RELIEF PLANS FOR PROVINCE TAKING SHAPE

Province Confident of Aid From Federal Government

SPECIAL CAMPS FOR YOUNG BOYS

Premier Presses for Early Action by Labor Minister

VICTORIA, June 18.—Confident that the federal government will cooperate with it in relieving unemployment, the provincial government continued today to shape its emergency public works program so that it can be launched as soon as federal approval is secured.

Relatively low wages, with good board and housing, will be provided on the road camps which the government proposes to establish.

Single men will receive about half the wages of married men, who will be allowed also a separation allowance for the support of their families, depending on the number of their children. The exact wage scale has not been set, but it will be well below the wage of $4 paid on relief work last winter.

A province-wide registration of unemployed will be the first step in the program so that all unemployed who enter the province from outside points will be known.

The federal government will be asked to pay the total cost of employing outsiders, if it does not prevent them from coming here.

CAMP FOR BOYS

A special camp or camps will be established for boys, who form a large part of the transient unemployed. The government does not believe that youngsters in their 'teens, many of whom are riding the rails today, should be put in camps with older men or required to do the same amount of work. Instead, it is proposed that they be placed in separate camps under strict supervision, given good food and housing and paid a small wage for their work.

As indicated by Senator Gideon Robertson, federal minister of labor, here Monday, the federal government is sympathetic toward this plan because, like the province, it regards the case of unemployed boys as a special problem of unemployment.

The government also believes that unmarried men should be treated differently from married men. It is proposed that married men so far as possible be employed in camps as close as possible to their homes, while the more distant projects would use unmarried men with no family ties.

PRESSES FOR ACTION

In a long distance telephone conversation today with Senator Robertson, who is in Edmonton, Premier Tolmie continued to press for early action. He also stressed the desire of this province to prevent itself from becoming the mecca for Canada's unemployed, should it go ahead with relief plans ahead of its neighbors. This is regarded as the crux of the whole problem and federal cooperation is essential to meet it.

The province also is pressing for early decision on the future of transportation in the Peace River country. If the federal government will undertake that a Pacific outlet for the Peace River country will be built, within a reasonable time, to join the Pacific Great Eastern railway at Prince George, the province will be ready to undertake the extension of the line from Quesnel to Prince George immediately. Two thousand men would be put to work on this project without delay if the Peace River railway undertaking were given.

As a result of the P. G. E. surveys conducted in the last two years, the province knows precisely where it would build this extension and how much it would cost. The line would cross the Cottonwood river north of Quesnel, the old barrier to the extension on a new and satisfactory route east of the old one.

WOMAN PLEADS TO HAVE JAIL TERM OF YEAR REDUCED

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—Sentenced to one year in jail on four charges of uttering forged documents, Maxime Holland declared that she would kill herself in prison if she had to serve a term of that length. The woman begged that Police Magistrate H. C. Shaw impose a sentence of not more than six months, and she would leave the city on its expiration.

"I have a very great sympathy for you, and what I am trying to do is in your own interests. A reasonable term in jail may enable you to break away from the drug habit," said the magistrate.

The woman was arrested after police discovered that 33 forged prescriptions for narcotics had been negotiated at Vancouver drug stores. Charged in connection with four of these forgeries, the woman pleaded guilty.

The first goodwill flight by Japanese students to Europe will take place soon with Moritaka Kurimura, chief pilot, and Ryitaro Kumakawa, advising pilot and instructor of the Japanese Students' Aviation league, as principals. Starting from the Yoyogi parade ground in Tokyo, Japan, they will fly their home-made plane, the "Young Japan", and will visit various European cities which have universities. Trade Board and City Council Protest to Premier Tolmie on Overlooking Kootenay Relief

Board Draws Premier's Attention to Promised Highways

URGES GRAY CREEK PILOT BAY SECTION

Members Caustic at Program Omitting South Interior

Strong protest at the complete omission of this part of the province from the list of districts for which Premier Tolmie Wednesday announced highway projects designed to provide unemployment relief, was registered Thursday by the council of the Nelson board of trade.

At the conclusion of the semi-monthly luncheon meeting, which was largely devoted to discussing the premier's announcement, the following night letter, drafted by a committee consisting of President H. M. Whimster and R. W. Hinton, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, was sent to the premier at Victoria:

REMIND OF PROMISES

"We note your statement yesterday of proposed special public works plans. No mention made of any work in this part of province. We venture to remind you necessity completion of road Gray Creek to Pilot Bay needed to complete existing transprovincial highway, also other improvements this district, main roads promised at earliest possible opportunity."

Without doubt the Victoria dispatch giving the premier's statement of the government's decisions on special highway projects for relief purposes was the most read dispatch of any in Thursday's Nelson Daily News, all through the Kootenay territory, and every member of the board of trade council absorbed the particulars at his breakfast table.

The conspicuous absence of the entire southern interior east of the Coast range, from the benefits proposed, was the point of the dispatch that arrested everybody's attention, and caustic comments were voiced at the council session. "The premier got as far east as Princeton, and then he stopped," commented President Whimster, after reading aloud from The Daily News the list of proposed projects, which comprise continuing the highway up the north Thompson, starting a new transprovincial highway from Prince George eastward to Alberta and westward to Prince Rupert, continuing work on the transprovincial highway recently launched by way of the Big Bend, and provision of the long-promised Hope-Princeton link on the southern transprovincial.

OPINION UNANIMOUS

Opinion of the council was unanimous that the board ought to take up the matter with the premier at once, and draw attention to his omission, Mr. Hinton making the single reservation that the protest should not confuse the government's regular public works program, which has been stated by Hon. R. W. Bruhn, minister of public works, to embrace completing of the Kootenay lake highway this season from Gray Creek wharf to Kuskanook and improvement of connections, with the government's relief program.

Reports that men were being laid off the main lake work were explained by President Whimster as probably arising from that fact that William Ramsay, district engineer, would have to reduce his crew in about three weeks' time, on account of the money allotted to him for this work being nearly all expended. Mr. Whimster said Mr. Ramsay expected to keep still at work a small and very efficient force, to carry on the work on the section south of Boswell.

EXISTING ONE UNFINISHED

Members commented caustically on the launching of new projects in the north and adjacent to the coast, while overlooking the Gray Creek-Pilot Bay standardization, which is needed before the southern transprovincial will be completely serviceable.

It was decided to transmit the views of the board to the premier at once, drafting of the wire being left to the president and the chairman of the roads and bridges committee.

PAINTED LEGS NEXT FREAK ON TENNIS COURTS

LONDON, June 18 (C P cable) Stockingless—and painted—legs are to be seen among the British women competitors in the Wimbledon tennis trials now being played at Roehampton. From a distance the color gives the impression that stockings are worn.

MISERY FOLLOWS RAIN AND COLD

Extensive Damage Wrought in the Drumheller District in Alberta

CALGARY, Alta., June 18:—Under leaden skies with rain still falling and the temperatures sinking toward freezing point, mining town of the Drumheller district and farming settlements around Rockford and Ardenode today discovered extensive damage and possible loss of six lives in the wake of cloud bursts and storms breaking over central Alberta since Tuesday night.

Four deaths are certain, while one man is missing and another lies in hospital at Rockyford near death. Over 100 are homeless in the Wayne district, and hundreds more are battling to save their houses from the rising torrents that have spread misery in the Wayne district.

CALGARY, Alta., June 18.—Provincial headquarters of the Red Cross tonight announced that supplies of food and clothing were being rushed to the refugees in the flood-torn mining town of Wayne, northeast of Calgary. A committee started work today gathering blankets and bed clothing to rush to the scene, by airplane if necessary. Latest information received by the Red Cross headquarters here from the Drumheller branch said 100 homes in Wayne had been destroyed and 150 men, women and children homeless.

City Fathers Note Omission; Say Situation Is Acute

DECLARE ACTION SOON IMPERATIVE

Mayor Morgan Expresses Hope Whole District Will Speak

Nelson's city government, whose views on the unemployment situation were wired to Victoria last week by Mayor J. P. Morgan, to be placed before Hon. Gideon Robertson, federal minister of labor, at the unemployment conference with the provincial authorities and representatives of British Columbia municipalities, made further representations to Premier Tolmie Thursday night, after reading the Victoria dispatch giving the premier's outline of the proposed relief works, none of which are in southeastern British Columbia.

The following night letter was drafted and sent by Mayor Morgan to Premier Tolmie after meeting with the civic finance committee in which this latest angle in the situation was discussed:

"According to press reports, note that in proposed road program in aid of unemployment no allowance has been apparently made for needs of East and West Kootenay ridings. Would draw your attention to fact that our unemployment situation is acute, and that measures for alleviation before the coming winter imperative."

(Signed) "Nelson City Council"

Later, in discussing the city's action, Mayor Morgan said this matter was one in which all portions of Eastern British Columbia were interested, and he expressed the hope that in the Kootenay at least, the various municipal councils and boards of trade would join in making emphatic representations to the provincial government, on the line that relief of unemployment in this territory was beyond the scope of the municipalities alone, and that expenditure of funds by the governments was absolutely necessary if the situation was to be effectively met.

DUNCANNON TO PASS THROUGH THE KOOTENAYS

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—Viscount Duncannon, young son of their excellencies Lord and Lady Bessborough, accompanied by his cousin, Hon. Arthur Ponsonby, arrived in the city this morning, and will remain here until Saturday, when he will sail for a trip around Vancouver Island. He and his companion will return to Vancouver July 2 and will leave by Kettle Valley line to visit Calgary and other cities. Those entertaining Viscount Duncannon will be Col. W. W. Foster, Mrs. C. E. Thomas, who is giving a tea dance on Friday, and Major J. G. Fordham. Both young visitors expressed delight at their trip through the Rockies and were enthusiastic about their stay at Banff. They were accompanied by Major W. Bollam.

BALDWIN SEES ELECTION NEAR

LONDON, June 18.—(AP) — Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, declared in a speech at Malvern hall tonight that he believed a general election in Great Britain could not be long delayed.

"When an election comes," he said, "it will probably come suddenly. It may well be that at a moment when we least expect it we shall be entering the big fight."

Mr. Baldwin prophesies there would be 3,000,000 unemployed ing Britain before Christmas.

REDUCES "IF" IN ATLANTIC FLIGHT TO THE MINIMUM

Ruth Nichols by Study and Planning Has Left Nothing to Chance

NEW YORK, June 18—A society girl's golden dream of being the first woman to fly alone across the Atlantic received a temporary setback late today when Miss Ruth Nichols, 26, damaged her plane at Floyd Bennett field. She had hoped to get off today for Portland, Me., en route to Harbor Grace, Nfld., where she plans to start her solo voyage to Paris.

Late this afternoon she took off from Jersey City, heavily laden, and when she landed at Floyd Bennett field, she came down hard.

A tail skid cracked off, a bulkhead in the fuselage was damaged and the landing gear strained. The probability was that Miss Nichols would not take off until Monday.

NEW YORK, June 18—By spending three years in painstaking preparation and by taking full advantage of modern improvements in aviation, Ruth Nichols has reduced the "if" of her transatlantic flight to a maximum of five per cent.

After the long period of planning and preparation Miss Nichols and Clarence Chamberlain carefully compiled the "failures statistics" and found them good.

"Nothing has been left undone to make for greater certainty of success," Chamberlain said today. "I would not hesitate to take the plane across and believe that if Miss Nichols uses all the knowledge of her problems which is at her command, takes sufficient time for testing and practising with her new instruments and then waits until the weather is right, the flight has at least a 95 per cent or better chance of success." Later Miss Nichols herself placed the figure at 98 per cent.

So the "if" of Atlantic flying—if the engine holds out; if the weather continues good, etcetera—which has been a gigantic ogre for so many, is no more than an almost negligible "if" for Miss Nichols.

FIND ESSONDALE AND OAKALLA IN EXCELLENT ORDER

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 18.—Satisfactory conditions prevail in Oakalla prison, the B. C. penitentiary and the Essondale mental hospital according to the report of the grand jury at the assizes, to Mr. Justice Denis Murphy, by Hugh Gifford, foreman.

At Oakalla prison everything was kept in fine order, the food excellent, and premises clean. The treatment of the prisoners was satisfactory, the report states. Conditions in the penitentiary were a credit to the country, and to those in charge of the institution At Essondale there was perfect order, and everything done for the betterment of the patients.

WILL ARREST DOUKHOBORS, GRAND FORKS

Provincial Police to Excute the Federal Warrants

CENSUS REFUSAL BRINGS ACTION

Anticipate Lively Time in Arresting Fanatic Leaders

GRAND FORKS, B. C., June 18.—Census Commissioner W. F. Laidman has had advice from Attorney-General R. H. Pooley that the provincial police would execute warrants of the commissioner with special reference to several leaders of the Doukhobor colony who refused to give census information. The warrants have been given to Sergeant W. Greenwood, who is in touch with his superiors asking for reinforcements, since it is presumed there will be a lively session before the intended prisoners are taken.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 18.—The provincial government will cooperate fully with the federal government in handling the case of the Doukhobors who refuse to give information to census takers, Hon. R. H. Pooley, attorney-general, said today.

"I have telegraphed the federal government, assuring it of our utmost cooperation," Mr. Pooley said, "but this government must take the first step in this matter, since the offence alleged is against federal officials, under federal law. We understand that the federal government will issue warrants for the arrest of the alleged offenders, and once that has been done, we will work with them in handling the cases. It is absolutely untrue that our officers are not going to act on federal warrants."

REDS ADVANCE IN HORDES ON CHINESE CITY

SHANGHAI, June 18. — (AP) — Communists increased their warring activities in Kiangsi province today, and menaced Nanchang, its capital, despite the presence of thousands of Nationalist government troops, rushed to the aid of wavering defenders.

The Reds, with strong grip on southern Kiangsi, moved northward the advance approaching the gates of the city.

Fearing Nanchang would fall, the government hurried 20,000 more troops into Kiangsi yesterday and today. With them went field gune and modern war equipment.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Nationalist government, however, further delayed departure from Nanking to take command of his announced big drive against Reds and bandits of Kiangsi and Hunan provinces.

His assumption of commands, government officials asserted would be the start of strenuous campaigning to eradicate the outlawry which Chiang said was the greatest menace confronting the government and nation.

COAST DOCTORS FINALLY DECIDE WOMAN IS DEAD

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—After considerable deliberation, medical authorities have decided that Mrs. Anne C. Marshall of Vancouver is dead.

For two days Mrs. Marshall has been in hospital, and physicians had been unable heretofore to agree as to whether she was dead or in a state of coma. Shortly before noon today they pronounced lift extinct.

Mrs. Marshall called on a doctor Monday evening and collapsed in his office.

RAINS FOLLOW GREAT HEAT ON THE PRAIRIES

Lower Saskatchewan Still in Grip of Dust Storms; Alberta Soaked

WINNIPEG, June 18 (CP) — weather disturbances in western Canada, climaxed the most intense heat wave of the season tonight.

Forecasts indicated definitely the end of the hot spell and its repercussions which soaked parts of Saskatchewan and most of Alberta with drenching rains and raked southern Saskatchewan and Manitoba with dust storms. High winds died down in Regina region late today after throwing clouds of dust over already parched crop lands for 24 hours. Winnipeg remained in the grip of the steady dust storm tonight.

LOWER TEMPERATURES

Decidedly lower temperatures for all three prairie provinces are predicted for tomorrow, with possibility that the mercury may slide under the freezing point in Alberta. It will be "much cooler" than the 90 degrees of today in Manitoba and "very cool" in Saskatchewan, where temperatures tumbled from 20 to 45 degrees since yesterday.

Rains were general over central and northern Saskatchewan and crops are reported to be in good condition.

In central and northern Alberta rainfall was constant during the day.

It was believed nearly an inch had fallen in most districts.

Crop conditions in southern Alberta also benefitted from the heaviest rains in many months but floods were becoming more serious hourly in the Drumheller and Wayne areas, about 50 miles northeast of Calgary.

BUDGET GOES THROUGH WITH 30 MAJORITY

Crowded House Approves Government Proposals, 102-72

OTTAWA, Ont., June 18. (CP)—By a majority of 30, the budget passed the house of commons tonight.

Bringing to an end two weeks of debate, in the course of which an amendment and a sub-amendment were introduced from Liberal and U. F. A. ranks respectively, a crowded house tonight approved the government's proposals by a vote of 102 to 72. Previously the U. F. A. sub-amendment had been negatived by the huge majority of 150, the vote standing for, 15; against, 165. The amendment had been defeated by 39, 70 members voting for it to 109 against.

Crowded galleries witnessed the three divisions. A good natured house indulged in songs, laughter and badinage while the somewhat slow process of registering each member's vote was gone through. When the final vote was announced the Conservative supporters broke into loud applause and cheering. The house rapidly moved into committee of ways and means, in accordance with the main budget motion, and then on the motion of the prime minister rose and "reported progress."

Budget resolution will not be considered till next week.

GETS SENTENCE AND LASHES FOR 25-CENT ROBBERY

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—One holdup in which he got 25 cents, and an attempted holdup in which he was put to rout by a barrage of canned salmon, brought a sentence of three years in the penitentiary and 10 lashes to Nels W. Person in police court today.

On June 1 Person rented a room at the Europe hotel for 50 cents and held up the clerk. He was unable to open the cash register and got only 25 cents. He was out a quarter on that deal.

Three days later K. Nishi, Japanese storekeeper, refused to be cowed by Person and put him to flight with a bombardment of canned salmon.

Person pleaded guilty to both charges and was sentenced by Magistrate H. C. Shaw.

FRANCIS POSTHLETHWAITE SUSTAINS BROKEN LEGS WHEN RUN INTO BY CAR

Fairview Youth Caught Between Standing Car and That of Mrs. G. Hallet

Crushed between a car on which he was working, and the car of Mrs. Gordon Hallett of Longbeach, which ran into him, Francis Posthlethwaite 18, of Fairview, employee of the Nelson Transfer company, had both his legs broken Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The accident occurred in front of the Nelson Transfer, where young Postlethwaite was polishing the rear window of A. H. Green's car, which was facing west. Mrs. Hallett, whose car had been standing a few yards east by the gas pump, started forward, intending to turn out and go around the Green car to get to the tire shop, but failed to turn sufficiently, with the result that Postlethwaite was crushed against the spare tire of the Green car. After the recoil her car struck him a second time.

The youth, who suffered a compound dislocation of the left knee and also had his right leg broken, between knee and ankle, was rushed to Kootenay Lake General hospital, where he was treated by Dr. H. H. MacKenzie. He is suffering from shock, but he has excellent chances of complete recovery if the injury to his knee does not become complicated by infection.

PRAIRIE HEAT NEAR A RECORD

TORONTO, June 18 (CP)—Temperatures recorded in the heat wave prevailing in western Canada did not set new records although they came pretty close to it, according to meteorological officials here today. It was thought the level of 109 degress reached at Virden, Man., yesterday set a new mark but delving into files many years old the weatherman discovered that 110 degrees was registered at Dauphin, Man., in 1919.

E. A. SHARPE HAS PENSION AGAIN

OTTAWA, June 18—Pension for E. A. Sharpe of Nelson has been reinstated. Mr. Sharpe was discharged in 1919 and received a pension which was discontinued within a year. He presented his case to W. K. Esling, member for West Kootenay, when the latter passed through Nelson on his way to Ottawa. Full details were placed before the board of pensions commissioners, and Mr. Esling is advised that reinstatement will date from March 1 of this year.

PERISCOPE IS WASHED AWAY, ROLLING BADLY

ROUGH SEA DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Is 250 Miles Off the Coast of Ireland, Its Destination

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP) The polar submarine Nautilus was struggling under her own power tonight in a rough sea without running lights or a periscope.

Rear-Admiral C. Bloch, commander of the Wyoming and Arkansas training squadron, with midshipmen aboard, reported tonight to the navy department that the submarine was being piloted blind, its bridge and periscopes having been washed away.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, who hopes to reach the north pole in the craft, had it sealed up. It was being directed on its course by radio from the battleship Wyoming. The warship had a strong searchlight trained on the submersible, which, Admiral Bloch said, "is rolling heavily." He added, "The Nautilus can see nothing."

The position of the Nautilus was reported about 250 miles off Queenston, Ireland, its first point of destination.

DO-X LANDS AT BRAZILIAN PORT

Completes Flight Along the Coast of Brazil From Natal to Bahia

BAHIA, Brazil, June 18. (AP)—The giant German seaplane DO-X landed here today at 12:55 p. m. (10:25 a. m., eastern standard time) after a flight from Natal along the coast of Brazil.

The trip was the first stage of a flight to Rio de Janeiro, where the ship which crossed at Atlantic with 13 passengers on June 6 will be exhibited at the Brazilian capital.

She rose from the harbor at Natal at 5:30 a. m. (2:30 a. m., eastern standard time).

After a flight of three hours the ship landed at Lacoa Grande at Maceio for refueling because there was no wind to assist her on the take-off at Natal she was able to carry only gasoline enough for a three-hour flight.

Fifty-five minutes after she left Natal she was sighted over the city of Parahyba, about 100 miles from Natal, and 40 minutes later she circled over Pernambuco, 75 miles farther on.

The ship took off from Maceio for Bahia at 10:09 a. m.

A large crowd lined the shore of the lake at Maceio and welcomed the flyers when they arrived there.

The flight from Natal to Bahia is about 600 miles. After a short stay here the DO-X will continue on to Rio de Janeiro.

ELECTION ECHOES HEARD IN HOUSE

OTTAWA, Ont., June 18.—(CP)—Echoes of the election campaign in Quebec and allegations by Hon. Alfred Duranleau, minister of marine, that the "war cry" had been raised to secure seats; and attack on the budget by Hon. Fernand Rinfret, former secretary of state, who claimed that the prime minister would have met defeat if he had submitted it to the people; advocacy of "salesmanship" to market Canada's wheat crop; and a declaration by E. J. Garland, U.F.A. member for Bow River, in favor of abandoning the gold standard, featured continued debate on the budget today.

EDMONTON CLOSES DOORS TO HOBOES

EDMONTON, Alta., June 18.—Supporting official announcements that Edmonton does not want drifters coming into the city, combined forces of Alberta provincial police, C. P. R. officers and city constables have plucked 66 men from incoming freight trains in the last week.

Of that number 15 have been sent to jail, 13 given fines sufficiently stiff that only two could pay instead of going to jail, and 38 given 24 hours to get out of the city.

Results of the drive are now beginning to be felt and each freight train generally brings a consignment of two or three men instead of the 10 a week ago.

"Stay out of Edmonton," is the warning to drifters.

There are three things in speech that ought to be considered before some things are spoken, the manner, the place, and the time.—Southey.

AFTERNOON UP LAKE

At 3 o'clock the visitors and as many members of the board of trade as can be accommodated will leave the city wharf in seven launches that have been placed at the service of the board for the purpose, for a cruise up the West Arm to Balfour.

Fifteen Nelson cars will be waiting at Balfour to take the visitors and party up to Ainsworth to the hot springs, and then bring them back to Nelson.

The banquet, which will be in the large hall of the Canadian Legion, will start at 8 o'clock.

SEE CORRA LINN WORK

Sunday morning, at an hour not yet fixed, the cars will again report to take the Spokane men down to Corra Linn, where G. F. Chapman, superintendent of construction for the West Kootenay Power & Light company, will show them over the dam and river improvement in connection with No. 4 power plant, now under construction, Mr. Chapman representing Lorne A. Campbell, vice-president and general manager, who will not be in the district. Return to Nelson will be made in time for an early lunch, and departure for Spokane at 1:30 Nelson time.

George Dill reported on the cars, President H. M. Whimster on the launches, W. R. Grubbe on the tickets and on banquet arrangements, and C. H. Hamilton on certain phases of the banquet catering.

WILL SEAT 100

It is expected 100 or more persons will be present at the banquet.

If some of the visitors bring their ladies, a ladies' committee will be convened to assist in entertaining them.

BOBBY JONES IS MEMBER OF SPORT FIRM IN SOUTH

Retired Golf Champion Will Specialize in Making Golf Club Designs

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, who announced his retirement from competitive golf following the winning of the four major titles of 1930, today came a member of A. G. Spalding and Brothers.

In making the announcement, Julian W. Curtis, president of the company, said Jones had purchased a block of stock and would be directly associated with the research laboratories at Chicopee, Mass. His job will consist of working on designs for clubs and testing out products on courses throughout the country.

POLO POSTPONED AT THE COAST

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—Rains of Tuesday and Wednesday have caused further postponement of the polo match between Vancouver and Kamloops for the B. C. polo challenge cup and provincial title. First scheduled for Wednesday, the game was set back till Friday. FREBERG IS TO WRESTLE HERE THIS EVENING

Meets Rumburg; Norbeck and Root to Tangle on Local Card

John Freberg vs. Carl Rumburg (8 10-min. rounds.).

Moose Norbeck vs. Billy Root (5 10-min. rounds).

William Freno vs. Charlie "Fat" Deferro (comedy wrestling).

Vito Pasacretta vs. Sid Ball (3 rounds boxing, paperweights)

Above is the wrestling card which will be staged at the Nelson Opera House this evening commencing at 9 p.m. Doors will open at 8 p.m.

Tonight's card is a promising one. Freberg, the "toughest" of wrestlers, holds numerous wins over some of the best in the land. He is known all over the Pacific northwest and has a large radio fan audience. Freberg may be better known as the Swedish wrestler who goes onto the mat in his bare feet. Rumburg, German descent, is a big husky lad with plenty of wrestling skill. He, too, holds decisions over some of the best in the northwest. These boys will be the headliners tonight. They will do eight 10-minute rounds.

Moose Norbeck and Billy Root should give the fans plenty of action and thrills. Both are fast and Root needs no introduction to local fans.

Freno and Deferro, the two fat boys will no doubt cause roars of laughter when they wade through their comedy bout. Anything will go in this bout.

The preliminary of the evening will be a boxing bout betwen Vito Pasacretta and Sid Ball. These boys are paperweights and have had experience in the ring before. They have pleased the fans immensely in former bouts.

He denied reports that a group of Canadian fishermen had threatened himself and crew of seven men with violence. The cargo of 19,000 pounds was sold at the original offer of seven and four and a half cents, for medium and small halibut, per pound.

Although it was officially insisted that Mr. Mellon's visit was nothing more than a pleasure trip during which he hopes to visit his son at Cambridge tonight, there was an increasing tendency to connect his presence with the momentous question of reparations and war debts.

THREE VISIT WITH ROTARY CLUB, FERNIE

Club Hears Talks on India's Condition and Lord's Day Alliance

FERNIE, B. C., June 18—Rev. George Dwebber, secretary of the Lord's Day alliance, Rev. D. Gray and William Scales, city engineer of Fernie were visitors at the Fernie Rotary club's lunch, Monday.

In the absence of President Harry Douglas and Dr. Gee, who are in Victoria meeting the minister of labor on city business, the final arrangements for the club's visit to the Kalispel club was left over to their return.

William Scales spoke on the "Freedom of India". He was engineer in the department of works of the presidency of Bombay, India for some time and is thoroughly conversant with the conditions and mental outlook of the Indian native.

He quickly sketched the history of India from the time of the East India company. After the Indian mutiny in 1857 the British government took control and put a stop to the abuses carried on by the company. Since that time the British government have inaugurated a policy of administration and education that will ultimately lead to a self governing country within the British empire.

This development has been going on for 70 years now so as Mr. Scales pointed out, the present talk of Indian freedom is not a new policy of the British government. In line with this policy, positions in the civil service and public works have been opened to natives and at the present time many of these offices are occupied by them. Mr. Scales said he thought that the natives of India were not yet ready to take over self government and that most men with actual experience in India would agree with him in this.

NATIVE ENMITY

There were many grave problems in the question of "Freedom in India" which were not easily settled, he said. One of these was the protection of minorities. Of India's three hundred million population some eighty million are Mohammedan, the remainder have several creeds but are mostly Hindus. These two are at continual enmity. Their leaders might agree in council but the rank and file would break out in trouble and massacre just the same. Good examples of this condition were the clashes that occurred in parts of India between these two factions so soon after the Mohammedans and Hindus had arrived at an agreement in last year's all-Indian conference at London.

India needs a strong hand to protect the weakest of these religious factions.

There was also the question of the native Indian states being governed by independent Indian princes. He said many of these would undoubtedly not agree to give over their rights and privileges, nor submit to being taxed by a central government. They jealously guarded their hereditary rights. The speaker stated that the Hindus were united on the subject of self government.

There was no unanimity in the great caste system of high, intermediate and low caste and a great population of "untouchables". The latter did all the menial work of the country and were considered outside caste or religion. In the trade castes the same trade was followed for generation after generation from father to son.

He illustrated this lack of unity on the part of the castes by Gandhi's appeal to the "untouchables" asking them to assist in obtaining Indian freedom. They answered, "We will, if you will guarantee the removal of the caste system." Gandhi answered that this would have to be left till after the attainment of self government and Gandhi received the reply that they would rather remain under the administration of the British government in that case.

ONE SET TO ANOTHER

Speaking of illiteracy Mr. Scales said that only five per cent of the males in India and only three and one third per cent of the females could read and write. They were poorly equipped to cast their vote intelligently. Indian freedom would mean only the transferring of the government from one set of masters to another.

Such a move to freedom had another serious side. He pointed out that in the northwest territories, Punjab and the United provinces and the Mohammedans predominate and this section of India might easily unite with the adjacent Mohammedan countries such as Persia. It is hardly likely the Hindu minorities would then get fair protection which might mean the breaking up of India.

SUNDAY AMUSEMENTS

Rev. George D. Webber, secretary of the Lords Day alliance, said the alliance was seeking to conserve certain privileges for workmen. They were trying to keep Sunday amusements and sports free from being commercialized. Foreign amusement syndicates were attempting to introduce Sunday money making businesses into Canada under many excuses. To have the Canadian Sunday free from this commercialized amusement was a condition to be retained, said the speaker.

The merchants of some cities advocated sports on Saturday in preference to Sunday as they received some of the business resulting from the gathering of the people at the games which they would otherwise lost. He quoted Nanaimo merchants as advocating this.

He said every worker should have at least one day rest each week, and there was a law that provides for this. Seven day industries, which by the nature of their business could not stop continuous operation were the only exceptions to the law. He said that some business managers attempted to have their business, which it was not intended to cover, classed under this head. The Lord's Day alliance wished to see in a friendly way that men are not required to work seven days a week in industries that were not covered by the act.

He stated that sometimes people work the seven days by preference so as to increase their income. Such people were attempting to get more than their share of work. in a time when so many are unemployed and further distribution of work is being advocated by the cry for shorter hours for all workmen.

BULL MOOSE HOLDS POLICE OFFICER AT BAY 35 MINUTES

FERNIE, B. C., June 18.—A bull moose disputed the right-of-way with Staff Wilson on Sunday night about 9:30 o'clock when he was returning in his car with a number of friends from his summer place at McBains lake.

On reaching a point on the Elko-Fernie road about a mile east of the tunnel, he saw a large moose with partly grown horns standing on the road. The animal travelled slowly along the road for a short distance and the car followed. On approaching the long trestle, the moose whirled about and showed fight.

It charged the car and was only stopped by Mr. Wilson flashing the lights off and on, thus blinding the animal. Even with this procedure it bunted into the bumper of the car.

After a 35-minute blockade, the animal left the road and allowed the auto party to proceed to Fernie.

Addresses will be given by the Lord Provost in Edinburgh, Sir Donald MacAlister, chancellor of the University of Glasgow; Lord Meston, chancellor of the University of Aberdeen; and Lord Beauchamp, chancellor of the University of London. Discussions will take place on subjects of general interest to universities, including "The University Graduate in Commerce and Industry," "The Standard and conditions of candidature for Ph.D. in relation to other post-graduate qualifications," "Conditions of admission to universities and their effects," "The provision of schemes of study leading to general honors degrees," "Post graduate study in medicine and surgery in Great Britain," and "Facilities for overseas students in British universities."

There will be a civic reception and during their stay in Edinburgh the delegates will be entertained by societies interested in university education. A program of excursions has also been arranged.

CRESTON PLANS FOR FALL FAIR REVISE LISTS

Committees Named to Prepare for Event; Plan Fountain at Building

CRESTON, B. C., June 18.—Creston is to have its annual fall fair. This was the quite unanimous decision of the directors of the Creston Valley Agricultural association who met in special session at the town hall with the president, Frank Putnam, in the chair, and a full turnout of the directorate. The prize list committee had a session at the close of the meeting and revised the needlework class and this will be published next week so that exhibitors can start in to work at once

COMMITTEE NAMED

A committee consisting of Mrs. H. W. McLaren, D. Bradley, C. Sutcliffe, Charles Murell and the president was named to devise improvements and new methods in the 1931 prize list, and the securing of finances for the successful staging of the fair, this committee to report back to another meeting within 30 days.

H. W. McLaren was named a committee of one, with power to add, to overhaul the sports features of the second afternoon of the fair. It was decided that for this year all exhibits in canned goods should be in pint containers.

Vice-president Charles Sutcliffe reported on the successfully carrying out of the work previously assigned himself and the president, of getting the village council to put a dance floor in the main building. A letter of appreciation will be sent the council and along with it will go a request that better protection be given the building in the way of preventing the juveniles from breaking into it on occasion. In this connection it was thought that if a drinking fountain were installed at a convenient place outside the building such a convenience would do away with the bad habit that has developed of getting into the building for drinking water.

Officers elected this year constitute the most representative lot of town and rural residents that the association has ever had, and a decided improvement in the exhibits is confidently looked for. Director D. Bradley is well known in poultry circles as well as president of the Former's institute; vice-president Charles Sutcliffe is president of the Stockbreeder's association; Persident Frank Putnam is one of the foremost fruit growers in the district, as are some of the other directors, while the lady members of the executive are both zealous workers as well as good exhibitors.

GOPHER BOUNTY IS ORDERED BY CRESTON LADIES

Institute Urges War on Pests; Plan for Flower Show; Aid Hospital

CRESTON, B. C., June 18.—The June session of Creston and District women's institute transacted a variety of business at the meeting on Friday afternoon, which was in charge of the president, Mrs. C. F. Hayes, and attracted an attendance of 25.

Miss Edith Crawford, who has been secretary for the past year tendered her resignation, which was accepted with considerable regret, and the matter of securing a successor left with the directors. It was agreed to pay a bounty on gophers killed, in co-operation with the farmer's institute, and the decision was in favor of having the usual flower show.

For the hospital committee, Mrs. James Cook reported the arrival of material for sheeting and gown making, and already material had been given out for the making of half a dozen of these garments. During the month there had been donations of sheets, feathers, cotton rags and tinfoil.

For the home industries committee, Mrs. R. Stevens stated that a fine lot of needlework was coming in for the institute's collection to be shown at the Vancouver exhibition toward the end of August, and also at Victoria's exhibition that comes at the end of the same month. Mrs. Stevens was authorized to secure material and to supervise the institute's needleworkers in the making of a comforter which will be shown at these two fairs.

For the home economics committee, Mrs. James Cherrington very efficiently demonstrated the candying of fruit, using both a French and an American recipe. In connection with school work it was decided to offer a bounty of one cent per tail on all gophers killed by pupils attending Creston school. This effort will be supervised by Mrs. Col. Mallandaine, who is hoping the Farmer's institute will pay a like bounty to encourage the slaughter of these pests, which are more numerous than ever this year.

The directors were given authority to handle the 1931 flower show to be held in Trinity United church hall on Saturday afternoon. Committees were named as follows to handle the fair: Hall, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Cherrington; eat, Mrs. Archibald, Mrs. Lowther, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Martin (Sirdar); home cooking sale, Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. J. E. Johnston. For this year there will be no canvassing for prizes, as these will be paid out of the regular funds of the institute.

The tea hostesses were Mrs. W. M. Archibald, Mrs. M. Young, and Mrs. W. Kernaghan, with the free-will offering amounting to $1.80, which is ear-marked for the crippled children's fund.

FIVE CUPS TEA DAILY

LONDON, England, June 18—Exceeding 420,000,000 pounds, the consumption of the British Isles averaged five cups of tea a day during last year ,the Imperial economic committee reported. The report says the British Empire now holds the position of tea garden of the world.

Increased use of the beverage is attributed to the spreading custom of taking tea in the middle of the morning in addition to the usual afternoon "tea-time."

Transplanting of Tobacco Plants Is Done, Grand Forks

GRAND FORKS, B. C., June 18—The transplanting of the tobacco plants has been completed by Ben Ralph at the Sunnyside farm. Part of the plants were grown in seed beds in the district and part of them were secured from the Summerland experimental station. The fertilizer for the tests was supplied by the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company from their Trail plant.

JUNIOR CLUBS TO COMPETE IN JUDGING EVENT

Boundary Swine, Calf and Poultry Clubs Will Enter B. C. Contests

GRAND FORKS, B. C., June 18—Great interest is being taken by the members of the various swine clubs, calf clubs and poultry clubs in the judging competitions to be held this year. A team of three members will be sent to judge all classes of livestock at the interior provincial exhibition at Armstrong. A seed judging team of three members will be sent to compete at the Vancouver winter fair in December. Two members from each swine club will compete in the elimination contest to be held at the coast in the fall.

Eleven boys and girls have already stated that they wish to try out for a place on the various teams. Coaching of the teams will be conducted by the district agriculturist at Grand Forks.

The census enumerators must have made a slip somewhere on their estimate of 122 million population for the United States. Surely there are that many people running filling stations.

Mrs. Haigh, Fernie, Visiting at Wardner

WARDNER, B. C., June 18—Mrs. Haigh of Fernie arrived on Sunday to spend a few days visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Haigh.

Mr. Saunders of Waldo, a brother of Mrs. F. Miles, is spending a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. Miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Haney of Canal Flats spent the week end visiting here.

Mrs. Theodore Thompson and Beverly Haney motored to Canal Flats on Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Haney, returning later in the day with Harry Thompson.

Ben Embree, Rollie Thompson and Oscar Hellmen motored to Canal Flats on Sunday to play baseball for Canal Flats against Kimberley.

The exceedingly hot and dry weather seems to have broken at last. There was a small hailstorm on Monday night and Tuesday evening a steady rain set in.

A party of men mortored out to Gold creek on Saturday evening on a fishing trip, returning on Sunday evening. They brought back a good catch of fine trout. Those making up the party were: Alex Daye, William Gifford, Ben Daye, John Neilson, August Daye, James Ryan, Charlie Hamrin, Keeno and Sakati.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Marriage a la Mode

By VIDA HURST

CHAPTER 31

Corliss recovered first. She dried her eyes and attempted to rise from Jerry's arms.

"Don't go!"

"I must. It's too late now."

"Too late to try again?"

"Try it again? After all that's happened?"

"We're wiser now. We can profit by our mistakes."

"But Jerry you were the one who didn't want to go on. You said. . ."

"I said a great many foolish irrational things. In a way you were right when you accused me of acting as if our marriage was just another affair. The fact that it was not to last if either of us was dissatisfied gave it an atmosphere of impermanency. I was working like a dog, harassed to death about the magazine. The additional irritation of having you crab at me was too much. But if I had realized that your own nerves were not in a normal condition and why—I would have been more patient. At the time I sincerely thought the best thing for both of us was to admit we'd made a mistake and try to forget. . . I have discovered that a relationship like ours cannot so easily be forgotten. Try as I might, by every possible means, the memory of you has continued to haunt my apartment. You're there, Corliss, as you are in my heart, to stay. . . ."

Beautifully expressed, artistically phrased as always. But meaning little to Corliss in the face of all that had occurred.

"If I hadn't seen you with my own eyes. . . ."

Jerry smiled. The ghost of the old appealing smile with an added touch of sadness. "I don't deny there have been other women, but on my honor. . . ."

She flared. "Your honor doesn't mean a thing to me."

"Before God, Corliss, you are the only one I have ever really cared for."

"How can you say such a thing when you admit you've kissed and made love to others?"

"Kissing and making love have nothing to do with the sort of feeling a man has for his wife."

There it was again! Almost word for word as Dr. Dutton had expressed it. Were men, indeed, so constituted that they were capable of dividing their affection? So much of what they call "real thing" to their wives. So much of a different variety to some one else. . . The idea made her shiver.

"If that's your conception of love," Corliss cried, "I don't want any more of it!"

"But my dear, so long as we were living together I was true to you. Your doubts and suspicions were utterly unfounded."

"I don't believe that either, although it makes no difference now whether you were true to me or not. If the baby had lived and you had asked me to return to you I probably would have done so, but as it is. . ."

"As it is you won't do it?"

"Why should I? If we couldn't be happy before when we loved each other madly. . . ."

"But I feel differently now. I realize as I couldn't then, how much a part of my life you are. The fact that you have had my child. . ."

"Has nothing whatever to do with it," she declared. "You're clever and charming and a wonderful lover. But not as a husband. No thank you Jerry. Not ever again."

How glad she was to know she could say this to him and feel no inner qualms or signs of weakening. If he was fascinating and irresistable, he was also unstable and variable. With a curiously detached feeling, she added, "I'm going on with the divorce proceedings and when that's over I never want to see you again."

Her words and manner, so unlike the girl he had married, seemed to puzzle Jerry. He looked at her as if he could not believe she really meant it. No doubt he expected her to soften at his pleading as she had always done before.

"Darlin', please! I admit the justice of everything you say. But I didn't realize. . . ."

"No use Jerry. You promised me my freedom before we were married. Asked for it yourself three months later. . . ."

"Won't you give me one more chance? I've learned my lesson."

She shook her head.

"I've learned mine too. It's impossible to expect any happiness together if you had really profited by the tragedy of our experience, let some other girl benefit by it."

He said, "I'll keep my word about a divorce. But if you could understand how sorry I am."

Corliss said nothing.

The hands of her little clock pointed to 12.

"So then," he said, "it's all over?"

It had been different, thought Corliss, when he was the one who insisted on ending it. How could he feel if she suggested as he had that there was no use being sentimental about it? The sooner it was over the better!

* * *

Thinking this she smiled so ironically that Jerry said, "Don't let yourself become cynical and bitter."

"How can I be anything else? If I hadn't steeled myself to be hard I'd have died."

"I suppose you're right," he agreed. "God knows I'm in no position to critize you. Only for your own sake. . . ."

"Don't worry about me or anything that happens to me."

"But I will. I can't help it," Jerry insisted. "We have a bond now that so far as I'm concerned no divorce can ever break. I will do anything in the world for you any time. I failed you once, but I swear I will never do so again."

* * *

How like Jerry to promise her anything now that she could no longer wanted it. But men were all like that. It merely proved the old school girl theory that what they couldn't have they craved.

A week later she received another letter from her mother.

"Corliss, dearest: I will be on my way to California when this reaches you. Your father's condition is very much improved. If you are contemplating a divorce, you must need me. Don't do it, Corliss, please, until after I have come. You rushed into marriage without consulting us. Don't be too hasty again.. But I will see you soon, darling!"

"Not soon enough," thought Corliss, grimly. Her divorce had been granted the day before.

The Beauty Box

BY Helen Follett

"There's a girl I know," confessed the young feller, "who charms and enchants me with her teeth. Isn't that a ridiculous idea? It is a fact. She's a sort of dumb creature, not so pretty that she'd stop the traffic. But she has red lips and a radiant smile. When her lips part and she displays those lovely teeth of hers—as white as snow—I get sort of light headed. She knocks me flat." Will the beauty class please take notice? Look up old Doc Dentist's telephone number and get busy on the repair work.

Pint-sized girls, those who look little enough to be tucked into pockets, are forever complaining because they lack length. No use grieving. The skeleton of the body determines height; nothing in the world will make bones grow after one has outgrown the growing age. After all, the baby-dolls needn't feel sorry for themselves. Better to be too short than too tall. Dress problems are simpler.

Anoint up and down frowns, between the eyes with a heavy cream. Place the first finger of the right hand crosswise of the line at the upper part, first finger of the left hand at lowerpoint. When the right travels to the left, the left goes right, producing an effect of double ironing. Follow with a rotary movement, sending the first finger around in small circles. While the emolient is still on the skin apply ice.

To trim down the waist line, sit on a low stool with legs extended and go through the motion of rowing a boat, sending the upper portion of the body forward and back, bending at the waist-line. Keep the spine straight. Pull hard on the muscles of the arm, because that motion makes for chest development. Five minutes of this simple exercise night and morning for one month will delete an inch from the waist measurement.

Coiffures with slanted partings are the whoop-de-dee right now. The feminine head is going moderne. Triangles, squares and everything.

Southland Picks White for Most Outdoor Clothes

MIAMI, June 18. — It's summer right now—down here in Miami and in Palm Beach. And femininity certainly is lovely to look at under this mellow yellow sunshine.

All brown and white. Brown for her skin—nice, even, smooth, creamy brown, not red or copper colored. And white for most of the clothes she wears.

Lovely ladies. Lovely clothes. Ladylike clothes. And ladylike suntans. Not hard, masculine Indian burns. These don't go with what they're wearing.

And what they're wearing here in this sunshine—in clothes and in sun-tan—will be worn all over America next summer, wherever and whenever there is sunshine.

SOME PREDICTIONS

So get out your notebook—put these fashion predictions down in it—and just see if next summer you aren't wearing:

1—Lots of white in dresses, coats hats and shoes. The check-ups by our fashion staff show more than 60 per cent of the women here are wearing white.

2—It's white, with color for accent. A white dress with a bright blue or red belt. Or a bright band on her white hat. Or a bright jacket with a white dress.

3—Next to white, pastel dresses are most important. Especially blues, and beiges, and pinks and greens. A little brighter than last year.

4—Summer clothes are ladylike. That's been coming on for some time. To get over the idea, fashion wears more shoulder covering than last summer. These daytime dresses here are just a bit longer, too.

EVENING CLOTHES

5—For afternoon they wear pretty, frilly things. Many prints. And to the ankles. Lots of these dresses have short little capes.

6—Summer evening clothes are long, just missing the floor. Sort of Grecian in their silhouette. And easy to look at. Here, too, there's lots of white. And jewelry in good colors is used for pleasant contrasts. Lots of lace—mostly in pastels.

7—Summer daytime hats are medium brimmed or are small turbans. The medium-brimmed hats are Panamas, with narrow gros-grain bands in black or colors. The turbans are two kinds. Crocheted, cap-like affairs for one kind, most always in white, but in colors, too, to go with certain costumes.

GREASE SPOTS

To remove grease spots from carpets, make a paste of boiling water poured on equal parts of magnesia and fuller's earth. Apply while hot, then wipe it off when dry.

NEW BROILER

There is a handy new broiler on the market this spring which cooks your steaks and chops on top of a one-burner flame and with much less gas than the oven broiler.

Loves First Cousin

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 19 and am in love with my first cousin. It's not right because it is against my religion. Sometimes I say I hate him, but if I don't see him I get worried.

He doesn't say anything if I talk to other boys. He takes many girls out and goes with a fast crowd. He has never asked me out, but he keeps coming to may house. Neither of my parents know about this. Sometimes he acts like a brute. He says he loves me. L. L.

Evidently you and your cousin have no intention of marrying; then why make yourselves more unhappy by meeting? Brace up and cut out a situation that makes both of you wretched.

Children of first cousins are apt to be defective which makes the marriage of such near kin illegal in certain states. With the world full of interesting men, why pick out one that only makes you miserable? Good luck to you!

"Echo Becomes Bore"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have loved a young man for a year and I still do, but I don't think he cares for me. He makes dates with me but does not keep them. He says he loves me, but I don't believe he does. I'd do anything for him. I deny myself all that a young girl of my age should enjoy. I am sixteen years old. I never go out, but with him. If I talk to another boy, he gets terribly jealous. He is planning to go to Europe for a vacation. He says he is coming back in three months, but I don't believe him. What should I do? Do you think I ought to go out and enjoy myself?

LONESOME AND BLUE

It seems to me that the young man is too sure of you and may be bored because you've let yourself become an echo of his moods. Nothing could be more of a mistake than to become a "yesser" in popularity. If you accept date-breaking as a matter of course, there is no incentive on the date-breaker's part to treat you better. And honestly, don't you think at sixteen you're a wee bit young to take such a headlong plunge into romance as you're taking? Be something, amount to something, start right in now, instead of wasting precious time and youth worrying over an indifferent boy. Yes, by all means cultivate other friends.

Alas, He Was Married!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going with a young man now for about two months and had begun to think a great deal of him until, a few days ago, I was told he was married. I didn't believe it. I got up enough courage to ask him about it and he said that he was—but it happened a long time ago.

Do you think I should stop going with him because of his past marriage, or should I try to forget it? Somehow, since I found out about that, I don't feel the same toward him, although I still like him.

JACKIE

The length of time the young man has been married does not make him eligible as a suitor. He may have been married, ten, twenty or thirty years ago, and he would be just as much married as if the ceremony had taken place yesterday afternoon if he has not been divorced or made a widower in the meantime.

His lack of frankness toward you, in this matter, doesn't put him in a very favorable light. And you are quite justified in asking him to tell you just what his legal status is. If he is some other woman's husband—don't waste any more time on him.

He Is No Apollo

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I met a young man 24 years of age. I love him very much but here is the point. He is not good-looking at all. He intends to marry me, and I have friends who would kid me about him, I know. He loves me dearly. I am nineteen. He is my ideal in every other way. Would you let a little thing like looks mar your happiness? Answer as soon as possible. C. D.

If you're so lukewarm about a young man who is your ideal in every respect but appearance, I think you'd be doing him a great injustice in marrying him. What are you looking for—a real man, or a nice wax figure in a tailor's window?

As for "loving him very much"—if you did, my dear, your friends wouldn't get very far with their kidding. Nothing can be quite as angry as a girl, genuinely in love, when someone has the insolence to make fun of their object of her affection. Wait until you feel a little more deeply about these things.

"School Days" Affair

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Still in my teens, I go around with a boy who will graduate this year. He likes me and I like him. He doesn't drink, swear or smoke, and is very highly thought of. He gave me his graduation ring and is very good to me, but he has two faults. One, when I call him up, he acts funny. He is very cross over the phone. (He lives with his sister.) And second, he can't stand teasing. He was up several times last week, and Sunday night I called him up. He acted funny so I hung up. Today at school either of us spoke. I am crazy over him.

"PUZZLED"

Older people with boys and girls in the family are often annoyed by the constant ringing of the telephone, and do not hesitate to make fun of the talk they overhear. Perhaps the boy friend has had some such condition to contend with at home and that's why he acts "funny". As for not speaking, that's foolish. I hope your misunderstanding has been settled by this time.

Shall She Invite Him?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a constant reader of your precious column and profit by your answers. I would like to know if it would be quite all right to invite a young man, whom I have not seen for some months, to my party. We used to go together quite often and then he stopped coming to see me. My cousin who is a resident of his neighborhood, has seen nothing of him either. I would appreciate it very much if you would let me know what to do. Please answer.

"SINGER"

It would be quite all right to invite the young man to your party; either phone or write him a little note.

EASILY REPLACED

Buy the same style pearl button for all of sonny's little wash suits, then when he loses one or two they are easily replaced. Buttons may also be removed from worn suits and sewn on the new ones, thus saving many pennies.

AN IRONING TIP

Save the silk underwear until last when ironing with an electric iron. Then the iron may be disconnected and there is no danger of scorching. Also the iron is easier to handle without the cord attached in this dainty work.

GOOD RELISHES

It will pay you to put up a few good meat relishes for next winter. Try one of these:

Pepper Relish: Into your preserving kettle put 12 green sweet peppers without seeds, 12 red sweet peppers (or use a few red Italian peppers in place of the 12 red sweet peppers, if you like a relish "hot") and 12 peeled and sliced onions. Barely cover with cold water, place over fire and let cook 10 minutes, then drain and put the vegetables through your food grinder before adding to them one quart of vinegar, one cup of brown sugar and three teaspoons of salt. Cook till tender—about one hour—then turn while hot, into hot sterilized jars, put on new rubbers and seal airtight at once. Here is another relish along the same general lines, but with a different flavor—

Cabbage-Pepper Relish: Through the food grinder put 12 green sweet peppers and 12 red sweet peppers (throwing away seeds), and also chop 12 Bermuda onions (after peeling them) and one large head of cabbage. Mix these chopped vegetables together in a large bowl or in two bowls, pour boiling water over the mixture, then drain and squeeze dry in a cloth. Now add to the drained mixture two cups of granulated sugar, three tablespoons of salt, and two quarts of cider vinegar, and let cook till it has boiled up once or twice, before turning into hot sterilized jars. Put on new rubbers and seal airtight at once, so that the relish will cool in the jars.

Tomato-Celery Relish: Chop one peeled onion, one large green sweet pepper (seeds discarded), one large bunch of celery and two and one-half cups of ripe red tomatoes, sliced. Mix these vegetables together in the preserving kettle and add two-thirds of a cup of vinegar, one tablespoon of salt, two tablespoons of granulated sugar and two allspice berries, then let simmer over moderate direct flame for one and one-half hours before sealing airtight (while hot) over new rubbers, in sterilized jars.

LESS BREAKAGE

Put the jelly jars and glasses into scalding water, rinse with hot water and dry rapidly. Then fill with the hot liquid and they will not crack or break. Jelly tumblers are made of a cheap grade of glass and they will not stand boiling liquid being poured into them without they are also warmed.

Many Ways to Serve Tea

Summer Calls for Iced Drinks—Simple Recipes That are Delicious

Most adults seem to feel that the "cup that cheers but not inebriates" is essential to their comfort at least once a day, and as the weather grows warmer a glass of iced tea does much to cheer and comfort and can do little harm to the average well person.

Children should never be allowed to drink tea in any form. If the tinkle of ice and accompanying lemon and sugar of iced tea should prove too enticing for children at the family table, a glass of lemonade should be provided for them.

If you would serve your iced tea as fragrant and sparkling as the hot beverage, choose the brand with care and make the infusion according to rule, allowing twice as much dry tea for each cup of water as for a hot drink.

Make the tea exactly as if it were used to be hot. That is, scald the tea pot and when thoroughly heated, pour out scalding water. Put tea in tea pot and pour over freshly boiling water. Let steep not longer than five minutes. The flavoring substance and stimulating properties are quickly extracted by boiling water. The short period of steeping produces a fragrant, delicately flavored beverage, mildly stimulating to some persons.

Fill glasses full of coarsely cracked ice or one-third full of chipped or shaved ice. Pour tea on ice, taking care not to touch the glass with the hot tea. Serve with sugar and lemon. Freshly brewed, well-made tea poured at once over ice is not at all the same beverage that is made very strong by over-steeping, is then cooled and weakened with water and finally served with a piece of ice to tinkle. The first is clear with a delicious fragrance and taste, no matter how much it is sweetened or weakened.

Powdered sugar is better to serve with iced tea than granulated. The advantage of this is that powdered sugar dissolves in cold liquid more easily than the coarser, granulated variety.

A "simple" syrup is often used in place of sugar. This syrup is most convenient to keep on hand during the summer months, because it combines more quickly with fruit juices than plain sugar.

To make simple syrup, put one cup granulated sugar and one-half cup water in a smooth sauce pan. Bring to the boiling point, cover and boil five minutes. This is a rather thick, concentrated syrup. One spoonful will be enough to sweeten a glass of tea for the average taste.

Most people like lemon with iced tea and the more lemon juice used the more healthful the beverage. Orange or any tart fruit can be used in place of lemon. Either the juice or sections of lemon or orange can be served. The juice served in a small pitcher or bowl with a cream ladle is preferred by many persons. When the sections of fruit are used be sure to wash the lemon or orange thoroughly before cutting.

Those who follow the logical development of the mode were not surprised to find the sash of soft silk again in favor. This mode was the natural sequence to the bolero. The broad sash and the bolero are as closely related as are belts to plus-fours.

In planning a loafing, playing room for the family, you may do well to get a little color into it. Not overdo it. But enough color to make it rather stimulating.

TAG DAY WILL BE IN AID OF LOCAL WELFARE

I. O. D. E. to Further Aid Local Situation in Time of Stress

Instead of the funds from the Alexandra Rose Day going to child welfare work in Nelson this year the Kokanee Chapter Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will give this year's funds toward local general welfare. This work is one of the objectives of the local chapter which has already helped considerably in local relief.

Queen Alexandra instituted Rose Day in England many years ago in aid of hospitals and the Tag Day is still held annually. Roses used for sale are all made by the crippled children in London. Rose Day will be observed in Nelson on Saturday, June 20.

It is possible now to furnish an occasional room in the modern furniture for a sum within reason. And the new modern furniture is comfort personified, balanced and lovely to look at, pretty in its new colors and above all easy to clean.

If you have an enclosed sun parlor a little den that isn't as much as it should be, an alcove under the stairs or a card room, why not treat the family to a brand new place to lounge and play.

West Shown Increase in C. M. A. Membership

VICTORIA, B. C., June 18 (CP)—The growth in membership west of the Great Lakes has been one of the features of the Canadian Manufacturers' association's progress of recent years, according to the report of the membership committee. In 1900 there were no members in this vast territory; in 1910, there were only 231; today there are 1000. In British Columbia, between 1918, when the association opened its office in Vancouver and 1931, there has been a growth from 72 to 400. The report stated that members of the association make about 80 per cent of the products manufactured in Canada by firms which are eligible for membership.

METHODISTS MAY HAVE WOMEN IN MINISTRY SOON

Conference Report Sees No Reason Why Such Should Not Be the Case

LONDON, June 18 (By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Church circles were busy today discussing the report of the joint committee of the Wesleyan, United and Primitive Methodist churches to the Primitive Methodist church conference at Derby, which means that the Methodist church may soon see women ministers, although they will have to resign on marriage.

The report stated the committee was not aware of any function of the ordained ministry for which women, in principle, were disqualified merely on the ground of their sex. It therefore recommended that any woman who believes she may be called to the ministry may offer herself as a candidate after next year's conference.

Four years' probation is suggested after which "such as are received into full connection shall be ordained to the ministry and receive authority to preach the word and administer the sacraments," the report said.

The committee added this rider: "As marriage involves responsibilities which would interfere with the fulfilment of her duties a woman minister's marriage shall be regarded as equivalent to her resignation, unless the conference shall otherwise determine.

Reno Makes Progress

When mining is at a low ebb throughout the district it is interesting to read the progress being made at the Reno gold mine south of Nelson. Up to the end of April this property milled 16,423 tons of ore. The yield was $257,952. The operating profit was $64,230.

This is a nice little business that is adjacent to Nelson and it is interesting to note from the president's report that the company has cash reserves of $41,116 and no liabilities. A more interesting feature is the fact that development is being carried on extensively.

Census of Scots Shows First Decline

Scots throughout the world have pre-empted such prominent places in the sun that it is somewhat surprising to be reminded by the decennial census that there are less than five million of them in their native land, and that nearly a quarter of them live in the city of Glasgow. Every ten years since 1801 the population has been enumerated, and every census, till that which has just been completed, has shown an increase. For the first time in 130 years the census figures show a decline in population. Scotland today has 39,943 inhabitants less than she has in 1921.

A cable announces that the decrease in population is eight per cent., but that is an apparent exaggeration. The loss of 39,943 from a population of 4,882,497 is a little more than eight-tenths of one per cent. But even that is sufficient to cause concern among the sons of Auld Scotia, and some Caledonian may be trusted to demand a recount. There is little satisfaction for them in the thought that what is Scotland's loss is some other country's gain.

Automobile Purchasing

Bigger bargains for careful buyers undoubtedly are to be found today in the used-car market than at any time in years. In part, this is due to general business conditions which have compelled the shaving and at times the abandonment of profit margins, and in part because dealers anxious to keep their service departments busy even at a loss have done an unusual amount of servicing and tuning-up to the cars they have in stock. While there are fewer cars than usual to be had less than a year ago, there is a bigger money's worth in the cars that are on the market. Age as well as condition is always reflected in price.

Of course the man who is not himself a mechanic or judge of things mechanical is at a disadvantage in buying a used car, but so is he in buying a new one. The best safeguard in either case is the established, reliable dealer with a reputation to maintain, whose guarantee means what it says. His representations can be accepted with confidence.

The purchase of unused transportation with such a guarantee is not haphazardous. The business of handling it has been long enough established so that the wrinkles are ironed out. There is plenty of competition to prevent profits being excessive, and there is plenty of knowledge as to how cars may be reconditioned, where trouble is most likely too develop and it can be avoided. Reliable dealers are anxious to give good value and to protect the customer, if need be, even against himself.

Russia's Press Day

Walter Duranty who has done more than any other writer to interpret the Russian government experiment in terms of the honest and disinterested reporter, tells in one of his despatches to New York Times, of the celebration on May 5th of "Press Day" throughout the Soviet Union. It is an annual event.

Mr. Duranty explains that the press is the most important means of propaganda the Soviet possesses. There is no "censorship" in the common sense, but the press is strictly charged to support the regime. It is not intended to make money, or entertain readers and does not publish scandal, crime or personal information, except as the news may have political significance. The function of the newspaper is to stimulate socialistic development.

One would think this would produce dull sheets, read by only a few, but the Times' correspondent shows that workers are fairly thrilled by the press and circulations of from one to two and a half millions of three Moscow newspapers "might be doubled or trebled" if newsprint were available. The commissioner of the Russian paper trust is quoted as claiming that "the supply is far below the cultural requirements" and will be increased 30 per cent this years to 611,000 tons. The Soviet Union supports 257 large newspapers and 2,500 small sheets published in factories.

Literacy is new among the common people of Russia and their nation is engaged in an experiment novel in history. The element of combat rides in economic news, because Russian people are really enlisted in a terrific battle against the old order and against time—five years. It is not to be wondered at that the news of this struggle is eagerly read. Just what would happen to the circulation of a newspaper that would supply light and frivolous interest, now prohibited by the government, is a question apart. It would test the point whether there is a great disparity between the temperamental interests of the Russians and other peoples.

Now that the normal school examination results are announced the new teachers who have won certificates must start their real hard fight. It will not be so much in starting a teacher's career as finding a school in which to teach.

Seen and Heard in NELSON

(By J. B. C.)

Just what to do when a fellow hits one up for a meal is a big problem these days. Earlier this week a pathetic figure presented himself to the editorial sanctum of this paper. He was a young lad. He looked hungry, and he had a terrible impediment in his speech. After some minutes of stuttering he got it over that he was hungry. One of the boys felt sorry for the lad and wrote him an order on a local cafe for one meal. Another figuring the boy needed grub gave him a second note which was to be used the next day for breakfast. Then the order was confirmed at the restaurant over the telephone.

Out went the stuttering one. He was happy and the boys were happy for having done their good turn for the day. But on checking up at the came at midnight they found that the lad who had bummed the meal had used both checks that night. He had fed himself and a friend.

But news seems to travel freely and speedily among these unfortunates of this time of depression. For since that time several transients have landed in the office with their tales of woe. They have not been greeted so nicely and two who just left the office were more or less insulted because they did not get an order.

* * *

Now and then someone, or I should say some two people get into an argument. It is usually settled without blows if one is tactful enough. But yesterday afternoon on Baker street I ran into a real argument. A little white faced fellow was protesting at something a fellow much larger than himself had said. The little chap talked and talked. He got madder 'n madder. A crowd gathered. He called fight. But the big boy used his head. He tried to talk his opponent out of it. Suddenly the little fellow stepped out. Two fists flew and—thud, one connected to the body. It was a left well placed. The crowd grew bigger. The little fellow started to swear. He called the big fellow everything and ended with the slur "You are yellow."

Unhurt and trying to avoid trouble the larger chap went away and disappeared into a store. Five minutes later he came out only to meet the little chap again. This time he could stand it no longer so went to the alley. There he tried to postpone the bout. Suddenly the little chap tapped him on the shoulder. Then they started. They clinched They scrambled and rolled. Then the big boy grabbed him and deposited the little chap, shirt out and all, onto the street. It was almost a body slam but he did not attempt to hurt the little chap.

Then a real battle started. The little chap got in a couple good ones to the body and missed a right to the chin by inches. He was a better boxer than his larger friend. He tried again for the chin with his right but missed and the big boy connected to the chin. It was high. But it slowed up the battle. Then the big boy called it off. He didn't want to fight any more. He didn't believe in street brawls. The little fellow followed him into an apartment house. A friend went in behind him. In one hand he carried something that much resembled a government package. Then he departed with the scrappy little fellow. The crowd dispersed. It had been good while it lasted but I did not see it very well as I did not have a ringside. Who said there is no excitement in Nelson during the afternoon?

TO THE MOTHERLAND

"Speed up, speed up the production of wheat,
Please have the British Dominions speed up,
The urgent need our armies and navy to feed
With plentiful stores of good bread and meat.
Strong men need good daily food to replenish
The strain on muscle and brain,
While standing long hours in cold trench
Knee deep in snow, mud and rain.
For the British and Allies must conquer
'Gainst aggression of well prepared foe,
And the strongest frame in British fame
Must be nourished, in gears high and low."
The farmers respond with vigorous strides,
Answered the call so urgently made,
The prairies, older provinces and northlands
Carried the burdens on their shoulder laid.
And thousands from the farm joined the colors,
Stood shoulder to shoulder with Britain's best troops,
Through shot and shell and the echo of hell,
Nobly proved their true worth in the fight.
The scene is changed, the Great War is past,
Forgotten by many the sacrifice made
By Canada's scarred veterans from city and farm,
With loss of sight, and limb, and life's shattered hopes.
"Speed up, speed up, Red Russia,
We offer glad hand, with commerce and trade,
Ship to our open door your cheap meat and wheat,
We say, on the food for our people no tariff shall be laid.
Our ports are open to the surplus of all nations,
All commodities, fabrics and produce from the farm,
We laugh at the plans of our sturdy Dominions,
And offer to foreign trade our British fair play.
Giving credits of millions and armored cars
To force despotic will on those robbed of their land"
Liberty is unknown in former land of the czars,
Enslaved are the victims by the bold robber band.

What the Press Says

TALES OF TERROR

Let modern writers of fairy stories beware. Do they pen their tales of ogres and dragons with an eye upon motion picture royalties? Then they had better know their Freud. If they are wise they will avoid any word or scene which might upset a child beset with complexes or neuroses. For Red Riding Hood has at last met her fate. The British board of motion picture censors in London has scowled upon this tale which has thrilled so many generations of children. The organization found that a film version of the adventures of the child and the bad wolf that devoured her grandmother has a "terrifying effect upon neurotic children."

A terrifying effect? This damning charge can be extended to cover many another tale long dear to childhood. All these years children have been allowed to read "Jack and the Bean Stalk" and perhaps some of them have seen the story on the screen. Imagine the horror that shook their nerves when the giant roared. "Fee-fi-fo-fum!" And what of "Alice in Wonderland?" Surely the censors will recall that there is almost decapitation in "Alice":

"'Talking of axes,' said the Duchess, 'chop off her head!'"

Should a talking picture be made of this scene? What of "Mother Goose Rhymes," with its lines of little Miss Muffet scared away from her curds by a "great spider who sat down beside her"? What of the lines about Jerry Hall: "He was so small a rat could eat him, hat and all"? How will neurotic children stand that harrowing scene in print or on the screen? By all means, let censors examine at once the lore of nursery tales and rimes and strike out all passages which by any stretch of imagination might terrify little children.—New York Sun.

TWILIGHT OF THE HITLERITES

The latest political development in Germany has a rather comic opera aspect which is affording a great delight to the bulk of the people. The Fascists are in the throes of internal dissensions which find the famous shock troops of the Hitlerites in open rebellion. The forces of revolt for a time occupied party headquarters and controlled the party organ, defying Hitler's stern demand for immediate obedience to his orders. It now appears that he can still command the loyalty of large numbers of his followers, but that the Fascists will break into two or more rival factions seems almost certain.

The reason for this sudden revolt is the failure of Hitler to provide the shock troops with the action which he vaingloriously promised them. Instead of marching to the overthrow of the republic, the Fascists merely marched out of the Reichstag and the government did not even totter, let alone collapse, as the Hitlerites so confidently expected. There has been no "march on Berlin;" the "third Reich" is an even more illusory vision. Consequently the young and aggressive members of the shock troops despair of their leader.

To the German moderates these signs of internal strife within the Fascists' ranks are a source of ill-concealed satisfaction. They see the Nazis breaking up into factions so busily warring among themselves that they have no time for their attacks upon the republic. They see Hitler discredited, and his power and influence waning. It is the twilight of the Fascist gods.—New York Evening Post.

PUSH ON TO HOPE

A corporal's guard is carrying on the construction of the Hope-Princeton road, which is now perhaps 30 miles out from Princeton, with the other section much less than that distance out from Hope. True, the old Sappers' and Miners' road extends 23 miles east of Hope, but it needs reconstruction and very little if it has been rebuilt.

Placing the total distance along the projected highway between Hope and Princeton at 87 miles, it can be seen that not less than 34 miles of road must still be created and this stretch is over the mountains through Allisan Pass. It represents the most difficult construction along the entire route, seeing that much of it is down the slopes of Cedar creek towards the eastern end of the Sappers' road.

There are probably no more than 30 men now engaged on the new road out from Princeton. There should be five or six times as many if we are to see any real progress this season.

The people of the interior and the people of the coast have been expecting that the new short route between tidewater and hinterland would be completed in 1932. At the rate of speed shown so far in 1931, completion will not come before 1934.

It is true that the government is short of money, but this is a road which has been urgently needed for at least two decades. It is a route which was denied its birthright in favor of the longer and more expensive Fraser canyon road. It is a highway which will prove an indirect money maker for the province in the foreign tourist traffic it will attract. It is an avenue through which will flow much fruit and wholesale produce business between Coast and Interior.

It will be valuable to Vancouver; it is vital to the Southern Interior.

Delay is weakness. — Penticton Herald.

CO-OPERATING TO SELL FRUIT

Voluntary effort along co-operative lines is evident about to accomplish results when compulsory action failed

The limitation made this week that the brokerage house owned by the Associated Growers and that owned by the Nash wholesale interests are combining offices in certain cities, is suggestive of a new move towards stabilization of the fruit industry. The fact that the Sales Service with one-quarter of the tonnage, and Associated with one-half, are to work closely together on the markets brings further encouragement.

These large shipping organizations have realized to the fullest extent the dire possibilities with which 1931 prairie selling is fraught, unless most careful steps are taken to market B.C. fruit rationally and fairly.

It may be assumed that in general sense Sales Service and Associated are to move their fruit to the market as a unit, that is to say, they will avoid glutting and price-cutting by a virtual division of the field open to them.

Insofar as we can gather, this step taken by the two largest selling organizations, the one being a representative of co-operative locals and the other of independent shippers, is not being taken with a view of forcing out other shippers. Indeed, the suggestion appears to be that, while Sales Service and the Associated will line up together with the Nash people and the Associated will also sell to Western Grocers and other houses with which it has been in relationship, the way is left open for the remaining shippers in B.C. to retain their former connections.

The net result of the move seems to be that the buying field will be divided up among the shippers thus avoiding the crowding of wholesale markets, the wild rush for business at any cost, and the slaughtering of prices.

Involving as it does not only co-operation between two large shipping interests, one co-op and the other independent, but also further co-operation between these two and the brockerage for a wholesale string, the project carries great significance.

Co-operators and the Okanagan have in the past looked upon the Nash people with grave suspicion. Perhaps the $200,000 in fines imposed upon the Nash firms gave some support to the belief.

But President Chambers of the Associated is quoted as saying that the Nash house keep their bargains.

We are convinced that voluntary co-operation along many lines is valuable. Sales Service and the Associated found it mutually profitable in the cherry pool. We are not suggesting that they intend to pool this season—nothing has yet been announced along that line—but we believe that the mutual confidence and regard brought about by their operations together in the past have made the new deal possible. They may not be pooling their fruit but they are arranging together for a definite prairie outlet and they are dividing that outlet between them so as to prevent congestion. This is a very good form of co-operation.

Other large shippers in B.C. may be expected to retain for themselves certain marketing fields and if all approach the 1931 problem with the same desire to have a fair division and not a mad scramble, the promise of the year will be brighter.—Penticton Herald.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON

THE IRRITABLE LARGE INTESTINE

Now that civilized peoples are eating 'refined' foods—flour, rice, white potatoes, sugar— there has been a natural outcry against these foods because they do not leave enough waste to help fill up the lower bowel. Also they do not irritate its sides with rough wastes sufficiently to make the bowel move its contents along and out of the body. This means slowness of action by the bowel and constipation.

This has made many people go to the opposite extreme and they must eat nothing but whole wheat bread, the whole apple and potato skins and all rough vegetables and fruits and also bran.

Many of these people are of the nervous type always anxiously watching their food intake, their digestion, and the intestinal habit. Thus it happens that at times they will be bothered by constipation, and at other times diarrhoea, and before they are aware of it they have become out and out "nervous" cases in so far as the lower bowel is concerned.

An examination of the lower bowel or large intestine or colon—it gets all three names—very often shows one portion widely dilated or stretched and another portion closely contracted. The bowel looks like the inner tube of an automobile tire which is stretched out wide in some parts, with other parts very narrow.

The symptoms are a soreness in the lower abdomen, or a cramp like pain so severe as to resemble gall stones, kidney stones, or appendicitis. Sometimes the patient gets the idea that he has a cancer.

Now the first thought should be to get an X-ray of the intestine and so find out whether it is simply this ballooning or contraction of the bowel, or whether there is really appendicitis, a stone, or a growth.

These cases are often underweight and the first thought is to remember the nervousness of the patient and get his fears removed, feed him well, and get him nourished

Then instead of course bulky food which only irritates the lining wall, soft foods only should be used and stewed or cooked fruits.

The so called protective foods—butter and cream—with a little meat every day to keep up the strength should be given.

After a little while the patient should return gradually to the use of one or more of the course foods, because as a matter of fact, the bowel was meant to contain a certain amount of waste matter so that its muscular walls would be kept in good condition by squeezing these wastes along. The bulky food gives it something to squeeze.

OLD MAN AND WIFE

The youthful years, like revelers long gone,
Grow faint upon the senses. Now they know
The recompense that comes when young hearts go:
The gift of silence on a sun-flecked lawn.

They spend an hour with evening when the tall
Gaunt cedars yield their shadows, lean and grey,
And rise to meet the sun who comes to call
Each morning, like a friend across the way.

They who have grown too wise for any speech,
Who feel a peace too deep for joy or pain,
Know there is nothing more the world can teach
Than what is learned in shadow, wind and rain

And so, where lilacs brood and roses climb
Over a moss-green roof, they sit and wait
A dark remembered hand upon the gate
As for an old friend gone a long, long time.

WALTER HAGEN SMASHES COURSE RECORD, DAYTON

Flashes Around in Championship Flight With a 68; Many Bunched

MIAMI VALLEY CLUB, Dayton, O., June 18. (AP)—Walter Hagen found the range of the rolling fairways of the Miami Valley course today and shelled it with a record-smashing 68 that shoved him one shot in front of a closely bunched field in the western open golf championship flight.

Flashing the same form that made him one of golf's immortals a decade ago, the Hag just about made the first 18-hole round of the 72-hole struggle a one-man show until Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., came in later with a 69.

Walter circled the first nine with a 36, one over par, and on his way back he ripped the course apart with a 32.

DUDLEY SLIPS

Dudley slipped in with rounds of 35, 34, one of the most consistent of the day. Olin Dutra, the Spanish caballero from Long Beach, Calif., and Charles Garringer of Indianapolis, landed third with 70's, the only other par-shattering performances turned in by the field of more than 100 entries. Dutra scored two 35's, while Garringer carded 36-34.

One shot away from them and three away from Hagen came Gene Sarazen of Fresh Meadow, N. Y., the champion they must beat, and Gene Marchi, assistant professional on Miami Valley championship course. Sarazen scored 36-35, while Marchi, one of the darkest of the dark horse contingent, carded 34-37. Six stayed close up in the running with 72's.

RAINVILLE AND BOWMAN GO INTO SEMI-FINAL ROUND

CHICAGO, June 18. (AP)—Victories in singles matches of the western tennis tournament today sent Marcel Rainville of Montreal, of the Canadian Davis cup team, and Herbert L. Bowman of New York to the semi-final round, to be played Saturday.

Bowman, holder of 13 eastern titles, had little difficulty disposing of Charles Lejeck, Chicago, in the last qaurter finals match of the day, 6-1, 6-1. Scott Rezinger, Chicago, big 10 singles chimpion, gave the Canadian a battle in their first set, winning 1-6, but Rainville returned to form, taking the next two sets, 6-1, 6-1.

Harris Coggeshall of Des Moines, defending title-holder, and George Jennings jr., Chicago, national public parks champion, won the other quarter-finals. Jennings defeated George O'Connell, Chicago, 6-3, 6-3, and Coggeshall defeated Frank O'Connell, Chicago, 7-5, 6-1.

Tommy Armour Returns to America

NEW GOLF CHAMPION COMES HOME WITH TROPHY

Tommy Armour of Detroit, new champion and winner of the British golf open, is seen here as he arrived in New York with his trophy. He says he was "just lucky", as anyone has to be who wins the British open. He already holds the Canadian open title, the Professional Golfers' association title, and now British open. Miss Enid Wilson, 21-year-old daughter of a Nottingham, England physician, is also shown. Her father made her two offers if she won the women's golf championship of Great Britain, an auto or a trip to America. She won, and is coming to America to compete in other tourneys.

TRIMDON WINS CLASSIC GOLD CUP RACE BEFORE FASHIONABLE ASCOT

Noses Out Singapore; Simona Leap Places Third; King's Jockey Up

ASCOT, England, June 18. (AP)—Butterfields of fashion gathered at Ascot today to see Gen. Charles Lambton's Trimdon win the classic gold cup, were rained on again and the old-fashioned umbrella remains the conventional style note for well-dressed English folk.

A storm burst over the great pageant of fashion and horseflesh just as King George and Queen Mary were starting their ceremonial drive down the course. Royal landaus were hurriedly closed, their majesties driving past the stands in a pouring rain.

They took refuge in the enclosed portion of the royal box while servants worked hurriedly at a temporary shelter and attempted to dry off the floor and seats with sponges and cloths.

The storm disappeared as quickly as it had rolled up, and the sun came out brilliantly before the race, the 10 horses parading before the King under ideal conditions.

NEEDED ALL BENEFITS

Trimdon needed all the benefits of sun and track to nose out Lord Glanley's Singapore, so little favored in the betting as to be 6 to 1, while Trimdon was held at 3 to 1. Mrs. Arthur James' Salmon Leap was third, some five or six lengths back. A. K. MacComber's Brumeaux, the only American-owned horse in the race, was unplaced.

The King smiled under his white topper and the Queen beamed under toque of gold as Trimdon was declared the winner, for in the pilot's seat was the King's own jockey, J. Childs, who had been loaned to General Lambton for the race.

The Duchess of York was prominent in the royal box in a wrap of pink beige, trimmed with pink flowers. Princess Mary was dressed all in cream.

The most resourceful women of Ascot's great fashion day wore convertible hats, wide brimmed picture creations with detachable brims which could be taken in out of the rain, leaving the wearers in close-fitting turbans.

The new Ascot "tote" or pari-mutuel machines proved so popular with the crowds that hundreds were turned away from the long lines waiting at the windows to put a few shillings on their favorites. As it was, it was estimated $200,000 was wagered in the machines before the race was begun.

Firestone tires MUST be good to have won and held all the world's mileage and endurance records! And the new Hi-Speed tires are no exception.

In this year's Indianapolis Endurance Race, Louis Schneider, the winner, drove the 500 mile course at an average speed of 96.629 miles per hour—at times reaching 140 miles—on a track made doubly dangerous by rain showers. No man has ever won this race twice, but this is the twelfth consecutive year it has been won on Firestone Tires.

Every one of the seventeen drivers who finished, bought and paid for his tires. They all chose Hi-Speed tires because of their

Extra Strength--
the Firestone Gum-Dipping process gives 25-40% extra strength and mileage.

Extra Security--
the new Double Cord Breaker gives 26% extra protection against punctures and blowouts.

Extra Speed--
the Firestone method of Balanced Construction allows the tire to roll smoother and easier and holds it on the road at high speeds.

Louis Schneider
winner of the race says of Hi-Speed tires,
"It was a most difficult and gruelling test for tires due to a wet, slippery track from frequent showers. Safety at high speed was of greatest importance and my Firestone Hi-Speed Tires enabled me to make an average speed of 96.629 miles per hour. I have always used Firestone tires in all my racing for I have the greatest confidence in their safety and dependability."

You may not need to drive at 96 miles per hour, but you do need the extra strength, extra security and extra safety that only Firestone can give you. Buy your set of Hi-Speed tires today. They cost no more than ordinary tires and right now prices are the lowest in history. See your nearest Firestone Dealer.

SCHMELING MAY NOT ENTER THE RING IN JULY

CLEVELAND, June 18. (AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion of the world, informed the Cleveland boxing commission late today that he would consult an attorney before notifying the board whether he would allow Schmeling to enter the ring here July 23 for his scheduled title defence against William L. (Young) Stribling, under rules adopted today.

Jacobs intimated he would be hesitant to send Schmeling to the wars unless the commission revised a clause in the rules refusing compensation to a fighter who refuses to continue after claiming to be fouled.

The commissibners said they would stand on their rules, declaring they don't want a repetition of the unsatisfactory ending to the Schmeling-Jack Sharkey fight last year.

"Big League" BASEBALL

Playing Outfield

By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

There are two and possibly three methods of playing an outfield to extract the greatest possible defensive value.

John McGraw believes in swinging all three outfielders either toward left or right field and having the pitcher pitch accordingly. As a general rule they swing to the left on left-handed hitters and to the right on righthanders, the pitcher pitching outside in both instances.

The late George (Miracle Man) Stallings, manager of Boston Braves, believed in having the left and right fielder guard the foul lines with a roving center fielder playing where the batter usually hits or where the pitcher makes him hit.

The third, and not generally accepted system of outfield playing was originated by Buck Herzog when he managed Cincinnati. Buck believed in playing right field for right field hitters, left field for left field hitters and then pitching to the batters' strength, not to their weaknesses.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet on "Base Running" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

CALLS FORMER KING OF GREECE INVETERATE AUTO 'TRUANT'

PARIS, June 18—"When a king takes of his mythical crown at night he enjoys life just like other persons," says Princess Apasia of Greece, who knows because her husband was the late King Alexander of Greece, who died as a result of a monkey bite a year after their marriage.

In fact, he even can put his feet up on a table and smoke a long cigar if he wants to. "My husband's favorite sport," continued the princess, "was to ride in automobiles—not in parade, or anything like that— but to run away and take a ride. We used to have one of the big cars stand in the court and then slip out the back door and dodge everbody and ride through the country. It was like playing truant from school," she added.

The late King Alexander was the second son of Constantine, but his death kept him from reigning as king except for a brief period. He died in October, 1920, and on the refusal of his brother to succeed, a regency was proclaimed, until, following the defeat of the Venizelists at the polls, Constantine was recalled by plebiscite to the throne, Venizelos quitting the country.

In September, 1922, a bloodless revolution at home resulted in the abdication of Constantine in favor of George, his eldest son, and in the establishment of a revolutionary government of 1922, but was suppressed.

Election however, in the Decembe. following led to the departure of the king from Greece pending a decision as to what type of government was to be adopted. The issue was decided in April, 1924, and a republican form of government was decided upon.

Princess Aspasia never used the title of "Queen" although she would have had right to it eventually, had her husband lived. She was not directly of noble birth, but had to be elevated to a princess before she could be made a queen. After the death of King Alexander she preferred to remain a princess and the title of princess also belongs to her 10-year-old daughter who is in private school in England. She was born three months after her father died, and her name is Princess Alexandrina.

"And now I live just for her," said the princess mother. "I have been the only nurse since she was born, never letting anyone else bathe her, or give her meals. We used to tell each other stories, and now we read to one another. After she goes to sleep I read for a long while and then I go to sleep, too—that's all," she concluded, "because we like to live that way."

BANK OF ENGLAND POLICY TO COME IN FOR CENSURE

LONDON, June 18.—(AP) — The Laborite Herald tonight said criticism of the policy of the Bank of England under the regime of Montagu Norman, its governor, will be the feature of a majority of the committee on finance and industry which will be presented to the government this week.

The central point of the report the paper said, will probably be that the bank of England could improve trade immediately if it chose by changing its monetary policy.

It is expected the report will not advocate reduction of wages as a remedy for the present situation, but will urge that trade be improved by making credit more easily available and by increasing the amount of money in circulation.

It will probably be urged, the paper said, that this policy should be carried out in cooperation with the federal reserve board of the United States, the Bank of France and other central banks.

Britain Experimenting With Asbestos Bodies

LONDON, June 18.—Blazing car tragedies of which Britain lately has had more than her share will be further checked if the new autobody now in advanced stage experiment proves popular, states the Daily Express motor expert. Three leading automobile firms here have made successful private tests with saloons of pressed asbestos stiffened by layers of other materials which increase strength and resiliency. Advantages claimed additional to fireproof are extreme lightness and sound-proof. Moulds can be built within a few days whereas a die for pressed steel takes months, thus allowing constant change of body fashions also low production costs. Asbestos bodies, which are an entirely British development, may displace popular fabric bodies.

"ONE-EYED" CARS ARE MENACE TO ROAD TRAFFIC

Improper Charging Rate and Loose Battery Terminals Cause Burned Bulbs

A frequent sight on the streets these evenings is an automobile with only one "eye". Not only is this disconcerting and dangerous to approaching motorists, but it should be a sign of trouble to the automobile's owner.

It should be attended to immediately, not only for the sake of safety to others, but to prevent further trouble in the car's lighting system.

The reason for so many one-eyed automobiles in winter is the fact that the charging rate of the generator has been boosted in order to keep the battery well up. Motorists have been told to have their generators set for a higher charge in winter than was required in summer, because of the heavier drain on the battery. The increased use of the lights, due to shorter days, and the greater energy required to start the motor have demanded this.

But often the charging rate is put up too high, with the resulting danger not only of overcharging the battery but of burning out the headlights.

Light bulbs are designed to give 100 hours of service at a regular rate of about six volts. If this voltage goes up to seven or more, the life of the bulbs will go down to as low as 25 hours.

And when a bulb goes out, the entire charge of the generator is thrown into the other remaining headlight bulb, thus shortening its life still further.

It will be noted that when one light is out the other is much more brilliant than ordinarily.

LOOSE CONNECTIONS

Sometimes the cause of the high charge into the headlights is a poor or loose connection in the battery-generator circuit. It would be best to check all connections, particularly the battery terminals, ground connections and cut-out.

Corroded terminals may prevent the charge from the generator going into the battery, where it is intended to go, and be diverted instead into the headlight and taillight bulbs. It is therefore important that the battery terminals be scraped clean and tightened. They should be covered with grease in order to prevent further corrosion.

The proper rate of charge cannot be definitely told, each individual car creating its own demand because of the variance in candlepower of the bulbs and in their number and method of use. However, it can be set after some observation of the way it is charging the battery.

If the specific gravity of the battery goes up rather quickly, the generator charge should be lowered somewhat. If the battery fails to reach full charge the generator charging rate should be raised a little.

By testing the battery each day, the best rat eof charge can be determined and the generator set to that.

It is advisable to have an ignition service man do this work.

CRANBROOK LAYS PLANS FOR AIR SHOW ON JULY 3

CRANBROOK, B. C., June 18.—A meeting of representatives of the board of trade, the Rotary and Gyro clubs and the city council was held in the board of trade rooms on Tuesday evening to make arrangements for the coming air meet on July 3, when the All-Canadian Air Tours will be present in the city with 10 planes and when the day will be given over to sports of the air. The Airways tours program comprises stunt flying, parachute dropping and all the regular features of an air derby. Passengers will be taken up for flights throughout the day.

F. H. Dezall, chairman of the board of trade, was in the chair. Business of the evening consisted in discussion of the coming event and the appointment of committees to make arrangements. It was decided to write Mayor Roberts, who was not present at the meeting owing to absence at Victoria, to ask that the city plan to have the official opening of the city airport on the same day.

Committees appointed were — Grounds, J. P. Fink, W. F. Attridge, T. R. Flett; advertising, W. H. Wilson, L. P. Sullivan, P. W. Willis and J. McGillivray; entertainment, J. McLaren, W. S. Santo, H. C. Collier; tickets, W. F. Cameron, Dr. Mittun, Dr. Rutledge.

It was decided that the cost of tickets to car owners should be $1. Arrangements with the All Canadian Air tours are that the first $200 of gate receipts shall go to them, after which the proceeds will be divided 50-50 with the board of trade. Passenger fees will go to the Air Tours company.

FARMER WHO LOST ALL AND SEEKING WORK IS KILLED

CRANBROOK, B. C., June 18.—the funeral of John Larson, whose death was caused by injuries sustained when his car went over the bank on the Kootenay Farms hill last Thursday, was held in the city Tuesday afternoon, burial taking place in the Cranbrook cemetery. A brother from Rosetown, Saskatchewan, the only relative in Canada, was present for the funeral.

Mr. Larson was 53 years of age. He had come from Scotland to Rosetown 25 years ago and had been a farmer in that district for 25 years. Last year's crop failure in that district had cleaned him out financially and his crop of this year had been blown out by the unusually bad winds of some parts of the prairies this year. As a last resort where he had friends and where he wher he had friends and where he thought he might obtain work.

There is so much in the society columns about "house guests" one wonders if anybody ever has barn or garage guests.

ATTEMPTS TO CROSS BORDER

SON'S ARREST SEQUEL TO MOTHER'S VISIT

An attempt to cross from Windsor to Detroit with her son, to be reunited with her sister, resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Magdalena Szucs' 20-year-old son, Joseph, upon a charge of complicity in a Toronto bowling alley hold-up, November last. Mrs. Szucs had travelled from Hamilton to Windsor to see her boy after a separation for some time. Mother and son are shown here as the latter awaited arrival of Toronto officers at the Windsor police station.

MODERN ENGINE BREATHES IN AIR SIMILAR HUMANS

Motor engineers have recently made material advancement in erfecting the working parts of automobile engines. This is impressively demonstrated in the new 1931 automobile. Motors breathe and eat as literally as do human beings, and it is an interesting fact that the air the new engine breathes, the gasoline it consumes, and the oil, its life's blood, are perhaps more free from harmful dust and foreign substances than the air inhaled by a human being or the food he takes into his system. During the life an automobile, millions of cubic feet of air mix with gasoline and form the vapor that drives the engine. This air is saturated with dirt, grit and other impurities that are harmful to a motor. Barricading them from the interior of the engine is an air cleaner of special design, which also dampens hissing noises of great volume of air that is sucked in by the carburetor. A series of safeguards clean and protect the oil. Outstanding among them is the oil filter which is so efficient and its process so continuous that at 25 miles an hour the entire oil supply is thoroughly cleaned every 10 minutes.

FORD ACCURACY

CHECKING SIZE OF FORD PISTONS

The Ford is made with unusual care

AN IMPORTANT REASON for the good performance of the Ford is the care with which mechanical parts are made and assembled. Many measurements are accurate to one one-thousandth of an inch. Some to two ten-thousandths of an inch.

To insure perfect fit in the cylinders, the aluminum pistons are held true to within one one-thousandth of an inch of the specified diameter of 3⅞ inches. Wrist-pin holes are diamond bored to within two ten-thousandths of an inch.

The valve stems are held exact in diameter to within one one-thousandth of an inch along their entire length.

Every Ford crankshaft is statically and dynamically balanced and is machined to measurements as fine as five ten-thousandths of an inch. Each Ford crankshaft receives 174 checks for accuracy.

BABY BULL MARKET, GOLD STOCK SIDESHOW RECENT MARKET FIGHT

NEW YORK, June 18—By virtue of economics and legislative fiat, the gold mining industry is looking up. A sideshow to the recent bear and bull tussles in the big tent in Wall street has been a baby bull market in gold mining stocks.

The highly speculative nature of gold mining, and the numerous fraudulent mining promotions by which "gold brick" securities were sold to gullible buyers in past decades, had caused Wall street to regard these stocks as somewhat beneath its dignity.

Not since the vigorous development of the Rand mines in South Africa around the turn of the century had Wall street seen much of a bull market in the yellow metal issues, and then the bull market here was primarily in sympathy with the rise of the Rand issues in London.

There has been a distinct upward trend in the half dozen or so Canadian and United States gold issues traded on the New York stock and curb exchanges in the past two months, and Alaska Juneau, long a low-priced stock, and classed in Wall street jargon with the "cats and dogs," has more than doubled in value since January.

The 1931 high and 1930 low prices for some of these issues follow:

	1931 high	1930 low
Alaska Juneau	$15.25	$ 4.50
Dome	13.50	6.75
Hollinger	8.75	5.00
Homestake	72	104.00
Lake Shore	28.87	20.62
McIntyre	26.50	14.75
Teck Hughes	9.00	4.75

The economics of the matter is that during a depression production costs decline and gold is no exception. The price of gold, in the United States at least, never fluctuates. The value is established by federal law at $20.67183462, a fine troy ounce of 480 grains. The more familiar avoirdupois ounce of commerce contains 437½ grains.

Expressed another way, every ounce of gold during a depression will buy more in other commodities than when boom conditions, such as prevailed before the stock market crash of 1929, exist. This explains the generalization that in hard times gold mining properties are more likely to earn profits than in prosperous eras. Of course, all this reasoning is based on the assumption that a particular mine produces ore of sufficient gold content in sufficient quantities to permit a profit. Outside of South Africa there are now few known deposits of rich content.

The fixed price of gold adds another detail to the romantic business of gold mining, with its fabulous tales of success and equally significant, if less well known, stories of failure. During a general depression the prices of other metals slump, causing an economic remedy in curtailed production. But present conditions tend to stimulate gold production. Reserves of lower gold content than can be worked profitably in normal times may yield a good return in a depression. It is likely that some companies which have exhausted their richer reserves, partially or completely, will develop their poorer ones. Another factor favoring such production is the use of improved methods of recovery, which were not known some decades ago.

The leading gold mining enterprise is Rand Mines, Ltd., a British concern, which controls subsidiaries producing about half the world's output of yellow metal from the Witwatersrand reef in outh Africa. The Witwatersrand, the world's largest known gold deposit, is about 1000 miles north of Capetown. The principal market for Rand shares is London, although there is an issue of United States shares which trade occasionally in New York. They recently sold at $34.75, against last year's low of $27.75.

Noranda, a Canadian issue, usually regarded as a copper rather than a gold stock, has recently had a brisk rise reflecting its gold mining developments. The shares have sold up to $29.62, more than double last year's minimum.

Homestake, the highest priced issue in the group, is a domestic issue. Since touching $104, the stock has recently fallen back below $100. The company operates in the Black Hills in South Dakota.

Current Difference Shown Motorists

Direct and alternating current seem to puzzle a great many persons. It does not make a vast amount of difference which one is being used if the right kind of appliance is used, as no accessory made for a direct current can be used on an alternating current, and vice versa. One can find out which is which by the following easy method: Hold a simple magnet near a lighted incandescent lamp; if the current is alternating, the filament (that is the part inside the lamp from which the light emanates) will vibrate. If the current is direct, the filament will be attracted or repelled as the positive or the negative pole of the magnet is held near the lamp.

HEAVY PAPER IS AID IN HELPING WEARING THREADS

When the threads of a thin part, such as the filler cap or hub cap, become worn and will no longer engage, the usefulness of the part may be continued for quite a while by inserting a strip of heavy paper between the threads. This has the effect of pressng the threads tightly together on one side, which will serve on parts not subjected to great strains.

Another method, which is more permanent, is to cut four hacksaws slots in the one member, and then spread the four quarters of the part slotted, thereby increasing its diameter. Care must be taken to remove all burrs set up by the hacksaw, otherwise a cutting action will take place. This latter method is not desirable on parts where the saw cuts will be visible.

CHUG CHUG

Many autoists seem to think warning signs at railroad crossings are intended for the locomotive engineer . . . We understand they've brought out a luggage carrier which clamps on the running board of the midget car and holds a pack of cigarettes . . . Another good result of these hard times is that you can get two gallons of gas put in your tank without being asked whether you are trying to wean the car. . . An overcrowded automobile is always dangerous, but, as an observer knows, is neither unknown nor unusual . . Then there is the Scotch motorist who waits for a hot day before he'll buy gas because he heard that things expand with the heat . . . It's a good thing for the younger generation that there's no law against driving a car while under the influence of a girl.

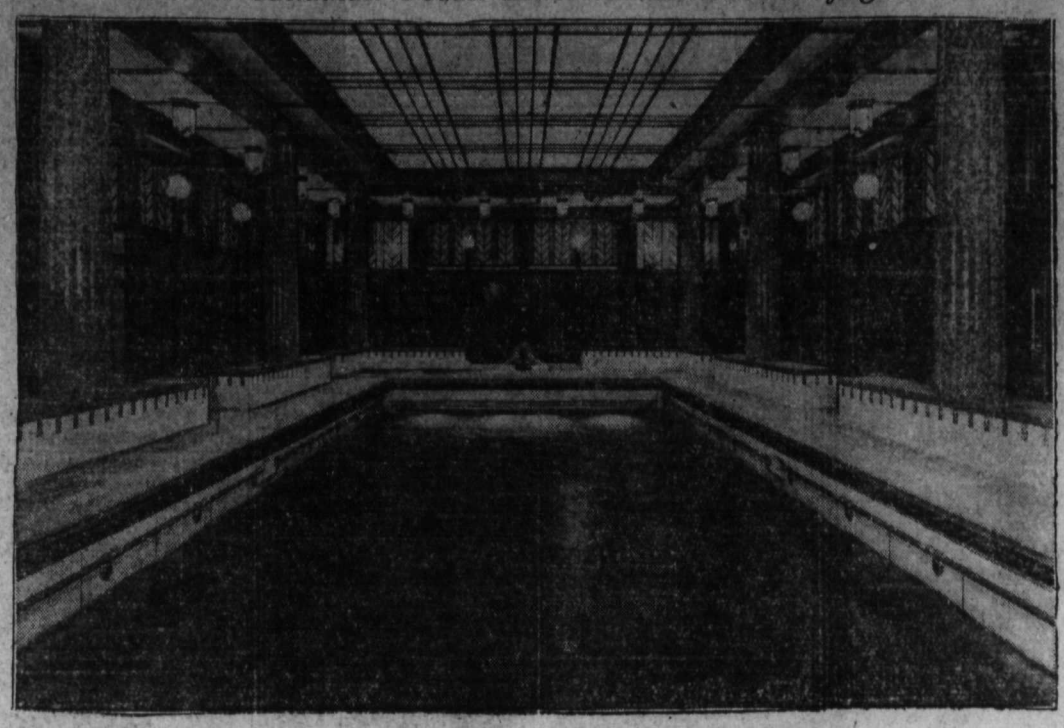
New Canadian Ocean Liner Makes First Voyage



IS EQUIPPED WITH LAST WORD IN MODERN LUXURIES

This splendid swimming pool is one of the features of the Empress of Britain, new Canadaian ocean greyhound now bound for Quebec from Southampton, Eng., upon her maiden voyage. The new liner is said to be the last word in sea travel. Prince George and many English notables attended a luncheon aboard the ship prior to its sailing.

THERE IS PROPER WAY TO HOLD THE STEERING WHEEL

Holding a steering wheel is an art in itself.

For the best control at high speeds—the two hands should grasp the wheel at points approximately opposite each other. The palm of the left hand should be under the rim with fingers gripping upwards, thus allowing the left arm and hand to serve as a brace. The palm of the right hand should be on the top of the rim, with the fingers gripping downwards, thus affording the greatest and most quickly available leverage. For the most comfortable position—both hands should rest lightly, with palms down, on the lower section of the steering wheel. Driving with one hand or steering by holding the spokes of the wheel, may be resorted to as an occassional measure of comfort, but it is bad practice owing to the fact that it makes control of steering difficult in an emergency.

C. fire chiefs' convention and if other ideas are as practical as the ladder raising one, it will be well to follow them.

DOPE SOLUTIONS CONDEMNED

This announcement has been made by the National Better Business bureau in publishing a report of recent investigations of storage battery "dope."

NEW MATTRESSES PLANNED, HOSPITAL AID AT CRANBROOK

CRANBROOK, B. C., June 18.—At a meeting of the St. Eugene hospital ladies' aid held Tuesday afternoon it was decided that the purchase of a metabolism machine, which had been promised Sister Selina for her department and which would be a decided asset to the hospital, would be deferred for the present on account of the fact that the hospital may be called on to face very hard times over another winter. Sister Selina expressed a willingness to do without the instrument for another year.

A public spirited citizen having put a tennis court in the grounds of the nurses' home for the use of graduate and student nurses, it was decided to purchase four racquets and a box of tennis balls. The only purchase voted for the hospital was that of a number of mattresses for the surgical ward, these being very badly needed.

Methods of raising money were discussed, also the matter of the annual jam and pickle shower. On account of the small attendance of members these were left over for another meeting.

There had been an auto wreck. One of the drivers climbed out in a fit of temper and strode up to the man standing on the sidewalk, thinking him to be the other driver.

22 MAKES WERE VOTED ON

TWO independent organizations have just completed a vote, asking Canadian motorists, "What make of tire would you buy?". The vote was taken in every province—in cities, towns and on farms. The answers were not influenced in any way. The vote is the unbiased opinion of people who have no interest in any make of tire, except to get the most for their money. The preference for Goodyear Tires is 2½ times that for the second tire. TWENTY TIMES the average preference for all other makes.

PIONER TALKS TO ROTARY CLUB

Cranbrook Rotarians Hear Early B. C. History; Attendance Perfect

CRANBROOK, B. C., June 18.—Cranbrook Rotary turned out 100 per cent strong at the Tuesday luncheon, this making three consecutive full strength meetings. Plans were discussed for attendance at the coming inter-city meet at Kalispel, the Fernie club being included in the gathering. The final date for the meeting is not yet set, a tentative date of June 29 being mentioned.

J. F. Smith, one of Cranbrook's, and also one of British Columbia's oldest residents, was guest of honor and speaker. He told of early experiences in the province, to which he had come from Prince Edward Island when the model city of Victoria was a wild town. Mr. Smith was a teacher in the Victoria school and is acquainted with many of the earliest settlers of the province. The speaker told of the ups and downs in his life in British Columbia, which finally brought him into the government service in Fort Steele, coming to Cranbrook when the government offices were transferred to this city.

As the time was too brief for the full recounting of Mr. Smith's story of pioneer days, the talk will be concluded at a later meeting of the club.

RAIN RESULTS IN RECEIPT OF FAULTY FRUIT

Strawberries Received on Prairies in Mouldy State; Rasps Move

VICTORIA, June 18—It has been raining here almost steadily for the past three days, but cleared long enough Sunday afternoon to allow picking for the local market and jam factory. It rained very heavy again Monday morning. No berry cars were expected to be shipped before Wednesday or Thursday, according to weather conditions, says the market news letter, department of agriculture, Victoria.

On account of the prairie markets demanding berry cars Haney is shipping one out today, although the berries are not in the best shipping condition. It rained very heavy there Monday morning. The next car is not expected to go out from the mainline before two or three days.

Victoria tomatoes at $2.75 are very draggy and brokers having trouble to dispose of car on track on account of price. Jobbers also complaining of quality of coast head lettuce compared with Armstrong. New potatoes are being quoted at five cents per pound.

CRITICIZES THE B. C. LUMBERMEN FOR SITUATION

Serious Reflection Cast When Prices Were Raised Against Britain

MONTREAL, June 18 (CP)—British Columbia lumber merchants had taken advantage of the British efforts to improve trade with Canada by raising their prices after British governmental and civic authorities had specified Canadian lumber should be used in certain large contracts, according to G. H. G. Williamson, of London, England and San Francisco, Cal., who was in Montreal today.

"This was about a year or so ago," he said, "and while the situation has remedied itself to a large extent now, yet at the time it was a serious reflection upon the Canadian lumber exporters.

"They had been assured contracts through the hard work of the Canadian trade commissioners in England, where both the government and various port authorities tried to throw business their way by specifying that Canadian lumber should be used. Promptly British Columbia spruce rose in price one and even three dollars a thousand feet over the price of Puget sound spruce which is exactly the same.

Mr. Williamson represents a British export and import house in San Francisco, and much of his business has been in the disposal of Canadian lumber, salmon and grain in various markets of the world, though chiefly that of the home country.

VANCOUVER, June 18—The suggestion made in Montreal today by G. H. G. Williamson, of London, England, that British Columbia lumber exporters, had raised their prices a year ago, or at any time, to take advantage of a preference for their product in the United Kingdom, was declared unjustified by Lorne H. Brown, recently appointed lumber commissioner for British Columbia to London.

"The fact that Mr. Williamson mentions spruce indicates that he is hardly talking by the book, because to my knowledge spruce has never been specified for any government or municipal contract in Great Britain," Mr. Brown said.

British Columbia fir often commands a better price because of its recognized quality, Mr. Brown stated, but there had been no attempt to force prices.

MONTREAL CURB PRICES LOWER

MONTREAL, June 18. — Trading dropped again on the Montreal curb market during today's session, and prices moved irregularly lower within a very narrow range. British American Oil lost ⅛ at 9⅞, and Imperial Tobacco and International Petroleum both closed fractionally higher.

Ventures lost 6 cents at 41 cents, a new level for the current year, and Siscoe remained unchanged at 45½ cents.

NEW YORK LIST DROPS DOWNWARD

Many Favorites Lose From One to Two Points; Railroad Stocks Inactive

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Stocks and commodities found the easiest way downward today.

Trading in the share market paralleled the Wednesday turnover until the last hour when activity quickened because professionals that the list was more susceptible to pressure.

Many favorites lost one to two points net, with a few weaker spots evident. Sales of approximately 1,100,000 shares compared with yesterday's total of not more than 900,000.

Railroad stocks were inactive but still heavy, with the exception of St. Louis Southwestern, which rose 3 on the news of Southern Pacific's conditional offer to the minority holders.

The latter road, however, was off 2 points. The cut in Great Northern's dividend from $5 to $4 annual basis brought up the question of Northern Pacific's declaration next week and both issues reacted.

CHEMICALS DROP

The chemical and utility groups dropped rather readily. U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical, Dupont, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, American Telephone, American and Foreign Power and Lambert were unable to show much resistance. Johns-Manville, Case than average losses, while trans-American sagged on the dividend reduction to a 40 cent annual basis for $1. Westinghouse uncovered a new low but rallied. U. S. Steel Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, Paramount Loew's Radio and General Motors were off in the neighborhood of a point. American Can closed under 100, off 2½.

Moderate activity and irregular price movements characterized the bond market.

Foreign obligations provided more activity than most other groups but the trend of the more representative was mixed.

FALL WHEAT SHOWING ON KOOTENAY FLATS WONDERFUL; ONION CROP IS DOING WELL; WATER PEAK IS OVER

CRESTON, B. C., June 18—The group of farmers from south of the line, who are operating the dyked lands of the reclamation farm on Kootenay flats, are breathing easier with the passing of the high water stage of Kootenay river, which now appears to be permanently on the fall.

According to the official readings on the Idaho side this year's rise in the river was only 17 feet, as compared with 22 feet a year ago, the peak rise coming almost a month earlier than in 1930.

Last year's rise was responsible for a break in the dyke that resulted in the flooding of about 2000 acres of grain at the south end of the big farm.

All this is in crop this year, and the total acreage planted in 1931 is close to 4800 acres, all of which is looking well, especially a tract of some 200 acres which was sown to fall wheat last October, which is showing a magnificent growth.

On the Charles Kirk holdings a trio of Germans from the Camp Lister area are trying out these bottom lands in vegetables, specializing in onions, which are reported as doing well. A considerable lot of fodder corn has also been planted. The crops on the farm are encountering about the driest season ever known as the rainfall for the past six weeks has not been more than half an inch to date.

Up to the present there is no definite announcement as to where the crop will be loaded.

VANCOUVER LIST CHURNS WITHIN A NARROW RANGE

Trading Brisk During Morning Session; Royalite, Big Missouri Prominent

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 18.—Stocks generally churned within narrow limits on the Vancouver exchange, today, and in the closing analysis prices in the majority of issues were unchanged. Pioneer Gold continued to feature the activity and it was joined by Royalite, which attracted comparatively heavy buying.

Trading was quite brisk during the morning session and gave every indication of a lively market, however, in the late dealings interest lagged and sales tapered to near the stagnation point. Sales increased to 14,640 shares as compared with the previous day's volume of 8266 shares.

Royalite, Big Missouri and C.P.R. were prominent in the early activity. Royalite opened at 7.50 and after receding 10 points at midsession rallied to the initial price to close at that quotation. Big Missouri gradually firmed up from 23 cents to 24 cents but sagged to a final closing bid at 21 cents, off 2 cents net. C. P. R. sold steadily at 25.50 during the forenoon and dipped 50 cents in the trading to end the day at 24.75 bid, down 75 cents below Wednesday's close.

Trading was dull on the mines board. Pioneer Gold was traded at 2.30 and closed at 2.28 bid, up 3 cents above the previous day's close. Premier, on one small transaction, sold at 70 cents, and closed down 1 cent net at 67 cents bid.

Mercury in light offerings, sold evenly at 13¼ cents and closed unchanged at that price. Commonwealth lost 1 cent of the previous day's advance, and closed at 16 cents bid, while East Crest rallied from the new low established Wednesday to end the day 2 cents higher at 18 cents.

RAIN BIG HELP TO GRAIN CROPS OF THE OKANAGAN; CHERRIES SPLITTING

Vegetable Crops Are Doing Well; Apple Crop Likely to Be Smaller

VERNON, B. C., June 18.—Nearly an inch of rain has fallen during the past few days in the Vernon district. According to reports Kelowna and down the lake points, also enjoyed some precipitation. The rain will benefit grain crops. The wheat is filling and lengthening in a very satisfacorty fashion. A number of alfalfa fields have been cut and in the stock for some time but has not been sufficiently dry to stack.

Vegetable crops are doing well. Welcome as have been the rains in Vernon the cherry growers down the valley are not well pleased. At Kelowna where the precipitation was less than here and at points still farther south it is said that the cherries are splitting from the rain and added moisture, and estimates of damage vary from 20 to 40 per cent, Summerland and Penticton are both said to be reporting damage.

Tartarians are moving at 45c to $1.75 price which is also set on Royal Annes. The new Bings that are moving are not numerous enough to call for price stabilization.

APPLE CROP SMALL

From many sources it is reported that the apple crop is not likely to reach the size first predicted.

Vernon is the only tomato growing district which is showing increased acreage.

As canners are holding big stocks put up last year the price is likely to be low. Regarding onions the situation is not the most satisfactory.

The New Zealand outlet may be plugged. It is the belief in informed quarters that acreage planted was about 10 per cent in excess of one year ago but that the ravages of insects have so reduced the yield that it will not be within 10 per cent of last year.

Potatoes are making a good showing and the recent moisture will give them a growth which should carry many fields along towards fair maturity.

WINNIPEG WHEAT LOSES STRENGTH

Meagre Export Demand and Weakness in Chicago Kills Bullishness

WINNIPEG, June 18.—Meagre export demand and weakness in Chicago overshadowed bullish weather reports from the west today, to drop values in the wheat pit here today 1¼ cents to 1½ cents below yesterday's close.

July finished at 59¾; October at 61 to 61⅛, and December at 62⅛.

The market held fairly steady for the first hour, but weakened on a decline in the southern market. Local trade lacked confidence.

Cash and coarse grain trading was a dull affair, and entirely without feature.

WOODS THINKS CANADA NEAR A NEW PROSPERITY

Courage, Energy and Integrity Will Be Means of Realizing Greatness

VANCOUVER, June 18—Canada at the dawn of a new era of greatness among the greatest commercial nations of the world is the vision outlined by J. H. Woods of Calgary, president of the Canadian chamber of commerce, who was a guest at luncheon of the council of the Vancouver board of trade today.

Through courage, energy and integrity is this vision to be realized he said. Even as the forewards of depression were in evidence, though ignored before the present crisis so are the signs of a greater prosperity to be seen at present, he added.

"The greatest asset this country possesses is the ten millions of sturdy souls by whom it is inhabited," said Mr. Woods, "and in the quality of these souls rests the future of the land. Therefore, it is for you and me, as individuals, to see not only that we live lives of commercial and financial honesty and honor, but that we may attain in the highest measure the principles of courage and hardihood and cheerfulness by which our forefathers laid the foundations of our state."

Sixteen families have moved into Stratford since the first of March, evidence that there is considerable sanity left in the world.—Stratford Beacon Herald.

WOULD INCREASE BORROWING POWER TOWARD THE DOLE

LONDON, June 18 (AP)— The minister of labor today issued a memorandum on a finance resolution which proposes to authorize the introduction of a bill to increase to £115,000,000 the borrowing powers of the unemployment insurance fund during the deficiency period.

The amount at present authorized is £90,000,000 and inasmuch as the weekly expenditures exceed the income by over a million pounds, the borrowing powers will be exhausted early in July. There is also a semi-annual payment of interest due in September amounting to £2,000,000.

The resolution also proposes to authorize the extension by a further six months transitional period during which benefits may be paid under certain conditions which will bring the cost of the transitional benefit during the present financial year to £35,000,000.

CHICAGO WHEAT PRICES LOWER

Big Rainfalls in Canada Farm Board Announcement Tumble Prices

CHICAGO, Ill., June 18. (By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Big rainfalls in Canada and federal farm board refusal to pledge the withholding of surplus stocks of old wheat from the market tumbled grains down hard today. July and September wheat dropped beyond the season's previous bottom prices, and to the lowest level in 35 years.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¾ to 1¾ cents lower; corn unchanged to 1⅝ down; oats ⅛ to ⅜ off, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents up.

SWEEPSTAKES BILL HOISTED

OTTAWA, June 18 (CP)—The Hospital sweepstakes bill was killed for this session in the senate today when an amendment giving the bill a six months hoist was carried by a vote of 34 to 22. The vote cut party lines, both house leaders voting for the amendment.

The bill, which was introduced in the senate by Senator Barnard of Victoria, British Columbia, would have made it legal for hospitals to conduct sweepstakes with the consent of the attorney-general of any province.

SUGAR PRICES IN SLIGHT ADVANCE

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—An advance in the price of refined sugar to 4.55 cents a pound, from 4.45 cents, was announced today by several refineries. The advance is effective tomorrow.

FRESH VEAL IS CHEAPER ON THE WHOLESALE MART

Fresh Veal Drops Cent; Market Generally Is Steady, Sales Firm

During the past week fresh veal dropped one cent per pound on the wholesale meat market.

Canned peas and tomatoes are moving briskly, and fruit jars and accessories are also advancing rapidly. Sales seem to be holding up well, though the new sales tax of 4 per cent is effective immediately.

During the first part of the week the wholesale grocers received a car of sugar, a car of milk, a car of timothy and a car of corn.

Sugar prices remain unchanged.

CRESTON STRAWS GO TO WINNIPEG

Sell at Firm Price of $3.25; Raspberries Bring High Price

VICTORIA, B. C., June 18.—No change in weather conditions. It cleared long enough Monday to allow picking for the local market and jam contracts, but is raining heavily again. Haney shipped a car of berries to the prairies.

Wire received from markets representative, from Calgary: "Cars rolling today, Creston, one. Island and L. C. L.'s. Berries now arriving all showing snowballs. Effort to raise price met with off-condition berries. Winnipeg gets first Creston car. Shippers would be ahead not to ship for two days after rain. Four hundred L. C. L.'s here this morning all showing snowballs but not leaking. Cherries arriving from Oliver of Royal Ann and Tartarian varieties. Weather warm. General belief that pasture and crop failure in Saskatchewan this year," says the market news letter, department of agriculture, Victoria.

Vancouver—Weather continues dull and wet in Vancouver and the lower mainland. Today's wholesale price on strawberries ranges between $1 and $1.75 per crate. Much of the fruit is soft from the recent rains and has to be sacrificed at whatever price can be obtained. The demand is lighter due to the wet weather. An odd crate or so of local raspberries has arrived during the past week. About $3.50 has been the price to the retailer. Early cherries continue to arrive on the market from valley points. There is a wide range in price of these, but the average runs about 10 cents per pound, most of which are of the Royal Ann variety. Hothouse tomatoes are selling from $2.90 to $3 per crate, wholesale, as against $3.75 a few days ago. The present dull weather is not conducive to heavy sales, and the supply from the greenhouses is increasing. Local new potatoes now have the market at about 3 cents per pound for large-sized tubers. Such stock is retailing at 7 pounds for 25 cents.

Winnipeg—By noon Saturday the jobbers here were entirely cleaned up on B. C. strawberries and yesterday morning a fresh car was received, and sold at a firm price of $3.25. The first car of Puyallup raspberries also arrived yesterday, and is selling at $5 wholesale. Also the first car of Oregon Bing and Lambert cherries in standard 15-pound boxes, and selling wholesale at $5. Both raspberries and cherries are in fine condition. Two cars of California peaches and one of plums were included in the car receipts during the week-end.

140 MILLIONS OF BUSHELS WHEAT IN CANADA YET

TORONTO, June 18—In a special despatch from its Ottawa correspondent the Globe today says:

"It is officially estimated there are 140,000,000 bushels of wheat in Canada at the present time and that, roughly half of this is in private hands. The last of the 1929 crop will be sold by the end of June. Premier Bennett had made certain guarantees with respect to the 1930 crop, and was not prepared to wait until the 1929 crop has been entirely sold before he would know what obligations he might be expected to assume as to the federal guarantees on the 1930 crops."

HOTEL SYSTEM OF THE C. N. R. IS INVESTIGATED

Manion Criticises Extra Cost of Building New Hotel at Vancouver

OTTAWA, June 18 (CP)—Investigation of the Canadian National railway hotel system to determine the efficiency of its management, is being made at the present time, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the National road today told the special parliamentary committee inquiring into the financial structure of the government enterprise. The report was expected to be received within a day or two.

This announcement was one of the features of two long meetings of the committee today. When Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals, said he believed the Canadian National "would be better off today if no hotels had been built," he received the verbal endorsation of the committee. A chorus of "we all agree" came from the private members of the committee.

Hon. R. J. Manion explained that in 1926 the Meighen "shadow government" passed an order-in-council calling for the erection of a $3,500,000 hotel. "Between then and now," he added, "the cost went up to $9,000,000 and that was what I meant by unnecessary capital expenditures."

WILL COST MORE

So far the Vancouver hotel had cost $2,900,000 and it was estimated an additional $5,900,000 would be needed to complete it, said Sir Henry. The railway officers believed that in a city the size and importance of Vancouver it would be unwise to erect a hotel that might become second class within a few years. Extra rooms were added, making it comparable with the hotel operated by the Canadian Pacific. Mr. Euler did not believe it would be possible to erect a first class hotel in the Pacific city at a cost of $3,500,000.

Replying to Mr. Hanbury, Sir Henry Thornton said the Canadian National assumed "full responsibility" for the increase in the two prices, the one set by the Meighen government and the other by the King administration. When the railway decided to increase the capacity and otherwise build a more costly hotel, "things were booming and times were good."

"If I had known then that we would have such times as we now are experiencing, certainly that decision would not have been made," added Sir Henry.

WANDERING CATTLE CAUSE OF TROUBLE AT CAMP LISTER

CRESTON, B. C., June 18—Camp Lister farmers are having additional grief, provided by the range cattle from the flats at Creston which have had to be herded off the flats on account of high water and have been taken out into the logged off lands in the Camp Lister country.

In their wanderings the bovines, early in the month, invaded the watershed of the Lister water works district and in milling about in the stretch of stream between the creek outlet and the water works system intake they so seriously diverted the stream flow that a decided water shortage was precitated.

To remedy matters and to prevent a repetition, the water works district trustees were able to enlist the help of a corps of volunteer workers and a fence has been erected to keep out the roaming stock, and it is likely steps will be taken to prevent the herding of this stock in that locality in future seasons. The cut of the first alfalfa crop is under way at Camp Lister and yields somewhat lighter than in other years.

LIVESTOCK GOES FROM BRITAIN TO SOVIET RUSSIA

LONDON, June 18.—(By George Hambleton, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Soviet Russia has purchased 430 head of pedigreed shorthorn and Hereford cattle from British herds. All the shorthorns, about 230 head, were supplied from Scotland. The shipment is described as the largest single consignment of purebred stock ever sent from this country, and owing to the depression of the market the Russians are said to have secured many of the Scottish shorthorns on bargain terms. The Soviet will of course use the stock for breeding purposes.

U. S. NOT WILLING TO GIVE UP RADIO CHANNELS, CANADA

Canadian Official Gets Little Satisfaction From Washington Office

WASHINGTON, June 18 (By Ken Clark, Canadian Press staff correspondent)—Canadian hopes for an increased share of broadcasting wavelengths received little encouragement from officials and broadcasters in Washington, Graham Spry of Ottawa, chairman of the Canadian Radio league, said in an interview with the Canadian Press today.

Mr. Spry is spending a month's holiday studying the United States radio situation and has been a week in Washington interviewing officials of the federal radio commission, Boadcasters and National Radio associations.

"The tremendous demand for licenses made upon the federal radio commission and the American charge that Canadian stations, except in Toronto and Montreal, do not and cannot afford to use fully the channels allotted to them are two claims made in reply to the Canadian expectation of more wavelengths," Mr. Spry said.

Canada has six exclusive and 11 shared channels of the 96 in the broadcasting band, under a gentleman's agreement" made between the two countries in 1927.

SUGGESTS C. N. R. EMPLOYEES TAKE OUT CITIZENSHIP

Sir Henry Thornton Warns Against Being too Forward With Suggestions

OTTAWA, June 18 (CP)—"Suggestions" might be made to all employees of the Canadian National railway who did not hold Canadian citizenship that they become naturalized. This was advanced by Hon. W. D. Euler, former minister of national revenue today, before the special parliamentary committee investigating Canadian National finances.

Sir Henry Thornton, president of the government road, agreed with the suggestion. At the same time, prospective employees of the road might be queried on their citizenship. In eastern Canada there were comparatively few employees of the system holding United States citizenship although in western Canada a "considerable number" did.

He had no objection to securing proof of citizenship both from employees and prospective employees "as far as it is practical". There might be complications, however, concerning Canadians working on United States divisions of the railway system. "You might excite reprisals," warned Sir Henry. Canadians working in United States might receive "suggestions" to take out citizenship papers in that country.

HISTORIC DAY FOR DOMESTIC WATER, VERNON

VERNON, B. C., June 18—Yesterday was a historic day in the history of the domestic water supply for Vernon. On that day the 503-foot pipe, the intake, was laid in Kalamalka lake.

RAINS RAISE THE OKANAGAN LAKES

VERNON, B. C., June 18—Reports from the Aberdeen watershed are that there was about an inch and a half of rainfall in the past few days. Some of the creeks have started to run and the rain fell again last night. The water is being held in Aberdeen lake while there is about eight feet in Haddo lake. There is about nine feet in Aberdeen lake.

Because the effect of a rainfall in the watershed is not discernible until about 24 hours has elapsed, it is not possible to estimate the benefit which the irrigation systems will derive from the good rains which have fallen.

GENERAL MOTORS PLACES LARGEST ORDER FOR GLASS

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—The Libbey-Owen-Ford Glass company has reached an agreement with General Motors corporation and subsidiaries to supply them with practically their entire requirements of glass for a period of seven years.

It is estimated that the minimum requirements of General Motors under this contract will exceed $50,000,000 believed to be the largest order ever placed in the history of the glass industry.
