CONSOLIDATED FINDS BIG COPPER BODY

LUCKY JIM EXPANDS CAPITAL BY 50 PER CENT

TWO REMANDED MURDER CHARGE AT VANCOUVER

Alleged to Have Killed Former Edmonton Advertising Writer After Quarrel

BODY IS FOUND IN HOTEL ROOM THERE

All Three Had Been Jailed Earlier for Fighting; Released Friendly Terms

VANCOUVER, April 5.—When Angus Nicholson, aged 34, and Robert Moore, aged 39 appeared before Magistrate H. C. Shaw, in police court today, they were remanded for one week, on a charge of murdering Marshll Douglas, 40-year-old advertising writer, whose battered body was found early today in a downtown hotel room, where he is alleged to have been killed by his two companions, after an evening of drinking and quarreling.

Was Montrealer

Douglas arrived here March 17 from Edmonton, where he went from Montreal some time ago. He had resided for several years in Vancouver before going to Montreal six years ago, and was well known here.

Acting on information that three men were fighting on a west end street, a police officer shortly before 11 o'clock last night took Douglas, Nicholson and Moore to police headquarters. They were later released, apparently on friendly terms with the other. Shortly before midnight the trio engaged a room in the Canada hotel. At 1:30 o'clock this morning Nicholson and Moore left the hotel, and soon after Douglas' body was found, terribly beaten, lying on a bed in the room. The forehead was cut, several teeth knocked out, and the body severely bruised. A blood-stained liquor bottle was found nearby. Nicholson and Moore were placed under arrest at the latter's suite at 4 o'clock this morning.

NAPIER FINDINGS NOT INTRODUCED

Evidence of Liquor Control Board Investigation of 1922 Unsatisfactory

VANCOUVER, April 5. — Findings made by Ross Napier, following an investigation in 1922 of the liquor control board will not be introduced into evidence of the royal commission investigating provincial campaign funds. This was decided at the opening session of the commission in Vancouver today when Hon. A. M. Manson declared from the witness stand that the 1922 investigation was of a confidental nature and that no report had been submitted. Napier, who was a departmental official, declared Hon. Mr. Manson and his inquiry was similar to a secret service investigation. Nothing of value was learned, because no statements were made under oath, the attorney-general declared. Hon. Mr. Manson admitted that there were letters in connection with the matter on file, but he did not think they were of any value to the commission.

Walks Under Hammer, Automatic Log Stamper and Is Seriously Hurt

VANCOUVER, April 5. — Walking under a hammer of an automatic log stamper, Robert Beckwith, foreman of the Naugle Pole and Tie company, New Westminster, sustained such severe injuries to his head that he was removed to an hospital.

LOSES PLEA

PARIS, April 5.—Donald Bigelow, United States consul, today lost his plea of diplomatic immunity from prosecution in the suit brought against him by the Russian, Princess Zizianoff. She is suing for 100,000 francs damage, following Mr. Bigelow's refusal to grant her a visa to visit the United States.

PRINCE GOING, SPAIN

MADRID, April 5.—The Prince of Wales will visit Spain this month, it was announced here today. Traveling incognito, he is due to arrive here April 22, and remain about eight days.

Four Measures in Duncan Recommends Read for Third Time

OTTAWA, April 5.—Third reading was given in the house of commons late tonight to four measures indorsing recommendations contained in the Duncan report of maritime claims.

These measures provide for the reduction of railway freight rates in the maritimes (with certain exceptions); establishment of a harbor commission at Saint John, N.B.; establishmnt of a harbor commission at Halifax, and the appointment of a deputy minister of fisheries.

LABORITES ASK RESTRAINT ON ANY ULTIMATUM

Declare Ultimatum If Rejected Would Lead Britain Into Actual Warfare

LONDON, April 5.—The council of the trade union congress and the Labor party have adopted a resolution urging the government, in the face of contradictory reports of the disorders at Nanking, to refrain from sending an ultimatum to China, based on statements from unofficial sources.

The resolution says that such an ultimatum, if rejected, would necessarily lead Great Britain into a state of open warfare. The resolution also calls upon the government to open negotiations concerning the Nanking incidents and, in the event of disagreement, to refer the question to the League of Nations.

'GO NORTH YOUNG MAN' IS SLOGAN

So States Dunning in Speaking of the Advancement of Canada in Future

OTTAWA, April 5.—That Canada's development within the next 25 years will be northerly is the opinion of Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of railways and canals, expressed today in addressing the Liberal Women's association of Ottawa.

"Go north young man" is the slogan of the future," said Mr. Dunning, and the task of Canada and Canadians now is to continually apply ourselves in an endeavor to broaden the trend of our population.

Know Canada

A plea was made to the Liberals to know Canada and to learn to fully appreciate Canada. "You know," he continued, "the east is not really reactionary nor the maritimes dead. Neither is the west crazy or uncouth or unpatriotic as some easterners would have us think."

"There are three million people west of the Great Lakes working out in their own way the destiny of Canada." The development of the present century, said the speaker, was largely due to the policies of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

In regard to the people of Canada, its greatest source, the minister believed that too much was left to the pulpits. "We have a unique situation," he said, "a number of races, a number of creeds and with respect to the newcomers we say they must be assimilated. Words are all right, but it depends upon who is using them. Each race and each creed has something to contribue toward the future citizenship of Canada."

Bill to Amend the Canada Grain Act Is Read Again in Senate

OTTAWA, April 5.—The bill to amend the Canada Grain act to permit farmers to determine the terminal destination of their grain when selling it to country elevators was given second reading in the senate this afternoon. The bill was before the upper house last year. Today it was agreed that the bill should be sent to the banking and commerce committee for one day's consideration, by a vote of 34 to 20.

There was considerable opposition to the bill.

PEKING IS NOW THREATENED IN CHINESE WAR

Cantonese Moving Toward the Ancient Seat of Government and Capital

DANGER CROPS UP ON TWO SIDES, TOO

Threat Has Not Reached Active Stage, but Is Present, Nevertheless

PEKING, April 5.—The field of operations of China's grim civil war has shifted so steadily from the Yangtse valley to the north that Peking itself, ancient historic seat of the governments of China and the capital of the northerners, now appears definitely threatened.

The danger comes from two directions, first the northward drive along the Tientsin-Pukow railway by the Cantonese, and, secondly, a possible sweep from the northwest by Marshal Feng Yu Hsing, once known as the Christian general, and leader of the Kumintang, or National people's army.

The Cantonese threat, coming as it does on the heels of the successful Cantonese occupation of the great Yan-gtze valley completed by the capture of Shanghai and Nanking, is directed primarily at Tsinanfu, the capital of Shantung and Tien Tsin, important railway centers. Should Tien Tsin be seriously endangered the powerful and undefeated forces of Marshal Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian war lord, would be forced to withdraw from Peking since Tien Tsin offers their only line of communication with Manchuria, their base.

Is Threatening

Should treachery or Cantonese propaganda behind the lines break down General Chang's defence, first Tsinanfu would be endangered and then Tien Tsin.

The threats on Peking by Feng Yu Hsiang has not reached an active stage, but is present nevertheless.

Peking, one of the most ancient cities in China, lies approximately 130 miles from the mouth of the Pei river and about 50 miles south of the great wall of China.

USE OF WARSHIPS, CHINA, QUESTIONED

Woodsworth Says Foreign Lives Safer If Ships Not Present

OTTAWA, April 5.—The protection afforded Canadian citizens in China by British warships was mentioned in the house of commons today, during the imperial conference debate, and brought comment from J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg North Center. "Would not those Canadians be safer," asked Mr. Woodsworth, "if there were no gunboats there threatening the people of that country?"

Col. G. L. Geary, Conservative, Toronto South, who made the reference to the British protection, replied that he was convinced that presence of United States and British gunboats in China at the present time was responsible for the safety of many lives.

TWO POLISH ARMY OFFICERS EXECUTED

WARSAW, April 5.—Two Polish army officers named Pietak and Urbanik were arrested in Thorn, charged with delivering plans for the defence of Pommern province to German agents. They were court-martialled, convicted and executed on the spot today.

QUEBEC, April 5.—The steamship Wolsum, a Dutch freighter, sailed from Quebec at 3:45 o'clock this morning, the first steamer to leave a St. Lawrence port for Europe this spring.

The Wolsum carried 250,000 bushels of grain destined to various European ports.

Cranbrook Veterans Press Hon. Dr. King on Pensions Matter

CRANBROOK, B.C., April 5. — Noting that according to word given out from Ottawa there is little likelihood of promised amendments to the Pensions act or Soldiers Insurance act being introduced at this session, officers of Cranbrook branch, Canadian Legion, have today telegraphed Hon. Dr. King, local member and minister of soldiers' reestablishment, as follows:

"Earnestly request your help in introducing amendments to Pensions act at this session. Papers apparently misquote your statement, and we look to you for action." This wire was signed by the president and the secretary of the legion, respectively. The Kimberley branch of the legion has also been in communication with Dr. King.

STRONG BEER SOLD HOTELS IN TORONTO

Liquor "Shipped for Export" Went to Toronto Hotels, Say Witnesses

IS ASKED IF PRINCE OF WALES A CUSTOMER

Replies Yes, the Prince of Wales Hotel; Brewers Suffered Convictions

TORONTO, April 5.—The process whereby "thirsty people of Toronto", to quote Chief Commissioner J. T. Brown, are supplied with strong beer, was revealed to the royal commission on customs this afternoon. James Cosgrave, president and managing director of the Crosgrave Export Brewery company of Toronto, was the witness who shed most light on the subject. In the last two years, he said, strong beer ostensibly shipped for export to the United States, had been supplied to "quite a number of Toronto hotels by the Cosgrave brewery."

With three of the Cosgrave order books in his hands, R. L. Calder, K.C., commission counsel, plied Mr. Cosgrave with questions about beer orders. It developed that orders which, according to the books, came from Charles S. Jacobs, Buffalo, were filled by supplying beer to Toronto hotels. A number of Toronto hotels were mentioned specifically as having purchased strong beer from the Cosgrave brewery.

Suffer Convictions

It was further brought out that the Cosgrave Export Brewery company and its predecessors (the company has gone through certain changes and reorganization since its inception) suffered a number of convictions for infractions of provincial law. There were one or two amusing spots in the examination of Cosgrave.

"May I ask whether you sold any beer to the Prince of Wales?" asked Mr. Calder, referring to one of the orders in the book he was looking into. He explained his question by saying that the order in question was marked P. of Wales.

It's An Hotel

This the witness explained by saying that a hotel in Toronto was called the Prince of Wales and "that we look for payment to this hotel."

"Another very illustrious name," said Mr. Calder when he discovered an order signed "Gladstone." This the witness explained signified Gladstone hotel. This afternoon was devoted entirely to examination of Ontario breweries. Investigation of the Dominion Brewery Co., limited, of Toronto, proved very brief, and James L. Lowe, manager of this company, was on the stand for only a few minutes. Henry C. Weidman, managing director of Reinhardt's brewery, was also called upon for comparatively few questions.

IRMA, Alta., April 5.—Caught between a wagon and a standing harrow when the team he was driving bolted, David Craig, well known farmer of the Irma district, met almost instant death.

SHAREHOLDERS VOTE ISSUE TO FINANCE MILL

Proposed 150-Ton Plant Will Pay for Itself in a Year

PAT STEWART TAKES ON VICE-PRESIDENCY

Year's Development Paid for From Mine; Important Finds of Ore

ZINCTON, B.C., April 5.—Increase of the capital stock of the Lucky Jim Lead & Zinc company from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 shares, placing of the added 1,000,000 shares in the treasury, and sale of the issue to provide funds from which to construct and equip this season a 150-ton mill, were respectively authorized at the annual shareholders' meeting, held here yesterday.

W. L. Zeigler, superintendent of concentration at the Hecla mine in the Coeur d'Alenes, is designing the mill, in cooperation with R. H. (Pat) Stewart.

In the directorate the principal change is the advancing of Mr. Stewart to the vice-presidency. The new directorate consists of A. G. Larson, Spokane, again president and manager; R. H. (Pat) Stewart, Vancouver, vice-president; J. V. Pohlman, Spokane, secretary-treasurer; L. K. Larsen, Nelson, F. Cushing Moore, and E. P. Twohy, Spokane, and S. W. Miller, Vancouver, directors.

Believing it more desirable to finance the new issue as a whole rather than to depend on its absorption by the shareholders and the public at large, the directors propose to dispose of it in one block to responsible parties directly, thus making the funds available at the earliest moment.

Profit and Loss

The profit and loss statement covering 1926 shows gross smelter returns of $203,914.40, which, after $94,427.21 is deducted for freight and milling, leaves net smelter returns of $109,487.19. After production expenses amounting to $55,524.50 is taken out a net income from production of $53,962.60 is figured. Against this income are charged development costs for labor and supplies, depreciation of buildings and equipment, and depletion of ore reserves, amounting in all to $50,417.20, leaving a net operating profit of $3,545.40. The significant fact is that in a year in which the property development was carried forward materially, all operations of every kind were paid for by the mine itself.

All told, the mine produced 2,573,799 pounds of lead concentrates, of which the metallic contents were 1,012,642 pounds of lead and 52,210 ounces of silver, and 8,912,615 pounds of zinc concentrates, which contained 4,506,969 pounds of zinc and 12,365 ounces of silver. The mill feed assayed on the average 4.14 ounces of silver, 3.59 per cent lead, and 12.71 per cent zinc. Average mill recoveries were 69.2 per cent of lead and 86.5 per cent of zinc. During the year altogether 20,478 tons of ore was sent to Trail for treatment.

Purposely Used for Mining

President Larson, in his annual report, commented in part as follows:

"While the results obtained from the limited production maintained during the year may be viewed with a feeling of satisfaction, considering all conditions, this production could have been increased materially if the full resources of the mine had been drawn upon, and a correspondingly better showing made. However, it was not deemed wise by the management to deplete ore reserves any more than was necessary, owing to the excessive freight and milling charges against the ore.

"The custom milling plant at Trail provided facilities urgently needed by the company pending the outcome of the important development work performed during this period, in proving the capacity of the mine,

Municipal Treasurer of Ponoka Sentenced to Two Years, Theft

RED DEER, Alta., April 5.—Dan Bush, former municipal treasurer of Ponoka, who was charged with theft of some $5000 of municipal funds, was sentenced to two years in jail, when he appeared in court here today.

All parts of the continent were searched for the missing man, following the distribution of circulars by the Alberta provincial police. He was arrested on March 21, at Fort Worth, Texas, and waived extradition.

LABOR FIGHTS BILL TO CURB UNION POWERS

Declare British Bill "Attack Inspired Motives Partly Politics

LONDON, April 5.—The joint committee of the trade union congress and the Labor party tonight adopted a resolution expressing determination to fight to the utmost the government's newly-introduced bill seeking to curb the powers of the trade unions.

The resolution characterized the bill as a "deliberate attack, inspired by motives of class and partisan politics, upon workers organizations."

Nothing the government could have proposed apparently could have united every section of the labor movement, from the most extreme to the most moderate, in a single-minded determination to fight as the government's trade union bill.

J. Ramsay Macdonald, parliamentary Labor leader, and former premier, today described the bill as "one of the most dangerous excursions of class war" he had ever known, while A. J. Cook, general secretary of the Miners' federation, declared that the bill was "designed to smash the power of the works, industrially and politically."

Under the bill, as proposed by the government, it would be illegal to call a strike which was calculated to coerce the government or intimidate the community, picketing, when calculated to intimidate or obstruct, would be punishable by a fine, or imprisonment, and picketing at the residences of workers would be unlawful. Trade unions also would be required to keep their political funds entirely separate from other funds, while civil servants would be forbidden to become members of trade unions not made up solely of civil servants.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH MURDER

Her Husband's Body Found Near Home; Head Battered Badly

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., April 5.—His head smashed almost beyond recognition, the body of William Kenney, a laborer, was found in a straw pile at the rear of his home here today. His wife was arrested on a murder charge. A blood-stained hammer was found nearby. Kenney apparently had been dead for several days.

Authorities say Mrs. Kenney told conflicting stories, first saying that her husband had committed and later declaring they had quarreled and that she had used the hammer in self-defence.

France Announces Its Naval Program in Second Section

PARIS, April 5.—One cruiser, six destroyers, five submarines, one mine laying submarine and two dispatch vessels will be built by France between July 1, 1927, and June 30, 1928, under a bill signed today by President Doumergue. The vessels belong to the second section of France's naval program.

NEUDORF, Sask., April 5.—Fire, of unknown origin, discovered in the basement and on the third floor of the Neudorf Trading company's store, this evening caused a loss of about $40,000.

COAST COPPER DISCOVERY IS LARGEST EVER

Quatsino Property, for Copper, Rivals Sullivan's Lead Deposit

ORE ALSO CONTAINS GOLD AND PLATINUM

Ore Running Over $400 Per Ton Being Asked; Controlled by Consolidated

VICTORIA, April 5.—Opening up of a body of gold ore with a high platinum content at the Coast Copper mine near Quatsino, on Vancouver Island, and controlled by the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Montreal, was reported here today.

Diamond drilling and development work which has been carried on for the last couple of years have revealed that the Vancouver Island mine has a copper deposit which in size is surpassed only by the lead deposit of the Sullivan mine at Kimberley, it was said.

The ore, running over $400 a ton, is now being taken out and sacked. The yield from this will more than pay the developments costs so far, it was declared.

Diamond drilling estimates place the value of the copper deposit at between $35,000,000 and $60,000,000, without counting the gold and platinum.

The discovery was responsible for the jump in the price of Coast Copper stock from around $7.50 a share recently to approximately double that price now.

COAST PAIR ARE CONVICTED

Guilty of Conspiracy to Smuggle Narcotics; One and Two Year Terms

VANCOUVER, April 5. — At the conclusion of one of the longest trials in Vancouver police court in recent years, Magistrate H. C. Shaw, this afternoon, convicted Frank Marino of Vancouver and Dominick Cristofi of Victoria of conspiracy to smuggle narcotics. Marino was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, and Critofi to a year in jail.

During the trial, which commenced last October 15, evidence presented showed widespread operations of narcotic smuggling throughout the Pacific northwest. Charges against four others, originally brought to trial with Marino and Cristofi, were later dismissed.

Pilgrims Flock to Old Danish City Where Anderson Born

ODENSE, Denmark, April 5. — Pilgrims are flocking to the famous old Danish city where Hans Christian Anderson was born, following reports of miraculous cures performed at spiritualist meetings.

The cures are attributed to the intervention of Brother Johannes, who died here two centuries ago. It is declared that he restored the sight of a blind girl last week, after a noted physician had failed. Many curses of cripples also are reported.

ATTENDANCE AT TRAIL SCHOOLS IS DOWN SOME

Measles and Similar Troubles Among Scholars Keep Averages Down

TRAIL, B.C., April 5.—Measles and similar troubles largely affecting children were responsible for a relatively low attendance record at Trail-Tadanac public schools during March.

East Trail school suffered most. With an enrollment of 241, it had an average attendance of 213—a percentage, 89.32 of perfection.

Central school came next with an average attendance of 73.91 from 905 students enrolled. The percentage was 91.94.

Tadanac led the schools in point of large attendance. It had an average of 96.86 students attending among 39 students enrolled, or 94 per cent of perfection.

Division 16 led all classes at Central school with 98.53 per cent perfect attendance. Grades six and seven led all classes in East Trail school with 96.99 perfect attendance.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

CARING FOR CLOTHING

One Mother Says:

I have impressed the lesson upon my young son's mind that his suits and shoes should always be put away clean, instead of covered with dust and lint and caked with mud. Whenever he comes in from a hike or play-time, and starts to make a change of clothing, he first brushes his suit, and scrapes and polishes his shoes, before placing them in his closet for the next need. Connected with this lesson in neatness is the other equally necessary one of frequently airing wearing apparel.

Sour Stomach
"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda
Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.
For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Will Meet Villa in Semi-Windup; Montana-Milo Bout Headliner

TRAIL, B.C., April 5.—Mervin Barackman, middleweight grappler of Cashmere, Idaho, and Jack Villa, training partner of Jack Milo, will furnish the semi-windup to the Bull Montana vs. Jack Milo bout in the Trail rink on Friday, according to Hank Lauriente's announcement today. Barackman is the boy who gave Ernie Arthur a gruelling match in Nelson last December, and should be good for some real action against Villa in their one-fall go.

Eddie Girard and Don Wilson, lightweights, and the snappiest mat men here, are on for the best two out of three falls.

Lawrence Lawnen and Mike Demidoff, 135-pound leather pushers, are to open the fun with a three-round mitt feat.

TRAIL DEFEATS THE NELSONITES AT BADMINTON

Trail's Decisive Win in Men's Doubles Means Defeat for Visitors

HONORS EVENLY DIVIDED LADIES; MIXED DOUBLES

Tourney Played in Two Hours; Nelsonites Guests of Trail at Luncheon

TRAIL, B.C., April 5.—Trail badminton players, making a clean sweep in the men's doubles, decisively defeated Nelson players in Saturday's tournament at the Memorial hall. They took 11 matches against Nelson's 6.

Honors were divided in the four matches in the ladies' doubles, and in the eight matches in the mixed doubles the victory went to Trail and Nelson, alternately, match by match, with exasperating regularity.

Play commenced at 4 o'clock on the arrival of the Nelson players, and continued until 6, with the players disengaged taking light refreshments provided by the Trail club in the card room. After the tourney most of the contestants lunched in company at a downtown cafe before the departure of the Nelson players for their home on the evening train.

Volunteer Fire Department Reorganized by Kimberley People

KIMBERLEY, B.C., April 5.—Monday night a reorganization meeting of the volunteer fire department was held for the purpose of effecting changes necessitated by removals of some members, and other necessary readjustments. The officers previously elected remain the same—C. Morrison, G. C. Dahlgren and L. Johnson, committee, and J. Cavanagh fire chief. Four hose reels are maintained in town, and another is situated in Blarchmount. Full crews were assigned to the vacancies filled up, and it was decided to move the equipment, including the siren, in Blarchmount to a more central location. Practices will be resumed soon as weather permits, and in accordance with a suggestion made by the management, a member of the brigade is in attendance at the theater as a precautionary measure.

REFEREES MUST MAKE REPORTS TRAIL FOOTER

Executive Prohibits Use League Name in Promoting Entertainments

NAME ENTERTAINMENT FINANCE COMMITTEES

Rangers Submit Club Personnel; Schedule Announced for 20 Games

TRAIL, B.C., April 5.—Trail Football club executive tonight decided to permit no club in the City Soccer league to raise finances for itself by public entertainment, supported in the belief that the funds would go toward the general good of the game in Trail.

Previously, enterprising clubs holding such entertainments have secured money which the donators believed would be used to support all the clubs in the league.

Under the new ruling it is hoped to check this practice, which enabled the enterprising clubs innocently to benefit at the expense of other clubs.

If, however, the clubs wish to stage entertainments, whist drives or dances without influencing patrons to support them and thus boost soccer, they may do so. The committee decided that money so secured was outside jurisdiction.

Require Referee's Report

This year the executive committee will require a referee's report on each game within three days after the match. Games postponed on account of rain will be played on dates set by the executive.

The personnel of the general entertainment committee, which will direct all entertainments designed to support soccer and the Trail Soccer league, was announced. One representative was named from each of the five clubs as follows:

Rangers, R. Ellis; Hearts, J. Ferguson; Uniteds, T. Harwood; and Vets, A. Smith. The Gulch representatives were not ready to appoint their man.

Name Finance Committee

A finance committee which will take and account for gate money and all other finances of the league was appointed, with one representative from each club a follows: Rangers, R. Richardson; Hearts, F. Strachan; Uniteds, T. Harwood; Vets, T. Hayes; Gulch, D. Orlando.

The Rangers' club personnel was submitted. W. Robertson and R. Richardson of East Trail are the executive delegates, and the playing members are: Beaver, Armstrong, Cook, Morrison, Hay, Marshall, Yule, Leckie, Tomlin, Wheat, Chalmers, Walton, Goodwin, Prosch, Morvey and Ellis.

The committee accepted a prepared 20-game schedule, but it decided that three additional games would be played by each team to complete the spring series, the winner of which will take possession of the Dodimead shield. The first fixture, Vets vs. Uniteds, was a scoreless draw. The Hearts won the second on Monday, 4-1, from the Rangers.

Spring Schedule

Following is the schedule:

April 6, Gulch vs. Uniteds; April 11, Vets vs. Hearts; April 13, Rangers, vs. Uniteds; April 18, Gulch vs. Vets; April 20, Hearts vs. Uniteds; April 25, Vets vs. Rangers; April 27, Gulch vs. Hearts; May 2, Gulch vs. Rangers; May 4, Vets vs. Uniteds; May 9, Hearts vs. Rangers; May 11, Gulch vs. Uniteds; May 16, Vets vs. Hearts; May 18, Rangers vs. Uniteds; May 21, Gulch vs. Vets; May 28, Hearts vs. Uniteds; May 30, Vets vs. Rangers; June 1, Gulch vs. Hearts; June 6, Gulch vs. Rangers.

Those attending the metting were: James Leckie, president; Alderman J. A. McKinnon, secretary; R. Forbes, E. Mason, N. Contini, R. Richardson, A. Aitken, D. A. Bell, V. Orlando and F. Stratchan.

A snowplow of the rotary type has been invented that can be mounted on and operated by a farm tractor.

WHEELBARROW CHAMPIONS ARE NOW IN NELSON

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Le Roux Push Barrow 11,250 Miles; On World Circuit

VISIT TEN COUNTRIES; AND TO SEE FIVE MORE

Started 1922, Have 21 Months to Go; Here Till End of the Week

"I've seen more smiles in Nelson than I have in a long time," said Dan Le Roux, who is doing the world circuit with a wheelbarrow, when he walked into The Daily News office last night. "British Columbia is the friendliest province of all," he added.

Starting from Johannesburg, South Africa, in December, 1922, with their possessions in a wheelbarrow, and 12 cents between them, Mr. and Mrs. Le Roux arrived in Nelson yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, completing 11,250 miles of their journey. When they reach Vancouver they will have traversed 10 countries, and will have five more to visit—New Zealand, Australia, Japan, China and India. They will go from Vancouver to New Zealand and Australia, and should the Chinese trouble be unabated by that time, will cancel that part of the journey. They estimate it will take 21 months to complete the circuit, and they are to write books on their experiences.

Four Months in Province

"We arrived in British Columbia on December 3, and spent most of the winter at Yahk," said Mr. Le Roux. "We tried winter traveling between Courier and Elko, putting the wheel of the wheelbarrow on a ski. But even then, with me pushing, and my wife and another man pulling on a rope, it took us five hours to go six miles through 18 inches of fresh snow.

"Leaving Yahk at middday on Monday, a week ago, we reached Kitchener at nightfall. On Tuesday we lectured at Kitchener, on Wednesday at Creston, on Thursday at Duck Creek, and on Saturday at Sirdar. That is how we pay our expenses—lecturing and selling souvenir postcards.

This Monday they traveled by barge to Procter, and made Harrop that night. It took them five hours to come in to Nelson from Harrop yesterday, pushing the barrow along the railway tracks.

How They Traveled

After spending a year in South Africa, Portuguese East Africa and the African native territories, this is how they traveled: Egypt, 2 1-2 months; touched at Malta; Italy, 4 months; Switzerland, 1 1-2 months; France, 2 1-2 months, during which they saw three days of sunshine; Belgium, 1 1-2 months; Holland, 1 month; England, 4 months; and Canada, from June of 1925 until they leave Vancouver. They wintered at Ignace, Ont., during their first winter in Canada.

Hard on Leather

Since the journey started they have each worn out six pairs of boots, 18 pairs of half-soles, and 36 pairs of heels. The wheelbarrow, which is fitted with a pneumatic tire, has worn out three tires and four inner tubes.

Their clothes, cooking utensils and equipment, packed in the barrow, made a load, at the start of the journey, of 200 pounds. At Winnipeg, the halfway point of the circuit, it was reduced to 140 pounds, Mr. Le Roux weighing 175 pounds when he started, and on passing out of Italy he weighed 179 pounds. But when the trip through the Alps in Switzerland was made, he finished weighing 159 pounds. He was back to 180, however, Monday night.

The travelers carry with them diaries in which are entered the seals of every city or town through which they have passed. In cases where it was impossible to get a city seal or a mayor's signature, they had the postmaster or police official of the place sign. This is to prevent any suspicion that they may have accepted rides.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Roux are staying at the Savoy. They expect to be in Nelson until the end of the week, and when they go on to Trail, to follow the Red Trail route through Rossland, Grand Forks, Midway and Penticton to Vancouver.

"I'm a member of the Buffalo lodge of Johannesburg, and if there are any members of the Buffalo order, or any persons from South Africa around here, we would like them to visit us," said Mr. Le Roux.

The Chinese have a festival of some sort practically every month of the year.

Watch Your Poison

So it is not accident when somebody gets sick after eating strawberries!

Years ago Mrs. S. T. Rorer, internationally famous writer on cooking, who conducted the cookery page of the Ladies' Home Journal, was widely derided when she branded strawberries as poisonous.

Now comes Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in the current Saturday Evening Post, to say that fully one-third of all food plants made use of by man have poisonous reactions to 1 to 2 per cent of the human race.

After countless thousands of years, so many as to be measured by geologic time, man has succeeded in adapting to the use of his stomach only 100 to 150 plant species out of some 60,000 identified—which sufficiently answers, Dr. Woods Hutchinson thinks, the contention that the world's plant life was specially created to be of service to him.

The small percentages of poisons in most of these edible plants do not upset the systems of the majority of people, but almost every human being has a few "plant antipathies," and if he indulges in food prepared from those plants, they will take it out on him. Don't force on the baby foods he doesn't take to, the writer says.

Sun-burned potatoes evolve a poison called solanin, the cucumber has poison concealed in its skin—and sometimes in its pulp—turnips, cabbages and radishes are harborers of toxins, and even the luscious strawberry can bite back to a few people. Early man, Dr. Woods Hutchinson thinks, lived pretty much on bitter herbs, roots and pulpy fruits, of which the radish and the crabapple and rhubarb are fair samples.

Plants evolve with reference to their own needs, and when they produce poisons in large or small quantities, those elements are intended to be useful to the seed, this author thinks.

The one plant practically 100 per cent above reproach, and which for centuries was rejected except for ornament, is the tomato, which, Dr. Hutchinson assures us, not only has no poison record worthy of mention, but embraces in its composition the three major vitamines.

With this powerful testimonial, we may expect the Kootenay tomato to make great headway the coming season.

Lowden Dangerous Rival to Coolidge

Word goes out over the wires from Iowa that former Governor Frank C. Lowden would not offer serious opposition to a movement to present his name to the next Republican national convention for presidential candidate, if this receives the approval of a majority of the western farm states.

On this announcement being known to the world a few minutes, a further announcement comes that, thus encouraged, the former governor's admirers propose to immediately organize to put 11 farm states behind the Lowden standard.

In short, a Lowden boom for president is being launched.

Nor is this very strange.

Had Lowden said "Yes" four years ago, he would have been vice-president of the United States today, instead of General Dawes. In spite of his refusal at every stage to allow his name to be boomed, he was nominated practically unanimously by the Republican convention. Over the radio at his own home, he heard the nomination, the seconding, the voting, the ovation, as did also General Dawes at his own home, President Coolidge at the White House, and other notables with a direct interest in the convention, in their own homes.

But he turned down the nomination, brought to him by a notification committee, declaring he was bound to proceed with the national farmers organization he had launched, and then the convention bolted to the popular Dawes.

President Coolidge has had part of a term in the White House, which he enjoyed by succession under the constitution after President Harding's death, and is now in his first elective term. Whether this counts as two terms for him or for one is the great moot point in Republican ranks now. In any event, it is taken for granted that President Coolidge has no intention of counting himself out.

Former Governor Lowden is just about the most powerful candidate that could be brought out against President Coolidge within the ranks of the Republican party.

A bride reader has asked me for recipes for serving left-over chicken. "Please publish a guest dinner menu for Wednesday night," she asks, "and then suggest some way to use the cooked cold chicken just for my husband and me Thursday night."

Everybody knows Chicken a la King. All cook books contain a recipe for it. But personally I like the following easy ways of serving chicken or fowl left-overs:

Mushroomed chicken—Buy one-half pound of fresh mushrooms and peel the caps. Then pull out the stems, peel these also, and cut both caps and stems into dice. Place the dice in a frying pan with four tablespoons of butter and cook over mild heat for 30 minutes, or till they are tender. Now place the cooked mushrooms, and their butter, in the top of a double boiler. To them add one and one-half cups of cooked chicken bits (cut fairly small) and also add two cups of left-over brown gravy from the roast chicken of the previous day. (If you have no brown gravy the same measure of medium-thick white sauce could be used instead—but the gravy really makes the dish.)

Put on cover of boiler and let the water underneath boil briskly for 20 minutes, then season to suit individual taste with pepper and salt, and serve the mixture on hot, buttered toast.

Asparagused chicken—Rub two tablespoons of butter into two tablespoons of flour and gradually stir in two cups of hot, sweet cream. Cook over moderate heat till thickened, stirring constantly. To this white sauce add pepper and salt to suit individual liking, then also stir in one cupful of cooked asparagus tips and one and one-half cups of cooked left-over chicken. When very hot again, serve on buttered toast.

Celeried chicken is made in exactly the same way as the asparagused chicken given above, except that one cup of cooked, diced celery is substituted for the cupful of asparagus tips.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Operating Only When Necessary

In former days it sometimes happened that a patient would have many of the symptoms of gall stones, but at the operation no stones were found. Where these symptoms are present now, and the dye test is made showing the outline of the gall bladder under the X-ray, almost a positive diagnosis can be made.

Three southern investigators report their observations on a number of these gall bladder, and supposed gall bladder, cases.

They state that by making these liver tests before having the patient undergo an operation, that many operations have been avoided. That patients in whom the tests have pointed to definite trouble in liver and gall bladder, have almost invariably been found at operation to have some definite trouble in liver or gall bladder.

Therefore, with the history of the case, frequent observations, laboratory tests and so forth, they have been able to predict with reasonable accuracy the extent of liver involvement likely to be found at the operation.

In only two cases of 52, were their predictions not confirmed at operation.

You might naturally think, then, that if these tests are going to show that an operation is unnecessary, that there will be fewer operations on the gall bladder.

This, however, is not likely to be the case, because previously if you heard about a friend who was operated on for gall stones, and none were found, you would possibly believe that the same thing might happen in your case, and so decide not to have an operation.

The point to remember, however, is that in the early stages there may be some doubts about the cause of your distress or trouble, because the pains are irregular, clear up for a period of time, then perhaps a little pain in right side, in front and back, near the bottom of ribs, and often pain in right shoulder, also.

But now that the dye test has been added to other methods of investigation; it means that perhaps more operations will be performed, because we will all know that operation will only be done when the diagnosis is definitly certain.

ALL EMBRACING JURY LAW CAUSE OF AMUSEMENT

Defence Lawyer Drawn on His Own Jury; Exemptions Are Few

MONTREAL, April 5.—One of the inconveniences of the new Quebec jury law, which makes practically everyone liable for jury service, was seen in King's bench recently when a lawyer found himself liable to be member of the jury and counsel for the defence at the same time.

A new panel was called for March, and reported for duty. Among the new jurors was Albert Triberge, lawyer, and president of the Montreal Reform club. He is also counsel for the defence in the trial of Harry Tom and Ham Doon Kai, which was the first case on the roll.

"I should love to get on the jury in my own case," he remarked, in suggesting that an exemption was in order, "but I doubt whether your lordship would think it correct."

"I think we must exempt you," the court answered. "I don't like to think what the verdict would be if you were on your own jury."

"I can tell you now what the verdict would be," the lawyer replied, and exemption was ordered.

Was for Father

Mr. Justice Wilson questioned a young man applying for exemption, somewhat closely, and seemed puzzled as to the man's reason for wishing to avoid jury until the applicant explained that it was not for himself he wanted exemption. "I haven't been called. It is my father that was called, and he has been dead some years."

"Oh, well! In that case you had better present your petition in paradise," the court replied, and the applicant retired smiling.

A business man told the court that he could not hope to give proper attenton to the cases before the jury, because "I am alone in my business, and if I were on a jury I would be all the time divided between the case and worry about my business."

"In that case, we must exempt all engaged men, because their minds would be on their sweethearts all through the trial," the court commented. Exemption was refused.

BIBLE SOCIETY RAISES MONEY

CRESTON, B.C., April 5.—Instead of the usual roundup by the traveling secretary, this year Creston raised its contribution to the British Columbia branch of the British and Foreign Bible society, at a public meeting on Sunday afternoon, at which addresses appropriate for such an occasion were given by the three local protestant pastors. The turnout was fairly large and the meeting was in charge of the treasurer of the Creston branch of the society, D. T. Scrimgeour, with A. A. J. Collis, organist of Christ church, in charge of the musical features.

Rev. W. E. Disly, LL.D., pastor of St. Stephen's Presbyterian church, spoke on "The Bible in the Church," stating that last year 12,000,000 copies of the Bible, or portions of it, had been distributed, and these were printed in 612 different dialects.

Rev. J. Herdman of Trinity United quoted interesting facts from the last annual report, giving the distribution of the holy word in such countries as India and Burmah, Italy, Spain, China, Africa and Portugal.

Rev. S. Newby, rector of Christ church, spoke in timely fashion on "The Bible at Home," stressing the point that Christian nations owe their existence to a Christian citizenship, and that this latter was only possible through the availability and common use of the scriptures.

The collection taken was about $25, practically all of which will be available for Bible society work as the use of the theater was given free by Manager C. O. Rogers.

CRESTON OLD-TIMERS MOVE TO PENTICTON

CRESTON, B.C., April 5. — In the departure, Monday, of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Gibbs for their new home at Penticton, Creston loses one of its prominent and old-time business men and well-known families, as Mr. Gibbs has been resident here since 1909, and for practically all of that time held the position of assistant postmaster, as well as taking an active part in board of trade effort and other lines of community work. Mr. Gibbs also enjoyed the distinction of being one of the first commissioners to be elected when the village was incorporated in 1924, and it was during his term of office, combined with the chairmanship of the board of trade electric light committee which he held at the same time, that the foundation work was done for the electric light service that Creston will enjoy within the next four months. The popularity of Mrs. Gibbs was evidenced in a number of social functions the past week at which she was guest of honor. Mr. Gibbs has purchased a working partnership in a storage warehouse at Penticton.

KASLO PIONEER LAID AT REST

D. D. Bruce Lived in Main Lake City for Over 35 Years

KASLO, B.C., April 5.—The funeral of D. D. Bruce, who passed away at an early hour Saturday, was held at the family residence Monday afternoon, the Rev. E. W. McKay conducting the services both at the home and the graveside. Mr. Bruce was one of the Kaslo old-timers, having made his home here for the past 35 years. He was about 74 years of age, and had been in failing health for several months past. Mr. Bruce is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. O. McDougall of Kaslo, and his son, Harley, of Chicago, also a brother, Samuel, who resides here. The pallbearers were W. L. Billings, Cameron Clark, John D. Moore, Hugh Gillis, George B. Drennan and W. E. Noble.

Concert Program Enjoyed, Creston,; Was Institute Plan

CRESTON, B.C., April 5.—Instead of cards, Creston and District Women's Institute featured the March at home on Friday night, for members and their escorts, with a concert program, a variety of progressive games and a line of contests, and the large attendance seemed to very thoroughly enjoy the change of entertainment. The outstanding contest was that of designing and fitting a dress made from newspapers. This attracted an entry of 10 men, and first prize went to R. Crawford, with the second honors evenly divided between Dr. Lillie and James Cook. At progressive games the winners were Mrs. M. Young and Ted Staples. The program was in charge of a committee of Mrs. R. B. Staples, Mrs. James Cook and Mrs. Lillie, and consisted of vocal numbers by Miss Muriel Knott and W. J. Truscott, literary numbers by Mrs. Mallandaine and Dr. Lillie; piano solo by T. Goodwin, and piano and cello duet by Mr. Goodwin and George Truscott. Refreshments were served at the close. The institute president, Mrs. R. Stevens, presided during the evening.

Kaslo High School Students Put Over Real Good Concert

KASLO, B.C., April 5. — The entertainment put on by the students at the Kaslo high school, Friday evening, was a treat to the large number who attended. The students presented two very laughable sketches, the first being "Sauce for the Goslings," those taking part in this sketch being the Misses Phyllis Chandler, Marjorie Speirs, Marjorie Black, Kathleen Grayling, Alfred McLellan, Ross Whittaker and Howard Perkins. The other sketch was called "Miss Molly." Those in the cast were the Misses Gertrude Nelson, Veronica Murphy, Sylvia Johnson, Ruth Selverson, Edith Alm and Phyllis McQueen, and Walter Butler and Philip Goodenough.

Hospital Aid at Kaslo Prepares for Easter Ball

KASLO, B.C., April 5.—The monthly meeting of the hospital ladies took place, Monday afternoon, in the city hall. Several new memberships were received, though the canvass is still incomplete. The membership to date numbers 146. Resolutions of sympathy were passed to Mrs. J. M. Allen on the death of her father, who recently passed away at Athabasca Landing, and to Mrs. O. McDougall, whose father, D. Bruce, passed away last Saturday.

Arrangements were made for repairs to be done at the hospital, and committees appointed to make all final arrangements for the forthcoming Easter Monday ball.

Mrs. Holmes and little daughter of California are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Francis for a few days.

The Church Helpers held a meeting and sewing bee on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. Richardson, Mrs. Dale, president, in the chair. There was a very good attendance, and a number of new hassocks were made for the church. Several members volunteered to give the church a good cleaning. Bibles have been supplied for the older children at Sunday school. Mrs. Bourne assisted Mrs. Richardson to serve tea.

CRANBROOK NOTES

CRANBROOK, B.C., April 5. — The Auditorium Badminton club is planning on fixing up the lots opposite the Baptist church, owned by the Odd Fellows, into tennis courts to be used this summer.

Dr. G. E. L. McKinnon returned home on Monday after an absence of several weeks, during which he underwent an operation at Rochester, Minn., afterward visiting his former home in Ontario.

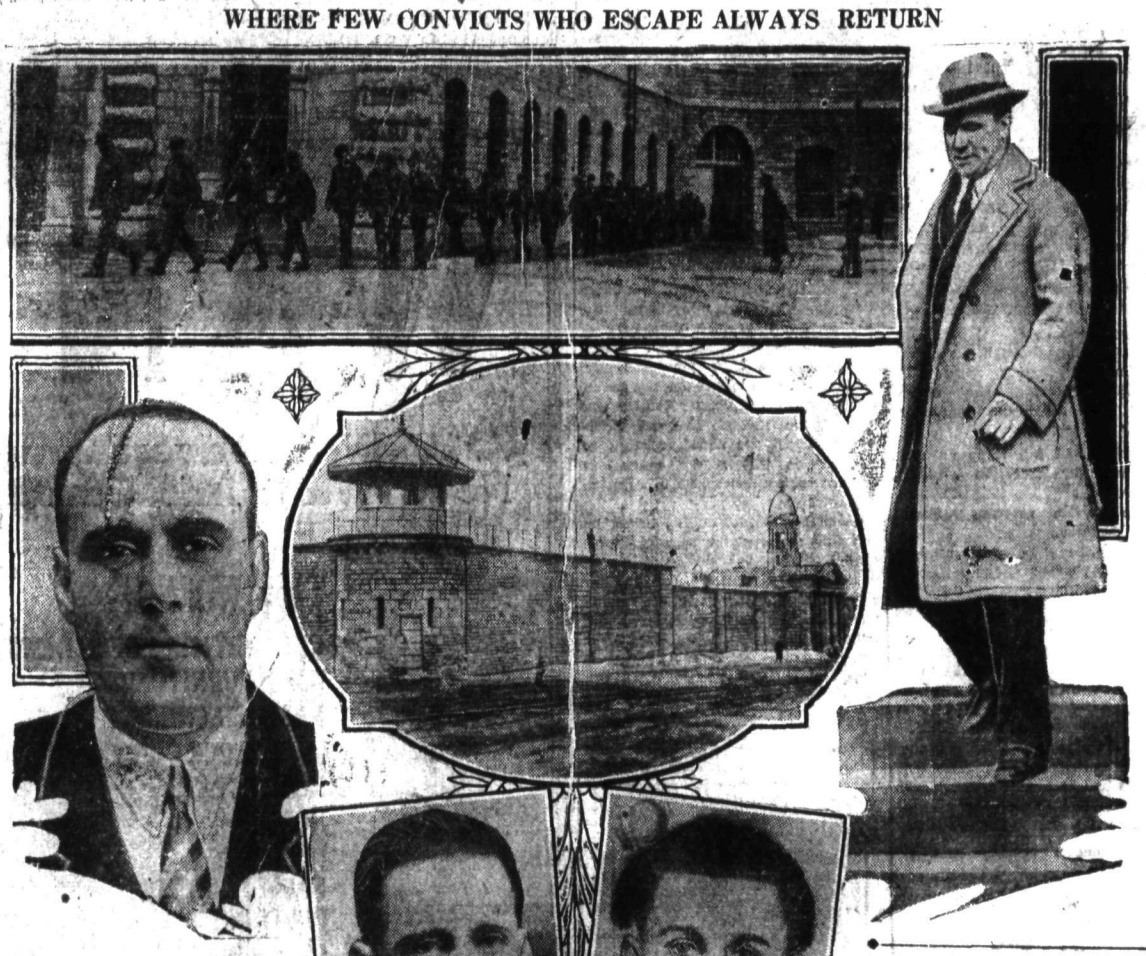
WHERE FEW CONVICTS WHO ESCAPE ALWAYS RETURN



The capture of Thomas Bryan, the last of the notorious Red Ryan gang, in Chicago restores the reputation of Portsmouth penitentiary, Kingston, as a prison taht always brings back its escaped inhabitants. No man has got away from it, it is said, who has not been brought back or died while resisting arrest. Pictured above are four of the convicts who made their escape over three years ago. From left to right: Gordon Simpson, who was caught in New York and got three years added to the term he was serving; Thomas Bryans, recently caught in Chicago; Norman "Red" Ryan, who was arrested in Minneapolis, and drew a life sentence with 30 lashes, and Edward McMullen, who drove the escape car, and after being wounded, was caught by the pursuing guards. The center picture shows the strong towered walls of the "pen," and above is a glimpse of the convicts going out for their daily walking exercise in the yard.

Proclaimation Gives Ontario Commission Right to Do Work

TORONTO, April 5.—Following prorogation of the Ontario legislature this afternoon, the Ferguson cabinet held a council meeting and passed an order proclaiming all sections of the Liquor Control act with the exception of those dealing with the actual sale of liquor.

The purpose of the order was to permit the liquor control board, of which O. B. Hanna is chairman, to commence its duties at once. The first business of the board will be to acquire property, organize its staff and frame regulations which, under the act, it is empowered to make.

Sale of liquor under the act will start May 16.

CHICAGO'S MAYOR IS ELECTED AGAIN

CHICAGO, April 5.—William Hale ((Big Bill) Thompson, Republican mayor of Chicago from 1915 to 1923, today was elected to that office for the third time.

Thompson, who conducted his campaign with a slogan of "America First," won over Mayor William E. Dever, Democrat incumbent, in one of the bitterest and most closely contested elections in Chicago's history. Dr. J. D. Robertson, who ran as an Independent, offered no serious opposition.

THE UNDERSTANDING HEART

By PETER B. KYNE

"Didn't know your convict friend had just about jerked this phone out by the roots, did you?" asked Garland of Monica.

THE ACTION SO FAR

Anthony Garland, a young ranger, transferred to the San Dimas National Forest reserve, loses his heart to Monica Dale, who acts as lookout on Bogus Peak. Robert Lee Mason, escaped convict and a life-long friend of Monica, is being hunted with bloodhounds. Monica hides him. Garland, while talking to her, discovers she is sheltering Mason. He agrees not to betray her and thereby wins her gratitude. Monica tricks the sheriff and helps Mason to escape. Garland learns Monica's history from the sheriff, and is pleased to discover that she comes from a fine family. The sheriff tells him of Mason's unfortunate marriage. With Garland he goes back to Monica's cabin.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV.

The sheriff bent low and swept his sombrero to the ground. "First I want to apologize for my hasty words earlier in the evening, Miss Dale. I'd like mighty well to be forgiven. Of course, you had a cussin' coming to you, but if I'd been wise I wouldn't have cussed. It was right unmannerly of me."

"Don't apologize for making me laugh, Sheriff Bentley. It isn't often I have an opportunity to do that. In fact, it isn't often that I have the desire." Monica held out her hand, man-fashion, and the grateful sheriff grasped it.

"You been weeping, girl," he charged bluntly.

"Yes, about Bob. I can stand anything, except uncertainty. Did he get away all right?"

"We don't know, but the last seen of Bob Mason he was sittin' his horse and going hell-bent for the June-bug trail. He shot and killed Nott's horse, and Nott emptied his magazine at him. That's all we know except that Nott ought to be ashamed of himself for missing a target as big as a horse."

The girl turned grave but happy eyes on Deputy Sheriff Nott. "What was your horse worth, Mr. Nott?" she queried kindly.

"Well, I refused a hundred and fifty for him a week ago. I was askin' a hundred and sixty-five."

Monica went into her bedroom and returned presently with a hundred and sixty-five dollars in currency, which she handed the amazed deputy. "That isn't my money," she informed him, when he waved her hand aside. "It belongs to Bob Mason and I'm paying you for him. He wouldn't have killed your horse if he didn't have to. Evidently he could have killed you had he cared to. Bob Mason pays his way wherever he goes. Please take the money."

"Better take it, Nott," Bentley urged. "Remember, Mason left a two-dollar bill for the Indian whose dungarees he stole."

"Yes, take it," Garland urged also. "Miss Dale will feel much better about it if you do."

Mumbling his thanks in an embarrassed manner Deputy Sheriff Nott grudgingly accepted the money. "Seems like robbin' a lone, lorn woman," he declared.

Monica looked her three unbidden guests over with maternal solicitude. "Hungry, boys?"

"We're human vacuums," Sheriff Bentley declared.

"And another little drink wouldn't do us any harm," Deputy Sheriff Nott suggested slyly.

"So say we all of us, so say we all," Ranger Garland chanted.

Monica set glasses and the demijohn before her guests, tuned in the radio, and, leaving them to their own devices, departed for her kitchen to prepare their dinner. Immediately Garland examined the telephone and, as he had anticipated, discovered that the wires had been torn apart. It was a simple matter to strip off the insulation, twist the naked wires together and call up Ranger Headquarters.

The sheriff thereupon communicated his desires and plan of operation to the chief ranger. While he was talking Monica came to the door of her kitchen and stood listening. Her fine brows were drawn, and her equally fine eyes flashed at Tony Garland, who returned the challenge.

"It's a ranger's duty to mend a ruined Forest Service telephone whenever and whenever he finds it, Miss Dale," he reminded her. "Didn't you know your convict friend had just about jerked this phone out by the roots?" he added innocently.

A faint smile lighted Monica's features. "No, I didn't. I most certainly, didn't," she replied, and went back to her kitchen.

Garland followed her in. "I hope your friend Mason doesn't take the June-bug trail," he told her earnestly.

"Why this sudden access of sympathy, Tony?"

"Sheriff's been telling me about him, and it appears he isn't a half bad sort. Consequently, I'm not going to wear myself out trying to apprehend him, although if I run into him I'll do my best to turn him over to the sheriff. I cannot permit sympathy to cause me to forget my duty."

"You're going to make a hand some day," Monica declared, and set the coffee pot on the back of the stove to simmer. "Sheriff Bentley is another of those duty-bound idiots. In his heart of hearts he'd rather be bitten by a mad dog than catch Bob Mason, but since that's his job he's going to work at it with all the enthusiasm of his nature." She faced her visitor. "You don't suppose I'd consider setting canned peaches, ham steak, fried potatoes, hot biscuits, and coffee before you boys if I didn't respect you all, do you? I'd see you all starving to death otherwise."

The ranger did not doubt her assertion.

"Bob Mason isn't sufficiently unintelligent to take the June-bug trail, so do not worry," she counseled the ranger. "I'm not worried about him. I've fed him and rested him somewhat, he's supplied himself with a horse and a rifle, and I have no further interest in him except a sympathetic one. Of one thing you may rest assured. He'll never come to Bogus again to embarrass me."

"Somehow I do not think he will, Monica. I may still call you Monica, may I not?"

"Of course, Tony. Privilege of friends and neighbors."

When the trio had finished their dinner Monica accompanied them to the door and watched Sheriff Bentley climb aboard Ranger Garland's horse. "I suppose you're going to walk home?" she addressed the latter. He nodded. "You'll find my horse in the Barn. Saddle him and use him until I see you again, Sheriff, where's your horse?" she added mischievously.

"He's exhausted and dead lame. I left him tied to a tree up on the very top of Bogus. I must ride up and get him," Bentley lied with easy assurance.

"When you get him bring him down here and put him in my barn," the girl begged him. "I'll take care of him until you send for him. Meanwhile, Mr. Garland, you and Mr. Nott can mount double on my horse. I suppose you and Sheriff Bentley will pass the night at the Tantrum Meadows station," she added, turning to the deputy, who nodded agreement without taking the trouble to question Garland's hospitality.

Garland saddled Monica's horse, he and Nott mounted the wiry mountain animal, and with hearty good nights to the mistress of Bogus Lookout departed down the trail. Fifteen minutes later the sheriff reappeared and followed them.

"Close shave about that horse of mine, Miss Dale," he called to her as he passed. "Much obliged for making good on my lies. Any time I can return the favor call on me."

"There's only one favor you could do me. You can't do that and I wouldn't ask you. Good night, Sheriff."

KING FERDINAND IS MUCH BETTER

Prince Carol Is in France; Rumania Knows Nothing of His Moves

PARIS, April 5.—Improvement in the condition of King Ferdinand of Rumania was reported by his physicians, in a bulletin issued at Bucharest today. It was stated that his temperature was lower and unofficial reports said the attack of grippe from which he had been suffering for several days has become less acute.

Prince Carol remained tonight at his home at Neuilly, near Paris. He received several members of the Rumanian colony during the day, but no authorization came for him to enter Rumania and go to his father's bedside.

The Rumanian legation professes complete ignorance of the prince's movements and intentions.

BAD AS CHINA

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 5. — If "Uhmurisuh" doesn't look out, it will be as bad in China in speech, it is feared by Sir Richard Paget, British physicist, who has been studying Americans' speech. The 14 vowel sounds of the English language have been reduced at least half by slovenly diction, he says. He points out that ages of sliding over words have cut the Peking dialect to 500 words, each with 10 different meanings.

WINE IS WINE

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 5.—Federal Judge Hand has ruled that wine is wine and subject to seizure under the prohibition laws, even though it was simple grape juice when placed in the cellar. Possession of grape juice becomes unlawful whenever the liquor becomes intoxicating, whether through natural fermentation or otherwise, he said.

HANDED NEAT SUM

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., April 5.—A free distribution of money in the northern part of New York state is reported by a Northampton motorist, who says he received $200 of it.

Having run out of gas, the motorist hailed a truck which slowed down just enough to hand him an envelope and then sped on. The envelope, he said, contained $200. He believed his benefactor was a liquor runner from Canada.

Definitely Establish Identity as Lieut.-Col. Brown, Canadian

NEW YORK, April 5.—Officials of the British Great War Veterans' association stated today they have definitely established that the "John H. Brown," who committed suicide in his furnished room, where he was living in penurious circumstances, last Saturday, is Lieut.-Col. John Hector Innis Brown, D.S.O., former second in command of the 73rd battalion, the third unit of the Fifth Royal Highlanders (Black Watch) of Montreal, to be sent to France.

During the Boer war, Colonel Brown served with the 10th Imperial yeomanry as adjutant under his brother-in-law, Col. Sir Edward Robert Murray, commanding officer. Sir Robert and Lady Murray, the late Canadian officer's sister, are residents of New York, but knew nothing of Colonel Brown's poverty.

M'CARTHY CONFID ENT THAT CUBS WILL PLAY SPEEDY BRAND OF BALL

Team Has Been Strengthened in Spots Where Strength Has Been Needed—Pitching Is of First-Division Caliber

By STONEY McLINN

Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., April 4.—

JOE McCARTHY, starting his second campaign as director of play for the Chicago Cubs, is easily the most serene of all big league managers. He goes about his work systematically, measuring with surprising calmness the chances of his team in the coming National league pennant chase.

The Cub boss has all the enthusiasm he may need for the game and his particular job. But he indulges in no wild flights of optimism; neither does he permit himself to sink into the gloomy caverns of pessimism.

STONE McLINN

In the most dispassionate manner McCarthy said: "We have a better ball club than we had last year, and you will recall there was a mathematical chance of our winning the championship up till the last two weeks of the season."

No unnecessary adjectives or conjecture in that statement. Just a plain, matter-of-fact statement of what Joe McCarthy believes to be a fact. Chicago's Bruins may go far with that type of leader.

At the training base it does appear that the Cubs have been strengthened where strength was required—in outfielding and pitching departments. The 1926 infield was the steadiest in the league, defensively, and shattered all double-play records, which demonstrated uncommon skill.

But to get into this story properly, let's write into type, first off, that the Cubs of 1927 will be apportioned as follows Ten pitchers, three catchers, six infielders and six outfielders.

* * *

To build up his outfield so that it will satisfy him, McCarthy has six candidates on Catalina Island, so that all probably will be carried. It is a question which show the better all-around play in pennant contests.

* * *

Six Men for Outfied Berths

Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson and Floyd Scott, right-hand hitters, and Cliff Heathcote, Joe Kelly and Earl Webbb, left-handed club-swingers, are the garden candidates. This gives the Cubs an alternating outfield of more than passing power.

Wilson, who led the league in home runs last season; Stephenson, who had his batting spree checked by a leg injury in 1926, and Heathcote, a great ball hawk and base-runner whose batting average is not as high as McCathy would like to have it, are the "seniors" of the fly-chasing corps.

Webb appears to have the polish he lacked when he was up before. He batted .334 in the association last year and was said to be the "hardest" hitter in the league. He may be the long-looked-for "other Babe Ruth," as he also was a pitcher when he started baseball.

In addition to his powerful slugging and good judgment of fly balls, Webb has a throwing arm that tickles observers at the Chicago camp. That strong and accurate pegging may win him a job.

With the six athletes he has on the payroll the Cub boss may arrange an outfield that will slap apples at a better than .300 gait. And no matter which three start a game, there will be three first-class reservists on the bench.

* * *

The main excitement on the infield concerns one Elwood English, a shortstopper, who cost Mr. William Wrigley and associates $50,000 in money and three players. He came from Toledo.

* * *

English May Go Back for Seasoning

Jimmy Cooney was the regular shortstop last season, and his understudy was Clyde Beck. Both are classy defensive players, but do not break up many ball games with the lumber.

English, a 20-year-old boy, hit .301 in the association last season, and knows his stuff up there at the plate. His batting may win him the job, but McCarthy will wait another week before putting the O.K. on him. I suspect he will go back for more minor league labor.

Charley Grimm, captain and first baseman, is a fixture, regardless of the fact that "Senator" Tolson, his understudy, is a better hitter. Tolson probably will be kept around for pinch-hitting.

Sparky Adams will be the second-sacker and Howard Freigeu will be back at third. Harry Wilke, stockily built and with a rifle arm, who hit .350 for Asheville, has been giving Freigau real competition, but Howard is young and improving. This may be his big year.

Frankie Kern, a 22-year-old infielder, who swung a .347 bat for Okmulgee last campaign, is a pepper-box and impressive in practice. He probably will go back for seasoning.

The catching is no problem. Five are in camp—the three to be measured for the 1927 model flannels will be Mike Gonzales, Babby Hartnett and Jack Churry, all with the Cubs in 1926.

The Cuban, Gonzales, has caught better ball for the Cubs than he did for other big league clubs with which he was connected. He is showing fighting spirit that delights McCarthy.

* * *

Chicago's pitching staff looks GOOD, based on the improvement shown by youngsters in the September drive last year.

* * *

Bush and Osborn Show Improvement

Abe Bush and Bob Osborn, lanky right-hand kids who developed rapidly, through necessity, when Alexander was sent away last summer, appear to have come into their own. Both have about everything a curver needs and should be consistent winners.

Sheriff Blake is a fast ball pitcher with plenty of brains and is overcoming wildness that handicappped him last year. Charley Root, with a curve ball second to none, which he controls splendidly, and Tony Kaufmann, who had a bad arm last summer, are lads who should win.

Percy Jones, a southpaw with exceptional mechanical ability, will be the ace of the southpaw division. He will round out a staff of six regulars, as it looks now.

Among the rookies are these right-handers: Harry Grampp, from Petersburg, Va.; Joe Kaiser, former Fordham star and later with the Brooklyn Bushwicks; Lester Rouprich, from Gulfport, La.; Luther Roy, from New Orleans, and Jack Welch, with the club last year.

Jack Brillheart, once with the Washington Senators and last season toiling for Memphis, where he won 17 games; Gomer Wilson, a recruit from the Hamlin (Tex.) team, and Roy Hansen, a Chicago sandlotter, are the southpaw candidates.

Roy, who won 26 games last season and reminds one of Miner Brown, Chicago's pitching hero of yesteryear, with Grampp and Welch, are the right-handers most likely to be retained. Brillheart is certain to get a real tryout in Chicago.

* * *

An observer is inclined to risk the prediction that Chicago will have first-division pitching in the coming campaign. The Cubs need a little more punch to go with the good curving.

* * *

McCarthy Banks on Youth and Speed

Joe McCarthy is banking heavily on the youth and speed in his company. Only two of the candidates in camp are past the 30-year mark. They are Gonzales and Adams.

Big league pastiming is not new to the athletes who are to be regulars in the important positions. Every man who is counted on has had experience in the majors—19 of them wore Chicago uniforms last season.

As the Cub pilot put it, "The boys in our team know what it's all about." There has been little need of drilling them in the fundamentals.

The one thing Joe McCarthy demands of a ball player is "plugging," It is the word he uses continually in talking about baseball and his team.

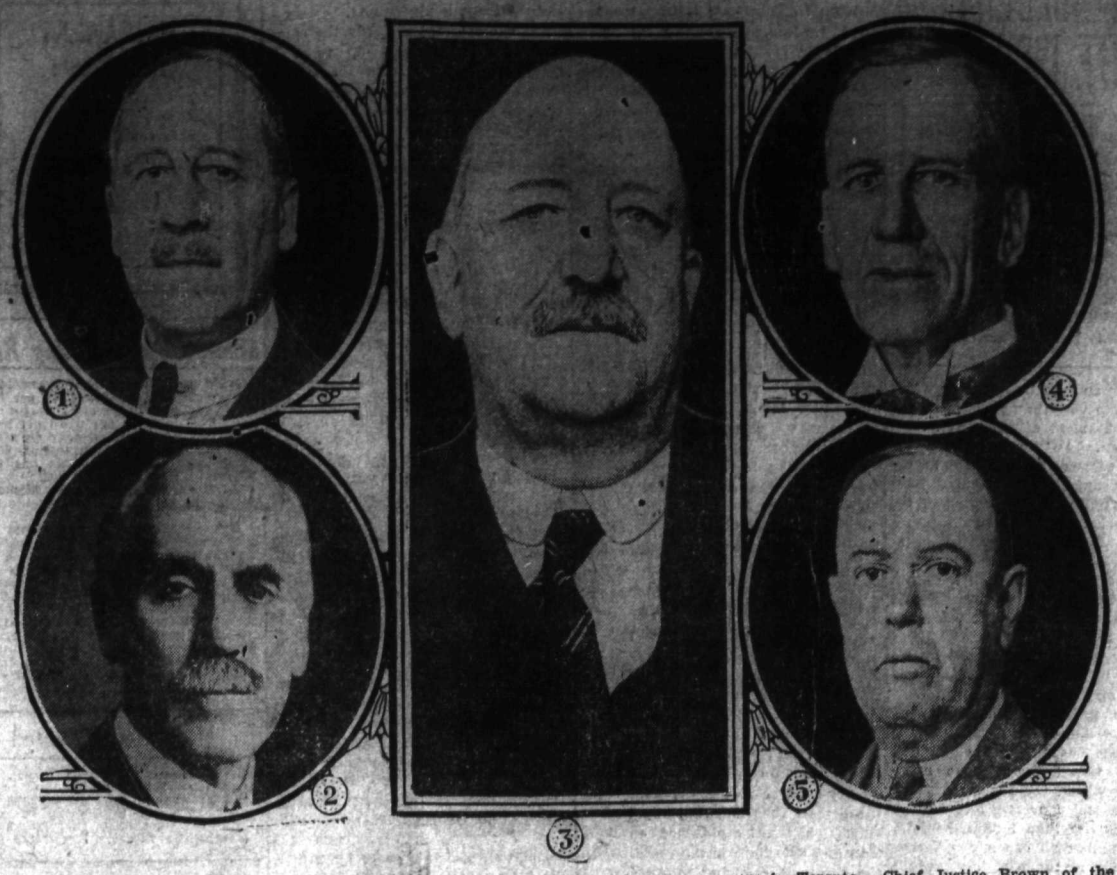
When Joe bossed the Louisville Colonels his team became famous because he had the boys "plugging." Last fall the Cubs provided the late-season sensation of the National league pennant race because they "plugged."

While I do not see the Cubs as pennant winners this year—not with Giants, Reds and Pirates to beat to the finish line—Chicago has a young ball club with a smart, aggressive manager, and will make a lot of trouble along the pathway.

* * *

A young club like the Cubs, with a manager like McCarthy, may well be called a "dark horse." They may surprise and confound the prognosticators this very year. (StoneyMcLinn will write about the National League pennant prospects tomorrow.)

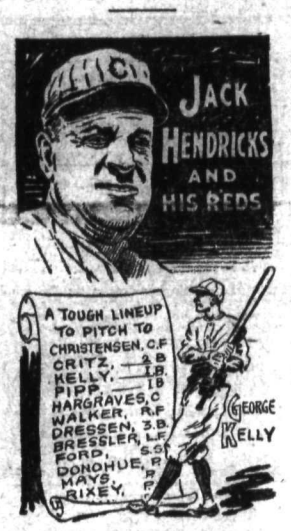
ARE SITTING IN ONTARIO



The royal commission investigating customs conditions throughout Canada are now in Toronto. Chief Justice Brown of the King's Bench, Saskatchewan, shown in the layout above, No. 4, is the chairman of the commission. Associated with him are Hon. Ernest Roy, justice of the supreme court for Quebec district, No. 1, and Mr. Justice Wright of the supreme court of Ontario, No. 3. Acting as counsel for the commission are the Hon. Newton W. Rowell, K.C., shown above in No. 2, and R. L. Calder, K.C., shown in No. 5. The commission next goes to Montreal and from there to the maritimes.

SPORTS

Red Peril Recognized in National



By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Jack Hendricks told me last year that if Horace Ford had been playing shortstop for the Reds one month earlier in the campaign he would have won the National league pennant by five games. This year he starts the season with Ford and with the addition of George Kelly, a more versatile ball player than Eddie Roush.

The Reds lost last year's pennant by an eyelash and this year must be given at least an even chance with the Giants, Pirates and Cardinals for annexing the rag.

The Cincinnati Club is not only strong in every position, but possesses an unusually good pitching staff, and pitching is the biggest deciding factor in winning pennants.

In addition to their natural mechanical skill the Reds are what McGraw calls a "cagey" ball club; in other words, a smart ball club that is always trying to outsmart and out-think the other club, and when necessary sacrificing individual brilliancy for the common good of the entire club.

Kelly will probably start the season at first base unless through injuries or for other reasons he is needed at second base or in the outfield, in which case Wally Pipp will play the initial sack.

Outside of the Giants I can't see any club in the league that figures "on paper" to beat them.

Jimmy McLarnin Wins Over Callo in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, April 5. — Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, B.C., lightweight, was awarded the decision over Tommy Colla, San Francisco Italian, after a 10-round encounter here tonight.

FONTAINE PUTS HARMS TO SLEEP

Winnipeg Middler Wins in the Fifth; Californian Floored Twice

PORTLAND, Ore., April 5. — Del Fontaine, Winnipeg middleweight, knocked out Illy Harms, Los Angeles, in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round battle here tonight, after having floored the California fighter twice previously.

Fontaine lost the first two rounds of the event by a shade, then came back and met a furious, deadly onslaught launched by Harms in the third round and beat his opponent down by outboxind and outpunching him.

Springfield Indians Beat London, First Game Minor Series

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 5. — The Springfield Indians emerged from the first of their three-game series with London, Ont., Prodgers tonight with a two-goal lead for the mythical minor league championship of the hockey world. A record crowd of 5000 saw the London team stage a strong comeback in the final period, after Springfield had piled up a 3-to-0 advantage. The final score was 3 to 1. "Clucker" Whyte, of the Indians, was the star of the contest, scoring twice on spectacular shots in the second period. The teams meet again here Thursday night.

Two Knockouts Are Boxing Features in Calgary Amateur Show

CALGARY, April 5.—Two knockouts and one technical knockout featured the final program of the Alberta amateur boxing championships here today. Calgary had the lion's share of honors, winning 10 championships, while five went to Edmonton, three to Medicine Hat and two to Cardston.

The most sensational feature of the high-class program was a knockout scored by E. Szuch, of Edmonton, in winning the novice featherweight championship.

E. Van Nelson, in defeating V. Renlund of Calgary, took both the novice middleweight and novice light-heavyweight championships to Edmonton.

Will Train in Boston, Where the Annual Event Will Be Run

HALIFAX, April 5.—Johnny Miles of Sydney Mines, world champion marathon runner, traveled down through Nova Scotia today to Yarmouth, where he embarked for Boston to train for the thirty-first annual marathon race to be held there on April 19.

The journey today developed into a triumphant march. At Windsor, Kentville, Digby and Yarmouth, points where his train made stops of several minutes, he was greeted by delegates of civic officials and athletic organizations, bearing gifts of money to aid him in meeting his training expenses, and addresses of appreciation and good wishes.

Included in the baggage which accompanied Miles and his parents today was a case of 24 loaves of bread, sealed in tin containers and a quantity of eggs. Mrs. Miles will personally attend to Johnny's diet.

GEORGE FIFIELD WINS ON FOUL

McVey, Negro, Disqualified for Hitting Low in the Second

NEW YORK, April 5.—George Fifield, Canadian welterweight, won a foul in the second round of his scheduled 10-round bout here tonight with Jack McVey, New York, negro.

Fifield complained to the referee of low hitting by McVey in the first round. After two minutes and 14 seconds of the second round, he slipped to the canvas upon receiving a low blow from the negro. The referee allowed the claim to foul and disqualified McVey. Fifield weighed 154, and McVey 151.

AMENDMENT ON THE CONFERENCE REPORT BEATEN

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Refuses to Withdraw It When Premier Requests It

DIVISION SHOWS MAJORITY AGAINST OF FORTY-FOUR

OTTAWA, April 5.—By 122 to 78—a majority against of 44—the house of commons today rejected the amendment on the imperial conference report proposed by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, leader of the Conservative opposition. With this division ended the long debate on the report of the interimperial relations committee of the imperial conference—the report which formally recognised equality of status as between the dominions and the mother country.

The amendment was, viz: Not to give formal approval to the report, but to a motion to go into supply. And when the amendment had been defeated Premier King rose and, announcing that the purpose of the supply motion being to afford opportunity to discuss the report, he would now withdraw the motion.

The Amendment

Mr. Guthrie's amendment stipulated that the house should not be deemed tacitly to have acquiesced in the declarations and recommendations of the report; that the declarations and recommendations should not be binding upon parliament until approved by formal resolution; that no amendments affecting provincial rights should be procured to the B.N.A. act, to give effect to the report unless first approved by the legislature of each of the provinces.

Closing the debate, Premier King appealed to Mr. Guthrie to withdraw his amendment and not divide the house upon this question of imperial unity as it comes to us from the imperial conference. In turn Mr. Guthrie declined to withdraw the amendment, declaring that he believed the amendment to be right in principle, that it would be found right in practice and would be adopted sooner or later.

On their amendment, Conservatives had the support of Messrs. Lucas, Campbell, Kellner and Carmichael of the U.F.A., and Messrs. Evans and Fansher (Last Mountain), Progressives; Liberal-Progressives voted with the Liberals against. Also voting against were Messrs. Spencer, Gardiner, Garland (Bow River), Kennedy, Jelliff, Luchkovitch of the U.F.A.; Messrs. Woodsworth, Heaps and Adshead, Labor, and Neill, Independent.

Says Misguided

In closing the debate Premier King dealt sharply with opposition members, who, he claimed, had misrepresented his statements in regard to the imperial conference, particularly the speech of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative leader, who had said the premier misquoted his statements unfairly.

The Conservative leader had sought to make it appear that he (the prime minister) was claiming that a new liberty had been attained at the conference and would therefore rank alongside the other great charters of British history.

"What I did say, was that no new rights had been obtained," said Premier King, adding that what the report did was to state clearly the rights that the dominions already felt they possessed.

Have Political Motives

Premier King also took objection to statements which he said had been made that there were some dominions at the conference seeking to separate from the Empire and the inference that he was aiding them to get away. Such statements, he said, had political motives. He also denied that the Canadian delegation had failed to cooperate in the securing of unity in the Empire. Some sections of the Empire had come to the conference with feelings of dissatisfaction, but the minute the declaration of equality of status was made, he went on, agitation along this line began to subside. He mentioned South Africa and the Irish Free State and said that at the conclusion of the conference these dominions were "proud to remain in the Empire."

Commenting on criticism that the report of the Imperial conference had not been submitted to parliament for approval, he said, in explaining the change from the first announced plan of placing it before parliament, that he had been desirous of avoiding anything of a "partisan point of view," or of a controversial nature, with respect to such an important conference.

"Is Canada going to be the first part of the British Empire to divide," he said. "To divide on a matter which was one of unanimity at the great Imperial conference?"

A request had been made at the Imperial conference for cooperation with the British government with regard to mking a test of aerial navigation for commercial purposes between parts of the British Empire. Representatives of Canada had given their assurance that parliament would be asked to vote the necessary money for establishment of a mooring mast in Canada. An item covering the building of such a mast was in the estimates, and parliament would have the opportunity of disaproving of the appropriation if it so desired.

Replies to Cahan

The prime minister then referred to the criticism of C. H. Cahan, Conservative, St. Lawrence - St. George, which, he declared, was abusive to the prime minister.

"I am very sorry if the prime minister took that view of my remarks," said Mr. Cahan.

Continuing, Mr. King said the members opposite could heap all the abuse they desired on the premier, but that wasn't the way to make for unity within the Empire.

No man had a greater love for the British Empire than I have, he said, and added that no one had a keener appreciation of the part it played in the development of peace, good will and progress.

Not Playing Part

The premier warned the house that if abuse were to be heaped upon ministers of the crown for their actions at Imperial conferences, it would become increasingly difficult to get the ministers to attend.

"Every single man who seeks to make party gain out of an Imperial question," concluded the premier, "is not playing the part of a true citizen or patriot."

During the debate this afternoon, Conservative criticism of the report came from H. C. Hocken, Toronto, West Center, and G. R. Geary, Toronto South. Mr. Hocken declared the prime minister had brought back no solution of the inter-Imperial trade, inter-Imperial defence and immigration problems. He thought it was the duty of every part of the Empire to contribute toward defence, and declared it was humiliating for Canada to be dependent upon the United States for protection.

He objected to the policy of immigration applying only to farm workers. Every British settler in good health and able to take his place in the economic life of Canada should be brought in.

Mr. Geary declared the report of the conference gave Canada no new freedom which she had not possessed for years. He emphasized the advantages to this country to being part of the British Empire, and argued that Canada should bear her share of the responsibilities.

Continuing, Mr. Geary said he was not like some of his honorable friends who distrusted Imperialism and who perhaps would not "deny allegiance to the Communist party."

SHAREHOLDERS VOTE ISSUE TO FINANCE MILL

and thereby enabling the management to form a more intelligent estimate as to milling facilities ultimately required to take full advantage of its earning power.

Mill Now Justified

"The time has now arrived, in the opinion of the management, when the company is fully justified in providing capital for the installation of a modern, thoroughly equipped and large capacity mill of its own, located at the most advantageous point possible. This decision is amply sustained by the present ore resources of the mine, as a result of recent development work.

"This decision is further reinforced by several competent, independent engineers, who after a thorough examination of the mine, and analysis of present operating conditions, recommend that the site for this mill be selected at the mine itself, and that an initial capacity be provided sufficient to handle from 150 to 200 tons daily. A material reduction in both freight and milling costs will thus be assured, and which have heretofore operated so seriously against the company.

"Further corroboration of this plan will be found in the accompanying report by Lakes & Lakes, who estimate that on a basis of 150 tons daily a saving of $2.90 per ton (mine run can be effected by installing the mill at the mine. This saving alone would repay the cost of such a mill within a year's time.

Higher Extraction Possible

"Mr. W. L. Zeigler, mill expert of the Hecla Mining company, has been retained by our company to design the new mill and supervise its construction. Mr. Zeigler has already made a series of laboratory tests of Lucky Jim ores, with very satisfactory results. We are assured from these tests that a materially higher extraction can be obtained on both lead and zinc than is now possible at the Trail plant, owing to the lessened efficiency experienced by the latter plant in treating small lots of a wide variety of ores from different shippers. The removal of this handicap, combined with the saving in freight and milling costs referred to herein, should not only make it possible for our company to materially increase its profits on the present grade of ore mined, but at the same time permit the treatment of a large tonnage of lower grade ores expressed in the mine, at a substantial profit.

"Before arriving at the decision to build a new mill careful consideration was also given to reconditioning the old Rosebery mill owned by the company, but owing to its distance from the mine and consequent freight rate of 60 cents a ton, it was not considered economical to resume operations at this plant, to say nothing of the additional investment required to place it in proper condition to handle a large output. As a result, this plant, which was purchased at an inside figure, will be leased or disposed of as soon as an opportunity presents itself. We are assured that no loss will be suffered on this investment."

The president's report, in reviewing development work, states work on No. 3 level was confined principally to extraction of ore, the Larson stope, carried above the level, having shown considerable expansion both east and west.

A big development of the year was the opening of a new ore body on No. 4 level, and its proving for over 350 feet easterly. Crosscuts suggest it also goes westerly for 250 feet, making an ore body at least 500 feet on that level, with a width of from three to 20 feet and probably averaging eight feet.

On No. 5 level seemingly the same ore body was disclosed, when a raise was put up, from the top of which a crosscut was made to the footwall side, revealing a 25-foot width of ore.

Operations were resumed on No. 510 ore body, in the old section of the mine, lying in the main fracture, and an extension of it was found by penetrating the hanging wall side on the sill floor. In this extension from 30 to 50 feet of ore of a higher average than in the mine generally is exposed, and has been drifted on at intervals for 150 feet.

Add to Claims

No. 6 level, the lowest of the mine, was not touched by the year's development, but work is now under way in exploring the lime bed, in which occurs a series of ore-bearing fractures developed in the areas above, with the first object of catching the downward continuation of No. 510 stope ore body as above. This level is 1700 feet from the surface, on the dip of the ore.

The company has acquired six additional claims, located to protect the downward continuation of the favorable limestone belt, bringing its holdings to 575 acres.

TORONTO, April 5.—Another ruler was dethroned tonight at Varsity arena, when Paterson's Pats, 1926 champions, and this year's Toronto winners, were forced to bow before the girls representing the Ottawa Rowing club, in the final round of the Ladies' Ontario Hockey association championship. Although the locals won tonight's game by 2 to 0, the 3 to 0 score the scullers secured in Ottawa last week gave them the majority of goals and the championship.

RAILS GO AHEAD AT NEW YORK

Steel in New High; Motors Rally to Record; Industrials Generally Gain

NEW YORK, April 5. — Resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market sent a select group of leading industrials and a wide assortment of rails to record high levels.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent as against 4½ per cent yesterday, and was in plentiful supply at that figure.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

United States Steel common moved within a range of 1 point, but it touched another new high record for all time at 170¾. General Motors rallied over 4 points, to a new record price of 183½ for the present stock. Other industrials to sell at their highest prices since 1925, or longer, were Dupont, Fleischmann, Freeport, Allis Chalmers, All America Cables, Burroughs Adding Machines, Teas and Remington Typewriter.

The average of the rails touched the highest level since 1908.

Buying centered largely on the low-priced issues, with the Erie, St. Pauls, Kansas City Southern, Western Maryland second preferred, Peoria and Eastern, Mobile and Northern, all in new high ground. Pennsylvania and Union Pacific sold at their highest prices in years.

Pan-American Petroleum issues sank to new low levels for the year, but several of the other oils were bid up.

Total sales—2,614,700 shares.

ROYALTY OF YESTERDAY AND TODAY

A comparative study in the children of royalty. Who would have thought, for instance, that at the time the photo on the right was taken the handsome little boy on the extreme left would gain fame through his propensity for falling off horses in steeplechase races? Left to right, none other than the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, Prince Henry, and the Duke of York—all children of King George and Queen Mary of England. But years pass and so in the illustration on the left is given the latest photograph of Princess Mary's children, the Hon. George Henry Hubert Lascelles, 4 years old, and Hon. Gerald David Lascelles, made at Golds borough, the Yorkshire home of Princess Mary.

SUN LIFE BILL IS TALKED OUT

Measure Deals With Capital Stock, Profit Reductions, Directors

OTTAWA, April 5.—A bill respecting the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada was talked out in the house of commons tonight. The measure declares the capital stock of the company to be $4,000,000 so as to remove any doubt which may have arisen by reason of any legislation. It further provides for the issue of Class B stock, to be subject to a "permanent voting trust in favor of the directors then in office." Two other provisions in the bill provide for certain percentage reductions in the profits accruing to shareholders, and also that two-thirds of the directors must be residents of Canada.

FISHER MAIDEN IN GOOD ORE

Native Silver Struck; Car of Clean Ore Ready to Ship

SILVERTON, B.C., April 5.—George Long, Nat Tucker and Charles Barber, who have been developing the Fisher Maiden on Four-Mile creek for some months past, under lease and bond from a Spokane company, have a foot of clean high-grade galena carrying native silver in lower No. 4 tunnel now in about 400 feet. Drifting has been carried on for 40 feet, with ore continuing in face. A car of clean ore will be shipped Trail smelter soon as the roads clear up.

TECK HUGHES IS STRONG FEATURE

Gains Ten Cents; Amulet and Area Sell Higher; Central Manitoba Stronger

TORONTO, April 5. — Teck Hughes was the strongest feature in the trading on the Standard Mining exchange today, selling up from $6.70 to a new high level at $6.89, and closing with a gain of 10c for the day at $6.80. Lake Shore was strong, advancing 10c, to $18.50.

Both Amulet and Area sold higher among the Quebec issues, the former advancing 3½c, to 95, and the latter 3c, to 31.

Central Manitoba was again stronger, advancing 3c, to $10.24. Pioneer sold as high as $1.04, and closed with a gain of 1c, at $10.02.

Mining Corporation was the firmest feature among the silvers, selling up from $3.29 to $3.33, and closing with a gain for the day of 3c, at $3.30.

The world's thinnest watch has been invented in France. By eliminating the hands, the hour is marked by a revolving dial, making it easier to tell the time. The inventor further claims that by dispensing with the mechanism which moved the hands it has been possible to make a more delicate and accurate timepiece.

Mongoos is a small animal found chiefly in India. It feeds upon rats, mice, and other vermin, and is the determined enemy of reptiles. The mongoos fearlessly attacks the largest snakes, and displays great ability in avoiding their fangs. The mongoos kills them by biting them through the back of the neck.

PEKING BATTLE WILL BE TEST ON CANTONESE

Question Is Will Propaganda Used So Far Have Same Results

BRITISH BELIEVE IT WILL BE SUCCESSFUL

Methods Used Patterned After Russians, but to Better Advantage

LONDON, April 5.—The sporadic outbreaks of terrorist methods reported in widely-separated points in China, north of the Yangtse river, is felt here to indicate that the Cantonese vanguard of "expert intimidators" is pushing on toward Peking, in preparation for the next big military phase of the ever-changing Chinese war situation.

Authoritative advices received in London indicate that the coming conflict between the victorious Cantonese and the well-disciplined troops of the Manchurian war loard, Marshal Chang Tso Lin, will be a supreme test of the Cantonese propaganda methods which have attracted much attention.

The Cantonese already have swept over half of China and have captured Shanghai without fighting a single battle, and Marshal Chang's troops are the only serious barrier between them and the northern capital, Peking.

Better Methods

British officials believe that the Cantonese have patterned their propaganda methods after the Russians, and have even bettered them in preparing the path for the peaceful advance of the Cantonese army.

The advance guards of small groups of spies, secret service men and plain clothes men, is reported filtering through the northern lines to organize small bodies of Cantonese sympathizers and to gain control of the various labor unions.

Agitators address crowds and stir up huge demonstrations. Reports received here state that wherever opposition develops, the "expert intimidators" work upon their fellow countrymen's fear of personal injury. If necessary, gunmen institute campaigns of terrorism, picking off men marked as being foreign running dogs.

Will Tso Lin Fall

British officials expressed doubt as to whether the Cantonese propaganda will have such speedy success against Marshal Chang Tso Lin, whose troops are advancing toward the south, with Hankow, the headquarters of the Cantonese, as their far-distant objective. Already, however, there are rumors here of a secret agreement with the Cantonese.

It is stated in official circles that there is not the slightest possibility of Great Britain supporting Chang Tso Lin, or otherwise aiding any of the Chinese leaders in the civil strike.

FERTILIZER AND SEED MOVEMENT MUCH HEAVIER

Sales Increase With Opening Up of Spring; Hay and Feed More Active

FLOUR, SUGAR, OATS MARKET IS STEADY

Importations From East Likely to Go Up Account of the Chinese Situation

With the opening up of spring, seeds and fertilizers have become probably the most active commodities on the wholesale market. Hay and feed houses report heavy movement in these lines since the beginning of the month. Hay and feed sales have also picked up lately.

Among the vegetables there are few changes, the market having steadied. Locally grown vegetables are the exception rather than the rule, potatoes being about the only local variety still on the market. It is expected California asparagus will arrive about the end of the week.

Staple Groceries Steady

Flour, sugar and rolled oats are steady, as are nearly all groceries. Walnuts and similar imported lines from the east are experiencing slight advances due, it is said, to the Chinese trouble.

There is little change in the fruit market, prices and sales in all lines showing little tendency to change.

American Relations Foundation Incorporated in Bill Before House

OTTAWA, April 5.—A bill incorporating the North American relations foundation, with a capitalization of $1,250,000, for the purpose of "promoting, maintaining and safeguarding international amity and friendly relations between the people of the United States of America and Canada and the British commonwealth of nations generally," was reported by the private bills committee of the house today. Men of international standing on either side of the boundary are connected with the foundation.

Escorial, or Escurial, is the name of the palace of the king of Spain. It is situated among the hills, 50 miles northwest of Madrid, the Spanish capital. In its wind-swept situation it has an austere appearance. It was built by Philip II., the king who sent the Armada against England, and who cruelly persecuted the people of Holland.

CASE OF CANAL PROMOTERS IS GIVEN HOUSE

Harry Sifton Suggests Amendments Regarding Bill for Georgian Bay Canal

IF BILL KILLED IT MEANS END OF PROJECT

Would Have Majority of Directors Canadian; No Exportation Power

OTTAWA, April 5.—The case of the promoters of the Georgian Bay Canal scheme was presented to the house railway committee today by Harry Sifton. He suggested that before the bill was finally passed upon that amendments should be made providing:

1. That until through navigation is established from the Georgian bay to Montreal all the revenues of the company derived from waterfalls or heads for water power, should be devoted exclusively to the work authorized.

2. That the majority of the directors should be natural born or naturalized subjects and situated in Canada.

3. That there should be no exportation of hydraulic or electrical power developed by the scheme.

"In addition to these amendments," Mr. Sifton said, "there is one other ambiguity which should be cleared up. The clause in the charter dealing with the approval of plans by the government should be amended so that the plans should be approved in three stages. First, a general route plan showing the general location of the canal, should be submitted and approved.

Two Sources of Attack

"Second, a sketch plan showing the location of lot sites, power houses and other permanent works should be submitted and approved.

Third, actual working plans showing in detail the work immediately to be engaged upon."

There had been two sources of attack upon the bill. The first came from those members who have very strong views in favor of what was known as public ownership. Mr. Sifton added that there was no issue between public and private ownership in the matter. To kill the bill, he went on, would be definitely to give up the idea of canalizing the Ottawa river, either by public or private methods for good and always.

W. Sifton, vice-president of the company, then gave the evidence. He proceeded to analyze the charter pointing to the safeguards to the public and contended that the proposed amendments met most of the published objections to the bill.

Australian Radio Fans View Portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Nelson

Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Third street, Fairview, represent Canada-to-Australia radio fans now. A flashlight photograph of them, taken by their 8-year-old son, Albert, shortly after they had heard an entire program from station 2BL, Sydney, early in the winter, embellishes the 140-page official program of the radio and electrical exhibition, February 23 to March 5, 1927, held in the town hall at Sydney.

The underlining beneath the picture reads: "Mr. and Mrs. Brown, sitting beside their wireless set on which they receive 2BL at their home in Nelson, British Columbia, Canada."

The 1000th anniversary of Iceland will be celebrated in 1930. The little country has 50 flourishing savings banks.

TRADE BOARD AT KIMBERLEY TALKS ROADS

Clean-up Day Urged; Prepare for Annual Meeting of Boards

KIMBERLEY, B.C., April 5. — An important meeting of the Kimberley board of trade took place on Monday evening and was well attended. A. R. Lilly presided. George Griffith, local road foreman, gave assurance that several matters in connection with roads would have attention. He advised that the proposal to have some creeks filled in should be brought to the attention of the minister of lands at Victoria. The board also expressed a desire to ascertain how much money will be available for work on the improvement of the McGinty trail, Kimberley's outlet to the Windermere road.

Sanitary matters, particularly the annual cleanup and disposal of rubbish, were dealt with. Progress was reported by the library committee. The school board, under whose direction the taxation levy for the district is made, will be interviewed in regard to the basis of assessment for taxation purposes, which it is felt falls somewhat unfairly on the man in business with a stock in trade.

It was also decided to approach Hon. Dr. King to ascertain if the vote for a Dominion government building in Kimberley will be given effect this year. A committee of three, Messrs. Summers, Shannon and Booth, was also named to draw up resolutions for presentation to the forthcoming board of trade convention of eastern British Columbia.
