Second game—Fort William, 4; Trail, 1.
The round—Fort William, 8; Trail, 3.

Official Statistics

First period—1, Fort William, Cook, 6:10.
Penalties—Cook, Davis (2), Reddick.
Second period—2, Fort William, Davis, 18:57.
Penalties—Cook, McLeod, Hanson, Hacquoil.
Third period—3, Fort William, Ward, 2:45; 4, Fort William, Cook, 7:14; 5, Trail, Kendall, 1:32.
Penalties—Wheatley, Wheatley.

VANCOUVER, March 21.—Superior in every department of play, Fort William's entry into the Allan cup chase downed Trail, British Columbia champions, 4 to 1 in the second and deciding battle, thereby winning the round 8 goals to 3. The winners will tackle Varsity Grads of Toronto in the final for the silverware here Friday night, in the first of a best-out-of-three argument. Grads are expected to reach the city tomorrow.

Fort William's victory proved an expensive one, for they have lost the services of Pettinger, their crack center, who retired after about three minutes of play with a broken wrist which will keep him out of the game for at least two months. He collided with Kendall in center ice and the latter was cut about the head.

REDDICK OUT

Two other players were injured in the battle, which, while not marked by foul play, was strenuous throughout. Reddick, Trail defence star, was hit over the head by Cook in center ice and had to be carried off. Davis collided with Wheatley in the third canto, and although he lost a molar, returned to the fray.

Bobby Genge had a tough assignment on his hands, and although there was tripping and hooking galore, he got by fairly well. At least he gave both teams a fair shake and called 'em as he saw them. He did not see Reddick knocked out. Although Cook was roundly razzed after his stick stretched Reddick out, it certainly appeared that the blow was purely accidental. Cook has not a reputation for dirty play.

BEST TEAM WINS

Trail was beaten by a far better team. The Smoke Eaters, however, were full of fight and never stopped trying. Where the "Thundering Herd" had it on them was after their forwards had crossed the blue line. Cook, Ward and McLeod gave magnificent displays of stick-handling and brilliant skating. Trail drew only one penalty against Forts' three in the opening frame. Fort William repeatedly sent only one man to the attack and met the Trail rushes at the blue line. Pettinger retired earlier in the play with an injured wrist.

Trail forced the play at the start of the second and Kendall's shot came within an ace of registering. Jackson saved a hot one from Cook, who was right on top of him. On the very next play he beat a three-man attack after his codefenders had opened up like a sieve. Reddick was carried off when hit by Cook's flying stick at center ice. Davis scored the only goal of the period on a solo rush to the goal mouth. He went unchecked from end to end.

Jackson Is Bright

Jackson continued his flashy work in the third session when he beat Macquoil at the goal mouth. On the next play, however, the same player went in with Ward and the former scored a pretty goal. Hanson was

Lawyers Seek Definite Ruling on Section of Legal Professions Act

VANCOUVER, March 21.—Definite ruling by the court of appeal in regard to what is known at section 30 of the Legal Professions act, is being sought today in an argument which J. W. Deb Farris, K.C., is appearing for the attorney-general, and Martin Griffin for the Law society.

Section 100 specifically provides for lawyers to make contracts with their clients for receiving a proportion of the proceeds of judgments, and was enacted by the late Joseph Martin when attorney-general. This section has attacked a few years ago, but no definite ruling has been obtained since, with the result that the provision has been in doubt on the matter.

South Vancouver Boys Given Unique Sentence When Guilty of Theft

VANCOUVER, March 21. — Two South Vancouver boys and the parents were somewhat surprised when the new magistrate, Paul McD. Kerr, ordered the youths to attend church at least once each Sunday, to write out certain plain truths 20 times each week, and show them to Chief Constable A. Grundy; to be at home by 10 o'clock each night, except on one night when they may, if their parents' consent, attend a picture show. The boys were guilty of theft.

MANSON DENIES INFLUENCED BY THE BREWERIES

Says on Other Hand Brewers Dislike Him; Patterson Also on Stand

VICTORIA, March 21.—Emphatic denial that they had been influenced in the performance of their duties by any political campaign contributions from brewers or others interested in the liquor business, was given by Hon. A. M. Manson, attorney-general, and James Paterson, government purchasing agent, in testifying before the royal commission investigating political campaign funds in this province, at their session here today.

Hon. Mr. Manson said that he had never promised that if campaign funds were given by brewers, the donors would receive certain advantages. Such assurances could not have been given by any other member of the government effectively without him knowing it. "I think the brewers would have done much to have got me out of the government at one time, for I have been unsparing with them," he said.

Never Received Gift

Mr. Paterson told the commission that no contribution from brewers had ever influenced his conduct in purchasing liquors for the government, and that he had neither received personally any contribution, present or gift from the brewers.

Mr. Manson told of difficulties with the brewers which he had met with since the Liquor Control act came into force, and repeated arguments over prices, which at one time, he said, led him to move for the government to take over the breweries of the provinces. Instead of 11 breweries operating, demand could be met by three, he told the commissioners.

'Crying Room' Is the Latest in the Movie House Construction

PORT HURON, Mich., March 21. —A "crying room" is the latest innovation to make its appearance here by a movie theater recently opened. When mothers with babies attend the shows and the infants start to cry, the mothers can take them into the "crying room," the stage side of which is of glass. There, in comfort, and without annoyance to other patrons, the mothers can enjoy the show.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 21. — Welcomed by Lieut.-Gov. T. A. Burrows of Manitoba, Mrs. Burrows and by representatives of the city and the army, Their Excellencies Governor-General and Lady Willingdon reached this city this afternoon over the lines of the C.P.R. After brief greetings were exchanged, their excellencies were taken for a motor drive around the city and left again on their way to Vancouver and Victoria at 5:30.

'PEACHES' LOSES CASE, ALIMONY AND ALL, COURT

Judgement Favors Browning; "Falsified and Exaggerated"; Too Much Says Judge

CARMEL, N.Y., March 21. — In a scathing denunciation of the evidence offered by the defendant and her mother, who, he declared, had "falsified and exaggerated to such an extent as to render their testimony ineffectual," Supreme Court Justice Seeger today granted Edward W. Browning New York real estate man, a separation from his wife, the former Frances Peaches Heenan.

The judgment read:

"The plaintiff is entitled to a judgment of separation from bed and board forever," and along with this went Peaches' $300 a week alimony. The alimony ceases automatically.

President Coolidge Favors Suggestion of Open Naval Discussion

LONDON, March 21.—W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty, tonight told the commons that President Coolidge had accepted a British suggestion that the forthcoming three-power naval conference at Geneva should be an open one, in which any of the countries represented might discuss any method it thought might reduce armaments. Mr. Bridgeman made the statement in the course of debate on naval disarmaments in the house.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE WORK TO AVERT WAR

Balkan Troubles Loom Up Again; Italians Charge Jugo Slavs Mobilizing

OTHER QUARTERS LAY BLAME ON ITALIANS

State Are Seeking to Satisfy "Adriatic Ambitions"; Not Want League Interference

LONDON, March 21.—European diplomacy today was nervously engaged in the task of averting trouble, perhaps war, in the Balkans, which it has been feared might arise ever since the conclusion of the treaty of Tirana between Italy and Albania.

The Italian protests to Belgrade against alleged military preparations aimed at Albania have drawn denials from the Jugo Slav governments, by denials both in Belgrade and Geneva. The Jugo Slav government also has invited the military attaches of the powers to ascertain the truth of the Italian charges for themselves.

In some quarters the suspicion has been advanced that Italy is seeking a pretext to satisfy her "Adriatic ambitions."

Exchange Confidences

Great Britain and France are said to be actively exchanging confidences how to avert the threatened trouble, Germany apparently is carefully keeping aloof.

A dispatch from Rome tonight said Italy regards with extreme disfavor any proposal to place the present situation before the council of the League of Nations. Invoking the intervention of the league, it was asserted in Rome, not only would be an unnecessary aggravation of the Italian-Jugo Slav situation but would be an unwelcome internationalization of a problem which is considered purely local.

Despite official denials, Rome newspapers continue to publish sensational dispatches from Scutari, Albania of alleged agitation toward revolt there by the Jugo Slavs.

RIDLEY COLLEGE SCENE OF FIRE

Students File Out and Then Turn to Combat Flames; Damage $3000

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., March 21. —Fire, which broke out this evening in the maids' quarters at the upper school, Ridley college, was confined to its place of origin, the damage being small. A general alarm was turned in and after 40 minutes of fighting the firemen had the blaze under control. The pupils were in their class rooms at the time of the outbreak and filed out without confusion.

After walking out of the building the students formed a fire brigade which did good work before the arrival of the firemen.

Three students in a sick room near the fire were carefully removed as soon as the blaze was discovered. The damage to the building will be about $3000.

RECTOR DIES

KINGSTON, Ont., March 21.—Rev. Canon W. F. Fitzgerald, rector of St. Paul's Anglican church here for the past 20 years died here today, following a lengthy illness.

Lord Willingdon Was 'in Bad' But Apparently With His Lady This Time

WINNIPEG, March 21.—His Excellency Lord Willingdon, governor-general of Canada, had an anxious moment here today. He kept his special train waiting while he and Lady Willingdon, accompanied by Lieut.-Gov. T. A. Burrows and Mrs. Burrows, visited the Government House and made a brief motor tour of the city.

"Am I in bad?" anxiously asked his excellency as he returned to his train, 10 minutes late, while government, civic and military dignitaries were grouped around the governor-general's car to pay their respects.

"You certainly are in bad. Come on board right away," Lady Willingdon laughingly ordered. The governor-general complied with the "stern order."

The westward journey was continued late this afternoon, but only brief stops will be made at prairie points en route to Vancouver.

Piggott, 'Messiah' of 'Abode of Love,' Dies at Spixton, Somerset

LONDON, March 21.—One of England's most remarkable sensations in the religious sphere is recalled by the death yesterday at Spixton, Somerset, of John Hugh Smyth Piggott.

Piggott, head of a sect known as the Agapemonites, announced in 1905 that he was the Messiah, and retired shortly afterward to the famous Agapemonite, 'abode of love." He had a lawful wife, but this did not deter him from taking a "spiritual spouse," who bore him three children. Recruits, usually wealthy young women, often arrived at the abode of love, after putting all their money into the common pool, controlled by the "Messiah."

There was a great outcry against him and his "abode of love" throughout England, and he was expelled from the Church of England.

CHILDREN AND WOMEN FLEE IN GRAVE TERROR

Close Approach of Fighting in Nanking Cause; U. S. Destroyers Moved

SHANGHAI, March 22.—Evacuation of all foreign women and children still remaining in Nanking began at daylight this morning. The close approach of fighting between the Nationalists and northern forces and the prospect of disturbances was the reason for the movement.

The United States destroyer Preston has left Wuhu and is proceeding to Nanking, where the destroyer Noa already is standing by. The Noa and the British destroyer Emerald have landed guards for the British and United States consulates in the city.

Desperate Stand

No details have been received of the Nanking situation but the Nationalists are within striking distance of the city and the Shantungese apparently are preparing for a desperate stand. Reinforcements are still crossing the Yangtse from the north.

Chinkiang, which is in northern hands, is quiet and the evacuation of the foreign women and children is not yet believed necessary.

Unconfirmed reports say that the Nationalists have occupied Soochow without fighting.

Seventy-four Millions Is Canada's Payroll to Dominion Employees

OTTAWA, March 21.—The Dominion government paid $74,692,000 to its employees in salaries during the fiscal year 1925-26.

Compared with the previous fiscal year, this is an increase of $470,756, according to figures just released by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

The increase is attributed to payments of retroactive increases in salaries as a result of salary revisions granted last year.

The report shows that the grand total of employees increased from 38,885 in April, 1925, to 39,154 in March, 1926.

Falls Into Hold of Ship; Dies From Injuries Sustained

VANCOUVER, March 21.—Capt. A. M. MacKend, D.S.O., superintendent of a Vancouver stevedoring firm, sustained injuries which resulted in his death in the general hospital early today, when he fell 45 feet into the hold of the steamer Simon Burn here last evening while directing unloading operations. He was 45 years of age.

Seattle Banks Refuse to Testify Against Sereth; Fear a Suit

VANCOUVER, March 21.—That two Seattle banks would refuse to testify against Henry F. Sereth, either in the United States or Canada, because he might start civil proceedings against them, developed today when proceedings to extradite Sereth, president of the now bankrupt Southern Alberta Lumber company, were postponed for three weeks. Sereth is charged with check manipulation in New York.

STREET FIGHTING AND RIOTS IN NATIVE SHANGHAI CAUSE TERROR; PUNJAB TROOPS DIE

British Troops and Retreating Chinese Engaged in Sniping; British Armored Motor Cars Fired On and Disabled; International Settlement Generally Quiet

MARINES DISEMBARK FROM WAR VESSELS AND ARE PATROLLING FOREIGN SETTLEMENTS

General Strike Prevails; Streets Turned Into War Areas; Shells Scream Through Buildings; Several Great Fires Break Out; Looting in Native City Rampant

SHANGHAI, March 22.—Strikers and 150,000 Shantungese were sacking the Chinese quarter of Shanghai at noon today. A reign of absolute terror prevails. The foreign settlement is being patrolled by troops and quietness prevails there.

SHANGHAI, March 21.—The native city of Shanghai, China's greatest port and most important trade center, which fell into the hands of the Nationalists this morning, tonight was seething with bitter street fighting and turbulent riots.

Sitting on the lid of the boiling caldron and guarding the 37,000 inhabitants of the international settlement were 15,000 foreign protective forces backed by the big guns of the fleet in the Whangpoo river. Several times today the foreign settlement felt reverberations of the chaos reigning in the native city, but tonight it was very quiet, with its residents obeying the warning to remain indoors.

The situation created by the precipitate retreat of the northern troops and the advance of the southerners was one of the greatest gravity for the foreign population and its defenders. With a general strike effective and the streets filled with truculent natives, the position of the international settlement was fraught with danger.

TWO BRITISHERS DIE

Sniping and clashes between British soldiers and Chinese troops—probably retreating northerners—resulted in the deaths of two British (Punjab) soldiers and the wounding of 10 others, soldiers and police.

Although the international settlement was quiet tonight, after a day of turbulence, the situation in the native city was chaotic.

The advance guard of the Nationalists, consisting of plain-clothes soldiers, who invaded the native city this morning, were fought by the retreating Shantungese and white Russians, and a reign of terror began which continued tonight. The northerners and the plain-clothes men fought fiercely and many casualties were reported. Several great fires broke out during the struggle.

In the midst of the conflict white Russians with a Shantungese armored train fired heavily on places where armed Kuomintung bodies were believed to have congregated, and the artillery fire demolished a restaurant, killing several occupants. One or two shells from the native city fell in the foreign settlement but caused no damage.

Streets Are Patrolled

Tonight the streets of the entire foreign settlement were patrolled by troops of many nationalities. Shops and houses were closed and only a few people were on the streets.

Gen. Ho Ying Yin, commander of the Nationalist troops in the province of Chekiang, have achieved one of the Cantonese chief ambitions in the capture of this great city, was still resting in the outskirts tonight and was expected to enter Shanghai tomorrow, heading the first National division.

One of the most serious of the day's incidents took place tonight when a band of Chinese soldiers, presumably attached to the retreating northern army, broke through the barrier to the north of the international settlement and began looting. Two British armored cars sped to the scene in response to a call from police.

Britishers in Hot Corner

Lieutenant Newman, Corporal Ainslie and two soldiers were wounded, although not seriously, by machine gun fire, which was directed at the first car. The second car towed the leading one away under heavy fire, at the same time returning the fusilade.

Soon after the vanguard of the Cantonese army had entered the native city this morning, the municipal council declared a state of emergency and landing parties of all nationalities represented in the Shanghai naval concentration, including 1500 United States marines, disembarked. The marines are patrolling the northern and western mill districts.

The calling of the general strike of Chinese workers was to celebrate the fall of the city. The strike apparently is thoroughly effective, cotton mills being closed and the transport service paralyzed.

The two Punjabi soldiers of the British force were killed by snipers.

Soviet Russia Is Rejoicing at Fall of Shanghai Port

MOSCOW, March 21.—Soviet Russia rejoiced today over the fall of Shanghai.

Government wireless stations flashed to every corner of the Soviet union the news that the "world's citadel of imperialism" had capitulated to the Nationalists. Demonstrations were organized by factory workers and government employees to celebrate the event.

Moscow newspapers published extra editions telling of the capture of China's greatest port, and groups of people gathered on the street corners to discuss the momentous news.

Woman Found Dead in Hotel Room; Assailant Cannot Be Located

MONTREAL, March 21.—The discovery that a woman found dead in her room at a local hotel early today, had died of blows suffered about the body and head, has resulted in the police instituting a search for a man who had been with the woman at the hotel, but who disappeared early Sunday. No official identification of the woman has been made, but the register of the hotel for March 1, on which day the couple came to the hotel, shows the inscription "W. Carney and wife, Toronto."

ITALIAN IS HELD ON DRUG CHARGE

Son of Italian Consul at Vancouver Is Faced With Selling Charges

VANCOUVER, March 21.—Customs special investigation officers and the Royal Canadian Mounted police believe that in the arrest on Sunday night of James Masi, 26, an Italian, they have uncovered an underground channel of smuggled narcotics. He is a son of N. Masi, Italian consul in Vancouver.

The arrest was made following investigations which Inspector N. De Graves of the customs service has carried on for some months in connection with the arrival of vessels from the Mediterranean. Masi, who is well known in Vancouver, is charged with distributing and selling morphine, cocaine and opium. He appeared in police court this morning and was remanded.

"MAY WE MAKE CANDY?"

One Mother Says:

There is a kind of candy which children may make quite easily, as it requires no cooking but just a little heating to melt the chocolate. Put into a saucepan one-third cup of milk, two squares of shaved chocolate and one tablespoon of butter. Let it heat until the chocolate and butter are melted. Remove from the fire and add confectioner's sugar until the mass is of fudge consistency and can be easily handled. The children will enjoy shaping this fondant into marbles, nests, rings and other shapes which may please their fancy. Spread on waxed paper and leave in a cool place until the chocolate has hardened.

ASK THAT G.N.R. CONSTRUCTIONS BE BY CONTRACT

Dunning Objects Saying Work Done Efficiently by Own Workers; Clauses Held

OTTAWA, March 21.—When the Canadian National railway's three-year branch line construction program came before the railway committee today, Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative, West Calgary, moved that a clause should be inserted in each of the bills requiring that "competitive bids shall be obtained for the sale of the securities and for the construction of the railway lines."

Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of railways, said that it was a matter which he would like to take up with the minister of finance, before accepting the amendment.

Hon. H. H. Stevens and Hon. R. J. Manion supported Mr. Bennett's proposal. C. S. Cshowski, chief engineer in charge of construction, gave evidence regarding the construction feature as opposed to the sale of securities. The only work for which public tender could be called for in connection with the bills was the grading. The balance of the work was done by Canadian National management.

Mr. Bennett said that the idea behind the amendment was to find out whether this work could not be done more cheaply through contracts.

Mr. Dunning said that he would have to oppose the amendment as it applied to construction. If the idea was to force the Canadian National to call for bids on work which it has been doing itself efficiently and to better advantage than under contract, it introduced unnecessary competition.

The amended clause was allowed to stand over in all the bills.

Georgian Canal Bill Is Talked Out for the Ninth Time in the House

OTTAWA, March 21.—Parliament, for the ninth time this session, discussed the bill for the renewal of the charter of the Montreal, Ottawa & Georgian Bay Canal company late tonight. The debate was adjourned and the measure still stands for second reading.

The bill will probably come again before the house tomorrow evening during private members' hour. A division on the amendment of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative leader, to have the bill declared a public measure on the ground that matters of grave national and provincial importance is involved, is not expected until next week.

JUDGE'S POINT IS IN FAVOR OF FORD'S COUNSEL

Now Believed Ford's Alleged Malice to Jews as Race Is Taboo

MALICE INSPIRED FORD DECLARES HIS OPPONENT

Activities of Sapiro Had Been Unknown to Ford Declares His Lawyer

DETROIT, March 21.—Attorneys in Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford haggled nearly all day over a single brief interrogation, and at the end Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond made a far-reaching decision in a two-word ruling.

The court's "objection sustained" William J. Cameron, editor of the Ford-owned Dearborn Independent, from answering this question:

"What are the facts as to whether your original plans were for a series of articles against the Jews and not against Aaron Sapiro?"

Cannot Come In

It meant, however, according to the judge's interpretation for newspaper men that "testimony concerning ideas of the Jewish race in general will not be admissable, and that the case does not involve Henry Ford's ideas of the race as a whole and that Ford's alleged malice toward Jews as a people cannot be brought in."

Judge Raymond said that the authorities on the admission of testimony concerning ideas of smaller classifications and groups of Jews were "so close together" that he would rule on that question only after he had given the subject much more extensive study and thought.

Says Was Malice

Malice in the heart of Mr. Ford inspired the articles printed in the Dearborn Independent in 1924 and 1925, accusing Sapiro of bad faith in organizing cooperative organizations among American farmers, plotting to control agriculture and of seeking to spread communism, W. H. Gallagher, Sapiro's counsel, declared during the session.

That the general tenor of the Independent articles from 1920 to 1922 was unfavorable to Jewish people was admitted by Stewart Hanley, of Ford's counsel, but he contended that there was no proof that the term "Jew" carried any "opprobrium."

Sapiro's counsel sought to introduce the articles printed prior to the alleged libellous stories to show that the Independent had tried to attach opprobrium to such terms as "Jew," "Jewry" and an "international band" to which it later connected Sapiro.

Unknown to Ford

It was contended by counsel for Mr. Ford that the activities of Sapiro were unknown to Ford or the Dearborn Independent.

A series of letters and telegrams marked the steps of developments of the first article, accusing Sapiro of mulcting the California fruit growers of thousands of dollars. It was written, Campbell testified, who used the pen name of Robert Morgan.

In a fellow-up letter read into the record, Dunn told Roland the story of cooperative fruit marketing was the hardest he ever had handled.

"There is no doubt that the farmers are being skinned out of thousands of dollars through managers and officials," he wrote.

"The Gentile managers are just as efficient in swindling the farmers as are the Jews behind the movement. The farmers probably received more for their crops through the association than they would have selling individually on the open market in spite of the swindles."

SASKATOON, March 21.—Characterizing the accused as a bad specimen, and declaring that his offence was one of the most murderous assaults, Judge McLorg today sentenced Sam Anderson to a year in penitentiary for attacking James Vale with an iron bar. Vale, whose life was at one time despaired of, was the victim of a quarrel in a local apartment block the night of February 3.

LIQUOR CONTROL ACT READ TWICE

Conservatives and Four Libs Vote With Government; Prog Amendments Lost

TORONTO, March 21.—The second reading of the Liquor Control act was carried in the Ontario legislature tonight, by a vote of 69 to 31. All the Conservatives in the house voted with the government, which also had the support of four Liberals. Previous to the main vote, three Progressive amendments were defeated, 70 to 31.

Chain stores or government taverns for the sale of wine and beer, a charge of $10 for a permit for aliens and the appropriation of profits from the sale of liquor to a fund for educating the people of the province to the principles of true temperance, were some of the suggestions which were offered the government by members of the opposition in the debate today.

'Every bone ached' Says Wm. Lee

Ottawa City employee endured 9-year agony. Worn to skeleton, Tanlac built him back to robust health and strength.

Mr. Lee lives at 565 St. Patrick St., Ottawa, Ont. "If I live to be 100," he said recently, "I'll praise Tanlac for the great boon of health it brought me. It stopped nine years of awful suffering for me.

"Every bone in my body ached and often for 3 or 4 nights at a time I could not close my eyes in sleep. Indigestion upset my nervous system and kept me in constant pain. Bloating and cramps were chronic.

"I spent hundreds of dollars for treatments and remedies during those nine years, but none of them gave me any real help. But Tanlac helped me from the very first and soon put me back in excellent condition. I gained 17 lbs. weight and have enjoyed the finest health since then."

Tanlac is nature's own tonic and body builder made from roots, barks and herbs. Your druggist has it. Over 52 million bottles sold.

THIRTY-SEVEN MILLS IS TAX RATE AT TRAIL

Is Six-Tenths of One Per Cent Decrease Compared to Last Year

GENERAL MUNICIPAL RATES UP; SCHOOLS DOWN

Estimated Expenditures Are Slashed; Council Accepts Report, Finance Body

TRAIL, B.C., March 21.—Trail's total tax rate for 1927 will be 37 mills on the dollar, it was disclosed when the city council tonight accepted the report of the finance committee presented by Alderman A. G. Harvey.

Contrary to popular expectations the new rate shows a slight decrease, being six-tenths of one per cent under last year's rate of 37.6 mills.

The report showed the following percentages and, changes compared with 1926.

Municipal debenture rates, providing for interest and retirement of municipal bonded indebtedness, 7.5. It is a decrease of .7 mills, compared with last year's rate of 8.2.

General municipal rates, 12.8. This showed an increase of 4.4 compared with last year's rate of 8.4.

School debenture rates providing for interest and retirement of bonded indebtedness on the schools, 2.9. This rate is a decrease of 2.1, compared with last year's rate of 5.0.

Schools maintenance rate, 13.8. This shows a decrease of 2.2 compared with last year's rate of 16.0.

Slash Estimates

To keep the total rate down to this level, it was found necessary to slash the estimated expenditures prepared by the standing committee considerably as was the case last year. But it was anticipated that there will accrue increased revenue permitting expenditures approximating the estimates, as was also the case last year. It was pointed out in this respect that last year there was an increase of $6000 in revenue from the water department alone.

The allotment to the three major departments with 1926 comparisons, follow:

Board of works, allotment, $21,248.04. The committee's estimated expenditure was $34,225. Last year's year's allotment was $12,415; the actual expenditure was $17,890.70.

Fire, water and light allotment, $15,504.67. The committee's estimated expenditure was $24,972. Last year's allotment was $9029; and the actual expenditures, $18,557.52.

Health and relief allotment, 9946.49. The committee's estimated expenditure was $16,000. Last year $6771 was allotted and $11,595.69 was actually spent.

Depends on Bylaw

While discussing the allotment to the board of works among themselves, the aldermen emphatically stated that the actual disposition of that money would be dependent largely on the passage of rejection of the street paying bylaw on March 23. It was pointed out that between $8000 and $9000 of it would have to be spent on the upkeep and general repair of the sections that the council proposes to pave if the bylaw failed to pass. On the other hand, if the bylaw passed, that large sum would be available for maintenance and improvement of roads and other public works in the residential section of the city.

WATER COMPANY MAKES AN OFFER

Now Supplying East Trail; Offer to Turn Over to City

TRAIL, B.C., March 21.—East Trail Water company, represented by R. Sheck, tonight submitted proposals to the city council under which the city could acquire existing water service mains, and assume service to residents in sections east of the river now served by the private water company.

Expressing themselves as desiring to serve all residents within the city limits, the council referred the proposals to the fire, water and light committee, the city engineer, and the city solicitor to report on.

The proposals specifically set forth that the East Trail Water company supplied water to 65 residents of the city in blocks 7, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 17, and derived a yearly revenue therefrom of $1170. It supplied 30 other customers outside, but contiguous to, Trail, in blocks 6, 20, 26, 27, 28 and 29, deriving a revenue of $700 a year, making a gross revenue of $1870.

In the area served it had expended $2307 for materials and installing of 2568 feet of wooden main, 700 feet of 4-inch wrought iron pipe, 400 feet of 1½-inch wrought iron pipe, and 400 feet of ¾-inch wrought iron pipe.

It proposed that the city should take over the distribution of water in the area named, and reimburse the company for its iron pipe only, valued at $1260, plus 10 per cent of the value of the other pipe, $102, and for the loss of one years' revenue, $1247.33, or a total of $26,010.06.

TRAIL ENGINEER SURVEYS PROPERTY

Reports on Suitability of Sections for Annexation to City

TRAIL, B.C., March 21.—Following his recent survey of sections of East Trail and Trail East, considering annexation to the city, S. S. McDairmid, city engineer, tonight recommended to the city council the following areas as suitable to annexation:

All that section of district lot 2919, not now lying within the city limits, being that portion lying north and east of Fourth avenue, west of Main street. The section is a triangular section, bounded by Fourth avenue and Main street and terminating in an imaginary line joining the two.

Also blocks 15, 18 and 19, of district lot 4598. These are: The block lying directly east of East Trail school block; the block lying directly north of the East Trail school block, and the block cornering on Fourth avenue and Main street, north of the avenue.

A recommendation was tabled for consideration while the negotiations are being prepared.

Walks and Lights for Trail East of River Considered

TRAIL, B.C., March 21. — Definite suggestions of the desires of residents east of the river regarding sidewalks and additional street lighting, prepared by a committee of the East Trail Improvement association, were tonight taken under advisement by the city fire, water and light committee to report on to the council.

The recommendations were that wooden sidewalks should be laid as follows:

Along Columbia avenue west from McQuarrie street to Goebel street; Columbia avenue east from block 13 to block 6; Second avenue, east from Main street to block 13; Third avenue, from block 24 to lot 5, to connect with the sidewalk already laid at block 12, east of Main street.

Additional lights were asked for at the following points: Columbia avenue, at lot 6 in block 8, and lot 7, in block 9; Second avenue, at lot 6 block 18, and on lot 6 of block 19; at the intersections of Bayley street and Third avenue; and on Fourth avenue, at the intersection of McQuarrie street, Park street and Main street.

Trail Excelsior Club Is Told of Ancient Egypt, Civilization

TRAIL, B.C., March 21.—"If nations of the resent day could more closely follow the example of ancient Egypt, they would profit much thereby." This was the burden of an address given by F. Fox to the Excelsior club of the Knox United church tonight, under the caption, "Ancient Egypt, the Cradle of Civilization."

Mr. Fox cited evidences of a splendid system of government and of excellent laws then prevailing. He spoke of the measurements of the Nile relating to the discovery of the principles of arithmetic and surveying, and told many interesting anecdotes touching on the crafts of pottery, wood working, dyeing, a well as on early-day commerce.

Miss Sybil Bauer, the 23-year-old swimming champion, who died recently in Chicago, held 23 world backstroke records in all distances from the 100-meter to the quarter-mile event. Her victories include the 1924 olympic games backstroke championship.

PUT VENEER DEAL OVER URGES POND

Says Cottonwood Plentiful and Uses of Veneer Are Increasing

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—Much interest is being aroused in bonding the city on account of veneer plant.

I am sure it will be interesting to know that the city of Astoria, Ore., recently bonded themselves to the extent of $250,000 to build a water pipe line to supply water for a pulp mill under construction.

This veneer proposition seems a good one. There is a very nice lot of splendid cottonwood located in different parts of this district. The Lardeau valley has cottonwood that compares very favorably with cottonwood on the coast. There is a lot of cottonwood around Grand Forks, especially between Grand Forks and Lynch Creek, all handy to railroad. Cottonwood logs are shipped more than 100 miles to the Lematco factory at New Westminster. The Arrow lakes, as well as the Slocan, district contain a lot of cottonwood.

Veneer has many uses. I knew of a veneer plant in the east that employed around 200 people, and they simply made veneer pie plates for bakers.

I say, put this veneer deal over by all means, "Nothing venture, nothing won."

Massey Foundation Fund Makes Donation Toward Toronto General Hospital

TORONTO, March 21. — It was learned here today that Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's minister to Washington, had advised the trustees of the Toronto General hospital of a subscription to them of $50,000 from the Massey foundation fund. The hospital is now carrying on a building campaign to raise $2,500,000.

Planting the Lure of Native Industries

We should know our assets.

Kootenay boys and girls ought to, at least, see all of our great industries in play.

In the Crow's Nest Pass every child of a certain age should have seen "the wheels go round" in at least the surface works of a colliery.

The giant gang saw, which can produce 30 boards at once from one log, must spell the romance of industry to the young folks of the Lumberton area.

If Cranbrook pupils could be taken to Kimberley, and, by courtesy of the Consolidated company, given a glimpse of the vast slopes and mighty plant of the Sullivan mine, and at another time see the concentrator, would not impressions beneficial to them, to the Kootenay, and to Canada, be left upon them?

What is the matter with an annual excursion to Trail, of Nelson senior pupils of all schools, to take an arranged tour of the largest ore reduction plant in the British Empire, and afterward picnic?

Every time a great industry is exhibited in operation to our boys and girls, a certain number of threads of romance are woven, to tie many to their own mountains and the soil of Canada.

Is not an object of this sort worth while?

Once Would Have Come In in Newfoundland's Grip; Now Priced at Thirty Million Dollars

Newfound, having been confirmed in the ownership of the watershed of the Labrador coast, as well as the coast itself, now, when approached by Canada as to purchase, puts a price of $30,000,000 on the No Man's Land it has thus obtained.

Yet once, Canada, if her statesmen had been wise, could have rounded out the Dominion's boundaries by an investment of $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 in Newfoundland's public debt, which would have brought Newfoundland into Confederation, with the Labrador coast thrown in and not considered worth a penny.

If there are to be negotiations now, they should not be for the purchase of a part of Labrador that was granted by the British crown to Newfoundland. They should be for terms of union, on which Newfoundland could come into Confederation on the same footing as the provinces came in. It would not be a question of purchase or sale, but of arrangement about the debt—which a former Canadian government refused to take over—and of arrangement about the subsidy to be allowed the new province in lieu of the customs and excise revenues which it would cease to collect.

This year, the Dominion's Diamond Jubilee year, is a good year for Canada to display some statesmanship in this matter.

PARIS, March 21.—Farmers of France soon are to speak and act as a unit in telling the government exactly what they want. Puzzled housekeeper — "Can you suggest some suitable favors and a funny game for a wooden wedding anniversary?"

Answer—I would try to serve the refreshments on wooden plates if possible, or at least have the table centerpiece a wooden nut bowl filled with artificial dogwood. A pair of clothespins dressed up as bride and groom at each plate, would make good favors. Here is a funny game wich is appropriate:

Scenes from married life — These scenes can be taken from any married life comic strip in a newspaper, or you can make them up yourself. For instance, act out the wife's or the husband's attitude over some "in-law." Or act out how the wife directs her husband when he is driving the car. Or how the husband takes the radio to pieces. Any crisis which takes place in the life of the average married couple will be humorous.

Another jolly game is this one—Let each man, in turn, dress up his wife with newspapers, pinning the papers around her as cleverly as he can, to imitate a fashionable dress (tearing and cutting the papers if he wishes, but in all taking only five minutes to dress his wife up). A prize should be awarded to the man who is the cleverest "dressmaker."

New housekeeper—"I paid over $50 for curtains for our three living room windows, and now they are all hung. I take no comfort in them because my neighbors tell me I paid too much. My extravagance is a constant reproach to me. Do other brides ever do such reckless, impulsive things?"

Answer—I should say they do! Half the work of learning how to be a good housekeeper is in learning not to be extravagant. So, stop grieving over a thing which you can't mend. Simply look upon those curtains as your last extravagance. In that way, they will be a positive economy, for they have taught you to be thrifty for the rest of your life! Don't let your neighbors make you unhappy. If you could keep tabs on their purchases, you would find plenty to criticize! We all have to pay high for experience, don't we?

SAFETY PINS DEADLY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 21.—Safety pins have killed more children than have firearms, in the opinion of Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of the Pennsylvania university medical faculty, who has designed instruments for retrieving small objects from lungs and stomachs.

Careless mothers who put pins in their mouths when dressing their babies, he says, set an example which is likely to be followed with possibly disastrous results.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED

OXFORD, March 21. — Another sign of the growing "democratization" of Oxford university is seen in the announcement that the university will offer a group of scholarships for students from "the working classes."

A circular issued to all trade unions in England asked for the names of selected candidates from their membership. Those men receiving the award will be given a stipend sufficient to enable them to take a two-years' course at Oxford "without financial anxiety."

ASK ENLARGED "BOUDOIR"

LONDON, March 21.—Britain's six women members of parliament are agitating for an enlarged "boudoir," but officials of the house of commons say it is difficult to give the women additional room as the space at Westminster is much overcrowded. The present quarters, the women members claim, have a tendency to make them feel cramped and dull their speech-making inspirations.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

Overweight and Insurance

A couple of years ago I mentioned the fact that our insurance companies would not reject an overweight individual for insurance if the size of his abdomen was not any larger than his chest.

Now, this seemed like lax work on the part of the companies, because the chest, expanded, should be really 8 to 10 inches larger than the abdomen, in the ideal physique.

A few months ago these companies admitted that the weight they allowed for middle-aged men and women was really 20 pounds more than it should be. In other words, the individual was carrying 20 pounds too much around all the time, which meant a "steady decline in physical efficiency."

Now, the point is that if insurance companies would insist upon their risks making a certain weight, instead of just charging them a higher rate for being heavy, or as they say advancing their age four or five years (for which the insured has to pay, of course), then it would mean that many of our useful middle-aged citizens would go on to a useful old age.

As Dr. Leonard Williams points out, this extra fat gets in between the muscle and other tissues, and pressing against the blood vessels makes more resistance to the circulation of the blood. Thus, the heart has not only to look after this extra 20 pounds of useless tissue, but has to pump against the pressure it makes as it presses against the blood vessels.

This often results further in kidney trouble, as it is definitely shown that the deaths from heart and kidney ailments among fat people is twice as high as in persons of normal weight.

In addition to heart and kidney ailments they are now finding that some asthmatic patients get great relief by cutting down their weight.

Now, what is the cause of overweight?

In more than 9 cases out of 10 it is due to overeating. Not that the individual eats more than some of his thin friends, but because his particular tissues deposit fat readily. Starches like potatoes and bread are especially fattening.

Linked with overeating is underexercising, because the stout individual doesn't like to exercise. He really does more work, of course, when he exercises, than one of normal weight.

Then there is, finally, cases where the thyroid gland is not as active as it should be, and this allows fat to accumulate. These cases are helped by the thyroid extract under the supervision of the family doctor.

You really don't have to be overweight if you investigate the matter thoroughly.

ROYAL KNIGHTS AT WINDSOR CASTLE

LONDON, March 21.—The King and Queen will spend the Easter vacation this year again at Windsor Castle. They are due to arrive there during the first week in April for a stay that is expected to extend over a month—rather longer than usual.

While their majesties are at the castle there will be a very impressive ceremony in St. George's chapel, the magnificent home of the knights of the garter, where the restoration work that has been going forward for the past six years or so is now rapidly approaching completion. It is proposed to hold a special service for the knights of the order, if possible, on Easter Sunday, to commemorate the reopening.

The gathering is expected to comprise almost every one of the 28 British knights of the order, while it is hoped that some of the foreign sovereigns who also wear the premier decoration may find it convenient to be present. Among these are the kings of Spain the Belgians, Sweden and Norway.

It is expected that the Prince of Wales will postpone his proposed Easter visit to Biarritz until after this ceremony has taken place.

IS CANDIDATE

LONDON, March 21. — Fung Saw, a Chinese born in Hongkong, and consequently a British subject, has been named by the Communists as a parliamentary candidate for the Holborn division of London.

Fung Saw is 43 years old, and has been an agitator among seamen in China since he was a small boy. His name means "long life and good luck."

IS SOBEREST SPOT

HARLOW, Eng., March 21. — This little town of 3000 souls claims to be the soberest spot in all Britain.

Harlow is not "dry," there being 10 licenced "pubs," but authorities report that there has not been a case of drunkenness within the town's limits for more than five years.

EGYPTIAN ART IN RHODESIA

Rock Painting on Roof of Shallow Cave Depicts Troup of Minstrels

CAPETOWN, South Africa, March 21.—Two Rhodesians who, when searching for cattle recently, rested under a huge bowlder on a lonely farm near Salisbury, Rhodesia, made a discovery which is regarded as of the first importance.

They saw queer paintings on the roof of a shallow cave, and sent photographs to Dr. S. P. Impey, the leading South African authority on ancient rock paintings. Dr. Impey says that these paintings are undoubtedly Egyptian art, and that there was no possibility of a "fake." "There are hundreds of crude bushman paintings in caves all over South Africa, but these are clearly of a different technique to anything discovered before.

"There are 11 figures, apparently minstrels, playing stringed instruments unknown to bushmen. In the cave is a large rock where the artist must have rested, using a long brush to reach the roof. The painted figures wear Egyptian costumes, while bushmen's figures are always unclothed," says Dr. Impey.

Building of $100,000 new Ross school in Welland has failed to solve school congestion problem.

PLANS FOR FLIGHT

LONDON, March 21.—Captain F. T. Courtney, who will make an attempt in April to fly from England to New Zealand in seven days, has selected the route to be taken. The airoplane will fly from England across Europe to Malta, where the first stop will be made. A second hop will take the machine to Egypt, thence it will fly to Bushire, Karachi, across the Indian ocean to the Straits Settlements and on to Port Darwin in northern Australia. Three more hops will take the airman to New Zealand. Landings will be made only in daylight. Captain Courtney will have a relief pilot, and a navigator and a wireless operator will complete the crew.

LONDON, March 18.—Lady Asquith is writing her first novel. It is all about Leicestershire and fox hunting, red coats and love on horseback. As a girl Lady Asquith was a beautiful, dashing figure in the hunting field.

Institute Meeting Takes Trend of Old Irish Celebration

KINNAIRD, B.C., March 21. — The Castlegar-Kinnaird Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Mark DuMont. In spite of bad roads quite a number were present. It being near St. Patrick's day, Irish topics were the feature of the afternoon. Favorite Irish songs were had, and a paper on Ireland was read by Mrs. J. A. Killough. This was followed by a reading from Mrs. P. Swanson.

At the supper hour a delicious and dainty luncheon was served by Mesdames DuMont, Swanson and Killough. The raffle was won by Miss Effie Olson. As the Castlegar ladies had to wait for the evening train a game of progressive whist was arranged and Mrs. P. Swanson carried off the honors.

The secretary gave a report of the church meeting at New Denver, after which details for the sale of work were proceeded with. A special meeting will be held early in April to make final arrangements. A social half-hour was spent over a dainty tea served by the hostess, assisted by her little niece, Miss Gwenie Herman.

An accident marred the beginning of the meeting, Mrs. S. Bentley having the misfortune of her cutter being overturned and broken up, the horse running away, but fortunately no one was hurt.

INVERMERE, B.C., March 21.—For a long time past the Dominion government experimental station here has been giving much attention to the selecting and breeding of garden peas for the raising of which the local soil seems peculiarly adapted. During the past year Superintendent R. Gladwyn Newton, B.S.A., says three of the selections have shown their superiority over many standard varieties, not only here but at many of the experimental stations across the Dominion. These three varieties have been named, respectively, "Bruce," after Hon. R. Randolph Bruce; "Kootenay," after the division of British Columbia where the generating experimental station is situated; and "Director," as a compliment to the head of the experimental farms.

A test of the quality of these three varieties was made for three years under similar conditions along with five other well-known varieties of peas. The results show that they did in that time produce both a much heavier weight of peas in the row on an average, also a larger quantity of shelled peas than any of the five competitors of the three kinds named.

Confidence Gained and Held

Years ago when Pacific Milk began every condition for making a perfect evaporated milk was present. A market might be gained but only a perfect milk, its purity and quality preserved, could hope to hold it. With grateful feelings we see, in looking over the history of its splendid patronage, the confidence it gained so early in its career has been held and annually enlarged. And for this perhaps more than anything credit must be given to the quality which constantly has been maintained.

BOSWELL SCENE OF A PRETTY WEDDING

Elizabeth Johnson and Geoffrey Spence Are United in Marriage; Popular Event

BOSWELL, B.C., March 21. — A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Memorial hall, Boswell, on Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Clyde Harvey of Procter, when Elizabeth, second daughter of R. Johnson of Victoria, B.C., was married to Geoffrey, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spence of Boswell. The ceremony was attended by practically the whole of the residents of Boswell. The school children had a special half-holiday, as the groom attended school in Boswell as a youth.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of sand crepe de chine, with hat to match, and carried a beautiful bouquet of pink roses and pink and white carnations.

Miss Grace Mackie was the bridesmaid, and wore a dress of powder blue crepe de chine with pale grey and blue hat, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was supported by his brother, Sylvester Spence.

The bridal party stood under an arbor of evergreen facing the chancel and the hall had been decorated with evergreens and bowls of snowdrops, this work having been carried out by Miss May Kennedy and Miss Grace Mackie.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold necklace with pendant, and to the bridesmaid a pearl and onyx finger ring. The bride presented the groom with a gold signet ring.

Two hymns were sung during the ceremony, Mrs. Lawson Hepher presiding at the organ. Following the signing of the register, refreshments were enjoyed by the guests, and the wedding cake of four tiers, made by the groom's mother, was cut by the bride.

S. J. Cummings proposed the health of the happy pair. Mrs. Charles Allen also congratulated them, and extended a hearty welcome to the bride's father and little brother, who will reside here in future.

Mrs. E. Bainbridge, Mrs. H. Johnstone and Mrs. A. Mackie had charge of the serving, whilst Miss Elsie Frey, Miss May Kennedy, Miss Ruth Cummings and Miss Kathleen Bebbington waited upon the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Spence are postponing their honeymoon trip until more favorable weather. In the evening the guests reassembled at the hall, and from 7 until midnight dancing was enjoyed, Sylvester Spence carrying out the duties of M.C.

QUIET WEDDING AT INVERMERE

Ethel Mary Turner Becomes the Bride of Oswald Paul Sutermeister; Pretty Ceremony

INVERMERE, B.C., March 21. — A quiet wedding was solemnized Thursday, March 17, afternoon at 3 o'clock when Ethel Mary, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Turner, of The Beavers," Wilmer, was united in marriage to Oswald Paul (Bobs) Sutermeister, son of the late Rev. P. Sutermeister, pastor of the Established church, Berne, Switzerland, and Mrs. Sutermeister of Montreaux, Switzerland.

The bride, dressed in a becoming gown of cream, silk flat crepe, and carrying a lovely bouquet of roses and double white tulips, was given in marriage by her father. The Rev. E. J. Thompson, M.A., pastor of the United church, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Harry Saunders of Vernon, B.C., who donned for the occasion a smart one-piece dress of shot-rayon taffeta, and carried a spring-like bouquet of daffodils and tulips. As Mr. Sutermeister's brother, of Gleichen, Alta., was unable to be present, the bride's brother, Frank, undertook the duties of best man. Before her marriage the bride had been an active worker in the girl guides, having been in charge of the Brownies, and also in the girls' auxiliary of Christ church, Invermere. Both these organizations gave farewell presentations to the bride before her wedding.

The wedding music was played by Miss Dora R. Bodecker, captain of the girl guides, who carried out the wishes of the bride by playing the Greig wedding music.

The honeymoon will be spent in Calgary. A large number of friends were at the station to speed them on their way to their new home at Crossfield, Alta.

BRIDGE OVER GOAT RIVER COMPLETED

Cost About $13,000; Total Road and Bridge Expenditure for Area $43,000

CRESTON, B.C., March 21. — The new 255-foot King and Howe truss two-span bridge across the Goat river, between this point and Kitchener, was open for traffic on Saturday. The bridge cost about $13,000, and brings the bridge building and repair bill in this section for 1926-27 up to almost $18,000, according to the local road superintendent, A. E. Davies.

Mr. Davies' records also show that in addition to this expenditure, another $25,000 has been spent on new highways, $11,000 of which was on the Arrow Creek road diversion, and road maintenance, giving the district a public works expenditure of $43,000 for the year.

Several Carloads of Well-Seasoned Fence Posts Roll From Creston

CRESTON, B.C., March 21.—Several carloads of well-seasoned cedar fence posts are rolling eastward this week from Creston. With a greatly diminished prosperity on the farms in southern Alberta since the war, the demand for fence posts has been practically negligible of late.

THE UNDERSTANDING HEART

By PETER B. KYNE

"She's a regular girl; she'll knock your eye out," said the chief ranger to Garland.

CHAPTER I

Along the narrow, single-track dirt road that led through the canyons and over the low foothills on the western fringe of the San Dimas national forest a young man rode on a handsome Morgan-bred horse. Behind him a small but powerful black mule, with a "mealy" nose, trotted mincingly under a canvas-covered pack in an effort to keep pace with the rapid running walk of the horse; from time to time this mule brayed his displeasure at the hardship.

"Won't do you a bit of good, you tricky rascal," the rider called back to the protesting mule, in the tone one employs to an understanding and well-understood comrade. "We've got to make headquarters by sundown. No loafing or browsing along the road for you, Jupiter, and no funny business to win my sympathy. Hey, there! Stop that!"

Jupiter, having, as he concluded, given due warning, was leading trumps, as it were, which is to say that with all the sincerity and earnestness of purpose of a mule, he was endeavoring to get from under that pack. His pitching and braying came to an abrupt stop, however, when the young man whirled his horse, "hazed" Jupiter in circles and belabored him with a rawhide quirt, for mules—and pack mules in particular—have too much intelligence to fight a losing fight, and nobody had ever accused Jupiter of being dull. He ceased his cavortings, knowing from vast experience that the instant he did the quirt would cease to fall upon him. Bowing his head meekly, he trotted on ahead of the horse. Seemingly he had surrendered to the inevitable.

Of mules, however, it has been said that they will treat one kindly for 20 years in order to gain one's confidence and thus facilitate the task of kicking one's brains out in an unguarded moment.

Thoroughly deceived by Jupiter's gesture of surrender, the young man dismounted to adjust his saddle and tighten the cinch; Jupiter, casting a speculative glance to the rear, waited until he saw the cinch dangling, and then slid quietly off the graded trail and went crashing down through a thicket of aspens, his intention being to brush the pack off his back since he had been denied the effort to buck it off.

To Jupiter's huge disgust the delicate aspens refused to stand up to the task he had set them. What he required, Jupiter now realized, was a heavy, low-growing limb or series of limbs on a scrubby juniper or bull pine tree.

Below him, in the canyon, was timber suited to his purpose and toward it he trotted, heeding not the shouted commands of his owner to halt and behave himself. Before the latter could cinch his horse and follow, Jupiter had disappeared in the thick, heavy growth.

"You double-crossing devil!" the young man growled. "I'll never trust you again. Hereafter you'll trot ahead of me at the end of a riata, while I keep you on the jump with a four-horse whip. Right now you're scattering my dunnage from hell to breakfast, and when you've done your worst you'll start grazing."

As fast as he could he made his way through the aspens, which, bending, sprang back and slapped him cruelly before he could get out of range. Consequently his progress was slow. Jupiter's trail was quite apparent, however, and once at the bottom of the canyon the rider spurred to a trot and entered the timber at the exact point where the mule had entered.

Thirty yards into it he emerged in a tiny open glade—and pulled up in astonishment. Quite in the center of the glade his pack saddle reposed, and beside it his pack, with the pack ropes neatly coiled on top of it. And while the lush green grass that Jupiter craved grew knee-high in that glade, Jupiter was not in sight.

"Jupiter can back out of a pack but he can't unsaddle himself," the young man decided. "And he'd never be obliging enough to stack my outfit neatly in the open, where I would have no difficulty finding it. Neither would it occur to him to untie the pack ropes and coil them on top of the pack. Evidently Jupiter had an engagement to meet a gentleman friend here. Hello, what's this?"

The canvas that covered the pack had been purchased the day before, but the dust of travel had turned its pure white to dull gray. In the center of this gray expanse a space about a foot square had been dusted off, with the result that the original white showed prominently in the field of gray; beside the pack lay the little sprig of green fir that had been used as a whisk broom. And in the center of the white patch the despoiled traveler read a pencilled message:

"Dear sir—I have borrowed your mule, but will see to it that you get him back again, none the worse for wear. But for me he would have scattered your pack all over the San Dimas. One good turn deserves another. Thanks."

The young man chuckled. "Steals my mule and makes me like it," he soliloquized. "No, he hasn't stolen it, either. He says he's merely borrowed Jupiter. And he's perfectly right in his conclusion that if he hadn't captured that hell-anointed mule I would even now be developing lumbago picking up my scattered possessions. I had a rifle just on top of this pack. Wonder if he took that."

He lifted up the canvas cover and peered under it. The rifle was gone. His glance wandered to the heavy revolver in its leathern holster strapped to the front of his stock saddle and he shook his head. "You win the right to ride that infernal Jupiter far and fast and until he bucks you off, as he most certainly will the minute he gets the notion in his head that he's done a day's work.

"I could follow you, mister, but I couldn't hope to contend with a pistol against you—I mean my—rifle. Besides, you've promised I shall have Jupiter back, bad as he is. Stranger, I believe you'd be a friendly cuss if given half a chance. You hated to do this thing to me but you just naturally had to, so for your decent intention I'll forgive you."

He unsaddled his horse, cinched the pack saddle on him instead and painstakingly packed him with Jupiter's discarded load and his own saddle. Then, leading the horse by the macarte, he set out afoot to follow the trail of the recreant Jupiter.

By sundown he had followed it 10 miles to another little glade, and quite in the center of this glade, held in the cleft of an alder branch thrust upright in the soft earth, he found another message. It was written in pencil on the white inner side of a square of willow bark, fresh cut, and in order that the message might not be overlooked a red bandanna handkerchief had been tied to the alder branch. The message read:

"I'm sorry I borrowed your mule. He bucked me off here and headed north. When he strikes the trail again he'll probably follow it, or you may find him around here grazing. I borrowed your rifle but not for any mean purpose. Just figured that if I took it you wouldn't follow in a hurry to recapture the mule and tell me what you think of me. Herewith the rifle. Many thanks. If I had only had my own outfit on your mule I would have taught him to take a joke."

"I wish I could meet this cheerful fellow," was the thought that occurred to Jupiter's owner. "He's evidently on the dodge, but something tells me it isn't for anything very serious."

He unpacked in the little glade, put the stock saddle on his horse and set out briskly on Jupiter's trail. A half-mile farther on, he found the mule grazing and looking innocent, so he roped him and led him back to the pack, put hobbles on him and a bell, hobbled his horse, turned both animals loose to graze, and went into camp for the night.

Early next morning he was on the road. He found the trail again—he had traveled parallel with it the preceding day—and about noon reached the headquarters of the forest ranger force in charge of the San Dimas. A ranger came out of the office and greeted him as he dismounted.

"Hello, there, stranger. You're Garland, I take it?"

The new arrival saluted him. "Yes, sir, I am."

"I'm Chief Ranger Casey. We rather looked for you to arrive last night, Garland."

"Oh, I had a brawl with this fool mule! He delayed me, so I camped out rather than prowl through a timbered country I don't know, and in the dark."

"Well, light and have luncheon with Mrs. Casey and me. I'm going to locate you at the Tantrum Meadows station, about 10 miles from here. Better rest yourself and your animals for two hours and feed. You can get to your station by dark."

The chief ranger called an Indian, who took charge of Garland's horse and pack mule, while he took charge of Garland and led him over to his comfortable log bungalow. Mrs. Casey came out of the kitchen, where she was preparing luncheon for her husband, and the chief ranger presented her to the recent arrival.

"Mr. Garland, Bessie, is the transfer from the Cocopah reserve, in Arizona," he explained. "He takes Jem Scully's station up on Tantrum. He will have luncheon with us."

Mrs. Casey favored young Garland with an old-fashioned curtsy, in which he noted more than a little embarrassment. She was about 40 years old and had never been beautiful. Her face, red with the heat of the kitchen, was perspiring freely and when she spoke Garland noted that her voice was pitched an octave too high. "She's tired, nervous and irritable," he thought. "I'll bet she henpecks the chief."

"You're welcome," the lady acknowledged the introduction and her lord's mandate. "I'm sure we haven't anything fit to give a guest, but such as it is, if you can stand it, we can." A nervous little titter concluded her ungracious speech.

"Jupiter is an intellectual giant compared with that woman," the youthful ranger told himself. "I've always heard Casey was hard-boiled. Now I know why." He was about to venture a cheerful commonplace when the lady returned to her kitchen, and Casey followed her in. When he came out his face was red with annoyance.

"She's scolded him for bringing a guest in on her without warning. As if the poor devil could help it!" Aloud, Garland said, "I'm afraid I'm putting your wife to a lot of unnecessary trouble. Tell her, please, not to make a fuss as if I were company."

"The women who raise the most hell when they're fussed are just the ones ten men and a boy couldn't keep from fussing. Sit down, Garland, and I'll explain your new job to you," Casey answered bluntly.

He drew Garland up to a large blueprint map tacked on the wall. "This is the San Dimas," he said, "and the map is correctly oriented. Here, in between these two ridges, is Tantrum Meadows—about five miles long and a mile and a half at the most. Your station is at the eastern end—here. Kitchen, combination living and dining room, bedroom and bath—if you care to heat your water with a kerosene heater. Barn and a corral, chicken house and a few chickens. Jem Scully was a bit of a nester and liked things comfortable. It's a nice, comfortable station, and I think you'll like it. We try to run this show without fuss or feathers, Garland. I'm known as a hard-boiled chief ranger, and I am—toward slackers; but when I get a good man on a station I respect him and leave him alone."

The younger man smiled. "Thank you, chief. I see you and I are going to get along together as slick as two eels swimming in oil."

"I have but one piece of advice for you, Garland. Don't find too many excuses to visit the lookout station on Bogus peak. Here it is—right here. You'll have enough work to keep you busy all week, so reserve Sunday for your social life."

"Oh, have we some social life in the San Dimas?" Garland queried. "I always understood it was a lonely, God-forsaken stretch of country."

"We haven't very much, Garland, but then, what we lack in quantity we make up in quality. Bogus Lookout is the social center—or at least, it draws rangers from the Tantrum Meadows station as a magnet draws needles. The lookout on Bogus is a girl."

"Indeed! What sort of a girl, chief?"

Chief Ranger Casey glanced darkly toward the kitchen and replied in a lowered voice. "A regular girl! A lalapalooza! Whee-e-w!" He whistled softly, and Garland was aware that his chief had expressed the apotheosis of admiration and approval. "She'll knock your eye out," Casey continued, "although I'm not supposed to say so out loud."

Although an unmarried man, Ranger Garland thought he understood his chief's position, and his heart went out to the honest fellow.

"I'm for the girl a mile," Casey resumed, "although she's a thorn in my official side. She raises such hell with my organization!" Again his glance wandered kitchenward, and Garland was aware that Mrs. Casey was part of the chief's organization. "As fast as I plant a married ranger at Tantrum I lose him. His wife finds it lonely, so she mounts a horse and rides up to Bogus to sort of collaborate with her own sex.

"One look at the lookout lady, and the ship is sunk without a trace. The ranger's wife fears for her husband, whose duties may take him into the danger zone, and first thing I know she has him out of the Tantrum station and I have to get a new ranger.'

"So I try an unmarried one—and within a week he has proposed to Monica Dale and been refused. Then he feels like a dirty deuce in a clean pack and gets out of the country. You know how it is with a young fellow. He's always embarrassed when he has to meet the girl who's turned him down and trampled on his conceit."

"They do not appear to be very persistent wooers," Garland suggested.

"Oh, they're as persisten as the ordinary run of men, but the trouble is, Monica Dale isn't an ordinary girl. She has a faculty for selling a fellow an idea, and the best thing she sells is the idea that the fellow isn't wanted. She takes the tuck out of them somehow."

"Hum-m-m!" Garland's contemptuous grunt was not lost on Casey.

"She'd take the tuck out of a graven image," he declared. "Boy, hear me. She's man-proof. Forest rangers she figures as pointblank range; she has her sights set for bigger game."

"Well, that's to her credit," Garland laughed.

"You be careful, son. Wait till you hear her voice over the telephone. Stir you a bit!"

"The girl's safe from old man Garland's boy, chief. I might fall in love with her, but until she fell in love with me I'd keep my fool mouth shut. I'm in no position to ask any girl to marry me, chief. I have no desire to give hostages to fortune."

"You'll have the desire, all right. Not to have it would be unhuman and unmasculine. I admit Sunday belongs to you, but don't let me catch you spending a couple of afternoons a week on Bogus. And when you do go there on week-days, be sure you have a sound excuse. By the way, you'll find a duplicate of this map at your station. All the fire-fighting stations are marked very plainly and I suggest that you spend the first week with your forest guard, Martin, going over your territory and familiarizing yourself with it."

"Is Bogus Lookout in my territory?"

"Theoretically, yes. However, I never knew anybody who had any government business there, except to mend the forest service telephone line or pack supplies up there for Monica Dale."

"What about that Monica Dale?" Mrs. Casey, bearing a tureen of soup, had emerged from the kitchen.

"I was warning Mr. Garland against her," Casey replied with a half-hearted attempt at humor.

"The hussy! She's never done with rolling her eyes at everything in pants."

"Oh, come, Bessie, my dear!", the chief ranger pleaded. "Everybody in pants knows Monica is a lady."

"A hillbilly's daughter—the child of an ignorant prospector a lady?" Mrs. Casey tittered mirthlessly and Garland hoped she would drop the tureen of hot soup and scald her feet.

Knowing, however, that if anybody was to be scalded, that person would be the chief ranger, he skillfully changed the topic of conversation by steering it into the channel he guessed would be most pleasing to the lady—to wit, herself, her interests, her nobility in making such a delightful home for her husband in a country so barren of the social and cultural influences women of her class must crave.

He was so barefaced about it—blatant almost—that Casey gave him a sly wink of approval and a barely perceptible nod which said, "She likes that sort of guff. Feed her more of it."

When, two hours later, Ranger Garland resumed his journey toward Tantrum Meadows station, the Caseys parted from him with genuine regret. "What a nice young man!" Mrs. Chief Ranger Casey declared, and went to the gate and gazed after him.

"I wonder what the devil he's doing in the forest service?" Casey mused. "He's been bred and raised for something better in life, although I was too, for that matter." He sighed. "Perhaps, like me, the open spaces have got him. Perhaps he loves trees and peace and homely comfort and freedom from the competition of existence. Nice lad. Wouldn't be surprised if he gives Monica Dale a dose of her own medicine. Wouldn't I cheer if he did! But he'll not!"

EXPERTS DO NOT RATE THE PHILLIES ANY BETTER THAN EIGHTH FOR COMING SEASON

But Stuffy McInnis Is Confident He Can Put Defensive Punch Into Lineup; Believes Team Will Make Trouble for Rest of Pennant Contenders

By STONEY McLINN

BRADENTON, Fla., March 21.

JOHN PHELAN McINNIS, whose 19th campaign as a major league ball player will be his first as a manager, awaits the starting gun with more optimism than one would think it possible for him to show. The team which he is bossing—the Phillies—finished last in the National league race last year and, to be frank about it, the experts do not rate them any higher than that in the coming pennant chase.

STUFFY McINNIS

STONEY McLINN

But McInnis hasn't been a tail-end player. In his 18 seasons as an athlete in the ranks he was a member of five pennant-winning clubs. He can't see the cellar for the Phillies in his initial managerial venture.

A smart player, with lots of enthusiasm for his game, Stuffy is mapping out a campaign for the Phils of 1927 along those lines—that is, smartness and enthusiasm. He is not showing any signs of worry at the conditioning camp here in Bradenton.

"The Phillies have a punch," McInnis said, and pointed to their team batting average of .281 for the 1926 campaign. The club finished fourth in the hitting department, only nine points below the leading Cincinnati Reds.

"I figure my job is to keep 'em clubbing the apples the way they did it last year," declared the new manager of the Phils. "Then all I need to do is build up the defence to hold the other team down in runmaking.

"When a team can pound that old baseball for six or eight runs and then lose because the opponents make from seven to nine, that's evidence there is something wrong with the defence. I am hopeful that we can repair that weakness in the Phils."

* * *

The Phillies, by the way, were within one tiny point of being the worst fielding club in the National league last year, so far as the averages show defensive strength.

* * *

WILL USE SMART TRICKS OF A'S

However, Stuffy McInnis is not thinking of averages when he talks about building up the defence. It is the smart tricks that he learned when he was a member of the Athletics' wonderful infield machine that the new boss expects will help the Phils.

"There are two or three plays on the infield that will win games when the battling is close," he told me. "A first baseman can direct these defensive moves and have a leading part in executing them.

"I am fit and ready to play all the time if necessary. But I am figuring that I will teach Wrightstone the several tricks that will make him a smart defensive first-sacker. You know how that boy can club the apple."

Another member of the Phillies' 1927 ensemble who may play a leading role in their contesting is Danny Murphy, an outfielder on the famous Athletic team of world champions which had Stuffy McInnis on first base.

"Murph is a modest, retiring man, and he never stepped out in the spotlight to get the credit that belonged to him," McInnis declared. "I rate him one of the smartest baseball men the game has had."

McInnis has gauged Murphy correctly, and in accordance with the opinion of all baseball men who know what quiet Danny can do for a team. Stuffy also has Murph asserting himself more as the coach of the Phillies than was his custom in any other berth he occupied.

* * *

When the Phillies are attacking in the coming summer and Ol' Dan Murphy, with his eagle eyes, is standing in the third-base coacher's box—well, any batsman or base runner who will follow instructions and has any natural ability may be very happy.

* * *

STUFFY WILL PLAY FIRST HIMSELF

McInnis' present plans are to play the first bag himself and have Wrightstone as his understudy. Wrighty batted .307 last year, and with Stuffy and Murph to encourage him he may climb at least 25 points higher in 1927. It's a cinch he will be a smarter and more skillful fielder.

Then there is Lafayette Thompson, the "peppiest" lad in the Bradenton camp. He batted .330 for Buffalo last year and was one of the leading defensive second-sackers in the International league.

Thompson socked 26 homers for the Bisons. He should hit that many or more with the several short National league parks to shoot in. He is a right-hand hitter, 23 years old, and so brimfull of ginger and determination that I look for him to be one of the colorful stars of the league this year.

Heine Sand, who is a very good shortstop when he is good and who "needs to be egged on and patted on the back to show his true worth," according to McInnis, will be the shortstop. He may show improvement that will amaze the Philadelphia rooters, for he is a changed young man in camp, with Stuffy and Murph giving him a daily dose of ginger.

Barney Friberg is taking care of the third-base chores stylishly in Florida. In fact, Barney will defend that hot corner in first-class style right along. He might hit better—but so might other third-sackers who are rated pretty high. Friberg is good for about .270 at bat, and McInnis and Murphy may coach him upward 10 or more points.

Candidates for utility infield positions are Dick Attreau, a first-sacker who would be a wiz if he could slap apples better; Howard Baldwin, a third-sacker who has made a good impression at camp by his aggressiveness and fielding skill; Bob Price, infielder who once was with the Athletics, and Dunham, first baseman who has been tied to the Phils for several seasons.

* * *

On the subject of catchers, one might borrow an old advertising catchline and write: "Wilson—that's all!" Jimmy is a "horse for work," can slug the ball, is a good receiver and knows his diamond onions. Jonnard will continue on the catching staff. McInnis likes his spirit.. Harry O'Donnell and Johnny Curry are semipros who are fighting for the third backstopping job.

* * *

INFIELD SATISFACTORY TO McINNIS

The Phils' outfield is quite satisfactory to McInnis. Ol' Cy Williams, still swinging his home-run bat; Fred Leach, an apple clubber with few superiors and a fly chaser who can "go get 'em," and Johnny Mokan, a toppy club swinger and a fine throwing gardener, are the three who make any pitcher fret.

The Williams-Leach-Mokan combination should knock apples at a .340 gait if the Phils once got themselves headed in an upward direction. Al Nixon and Dennis Southern are outfielders who will be useful, and Dick Spaulding, a former soccer star, is making a name for himself at Bradenton.

It is the pitching department that is giving Manager McInnis the most concern. He is anxious to find at least five curvers who will start in turn and who will be nine-inning laborers normally.

Hal Carlson, who won 17 games for the last-place Phils in 1926, will head the corps, of course. He reported to camp as physically fit as an athlete could be and brimful of enthusiasm and ambition following the signing of a satisfactory two-year contract.

Herb Pruett, southpaw, who once was a star for the St. Louis Browns and who won 22 games for Oakland in the Pacific Coast league last year, is the man who seems to stand second on McInnis' "hope list."

Wayland Dean, Alex Ferguson and Jack Scott are experienced right-handers who are expected to get into the "Big Five." Clarence Mitchell, the left-hander who chucks a spitter, is another regular who looks and acts like a new man.

* * *

Ed Baecht, the 21-year-old boy who was a camp sensation last year and who is learning his lessons rapidly; Art Decatur, Frank Ulrich, Claude Willoughby and Oran O'Neill, all right-handers, and Ed Taber, southpaw, are other pitching candidates.

* * *

PHILS WILL MAKE TROUBLE IN PENNANT RACE

McInnis is pleased with the spirit that is being displayed at the training camp. "I have found this team to be composed of an ambitious crowd of young men who love to play baseball and who are happy when they are working hard," the manager said.

"You may say for me that the Phillies are not resigned to the cellar berth to which so many of the spring prognosticators are assigning us. We have no foolish ideas about pennants, but we do hope to make a lot of trouble in the 1927 pennant race."

It is my opinion that the Phillies, with McInnis to manage and Murphy to coach, will do just what Stuffy expects them to do—make a lot of unexpected trouble in the National league this year.

* * *

It would be absurd to predict that they would finish in any definite position. But I will predict that the Phillies can be a pleasant surprise to their loyal followers.

PICK ASTERUS AS WINNER OF LINCOLNSHIRE

Steve Donaghue Will Ride Friar Wile in Opening of New Flat Race Season

LONDON, March 21.—The Lincolnshire handicap on Wednesday, will be for the general public, the popular opening of the new flat racing of the season.

The Grand National will be run at Aintree on Friday, so that this week is one of the brightest in the season's record.

Callover betting prices today showed that Asterus, M. Boussac's French thoroughbred is the strong favorite for the Lincolnshire. For the Grand National no favorite has yet appeared, and the half dozen leading contenders are on comparatively even terms in the bookmakers' lists.

The Lincolnshire betting 5 to 1 against Asterus, 100 to 9 against Helker Skelter; 100 to 6 against Priory Park; Galloper King, Friar Wile, Grand Light, First Edition; 20 to 1 against Melon, Jarvie, Her Excellency, L'Aine and 50 to 1 against Autocrat.

PORTS STAGE COMEBACK AND BEAT REGINAS

Westends Beat Pats 4 to 1 and Take Junior Series by 5 to 3 Score

AMPHITHEATER RINK, Winnipeg, March 21.—Staging a brilliant fight against great odds, Port Arthur Westends defeated Regina Pats, 4 to 1, here tonight, to win the Abbott Memorial cup, emblematic of the western Canada junior hockey championship, and qualified to meet Owen Sound in the Canadian final.

Regina won the first game of the series Friday, 2 to 1, but Port Arthur won the round, 5 to 3. Tonight's game was one of the hardest fought junior finals ever staged here. Port Arthur staged a great finish, and on the play fully deserved the verdict. Regina had a slight edge in the first period and assumed a one-goal lead when Williamson went through in the final minute. In the second period, Cross, who played a sensational game throughout, tallied with a long shot that got away from Langford. Though the goal was a soft one, the Westends deserved it on the play.

While playing shorthanded Barton got a break in the third period and Port Arthur scored again. Ten minutes later they tied the series.

Slow Groove Ball Too Slow to Be Strike

ROWLAND SUGGESTS UMPIRES WEAR FULL DRESS SUITS IN EXHIBITION GAMES

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

There are as many different personalities among umpires as there are umpires. The habits and complexes of these strange creatures are as unusual as they are amusing.

"Bull Neck" Bill Guthrie, former American league umpire, is the "hard boiled" type. Bill, like all good umpires, always claimed there were no close decisions. If a hitter or base runner kicked over being called out on a close play, Bill would stop him with, "Dere either 'dis' or 'dat,' kid and 'dis' time it's 'dat'!"

Bill Byron, the famous National league singing umpire and originator of those famous sayings, "You can't hit the ball with the bat on your shoulder," and "Whenever you swing you're dangerous," had an aversion to calling a strike on a slow ball. He would call a slow ball right in the groove a ball. "Two slow for a strike," he would sing out in answer to the enraged protests of the pitcher and catcher and then start humming a few stanzas from Il Trovatore.

Clarence Rowland always claimed it would add class to the game if the umpires did their guessing attired in full dress suits like the referees in a billiard match.

Clarence realized his ambition two years ago in the "soup and fish" league in an exhibition game in Miami, Fla.

VICTORIAS ARE AGAIN AT HOME

Canadian Hockeyists Won All Fifteen Starts on European Trip

ST. JOHN, N.B., March 21.—Fresh from a triumphant tour of Europe, the Victoria hockey team of Montreal arrived here this morning on the Canadian Pacific steamer Montclare. The team left New York on January 22 for Sweden, and during the two months' tour of Europe played a total of 15 games, all of which they won, nine being shutouts.

The Canadians scored a total of 12 goals to their opponents' 15. The team was well received every place they went, and members said that they had a thoroughly enjoyable trip. According to members of the team, the Canadian national pastime is making great strides in Europe and in a couple of years there should be several good teams there, especially in Sweden, where the game has taken a firm hold.

CALGARY-WINNIPEG FINAL GAME OFF

The Tigers will leave for Duluth from here where they will meet the league leading Hornets in exhibition games.

JOHNNY VACCA BEATS LA BARBA

Flyweight's Title Not at Stake, However; Is Second Win for Victor

BOSTON, March 21.—Johnny Vacca of Boston tonight won the decision over Fidel La Barba, world's flyweight champion, in a 10-round bout at the Boston arena. They fought at catchweights and the champion's crown was not in danger. It was Vacca's second win over La Barba within a few weeks.

Vacca weighed 116½, and La Barba 117. While the verdict was a popular one, ringside observers were not agreed as to the merits of the boxers, who were evenly matched. Vacca fought more aggressively than La Barba, who appeared content to play safe and score by jabbing.

playing defence with Anderson and missed his man. Cook accounted for the Forts' final goal after Ward had shot.

Kendall gave the Trail supporters a chance to cut loose when he slammed the rubber in after a nice combined effort, in which Wheatley and Lauriente also figured. Kearney had no chance to save. Wheatley drew the only penalties of the period, the second one appearing to be unwarranted.

Shots Well Out

Trail failed to bore in on the net without their line being badly disorganized. Most of their shots were from well out, and when they did get inside Kearney handled all their efforts faultlessly.

Kendall was brilliant and Wheatley was outstanding. Percy Jackson stood out like a beacon in the Trail nets. The youngster saved the score from going into double figures by pulling off save after save of the most sensational variety. Fort William players remarked after the game that his exhibition against them was the finest they had witnessed all season. Time and again he beat two opposing forwards single-handed. Only a magician could have done better.

Approximately 6100 fans attended the game.

First Period

Going into the contest with a two-goal lead, the Fort William team played a strong defensive game, their forwards backchecking and skating back fast. They scored one goal through Cook in six minutes, after he had drawn the Trail goalie out of the net. The Forts played more finished hockey, Trail combination being lacking at the crucial time, very often. They sent in a number of shots, however, which brought the Forts' net minder to his knees. The Forts had a distinct edge on the play.

Second Period

The second period was productive of very scrappy and indifferent hockey. Fort William scored the only goal when Davis beat Jackson clean on a high shot just as the session ended. Checking was very hard and Reddick was laid out by a blow from a stick and carried off the ice.

Four penalties were handed out, but Referee Genge was booed and hooted, papers were thrown on the ice and a general uproar ensued. The Trail goalie saved his team on many occasions by wonderful net minding.

Third Period

The Forts continued their scoring in the last period, getting two counts, while Trail's only counter came from Kendall on a combination play.

Ward and Cook were the stars of the play, each sagging the net and causing Jackson to display his best wares in keeping the count down. Near the end Trail livened up, but the Forts' defence and stiff backchecking held them at bay, their score being batted in after Lauriente and Wheatley had shot. Both teams missed several chances to score with open nets but could not finish. Only two penalties were handed out, both to Wheatley of Trail.

TRAIL FORMS A NUCLEUS OF A ROTARY CLUB

To Apply for Charter; Wasson Urges Assist Child Welfare Survey

SHEFFIELD SPEAKS PROGRESS OF MAN

Natural Barriers Are Replaced by Psychological, Social Boundaries

Addressing the Nelson Rotary club at the Hume yesterday, P. H. Sheffield, inspector of schools, described civilization's breaking down of social barriers, and prophesied that the schools of the future would consist of workshops rather than classrooms.

President J. S. Carter announced that a group of Trail men, numbering 25 had formed the nucleus of a Rotary club, and would apply for a charter. They asked that Secretary George Horstead should attend a luncheon in Trail tonight to instruct the prospective club in the clerical work attendant upon formation of a Rotary club.

W. E. Wasson introduced a resolution empowering the directorate of the club to give what assistance it might consider proper to the child welfare survey now being made in British Columbia. Alex McFarland, Vancouver, who addressed the club here last week, expressed the wish that the Rotary club would assist in this work, for which the Vancouver club was largely responsible.

Object of Survey

Mr. Wasson thought the necessity of child welfare work was not felt in the interior as it was at the coast. He said the object of the survey was to get data respecting conditions of child life in the province and then to make representations to the government in an effort to have legislation made to remedy those conditions.

In older times, Mr. Sheffield stated, groups of men were separated by natural barriers such as oceans, mountain chains, deserts and jungles. These barriers led to social isolation, diverging customs and language differences.

Barriers Human

Civilization led to the breaking down of those barriers until what happened in one part of the world yesterday was known to all civilization by the next day. Today the obstacles that confronted men were found in the mind and human nature rather than in nature. Ideas played a greater role and environment less. Man became a citizen of the world rather than of a parish and psychology rather than geography provided the key to human betterment.

The family was a natural formation with instinct lying back of it. The school was not "a natural formation but a thing willed." Society took it up and molded it into an institution with a purpose.

With the advance of civilization the school's objectives had come to include training for citizenship and the teaching of the dignity of labor. The old "father to son" teaching was gone, and the apprentice system had failed.

Social Service Education

"Unfortunately our notions of what ought to be taught come from a time when schooling was for the children of the propertied and professional classes," Mr. Sheffield said. "Figures show that three out of five must earn their bread by manual labor, and the school must come closer to farm and workshop."

Education for social service was also part of a modern education, and everyone was now a partner in educating the world. "We must do our share to level up all the peoples of the earth," he said.

GARDEN CONTEST TO OPEN IN MAY

Horticultural Society to Ask Hunt, Bealby and Barton to Judge

Judging of gardens in the 1927 contest for the Lieutenant-Governor Nichol cup trophy will commence in May. The Horticultural society, which has charge of the contest, will ask last year's competition judges, J. T. Bealby, E. C. Hunt and Alderman Samuel Barton, to officiate again this year. Letters of appreciation of their services in 1926 have been sent to them. W. R. Blanchard's garden won the cup last year.

The society is planning to increase its membership and to stir up the interest of its members by a series of talks on gardening at its meetings.

Ratepayer Expresses Opposition to Civic Grant for Publicity

To the Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—President C. F. McHardy of the Nelson board of trade has undertaken to publicly criticize an alderman of the city for having the audacity to oppose the city grant to the board of trade.

Mr. McHardy informs the public that there are 125 members in his organization. It has been a source of wonder to most of us when the board of trade sends out resolutions (such as the last one asking a repeal of the Minimum Wage act), and other instructions to the government, just how much they represented the citizens. Now, we know they represent but very little, 125 to the other 6000.

But he would have us understand that the 6000 others who are not in his organization cut but very little figure when it comes to knowledge and wealth, and that if the city was run properly the business element would be doing the running.

What the rest of the common herd would like to know of the president is, do the business men of a city keep the rest of its inhabitants, or do the producers keep the business element? It seems to us that if there were no one to buy, the business firms would have to close up.

Also, the more wage the worker gets, the more he spends, and the better it is for business. He might think of this the next time a minimum wage resolution comes up.

But we are indeed glad to know that the board of trade speaks for so few on these questions, and that the rest of the ratepayers are allowed to participate in conducting the business of the city, and can see that men like Aldermen Barton and McKenzie are elected to oppose granting money to a concern of which it is extremely doubtful of the benefits received.

The duty of the council is to save the people's money given to them in taxes for public use, and the giving of money to the board of trade is not one of these.

The city council can do more in the way of publicity with $500, if they would undertake it, than ever the board of trade could do with $1500. If President McHardy wants to know how popular this grant is let him ask for a vote on it.

RATEPAYER.

GYROS HEAR ABOUT MINISTERS' ORDER

Rev. Mr. Dredge Talks to Them About "Preachers and Preaching"

"Preachers and Preaching" was the subject of Rev. F. R. G. Dredge's address last night to the Gyro club when it met in the Canadian Legion building.

He was proud, he said, of the order of ministry, though he granted there were some individual members of it of whom he was ashamed. Ministers have proved heroic in the past, he said, and cited the case of John Knox, who defied a queen to do her worst, when he believed it was in the interests of his religion.

Student ministers included in their ranks great athletes, Mr. Dredge said. Some of the world's most brilliant scholars and orators were ministers, and they entered the profession, the speaker asserted, because they thought they were doing their greatest possible service to mankind.

With Tommy Crannage playing banjo solos, and later accompanying group singing of old songs, the meeting concluded in a festival of song.

Mr. Crannage was in charge of program, and Vice-President Dr. W. S. Steed, presided.

MILLER RESIDENCE DUTCH COLONIAL

Pour Concrete for $50,000 Theater; Excavate for Big Garage

A. H. Green company, contractors, is enjoying a season of building prosperity, with three big jobs under way and a contract awarded for another.

The company has started construction for itself of a business block which will adjoin the new moving picture house, and will be immediately west of the Central garage building. An up-to-date fire proof building, it will be constructed of concrete, and will measure 120 feet in length and 25 feet in width. The lower storey will be used as warehouse by the Green company, and the upper story will be rented out as offices.

Construction will start immediately of a residence which will cost nearly $10,000, for W. O. Miller, retired Canadian Pacific railway divisional superintendent. It will be located on Observatory street at the Stanley street intersection, and will be in the Dutch Colonial style. It will measure 52 feet in length by 24 feet in width, and will have two full stories and a concrete basement. There will be 10 rooms, with sun porches on each end of the building.

Pour Concrete for Theater

Excavation of the site for the new $50,000 moving picture theater is well advanced, and concrete foundation and walls are now being poured. The work of tearing down the old Central garage building, on the site of which part of the theater will be built, is rapidly proceeding. The company will lease the building to the Famous Players Canadian corporation at its completion about June 30.

Considerable excavation work on the site of the new Nelson Transfer garage on Vernon street has been done. The garage, when completed, will be the most modern and largest building of its kind in the interior of the province.

ARTIST'S WIFE AND SALESMAN CONFESS CRIME

But Woman Claims Man Dealt Blows Which Ended in Death in New York

NEW YORK, March 22.—Henry Judd Gray early this morning confessed that he and Mrs. Ruth Snyder murdered her husband, Albert Snyder, District Attorney Newcomb announced.

NEW YORK, March 21. — Her veracity, which earned her the nickname of "Tommy," broken under the force of a 14-hour grilling by detectives, young Mrs. Snyder is in prison here tonight, a confessed accomplice in the murder of her husband. On a train speeding toward New York from Syracuse is the man who she accuses of delivering the blows that ended Snyder's life. He is Henry Judd Gray, 34, a salesman for a corset company. He says that he knows nothing about the murder, although he admits intimacy with Mrs. Snyder.

The body of Albert Snyder, middle-aged art director of the magazine, "Motor Boating," was discovered early Sunday morning on his bed in his home in Queens village, Long Island. He had been beaten on the head, presumably with an iron bar, and his neck was nearly twisted through with picture wire. Mrs. Snyder could at first give no coherent account of the fateful Saturay night.

Mr. Peterson, who is assistant surveyor of taxes, will handle the collection of the new gross income of turnover tax for the government.

ELEVENTH LEVEL OF WHITEWATER IS SHOWING ORE

On Twelfth Level West Crosscut Is Intersecting Ore Bodies

At the Whitewater mine, 18 miles from Kaslo, the drift to the east on the No. 11 level, which is still some distance from a point vertically under the winze from the No. 10 level, has been showing more or less ore for about 100 feet. It is confidently expected that the downward continuation of the main ore shoot, from which the big production of the mine came in the past, will shortly be opened up by the new drift.

Another important development is on No. 12 level, west, where a 50-foot crosscut opened up a second parallel ore body in the big lime band. The new ore body has been drifted on for 80 feet, showing an average width of 12 feet and average values of 3.1 ounces silver, 3 per cent lead and 11.6 per cent zinc.

Indications are that this ore body, like the one one the same level from which the mine has been shipping steadily for the last 12 months, will prove to be 250 feet in length.

Work has just been started to open up a third parallel ore body in the same formation.

RAILS LEAD IN STOCK RALLIES

Atchison to Fore as Market Leader; General Motors Close Is Lower

NEW YORK, March 21. — Stock market displayed a complete reversal of form today, selling down rather sharply in the morning when pressure was renewed against a number of industrials and specialties but rallying briskly later under the leadership of the high-grade rails.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day and there was no change in the time money and commercial paper rates.

Atchison again came to the fore as a market leader, scoring an extreme gain of over 6 points, most of which was retained, by touching 179¾. Norfolk & Western moved up over 3 points, to a record high at 175⅝. Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh, ordinarily active, jumped 5, to 104.

General Motors closed ¼ lower, at 179, after having dipped to 175½. United States Steel common closed a point higher, at 163½. Commercial Solvents B soared 7 points to a record top at 278¾. Houston Oil was again under pressure, breaking about 10 points, to 97½, and then recovering about half its loss.

Total sales—1,837,100 shares.

GRANTED LEAVE TO APPLY FOR FIRMS' WINDUP

National Trust to Apply Immediately, Windup Steel Concerns

HALIFAX, N.S., March 21. — The National Trust company, as receiver and manager of the Dominion Iron & Steel Company, limited, was today granted leave to apply for the winding up of the British Empire Steel Corporation and the Dominion Steel Corporation, by Mr. Justice Chisholm of the supreme court of Nova Scotia. Proceedings for the order were initiated last week.

F. R. MacKelan of Toronto, counsel for the corporate trust department of the National Trust, stated today it was the intention of the National Trust to proceed immediately with the application for the winding up order. The only consideration which might have the effect to deferring the proceedings would be an assurance from the president and directorate of the British Empire Steel Corporation that they would recommend to the shareholders at the general annual meeting, to be held in April, the immediate winding up of the company, as required by the National Trust.

Among the reasons given by Mr. MacKelan for the decision reached was impairment of capital, the fact that the Dominion Steel Corporation, with no bonded indebtedness, had guaranteed part of the issue of consolidated bonds of Dominion Iron & Steel Company, and by reason of this guarantee proceedings might be taken against the Dominion Steel Corporation which might jeopardize the assets of Dominion Steel Corporation, and further that the interests of all would best be served by liquidation.

MINES MARKET SHOWS WEAKNESS

Gain by Vickers Is Feature; Laval Quebec and Atlas Register Gains

TORONTO, March 21.—A generally weaker feeling was in evidence on the Standard mining exchange today. The market was fairly broad and active with losses outnumbering gains by a considerable margin.

Laval-Quebec advanced ¾, to 29¾, while Atlas gained 1, to 5¾. Canada Would Welcome Reciprocal Reduction in Tariff on Cattle

WASHINGTON, March 21. — In the absence of W. M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, no official comment is forthcoming on the statement of the Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Canadian minister of agriculture, that Canada would welcome reciprocal reduction in tariff on cattle.

It was the second reciprocity gesture the Canadian government has made in a few days, the other being Premier King's statement that he would welcome a reciprocal arrangement on fish and other products.

It is not considered likely that the suggestions will bear fruit, unless concessions are made for the entry into Canada of United States manufactured goods.

Capacity of 200 Tons Financed by Stock Issue to Be Voted

VICTORIA, March 21. — Outlook for the Lucky Jim Lead and Zinc company appears to be very bright. During the past year it has created so substantial an ore reserve that the management is planning immediate equipment of the mine with a flotation plant of 200 tons daily capacity. To finance this, an increase in the company's capital stock, now 2,000,000 shares, par value 10c, is expected to be voted at the forthcoming annual meeting. In the event of such increase being authorized, it is understood that a sufficient block of shares will be underwritten to provide all the money required.

Once the property is equipped with a mill of that character and capacity, it is confidently expected that the company will soon thereafter be able to inaugurate regular dividend disbursements.

QUEBEC AREA TO BE DEVELOPED

Five Hundred Million Dollars Will Be Spent in Lake St. John Area

QUEBEC, March 21. — Premier Taschereau announced this morning that an English syndicate is planning the spending of $500,000,000 in industrial development in the Lake St. John region of Quebec province. The premier said he had not yet had official news of the latest developments in the project, but he said he could say that the news was quite true, as when he was in England last year, the scheme was being mooted, and he was fully cognizant of the whole affair.

Five hundred million dollars to be spent in the developing of mining, pulp and paper work, and railways, gives assurances that the Lake St. John area will, in the near future, become the greatest industrial center of this province, and one of the greatest on the continent.

FINDS HER BOARDER DEAD IN HIS ROOM

EDMONTON, March 21.—Anxious to help her boarder who had not left his room in her home for some time, Mrs. Ernest Poole found the dead body of Thomas H. Shaw, aged sea captain, lying in a huddled heap on the floor of his bedroom. IMPROVEMENTS IN KERR BLOCK

Changes to Suites Make as Modern as Big Cities—Home Atmosphere

Recent changes made in several of the suites in the Kerr Apartments have made these apartments as modern as any found in the larger cities. The changes made consist of the complete remodelling of five of the two-room apartments, the main room enlarged and a separate kitchen installed. In the daytime the suite is conspicuous by the absence of any resemblance to a bedroom, this being overcome by the suite being equipped with the newest type of disappearing bed, which at night-time can be placed in any position desired in the main room. Other conveniences consist of built-in refrigerators, buffets and kitchen cabinets. These apartments have been completely remodelled and furnished and, taking all in all, are provident in maximum comfort and attraction to the tenant.

While these are only one or two of the many improvements made in the last year or two in these well-known apartments, a real touch of home is added, and one which is so often lacking to dwellers in apartments, is the attractive lawns and handsome gardens recently completed and which are at all times at the disposal of the tenants. Nelson is fortunate in having in its midst such an institution and so conveniently situated.
