CANADA, STATES MAY DRAW UP A LIQUOR PACT

Washington Is Confident Something Is Brewing; Ottawa Is Mum

WASHINGTON, May 29.—A treaty relating to prohibition enforcements, is said here to be the subject of negotiations between the governments of Canada and the United States. State department officials have so far been silent with regard to the matter, but there is high authority for the statement that an agreement of some sort is contemplated.

Since Canada recently signed the British-American treaty with relation to search of ships an hour's sail from the coasts of the United States. It is presumed that the contemplated treaty has reference to other phases of the dry law enforcement problem.

Ottawa Officials Close

OTTAWA, May 29.—The department of external affairs tonight declined to discuss the report from Washington that negotiations were under way between the Canadian and United States governments to conclude a separate treaty on rum-running. Officials of that department neither confirm nor deny the rumor, but contented themselves with stating that they have nothing to say about it.

Border Jails Are Filled With Smuggled Men

MONTREAL, May 29.—Immigrants smuggled by automobile across the Quebec border into the United States are filling northern New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine jails; organized bootlegging in aliens has been uncovered, stiff penitentiary terms are being handed out by United States ccurts to those caught and the United States immigration service is strengthening frontier patrol.

Such is the situation today, as outlined by J. R. Clark, United States immigration commissioner in this district, who terms the problem facing his organization as "gigantic."

Mr. Clark pointed out that wartime passport regulations are still in force in the United States, and that judges have the power to impose sentences for this offences of 10 years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

Two Men Die in a Brewery Fire; Ammonia Hinders

NEW YORK, May 29.—Two men were burned to death in a fire which, late today, destroyed the Fidelity brewery here. A third man was reported missing.

The firemen were seriously hampered by ammonia fumes which escaped from the burning building.

BOOKKEEPER GETS THREE-YEAR TERM

MEANS ALLEGES MELLON MADE WHISKY DEAL

Former Investigator Tells Senate Money Was for Republican Funds

"TOO ABSURD," SAYS HEAD OF TREASURY

Detective Also Investigated Henry Ford's Jew-Baiting Proclivities

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Two sessions of the senate Daugherty investigation today served to let Gaston B. Means, detective, and its most noted informant, complete his alluring story of adventure and intrigue in investigating—at the behest of the late President Harding, he claims—prohibition enforcement, and Secretary Mellon's connection therewith.

He told the committee that he had received from Jess W. Smith in 1922 certain documents purporting to show that Secretary Mellon agreed to issue a batch of whisky withdrawal permits in return for money, which was to go toward payment of the deficit of the Republican national committee.

Sheldon Was to Pay

The alleged arrangement, the witness said, was with a man named Rex Sheldon, who was to receive the permits and pay over the money. He added that, according to the story, Senator Falls of New Mexico and Fred Upham, treasurer of the Republican national committee, went to Mr. Mellon's office in regard to the matter.

Touching lightly on Mexican revolutionary affairs and other topics, Means asserted that he had investigated Henry Ford, by direction of Jess Smith, "to get the motive for his anti-Jewish slant, and to learn his feeling toward the administration," and Gray Silver, Washington agent of the American Farm Bureau federation, but he tilted chiefly at Secretary Mellon with reference to liquor questions, and the latter issued a statement late in the day declaring Means' testimony "too absurd to deserve notice."

Opportunity to cross-examine Means will be given Mr. Daugherty's attorneys Saturday.

ALLEGE BARBARITY IN PENITENTIARIES

Convicts Are Compelled to Fight; Subjected to the "Klondyke" Cell

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—"Barbarous" punishment of refractory convicts in the Eastern penitentiaries by prison officials who, it is asserted, compel them to fight "larger and better trained men" or confine them in "Klondyke" cells with scanty clothing in all sorts of weather, is described in the report of the May grand jury submitted to Judge William C. Ferguson of quarter sessions court today.

Deputy Warden Smith, the report declares, has "kept the men in constant terror."

The "Klondyke" cells are described as being painted entirely black inside, with a solitary ventilator in the face of which it opens, admits the elements freely. An inmate, according to the report, in "Klondyke" sleeps on the floor and is furnished only with a blanket.

Says Rays Caused French Planes to Fall in Bavaria

NEW YORK, May 29. — The United States army has been offered a method of producing invisible rays capable of stopping airplanes in mid-air and automobiles, it is asserted by John E. Hamill, an English engineer, who says he represents a great German scientist.

Hamill declares this scientist used the rays and caused French airplanes to descend over Bavaria last year.

Japan Destroyers Are Ordered to Kamchatka Waters

TOKYO, May 29.—The Japanese destroyers which were on duty in the Kurile islands in connection with the United States round-the-world airplane flight, have been ordered to Kamchatka waters on "special service."

It is understood their duties are the protection of Japanese fishing interests in that region during the coming summer.

There has been friction between the Japanese and Russian authorities several years regarding the right of Japanese to fish in waters off the Kamchatka peninsula.

KENYA OBJECTS TO THE CESSION OF JUBALAND

Motion Hostile to Britain Is Withdrawn After Long Debate

NAIROBI, Kenya, May 29.—(Canadian Press Cable, Via Reuter's.)—Acting on statements made in the Kenya legislature, regarding the cession of Jubaland to Italy, Lord Delamere, a member of the house, today moved a resolution to the effect that Kenya was entitled to land compensation, and suggesting for that purpose the area in the neighborhood of Kilima-Injaro which is settled by Europeans.

A lengthy debate followed, and the alleged action of the imperial government in having ceded Jubaland without consulting the natives concerned, or the owners of private estates in Jubaland, was condemned.

Speakers pointed out that Jubaland for years had been a heavy charge on the resources of Kenya, into an excellent cotton industry and now what had been developed had been taken away.

The motion was ultimately withdrawn on Sir Robert Coryndon, the governor, undertaking to transmit an account of the debate to the secretary of state.

Bulgarian Shot in Fight With Toronto Police

HAMILTON, Ont., May 29.—A man thought to be Kris Christoloff, a Bulgarian restaurant keeper of Toronto, was shot to death by the police in a revolver battle here tonight. With two companions he was seen emerging from a lane, and when the police gave chase the trio drew revolvers and fled.

Surrounded in a backyard the man kept the police at bay by shooting at every one in sight. He eventually fell riddled with bullets.

The dead man's companions escaped.

IRISH JUDGE GRANTS DE VALERA A SHARE

Rules That He and Partner Are Entitled to Defence Money in Suit for Funds

NEW YORK, May 29.—Supreme Court Justice McCook today decided that Eamon de Valera and Stephen M. O'Mara were entitled to reasonable parts of $2,500,000 of the Irish Republican funds now on deposit here, for use in prosecuting their defence of the suit brought by the Irish Free State to obtain the money.

The Free State brought suit on the ground that it was the legitimate successor of the Irish Republic, and hence was entitled to the fund of which de Valera and O'Mara were named trustees.

Kiddie Swallows Drops of Poison While Mama Busy

VICTORIA, May 29.—Seizing a bowl containing a few drops of a croup kettle compound, while his mother's back was turned momentarily, Russell McGregor, 23 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McGregor, swallowed the poison last evening and died today.

WILL SCANDALS MUST END, SAYS ONTARIO BENCH

Baseless Attacks on Wills Over Large Estates Will Be Costly Hereafter

DEFEATED LITIGANT WILL PAY THE COSTS

Mr. Justice Riddell Announces Judges Have Agreed on Step

TORONTO, May 29.—The Scandal attaching to the readiness with which disappointed beneficiaries attack wills and involve estates in costly litigation, has been grappled with by the judges of the supreme court of Ontario, according to a statement by Mr. Justice Riddell, at the close of the suit arising from the will of the late Mrs. Jane Burns, who left an estate of some $70,000.

Expect Estate to Pay

"The judges of the supreme court of Ontario," said Mr. Justice Riddell, in announcing that the suit had failed, and that the will was sustained, "have discussed what is to be done where probate is opposed, and the opposition fails. It is a standing scandal in some parts of the world—I am not speaking particularly of Ontario— that the will of every person who leaves a considerable estate is attacked, in the confidence that whatever takes place, the costs will be payable out of the estate."

Mr. Justice Riddell stated that he realized that if he ordered the cost out of the estate, he would be making somebody pay the costs. The judges had decided that costs should never be paid out of the estate where there was little excuse for the opposition to probate.

Defeated Son Will Pay

In the Burns case, one son, Louis P. Burns, contested the will on the ground of undue influence alleged to have been used by the chief beneficiary, Mrs. Ryan, daughter of Mrs. Burns.

Mr. Burns will have to pay all the costs.

KOREANS PLOT TO BLOW UP CONSULATES

British and States Are Aimed At; It Would Embroil Japan

TOKYO, May 29.—Discovery of an alleged Korean plot to bomb the British and United States consulates in Seoul (Korea) is causing some uneasiness there, press dispatches indicate.

Semi-official confirmation has been made, by a report that special guards have been posted at the United States consulate.

It is said that the guard will be kept there for the present. It is learned that the United States consul has been advised directly as well by the Japanese police, of the alleged plot.

Provincial Government Behind

The bombing plan is believed by officials to have originated with the Korean "provincial government," which was formed in 1919 in Shanghai by Koreans opposed to Japanese rule in the native country.

Every effort is being made by officials to prevent any outrage against the United States consulate at Seoul, fearing any such incident would be particularly troublesome at present, due to the exchanges between the two governments resulting from passage of the United States immigration law.

RUTHENIAN LOVER GIVEN SENTENCE

Bought Back His Separated Wife; Shot at Her When She Broke Faith

CALGARY, May 29.—Paul Majdanuik, the Ruthenian lover, loved his wife so passionately that he gave her $1500 to come back to him following a judicial separation. His spouse took the $1500 and promised to return his love. She did not, and her husband charged her before the police with obtaining money under false pretences.

This was disclosed in criminal court here yesterday afternoon, when Paul was sentenced to serve two months in jail and pay a fine of $100 for attempting to murder his beloved.

The Ruthenian took a pot shot at his wife here some time ago, not injuring her, however.

ASSASSINS IN BUFFALO SLAY HAMILTON MAN

Victim Is Italian Fruit Vendor; Killing Obviously Well Planned

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 29.—Joseph Basili, aged 38, an Italian, of Hamilton, Ont., was shot dead tonight by two unknown assailants, on the waterfront. Five bullets from two guns of different caliber entered the body. Death was instantaneous.

The slayers jumped from an automobile and attacked Basili as he was crossing the street. A third man remained at the wheel of the machine, and picked up the killers after the murder.

Ten shots were fired, the police say.

No description of the murderers was obtained, although they were chased by another automobile for more than a mile before the trail was lost in a maze of traffic in downtown streets.

An Italian Feud

HAMILTON, Ont., May 29.—Joe Basili, who was murdered by gangsters in Buffalo tonight, kept a little fruit store here.

It is thought that his murder is due to an Italian feud, and that Basili was lured to Buffalo by persons who were bent on silencing him.

Mr. Basili, his wife, and Harry Basili, a brother of the slain man, declared, however, that they did not know of any reason why he should have met with foul play. Mrs. Basili said her husband went to Buffalo alone, and was not lured there, from what she knew.

From what the Buffalo police learned of the murder, Basili was the victim of a well-organized plot.

UKRAINIANS ARE MENACE TO CANADA

Their Nationalism Is Fostered in Opposition to Canadian Unity

MONTREAL, May 29.—Inimical to all ideals of Canadian unity, and promising to become in the future serious menaces, are the strong nationalistic tendencies which are being kept alive and deliberately fostered among the hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians now settled in western Canada, declared Dr. A. J. Hunter, over 20 years a medical missionary to New Canadians, who addressed the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada here today. In his opinion it was the chief problem with which Canada was faced.

He asserted that Ukrainians were obsessed by the Anglo-Saxons' wish to swallow them up.

Dr. Hunter declared that Seventh Day Adventists and Russelites were taking advantage of the existing confusion among the Ukrainians and were making tremendous headway. They were strongly armed with a profusion of literature in the Ukrainian language, something which the orthodox Protestant churches were sadly in need of.

There are at least 300,000 Ukrainians in Canada, and they are coming in rapidly still, said the speaker.

One Hundred Liberals Vote With Government Against the Critics

GIVES MacDONALD FORTY-EIGHT OVER

Premier Says Four Months No Test; Asquith Announces Support

LONDON, May 29.—By what may, under the circumstances, be regarded as the quite comfortable majority of 48, the Labor government tonight, in the house of commons, again succeeded in resisting an attack on its existence, when Sir William Joynson Hicks' motion to reduce the salary of the Labor minister, Tom Shaw, by £100, was rejected, after long debate.

The motion was merly a technical way of expressing disappointment of the government's policy respecting unemployment, and a similar motion was talked out in the house recently.

Prior to the recording of the vote, Premier MacDonald declared that in the event of a government defeat, Labor would go before the country in a general election.

On division, the vote stood 300 to 252, in the government's favor, H. H. Asquith, the Liberal leader, having announced that his party would not vote against the government.

Lloyd George Abstains

There were lively scenes of jubilation, and counter-demonstrations, when the vote became known, and shouts of "Where is Lloyd George?"

Lloyd George attended the Liberal meeting to decide upon what action should be taken on the vote, but had not returned to the house when Mr. Asquith announced the decision of his party, and his absence provoked gossip of a split among the Liberals.

The figures of the division show that 100 Liberals voted with the government, and 30 abstained from voting.

No doubt exists among well-informed political observers that the Conservative wing of the parliamentary opposition is quite ready to vote the government out of office at any moment.

Liberals Fear an Election

This, however, is not the state of affairs in the Liberal wing, because in the recent byelections the Liberal candidates fared so badly that the party does not dare to risk an appeal to the country at the present moment.

This situation explains the proceedings in the house today.

Prime Minister MacDonald, in defending his labor minister, did not trouble to outline any real program of reforms in any greater detail than he has already done in previous speeches.

wanted another general election. He reiterated that it was impossible for any government, in the brief space of four months, to have carried out large productive schemes of electrification, afforestation, and so on, but said he would test the sincerity of the opposition by introducing a bill to take compulsory powers for afforestation.

Finally, the prime minister declared he would treat the vote as a question of confidence, and would be quite ready to meet his oppenents on the platforms of the country.

MOVIE MAD

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR

Copyright, 1924, by Public Ledger Company.

Gloria King comes to Hollywood with the idea of making good in the movies, but becomes hardened by the life, and is foolish enough to marry Rolf Templeton, the great screen star, thinking it will be a step toward success in her career. He makes her his leading woman, and when the picture, "Stranger Souls," is leased, Gloria is a hit. Rolf makes an attempt to show his authority over her by carrying her downstairs in order to exploit her before his friends.

CHAPTER XX

An Embarrassing Situation

IT SEEMED to Gloria that she saw everything through a blur. She was miserably conscious of her undignified entrance, and in her confusion it seemed as if the room were full of people. Faces peered at her from all sides—faces that looked amused, surprised. Gloria wanted to strike out at them with her fists.

"Well, here she is!" Rolf called out, mockingly. "There wasn't much time, so I decided to bring her down just as I found her."

He held her for a moment, while the others looked on laughingly, and then he set her down in their midst. Slender as a reed in her blue dressing-gown, her soft hair massed about her face, her bare feet thrust into blue satin mules, Gloria stood there, and then suddenly she threw back her head and laughed.

"You'll forgive me, I know," she said, sweetly. "It wasn't my fault, I assure you. Given time, I should have dressed and come down to greet you properly, but you all know Rolf." And, with a little shrug and a gesture that was inimitable, she wrinkled up her face and smiled around the group.

Immediately there was much laughter and talk. Someone brought a wrap from the hall and threw it around Gloria's shoulders. But with a little shake of her head, she demurred.

"I really must run away. I know you'll excuse. Rolf is quite capable of doing the honors." And, with a little bow, she left the room, holding her draperies around her, and without casting a look in her husband's direction.

But once upstairs, she locked her door and sank shivering on the bed. Waves of fury swept over her, and there was suddenly born in her the knowledge that this must never happen again. She would leave him. She would not remain another night under his roof. No matter how much gossip resulted from it, no matter if her name were connected with scandal and her reputation ruined, nothing mattered but the fact that she must be free. Free! Why, the word had a magical sound. And yet she wondered duly if she would ever be free of Rolf Templeton. She wasn't the same girl she had been before her; he had succeeded in superimposing his life upon hers in such a way that she would never be free of the memory of him.

From downstairs there came the sounds of revelry, dancing feet, shrieks of laughter and general pandemonium. This would probably continue for the greater part of the night, and in the meantime she must get some sleep so as to feel physically well for her work the next day. Sure that both doors leading into the hall were locked, Gloria went to bed, and in a short time had drifted off to sleep. She was roused some time later by the rattling of the door-knob and a low voice speaking her name.

"Gloria, I must speak to you. Open the door and let me in."

She sprang out of bed, and, throwing on her dressing-gown, snapped on the lihg the. (??rherf on the light. The hands of her little white ivory clock pointed to half-past four.

"What do you want?" Even to her own ears her voice, ringing out, sounded incredibly hard and cold.

"Open the door; I must speak to you."

"You can't come in here now; tomorrow will have to do."

"Gloria, I tell you I must speak to you—I must!" And, as he spoke, it suddenly occurred to Gloria that, after all, she might as well have it out with him tonight. She was not in the least afraid. She felt as remote from him as though she had never married him at all. And so, with fingers that were quite steady, she turned the key in the lock, threw the door wide, and, still in that incredibly icy voice, said, evenly, "Come in."

CRANBROOK GYROS RECEIVE THEIR CHARTER

District Governor Loughieed Prepares An Impressive Installation Ceremony

NELSON MEMBERS AT INSTALLATION

Thirteen Make Trip; Alvin Knight Is Cranbrook President

CRANBROOK, B.C., May 29.—At a most enthusiastic initiation, the Cranbrook Gyro club, the baby Gyro organization of Gyro-International, was last night installed by Clarence Lougheed of Calgary, governor of Gyro-International district No. 8. The governor was assisted in the installation by the members of the Nelson club, who motored to the city 18 strong for the occasion.

In handling the gavel of office to the Cranbrook club president Alvin M. Knight, and the charter to the secretary, J. S. Black, Governor Lougheed impressed upon the officers and members of the newly formed club, the great work of Gyro and just what Gyro and friendship meant. He presented each of the other club officers with Gyro buttons.

Fifty at Banquet

The installation ceremony was proceeded by a monster banquet at which some 50 persons were seated. Gyros were present from Calgary, Victoria and Nelson. Governor Lougheed was accompanied by H. A. Williams of Calgary recently elected secretary-treasurer of the new northwestern district No. 8, which embraces the Calgary, Edmonton, Nelson and Cranbrook clubs.

Probably the hit of the evening was the "peptonism," displayed by the 13 Gyros from Nelson club. The enthusiasm and pep displayed by this bunch of livewires created a great impression on the members of the local club. Nelson's representatives won their way with their peppy and catchy songs which they rendered most enthusiastically and which were readily picked up by the local club members.

Governor Lougheed in the installation ceremony congratulated the Cranbrook club on its membership and on the spirit in which they had already gone into the work. He also complimented the members of the Nelson club in their first extension effort and on their assistance in putting the installation over in such a good manner.

The ceremony took place in the Knights of Pythias hall which was especially decorated for the occasion in the Gyro-International colors, purple and gold. Over the head of the table was the Crest of the Cranbrook club.

Guests of Honor

W. Myers, president of the Nelson club, was the chairman for the evening and among the guests of honor were: Alderman P. Fink, Thomas Flett, president of the Cranbrook Rotary club; W. R. Grubbe of the Cranbrook board of trade; V. Z. Manning, inspector of schools of Cranbrook; N. A. Wallinger, M.P.P., for Canbrook.

Greetings to the baby club of Gyro were received from many centers of Gyro-International and in all some 34 telegrams were received from clubs in the United States and Canada.

Nelson Members Present

Members of the Nelson club who made the trip for the occasion, comin by car were: W. M. Myers, president; W. A. Curran, secretary; I. R. Poole and Dr. E. G. Smythe, directors; Norman MacDonald, sergeant-at-arms. J. H. Robinson, E. W. Hanley, J. B. Curran, George Lambert, H. A. Johnston, E. L. Buchanan and Dave Wade.

Beside the lengthy toast list there were several musical selections by the Cranbrook club members. A. McDonald and McDougal Hogg contributed songs. While Bruce Robinson played several pieces at the piano. The Nelson Gyros left for home on Thursday morning.

Most of the songs sung on the stage by request are at the request of the singer.

Tourists From Alberta Visit Auto Park Here

With a big motor load that included two collie dogs and a tent on the back seat, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cormier of Kinuso, Alta., arrived at the tourist park Tuesday evening on the first lap of their trip from their home town, which is 191 miles northwest of Edmonton.

They said they had come through the Crow's Nest pass, and taken the boat at Kuskahook, and were going on yesterday without any particular destination in view.

Their opinion of the Nelson motor park was very favorable, and they felt the new building would undoubtedly add much to its attractiveness.

WOMEN PLAN CONSERVATIVE CLUB NELSON

Those on Executive of the Party Organize for Coming Election

A decision to form a Women's Conservative club in Nelson was reached at a committee meeting of the women on the executive of the Nelson Conservative association, held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. O. Rose. It was felt by those present that such a club could do much to aid in the work of the party in Nelson during the coming election, and that, to be most effective, the club should be organized and officers elected as soon as possible. It is planned to hold such an organization meeting within the next few days.

Those present at the committee meeting Wednesday night were Mrs. W. O. Rose, Mrs. James Gilker, Mrs. D. C. Fraser, Miss E. Hanna, Mrs. Clifford Irving, Mrs. G. B. Matthew, Mrs. William Douche, Mrs. James Brodie, Mrs. G. C. Arneson, Mrs. C. Choyce and Mrs. J. Holmes.

CHIEF INSPECTOR A KOOTENAY MAN

James McGregor, Kootenay Man, Who Died Wednesday Morning Lived Here

James McGregor, chief inspector of mines, who died in Victoria at the age of 65, Wednesday, lived in Nelson as inspector of mines for 20 years, from 1900 to 1920. Mining men of the district, to whom the news of his death came as a shock, speak of him in terms of the highest respect.

While his headquarters were in Nelson, where he made his home, he was of course known throughout the whole district, and had many friends and interests, particularly in Rossland.

He left here in 1920 to take the position of chief inspector of mines at Victoria.

Detists' chief work nowadays was not in pulling teeth, but in cooperating with physicians in disease preventive work, declared Dr. J. J. Conboy, president of the Ontario Dental association, in opening a four-day congress at Toronto Monday. Speaking on the reasons for tooth decay, Dr. Wallace Seccombe, Toronto, said: "beware of sugar" and advised against chewing.

GYROS RETURN FROM CEREMONY

Thirteen Local Members Took in Installation at Cranbrook

Thirteen members of the Nelson Gyro club returned home last night on the Crow boat from Cranbrook, where they, on Wednesday night, attended the installation of the Cranbrook Gyro club.

The representatives went to Cranbrook in cars driven by Dr. E. G. Smyth, W. M. Myers and E. L. Buchanan. They report the roads in bad condition, especially between Yahk and Creston. From Cranbrook to Yahk the roads are in good condition, with but few ruts. Between Yahk and Creston logging operations are being carried on over the road, thus cutting it up badly.

Rev. Dr. S. C. Murray, formerly minister of the Presbyterian church at High Bluff, has been appointed pastor of the Union church at Burnside by the Manitoba settlement committee.

A Personal Explanation

To the Electors of the Kaslo-Slocan Riding:

To those in outlying districts with whom I have not yet had the pleasure of becoming acquainted, I may say that for 18 years I have been working in the cause of Labor, and for the past 10 years have been experiencing the joys and tribulations of a fruit farmer.

My practical experience of pioneering on a stump ranch; firing for a donkey puncher in the tall timber; organizing in the farmers' political movement on the prairie; logging, journalism, school teaching, and in other ways, has given me a sympathetic insight into your problems with perhaps a small measure of ability to diagnose your economic troubles.

The other party in the field (for there is only one other, with various titles) has been in power in this and other countries for generations, and has not only failed to solve your difficulties, but has failed even to recognize them.

Instead of passing legislation to make it easier for you to make a living, they have, by increasing taxation and waste, made it constantly more difficult.

I am opposed to their Road Policy, which has been to build scenic highways for tourists, and am in favor of a policy which considers, first, convenient transportation facilities for producers.

I am opposed to their Education Policy, which apparently regards the rural school as a training ground for inexperienced teachers, and am in favor of using the city schools for breaking in new teachers before launching them into the difficulties of a rural school.

I am opposed to their Immigration Policy of spending money on misleading propaganda to entice new settlers to the country, and am in favor of a policy which rather devotes attention to making it possible for those who have already settled down, to settle up.

I am opposed to their Agricultural Policy, which wastes money on Demonstration Farms, which, by means of electric-lighted barns, and concrete drinking troughs for the swine, demonstrates nothing practical for the average settler, and am in favor rather of a policy which would show the farmers how to get at least laborers' wages out of what they produce.

The business of a government should be, not to pass laws restricting our liberties, but to see to it that the citizens of the Province are well fed and well clothed and well housed, and their children well educated, and to organize the business and industries of the Province to that end.

If this working-class viewpoint of the function of government appeals to you, then I solicit your support as the Labor Candidate.

Geological Survey Works Again Upon the Windermere Map

INVERMERE, B.C., May 29.—The geological survey's work is being continued again this year. Prof. J. F. Walker of the Graduate College of Princeton is again in charge, and has G. W. N. WOOLWORTH TO OPEN UP STORE HERE

One of Chain of Ten-Cent Stores in the Wallace Building Soon

A deal for a 10-year lease on the store building of J. H. Wallace on Baker street, now occupied by the Nelson Meat Market, was closed by wire Wednesday by the F. W. Woolworth company, which operates a great chain of 10-cent stores across the continent.

The company will take over the building tomorrow, and will open one of its stores here within a month or so.

The agent of the company that operates the Canadian system was in Nelson recently, and the headquarters at Toronto have confirmed the deal this week, as stated.

Will Extend Building

The wire to Mr. Wallace said the company's construction expert was now on his way to Nelson from Toronto. It is proposed to extend the store to the rear for its full width, by an addition that will be 30x50 on ground dimensions.

The 10-year lease carries an option for an extension for another five years, if the company desires it.

It is said the Nelson store will be the 1300th of the Woolworth system on this continent.

Recent wires have announced that the fortune of F. W. Woolworth at his death five or six years ago was $35,000,000 or $40,000,000, and that the holdings have since increased in value to $60,000,000.

A Charge Against Busy Canadians

That Canadian industrialists are not approachable is the broad charge laid by Alfred E. Henderson, traveler, author and lecturer, who, in an address before the Kiwanis club at Toronto recently, said that it was easier to have a chat with the King of Norway than to get a few minutes of the time of a Canadian business man.

Possibly there is some truth in Mr. Henderson's accusation, but at the same time there ought to be put forward a fairly plausible defence.

In most successful industries in Canada or elsewhere the head of the concern has his time pretty well scheduled in advance from the hour that he reaches the office till he ends his day's work. It must be admitted that casual callers must be refused admittance in many cases, because to receive them would incur the risk of throwing out of gear plans that had been worked out with some care in advance. Quite likely the Canadian business man tries to get through too much work in a stated time, and this inordinate hurry is often carried out in the office in order that opportunity may be afforded to accomplish what some people will be inclined to regard as a waste of time at some favored recreation.

It seems, however, that the man upon whom falls the main responsibility in any active concern will have to at least maintain a pose of aloofness, otherwise most of his hours would be taken up by people who have nothing else to do and whose missions are usually such that they could be dealt with more satisfactorily by some other person in the organization if they would only endeavor to discover who that person is. It does not seem reasonable to assert that Canadians are worse offenders than those of other nationalities. It is difficult to reach a busy man in any part of the world unless the matter is arranged in advance.

Beyond Reach of Wealth

Persons who delight in hobbies will have to find some other pastime hereafter than in collecting rare books, according to dealers in books and manuscripts. Most of the really unusual books have already been discovered, and there is little left for the bibliomaniac who loves to pore over old tomes. The day when someone could nose through a second-hand book store and purchase for a few pennies a literary gem that could later be sold for a vast fortune is about ended.

Even the richest person in the world could scarcely afford to set about acquiring a library of rare books at this late day. Since the majority of book treasures have already been discovered, they command a tremendous price that would speedily bankrupt the most plethoric pocket book. The richest man on this continent, according to Wilfred Voynich, discoverer of many rare manuscripts, including the Roger Bacon cipher manuscripts, could not afford now to get together such a collection as the Morgan collection. Even granting that he had the money, the prizes are all locked up and unobtainable.

So those who love to make collections will have to eliminate books and concentrate on beetles, butterflies and postage stamps. Yet there is nothing in the world comparable to the thrill that one who loves books can get out of browsing through an old book stall. The old ones may be dull and uninteresting, but the soul of one who can handle a book several hundred years old, without indulging in pleasing imaginative flights ient the many who have read t in times gone by, must be pra ic indeed. Even one who has totally forgotten his Latin gleaned from Caesar should be able to get a kick out of an old parchment manuscript.

The following recipes have been sent me in response to a reader's request:

Mrs. C.M.: Liver Balls for Soup—Put one-half of a pound of calves' liver through a meat grinder, add one cup of grated bread or biscuit which has been soaked in a little sweet milk, the beaten yolks of two eggs, a pinch of salt, a little nutmeg, one tablespoon of flour and the two beaten egg whites. Form with a spoon into balls and drop these into soup, letting boil slowly for 10 or 15 seconds with the pot covered.

Mrs. C.M.A.: Liver balls of Dumplings—Put one pound of liver through food chopper, then add to it one-half of a cup of stale bread crumbs, one beaten egg, a pinch of ground nutmeg, two tablespoons of cracker crumbs, the grated rind of one-half a lemon, salt and pepper to suit taste, a little chopped parsley, a little thyme, one-half of a raw onion chopped, and enough flour to stiffen. Shape into balls or drop from a spoon into hot soup stock, and let soak for 20 minutes. This mixture is also good fried. Sometimes I use ground beef instead of the liver.

Mrs. H.J.M.: Liver Balls—Mix together one and one-half of a pound of finely ground liver, salt and pepper to suit individual taste, one beaten egg, one-half of a cup of bread crumbs and flour enough to make a stiff batter. Drop by spoonfuls into boiling soup and let cook till tender.

Mrs. A. G.: Liver Balls — Put through your meat chopper three or four slices of liver, a little fat from ham or bacon, one small onion and a little celery or parsley. Add two beaten eggs, two slices of bread soaked in cold water then squeezed, a pinch of salt and pepper and one-half of a cup of flour. Mix all well together, form into balls, and drop in boiling salted water or soup. Let cook one-half of an hour.

Mrs. A.R.: Liver Balls—Wash one and one-half of a pound of beef liver and shred from its skin. To the shredded liver add the grated crumbs of six hard rolls, three beaten eggs, one large kernel of garlic mashed well, two tablespoons of farina, and season with one-half of a teaspoon of salt and a few grains of pepper. Mix all the ingredients well together and form into balls on a floured pastry board. Also flour hands when rolling the liver balls to prevent sticking. Drop in boiling soup.

THE CALL OF THE MOUNTAINS

My home was far off on the prairie,
Far away from the city or sea;
But voices I had often heard calling
Called louder than ever to me;
Those spirit voices, sweet sounding,
kept calling me on;
They would never allow me to rest.
One morn I arose with the first streak of dawn,
And those voices were calling me west;

I must go and see what they're wanting
And try to follow their lead;
Then perhaps, away off in the somewhere,
I shall find a home; indeed
I go, and I'm led to a city,
To join the vast army there,
And let saunter along with those I might meet,
Stifling for lack of pure air.

Methought I had money to last me awhile
Till work I should find, no doubt;
But I walked the streets for many a mile,
Sought work till I was down and out—
Yes, down and out on the city streets
I tramped behind a smile,
Hunting around for the job I might meet;
Sometimes I'd rest awhile.

I ask for a job; they ask, can I work!
Why, what an insult to fling!
Do they think for a moment I'd e'en try to shirk
Some toil that the day might bring
Toil that would bring me a loaf of bread
And lift my dark thoughts out of hell!
Do they think for a moment my spirit's so dead
That I cannot do work very well—

Work! I've toiled the day long by the sweat of my brow,
And at night ope'd the door for to see
The Aurora Borealis spread out its great light
Over the prairie and me.
But those were the days, away out on the plains,
When the heart of me still was young,
And memory of laughter and joy still remains,
And the dance, and the songs that were sung.

When from fields during harvest the sheaves were being drawn
To the threshing machine, with its lively din,
Work then was a thing that rose with the dawn
And stopped as the night drew in.
Then the big red moon of that clear harvest night
Brought us all a sweet sleep and a rest;
Our souls for awhile went away in a flight,
Till the sun chased the moon out west.

Hark! those voices I heard on the prairie
Are calling again to me;
They want me to come to the mountains,
Away from the city, but near the sea.
The very thought of leaving that city
Brings peace to my tired soul;
I am heading away for the mountains,
With a small track of land for my goal.

That bleak land shall be turned to a garden,
With fruit and flowers galore,
And many happy, wonderful hours
I'll spend,
Making a home for myself and one more.
Weary travelers that pass by the wayside
Shall stop and look around,
To wonder why here, 'midst the mountains,
A place to rest and sleep can be found.

Ye who dwell in the city
And want to see life at its best,
Come out here for awhile to our valleys
And work right along with the rest;
Then judge for yourselves where life is
Life that is good for body and soul.
Go back; bid goodbye to the city,
And work right ahead for a goal.

Make that goal at the foot of a mountain,
In a cabin built for you and one more,
With a path leading on to a fountain,
Where travelers may drink at your door.
And for those who are footsore and weary
Build a bench by the side of the road,
Where they may rest for awhile from their journey
And awhile drop their burdensome load.

Then perhaps, away off in the distance,
When the mists of the hills roll away,
One traveler at least shall look backward
To bless that fountain and bench each day.
And I hope, in this fruit-laden valley,
'Midst these beautiful flowers and trees,
My soul shall hear the great Reveille
Wafted here on the soft sea breeze.

Styles

BY LENORE

For evening wear, fashion dictates only that the silhouette be soft and clinging, and leaves the rest to the fancy of the wearer. Satin, crepe de chine, chiffon, crepes georgette and Roma, chiffon with lace and all lace, are all recommended. These are all equally modish, and one's choice is only to be governed by individual taste and the extent to which one lays one's self out for the evening outfit.

The safety line in colors is white; the more delicate shades of rose; and various tones of yellow. The gown in the sketch is in a dull tone of yellow. The soft folds of the satin catch and reflect the evening light in a manner most flattering to both the dark and the light haired woman. An oriental atmosphere is contributed to the gown by borders of dull red and old blue.

For the dinner gown of lace, Chantilly and Spanish laces are used in black, blonde, and tan, often over colored slips of delicate pink and apricot.

That Body of Yours

More Than Play

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright act.)

Did you ever stop to think when you passed the municipal playground, what a wonderful work the civic authorities are really doing for the youngsters?

The "shut in" youngster is in the majority there, and the future welfare of the city from a health standpoint is dependent upon him. He, and the family he begets, will be just that much stronger, physically and morally, for what the playground has done for him.

It is natural for every small animal to play.

Why the mothers of domestic animals such as the dog and cat play with their puppies and kittens. The play will be so vigorous and apparently so fierce at times, that there would appear to be some temper in it very often.

The animal mother knows that its offspring must learn to play, to balance itself, to defend itself, to strike when necessary.

This is not only that the health and strength shall be maintained, but that the other qualities essential to an all round life shall be developed.

And so the playground or group games, is a product of the minds of thoughtful men and women, who have forseen what the crowded life of those a bit larger, overhead apparatus to keep the largest boys and girls, are provided.

And the best of all, every youngster from the youngest to the oldest is encouraged to play in the group games.

Previous to the playground idea, only the hardy youngsters, or those athletically inclined, entered into the games.

Now the playground supervisor gets every youngster to take part.

Thus the child gets first a real foundation of health in the development of heart and lungs, because all these games involve some running. This running, calling as it does for an increased amount of pure blood to the large muscles of the thigh, means that the heart and lungs will get exactly what they need—exercise. No other way under heaven to strengthen them.

Further, in the examination of recruits for the army no young man was ever turned down for having a chest too small for the requirements, who had ever played any games as a youngster. If his chest was too small it was because very often his parents did not let him play any of the games when he was young.

While Sunlight Works

YOU have more leisure hours on wash day if you use Sunlight Soap. Away downstairs in the wash tub this wonderful soap will do the labour. You rub the things with Sunlight—you put them to soak—and then its penetrating, cleansing ingredients search through and through the fibres, loosening even the hardest dirt or the oldest grease stains completely. No wash board rubbing, no boiling, no hard work. Then, with rinsing, the dirt runs away and your clothes are ready for the line, purified and snowy clean.

Wash day should not take your labour—only Sunlight's gentle strength.

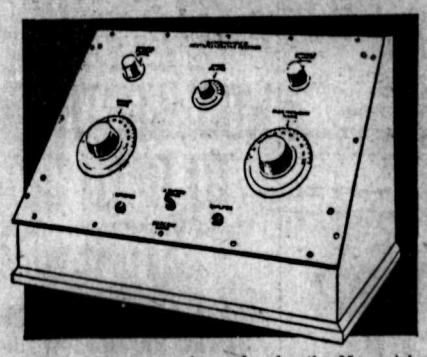
Marconi Still Leads



The Marconiphone III (Neutragenerative) receiver has been chosen as the Grand Prize for all Canada by the Department of the Interior in the essay contest on "How to Save Our Forests" which the Federal government is conducting in conjunction with newspapers all over the Dominion.

This choice was only made after the Marconiphone III had been subjected to the most rigorous competitive tests by the officials of the department in Ottawa. In these tests the leading radio receivers on the Canadian market were placed in competition with this Marconi six-valve set.

In addition to this order, the Marconi company has been called upon to supply Marconiphone II receivers as district prizes offered by fourteen leading newspapers, including the Montreal Herald, Vancouver Sun, Calgary Albertan and Manitoba Free Press.

CRESTON, B.C., May 29.—There has been considerable activity in real estate here the past fortnight, the most important deal being when W. Fraser of Nelson purchased the Creston bakery from Bert Norris, who started the business a little over three years ago. Mr. Fraser has already taken possession, Mrs. Norris and family leaving Friday for the coast, where they will visit for a few months, Mr. Norris planning to leave in a few days for England to visit his aged father, whose health is failing rapidly.

Changes in residential property include the purchase of the James Stocks residence on the upper end of Victoria avenue by Mrs. Charles Cottedill, who gets possession almost at once, the Stocks planning to immediately erect a house on the Conway ranch adjoining town which they now own.

Sam Whittaker, who had charge of the Canadian Pacific railway depot here during 1922 and since then has been on the dispatching staff at Crow's Nest, has just been given the permanent appointment as operator at Fernie.

Roy Browell of Watrous, Sask., who has had charge of one of the trucks on the tie haul from the Charles O. Rodgers mill to the Canyon siding, has returned home after spending about two months here.

Rev. Father James McCandlish, C.S.S.R., who entered the priesthood from St. Patrick's parish, in which he was born, now returns to the church as Superior of the Redemptorist Order and pastor of St. Patrick's church, McCaul street, Toronto.

ALL good things that serve the sweet tooth and tickle the palate flow to the land of Evangeline, that smiling, favored realm of Acadia, the setting of Longfellow's famous romantic poem, where the making of chocolate confections supreme by Moirs has added greater distinction to an enchanting locality.

Fruits, flavors, nuts and spices from the Orient, from tropical islands and the favored gardens of the world are gathered by Moirs. But all the enticing ingredients of Moir's chocolates are not tropic grown: some are Canada's very own— for instance, sweet clover honey and the rarest of syrups from our own abundant maples.

And when to these ingredients have been added the richest of Canada's cream and butter, is it any wonder that Moir's come to you—a veritable treasure box of the world's most delicious tit-bits.

Social Happenings In Nelson

This column is being conducted by Mrs. M. J. Vigneux. All news of a social nature, including receptions, private entertainments, personal items, marriages, etc., will appear in this column. Telephone Mrs. Vigneux.

White and lavender lilies, bridal wreath and honeysuckle blossoms made a pretty setting for the initial fete of the season given by the Children of Mary on the spacious lawn of Mrs. A. C. Yoder, Baker street, yesterday afternoon. This pretty scene was centered by a very attractive maypole, about which 12 pretty maidens tripped daintily. Under the spreading branches of a hawthorne tree the candy booth was most attractive, its coloring of lavender and gold decorations being pretty. This was attended to during the afternoon most ably by Miss Yvonne Lapointe, Miss Joyce Smith and Miss Helen Scanlan. The always popular bake table was carried out in a decoration of red, white and blue, emblematic of Canada, with Miss Edna Marquis and Miss Siamonne Bourgeois in charge.

The fancywork or novelty table was attended to by Mrs. J. Vivian and Miss Lillian Jackson. This was arranged in a color scheme of red and white streamers. The colors carried out at the ice cream booth, where a rushing business during both afternoon and evening was done, were a combination of shell pink and white, Miss Cecile Bourgeois, Miss Ada Buckley and Miss Ida Payant having charge of this booth. The tea table was presided over during the afternoon by Mrs. George Benwell and Mrs. A. C. Yoder, who were assisted by Miss Margaret Scanlan, Miss Marie Costello, Miss Josephine Varseveld, Miss Verna Dunbar, Miss Hazel Jackson, Miss Yvette Bourgeois, Mrs. Thomas Dunbar, Miss Madeline Gallagher, Mrs. A. C. Yoder, Miss Grace Dunbar, Miss Lorna McLean, Miss Kathleen Varseveld, Mrs. L. McKinnon, Miss Lena DeKinder, Miss Florence Jones, Miss Stella Scully, Miss Helen Tregillus and Mrs. Lillian Jackson. The secretary of the sodality, Miss Edna Marquis, acted as cashier for the afternoon.

In the evening the lawn was beautifully illuminated by a variety of Japanese lanterns, all lending a great effect to the scene of pleasure. The president and vice-president of the sodality, Miss Adeline Choquette and Miss Miriam Hughes, composed the reception committee.

A most interesting musical program was given, with the following contributing: Saint Aloysius Junior Boys' orchestra; piano solo, selected, Miss Evelyn Bilton; duet, "Fairies' Dream," Miss Jean Burns and Miss Ella Desjardins; piano solo, selected, Charles Yoder; maypole dance, members of St. Agnes sodality; duet, "A Day of Sunshine," Annabelle Dunk and Margaret Gagnon; piano solo, selected, Joseph Vingo; duet, "La Fete Joyeuse," Miss Miriam Hughes and Miss Florence Kellogg; piano solo, selected, Miss Joyce Smith; duet, "Dancing On the Lawn," Miss Margaret Rahal and Miss Lucille Donovan; piano solo, selected, Miss Margaret Gagnon; duet, "Sweet Violets," Miss Annabelle Dunk and Miss Priscilla Gelinas; piano solo, selected, Miss Florence Kellogg; piano solo, selected, Miss Lillian Jackson; vocal solo, selected, Miss Enid Etter, assisted at the piano by Miss Eva Irwin; vocal solo, selected, Miss Joyce Smith.

At the conclusion of the evening W. J. Meagher on behalf of the sodality voted hearty thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Yoder as being most hospitable hosts.

Cartmel Holds Four Courts of Revision in Creston Riding

CRESTON, B.C., May 29.—John Cartmel of Nelson, registrar of voters for Creston riding, had an exceptionally busy time of it at the courts of revision at Creston valley points. In addition to sittings at Creston Mr. Cartmel also visited Kitchener, Wynndel and Boswell, and at all points there must have been a total of almost 200 new names added.

Out of some 2400 names that will be shown on the Creston riding it is expected that at least 900 of these will be at the eight polling places in Creston valley.

Russel Leamy of Creston is the returning officer.

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Church had a very successful Mayday fair at the parish hall Saturday afternoon, at which the sale of sewing, cooking and produce, along with the receipts from the serving of tea and ice cream, brought in almost $90.

Mrs. H. A. McKowan of Cranbrook, the East Kootenay authoress, is here at present on her usual spring vacation at the ranch home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cartwright.

Victor Carr and son, Bertell, are visitors at Cranbrook this week, where the latter is undergoing treatment at the hands of Dr. Green.

The visitors will be met by a party of officials with motor cars at Golden, and after a trip of over 70 miles up the Columbia valley will be taken through the canyon for a short distance up the Banff-Windermere motor highway to the Radium hot springs, where an executive meeting will be held and the baths enjoyed. KIDNAPED GIRL HAS HARD TIME; LOVE TRIUMPHS

TELLS HER PITIFUL STORY TO VETERAN

Ex-Doughboy Fights Villian; Marries Girl and Adopts Baby

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 29.—The story of the asserted kidnaping of Hazel Field, 19 years of age, who said she formerly lived in Los Angeles, was disclosed in the arrest and arraignment here of Don Holmes, alias Elward Mills, and a woman who gave her name as Yetta Raitate. The couple were held on $1000 bail each for preliminary examination. In addition to the kidnaping charge, the suspects were accused of contributing to the delinquency of the girl.

Romance triumphed over the sordid side of the case, for the Fields girl became the wife of Howard Foughty, a World war veteran, who was responsible for liberating the girl from her asserted bondage.

Posed as Sister

According to the girl's story in court, she was walking about in Los Angeles in June, 1922, when Holmes and his woman companion came along in an automobile in which they said they were making a camping tour of the west and urged her to accompany them. The girl said she consented at first, but later was mistreated by the man. She was told, she said, that she was to pose as a sister of the man, and did so.

Three months ago, she testified, a baby was born to her, and the man threatened harm to the child if she told her story to anyone. Several days ago the party, still traveling in the automobile, came to this country, and the man who was driving picked up Foughty to give him a lift. The girl waited her chance, and at last told Foughty of her troubles. When Holmes began to abuse the girl, Foughty defended her and, according to the former soldier, Holmes picked up a gun and pulled the trigger.

Knocked Him Down

The weapon was unloaded, and when that became evident, Fou rushed on him, and felled him a blow to the chin. Holmes seized a block of wood and kn his opponent unconscious. This pened near Lake Hodges, a miles south of Escondido, in county, the testimony revealed.

Leaving Foughty and the Holmes and his woman compa ran to the automobile, and p Escondido, where they obtain marriage license and were ma Soon after the ceremony they traced and arrested.

Then Foughty told the girl he care for her and the baby, and day they obtained a license were married.

Foughty told court attaches will do all in his power to see th wife and the child are well for.

HAROLD LLOYD A PROUD DADDY

Film Comedian's Worried Look as He Haunts Hospital Changes to Smile

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Harold Lloyd, motion picture comedian, may be "girl shy" in pictures, but fate willed differently in real life, when it made him father of a baby girl, born at 12:30 p. m. at the Good Samaritan hospital a few nights ago. Mrs. Lloyd, known professionally as Mildred Davis, and the baby, are reported to be dong splendidly.

The new addition to the Lloyd family, who was to have been named Harold had she not been a girl, weighs eight pounds, according to Dr. Titian Coffey, and is as husky a baby as might be desired by any parents.

Lloyd spent the entire forenoon at the hospital, pacing back and forth in the corridors. According to hospital attaches, he was as worried a prospective father as other husbands, unknown to fame.

Every preparation had been made for the reception of the newcomer, except the choice of a name for a baby girl. Baby clothes, such as only film babies and the children of the very rich can ever hope to own, are neatly folded in drawers at the Lloyd home at 502 South Irving boulevard, and a cradle is waiting in the nursery.

It was declared at the hospital that Mildred Davis may be able to leave the hospital in 10 days.

Meanwhile she and the comedian are receiving hundreds of congratulatory calls and telegrams from friends.

Given Divorce as Golden Wedding Day Approaches

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Hannah T. Sherman and her husband, George N., will not celebrate their golden wedding anniversary next month, because they have just been divorced in Judge Clock's department of the superior court. Mrs. Sherman was awarded the decree of the grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Sherman and her husband both are past 70 years of age. She charged that he left the house, took up his abode in a chicken-coop, then sent an emissary to her, stating he would return home if their two children left. She rejected the proposal and moved away with the children.

The court decided that Sherman had left first, and therefore gave the decree to the wife. Judge Clock also ordered that the community property be divided between them.

Logic either proves or disproves all things, but it doesn't accomplish any of them.

NO MORE ROBBERS FOR LADY IN LOS

Mrs. Lee Turns Down Officer Who Wishes to Inquire About Burglary

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 29.—Burglars wishing to ransack the home of Mrs. Frank R. Lee, 829 North Wilson street, please do not apply at the front. If they do they won't get in. Absolutely not.

Detective Lieutenants Barr and Hoy found that out in the following manner:

With C. R. Moore, admitted theif in charge, they were touring Ilhambra where Moore is asserted to have been active during his pre-jail days. While he was reported to be familiar with the inside of Alhambra's exclusive residences, his memory of exterior views, gained at night, was a trifle vague. But he was doing his best to pick them out.

"Now, that looks like one there that I visited," he told the officers again and again as they toured on. "If I could just look on the inside, I'd be sure."

With that information in hand, the usual formula was for Hoy to go to the door, introduce himself, ask if the home had been bugarlarized recently and finally gain admittance for Moore to cinch the argument. About 15 homes had been visited when the prisoner thought he recognized something familiar about the general proportions of Mrs. Lee's home.

LandyLady Looks Suspicious

Hoy presented his six feet some odd inches at the entrance. Mrs. Lee appeared, and opened the screen door about three inches. To say that she viewed the officer and his charge with suspicion and alarm was to state it mildly, the officers declared.

Hoy produced his badge, and followed the usual formula. Hal the place been robbed? Mrs. Lee advised him tartly that it certainly had. The door closed further. Hoy talked faster. The door closed altogether. Then—

"Nora! Nora! Here's those burglars back again." Mrs. Lee shouted to someone in the rear.

Hoy, during many active years on the police department, has been called many things, but that was a new one on him. In vain did he try to explain. He and Barr held a conference. They called on Captain of Detectives Shaw of the Alhambra police department in full uniform and took him back with them.

Nora, a younger woman, put in a appearance, and the three officers were admitted.

COLLEGE ATHLETES PROVE BENEFICIAL

Old-Time 'Kid' Tricks Fall Away; Athletes Take Their Place Says Professor

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., May 28. —"Athletics make it unnecessary for the modern college youth to put the cow in the chapel, to carve his numerals on the water tower and to upset the town in general. The college pranks of our fathers now find expression on the gridiron and track."

These assertions in defence of the purpose of college athletics were made to Wabash college students by Prof. George H. Tapy, head of the department of psychology at Wabash college and a widely known lecturer, psychologist and teacher.

"It may be that colleges place the emphasis too strongly on athletics," he said. "It may be that students permit athletic sports to reduce their interest in things that are more worth while. But play is relaxation. It is a reversion to primitive activities. In a world of competition and concentration play rests the individual and socializes the group."

YOUNG GIRL WILL ATTEMPT LONG SWIM

Lillian Harrison Will Try to Cross English Channel; Swim River Plata

LONDON, May 28.—Miss Lillian G. Harrison, the 20-year-old Anglo-Argentine girl who was the first person to swim across the River Plata, and who hopes to be the first of her sex to swim the English channel, took her first plunge into the channel since her recent arrival in England.

Miss Harrison and her mother were spending the day at Brighton, and the younk swimmer could not resist the temptation to take a dip. She donned a little bathing suit, dived into the deep water and swam with vigorous stroke far out from the pleasure pier, but the still icy cold water prevented the occasion from being a serious start at training.

Home runs may be more common nowadays, but they were by no means unknown in the earlier years of the big leagues. The records show, for instance, that 13 "homers" were scored in a single game between the Boston and Washington clubs in 1888.

Nearly every man you meet is posing as his own ideal.

LIVELY BALL CHANGED GAME

Pitchers Not Cause of Heavy Hitting, Critics Aver; Use Larger Balls

NEW YORK, May 27.—Heavy hitting, which was one of the features of the early weeks of the 1924 major league baseball season might be accepted as proof that it was the lively ball more than the decline in pitching that changed the modern game.

Introduction of the lively ball, although the magnates stoutly denied any purpose of scattering Babe Ruth's around the two circuits, came shortly after the rule had been passed against the use of any foreign substance on the ball as an aid to the pitchers and they joined to bring about a wild orgy of slugging.

It was an obvious fact that something was wrong and as long as the league presidents persisted in claiming that no changes had been made in the construction of the ball, it had to be accepted that the pitchers had been handicapped too heavily by the rule against the spitter, the shiner, the emery ball and their first cousins of the trick trade.

Umpires were orderd to toss out of play any ball that bore the slightest evidence of tampering and they were so zealous in carrying out the strict letter of the rule that they would throw a new ball in play whenever a ball became soiled or when the hide became scuffed enough for a pitcher to get a hold on it that might make it do tricks.

Hitting, once a feature of the game, became so common that it was in danger of spoiling interest and taking all the science out of the game. To correct this evil the magnate last winter recommended that balls be kept in play longer, so that pitchers would not be forced to work almost entirely with new balls.

Results Obtained

Results were almost immediately apparent at the start of the season. Pitchers worked more effectively and it was noticeable that the volume of hitting had been decreased.

At the same time, however, it was shown when a heavy slugger took hold he got just as much of a drive as he did in the past three seasons. While pitchers were able to hold their opposition to fewer hits, they were unable to keep the ball from taking its old ride when it got in front of a heavy swinging club.

In the first two weeks of the major league pennant races there were more home runs hit than there were during the corresponding period of the 1923 season.

The total home runs hit in both leagues during the first two weeks of the 1924 season was 75, against 67 hit in the same period the year previous. This year showed a decrease of four in the National league and an increase of 12 in the American league.

Some critics were of the opinion that the better form of the pitchers at the start of the pennant races this season was the result of better physical condition. It was pointed out that practically every manager in the major leagues was, more or less, decided about his infield and his outfield when he took his squad south.

HIGH COST OF BALL UMPIRES

His Umps Now a Problem in Major Leagues; Is Worth a Lot at Times

Umpires' salaries have risen along with those of the players in the major leagues in the last 20 years.

Twenty years ago, the top salary for the good guesser was $1500. He paid his own living expenses, but the league was sufficiently generous to buy the railroad tickets. In those days, by the way, a dollar was 100 cents, not 30 as in these high and riotous modern times.

And while their money went a long way in those days, no umpire was able to retire or buy large blocks of real estate out of his salary. When the campaign had run its course, most of them had to go to work once more until April.

"Them Days Gone Forever"

Nowadays, the high cost of umpire is a problem in the majors, as well as in the minor leagues. A generation ago, four umpires were sufficient. Their combined salary amounted to $6000. To this sum, the league had to add $6000 to $9000 for traveling expenses. A circuit could get along on an outlay of from $12,000 to $15,000 per season for umpires.

At present, each major league has a regular staff of eight umpires and usually carries two extra to provide for emergencies. This change was made necessary by the adoption of the double umpire system some seasons ago. The average salary is $6000. Hotel and railroad expenses bring up the average per man to $5000 for the season. Each league can hardly hope to escape now without a gross umpire expense of $100,000 to $110,000.

Recruit umpires, of course, are not paid as much as the regulars. The new man usually starts at $3500 and is raised year by year as his efficiency warrants until his salary reaches the $9000 level.

Such a salary, when it is taken into consideration that he is free from October until April to engage in another gainful occupation, should give the average umpire sufficient funds to keep from turning panhandler when the day comes for him to quit baseball.

But sometimes, on a July afternoon, when there are a lot of close ones to call, and the umpire must fight both the heated atmosphere and the torrid temper of players who dislike to have a decision go against them in a close game, the hard-worked arbiter is wont to believe that the job is not worth keeping at $100,000 bucks per annum.

Baseball

AS BIG LEAGUERS PLAY IT

Which player receives the throw to second from the catcher on a steal?

Answered by

WALTER (RABBIT) MARANVILLE

Shortstop, Pittsburgh Pirates; a superfine shortstop and one of the most colorful players in the game.

The second baseman is the player who decides whether or not the shortstop or the second baseman is to receive the throw. The man on the second bag is the one who gets the signal from the catcher as the ball is being pitched. For example, with a right-handed hitter, the catcher signals for a fast ball.

The law of averages says that right-handed hitters in the majority of cases will hit a fast ball toward the right field (there are exceptions); therefore, the shortstop should cover the play unless the right-handed hitter is an exception and a dead left-field hitter. Such a play would be the second baseman's, and it is he who must decide, and very quickly, just how to handle it.

JUNIOR GAME TONIGHT; SENIORS ARE UNDECIDED

One footer game is scheduled for this evening, commencing at 5:30 o'clock, when the Wolves will meet the St. Joseph's boys.

A senior game was originally scheduled for this evening, the Saints meeting the Macs, but owing to some misunderstanding between officials of the league, the McLeary team management last night stated that their team would not take the field. The Saints will, however, be on the grounds.

STOCKS MOVE IN A NARROW RANGE

Oil Pressure Brings Decline, Later Counteracted; the Market Is Spotty

NEW YORK, May 29.—Stock prices fluctuated within narrow areas in today's market, which was characterized by the usual preholiday business. Prices drifted downward at the start when selling pressure was directed against the oil shares on unfavorable interpretation of reduction statistics and unconfirmed rumors of further price cuts. Cosden dropped a point or so, but a brisk rally followed later, particularly in the Pan-American issues.

Establishment of new high prices for the year by North American, Virginia Railway & Power, Public Service & New Jersey and International Railway of Central America preferred was counteracted by the recording of new lows of ordinarily inactive stocks, including Wilson Company preferred, Sco preferred, Brooklyn Edison, Onyx Hosiery preferred, Butte & Superior, Owen's Bottle, International Nickel preferred and Jewel Tea.

With the exception of American Can, which closed ¼ lower at 102½, all the so-called pivotal stocks showed small net gains.

Railroad shares showed little change.

Call money opened at 3 per cent and eased to 2¾, which is the lowest since March 21, 1924, when it closed at 2½ per cent.

Total stock sales, 425,100 shares.

What is the function of a freight broker?

Answered by
E. R. DRAKE
Chicago Trust Cmpany Financial and International Trade Writer

Freight brokers attend to the work of securing steamer space for exporters or, in case of full cargoes, they charter vessels for exporters. The exporter places a great deal of faith in his freight broker to secure him good fast acccmmodations at reasonable rates.

The broker must be constantly in touch with incoming ships which are open to charter for full cargoes and he must have the available space of other ships listed so that he may know where to get space for customers who desire it. This is true for both present and future space.

Whenever space is engaged by a broker the ship pays him a commission on the freight. Some freight brokers also act as freight forwarders, thus making for a mixmum of efficiency.

PRAIRIE CROP IS NOW SOWN

Alberta Conditions Are Ideal; Saskatchewan Is Early, Manitoba Late

WINNIPEG, May 29.—Marked improvement in weather conditions throughout the prairie provinces has proved a welcome boon to the western farmer generally.

Despite the lateness of seeding operations and the unusually cold weather during the past month recent rains and rise in temperature have contributed to rapid growth.

Wheat seeding is completed in the three provinces with the exception of a few isolated districts, while good progress is reported in the seeding of coarse grain.

Farmers in the Regina district report that crops are slightly ahead of last year, and in some districts wheat has reached the height of 3 inches. In the Prince Albert district lack of precipitation has somewhat retarded growth, but rain is forecast.

The season's crop prospects in Alberta are regarded as the most ideal in many years. A steady but gentle downpour of last week-end over a wide area proved very beneficial.

In Manitoba the crop is not much later than in former years, although the lateness of the seeding season materially reduced the acreage sown to wheat. There is ample time yet for the development of a good crop and notwithstanding the unfavorable weather conditions during the early spring "no fear need be entertained concerning the crop," declared Premier Bracken, minister of agriculture for Manitoba, following a visit through the Neepawa district.

CANADA NOT AT WAR WITH TURKEY

Senator Dandurand Says That Not Involved in Lausanne Repudiation

OTTAWA, May 29.—The government attitude in regard to the Treaty of Lausanne was further outlined in the senate today, when Senator Griesbach asked whether Canada was still at war with Turkey, and if not, by what act had the war been brought to a close.

Senator Dandurand, leader of the government, replied that Canada had entered on war with Turkey when war had been declared by His Majesty on Turkey, or by Turkey on His Majesty. A state of war had ceased to exist recently, when His Majesty had ratified the Lausanne treaty of peace with Turkey.

Soviet Delegates Will Attend Levee; Plan Red Facings

LONDON, May 29.—The Russian delegates to the Anglo-Soviet conference apparently intend to accept the invitation extended to them to attend the King's Levee in St. James palace on Monday, for they are discussing how they will dress.

The cards of invitation specify "uniform for evening dress." As the Soviet delegates do not possess uniforms, they must adopt the alternative. They seem, however, not to favor the idea of hiding, the Communist red on such a conspicuous occasion.

The Daily Herald, the Labor organ, quotes M. Hitner, first secretary of the delegation, as saying:

"There have been several proposals made, and possibly the final decision will be to wear black evening dress with red facings on the coats."

ELEVATOR COST FORTY PER CENT OVER ESTIMATE

But Estimate Was Made in Montreal and It Was Rush Work

BILLS OF LADING DO FOR RECEIPTS

Commission Probes Disposal of Salvaged Grain; Not an Overage

VANCOUVER, May 29.—(By Canadian Press)—Costs of elevator work in excess of estimates, the contract for the construction of the Woodward elevator, and its relations to the British-Oriental Grain company, and minor details of salvaging grain, were problems before the royal grain commission here today.

C. B. Howe, engineer, explained that the estimates for the elevator superstructure completed was $359,000, and the actual cost $504,000. The overrun he estimated to be 40 per cent.

E. F. Carter, consulting engineer for the John Metcalf company, estimated this difference at 34 per cent, and said it was occasioned by rush construction, the necessity for getting material on short notice, and dislocation of shop routine. The estimate, too, had been made in Montreal, and was based upon ordinary working conditions.

He testified that when the tenders for equipment began to come in, it was obvious that there was to be an "overrun." The time limit, he insisted, was a strong factor in the extra cost. The shipping house, future shipping galleries and power requirements were incapable to comparison with a mere storage construction job, he explained. The elevator work was done with a view of increasing capacity in future.

By the re-examination of Colin MacLean, elevator superintendent for the harbor, it was disclosed that at present the elevator holds bills of lading for 1,148,000 bushels of wheat shipped. These represent cars loaded or rolling toward Vancouver, and were accepted, by agreement with the trade, to facilitate the traffic of the port, in lieu of warehouse receipts. The figures change daily as cars arrive and ships are loaded.

Julian Handled Salvage Crew

Charles Julian was called to explain a check for $445 in payment for grain he had received a warehouse check for. He is the marine chief of police for the harbor board. The check had been cashed through the Pacific Construction company.

A letter was produced which Superintendent MacLean had written the board, in reference to salvaging grain in the loading sheds, and cleaning up the sweepings from cars. He had employed Julian to find men to do the work. The grain salvaged had been passed through the elevator, and the two government inspectors had given it a grade. He had handed the warehouse receipt for some 488 bushels of No. 3 wheat to Julian.

Julian said the cash received for the salvaged grain was used to pay some 10 or 15 laborers who did the the salvaging work.

Chief Counsel Woods asked very particularly about the details, and G. H. Allen, counsel for the Alberta government, made the suggestion that the salvaged grain should have been credited to the warehouse, and accounted for as overage, under the rules.

ENCHANTRESS WILL CONVEY ADMIRALTY

Recommissioning of Yacht for Fleet Review Occasions a Hot Debate

LONDON, May 29 (By Canadian Press Cable).—A statement made in the house of commons today by Charles Ammon, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, in reply to a question, that the admiralty yacht Enchantress was to be put into commission again in 10 days in order to allow the board of admiralty officially to attend the review of the fleet in July and to inspect the ships, led to a torrent of questions being asked.

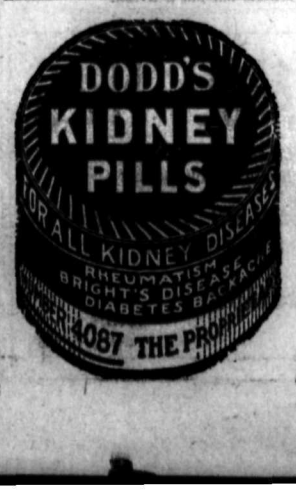
George Lansbury, Labor member, wanted to know why the Labor government required any yacht which the coalition had laid up.

Secretary Ammon replied that it was not the government but the admiralty that required the yacht. Hen mentioned that the cost involved in recommissioning the Enchantress would be £700.

Neil MacLean, Labor, asked whether this money could be put to better use in other ways.

Mr. Ammon said it would be very much cheaper to use the Enchantress for the purpose mentioned than if the members of the admiralty board attended the review by other means.

This explanation was received with laughter.



KIDNAPED WHILE ON RESCUE PARTY

Letter From Canadian Missionary Says Seven Persons Were in Peril

NEW YORK, May 29.—The last communication received by the Christian and Missionary Alliance here from the Rev. Robert A. Jaffray, reported captured by Chinese bandits, was dated April 26, and arrived two days ago, it was said at the offices of the alliance today.

In it Mr. Jaffray said he was making ready a relief expedition to go up the Ho river to try to help other missionaries at Kweilin who were in danger from the bandits. He added that the trip would be made in a launch.

Seven missionaries comprised the group, thought to have been in danger, it was said at the alliance headquarters. Five of them were members of the alliance. They were Rev. and Mrs. J. Cunningham, Miss Mabel Alverson, Miss Mary Tomkin and Miss Margaret Opheit.

CANTON WORKERS THREATEN STRIKE

Excessive Taxes and Quartering of Soldiers of Other Provinces, Provocation

CANTON, May 29.—A general strike of all workers in Canton is threatened because of the excessive taxation.

Merchants handling general provisions already are on strike, and further general strikes are expected unless the government agrees to abolish the disliked extra taxes.

One of the objects of the natives planning the strike is the driving out of the soldiers here from other provinces, particularly from Yunan and Hunan.

Volunteer troops from surrounding districts, numbering about 12,000, are concentrated at Canton, prepared for emergency.

NO OVERTURES TO THORNTON

Head of National System Knows Nothing of Proposed Coal Haulage Test

MONTREAL, May 29.—No overtures have yet been made to him from the Ontario government in connection with a proposal for testing the cost of hauling coal from Alberta to Ontario, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railways, stated here today, when asked to comment on the newspaper report of a scheme said to have been formulated at a conference held in Toronto on Monday last.

It is announced that Ontario and Alberta are jointly about to submit to Sir Henry a new scheme in order to get a reasonable freight rate on Canadian coal. The proposal is that two solid trainloads of Alberta coal be sent east and made the basis of a test for transportation costs.

Body in Swamp, Poisoned Man, Baffle Police

CHICAGO, May 29. — Authorities hunting the slayers of Robert Franks, schoolboy son of a Chicago millionaire whose nude body was found in a south side swamp after ransom demands were made of the parents, stated tonight they were apparently little nearer a solution of the crime than when the body was found a week ago today.

There was little hope that Charles Heath, Chicago druggist found suffering from the effects of poison in Louisville, Ky., today, would be able to throw any light on one of the of the most baffling mysteries with which the Chicago police have had to deal.

TOO FAST; NOT WORTH IT, SAY TWO SUICIDES

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—"It's too much, too fast."

Lew Mason, motion picture director, said that in his last note to the world as he turned on the gas that caused his death: "It is too much for me—not worth the reward."

Cecil Werner, 22-year-old chorus girl, who said she "went with" the director, wrote that a few hours after she learned of the death of Mason—and then swallowed the contents of a bottle of chloroform.

Her body was found in her room at 6925 Hollywood boulevard, only a few blocks from where Mason was discovered dying in the Christie hotel annex.

"Despondency, financial worries, disappointment over any special thing, is not causing me to do this. It all seems so futile to me. I'm not the least bit afraid;" was another passage from notes left by the girl.

She Disregards His Advice

Apparently disregarding Mason's "last message to the world—never lose your sense of humor," the girl disappeared into her room shortly after Mason died Monday afternoon, it was revealed by Mrs. C. Heelan, her landlady, to Detective Lieutenants Canto and Albert, who investigated the suicide.

According to Mrs. Heelan, Miss Werner seemed greatly wrought up over accounts of Mason's death and told her that she "went with Mason" and had an appointment with him the day he attempted suicide.

Discovery of the girl's body came when Miss Wanda Kaufman, a friend, who lives in the Virginia apartments, came to pay a visit. Not getting a response from repeated knocks on the door, Miss Kaufman and Mrs. Heenan opened the door and entered. The body was lying on the bed. It is believed she had been dead at least 24 hours.

Leaves Note for Hilda

Two notes were found near the body in an envelope. One addressed to "Dearest Hilda" read: "Have intended writing you but things kept occurring to prevent. The only thing that kept me from doing this for several years was you girls. But it is too much for me—not worth the reward. I have loved you girls above all things. Don't come out here, honey—the expense."

Another inscribed to "Florence, Darling," was as follows: "Despondency, financial worries, disappointment over any special thing, is not causing me to do this. It all seems so futile to me. I'm not in the least bit afraid."

After an investigation of the girl's effects, the detectives believe the note to Florence was meant for Mrs. C. R. Reinhardt, 1932 Formosa avenue, Hollywood, a sister, now on a visit to San Francisco.

Sophie, mentioned in another note, is believed to be Mrs. Sophie Jackson, a member of the Dream Girl company at Schubert theater, Boston, Mass., several letters from whom were found in a trunk.

Was in Musical Comedy

Miss Werner was formerly a member of the cast of Arthur Hammerstein's musical comedy, "Wildflower," the detective learned, and came to Los Angeles recently to enter motion pictures. She had been rooming at the Hollywood boulevard address two weeks.

How long she had known Mason the detectives sought to learn. When the motion picture director was found dying a photograph of a girl, said somewhat to resemble Cecil Werner, was found clasped in his hand.

NEW BUILDING TOURIST PARK IS ATTRACTIVE

Shower Baths, Hot and Cold Water and Electric Stoves Are Provided

Hot and cold running water, electric stoves and shower baths are among the attractions offered to tourists motoring to Nelson this summer, in the new building on the tourist park grounds, which will be ready for use next week.

The building, which has the appearance of an attractive bungalow, is being built by S. C. Frost under the direction of Alderman J. E. Mackenzie, chairman of the park committee, from plans drawn up by City Engineer J. A. Ferguson. It is 32 by 40 feet, including the verandah space. It has an eight-foot verandah on three sides.

The interior contains a large room, light and airy, which is to have a number of electric cooking plates, two sinks, two washbasins, tables and benches.

Mayor L. H. Choquette said yesterday that he believed it was the intention of the parks committee to supply a number of small tables in place of one large one, so that, if tourists wished they might move them out to the verandah for meals.

Hot and Cold Showers

There are also two dressing-rooms, one for men and one for women, with every toilet convenience, including shower baths with hot and cold water. A one hundred gallon tank is being installed, the water to be heated by electricity.

The building is placed a few feet back of the small one in use last year, and faces the road.

ASCENSION DAY SERVICES HELD

Yesterday, which was Ascension day, was celebrated by special services in both the Church of Mary Immaculate and St. Saviour's. Both churches held early morning services as well as those later in the day.

MANY STURGEON BONNERS FERRY

Larger and More Numerous Than Ever Before; Trout Fry Near Creston

CRESTON, B.C., May 29.—Officials of the Dominion fishery department were here last week placing about 15,000 Eastern Brook trout fry in Corn creek and 25,000 fry of the same species in Meadow creek at Kitchener. Now that the Goat and Kootenay rivers are in flood both the trout and bass fishing are poor, although in both species the catches earlier in the season were much better than in any previous year.

So far as can be learned anglers are religiously observing the close season on Summit creek, which will not be open until July 1.

Reports from Bonner's Ferry are to the effect that more and larger sturgeon are being taken from the Kootenay river at that point this spring than ever before. Up to the present few, if any, of the sturgeon have been caught in the Kootenay on the British Columbia side of the stream.

DROPS DEAD WHILE BURNING STUBBLE

NEWSIES KEPT APRIL FIRST DOWN IN LOS

When Package Picked Up Three Hundred Booed Luckless Victim

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Morris Beller, adult newsboy at Eighth and Broadway, and Max Phelps, ditto at Seventh and Spring, celebrated April 1 with the assistance of several hundred full-grown men, who stood on the respective corners and yelled every time a pedestrian picked up the neatly wrapped, empty boxes that Messrs. Beller and Phelps deposited in the middle of the street.

About noon Mr. Beller desisted from his hilarity because his package was the cause of blocking the traffic, and Mr. Phelps soon after came to grief by getting embroiled with the law.

The newsboys have newspaper frames on the corner, and they spend the day going from one to the other and collecting the coins deposited in tin boxes according to the newspaper vending honor system.

The Seventh and Spring trap was catching a victim of the day every three or four minutes, to the great hilarity of the crowds. The box had no strings attached, but when anybody stopped to pick it up, 300 voices would yell "Boo-hay-ahhh!" and the box would be dropped as if it had been charged with 100 volts of electricity.

Men Are Gullible

Most of the innocent ones were men, which may mean that women are wiser or perhaps less observant. But one woman finally picked up the box. The cross-town traffic was then moving, which cut off the view of the boxers on the sidewalks. She walked directly to a mounted, tan-uniformed policeman, who had just arrived, and handed him the box.

Now, a mounted policeman and a large package under his arm is not a dignified combination. So he started across the street to where the blue-uniformed traffic policeman was standing. The latter was familiar with the prank, which he had given his official sanction every time the trap was sprung.

Traffic was going in the wrong direction, but the mounted man plowed through, eager to get rid of his parcel. His life or at least the hide of his mount was imperiled several times. And then when he tried to get rid of the package, his colleague in blue became equestrian to the extent of giving him the horse-laugh, in which the 300 gallery gods joined uproariously.

To make matters worse, at that moment a motor vehicle of lowly grade sideswiped the police horse, and the representative of the mounted constabulary came near resembling his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales in a certain particular.

All this so ruffled the police horseman that he demanded to know who had put the box in the street, which in turn so alarmed Mr. Phelps that he vanished from the scene, and while he was gone (a subsequent check disclosed) somebody took all of 32 cents out of the southeast box.

When located at Fifth and Main streets, Mr. Phelps said:

"Aw, I didn't want to get in Dutch with the cops. The harness bull was wise. I never seen that jockey cop come up. The boys at the ringside queered me by givin' him the laugh. Ain't their ma's never learned 'em it's bad manners to laugh at a bull?"

Bumper Strawberry Prospects Dimmed in Creston Valley

CRESTON, B.C., May 29.—The continued dry weather is going to shorten up what earlier in the season gave promise of being a bumper strawberry crop. Due to the prolonged dryness the berry plants have not attained that May vigorous growth to sustain vitality throughout the season and make it possible for the plants to mature an average crop.

With average precipitation from now on the situation would be saved somewhat, but, at that, it will be quite late in June before berry shipping commences, as compared with June 12 a year ago.

Raspberries are looking particularly healthy, but rain is very badly needed both for the berries and garden truck generally.
