FLUSH OF PINK THROUGH GOWNS PLEASING EFFECT

Fifth of Million Paris Race-Goers Admire Dainty Poke-Bonnets at Grand Prix

HOOP SKIRTS SEEN BUT NOT DOMINANT

Toilettes So Decollete Would Be Barred on Bathing Beaches on This Side

PARIS, June 24.—Summer styles were easily the feature of the day at the Long Champs course, during the running of the Grand Prix de Paris today. It was really the first day of brilliant sunshine of the season to grace a feature event at a French race course. Summer furs of silver and blue foxes and white monkey adorned the necks of the dainty Parisiennes, who, with cobwebbed stockings, showed just a suspicion of the color of the skin beneath gowns of taffeta, with ruchings, and wearing poke "coal scuttle bonnets," attracted more of the attention of the 200,000 persons than did the quadrupeds on the race track.

Crinolines and Tom Thumb Shades

A reversion to the 1830 Louis Philippe styles—what Anglo-Saxons have been pleased to regard as early Victorian—cam out second best in the display. In this category they wore hoop skirts of flimsy material, topped with immense waists of the same design, and miniature umbrellas called "tom thumb shades."

Duck green, which had been the reigning color at the track during the entire spring season, today had to give way before an avalanche of white and mauve.

Most conspicuous among the summer styles was the difference in the "decolette". Last year 90 per cent of the Parisen women who watched the running of the Grand Prix de Paris displayed bare arms up to the shoulders. This year arms were covered, but shoulders were exposed to such an extent that it caused one clerical-looking United States tourist to mutter:

"Some of these dresses would never pass the muster of the beach censor at Atlantic City, or many of the Long Island resorts."

Flappers are Bobbed

At the track, the "flappers" were in pink, paisley or flimsy dresses, bare heads and with bobbed hair. Short skirts were few.

President and Mme. Millerand were interested spectators of the fashions, and the race.

CATERPILLARS HOLD UP THE NATIONAL TRAIN

In New Brunswick Ocean Limited Loses Four Hours on the Up Grades

MONCTON, N. B., June 24.—Saturday's Canadian National Ocean Limited, from Montreal, was delayed four hours between Bathurst and Newcastle by the swarming caterpillars, which have been giving a lot of trouble on certain sections of New Brunswick's railways of late.

Near Bartibog river, sectionmen, train hands, and soldiers on the Ocean Limited, were used in sweeping the insects from the rails, before the engine could pull the rain up the grade. At some points the rails were completely covered with caterpillars, the pests being the worst experienced in recent years.

BRITISH PAPERS WAX SARCASTIC ON BOOZE BAN

See British Rights Trampled Upon in Volstead Act Regulation

DEMAND GOVERNMENT TAKE ACTIVE STEPS

Shipping Circles Increase Pressure; Foreign Office Will Probably Act

LONDON, June 26.—No subject in recent days had occupied more of the attention of the British newspapers or offered a better topic for animated discussion than the liquor seizures in New York.

The London newspapers seldom before have printed so many dispatches under United States date lines, and the greater majority of these relate to the liquor confiscation. The items are variously captioned.

Devote Pages to It

"Dry comedy in the United Staes," "Meddling with our ships," "The Prohibition farce," The wet liner absurdity," "Making the Atlantic Dry," and "America's dilemma."

The week-end editorials are couched in sarcastic vein. Some of them manifest resentment, and others are severely critical. All of them are eager to know what will be gained by a "test" case, and whether the seizures will continue. Some of the writers take the British government sharply to task for what is characterized as its passive attitude, and its apparent intention to make the steamship companies fight out the issue with the United States government.

Some of the newspapers take a stronger view of the situation, and say the issue may lead to grave international complications unless the United States relaxes its ridiculous law.

International Discord"

The Sunday Times declares:

"If the British government does nothing, then we practically invite Washington to trample upon British rights and the amenities of civilized existence. In a few years the Americans may ban tobacco, or diaphanous blouses, or some other target of the reformers' wrath, but if the Americans try to force prohibitions that happen to appeal to their taste or morals upon foreigners whose habits and predelictions run in the opposite direction, then they deliberately are sowing the seeds of international discord."

The Sunday Pictorial champions the cause of the "many Britons who pride themselves in living in the freest state and most democratic country in the world, and who resent America's action as an invasion of their liberty. We don't think prohibition should be forced upon us, either in our ships or in our homes."

Liners Sail Full Stocked

The Homeric, Belgenland, Laconia, and several other transatlantic liners are to sail this week, and their captains are evidently to run the risk of having their wet stores confiscated.

Shipping corporations are bringing renewed pressure to bear on the British government, and it is considered likely the foreign office will make further representations to Washington on the liquor situation.

LLOYD GEORGE FRIEND TO THE VOLSTEAD ACT

Former Premier Says Britons Should View Sympathetically Effort to Deal With Great Curse

LONDON, June 24.—Addressing a large congregation in the Welsh Baptist church here today, former Premier David Lloyd George made some interesting observations regarding the prohibition situation in the United States. During his discourse he made it apparent that he did not share the views of certain of the British newspapers concerning the lack of right of the United States authorities to seize British liquor stores aboard ships.

"I hope we won't get excited over the seizure of liquor in New York harbor," said Mr. Lloyd George. "It is not merely that America seems to be well within her rights, but I think we ought to extend a certain measure of sympathy to her in her difficulties.

"America is making a very bold experiment to deal with probably the greatest curse of modern civilization.

"It is all very well for us to say that all this liquor is merely for our own salors aboard ships. I do not say this with regard to any particular ship—it may not be so. But, speaking generally, there is no doubt fortunes have been made by smuggling liquor into the United States in defiance of a law which was passed by a greater majority than almost any other great law in any other country.

"Give it a fair trial. I do not say the experiment will succeed. It is just possible that America may have to modify it. It is in the interest of civilization that they be allowed full time to test this effort to solve a problem which is just as much ours as theirs."

Several Houses in Toronto Are Struck; Nobody Is Injured

TORONTO, June 24.—Half a dozen houses were struck by lightning and set afire during the storm which visited the city Saturday night. In each case the flames were extinguished before making much headway. All the occupants of the damage houses escaped injury.

The downfall of rain was the heaviest of the year in Toronto district.

SOUTH AFRICA REOPENS TOPIC OF PREFERENCE

Smuts Says Present Policy Works for British Producer Against Dominions

DOMINIONS WILL DEMAND REVISION

Union Will Appoint Trade Commissioner for Canada and the States

CAPETOWN, South Africa, June 23.—In the Union house of assembly Saturday, Premier Smuts initiated a discussion regarding the agenda of the imperial economic conference to be held in October. He declared that imperial preference, up to the present, has been largely to the advantage of the British rather than the dominions' producers, and he felt sure the question of the imperial preference would be raised.

Will Welcome Tariff Assistance.

The position which South Africa would adopt, he said, would be to welcome any assistance which the British people could give in the way of preference to South Africa's products, and also any widening of the field of tariff preference which could be given to her producers.

Premier Smuts pointed out that, owing to the British fiscal policy, the field of preference was limited and that was where the issue would arise. Australia and New Zealand were going to press very strongly for a very much stronger measure of preference for their products by Great Britain.

The premier foreshadowed substantial exports of dried fruits from South Africa, which would have to meet competition from the continent in the British market. South Africa, said the premier, was not going to press the British government to change its fiscal policy. With reference to the fiscal policy in general South Africa would adopt the same line as Canada had done.

Will Reserve Free Hand on Markets.

He emphasized that the development of South Africa would require the widest expansion of her markets all over the world, and whatever arrangements they might make at the conference would not be of an exclusive character.

Dealing with shipping and communications, Mr. Smuts pointed out that faster communications were needed within the Empire, but, owing to the difficulty of dealing with the question of shipping, they must await proposals the British government would make at the conference.

The premier paid tribute to the work of the trade commission and the commissioner for commerce. He foreshadowed the appointment of a commissioner for Canada and the United States.

Aetna Refugees Start Refitting Dismantled Homes

CATANIA, June 24. — The crater of Mount Aetna is still rumbling, but the streams of lava are rapidly decreasing in volume and speed.

The situation in the afflicted district is gradually becoming normal, the people have resumed their work and many are engaged in refitting their dismantled houses.

Man Drowns While Swimming a Horse

GRAVELBOURG, Sask., June 25.—Late tonight, search parties had failed to find the body of Reno Careau, who drowned in the Wood river Saturday afternoon. He is believed to have fallen into the river while endeavoring to swim a horse across it.

VOLUNTARYISM THE NEXT STEP SAYS MR. WOOD

Marketing Organization With Long Term Contracts Will Take Long to Form

CALGARY, June 24.—Plans for placing in operation a voluntary pool for the centralized marketing of wheat in Alberta and Saskatchewan, will be the next step in the prolonged wheat board negotiations, which have now extended over a period of more than two years. This was the opinion expressed last night by H.W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, who returned to Calgary Saturday after attending conferences on the wheat board in Winnipeg, which ended in failure to organize. Formation of the voluntary pool will not take place this year, however, Mr. Wood said.

Mr. Wood did not say whether this meant that the scheme of forming a compulsory wheat board would forever be abandoned. He merely said that in his opinion a voluntary pool plan would be the next logical step in the process of ultimately attaining centralized marketing of primary products.

"Contracts with farmers would be necessary to ensure success of the plan, would they not?" he was asked.

Southern Pools Rigid.

"Yes," replied Mr. Wood, "I understand that in the Texas and Oklahoma pools, contracts were obtained with farmers to market their product under the voluntary pool plan for a number of years. I believe the same system is utilized in the tobacco pool. Thus, the formation and organization of a voluntary pool would be much more different than a compulsory board, and would take more time."

Mr. Wood however, was confident that ultimateley a plan would be devised and placed in operation for the centralization of wheat selling. While there is life there is hope, and while there is life, there is necessity, Mr. Wood said, and efforts would continue unabated.

Mr. Wood said naturally he was disappointed at the defeat of the wheat board plan, saying that the fact that suitable men could not be obtained, was responsible for the failure. It was suggested that as Manitoba was not in the scheme, and that trading in futures would continue on the floor of the Winnipeg Grain exchange irregardless of what action Alberta and Saskatchewan took this might have influenced grain men approached on the wheat board proposition, and Mr. Wood agreed.

Wheat will probably be lower in price this year than last, Mr. Wood said, when asked regarding what the possible effect the collapse of the board plans would have on prices. Grain men with whom Mr. Wood had talked were also of this opinion. The fact that the crop in Alberta probably would be greater this year than for many years in the past, would exert a bearish influence on the market also, he said.

McDougall & McCharles Receive Two Contracts From the Government

VICTORIA, June 24. — Contract for a new school at Balfour has been let to McCharles & McDougall for $3000, and a bridge on the Nelson-Ymir road to the same firm for $4000, it was announced Saturday.

French Liner Will Test Volstead Act

PLYMOUTH, England, June 24.—Like her sister ships and the Gdtish liners the French steamer La France left today for New York with reduced liquor supplies. Her captian intends to test the new American law. His ship carries a considerable quantity of liquor under seal, intended for the eastbound voyage.

ALL RUHR COAL HELD AT ORDER OF DE GOUTTE

New Decree Says Commission May Requisition It for Reparations

IF REQUISTIONED MUST BE UNTOUCHED

Awesome Penalties Are Provided for Infractions of the Regulations

DUSSELDORF, June 24.—General, De Goutte today issued an order of the day declaring that the interallied commission of control in the Ruhr has the power to requisition for account of the occupying powers all stocks of coal in mines, factories and other industtries in the Ruhr, in order to insure deliveries for the reparation account due the allies, as well as to insure the payment of coal taxes due from the exploitation of the mines.

Order Based on Treaty.

The order was based on part VII. of the Versailles treaty. It declares Germany violated this provision of the treaty by voluntarily reducing the producing of coal for the reparations account. The order says that from the date of a decision by the president of the interallied control commission to requisition any given stocks of coal, the coal may not be touched by anyone except through special authorization of the control commission.

This authorization can be given by the president of the control commission to factories and mines. The requests for authorization must be addressed to the control commission by a director of the concern seeking it, who must state what use is to be made of the coal it is desired to remove.

Penalties provide for a fine of twice the value of the entire stock requisitioned with a minimum limit of 100,000,000 marks, or imprisonment for five years, or both. The order will take effect immediately.

ONTARIO LOOKS FOR HUGE VOTE TODAY'S POLL

Liberals Oppose no Minister but Drury; Conservatives Lead in Lineup

TORONTO, June 24. — The 16th legislature of the province of Ontario will be elected tomorrow, when 289 candidates seek to enter the assembly in 109 constituencies. Two candidates—W. F. Nickle, K. C., Conservative, Kingston, and Peter Heenan, Labor, Kenora—have been elected by acclamation. Fine, warm weather throughout the province is forecast and, with keen interest being taken by the electorate, it is probable that a heavy, if not a record, vote will be polled.

The interest taken is recorded by the record number of candidates. Conservatives number 102; Liberals, 77; United Farmers, 75; Laborites, 21, and Independents, 14.

Straight fights are scheduled for 50 constituencies, and there will be a similar number of three-cornered contests. In seven ridings, four candidates are in the running, while in Port Arthur five are hopeful of success. To West Ottawa goes the honor of the greatest number, six persons seeking election in that constituency.

Extravagance Chief Issue

While there has been no great issue at stake in the long campaign, chief interest has been taken in charges of extravagance levelled at the United Farmer-Labor government, headed by Hon. E. C. Drury, by the parties in opposition, the Conservatives and Liberals, while the former have strongly criticized the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance act.

Vigorously defending the government against the allegation of extravagance, Premier Drury has claimed that the increase in the public debt has been brought about by nothing but necessary expenditures. Denial of charges made in connection with the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance act has been made principally by Hon. W Raney, attorney-general.

Hours of voting are 8 a. m. to 6 p. m., standard time. All the members of Premier Drury's cabinet have opposition, but the premier himself is the only one with a Liberal in the field against him The United Farmers are not opposing Wellington Hay, leader of the Liberal party, or Nelson Parliament, speaker of the house.

Ninty-five members of the last legislature are offering themselves for election.

In the event of no group having a clear minority in the next legislature, J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, believes the largest group will be called upon to form the next government.

In an interview tonight he stated that the precedent of 1919 should be followed, and the leader with the most followers behind him should be the next premier.

LIQUOR VOTE IN MANITOBA IS UNCHANGED

Returns Since Friday Night Have Made No Material Difference in Majority

WINNIPEG, June 24. — Very little change in the large majority obtained in Friday's referendum in favor of the Moderation league's bill for the government control of liquor occurred over the week-end, according to the returns tabulated up till a late hour tonight, the majority resting at 32,714. This represents an increase of about 200 since Saturday afternoon, rural polls being responsible for the increase.

There are still 168 rural polls to report, it was shown, including one whole constituency, whence no returns have yet been received.

So far, 156,710 ballots have been counted, of which the Moderation league's bill was indorsed on 94,712, and opposed on 61,998. The Moderationists have obtained a majority of 6726 in the districts outside of Winnpeg, and 25,988 n the capital. The city polled 46,359 wet and 20,371 dry, and the outside vote 48,353 wet and 41,627 dry.

Dries and Wets

Of the constituencies from which complete returns have been received, in the wet column are, definitely: Assiniboia, Birtle, Brandon, Dauphin, Iberville, Morden, Rhineland, St. Boniface and Winnipeg while dry was voted by Arthur, Beautiful Plains, Cypress, Dufferin, Gilbert Plains, Glenwood, Hamiota, Killarney, Manitou, Minnedosa Portage La Prairie and St. George.

According to incomplete returns, the following went wet: Carillon, Ethelbert, Emerson, Fairford, Fisher, Kildonan and St. Andrews, Laverandrye, Norris, Roblin, Rockwood, Russell, St. Clements, Springfield and The Pas. Also on incomplete returns, 10 are dry: Deloraine, Gimli, Gladstone, Lakeside, Lansdowne, Mountain, Norfolk, Swan River, Turtle Mountain and Virden.

Michigan Convict, After Five-Day Siege, Is Captured, Riddled With Bullets

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 24.—George Natchoss, who escaped a week ago from the state penitentiary here, and who has been surrounded in a swamp between Maple Ridge and Escanaba since last Wednesday, was captured today. The man's body was riddled with bullets and doctors said there was slight chance for his recovery.

Natchoss had previously killed a deputy sheriff and wounded an official.

BRITISH, TURKS WILL SETTLE MOSUL ASIDE

If Nine Months Pass Without Settlement League Will Arbitrate It

ON OTHER QUESTIONS CONFERENCE NO BETTER

Companies Fail to Get Satisfaction on Their Pre-War Concessions

LAUSANNE, June 24. — The attempt Saturday by the allies and Turks to clarify the critical situation which has arisen in the near east conference was successful in one way, disastrous in another.

Turks Take Stand

Toward the end of the session, which lasted well in the night, the Turks announced that they could not discuss the problem of concessions at Lausanne until the question of the evacuation of foreign troops from Turkey and the question of the Ottoman debt were satisfactorily disposed of.

The meeting got nowhere in the big unsettled questions. An agreement was reached on one important point, namely that Great Britain and Turkey mutually agree to settle the Mosul controversy between themselves within nine months of the signature of peace, failing which Great Britain will bring the controversy to the League of Nations for settlement by arbitration.

Angora Parleys Fail

Five British companies doing business in Turkey, including the Vickers-Armstrong organization, have reported to the British delegation that they utterly failed in their Angora negotiations to make satsfactory arrangements with Turkey concerning the future status of their concessions.

This means that the British will stiffen in their stand at Lausanne that prewar concessons must be formally protected by the Lausanne treaty.

DELORME GOT AN AUTOMATIC

Priest Liked Weapon Better Than His Old One; Sister Breaks Down

MONTREAL, June 24. — A verdict in the case against Abbe Adelard Delorme, charged with the murder of his half brother Raoul, is expected at the end of this week.

Chief Justice Sir Francis Lemieux, presiding judge at the trial now in progress here, announced in court Saturday that there would be long sessions this week, and R. L. Calder, K. C., crown prosecutor, also stated that the crown hoped to end its case by Wednesday.

The evidence of Oscar Haynes, the gunsmith who sold an automatic revolver to Delorme, brought out the fact that the latter had not come purposely to buy a new revolver, but to fetch an old type weapon, which he had left at the shop to be repaired.

Haynes stated that Delorme had come to his shop on December, 29, 1921, and had agreed to buy the more modern weapon after he had seen it tested, and actually had tested it himself in Haynes' shooting gallery.

Lily Poor Witness on Time

In the evidence of Lily Delorme, the accused's sister, stress was laid by the prosecution on the question of time, to test the witness' ability. Mr. Calder unstrapped his own wrist watch and asked her to read the time from it. After some hesitation she replied, "11:15." At that time the clerk of the court showed that it was 10:40. The witness was, however, very nervous, and shortly afterward broke down and cried bitterly.

ONTARIO REPORTS NEW HEAT RECORDS

London Has Ninety-nine and Toronto Ninety-six; Fair Weather for Polling Day

TORONTO, June 24. — New heat records for the year were reported from various points of Ontario today. The temperature has been getting warmer for several days, apparently in sympathy with the rise of the political excitement, and the climax is promised by the weather man for tomorrow, when Ontario goes to the polls.

"Fair and decidedly warm," is the election day forecast for the whole province.

London topped the list today, with a mixtmum of 98, Toronto coming second, with 96.

Farther east the temperature was not so bad, Ottawa getting off with a high temperature of 82, and Kingston with 80.

There were electrical showers in various parts of Ontario Saturday, and considerable damage was done by lightning.

TWO DAYS' RAIN ALMOST INCH

Almost Four and Half Inches of Rainfall Recorded for This Month to Date

Saturday's and Sunday's rainfall totalled almost an inch, according to the report of the local weatherman, whose rain gauge registered .91 of an inch for the two days. Saturday's rainfall amounted to .37 of an inch, while yesterday's was .54 of an inch. This brings the grand total for the month to date as 4.4 inches. The rain has been general over the district, some sections, however, reporting a larger fall than in this city. Along South Slocan and Thrums way the rainfall, according to the farmers, has been greater there.

Another drop was recorded in the water of the West Arm, the drop being .5 of an inch. It now stands at 16.2 feet above the low water mark, according to the gauge at the boathouses. Ten years ago today the water fell 4½ inches over the week-end and the height was 16 feet 11 inches; and 20 years ago it fell exactly the same as over the past week-end.

The temperatures over the week-end were a little warmer.

Saturday — Minimum, 56 degrees; maximum, 67 degrees. Sunday — Minimum, 51 degrees; maximum, 65 degrees.

MASONS ATTEND SUNDAY SERVICE

Rev. Mr. Dredge of St. Paul's Church Delivers Address to Members of Local Lodge

About 75 members of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons from the Nelson lodge attended the Presbyterian church in a body last night.

Rev. F. R. J. Dredge welcomed the lodge, stating he was always glad to have the Mason's attend the church and listen to his sermon as their order had done such wonderful work in carrying Christianity to all parts of the world he hoped the order would continue its wonderful work.

There was a legend in the Masons that a cubical stone was once found on which was a divine name written in mystical writing. It was found by Jacob after he fled from his home and was carried into Egypt by him. It was taken to the land of Cain by Moses and later Zerubbubl used it as the corner stone in his second great temple.

All masons know the importance of the corner stone in a building and that it is laid first and the other stones are then placed around it" stated Rev. Dredge "Jesus Christ is the corner stone of Christianity and we his followers are the "stones" that are in the great building known as Christianity".

He stated that Jesus Christ as the corner stone of Christianity had been scrutinized by many people, just as a master mason scrutinizes a corner stone before it is laid but the people could find no flaw in Jesus Christ. The Jews had taken the Saviour and crucified him and put another one in his stead as the corner stone of religion this being their downfall, as without the presence of Jesus Christ Christianity was impossible.

The minister quoted the words of Napoleon when he was in exile on the the island, who said that Caesar, and many others including himself had built up great kingdoms through force, but Jesus had established a far greater kingdom through love, and that great kingdom was Christianity.

"Jesus Christ is the great co-ordinator in all the troubles of mankind and the only way to stop wars and subsequent suffering is to keep our trust in Jesus", he said. The great suffering of the late war could have been prevented if the nations had not forgot on the great teachings of Christ and taken them into view when war was imminent."

Rev. Mr. Dredge related the happenings of some sailors who were shipwrecked on an island in the south seas and seeing some natives thought that it was a cannible isle. One day, as one of the sailors was out looking for food he saw in the distance a church spire, and he knew that he and his fellowmen were safe because Christianity teaches men to love each other and thus strife was stopped.

Jesus Christ was also the corner stone of the Masons. The lodge could be no better either by oath of allegiance or ritual, for the order was what the members make it and thus the members should not forget their belief in Jesus Christ.

SHANS OF BURMA GIVE WEIRD DANCE

Federation States Are Inaugurated With Wonderful Spectacle of Torchlight Dancing

TAUNGGYI, Burma, June 24.—The recent inauguration of the federated Shan States was marked by a remarkable series of exhibition dances. These included tribal dances in which 24 of the hill tribes of Burma participated, as well as the famous animal and bird dances of the Shans.

The entertainment took place in a specially-built arena with over 5000 spectators in attendance. Brilliant and unusual lighting was a feature of the occasion. The thoroughfares leading to the arena were lined with huge lamps in the shape of lotus blossoms. The governor, Sir Harcourt Butler, was escorted to his place by 220 torchbearers, carring torches, 10 feet long and 1 foot thick, made of bamboo and pine chips.

In the opening parade some of the torches used were as much as 50 feet in height and required 50 or 60 men to carry them. Each torch was followed by several musicians who beat tom-toms and played weird instruments.

Of the tribal dances those of the Padaungs proved the most popular. The Padaungs are noted for the enormous rings they wear. The brass rings worn about the neck, arms and legs of one woman often weigh over 50 pounds. Those of the neck, amounting to about 15 pounds, are considered the most important. Their purpose is to elongate the neck. A girl starts wearing such rings from childhood; as the neck stretches, additional rings are added. The woman who has the longest neck is considered the most beautiful and the most to be desired as a wife.

The Shans in their dances disguised themselves as animals and birds. Buffaloes, elephants, tigers, bears and cocks were among those represented. A small dog which happened to stray into the arena was so frightened by one of the tigers that he hid his tail between his legs and awaited in terror the end which he thought was about to come.

The Shan States, rich in agricultural and mineral products, are in the northern part of Burma.

MEMBER OF HARDING PARTY IS KILLED

Car Goes Into Canyon While Newspapermen Take Mountain Trip While President is in Denver

DENVER, Colo., June 24.—Sumner Curtis of Washington, representative of the Republican national committee, accompanying President Harding's party on its western trip, and Thomas French, of Denver, were killed, and two other men seriously injured, when the automobile in which they were making a mountain tour plunged of the road into Bear Creek canyon, 35 miles from here, late today. French was driving the car.

The accident victims were members of a large party of newspaper correspondents, who, because President Harding was resting this afternoon, dropped their work, and took an excursion to the mountains as guests of the Denver Press club. President Harding was not with the party.

The steering gear of the car broke at the treacherous curve.

SEIZE LIQUORS ON BOARD THE BRITISH LINERS

United States Officers Take Wet Goods Off Berengaria and Baltic

NEW YORK, June 24. — Four trans-Atlantic passenger liners—two British, one French and one Italian—arrived at quarantine today, with large quantities of liquor under seal.

The manifest of the White Star liner Cedric, from Liverpool, showed, in the shape of wet stock, 7931 bottles of ale and stout; 1156 gallons on wine, 60 gallons of spirits, and seven gallons of liquors and cordials.

The British liner Caronia, the French liner Providence and Italian liner Conte Verdi all carried similar supplies of liquor.

All the Cedric's liquor was listed as surplus medical stores. The Conte Verdi had all her liquor under the care of the ship's surgeon.

None of the liners had their stores disturbed, but docked without interference.

United States authorities are expected to follow the same procedure as practiced on the Baltic and Berengaria Saturday, seizing all liquors above the amount set by Dr. E. K. Sprague, chief of the United States public health service, as necessary for medicinal purposes.

The first seizures of liquor from British liners Saturday occurred under spectacular curcumstances, the seizures being halted twice by mysterious telephone calls.

DID BRITAIN COACH CANADA ON REPLY?

New York Herald Suggests Canadian Refusal to Stop Liquor Export Proposed by Downing Street

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Herald in a special dispatch from Washington, undertakes to explain what was behind the Canadian government's refusal to stop the export of lijuor from Dominion soil to the United States.

British imperial policy, rather than the single will of the Canadian government, was behind the answer, the dispatch says. "Canada's answer was sent to Washington after prolonged discussion between Canadian officials and Downing street. Furthermore, it is stated that Washington has generally interpreted the Canadian answer as foreshadowing what Great Britain will say to "two definite proposals made by the United States asking English officials to aid in the suppression of smuggling. These proposals refer to the request for information of liquor consignments leaving British shores, and to the reciprocal treaty suggestions made by Secretary Hughes.

(It was recently reported from Washington that Secretary Hughes had suggested to the British government that if the latter would allow United States customs officials to search British ships for liquor beyond the three-mile limit, the United States would allow British liners to carry liquor into United States ports under seal.)

TRAIL BOARD HEARS BOWSER AT LUNCHEON

Asks Members to Boost Ties That Bind England and Canada

TRAIL, B.C., June 24. — In his address to the members of the Trail board of trade at a luncheon here on Saturday afternoon, W. J. Bowser, leader of the opposition for the province of British Columbia, stated that it was up to the board of trade members to do everything in their power to make the ties between England and Canada all the stronger, and to stop any suggestions which might lead to the breaking up of the Empire.

J. B. Gray, the president of the Trail board of trade, presided over the meeting, which was attended by 52 of the business men of the city. He welcomed Mr. Bowser, stating that the board had heard the premier, Hon John Oliver, and General McCrae of the Provincial party, and were pleased now to hear from the leader of the opposition.

The leader of the opposition was delighted to see so large a turnout of members of the board of trade at the banquet. The board had been addressed by Hon. John Oliver, the premier, an old, trusty opponent of his for many years, and possibly for many years to come. They had also heard General McRae, and now they were to hear from the lesser men. He hoped that they had had as fair an attendance as he.

He was glad that the people of Trail took so much interest in their city, especially in the establishing of a strong board of trade, which could produce so much good in putting forth suggestions to the higher powers for the establishment of various reforms. "As, when a nonparty body gets together for the better of the community it cannot help stating some reforms," said Mr. Bowser.

The world today was war sick; people thought that the millennium would dawn on the European and Anglo-Saxon races. This was not so; the world was in the grip of reactions and troublesome times; the people were dissatisfied and it was the duty of the local community to what it could to settle conditions.

"The people today are not normal, and until then there will not be prosperity," said Mr. Bowser. "Those in Canada could, however, do a great deal as they had a grand history and tradition."

A Splendid Heritage.

It was a glorious thing to be an Anglo-Saxon or a relative of the Anglo-Saxon. Many distracting times had been faced in the British house of commons owing to the Laborites, who were sitting for the first time. England would, however, come through unruffled. She had held peace until Germany had broken it, and as a result had offered aid and finance to the other European nations. When the was was concluded it looked as if there would be no success for centuries. England had not attempted to repudiate, and as a result the United States, which nation Mr. Bowser did not in any way wish to run down, whose object seemed to be the almighty dollar, asked for payment.

England had not pushed the other nations for their debts. She did, however, acknowledge her debt to the United States, and through the chancellor agreed to repay it in 60 years, with interest, not knowing when payments would be made to her by the other European nations. England had come through the crisis and at present showed a surplus of $500,000,000. This debt would be reduced this year, and it was Mr. Bowser's belief that the great strain of taxation and finance was practically over.

At present the center of exchange had moved from London, England, to New York, but in a short time he predicted it would change back to London.

The annual address of Sir Arthur Johnstone of the Bovril company, read by Mr. Bowser, suggested that if such a surplus as named above existed, the people should create a reserve fund for disposal to Canada for the development of the country, and it would be a great thing. He also suggested that the work of the support of the soldiers along the Rhine and the debt incurred should be wiped off.

An extract from the Chicago Tribune was also read by Mr. Bowser.

The article, he stated, did not work along the lines that diplomacy meant success. However, Canadians should never be ashamed at suggestions made at British traditions, as they should be proud to come from stock of this kind.

England Was Firm.

The speaker then read a letter written by Otto H. Kahn, a German-American financier. This opinion meant something, he stated. The letter said that England faced her problem with courage, resolution and re*sourcefulness. Someone had always* been ruming England, but it was still doing business at the old stand. Today she was disappointing the ill-wishes by wise tradition and self-respect. England's qualities made England strong and thus kept her exchange up in time of trouble. This meant that money was going to England for safe-keeping; capital took refuge in England. In closing his letter he hoped that England and America, as in 1917 and 1918 they stood together, would in time of peace stand together for their own good and for the good of the world.

"Why should we not be proud when we are British and Anglo-Saxon?" asked Mr. Bowser. "If we have some confidence in England, settled conditions will come in Europe; prosperity will come to this American continent which has so many assets.

"What British Columbia needs is foreign capital, and England will once more return to Canadian investments," he said.

Suggestions had been made that Canada break away from the Empire and become a separate nation. Mr. Bowser was personally opposed to any such action, and was sorry to see Hon. E. Lapointe wanting to put Canada on a higher plane of treaty making. Just suppose, stated the speaker, that the United States and Canada went to trouble, or Canada and Japan went to war; one battleship could wipe British Columbia off the face of the map. What was wanted was closer ties with the Empire for protection's sake.

When these new-fangled ideas of breaking away from the motherland came up, the boards of trade could do a great work, and it was their duty and responsibility to do all possible to stop the suggestions which might lead to the disintegration of the Empire. In closing, he stated that he thought it would be the unanimous opinion of the members of the board of trade that if the time should come again, as in the past, for Canadians to aid the Empire, there would be the same response as during the war.

J. B. Gray, on behalf of the Trail board of trade, expressed its thanks to Mr. Bowser.

PATRONAGE WIDESPREAD IN PROVINCE

So Says Mr. Bowser, Leader of the Opposition; Jones and Schofield Speak

TRAIL AUDIENCE HEARS OF GOVERNMENT DEALS

Liquor Question Discussion Causes Much Laughter and Applause

TRAIL, June 24.—Well over 250 people were present in the Knight's of Pythias hall on Saturday night when W. J. Bowser leader of the opposition in British Columbia, J. W. Jones, member for South Okanagan and James H. Schofield member far Trail addressed a political meeting. R. Gordon acted as chairman. All speakers dealt with the reckless spending of public moneys by the present government.

Mr. Bowser, in addressing the meeting, stated that he was not in Trail to criticise Hon. John Oliver, the premier, but to discuss the serious situation of the province. The matter was not case of politics, but was a chance for all people who had the interests of the province at heart to see if the present government should be retained any longer. Both sides of the question needed discussion, and was up to the electors to decide if their business in the province was being run on a suitable basis.

Mr. Bowser stated he had been in office for many years. The Liberals had denounced him and his government; the people later removed him. Men, untrained for office, were placed in charge. He had no complaint as to the verdict of the people at that time. Now it was up to the people again, and on its record the Oliver government must, shortly, stand or fall.

Premier Oliver, when taking office, had denounced the system of patronage, claiming it to be classed with highway robbery. "You have a liquor store in Trail. Do you find any Conservatives there?" asked the leader for the opposition. Patronage throughout the province was widespread, and the people in public office were not of the best class. He referred to the recent burglary of the Greenwood liquor store, where the goods had been taken to the United States by airplane in broad daylight.

In 1916, continued Mr. Bowser, the present government had told the people that the late government was corrupt, unbusinesslike, ran a big public debt and had not developed the country as they should, and that a change would mean a superior system of administration. People took their word. In the 1320 election the excuse was, although time had added to debt it had left the country in a muddle, the unsuccessfsiness was blamed on the McBride and Bowser administrations. Now the party was about to again face an election, "They can't go to the people now and say I'm to blame," said the speaker. "They will stand on their own bottom, and you people who are taxed to death are to hold them at their own stewardship."

Government Aided

John Oliver claimed to have built roads throughout the country, and would lead people to believe that the government had built the Rossland-Cascade road. The Dominion government paid 40 per cent of the cost, throngh the policy of Robert Borden, which had been followed by Mackenzie King, the present prime minister. Oliver, he said, also told the Slocan people he had given the women the vote. "I draftel the referendum in 1916, and the men voters by a large majority decided the women should be on an equal basis, and still Mr. Oliver will tell he gave the vote." The Workmen's Compensation act, also claimed by Mr. Oliver, was drafted by Mr. Bowser when he was attorney-general. In 1916 it had been laid aside for improvements. It was later adopted as law. That, declared the speaker, was the honesty of Mr. Oliver's discussion of affairs.

"Mr. Oliver asks how I am going to economize?" If I am going to close the labor bureaus?" Half the cost of maintaining the bureaus was stood by the federal government. Where the labor bureaus were not functioning, Mr. Bowser declared, they should be closed. Dozens of them at present are old men's homes and rest houses. He told of a case of a man getting $100 per month for running a labor bureau in a non-labor district, also running in connection a store.

Mother's Pension Act

The Conservative convention of 1917 first framed the Mothers' Pension act. Mr. Bowser favored the act, but wished honest enforcement. "We will look into this when we take office," said the speaker, "and all cases will be adjudged according to their merits.

"The greatest road builder in the interior of British Columbia is James Schofield of Trail and formerly of Ymir riding, his road monuments, built years ago, standing today. The present government won't even keep the roads in repair," said the speaker. Under the old government 16,000 miles of highway and 4000 miles of trails were built and paid for out of the revenue. The present government was borrowing continuously, and still Mr. Oliver claimed them to be government roadbeds, notwithstanding there was three times the revenue. The public debt had been increased to $57,000,000. Of this $5,000,000 had been borrowed this year, and six months of the year was not gone.

Civil service cost twice as much today as in 1916. Mr. Oliver claimed increased revenue meant a quarter more cost of operation. He had failed to state that the province's population had not yet increased. No more clerks were necessary today than in 1916 because the same taxpayer was just paying three times as much now as then. There was no excuse or justice for the enormous overhead. This was caused through hotel bills and joy riding, motor cars for the civil servants at the taxpayers' expense; $25,000 a month was spent this way.

Figures of borrowing and expenses were alarming. Since 1916 $132,000,000 had been borrowed. Oliver is rich, where spending the peoples' money is concerned, and it is hard to believe he is the same man who denounced the Conservatives. All this is charged to you, said Mr. Bowser.

Speaking on Mr. Oliver's freight rate question, Mr. Bowser stated that in 1901 James Dunsmuir, who was then premier, sent a delegation to Ottawa on this question. In 1903 Colonel Prior pressed the matter. Later Sir Richard McBride sent a committee, composed of Charles Wilson and Robert Green, now Senator Green, to interview the federal authorities on this question of better terms for the mountains. In 1905, with no assistance of John Oliver, a brief was filed by the Conservatives. In 1907 Sir Richard McBride passed a resolution that British Columbia receive $100,000 for 10 years, for the payement of better terms. Hhis was later accepted by the then-Premier Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and made final and unalterable. At that time John Oliver was in the legislature, and he didn't do a thing then. In 1910 the Conservatives took up the freight rates question with the government and W. A. McDonald, formerly of Nelson and now Justice McDonald, assisted by several experts, went fully into the matter with the railway commission, but with no success. This committee was in no way assisted by the Liberals. Thus, stated the speaker, the freight rates question was decided 16 years ago, and Oliver had been in a Rip van Winkle sleep for that time. It was only on the eve of an election that the premier started this freight rates question.

He was now using it as a smoke screen, to cover up administration of which he was ashamed. The Doukhobor situation at Grand Forks was another deathbed repentance, stated Mr. Bowser. "I am as strongly in favor of freight rates as he, except I do not start out on the eve of a nelection. In 1914 the railway commission was to sit on the eve of an election. In 1914 war the thing was cancelled. In 1916 the government had been overthrown. "After Oliver is dead and gone, I will take up the freight rates question again," said Mr. Bowser.

The public debt of the province was serious, he continued. The credit was almost gone. Hundreds of people were being carried away by false reports. What was needed was a new government. With good men selected from each constituency, Mr. Bowser stated, he could form a government which would do much better work than the present administration is doing.

Restore Confidence

The first step would be to restore the confidence of the people in this country. Mr. Oliver was denouncing the Canadian Pacific railway, and Mr. Bowser stated that, in the 20 years of his public life, he had never seen a corporation which had done so much good as the Canadian Pacific railway had done. All Kootenay developments were because of the Canadian Pacific railway lines, of which the people should be proud. The Trail smelter was made possible through this organization. "If Premier Oliver wishes the Canadian Pacific railway to reduce freght rates, I could tell him how to do it," said Mr. Bowser "His people control the Canadian National system and charge the same freight rates as the Canadian Pacific railway. All he has to do is to reduce the Canadian National rates for competition." The premier had attacked the Canadian Pacific railway, but had never said a word about the Canadian National railways.

The overhead expenses of the province should be reduced. They were now $3,500,000. Mr. Bowser proposed cutting these by $1,000,000 the first year. The civil service sal*aries should be looked into*, and one man retained for one job. The public works should be simplified. In 1916 there was a road superintendent, where today there were district engineers, and more engineers.

Speaking on the liquor control system, Mr. Bowser created an atmosphere which kept the audience wide awake. "You know the class of people employed in the liquor stores," said Mr. Bowser, who told of meeting a vendor last year, whom he had defended in court for rolling a Swede. In the old days the bars kept a stock of perhaps 10 brands of whiskey. The new bartender, John Oliver, stocked 64 brands with the people's money. That was where the graft came in. Many war brands had been purchased at 20 shillings a piece. The government bought the ill-natured whiskey at 20 shillings through an agent, and it was sold at 40 shillings.

Eelectricity Does It

A blender was employed at the coast warehouse, where cheap whisky was emptied into a vat—King George whisky was added to give it tone, prune juice was then added and the following process, a professional secret obtained from the blender under oath, was then gone through. An electric wire was attached to the vat, and the mixture churned, the idea being to give the whisky 10 years of ageing in 10 minutes The mixture was then withdrawn and bottled, and labelled L. C. B., and sold at $3.50. "Gentlemen maybe you have been drinking L. C. B. brand; that will account for the headaches" stated the opposition leader.

Under a new regime all this would go. There would be no Archie Johnstone of the Kootenays at the head of the liquor board. In his place would be an old-time liquor man, obtained from some of the well-known liquor houses. The business would be run as the people wished it.

Mr. Oliver had attempted to prove that Bowser was crooked, so stated the speaker, but was unsuccessful All that was needed was the proper men from each constituency, and these, under Mr. Bowser's leadership, would bring about a change for the good of the province.

People Leaving Canada

J. W. Jones, member for South Okanagan proceeded Mr. Bowser. He was pleased to greet a Trail audience the home of the Conservative whip James Schofield. The present government, he stated did not know its own mind. Hon. John Oliver had stated that there was prosperity and no criticism of the government in any part of the province. He defied the premier to go to his South Okanagan constituency and preach prosperity. The premier referred to the people carrying on but made no statement of the exodus from this province to the States in the last six months. From September to March 14,000 had gone to the States, of these there were 9,000 Canadians, the others were naturalized Canadians. Thus there must be something wrong. Production in the province two years ago was $64,000,000, last year it was $54,000,000 and yet while the people had agreed to go on the land a decrease had been shown. Twice as much butter was being imported to British Columbia as was being produced, seven times as much mutton and two and half times as much pork was imported as produced, these did not point to progress.

What the people needed was advice to encourage them to stay on the land. One reason for the people leaving, being the heavy taxation of the past six years. Premier Oliver pointed with pride at the revenue figures of this year for $18,000,000 as compared with $6,291,000 of 1916. The latter figures were at the busiest time of the empire when the men were away or leaving the country for overseas and produce had fallen down. He took pride in increasing the revenue of the province through the pockets of the taxpayers. thus capital was shy.

During the past six years the revenue had amounted to $86,000,000 while the expenditures were $96,000,000 and the government had been forced to borrow. On comparing British Columbia and Quebec it was shown that the expenditure there per capita was $7 while in this province it was $40. This was the difference of careful administration and that of British Columbia.

Civil service salaries this past year were $3,188,000 while under the Conservatives it was $1,664,000. Increases in salaries had been granted but only a few of the servants had got it.

Public Debt Large

The public debt of the province in 1917 was $19,724,000. On the first of November last year it was $57,000,000, nearly three times as much in six years. The taxpayer was helping to pay that debt off and some of those today would not live to see it paid off. It was going to take the best endeavors of the coming government to wipe off the debt. The finance minister had claimed that the debt was increased owing to war debts and land ventures for soldiers, irrigation schemes and other methods. For the land settlement board $4,500,000 had been borrowed for settlements at Merville, Creston, and Fernie. At Merville the land had been purchased three or four years ago one of the agricultural experts of the government denouncing the land as unfit. Up to last fall not more than 8 to 10 lots of from two acres had been cleared and the liabilities against each soldier settlers had amounted to between $4,000 and $6,000. The land was stoney, light and stumpy. At Creston $6,460,000 had been spent in clearing operations under Col. Lister who had resigned in disgust. Of the 130 returned men originally there about 30 remained, the others having gone to Fernie and Trail to seek employment.

Another debt incurred was the irrigation scheme in the Okanagan Valley at Oliver, which had amounted to $1,865,000 and the districts were now wondering how the debt would be paid. The land settlement idea at Oliver had also cost the province much money. There had been 22,000 acres bought and irrigation proposals amounting to $350,000 made. After the land was subdivided and roads built only half was able to be irregated. Already $2,606,000 had been spent on this schme, and it was estimated that four millions would be spent before it was complted. From an investment of $4,000,000 the returns would be $1,500,000 showing a straight loss. Such reckless squandering as these, had put the province in debt and it was up to people when election came, to elect men who had regards for the administration of the affairs of the province.

James H. Schofield, member for Trail stated, that it looked like an election in the next six months and the visitors were sort of spying out the land. He stated that a new administration was needed and that when the time came it would be up to the people.

WIFE SHOULD SHARE GOODS

National Council Believes Laws Should Recognize "Community" Property" of Married.

HALIFAX, June 24.—The National Council of Women on Saturday appointed a committee to report at the next annual meeting on the subject of community of interest between husband and wife with regard to all real and personal property acquired by them as a result of their common labor and effort.

Dr. Stowe-Gullen said that the wife was often dressmaker, milliner, cook, scrub lady and mother, without a salary, and yet the husband considered that he supported her.

Adam Shortt, Ottawa, told of rank injustice that resulted under the present law, quoting the cose of a woman whose husband left everything to the eldest son.

Dr. Carrie M. Derrick emphasized hearty agreement with the principle of absolute equality between men and women, husband and wife.

Australian Liner Arrives Bone Dry; Honolulu Reason

VANCOUVER, June 24.—The Canadian-Australasian liner Makura docked here today from the Antipodes, for the first time in the history of the line, bone dry. In view of the application of the new United States liquor laws to the port of Honolulu, the Makura's commonders decided to leave all liquor supplies at Suva, except for supplies sufficient to carry the passengers to Honolulu.

It has not been decided whether or not the Makura will carry liquor outbound.

The Australian Davis cup tennis team, captained by J. O. Anderson, arrived on the Makura, spent a quiet day in Vancouver with friends, and will leave tomorrow for San Francisco en route to New York, where they will meet the Hawaiians.

"What is more—I'll never ask you to pay the principal—just the interest—and I'll stop even that if you die, and at once deposit the full Estate in your Bank to their credit.

The World Court in Public Session

What a distinguished British jurist has called "the first real lawsuit between nations" is about to be argued before the permanent court of international justice at The Hague. This fact, coupled with the significant debate in progress in the United States respecting the advisability of American participation in that tribunal, accounts for the lively interest manifested in its first public session.

The world court previously met twice in private, and it has given advice to the council of the League of Nations in issues submitted. It has also decided a case involving the legal status of British subjects in French Morocco. The present session is noteworthy chiefly because two nations, Great Britain and Germany, are appearing before the court as litigants in a suit which grew out of different interpretations of a provision in the treaty of Versailles.

Germany is not a member of the League of Nations and is not represented on the regular bench of the world court. It wisely availed itself, however, of the right conferred on nonmembers of the league by the constitution of the court and appointed a judge to take part in the case which affects vital German interests. The appointee is a learned and progressive jurist and educator, Prof. Walter Shucking.

The question at issue is whether Germany has kept the Kiel canal open, as required by the treaty of Versailles, or has violated that instrument by refusing access to the canal desired by certain British ships. There is to be a judicial determination of the facts and of the principals involved.

In addition to this suit the court has on its docket two other interesting cases. One of them is Germany's complaint that Poland has been oppressing its German minorities. The other case concerns the autonomy of eastern Karelia as guaranteed by the Russo-Finnish treaty. The Russian soviet government, unlike Germany, has seen fit to repudiate the international court on the alleged ground that, as constituted, it cannot be impartial or judicial. Whatever opinion the court may give in the Russo-Finnish dispute, therefore, will serve merely as a moral basis for subsequent diplomatic or other action by Finland or by the powers friendly to that nation in case the opinion is unfavorable to Russia.

The world court is meant to be independent, to build up a true code of law, to promote justice. Its opportunity is great. Its regular members are acknowledged authorities on international law and the evolution of jurisprudence.

A Violent Protest

Why do fat people who want to reduce always take such a roundabout way of attaining this end? If increased physical exercise will bring satisfactory results, as it is said it will, why don't these oversized persons find some sensible and useful kind of work in which such exercise may be found?

They seem to go to a good deal of trouble to get themselves into shape so that a smaller suit of clothes will fit them; but it is not by the kind of work which appeals to reasonable persons. Rolling around in one's pyjamas on the floor for a half hour every morning may be an effective way of getting rid of superfluous flesh; but neither to the persons in the next room, nor to those in the room immediately below, does this process of weight reduction appeal as a rational form of exercise.

Fat are urged now to play croquet. The fact that they are to use only a mallet with a very short handle will make it necessary for them to stoop over, and thus exercise regions most affected by the adipose tissue. The sport is said to be becoming more popular from day to day, and the results in decreased weight are unusually gratifying.

But why not take to something useful? If exercise will do the business, why not a couple of washtubs with a week's washing done to a state of immaculate whiteness? Repeat this exercise every day for a month or two, and the results will be just as satisfying as they will be from rolling insanely around the bedroom floor for a half hour in the morning. Probably more so.

What shall be said of an individual who finds that at all hazards he must reduce, and then hires someone to remove the dandelions from the front yard, and for himself takes to playing croquet. If it is stooping exercise to use in plucking stoopingn exercise to use in plucking out the dandelions? That would add profit to pleasure.

It is a deplorable fact that the average family is not fond of fish. On Fridays such a family will eat it—but on other days of the week meat is preferred.

And I must confess that I am not among this majority who prefer meat to fish! Yet, for reasons of economy, I believe that we should eat fish at least twice a week. Many varieties of fish are cheaper than our favorite meats. We should, therefore, be glad to eat fish often, rather than only on Fridays.

In summertime, especially, it is wise for us to eat plenty of fish. For in hot weather we do not need the heavy, red-blooded meats; our stomachs are working under the handicap of exhausting atmospheric heat, and they can more easily digest the simple fish.

Although there are 40 commonly-known varieties of edible fish, the average housekeeper is familiar with only a few. This is doubtless because her local market carries only a few kinds, (for, in different parts of the country, different kinds of fish are plentiful). Almost all of us, however, are familiar with the following kinds:

The Dark-Fleshed Fish — These are known as the oily-meated fish. They have a rich flavor, for the fat is distributed through the flesh. The best known of this variety are the bluefish, mackerel, shad, salmon, herring, swordfish and sablefish. Because of their own rich flavor, they need very little seasoning, (except salt, butter and pepper), and they are best served with the mildly-flavored and sweet-juice vegetables, such as peas, carrots, beets, greens and asparagus . They need no sauces.

The White-Fleshed Fish — These fish, however, need rich butter and oil sauces to make them tempting. The best known of this variety are the flounder, pike, cod, hake, turbot, perch, pollack, striped bass, red snapper haddock, halibut and whitefish. These are called "lean" and "dry-meated" fish, and they have their fat secreted in the liver. All strong-juiced or acid-flavored vegetables are suitable to serve with them—such as tomatoes, onions, cucumber, green pepper, dandelion greens and chives.

Of course these suggestions are not fixed dietetic laws. If you wish to serve one of the milder-flavored vegetables with a white-fleshed fish you can supply the acid or puiquant flavor with a fruit salad or fruit dessert.

"But whose fault is it," demands a writer, "if a pedestrian gets run over the second time?" Speaking offhand, we should say the undertaker's.

Ask Pupils Sixty Years for Their Opinions on Schools, Says Old-Timer

Nelson, B.C., June 24, 1923.

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir — Some wise man has said "Fools step in where angels fear to tread." Yes! In the middle ages I might have played the fool, and history tells us that fools sometimes spoke like wise men.

In our great Dominion, I am sometimes a man in the street, a pedestrian, not even reaching the auto stage, for whom crossings are sometimes taken up.

We hear some talk of the "high cost of living," of the British Columbia Liquor law, and the deterioration of Scotch whisky, also the high cost of gasoline and the modern song, "Ten nights in a garage, and Father, dear Father, the car will soon be done, and mother is waiting for you."

We feed oats and hay to horses because time has shown they thrive on such food. Other varieties, predigested and otherwise, are not considered because the horse has no purchasing power, but has considerable horse sense.

I was reading your report of the teachers' meeting, and was pleased to learn that the city of Seattle had found a system of education that was an aid to children in guiding them along the path of life.

Yes! It is a good thing for teachers to get together and debate on questions in reference to their calling.

What about getting some old pupils, say about 50 to 60 years of age, and hear what they would suggest? I warrant 99 per cent would speak well of the good influence teachers had upon their life's work, and would say "We admire you for trying to find the best trail so as to make our children better citizens."

Try Specialty System.

I would like to see the specialty system tried; find out what the child is best adapted for, then educate him along those lines. (But, who will be the judge?)

Teach them to make use of the natural resources of the district in which they live.

Cost? Never mind the cost. It will be a good investment, and the boys and girls, when they grow into the adult stage, will again gladly pay their share of the cost for their own children.

OLD-TIMER.

Do You Get Seasick?

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

Seasickness or trainsickness are such distressing conditions that perhaps a few thoughts about them might be helpful.

As to the cause?

Well, there are about 20 different things that are blamed, but that our balancing organ in the inner ear is at the bottom of it seems to find favor with most investigators. This fluid in the ear gets shifted about in such an unusual way that it sends impulses to the vomitting center in the brain. The fact that deaf mutes are free from seasickness would tend to sternghen that idea as to its cause.

On the other hand the shifting of the abdominal organs by the motion is also blamed. The fact that a good wide belt worn tightly about the abdomen affords relief to many people has been amply proven.

It is estimated that only about one person in 20 entirely escapes seasickness, while at least one in every two are pretty sick.

Now, what to do about it?

Well, the first thing is to get yourself, particularly your intestine, in good shape before you go on the boat. Take a good purge, particularly one that will stimulate the liver. Cut out pork, pastry and candies for a few days before you go on board.

And, when you get on board, go lightly on meals. I know they are good and the open air makes you hungry, but eat little and often.

You know they feed you five or six meals a day, so take a "little" every time, with the emphasis on the "little."

If you feel sick, notwithstanding all your precautions, try and stay midway in the boat and get less of the motion.

Remember you must take something into your stomach or you will get very, weak. So, after each retching spell, take a little broth or beef tea.

So, if you're up against it, remember the above suggestions—midway on the ship—a wide belt—and nourishment after each retching spell.

Mummies Make a Fine Brown Paint

Even mummies have their use, especially those of between 2500 and 3000 years of age, for one of the richest and finest of brown paints is manufactured from them.

The paint is made by grinding the bones of the mummies with the bitumen with which they were embalmed. Each mummy, when ground up, makes sufficent paint to last the trade for about five years. Besides its wonderful rich color, it has the advantage of being practically permanent, and for these reasons it is in great demand amongst artists, especially portrait painters those subjects have brown hair.

Unfortunately, the supply of suitable mummies is getting scarce, for it is only those of between 2000 and 3000 years of age that will produce the beautiful, brown paint so loved by artists. It was during that period that the art of embalming was at its best.

After the embalming process had been carried out, the body was coated with bitumen and subjected to a slight heat. It is this warmth in combination with the great age of the bitumen that has produced the wonderful brown that makes the paint produced from it the finest in the world.

Since the days of Queen Elizabeth, Dutch eel boats have been berthed outside the custom house on the Thames at London, and have been quite a picturesque feature of the river; but now they are to be reabout 10,000,000 eels a year. The Dutch fishermen-in-charge capture about 10,000,000 ells a year. The boats have for centuries had the right to berth at the same spot in the Thames, one of the conditions being that at least one boat must always be there.

The right was granted in Charles III.'s reign, because, when other foreign shipping was frightened away at the time of the great plague, the Dutch boats continued to bring eels to London.

CHRISTINA LAKE EXODUS STARTS

Many Grand Forks Residents Will Put In Summer at Pleasure Resort; Many Bungalows.

GRAND FORKS, B.C., June 24. — Repairs on the new Cascade-Rossland highway are to be pushed forward. W. S. Phillips and E. J. Fitzpatrick have left with crews to carry out work on different sections, and it is hoped to get the bad spots on the highway fixed up as soon as possible, after which surfacing will be proceeded with. Work has been some held up by the continued rains, which have also resulted in cuts in the roadway.

The exodus to Christina lake for the summer has commenced, and there are indications that even a larger number than usual of local residents are planning to take up summer quarters at the popular resort. Last season there were a score or more new bungalows built, and more will go up this year. A syndicate has been formed and has purchased considerable frontage north of Hodge's Cove, and it is not improbable that much development will take place in that area this summer. Quite a nice bungalow has just been completed for Mrs. C. Manly at Hodge's Cove.

Vic. Biner, former resident of Phoenix and owner of the pavilion property, has come back from California and is taking charge of the pavilion personally for the first time. The pavilion has been moved and newly fitted up with hardwood dancing floor and fine dining-room.

The usual celebrations are in lone for Christina this season. Dominion Day will be celebrated with the usual baseball and athletic sports; the Masons will hold their annual outing for children on July 11, and the Knights of Pythias are planning for a big picnic on July 26.

NAKUSP NOTES

NAKUSP, B.C., June 24. — F. A. McDonald, chief forester of Nelson, drove in to Nakusp in his car on Thursday evening, accompanied by District Ranger A. J. Harrison of Arrow Park. This is the first time that a government official has brought his car on a trip of inspection—taking advantage of the cheap ferriage. He reports the road from Fauquiers to Burton to be in a very bad state and requiring immediate attention to take care of the increased traffic.

ENGLAND STILL WORRIES OVER SMOKE PROBLEM

England again is becoming excited over its black smoke problem and rumors that something might be done have caused manufacturers anxiety. It has been said that legislation would be passed requiring manufacturers to place smoke consumers on their plants. But they have little to fear from the government, if one may judge from the records of the past century, a correspondent in the Manchester Guardian says.

The first actual mention of the smoke nuisance in Great Britain was in 1257, when Eleanor, the queen of Henry VII., indignantly refused to live any longer at Nottingham castle because of the obnoxious black smoke from the "seacoles" burned in the village below, and went off in a huff to live at Tilbury castle.

Edward I. made a great effort to stop the use of coal in London, issuing his famous proclamation in 1307, and about this time at least one man is said to have been hanged for the cirme of persisting in the use of coal. However, the shortage of wood made the use of coal imperative, and Great Britain had to endure a moderate—but still very objectionable—amount of smoke for the next five centuries. The invention of the steam engine and inauguration of the industrial era began, about 1870, to render the smoke nuisance intolerable.

In 1822 the house of commons took up the question. Experts said that with ery little trouble the nuisance could be abated, but the manufacturers set up a howl, and the committee dropped the matter. And such is the status today. After a 100 years the situation is the same, and until the house ignores the voice of the manufacturers the smoke nuisance will continue throughout Great Great Britain.

SUN LOSING ITS HEAT IS DR. ABBOTT'S CLAIM

If Correct, It Means Cold Summer, Spoiling of Crops, and Severe Winter

When Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the National Academy of sciences, announced that the heat of the sun was gradually diminishing and had decreased from 3 to 4 per cent during the last 15 months, he started a controversy which promises to rage indefinitely. If Dr. Abbot's statement is proved to be correct it means a cold summer, a spoiling of the crops and an unusually severe winter.

Dr. Abbot should speak with authority, since he has been continuously engaged in the study of solar radiation since 1895, when he joined the staff of the Smithsonian Astronomical observatory. During this period he has conducted several expeditions to study solar eclipses and has made frequent journeys abroad to confer with foreign scientists. He was born in Wilton, N. H., in 1872.

STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Saturday Half-Session Is Dull, and More Selling Than Buying Prevails.

NEW YORK, June 23. — Irregular price movements characterized today's dull half-holiday session of the stock market.

Several large operators, who have been active recently, were away for the week-end, and those who remained apparently found it more profitable to sell stocks than to buy them. Price fluctuations, as a rule, were narrow and unimportant.

President Harding's Kansas City speech on transportation problems brought some buying power into the railroad group at the opening, but the carrier stocks sagged with the rest of the list in late trading. Pittsburgh & West Virginia and Atchison each dropped about a point and Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway and a few other of the more active issues yielded fractionally.

Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can were the heavy spots among the so-called "pivotal stocks," but net losses were held to fractions. Corn products, which was strong recently on the announcement of an extra dividend, dropped more than 2 points on profit-taking. Fisher Body broke 5 points on a small turnover.

Some of the strong spots were Houston Oil, Hartman Corporation, Woolworth, Republic Refining and West Pennsylvania Power, up to 2 to 4 points.

TORONTO, June 24. — The week-end session of the stock exchange was marked by dullness in both listed and unlisted sections. The one feature of interest was the further reaction of Union Bank, this issue selling down to 109½, a net decline of 4½ points in a turnover of 20 shares.

In the listed department, Canadian General Electric common was active but closed unchanged at 99½. Steel of Canada common sold at 73¾. Twin City scored an advance of 1 point. Duluth Superior touched 42 and closed at 41¾.

Papers, with the exception of Brompton, were neglected. Brompton made a further advance of ½ point, to 34. Brazilian sold off to 48½.

LIGHTNING FLASH WOULD LIGHT A HOUSE TEN YEARS

A well-known scientist has measured the energy in an average flash of lightning, and finds it equal to 3700 horse-power hours—that is, sufficient to lift 550 tons to a height of a mile and a quarter above the earth's surface.

The energy was measured by a three-fold operation. First, the distance away of the flash was computed by noting the interval between the sight of the flash and the sound of the thunder peal. Then the height of the cloud discharging the electricity was found by means of trigonometry. Finally, the change in the electrical field of an electrometer was noted. From these three data the energy of the flash was worked out.

Dr. Wilson estimates that the average lightning storm represents enough energy to light a house by electricity for at least 10 years.

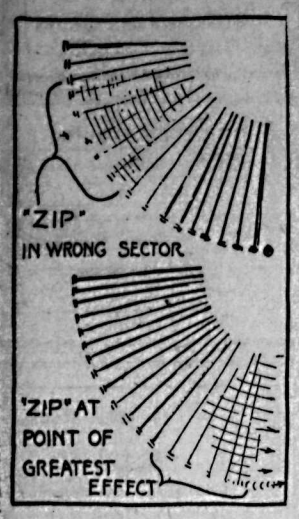
GOLF



At what angle of the downward stroke of the drive should the "zip"—the wrist movement—start?

Answered by

JIM BARNES

American open champion, 1921; recognized everywhere as one of the greatest golfers in the world. In British open championship, 1922, he finished second, one stroke behind Walter Hagen, the winner.

* * *

The wrist action should be delayed as long as possible because it it is used early in the swing its force is played out when the time comes for the club head to hit the ball. Don't actually start "striking the ball" until the club head is about two feet from the ball. Then is the time for the wrist movement. During the downward swing, before the "zip" is used, the wrists should be free and not rigid.

SOUTH AFRICAN ROBBERS

The farmers in the neighborhood of Nairobi, the capital of Kenya Colony, South Africa, were very angry because, while they were asleep, thieves came and stole their corn and other produce.

The police were informed and tried to detect the robbers, but without success. None of the suspicious characters of the district seemed to go near the farm houses, yet the losses increased, and at last it was decided to set a watch until the thieves were caught in the act.

The watchers concealed themselves and at last their vigil was rewarded. The thieves appeared among the corn, but, when the men rushed forward to seize the offenders, they found that they were not human thieves at all, but a troop of baboons that were evidently acting under the orders of an old baboon, who led his followers out of danger with much skill.

The monkeys are great pests in South Africa, and in some parts they even enter houses in order to steal.

The housewives have to watch their sheets and clothes very carefully on washing days as the baboons often come and try to carry these off from the clotheslines when they are hanging out to dry or air in the sun.

It is not easy to get rid of the nuisance, for monkeys are very darting and are not easily frightened.

WINNIPEG, June 24.—The riding of Jockey Neal, who won four firsts, and rode home a place and a show in six mounts, featured the opening day's racing of the fifth international race meet here on Saturday. The feature race, the citizens' purse, a mile event, was captured by Bernice E., from Malton, Wash., when she came from behind to nose out Emmert's Certain Point, quite nicely in the stretch.

Young Bloods Will Meet Old-Timers on the Lacrosse Field

On Wednesday next the Nelson lacrosse fans will have an opportunity to see how the old-timers and the young bloods will stack up against each other.

A few days ago the younger players issued a challenge to play against any team the old-timers wished to put in the field. This was accepted immediately, and a team was organized to play against the Tecumsehs, which is a picked team from all the young lacrosse players.

This game will be a good one, as it will settle many arguments amongst the Nelson fans as to whether the teams of today could hold their own against a team composed of players who followed lacrosse in Nelson years ago.

The teams will line up as follows:

Tecumsehs—J. Ringrose, goal; C. Cryderman, point; G. Benwell Jr., coverpoint; G. Armstrong, first defence; E. McVicar, second defence; J. Curran, center; F. Archibald, first home; C. King, second home; G. Long, outside home; H. Pitts, inside home; spares — Freno, Ritchie, J. Madden, Jack Madden, G. Jack, H. Thurman, D. McLean.

Old-Timers — A. Williamson, goal; C. D. Blackwood, point; Charles MacGregor, coverpoint; R. Bell, first defence; G. Benwell Sr., second defence; Jack Curran, center; J. Thompson, first home; J. Armstrong, second home; A. Jeffs, outside home; J. Hawkins, inside home; spares—W. Curran, W. Ferguson, H. Ferguson.

FOREST FIRES YET THREATEN NEW BRUNSWICK

Fate of Rocky Gulch Is Not Known; Situation Is Very Grave in Province

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 24. — There is no cessation of the forest fire menace in this province, and in a statement given out today Hon. W. C. Robinson, minister of lands and mines, says that the situation is very grave.

No word has been received from Rocky Gulch, a town about 10 miles from Campbellton, in Restigouche county. At latest reports the village was threatened with destruction.

One of the most serious fires in the province is now situated in a heavily timbered and very dry forest area to the southwest of the Miramichi river.

GUNS SALUTE AS EXPLORER SAILS

Bowdoin Leaves Maine Port With Destination of Northern Greenland

WISCASSET, Me., June 24.—The 115-ton auxiliary schooner Bowdoin, bearing Capt. Donald McMillan and his party on their way to resume scientific work and explorations in the Arctic, sailed from this port Saturday.

The booming of cannon and deafening salutes of sirens and whistles cheered the explorer and six associates as the staunch little schooner slipped down the Sheepscot river on the first leg of her perilous voyage of more than 2100 miles to northern Greenland. McMillan anchored for the night at Booth bay harbor, to make preliminary compass adjustments.

The present is the explorer's 10th trip to the polar regions in 15 years.

The Bowdoin is expected to carry the expedition to Cape Sabine for scientific work and exploration in Ellismore Land, and to bring it back safely a year from next September, unless ice conditions make necessary a two-year stay in the north.

At daybreak tomorrow the Bowdoin will sail for Sydney, C. B., where she is due next Friday, to take on the balance of her 3000 gallons of fuel oil.

GENERAL LECKIE FAILS TO RALLY

Distinguished British Columbia Engineer and Soldier Dies After Operation

VANCOUVER, June 23. — Major-Gen. R. G. Edwards Leckie, soldier and pioneer mining man of British Columbia, died in St. Paul's hospital last night. He had undergone a serious operation. He was 54 years old.

Major-General Leckie was born in Halifax, and was the son of Major Robert Gilmour and Sarah Edwards Leckie. He was educated in the Montreal high school, the Bishop's college school of Lennoxville, and in the Royal Military college of Kingston, where he took the governor-general's medal in 1890. He graduated from King's college, Windsor, as a bachelor of science in 1895.

As an engineer he was associated with many works in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. He surveyed and superintended the construction of the Torbrook railway, was locating engineer and constructor of the Middleton Water Supply company, and designed and located the Granville ferry water system in 1893, all in Nova Scotia.

In 1898 he came to British Columbia as consulting engineer for several mines, both in this province and in Washington.

During 1903 and 1904 he undertook an expedition into British Somaliland. He was gazetted a lieutenant in the 75th regiment in 1891 and became a major in 1895. In that same year he transferred to the 8th Princess Louise's New Brunswick Hussars and in 1900 joined the cavalry reserve of officers. In the South African war of 1901 and 1902 he won the Queen's medal with two clasps, while a member of the Canadian Mounted rifles.

Returning to Vancouver he organized in 1910 and 1911 the 72nd regiment of the Seaforth Highlanders. On November 24, 1910, he was gazetted lieutenant-colonel.

In the course of his service in the late war he rose to the rank of major-general.

PENSION BOARD IS CHALLENGED

Great War Veterans' Organization Says Colonel Thompson Misrepresents Bill Before Senate

ATTAWA, June 24. — The Dominion officials of the Great War Veterans' association have sent a communication to local units against the statement of Lieut.-Col. John Thompson, chairman of the pensions board, that the legislation now before parliament does not alter the pension law in regard to disabled, but only in regard to dependents. The communications is as follows:

"The investigation of the royal commission was caused by the fact that pensions were refused certain classes of applicants among disabled ex-servicemen and dependents. The inquiry resulted in the recommendation that the benefits so withheld should be restored. The pensions board recently refused to restore these benefits until authorized by parliament.

"Legislation with this was, accordingly, introduced by the government, and approved by the house of commons. The pensions board now informs the senate that this legislation will not aiter the attitude of the board in regard to disabled men.

"Either we are offered trick legislation or trick administration."

PARLIAMENT IS DUE TO WIND UP THIS WEEK

Senate Soldier Inquiry Only Thing That Will Delay the Proroguing

OTTAWA, June 24.—(By Canadian Press) — The week now opening is expected to be the last of the session of parliament. By some, prorogation is put as early as Thursday; by others as late as Saturday. It is pretty generally accepted that it will be over by the end of the week.

The only serious obstacle to prorogation is now said to be in the senate. The banking bill is through the committee, and is making good progress in the upper house. Redistribution has not been disposed of, but it is understood that it will be dropped.

In the senate an inquiry into the returned soldier legislation has been opened, and the length of this is stated to be the determining factor in the date of the closing of parliament. It is not expected, however, that this will cause a delay beyond Saturday.

The week in the commons is scheduled to start off with a debate on the Union bank statement. Robert Forke will move the adjournment of the house to discuss the situation in regard to this bank, but the debate is not expected to be long.

After that, the minister of railways is to go on with some legislation in regard to branch lines of the National railways.

SEES SON SUFFER; PARALYSIS COMES

Ottawa Ex-Merchant Rushes to Victoria to Son's Bedside; Dies After Him

VICTORIA, June 24.—Francis Edward Knight, a retired merchant of Ottawa, died here today.

He was born in Quebec 73 years ago and lived most of his life in Ottawa.

Five weeks ago he was summoned to Victoria, where his son, Percy, was dying of injuries sustained while trying to snatch a Hindu employee of a sawmill from under a rolling log. The shock of witnessing his son's sufferings induced a paralytic stroke in the older man, and he survived his son by only one week.

Mr. Knight leaves another son, Charles, living in Calgary, and two daughters, Mrs. W. M. Stewart of Ottawa, and Mrs. R. L. Jones of Revelstoke. Mrs. Stewart came here with her father and will take his body back to Ottawa for interment.
