VOL. 24 NELSON, B. C., TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 5, 1925 No. 13

THREAT OF DEATH WAS HELD OVER WONG

DENIES SKIPPER REFUSED TO TAKE OUT HIS VESSEL

Capt. Finglos, Former Official, Recalls No Such Action

SMELLED LIQUOR UPON THE MATE

When Too Late to Change, Bradley Wanted New First Officer

VANCOUVER, May 4.—A denial by Capt. W. B. Finglass, assistant marine superintendent of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine at the time the cargo steamer Canadian Exporter was wrecked off the mouth of the Columbia river, July 31, 1921, that Capt. William Bradley had declined to take his ship to sea on the Friday preceding the disaster, featured today's session of the hearing of the Western Insurance Company's suit for $45,000.

Captain Finglass under cross-examination said he had absolutely no recollection of such an action by the master of the Canadian Exporter. He said he would remember if such a happening had occurred.

Skipper Didn't Notice Liquor

He told, however, of smelling liquor on Newton Campbell, first officer of the Exporter, two or three days before the ship put to sea. He asked Captain Bradley if he had noticed anything wrong with Campbell, and received a negative reply. He instructed the Exporter's master to warn Campbell that he did not care to smell liquor on any officer's breath during working hours.

Captain Finglass then recalled going aboard the Exporter about 9 o'clock the night before she sailed.

Captain Bradley informed him that "Campbell had fallen down" on him, and that he wanted a new chief officer.

The witness said, in view of the hour, it was impossible for him to get another chief officer in time to sail and he told Captain Bradley that Campbell would be allright by the time they reached Victoria. He added, that the pilot was aboard the ship.

Witness denied strenuously that Captain Bradley had asked to be taken out of the ship, or that he had voiced any protest to him regarding the crew on the Exporter.

INVENTOR AND WIFE HUDDLED TOGETHER

Think He Dropped Dead, Smothering Wife; Odd Liquid Found

MONTREAL, May 4.—John D. Kennedy, aged 52, an inventor, and his wife, Effie, aged 47, of this city, were found huddled together dead on a bed in their home this afternoon.

Police believe that Kennedy, who suffered from heart trouble, dropped dead while standing at the edge of the bed, and fell upon his wife, knocking her unconscious, and then asphyxiating her. On a table in the room detectives found a bottle containing a colorless fluid, which was taken to the morgue for ananlysis. An autopay will be performed to determine definitely the causes of death.

An official investigation of the capsizing of the sand sucker started today between closed doors. The vessel is still lying bottom up about two miles off Point Pelee.

Robins Seeks to Establish Former Will Leaving Half Million

LIVERPOOL, N.S., May 4.—Drifting bottom up, with all sails set, and anchor chains out, the schooner Cape D'Or, rammed and sunk with the loss of five lives off Cape La Have last Thursday afternoon, and later refloated by action of the sea, was today lying abandoned in latitude 43.57 north, longitude 64.35 west, while the government steamer Arleux, which had been attempting to tow the schooner to port, was lying in the harbor here awaiting favorable conditions to make another attempt to remove the hulk to a place of safety.

EARLY SURGERY A CANCER CURE

That, With Radium Treatment Accounts for Nearly All Cures

TORONTO, May 4.—"I am not interested in quacks and advertised cancer cures," said Dr. Frank L. Hoffman of New York City, who, this afternoon addressed the Medical Health Officers' association on "Cancer Problems in Canada."

"You cannot make it too emphatic," declared Dr. Hoffman, "that there are more cures from early surgery, and combined employment of radium and surgery, than from any other method. Many quacks have announced new cures, and have never been heard of since. Early surgery alone prevails."

The only possibility of keeping rural Ontario healthy is by the inauguration of combined medical health areas with permanent medical health officers and equipment, says the report of the special committee appointed last year, which was read by Dr. J. H. Radford of Galt, the convener of the committee.

WALES TURNS HEADS OF THE CAPE LADIES

Miles of Them Farewell Him as He Starts for Interior

DUTCH GREET HIM AT STELLENBOSCH

Students Draw His Carriage Two Miles; Waitresses Dainty

CAPETOWN, May 4.—The Prince of Wales has captivated Capetown, and particularly its female population. When he drove through the city today on the commencement of his trip into the interior, women, old and young, turned out in their smartest attire, and gave him boisterous testimony of their delight.

The weather was perfect, and the entire route over which the prince passed was lined for miles with smiling citizens, waving farewell. The prince acknowledged the demonstrations with the greatest animation. The entourage of the royal visitor says he thoroughly enjoyed his visit to Capetown. Automobiles were used today for the trip through the old Huguenot country.

In Huguenot Country

At Somerset West, the first halt on the long drive to Stellenbosch, which is 31 miles distant, and one of the oldest settlements of Europeans in this part of Africa, the populace for miles around had gathered to welcome the prince. Dressed in a brown suit, and wearing a blue shirt, the heir apparent to the British throne made a brief speech, in which he expressed thanks for his cordial reception.

After leaving Somerset West, the cars raced back at the rate of 50 miles an hour through the superb scenery toward Stellenbosch, where another ovation was accorded the prince.

Good Training for Rugby

After another brief speech of thanks, the prince stepped into a small open carriage drawn by 24 salwart Dutch students from Stellenbosch university. The chancellor of the university jokingly asked the prince whether he would like the students to run his down to the sport grounds where a large gathering of women was waiting to welcome him.

Keeping up the joke, Wales said he supposed the students were rugby players, and that it would be fine training for them.

Thereupon they dragged him the entire distance of two miles, and finished fresh, although the temperature in the shade was 90 degrees.

It was a brilliant and animated scene that met the prince's eye on his arrival. The grandstand and the spaces about it were packed with cheering crowds. A luncheon was served by dainty damsels, one of them, a bob-haired beauty, being detailed to wait especially on the prince. There was fruit in abundance on the tables, including great bunches of luscious grapes. All the wines served were the product of this mighty fruit district.

Thanks Hosts in Dutch

There were speeches at the luncheon, but when the prince rose from the table there was a new storm of cheering. He merely thanked his hosts in Dutch.

Just before leaving Stellenbosch, Wales amiably posed for troops of young girls who had brought their cameras with them.

SUES GALE FOR A QUARTER MILLION

Coast Broker Claims He Got Twelve Millions Capital for Elevator

VANCOUVER, May 4.—Hearing opened today in supreme court of the action of Dal Thomas, broker, against R. H. Gale, former mayor of Vancouver, and six co-defendants, a claim for $250,000 damages for alleged failure to pay him 2 per cent commission on moneys estimated by Thomas at $12,500,000, which the Spillers Grain Elevator interests invested in western Canada following, according to the plaintiff, introductions which he gave Mr. Gale to English capitalists.

On the stand Mr. Thomas testified that Mr. Gale's successful conferences with Sir William Nichols, head of Spillers' Overseas Associated Industries, had been arranged through his instrumentality, as a result of cables which he and Major Watts, of the Canadian British corporation had dispatched to England after Mr. Gale's departure for the Old Country.

PLAN A DRIVE ON UNIDENTIFIED MEN

Mining Institute Says Pretended Engineers Accept Fees

VANCOUVER, May 4. — British Columbia will be an unsafe field for mining men to pose as mining engineers without proper credentials, if the provincial government acts on complaints made at today's monthly meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, here.

Members of the British Columbia division of the institute resolved to seek the cooperation of the Association of Professional Engineers in a movement to rid the province of uncertified "mining engineers," who make reports or receive fees under the guise of mining engineers.

At today's meeting it was pointed out that while a law exists against such practice, it is evaded by a number of men active in the province.

French Troops Take Succor to Comrades; Fifty Dead Riffians

FEZ, Morocco, May 4. — A slight action by the French troops today along the Quergha river, at a point where it was necessary to get food and other supplies to French advanced posts which had been surrounded in the first drive by the Riffians, sufficed to bring comparative calm all along the front.

Abd-el-krim's forces left 50 dead on the field, and lost a number of prisoners and a quantity of supplies.

WOMEN BOMBARD ARM CONFERENCE

League Glass Room Crowded by Delegates Almost to Suffocation

GENEVA, May 4.—Interest in international affairs seemingly was again demonstrated today when a considerable number of women vainly sought admission to the inaugural session of the arms control conference.

Count de Wiart, Belgium, formally opened the conference in the League of Nations glass room which was so crowded that even breathing space was almost painful in the stifling atmosphere.

The opening session was virtually devoted to the presidential address which sketched in broad outlines the aims of the conference.

GOLD STANDARD CARRIES HOUSE SECOND READING

Labor Amendment Alleging Under Haste Lost Without Division

CHURCHILL GIVES TERMS OF CREDIT

His Defence of Move in Harmony With Empire Impresses

LONDON, May 4. — The house of commons, after a comparatively brief debate, and without division, tonight passed the second reading of the gold standard bill, and agreed to the necessary money resolution for putting into force the government's arrangements for restoring the gold standard.

The house has been extremely anxious to learn the details of the terms of the government's agreement for United States credits to protect the Bank of England's gold reserve. Hence the explanation of the bill given by Rt. Hon. Walter Guinness, financial secretary to the treasury, showing that the country would not be liable for any interest payments unless it became necessary to utilize the United States credits, was received with great satisfaction.

These credits are for $300,000,000, the first, amounting to $200,000,000, being arranged with the federal reserve bank, and the second with the house of Morgan, amounting to $100,000,000. In each case the arrangement is for two years.

Napoleonic Precedent

Outlining the intentions of the bill, Mr. Guinness for the most part reduced the details as presented by Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, in his budget statement, and expressed the hope that there would be no delay in passing the bill.

He explained that the bill was based on the historical precedent of resumption of the gold standard in 1819 after the Napoleonic wars, but today the task was easier, and conditions were more favorable because action had not been taken until parity had already been virtually reestablished.

Two Years for Credits

The secretary emphasized that any credits raised under the bill must be repaid within two years.

He believed there was no fear of a consequent rise in the bank rate or rise in prices, as had been intimated by some of the Labor members. It was the opinion of all the best expert advice that the difference in price levels between Great Britain and the United States was now so small, if indeed it existed at all, as to be consistent with the view that Britain had reached a stage where its purchasing power was at parity. The government belief was that there was no serious movement of prices either way from the present level.

Snowden Moves Amendment

Philip Snowden, who was chancellor in the Labor cabinet, in moving his amendment for the rejection of the bill, on the ground that the proposed action was unduly precipitate and might aggravate the existing condition of unemployment and trade depression, explained that the Labor party was

WANT NO WOMEN IN BEER BARS

Hotel Men and Brewers Fear Will Bring Disrepute

VANCOUVER, May 4.—Hotel men and brewers intend to demand of Hon. A. M. Manson, attorney-general, and Hugh Davidson, liquor commissioner, that women be prohibited from entering beer-by-the-glass parlors, according to an announcement made here today.

"That's where this system is going to fall down, if anywhere," declared a hotel man, in commenting on the conduct of beer parlors. Hotel men have been advised that they have no right to refuse women admission to their places, and there is no power to prohibit them by regulation states Commissioner Davidson.

It is likely the hotel men will ask for legislation to this end when the legislature meets next fall.

It is said that beer parlors have been well conducted. The sale of hard liquor since the parlors opened, has fallen off materially, it is stated.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 4.—On the edge of the Niagara river late this afternoon the police found a woman's hand bag, containing a note scrawled in pencil, addressed to "Dear Brother, William Servey, East Aurora," and signed "Mrs. Lena Glover." It read:

"I can stand the burden no longer, I can do all I can, then am blamed for more. Pray for me, and I hope I will be happy in the next world. Tell them all not to fight, and divide all even, and hope God will give them peace now that I am gone. Have failed. Good bye."

DELEGATION URGES EXPORT OF POWER

Northern Electric Willing to Develop Hugely at Carillon

OTTAWA, May 4. — The national interests of Canada will be the first consideration of the government in dealing with applications for the export of electric power, Premier King informed a large delegation, representing municipalities in the Ottawa river district, which today asked the government's approval of the proposal to export power developed at Carillon falls.

The premier, after hearing arguments in favor of the proposal to export between 300,000 and 400,000 horsepower from the power station, said that private and municipal interests would be given every consideration consistent with the national interest and with the future power needs of Canada.

The Northern Electric company was prepared to spend $52,000,000 on the proposed plant, it was said.

No Silver Minted in Past Two Years

OTTAWA, May 4. — No Canadian silver coins have been minted in Ottawa since 1923.

In answer to a series of questions by George Black, Conservative, Yukon, in the house of commons this afternoon, Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, stated that a large quantity of silver had been minted during the war and demobilization periods. There had been a sufficient supply to last until the present time. The mint, Mr. Robb said, had been engaged on bronze and nickel coinage, and the refining of gold.

Hon. A. M. Manson denies the rumor that the police had anything to do with the abduction, and also declares not one shred of evidence or information has been received from the abductors.

G. L. Fraser has announced he has been retained by the Baker family, particularly to refute the rumor of a party at the Baker house the night before the girl was found dead.

He protests to Mr. Manson at the circulation of wild rumors while the case pending, and at the disclosure of alleged evidence said to have been found by M. B. Jackson, government investigator.

Her Headaches Were So Bad She Couldn't Do Anything

Once the head starts to ache and pain you may rest assured that the cause comes from the stomach, liver or bowels, and the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

There is no better remedy for headaches of every description than

I feel that I cannot recommend it too highly to all those suffering from headaches of any kind."

B.B.B. has been on the market for the past 46 years and is recognized by all who have used it to be without an equal as a remedy for headaches; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

When Stringing Beads

One Mother Says:

My little girl was always losing her beads when the silk on which they were strung would break. Recently I bought the finest radio wire to be had, and she used that to string them on. There has been no more trouble. This wire is made of copper and so is pliable enough not to hold the beads too rigidly.

OPERATE WITH NO DEATH RISK, BY NEW DEVICE

Surgeon Has Way to Test if Patient Can Stand the Shock

TORONTO, May 4.—That modern surgery, in specializing to the point of almost perfection in technique, had to a great extent lost sight of the medical risk of their patient, is the contention of Dr. F. H. McMechan of Avon, Ohio, internationally known authority on anesthesia, who will address the Ontario Medical association this week. He will lay before that body the result of a series of tests which have been just completed on pre-determination of operable risks.

The Ontario Medical association will be the first medical body anywhere to be informed of a means which was only recently made known to a few surgeons whereby the average family physician may be able to foretell with almost unerring accuracy, not only the operable risk which a certain patient would run, but also tell during an operation 20 minutes beforehand if a shock was due to be experienced.

Breathing and Blood Pressure

The method consists of testing the breathing powers of a patient, and a blood pressure test, the results of which are worked on an arithmetical basis with the pulse rate.

Dr. McMechan stated that in far too many cases patients were dying from 24 to 48 hours after an operation which had been performed with absolute surgical accuracy.

"The trouble has been too many surgeons have been leaving the family physician on the hospital doorstep," was the way he put it. Had such patients been subjected to this test, the death rate would have been practically nil, as in every instance such patients had not been fit subjects for operation, and this would have been disclosed.

Quebec lady is very enthusiastic about Dodd's Kidney Pills

LAUBEAT, Que., May 4—(Special.)—Just why Dodd's Kidney Pills are so popular in Quebec Province is shown by the statement of Dame Isidore Beauregard, a well-known resident of this place.

"It gives me pleasure to tell you that we are all quite well since taking Dodd's Kidney Pills. My boy is now enjoying good health and my husband has been much better. His kidney trouble and dyspepsia are nearly gone. I am quite well myself and it gives me pleasure to praise your pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have become a family remedy because people have tried them and found them good. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Lame Back, Heart Disease and Urinary troubles, because all of these are either Kidney Diseases or are caused by the kidneys failing to do their work.

HOUSE FAVORS COMPLETION OF ROAD TO BAY

Knox Resolution Carries After All-Day All-Night Debate

OTTAWA, May 4. — First resumption of private members' resolutions after the long debate on the budget brought an all-day discussion on the Hudson Bay railway.

Andrew Knox of Prince Albert renewed his advocacy of completion of the line. He proposed more effective consideration of the resolution passed by the house in March, 1923, "recognizing the priority of the Hudson Bay railway, with reference to other transportation projects started subsequently." Mr. Knox complained that settlers had gone into the district on the understanding that the line was to be finished, and on the strength of that understanding people had increased their improvements.

Would Split With Welland Canal

He suggested that one-half of the year's appropriations for the Welland Canal might be applied to the Hudson Bay road.

Subsequent debate brought strong advocacy of the line from Progressives.

A. R. McMaster, Liberal, Brome, said that before considering expenditure of further large sums on the Hudson Bay route, he would like to know how many weeks in the year Hudson straits were open for navigation, and what the marine insurance rates would be.

J. J. Hughes, Liberal, Prince Edward Island, thought the scheme, commercially speaking, impracticable. He suggested that to ascertain what shipping interests thought of the project, the government should call for tenders for a subsidized line of steamers from the Hudson Bay for 50 years.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, repeated objections made earlier in the session against Port Nelson as a terminal. Men who knew, he declared, were of the opinion that Churchill was much superior as a harbor.

Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways, told the house that between $180,000 and $200,000 would be spent this year to complete all repair work on the lines already laid. He accepted the resolution of Mr. Knox, stipulating, however, that its passage would not interfere with the carrying on of work on the Welland ship canal, or Canadian National railway branch lines.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, believed the completion of the road to be a contractual obligation to settlers who had gone into that country. He did not believe in any definite postponement, and if, as had been stated in the debate, the the completion of the road to Nelson would give it a fair trial, then he was in favor of hastening the work.

The resolution was carried without a division shortly before 1 o'clock.

not opposed to resumption of the gold standard, but that the motive of the Laborites was to fix full responsibility on Mr. Churchill and the government for any adverse results of hasty action. He contended the government had taken the decision out of the hands of parliament, and that the bill was indemnity to protect Mr. Churchill from legal consequences of his unconstitutional act.

Mr. Snowden charged the chancellor of the exchequer with needless waste of money in buying dollars for the service of the United States debt before the pound had reached parity, and disagreed with the government view that prices as between the United States and Britain had reached parity.

Horne Supports Restoration

Sir Robert S. Horne, also a former chancellor of the exchequer, taunted Mr. Snowden with heroically and skillfully playing a double role—that of an ex-chancellor, who might again occupy that position, while at the same time adopting the dashing role of leader of financial criticism.

"It would have been an extraordinary confession of weakness," he said, "if, regarding ourselves as the financial center of the world, we had declared our unreadiness to take this step, when our own dominions and other countries were resuming the gold standard."

A number of others having spoken, Mr. Churchill proceeded to wind up the debate.

Churchill Says Snowden Advised It

He contended that no case of sufficient weight had been adduced to justify the opposition amendment. The government was only carrying out the operation Mr. Snowden himself had counselled when in office.

Mr. Churchill argued it would have been inadvisable to allow such long notice as until the end of the year, of Britain's intention to allow gold exports, for fear that there might then, at an inconvenient season of the year, have been a big hoard of gold waiting to be suddenly exported on removal of the embargo.

Amendment Would Destroy Bridge

"If the opposition amendment were carried," Mr. Churchill continued, "we should find ourselves deprived of every effective means of making the transition safe, including American credits, which are intended to warn off speculators."

The chancellor asserted he had received the finest expert financial advice in the world. The unique position of Britain, which was dependent upon foreign supplies, made it dangerous to diverge from solid economic principles.

Another reason advanced by Mr. Churchill as justifying the action of the government had to do with the overseas dominions.

Follow Dominions

"If we detached ourselves from our great dominions—nations in themselves—we would run," he said, "a great risk of seeing ourselves isolated, and of loosening a bond the continuance of which and fortification of which are indispensable to our well-being. These great dominions, having adopted the gold standard while the United Kingdom stood out, would have traded with each other and with the United States on a gold basis, ignoring England, and that would have been a disastrous state of things for us. If English sterling were not anchored to a standard that everyone knows and can trust, the business of the British Empire, and even of Europe as well, might easily have come to be transacted in dollars as well as sterling, and that would have been a great misfortune."

Second Reading Carries

Mr. Churchill's speech appeared to impress the members of the house greatly.

He closed with the declaration that the government accepted full responsibility after careful deliberation, and he believed that the government's action could be judged even by the experience of a few years. He maintained that they would have been mad and criminal had they neglected any reasonable precautions to insure the success of their decision.

Mr. Snowden's amendment was negatived without division, and the bill passed its second reading.

BRITAIN WILL BE FAVORED NATION

South Africa for Reciprocal Preference but No Discrimination

CAPETOWN, May 4. — (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuter's) — Most favored nation treatment will be granted to Great Britain in South Africa's next tariff, so Finance Minister Havenga announced in the house of assembly today.

The preference proposals, he said, must be on a reciprocal basis.

He once more emphasized that Britain and the British dominions would be consulted regarding South Africa's treaties and trade agreements with other countries and when any particular commodity which they exported was affected.

The government had no intention of seeking, and did not intend to seek, any trade agreement under which Britain would be in a less favored position than the country with which the agreement was concluded, he added.

"In other words," he said, "we intend to give her the most-favored-nation treatment in all cases."

The statement of Mr. Havenga was received with loud ministerial cheers.

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. E. Emmans, of 215 Seventh Ave., N. E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, for treating children's colds. Mrs. Emmans writes: "My little girl had croup at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds."

Vicks is just "rubbed on" for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double direct action; internally medicated vapors are inhaled while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

HER NERVES BETTER NOW

Received Much Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I started to get weak after my second child was born, and kept on getting worse until I could not do my own housework, and was so bad with my nerves that I was afraid to stay alone at any time. I had a girl working for me a whole year before I was able to do my washing again. Through a friend I learned of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took four bottles of it. I gave birth to a baby boy the 4th day of September, 1922. I am still doing my own work and washing. Of course, I don't feel well every day because I don't get my rest as the baby is so cross. But when I get my rest I feel fine. I am still taking the Vegetable Compound and am going to keep on with it until cured. My nerves are a lot better since taking it. I can stay alone day or night and not be the least frightened. You can use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. CHAS. 'ROAD TO LOVE'

By ELINORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER LXII

Denny, his blue shirt open at the throat, swung past the mess hall, where the men were going to dinner, on through a platoon of pines to a cabin on the hillside. Smoke curled gently from the chimney. That meant Katy inside, and perhaps hot biscuits with their steak.

A sense of power tingled through his veins. On the big road now. He had his chance. Here he was up in the mountains—men working under him.

Not much of a job—the building of this dam as the first unit of a larger project. But the great beginning—the first step into that glorious future where Katy would walk again—where he, Denny, would be that big achiever, that masterful fellow, with his head above the crowds, his stride quickened. All things were possible to him.

Katy sat at a little table near the open door waiting for him. The look of awe and wonder that had come into her face when the vastness, the silence opened to them, rested on it now like a beautiful prayer. She turned to Denny with a whimsical smile.

"I feel poems coming on me, Denny. They've been coming on all day."

"Sure it's not the chills and fever, are you?"

"And you know, if I stayed here long I'd write something noble. And if I were the governor of the state do you know what I would do? Instead of having prisons I would bring men up here and make them look at the mountains and the trees and the skies——"

"And they'd turn angels, would they, and perhaps fly away? You forget, Katy, that some people look at mountains and trees and skies without ever seeing them. Hope the poems coming on didn't keep the dinner from arriving."

She nodded to the stove oven.

"Gee—I knew it!" He put a big hunk of butter on the steaming table. "Say, working up here gives a fellow an appetite."

"Oh, were you suffering from lack of one, Denny? When?"

"But, say, I'm hungry all the time."

"You like this work better than the office?"

"This is the real stuff. Well, you know I always wanted to get out and do this, and there's more money and more power, and before long we ought to have everything we need."

He was watching her sharply, noticed that her eyes were lowered suddenly, and the paleness he had seen in the last weeks stealing over her cheeks.

"You got a letter from Andy yesterday?" he asked in an indifferent voice.

"Yes."

"Pretty faithful, isn't he?"

Stains of red flooding the pallor. "Yes; you know, some people are natural letter writers. That's what Clay is."

"Uh-huh. Katy, did Clay come back here to marry you?"

"No."

"To see you, then?"

"Yes; and to tell me he still wants to marry me."

"But aren't you going to do it?"

Katy pretended to have great difficulty with the green peas on her fork; pretended to laugh because they kept rolling off. "Well, I haven't yet, have I?"

"And you won't, either! You don't love him. Well, you must think I'm a fine bonehead, Katy-Kid, if you suppose I don't know a thing or two. I haven't been asleep for the last few weeks. I know just how you've sized things up. Oh, I know you, all right!"

Teeth shut, eyes dark. Then he laughed. "Great little diplomat, ain't you? Going out in the garden and eat worms, aint' you?"

Katy burst out laughing, a sudden wild joy throbbing in her head. She kept laughing, tears running down her cheeks.

"Did you see any more with your X-ray mind, Mr. Denman?"

"Yes, I did!" The young eyes that were so tender pierced like a knife. She dropped hers.

"Well, I should think you would blush!"

"And now, Denny, what did I do?"

"After all these years go and think mean things about a fellow."

"I did not!"

"Well, anyway, Katy, you ought to know that nothing can ever make any difference between us. I'd like to see the thing or the person that could!"

"I do know that, Denny. But just the same you should have joy. You've earned it, and I'll be the happiest person in the world when you get it. And I don't want you to sacrifice for me, but that's what you've always had to do. It seems as though it should be my turn now."

A pang rasped through him, made his eyes sting.

"Gee, Katy, you might just as well shoot a fellow as say a thing like that."

"No, Denny, it's not that at all, but if you let me get in your way that's the cruelest thing that ever could happen to me."

"All right, then, I won't. You're not in my way and you know you never have been. And if you think I'm in love, I'm not, and I'm not thinking of getting married. I'm going to succeed first. And say, Katy, it'll be a pretty tough day when you and I have to part company. And I don't care who it's for! That's the truth. If you don't feel it, I do!"

She drew a deep breath, covered her face quickly. When she took her hands down she was laughing, but her eyes were wet, her lips trembling so that she couldn't speak.

"I'll never, never think a mean thing about you again, Denny—honest and true."

"Well, you better not! You won't get by the next time!"

He wheeled her to a big tree. In the far distance black peaks went like cathedral spires into the blue sky. Then clouds assembled, passed over the ridges, drawing veils of silver and rose across the rugged contours, making more limitless and vast the aspect of the mountains.

Katy listened. The breeze, the pines, the looming cliffs seeming moving to majestic notes of unknown music. The rhythm entered with uplifting peace into her senses.

She watched Denny going down to the camp for the mail. He meant what he said. Meant every word of it. There would be time together for them yet!

And as Denny sauntered he thought, "Didn't I know, all right, what she was thinking? Well, I guess I'm not going to take on any more problems for awhile. Fellow wants a little fun. She (that meant Petra) doesn't love me. Gee, what have I got to offer her?"

But there was a letter that brought the golden head, brown eyes, that assented before him. Just like her. Gee, she was cute, all right. It rambled on in chatty intimacy. Toward the end this paragraph:

"You'll come down for my birthday, won't you? I'm going to have a big party and I want you. If the old dam breaks, let it! But, Heydiddle, John Merchant, the mean tyrant sending you to a wilderness when I'm having a birthday, says you can come if you like. At least, he says it's all up to you and that he hasn't anything to say about it, so it means you'll come, doesn't it? What excuse could you have as long as it's in your own hands?"

A momentary annoyance passed. Denny laughed. That showed how much she understood—asking him off to a dance just when the work was in its most critical stage.

But he dallied with Petra's image; dallied with the memory of the nymph walking on a hill, hand in his, eyes in his, lips on his.

Life is a niggardly patron. It comes to us as children do with their hands behind their back, saying, "Which do you want, the right or the left?" If we take the one we must leave the other. But we want both—both!

But life smiles. In the one hand is purpose and in the other pleasure. None may seize the two.

Denny struggled with a long answer, explained at great detail the importance of the work, all that it meant to him.

No answer came. The day set for the big party found him restless. He kept thinking of Petra, seeing the bright turn of her face, the dimple that was his.

"Gee, I might as well have gone," he thought impatiently, "if I don't stop mooning about it. Wonder why she didn't answer?".

He was waiting for the mail when a man galloped in with a message:

"Suspend all work on dam at once. Letter follows.—Merchant."

CALL HEARINGS ON 'PEACE' BILL IN NOVA SCOTIA

Reenacts Lemieux Act and Sets Up Arbitration After

HALIFAX, N.S., May 4.—A public hearing will be given bill 184, the Industrial Peace act, introduced in the legislative assembly Thursday by Premier Armstrong, according to the decision of the committee on law amendments, reached at its meeting Friday, when a majority of the members upheld the request voiced at the late session, when the bill was in its second reading, that time be allowed to permit Nova Scotia labor leaders and industrial heads to be heard on the measure before it leaves committee.

Hearings Tuesday

The hearing will be held tomorrow morning next, and invitations will be sent out to all concerned to appear before the committee.

The Industrial Peace act, 1925, one of the most outstanding issues of the present session, and unique in the annals of Canadian labor legislation, reenacts the Lemieux act as amended to fit Nova Scotia conditions, and admits a second part, to be effective only after proclamation, providing the machinery for a permanent arbitration commission to settle industrial disputes after the findings of part one have failed, the finding of the arbitration committee to be binding on both parties.

RUMOR KASLO SERVICE FOUR DAYS A WEEK

Hosmer Fire Leaves Company Boat Short for the Barge-Passenger Runs

NASOOKIN MAY CONTINUE TO CITY

Officials Nothing to Say; Business Men Prefer Winter Schedule

Rumors in the city yesterday were that the present boat service between this city and Kootenay Landing and between the city and Kaslo would be again discontinued. Owing to the tug Hosmer being damaged in a fire on Sunday, the railway company is now a boat short in its barge and passenger service. The winter schedule in force until Sunday night, last, may be resumed again.

Canadian Pacific railway officials would have nothing to say regarding the matter yesterday. However, it is stated that there is a possibility that the Nasookin may be continued on the Nelson-Kootenay Landing run, and the Moyie placed on the run between Nelson and Kaslo, four times per week, likely on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Ymir Small for Work

The Hosmer, which was burned on Sunday was on a barge service between Procter and Kootenay Landing. This tug, probably the most powerful on the lakes, could easily handle two large transfer barges. The Ymir, an older, smaller and less powerful boat, cannot handle two barges easily. Thus, with traffic over the lakes quite heavy at present, the Moyie will most likely, have to be used on the barge run.

Another difficulty at present is that the Lardo trip is an impossibility with the boats at present in the service. Just what will be done, officials will not state. Business men locally seem to favor the system in use all winter, when a train was run from Nelson to Procter, and the Nasookin made the Kootenay Landing, Procter and Kaslo run. This service left the Moyie free for any other work that was available.

HOSMER NOW UP ON WAYS

Tug Burned at Procter Is High and Dry at Fairview Yards

Work commenced yesterday in the hauling from the water the hulk of the Canadian Pacific railway tug Hosmer, which was seriously damaged in a fire at Procter early Sunday morning.

The tug was spotted on the cradle early yesterday morning, and two teams proceeded with the hauling.

The craft is now undergoing a thorough inspection, and lumber will be ordered shortly for the necessary repairs.

Watchful Waiting Again in Order

While in France, Belgium and elsewhere in allied countries of Europe the first impressions and comments resulting from the Hindenburg victory were disquieting enough, it is reassuring to note a change of tone in later expressions of responsible opinion. British views, on the whole, have been hopeful and moderate, and possibly the influence of this sober attitude helped to steady and reassure alarmed observers on the continent.

Most of the German promises relative to disarmament and reparations are contained in treaties which admit of no change without the consent of all the signatories. And, under the German parliamentary form of government, the reichstag, with its liberal majority, remains the most active and forceful factor in governmental affairs. Whether the Hindenburg election is merely a manifestation of the general world trend toward conservatism or whether it has a hidden meaning in the German mind is the point that requires a definite answer before Europe can accept the situation with knowledge of what it implies.

Because of the effect of the election in France, it is probable that Hindenburg's victory definitely destroys all prospects of another arms conference in the near future. France approached this proposal with the utmost reluctance when it was made; now Hindenburg stands as a lion in France's way to thoughts of reducing its state of preparedness for war. It is fortunate that the French ministry of foreign affairs is directed by Briand, a statesman of quiet strength, courage and very definite ideas of the way to security. Briand has said that he will work with or through the League of Nations, and that he has not abandoned his belief in the principles of the Geneva protocol. He will not decide rashly that Germany has forfeited claim to trust and confidence.

Vitamines

There are all sorts of vitamines. Scientists know very little about them, save that food would not be nourishing without them.

Lack of one kind causes scurvy. Lack of another kind causes rickets. When rice-husking machines first came into use the native rice-eaters began dying with beriberi, for the husks contained a vitamine necessary to health.

Milk is rich in vitamines, but where did the cow find them?

Professor Drummond of University college, London, has discovered vitamine factories—in microscopic sea plants called diatoms.

No animal can create any kind of vitamine, but copepods eat diatoms, whelks eat copepods, and cods eat whelks—so cod liver oil is as full of vitamines as honey of pollen.

But the professor leaves us in the dark as to how the vitamines find their way from cods to cows.

What the Press Is Saying

Respect for Law

It is the citizen's duty to respect the law. It is essential to the stability of the social structure that the law be obeyed and respected. Law is defined to be the medium through which justice operates for the welfare of the citizen and the state. Liberty within the restrictions of wise laws is the fundamental ideal of democracy.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The prince's poem has the merit of making you feel sure he did it himself, instead of ordering the poet laureate to dash off something for the occasion. Dr. Bridges would never have defied rhyme and meter for the bold line:

Mrs. J. H. C.—Please tell me how I can remove mildew from white linen.

Answer—Mildew is a mould. If it has not been allowed to remain in the material too long, its growth may be stopped by being covered with a paste made of equal parts of powdered chalk and soapsuds, with a few drops of lemon juice added, and then placed in strong sunshine. Remoisten the mildewed part of the material with this paste as often as it dries, till the mould disappears. It may be necessary, however, to use the following method: Stir two teaspoonfuls of chloride of lime into a pint of cold water in an earthen dish, allow it to settle, then pour off the clear portion; add a few drops of vinegar, and immerse the mildewed portion of the linen in this for 30 minutes; transfer the material to a solution of one ounce of hyposulphide of soda to a gallon of water to check the action of the lime, and rinse in clear water.

Youthful Matron—I have some pine needles and wish to know whether it is necessary to put anything with them in order to make good pine pillow? Also are two coverings necessary? And is there any conventional size for this kind of pillow?

Answer—Do not put anything with the needles. I, personally, like two coverings—one of white muslin and the upper one of China silk. But many woman prefer just one cover of heavy cretonne or crash. No, there is no regulation size, but when I make one I generally make it oblong — 12 inches long by seven inches wide.

C. H.—Is there anything that can be put on an old brick chimney, in a room, which will keep the dampness from striking through the wall paper? I have tried several coats of paint, but that has no effect.

Answer—I know of nothing to recommend except a waterproof paint. But perhaps some reader friend will have something really helpful to suggest, and will write it on a postal and mail it to me in care of this paper?

That Body of Yours

The Value of Heat

It would appear that other countries seem to appreciate the value of heat in various ailments more than we do in North America.

In Japan the hot bathing and application of heat to various disorders is routine procedure. The use of the huge hogsheads, filled with hot water, in which the Jap immerses himself after the toil of the day, was a part of the army life during the war with Russia.

The circulation is hurried along and thus the fatigue wastes in the muscles are removed from the system.

Our athletes try to secure a hot bath after a strenuous contest, so that they will not go "stale."

For years it has been customary to treat all sprains with cold applications to prevent the swelling. Our latest books are telling us that heat, hot applications, are the first indication, because as the damage is done the next best thing to do is to get a good circulation there, to remove the debris of all the tearing and start early repair of the tissues.

In Holland a surgeon had been treating a severe ulcer on a patient's leg for three years. The patient was bedridden and threatened with gangrene.

He applied a hot air box to the leg, beginning with three hours' daily and increasing it gradually to six hours, exposing the bare leg directly to the heat. Between the heat applications, the leg was simply covered with an ordinary bandage.

The first thing noticed was the prompt relief from pain. This is the great factor in the application of heat in sprains and other injuries. It is very soothing.

This ulcer was completely healed in 12 weeks, and in the majority of cases he states, that the cure was complete in three weeks.

When healing is slow in run down individuals, the stimulation of the part by heat is just what is needed to get some activity.

This is the reason that it is not unusual for an old sore or ulcer to be irritated by some preparation, in order to stimulate the circulation and get the blood bringing new material, and removing old material from the spot.

Heat is a great boon to us all.

WORLD WOMEN OPEN ASSEMBLY FOUR TONGUES

Hoover Greets and Lady Aberdeen Outlines Lofty Objects of Council

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Addresses in the four official languages of the convention—English, French, German and Spanish—were heard at the formal opening tonight of the seventh quinquennial session of the International Council of Women.

The formal opening, at which Secretary of Commerce Hoover delivered an address of greetings, and Lady Aberdeen, as president of the council presented her message, followed a day of activity in the committee meetings for the delegates representing the component organizations in 42 countries.

Lady Aberdeen declared the organization's strength lay in its constitutional inhibition against dealing with controversial, political and religious issues between nations.

"Our special power as women," she said, "lies in the formation of that public opinion, in favor of mutual aid and international cooperation based on fuller knowledge and intercourse between the nations and their component parts."

Soothe Nations' Mutual Fears

Asserting that the council must strive to gather up the war-worn people of the earth "in the arms of an enveloping motherhood, and to soothe away all their fears of one another and of an unknown future," Lady Aberdeen continued:

"We are struggling for mastery of a new hope for the world, in the international cooperation brought about through the League of Nations, the international court of justice, the international labor office, the many humanitarian enterprises in which all nations have joined during recent years, and in which the United States has been so predominant, saving millions of lives, restoring prisoners and refugees to their homes, preventing the spread of epidemics, enabling starving students and professors to preserve the intellectual life of Europe, feeding and giving new hope to famishing children and mothers."

Let Families Be United

At the meeting of the immigration and emigration committee today, foreign delegates voiced a plea that the United States immigration law be temporarily relaxed to permit members of families abroad to join their relatives in the United States.

EUROPE PEACE IF STATES TO PARTICIPATE

Houghton Makes Bow in Britain With Plain Talking

BALDWIN SAYS WAR MUST BE BANISHED

King and Prince of Wales Send Felicitations to New Envoy

LONDON, May 4.—Alanson B. Houghton, newly appointed ambassador to the court of St. James, made his bow to a British audience, tonight at the traditional dinner of the Pilgrims. It was a night of plain speaking.

Ambassador Houghton, in a brief address told his audience, which included the Duke of York, Premier Baldwin, and other members of the British cabinet, and the most representative men of the realm, Ramsay MacDonald, and others of every political belief, that the United States wanted a settlement of Europe's vexing problems, and that unless peace were established in Europe, he feared the part the United States had previously played as an interested and sympathetic participant, might give way to a lesser role.

In return, Lord Desborough, the chairman, Stanley Baldwin, the premier, and former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, assured him of the interest in which the people of Great Britain held his pronouncements, and laid stress on their appreciation of the bond between the two nations.

States Wants Good Faith

Mr. Houghton told those assembled that the people of the United States wanted the reestablishment of a real peace—assurance of the return of good faith—in Europe, and upon that their participation in the reconstruction of normal conditions largely depended.

Premier Baldwin, in proposing Ambassador Houghton's health, said Britain more than realized the bloody nature of war, and was resolved it must be driven from the world, if it could be driven.

One Tongue Frankness

The very fact that Britain and the United States spoke the same tongue gave rise to misunderstandings which were not veiled by the decent obscurity of a foreign tongue. These misunderstandings were more and more being obviated by the increasing visits between Englishmen and Americans.

Ramsay MacDonald, in proposing the health of the chairman, Lord Desborough, turned aside in his complimentary tribute to the chair, to agree with Ambassador Houghton that if nations do their duty in the right way, that lay at their feet, they could leave the issues to God himself.

"We need not press, we need not push," he continued. "The man who presses, foozles; and this is true of all our activities in life."

Both the king and the Prince of Wales sent messages of felicitations on the first appearance of the new United States envoy. The prince regretted his inability to be present at the dinner, and added his sincerest good wishes to the welcome of the ambassador.

GANDHI SAYS INDIANS MUST OBEY SHORTLY

Das, Leader of the Swaraj Party, Takes the Same View

CALCUTTA, India, May 4.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters.)—Differences which arose at the Bengal provincial congress yesterday between C. R. Das, leader of the Swarajists (home rulers), and some delegates at the congress while in committee on resolutions, were composed today through the good offices of M. Gandhi, the formr Swarajist leader. The trouble was in connection with conciliatory resolutions proposed by Das, and which is thought to have been the outcome of his presidential address on May 1.

Das, in his presidential address, urged conditional cooperation with the government of India. He coupled with his proposal a threat that if the Swarajists offer of settlement were not responded to, they must continue to make the work of the administration impossible, and be prepared for ultimate disobedience.

Gandhi today alluded to Das' speech, and said Das could not hurl defiance at the British throne. They had to admit, Gandhi said, the present incapicty of the Swarajists to govern. He added that freedom could be attained only by Hindu-Moslem untly, the removal of the "untouchability" of caste, and the adoption of the spinning wheel. The congress ultimately adopted resolutions condemning revolutionary methods.

Gloriously Clear Teeth

Why you may already have them—and yet not realize it

Make this unique test. Find out what beauty beneath the dingy film that clouds your teeth

DO YOU seriously want dazzlingly clear teeth?—teeth that add immeasurably to your personality and attractiveness?

You can have them, if you wish. That's been proved times without number. But not by continuing with old methods of cleansing and of brushing.

Modern science has discovered a new way. A radically different principle from old ways; and based on latest scientific findings. This offers you a test, free. Simply mail the coupon.

How to gain them—quickly

There's a film on your teeth. Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel it. Beneath it are the pretty teeth you envy in others. Ordinary methods won't successfully remove it.

That is why this test is offered. For when you remove that film, you'll be surprised at what you find. You may actually have beautiful teeth already—and yet not realize it. Find out.

What that film is

Most tooth troubles now are traced to film. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and decay.

That film, too, absorbs stains—stains from food, from smoking, from various causes. And that is why your teeth look "off color."

New methods now remove it

Old-time dentifrices could not successfully fight that film. So most people had dingy teeth. And tooth troubles increased alarmingly.

Now new methods have been found. And embodied in a new type tooth paste called Pepsodent.

It acts to curdle the film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap, no chalk; no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.

It proves the folly of ugly teeth. It gives better protection against pyorrhea, of tooth troubles both in adults and in children.

Ten days' use will prove its benefits. And that 10 days is offered to you as a test. Why not make it, then—have prettier teeth, whiter teeth? Send the coupon now.

CARNATION BREAD

1½ cups water, ½ cup Carnation Milk, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons shortening, 7 cups flour, 1 cake compressed yeast, 2 teaspoons sugar. Soak yeast in a small amount of lukewarm water. Measure the salt, sugar and shortening into a mixing bowl. Add the scalded milk and water. When lukewarm add the yeast and mix thoroughly. Then add the flour gradually. When stiff enough to handle, turn the dough on a floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Put into a bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place about one and one-half hours or until double its bulk, then make into loaves and put in baking pans. Cover, and again let stand in a warm place about one hour or until it has doubled its bulk, then bake about forty-five minutes. This makes two loaves of bread.

SUNSHINE CAKE

5 egg yolks, 1 cup sugar, 7 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup flour, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon orange or lemon extract. Beat the yolks of eggs thoroughly. Sift flour twice, sift sugar once. Beat whites until foamy, add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Fold sugar in lightly, add beaten yolks, then add flavoring and cut and fold in flour. Bake about fifty minutes in a moderately hot oven. This serves twelve to fifteen people.

PIMPLES OVER FACE AND NECK

Itched and Burned Badly. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face started to itch and burn and then broke out with pimples that were hard, large and red. After a few days they festered and scaled over and were very sore. They itched and burned so badly that I used to scratch which caused them to spread all over my face and neck. My face was badly disfigured.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in about two weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Bertha Wilson, R. R. 2, Foresters Falls, Ont., Oct. 3, 1924.

Salvation
for the worst

Under the flowing tide of life, carried on the current of circumstances, can be found, by those who look for them, the derelict, the moral degenerate, the outcast. Can these people be transformed and inspired with hope?

The Salvation Army answers with an unmistakable "Yes!" and points to the multitude it has influenced who today are reformed, regenerated and good citizens, many fighting for the reclamation of their fellows.

The Self Denial effort is your opportunity to help the Salvation Army officers who, deep in the gloom of the underworld, are working day and night for God and the People.

SCHOOL BYLAW INITIATED BY TRAIL COUNCIL

City Asked to Raise Twelve Thousand, Province to Supplement

STRICTLY ENFORCE GOOD SANITATION

Discuss Protection Work on Trail Creek, but No Decision

TRAIL, May 4. — A bylaw to raise $12,000 for the erection of a four-roomed school in East Trail will shortly be presented before city ratepayers, permission to introduce the bylaw being given at tonight's council meeting. The school board's plans call for an $18,000 structure, a third of which amount will be paid by the province.

Engineer Points Out Conditions

Unsanitary conditions around residences in the city were brought to the attention of the council by City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid. Several aldermen substantiated the statements of the engineer, and were emphatic in their stand that the bylaws should be amended so that residents, particularly in the business section, should be forced to keep their premises clean. Permission to introduce a bylaw amending the city health laws was granted Ald. A. A. Milligan.

Petition for Works

A largely signed petition of ratepayers for a new sidewalk on Spokane street was presented. Ald. J. Williamson mentioned that he, among others, built the first walk on this street in 1898 by voluntary labor.

A petition was also considered from ratepayers on Topping street for a retaining wall and walk.

The board of works and the city engineer will report on both these petitions at a special meeting of the council.

Cleaning up of city streets and property has been going on for the last two weeks, with an improvement in the town's appearance. Oil has been put on a number of the streets to keep down the dust.

Trail Creek Retaining Wall

An informal discussion took place on what work should be done on Trail creek this year, but no definite action was decided on. Earlier in the year the water at the mouth of the creek broke through the retaining wall, making a new course. It was only by heavy blasting that the current was returned to its proper channel, thus saving much damage.

Aldermen differed on whether further work on the creek should be done at the expense of the city or by local improvement. The question was left for further consideration.

Solicitor Gets Raise

Permission was granted the Salvation Army to hold a tag day later in the month.

An increase in salary was granted to the city solicitor, R. J. Clegg, from $85 a month to $100.

Overhead Bridge at the Rock Cut Near Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS, May 4. — Construction will start at once on the new overhead bridge, which will eliminate the bad railway crossing at what is known as the "rock cut," five miles east of Grand Forks. The contract has been secured by Bonthron & McDonald, and work is being proceeded with, and will probably require two months to complete.

S. J. Baker has secured the contract for carrying mail between the depot and the post office. It has been held for many years by E. Vant.

Fine Residences at Forks Change Hands

GRAND FORKS, May 4. — Two of the finest and most attractive residential properties in Grand Forks changed hands within the past week. E. Vant agent for the Dominion Express company, acquired the commodious property of the late W. K. C. Manly on Victoria avenue, with terraced lawn, while James K. Smith, of the Kettle Valley creamery, has purchased the former home of the secretary of state, Hon. Martin Burrell, on Third street.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

CRESTON FOILS THE FIRE FIEND

First Municipal Clean-Up Day; Chemical Ordered; Brigade Planned

CRESTON, May 4. — Friday was Creston's first-ever municipal clean-up day, and as a result of the wholehearted efforts of those in the business and residential sections, who were generously supported by the village commissioners, the town presents a tidier appearance today than it has ever known.

Chairman H. S. McCredth of the streets committee provided free haulage for all the garbage, and three teams were kept busy the following day taking the refuse to the dump.

The commissioners have just ordered a 40-gallon chemical engine, which will be delivered from Edmonton, and which will supplement the hydrant and hose protection that is given by the Goat Mountain Waterworks company. A meeting will be called early next week for the purpose of organizing a volunteer fire brigade.

In addition to the municipal clean-up, the business section is brightened up by the repainting of the post office building and the real estate office of R. Walmsley.

Creston Will Get a Chautauqua Cup, Child Attendance

CRESTON, May 4. — Word reaching C. F. Hayes, chairman of the board of trade publicity committee, from the Dominion Chautauqua head office, states that of about 60 towns playing the six-day circuit in 1924, Creston had the largest attendance of children of them all, and to commemorate the achievement, Creston will be presented with a silver cup at this year's Chautauqua.

The guarantors are going to make the presentation eminently fitting, and are planning to have a fancy dress children's parade, May 30, at which all the school children in Creston, Lister, Wynndel, Alice Siding, Erickson and Canyon will participate.

HOW BOURKE WON THE V.C. AT OSTEND

Sketch in Vancouver Province Tells Kootenay Man's Exploit

A sketch of Rowland Bourke, V.C., of Crescent Bay, in the Vancouver Province of April 23, said:

The attendance of Lieutenant-Commander Rowland Bourke, V.C., D.S.O., at the Canadian club luncheon today and at the St. George's day banquet tonight, recalls his exploits in April and May, 1918, when he won those decorations.

One of the large contingent of British Columbia yachtsmen who joined the motorboat patrol, he left his Kootenay ranch for the front. The work of the young officers in charge of the motorboats won high praise from Vice-Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, who was in charge of the operations against Zeebrugge and Ostend.

Made Fine Rescue

The official dispatches of Sir Roger Keyes give the recommendations upon which Lieutenant-Commander Bourke was awarded the D.S.O. and Victoria Cross.

On April 23, 1918, while the attack on Zeebrugge was successful, a simultaneous expedition against Ostend did not succeed because the Brilliant and Sirius, blockships, grounded too soon. Mr. Bourke was then a lieutenant in command of the motor launch 276, and the dispatch says "he repeatedly went alongside the Brilliant in the difficult circumstances of her starboard engines still going astern." The Brilliant crew was rescued. For this he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and promoted to lieutenant-commander.

Won the V. C.

In the second attack on Ostend on May 10, he won the Victoria Cross. On this occasion the old Vindictive, which had won such glory at Zeebrugge, was again sent into action, this time as a blockship, and was sunk close to the Ostend pier.

The official dispatch states: "Motor launch 276, Lieut. Rowland Bourke, Royal Naval Volunteer reserve, having followed Vindictive into Ostend, engaging both piers with his machine guns en route, went alongside Vindictive, after motor launch 254, with her first rescued party, had shoved off. After much search and shouting, and still under very heavy fire, Lieutenant Bourke and Sub-Lieutenant Petrie managed to find and embark the last three of Vindictive's survivors, all badly wounded, in the water clinging to a capsized skiff.

"This fine rescue effected, motor launch 276, hit in 55 places, and with three of her crew killed or wounded, cleared the harbor, and continued steering to the westward until picked up by H.M.S. Prince Eugene."

FOREIGN WOMEN ENGAGE BRITISH

States, Canada, Australia, Ireland Enter Golf Tourney

LONDON, May 4.—Ninetyfour competitors, including one Canadian, are entered for the British women's open golf championship tournament commencing at Troon May 18, and the draw, which was announced today, shows there will be strong challenge for the title by overseas players.

Miss Glenna Collett, Miss M. O'Gorman, Miss H. Ellison and Miss H. Hunnewell will represent the United States. Mrs. K. C. Allen is Canada's entr while Miss C. Lascelles and Miss Ruth Affleck will play for Australia. There are several entries from Ireland.

In the top half of the draw, which is the most difficult, Miss Joyce Wethered, the holder of the championship, will probably meet Miss Collett in the third round, and the survivor afterward will face the opposition of such well-known players as Miss Doris Chambers, Miss Fowler, Mrs. Dobell, Miss Hunnewell, Miss Gourley and Miss Cautley.

In the easier half Miss Cecile Leitch must overcome Mrs. Gavin, Miss Gladys Eastin, Miss Stocker and Miss Wragg before reaching the finals.

Hitting Heavy When Ball Parks Have No Signs

HOW BALL APPEARS TO HITTER WHEN PITCHED OUT OF PLAIN OR DARK GREEN BACKGROUND

HOW SAME BALL IS OBSCURED TO HITTER'S VISION WHEN BRIGHTLY COLORED SIGN IS IN BACKGROUND

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, N. Y. Giants)

Ball players always claim that some parks are easy to hit in, while others are tough. While talking to Dave Bancroft, manager of the Boston Braves, recently, we argued this out, and Bancroft advanced the theory that much of the heavy hitting of the last four years has been due to the doing away almost entirely of the old-time center field fence covered with brightly colored signs that dazzled the batter's eyes and camouflaged the ball.

The reader can see, by putting himself in the batter's place, how much more easily the ball is seen, coming out of a plain, dark green background, than when the fence is cut up with colored advertising signs.

Home clubs have frequently taken advantage of this condition. Some have had green curtains hung on the center field fence, behind the pitcher, which were pulled down when the home club was hitting, and rolled up again when the visitors were at bat.

LANCASHIRE IS THE CHAMPION FOOTER COUNTY

Has Three Clubs in First Five; Also Over Third of First Division

LONDON'S THREE ALL NEAR FOOT

Season Suffered More Than Usual Bad Weather; Some Losses

LONDON, May 4.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—A survey of the football season in the old country, which closed Saturday, reveals that the north and midlands continue to dominate the soccer game, while the south of England, particularly the metropolitan section, shows up to little advantage in the general run of the play. It is noted that not a southern or London team appears on the top half of the first division table.

While the championship went to Huddersfield, this is the only club from that country that emerges creditably from the season's league encounters, the neighboring county of Lancashire furnishing the majority of the strong teams that finished the year well. With the first 11 clubs of the league tabulated by counties, some indication is given of where the strength in English soccer lies.

Footer Counties

The column would run in this fashion:

Yorkshire, (Huddersfield).
Staffordshire (West Bromwich).
Lancashire (Bolton Wanderers).
Lancashire (Liverpool).
Lancashire (Bury).
Northumberland (Newcastle United).
Durham (Sunderland).
Staffordshire (Birmingham).
Nottinghamshire (Notts County).
Lancashire (Manchester City).
Wales (Cardiff).

In point of fact, Lancashire provided over one-third of the teams in the first division, for in addition to the foregoing, there were also Blackburn, Everton, Burnley and Preston Northend.

Arsenal's Number Twenty-three

For Lancashire the past season was a disappointment. Three metropolitan clubs were represented in the senior string, West Ham United, Tottenham Hotspurs and Arsenal. All three ended their scheduled encounters in the bottom half of the league standings. The least impressive of the trio were Arsenal, who sustained 23 defeats out of 42 games, a record that was exceeded only by the two clubs relegated, Preston and Notts Forest.

Whether the 1924-25 season was a financial success or not will not be known until the box-office receipts are counted. That the attendances were not always satisfactory is well-known, for the past winter was characterized by bad weather. Several first division clubs found themselves in serious financial straits at the opening of the season, and the playing year just gone was not of a nature to extricate them from these conditions.

The annual meetings, however, will tell their own story.

The ringing down of the curtain Saturday was also the signal for the entry of the equally pleasing, if less boisterous national pastime of cricket.

Ebbetts Left Ball Interest to Family

NEW YORK, May 4. — Charles H. "Oh dear! she just picks at her food"

Something wrong, there! And yet, something easily corrected.

ABBEY'S has frequently changed a pale, listless, nervous girl—finicky about her appetite—into a rosy, ready-for-breakfast-lunch-and-dinner girl—a basket ball-and-hockey girl—without the aid of any other medicine.

Paleness, thinness, poor blood mean that a child is not getting the good she should out of her food.

It may be weak digestion, chronic tightness of the bowels, acid stomach, too much acidity in the blood, or irritated kidneys, or some similar trouble which ABBEY'S will quickly correct.

Just try this simple and inexpensive treatment.

Get a bottle of ABBEY'S at your druggist's to-day. Half an hour before breakfast, give your daughter a glass of ABBEY'S. (Full directions for every member of the family are on the bottle.)

She will enjoy the refreshing, appetizing tartness and the sparkling effervescence; and YOU will be heartily pleased with the results.

And ABBEY'S is just as good for boys as for girls—ask your druggist

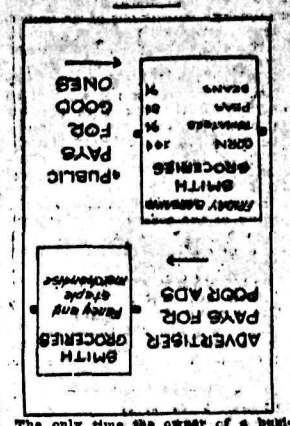
Efficient Ads Paid by Public Not Business Men



The only time the owner of a business pays his own advertising costs is when he insists on producing inefficient copy, because the public pays for efficient advertising.

Some business men believe that because they own a business they pay for their own advertising expenses, and can run the advertising department as sort of a whim or fad.

If two similar concerns appropriate the same amount of money for advertising they ought to have about the same costs. However, if one advertising department is run inefficiently because of the whims of the owner, its relative costs are going to be much larger than its competitor's. Assuming everything else is equal in the two firms, again the wasteful one will have to raise prices to make up for that excessive cost.

When this difference in prices is large enough to become apparent to the public, it will cease buying from the inefficient firm. Then the owner of that firm will pay for his advertising all right, because the public won't.

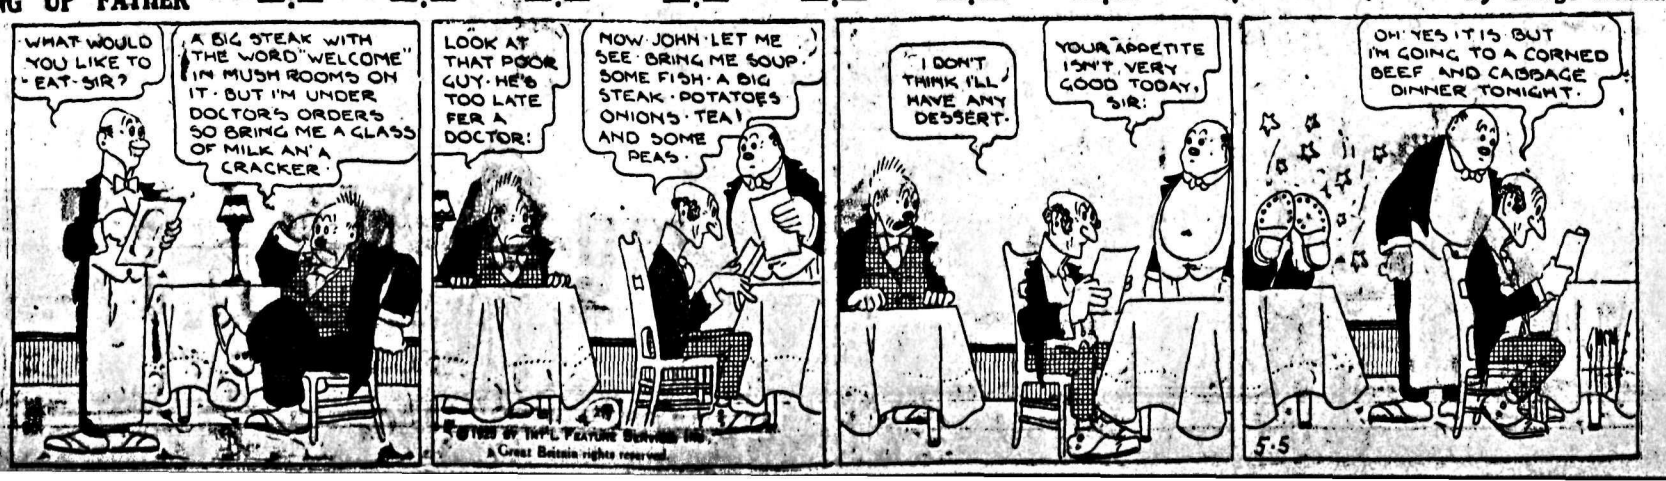
BRINGING UP FATHER — By George McManus



Stranded Steamer Breaks Into Two

HALIFAX, May 4. — Advices from the scene of the stranding last Friday morning of the steamer Azov, which ran on the rocks at Cape Hogan, near Arichat, Cape Breton, while on a voyage from Cuba to Montreal with molasses, stated today that the vessel had broken in two just aft of the engine room, and that the forward section was submerged.

An acute shortage of horses and mules in the United States within five years, unless breeding is increased, was predicted by the United States department of agriculture.

HAD BAD SPELLS WITH HER HEART

Mrs. C. Martin, R.R. No. 2, Orillia, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled with my heart for a long time and very often had bad spells with it. I would take fainting spells, and my husband had to have somebody to stay with me all the time. He got me everything he could think of to see if they would do me any good, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend was in to see me and advised me to try

PRINCESS MARY OPENS THE LONG SHUT BALLROOM

American Hostesses Have Squabble in London Over Mansion

EDMONTON LADY BUYS CZAR RING

Artistic Center of the Capital Now in Bloomsbury

LONDON, England, May 4.—(By Canadian Press) — Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, who has arrived at Chesterfield house, Mayfair, for the season, is planning the first big social function to lead off the season's festivities. There is a great banquet to which 300 guests will be invited, and it will be given in honor of King George and Queen Mary, who have returned, recuperated, from their health cruise.

The guests will include the whole of the corps diplomatique in London and a large number of Canadian and other overseas visitors. The number of London's visitors this year, is, indeed, likely to exceed that of last year, according to hotel reservations.

The great ballroom at Chesterfield house, which has never been opened since the days of the Earl of Cianricarde, has now been repainted and redecorated, and furnished with a spring floor after the pattern of the Savoy's main ballroom floor — an innovation which says much for the future social plans of Princess Mary.

Race for a Mansion

Mrs. Harry Brown of Pittsburgh, Penn., and Mrs. "Jimmie" Corrigan, two of the most well-known American hostesses, are not on speaking terms at the moment. It is all over Spencer house, which Mrs. Brown has succeeded in obtaining for the season at a weekly rental of something like $2000.

Mrs. Corrigan came over from New York a month earlier than usual in order to get Spencer house. So did Mrs. Brown. Negotiations with the agents opened at once.

Mrs. Corrigan, however, started with a severe handicap. Earl Spencer and his Countess asked Mrs. Brown to visit their country place, Althorp park, for a week-end; and it was not really very surprising that on the Monday morning Mrs. Brown should travel straight back to London and become at once the chatelaine of Spencer house for the small weekly consideration mentioned above.

Mrs. Corrigan has, however, succeeded in getting Mrs. Keppell's beautiful little place in Mount street, a house she had two or three years ago.

Mrs. Haldén Loeffler of Edmonton, Alta., a wealthy visitor at the Savoy, is stated to be the purchaser of the famous Romanoff emerald ring, which, after having been sold at Rotherham, Kent, for two shillings, was resold at Christie's for £1450. Mrs. Loeffler has now bought it from some Hatton Garden merchant for a little more than £2000.

The ring's history is a tragic one, for it is said to have been worn by the czar at the time of his death. The emerald is a large square one, flawless except for a segment chipped out of a side of the stone, presumably by the executioners.

Londoners and visitors still like to think that Chelsea is the home and center of London's artistic life, though today it isn't at all. Neither is it St. John's Wood, that serene and sedate area around the Zoological Gardens.

Most of London's artistic and "ultra" people now live in Bloomsbury, libeled for years because of legendary boarding houses, but now literally blooming in a second youth.

The latest and most freakish of London's young artistic ideas is to cover walls, not with wallpapers or paint, but with newspapers. Harold Speed, one of the youngest Royal Academicians, who lives in Bloomsbury, has papered his rooms with foreign newspapers—Russian, Greek, Chinese and Egyptian—and the result is as startling as anybody could desire.

It might be added, however, that it comes a good deal more expensive than an ordinary wallpaper, and as artists are as poor as ever they were, only the "fashionable" painters can indulge in the idea.

DUTCH CATCH CANADIANS IN DRUG TRAFFIC

Ton of Narcotics Smuggled in Shipment of Picture Frames

ROTTERDAM, Holland, May 4. — —The police authorities of the city have refused to divulge the names of the two Canadians who have been placed under arrest here on a charge of smuggling narcotics into the country, but it is known that one is a former bookmaker and the other a commission agent, and that both belong to Montreal. They are said to have stated that they were acting for a Canadian living in Tampico, Mexico.

The drugs, which included cocaine, morphine and heroin, and weigh considerably more than one ton, at a value of about $90,000, were purchased in Germany, transported to Switzerland, and handed over to the Canadians, who then consigned them to Rotterdam for further transport. The narcotics were concealed in a shipment of picture frames.

Close inspection by the Rotterdam customs authorities, following the receipt of information that an attempt was being made to ship drugs through Holland, led to the seizure of the narcotics.

A Swiss clerk from Zurich is also held in custody with the Canadians, pending further investigation into an alleged international traffic.

GAWGE GODFREY WON FIRST BOUT WITH ONE PUNCH

Famous Negro Battler Is From 'Way Down South in Dixie

LOS ANGELES, May 4.—Way—way down south; down where the handshake is a little stronger—where the moonshine flows a little freer—where the sunshine is a little thicker, that's way down south.

That's where George Godfrey was born—Mobile, Ala.

His real name is Feab Smith Williams. He is 24. Feab's folks moved to Chicago when he was three years of age. He grew up there in the famous colored belt. At 18 he was way down south again, working in the shipyards at Mobile.

Broke Giant's Jaw

Always good-natured and playful, George used to exercise his fists on whoever spoke out of turn. The first real fight he had was with a giant named Eddie Jamison. Godfrey broke Jamison's jaw in two places the first shot out of the box. Jamison weighed 218; Godfrey, 174.

"I decided foh mahself right there I wuz cut out foh ah fighter," says Godfrey.

"I sez to mahself, 'Feab, ole kid, it war too bad dat Jamison's name wuzn't Willard, foh de results would sure hab bin de same and den yoh-all's would ha' bin de champeen o' dis wurld."

Godfrey was a busy athlete from then on. He joined a colored football team which played all over the south. Because George could fight he was promptly elected captain, and he played center so he could be in the thick of the battle.

Named for Old Chocolate

It was Dr. Frank C. Caffey of Mobile who gave Godfrey his fighting name. Dr. Caffey had been a great admirer of George Godfrey, "Old Chocolate," the great colored heavyweight of 40 years ago. The original Godfrey was acclaimed the first colored heavyweight champion of America. He beat Ham Williams in seven minutes, in 1882.

An interesting thing about the old Godfrey and the new Godfrey shows in the records.

One of the opponents "Old Chocolate" defeated was named Jimmy Doherty. He won in 1 minute 25 seconds. And the "New Chocolate" is now being managed by Jimmy Daugherty. Doherty and Daugherty—names pronounced alike—cropped up in the careers of both colored heavyweight fighters. The original Godfrey was once matched to fight John L. Sullivan, but friends gave the affair away and it fell through. Fighting in those days was against the law. "Old Chocolate" lost to Peter Jackson in 19 rounds at San Francisco in 1888.

Boston Tar Baby Found Him

It was the "Boston Tar Baby" who discovered Godfrey when he was still fighting in the Mobile shipyards.

When Daugherty took Godfrey under his roof a complication arose in bringing him out. Daugherty, a world-famous referee, has always been a good friend of Kearns and Dempsey. As long as Dempsey ruled the universe Godfrey was held in hock, waiting for his big moment. That big moment has arrived. Kearns and Dempsey have come to the parting of the ways—Dempsey has retired.

The opinion of many ring critics is that Godfrey will be the next heavyweight champion of the world.

The giant negro can claim it now. Harry Wills—rated in the Who's Who as the next man to Dempsey—was defeated by big Bill Tate at Portland, Ore. And Godfrey knocked Tate out in eight rounds in Madison Square Garden.

Then who is champion now? How old is Ann?

A Hint

Samuel, if yoh-all's am lucky 'nuff to sock dis heah Godfrey pusson Tuesday night at Vernon, yoh and Uncle Tom Cox can move right up town and start receivin' guests and mail.

ALL CATS COME BUT RIGHT ONE

Los Angeles Dry Official Uses Catnip and Cream to Lure Stray

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 4.—All the stray cats for miles around the home of George Contreras, chief of the county dry squad, at 852 North-Occidental boulevard, are rallying. Contreras has provided a feast of catnip, cream and fish and it is being thoroughly appreciated.

In fact, he has provided repeated feasts in the hope of luring back Mrs. Contreras' silver gray Persian kitten who has been lost, strayed or stolen since Saturday morning. The kitten, which has a pedigree as long as the list of bootleggers Contreras has arrested, became part of the Contreras manage about three weeks ago, and endeared itself to the dry officer by waiting up for him every night and insisting on rubbing its silky fur against his legs before arising.

So far, 1,037,497 cats by actual count have been seen about the Contreras home since he has been putting out the catnip, fish and cream, but the silver gray Persian kitten has not been among them. The neighbors are considering offering a reward for the return of the kitten so that the putting out of choice catbits be discontinued.

PROCTER AND MACS IN A TIE

Score One-All in Best Game Witnessed for Some Time in Nelson

CITY LEAGUE STANDING

Teams	W.	D.	1 D.	0 Pts.	2
Fairview	1	0	0		2
McLearies	0	0	1		1
Procter	0	0	1		1
Corinthians	0	1	0		0

One of the largest of crowds on hand to witness a football game in Nelson for some time saw the United club of Procter and Sunshine Bay and the McLearies of Nelson, draw one-all, in the second game of the city league series. The game was a fight from start to finish with accurate passing and excellent work by the backs on either team.

The Macs tallied first in three minutes of play when Alf Jeffs scored on Archibald's pass. There was no further scoring on either side in this half and the goalkeepers put up a great game.

In the second half, when after about 15 minutes of play Price dashed in past the faltering Mac backs and landed the ball home. It was a deserved goal and delighted the fans who seemed pleased to have some outside competition in the league series.

The next game will be on Friday night, when the Corinthians will meet the Macs. Last night's battle was refereed by B. P. Rogers.

LIBERALS BACK LOCAL DENTISTS APPEAL TO KING

Resolution Supports Request for Grant for Dental Hygine Body

A deputation from the local dentists, consisting of Dr. E. G. Smyth and Dr. G. A. C. Walley, met with the executive of the Nelson Liberal association in the Maglio block last night, indorsing the proposal for a grant of $10,000 to the Canadian Dental Hygiene council.

The object of the campaign now in progress, the representatives told the Liberal association, was to make the organization just effected a truly national organization, which would be an amalgamation of all dentists under one parent body.

The Liberal association indorced the resolution.

The objects of the organization were completely set out in the resolution to be forwarded to the premier, which reads as follows:

For Public Health

"We would like to bring to your attention a request of the Canadian Dental Hygiene council, for a grant of $10,000.00 from the federal government, to assist in an organized effort to promote public health throughout the Dominion.

"It is unnecessary that we should dwell upon the importance of dentistry in relation to public health. This matter has been brought to the attention of everyone of us forcibly during the last few years, and we are sure we are all aware of the tremendously important part it plays in any health work. Perhaps our greatest object lesson was derived from our experience during the war, and it has awakened in the public a demand that more knowledge shall be given them as to the prevention of just such conditions, as were found at that time. The dental profession has, during the last few years, been doing this work from its own resources; but this work necessarily is limited through lack of sufficient funds.

Carry Knowledge to Home

"The Canadian Dental Hygiene council has been formed by dentists and public-spirited laymen, and we are glad to associate with them in such a movement. This council, hopes that that with the assistance of the federal government they can, in an organized way, carry to every home throughout Canada, the knowledge that mouth health, means better general health, that oral hygiene, decidedly influences the well being of every individual—particularly the children, so that future generations will benefit by the teachings of preventive measures regarding mouth diseases.

"Each year the government makes grants to assist many health organizations, but as yet no assistance has been given to assist dental health, despite the fact that expenditures in this direction will obviate much larger expenditure in others.

"We feel sure that you are in sympathy with this cause, and we ask you to give earnest consideration to this request.

"Hoping that your cabinet will see your way clear to accede to it."

GOLFING CARD OVER HOLIDAY ALL ARRANGED

Three Days' Handicap Play Outlined; New Eighth Green in Play

The match committee of the Nelson Golf and Country club has held its first meeting, and has gone carefully over all the events for the 1925 season, and the fixture card has practically been drawn up, and will be available in full at an early date.

During the May holiday the following events will be played:

May 23—Captain's cup, men's hand cap singles. Match play.

May 23—Noxon's trophy, ladies' handicap singles. Match play.

May 25—Men's foursomes, on handicap, ladies' foursomes, on handicap, all finals.

The handicaps have been adjusted, and will be announced in the course of the next few days.

"Competition play is one of the best methods of improving one's game," says the committee, in a notification to the members, "and the match committee sincerely hopes the members will turn out in full force and indulge in some friendly rivalry while enjoying a good day's golf."

The conditions on the links are improving every day. The new eighth green was put into play this last week-end, and at least one member succeeded in doing it in par with a three.

'RUNAWAY GIRL' MAKES A GREAT HIT IN NELSON

Comic Opera by Trail Musicians Draws Packed House

SONGS, COSTUMES, COMEDY OF BEST

Carnival Scene Heartily Applauded; Visitors at Social

Nelson theatergoers last night saw perhaps one of the most enjoyable and well-produced comic operas ever staged in the city when the Trail Musical society produced "A Runaway Girl," a comic opera by Lionel Monckton and Ivan Caryll, and produced under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Tregoning of Trail. A riot of gay color, excellent singing both in the choruses and the solo numbers, and dainty dancing, together with comedy put over in fine style, made the production exceptional, and the crowd which jammed the opera house to the doors went home well pleased.

Winnifred Gray, an orphan, played by Mildred Garner, is the ward of Lord and Lady Coodle. She left her school to go wandering with a band of Italian singers. Guy Stanley, Lord Coodle's nephew, is betrothed to the girl, although he has never seen her. The girl leaves school, and Guy goes on a trip to Italy. He falls in love with a singing girl, who turns out to be Winnifred, and needless to say everything ends well in Venice.

Leading Lady Good

Mildred Garner, as the leading lady, put over her part in an excellent manner, and deserves much credit, as she was acting in the role of substitute, Mrs. Thompson, who was to play that part, having taken sick. Guy Stanley was acted by H. B. Fuller, who needed no introduction to Nelson audiences after the "Country Girl" production of last year.

Flipper, a jockey, and courier to the Coodles, was the comedian and was the life of the whole play, his difficult part being put over with the ease of a professional by H. A. McLaren. He was ably assisted by Alice, Lady Coodle's maid, played by Marion Beckwith. Ronald Eccles, as Brother Tamarind, and Mrs. R. W. Watson, as Carmenita, presented some interesting and funny scenes.

The final act was a blaze of color and lights, and ended in a gay carnival scene. This part of the program was an outstanding one, and the gay dances in costumes of various hues, and amid showers of confetti and streamers, made a great hit.

Choruses Beautifully Done

The choruses throughout were beautifully sung, "The Convent Bell," the finale, "To Venice" and "The Carnival Chorus" being outstanding numbers.

Mildred Garner, as Winnifred, contributed several songs, including "The Sly Cigarette," "The Singing Girl" and "The Boy Guessed Right." Mrs. R. W. Watson, in the final act, with her "I Love Society" solo, made a decided hit and had to sing several encores.

During the evening several of the players received bouquets of beautiful flowers, and Tim Wheatley, playing the part of Hon. Bobby Barclay, received a unique presentation—that of a cabbage head, which was labelled "Gyro." Mr. Wheatley was a former Gyro in this city. Several other Nelsonites appeared in the cast, including Miss Freda Hunter, Miss Florence Rutledge, Miss Don Cairns, Aubrey Phillips and Walter Brodie.

Following the production, the players, who came to the city on a special train, were the guests of the Nelson Operatic society at a short social in the Memorial hall.
