up Fourth Among the Top Ones

(By J. A. Benetti in Self Defense)

The mad scramble for the welterweight title of the world has become a strictly Pacific coast affair, what with Young Jack Thompson, champion, Young Corbet III, Jimmy McLarnin and Jackie Fields, all hailing from this area. Boxing selections from hither and yon and although these lists vary a bit, these four have never failed to be mentioned at the top of the division.

YOUNG CORBETT III

In many sections of the country Young Corbett is hailed as the "uncrowned champion". He has fought and defeated two champions in less than five months in overweight matches, Jackie Fields and Young Jack Thompson and lost one battle in six years. This was suffered at the hands of Sergeant Sammy Baker in New York and the decision was questionable. Corbett has defeated such men as Bucky Lawless, one round, Nick Testo, seven, K. O. Eddie Roberts, nine rounds, Andy Divodi, four, Jackie Fields, ten, Young Jack Thompson three times by decision. He also fought a draw with the negro at the start of his career.

Sidestepped by champions and near champions he chased Jackie Fields for two years and finally earned the chance to defeat him on Washington's birthday last in an overweight fight. His latest sidestepper is Jimmy McLarnin. Before the recent Thompson-Corbett fight the Irish battler was at the ring side to announce to the assemblage that he would do battle with the winner. At the finish Pop Foster, his manager, flatly refused a guarantee of $50,000 to meet the Fresnan. An enormous amount for a non-titlist.

A difficult fighter to fathom, Corbett's southpaw style is hard to discern, a statement that will be vouched by fighters he has met and defeated. His best weapon is a left to the body, directed to the region of the solar plexis or above the heart. Hit with this punch his opponent usually crumbles.

Many may not be in accord with the selection of Young Corbett above Jimmy McLarnin who are of the opinion that McLarnin could flatten the Fresnan with one of his deadly right hand punches. Our contention is that Corbett has always been at his best when his opponent essayed to slug. This sort of battle would put McLarnin in a position for Corbett's best bet, his left hand to the body.

McLarnin's main asset is his right paw. He must get set to land it with telling effect. He must come in and mix it and that is to Corbett's liking. A slugger has no chance with Corbett and Pop Foster seems to have learned that fact when he refused to meet the southpaw. A wise hombre, Foster.

Corbett is not very pleasing to watch He is clever, and almost strictly a counter puncher. The fans of today despise this sort of battle, but as the wins go a long way in the fight game, one cannot deny that Corbett is the leader of them all. A consistent winner and the "uncrowned champion".

Ralph Manfredo, manager of the Italian, claims that Corbett will defend the title every thirty days if he ever acquires it. He is confident that he can beat any boy at his weight.

It is unfortunate that McLarnin has put up the ban sign on southpaws. A win over the Belfast Spider might help Corbett's fight for eastern recognition along. Thompson will defend his title against McLarnin in the east only to lose it. McLarnin might condescend to a Corbett match but not with the title at stake. In such a match now, Jimmy would probably lose in the title trend as he is almost certain to lose for the Thompson match sometime in the latter part of the year.

Everyone knows Jimmy McLarnin, the knockout sensation who must be listed above Jack Thompson and Jackie Fields for the reason that he could easily defeat both of them. Jack Thompson was in his prime when he first met Joe Dundee, then title holder, and knocked him out in two rounds. Since that time, however Young Jack Thompson has slipped. Jackie Fields took the fight from the negro in his two previous matches before losing the title to him. He showed this when he reutrned to this section and put up two mediocre fights against second raters.

McLarnin's punch must be reckoned. Against mixers such as Fields and Thompson he would easily be declared the winner.

YOUNG JACK THOMPSON

These two boys are on about a par but we favor Thompson because he is the title holder. As noted, Thompson has slipped considerably and his close fight with McLarnin in New York recently was quite a surprise. Something went wrong. He deserves what he has won—the title. Only a determined fighter, one with the heart of Jack Thompson could have climbed the heights. The last time he showed his wares he put up two miserable exhibitions against the veteran Jimmy Duffy and Freddy Fitzgerald, second raters. He returned east to start the campaign that finally brought him the title. Try as he might he will never be able to fathom Corbett's style. It war sad to see Thompson, the champion, before the master left hook artist. He looked like a rank novice that day but Young Jack never stopped trying.

JACKIE FIELDS

When we saw Jackie Fields last, that is before battling Young Corbett, he looked like a brilliant fighter. But one cannot understand how Jackie Fields lost the title to Thompson. Fields had previously beaten the negro on two occasions. Probably Fields has slipped since the Corbett fight but then again we believe that he caught Thompson on one of the negro's good nights. At times young Jack looked like a world beater, and maybe he was that on this particular night.

MICHEL CENTRALS TAKE RUGBY GAME

Defeat Natal Tigers; Dino Bartelli Scores All Central Points

MICHEL, B. C., Oct. 29—After the lead and changed hands four times, the Centrals finally broke through to defeat Natal Tigers 15-11, on the Michel grounds last evening in a fast and exciting Rugby game. This win gave them the right to meet the Bruins for the championship of Michel and Natal.

Dino Bartelli scored all points for the Centrals, going over for three touch downs. It was a sensational battle and provided plenty of spectacular action. Caruso starred for the Tigers. He outkicked his opponents and made gains for his team.

GO DOWN FIGHTING

The tigers won the championship last year without being defeated and this season the squad went down fighting, after many keenly contested battles.

The two Dingle brothers of the Central team came through with much action and proved splendid tacklers. Willie Lyne of the Tigers directed the play at quarter. Ball was also an outstanding performer.

Caruso made a great play at half time to pull the Centrals into the lead when he recovered a long punt made by himself for a touchdown. The play put the tigers in the lead 6-5 at half time.

Centrals again took margin in the third when Dingle made a pass to Bartelli who broke through for a touch down Bartelli scored another one late in fourth to bring the score to 15-6. In a final rally, Lyne carried the ball across for the Tigers.

Centrals—Venzi, Campbell, Brown, Stagy, Dingle, Sparrow, Dingle, Latch, Castro, Bottle, Ditson, Bartelli, Owens, Strachen, Cartleg, Bend.

Tigers—Tool, Tombassio, Duke, Roach, Tupper, Spider, Guest, Lyne, Bass, Coga, Atkinson, Philips, Latka, Pasquale, Novicka.

LONDON, Oct. 29. (Canadian Press Cable)—Middlesex defeated Sussex by 33 points to 3 in a Rugby Union county championship match at Bexhill today.

In Football It's Not the Taste

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Bob Zuppke, that great little tactician, humorist, artist and philosopher, who guides the destinies of the U. of Illinois eleven tells me about a young hopeful he once had.

"We had covered the field with manure to prevent the ground from freezing," said Bob, "and after a tough scrimmage the day before a big game, the young fellow had his face pushed into the ground. As soon as the gang let him up he rushed over to me and said, 'Hey, Mister, Zuppke, I want to register a protest. Change your fertilizer, I don't like the taste of it."

"Pop Warner tells me Jim Thorpe was all wrong when he said "Pop" used to clout him with a fungo stick when he stayed out too late at night before an important game.

"When I had Jim at Carlisle he was always in shape and amendable to reason at all times. I wish I had material like him to work with every year"

And who doesn't?

STARR JOINS THE RANGERS

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29. (CP)—Wilf Starr, youthful forward of the Winnipeg senior hockey team, tonight completed negotiations with the New York Rangers of the National Hockey league and will join the pro team at Toronto on Saturday. The speedy left-winger, not yet two years out of junior company, signed up with Lester Patrick by long distance telephone.

The Rangers leave Toronto on Saturday for Springfield to get down to serious training, Patrick stated.

DEFINITELY CALLED OFF

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 29—(AP)—The planned races off Halifax, N. S., between the Lunenburg schooner, Bluenose, and the Gertrude L. Thebaud, Gloucester fishermen's champion, for the international fishermen's trophy today was definitely called off for this year.

Thebaud defeated Bluenose in a series of races off here recently and was ready to leave tomorrow for Halifax to compete for the trophy.

CAMBRIDGESHIRE STAKES WON BY 50 TO 1 SHOT

Mrs. Martin Hartigan's Colt, The Pen, Is Winner by a Head

NEWMARKET, England, Oct. 29. (Canadian Press Cable)—Mrs. Martin Hartigan's colt, The Pen, won the famous Cambridgeshire stakes today, starting at odds of 50 to one. Two of the public's choices captured second and third positions, Racedale at 100 to 9 and The Recorder at seven to two. The Pen won by a head while Racedale was half a length in front of The Recorder at the finish.

The result proved a windfall for the bookmakers. They not only won handsomely on the race, but when The Pen won many popular "doubles" with the Cesarewitch were shattered, Only one "double" bet was successful, so far as is known, this netting two London men $33,000 between them in return for $2.50.

The Pen ran almost in the middle of the field of 31 starters until the bushes were reached, where Anthurium and The Recorder were up in front. The Pen, ridden smartly by Jockey Clifford Richards, overtook the leaders while Racedale surged into second place. The Pen was good enough to keep his head in front at the wire, but Racedale finished with a strong challenge. Slipper, French contender, was a close fourth, with Finsovino fifth, Noble Star sixth and Cat o' Nine Tails, second favorite at 80 to one, seventh. Gaylord was last.

The Pen, carrying an impost of 100 pounds, covered the mile and an eighth in 1:50 4-3.

WILL ASK THAT AMATEURS PLAY AGAINST PROS

B. C. Body Will Bring Amendment up at A. A. U. Meeting

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 29.—The air will likely be cleared of a lot of long-standing problems relating to the government of amateur athletics before the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada is concluded here next week. A long list of proposed amendments will face the gathering of Dominion athletic rulers Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 6, 7 and 8, and many matters of contentious nature will have to be dealt with, according to John Muter, one of the Vancouver members of a committee working on the revision of the A. A. U. handbook.

A highlight will be supplied by that old hardy annual, the proposal to allow amateurs and professionals to mix in sport. From B. C. will come a motion requesting that Clause B, Section 3, which bars amateurs from playing with or against professionals, be struck from the handbook. The B. C. body is bringing forth this amendment.

Support comes for British Columbia's views on this matter from Alberta, which is proposing that the words, "or against," be struck from the clause, thus permitting amateurs to play against pros, but not with them.

If the down quilt is soiled and, despite your love of it, you are ashamed to have it in sight, cover it with a pretty sateen or cretonne, following the former lines of stitching. It just takes a little time and patience but saves money and is worth the trouble.

A GOOD OFFENSE IS THE BEST DEFENSE METHOD

Such must have been the slogan of Terry McGovern, who shot like a meteor across the pugilistic skies from 1899 to 1903, states Cy Rudinger in Self Defense.

Like a young Texas cyclone, Terry mowed down everything in his path. He bowled over George Dixon in two rounds, Pedlar Palmer in one, Frank Erne in three rounds and it is doubtful if there was ever recorded all the smaller fry that he sent to slumberland.

It was the popular belief in those days that McGovern would continue his slaughter of the fighting legion until he earned a go with James J. Jeffries, heavyweight champion of the world.

McGovern never wasted time when he went into the ring. No dancing and fiddling around for him, but he rushed into the fray from the tap of the gong and kept up a furious fusillade of punches until the closing bell.

His opponents were kept busy trying to duck, block or clinch in self-defense, that they were never given the opportunity for aggressive action. For, be it known, that every blow sent in by the aggressive Terry carried knockout possibilites There was no letting up at any stage of the battle. He was a raging, tearing lion every minute.

There was scarcely any science displayed in Terry's fighting style. No feinting, he hit with speed and accuracy, but it was his rapid fireworks that won the day. While Terry was in the hey-day of his successful career, there was in Denver, Colorado, a boxer with cold gray eyes watching the film of one of Terry's battles. This was George Rothwell, Young Corbett, so called. Corbett studied the film fight of McGovern in action time after time.

"I CAN LICK McGOVERN"

Finally he announced himself: "I can lick Terry McGovern—sure that son-of-a-gun was made to order for me."

A little later Corbett sought a bout with McGovern and they were matched to battle at Hartford, Connecticut. So sure was Corbett of defeating Terry, that while passing the latter's dressing room, just previous to entering the ring, he thumped heavily on McGovern's door, shouting loudly, "Hey, Terry, came out here and get licked!"

As they shook hands in the ring, Corbett handed Terry a couple of direct, cold-blooded insults "just to get his goat," as he afterward explained. McGovern was bellowing with rage as he tore into Corbett who rocked him with heavy left jabs.

In the mixups, Corbett wrapped his arms about his body to protect it from Terry's blows and allowed the upper punches to slide about his neck.

Finally, as Terry rushed in the fourth round, Corbett jabbed him, palm open, and holding him there for the fraction of a second, he suddenly pushed Terry's head up and back, then followed a sudden and terrific right-hander to the jaw which put Terry to the floor completely senseless—where he was counted out.

Corbett's assertion that Terry was made for him was verified by his two later defeats of McGovern which however, did not end in as spectacular fashion as the first victory.

Thus faded this Irish-American lad. His song in the lyrics of American pugilism was over. Although McGovern fought afterwards, excluding his two engagements with Young Corbett, as late as 1908, he was within the roped arena battling Spike Robson.

Featherweights of today, especially the present champion, Bat Battalino can well look with envy at this ringster and his faded record of yesterday, which long will live in the hearts of boxing fans, although McGovern, the master himself, has passed over the Great Divide.

Look back at those McGovern fought—names that portend history of pugilistics—names like Oscar Gardener, Young Corbett, Battling Nelson, George Dixon, Dave Sullivan, Joe Bernstein. What a fighter!

SEE DOUBLE BILL OF SOCCER UNDER LIGHTS, TORONTO

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29—Soccer as played under the flood lights was voted a pronounced success by more than 4000 fans who gathered at Ulster stadium Tuesday night for a doubleheader.

In the first game Ulster United of the National league beat C. N. R. four to nothing, while in the second contest Ontario General Electric were leading Maple Leafs, four to nothing, when the game was called on account of rain.

"WHO IS GOING TO WINDSOR?" IS QUERY IN EAST

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 29.—Today's practice of the Montreal Maroons and would-be Maroons again failed to answer the question that has almost become a standing joke in the dressing rooms: "Who is going to Windsor?" Of the 24 men now trying out for regular berths on the Maroon team, at least nine will be sent to the Windsor Bulldogs, and the battle for the steady places has made the twice-daily workouts almost as spirited as the regular league games which start a fortnight hence.

Four regular squads continue to work out at the Forum although the personel of each continue to change daily.

TRAIL DELEGATES MEET SUCCESS ON TRIP, VICTORIA

Wyatt, as acting mayor, and Mr. Tyson, as president of the board, showed admirable judgment in bringing the two bodies together and in sending a delegation to Victoria."

President Tyson also felt that congratulations were due the delegates.

"It's going to mean a lot to Trail," he declared. "While we expect our delegation to get somewhere, we hardly expected them to be so entirely successful."

James H. Schofield, M.P.P., who added his persuasions to those of the city council and board of trade in urging the work, and who arranged for introduction of the delegates at Victoria, said simply "that's great."

Trail's veteran member felt that the benefit that would become apparent immediately and that there would be direct benefit as a result of providing unemployment relief in this manner.

City Clerk W. E. B. Monypenny congratulated the delegates in another way. "You'll put big headlines on that, won't you?" he asked a reporter.

Alderman F. J. Wyatt, who presided at the joint council and board meeting, also tendered his congratulations to the delegates.

"Trail was not in a position to undertake extensive relief work this winter," he said, "and the government in taking this action lifts a heavy load from the shoulders of rate-payers. That the delegates were so successful is amatter for congratulating ourselves as well as them."

Alderman Bruno LeRose, chairman of the finance committee, was of the opinion that "Trail would have been in an extremely awkward position had it been necessary to put a bylaw before the people. I'm very glad," he asserted.

He did not believe a debenture bylaw would receive sufficient indorsation. The city would then have been unable to raise the funds to carry out work under the government assistance scheme.

"Until next year, when our first bond issue will be retired, the city must practice economy," he declared.

ANDERSON GRATEFUL

Alderman J. R. Anderson, chairman of the board of works, pointed out that the work to be done by the city under the $25,000 road equipment and improvement bylaw of last summer would care for local unemployed. The city was limited to this.

"I feel grateful indeed that the delegates have been successful," he declared

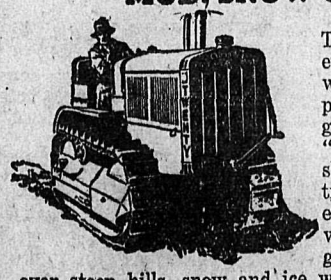
CATERPILLAR

The "CATERPILLAR"

Walks Securely Over MUD, SNOW or ICE



The broad long tracks evenly distribute the weight of the "Caterpillar" over so much ground that it can't "dig in" or stall. The sharp grousers on the track enable the "Caterpillar" to bite its way over wet, soggy ground, through sand, over steep hills, snow and ice without wasteful slippage. This great track principle delivers the power where it belongs—at the drawbar.

Salesmen in every line find Comfort-Fit helps them sell

Number AC—
One of the outstanding values in Stanfield's range. Medium winter weight. Light natural color. The greatest underwear value in Canada.
per suit $4.25

UNCOMFORTABLE, ill-fitting underwear is a handicap. You can't feel right in a shrunken, irritating suit of underwear that seems to be cutting you in half—and you won't look your best either. For being well dressed starts from the skin out.

Perhaps that's why so many successful salesmen insist upon Stanfield's. They know, from experience, that this unshrinkable underwear always keeps its shape—that it is comfortable, easy, every day of its long life. They know that because it is tailored to exact measurements it fits perfectly. And they know that no matter how often it goes to the laundry, it comes back soft and warm. Little betterments, too, are important to them. They appreciate the way the four-hole buttons are put on—each backed so that you can't pull it off. And they value the amazingly longer wear Stanfield's gives.

If you are not now wearing this famous underwear—the largest selling in Canada—try one suit. Let it prove to you how much better underwear really can be.

Go to your favourite store today. Select the style and weight that suits you best. And remember Stanfield's costs you little or no more than ordinary underwear.

"John is going to be comfortable this trip"

A word to the wives—if you are entrusted with the buying of your husband's underwear, get him a suit of Stanfield's and put it in his bag before he goes on his next trip. We'll warrant you'll get a letter of thanks.

BEER POLICY MAY BE DISCUSSED BY NEW B. C. CABINET

First Executive Is Scheduled for Today, Victoria

VICTORIA, Oct. 29—When the reconstructed cabinet commences active consideration of the problems confronting the administration one of the first matters to be dealt with will be the policy to be followed in regard to beer. This became known today, and it is expected that the subject will be on the agenda for discussion at the first executive meeting, scheduled for tomorrow.

The method of dealing with beer inaugurated by the former administration has long been under attack, and following the re-organization of the liquor control board a few weeks ago, some action was expected. This, however, it is stated, was delayed pending the cabinet changes. With the re-organization of the executive council the subject will be given prompt consideration.

The government, it is reported, will make a decision as to whether the monopolist system adopted half a dozen years ago by which all beer is purchased through an agency set up by the established brewers, will be continued, or whether competition, based on quality and price will be allowed. There has been, especially in Vancouver, considerable agitation for a change in the method of beer purchases. Brewers, on the other hand, have stoutly maintained that they are providing beer for good quality at a reasonable price. The government pays $16.58 per barrel for bottled beer. This price was agreed upon by the former government in the spring of 1924.

YOUTH ABDUCTS GIRL FROM HER CONVENT HOME

JERUSALEM—Oct. 29—A romantic tale of how a young Abelard abducted Heloise from a gloomy convent, through guile, and married her against the will of her father, was unfolded recently in the District Court here.

"Abelard's name is Yusef Mohamed. He is 20 years of age. Yusef, answering the charge of forgery brought against him by the father of the girl, told the story of how he had plotted elopement and marriage with the young Christian girl, Miriam bint Mansour.

"I used to visit my uncle," he said "who is married to a Christian woman named Hilaly. Hilaly told me she had a beautiful relative at a convent, and that for a sum of money in advance and a similar sum after the marriage she would be the matchmaker for us."

FORGED SIGNATURE

One day Hilaly brought the girl from the convent, and Yusef and Miriam met and loved each other. They agreed to be married secretly in order to cheat Hilaly out of her money. They wrote a letter to the convent, and forging the signature of the father, asked the concent to let the girl go away.

Yusef wrote the letter as they had planned, and brought it to the priceress, who allowed the girl to go. Since then they have been living together. The Sharia (Religious) Court refused to give them a marriage contract without the signature of the father. Yusef concluded with the words: "I love her, and I want her."

Both the father and girl gave evidence before the court. The father accused Yusef of trickery to take away his daughter.

The girl, however, complained of ill treatment at the hands of her father, and told the court she loved Yusef and wanted to marry him, though she wished to remain a Christian.

The young Abelard was sentenced to two months for forgery, but the prison term will give the young woman time to prepare for her nuptials and the boy to reflect on his coming happiness. They both expressed their determination to be offically married as quickly as possible.

FURTHER CERTIFICATE OF APPROVAL OF UNDETAKING

WHEREAS the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, Limited, is the holder of certificates approving its various undertakings in respect of the diversion, storage and use of the waters of Kootenay River and Lake for the generation of electrical energy and has applied to the Comptroller of Water Rights for a further licence to divert 5,000 cubic feet of water per second from the said river at Cora Linn Rapids for the generation of electrical energy and to store 15,000 acre-feet of water in the channel of the said river:

AND WHEREAS the said Company has petitioned for the approval of its undertaking in respect of the diversion, storage and use of the said water and has complied with the requirements of the Water Act relative to its petition:

AND WHEREAS it appears in the public interest that the prayer of the said petition be granted:

THIS IS TO CERTIFY that the proposed undertaking of the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, Limited, relative to the diversion of five thousand cubic feet of water per second from Kootenay River at Cora Linn Rapids for the generation of electrical energy and the storage of fifteen thousand acre-feet of water in the channel of the said river as the said undertaking is outlined in the petition filed with the Comptroller of Water rights by the said Company on August first, 1930, is hereby approved subject to the provisions of the Water Act and the following terms and conditions:

The term of every licence that may be issued in pursuance of the Company's above-mentioned application shall be limited to expire fifty years after the date of issue of the licence first issued in pursuance of the said application:

The construction of the works required for the diversion storage and use of the water shall be commenced by August 1st, 1931, and shall be carried out to the satisfaction of the Comptroller of Water Rights.

The territory within which the said Company may distribute and sell the electrical energy generated by it from the waters of Kootenay River shall be that portion of the Province of British Columbia lying within a circle having the Post Office in the City of Rossland as centre and having a radius of One Hundred and Fifty (150) miles.

THIS CERTIFICATE does not authorize the diversion, storage or use of any water or the construction of any works, nor is it an approval of plans of any works.

DATED at Victoria, B. C., this 23rd day of October, 1930.

CHINA, RUSSIA AGAIN HOSTILE

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29. (AP)—The breakdown of negotiations at Moscow for settlement of the dispute over the Chinese Eastern railway has resulted in armed demonstrations by China and Russia along the Manchurian-Siberian border.

These were similar to demonstrations which caused fighting and invasion of Manchuria by Russian soldiers in November and Decembe. last year, Chinese press dispatches from Harbin said.

Two battalions of infantry and one of artillery were reported ordered by Manchuria to patrol the Siberian border near Manchili, Northwestern Manchuria.

The movement was said to have been ordered because "for several days Soviet troops with bombing airplanes have been demonstrating and new barracks are being erected in border towns."

BOTH HAVE SAME HOBBIES

Lady Elphinstone, the Duchess of York's eldest sister, who recently entertained the Queen at Carberry Tower, has much in common with her royal guest. Her two great hobbies are gardening and needlework, which might also be said to be two of Queen Mary's principal interests. They have long discussions on growing flowers and the Queen is always shown the latest developments in the garden and the most recent pieces of work that her accomplished hostess has done. Lady Elphinstone possesses a most interesting botancial library containing some very rare flower books long ago out of print.

FIVE-CENT-PER-BUSHEL REDUCTION IN INITIAL PAYMENT ON BARLEY IS ANNOUNCED BY THE CANADIAN POOL

Applies All Malting Grades; Payment in Spreads Narrowed

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29—(CP)— A five-cent-per-bushel reduction in the initial payment on barley was announced late today by the central selling agency of the Canadian wheat pool. Initial payment on the basis of No. 3 C. W. barley at Fort William will thus amount to 20 cents a bushel on and after Friday, October 31.

The reduction applies to all the malting grades of two-rowed, six-rowed and Trebi barley and No. 3 C. W. payment spreads on the lower grades have been arrowed somewhat and are as follows: No. 4 C. W. initial payment 17 cents; No. 5 C. W. 16 cents; No. 6 C. W. 14 cents, with a minimum payment of 12 cents a bushel on lower grades.

The pool's initial payment was appreciably higher than the street prices paid by the trade for barley, it is pointed out by the coarse grains committee of the central board, in explaining the reduction. Since the recent slump in barley prices prices quoted have been particularly lower than the higher grades produced in Manitoba. This, and "increasing deliveries of barley to the pool made it absolutely necessary to reduce the initial payment," the pool announcement said.

DEPENDABLE CANADIAN EGGS

Where eggs were anything but a dependable article of diet twelve or fifteen years ago, today Canadian eggs of the higher grades are looked upon as quite safe to offer anyone for breakfast and need not be broken before coming to the table.

NEW DUTY ON TOMATOES IN EFFECT SOON

OTTAWA, Oct. 29—(CP)—By an order of the minister of national revenue issued today the fixed value for duty now placed on tomatoes will expire November 1. Under a former order the value on tomatoes for duty purposes was placed at five cents per pound. After November 1 duty will be imposed on the basis on the normal or current market value.

LITTLE CHANGE, TORONTO MARKET

Listed Stocks Featureless; Four Penny Stocks Bring Interest

TORONTO, Oct. 29— Specialized trading in four of the penny stocks brought renewed interest to the Standard Stock and Mining exchange today. Listed stocks as a whole, however, were featureless with the majority closing unchanged. In the leading golf issues the range had an edge of weakness, while oils and base metal stocks moved into a firmer position. Sales totalled 331,241 shares.

Clericy, with 131,000 shares traded, continued to move upward in price gaining 1½c to 11c. Acme Gas lost a fraction to 40½c. Merland Oil gained 3 points to 18c. Nordon rose 15c to 75c.

Both International Nickel and Noranda closed unchanged at 18.50 and $17.00 respectively. Base metals gained 35c to $1.35 and Falconbridge moved up 5c to $1.50.

Lake Shore dropped 65c to $21.10, McIntyre fell 20c to $17.80 and Teck Hughes lost 10c to $6.10. Dome Mines moved up 35c to $8.60.

British American Oil rose 25c to $15.90. and International Petroleum recovered 10c to $15.00, while Imperial fell 25c to $17.10 and Home lost 10c to $2.40. Calgary and Edmonton moved up 5 points to 65c.

TENDERS CALLED FOR NEW WHARF TO SERVE KASLO

Estimated Cost Pile Bent Structure Put at $40,000

Tenders are being called for the construction of a new wharf at Kaslo, to replace the present structure.

P. E. Doncaster, district engineer of federal public works, stated yesterday that the estimated cost of the projected new structure was $40,000.

The new wharf will be of the pile bent or stationedy type, with a creosoted timber superstructure.

Tenders must be received at Ottawa by noon on November 21.

NELSON ENJOYS INDIAN SUMMER

Indian summer weather still favored Nelson yesterday, with bright sunshine for most of the day, and a high extreme of 48 degrees. The customary frost, six degrees in extent, preceded, the minimum reading for the 24 hours ending Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock being 26 degrees.

Bureau Statistics Seeks Information on Local Concerns

That an effort is being made to compile facts regarding Nelson's new business concerns for the Dominion bureau of statistics, is the information contained in a letter recently received by Fred A. Starkey, commissioner of the Associated boards of trade of eastern British Columbia, from J. C. McPherson, of the census of industry division at Ottawa.

Mr. McPherson writes asking Mr. Starkey to send a list of the new concerns which began in 1929 or 1930, or any reorganized firm or corporation. Mr. Starkey is making up a list to send in and he expects it to be a full one.

C. P. R., GAINS ON TORONTO MARKET

C. G. E. Loses 1¼ Steel of Canada Also in Losing Column

TORONTO, Oct. 29—With one or two exceptions trading continued dull on the Toronto stock exchange today, the losses having a slight majority over gains.

In Walker where 9000 shares were traded a gain of ⅝ to close at 7½ appeared to be attributable to the expectation of better earings from now on. McColl swung sharply up to 19½, but later eased off and closed at 17¾ where its gain was 3⅜.

International Nickel rose 1⅛ to close at 18½. Noranda eased off to $17.00 with a net loss of .75. Brazilian Traction was off ¼ at 26¾ and Canadian General Electric preferred lost 1½ to 61. C.P.R. at 43⅞ was up the fraction. Canada Power and Power Corporation gained ¼ each while Shawinigan was off 1.

Steel of Canada lost ¾ to 39 while the preferred gained 1¾ to 36¾. Ford of Canada "A" gained ¼ to 21. British American was unchanged at 15½, Imperial was off ⅛ at 17 and Pete was unchanged at 15½.

Total sales 24,387 shares.

BIG MISSOURI IS DOWN AT COAST

Drops 1 1-2 Cents; Little or Nothing Doing on the Exchange

VANCOUVER, Oct. 29—With the exception of a buying flurry in Merland which sent that issue up 3½ cents to .17½, there was little or nothing doing on the Vancouver stock exchange today. Reports that an English syndicate was interested in the well accounted for the sudden interest taken in the issue. On a small afternoon turnover, Eastcrest jumped 2 cents to .74. On a sale of 100 shares, Home Oil dropped 5 cents to 2.40, while Big Missouri led the mines with a loss of 1½ cents to .40½.

OCTOBER WHEAT FALLS BACK TO 71 3-4, WINNIPEG

Late Session Selling Turns Earlier Gains Into Losses

WINNIPEG, Oct. 29—(CP)—Late-session selling stole into the Winnipeg wheat market today and turned encouraging gains into fractional losses. Steadied by reports of firmness at Liverpool, the market reacted gently to generous buying in early trading and clung steadfastly to the advance while the rally was in progress. Sellers appeared in the final half-hour, promptly turning the trend downward. Losses ranged from ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel.

October wheat, which has only two more days of life on the quotations board, fell back ½ cent to 71¼ cents. November was off ½ to ⅝ cent closing at the same level as October. December dropped ⅜ to ¼ to finish at 72¾ to ½ cent and May, down ⅜, finished at 78⅛ cents.

Traders were shy of the cash market. Coarse grains quoted remained virtually unchanged in light trading.

GRAINS WEAKEN CHICAGO MARKET

Broadening of Movement of Corn Has a Bearish Effect on Prices

(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, Oct. 29—Indications of at least a seasonal broadening of the movement of corn to market centers had a bearish effect on all grain prices today. The influence of downturns of corn values evoked by lower quotations on securities.

The corn market closed weak at the day's level, 1¼ to 2¼c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish, wheat closed heavy, ⅞ to 1⅜c down, oats ⅛ to ⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

KEEP WINDOWS OPEN IS URGE

Indoor Workers Need Good Air Supply to Get Real Night's Rest

LONDON, Oct. 29—Now that the colder weather has arrived, the controversy about open windows will begin afresh, writes the medical correspondent in the Daily Mail.

In railway carriages, offices, and homes the "fresh-air fiend" does battle with his draughts-hating enemy—often to the accompaniment of angry looks and hard words.

Frequently the result is a compromise—the window being so adjusted that while satisfying the rest of the community it fails to please either of the combatants.

From the health point of view, a draught of cold air is as much to be avoided as the breathing of a vitiated atmosphere. The ideal should be to have indoors, the maximum of fresh aid that is consistent with comfort.

ARE NOT "FIENDS"

Unfortunately, opinion as to what does constitute comfort generally makes us err on the side of closed windows rather than open. A nation which designates as a "fiend" anyone who likes the windows open seems clearly to stand in need of more fresh air.

It should be obvious to everyone that, as indoor workers, we get far too little fresh air in the daytime, moreover, few of us take the opportunity of making up for this by getting as much as we can get at night. During waking hours windows may be closed to avoid discomfort, but when we are in bed there is no such excuse for shirking fresh air.

Anyone who has made a practice of sleeping out of doors will testify to the good effects of fresh air at night. Sleep comes easily and quickly, and one wakes refreshed, with a fine appetite for breakfast.

The more air we have for our night's rest the better we shall feel, and we can reap plenty of benefit in this way without having to sleep outside.

Let us, therefore open windows as wide as comfort will allow by day, and enlist under the standard of the "fresh-air fiend" when we go to bed.

STRIKERS RETURN WORK IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Oct. 29—(AP)—Chancellor Bruening's government, following up its political victory in the reichstag recently, yesterday scored a vital victory in its struggle with the menace of industrial unrest by inducing 126,000 striking metal workers to accept arbitration of a wage dispute with their employers.

The workers, who downed their tools on October 15 in protest against an 8 per cent wage cut, will resume work immediately at the old wage scale, but have agreed to accept as binding the final decision of a neutral arbitration board. The decision is to be announced before November 10.

Canadian Railway Earnings Decrease

OTTAWA, Oct. 29—(CP)—Canadian railways earned $38,803,632 during the month of August this year as compared with $45,616,712 in the same month last year, according to figures compiled by the bureau of statistics. The decrease of $6,813,070 amounted to 14.9 per cent. Freight traffic fell off by 9.2 per cent and passenger traffic by 19.5 per cent less than in August, 1929. The number of employees was 173,977, a reduction of 15,313 or 8.1 per cent from last year.

B. C. POWER IS UP, MONTREAL

Market Continues to Give a Firm Display; Sales Volume Up

MONTREAL, Oct. 29—The Montreal stock exchange continued to give a firm display today, with McColl Frontenac featuring the session with a 4½-point advance to 19½, while the balance of the list moved within the narrow area that has been the market's characteristic for some days past. The action of the local list was in its stability in marked contrast with New York where barely steady trends prevailed from opening to close.

Sales volume, while showing a moderate expansion over yesterday, was still comparatively light. Total sales were 23,711 shares.

Closing prices included: Dominion Bridge, 1½ higher at 58½, Hamilton Bridge, 1½ higher at 18½, ex-dividend; Dryden Paper off ¼ at 5½; B. C. Power, up ½ at 36½.

Trading Slightest Since Mid-Summer but Markets at Old Tricks

(By John L. Colley, Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29—The stock market's slender gains on Monday and Tuesday evaporated today in a simmer of selling led by such fuel as declines in steel production and car loading and several dividend reductions.

Trading was inactive—sales of 1,673,000 shares were the smallest since mid-summer—but the market was back to its old trick, so frequently seen this year, of sagging on dullness. One lone rally in the afternoon, led by copper shares, suggested that the shorts had become nervous over their failure to bring out any stock.

Eastman Kodak dropped 10½ points to the accompaniment of rumors of wage cuts and curtailment in working force. All such reports were promptly and officially denied.

U. S. Steel's reaction to the 3 per cent drop in the industry's ingot production as well as the failure of the corporation to vote an extra dividend, was a 4 point decline. Bethlehem and Vanadium were also soft, losing near 3 each. Radio "B" preferred broke 6 points and Missouri Kansas Texas preferred 8½, although the latter recovered 5 of its loss.

The day's losses in 90 leading issues amounted to 2.4 points, which slightly more than cancelled the gains earlier in the week. American Can, Union Carbide, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, National Biscuit, Radio and General Electric yielded 1 to 2 and Westinghouse 3½ in the industrial description, Allied Chemical was off 5 and Eastman Kodak reduced its extreme loss to 8 points. American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American and Electric Power and Light sagged moderately.

B. C. Alberta Oils

B. C. Alberta Oils, Limited, N.P.L., expect to start drilling in the Fraser Valley before long, near Abbotsford, B. C., where they have over 5000 Acres selected oil leases.

This field, which lies partly in Washington and partly in British Columbia, is fast becoming the scene of great activity, already some seven or eight wells are drilling or getting ready to drill and it is quite possible there will be twice as many wells drilling in the near future.

Gas has been struck at a very shallow depth in different parts of the field and oil should be reached around 2000 to 2500 feet.

REV. MR. YOLLAND DIES AT COAST, SHORT ILLNESS

Pioneer Church Worker in Province; Ordained in 1991

SPENT YEARS IN EAST KOOTENAY

Resigned Church Work in Trail in 1926 Owing to Ill-Health

TRAIL, B. C., Oct. 29—Rev. Field Yolland, pioneer in church work in British Columbia, and formerly rector of St. Andrew's church here, died Monday morning in Vancouver following a short illness. Mr. Yolland had been in ill health for several years but for the past 12 months seemed considerably improved. His death was quite sudden. He had been living in the Okanagan, at Summerland and Oliver.

Ordained deacon in 1891, by Rt. Rev. A. W. Sillitoe, first bishop of New Westminster, Mr. Yolland became priest in 1892 in Vancouver.

For two years Mr. Yolland was St. James parish, Vancouver, and in 1893 became vicar of Ashcroft, where he remained until 1897.

For two years r. Yolland was rector of St. Barnabas, New Westminster, going from there to missionary work in the Cariboo, part of the present diocese of New Westminster.

IN EAST KOOTENAY

Several years were spent in Golden, were Mr. Yolland was vicar, and in Fernie, where he was rector. In 1920 he came to Trail and was rector here for six years, resigning in 1926, owing to ill health. He was appointed vicar of Rossland but moved to the Okanagan hoping that the change of climate would be beneficial to his health.

Until last year, Mr. Yolland was unable to do active work, but believing his health sufficiently improved, he accepted an appointment as vicar of Oliver. He resigned from this appointment only a week ago.

HELPS MAKE HISTORY

Mr. Yolland is credited with helping to make Anglican church history in British Columbia, and his death will be mourned not only in the parishes he has served but by the church throughout the whole province. His great organizing ability was a gift greatly needed and appreciated in the early days in the west.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Penticton, and his passing will be marked at St. Andrew's, Trail, next Sunday.

BORN IN WALES

Mr. Yolland, who was in his sixty-fifth year, was born in Wales. He married in Vancouver in 1896.

He is survived by Mrs. Yolland and eight children: Miss A. Yolland of Vancouver; Mrs. Charles Manifold of Taber, Alta., Mrs. W. Holdsworth of Taber, Alta., Mrs. H. J. Tugwood of Trail; Thomas H. of Trail; Clifford A. now at the University of British Columbia, Vancouver; Harry of Kimberley; and Jack, who is with his mother at Penticton.

BURKE REACHED LIARD BUT WAS LOST ON RETURN

Such Is Report of Search Pilot After Visiting Liard Post

ATLIN, B. C., Oct. 30—(CP)—Captain E. J. A. Burke, Vancouver aviator missing for 17 days on a flight to Liard post in the Liard river district of British Columbia with two passengers, reached his destination safely, and left the post on his return flight here October 11. This information was reported here late today in a report received from Frank Dorbandt, American aviator, who left Atlin, Monday to search for the missng trio. Dorbandt tonight was stranded on Paddy's lake, 50 miles south of here, where he was forced to land last night because of a shortage of gasoline.

Dorbandt today sent word from Paddy's lake that he had reached Liard post yesterday and had learned that Captain Burke had made his objective safely, and had hopped off on his return flight to Atlin on October 11. He had been seen 50 miles from the post going strong. Weather conditions on October 11 in the Atlin district were cloudy with poor visibility.

Gasoline was being rushed to Dorbandt tonight from here and as soon as weather conditions permit he will return here, it is expected. Today it was raining and visibility was poor in the Atlin district.

RECORD WORK FOR 41 CLAIMS HERE

Assessment Work on Mining Properties Amounts to $4100 in District

Assessment work was recorded for approximately 41 mines during the month at the local government mining record office, representing a value of over $4100 having been expended on claims in the district. One claim has clearance work for three years. A sum equal to, or greater than the $100 for yearly assessment work, has been expended on surveying each of three Ymir properties, registered under A. L. Purdy's name.

The greatest number of claims to receive work were registered by Sarkis Terzian, Numbering nine in all and representing an expenditure of $900. Four were registered by Alex Carrie, four by A. L. Purdy, and four by W. B. McCreath.

NEW LINOLEUM

New linoleum should be cut and laid at least three weeks before it is nailed to the floor, to prevent bulging. Only places that are apt to be kicked or broken should then be tacked. A word of warning to the inexperienced, the laying of linoleum is not an easy job and, to me, well worth the price of having it laid.

THREE TORIES AND ONE LIBERAL ARE ELECTED, ONTARIO

Hipel, Liberal, Wins Waterloo South Seat From Conservatives

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29. (CP)—One Liberal gain from the Conservatives and three Conservative seats unchanged was the result today of the four by-elections for seats in the Ontario legislature made vacant by death or resignation of members. Lanark South, Nipissing and Perth South elected Conservative government candidates, while Waterloo South was redeemed by the Liberals.

Waterloo South was the surprise of the day, while the Liberal-Progressive candidate in Perth had been conceded a chance to win it was generally expected that government would hold the seat. Two hours after the polls closed it was announced M. M. Donald, the Conservative candidate in Waterloo South, had a majority of nearly 900 and his election practically assured. Results from late reporting rural polls turned the tide, however, and the latest figures tonight give N. O. Hipel, Liberal, a majority of 74 with prospect of an increase to 150.

Waterloo South at the last general election elected Karl Homuth, Conservative, who resigned to run unsuccssfully for the house of commons.

Lanark returned E. R. Stedman, Conservative, who was elected for the same seat in 1926. Mr. Stedman in the present contest had two opponents—W. G. Ferguson and Richard Running, both named as Independents. Mr. Stedman's majority is given at 1000, return incomplete.

Charles R. Harrison, a railway conductor, held Nipissing for the Conservative government. Mr. Harrison had a majority of 3000 over his Liberal opponent, J. H. Marceamyu.

During the campaign the heavy artillery of the parties was particularly active in Perth South, where Charles E. Richardson today held the seat for the Conservatives with a vote of 3960 as compared with 3740 for his Liberal-Progressive opponent, George S. Keith, with one poll to hear from.

NEWMAN STILL LEADS IN THE BILLIARD PLAY

LONDON, Oct. 29. (Canadian Press Cable)—Tom Newman is still leading the quartet of billiard experts competing in the third match of the international professional tournament. At the close of today's play Newman had 12,627 points, Joe Davies, the English champion, 10,542 points, Clarke McConachy, in play, 9794, and Walter Lindrum, the Australian wizard of the cue, 7890.

In the third match of the tournament, as in the preceding two, Lindrum gave away 7000 points to each of his three opponents. Newman made a break today of 1136, falling, however, to equal Lindrum's brilliant break of 1472 points yesterday.

PREPARATION FOR HALLOWE'EN ON IN MANY DIRECTIONS

Bonfire Piles Being Built Today; Also All the "Plant"

MANY EFFIGIES ARE PROMISED

Parade Arrangements Are Completed; Schools Devise Acts

With Nelson's community Hallowe'en celebration only 36 hours distant, physical preparations will be launched in every quarter this morning.

MATERIAL FOR BONFIRES

Hauling of combustibles for the three monster bonfires will be one of the day's features. All citizens having packing cases, old building materials, dry brush, or other combustible rubbish to get rid of are invited to deposit them at the Recreation grounds, where city employees will be on hand to take charge of them and incorporate them in the piles for burning.

"Properties" for some of the evening's events will probably also begin to make their appearance.

Erection of platforms for the platform program, and the stringing of wires for special lighting which is being arranged by City Electrical Engineer W. D. Fleet, are also on today's program.

The schools have risen nobly to the call for platform acts—Central school is stated to have four—but it has been decided by City Engineer B. C. Affleck that two platforms will be suficient, as the platforms and the bonfires are being so arranged that the audience will be able to keep warm without difficulty.

EFFIGIES ASSURED

A hearty response to the call for effigies was made yesterday, and it is now assured that there will be several to be burned. This meets the condition set by Mr. Affleck, and accordingly there will be a special arrangement for burning one effigy at a time at the central bonfire. If sufficient are forthcoming, the cremation of them may last throughout the program. A wire loop should be incorporated in each effigy for comment suspension.

Final arrangements have been made with regard to the parade, and detailed orders will be made public tomorrow for all units.

PARADE ARRANGEMENTS

Hume school assembles on its own grounds, and at approximately 7:20, played by the Canadian Legion Bugle band, starts for the Canadian Legion, which this year is the general rendezvous. The high school and the Convent both assemble on Mill street, the high school coming after the Convent, which will be led by the Kootenay Kilties pipe band. Central school assembles on its own grounds, and led by the City band, leads the other hill units down Stanley street, to take position next the Hume.

When the full parade has once been formed, the line of march will be by Victoria, Kootenay, Baker, Josephine, Vernon, Ward and Lake streets to the Recreation grounds, at the gates of which a detail from the Canadian Legion will distribute the city's gift to the young folks.

All paraders are expected to wear some form of Hallowe'en disguise or costume, and to carry implements of noise.

MUST NOT PARK ON ROUTE

While the parade is on, it will have the right-of-way over all traffic, and will have the exclusive possession of the street through which it passes. As in other years, no cars will be permitted to park on any portion of the official route, in order that the general public standing on the sidewalks along the route may have an unobstructed view.

Floats and effigies must be either carried by paraders or be handdrawn, as safety considerations bar motor vehicles.

For a similar reason motor-cars are necessarily excluded from the Recreation grounds, where in combination with the bonfires they would constitute an element of danger, and where thousands of people, including some 1200 children, will be on foot.

BROKERS GIVEN BIG INCREASES, SALARY, TORONTO

Such Is Testimony of Witness at Trial; Short Eight Million

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 29.—On February 28, 1929, D. S. Paterson and company attained a short position of $8,301,289.07, that being the highest in the firm's history, Roderick Wright, comptroller of the firm, stated today during the trial of D. S. Paterson, Austin Campbell and Edgar McLean, on charges of conspiring to defraud the public and affect the price of stocks.

He later explained, under cross-examination, that this short position was at the book value, not the credit balances in the various stock market value, being the total of the accounts and trading accounts. At that particular time the book value would be very much higher than the market value, he said, probably twice as much.

Just before that short position was reached, the salaries of $100,000 and $75,000 were voted D. S. Paterson and Austin Campbell on February 4, at a meeting attended by D. S. Paterson, A. C. Campbell, a Mr. Chambers and J. A. S. Paterson. Before that each received $200 a week. Then on July 27, these salaries were given another boost, Paterson being voted an annual salary of $160,000 as well as an honorarium of $30,000 on the organization of the new company, and the use of a drawing account which totalled over $140,000. it was claimed. At the same time Campbell was given a salary of $124,000, honorarium of $25,000, and a drawing account as vice-president.

LLOYD GEORGE RAPS ONE AND ALL IN HOUSE

Lloyd George continued, with an air of great gravity, "and a physician is consulted, the verdict will be that it died of pernicious anaemia."

There were laughs as the Liberal chieftain pleaded for electoral reform. It was no laughing matter, returned "the little Welshman," for each Liberal member in the house now represented 90,000 voters, while the Labor members only represented 29,000 each.

"YOUR TURN NEXT"

"It may be your turn next," he warned the Laborites, "for parties on the full tide, though highly confident, may find it difficult not to run aground when the tide ebbs."

Then, as the debate on the speech from the throne proceeded, there rose up, from below the Labor gangway, Sir Oswald Mosley, the former Labor minister, who, soon after he had resigned the chancellorship of the duchy of Lancaster came close to scoring a victory over the government at the Llandudno labor conference.

Sir Oswald thought neither free trade nor protection offered a remedy for the present economic crisis. Both systems had failed. A wheat tariff, he argued, would be useless when the constant fluctuations of price were taken into account. The country needed a protecting wall of modern design rather than tariffs.

It was Mr. Lloyd George who introduced the matter the Palestine policy on the floor of the house, asking that the government's attitude be fully debated.

"The prime minister," said Mr. Lloyd George, "has said there is no departure in the recer white paper from the Palestine policy as it existed under previous governments. I can only say that if there is no departure in that policy, then it is most remarkable that the whole Jewish world should take exception to the colonial office statement."

W. K. GUNN NOW HEAD CLERK IN PUBLIC WORKS

Has Been With Department Since 1921; Went to School Here

W. K. Gunn, who has recently taken over the position of chief clerk in the office of the department of public works here, has been with that department since 1921. During the past six years he has been stationed at New Denver.

Mr. Gunn, who is the son of G. M. Gunn, one of Nelson's pioneers, was educated in Nelson schools. He is married and has one girl, six years old.

premonition that one day his ship would come in.

The news of his good fortune did not affect Mr. Swain particularly for he cannily refused to "count his chickens before they were hatched." On receiving the official confirmation of his good fortune he turned back to his pots and pans, smiling quietly, and stated that, "some folks are born lucky."

OTHER WINNERS

CUB BOWELL MADE BOY SCOUT HERE

Cubs Stage Play and Scouts Give Exhibition of Club Swinging

At a large gathering of Scouts, Cubs and their parents a "going up" ceremony was performed in the Memorial hall Tuesday evening. The occasion was to celebrate Cub Gordon Bowell's entry into the First Nelson Boy Scouts troup.

The Cubs put on a numerous skit for the occasion, entitled "Doing the Best for Mrs. Jenkins," and Boy Scouts gave a club swinging display. The scouts are planning a concert for the near future.

LIQUOR PROFITS DOWN

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 29—Government liquor store profits during the six-month period ending September 30, decreased more than $500,000 from profits of the same period in 1929, figures issued today revealed, profits from the period this year totalled $789,479.33, compared with $1,326,328.42 for the six-month period ending September 30, 1929, and $1,072,085.36 for the intervening period ending March 31, 1930.
