Three Dead in Redwoo d Coffins Discovered on D ead Man's Isle Off San P edro Harbor, California

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 29. — Three dead men of Dead Man's Island in the harbor here, were found today. Buried five feet deep and side by side, they were, in rude redwood caskets, in graves up on top of the island. Fifty or maybe 100 years had passed by since the burials, the finders judged from the condition of the heavy redwood coffins.

And not a mark was found on the coffins, or evidence other than the skeletons within, to tell which of the many legends of Dead Man's Island the discovery supported. These legends, told by old sea dogs on the waterfront, run from mutiny on a Spanish ship, half a century ago, to a scourge that hit a ship that was here before there was a harbor, and other tales of pirates and dark deeds.

The three coffins were discovered by contractors who were removing Dead Man's Island from the harbor as a menace to navigation. Both coffins and skeletons will be held for scientific examination to determine when and how the dead men came to be buried on Dead Man's Island.

BUDGET CHANGE TO INCOME TAX GOES TO SENATE

Carries in House on Division by 85 to 21; Esling Among Minority

OTTAWA, March 29.—Dividing within a few seconds of the automatic hour of adjournment, the house tonight carried by 85 to 21 the bill to give effect to budget changes in the income tax. The bill now goes to the senate.

Robert Gardiner, U. F. A., Arcadia, gave as the opinion of his group that the government was moving too fast in the reduction of income tax.

John Evans, Progressive, Rosetown, said that nothing had been done by the government to lower the cost of living but a substantial reduction was being given to those who had skyrocketed prices during the war.

C. H. Cahan, Conservative, St. Lawrence, asked whether the minister proposed to make provision for taxing the wheat pool. This was an organization which turned in a large profit and Mr. Cahan failed to see why it should not be taxed.

Hon. Mr. Euler advised that the reduced taxes did not alter the act in that respect and the liability of the wheat pool was now under consideration.

BILL GIVING WOMEN VOTES IS READ AGAIN

Passes British House With Majority of 377; Mingled Cheering and Laughter

LONDON, March 29.—Premier Stanley Baldwin today invited the house of commons to follow in line with Canada and Australia and the United States, "to mention only the English-speaking countries in which men and women are enfranchised on equal terms." The passage of the bill before the house, which would give votes to women over 21 years of age, would mark the final stage in the union of men and women working for the regeneration of their country and the regeneration of the world.

The debate on the second reading was lengthy and dull. At the outset of the session, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, secretary of state for home affairs, explained that the bill would place between 26,000,000 and 26,500,000 names on the voting registers at the May 1 listings and that women voters would be in a majority of about 2,000,000.

LADY ASTOR SPEAKS

Lady Astor spoke in opposition to Brigadier-General Sir George Cockerill. He had moved an amendment declining it on second reading. He argued that the measure would add 5,000,000 voters to the electoral and give women permanent majorities in most of the constituencies.

He concluded: "They propose to give not sex quality, but sex preference to women."

There was mingled cheering and laughter when the vote was taken and the division showed only 10 members supporting General Cockerill's proposal. The official ballot was 387 to 10 and the bill therefore was passed on second reading.

Whole Upper Valley South of Pike Lake Is Under Water

POLICE RUSH TO RESCUE A FAMILY

Ninety-six Square Miles Covered; Waters Continue to Mount

SASKATOON, Sask., March 29. — Overflowing its banks about 12 miles south of Pike lake and flooding the whole upper valley of this district to the extent of about eight miles long and 12 miles wide, the Saskatchewan river went on a rampage Thursday. A barrier of ice from 30 to 40 feet in height, extending across the the river south and east of Pike lake has caused the river to spread out over this whole district, forcing people from their homes. Homes have been flooded, stock lost and several families have barely escaped their lives, in what promises to be one of the worst floods ever experienced in the district. At a late hour tonight, Mr. Kenzies and his family, living southeast of Pike were absolutely cut off by the rising water and attempts were being made by members of the Saskatchewan detachment of the provincial police and J. H. Hoyt of Pike lake to effect a rescue. The whole district to the southeast of Pike Lake is under water which, rising steadily, was creeping northward.

RISES FOOT AN HOUR

George D. Archibald, city engineer, stated that in his opinion the flood was purely local to the district already affected and that no apprehension need be felt by Saskatoon citizens. Mr Archibald pointed out that it did not take a very great volume of water to cause an overflow in that territory, 15 or 20 miles of river being sufficient to cause flood conditions.

According to measurements of the local pumping station the river rose two feet between 4 o'clock this afternoon and eight o'clock tonight. At 10:30 tonight another two-foot rise was reported.

Ice thrown high into the air to descend on the solid ice sheet which still held or forced under the bed and packed into an almost solid dam, is causing the water to spread out of its usual course. The water is rising nearly a foot each hour, with no signs of abatement. Farmers on even some higher points surrounding the flooded areas are making preparations to leave their farms if the water continues to rise.

PORTLAND SHORTSTOP BOUGHT BY CHICAGO WHITE SOX PROVES SPRING TRAINING SENSATION

Comiskey Paid $123,000 for Him and His Defensive Ability Makes Hit; Sox Should Be in Pennant Race All the Way Says Stoney McLinn

BY STONEL McLINN

Shreveport, La.

Charles Comiskey paid $123,000 for Chalmer (Bill) Cissell, purchased from the Portland club. That stands as a record price. And already Mr. Comiskey is satisfied that his new shortstop is worth every penny of that huge stack of money.

Cissell is "The Story" here at the training camp of the Chicago White Sox. When a visitor arrives in Shreveport, the resident correspondents vie for the privilege of being the first to extoll the virtues of the $123,000 infielder.

For, as one expert put it "If Cissell is one-half as good as he has been in the spring practice games, he will improve the Sox to the point where they may actually be in the coming pennant race." He will give Chicago's American league team the something it has lacked since Swede Risberg strayed from the path of virtue—a worthy guardian of short field.

In the daily drills and in exhibition contests, Cissell has been so exceptionally skillful as a defensive shortstop that veteran observers insist he will be even better than Risberg was at his best.

However, even the most enthusiastic Cissell booster admits there is an IF. Will he conquer American league pitching? If he does, then the Sox will cease worrying about the shortstop post.

Cissell batted .323 playing in 183 games for Portland last season. But Pacific Coast pitching is not the brand at which Bill will be clubbing in his new major league berth.

Be that as it may, it is safe to write that Bill Cissell will improve the White Sox. In addition to his fielding skill and possible batting punch, he is noisily aggressive; and Chicago has needed that sort of a player on the infield.

Captain Willie Kamm will be on third base, as usual. Everybody knows that he has no superior as a defender of the hot corner—the records prove it.

Paired with a hustling shortstop, Willie may improve—on the whole, as it were. He has lacked that spirit—call it will-to-win, if you please—which makes a baseball player truly great.

It seems that Bill Hunnefield will have to reconcile himself to the keystone assignment. Honey Boy prefers to play elsewhere, but he knows it is second base or the bench this year, and he is doing his chores in a way that may make him an asset to the club.

Bud Clancy has won the first base job. He is another ball player who has improved. There are several young infielders doing their best to impress Manager Schalk and also the veteran, Aaron Ward.

But it is certain that, barring accidents, the Sox infield quartet will be Clancy, Hunnefield, Cissell and Kamm. That will be a nifty defensive quartet and the boys may hit around the .300 line.

Cracker Schalk insists he will attempt to do most of the catching this year. If he can, that will help the team. His noodle and pepper are big assest, although his arm is not what it once was.

When hitting Harry McCurdy is a fair catcher. But he doesn't hit consistently. Clyde Crouse is a hustler, but is not rated first string behind the mask. A kid from Corpus Christi, Charley Kellar, is a first-class receiver, but a total loss on the attack.

Moe Berg, former infielder, has been doing some catching this spring, but he is not a wow. The Sox backstopping may be a source of worry when the pennant race starts.

MOSTIL REAL "COMBACK" THROUGH WORRYING

Here's an important item of news. Johnny Mostil has come back. He has completely recovered from the self-inflicted injurics of last spring. He is mentally serene—happy and contented.

Manager Schalk declares that Mostil will be a better outfielder than he was two years ago. Johnny says: "I'm through worrying now; let the other fellow do it."

Of course, Mostil will not step right into the mid garden and cinch the job. Young Alex Metzler, who played center field so capably last summer, is anxious to remain there. Only Mostil at his best can keep Metzler on the bench.

Bib Falk will be the left fielder. Bill Barrett is not finding it easy to hold his job in right. Two promising rookies are after Bill's post.

One, Randolph Moore, batted .360 for Waco in 1927. Another Carl Reynolds, hit .367 for the Palestine Lone Star team. Both lads are fast afield and on the bases, and if they slap big league pitching they will remain with the Sox, even if Barrett keeps his job.

A Chicago baseball reporter remarked that "Thomas and Lyons will again comprise the Sox hurling staff." That is going pretty far.

THOMAS AND LYONS GREAT PITCHING PAIR

It will be admitted that Thomas and Lyons form the best curving duet on any big league team. Together last year they won 41 games—Lyons 22 and Thomas 19. Each pitched 303 innings. Both were among the leaders in effectiveness.

But there are other pitchers at the Sox camp who may do some winning curving this year. Red Faber, veteran spitballist, says his legs and right arm are strong once more. He is a cunning vet who may capture some contests.

Ted Blankenship is in better condition this spring than he was at any previous Sox training base. He is adding zip to his delivery that may be helpful.

Sergeant George Connally, who did some good work last season and who bumped into some tough luck, is a potential winner. Charley Barnabe is working hard enough. He might show something later. George Cox who won 20 games in the Cotton States league in 1927, is back for another whirl with the Sox.

There are "a flock of boy scouts cluttering up the premises," as a camp wit phrased it. Three fairly good pitching prospects are Grady Atkins, Phillip Heisick and Al Williamson.

Atkins won 17 and lost 12 pitching for Shreveport last year. Heisick turned in 22 victories for Munroe, of the Cotton States league. Williamson won 11 for Shreveport.

The three kids all throw with the right arm. In fact, there are only three southpaws in camp—Barnabe, Roy Wilson, from San Antonio, and Bill Goodell, a Tulsa semipro.

The Sox will have 10 pitchers on the payroll and possibly Barnabe again will be the only left-hander. Not so good!

SCHALK NOT OPTIMISTIC, BUT CONFIDENT

Ray Schalk, once the premier catcher in the league, is beginning his second season as manager with a better understanding of the requirements. Last year he was said to lack disciplinary tact.

"I learned a lot about running a ball club last season," Schalk said. "I feel sure I can handle the job better in every way."

Schalk kept the athletes hard at it in Shreveport. At the start of the training season they engaged in two workouts a day. Cracker saw to it that there were no laggards on the field.

"I believe we have found the man we have needed for eight years—a shortstop who can field and who will be the spark of the infield," the manager declared.

"Cissell is a natural ball player. He has all the confidence he requires and it never has occurred to him or any of us here at camp that he would miss.

"Mostil's comeback also is pleasing. He must play first-class ball in every department, for Alex Metzler is not giving up center field without a struggle. That kind of competition for a job is good for a ball club.

"I honestly believe that the White Sox will show improvement this year. I am not saying where we will finish. But we will be tougher to beat—which goes for the Yanks and all the other teams that are rated contenders."

The Sox coachers are Russell Blackburne, former infield star in the American league, and Ed Walsh, once an ace pitcher. They have polished the infielders and curves considerably.

If Cissell comes up to expectations and Kamm fields in his customary stylish fashion, the White Sox will be well worth while watching. They will have "color" on the defence that will provide thrills.

The next training camp story will tell about the Detroit Tigers.

DOUGLAS AND POULIN LEAD IN BILLIARDS

Are Head of "A" and "B" Sections of Semaphore Handicap Tourney

G. Douglas, with five wins, one loss and only one game to play, is leading "A" section of the Semaphore handicap billiard tourney, for possession of the handsome silver cup trophy donated by the management. J. Notman, with two wins, no losses and four games to play, is in second place in that section.

First place in the "B" section is held by P. E. Poulin, who has won three and lost no games. He still has three to play. L. Kerr holds second place in "B" section, having won three and lost one. He has two games to play. Several games still remain to be played in "C" section.

RUSH GAMES

The contestants in the handicap tourney are divided into classes, "B" class players having a certain handicap over "A" class and "C" class having a proportional handicap over "B" class players. The winners in each section will compete in the finals, which are to be played the last week in April, regardless of the number of games still to be played in the class competitions. In case the games in each class are not completed by then, the leading men will contest the finals.

The tournament committee has given out instructions for the players to rush the games they have yet to play with men in their own sections, disregarding games with players in the other sections, in order to bring the competition to a close and decide a winner for the cup before the date set if possible.

Keep in Health by Keeping in Touch With God

Such Is Advice Rev. Mr. Rowe in Trail; Life Is Spirit-Directed, Says

TRAIL, B.C., March 29.—Man should daily reestablish his connections with the spirit of the universe, God, and permit all his activities to be directed by that spirit, working through the physical apparatus of his mind and body in order to live in health and harmony, was the impression given by Rev. T. E. Rowe of Victoria, when he addressed a large congregation in St. Andrew's church tonight on "Spiritual Healing."

"Spiritual health," said Mr. Rowe, "its realization and maintenance, is more than a matter of doing away with disease. It is a matter of creating condition of health for the spirit.

He pictured health as resulting from living in accord with the functioning spirit of the universe, God, and diseases, all evil, resulting from separation from the spirit.

LIFE SPIRIT-DIRECTED

"Man's spirit," he said, "is the higher mind through which man can communicate with God and which enables man to differentiate between good and evil.

"When God put His spirit in man—some of His own mind—man became a being with a soul, or a being with a mind-life through which all his activities should be spirit-directed.

"Fundamentally," he said, "the problem of human sickness is a problem of the mind. If you want to have a properly balanced mind, judgment, joy and peace, take a little time each day to develop spirituality, communing with the infinite spirit actuating the universe.

Sound Policy to Develop Export Trade

The department of trade and commerce at Ottawa is working energetically to develop Canadian export trade and is calling attention by daily newspaper advertising to the facilities it offers.

Through the department's trade commissioners, 24 of whom are located in stragetic points in the world, valuable assistance is offered to Canadian manufacturers and producers who are endeavoring to build up export trade.

These commissioners will make surveys covering the marketability of any product in various countries, they will put Canadian firms in touch with reliable representatives and they will introduce Canadian travelers to trade houses in foreign countries.

Canada's export business is growing but it should grow much more rapidly and an active and intelligently directed department of trade and commerce can do much to increase it.

The Telephone Index of Activity and Methods

Statistics showing the number of telephone users are always interesting and usually reflect pretty clearly general business conditions.

Europeans, reading of Canada's per capita telephone use, hold up their hands in astonishment, but it is for substantial reasons that Canada has so many more telephones relatively than Great Britain or France.

We do business more quickly in this country than in Europe. We may waste a lot of time in one way and another, but we hate to be delayed when we are engaged in any transaction, or even in social intercourse.

Hence, we in Canada can hardly imagine a condition such as exists in Europe where in many countries the telephone in a private home is rather a rarity.

There is another reason. It is that in Europe the telephone is generally in the hands of the government. And state-operated utilities are seldom as well run as those conducted by private enterprise. The European government owned telephone costs much more than we pay in Canada, it is far less efficient and the "service" behind it is generally so bad that it would make most of us here in British Columbia apoplectic with rage.

February telephone statistics for this district show that Nelson gained 12 new subscribers during the month, an increase of a little less than 1 per cent. Trail gained 66, an increase of over 7 per cent, while Kaslo, stimulated by mining activity, gained about 3 per cent.

Lower Costs, Bigger Metal Recoveries by C. M. & S. Co.

From an operating viewpoint, results obtained in 1927 surpass those of 1926 in every way. In each department operating costs show a reduction and metallurgical recoveries a gain. The gross tonnage of metal produced was very much larger.—Extract from report of General Manager S. G. Blaylock at the Consolidated company's annual meeting.

Profits of the Consolidated company in 1927 were down a little, but were still around a million dollars a month. The reduction was due to low metal prices.

Mr. Blaylock's mention of lower costs and greater percentage of recovery of metals touches the keynote of the present mining situation in Kootenay. Owing to the tremendous strides which the Consolidated company has made in the treatment of ores it can today make a profit from ores which a few years ago were hardly worth mining. The independent producer benefits, also, because the Consolidated company treats his ore for him and gives him the advantage of the lower costs and the recovery of a greater percentage of the metal values, while the country at large benefits not only from present activity but also from the fact that the Consolidated company is able to produce metals at prices which will more than compete with the rest of the world. Hence we are assured of a stability and permanence which did not in the past exist in the mining industry.

Incidentally, Mr. Blaylock mentioned that mining costs at the Sullivan had been reduced 25 per cent and that a further reduction in the cost of getting out a ton of ore was expected during 1928.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

A Possible Cause of Migraine

I have written more than once about that miserable form of headache called migraine, which is a sort of neuralgia of one side or one-half of the head, accompanied by nausea, vomiting, and great depression.

Between attacks patients usually have a fair degree of health.

Just what causes it has never been definitely proven. That overwork and worry seem to predispose to the attacks is generally admitted.

Further, that the liver was a factor has been suspected for many years because of the "bilious" feeling that usuaccompanies the headache.

In order to try and fix the blame definitely upon the liver, Dr. J. S. Diamond of New York investigated 35 cases of migraine with the usual half-sided headache and abdominal symptoms.

He made liver tests in all these cases, which, as you know, consists of testing out the ability of the liver to store sugar within itself, instead of allowing too much to circulate in the blood.

Similarly, dyes and other substances are given to the patient, and the ability of the liver to take this dye out of the blood within a certain time is tested.

Where the liver took too long to separate the dye and store the sugar, it was thus proven that the liver was not doing its work properly.

In 32 of the 35 cases it was found that the liver was taking too long in doing this work.

He tells us that it is the inability of the liver to separate out the poisonous wastes derived from too much meat and eggs in intestine, that causes the headache and attack of biliousness.

He has been able to give patients relief by cutting down on meats and eggs.

Now, meats and eggs are good foods, and most of us should eat them at least once a day, particularly if we do physical work or take exercise, but where the system does not tolerate them well, then only after the individual is well rested should meat or eggs be eaten.

The above would certainly tend to prove that the liver in these individuals, by not doing its work, causes migraine.

As you know, the use of the ordinary epsom salts in small doses daily was shown to be of help in these conditions, because it depleted the liver, helped empty the gall bladder, and removed poisonous substances from the blood.

This is certainly a forward step in the invesigation of migraine.

I am always interested in the type of housekeeper who has the courage to help her husband live within his income. How few they are! And how very rare is the variety of wife who aids a saving husband! In the years to come, when they, themselves, will benefit by that masculine habit to save, such wives will admit that it was best, after all, to have scrimped a little bit in the early years; but it is then too late for them to help as much as they should have. Now, of course, I do not mean that any family should go without the real necessities of life, or even some of the pleasures—but, why not acquire a love of things which don't cost money? Reading a good story taken from the public library costs you nothing and gives you as much pleasure as a play or movie. Having a little evening of cards with some warm friends in your own home costs you nothing—yet it is even more fun than some costly pleasure out of the home.

I know of one young wife (living in a far-away town) who has recently come through a most interesting development along this line. Immediately after marriage she persuaded her young husband that they must find a rent in "the town's best residential neighborhood." Accordingly, although the husband's salary did not really permit such extravagance, they took a bungalow among wealthy neighbors—and proceeded to "keep up with the Joneses." They ran in debt, and it was almost a year when they finally began asking themselves: "What are we really getting out of this style of living, anyway?" They balanced anxiety over bills, and the quarrels which resulted therefrom, against the satisfaction and pride they had in living in so charming a street, and, to their own amazement, discovered that the struggle was not really worth while. And the best part of it all is that the girl was the first to recognize this truth—unlike many wives, she was willing to make a new and much humbler start; they gave up their rented house, took a cheap little apartment in a nice but unfashionable section, and, today are saving money—and forgetting that there was ever that anxiety over bills which had started them to quarreling.

Tomorrow—Your Child's Easter Party.

The 20 acres, which are to be used for experimental purposes, will be planted with several varieties of grain and root crops this spring.

Large signs will be displayed at intervals on the property to give information as to what crops are being grown. The information gained by these experiments should be of great benefit to the agricultural industry of the district.

'SHIRLEY'

The Girl Who Leaped Into Life

By NANCY BARR MAVITY

CHAPTER XXVI.

Justin leaned out of his wndow a moment, listening. Then he closed and latched the long wooden shutters, designed to keep out the tropical midday heat, and went quickly down the hall to Shirley's door.

"Come in," she said at once in answer to his knock. "It's all right; I heard it, too. I thought it was no use going to bed. Here, take my hand. I'd better not turn on the light."

She guided him through the heavy darkness of the room, and they knelt together by the window, peering through the slats of the shutters. From the village road where the day before they had strolled behind carts drawn by lumbering water-buffalo and painted with rayed red and blue suns, came an increasing din of gongs and high-pitched, wailing song. Half a dozen shots, astonishing occidetnal and civilized in the native uproar, crashed through the music in the distance.

"Not so good," Justin commented. They're armed. Curse a country, anyway, where the trains run only in the daytime. We ought to be well out of this."

Shirley stared intently into the courtyard. Children had played their pipes of bamboo reeds there yesterday, angling for coins, and women in brown and blue sarongs and tight-fitting kabayas had spread their pieces of batik for sale. Now the courtyard was rapidly filling with dark native forms. They were no longer remote and picturesque, but sinister—and, somehow, in the transition they became more human. Most of them had drawn the wavy blades of their krises from the tight belts of their sarongs, but two, in the lead, were waving revolvers.

"But it's all so futile!" Shirley exclaimed. "They won't get anywhere with this. The Dutch will be down on them in no time. They haven't a chance."

"Not in the long run," Justin agreed. "But just at this moment they can overwhelm the few white people in this village by sheer numbers. I met the proprietor a while ago—he was trying to put through a telephone call to Djibatoe for the police. Well, the wires are cut. He told me, too, that the natives have loosened the rails to keep the trains from running."

"But, they haven't anything against us, particularly. There aren't more than half a dozen of us in this hotel, including the proprietor's wife. And we haven't done anything to them."

"No, they chiefly want to make a demonstration. It's in the air. I doubt if more than two or three of them know what it's about. There's been a good deal of street fighting in the cities, where the rebels have real leaders — I picked that much out of a Dutch newspaper this evening after what you told me. These fellows have wind that something's doing, and they think they might as well take a hand."

Justin felt the clasp of a firm, small hand over his in the darkness.

"You don't have to try to be reassuring," Shirley said. "I know as well as you do that the police will come in the morning and get what they call the 'situation' in hand. They haven't chance against the whites, poor fellows. But we're not 'the whites'—we're just ourselves. And they can do plenty of damage to us if they've a mind to. But it won't do a bit of good for me to act frightened, even if I am, a little. So I won't." As a matter of fact, Shirley's teeth were chattering, but more from excitement than fear. "By the way, where's the proprietor? It seems as if he might be doing something instead of just letting them mull around like that, getting more worked up every minute."

"When he couldn't get through on the telephone, he slipped out by the rear entrance in a motor to drive to Djibatoe."

"And left us and his wife and that Dutch couple with their children here without a word? Well, that was clubby of him!" There was note of scornful indignation in Shirley's voice.

"It was the most sensible thing he could do; there wasn't anybody else to go. I say, look there—in the sky!"

Shirley shifted her gaze from the swarm in the courtyard. In the direction of the village, half a mile away, the sky was suffused with a pinkish glow.

"They've set fire to something. If they do that here, we're goners! This whole place is made of wood."

The din below rose in a mounting wave. There were shouts whose meaning neither Justin nor Shirley could understand. Someone threw a rock against the shuttered walls, and in a moment the whole front of the house was under a rattling bombardment.

"If they had any sense, they'd have been in long ago!" Shirley shouted against the noise." She was not frightened now. The sense of immediate danger gave her an odd feeling of detachment, shot with exhilaration. And with it came a deep inner calm. Whatever was to happen, would happen. There was no use protesting the inevitable.

"Did you see that fellow round the corner?" Justin asked in a low voice. "He had a torch. He's gone around to set fire to the rear."

Above and through the hailstorm of rocks and the shouting below there was suddenly audible an insistent, uninterrmttent blare, growing momently louder. The dense crowd broke and scattered as a motor car careened up the driveway. The man at the wheel drove with one hand, while the other continued to press the button of the horn. The natives jumped out of the way before it, like spray thrown from the prow of a ship.

"Gracious!" Shirley exclaimed. "It's Mr. Poole—in one of the Fords he took away from the sultan!"

The man below released the horn for a moment and shouted up to them through his cupped hands.

"Cranshaw! Miss Hardin! Make a break for it! Come quick!"

Justin seized her by the arm and they tumbled pell mell down the stairs, banging the door shut behind them. The horn had renewed its clamor, and the natives pressed away from the car in startled groups. Reaching one hand behind him, Poole opened the door of the rear seat, and Justin thrust Shirley in, flinging himself in after her. Before he had time to catch the swinging door they were tearing around the circle of the drive, spewing natives from their unheeding path.

"But the others!" Shirley screamed into Poole's ear above the continuous blast of the ear-splitting horn.

"They'll be all right," Poole answered over his shoulder. "The police are just behind. But I thought we wouldn't wait for 'em. There'll be shooting — I thought it wouldn't be very pleasant for a lady."

The road ahead of them lay dark and deserted, and the horn lapsed into blessed silence.

"We'll drive right through to Bandoeng, if you don't mind," Poole said in a matter of fact voice. "Things are all right there. We might as well make a night of it."

"But how on earth did you happen to be here?" Mr. Poole's sudden appearance to the accompaniment of his terrifying horn blasts, seemed to Shirley a bit of legerdemain on the part of fate.

"I attached those cars from the kraton at Djocka—you know, the ones I told you about that the old heathen didn't pay for. I got wind of the trouble on the railroads, so I drove one of them as far as Djibtoe, when your hotelman came in. He said you were here, and as it's on the way, I thought I might as well stop by for you."

"Thanks, Poole." On the steamer Justin had rigidly maintained the formality of "Mr." in addressing his fellow passenger. "Can you smoke a cigar while you drive?"

Justin felt Shirley tremble violently on the seat beside him. Was she having a nervous chill in reaction from strain? Was she crying? But as he bent close in the endeavor to see her face, she put her lips to his ear and breathed: "He isn't so bad after all, is he? And, remember, you wanted to throw him overboard for being too—friendly!"

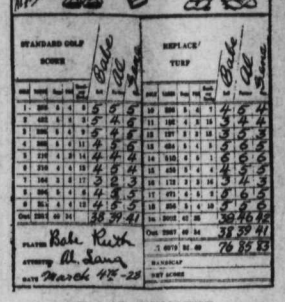
Babe Shows Al a Bit of Fancy Golf



By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher N. Y. Giants)

While Babe Ruth is not a serious rival of Bobby Jones or likely to annex the British or American golf championship this summer, he is nevertheless a very good golfer.

Playing with him for seven straight days over almost as many different courses this spring, I had the opportunity to watch him play over 16 rounds of 18 holes under varying conditions.

He shot an even 100 for his first round the first day. His next round was 93. From then on he never was out of the low 80s and had one round of 76, the card of which I have reproproduced in my cartoon. The mysterious "Gene" on the card is not, however, the heavyweight champ, but a well known Chicago newspaper man, "Gene" Conley.

Ruth's 16 rounds, varying from 100 the first round to his 76 on the 13th round averaged slightly less than 83.

HUDDERSFIELD IS MINUS STAR AND LIKELY TO LOSE

Everton Will Also Suffer From Same Complaint; Motherwell Picked to Win

LONDON, March 29.—League soccer clubs resume their struggle for points in the championship chase in scheduled fixtures in England and Scotland on Saturday. In the English first division Huddersfield Town are safely out in front in the averages, and it is a good thing they are, because the club is contributing four of its best players to the English team which plays Scotland at Wembley. The Town travels to Bury and can hardly expect to win. Everton, Leicester City and Cardiff City will continue their battle for second place, just now held by the first-named. Everton have to go to Sunderland and will not be at full strength as Dean, their center forward, is also on the English team.

Leicester City are entertaining The Wednesday and should win easily. Cardiff City go to Derby and their prospects of garnering points are not bright.

In the second division, while Chelsea are out in front, they need more points as Manchester City, with two games in hand, can hurdle into the lead if they strike a winning streak.

Until Rangers play off the arrears of games, Motherwell will likely keep the lead in the Scottish first division. Motherwell meet Partick Thistle on Saturday, and should win. Celtic receive Bo'ness and should win, also. Rangers play Clyde and should not have any difficulty in winning.

Survey Party Is Back From Work on the Bay Line

WINNIPEG, March 29.—After four months in the north country surveying the route for the Hudson Bay railway from the end of steel to Fort Churchill, Major J. L. Charles, reconnaissance engineer of the Canadian National railways, H. R. Wilkinson, local engineer, along with 24 members of their party, have returned to Winnipeg.

A week ago last Sunday snow was melting at Fort Churchill, Major Charles said, while the winter had been particularly mild.

The department of railways and canals had a large gang of men working on the harbor at the terminal. Work also was being pushed on the construction of the railways by the contractors and supplies were ready for shipment for the army of men which will commence grading as soon as weather permits.

HIGH GRADE GYPSUM IN CANADA

The quality of the gypsum found in Canada, more especially the white varity found in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario, is exceptionally high. It is used in many of the fine arts and is extensively employed in the manufacture of structural materials, such as plaster of paris, hardwall plaster, cement, etc. It is also used in the crude state as a fertilizer.

New mine is likely to be opened soon at Birch Grove, N.S.

BOYS TURN OUT FOR GYM WORK AT THE ARMORY

Boxing and Wrestling Engage Several; More Equipment to Be Installed

Several sets of boxing gloves, a wrestling mat, parallel bars, chest developers and a basketball provided several hours of profitable fun for about 20 athletically inclined youngsters, members and nonmembers of the First Nelson troop of boy scouts, at the armory last night. It was not the regular gym night, and the equipment at their disposal was only a small part of what will be set up within a week, yet the boys seemed to enjoy themselves immensely.

PLENTY OF EQUIPMENT

The equipment was obtained recently from the Canadian Legion and there is plenty of it. There are several bar bells to be put together yet and a "horse" which when set up will provide lots of fun. There are several sets of swinging rings, a trapeze and dozens of Indian clubs that will be in use by next Wednesday, when the boys will receive instruction from "Billy" Williams, who is in charge of the gym work.

Several rounds of boxing last night showed that the boys are pretty well versed in the art of self-defence. They have plenty to learn, however, and will be instructed in that line. George Cherry, patrol leader, gave the younger fellows a few hints last night.

GOOD WRESTLING

Some of the fellows preferred wrestling and several of them showed up well. Some good wrestlers should be developed. A few boys were busy with the chest developer, and they held that it was just as much an arm and leg developer as it was a chest developer. Others busied themselves doing exercises on the parallel bars, while others played basketball at one end of the hall.

Although there is only one night a week when classes are held, the boys have shown up in large numbers every night this week, auguring well for the future of the work.

Big Game Hunter Shoots and Wounds Hubby in New York

NEW YORK, March 29.—Mrs. Esther Wilson, big game hunter and sportswoman, today shot and seriously wounded her husband, Dallet Wilson, an attorney, in the Fifth avenue offices of a corporation with which he was connected.

Mrs. Wilson told police she had come from Washington, where she has lived for some time, to seek a reconciliation with her husband. She said she insisted, however, that he stop "running around with other women."

Wilson, son of John S. Wilson, a vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad, was taken to a hospital, where it was said one bullet had lodged in his back and another in his upper left arm.

VAST INVESTMENT IN POWER INDUSTRY

The capital invested in the water-power industry in Canada is estimated to be $900,000,000. This is more than that of any other single manufacturing industry in the Dominion. The corresponding figure in 1910 was $121,000,000, so that the increase in 17 years is over 600 per cent.

Gallon of rum was found in home of Mrs. Marcella Venner, mother of federal prohibition officer at Dubuque, Iowa.

TREALERS HAVE SENATORS OUTCLASSED

ONTREAL, March 29.—Montreal roons proved too good for the awa Senators here tonight in the nal of their two-game series in preliminary N.H.L. playoff series scored a 2-1 victory over their ds from the capital. The Montl team won the first game at Ota Tuesday night by a 1-0 count take the round by 3-1. he Maroons by their series vicy, earned the right to meet Cana ns, Canadian sectional leaders, in two-game series, the winners of ch will meet the United States tional champions in the Stanley p series. The Maroons' victory night was well earned, the locals playing unbeatable hockey which d the Senators outclassed at every rn. The locals scored one goal in ch of the first two periods, and, er a temporary lapse at the start the final frame during which Ota a scored their only goal, put up airtight defence in front of Bene t which could not be penetrated.

ERT SCORES

ibers scored the first goal half ugh the first period when he bed the rebound of Stewart's shot slipped the disc past Connell. It a neat effort in which the sturdy on pair completely baffled the torial defence. Early in the second d, Hooley Smith made it 2-0 when ot between the two Ottawa defence and fooled Connell with a slow, low e Senators' lone goal came soon the start of the final period when egan and Kilrea took advantage of mporary lapse by the local rear d to coast in on Benedict. Kilrea the scoring, his side shot eluding dict. It was practically the last t made by the Senators. They hard, however, but an unbeatable on defensive bulwark was thrown n front of the local net which the rs could not successfully penetrate. e game was not marked by much h work, but occasional flashes of er were nipped in the bud by the hful officials. ewart drew a major for using his stick on Clancy, but the rest of the offences were only for minor affrays.

FIRST PERIOD

Both teams were playing cautious hockey and the goalies were being given tight protection. A burst of speed by Kilrea almost got the Senators left wing flash in on Benedict. The Maroon defence, however, pushed him out of the way as he shot. The Senators began forcing and Benedict had some close calls.

The Senatorial attack was given added impetus when Stewart drew a major for charging Boucher. The visitors doubled the pressure and play was all in the vicinity of the Montreal net. Some high class stalling, however, held the fort for Stewart's defence.

MAROONS SCORE

Immediately upon their return to full strength, the Montreal team opened on the attack. A combined Stewart and Siebert rush found its way through the Ottawa defence. Stewart shot, but Connell blocked the drive. Siebert, however, was following in fast on the play and he grabbed the rebound and shot it past Connell, to give the locals a 1-0 lead on the game and a 2-0 advantage on the series.

The visitors began sniping long shots at Benedict in an effort to find at least one weak spot in the Maroons' defence armour. The veteran goalie was wide awake, however.

Clancy drew a minor for spilling Lamb, but the Maroons could do nothing with the one man advantage. Clancy returned to play shortly before the end of the period. Stewart banged into the boards and had to be taken out.

SECOND PERIOD

During the rest interval, Kilrea, speedy Ottawa left wingeer, was presented with a $400 check, the prize given to the National league player who proved the fastest skater during a series of individual contests staged here during the regular season.

Clancy and Siebert went off together for indulging in a slight bumping affair. With the teams at four men apiece, the Maroons got another goal, Hooley Smith fooling Connell when he lifted an easy shot between the two Ottawa defence men. The Montrealers came right back and almost got another on a fast combination attack.

Boucher went off for spilling Ward, but returned to action before any damage was done. Munro drew a minor for tripping. Stewart shot on Connell, but Ward was offside on the play.

Kilrea tripped Siebert and went to the penalty box. Maroons, led by some clever work by Ward, forced the pace, but could not add to their count.

Siebert and Boucher staged a little bumping act and each drew a minor penalty. They were joined by Ward, who tripped Alex. Smith. A moment later Alex. Smith threw Hooley Smith over his hip and went to the bench. Boucher and Siebert returned to the play in the meantime, however, and the teams were short only one each. Ward and Alex. Smith were both back at the bell.

THIRD PERIOD

Stewart beat Connell on a pass from Dutton a few seconds after the start of the final frame, but it was ruled offside. A minute later Finnegan eluded the Maroon defence. Clancy and Kilrea slipped the disc past Benedict for Ottawa's first goal.

The Montreal defence was showing signs of weakening. Several Senatorial attacks drifted right through and only perfect work by Benedict kept the visitors from adding to their count.

Finnegan drew a minor for tripping Stewart and the Maroons forced. Just before Finnegan's past time was up, Oatman spilled Boucher and went to the bench. Finnegan came on and the Ottawa team went on the attack with the advantage of an extra man. Stubborn work by the locals, however, kept the on-rushing Senators at bay.

The Maroons went to the defensive in the latter part of the third period, while the visiting Senators sent up a four-man attack. The local defensive system, however, was well knit and held. Manager Gill sent two veterans, Cy Denenny and Punch Broadbent on in the last four minutes in an effort to snipe off a couple of goals. The Maroons' defensive was not to be denied, however, and Benedict was given little trouble in the dying moments. Just before the bell, Alex. Smith and Dutton clashed mildly and were chased.

RANGERS TAKE FOUR-TO-TWO LOSS BUT WIN

Get Enough Goals in the First Game Against Pirates to Cop Series

PIRATES SCORE TRIO OF GOALS IN THIRD

Rangers Win Round by 6 to 4 Score; Lucky in Last Frame

NEW YORK, March 29.—Although defeated by 4-2 by the Pittsburgh Pirates here tonight, New York Rangers, by virture of their 4-0 victory in the first game Tuesday night, qualified to meet Boston Bruins in the final series for the championship of the American group of the National Hockey league with a score of 6-4 on the round. The Pirates tonight cut loose in the third period and scored three goals.

The teams each scored a goal in the first period, Abel, Ranger defence player, registering his first counter of the season. Burke, Pirate defence star, tied the score, and the period ended with the score knotted. The Rangers outshot the Pirates by a ratio of 2 to 1 in the first period as well as the second, which was scoreless. Roger Smith, Pirate sub, put Pittsburgh in the lead shortly after the start of the final period. Murdock tied the score again, but Smith dashed in to get a rebound for the second goal, again giving the Pirates a one-goal lead, which was increased to two goals when Cotton scored on Harold Darragh's pass just before the game ended.

Lorne Chabot, Ranger goalie, saved 19 shots in the final period, and at the rate the Pirates were attacking, the Rangers' two-goal margin would not have been any too large if there had been another period to play.

FIRST PERIOD

Abel scored his first goal of the season on a pass from Boucher. The Rangers' heavy defence blocked the Pirate' efforts to work in close, but Burke made frequent excursions into local territory during the first five minutes.

Burke, after several unsuccessful rushes, took the rubber from Johnson and netted for the first Pirate goal of series. Thompson was serving a penalty at the time. The Ranger forwards worked in perfect cohesion, but were not finding the Pirate back line as easy to pass as on Tuesday night. There was very little shooting on goal. Chabot made a clever save from Cotton, who took the puck around the net, and Worters cleared a warm drive from Boucher and another from Bill Cook just before the period ended. Chabot had only seven shots to handle. Worters was credited with 12.

SECOND PERIOD

Both teams did a lot of skating in the second period, but neither goal was threatened until three minutes had passed when Chabot and Worters both received a heavy shelling. Boucher hit the upright post on one shot. Drury made his initial appearance of the series, relieving Cotton, and immediately drove a hard shot at Chabot's chest. On the return play Worters was toppled by Johnson's scorching drive, but he cleared the puck. Chabot robbed Smith of a goal when he fell on the puck, shot from four feet out. Drury's entry into the game seemed to fire the Pirates with ambition and both teams traveled fast. Worters cleared difficult shots from Gray and Bill Cook and two from Buny Cook. Johnson was penalized for the second time this period for holding, the first one being for tripping. With Burke off for tripping, the Pirates were hemmed in and Worters was on the receiving end for a couple of minutes. The Rangers outshot the Pirates 15 to 8.

THIRD PERIOD

Cotton, Milks and Darragh each took hot shots at the Ranger goal and Burke and Cotton dashed down for a couple more, followed in quick succession by Milks, Darragh and McCaffery, who forced Chabot to save cleverly.

Smith put the Pirates in the lead when he converted a pass from Cotton, who evaded Johnson and circled the Ranger net.

Cotton caught Darragh's rebound off the back boards and scored the Pirates' fourth goal less than two minutes before the bell ended the series, which Rangers won with a margin of two goals.

VANCOUVER SCULLER JOINS ARGONAUTS

TORONTO, March 29.—Frank Adams, Vancouver sculler, champion of the North Rowing association and title holder of the South Pacific association, has joined the Argonaut club. The newcomer represented the Vancouver Rowing club at the Canadian Henley last season, where he was beaten for the first time since attaining prominence as a sculler by the redoubtable Joe Wright Jr., champion of Canada.

CADETS SIGN UP TWENTY PLAYERS FOR BALL TEAM

Secure Men From Mill Street and Live Wire Crews; L. Vance President

Twenty players were signed up by the High School Cadets' Baseball club at an organization meeting at the high school yesterday. It was deemed necessary to sign up that number as some are expected to be away during the summer holidays.

Lavern Vance, who piloted the High School Cadets intermediate basketball team to the city league championship, was elected president of the newly formed club. George Campion, last year catcher for the Mill Street Nine, was elected vice-president and manager, and Al Kirby, custodian of third base for the Mill street squad last year, was elected secretary-treasurer. J. S. Donaldson of the high school teaching staff, who coached the basketball teams, is to coach the baseballers.

THE PLAYERS

The 20 players signed up are: Lavern Vance, George Campion, Al Kirby, Bob Bell, Jim Bates, Lorne Stewart, Bob Horswill, Hans Farenholtz, Dunc McQuaig, Sandy Martin, Deacon Hanna, Ted McVicar, Bob Burns, Ben Crawford, Bill Vance, B. Long, R. Taylor, Frank Becker, A. Oliver and Douglas Hall.

Beside Campion, who it was expected would catch for Mill street, and Kirby, third baseman, the Mill Street Nine loses Deacon Hanna through the formation of the high school club. It was expected he would twirl for Mill street.

LOSE HORSWILL

The Live Wires, who were relying on Bob Horswill to look after first base and perhaps do some pitching, are now looking for a new man, for it was agreed that in the event of the high school entering a team in the Trafalgar Independent league, he would play for them.

Mill Street boys, who are the hardest hit by the high school decision, are nevertheless optimistic and still claim they can field a team that will come out on top of the league. While the team is practically lined up, they have not completely organized yet for the season. They are to hold a meeting soon, following the example of the Cadets and the Live Wires, and will elect officers.

TEAMS ORGANIZING

Boyd C. Affleck is also taking steps to round up a Married Men's team, and it is expected that a meeting will be called shortly. The Cardinal-Fuse Plug boys from the western section of the uphill district, are practically at standstill as far as organizing is concerned, but it is expected they will get going as soon as the proposed league meeting is called, shortly. The Nifty Nine, which was active at Trafalgar grounds last year, have decided not to enter a team this year.

OLD COUNTRY FOOTBALL RESULTS

LONDON, March 29.—In a soccer match today Notts Forest defeated Reading five to three. The teams are in the second division of the English league.

There are only six spitball pitchers left in the major leagues—Grimes, Pirates; Mitchell, Phillies; Doak, Brooklyn; Faber, White Sox; Quinn, Athletics; and Coveleskie, Yankees. The rule against spitball pitching was adopted by the majors in December, 1920.

A new world's record for the quarter-mile four-man relay event was established by a University of Southern California team recently, when it covered the distance in 41 3-5 seconds. Southern California held the former mark, 42 seconds.

. . . . . all others trail

Chrysler "72" performance makes all other performance in its field seem as out-of-date as last year's license plates. All you have to do is to ride in a "72," and drive it to appreciate the difference.

Only Chrysler's great engineering staff and precision manufacturing organization could have developed 75 smooth horse power from an engine of such moderate size.

You can, at will, do 72 miles an hour and more—velvety, easy miles—due to this unique and vibrationless engine with counterweighted seven-bearing crankshaft.

It takes mountain grades at constant acceleration. In traffic, the "72" flashes to the fore with characteristic Chrysler get-away.

Go to any Chrysler salesroom and ask for a "72" demonstration. Drive the car where and as you will. Demonstration will prove to you just how much better the "72" performs.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Read Mrs. Menard's Letter. Her Experience May Help

Chatham, Ontario.—"I want to tell you how much good your medicine has done me. Before my baby came I felt so weak and rundown that I could hardly do my work. My head ached continually and I was so discouraged that I could cry from morning till night. I had another baby just one year and a half old and it gave me a lot to do. So I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I had read so much about it in the little books. I found a difference right away as my head was relieved and my tired feelings gone. My sister had been doing my washing and she continued doing it, as she said it might set me back if I started to do it again. It sure did help me and I had taken just two bottles when my baby came. He is a fine big boy, now nearly five months old. I am taking your medicine again and I am able to do my work all by myself now. I always recommend the Vegetable Compound to women, and especially to expectant mothers, as I believe they need help at these times."—Mrs. OLIVER MENARD, 1 Harvey St., Chatham, Ontario.

McDERMOTT-HESS ASSOCIATES PLAN TWO OPERATIONS

In Addition to Iron Cap Group of Nine Claims, They Bond the John Bell Group

TO OPERATE UNDER NAME OF ELDORADO SYNDICATE

Will Develop Power on Iron Cap and Prospect the Bell Property; McDermott in Charge

Operations in this district of Paul A. McDermott, J. C. Hess and associates of Toronto, will be conducted under the name of the Eldorado syndicate, Mr. McDermott made known, before leaving for the east recently.

ADD DEER CREEK PROPERTY

Besides the Iron Cap group of nine claims on Fawn creek, bonded from Neil McColeman, a few weeks ago, the syndicate has obtained in the same way the John Bell group of eight claams on Deer creek, in the same general locality, from John P. Bell of Park Siding.

In addition to these, Mr. McDermott has personally taken over two claims south of and adjoining the Aspen group, that Salmo-Malartic Mines, limited, representing Toronto capital, has been developing intensively since last July.

Next week, Mr. McDermott, who has been in the practical mining game for the most of his life—the last nine years in the fields of Ontario and Quebec, and before that in Idaho—is expected back from the east, to remain here for the season, in charge of the syndicate's interests, and to direct the work.

The Iron Cap, it is understood, will be the first consideration, and immediately the snow goes off its development will be taken in hand. A. Pelton wheel will be installed, which it is hoped will afford sufficient power for a compressor for preliminary development, and the A. H. Green company has been instructed to survey for a power development on Fawn creek falls, which is on the property. At the same time a survey will be made for a possible lower tunnel at the base of the falls, the situation being such that considerable depth could be gained on all the veins by going in there.

Part of the existing development consists of a 20-foot shaft on the Gold Bug claim, which has a width of four and a half feet of clean galena, and this shaft will be continued, as a part of the preliminary development, while surface trenching will be carried on to further explore the showings.

Action in the nature of prospecting on the John Bell group is expected to start about May 10. This property which has surface showings of galena, carrying gold sulphides, on several veins, has so far been developed by test pits and shallow tunnels, representing work done by Mr. Bell, and Joseph Caron of Trail.

Mr. McDermott has made no plans as to what he will do with the claims adjoining the Aspen, whose development by the Salmo-Malartic people has been the consequence of the bond he obtained on it last year from Percy Horton.

CHINESE DRAWS GUN IN COURT

Interpreter Charging Cursed by Witness Issues Threat at Victoria

VICTORIA, March 29.—Yu Cheong Leong official interpreter, startled the assize court here today when he started to draw a gun on a prosecution witness whom he believed had uttered a curse on him in the course of the rites of a Chinese oath during the trial of Chew Leong Sing, charged with attempted murder of Wong Lim here on February 5 during an affray. The interpreter restrained himself, but warned the witness.

Yu Wai, the witness, was standing with an axe poised about to strike the head off a chicken, part of the oath taking, when he was heard to say something in Chinese.

"Now Yu Cheong, I chop your head off," were the witness' words Yu Cheong told police officers afterward.

As the words were spoken the interpreter darted forward with an ejaculation, reaching for his gun, but restrained himself. "If you do that again, I will shoot you down," he called to the witness in English. He told police that he had been similarly cursed by a witness yesterday.

IS REPRIMANDED

Police officers crowded forward when the incident occurred and Mr. Justice McDonald delivered a reprimand. Yu Wai was obliged to start over again, singing a declaration consigning his heirs and himself to extinction if he told not the truth, and burned this in front of the joss. Then he struck the head from a second chicken without comment.

Yu, who apologized to the court and agreed to disarm himself for the rest of the trial, is official translater for the Royal Canadian Mounted police and produced a permit for the possession of the revolver he carried.

The trial is continuing with the court room double guarded.

FEND D'OREILLE DEVELOPMENT OF SYNDICATE BIG

Ore Proving on Huge Ledge of the Reeves-McDonald Group Continuous

TWO ADIT TUNNELS ARE DEEP IN LEDGE

Crosscuts at Short Intervals to Show Width; Ore Developed to 750,000 Tons

One of the largest development operations in this district is that of the Victoria syndicate, upon the Reeves-McDonald group, on the Pend d'Oreille river, some distance up from its junction with the Salmon.

Holdings of the syndicate now extend over four miles, the property embracing a section of the well known Pend d'Oreille lime belt, on which so many operations are now being conducted, including on the Canadian side, the Hunter V. and Hudson Bay, by the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company of Canada, and the Aspen, by the Salmo-Malartic people of Toronto.

The company is doing continuous work, driving and extending adits, and generally proving up the various ore bodies.

LEDGE OF GREAT WIDTH

No. 1 tunnel, the lower, is stated to be now in 1000 feet, following the great ledge, crosscuts being driven at intervals of 100 feet to determine the width, which is running from 50 to 100 feet.

It is stated that the ore is a lead-zinc carbonate, with occasional shoots of sulphide ore in it, which latter carry high values in silver, lead and zinc.

No. 2 tunnel, which is 4000 feet east of No. 1, has explored the big ledge so far for 1100 feet.

Something like 750,000 tons of ore is said to be developed to date. The McDonald portion of the group is understood to be bonded from J. H. McDonald of Rossland for $100,000.

CONFUSED PRICE MOVES ON WALL

Rubber Shares Active and Are Strong; Recessions Among Recent Leaders

NEW YORK, March 29.—Extremely confused price movements characterized today's stock market. The heavy profit taking induced in part by the stiffening of money rates, and fears of a large increase in brokers' loans, caused recessions of one to three points in a number of recent leaders.

The weekly federal reserve report of brokers' loans, issued after the closing of the market, showed an increase of $46,865,000 bringing the total to $3,834,339,000.

Rubber shares were active and strong in anticipation of a lightening of restrictions on British exports of the commodity.

Radio broke from an early high of 173½ to 167½ and then rallied to 170½ up three points. General Motors closed 1¼ lower at 185 after fluctuating between 182½ and 186. U.S. Steel common, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, Nash Motors and several other recent favorites declined a point or more. Rails displayed a fairly firm undertone with Union Pacific and Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred, reaching new high ground.

Total sales 3,765,400 shares.

WEATHERHEAD IS WINDING UP YAHK LOG ACTIVITIES

One Camp Already Closed; Now Hauls Out Logs Preparatory to Closing Second

CHIEF LOG SUPPLY FOR CANADIAN PACIFIC MILL

Employed Up to 120 Men at Height of Season; Flume After Water Rises

Operating two logging camps in the Yahk district for most of the season now concluding, and employing up to 120 men at the height of the activity, W. A. Weatherhead of Nelson, logging contractor for the Canadian Pacific railway, has just gone to Yahk to close the second of his camps and wind up the season's cutting of logs. He closed the first camp a short time ago.

Probably within two weeks if the snow on the logging roads holds, he will have the last of his logs out ready for driving, and the last of the 50 men today on his payroll, paid off.

When the water rises in the spring, he will resume work, but at fluming, bringing the season's output of logs down to the C.P.R. mill at Yahk, which started about March 1 on its season's sawing. The fluming will probably end in July.

OPEN MOST OF YEAR

Normally Mr. Weatherhead starts logging about the first of September, though last year he started in August. This is his sixth or seventh season in the Yahk area, as a logging contractor for the railway company.

At times the past winter woods operations at Yahk designed to supply the railway company's mill with material from which to saw lumber and ties engaged as high as 150 men, there being other branches engaged in addition to Mr. Weatherhead. H. B. Murray is superintendent of woods operations for the railway company in the Yahk area.

KEEP GUESSING PREMIER URGES ELECTION DATE

"I haven't Any Idea as to When It Will Be," Says on Arrival Here

TO ATTEND LIBERAL CONVENTION TODAY

Creston Riding Will Nominate Here; Goes on to Greenwood Saturday

"Keep on guessing and you're bound to get it right in the end."

This was Premier MacLean's reply to a question, "Is the election set for June?" when he arrived in Nelson last night. He will attend the Creston riding Liberal nomination convention here today.

"We don't know when the election will be," the premier added. "I will be one of the first to know and I haven't any idea yet as to when it will be."

Premier MacLean said he was in Nelson to carry out his promise to the Creston Liberals, whom he told last fall to postpone their nomination until spring, so that he could attend.

The premier will leave Nelson by the Great Northern train tomorrow morning en route to Greenwood, where he is to address a Liberal gathering. He formerly lived at Greenwood.

Among those who met the government leader here last night were J. A. McDonald, M.P.P., Roy Hunter, president of the Nelson Liberal association, E. P. Dawson, Archie Donaghy, Dr. H. H. MacKenzie, and others.

CRANBROOK'S TAX IS FORTY-FIVE MILLS ON DOLLAR

Schools Will Take 25½ Mills, Debentures 11, and General Eight and a Half

ESTIMATES HUNDRED SEVENTY THOUSAND

City Must Pay Sales Tax on Sand and Gravel Used Since 1927, Advised

CRANBROOK, March 29.—City council estimates of expenditures for the year, set at a meeting of the council Wednesday, were $172,640.76. The mill rate will be 45, made up of 25½ schools, 11 debenture and 8½ general.

The city superintendent was authorized to purchase a concrete mixer by tender from the lowest bidder at an approximate cost of $3000. He was also instructed to call for tenders for the supply of sand and gravel to be used in the extensive program of road and sidewalk construction.

Water meters were ordered to be installed in various business houses, and advertising matter regarding the proposed pavement on various streets will be inserted in the local papers.

Mayor and the city clerk, on behalf of the city, and City Superintendent D. Philpot, Chief of Police Halcrow and Fire Chief Percy Adams, on the part of the city employees, were empowered to sign the agreement regarding the superannuation plan for the employees.

A letter was received from the department of customs notifying the city that a sales tax would have to be paid on all the sand, gravel and crushed rock which the city had used since 1920. This letter was laid over and the city clerk instructed to write to Mr. Baird, inspector of municipalities, for information with regard to the position of the city in reference to such a claim.

HOW TO CLASSIFY CANADIAN TIMBERS

Canada's timbers of commerce are divided into two classes: softwoods and hardwoods. This division may be occasionally misleading if it conveys the idea that every softwood is softer than any hardwood; but the distinction although adopted by the timber trade generally, is in reality a botanical one. Softwoods are the woods obtained from trees which have naked seeds usually borne on cones, and needle-like leaves. Hardwoods are the woods obtained from trees which have fruit-enclosed seeds and flat leaves. The two kinds of trees are referred to as conifers and broad-leaved trees, respectively.

'ROB ROY' SCORES HEAVILY SECOND PRESENTATION

Big Audience Vastly Pleased With Opera; Boquets for Principals

Second and last performance of "Rob Roy," played in the Nelson opera house last night, would have brought a smile to the author's lips if he could have seen it as presented by the Scottish Choral and Dramatic society. Every action, gesture and song carried those looking on to the land of the heather.

The plot was set in Scotland in the seventeenth century. Rob Roy MacGregor was an outlaw, made so by the English king. The firm of Osbaldistone & Co. in London was on the verge of bankruptcy, having been betrayed by Rashleigh, nephew of the owner, who was jealous of Francis Osbaldistone, his rivel in love and fortune. Rashleigh became so involved that he was forced to betray Rob Roy. The latter made his escape and returned to destroy Rashleigh and make amendments to Francis, who, in return, offered his services in educating MacGregor's sons.

SCENERY EFFECTIVE

The scenes, which were locally painted, served well in heightening the effect in portraying the drama as Scott first gave it. The scenes ranged from a cell in the Tolbooth to Loch Lomond in the moonlight, and included change houses, Osbaldistone hall and a number of highland settings. The lighting, as operated by F. Hodges and A. R. McGinnis, was highly effective.

Bouquets were presented to Mrs. C. W. Tyler, Mrs. J. C. Hooker and Miss Mae Macfarlane. Adam Cruickshank, who played the English lover, also received "flowers."

"MacGregor's Gathering," sung by A. Stringer in the last scene, and "Hail to the Chief," sung by the chorus on the shores of Loch Lomond in the moonlight, gave a beautiful ending to the play.

THE CAST

The cast was: "Sir Frederick Vernon," H. H. Jenne; "Rashleigh Osbaldistone," William Nicol; "Francis Osbaldistone," A. Cruickshank; "Mr. Owen," J. C. Hooker; "Captain Thornton," H. P. Orchard; "Major Galbraith," A. Ritchie; "Rob Roy MacGregor," J. Kay; "Bailie Nicol Jarvie," C. Rowan; "Dougal," N. S. Houston; "MacStuart," D. Macfarlane; "Jobson," W. Scott; "Andrew Fairservice," W. Byers; "Saunders Wylie," W. Scott; sons of Rob, Hamish Forbes and Allan McInnis; "Stanchel," V. Graves; "Diana Vernon," Mrs. J. C. Hooker; "Mattie," Mrs. J. Ryan; "Martha," Miss Mary Webster; "Hostess," Mrs. Moir; "Jean McAlpine," Mrs. A. Wallach; "Helen MacGregor," Miss Mae Macfarlane.

The chorus, including soldiers, lasses and kilties, were: Mrs. D. Macfarlane, Mrs. A. H. Crossley, Mrs. C. W. Tyler, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. H. Sutherland, Mrs. G. MacPherson, Mrs. J. Stout, Mrs. T. W. Slader, Mrs. V. Graves, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. Heilcher, Mrs. Peters and Mrs. N. Houston; the Misses Helen Forbes, Henrietta May, Gertrude Milne and Annie Byers; and G. Wilson, G. MacPherson, M. Gill, G. Benwell, H. Pitts, J. Elliott, B. Wallach, A. McInnis, E. Welsh, D. Cameron, D. McQuaig, G. Wallach, H. Gillette, H. Forbes, Jack Stout and H. Middleton.

The play was under the direction of James May. Victor Graves was stage manager and John Kerr was musical director.

The orchestra, with Mrs. S. J. McDonald at the piano, included Alston Laurie, J. Burgess, A. B. Gilker, H. Brown, G. Truscott and A. Doucett.

John Stringer was property man and H. Maundrell and A. Carlson were stage hands.

DVORJETZ HAS ORDERS SEVEN CARS VENEER

Returns From East; Agencies Placed; Product Is Already Well Known

"I've brought bad news for the kickers," declared George Dvorjetz, managing director of the British Columbia Veneer Works here, who returned last night from the east with orders for seven carloads of veneer. He was full of optimism for the future of Nelson's newest industry. Mr. Dvorjetz left here on March 14 and travelled east as far as Montreal.

"I was very much pleased," he said, "to find that our product already has a splendid name all over Canada. Five cars of veneer which we have in stock will be shipped east as fast as they can be loaded, and two more will go as soon as we get logs and turn them into veneer."

BUYERS IMPRESSED

Mr. Dvorjetz stated he has given eastern agencies for Nelson veneer to only the best Canadian firms. Indications, he stated, were that better returns would be realized than he ever anticipated.

"The big buyers are much impressed with the quality of our product," he said, "and are only too pleased to be able to get hold of reliable goods.

Second car of veneer consigned to Winnipeg is now on its way, according to the manager.

NEWCOMEN WILL GET OUT POLES ON TROUT LAKE

Lardeau Timber Operator States His Plans; Supplies Cottonwood for Veneer

Henry Newcomen, the Lardeau timber operator, stated in Nelson yesterday that he will conduct pole operations on Trout lake this season. He has not yet arranged details as to the various camps, and other points, but expects to get out poles more or less all along the lake. Work will start around May 1.

Mr. Newcomen's camps along the Lardeau river have produced more than a million feet, board measure, of cottonwood logs, for the British Columbia Veneer Works, Nelson, for which he contracted for the year's supply.

He has arrived from Calgary, after a two weeks' absence, and is on his way back to Lardo.

ROCK COLORING AT WATERTON LAKES

One of the main characteristics of Waterton Lakes national park in southern Alberta is the beautiful coloring of the rocks. Bands and splashes of tawny gold, greens, wine colors darkening to purple, make some of the mountain peaks look like a futurist painting and give to the whole region a warm and colorful appearance. In the northwestern part of the park is the curious Anderson peak, with its sharp pyramid formed of yellow shales, which at sunrise and sunset glisten like pure gold so that the mountain is facetously known as the Millionaire's peak.

NOTICE

There will soon be a law passed that will make it necessary for all who drive cars or who apply for a licence to drive a car, that will require of them to produce a certificate of examination for the eyes. As it is of the greatest importance to drivers we are specially fitted to give that examination and issue a certificate whenever needed.
