REGINA CITIZENS GIVEN SUBPOENAS

Must Appear Before Customs Commission Week From Today

REGINA, Jan. 27.—Several Regina citizens have been served with summonses to appear as witnesses before the royal commission on customs here on February 4.

It is presumed therefore that the commission will open its Regina sitting on that day.

At least some of those already summoned figured more or less in liquor selling and theft charges heard last summer in which bonded alcohol alleged to have been stolen and bootlegged, was mentioned so freely, not only in Regina, but also on the floor of the Canadian parliament.

FREIGHT RATES ISSUE IS SLOW

McGeer Cross-Examines on Operating Costs in B. C. as Compared Elsewhere

OTTAWA, Jan. 27. — The freight rates case moved slowly today. The commission has reserved its judgment as to whether or not counsel have the right to demand information from the Canadian Pacific railway relating to revenue from land grants. This matter will probably not be decided now until next week. It was a subject for comment between counsel for the province and the cmopany yesterday and today. Both parties insist that unless their stands are acknowledged by the board they will appeal to a higher court—the supreme court of Canada.

This afternoon G. G. McGeer, counsel for British Columbia, cross-examined E. E. Lloyd, assistant comptroller of the C. P. R. The examination revolved about operating costs in British Columbia as compared with other provinces. Mr. McGeer maintained that the figures showed that operating conditions in British Columbia were not more expensive per mile than in other provinces.

They paraded through the foreign concession with banners, incense and music, notifying the public that they had adopted a scale.

ORIENTALS OWN NINETY-SEVEN LOTS, NELSON

Also Hold Property Valued at $5400 in the District, Figures Show

PROVINCE IS HOME FOR 46,000 ORIENTALS

Figures Result Exhaustive Government Survey on Matter; Japs Increasing

VICTORIA, Jan. 27.—(Special to The Daily News.)—According to a most exhaustive survey of the oriental penetration into British Columbia made by the government, there are 46,000 Chinese, Japanese and Hindus residing in the province. While there has been a decrease in the number of Hindus and the Chinese population is more or less stationary, the natural increases of Japanese alone is on the ratio of 15 to eight.

The Japanese birth rate is 40 per 1000, while that of the whole of British Columbia, excluding Indians, is only 18 per 1000 of population.

Orientals own land valued at $11,500,000, according to incomplete returns received from municipalities and the government's records. These figures include 17,906 acres in unorganized areas, worth $1,190,000. Records show that in Nelson orientals own 97 city lots and in the district land valued at $5400.

There are 3231 orientals holding business and professional licences and entering into practically every walk of commercial endeavor.

States Action on Chinese Question Brings Applause

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The wide door opened by Secretary Kellogg to orderly steps for giving China her place in the sun of diplomatic equality among the nations brought a chorus of approval today at home and abroad.

A single voice raised in congress in direct criticism, questioned merely whether Mr. Kellogg had gone far enough. Senator Borah, foreign relations chairman, breaking his silence on China, declared for a United States policy in the far east looking to "a free and disenthralled China."

British approval of Secretary Kellogg's announced policy not only was expressed by Ambassador Howard, who called today at the state department, but also was reflected in press dispatches from London. An intimation that Japan's rumored negotiations at Peking were also based on treaty equality proposals came from London.

Kennedy Nominated by Conservatives in North Okanagan

VERNON, B.C., Jan. 27.—W. F. Kennedy, president of the Vernon board of trade, was nominated as Conservative candidate in the provincial riding of North Okanagan at a convention here this afternoon. The vacancy was caused by the death recently of Arthur Cochrane, Conservative member for the riding.

KIT KAT CLUB IN LONDON SUSPENDED

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The Kit Kat club, one of the most fashionable night rendezvous in London, with a membership of 5000 persons, has been struck off the register for three months for supplying intoxicating liquors to patrons outside the hours of sale permitted by statute. Many habitues were fined £10 apiece for consuming liquor on the premises. It was not suggested in court proceedings that the club had been disorderly.

Military Balloon Carries Pilot to His Death, Believed

MOSCOW, Jan. 27.—Fear that the brilliant young pilot, Flight Commander Garakandidze, has been frozen to death in the air, leaving his balloon at the mercy of the winds, has impelled the government to broadcast appeals to the populace to report any traces of the missing dirigible.

Garakandidze disappeared from sight in a giant military balloon on Sunday and has not been seen or heard from since. He was dressed in light clothing, and had no windproof garments or felt boots, although the mercury was 15 degrees below zero.

After he had circled Moscow for an hour, the pilot was seen to make signals to those below with his outstretched hands, which onlookers failed to understand. The great gas bag then began an erratic course—the first portent of disaster—and was then carried swiftly by the strong wind in a southerly direction.

DRYS WILL NOT BE POLITICAL PARTY DECIDES

Vote Against Party Proposal Is Overwhelming; Ask Fund Investigation

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—There will be no separate political organization of British Columbia prohibitionists, it was decided by an overwhelming vote at a provincial convention of prohibitionists here this afternoon, attended by representatives from all parts of the province.

Rev. W. W. Peck, late secretary of the British Columbia Prohibition association, advised against political organization, as did also, the secretary of the Alberta Prohibition association, and W. D. Bayley, M.L.A. of Winnipeg. The secretary of the Anti-Saloon league of Washington, D.C., also in a letter recited the misfortunes which had beset the path of the prohibitionists party in the United States.

The convention adopted a proposal that the provincial government be asked for a thorough investigation of allegations as to gifts by liquor interests to employees of the government, for prosecution where perjury had been disclosed in the late customs inquiry, for refusal of licences to breweries and distilleries and others in the liquor business, found guilty of infractions of the law.

Bill to Control Agents Jobbers of Agricultural Products Nearly Beaten

VICTORIA, Jan. 27.—(Special to The Daily News.)—On a point of order, raised by H. D. Twigg, Victoria, consideration of the attorney-general's bill, to control agents brokers and jobbers of agricultural products, just missed defeat in the house Thursday. Mr. Twigg insisted that it had not been properly introduced. It is this bill that the fruit growers are attacking, declaring that its passage will make it impossible to market their products. Adjournment was ordered on the point of order.

OPENING OF CONTRACTS CAUSES MERRY DEBATE

VICTORIA, Jan. 27.—(Special to The Daily News.)—That the policy of having the minister open contracts, instead of departmental officials, did not come into effect until after the appointment of Hon. W. H. Sutherland, as minister of public works, was the assertion made by R. H. Pooley, at the legislative public accounts committee Thursday. Pat Philip, deputy minister, said, he thought Hon. Dr. King opened tenders in the same way, but this was questioned by the opposition leader, who asked him to produce departmental instructions, issued in 1922 to the effect that in future the minister would act.

ALL MAY SOON BE SATISFIED BY AMENDMENT

Liberals Will Change Amendment Causing Contention in the Legislature

FRANKLY WORRIED OVER CAMPAIGN FUND AFFAIR

Labor and Conservatives Might Refuse Act on House Committee if Named

VICTORIA, Jan. 27.—(Special to The Daily News.)—Stating that a change in the amendment, offered Wednesday by the attorney-general to the Browne-Neelands motion for a royal commission to probe campaign funds, might be arranged that would be acceptable to the Labor and Conservative members, Capt. Ian MacKenzie moved an adjournment of the debate Thursday.

The government is frankly worried over the amendment which was intended to remove the probe from a royal commission and transfer it to a legislative committee. The move has not met with the support that was expected from the government side of the house. Labor members are standing firm and have the support of the Conservatives, so if the amendment is finally pushed through it will be a narrow and uncomfortable majority. Then there is the probability that the opposition will not take part in the commission. This is being freely discussed by both Conservative and Labor members.

Three Firemen Are Buried in Ruins of New York Block

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Rescue squads worked desperately tonight to reach three firemen believed to be trapped in the smouldering ruins of a building on the lower east side.

Several firemen trapped by the collapse of the third and fourth floors of the building at 144 Goerck street, crawled to safety. Others were rescued by squads sent into the burning debris. Three of the rescued were taken to hospital. Others were treated at the scene.

After two hours of work one of the missing firemen was pulled from beneath the ruins and taken to hospital.

For more than an hour before the collapse, firemen had been working throughout the seven-story building. It is believed at the time that the fire was under control. Without warning the fourth and fifth floors of the building gave way. Many firemen managed to crawl to safety. Seven were buried in the collapse.

Rev. Mr. McIntyre Criticizes Liquor Warehouses, Kootenay

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—Liquor law enforcement in Vancouver was serevely arraigned at the resumption of the adjourned convention of Provincial Prohibition association here today. William Mullett, a delegate, said the local police knew of many joints but were powerless to touch them. Bonded warehouses at Fernie and Grand Forks existed merely for the export of liquor into prohibition countries, said Rev. R. J. McIntyre, provincial organizer.

John Tracy Crew Did Utmost to Save Lives in Blizzard

BOSTON, Jan. 27.—Two oars broken short in the starboard locks of the long boat of the steamer John Tracy indicate that the 27 members of the crew who are believed to have lost their lives when the steamer foundered in the blizzard of January 11 made a last desperate attempt to save themselves.

Captain Dunsky, skipper of the steam trawler Breaker, which found the boat overturned in the south channel, said on his arrival here today that the boat would have held all of the crew easily.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—Consideration of the details of a budget of $128,000 for missions and other work, and of $60,000 for the support of Brandon college for the current year, occupied the second day of the meeting of the board of the Baptist Union of Western Canada in session here. Of the amount decided upon, for Brandon college, $20,000 will be raised by the church of the four western provinces. A satisfactory report of the college was received and four directors appointed as follows:

J. C. Bowen, Edmonton; W. C. Kelly, Summerland; J. Bowman, Saskatoon, and E. J. Carr, Winnipeg.

The treasurer of the board reported that the amount now standing to the credit of the endowment and annuity fund, was $30,000.

Graham, who resigned from the post when he was elevated to the senate, will preside over the three-day hearing scheduled for next week, when the tariff on boots and shoes will be the chief item for discussion. Of the six references on the agenda for next week, four are rehearings.

Mr. Moore is a barrister and a graduate in economics. He was formerly connected with the Canadian Northern railway. He has a stock farm at Dunbarton.

WOULD END THE CLOUD HANGING OVER FAR EAST

Proposals It Is Hinted Would Make Foundation for Permanent Trade

IMPOSSIBLE THAT WOULD BE REJECTED BY CHINA

Chinese May Withdrew Forces From Shanghai Area; No Excuse for British Then

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Great Britain is about to offer to China what are described as "generous terms" to end, if possible, the serious situation with its grave possibilities that has arisen in the far east.

The British press and public are anxiously waiting official publication of the proposals, but up to the present the ministers content themselves with repudiating inaccurate versions of alleged terms, published in the foreign press and at the same time asserting that the terms, when made public, will be found to be generous. The impression drawn from the ministerial hints, is that while the proposals may not go far enough to satisfy the government's Liberal and Labor critics, they will prove too conciliatory to please the ultra-Conservative supporters of the government and the British business community in China.

It is generally assumed that the government, in drafting its proposals, has looked beyond existing difficulties to something which will provide a security and a basis for trading of a permanent character.

Terms Are Generous

L. C. M. Amery, of the colonial office, in a speech at Kilmarnock tonight, said that when the terms were published, it would be found that the modifications proposed to the present treaty position, would be so far-reaching, so generous and so considerate, that it would be impossible to conceive of their being rejected by any section in China. If they were rejected, he declared, it would be owing to the dominance of Bolshevik agents and policy over the real will of China.

Colonel Amery reiterated that there was no idea of war or conquests or participation in the civil struggles of China, nor even of influencing negotiations through the forces dispatched to China.

An interesting report, from Shanghai, mentions a movement on the part of the Cantonese leaders to reach a self-denying agreement with the northern leaders to withdraw all Chinese troops from the Shanghai district, thereby affording no excuse for the landing of foreign troops. Such a development would be welcomed by many in England, who fear that the British military and naval preparations might have a provocative effect, and who strongly object to Great Britain assuming the role of European protection in China.

Reports, current in London today, say that a number of additional airplanes are being dispatched to the far east. More than 8000 troops will sail from London and Southampton for Shanghai tomorrow and Saturday. This is the biggest transport problem undertaken here since the Tchanak crisis after the great war.

'Why Should We?' Asks Premier When Asked if Canadians Will Send Troops

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—"Tell me where the rumor came from and I will talk to you about it," remarked Premier Mackenzie King tonight concerning the report that Canada was being secretly sounded out on the question of military participation in the Chinese war. It was the close of a four-hour cabinet council, the first Premier King has attended for a week. He stated that sessional business had been under discussion all afternoon and that he had no announcement to make.

He dismissed with a smile questions concerning the possibility of Canada being embroiled in the Chinese affair. "Why should we?" he asked. "I really cannot say anything about it because there is nothing to say. It is a civil war between north and south China. To attempt to drag the Canadian government into it is merely mischief making."

THREE ASPHYXIATED GAS IN VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27.—Three men have been asphyxiated by illuminating gas here during the past 24 hours, according to reports made to the police.

J. McMeekin and an unidentified companion were found dead in bed in the former's room this morning, with two gas jets burning and all windows and doors closed. The pipe leading to the gas slot meter in the room had been disconnected and the pipe connected with the jets by a rubber tube.

The body of John K. Ashurst, longshoreman, who had apparently been dead about three days, was found late yesterday in bed in his room, in which the two gas jets were still burning.

EDMONTON BOARD IS FOR WAR ON INSANITY

EDMONTON, Jan. 27.—A resolution adopting the principle of sterilization of certain feeble-minded persons in provincial institutions in line with the spirit of a resolution passed last week by the United Farm Women of Alberta, and aimed at the prevention of the growing increase of insanity in which heredity plays an important part, was passed by the Edmonton school board tonight. A committee was named to interview the minister of health on the subject.

CANADIAN RADIO TROUBLES AT END

Pirating Believed Stopped; States Would Control All Radio

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The troubles of Canadian radio fans, caused by the pirating of Canadian wave lengths by stations in the United States, are believed to be nearing an end.

After months of assiduous effort, radio legislators in Washington, have whipped into shape, for final action, government control legislation, which in their opinion, meets all the needs that have developed since the commerce department discovered last summer, that it was without authority under the Wireless act of 1912 to regulate the vast radio broadcasting machinery.

Canadian radio fans, driven to desperation by their inability to get good reception, appealed to the radio branch of the department of marine and fisheries at Ottawa, whose officials took up the question of wave lengths with Hon. Herbert Hoover.

Senate and house conferences on the Dill and White bills put the finishing touches to their report yesterday and it was generally predicted that the redrafted measure would be approved and sent to the president at this session.

The bill would establish government control over all channels of interstate and foreign radio communication. The bill vests in a commission of five complete control over radio for the first year, after its enactment, after which it would have final say in all disputes, growing out of decisions of the secretary of commerce, who has initial control after one year.

QUEBEC DOES WELL WITH LIQUOR SALES

QUEBEC, Jan. 27.—The report of the Quebec liquor commission tabled in the Quebec legislative assembly today, shows that the total sales were $19,018,228; the profits, $4,421,335, after payment of all charges. From this is taken an additional $250,000 for working capital, which brings the figures down to $4,171,335, but to this must be added a sum of $1,375,155 derived from permits, duties, fines and seizures, less enforcement expenses, hence the net profits are given as at $5,546,490.

The working capital of the commission, which started at zero when the commission was created in 1921, is now sufficient for all purposes, since the statement shows that only $5062 went in interest to the banks.

White street lines to guide motorists cost London hundreds of pounds monthly. Smoke, fog and rain cause the paint to wear rapidly.

OFFICERS ARE REELECTED BY CANADIAN VETS

Meet Next at Saint John; Widen Membership Qualifications

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27. — Saint John, N.B., will be the venue of the 1928 convention of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service league. The eastern city was selected after an impassioned appeal at the closing session of the inaugural convention, for assistance in arousing the returned soldiers in the maritimes and completion of the organization work started by Earl Haig on his last visit to Canada.

According to Brig.-Gen. A. Ross of Yorkton, Sask., more business was transacted during the four-day session of the convention than ordinarily is passed upon by parliament in six months. He warned against the danger, however, of submitting ill-considered legislative demands to the government as harmful to the future reputation and influence of the legion.

Acclamations Many

Acclamations were accorded the majority of the officers, the return of Lietenant-General Sir Percy Lake of Victoria, B.C., to the presidency being greeted with a spontaneous demonstration of cheering and applause.

Lieut.-Col. L. R. LaFleche of Ottawa was elected vice-president. Second vice-president, Col. J. McAra, Regina; national chairman, A. F. Moore, Winnipeg; national vice-chairman, Maj. J. S. Roper, Halifax; honorary treasurer, J. A. MacIsaacs, Ottawa; delegates to the British Empire Service league—Brig.-Gen. A. Ross, Yorkton; Lieut.-Col. J. K. MacKay, Toronto, and Capt. H. M. Dix, Montreal.

Preferential treatment for returned soldier applicants for civil service employment was recommended in one of the resolutions. It was also suggested that the system of competitive examinations be continued.

The federal government will be urged to add war service of civil servants toward their claim for superannuation, and to extend the Superannuation act to embrace the staffs of the department of civil reestablishment and the soldiers' settlement board.

The convention supported a resolution favoring the creation of a home market for Canadian coal. A subsidy was suggested as desirable in developing the industry.

The session of the convention, were concluded tonight and final action resulted in several amendments to the constitution. It was provided that any person who had served in the forces of the allies and had received an honorable discharge would be eligible for membership.

The convention indorsed the principle of selective immigration and the quota system with preference to British subjects.

Fate of Senator Gould Now Rests With the Senate Elections Body

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—With conclusion of argument by counsel tonight, the senate elections committee took under advisement the case involving bribery charges against Senator Gould, Republican, Maine. It plans to submit a report next week.

The committee abandoned hope for receiving testimony from former Premier Flemming of New Brunswick, concerning the $100,000 campaign contribution of the Gould railroad interests to his party, his physicians advising Mr. Flemming was ill.

More Foreign Parties Leave United Church Missions in China

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—A cable received at United church offices here today from Chentu, Szechwan province, western China, reports the departure for the coast of a third party of 18 foreign residents, mostly women and children of the United church's west China mission. Conditions in Szechwan are unchanged, the cable says, indicating that this party, like earlier ones, is leaving because of the consular opinion regarding the general Chinese situation and not because of any local conditions. The message was dated at Chentu Monday, the day the party left for the coast.

Ticket scalping is said to cost the United States railroads $100,000,000 yearly.

Ratner's army goods store, Gary, Ind., was robbed of $8100 by three masked men.

THE TABLE GUEST

I do not approve of "company" manners, and yet there are little formalities that we show guests that are not necessary to observe with "home folks." I have my children take turns being company at supper. The honored child is waited on by the others, served with the choicest food, and made the center of the conversation. Then when there is real company there is no lack of manners.

OLIVER WOULD GO TO COURTS

Appeal Railway Land Subsidies Question to Privy Council Over Head of Board, Says

VICTORIA, Jan. 27.—Premier John Oliver announced today that the British Columbia government would appeal over the head of the railway board to the courts or the Canadian privy council in supporting the demand that subsidies of land granted to railway companies by British Columbia be considered in the fixing of transportation rates.

The premier was advised by G. G. McGeer, government rates counsel now in Ottawa, that the railways were opposing the consideration of land grants as a factor in rate making. Mr. Oliver immediately approved an appeal from the board on this point.

Blames Unemployment on Faulty Canadian Laws on Immigration

VANCOUVER, Jan. 27. — Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, discussing immigration laws here tonight before the local trades and labor council, declared that faulty immigration laws and the exploitation of inexperienced European labor contributed largely to the unemployment in Canada.

"Training camps for emigrants in England have produced good results, but the congress claims that the Canadian government should provide training camps in its own land and colonize the farm lands with recruits from its own unemployed," said Mr. Moore.

Chang Tso-Lin Will Become President of China Shortly

PEKING, Jan. 27.—Keen foreign observers of Chinese politics discussed with interest today the indications that Chang Tso-Lin, former bandit and present dictator of Manchuria and maker of Peking government cabinets, will be elected president of China within a few days. Chang, head of the northern militarists' coalition against the Cantonese invasion, can be president of that portion of China controlled from Peking, it is said, whenever he desires that honor.

As president of the Peking government, Chang would combine the duties of head of civil affairs with that of generalissimo of the alliance against the Cantonese.

LIQUOR TO BE ABOLISHED, DO ITS WORK

Unusual Remarks Are Made by Pastors Youngson and Turner

WISDOM MUST BE ENTHUSIASM'S CURB

Christ, Not Church, the Means; Temperance Union Meets

Rev. James Youngson, Rev. E. G. Turner and Mrs. M. Gibbs spoke on various phases of the temperance question, at a prayer-meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held in the First Baptist church last night, when the addresses of the two ministers were notable for the fact that they demanded a positive substitute for the social offices performed by liquor, if it was to be done away with.

Mrs. Gibbs, president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, said liquor seemed to her "the most insidious evil in the world," for it appealed particularly to youth, and sapped vitality, strength and will power. "The end is not always destruction," said Mrs. Gibbs, but it was often enough to make women fear for their children. The present agitation in Nelson was in order that the women might make the way safer from evil and temptation for their children.

A Tenantless Soul in Danger

Taking the scientific phrase, "nature abhors a vacuum," as the basis of his address, Mr. Youngson stated that a human soul, "if tenantless, is in deadly danger, and an empty heart is a standing invitation to evil."

"You are endeavoring to better the society in which you live. You, it may be, prosecute that effort to take from man the resources of the saloon. What is he going to do with his evenings?" he asked.

That he would do something better was the argument, according to the speaker, and it was a "good argument,—but have you something better to give him? If not, you have exposed him to a deadly danger—a vacuum."

Criminal's Life Vacuum

He instanced the criminal given "hard labor for the good of his soul," but an outcast thereafter, owing to a vacuum having been created in his life.

Christianity was not incapable of dealing with the problem, said Mr. Youngson. Christianity could fill it.

Enthusiasm Versus Wisdom

"I want to see liquor done away with," Mr. Turner asserted, "but I don't want my enthusiasm to take me where my wisdom can't."

The Women's Christian Temperance union Was trying to do away with something—"What is it going to put in its place?" Mr. Turner asked. Men must be led out of the saloon into something better, "but by a different program."

Some people charged the church with "trying to sell to the heathen what we can't put over in our own land. I feel that a great spiritual renaissance is coming. India is moving Christward—but India is not moving churchward, not Christianityward, not western civilizationward. She has no use for the articles of our faith. She detests it. She wants Christ. We can't lead by creeds or credal statements, but we can lead by him. A great responsibility is ours. May God guide and help us," Mr. Turner concluded.

A resolution, forwarded in November of the British Columbia Prohibition convention at Vancouver and favoring the formation of a Prohibition party for political purposes, was read at the meeting, but no action was taken.

MAN VANISHES THROUGH ICE, POLICE TOLD

Provincial and City Forces to the Rescue but in Vain

ICE-BREAKING WORK IS MISINTERPRETED

Ladies Up Hill Watch Youths 'Disappear'; Enter a Launch

Breaking a passage through the ice in the bend of the river below the C. P. R. roundhouse, with his launch, and with the assistance of three or four boys on the ice, John Gillette yesterday afternoon was the unconscious origin of a drowning scare. For some time, police officers were busy on the "case," first in the hope of making a possible rescue, and then, of recovering the body of a man said to have gone through the ice.

Mrs. Matthews, who resides at the head of Latimer street, at the upper end of town, from which vantage point she enjoys a view of the sweep of the river, just now sheeted in white, was the person who started the machinery into motion. With the naked eye she plainly saw three or four figures on the ice, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and then suddenly one, of them, disappeared, while she could plainly see a black area that presumably was water.

From the house of Mrs. Herbert Trindle, a neighbor, Mrs. Matthews got central to flash on the police lights, and in a minute or two was imparting to Chief of Police Thomas I. Long the information that she had seen a man go through the ice on his side of the rapids."

To Chief Long, Grohman creek seemed to be indicated, and he instantly passed on the clue to the provincial police, who have jurisdiction outside the city.

Constable R. H. Hassard made a rush trip down the river to find that there was no ice in the vicinity of the rapids, and to find that sectionmen in the vicinity of the quary had not seen any man in the neighborhood at all.

Meantime Chief Long, helping out the provincial force, went down the track himself, and observed Mr. Gillette's ice-breaking operations, continued from the previous day, without connecting them with the story.

Up the hill, during the entire afternoon, Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Brindle and family anxiously watched the small group of black figures, composed, they finally decided, of boys skating, and the gradually lengthening black streak in the ice. It seemed to them that the ice was giving way under them, and that it was problematical whether they would ever get to shore.

Whole Party Engulfed

About 4:30 o'clock, after attention had been withdrawn from the river for a time, one of the children announced that they were "all gone now," and it looked as if tragedy had overwhelmed the party, as the watchers could detect no track to the shore.

The "disappearance" of the party, and of the individual figure earlier in the afternoon, is apparently accounted for by their getting into the launch, when, without any longer a white background, they promptly became invisible.

Comparison of notes by The Daily News last night eventually threw light on the matter.

Other "Drowning" Not Yet Solved

While this rumored drowning was resolved into its elements in a few hours, there has been no explanation yet of the rumored drowning of a few days ago, when two Fairview youths followed a man's tracks on the ice to the edge of a hole, the tracks being one way only. No one has been reported missing.

Check Artists Land in Jail Before the Merchants Know It

CALGARY, Jan. 27.—Two check artists today victimized local stores and secured goods of about $500 value. The police had the forgers in jail and their confessions before the merchants knew they had been done. The prisoners gave their names as T. J. Holgate of Edmonton, and Kenneth Morrisey of Vancouver. They were apprehended tonight on suspicion that they were wanted in Kamloops and a short time afterward they confessed to passing worthless checks here.

'JUDY'S MAN'

Washington's Social Whirl and Official Life Are the Background of This Fascinating Love Story

By HELEN BERGER

Copyright, 1926, by the Penn Publishing Co.

In her mirror that evening as she dressed for dinner, she saw that she was looking really ill. Great shadows lay under her eyes like the shadows of black and threatening wings. As she lifted her hand to touch those dark places she saw that her fingers shook.

What if she should be ill? This dimness in her head, this dreadful sense of hurry and unrest! There must be some toll for those things. A person could not live forever, stretched upon a rack, tense against a moment of torture!

"Some day I shall break!" she thought to herself. "I will scream out the truth wherever I happen to be!" And the slight scarlet line of her mouth trembled on a rather dreadful little smile! What strange faces the servants would turn upon her if she should begin to tell them her story.

Fear trembled up in her at sight of her own smile. She must keep hold of her nerves! This would never do! Why, this was the very edge of danger! She studied her own dark, silken beauty curiously, steadily.

Honey coming in from her room found her so, leaning on her taut arms, staring at herself in the mirror.

"What is it, Jude?" she asked her anxiously. "Are you ill?"

"No. Not ill." Judy turned away from the mirror, slipped into one of the brocaded chairs and laid her head back against it.

Honey was lovely in a gown of ivory and black, her small head a mist of shining copper.

"How lovely you are!" Judy said slowly, dispassionately. And then, strangely, she went on, "I expect your soul is lovely, too, Honey! Mine isn't, you know! Very soon it will begin to show in my face, lines, wrinkles, all sorts of things. And I shall be glad!"

"Why, Jude! What on earth is the matter with you? I never heard you say such wild things before in all my life!"

Judy laughed. Her laughter was sharp. "I expect this is only the beginning!" she repied.

"Are you still grieving so about Jack?" Honey asked her with a new gentleness. "I was hoping that time would soon begin to dim that for you. You mustn't make yourself ill with grief, Jude! You've got to go on living. Cry if you want to! It's the inward silent grieving that is dangerous! I've been watching you and I know!"

Judy laughed again. "I know you've been watching me!" she said. "I've felt you doing it!"

"Jude! I can't understand you tonight!"

Suddenly Judy's hard composure broke. "Oh, if you could only understand me!" she cried desperately. "I think I shall go mad if someone doesn't understand soon."

"Is it about Jack?" Honey asked her.

Judy sprang up from her chair swiftly. Her lovely gown, a gift of Mrs. Darien, wrapped rosy folds about her small figure till she seemed for an instant to be whirling in a cloud of pink fire.

"Jack!" she cried. "If you only knew! Jack!"

And, as if the mere crying of his name held salvation in it, she was suddenly soothed, quieted. The dizzy room straightened about her. Why, she was all right! She wasn't going mad! She drew deep breaths of relief! How had she come to think that dreadful things pursued her?

She was very gay at dinner, but afterward, sitting with Honey in one of the wide windows, with the coffee tray between them, she fell suddenly silent again. The lovely scents of the formal garden poured in upon them and a soft breeze fanned their cheeks. And high above the treetops, in the murky blue of the sky, the first star of the evening was burning, so high, so clear and pure that it was like a song!

A Little on the Other Side

As pictured by Rev. Mr. Silverwood, in Wednesday's Daily News, China's plight today is largely the result of acts of greed by the great powers.

But is that altogether a true picture?

Historically, his outline may be correct to the last comma. Coaling stations have been obtained, by lease or purchase, by various sea powers. There is nothing very wicked in that. Commercial concessions have been obtained, for purposes of trade, but trade has been an institution since mankind emerged, and in most cases actual sovereignty has not changed. Railways have been built, mines have been opened, products of China have been absorbed in the world's commerce to a larger degree than before.

With western commercial penetration, some western institutions have been planted, including modern sanitation and medicine.

Was the building of the Canadian Pacific railway a good thing for the territory known as Canada?

Is it to be suggested that the Trans-Siberian railway has not been to the advantage of Siberia?

Can the old India of the oxcart days compare with the modern India threaded with railways?

No money can be made by development agencies without conferring great local benefits.

Concessions carry conpensations, apart from the coin of the realm that is paid for them.

China's Own Weakness the Basic Cause

A vast rich territory, only nominally governed, can hardly escape commercial relationship with the great trading peoples of the world. Contracts are bound to be made, and they will be made on the most advantageous terms the government of the territory can be induced to sign, "no holds being barred."

The reason China has troubles is that very fact that its government is nominal, that the central authority has not established itself, that at any time its authority may be challenged by larger areas.

If China were still sleeping behind its great wall, there would still be these turmoils.

The outside interference is a phenomenon, invited by weakness. It is the weakness, not the interference, that is basic. And if the rest of the world were as backward as China, and as little interested in foreign trade, China would still have its civil wars.

Some day there will be in China a real central authority.

As power in England became transferred from the barons to the king, as Rudolf of Germany compelled allegiance from the army-maintaining archbishops, so some day some Chinese statesman or group of statesmen will arise with the genius and the power to organize real government in China.

That day will be better for China, and better for the world.

Great Britain China's Friend

For good or bad, Great Britain is included with the other powers in Mr. Silverwood's summaries in what has been done to China.

The inference then is, that if greed actuated the other powers, it also actuated Great Britain.

To the extent that arrogance toward natives has contributed toward making foreigners unpopular in China it is easily possible that no nationality can be exempted from blame for all foreigners being a target for Chinese mobs.

On the other hand, whatever may have been the principle on which the British foreign office proceeded in its relations with China 70 years ago, or 40 years ago, it is difficult to convict Great Britain in the past generation of doing anything to the injury of China, or playing any other part than that of a powerful friend whose influence was always exerted toward maintenance of the integrity of the Flowery Kingdom, and of the open door.

Mr. Silverwood's very clear synopsis of the matter of concessions is of great service, without doubt, to all readers of The Daily News.

But so far as Great Britain is concerned, it must be remembered that a generation ago, the "partition of China" was a fruitful topic for public debate, and the power that practically singlehanded prevented that dismemberment from taking place, was Great Britain and none other.

Last week I spoke of helping to plan an entertainment for a group of my church people numbering 80 members, but in that article I merely mentioned our menu and devoted myself chiefly to a description of the games we played. Today (and tomorrow) I am going to tell you about the cost of feeding that crowd of 80, and give the recipes we used for sandwiches and Russian chocolate; for, I believe this information may be helpful to women who are faced with the task of providing refreshments for similar occasions.

We served nut-olive sandwiches, peach sandwiches, jam or marmalade tarts and Russian chocolate. Nine quarts of milk were given us and I made 175 tarts in my own kitchen—so that much of the menu cost the church nothing. One pint of heavy cream (for whipping and putting on the Russian chocolate) was also given us. All we had to order from the grocer, to be delivered at the church kitchen, were the following articles, costing a little over $6.

Grocery Order—Fifteen loaves of white sandwich bread at 12c a loaf ($1.80). Three cans of peaches totalling $1. One can of cocoa at 18c. A 42- pound of coffee, ground for the percolator. Four pounds of granulated sugar costing 32c. (to sweeten the beverage). One pound of broken, shelled walnut meats at 65c. Two pint bottles of Mayonnaise salad dressing at 90c for the two. Stuffed olives at 50c. And three pounds of confectioner's sugar at 10c a box.

Each long loaf of sandwich bread gave 44 slices, or 22 sandwiches. Thus we had 330 sandwiches (and every one was eaten!) We decided to hand each person a large dinner plate on which was a cup of the Russian chocolate (no saucer), a spoon, three sandwiches and one tart. The left-over sandwiches and tarts were later passed, and second helpings of Russian chocolate offered.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Where Do You Live?

Where do you live?

I am tempted to ask that question because your physician will tell you that it isn't the city, the neighborhood, or the house that is your living place, but that body of yours, particularly your mind.

And where you live and how you live there, really determines your life. A writer in a medical journal has this to say, "At its worst, life sometimes seems to be a questionable boon; at its best it is a noble gift of the high gods."

"Most of us carry on between these two extremes and are grateful for whatever will lift us, even for a moment, to a height where the air is pure and the view broader than they are at the level where we ordinarily live."

It was the expression "where we ordinarily live" that I thought was worth a second thought.

You and I live our lives more or less free from pain, more or less on the mountains of hope, or in the valleys of despair, according to our view of life at the time, and also the height or depth of our courage.

Now the conditions of our stomach, liver, intestine, circulation, can all have a tremendous bearing upon our outlook on life, because the cells of the brain, and the brain gives us our outlook on life, must be nourished, and wastes removed, by the blood that circulates throughout the body. And this blood will be just what a good liver, a good intestine, good teeth, and good heart will make it, or it can be the reverse if these organs are not doing their work properly.

A healthy individual is usually a hopeful individual.

This writer says "Most of us do not laugh enough; do not play enough, do not see enough visions."

How can anyone laugh, play, or see visions if his body or her body is not doing its work properly?

And yet it is only too true that when an individual gets a real hold on himself, at peace with himself and his fellows, it can be reflected in his body, so that the impulses to his stomach and digestive apparatus, will be regular and of adequate strength, his heart will be stimulated to work more regularly and with more strength.

So you see your body can influence your brain, and your brain can likewise influence your body.

POLAND'S FIRST LADY ACTIVE

WARSAW, Jan. 25. — The first lady of Republican Poland, Madame Moscicka, is one of the most active social workers. In the Zamek, Poland's White House, she has established a children's relief office, while at Spala, the summer residence of the Polish presidents, she helped to found a kindergarten. In Warsaw and in the provinces are many schools for infants which owe their start to the first lady of the land.

Madame Moscicka is kept busy most of the day by the demands of her social work. Mothering other people's children has long been one of her activities, although she has four children of her own—three sons and a daughter. She now is a grandmother.

PRINCESS SELLS IN MARKET

LONDON, Jan. 27. — At a pitch in the Caledonian market, a Russian princess, niece of one of Napoleon's generals who took part in the retreat from Moscow, sells antiques, prints and curios.

She is Princess Marie Leon, a tall, aristocratic woman, whose mother was a Polish princess. She is not a refugee, but has earned her living in the open market for several years.

"I was pitchforked into working for my bread," she says. "I was studying art, but the death of my parents left me without a bean. At first I tried photography, but it was hardly lucrative. I have had a stand in the market fo rtwo years."

Princess Marie says she does all her own work, packs up her "stock" at the end of the day, and wheels it away from the market in a wheelbarrow.

The Service Which Makes the Milk in this Tin So Good

CARNATION realizes that good evaporated milk must start at the farm. So Carnation condenseries are located only in districts where dairying reaches its highest level. To aid dairymen there is the Carnation Field Force—a body of men whose sole job is to see that the dairymen who supply Carnation with milk, supply the best milk in the world.

This is but one of the many features which make Carnation Milk so good—but one of the many reasons why Carnation adds creaminess to coffee, fruits, cereals and makes all cooking so delicious.

Carnation is just pure, whole milk, evaporated to double richness and made safe by sterilization. Diluted, it gives superior results in all cooking. Undiluted, it takes the place of cream at one-third cream cost. Order from your grocer several tins or a case of 48 tins.

DR. MACKINNON IS PRESIDENT OF GUN BODY

Rod and Gun Organization Has Good Year in Cranbrook District

HATCHERY OPERATIONS REMARKABLE SUCCESS

District Board Named; Club Has Good Financial Standing Is Shown

CRANBROOK, B.C., Jan. 27.—At the annual meeting of the Cranbrook District Rod and Gun club at the city hall Wednesday night, it was shown by the reports that the organization had again carried on much useful activity in the interests of the sportsmen. H. Collier, the president, was in the chair, and said that the club had raised over $1400. The hatchery operations had also been remarkably successful. In regard to the conditions of Moyie lake, where it was thought that pollution would arise through the operations of the concentrator there, the government had assured the club this was not the case.

The club is getting support from the British Columbia Fish and Game Protection association, of which it is a member, for its proposals to reduce the angling licence fees to something more nominal, particularly for the tourists.

The membership of the club is now approaching the 500 mark. There are about 150 members at Kimberley, 75 at Lumberton. It is possible that a separate organization may soon be formed at Kimberley.

Officers Named

Officers were elected as follows:

Honorary presidents — Hon. R. R. Bruce and Hon. Dr. King; honorary vice-president, N. A. Wallinger, M.P.P.; president, Dr. G. MacKinnon; vice-president, F. Dezall; secretary-treasurer, J. F. Guimont; executive—E. T. Cooper, W. Whiting, Mr. Schwartz, W. H. Wilson, O. N. Jacobson, W. Stewart, H. J. Collier, J. F. Scott, D. Halcrow, C. Ward.

A new policy was adopted of appointing representatives from the outside points where there is membership in the club, to act in regard to matters pertaining to their districts.

They were as follows:

District Board

Kimberley, D. A. Sutherland; Lumberton, L. Hilton; Wycliffe, W. J. Cox; Wasa, W. J. Sowerby; Kingsgate, R. P. Johnson; Moyie, M. Kelly; Yahk, F. Dunn; Wardner, G. Donohue, Fort Steele, O. J. Knight; Bull River, J. Garbutt; Marysville, W. Evans; Skookumchuck, D. Hopkins.

The membership committee of six which acted last year was named again, and a committee on the hatchery was named, to consist of Dr. MacKinnon, W. Whiting and E. T. Cooper. Messrs. Cooper and Whiting were also selected to choose some suitable marshland or lake where wild rice could be planted as feed for the game birds.

The report of the secretary last year, M. Steward, showed that the big banquet had been successful, thanks to the generous donations. A surplus of about $60 remained. All told the year's receipts were upward of $2000, and there is at present a balance on hand of about $250. In connection with the local's hatchery it was shown that the direct expenditures on this account were about $700, for which splendid results were had.

It was reported that over 800,000 Cutthroat trout eggs were gathered and incubated and placed in about 15 local lakes, 50,000 were sent to Windermere and 200,000 went to the coast. In addition to this, nearly 200,000 Kamloops trout eggs were similarly treated, all of which went in local waters, making over a million fry distributed.

The club acknowledged with gratitude the gift from the Gyro club of the aquarium constructed last year at a cost of about $400 for exhibiting the local varieties of fish at the fair.

FERNIE PEOPLE ASKED APPEAR BEFORE PROBE

Subpoenas Served; Accountants Work; Some Wanted Are Away

FERNIE, B.C., Jan. 27.—Two chartered accountants acting under instructions from the royal commission conducting the inquiry in progress in connection with the customs, and also delving into matters relating to shipments of liquor to the United States, have been in the city the past four days auditing the records of certain local concerns and collecting general information for the royal commission. The data so compiled, it is understood, will be available when the commission holds its sittings at Calgary.

An officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted police, but at present attached for duty to the customs department, also arrived in the city on Wednesday, armed with subpoenas for several parties, some of whom are residents of Fernie, and others reside within this district. Many of the subpoenas are now served, but it is understood some of the parties whom the commission is particularly desirous of hearing their evidence have very recently absented themselves from the city, and their present whereabouts is uncertain.

Kimberley Hockey Team on Way to Provincial Finals

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Jan. 27. — Intermediates seem well on the way to the ascendency in this end of the East Kootenay hockey series, having now taken three games in succession from the Cranbrook team, winning their third straight on Wednesday night on Kimberley ice, 7-4.

The Kimberley juniors are also continuing their winning career.

On Sunday last in a scratch game arranged at Kimberley owing to the nonarrival of the Cranbrook team, the juniors met the intermediates and actually won out over them, from which it looks as though Kimberley has two hockey teams worthy of a little more recognition.

CURLERS EVADE FERNIE BYLAW

But Dance Becomes Private Affair After Legal Closing Hour; Well Attended

FERNIE, B.C., Jan. 27. — The curlers' annual dance given by the Fernie Curling club in Victoria hall on Burns' night was a most successful affair in every respect. Special features throughout enlivened the proceedings, these being principally in the form of delightful Scottish dances. A very satisfactory sum to augment the funds of the club was realized.

The enjoyable climax of the evening came, however, when the large attendance did not materialize until 12:30 a.m., immediately after the orchestra had played "Home, Sweet Home." A. Watson, president of the curling club, then announced that in compliance with the provisions of the civic dance bylaw all public dances must cease at 1 o'clock. The public curlers' dance was accordingly closed. He, however, personally, had rented the hall and engaged the orchestra for the purpose of a private dance of his own, and all those present were cordially invited to attend as his guests. Mr. Watson retired from the hall, and promptly returned playing the bagpipes and his "private" dancing party opened at 1:05 a.m. and continued until after 2:30 a.m.

From numerous sources for some time there has been a growing sentiment of unpopularity for the dance bylaw, insofar as the time limit for closing is concerned. The contention has been that these public functions should be permitted to continue until 2 or 2:30 a.m. In some quarters sentiment voicing opposition has been to the extent of challenging the validity of the bylaw. As to the attitude taken by the curling club, it is pointed out that strictly in the literal sense the bylaw was observed; the licence fee was paid and that dance ceased by 1 a.m. Invitations had been sent out, and none were admitted without presentation of their cards.

WAR BULLET IS FINALLY TAKEN FROM HIS LUNG

Fernie War Veteran, After Eight Years' Suffering, Undergoes Unusual Operation

WAS UNSUSPECTED TILL AN X-RAY SHOWED IT

Eye Magnet Moves Steel; Forceps With Trap Catch It; Is Well

(By Fred G. Perry)

FERNIE, Jan. 28.—Thomas Baguley a resident of West Fernie, after an absence of eight months, is home again in the bosom of his family, a charming wife and young daughter, after spending that period in Vancouver, B.C., and Philadelphia, Pa., hospitals, and having had successfully performed upon him, one of the most unusual surgical operations known to medical science. This phenomenal scientific feat was the removal from the upper lobe of Baguley's left lung of a 30-calibre steel-jacketed German machine gun bullet which had reposed there for eight years and eight months. That it could have remained so long unsuspected in the vital respiratory organ, and the manner by which it entered and lodged there is even yet shrouded in mystery to the medical men.

Located in Fernie

The credit for first locating the bullet is due Dr. G. A. E. Ke'man, practitioner here, and Dr. A. S. Lamb, travelling specialist for tuberculosis and inspector of hospitals for the provincial government. This transpired in April, 1926, by the medium of X-ray equipment in Fernie general hospital, and owing to this development, undoubtedly Baguley owes his present state of rapidly regaining perfect health, because prior thereto, his condition defied proper diagnosis and he seemed to be slowly but surely sinking toward the end.

Early in 1915 Baguley, then a resident in Lancashire, enlisted as a private in the 5th Manchester infantry of the Imperial forces. He served through the conflict unharmed, until March 21, 1918, when the last bad German offensive was launched.

In the Trenches

It was the chill, grey hour before dawn, and Baguley was one of some hundreds of thousands, who, under Field Marshal Haig's command, crouched in a trench through the shell-torn, hate-swept, desolate expanse of Picardy.

The British soldiers in the trenches did not see the first wave of attacking Germans until they were almost upon them. The first wave of "field green" went down, to be replaced by another, another and another. The Englishmen fought with rifles clubbed in their hands; with trench knife; with bayonet,—and then went down, ground into the mud, stained crimson with their blood.

Struck in Jaw

Baguley was one of these. A bullet struck him on the left jaw, spinning him around as if on a pivot. He sank to his knees, the blood streaming through his grimy fingers where they were pressed to his face. Thus Pte. James Baguley got his "blighty." He was given first aid at a field dressing station, thence to base hospital and finally to England, where after many months as an interne at various institutions, he was discharged as an Imperial veteran, and to all appearances the only indication of his disability was a neat white scar running from the cheek bone to lower jaw. It was thought that the bullet had glanced off. He later developed a racking cough and was treated for bronchitis, but was finally discharged as "A."

The Baguley family came to Fernie in August, 1923. In April, 1926 he suffered an attack of hemorrhage. During all this time, the chronic irritating cough had been present.

Admitted to Fernie general hospital following the first hemorrhage, Baguley three days later suffered a recurrence and his condition was very grave. The general symptoms were aggravating cough which could not be relieved and emaciation. For four weeks Baguley hovered on the threshold of eternity. It was then decided to make X-ray examinations.

When the plates were developed, there in the upper lobe of the left lung, close to the heart, was a sharp-nosed foreign body,—a bullet. In the first set, its position is described as being vertical, point upward; the following day another set of X-ray plates were made and on these the bullet was reversed, the sharp nose pointing downward, showing that it had moved within a cavity within the lung.

Regains Strength

Consultations by the medical attendants, Drs. Kelman and Lamb, with Dr. D. Corsan, resident officer of the D.S.C.R., were held. The local branch of the G. W. V. A. also took active interest with the result that Baguley's case was taken up and given attention by the department of soldiers' civil-reestablishment. In his critically weakened condition, however, he could not be transferred to another institution forthwith. By being put under a general rest and nourishing dietetic treatment, the patient rapidly responded and by the end of June he was sent to Shaughnessy hospital, Vancouver.

For 10 weeks Baguley was under observation and treatment at Shaughnessy and the bronchoscopic branch of the Vancouver General hospital. Dr. Cunningham of the D.S.C.R. staff of the coast city, was in charge of the case. After two attempts at operating, endeavoring to remove the bullet at Vancouver General hospital, Baguley was sent to the famous bronchoscopic clinic at the Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia. The case was the most strange and delicate ever received there, as never before had an embedded bullet been removed from the lung of a living patient.

An exploratory study by the bronchoscope showed that the bullet presumably after passing down the trachea and thence the descending branch of the left bronchial tube, proceeded beyond or around the "corone" to lodge in one of the ascending branches of the bronchus. This is based on the assumption that the veteran swallowed the spent bullet, or more likely, sucked it down the respiratory tract with a deep inhaling gasp induced by pain and shock from the superficial wounding. The other theory advanced by surgeons conversant with the case, is that the bullet striking the jaw bone, ricochetted internally downward through the neck tissues into the lung without striking any vital vessel or nerves. The ground for this opinion is that otherwise there is no satisfactory reason advanced for the bullet, if it passed down the windpipe and bronchial tubes, to then alter to an upward course to the location in which it rested; the contention being it would have continued directly downward and reposed in the lower lobe of the lung. In any event it was there in the upper lobe and so it had been for eight years and eight months.

Difficult Task

In this position it was recognized that it would be difficult to grasp the bullet with the forceps used in conjunction with the bronchoscope, without causing injury to the lung tissue, leading to extensive and perhaps fatal hemorrhage. If the bullet could be drawn down into the descending bronchus and held in this position, it would be easy to grasp it with the forceps and extract it.

With infinite care and unending study, the members of the bronchoscopic staff of Jefferson hospital observed Baguley's case. The X-ray not only disclosed the bullet, but the thickened walls of the cavity it had formed within the lung, were plainly discernible. He was admitted to that hospital on September 21 last and it was not until November 29 that the entirely successful operation was accomplished. Three former attempts were made in the Philadelphia institution, and three times the bronchoscope was ineffectively tried at Vancouver Beneral.

Use "Eye-Magnet"

At last a probable solution to the baffling case was evolved. The surgeons of the eye-clinic were asked to employ the "eye-magnet" used for the extraction of small pieces of metal from the eye, to discover whether it would attract the lead bullet covered with its thick coating of steel.

With X-ray, right-angled fluoroscope on the chest to enable the bullet to be seen, the current to the magnet pressed against the chest wall was turned on. While the surgeons watched breathlessly, the outline of the bullet moved slightly. It could be attracted.

Assured of this, the mechanism of the bronchoscopic clinic was directed to make a special instrument, which he called a "trap."

Baguley was wheeled into the operating room. One X-ray fluoroscope was placed on the upper chest wall and one on the side, thus giving two projections of the bullet's position. The magnet was placed near the situation of the bullet.

The scene within the operating room was tense but vivid. It was dark,—pitch dark, except where two spots of fluoroscopic light glowed spectrally in the gloom. The glint of surgical instruments could be seen faintly, and the death-like whiteness of the surgeon's gowns. The only sounds were the hoarse, labored breathing of Baguley, the patient, and a male voice giving directions in a low unhurried voice.

The membrane of Baguley's throat was spread with cocaine, to prevent involuntary spasmodic contractions as the bronchoscope was inserted through his throat into the bronchus. No other anaesthetic was employed.

Bullet Drawn Out

Slowly, carefully, painstakingly, the bronchoscopic forceps with the special trap on the end were inserted to a position just below the bullet, at the base of the ascending tube of the bronchus as shown by the fluoroscope.

The magnet current was turned on and while the operator of the fluoroscope intoned the position of the forceps, and the bullet, thus directing the hand of the bronchoscopist, the bullet was drawn down.

Another difficulty suddenly presented itself. The steel jacket rested crossways to the forceps. To be drawn through the tube of the bronchoscope, it had to rest longitudinally or the delicate lung wall might be scarred, blood vessels ruptured, and the life of the patient endangered if not actually sacrificed.

After cautious manipulation, the point of the bullet was turned downward. The jaws of the forceps grasped it firmly. A moment more and the smooth piece of metal lay glinting on the instrument tray.

Baguley stated he suffered little pain through the whole ordeal, and his recovery is assured. He was discharged from the Philadelphia hospital on December 20, and arrived back in Fernie on Christmas morning, where in a happy home again, with a devoutly thankful wife and daughter, he is now making wonderful progress to normal robust health. All that is necessary is the exercise of moderate care and attention while the cavity is healing in the lung where the bullet had lodged for the greater part of a decade.

Following the great victory won by George Young, Toronto swimmer, who conquered the famous icy Catalina Island channel, in a 22-mile swim on January 16, it might be of interest to dig up some records on the English channel swims of the past, always counted as the most difficult swim known. Young's time in the Catalina swim, was 15 hours and 45 minutes. Following are the successful swimmers of the English channel, with their times:

August 24-25, 1875—Captain Matthew Webb, 21 hours 45 minutes.

September 5-6, 1911—T. W. Burgess, 22 hours 35 minutes.

August 5-6, 1923—Henry Sullivan, 26 hours 50 minutes.

August 12, 1923—Charles Toth, 16 hours 54 minutes.

September 19-20, 1923—S. Tiraboschi, 16 hours 25 minutes.

August 6, 1926—Gertrude Ederle, 14 hours 45 minutes.

August 28, 1926—Mrs. C. Corson, 16 hours 23 minutes.

August 30, 1926—Ernest Vierkotter, 12 hours 42 minutes.

September 10, 1926—George Michel, 11 hours 6 minutes.

September 17, 1926—Norman L. Dereham, 13 hours 56 minutes.

Young first swam, at the age of 9 years, in Toronto. He later startled swim followers by his great endurance feat, that of walking under water. At the age of 11 he conceived an idea which would get him in on the swimming meets. He had a belt made and had it weighted with 18 pounds of lead. He dived into the tank. Taking the floor at the deep end, he walked to the shallow end, a distance of 60 feet. He showed no signs of distress. Later he demonstrated greater ability, and nightly he walked 120 feet under water. These feats, no doubt, developed his lung power, which brought him through in the great swim against 101 contestants, men and women.

George Young, who grabbed off $25,000, plus, in the Catalina swim, is Scotch, and naturally the Scotch are proud of George, as are all Canadians. But Toronto Scotchmen are the proudest in Canada just now. How terrible it would be next year, if there is another Catalina swim, someone has said.

"And for why?" demands a Nelson Scot.

"Because," we reply sadly, "there would be an awful lot of Scotchmen drowned.

Elky Clark, European and British fly champion, took an awful licking at the hands of Fidel La Bara recently. When asked why he had been beaten, he said he could not get going right. Elky wears false teeth. Naturally he does not wear them in the ring. He has a rubber substitute, which fills their place while he is battling. Poor Elky, they made him take out his rubber gum suckers when he battled Fidel. The Britisher could not grate his pliable teeth. Instead he rubbed his gums so hard that he was forced out of the battle. It was a tough trick on Elky.

FOURTH ROUND IS SATURDAY PLAY

Preston Will See Warm Contest; Welsh Teams Away From Home

LONDON, Jan. 27. — The fourth round of the English Football association cup is scheduled for disposal on Saturday, when 32 teams, having emerged safely from their previous combats, will make the attempt to move up one more rung of the competitive ladder. The draw shows that out of this number the second division bears the largest proportion of survivors, no fewer than 15 teams representing that department. This is in contrast to the 12 first string clubs that have been able to make their way into the fourth round. The third division is represented by four, while the remaining competitor is the amateur Corinthian aggregation.

In only one game do teams of the senior section face each other, the contest at Leeds witnessing a combat between the locals and the cup holders, Bolton Wanderers.

The Corinthians are drawn against the present league leaders, Newcastle United.

One of the warmest games of the day will be staged at Preston when the North End entertain the strong Middlesborough eleven. Middlesborough's league play has put them in advance of all comers in the second division, but Preston have also ambitions in that direction.

Welshmen Away

The two Welsh survivors, Cardiff City of the first string, and Swansea Town of the second, are drawn away from home, playing Darlington and Barnsley, respectively.

The two London clubs of the first division to get this far are West Ham, who play Brentford at Upton Park, and Arsenal, who travel to Chesshire to take on Port Vale.

None of the Manchester teams were able to get over the third round hurdle, but Lancashire is well represented nevertheless, while Yorkshire has also a good representation. Birmingham is the sole representative of the Midlands.

The draw for the fourth round follows:

Southampton vs. Birmingham, Liverpool vs. Bolton, West Ham vs. Brentford, Wednesday vs. South Shields, Derby County vs. Milwall, Port Vale vs. Arsenal, Reading vs. Portsmouth, Fulham vs. Burnley, Corinthians vs. Newcastle, Barnsley vs. Swansea, Hull City vs. Everton, Chelsea vs. Accrington Darlington vs. Cardiff, Wolverhampton vs. Notts Forest, Preston N. E. vs. Middlesborough.

All games are played on the ground of the first-named club.

Toronto Irish Lead but Unable to Keep It in Third Period

TORONTO, Jan. 27.—The Montreal Maroons, fighting an uphill battle defeated the Toronto St. Pats here tonight 5 to 3 in a National Hockey league fixture.

The game was a strenuous hard-fought affair with the Maroons showing far superior staying qualities as twice they came from behind to tie the score and when they gained the lead in the final period on a goal by Oatman, there was never any doubt as to the final outcome.

St. Pats took the lead in the first minutes of the opening session but the Maroons soon tied it up. Again the locals took the lead only to have the Maroons draw up on even terms in the second frame. The score was 3 to 2 for the Irish at the end of the second period.

DOGS FINISH THE RACE IN BEST OF SHAPE

Emile Paces Brother Leo, Who Is Beaten for Second Place by Brydges

BRYDGES' MARGIN WAS CUT BY YOUNG MUSHER

Russick Finishes Last in Game Display With His Older Dogs

THE PAS, Man., Jan. 27.—The Pas dog derby ended today with Emile St. Goddard, 20-year-old French-Canadian, winning the money prize and fame after driving a race unequalled for speed in the annals of dog racing.

St. Goddard is credited with rare skill in endurance and the handling of his team of seven greyhound huskies. He is also credited with patience and tact in the breeding and training of dogs.

He and his dogs ran the 120 miles of the race in 11 hours 27 minutes and 52 seconds. Today with a margin of 20 minutes over his nearest rival, St. Goddard surprised the crowd of spectators by driving at the same furious pace that had marked the first two 40-mile laps of the race. All his dogs finished strong "with their tails in the air and rearin' to go," a prospector put it.

Sore Paw Covered

One of the dogs contracted a sore paw in today's race and St. Goddard whipped a moccasin from his pocket and covered it, continuing the race within a few seconds. His speed today was due to his desire to aid his 17-year-old brother, who battled all the way with Earl Brydges for second place. Leo started today 14 minutes behind Brydges and, though he failed to oust his rival from second place, he cut the margin to seven minutes. Emile got his brother placed directly behind him in the race today and acted as pacemaker in an effort to place the youth for second money.

Earl Brydges finished with six dogs, carrying one on his sled. He drove a hard race today with the knowledge that his lead was being clipped minute by minute. It was his lead dog that saved him from losing his position. The malemute did the work of two dogs in the later stages of the race. Earl paid tribute to his lead dog after the race and said, "Just another dog or two like my leader and I would have the others fighting me for first place."

Russick Out of It

Shorty Russick was hopelessly outclassed, but was game to the finish. His team of old dogs could not stand the hard race over the prepared course. Russick, who lost his young dogs when an epidemic of distemper struck his kennels last year, will be back after the race next year. He has some young dogs in training now that he expects will develop startling speed.

The summary for the 40 miles covered today and the total time for the 120 miles follows:

Driver	Today	Total
E. St. Goddard	3:54:46	11:27:52
E. Brydges	4:03:46	11:56:52
L. St. Goddard	3:56:18	12:04:19
Russick		13:17:13

Two drivers withdrew during the race. They were Thomas Elvery, Prince Albert, Sask., and Harry Olensky, The Pas, Man.

HUNT DECLARES WAR ON PEST FROM DRY BELT

Outlines Work Necessary Next Two Months to Down Fire Blight

ALL DISCOLORED WOOD MUST GO

Cut Surfaces to Be Disinfected; Inspect All Infested Orchards

A district-wide campaign against fire blight, which, though a dry belt disease, invaded several sections of the Kootenay last season, is being organized by E. C. Hunt, district horticulturist.

"Growers here in the Kootenay district," said Mr. Hunt, "are fairly familiar with the appearance and destruction caused by fire blight in the orchards. The disease is often called pear blight, but will attack pears, apples and quince alike. Some varieties of these fruits are more susceptible than others, but none of our leading commercial varieties are immune.

"Fire blight has been very bad the past season in some sections of the Kootenay, the damage mostly being confined to pear trees, the worst outbreak being in Nelson. Although this disease is supposed to be strictly a dry belt trouble, weather and growing conditions here in the Kootenay are favorable to its development and spread, but not to the same extent as in the irrigated districts.

"The disease is due to a minute organism (Bacillus Amylovorus) which multiplies rapidly in the soft tissues of the host during the fast growing season, thereby killing them. The disease is carried over the winter season in the marginal areas of cankers on the large limbs or branches. In the spring these co-called 'hold-over cankers' become active, producing a yellowish gummy exudate which swarms with bacteria, and the inoculation of this into healthy parts by insects, rain, careless handling, etc., results in numerous new infections.

Watch for Cankers

"Anyone not familiar with fire blight may recognize its appearance in the tree by the fact that when a twig or branch is affected the leaves hang on, and turn brown in the case of the apple and black in the pear, looking as though the limb had been scorched by fire.

"All such trees showing this condition should be thoroughly examined, and all cankers and diseased portions removed by cutting, a foot or more below the visible symptoms of infection. Once the disease has gotten into the trunk of a tree, there is not much hope of saving it. Keep all suckers or water sprout growths off the main limbs and trunks during the growing season, as they afford short cuts to the vital parts of the tree.

"A special effort should be made to clean up all infections during the dormant season. The work should be started in the fall, since the dried-up leaves still attached to the blighted twigs assist in locating many infections. These dried-up leaves will also remain on the trees well on to spring, so that any time during the dormant season the disease is much easier located, and at the same time the cuts may be made much closer to the diseased area than is safe during the growing season.

How to Treat Trees

"Where cankers are found in the main limbs or branches, they may be removed by cutting two inches above and below the margin area, and one inch on the side, care being taken to take all discoloration in the cambium. However, it is always preferable to remove the whole canker by cutting the limb or branch off, if it does not interfere too much with the balance of the tree.

"All cut surfaces and tools should be thoroughly disinfected with a solution of one part bichloride mercury (corrosive sublimate), and one part cyanide of mercury to 500 parts of water. These chemicals are corrosive to all metals, and should be carried in a bottle and used with a swab, and great care should be used as they are deadly poison.

"Control of fire blight is a community problem in a much stricter sense than with most plant diseases, and it is up to those that have this disease in their trees to see that the infections are cut out at once. A thorough inspection will be made of all orchards infested during the next two months, and the cooperation of all is asked for in making a clean-up of this disease.

Finish With March

"Section 6, subsection (9) of the horticultural regulations is as follows: 'Fire blight infested trees shall be cleaned up during the dormant season by the proper cutting out of all blight-cankers. This work shall be completed to the satisfaction of the inspector on or before March 31.'"

FACES ON SHOE HEELS

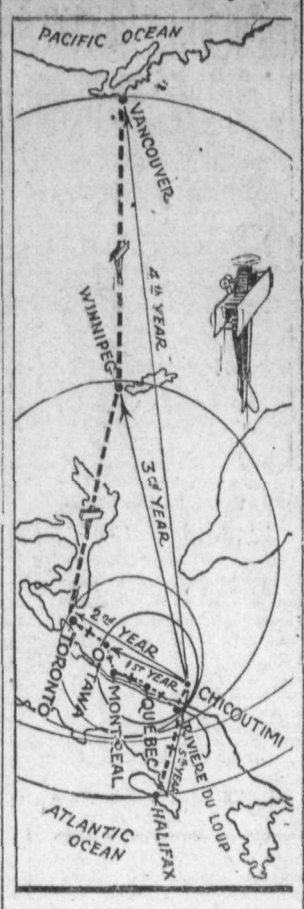
Start of Canuck Airways Line



A company about to be formed in the east proposes to start an airplane service this year, making a daily 500-mile trip between Chicoutimi, Que., and Ottawa, which they hope to make succeed in the first year, in which event the airway will be stretched from Quebec to Toronto in the second year. If this pays, Winnipeg will become the western terminus in the third year, and the promoters hope that in the fourth year they will be able to supply a cross-continent service, extending the route to Vancouver in the west and Halifax in the east.

"SUGAR BAG" HAT

The "sugar bag" is the English spring successor to this winter's "vagabond" hat. It really looks more like the dust bag on a vacuum cleaner, but appears very smart when worn. You pull this quaint thing on so that it recedes in front, following the line of the head, and then, when you have squashed it down, you get the Dutch boy effect with the crown flat against the side of the head.

IMMIGRATION TO CANADA GROWS

For Year 135,984 Immigrants Arrive, Compared With 84,907 a Year Ago

OTTAWA, Jan. 27. — Immigration to Canada for the calendar year 1926 amounted to 135,984, compared with 84,907 for the calendar year 1925, an increase of 60 per cent. This information is made public by the department of immigration today.

During the year just ended 48,819 immigrants arrived in Canada from Great Britain. The number from the United States was 30,944, and from other countries 66,221.

A substantial increase over 1925 occurred in each of these three general classifications.

Immigration for December amounted to 5415, of which 1275 were British, 1058 from the United States and 3082 from other countries.

Canadians who had gone to the United States with the intention of remaining there premanently, and who returned to Canada during the year declaring their intention of now remaining permanently in Canada, totaled 48,-601.

DUCHESS OF YORK HAS A MARINE HAIRDRESSER

LONDON, Jan. 27.—A burly British marine of the "What Price Glory" type has the detail of "doing" the Duchess of York's hair on her voyage to Australia.

He is private Uden, a Kentishman, who joined the navy to see the world but who is now resigned to seeing only the backs of the heads of the duchess, and her two ladies-in-waiting, Lady Cavan and the honorable Mrs. John Gilmour.

The battleship "Renown," on which the duke and duchess are traveling, has never carried women passengers but the navy officials wanted to appear sophisticated so they sent Private Eden to a fashionable west end hair dressing shop for a course of training.

INSECT ADORNMENTS

At a Mayfair tea party, many persons were interested in a brown velvet hat worn by a New Year debutante, the soft crown of which was held down at one side by a big bumble bee. It is typical of the insect craze which is one of English fashion's latest vagaries. Bees, dragonflies and other insects in realistic colors and shapes, fixed in the front or at the side of the hat, are much in favor. Some of these hat insects are modelled in rich enamel. Sometimes when a bee is worn on the hat, another bee is fixed on the coat lapel instead of the stereotyped flower.

Steel Is Off; American Metal Firm Cuts Its Dividends

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. — The stock market today turned reactionary just before the close. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from fractions to 2 points, a sprinkling of larger losses and a score of 1 to 3-point gains.

In view of the fact that no change previously had been announced in the Boston federal reserve and Bank of England rates, little hope was held out during the day for a cut at this time. Credit conditions continued easy, the call rate being maintained at 4 per cent with plenty of funds available.

The American Metal Company cut its quarterly dividend $1 to 75c, and a number of unfavorable December railroad reports made their appearance.

U. S. Steel common closed today at 153¾, off ⅞ net. Bethlehem closed a point lower, at 43¾, and Gulf States yielded 1¾.

Time money and commercial paper rates remained unchanged.

Total sales—1,118,200 shares.

SILVERSMITH IS HOLDING ORE FOR TIME

Directors Decide Against Dividend at This Time; 50 Men Are Working

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 27.—The matter of the Silversmith mines, limited, paying a dividend was discussed at a meeting of the board of directors at its recent meeting, and it was determined that no dividend should be paid to shareholders of record at the close of business, January 1, 1927, for the reason that, until such time as the metal market shall justify shipments of ore going forward to the smelter from the mine, there will be no income from ore sales out of which to pay dividends.

The expense of carrying on a development program during the period of low metal prices will require the current assets of the company to be held intact in order that expenditures may be promptly met, the board was told.

Ore Is Held

No shipments of ore produced during the second quarter of the fiscal year, the months being September, October and November, went forward to the smelter, but this ore has been held on hand and will be shipped when metal prices warrant such action. Milling operations were discontinued in November and there is on hand some 800 tons of concentrates.

Recent development work has disclosed ore in the east drift of the tenth level. Ore continues to show up on the 800 and 900-foot levels between the Silversmith and Slocan Star ore shoots, and on the 1200-foot level, development work continues to disclose ore. The indications for ore at still greater depth are most encouraging. With the stopes opened on the 800, 900, 1000, 1100 and 1200-foot levels, at such time as metal prices increase, milling operations can be continued and ore shipments resumed. Mining operations are being carried on with a crew of 50 men employed.

ONTARIO GRAIN POOL LAUNCHED, CHATHAM

CHATHAM, Ont., Jan. 27. — Launching of Ontario's grain pool, modeled along the lines of the western Canada organizations, took place at a meeting of 300 Kent county farmers here today.

The Ontario pool will work in conjunction with the three western Canada pools, and when it is fully organized it is hoped that the greater portion of the grain grown from the Ottawa river to the Rocky mountains will be marketed through one central organization in the hands of the producers themselves.

Lumbermen Tell of Operations on Coast Without Profit

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27. — Increased production costs, dwindling markets and the burden of the Minimum Wage act and the eight-hour day have created a serious situation for the lumber mills on the Pacific coast, and most of them operated without a profit during the past year, according to speakers who addressed the Western Retail Lumbermen's association here today.

A contingent of Pacific coast men attended the convention today and told of present conditions. They advocated a concerted effort to increase markets.

T. Dwelley and Aird Flavelle of Vancouver were the principal speakers.

ESKS REGISTER WIN, CALGARY

Spring Surprise and Score Five-to-Two Victory Before Boosters' Club

CALGARY, Jan. 27.—Back checking the league leading Calgary Tigers into submission and completely demoralizing their offensive system, the Edmonton Eskimos registered an unexpected triumph here tonight, the final score being 5 to 2 in their favor.

The Elks' triumph was a costly one, as Bernie Morris, their captain and center player, collided with Gainor, Calgary defence player, in the first period and suffered a broken collar bone.

It was "booster night" and the largest crowd of the season saw the Tigers at their worst. They were checked so hard that they could not do anything right, while the Eskimos dished up a nice brand of hockey and were worthy of their success.

It was the Tigers' second setback on home ice this season, and Edmonton accounted for both of them, the first in the opening contest of the season. The fact is the Tigers were far from being up to their usual form, as many regular patrons of former years were at the rink for the first time this winter, and it will be rather hard to convince them that the local team is a good one.

Lineup

Calgary	Position	Edmonton
	Goal

RANGERS NOSE OUT CANADIENS

Score Is 3-2 in Nerve-Racking Game on Montreal Ice

MONTREAL, Jan. 27.—New York Rangers nosed out the Canadiens, when they flashed a 3 to 2 victory over the local team, in a nerve-racking professional hockey game here tonight, before a crowd of 9500 fans.

It was not until the third period, after the teams had flown through two sessions to a deadlocked score, that Bill Cook finally clinched the game for the Rangers, taking the puck at the blue line, tricking Gardiner and closing in on Hainsworth for the deciding tally.

Lineup

Rangers	Position	Canadians

LEWIS JUMPS CONTRACT TO PLAY IN MONTREAL

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 27. — Herbie Lewis, aggressive center man of the Duluth Hornets of the American Hockey association, jumped his contract here today to join the Montreal Maroons of the National Hockey league, William F. Grant, secretary of the league and manager of the Hornets, announced here tonight. Lewis was the high scorer of the old central amateur hockey league last season, which became the American pro. league this season, and was generally considered the greatest hockeyist of the circuit. Mr. Grant indicated that his club would take action to prevent Lewis playing in the N.H.L.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27. — The Winnipegs defeated the St. Johns 6 to 2 here tonight in a game inaugurating the second division of the Manitoba senior amateur hockey league schedule.

SENATORS BEAT DETROIT COUGARS

Score 3-1; Detroiters Lack Dash Have Shown of Late

OTTAWA, Jan. 27.—A defeat suffered early in the season was retaliated for in a sense here tonight when the Capitals Senators beat Detroit 3 to 1 in a National Hockey league game here tonight. The Cougars played a different brand of game from that which they showed in trimming Ottawa on home ice last month 5 to 0. Tonight they lacked the dashing attack which carried them to that sterling victory and except for a time near the end of the game, showed little that was threatening.

A creditable point of the game was that it was the only one which has been played here for some time without a penalty.

Adams, Alex Smith and Clancy netted for the league leaders while Bellefeuille was responsible for the Cougar's goal scoring in the closing minutes of play.

Lineup

Detroit	Position	Ottawa

PIRATES BEAT THE BLACKHAWKS

Score Is 4-2; Three Goals Come in Rapid Succession

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 27.—The Pittsburgh Pirates excelling in team play, skating and body checking, tonight defeated the Chicago Blackhawks 4 to 2 in a National Hockey league contest here. The locals sewed up the game in the second period when they made three goals in rapid succession. One tally was made by Darragh and two by Mills. The fourth was added in the final quarter by Arbour who was standing at mid-ice when he meshed the shot.
