Suggests Find Some One More Capable; Mayor Upholds Him as Alderman.

TRAIL, B.C., June 17.—The resignation effective July 1 of Alderman B. Le Rose, was placed before the city council tonight. After constant urging by members of the council, Mr. Le Rose consented to allow his resignation to stand over until the return to Trail of Alderman Williamson. In urging the acceptance of his resignation, Mr. Le Rose suggested that it would be impossible to find some one more capable than himself.
Mayor Clark vigorously refuted this declaring that Alderman Le Rose had been of outstanding assistance to the council. He was always willing and anxious to cooperate with other members of the council. If there was any criticism it should be launched at the whole council, the members of which would sink or swim together.

Canadian Man With Six Others Is Killed in British Air Crash

GIANT PLANE DIVES INTO THE CHANNEL

Hamilton Man Among Victims; Five Escape Death in Timely Rescue.

ENGINE QUITS AND FORCES SHIP DOWN

Pilot Rescued; Trawler Rushes to Aid Three Miles off Dungeness Coast.

FOLKESTONE, Eng., June 17.—Seven passengers of the giant Imperial Airways liner, City of Ottawa, plunged to their deaths in the English channel, three miles off Dungeness today. Only partial identification had been made tonight. One Canadian was among them.
Lieut. Leon T. Malcolm, vice-president of the Malcolm and Souter Furniture company, of Hamilton, Ont., was a passenger on the plane. Malcolm was a visitor to London, where he registered at the Kenilworth hotel recently.
The seven who lost their lives were trapped in the cabin of the plane. Three other passengers, the pilot and mechanic were rescued, all suffering from shock or injuries.

CRASH AT NOON

It was about noon when the air liner, which was speeding to Paris, under ideal weather conditions, suddenly developed engine trouble. It was then the pilot brought it down on the water as close as possible to a Belgian trawler. Tonight, under the flares of torch lights on the dreary Dungeness coast, the wrecked liner was towed in and grounded on the sands.
Two bodies were found huddled in the forepart of the cabin and another was taken from the ship. Three had been recovered earlier. One of the two injured of the plane, was missing and the baggage had been flung about and burst. It was feared the body of the seventh victim had been washed away.

TRAGIC FIGURE

One of the most tragic figures was Pilot Captain R. J. Braílli, who had remained on board the tiny Belgian trawler, Caby, which did such heroic work in rescuing the passengers and carrying out the salvage. The pilot was unable to tear himself away from his plane as it tossed about half submerged in the green waters of the channel with its human freight. When he stepped ashore late tonight, his nerves were at the breaking point and he refused to make any statement.
Crowds had assembled during the evening on the beach to watch the trawler crew complete their difficult task. A sudden further sensation was provided when a dark blue airplane come swooping over the coast and crashed on the beach. The pilot was uninjured, although the plane was wrecked, and after putting his plane in charge of two soldiers, he went to aid in the task of bringing the air liner to the beach.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Charles Albrecht, a member of the crew of the trawler, described the disaster as he had witnessed it.
"We were standing along when we saw the airplane coming toward us. Suddenly she started to come down. She was quite near when the plane dived toward the sea. It seemed to us as if the pilot tried to right her at the last moment but could not.
"She dived with a great crash into the water only a little distance from up. The plane went right into the water and then the tail and wings reappeared above.
"As quickly as we could get to her and found about five people had scrambled onto the wings. Two of them were women, another was the pilot and all were hurt. We took them onto our boat and then started to do what we could to rescue people inside."

URGE ACTION TO END FLOOD DAMAGE TRAIL

Recent Washouts Bring Three Delegations Before City Council.

MRS. PIPPI SEEKING DAMAGES FROM TRAIL

Lost Furniture When Home Flooded; Council Perplexed.

TRAIL, B. C., June 17.—Three delegations waited on the City Council tonight urging action to prevent extensive damage from washouts during storms such as that of last week
The first, from Milligan hill declared that conditions were now becoming not only a menace to life but also to property. Rocks loosened when dirt was washed away from their bases, rolled down on property and residents very often had to leave their houses in a hurry. Washouts occurred every year it was held. Repairing the road was a continous expense. Alderman Saunders stated that during an investigation several ways to remedy the trouble were suggested. None would be completely efficient, he said.

DARIN BLOCKED

Charlie Maximento speaking for Mr. Admchuk stated that a drain across the Adamchuk property became blocked in every storm and waters rushing out over the property washed away dirt. He asked that the flumes be widened. City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid suggested that a wall put in by Mr. Admachuk formed a dam in a natural water course and caused most of the damage. Mr. Maximento replied that the wall was constructed to prevent the surface being washed away.

HOUSE FLOODED

I. Georgetti, whose house occupied by Mrs. Pippi was flooded during the recent severe storm, suggested a concrete pipe should be placed on the ground to carry off the accumulated water so as to prevent a reoccurrance of this nature. It was pointed out that Mr. Georgetti's house had been flooded three times, former occupants had narrow escapes. Mrs. Pippi had barely saved her two babies.

WANTS WANTS RECOMPENCE

Mrs. Pippi requested that the city recompence her for the damage to her furniture. She claimed a loss of $125. Doubts that the city had any responsibility were expressed.
The three washouts arguments were referred to the board of works and the city engineer for investigation. Mrs. Pippi's request referred to the health and relief committee.

The report was annexed to an intimation from the president of the ambassadors' conference to the council of the League of Nations that the board should now be dissolved.
The three delegates, British, French and Italian, who formed the board, expressed conviction that Austria had kept war material hidden during the investigations of the board and that this could be used to arm the many associations existing in that country.

PEOPLE RUSH FOR CELLARS DURING GALE

Communication East and West Paralyzed as Poles Are Leveled.

WINNIPEG, SASKATOON REGINA FEEL GALES

Little Damage in Cities; Crops Benefit Through Downpour of Rain.

WINNIPEG, June 17. — Coming from the southwest, a wind and rain storm swept over a wide section of Manitoba early this evening, but did surprisingly little damage considering the formidable appearance it presented as it swiftly approached in the form of an immense black cloud.
Electrical power poles were blown down in scattered portions of Winnipeg, while in the Rosser district, a short distance to the west of Winnipeg, several small buildings were blown over, but that, according to reports, represents practically the full extent of the damage.
There was heavy rain for some ten minutes to three quarters of an hour at different points, but everywhere it was welcomed as being beneficial to gardens and grain crops, though at some points in the country there was not enough to do any real good.
At Carman there was some hail, but this was not severe enough to damage crops.
At Rosser several persons fearing a tornado, took refuge in cellars until the storm swept by.

REGINA ISOLATED

REGINA, June 17.—For the first time in many years Regina was practically isolated from the rest of the world for a considerable time tonight.
North, south, east and west telegraph wires were reported to be "down" as the result of violent storms throughout the early evening. Telephone operators reported only two trunk lines at work out of Regina to the northern part of the province, calls to Saskatoon and other places north being taken through the Moose Jaw exchange.
Telegraph companies reported that practically all their wires were out of commission. The C. P. R. telegraph officials stated that they could not make contact with Saskatoon either by way of eastern points or far western points, such as Edmonton and Calgary.

WINDS AND RAIN

SASKATOON, Sask., June 17.—All telegraphic and telephone service to this city was disrupted tonight as a result of severe storms in northern Saskatchewan. Telephone poles were reported down along many lines. Locally the storm did not reach serious proportions, although high winds swept over a few fences and building scaffolding. A steady rain is falling.
Meagre reports indicated that a severe storm was raging all along the C. P. R. to Lanigan, while rainfall was reported to extend to Hardisty on the west and Wynyard eastward. No details are available.

CALGARY, June 17.—Electrical storms throughout southern Alberta occurred early Monday morning, bringing beneficial rains. The storm followed the hottest day so far this year when the thermometer on Sunday registered upwards of 80 degrees above zero. After the rain, the skies cleared and coolness prevailed.
Crops in southern Alberta have been amply watered and are growing well.

FIFTY-FOURTH MEN TALK GLEEFULLY OF DAYS OF TRENCHES

Ten West Kootenay Points Represented at the Fifth Reunion.

STORIES OF LIGHTER SIDE OF BATTALION

Turner Lee Again President; New Colors to Be Deposited St. Saviour's.

Unwritten history of the 54th— the history of parade ground, hut, trench, leave, canteen, estaminet, orderly room, duty—was gleefully reviewed for many hours, Saturday night, at the fifth reunion of the 54th battalion association.

Major H. Turner of Bonnington—known to the battalion as "Old Turn 'Er Loose"—president of the association, was in the chair, at the banquet and reunion, staged at the Canadian legion, and 10 West Kootenay points were represented.

KING HONORED

There was no program, except the toast to "The King",spoken to by Major Turner Lee in words of deep affection and fervently responded to with the national anthem in swelling volume.

Before that number, reminiscences were being exchanged, and after it they were resumed, with the difference that the whole gathering became the audience.

One reminiscence brought another, names long forgotten were introduced, whereabouts of comrades were checked up, and the life of the battalion, in its humorous and human interests aspects was lived again.

Of course Major Lee's old gray horse, theme of many stories, was "trotted out". The very first reference after "The King" was loyally honored and the "meeting was open for contributions ," was a solemn report made by Bill Langlands that the Major arrived by hooking the old grey horse behind the Trail bus.

"When the Sergeant-Major's on Parade," sung by Fred Waters, with Reggie Howe as accompanist, presented a familiar picture with its "Left, right, pick 'em up," and other parade-ground lingo with staccato accent.

HERRIDGE REMINISCES

H. W. Herridge, who came down from Nakusp, started the story telling His heart beat a little faster, he said, when he thought of the many changes. For instance, the Major's old grey horse had passed away. He recalled the classic story of Major Turner Lee at Braimshott handling "D" company at a distance by whistle, and his expostulation: "Damn it all, boys, if you can't see me can't you see Nancy?"

Herridge said when he first reached Vernon and was taken on the strength, he was assigned to a tent presided over by Dave Jeters, then corporal. On seeing Dave, he immediately wanted to dis-enlist. He mentioned a Slocan valley man who recently asked him if Dave Peters had really been over with the 54th. On being informed that he really was the man replied, "If you had five more like him, it would be all you'd need in a battalion. He's the uncrowned king of the Slocan valley."

On the Somme Herridge said, he occupied the same dugout with Peters and D. O. Thomas. On the tour of duty he was a strict teetotaller—there was never anything left.

Somebody discovered he had once played an aute horn, and advised him to join the band, which had no drilling, and lots of leisure. He joined, but found that in the supposed leisure, he was in demand for a certain fatigue detail—to which Comrade Moore belonged—and he unjoined.

STORIES ON MAJOR

A couple more yarns about Major Lee were told by the Nakusp man. He was guiding the Major up to the line and out again on a dark night, when the Major's berberry, worn for the first time, was torn. On the outward trip the guide tripped on an obstruction and called back: "Look out, Major Lee. I nearly broke my neck."

"Its to bad you didn't," he exclaimed, the major answered: "Any man who would lead a man to tear a new berberry ought to be killed."

On another occasion he had to guide a party along the "D" company's front, during the breakfast period, the major strenuously objecting on the ground that Heinie's attention would be attracted and his shelling would interfere with "D" company's breakfast.

One of the stories told by Dave Peters, in from Appledale, was how the honor of the 54th was maintained against the hated race of RedCaps at Bramshott. This Red-Cap was out to get the 54th picquet on a drunk charge, but was outmaneuvered, the picquet arresting the Red-Cap getting him drunk, and putting him in clink.

R. J. Sainsbury, in from Salmo, recalled how, when he was nearly barefooted and allegedly couldn't get an issue of boots from "Cap" J. C. Carruthers, quartermaster-sergeant, Ernie Steel, who was in the quartermaster stores swiped him a pair.

"THE SILLY AWSS"

He also gave one of the versions of Major Lee's "silly awss" remark. An Indian in "D" company, turning up without his mess-tin, and not well versed in military terms, asked the major's permission to leave and get his "feed box".

"Yes, you silly awss," the major replied.

Later, feeling he had been unnecessarily harsh on the man, he said to him when he returned: "I didn't mean to call you a silly awss, but you are one aren't you!"

That the otherwise unconquerable Dave Peters knew when to use discretion, was contended by Herridge, who told how at Bramshott when the sergeants were sliding out for an evening elsewhere Peters cautioned him: "If the Missus comes around, tell her I'm on duty."

Sainsbury was champion story-teller of the evening, and he was inexhaustible. One minute the assembly was roaring over his account of maneuvering when on picquet at Bramshott so as to get a drink while his immediate chief was death on drinking; the next, he would be telling some incident of up-the-line. One of these related to a popular company sergeant-major of Irish extraction, whose demeanor was so inspiring that a young officer attached to the battalion for a time said to him,"Don't leave the front line, sergeant-major; I feel so much safer when you are there."

At another time in his brief front line career the young officer, taking charge of some Mills bombs, announced to his platoon: "I think the enemy is coming; I'll pull the pins, you throw them."

SOAP HIT PADRE

One of the Sainsbury stories related to a bath parade at Hersin-Coupigny, commanded by Lieut. Smeaton, a padre. Somebody hit the padre's cap with a cake of soap and tilted it over. "Halt," ordered the padre. "Who threw that soap?" The answer was one word in which there was no suggestion of reverence. "Quick march!" hastily ordered the padre.

Another tale related to an orderly sergeant named Van Burick, who was carrying the books in a gunnysack on his back, the sweat pouring off him as he tried to keep up with Lieut.-Col. A. B. Carey, who by that time was in command. Shells started to fall, and the colonel stepped aside under a bit of shelter. Halting, with his agonized gaze divided between the new shell holes and Col. Carey, the perplexed soldier inquired: "Vill I go on, or will I vait, sir?"

WHEN TOM DROWNED SORROW

A remark by Tom Horner, who came down from Kaslo, that "even in the trenches they needed refreshments a little," reminded Herridge of when, as a corporal he had to give evidence in Comrade Horner's trial on a drunk charge, immediately after the battalion's first raid, in the Ypres sector. Instructed by the late Major Gilbert Anderson that in the army a man was either drunk and sober, and requested to state Horner's condition, Herridge clicked his heels and replied: "Absolutely sober, sir!"

Horner recalled the occasion, which followed his meeting the Charlie Bigney in rags, Bigney stating Gillis was reported to be badly wounded of killed. As Gillis was his chum, who had got him into the 54th, he was very depressed, and on the way back, when they came to an estaminet, Horner said he was not going to go past it. Some hours later, when he was in his hut sleeping by the door it seemed to him that everybody that came in stepped on him, and at last he resented it, with the result that his officer ordered his arrest. After the acquittal, he said to Herridge: "You can lie better than I can."

Herridge stated Peters put him up to it.

DIDN'T KNOW OF FIRE

This led to stories of other trials. Sainsbury telling of when he and two others were up before the late Major Lucas on a charge of having failed to turn out when one of the huts was on fire, the bunch who were drunk, having slept peacefully through it, and known nothing of it till afterwards. Bob Stewart's excuse was that he "didn't know there was a fire, sir;" Sainsbury's was that that he had lost a piece of his suspenders and was unable to find it in the dark. The major told them it was a serious charge, and that what he would do to them if it happened again.

Fred Dalrymple told of when he and Jim McAndrew were sent to Portsmouth to bring back as prisoners two of the battalion sergeants, when the military police had in the clink. As the bleary-eyed prisoners didn't want to eat anything, the two who had custodial charge went to a dining room frequented by naval officers, to enjoy a meal, leaving the prisoners out on the sidewalk. When the naval officers at the table learned the story of the prisoners at liberty outside, they looked at one another saying, "That's Canadians for you!"

"WRECK OF SAXONIA"

"Dal" recalled the episode in 54th annals known as the "Wreck of the Saxonia" the Cunard troopship that conveyed the battalion to England, all three of the canteens having been raided and two of them sacked and demolished.

Peters pointed out that he was the one who caught the steward selling sandwiches to the men made with their rations, which led to the raid that ended the canteens in mid-ocean.

Sainbury had a characteristic story of the Saxonia, for he was induced to act as mess orderly on the promise of $1.50 per day for the voyage, and two weeks relief from all duties thereafter.

After serving 48 hungry men three times a day for the voyage besides washing dishes and tables he got not an extra cent and an arriving at Bramshott was the first man picked for guard. The corporal who got him the job lost his stripes during the voyage, and he could have beaten him up without incurring grave penalty, but did not do so.

STORIES OF GARLAND FOSTER

Stories of Corporal Shanks, who stuttered badly, were told, the most laughable by Tommy Madden, who gave an imitation of the conversation between the orderly offices and Shanks, on which unacquanted with Shanks disibality, the officer founded a charge that he was being mimicked, a charge the late Lieut.-Col. A. H. G. Kemball, smilingly dismissed.

Another trial was that of Sainsbury at Curton, for selling four new blankets and a dozen loaves of bread—to which he had no title—for four bottles of red wine. He and his companion woke in a barn to find men approaching them with fixed bayonets, to arrest them. The other man temporarily escaped butSainsbury went up before the colonel.

"Captain Foster, what is this man's record?" Colonel Carey asked. Sainsbury knowing the appearance of his crime sheet was not optimistic of the answer, but Capt. Foster clicked his heels and replied: "His record is clear, sir. He is one of our old originals!" The criminal got off with being admonished, but his associate, who had run away, got a week's "confined to barracks."

BREAKING IN

Relating how he and the "A" company quartermaster-sergeant first went up to Dickebusch, in the Salient, the quartermaster-sergeant, a south African veteran, saying to stick close to him Herridge told of meeting a party of the 25th battalion from Nova Scotia carrying out 11 bodies on poles. Learning that the youthful Herridge was of the 54th, the non-commissioned officer in charge of the party welcomed him: "Come on old sport! We'll be packing you out tomorrow night!" Under what seemed devastating shell fire, the pair later took refuge at the bottom of a shell hole, where artillerymen in due time found them. On learning their reason for being there the gunners exclaimed: "Why, that's our own battery firing!" Herridge remarked to his companion that evidently conditions were not entirely like that of the South African war, the veteran admitted in turn that he had already heard more shell-fire than he had heard in his entire South African career.

That night, as he slept fitfully, rats ran over his face, and every rat seemed a German. He and the sergeant were on reconnaisance and had to go out to a listening post. When they came out, the veteran said he thought it was better to be a quartermaster.

TOM HORNER'S PASS

Tom Horner came through with more discipline stories. When he was on sentry-go at Vernon he forced Lieut. Bullock-Webster to advance at the point of the bayonet for identification, and the lieutenant later had him up though assured the sentry was in his rights.

On acting service, after being wounded, Horner returned to France but overstayed his leave two days, and was accordinly up for trial. His crime-sheet had enough entries to worry him somewhat. His explanation to the colonel was that he had misread the date on the pass. He nearly fainted when he saw the adjutant, to whom the colonel appealed for information of his record, was Bullock-Webster. But the latter came through instantly with "A clear record, sir!"

Many other stories were told, the last ones being about Dr. J. H. Hamilton, Sainsbury having reminiseces that varied from the doctor taking him into the army practically without examination, to when he used to see that the stretcher-bearers carrying out wounded Fritzies got extra rum rations.

Sid Ball sang a solo, and various others spoke, in connection with, reunions, and in connection with perpetuating the association.

OFFICERS RETAINED

At the election of officers, Major Turner Lee as again president, F. H. Dalrymple as vice-president for the first time, and D. O. Thomas as secretary-treasurer instead of vice-president as last year, were unanimously elected.

Both Major Turner Lee and D. O. Thomas were individually acclaimed with, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and three cheers with a tiger.

It was decided to retain the membership fee at $1, its payment being optional.

D. O. Thomas explained the position respecting the new colors, obtained with funds subscribed in part by well-wishers and in part by old members of the battalion.

TO DEPOSIT COLORS

Unanimous decision was taken, to have the association formally deposit the new colors in the new St. Saviour's church, Nelson, probably in November, as were the battalion's original colors in the St. Saviour's that was destroyed by fire in the winter of 1928.

Just before midnight the reunion, probably the most enjoyable of the series to date, broke up, with "Auld Lang Syne," and "God Save the King."

Those present were Major H. Turner Lee, Bonnington; F. W. Herridge, South Slocan; Frank S. Hughes, Nakusp; Frank Crosby, New Denver; A. B. Carr, J. Crowe, Slocan City; D. F. Peters, R. Avis, Appledale; F. Moore, Vallican; F. E. Talbot, R. J. Sainsbury, Salmo; F. H. Abey, T. H. Horner, Kaslo; J. Mortimer Lamb, W. Langlands, Arthur Cherry, James Lundie, Trail; D. O. Thomas, F. H. Dalrymple, H. H. Currie, F. V. Webber, S. Langill, C. Miller, A. G. Gush, L. A. Gillis, L. Longdon, J. C. Carruthers, W. C. Mills, F. Ogensky, A. Kinahan, J. F. Waters, W. J. Waters, S. Ball, T. Madden, R. A. Howe, C. Holt, Balfour, was present in spirit, but not to take his seat.

Painter Had Stomach Trouble 5 Years

It's pretty discouraging when a hard working man has such severe Stomach Trouble as to keep him from work for two weeks at a time. Such was the serious condition of Mr. Herbert Brown, 68 Toronto St., Winnipeg, when he first tried Tanlac. "Whatever I ate," writes Mr. Brown, "did me no good, it soured on my stomach and the gas would get around my heart and cause it to palpitate until I thought it would jump out of my body. I had to give up eating solid food and lived practically on milk. For fully five years this kept up, as I had not been able to get any benefit from the medicine I tried.

"At last I decided to get Tanlac and this put me right on my feet. My stomach is now in splendid condition and I eat like a horse. Everything agrees with me and I have never had a sign of gas or bloating since taking Tanlac."

This is only one of thousands of people who have been helped back to health and strength by taking Tanlac. Let it do the same for you. Get a bottle today at your druggist's. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Trail Residents Are Willing to Remove Dirt They Piled on a Wall

TRAIL, B. C., June 17.—Glover road residents, who, during the week, were instructed by the city to remove dirt they had placed on a retaining wall on Glover road, tonight waited on the city council with a request for definite instructions on the work required. They are willing to remove the dirt but they were not sure how to go about it.

City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid pointed out that at present the wall was overloaded and it was only a measure of safety to prevent adding more dirt and to take away the dirt which was there. The city council will look over the ground.

Submits Estimate for Paving Below Riverside, Trail

Would Cost $10,000; Cost to Property Owners to Be $3.65 Per Foot Front.

TRAIL, B. C., June 17.—An estimate of $10,000 to construct a cement paving and a sidewalk on the road below Riverside was submitted to the city council tonight by City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid. Retaining walls and grading comprising $2200 were outstanding items in the estimate. These should be assumed by the city and in that event the cost of the paving and sidewalk to property holders under the local improvement plan would be $3.65 per foot front over a period of years. This worked out, said city Clerk W. E. B. Monypenny, at 30 cents per fooot front a year.

The work proposed included a 16 foot inverted surface paving draining into six natural water courses and a four foot cement sidewalk. The estimate was referred to the board of works.

Rising Level of Columbia River Halts for a Day

TRAIL, B. C., June 17.—Whether the Columbia river has reached its peak and will now start to recede, or whether its present level is only a temporary halt in its spring rise is now a matter of conjecture.

But from Sunday morning until 8 a. . today, the river level remained stationary. This was the first day in weeks that the level has failed to become higher. For the last few days of last week the daily rise was small.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF CANUCKS GREAT

So Declares Hon. R. B. Bennett; Urges Protection for Industry.

PETROLIA, Ont., June 17.—"I know of no people so few in numbers and spread over so great an area who have accomplished so much in so short a time as have the Canadian people," said Hon. R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party in an address here this afternoon.

His remarks were prompted, he said, by his inspection of local industries, particularly the oil fields and refineries. He deplored the fact that so many Canadians had left this country for the United States and said that for this exodus Canada would have a population of at least 17,500,000 people.

The cause of this, he declared, has been the failure of Canadian governments to protect Canadian industry and provide employment for Canadian people, and, in this way provide home markets for Canadian farm products.

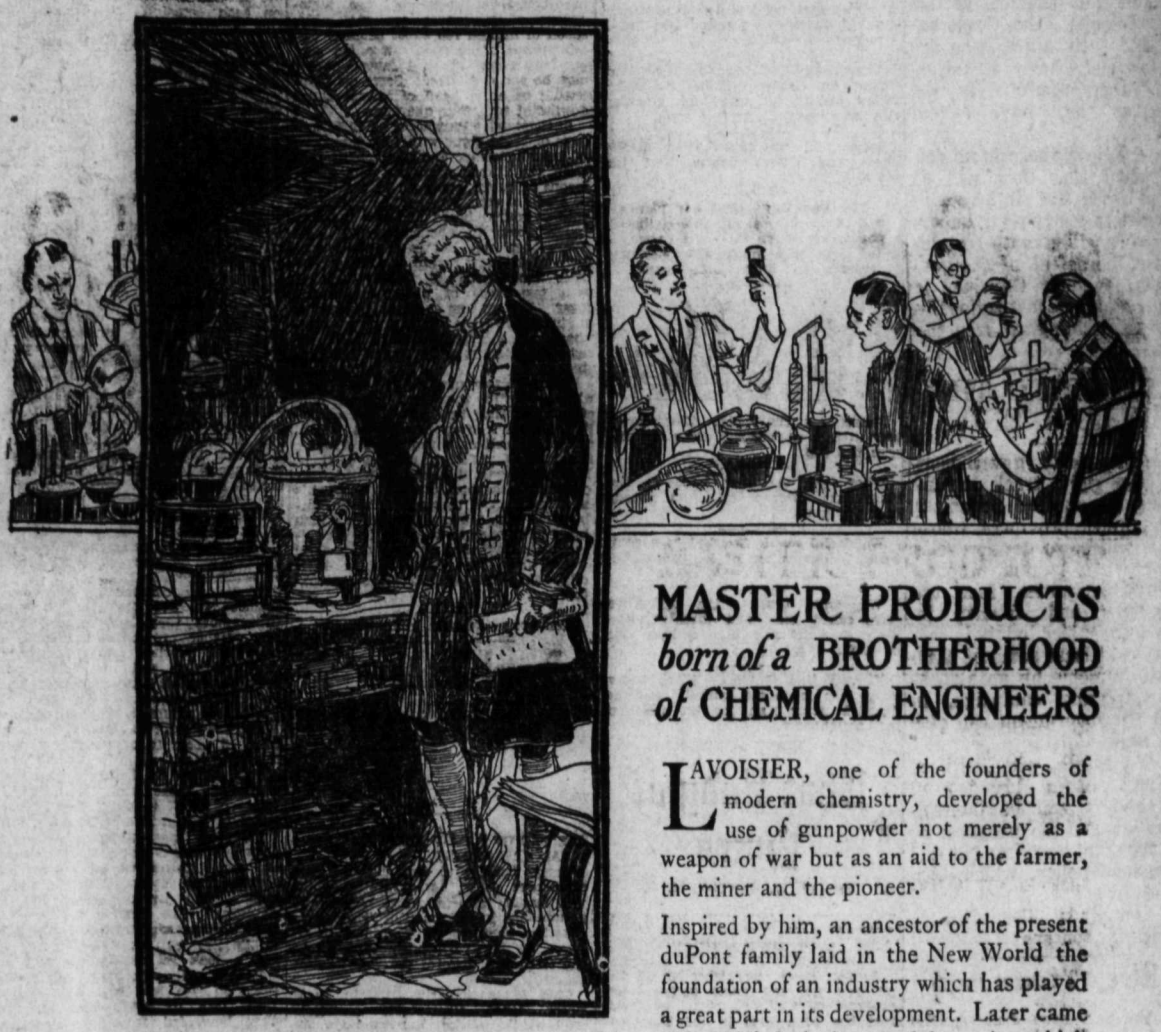
THE BROTHERHOOD OF SCIENCE



LAVOISIER

Antoine Laurent Lavoisier, born in Paris in 1742, perished on the guillotine in 1794.

MASTER PRODUCTS born of a BROTHERHOOD of CHEMICAL ENGINEERS

LAVOISIER, one of the founders of modern chemistry, developed the use of gunpowder not merely as a weapon of war but as an aid to the farmer, the miner and the pioneer.

Inspired by him, an ancestor of the present duPont family laid in the New World the foundation of an industry which has played a great part in its development. Later came Alfred Nobel who invented dynamite, which today is used widely in the mines, on the farms and for building railroads all over the world.

Without explosives, and particularly dynamite, much of the buried treasures of Canada would remain earth's secret. She would have few railroads while many of her fields now cultivated would be still barren wastes. Explosives have served to place Canada's resources within the reach of the world's markets.

IMPROVEMENTS TO STREETS

It is encouraging to note the enormous improvement which is being made to Stanley street by the laying of cement on the east side.

A street has been constructed which will be a credit to the city, replacing one of the worst of the well-travelled highways.

Another traffic artery which needs a lot of improvement is Nelson avenue on the north side. It is in very bad condition.

IN SASKATCHEWAN

Premier Gardiner's course in Saskatchewan is not open to serious criticism.

His party has the largest number of followers in the new legislature, the Conservatives come next and Progressive and Independent groups next. Together, the Conservatives and their allies, who are anti-Gardiner, have a majority if they combine in the house, as they have agreed to do.

Nevertheless, there is no definite proof that they will do so, and while the first vote in the legislature upon an important point will almost certainly mean the defeat of the government, Premier Gardiner is doing nothing constitutionally wrong in deciding to face the house.

DEVELOPING THE SELLING END

The provincial government is on the right track in appointing a market organizer for the prairie provinces, whose duty it will be to develop sales for British Columbia produce.

Many difficulties face the fruitgrower and farmer in British Columbia, but it is certain that at least some of them can be overcome by an aggressive marketing campaign, in which the government can give worthwhile assistance.

W. W. Dunca, who has been appointed, has a big job on hand and it will be interesting to observe the progress he will make in carrying out the government policy, which, is a businesslike one which would be followed by the ordinary commercial concern.

TREATING GOITER BY LOW AIR PRESSURE

As you know the higher up in the air you go, the lower becomes the pressure of the atmosphere, and this fact has been used in the treatment of severe cases of goiter.

Dr. H. Lax tells us that he experimented with forty patients by placing them in a room for four hours daily, where the atmospheric pressure was the same as it would be on a mountain of 3280 feet.

He placed two patients in a room at a time and so arranged the ventilation that the lower atmospheric to the treatment, the atmospheric pressure was maintained.

In order to get the patients used pressure was not lowered at first. As ing in the room the pressure was gradthe patients became used to remainually lowered.

The treatment was continued from three to four weeks.

As a result of the forty patients showed a marked improvement.

Fourteen patients had no subsequent complaints whatever, even nine months after the treatments.

Adding up the number of hours that these patients spent in the lowered pressure it would equal about three and one half days.

However three and one half days in the mountains would not improve the condition of the patient to the same degree as by the use of the room with lowered pressure.

Dr. Lax states that the frequent change between high and low pressure that is by going in and out of the low pressure room is more effective than the uninterrupted low pressure of the mountains.

Now this knowledge is worth something because of the number of cases of exopthalmic goiter which may be helped.

As you know the nervous symptoms are alarming to the patient, his family, and to the physician also.

When the heart symptoms become too severe it means an operation for removal of part of the thyroid gland.

This operation is naturally dreaded by all concerned, although it is not nearly as dangerous as in former years due to improved treatment before, during and after the operation.

It has been found that daily rest periods and the use of iodine, has so helped these cases that many operations have been avoided, or rendered atmospheric pressure should be dered more safe.

The use of this treatment by low- another step forward in the non-surgical treatment of these cases.

NEW DISHES THIS WEEK

Caramel Bread Pudding: Soak two cups of bread cubes in two cups of cold, sweet milk for 10 minutes, then add one-third cup of brown sugar, one teaspoon of vanilla extract, a pinch of salt, two beaten but unseparated eggs and two tablespoons of butter melted. Bake in a slow oven for 35 minutes, then cool and chill before serving.

Thousand Island Dressing: To one cup of mayonnaise dressing add one hard-boiled, chopped egg, two tablespoons of pimentoes (or one tablespoon of minced red sweet pepper,) two tablespoons of chopped raw onion and one-fourth cup of chili sauce. Capers may be added if liked. Serve on plain lettuce or an a head of lettuce sliced downward into four quarters.

Butterscotch Pinwheels: Sift two cups of bread flour with four teaspoons of baking powder and a pinch of salt. With the fingers work in four tablespoons of butter, then stir in two-thirds of a cup of cold, sweet milk. Turn out onto a floured board and pat the soft dough down to about one-half inch thick, then roll lightly to one-fourth inch thick. Now spread the sheet with three tablespoons of butter creamed with two-thirds of a cup of brown sugar. Roll up like a jelly roll and cut in inch-wide slices. Bake these pinwheels on a greased pan for six or eight minutes in a hot oven—400 degrees F.

Walnut Macaroons: Beat one egg white very stiff, then to it add one cup of brown sugar, beating all the while. Flavor with a drop or two of lemon extract as well as a few drops of vanilla extract and fold in one cup of finely chopped walnut meats springled with one-third teaspoon of salt. Drop this mixture from a teaspoon onto an unbuttered pan, leaving at least one inch between macaroons to allow for spreading in baking. Set hot pan on a cloth wrung from ice water and the little crisp cakes will come off without breaking.

Dental Health And Care of The Teeth

THE USE OF CANDY FROM THE DENTAL STANDPOINT.

Candy belongs to that class of food substances called acrbohydrates, which very easily ferment when allowed to accumulate in the mouth. This fermentation produces an acid and if allowed to act sufficiently long about the teeth will dissolve the very hardest enamel.

This is particularly true in cases where other fermentable materials such as the sticky, starchy foods are allowed to accumulate about the teeth and thus help retain the acid formed. Often this stick material is supplied by ingredients of the candy itself, and it is largely for this reason that most candies are more injurious than the pure unrefined sugars such as brown sugar, honey and maple syrup, or those derived from ripe fruit.

But apart from these considerations, when candy or other sweets are eaten between meals, the child's appetite for the more wholesome and nourishing foods is greatly diminished. The child will then invariably insist on eating only those which have a similar strong appeal. These only add to the accumulated fermentable material and then decay of the teeth goes on apace.

These foods too are usually of a nature which does not supply a sufficient amount of the bones and tooth forming elements needed and the tooth, therefore, is less resistant to the attacks of the enemy. Good teeth, like good houses, cannot be built from poor materials.

IT IS EASIER TO PREVENT TOOTH DECAY THAN TO CHECK IT.

The prevention of decay rests to a great extent in our own hands. A clean mouth is very much more impervious to caries, which is another name for decay, than a dirty mouth, and cleanliness can be accomplished very easily.

It is not hared to brush the teeth thoroughly on rising and retiring, and after each meal if possible, and it certainly brings its own reward if the various organs of the body are kept functioning regularly. To say nothing of the fact that this keeps the teeth bathed in a healthy saliva, rather than saliva loaded with debris.

All that is necessary is to give your mouth and teeth the same care as you do your face, would you go on the street with a dirty face? Certainly not! Why be any less particular about your mouth, the "gateway" to your body?

On the other hand, neglect of the teeth means toothache.

Notice to Correspondents

Several letters from all parts of the district not having signatures as well as non deplume have reached The Daily News office. Several of these letters are being held and will be run if the writers will send their names, not for publication, but as an evidence of good faith on behalf of the writers. It is necessary that all letters for this column be signed by the writer even if a non de plume is used.

The Editor of The Daily News:

Dear Sir: I wish you to extend me the courtesy of publishing the following letter in full so that the public can judge between whoever reported the Agassiz egg laying contest on page nine Friday, June 14 issue and myself.

The party who writes these reports shows a malicious spite against the W. Wyan and is evidently in high glee that my pen has dropped to third place. Not only that but when I led from January 17 to March 31, 10 weeks, during which time and on each occasion these reports were full of inaccuracies as is the present one—you have my pen shown as White Leghorns and total points 100 less than they are.

His boosting the Leghorns in the present report is not justified by the facts and is intended to mislead the public into thinking the Leghorns are the better layers. In all Canada there are, I believe 13 competitions and nine of these are led by Heavy Wrights, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, and White Wyandottes. I am writing from memory as I have mislaid my last report, but he can look it up for himself and he will find I am not far out. His reference to Grand Forks competition does not strengthen his case, as this competition can't be considered this year owing to the unfortunate setbacks it has had and I have no doubt the management would be the first to agree to this.

Coming to Agassiz competition the following are the correce facts: Leghorns led, 1st to 3rd week of November; Sydney White Wyandottes, 4th to 6th week; Leghorns, 7th to 11th week; to January 16th; Cant's White Wyandottes, 12th to 21st week, zero weather; Cookson's Leghorns led 22nd to 31st, from 1st of April to date, 31st is last report.

There are two pens of White Wyandottes and 34 pens of Whighorns or 20 against 340 and these 20 between them led the competition 13 weeks as against the 340 Leghorns 18 weeks, furthermore they led during all the cold weather. If you remember we had very mild weather up to January 16, or thereabouts and very cold weather from January 17 to middle of March and mild weather from then on. Further I would add these same 20 White Wyandottes were in second place 15 weeks in addition to 13 weeks in first place, a total of 28 weeks as against 340 in Leghorns nine weeks in second place and 18 in first, a total of 27 weeks. Your reporter states it is significant that the White Wyandottes are being steadily displaced by the White Leghorns. Granted and small shame to them after their heavy winter laying. To this man or woman who thinks deeply the real significance lies not in the fact that the Leghorns are displacing the White Wyandottes but that they never had had a look in during the real cold weather, only getting into second place on five real cold weeks namely 12th, 18th to 21st weeks and that they have led from the first week of April.

This letter is written not to boost the White Wyandottes as I believe any of the heavies previously mentioned will beat the Leghorns as winter layers, but so that your reporter will be fair and honest in his reports as he has not been in the past, to all breeds and to all men. In conclusion I may say I have no intention of entering into a wordy warfare.

A. CANT

P. S.—I forgot to say that the despised White Wyandottes, (A. Cant's pen) have laid the greatest number of eggs to date of any pen in all Canada and their eggs are not small either, averaging 25½ ounces to the dozen. Cookson's Leghorns average 26½ ounces.

'Pop' Phair

By R. G. JOY

Another old timer has gone. Yes,, "Pop" Phair has taken his last ride and his remains are resting among those who knew him when Nelson was but a mining camp and its inhabitants were asking each other whether or not Nelson would ever become a permanent place in which to live.

Mr. Phair had a great heart and was a great sport, and I feel like putting a few things down in respect to his memory. At times like this, one is very humble and knows his limitations, so in this spirit I write.

'Twas a number of years ago when a young man from over the waters came to the Kootenays in search of that which is supposed to make life a success, and gain the respect of your fellow beings.

When I first met Mr. Phair in May, 1893, and the young man was endeavoring to make enough cash in order to be independent of any other person. Many bachelors, in those days, used to fish at the old C. P. R. wharf so he tried fishing in a commercial way. His knowledge of fresh water fish was very limited and quantity was the object in view, for fish were selling at 15 cents a pound. His first catch was fair so he took it to Frank Farley's store on Vernon street and asked Frank to hang them up in the store and sell them to the people who had no time to fish. Next day he called, there was $1.50 to his credit.

Emboldened by his success, he tried the next evening for a larger catch. His success was good and next morning early, started out to sell his fish. The first person he met was a red headed Irishman named Farrell.

"Say, boy, did you catch all those fine fish this morning?"

"No," said the boy, "I caught them last night."

"Sure," replied Paddy, "I didn't think there was any person in Nelson that would get up so early to fish. Good luck to ye me boy, try the Phair hotel.

Up the steps he went and Pop was sitting in his accustomed place on the verandah.

"What have you there, boy?" he questioned.

"Fish," answered the boy, "and trout they are."

"What do you want a pound," asked Mr. Phair.

"Fifteen cents a pound," answered the lad.

Mr. Phair started to laugh and well he might, for those fish were the finest lot of suckers that were ever caught in the Kootenays.

The young man thanked Mr. Phair for the information and mine host looked at him and asked him whether or not he wanted a job, and soon a job he got in the culinary department in the only first class hotel in the interior, and ever at that, there was always an affectionate regard for Pop Phair.

Pop thought nothing of keeping a mine owner for a period of two years until he sold his property.

I remember the late Van Horn, president of the C. P. R., putting away two pumpkin pies, made by the finest cook in the country, at the Phair.

At the beginning of the following winter, when the first passenger train was due at Nelson, Mr. Phair sent for the same young man to meet the train and try to get a few guests for the hotel. A bargain was made that the runner and Phair would divide the spoils at the first trip. However, there was only one passenger and nothing could induce him to leave the mountain station. From the next train he got five passengers and the following morning Pop and company divided up.

I remember Mr. Phair saying that "If Bowser ever became premier this country would go dry."

At one time a learned judge came to the hotel and some friends presented him with a fine Kootenay lake trout. The judge gave orders that the fish was not to be cooked in fat of any kind. but a pan of fat was put on the range and made as hot as possible, and the fish dropped in. A few minutes afterward it was cooked, not a drop of fat was to be seen. The judge was well satisfied and made the remark that the only way to cook fish was without grease.

Only canned goods were used in those days and many a coal oil tin and tomato can graced the range at the Phair. Some of the menus were published in the old Tribune and I would like to gaze on some of the wonderful names that we gave the "entrees".

The last of old time hotel keepers has gone but I am sure that St. Peter will open the gate and let him in.

Air Bail Service to Be Established Across Mountains

Planes Would Pass South of Nelson if Crow Route Used Suggests Dobbin.

Air mail planes will be crossing the Rockies from Calgary to Vancouver by this fall, stated Captain E. C. Dobbin of the Dominion Airways company, in a talk at the Rotary luncheon yesterday. The 700 miles between these two points over some of the highest mountains on the continent make the task of establishing the mail service tremendously difficult but it is practically certain, Captain Dobbin said, that the project will be pushed through in spite of all difficulties.

Land planes will be used as the pontoons on a hydro-plane add greatly to the weight of the machine, which would mean a serious loss of weight carriage. It is estimated that $30 per year will be spent for each pound of baggage carried by air-mail, showing that the extra 500 pounds weight carried by a pontoon equipped plane would make the expense of operating the service impossibly large.

FAVORS CROWS NEST

No definite route through the Rockies has as yet been decided upon but Mr. Dobbin stated that this own choice of a route through the Crow's Nest pass would be most suitable as it would allow the planes to fly at the lowest altitude possible throughout the entire distance. This would naturally allow for the carriage of much greater weights than if the planes were kept at greater altitudes by the higher mountains in other parts of British Columbia. According to Mr. Dobbin's route, the planes would fly from Calgary through the Crow's Nest to the new airport at Cranbrook. From there, they would hop off for the airports at Trail and Grand Froks, passing some miles south of Nelson. Still keeping well to the south the planes would proceed along the course of the Similkameen river, through the Coquahalla pass and so to Vancouver.

Although the building of the airport at Vancouver has been delayed for various reasons, it will, Mr. Dobbin thought, be completed in the near future.

People Eat too Much, According to Australian

SYDNEY, Australia, June 14.—Most people eat too must and the wrong kind of food, according to J. H. L. Cumston, federal director-general of health in Australia.

Having discontinued the use of his muscles through the advent of machinery, man has not yet learned to use his wits in controlling it, declared Dr. Cumston. As a nation becomes more and more civilized, the demand for narcitocis increases, he claims.

NERVOUSNESS INCREASING.

Tuberculosis is now becoming less virulent but nervous troubles are increasing in Australia, as elsewhere, stated Dr. Cumston.

"Degeneration of the human body begins at 40, when the heart, nerves and kidneys begin to lose strength," he said. "After that the being is toiling for leave to live. However, today, 186 persons in 1000 live to more than 80, and in the last 35 years the expectation of life has been increased by 12 years."

To ascertain whether women who are holding down important jobs are drinking enough water every day wearing the right sort of clothes and eating the proper foods the National Federation of Business and Professional Women is sending health questionaires to the $2,000 members of the organization.

Markets and Mining

MARKETS BULLETIN

Reported by J. A. Grant, Markets Commissioner at Calgary.

CALGARY, July 15.—Crop conditions in the prairies are excellent. Alberta has sown a record crop of cereals. Business is good.

Calgary is consuming about one-fifth more than at this time last year, and this represents the increase in population, now said to be more than 100,000.

Broccoli from B. C. has not been up to the usual standard. Rhubarb has been excellent. Walla Walla competition lowered the price below last year's average. Head lettuce is arriving in larger quantities than formerly from Victoria, Vancouver and Armstrong. Armstrong is shipping the Cos variety. It is clean and is selling fast.

Strawberries and gooseberries are now selling. Gooseberries are not popular on prairie markets. Strawberries are coming in L.C.L. consignment to brokers, jobbers and retailers; even Chinese dealers in the public markets are receiving large consignments from the Hammond Japanese association. The quality has been from fair to good and the condition of arrival has been excellent. All imported berries are fast. Saturday prices to wholesale will be $3; to retail $3.25.

The first car of Haney berries arrived in Regina and sold at $4. The second car will sell at $3 owing to arriving too late for Saskatchewan market. Prices will rule about $3.25 for carlots during the first part of the week. So far the demand has exceeded the supply.

For some years past the Markets Bulletin has received requests for rates prevailing at competitive points on leading commodities offered on our Canadian markets. We decided to publish this information and trust interested parties will file the insert in this issue for future reference, as by using rates quoted from point of origin to destination, plus duty, they will find by adding such charges to F.O.B. shipping point price, the laid down price on each commodity.

CALGARY WHOLESALE PRICES TO RETAIL.

British Columbia.

Strawberries, 24 pts.,$3.75 to $4.
Gooseberries, 24 pts., $2.50 to $3.
Cherries, B. Tartarian, 4-B. crate, $2.50
Tomatoes, hothouse, 4-B. crate, $5 to $5.50.
Head lettuce, per case $5.

B. C. APPLES ALL CLEANED UP.

We direct attention to our correspondents' remarks that the only apples available at most prairie points are Washington Winesaps and Newton Pippins.

Selling organizations in British Columbia were very anxious over the fact that about 800 cars of their apples remained unsold at the end of the year. We advised Mr. Black, chairman of the committee of direction, that it would take that amount to supply the domestic markets until the coming apple season. It was known that many varieties unsuitable for long keeping were included in this number. The presence of British Columbia apples in volume on the prairie markets kept out imported stuff until they cleaned up.

This experience should convince shippers that 800 cars apples are needed to supply the domestic markets from New Year until June; also that the winter varieties should be kept for this purpose.

EDMONTON.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 12.—The first B. C. Strawberries arrived on the the 7th. Arrivals on this date were three crates. Arrivals today were 146 crates.

First arrivals were rather inferior, but quality with a few exceptions has greatly improved. These are mostly of large white tip variety and are nicely packed with every hallock faced and compare very favorably with the Hood river berries which are also on the market. Thehe B. C. berries are not so uniform in size or color, and almost every crate shows a small percentage of moldy and decayed berries which possibly is the inevitable result of first pickings.

One lot of 10 crates from Lulu Island were very inferior both in size pack and condition, and would have to be jobbed at cost or lower. It is too bad that such low quality stuff should be allowed to come in competition so early in the season, as it has a most weakening and detrimental effect upon the market.

B. C. apples are about cleaned up, Washington Winesaps now supplying the market. B. C. hothouse tomatoes are of good quality and pack, arriving in fair to good condition.

The first arrivals of B. C. cauliflower received was of very inferior quality; small and blown, some heads not over one pound in weight. Later arrivals have been better.

B. C. head lettuce is arriving in increasing volume in iced crates, and dry pack in one-tier flats. This latter pack is arriving in better condition and is more desirable than the other.

Rhubarb, field, 40-lb. box, $1.40 to $1.50.
Potatoes, old stock white, P. E. I., 90-lb. sack, A. $1.75 to $2.
Potatoes, old stock white, Alta, cwt., B, $1.75 to $1.85.
Potatoes, old stock Gems, Alta., cwt., B., $1.85 to $2.

WINNIPEG.

This spring, owing to the variable weather, the fruit and vegetable business on the Winnipeg markets, while at times extremely brisk, on the whole has only been average and the volume which has been rather heavy has as usual run largely to imported stocks.

Apples of any kind are practically cleaned up, although there are still a few B. C. Winesaps in the jobbers' warehouses, as well as some American apples.

The potato demand is now being taken care of entirely by imported and local potatoes, no cars having been brought from the east for some time.

Texas tomatoes are now being handled, with only L.C.L. shipments of hothouse tomatoes from Medicine Hat as competition. The local gardeners are supplying practically all the rhubarb, spinach and radishes being used, and hothouse cucumbers of very fine quality are being received from British Columbia. These are wholesaling at around $3 a dozen, against imported Carolia cucumbers in hampers at $4.50 per hamper of from five to six dozen.

Up to date no B. C. strawberries have come on this market, but good supplies are being received from the United States.

B. C. head lettuce has been arriving in good shape and has met with ready sale, although the heads are rather loose.

The past few weeks the orange market has been running heavily to cheap small organges and large quantities of them have been disposed of.

British Columbia.

Apples, Winesaps, Ex. Fcy., wholesale $4.50; retail, per lb., 15c.
Head lettuce, 4-5 doz., wholesale $6; retail, each, 15c to 18c.
Alberta H. H. Tomatoes, 4-basket crates, wholesale, $5.50; retail, per lb., 35c to 40c.
Manitoba potatoes, Canada B., wholesale, cwt., $1.40; retail, 10 lbs., 25c.
Rhubarb, wholesale, lb., 1½c; retail 10 lbs. 25c.

REGINA.

REGINA Sask., June 12.—The weather-erduring seeding time was dry and cool, the land was in splendid condition for receiving the seed, while since seeding was completed we have had considerable rain and the crops are making good headway.

The average planted to potatoes would appear to be about equal to last year. Farmers appear to have paid more attention to the selection of their potato seed than formerly. Large quantities of certified seed potatoes were distributed throughout Saskatchewan which should result in a better quality of potatoes coming on the market this fall.

B. C. apples are cleaning up, Winesaps and Newtons being the only varieties available.

The B. C. rhubarb deal is nearing a close. The first receipts of B. C. strawberries are expected about the 15th. B. C. asparagus and head lettuce are arriving. B. C. hothouse tomatoes and cucumbers are in good supply.

The following quotations are wholesale for stock of good merchantable quality and cnodition:

British Columbia.

Apples, Winesaps, box, Fcy., $3.75.
Apples, Newtons, box, Fcy., $3.75.
Tomatoes hothouse, 4-basket crate, $5.25.
Lettuce, head, flats 48, $5.
Asparagus, crate, per lb., 15c.

VANCOUVER.

VANCOUVER, June 12—Weather during the last week has been somewhat dull and cool for this time of the year, with occasional showers.

Am sorry the first bulletin of the season will have to record bad news regarding the local strawberry market, which is simply demoralized.

Local strawberries started last Saturday June, 8, at $4 per crate, and have since then slumped to $1.75 to $2. At the time locals were introduced the imported strawberries were selling at about $4.50. The present supply of locals certainly does not warrant the prevailing low price.

Supply of imported lettuce is short due to poor weather conditions; the same applies to peppers.

CHICAGO, June 17.—For at least the moment, timely rains in Canada proved an over-match today for friends of higher prices on wheat and the market flattened out.

MINES SHARE IN MARKET UPTURN

Fairly Brisk Session Had at Coast; Oils Led by Home Are Feature.

TORONTO, June 17.—Heavy trading in Newbec, Ajax Oil, Wainwell and Granada Rouyn gave the mining market a very active appearance today, although the trading list was in reality much narrower than for several weeks previously.

Newbec opened at 45 cents an overnight loss of 14 cents, when reports were published that no ore had been intersected yet in the cross-cut at the 250-foot level. In the first rush of selling, the price broke further to 42 cents but sufficient buying came in at that point to bring a recovery to 48½ cents.

Notwithstanding the official announcement that the Wainwell No. 4 well had been brought in late on Sunday, the stock of that company sagged to 47 cents and finished at 47½ cents, down 7½ cents.

Ajax Oil sold up to $1.95 early in the session, but later receded to $1.78, and finished at $1.83, off 5 cents.

Granada reached a new high at 36 cents but later agreed good deal of profit-taking came in and reduced the gain. Final dealings were at 32 cents up 3 cents. Noranda eased 15 cents to $53.50.

International Nickel touched a peak of $49.60 and closed at $49.25, a net loss of 5 cents.

Western Oils were irregular. Southwest Pete advanced $1 to $6 while Home was up 35 cents to $20.75, Royalite up $7 to $142, Associated up 20 cents to $4.20. Dalhousie up 10 cents to $4 and Commonwealth up 5 cents to $1.10. Alberta Pacific was 10 cents lower at $3.50 and Baltic down 5 cents to $2.25. Calgary and Edmonton land was 5 cents better at $9.25. Big Missouri sold up six cents to $1.33. Pend Oreille and Columarion were unchanged at $5 and $1.14, respectively.

Sherritt-Gordon dropped 15 cents to $7.10. Mandy Mines and Manitoba Basin were steady at 90 cents and 30 cents respectively. Central Manitoba eased two cents to 45 cents and Hudson Bay Mining closed 5 cents higher at $16.80.

MIXED TREND ON TORONTO MARKET

Brazilian, Abitibi, Brompton in Demand; Simpson's Ltd., in New High.

TORONTO, June 17.—Today's session of the Toronto exchange was featured by many contrasts of leader movements. Marked enthusiasm for Brazilian, Abitibi, and Brompton, Standard Steel and McColl Frontenac carried these issues substantially forward, while such issues as Ford of Canada, Goodyear preferred, Imperial Oil and Massey-Harris were carried by steady liquidation into lower trading ground.

Goodyear preferred and Ford of Canada experienced the sting of new low quotations. Ford of Canada's close was $44½, compared with a high of $70.

Simpson's Limited, preferred, on a strong turnover, reached a new high of $104½, up 3½.

National Steel Car was up 3½ on the strength of a report that the impending meeting of directors may result in an increased dividend being declared on the common stock. Canadian Pacific gained six, Dominion Power 3 and Steel of Canada one.

Forty Millions Issue of C. N. R. Bonds Marketed

NEW YORK, June 17.—One of the largest bond flotations of the year, a $40,000,000 issue of Canadian National Railway company 40 year five per cent guaranteed gold bonds, is being placed on the market tomorrow by a banking syndicate headed by Dillon, Read and company.

A portion of the issue has been withdrawn by a Canadian banking group for offering in Canada.

COLUMBARO, recently put on the Standard Exchange, is reported from Prince Rupert as having a new vein with surprising values, channel samples giving gold content over 5 foot widths nearly double the original sampling of $26.

Mining Chatter From the East

KIRKLAND LAKE in taking over Chaput Hughes ground to the south expects it reasonably certain that commercial ore will be found at depth. It already holds a large block of Chaput, and the basis of the deal will be one share of Kirk-Lane for every ten of Chaput, involving 239,123 shares.

Little is heard officially or unofficially about Northern Canada, formerly Beaver Consolidated, which holds around 1,710,000 shares of Kirk-Lake as its chief asset, which at book value shows its stock somewhat out of line from present market price. It has substantial cash, and is known to have made some investments, particularly in Lake shore when it was selling around $18.

NORTHERN CANADA has three prominent engineers and business men on the lookout for other things It is said when market conditions improve, some of the 1,710,000 shares will be let out further heightening the company's cash position.

Increased attention is reported being given Rhyolite Rouyn, westerly neighbor to Waite-Montogmery, by the fact that a deal is going through whereby Noranda interests take control and intend operating the property.

All Oil Wells and all western oil fields are not to be expected as duplicates of Turner Valley successes and the decision of Imperial Oil to withdraw from the Skiff field sounds a note that speculators might appreciate The decision doesn't mean that Skiff is not worthy, but the name of the big oil company has lent much to wells with which they are connected.

The favorite selling promotion for western oils of the leading stocks a year ago as compared with to-day's prices. Home sold at $1 in May last year as compared with $26 recently—an increase of 2500 per cent., Mayland, A. P. Consolidated, Okalta, Devenish and Calmont scored the next larger per centage appreciation in order.

DUNKIN shareholders are still awaiting official report about conditions that caused cessation of work—and the market tumble in a stock that many had thought was on the eve of big things, as work progressed underground toward expected continuation of the surface showing which was a sensation of Patricia district.

MINING MARKET ACTIVE, TORONTO

Newbec, Ajax, Wainwell Active Nickel Touches Peak of $49.60

VANCOUVER, June 17.—Trading on the stock market was fairly brisk, particularly in the early session and while some of the oils lost ground, the general trend was higher, mines sharing in the upturn.

Home Oil was strong up to $21 with the closing sale at $20.90 and the final bid at $20.60, up 60 cents. Sterling Pacific was the big trader and scored a net gain of 34 cents to $2.05. A. P. Consolidated was traded in freely up to $3.60, closing three cents firmer at $3.55. Advance was 60 cents stronger at $17 while several other issues ranged from 10 cents to 20 cents stronger. McDougall Segur and McLeod eased off 25 cents and Mayland lost 15 cents to $7.85.

In the mines George Copper was 30 cents firmer at $7.75; Golconda four cents up at $1.20; Big Missouri gained 3 cents at $1.30 and Premier six cents at $1.61. Pend Oreille held steady at $4.75 and Snowflake eased off 3 cents to 51 cents.

Making a bet that he "could steal an auto and get away with it," Fred Dyer, 19, of Kokomo, Ind., lost the bet and is under arrest.

SOUTH AFRICAN CRICKET TEAM MEETS ENGLISH

Batting Slow but Set Record for Test Match; in Second Innings.

BIRMINGHAM, England, June 17.—Threatened with disaster early in the play today when the English bowler got the range, the South Africans play today when the English bowlers in the initial cricket test match at Edgbaston and carried their score of 59 to 250, passing the English first innings total of 245. The South Africans, while their batting was very slow, set up a record when R. H. Catterall and M. Mitchell made over 100 for the first wicket. This has never been done before by a South African team against England in a test match. Mitchell was top scorer for his side, batting out 88. The English opened their second innings and had scored 34 without the loss of a wicket when stumps were drawn.

H. Larwood was the most successful English bowler, his average reading five wickets for 57 runs.

Catterall, 33, and Mitchell, 25 continued the tourists' first innings this morning.

Four South African wickets fell in half an hour. Catterall was out, leg before wicket, to Fender's bowling. Christie's off stump was knocked 14 yards by one of Larwood's fast deliveries and Taylor's middle stump was uprooted a few minutes shrdlcmfwyp rooted by some bowler a few minutes later. Morkel played inside one of Tate's offerings and was bowled. Thus the South African score, which stood at 119 for no wickets, after this disastrous period, was 130 for four.

The South African captain, H. G. Deane, after being at the wicket for 80 minutes and scoring 29, was dismissed by Fender, who took a drive very wide out with his left hand off his own bowling. The South African innings lasted 7 hours and 20 minutes.

In the 45 minutes left before time Sutcliffe and Killick, England's opening pair, batted confidently, the former getting 10 runs and the latter 23.

The attendance reached 5000 during the afternoon.

With the city band and the two bugle bands, the day will not lack for musical accompaniment.

Play Politics on Big Deals in Baseball

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Baseball fans never understand certain high-priced ball players often fall down. That is because the fans do not understand the insides of some of these big deals.

It is a common practice for owners to whoop up a player and then when a scout comes to town, try to sell him without even displaying the fellow in action.

"If the fellow being sold is a pitcher and the scout asks to see him work, the owner will say, "I'm sorry, but it's not his turn. Besides he has a sore arm just now. I'll ask the manager about it." And usually the fellow doesn't work.

When I was at Seattle, Duke Kenworthy, the old federal leaguer, tried to put a fast one like that over on Washington. He was sore at Griffith about something that came up during the Federal league days.

He had a pitcher named "Lefty" Francis. Washington sent a scout to look him over. Kenworthy wouldn't let Francis pitch. He came to me and asked me to work instead. "I want to put this fellow over on Griffith," he said.

Well the funny thing about it was that took "Lefty" anyway and he double-crossed Duke completely by making good. He pitched a number of years in the big show for Washington and later for Detroit.

Young Eels are Taken From Severn For Street Markets

LONDON, June 17.—Elvers, or young eels, appear with the tides in the River Severn every spring and are taken in great quantities with sieves of haircloth or even with a common basket. After being scoured and boiled the elvers are offered for sale, the first consignment announced to the public by hawkers—generally women—who make the streets ring with their piping cry of "Elvers! Elvers!"

The annual appearance of the young eels from the sea (where the spawn has lain all the winter) up the river is looked for with much interest. Some notion may be formed of the quantity of elvers, each about three inches long that pass up the Severn in the spring, from the circumstance that it was calculated by observers that from 1600 to 1800 pass by a given point in the space of one minute.

This passage of young eels is called eel-fare on the banks of the Thames—the Saxon word signifying to go, to pass, to travel—and there is little doubt that the term "elver," in common use on the banks of the Severn for a young eel, is a modification or corruption of "eel-fare," while Elmore, on the outskirts of Gloucester, obtained its name from the immense number of eels which are caught there.

GIVES A FLYING PARTY, TORONTO

First on Record in Canada Given by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Irwin.

TORONTO, Ont., June 17.—A farm of 200 acres is a good place in which to hold a flying party. So thought Mr. and Mrs. Norman Irwin when they gave the first aviation garden party on record in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin were host and hostess to the flying club members. Sped on by a strong tail wind the aerial visitors from Leaside Airport arrived at the Irwin home, situated on the Kingston road, near Whitby, just 15 minutes after leaving Toronto.

Twenty-four of the guests present arrived by air in the 12 multi-colored Moth light planes that stood in imposing array on Mr. Irwin's private airdrome, while their occupants enjoyed his hospitality. During the afternoon, exhibitions of stunt-flying were carried out.

NORTHERN RHODESIAN CAPITAL TO BE MOVED

June 17.—Considerable interest has June 14.—Considerable interest has been aroused here by the announcement that the capital of Northern Rhodesia is to be moved from Livingstone. The new site will probably be near Chilanga, which is just off the railway north of the broad Kafue river, about 80 miles south of Broken Hill, near Lusaka.

Livingstone—so named after the missionary explorer, David Livingstone—the present capital of Northern Rhodesia, is seven miles by railway from the Victoria Falls. It is near the north bank of the Zambezi river, and has been for a considerable time the seat of the administration of Northern Rhodesia. It has a white population of about 800. In certain quarters it has been held that Livingstone, being at the extreme southern end of Northern Rhodesia, was inconveniently situated as the capital of the territory, and it may be recalled that the first administrative center was at Kalmo, some 70 miles farther north. Hitherto, however, these objections have not been thought sufficient to outweigh the removal of headquarters from Livingstone. But in the last two years mining development in the northern part of the territory has been recognized. Chilanga is a wayside station some 4000 feet above sea level, and there is room for the building of a town on virgin ground. Lusaka, the next station north from Chilanga, is a thriving farming center with about 550 inhabitants. In the neighborhood gold and copper have been found.

MANY SPLENDID GROUPS OF OLD PICTURES, EAST

Water Colors of Early Days in Collections; Interest Widespread

MONTREAL, Que., June 17.—The interest of recent years in the preservation of early Canadian engravings, prints and pictures has resulted in much of the available material being brought together into several private and public collections. Fortunately the majority of these collections have not been secured by persons of narrow interests who seclude their treasures from the view of historians, students and the pubic generally. One of the great collections is in the Public archives, Ottawa. Another is the John Ross Robertson collection in Toronto.

SPLENDID GROUPS.

Another group of Canadians is rapidly assuming impressive proportions. This is the Canadian Steamship lines collection which is being used in the interior decoration scheme of the Manor Richelieu at Murray Bay, Quebec. From France, from England and from the United States have come additions to this group of old pictures. All of them are relative to Canada's story and many items have romantic histories of their own. From most unexpected sources rare old pictures have been produced. Some of the military maps from the period of the conquest of Canada with officers' notes penciled on them tell unspoken dramas of war.

SOME WATER COLORS.

Outstanding in the collection are 38 water colors by Lieutenant-Colonel J. Cockburn, a British army officer, who served in Canada during the eighteen twenties and thirties. This enterprising officer travelled extensively in upper and lower Canada in the performance of his military duties, but his sketch book was never far from him. Down across the century have come these extraordinary views of street and rural scenes. His fine feeling for architecture and his true appreciation of Canadian country side are blended into this remarkable series which is invaluable to students of Canadian history for the pictures from the life of the period.

Another interesting section of the collection consists of 20 water colors by Sir Daniel Wilson, who was president of the University of Toronto from 1881 to 1892. A gentleman of unusual attainments, Sir Daniel was an author and an authority on such subjects as anthropology, British history and English literature. The leaves from his sketch books which make up this group of pictures are the result of observant travel in the 1860's on the St. Lawrence river and the Great lakes.

To Erect Monument First Beet Sugar Plant, Salt Lake

SALT LAKE, CITY, Utah, June 17.—A monument commemorating the beginning of an industry that now pours many million dollars a year into the pockets of sugar beet growers of the inter-mountain west is to be erected here soon.

It will be constructed of granite and Bedford limestone, ornamented with symbolical figures, and built by popular subscription near the site of the first beet sugar factory in the west.

Original buildings of the plant, constructed in 1853 of sunbaked adobe brick by A. O. Smoot, father of Senator Reed Smoot, have been torn down to make room for a modern business structure.

The monument, 52 feet high and surmounted by an electric beacon, will be erected in a plaza in the business center of Sugarhouse, now within the boundaries of Salt Lake City but originally a rural trading center that grew up around the old sugar mill.

ACCIDENTS KILL 96,000 PERSONS

Such Is Total in United States, 1928: Railroad Accidents on Wane.

CHICAGO, June 17.—Accidents killed 96,000 persons in the United States in 1928, the National Safety council announces. This was an increase of 3.1 per cent over 1927. Of the total number of deaths 27,500 were attributed to automobiles and 368 to civil aviation. Railroad accidents, the report said, are on the wane.

Plain Felt Hats Hurt Artificial Flower Business

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 17.—Women's penchant for plain felt hats last year might have eased the load on their husband's pocketbooks but it hurt the artificial flower trade between France and the United States.

Smaller demand for hat trimmings is blamed by the Department of Commerce for a decrease in imports of artificial and ornamental flowers from the Paris consular district from $1,055,122 in 1927 to $671,482 in 1928.

Blacksmith Shop in Scotland Is Famous For Hasty Weddings

GRETNA GREEN, Scotland, June 17.—Sentiment is growing along the Scottish border for the abolition of the "easy marriage" system at Gretna Green, where 350 hasty wedding have taken place within 18 months.

Only 31 of these marriages were subsequently registered. That is the outstanding factor in the agitation against Gretna Green "romance".

Popular revulsion against the "romantic traditions" of the frontier village was intensified by the recent marriage at the famous nuptial blacksmith shop of Miss Olive Ridsdel, a young English heiress, and Hector Nappin, a Cambridge undergraduate.

INCREASES PROTESTS

The elopement of these prominent young persons, both minors, and their joining of hands over the anvil where so many romantic hymenial knots have been tied, has increased the volume of protest among border folk, who say the situation has become scandalous.

In 1856 the Scottish law was changed so as to provide that one of the contracting parties much have resided in scotland for 21 days before the marriage. Previously no legal residence requirement existed. But the marriage business of Gretna Green has flourished nevertheless, possibly because there has been laxness in enforcing the residence law.

Urges Expansion Post-School Study For Adults, U. S.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 17.—Picturing the United States electorate as having an average education of "sixth to seventh grade level," Dr. John William Cooper, federal commissioner of education, told the American Association for Adult Education that this low educational level threatened the country's social and economic prosperity.

"Such an electorate," he asserted, "can hardly be expected to solve intelligently such problems as are presented by our increasingly complicated social and economic life."

As one solution for the problem, he recommended further expansion of the adult education movement, which provides post-school study for adults.

Emigration Tide Turning Toward South America

RIO DE JANERIO, Brazil, June 17—The tide of emigration which for decades flowed westward across the Atlantic to New York and other American ports has definitely set in a southwesterly direction.

European steamship companies are operating larger and faster steamers to South America than were the pre-war emigrant carriers of the North Atlantic, with much better accommodations. Under these conditions Brazilians believe that their country is on the verge of a great increase in population with consequent agricultural development.

The Prince of Wales gave a dinner party at St. James palace recently when among the guests were the German ambassador and Frau Schamer, Mr. Frank B. and Mrs. Kellogg, the Marquis and Marchioness Camden, Viscount D'Abernon, Lord and Lady Byng.

BLISTER RUST MAY BE SEEN ON TREES NOW

Fungous Disease, Orignating on White Pine, May Attack Gooseberries.

Bister rust is fungous disease affecting all pines which have their needles in groups of five, according to the Dominion botanist, experimental farm. It is not a native but was brought to Canada from Europe about 20 years ago on white pine nursery stock. Introduced to Ontario and British Columbia about the same time it has since then spread until now it is present throughout most of the areas in this country in which white pine occurs In Europe it has proved so serious that it has been necessary to abandon the use of white pine and unless it is controlled it may prove equally serious in Canada.

The fungus enters the tree by way of the needles and from there grows downwards into the bark. For about three years after a tree has become infected there is no very noticeable evidence of disease, but after that time the diseased part of the branch assumes a characteristic dull yellowish green to orange color. During May and June conspicuous organge-yellow blister break through the bark. These contain a very fine powder, composed of spores, which serve to disseminate pines trees but spread to either wild or cultivated currants and gooseberries where they continue to grow. In later summer and early fall a spore form is produced on the currants or gooseberries which goes back to pines and so the life cycle is completed.

ALL SIZES SUBJECT.

While trees of all sizes are subject to attack young pines are killed much more quickly than mature trees. The disease has taken a number of years to establish itself but it is now showing up to a serious degree on white pines. Owners of pines are urged to examine their trees now to determine whether or not they are diseased, as it is only at this time of year that the symptoms of disease are at all conspicuous. There is but one effective means to protect the white pines and that is by removing all currants and gooseberries in the immediate vicinity of the trees.

The Dominion department of agriculture has issued an illustrated circular dealing with blister rust and this can be obtained free upon application to the publications branch, department of agriculture, Ottawa, Ont.

YORKSHIRE SOOT POLLUTES LAKES

Beautiful Lake Windermere Greasy With Soot From Distant Factories.

LEEDS, Eng., June 17.—The English Lake district is being polluted by smoke and soot from the big industries in Yorkshire, according to Professor J. B. Cohen, of Leeds university, who recently stated in an address here that he had made this discovery while investigating the smoke problem.

A phenomenon which he had noticed, he said, proved definitely that smoke from industrial centers spread for many miles into the country. A rain cloud would absorb soot and smoke and become almost saturated with it, and when that cloud fell as rain soot was liberated and came down with the rain.

"Yesterday, near Coniston," he added, "it was drizzling all day, and I dermere became coated with a thin noticed that the surface of Lake Winfilm of greasy matter. It is significant that the wind was blowing direct from Yorkshire. I took out a piece of rag and held it on the surface of the water, and this is the result." He held up a rag begrimed and greasy.

Claims Her Husband's Will Made While He Was of Unsound Mind

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., June 17.—Alleging that her husband was not of sound mind when he made his will disposing of an estate which she estimates at $30,000, Mrs. George Baker, Wainwright, is suing William Reid locomotive engineer of Biggar, Sask., sole executor of the will of her husband, before Mr. Justice Tweedie in the supreme court, alleging undue persuasion and asking that the document be thrown out or failing this for assistance under the Widows Relief act.

The claim sets forth that the deceased suffered from delusions as a consequence of his illness and it is claimed he made his will forgetting son and his wife, during a delusion.

'The Desperate Lover'

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

"Merciful God! to meet you here," she faltered. "You will help me? Oh, you will help me? My husband is being murderid there on the cliff by an escaped lunatic. Oh, Leonardo, save him, and you may strike me dead at your feet. It is I whom you should hate, not him. Oh, come! Come, or it will be too late!"

He stood quite still, looking at her curiously.

"And it is I to whom you dare to come for help—I whom you ask to save him—your husband? Adrienne, do you remember my words on the sands at Palermo?"

She wrung her hands, frantically imploring.

"How can I remember anything—think of anything, now? For the love of God, help him," she begged, seizing his hand. "That was all so long ago. You would not have him killed here before my eyes? Come! Oh, do come!"

"Lead the way," he answered sternly. "Call your loudest for other help. I make no promise, but I will see this tragedy."

She ran back along the path, and he followed her. They turned suddenly an abrupt corner, and came upon two men locked in one another's arms, and swaying backward and forward upon the short green turf. The lunatic, an immense fellow, more than six feet high, was clutching his opponent's throat with his left hand, while with his right he brandished a long tableknife with keenly sharpened edge. The struggle was virtually over. The madman's strength was more than human, and desperately though he had struggled, Lord St. Maurice was lying exhausted and overcome in his arms.

With a final effort he turned his head at the sound of footsteps, and saw them come—his wife and this shrunken little old man. But close at hand though they were, nothing could help him now. He saw the steel flashing in the sunlight, and he closed his eyes.

The knife descended, but Lord St. Maurice remained unhurt. With a swiftness which seemed almost incredible, the Sicilian had sprung between them, and the knife was quivering in his side. Behind, the lunatic was struggling helplessly in the grasp of three keepers.

There was a wild cry of horror from Lady St. Maurice, a choking gasp of relief from her husband, and a horrid chuckle of triumph from the madman as he gazed upon his handiwork. But after that there was silence—a deep, awe-struck silence—the silence of those who stand in the presence of death.

Count Marioni lay on the turf where he had sunk, very white and very still, with the blood drooping slowly from his wound upon the grass, and his eyes closed. At first they thought that he was already dead; but, as though aroused by Lady St. Maurice's broken sobs, he opened his eyes and looked up. His lips moved, and she stooped low down to catch the sound.

"Will you tell Margharita that this was best?" he faltered. "I have heard a whisper from over the sea, and—and the White Hyacinth forgives. I forgive. She will understand."

"Leonardo," she sobbed, "your vengeance——"

He interrupted her.

"This is my vengeance!" he said. "I have kept my oath!"

Then he closed his eyes, and a gray shade stole into his pallid face. A breeze sprung up from the sea, and the tall, blood-red poppies, which stood up all around him like a regiment of soldiers, bent their quivering heads till one or two of them actually touched his cheek. He did not move; he was dead.

TILLIE THE TOILER By Westover

Rare Spiceimen Is Captured by the Roosevelts, Tibet

Giant Panda Is About Size of Bear; Only Six Known in the World Today.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 17.—An animal that white hunters are said never to have obtained before, a giant panda, has been bagged by the Roosevelts, Theodore and Kermit, hunting in Tibet.

This panda, a full sized bear that resembles a raccoon, is so rare that even scientists know it only by description obtained from natives. Something very like it could be obtained by taking a white Teddy bear and drawing him out just long enough to leave some of his roly-poly proportions. Substitute the powerful neck of a polar bear, with that killer's head shortened and flattened a little.

ODDLY MARKED.

Paint two black rings around the eyes just like those common in the comics. Make both ears coal black, and over the shoulders paint a broad stripe of black and make this color completely encase the forelegs, like hip boots.

Finally put short boot lengths of black on the hind legs and the color scheme of the panda reproduced at the Field Museum of Natural History here is complete.

ABOUT SIZE OF A BEAR.

The Roosevelts are collecting for the museum. Word of their success came to William V. Kelley, sponsor of the expedition. Wilfred Osgood, the museum's curator of zoology, says the panda is about the size of a bear and that never before has a white hunter obtained one.

He says there have been only six recorded specimens in the world, and in no instance a complete skeleton.

American Add to Their Holdings of Foreign Securities

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 17.—American inventors added $70,350,000 to their holdings of foreign government and corporation securities, except Canadian, during the first two months of the year.

This is less than five per cent of the total amount of American money which flowed into new domestic stocks and bonds during the same period. Compared with 1926, when the flotations of foreign securities in the American market were at high tide, the present volume is infinitesimal.

Were it to be maintained throughout 1929, the total would fall considerably short of equalling the amount of money credits shipped from North to South America alone in 1926, when new Latin-American investments exceeded $500,000,000.

While American investments abroad have dwindled the nation's participation in foreign industry and commerce has expended at a rapid pace. Part of the reason for this apparent paradox is the present disposition of American manufacturers and capitalists to establish branch plants in foreign countries chiefly with the aid of capital and labor obtained in these countries.

CLEARING THE SLUMS BY TENEMENT-SCHEME

Two New Blocks of Tenements in London Opened to 40 Tenants

LONDON, June 17.—The opening of two blocks of tenements at New street, Aldgate, by the Lord Mayor, Sir Richard Kynaston Studd, recently marked the conclusion of a scheme of slum clearance in the neighborhood of Middlesex sttreet formulated 10 years ago by the corporation of London.

The scheme involved the demolition of 151 houses and the displacement of 885 persons, 250 of whom had to be rehoused on the area. Housing accommodation for 635 persons has been provided by the corporation at its own expense by the erection of a block of dwellings known as Windsor House in Wenlock road and Shepherdess Walk, and to meet the need of rehousing the with the approval of the Ministry of Health, to erect two blocks of buildings on the most up-to-date lines, the designs for which were prepared by the city engineer.

The two blocks which cost $263,000, have been designed to contain 40 tenements, the weekly rental for each of which is about $5.50.

Boy Scout Doings

In the Kootenay and Boundary Districts

This colum is open to all Scout organizations in the Kootenay and Boundary districts. Scout news must be in the editorial department by Saturday night at the latest.

FOURTH NELSON TROOP.

This newly formed troop of scouts held their weekly meeting in the armory on Thursday evening, three new boys being admitted, which brings the present strength up to 20 all told, leaving only three vacancies to be filled.

There was a full muster of the members, and from the start of the meeting till the close, everything went like clock work, and all were right up on their toes.

At 7 the boys were lined up in their various patrols, the flag saluted and the scout promise repeated, after which each patrol leader took his patrol into their "corner" and instructed them in the promise and the three first scout laws. The scoutmaster, instructing the troop leaders. At the end of a 20 minute period, the scoutmaster went the rounds to see how work was progressing, at the close of the inspection, a game was taken part in; then roll call, for the next 20 minutes, the scoutmaster gave a talk on the various scout signs, illustrated on the blackboard, after which the "Raven" patrol took charge of the games for the evening. At 8:25 the boys were lined up again, the flag saluted, the promise repeated and the boys dismissed with the Lord's prayer.

It was the intention to go on a hike this week-end, but owing to wet weather it had to be called off, but will take place next week-end if the weather improves.

The 4th Nelson is only a new troop, and all its members are young, but nevertheless, it has the markings of being the snappiest scout troop that has ever been in Nelson. To see how the patrol leaders handled their patrols and instructed them was a revelation, and the discipline was all that could be desired. A prize has been offered to the patrol leader who gets his patrol through the tenderfoot test first, but before a boy passes any test he has to be perfect, no half measures in the 4th. And though to some of our friends this may seem a little severe, it is for the good of the troop and for scouting as a whole.

The "Fox" patrol, Patrol Leader Douglas Haddon, has its full complement of members, the "Raven" patrol, Patrol Leader Carl Gallicano, lacks one member, and the "Wolf" patrol, Patrol Leader Fred Graves, requires two to bring it up to full strength. The leaders are not rushing to fill these vacancies, in order to bring the troop up to strength, as they can afford to wait, and hand pick the required boys. After the troop is brought up to full strength, namely three patrols, one troop leader and one scoutmaster, no additions will be made till the fall of 1930, by that time all the present members will be first-class scouts, and all on their way to being King scouts. That is the goal the 4th Nelson boys are aiming for, watch us do it!

FIRST NELSON WOLF CUB PACK.

The first hike of the season was held a week ago, to the Athabasca mill. The party left the skating rink at 2:15, making the journey in easy stages, and arrived at their destination at 3:45. The youngsters felt it a little on the warm side traveling along the Silver King road, and were glad of the shade that the trail afforded after leaving the road. After arriving at the mill, one thought seemed to possess all the hikers, and that was to sample the eats which they had so carefully guarded on the highway. That being done, the party inspected the various buildings of the old mill, after which they took part in various games, with the zest that only a cub can put forth when games hold the stage. Soon after 6 o'clock, the party set out on the return trip, arriving back at the starting point at 7:30. The cubs taking part in the hike were: D. Stevens, Jack Gray, H. Patterson, T. O'Grady, Dave Matthews, B. Jarrett, S. Hodgson, Ian Dingwall, I. Dingwall, Joe Doyle, J. Foggo, and "Sammy" the dog.

In addition to these the following members of the Fourth Nelson troop of Scouts took part in the trip: Jack Whitfield, Harry Ruppell, W. Laurie, Guy Williams, Cedric Stringer, Douglas Haddon, and Billy Townsend.

Forty cubs were present at the meeting held in the armory last Tuesday It was taken for granted that owing to several of the cubs having been promoted to the Fourth Nelson troop of Scouts, and that the usual summer decrease in attendance, the number of cubs present would be on the small side and it was fortunate for the cubmaster that several of the members of the Fourth Nelson troop put in an appearance, and willingly gave a hand in the evening's activities.

As several of the senior cubs had moved up to the scout troop, the pack was reorganized, a new senior sixer and several new sixers being appointed. Further details will be given in the near future. From now on it is the intention to draw on the volunteers from the Fourth Nelson troop for instructing the cubs and this scheme as well as helping the members of the cub pack will give the members of the Fourth Nelson confidence in themselves.

FIRST TRAIL TROOP

The troop had a very enjoyable visit from F. W. Weaver, who is a scoutmaster of much ability, and also a commissioner in the old land. He told some very interesting details in regard to scouting in general and so much did the scouts appreciate his talk that they gave him prolonged applause. We are looking forward to future visits.

The troop spent a great deal of time in patrol corners this week, going over the details of camp, and also practising various tests, in order to keep up in their work; visitors to the troop are always impressed with the capable way in which the patrol leaders carry on their work in the corners, which is not at all unusual as all patrol leaders carry on in the same manner.

The troop assisted the other two troops in selling tickets for a special film of Norway, put on under the auspices of the League of Norsemen, who are giving the proceeds to the scout association for the camp fund It is expected that a fair amount will be realized from the effort.

Seventy-five scouts and scouters will leave Trail on July 3, for two weeks up the lake, and if the weather man smiles on us it is expected that we will have a very fine camp; if it is damp we will just smile and carry on as usual.

CONGRATULATES NELSON

We are very glad to see that Nelson has now a fourth scout troop, and seeing that it is under the leadership of that veteran scouter "Jock" Foggo, it is bound to go ahead, and we will be hearing of great things from them in due course. We also congratulate Boyd C. Affleck on his decision to take on the greater responsibility of a troop, and feel certain that he will keep up the standard of the First Nelson troop.

It is pleasant news, all these changes for the better, in scouting in this district, and in another year, greater successes than ever will yet be seen, which will reflect credit on our commissioner, Wm. C. Motley.

O. W. Humphry has returned from a three weeks trip to east Kootenay.

Princess Mary's recent wedding present of a silver model of a foxhound is a departure from her customary lamp, but in this case, however, the gift was particularly appropriate, for both Miss Ivy Stapleton and her prospective bridegroom, Mr. Richard Micklethwait, whose home is at Ardsley House, Barnsley, are devoted to hunting.

CAPONE GOES TO JAIL

Al Capone's proud boast that he had "never done a minute" was shattered on May 17, when he was sent to jail for a year in Philadelphia for carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested coming out of a theater with his personal bodyguard, Frank Cline, and both admitted carrying sawed-off shotguns. There is a suggestion that Capone, fearing that rival gangsters would take his life, purposely exposed himself to arrest in order to get the protection which only jail can give. Above is shown (1) "Bugs" Moran, O'Bannion's successor as leader of Chicago's north side gang, and the "menace" to Capone's safety. Moran is Scarface's most dreaded enemy. (2) is the rogue's gallary picture of Capone, taken following his sentence, while (3) is a photograph showing the gangster's smile taken in the days when he was supreme as dictator of the Chicago bootleggers.

WORK SUSPENDED FOR THREE WEEKS ON PROCTER END

Building of Road at Kootenay Landing End Getting Well Under Way.

Operations on the Procter end of the new railroad line are at present at a standstill due to the fact that the engineers have not, as yet, determined the cross-sections into which the work has to be divided. It is understood, however, that the work on the right-of-way will begin in the course of the next three weeks on this part of the line.

On the Kootenay Landing end of the job there are some 10 or 12 gangs at work ranging in size from 100 to 12 men each, all getting on well with their particular section of the line.

Around the Procter camp men are patiently waiting for the day when the contractors will be able to give them steady employment. Time hangs heavy on their hands except for the periods when they grind and regrind their axes. Most of the men call it dull business with nothing better to do than to eat and find shelter for themselves at each successive rainstorm.

At the camp blacksmith shop, however, it is a different matter, for all the day through the clang of the hammer on the anvil can be heard as the smith fashions all sorts of tools for rock work and bends long bars into braces for myriads of different implements used in the building of a railroad.

In the commissiary, supplies are pouring in and being unpacked and arranged in neat piles so that they may be secured at a moment's notice. In fact, some of the supplies never reach their respective piles but are carried away by contractors to the other camps.

In the office the staff is harried with the purchasing of the thousand and one things that go to make up a complete camp and road equipment for hundreds of men.

Another force that goes to make the life of the office men unpleasant, is the influx of men seeking employment. Only yesterday a young fellow appeared at the office and inquired whether or not it was at this point that a railway was under construction, and if so could he have a job. Without a second's hesitation, one of the men in the office pointed out of the window to a point across the river and replied, "No, we're not building a railroad here, the outfit you're looking for is over there." Apparently satisfied that his eyes had deceived him, the applicant departed.

Down along the water edge, several men are at work building great flat-bottomed boats large enough to hold a dozen men and their tools. These boats are used to transport men on the rock-work sections to and from their work.

Each freight train that steams into Procter has at least one teamster and his horses aboard. One square meal all around and they join the army of laborers.

Even so early as this natives of Procter can see that in the coming months there will be thriving activity in that part of the country.

Arm at Harrop Is Extremely Rough in Face of Gale

Early yesterday afternoon a terrific wind whipping down the West Arm toward the main lake caused such rough water in the vicinity of Harrop that the ferry there, could not leave the shore.

Preceding a rainstorm that swept down the valley, the wind lasted three-quarters of an hour and died as quickly as it rose but, while at its height, the waves which lashed the shore, were over four feet from base to crest.

So fierce was the gale that several of the boathouses at Harrop were shifted around.

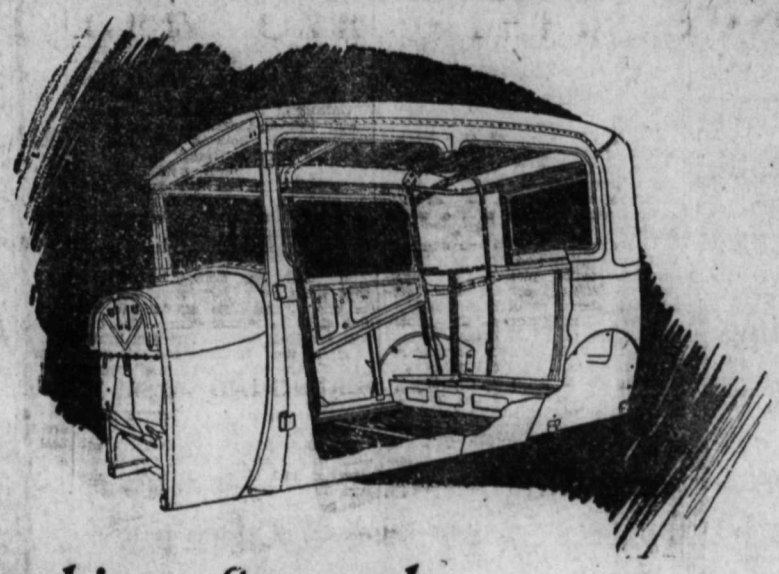
THE FORD CAR STEEL BODY



Combines Strength with Beauty

THE high grade steel used in building Ford car bodies gives maximum driving protection. Beauty of design has been combined with rugged strength in these all-steel bodies. The wood parts shown in the diagram are used only for attaching the interior trim and roof material.

If this body—that of the Tudor Sedan in this instance—mounted on a Model "A" chassis, were turned over and resting on the roof, it would support the chassis, engine and all without even bending the narrow window pillars. Such is the strength and high safety factors of Ford engineering.

Vision obstruction is reduced to a minimum by the use of narrow steel pillars. Lower rear panels, including the wheel housing, are made in one piece. This unusual feature on body construction gives additional strength.

Electrical welding adds greater rigidity and reduces the possibility of squeak and rattle. Panels and frame sections are welded or riveted. In assembly of large units where bolts are necessary, strips of anti-squeak material are used between sections. Sound deadening material is also used. Soft roof construction, of heavy padding over galvanized mesh wire, provides an additional element of quietnes..

CHIC WEAR FOR THE SUMMER

(1) This little imported tennis costume scoffs at the sun. An almost backless frock, it is accomplished in white silk crepe and is similar to one noted at the Coliseum on the opening night of the military tournament. The lacings are in bright red. The skirt is short and flared, while a simple white head band completes the ensemble. (2) Unusually interesting in this smart sports jacket of novelty Rodier cloth, showing a green block pattern in a soft summer shade against a white star motif. Pearl buttons devise a link closing at the cuff. A white linen frock is given added chic when worn with this jacket. The hat is of matching green felt. (3) This sports costume subscribes to the sweater mode. A novel note is introduced in the brightly colored motif interwoven in the sweater, achieving an embroidered effect. To accent the red tones in the motif a coral necklace is worn.

Forestry Addresses Given at Luncheons City Service Clubs

Colonel Allen and Ablett Speak on Forest Preservation; Films Shown.

Col. M. V. Allen of the forestry branch of the provincial department of public works, and E. V. Ablett, official lecturer for the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Forestry association, were speakers at the weekly luncheons of the Rotary and Gyro clubs yesterday. Besides the addresses of Colonel Allen and Mr. Ablett, two excellent motion picture films dealing with different aspects of the forests were shown at both meetings.

Colonel Allen spoke of the importance of the forests of British Columbia not only to British Columbians, but to the people of the Empire as a whole for British Columbia forests contain, he said, almost 70 per cent of the entire supply of soft-woods in the world. This fact alone should convince the people of British Columbia that care of their heritage of forests was not only their duty as citizens of the British Empire, but was also a paying proposition. Thirty cents out of every dollar of production in British Columbia could be traced back to the woods, Colonel Allen declared. Yet, if our forests are consumed by fires for the most part due to carelessness on the part of people using the woods for pleasure, they cannot at the outside last more than 100 years. This threatened catastrophe may, however, be averted, the speaker said, if every citizen of British Columbia should consciously aim at preventing forest fires.

Cutting of lumber while it does seriously depreciate standing timber in the province, has nothing like the effect the ordinary forest fire has in destroying our forest wealth. Besides depreciation for logging operations may be made up by "silvicultural" methods, that is an intensive reforestation program could keep timber supply up to the demand for an indefinite period of time.

In conclusion, Colonel Allen said that there have only been 175 fires in this district this season. It has cost $1740 to handle them. The district has thus been let off very lightly as far as fires are concerned this year. Recent rains which have been general throughout the district, have made the fire situation reasonably safe for the next three weeks or so, Colonel Allen declared.

Mr. Ablett followed the colonel's address with a short talk on forest conservation and shower the motion picture films. The first was an interesting picture of logging and saw-milling operations in British Columbia, dealing principally with Pacific coast lumbering. Lumbering industry was traced from the cutting of the tree from the forest through the successive stages of trimming, hauling, running and so forth until the logs are finally milled and piled as lumber.

Second picture was one of the most interesting natural history films seen in the city in some time. It was made in the wilds of New Brunswick and shows the wild forest creatures in their natural haunts. Pictures of moose and deer were especially appreciated.

Mr. Ablett said that these pictures were being shown all through British Columbia for the purpose of impressing on the people the value of the great forests which are their most splendid heritage.

New Camera Plan Makes it Easy to Look Natural Now

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 17.—Photography of a new kind soon is to be demonstrated at Yale university, where the person photographer sits looking at a mirror instead of at a camera.

When the sitter has exactly the expression he thinks he likes best, he presses a button in the terminal of a cord in his hand, and the photograph is taken.

The camera, concealed completly, works through a series of reflecting lenses to take the photograph as if it had been pointing directly from within the mirror at which the sitter looked.

"LOOK NATURAL."

The art in the new method lies in substituting the ordinary feeling of artificial stiffness with something so fascinating to do that the "look natural" expression is said to be easy.

Not art, but science was the purpose behind creation of the device. It was invented by Luther G. Simjian, micro-photographer of the Yale School of Medicine. It was the result of several years experimenting to develop something to enable psychologists to obtain "natural" photographs of facial expression.

STEPS INTO BOOTH.

The person to be photographed steps into a booth, which has a system of mirrors in front and at both sides, resembling those of small booths in clothing stores, where the customer sees the new suit from all angles.

The photographic booth is fairly large nine feet long and five wide, with a comfortable chair.

On a level with the sitter's face are the mirrors, one directly ahead and three on each side. Whichever way he turns, he is looking at a mirror that shows him exactly the angle from full face to side view, that the camera will catch.

NO PHOTOGRAPHER.

No photographer need be present, or even touch the concealed apparatus, once it has been loaded. Pressure of the button not only takes the picture, but starts an automatic mechanism that switches off the lights momentarily and reloads the camera ready for another "shot," so that the sitter may take another view or expression, in the best time-honored manner of portrait photography.

Seven views are possible. The device can be operated by a photographer of desired, without the sitter knowing when the picture is taken.

FROM MANY PARTS THEY ARE BOUND FOR BOARD MEET

Party From Coast, Another From Colville for Associated Boards.

MANY GUESTS ALSO FROM THE DISTRICT

Big Board Enrollment Expected Banquet Tomorrow Night at Pitner's.

From many different directions, parties and individuals are on their way today to Nelson, for the 29th annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia, which opens its sessions in Nelson tomorrow. Twenty-four hours before the event it promises to be one of the best attended in the history of the organization.

Fraternal delegates and guests promise to be particularly numerous.

SPECIAL PARTIES.

From Vancouver are expected C. A. Cotterell, Canadian Pacific general superintendent for this province; his predecessor, F. W. Peters, and W. J. Blake Wilson, one of the commissioners of the Pacific Great Eastern. A year ago Mr. Cotterell was on his way to the convention at Rossland when a washout required his services. Mr. Wilson on a couple of occasions has been billed to come, once his serious illness intervening. Both M. Peters and Mr. Wilson are old Nelsonites.

"Hope to see at least all the night hawks on arrival," said Mr. Wilson in a wire yesterday to Commissioner Fred A. Starkey, the wire stating he would arrive Wednesday.

Another fraternal party that may materialize is that of the Colville chamber of Commerce, which last year sent a party of eight or ten business men, headed by Lieutenant Governor W. Lon Johnson, to the convention at Rossland. Recent word was that the chamber hoped to be well represented.

W. K. Esling, M. P. for Kootenay West, on his way home from the Ottawa session, is expected and it would not surprise Commissioner Starkey if Pat Burns, Calgary magnate, arrived, too, as he recently intimated he would do "if possible."

DISTRICT VISITORS.

District visitors are expected to include S. G. Blaylock, vice president and general manager of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company of Canada; W. R. Wilson, president of the Crow's Nest Coal company; G. L. Thompson, manager of the Yankee Girl; S. S. Fowler, of the Bluebell; E. G. Montgomery, superintendent of the Sullivan; T. H. Flett, Canadian Pacific division superintendent at Cranbrook; C. S. Leary, ex-M. P. P. for Kaslo-Slocan; J. J. Campbell, of Duntulm ranch; and possibly Colonel H. H. Yuill, of the Victoria syndicate, whose acceptances are on file.

Both Trail and Rossland will probably be represented by board of trade members apart from their official delegates.

So far as the boards of trade are concerned, the number participating promises to be larger than usual.

Cranbrook, Creston, Kaslo, Trail, Rossland, Nakusp, Slocan district, Slocan valley, and Grand Forks are practically certainties. J. P. Fink is expected from Cranbrook, for instance.

In addition, A. W. Drayton is trying to arrange representation for Windermere district, Kimberley may participate, the newly organized Greenwood board is again active and may be on hand, Elko board may send a delegate and Princeton, in the Similkameen, may have a delegate. Another Similkameen board, newly organized, that combining Keremos, Carbondale and Hedley, is a possibility, or it may give its interests into Princeton's hands.

THE PROGRAM.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning President Noble Binns of Trail will rap for order in the city council chamber, where Mayor R. D. Barnes and John B. Gray, president of the Nelson board, will extend welcomes to the delegates and visitors.

The morning session will be occupied by appointment of committees, and reception of the reports of president and commissioner.

Resolutions, of which Commissioner Starkey has received very few to date, will come before the convention in the afternoon, from the hands of the resolutions committee.

A complimentary banquet to delegates and visitors will be tendered by the people of Nelson, at Pitners, at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening, the early hour fixed making it possible for attendance at the opera house later for those desiring.

The final session of the convention, if there is any business left unfinished tomorrow, will be held Thursday forenoon.

Curves on Procter Road in Process of Being Straightened

Motorists using the highway between Nelson and Procter will be somewhat relieved to know that work is being done to straighten out some of the more dangerous curves on that road.

At present work is being done on a bad curve on the other side of Kokanee creek.

FERNIE SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS A BUSY MEETING

Three Resignations Accepted, Teachers Appointed; Other Business.

FERNIE, B.C., June 17.—At a meeting of the school board held Monday evening, the matter of having cadet corps in the schools was considered. Further information will be secured.

The water motor in the schools was found to be not working satisfactorily to ventilate the air in the rooms. Mr. Blackie improved it some, but it will be still further overhauled.

There are 40 new pupils registered for admission to the public school next fall.

Mr. Stainsby reported on the manual training work. He wished a new table at a cost of about $10 to accommodate boys' draughting. The table would be made in the manual training department.

Miss Dorothy Nelson applied for leave of absence for six months. This will be granted. Miss Peggy Strachan applied for the position of substitute teacher in Miss Nelson's place. Miss Emma Chubra was appointed as substitute.

RESIGNATIONS

Mrs. Pearce, home economics teacher. J. Hart Livingstone of the high school and Miss Ada Bailey of the public school, tendered their resignations. These resignations were accepted. The board will advertise for a male teacher to take Miss Bailey's place. He must be prepared to lead in sports.

Donald S. Allen of Vancouver was appointed as mathematical specialist for the high school for next year at a salary of $1800 per year. Mr. Allen has accepted. Miss Kathleen Finn was appointed instructor in home economics at a salary of $1500 per year, and has accepted the appointment.

Mr. Stainsby wrote wishing to have charge of night schools next fall, but deferred in favor of Mr. Pepper if he wished this supervisorship. Mr. Pepper did not wish to take on the work. Mr. Kyle had given great encouragement to the establishment of night schools. Mr. Stainsby received the appointment.

Accounts were passed amounting to $5732.

Discussion arose on the grade XII. class, on which it was made clear that students attending fourth year high school last year were to pay $125 for the year provided the class had at least eight members and up to 12 members. If the class were larger than 12 the matter of a rebate would be considered. The actual class was composed of 10, so there could be no question of a rebate.

Would Make Old Women's Home at Old Balfour Hotel

To the Editor The Daily News,

Sir: In your editorial of 14th inst. in re. Balfour Hotel you say "It is better for it to be demolished that to remain to remind the world of a failure."

While that may be true it seems little short of a crime that a building that could be converted to many public or semi-public uses should be destroyed for its salvage which is probably little if any, more than ten per cent of its cost.

The home for Old Men at Kamloops is one of the best and most useful pesthousces in the province. A similar institute for the care of aged women is greatly needed and in my opinion the Balfour Hotel both in its structure and its location, is well suited for such a home.

Will the Associated Boards of Trade of S. E. B. C. at its coming session bring the matter to the attention of the Provincial Government?

E. C. ARTHUR.

CANADIAN PAINTER GUILTY OF MURDER

MACON, Ga., June 17.—Earl Manchester, 21-year-old itinerant Canadian painter, was tonight found guilty of slaying James Parks, his room mate, in an "insurance murder plot." The jury's verdict made no recommendation, which automatically fixes the penalty at death in the electric chair. The trial lasted but one day.
