British Flyer Starts on Atlantic Hop

TINY MOTH PLANE WITH LONE PILOT ABOARD STARTS OUT FOR IRELAND WITOUT ANY NOTICE

What at First Was Believed Five-Hour Test Flight Turns Out to Be Real Attempt to Span the Atlantic; Macdonald Confident of Success

PLANE IS SAME TYPE USED IN FOREST SERVICE STATIONED AT NELSON; HAS SMALL AMOUNT GAS

Only Sufficient Gas Carried to Do 35 Hours' Flight; Unreported After Seven Hours in Air; Will Attempt to Fly Over Ireland

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., Oct. 17.—At 8:30 tonight (7 p. m., E.S.T.) Commander H. C. Macdonald in his Gypsy moth plane had been gone more than seven hours and it became apparent that the young British flier was making an attempt to fly across the Atlantic.

When Macdonald took off from the airport here today in his midget plane, some of his friends said that he planned a five-hour test flight only, despite the fact that the plane carried enough fuel for 20 hours' flying.

Macdonald's mechanic tonight had flares ready in the event the moth was forced to return to land. It was raining heavily and the flying field was in poor condition for landing.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Oct. 17.—A daring young Briton, Flight Commander H. C. Macdonald, retired, took off from Harbor Grace early this ofternoon, ostensibly to attempt a non-stop solo flight across the Atlantic.

When the 28-year-old former naval officer stepped into his tiny Gypsy moth De Haviland some of his friends said his hop was to be only a five-hour duration test, but in the plane's tanks was a full load of fuel and complete equipment for an ocean hop. It was assumed that England was his goal.

The take-off was at 1:21 p.m. (11:51 eastern standard time). The plane rose easily from the field, circled a few moments and then turned eastward.

WEATHER IS BETTER

Macdonald had been in Newfoundland since September 26 testing his ship and awaiting favorable conditions for a flight to Britain, but the weather had been bad. Today, however, the meteorological reports showed no serious storm areas over the ocean and indicated that a plane would be favored by following winds that might reach a velocity of 20 miles an hour, a distinct aid to so tiny a traveler as the Gypsy moth.

Reports from Harbor Grace were fragmentary during the afternoon, suggesting that Macdonald's take-off was the result of a sudden decision.

His Gypsy moth De Haviland established a name for itself before Macdonald brought it to Newfoundland on a steamer last month. It was in this craft, known as an aerial sports car, that W. L. Hope won the last King's cup race around England. Captain G. De Haviland used it in making an altitude record for two-seaters. Its power plant is a four-cylinder air-cooled motor of from 80 to 100 horsepower, but the engine has enough stamina to run for 24 hours and more.

SMALL PLANE

The plane's wing spread is only 26 feet. Extra fuel tanks, installed during preparations for the transatlantic flight, give it a range of about 3600 miles, or 35 hours. No wireless is carried and the ship,

Young Men Cause Stir in Boston With Banner; Identities Are Unknown

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Bearing banners inscribed "Down with Hoover, down with Smith, down with Yale, King George for president! ! !", a group of young men said to be not university students, paraded Harvard square Tuesday evening.

Tuesday's "Crimson", the undergraduate daily, had carred a platform of "the King George for president club." The membership of the club was not identified, but the chief plank was "we guarantee amalgamation to the United States and Canada, free spirits for all".

Viscountess Byng Opens Cottages in New Housing Plan

THORPELESCKEN, Essex, Oct. 17.—Viscountess Byng of Vimy, wife of the former governor-general of Canada, inaugurated an interesting experiment in rural housing here today when she opened two four-roomed cottages designed to let at four shillings, six pense weekly (about $1.10). The cottages were built at a cost of only £150 each. Lady Byng unlocked the doors of he cottages with a silver key and threw in a loaf of bread and a piece of coal, thus following the old Essex custom of wishing that those living in the houses would never lack for food or warmth.

HICKMAN NOW IN DEATH CHAMBER

In Solitary Confinement Until Hanging; Refuses Ail Welby Hunt

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Oct. 17.—William Edward Hickman, sentenced to die on the gallows next Friday for the murder of Marian Parker, Los Angeles school girl, was transferred from "condemned row" late today to the death chamber of the prison.

In the death chamber, Hickman must remain in solitude except for visits from close relatives, his lawyer and a prison chaplain. He may read if he wishes, and he will be given what he wants to eot. Outside, a guard will remain on duty until the final death march to the scaffold.

Hickman sat in judgment today on Welby Hunt, the youth with whom he held up a drug store at Rosehill, Cal., on Christmas eve, 1926. During the holdup, C. Ivy Thoms, the druggist, was shot and killed. Hickman maintained it was Hunt who shot Thoms and Hunt insists it was Hickman. Both were sentenced to life in prison for the slaying.

Hunt called on Hickman today to ask him if he could not aid him by admitting that he, Hickman, shot Thoms.

"No, Welby," said Hickman, "I thought then you did it and I still think so. If I can help you without lying, I will. Otherwise I'm afraid I can't do anything for you."

Jerome K. Walsh of Kansas City, Hickman's attorney, said today he still had hope the execution might be stayed by a sanity examination which the warden may legally order held. The warden had indicated he will take no action. The condemned man's father, Thomas Hickman of El Paso, Tex., visited him at the prison today.

PRESBYTERIANS URGED BACK DRY PARTY.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 17.—The New York synod of the Presbyterian church today adopted a resolution calling on its ministers and members "to exercise their franchise and cast their votes for all candidates sympathetic with the prohibition question."

SUSSAN, OTTAWA FLYER, PLANNING ATLANTIC SOLO

Expects to Fly From Paris to New York Next Year; Has Been South

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—Having escaped an attempt upon his life in Colombo, South America, and come safely through a train wreck in the Balkans, Major Walter J. Sussan, famous Ottawa aviator, who became internationally known through his exploits as leader of Lafayette Escadrille of Flyers in the French campaign against the Riffs of Morocco a few years ago, is back home after two years of globe trotting, with stories of exciting adventures and plans for another transatlantic airplane flight.

Major Sussan is planning to fly from Paris to New York in a French airplane and hopes to be the first flyer to cross the ocean alone from east to west, succeeding where numbers of others have failed and where several have lost their lives. The proposed flight will take place next summer.

With the lack of ceremony which has characterized all of his actions, Major Sussan just "dropped in" on Ottawa, having returned to Canada from Hawaii Islands to give his sister in marriage in a ceremony performed in Toronto two days ago.

Pooley Would Take the Administration of Game Laws From the Police

DUNCAN, B.C., Oct. 17.—Speaking at a complimentary dinner to Premier Tolmie and himself, given by the Duncan chamber of commerce this evening, Hon. R. H. Pooley, M.P.P., said he would recommend the administration of the game laws of the province by individuals who were not members of the provincial police and would encourage the rearing of game birds by the establishment of suitable game farms. He proposed the administration by a board of experienced sportsmen.

The attorney-general, in making this statement, was replying to the toast of the province, submitted by H. F. Prevost.

Responding to the toast of the premier, Premier Tolmie discussed the immigration proposals, especially the conference with Lord Lovat, and expressed the hope of presenting an immigration policy which would meet with general acceptance.

The matter was taken into consideration by the premier, and the representations of the delegation will be investigated.

NELSON BOARD OF TRADE GOES ON ROAD TRIP

Party of 70 in Autos Visit West Kootenay and Trail Plants

NEW POWER PLANT VIEWED; HAVE LUNCH

Inspect Consolidated Smelter at Trail; Guests Trail Board at Banquet

Outranking all previous excursions organized by the Nelson board of trade in recent years, yesterday's motor caravan visit to South Slocan, Tadanac and Trail was the largest, the busiest and most informing that the business community of Nelson has ever enjoyed. Estimates that there might be 50 excursionists were completely overshadowed as 70 Nelsonites, or visitors with them, made the trip.

At South Slocan the party was entertained at luncheon by the West Kootenay Power & Light company, after enjoying a sight of the newly erected No. 3 power plant, shortly to be "brought in". At Tadanac the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada acted as hosts in showing the visitors as many of the wonders of the great reduction works as could be glimpsed in a couple of hours. In the evening Trail board of trade and citizens, in association with Tadanac residents, entertained at a banquet both the Nelson visitors and also the Rossland board of trade. To cap all, the weather man provided a perfect day, with splendid motoring and sight seeing conditions, under which everything was seen to the greatest advantage, and enjoyably.

BENNETT, LOUCKS ARE BOTH GUILTY OF BANK THEFTS

Man Arrested in Nelson Gets Three Years and 10 Months; Loucks' Sentence Thursday

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—William Loucks, charged with the theft of $37,000 from the Standard Bank in collusion with Gerald W. D. Bennett, was found guilty by a jury in supreme court of Ontario today. Sentence was deferred until Thursday by Mr. Justice Rose.

A few hours previously, Bennett was sentenced to serve three years and 10 mnths in Portsmouth penitentiary. The fact that Bennett had already spent two months in jail was taken into consideration.

Bennett, a former teller in the bank here, confessed to first stealing $1000 of the bank's money to enter into a stock deal which he said, Loucks promised would return large dividends. The youthful teller had hoped to return the money but when the stock deal failed, he stole a large sum and fled to western Canada with Loucks. The two were apprehended after a police search of some months.

British Flyer Is Popular in Great Britain

Sporting Chance Is Acclaimed In London; Excellent Record

LONDON, Oct. 17.—London was thrilled today to the news that Commander H. C. Macdonald had hopped from Newfoundland on a transatlantic flight in a tiny moth airplane. Because of the size of this machine and his own limited flying experience the attempt was hailed as probably the most intrepid air exploit ever undertaken.

It is pointed out that while the moth machine was supposed to have a fuel capacity sufficient for 35 hours flight, it was a question whether this gave enough margin for safety. The experts figured that Macdonald would run a big risk of finding himself without fuel if he met unexpected headwinds or other delays, on his route to Ireland.

Macdonald is expected to take much the same course as did Alcock and Brown on their flight from Newfoundland in 1919. They came down at Clifden, Ireland. Macdonald it is thought, would land somewhere on the Galway coast.

Commander Macdonald won the D.S.C., while he was in the navy. His last duty was as a lieutenant of the destroyer Wernyck in August, 1925. In the following May he was automatically promoted on the retired list to lieutenant-commander.

Besides his navy record he bears a reputation as a rugby football player. In personality he is quiet and unassuming, but he has a charm that has caused his to be held in high esteem by a large circle of acquaintances.

Mrs. Macdonald received her first news of her husband's takeoff when a radio broadcast brought the announcement to her home in west London. She had known of his intention to make the flight if conditions seemed favorable, for some time.

The anxious wife expressed full confidence in the success of the attempt.

Will Assign Spokane Millionaire's Property Until Debts Paid Up

SPOKANE, Oct. 17.—Assignment of all property of Fred Herrick, millionaire lumberman, until their claims for about $2,000,000 are liquidated, was recommended here today by a committee of liquidation of the creditors.

It was suggested by the group that an assignment of Herrick's properties, believed to approximate $9,000,000 be made to the Spokane Merchants' association as nominal assignees, although less than 10 per cent of the debts are owed to Spokane firms. The principal amounts are due to banks in Portland, Seattle and Chicago.

Herrick's properties include the St. Mary's Lumber mills at St. Mary's Ida.; mills at Couer d'Alene; Export Lumber company at Harrison, Ida.; Milwaukee Lumber company at St. Mary's and the Scotch Lumber company of Alabama.

PLEADS GUILTY

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—J. Antonio Korvaet, self-styled broker, whose customers were almost exclusively country folk, pleaded guilty today to converting to his own use $75,000 in cash, stocks and bonds entrusted to him by about 60 men and women. Sentence was set for October 31.

Macdonald Depending More Upon His Navigation Experience Than Flying Hours to Get Him Across

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—Navigation rather than piloting will be the chief element in the flight of Commander H. C. Macdonald from Newfoundland to England, declared R. A. Loader, general manager in Canada for the De Haviland company, in one of whose moth planes the intrepid ex-naval officer is now winging his way across the Atlantic. Mr. Loader arrived here tonight and in the course of conversation regarding the solo flyer disclosed that it was he who had given Commander Macdonald his introduction to aviation.

During the war, and since, the now retired naval officer commanded submarines and other small craft of the royal navy and this was regarded by Mr. Loader as his chief recommendation for the transatlantic flight, since Commander Macdonald was an experienced navigator. It was only in January of this year that he had been attracted to flying, and once in the air he developed for aviation an extraordinary enthusiasm.

No man, he said, had ever attempted the transatlantic journey with less power than Commander Macdonald. The fact that the lone flyer had had only 80 hours flying time to his credit did not strike Mr. Loader as an important factor in Macdonald's case, for Macdonald had even in that short time developed into an acomplished pilot.

TINY MOTH NOW SOARING ACROSS ATLANTIC OCEAN

because of her small size, wears no floats to permit landing on water.

Macdonald has said that he planned to head straight for Ireland. If the plane was running smoothly when he reached that island he intended to continue to England.

Only a few persons witnessed the take-off, for the bad weather of the last two weeks led to the belief that Macdonald had abandoned his project. Last night, however, the young aviator received weather reports indicating conditions over the Atlantic and decided to make the attempt today.

FUELLED IN MORNING

Early in the morning he started making a final examination of the plane and with his mechanic began the tedious task of fuelling it. This was completed at 1:15 p.m., and Macdonald immediately climbed into the plane. The mechanic stood by ready to spin the propellor and a moment later Macdonald gave the signal.

The plane taxied down the field for a distance of 300 feet and then gracefully left the ground and rose to an altitude of 500 feet. He circled the airport once and then turned eastward on his journey.

Macdonald carried 100 gallons of gasoline which he estimated will carry him to his destination. Before starting he said he hoped to reach London and that he hopes to land early tomorrow morning. He took with him a quart of coffee in a thermos bottle and two dozen sandwiches.

The Gypsy moth airplane used by Captain Macdonald in his Atlantic attempt is a similar machine to that used here by Captain "Ted" Dobbin in the forest service here. Only difference is the engine. The power is about the same and other measurment such as wing span, etc., are identical. It is the smallest craft with the least power to ever attempt such a difficult feat.

JARVIS, TORONTO FINANCIER, WANTS CLEAR HIS NAME

Asks New Trial After Serving Term and Paying Heavy Fine Conspiracy Charge

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—A special despatch from Ottawa to the Evening Telegram today says:

"Aemelius Jarvis, Toronto financier, although free from prison and long since back at his affairs, is seeking a new trial, to the end that his personal escutcheon may be clean. The minister of justice has a petition about it under consideration. Power is vested in the minister to order a new trial, but the precedent for it being used number but one or two, and that was a long time ago. The position which has always been, is that the courts have the right to order new trials and that there is no need of the minister of justice exercising that authority.

PECULIAR CASE

"The Jarvis case, however, is peculiar. His case is all over, and the courts can not open it. He was accused, tried, convicted and served a term of imprisonment. Besides, he was fined $200,000. It was for alleged conspiracy with Andrew Peppal and Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer of Ontario, over certain bonds which Peppall bought from Jarvis and which were alleged to have been given to Smith. When it came Peppall's turn to be tried, the bonds were accounted for as not having been used for any improper purpose at all.

"Not long after this Mr. Jarvis was released and it is submitted that the verdict in the Peppall case knocked the entire ground from under the previous case against Jarvis. Now, mainly to clear his name, the return of the heavy fine he paid and the removal of his fingerprints from the records of criminal justice, many have signed a petition with these requests."

NO DECISION

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting prime minister and minister of justice, has before him the petition for a new trial for Aemelius Jarvis of Toronto, who was convicted on a charge of Conspiracy some years ago. No decision has yet been made as to the question of a new trial.

Both Parties Are Angling in Solid South

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Republicans and Democrats alike are moving up their big guns. Both sides look forward to some better fighting before the polls are finally closed November 6.

Hard on the heels of Governor Smith the Democratic candidate for the presidency, Senator Borah is stumping the "solid south", endeavoring to wean it from its Old Democratic allegiances. To the voters of the south, he is presenting Herbert Hoover, Republican candidate, as the exponent of a "dry America."

Democrats obviously are preparing to launch a barrage against Republican claims of Coolidge economy and Coolidge efficiency. The speech which Governor Smith made at Sedalia, Mo., last night, struck the note, with the popular touch of which he is a master. Governor Smith scoffed and ridiculed until the roars of laughter came echoing back over the radio.

And down in Florida, Josephus Daniels, secretary for the navy, under Woodrow Wilson, says: "Hoover's election would mean a continuation of the Coolidge policies of privilige with its twin brother, corruption."

"The Lord knows," Mr Daniels said, "this country has had enough of the dull and dreary Coolidge policies, without heart or smile."

TROJANSTAR LIMPS INTO VANCOUVER

Brings Seven Badly Burned Men; Demented Man Rushed Into Flames

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 17.—The British freighter Trojanstar arrived in port last night with a harrowing tale of fire off the California coast on the night of October 12, when one fireman, William P. Tennisen, was burned to death and seven other members of the engine room staff were badly scalded when an oil jet in the stokehold burst, sending up a wall of flame.

CRAWLED INTO BILGES

Eight members of the engine room crew were forced to crawl into the bilges underneath the boilers and lay there in water and oil for three hours and a half.

Seemingly an act of providence, the large steam pipe in the stokehold then burst, flooding the stokehold with clouds of steam, extinguishing the fire and permitting rescue of the men from the bilge.

Fireman Tennisen lost his life when he became temporarily deranged by the heat and strain, and rushed back into the stokehold and perished.

The injured members of the crew are now progressing favorably.

Charges of Ku Klux Klan Start Action in Winnipeg; Klan Asks Cooperation

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17.—An investigation of the organizing of a branch of the K. K. K. in Winnipeg and of allegations alleged to have been made by Daniel C. Grant, of Brandon, Man., provincial organizer, may follow a meeting of the knights of the invisible empire, here Tuesday night.

According to a report of the meeting, published by The Manitoba Free Press today, Grant is alleged to have made charges that vice and corruption existed in Winnipeg with the knowledge of Chief Constable Chris H. Newton and Morality Inspector W. Eddie. Grant is alleged to have declared that the klan would "clean up Winnipeg like it did Moose Jaw," and "if the police did not take action the K. K. K. would."

TO INVESTIGATE

Today Chief Newton refused to comment on the alleged statements of Grant but Crown Prosecutor R. B. Graham intimated an investigation would be made of the alleged charges.

Mr. Graham added that he nor any of the other local police authorities had been visited by Grant or any other member of the klan in Winnipeg.

Grant declared in an interview today the klan was not out to oust any one, but to cooperate. He pointed out the fact that a civic election would be held here soon and said "the klan does not believe in mob law, but in organizing and working through the ballot box on constitutional lines"

Grant, it was learned today, before going to Brandon, was a klan worker in Saskatchewan, and previously, it is reported, in the United States. He claims to have signed up 2000 klan members in Winnipeg during his visit here. He has been in the city only a few weeks.

PROMINENT ARTIST PASSES IN LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Sir Francis Dicksee, president of the Royal academy since 1924 and one of Britain's outstanding artists died today at the age of 75 years. Sir Francis, who was born in London, executed many noted paintings. Poalo and Francisca, Redemption, and Tanhauseur, Funeral of a Viking, and Romeo and Juliet were among his paintings.

Sir Francis aroused great interest by strong criticism of what, he called "worship of ugliness in modern art" on the occasion of opening the art exhibition at Guildford recently. He said: "There is a great deal of false, artificial atmosphere in art which I would like to see blow away."

Twenty Rum Runners Brave Patroled Area in Light Fog Blanket

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 17.—Twenty rum runners, one of the largest contraband fleets ever assembled in the Niagara river, put out late tonight from the Canadian shore, under cover of a light fog. United States coastguards and customs service men, warned of the impending smuggling operations, patrolled the river and the United States shore line in an effort to intercept the rum runners. No report of any captures were made.

Sir Lomer Gouin May Be Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec Province

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—The Citizen today publishes the following: "Although he has not officially accepted, it is expected here that Sir Lomer Gouin will respond to the offer of the lieutenant-governorship of Quebec, when it becomes vacant next January on the expiration of the term of Governor Perodeau. Many months ago, the prime minister wrote a letter to the erstwhile minister of justice, expressing the view that he should round off his career by accepting the lieutenant-governorship of the province."

Painter Had Stomach Trouble Five Years
It's pretty discouraging when a hard-working man has such severe Stomach Trouble as to keep him from work for two weeks at a time. Such was the serious condition of Mr. Herbert Brown, 66 Toronto St., Winnipeg, when he first tried Tanlac. "Whatever I ate," writes Mr. Brown, "did me no good. It soured on my stomach and the gas would get around my heart and cause it to palpitate until I thought it would jump out of my body. I had to give up eating solid food and lived practically on milk. For fully five years this kept up, as I had not been able to get any benefit from the medicine I tried.
"At last I decided to get Tanlac and this put me right on my feet. My stomach is now in splendid condition and I eat like a horse. Everything agrees with me and I have never had a sign of gas or bloating since taking Tanlac."
This is only one of thousands of people who have been helped back to health and strength by taking Tanlac. Let it do the same for you. Get a bottle today at your druggist's. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Fall First Aid Classes at Trail To Start Soon

To Specialize in Teaching Foremen, Bosses and Employees Smelter

TRAIL, B.C., Oct. 17.—Special autumn men's first aid classes for foremen, bosses and staff employees at the Tadanac smelter are being started here in a few days by the St. John Ambulance association. Over 30 men have enrolled and plans are being made to accomodate many more. This class is usually conducted in the spring.

The management is anxious that all foremen hould be holders of first aid certificates as previously this duty in many cases has been left to other men in the department. It was explained that this was the case in many other Canadian firms and companies.

First aid efficiency was becoming a more important factor in promotion and much more attention was being paid to it, it was stated.

A number of dominion and provincial trophies are now held by some of the smelter teams and it is hoped that many more will be added to the list during the coming year.

The ladies' class was started on Monday when some 24 ladies attended.

Far Better Than Reading a Lot of Figures

Yesterday's visit by members of the Nelson board of trade to the big new unit of the West Kootenay Power & Light company at South Slocan and to the Consolidated company's plant at Trail was immensely instructive.

Far too few of us living right in this district, in the midst of one of the greatest mineral fields in the world, realize clearly what an enormous industry the Consolidated Mining & Smelting company has built up.

We read the figures but they convey nothing like the same impression as an actual visit to plants such as those at South Slocan and Trail, the former to supply the power for an extension of the immense operations of the reduction plant.

The C. M. & S. Co. Farm at Warfield

The Consolidated company has many "sidelines", but none is more interesting than the company farm at Warfield.

Championship after championship has been carried off by the prize herd of cattle, a herd raised in a district which is not usually regarded as a cattle country.

Of course, the farm serves a very practical purpose, too, apart from raising the standard of cattle in the district. It provides the greater part of the milk supply for the city of Trail, where on account of circumstances, a plentiful supply of milk for both children and adults is a particularly vital necessity.

Larger Tobacco Acreage in Canada; Better Methods Now Being Adopted

One of the most satisfactory developments in Canada's agriculture is the greater stability in her recent farming venture —the growing of tobacco. The subject is of interest not only to Canada but to the United States, because of the fact that Canadian tobacco competes with American, and it is of moment to Great Britain because of the increasing importance of Canada and other countries within the Empire as sources of leaf tobacco.

In the two previous years the opportunity of selling Empire-grown tobacco in Great Britain under a preferential tariff led to unrestrained enthusiasm in Canada, when it was demonstrated that the soil and climate of several districts mainly in southwestern Ontario, were suitable for the production of this commodity. There was, however, much ill-advised and unremunerative effort, and as a result it was finally brought home to many individual growers that a considerable part of their crops was not readily saleable, either in Canada or Great Britain, because of their poor quality, or because they included types for which there was but little demand. Furthermore, it was apparently overlooked at first that the British preferential tariff extended to all the countries of the Empire, and that it afforded advantages at least equal to those enjoyed by Canada to two colonies, Rhodesia and Nyasaland, where great areas of suitable land were available in climates particularly favorable for the growth of the tobacco plant. Both countries produced tobacco almost entirely for export and it came into competition with that exported by Canada. For a time manufacturers in the United Kingdom were able to use practically all the colonial tobacco which was offered, but a year ago it was found that any further increase must be the result of an educational campaign to induce the smoking public to accept mixtures with a slightly different aroma to that to which they had long been accustomed, for tobacco grown throughout the Empire, even under the most favorable conditions, has not quite the same flavor as the American product.

According to special reports made to the Canadian Bank of Commerce, the acreage planted in Canada this year was somewhat larger than in 1927 and generally the tobacco recently harvested shows a high yield per acre and good quality, though heavy rains in August flooded some fields and a heavy frost late in September damaged part of the crop in one district. An improvement in the methods of cultivating and curing is noticeable, indicating that proper methods have been adopted by many growers. Fortunately there has been a shift to the types required by British and Canadian manufacturers, and therefore, the acreage in burley has been reduced somewhat, while that in dark tobacco (which, if fire-cured, is in demand in Great Britain) has increased as also has that of bright leaf. The latter, used chiefly for cigarettes, can readily be sold in the domestic market, as Canada still needs to import fully twice as much of this type as she grows. There is, however, the prospect that Canada will shortly be less dependent on foreign bright leaf, as there is thought to be suitable for production of this type in Norfolk county, in Ontario, where the total acreage has increased five-fold in the last year, at least double the area now under cultivation.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

Giving Treatment to Every Patient

Is it possible that the more the physician knows the more highly educated he becomes, the less useful he is in treating some ailments?

It is estimated, generally speaking, that about half the patients who go to see a doctor have really nothing the matter with them. That is, nothing of any organic nature.

What happens?

The half that have really nothing the matter with them, after an examination by a well equipped physician, are likely to be told in plain everyday language that they are not in need of a physician's services.

The entire body has been examined, the urine and blood tested and in a logical and business like way, the physician dismisses the patient from his office and from his mind.

What about the patient?

The very fact that he went to see the physician is sufficient evidence that there really is something the matter with him and that he needs treatment of some kind.

Dr. L. B. Wilson says, "I believe that the psysician in his contacts with patients who have lost more or less of their physical and mental stability, is today more lacking than in the past, in a sympathetic appreciation of the intense, though it may be utterly illogical, mental attitude of the patient.

Not finding help for his troubles in treatment rendered by the highly educated and most knowledgeable modern physician, the patient reverts to primitive savage instincts, charms, religious rites and other things, for relief."

Of course this condition of affairs is due to the fact that our physicians are getting medicine to an "exact science," whereas, as Dr. R. F. McGill says, the family physician of former times, in addition to being a surgeon, eye, ear, nose and throat man, laboratory man, sometimes dentist, was, as well, spiritual, political and financial adviser.

What is the thought?

That when you consult a physician don..t hesitate to tell him everything. Tell him about your aches and pains, of course, but also let him know anything and everything about your troubles of mind and spirit. This will enable him to help you himself, or send to the right source for help.

A reader friend has written me to ask what she shall do with a white marble mantle in an old fashioned bedroom. She feels that the white has a chilling appearance and wishes to know if it could be successfully painted. Yes, many women have painted the marble around their grate fires to match the woodwork of the room—indeed, in a bedroom it could be painted any desired color.

So often the open fireplace either makes or mars a room by its treatment Without realizing it, our eyes fly first to the fireplace when we enter a room containing one. Subconsciously we find ourselves judging as to the appropriatness of its fittings. Are the andirons too massive for the room? Is the hearth broom ugly? Is the wood basket unsightly?

I know of a young couple, who, upon furnishing their home, had ample means to go out and order in a complete set of hearth furnishings, yet who were wise enough to use a loaned pair of andirons for a while until they "studied their fireplace". They did not want to make any mistakes. But as they observed the fireplaces in the homes of their friends and kept an eye on what the stores had to offer, they gradually decided upon a choice for themselves It was interesting to watch them collecting these hearth furnishings, piece by piece. Instead of buying the conventional hearth brush with colored bristles, they searched about until in a gift shop showing oriental wares, they finally found a small broom of odd shape, with unusual bristles. Instead of getting the usual type of wood basket, they found, in an antique shop, an old English dairy pail made of brass with a band of copper around the top—and how lovely the dancing flames looked when reflected in its burnished surface!

So, in outfitting our living room fireplace, let us try to be a little original. Or, at least, do not let us rush may someday tire. The hearth is the out and buy things for it of which we favorite gathering place for the family on wintery nights. Surely we would be justified in spending even more money than is absolutely necessary on this one spot in the living room where so many hours are enjoyed.

BREACH CONTRACT ACTION IS AIRED AT ASSIZE COURT

Miller Asks $3347 Plus Damages and Costs for Deficient Engine

FIRM SAYS ENGINE GOOD WHEN SHIPPED

Claim Wrong Fuel Caused Failure Operate; Action Continues Today

Claiming breach of contract, Thomas Millar and others sued the Weir Machinery company of Vancouver in assize court here yesterday for $3347.30 plus unstated damages and the costs of the action. With the last witness to be cross-examined, Mr. Justice W. A Macdonald, presiding, adjourned the action until 10 o'clock this morning, when the cross-examination will be concluded and arguments presented by counsel.

C. R. Hamilton, K.C., assisted by C. H. Hamilton, both of Hamilton, Wragge & Hamilton, is acting for the plaintiff. Archie Donaghy, as agent for D. E. McTaggart of Vancouver is conducting the defence.

Seven witnesses were heard yesterday.

DISPUTE ENGINE

The plaintiffs set up the claim that the Weir Machinery company committed a breach of contract when it delivered to the plaintiffs a sawmill engine which could not be operated. In defence the machinery company witnesses testified that the engine was in good condition when it was shipped to the plaintiffs, and that use of the wrong fuel prevented the engine from operating.

Thomas Millar, J. A Millar and W. D. Millar, testified that when they received the engine from Vancouver, they were unable to operate it for more than a few minutes at a time. They claimed that one piston did not properly fit the cylinder, and that the fuel they used leaked out. They were to use the engine near Park Siding, to cut ties.

ALLEGE WRONG FUEL

R. W. Hinton and A. H. W Crossley, mechanical engineers, testified that the piston did not fit properly. The cylinder required reboring. This condition could only have been brought about by long use, they stated.

J. B. Weir of Vancouver, managing director of the defendant company, stated the engine was thoroughly tested before it left Vancouver. Overhauling lt cost $112 or $113.

A. B Smith of North Vancouver, who sold the engine to the Weir Machinery company, testified that he used it for two years, cutting ties and boards. His only trouble with it in that time was caused by a broken crankshaft. His opinion was that the slackness of the cylinder was caused by lack of lubrication.

George Biggs, mechanic of the machinery company, described the overhaul of the engine at Vancouver. He declared the engine would have operated efficiently had distillate been used instead of the fuel oil on which the plaintiffs endeavored to operate it. He also stated the loose piston was due to lack of lubrication.

Cranbrook Auto Thieves Sought South Boundary

CRANBROOK, B.C., Oct. 17.—It is now feared that those who stole Walter Robertson's car Saturday evening have made a clean get-away across the line to Port Hill.

The plates from Mr. Robertson's car were found near Kitchener, having evidently been replaced with the licence plates from another car which had been drawn up beside the road at that point.

This was the procedure followed by the thieves who stole Martin brothers' car a week ago, and the descriptions of the men tallied with those of the car thieves of last week.

Three Hundred At Kimberley Moose Concert

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Oct. 17.—Three hundred people attended the Moose concert in the K. P. hall Tuesday evening.

In the whist drive Mrs. A. Livingston won the ladies' first, and Mrs. Bailey, second. The men's first prize was won by Mr. Angel and the second by Roy Bostrum. Mrs. J. Pearson won the ladies' draw and Gordon Armstrong the men's.

The concert part of the program was particularly pleasing. It depicted an old-time minstrel show. Under the leadership of M. J. Evans, the several artists taking part won the approval of the audience with their vocal solo, duets, instrumental numbers and their clever repartee.

A dance concluded an enjoyable evening.

INDIAN TO STAND TRIAL AT FERNIE CATTLE RUSTLING

David Capilo Is Committed; Voluntary Confession Feature of Hearing

FERNIE, B.C., Oct. 17.—David Capilo, an Indian, was yesterday committed by Magistrate Cope to be tried on a charge of cattle stealing. A voluntary confession by the Indian was a feature of the peliminary hearing. Capilo will be tried Wednesday before Judge J. R. Thompson. He is accused of stealing a five months' old calf, the property of Mrs. George Sinclair of Grassmere.

Indian Agent Small of Cranbrook appeared for Capilo, and Sergeant H. Greenwood of the provincial police acted for the crown.

THE CONFESSION

According to the written confession while Capilo filed with the provincial police, he took two calves and killed them near a pond at Edwards lake, concealing the head and entrails in the brush.

Then he sold the carcasses to Burns && Co., of Cranbrook for $55. In order for a butcher shop to accept meat the police require the vendor to file a paper testifying the brand borne by the cattle, or if unbranded, as was the case with these calves, the brand of the dam must be given. Capilo had filled in this information correctly, giving the brand as X on the right thigh, which is Mrs. Sinclair's brand.

The check which Capilo received for the meat was shown in court, indorsed with his signature. Capilo, who is a Windermere Indian, and who was sought in Cranbrook and finally apprehended in Hamilton, Mont., said in his confession that he stole the stock because others were stealing and getting away with it.

Other witnesses examined were Elizabeth Sinclair, Harry Totten, who assisted on the Sinclair ranch; Michel Phillips and Emilo Gravell of Tobacco Plains, who told of finding the head pierced by a bullet at Edwards lake; Fred Herbinson, buyer for Bunns & Co., and W. W. Donohue, provincial constable, who with Dominion Officer Wrightman, apprehended the accused.

Children need
BOVRIL

Children need Bovril to fortify them against cold and illness. Bovril is the best of the beef in its most concentrated and digestible form.

The special body-building powers of Bovril are due, partly to the actual nourishment in Bovril itself, and partly to its unique power of enabling the human system to derive far greater nourishment from the ordinary diet. It assists development and increases stamina. Give the children Bovril every day for a month and note the difference.

The Body-building powers of Bovril have been proved by independent investigation to be from 10 to 20 times the amount taken.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA DARIEN, Ruth Morehouse and Mabel Walker are in love with the same man—

BRUCE BERLON. Bruce weds Mabel, but finds that they have nothing in common because of Mabel's unfairness and terrible temper. He confides to Mona that he loves her. Following several clandestine meetings, Mona and Bruce make up their minds that they will be married just as soon as Bruce can obtain a divorce from Mabel. Just as they are making their plans, Mabel confides to Bruce that she is to become a mother.

Mean time JOSHUA DARIEN, father of Mona, has entered into an affair with—

ROSALIE WATSON, a poor girl. She calls at the house and demands that he give her a position. Mona meets her twice and is warned by her father to keep the girl out of the house.

Mona suddenly decides to go to New York to visit an aunt. She wonders if her father, who has just arrived from a trip will allow her to go. Arrived in New York, Mona gets a business-like letter from Bruce and replies in kind. Mabel dies in child-birth. The baby is a girl. Mona goes home and finds Ruth caring for Bruce's child.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Mona found Johnnie's number on the telephone pad. Too late to call him, but she would do so early in the morning.

Her treatment of Johnnie had been most cavalier and it wasn't fair because she really liked him. Trusted him more than any man she had ever known—except Bruce.

"Don't start thinking about HIM again. Put him absolutely out of your mind."

But how could she when every thought she had led back to him? Even her musings about her other lovers!

Steeped in melancholy, Mona undressed and slipped into bed. Ruth must have told Bruce of her return when he came that afternoon, but he had made no effort to see her.

He would probably go back to Chicago and she would never see him again.

Now, when every obstacle to their love had been removed, Bruce didn't want her.

This was the two-edged sword that tore her heart. He was more faithful to Mabel after death than he had been when she was living.

And in his bitter remorse, Mona must play the role of the "woman who had tempted him."

It was cruel. It was unjust. It was hideously unfair. But his silence forbade argument. And this silence continued during the weeks he remained in Minneapolis.

Ruth reported his plans. Wondering, perhaps, at their avoidance of each other, but too absorbed in little Daphne to be greatly concerned.

"I don't know what I'm going to do without her," she insisted tearfully.

Mona told herself she loved Daphne too, but what chance did she have of showing it? Once had she dared to lift the bady in her arms.

Once when she had been left alone in the room she had pressed the exquisitely fragile bundle to her heart.

Wishing she might run away with her! Ruth looked displeased when she returned.

"Better put her down, Mona. We don't hold her so soon after feedings."

She took her possessively. Rearranged her clothes.

"Auntie Ruth will fix her all nice and comfy."

Mona longed to snatch her back. To cry, "She isn't yours. No more yours than mine."

But she could only fold her empty, aching arms and look on, dumbly.

"Bruce is leaving the first of next week," Ruth volunteered later. "They have been wonderful to him in Chicago. Waited for him to get everything adjusted here. Just think, Mona, it will soon be five months since Mabel died."

Five months! Summer was over. Looking back on it, Mona had no idea how it had passed. Her winter's absence and the breaking up of her immediate "crowd" had considerably lessened her social activities.

Many of her friends had been away. She herself had gone for a stupid, uninteresting month at Bemidji.

Relieved only by a stolen visit from Dan and the faithful attentions of Johnnie, Ruth had not left the city. She had insisted that she would take her vacation after the baby was gone.

In all that time Mona had had no glimpse of Bruce. No message nor any word concerning him except from Ruth.

But today as she was leaving the Morehouse home he arrived earlier than usual.

They met on the steps. Bruce was thinner but the tortured look of which Ruth had spoken was gone from his eyes. And he spoke to her with a gentle, deliberate, friendliness, which roused all the old emotions.

"Where have you been keeping yourself?"

She faltered, "Part of the time I've been away."

The dear remembered, sweetness of his voice! The quizical, understanding, smile! Cold shivers raced up her spine. Didn't he feel it too? Could it be possible she was going through such emotions alone?

Yet neither of them made the slightest effort to prolong the conversation.

Mona drew the keys to her car from the bag on her arm, and hurried down the steps. Bruce pressed the bell and an instant later the door had closed behind him. Separating them definitely!

Mona made for home, leaving the car in the drive. Running into the house to be confronted by the one person she least wished to see.

"Johnnie!"

"You look as if you were seeing a ghost. That's not much of a welcome."

She smiled, nervously, withdrawing her gloves.

"I'm sorry. You see I wasn't expecting anybody."

"It's no hour for a business man to be making a call," admitted Johnnie, importantly. "But I've some news for you, Mona."

"Really? Sit down and I'll ring for tea."

"I haven't time for tea," he replied, a little resentfully. He could see that Mona wasn't taking him seriously. As if anything he could tell her would make any difference in her life! Yet this was his chance and he must take it even at the risk of losing her.

"I'm going away," Johnnie confided, dramatically.

"Going where? Do sit down, darling! You may as well take time enough to tell me about it."

Stiffly rigid in her father's chair he continued, "My father is opening a branch office in Los Angeles. There will be a local manager but he thinks I'd better go along to sort of oversee him."

It was all Mona could do to keep from smiling. As if Johnnie would ever be able to oversee anyone. What his father had probably said was, "Oh, well, Johnnie won't be any more of a nuisance out there."

But he was so ridiculously pleased she had to say, "That's wonderful. When do you leave?"

"The first of September."

Next week! The same time Bruce would be leaving. Soon there would be no one left.

"I'll miss you," said Mona.

"But I want you to come, to," he urged. "We can be married quietly. Oh, Mona, so you will, please."

He was almost stammering in his boyish anxiety to say the right thing But seeing the unqualified refusal in her eyes, he added, "Don't decide now. Take a day or two to consider."

"Oh, but darling . . ."

"At least wait 24 hours," pleaded Johnnie. "I'll come for an answer tomorrow."

"No, don't do that. I can't possibly do it, Johnnie."

"Think it over," he insisted. "Call me any time before I go. It's the last time I'm ever going to ask you, Mona. Surely my years of loyalty are worth some consideration."

THOUSAND RIVETS A DAY DRIVEN ON NEW STEEL BARGE

Total of 13,000 to Date; 51,000 More Are Yet to Be Driven

CRAFT DUPLICATE BARGE BUILT TWO YEARS AGO

Erection Well in Hand; 36 Men Engaged; Use Huge Derrick

Three gangs driving 1000 rivets a day are rapidly assembling the new steel barge built by Canadian Vickers, limited, for the C. P. R. Kootenay Landing-Procter run. The barge was built in Montreal and shipped here in sections on 12 flat and two box cars, to be rivetted together at the Fairview shipyards.

Total of 64,000 rivets are to be driven here. Up to last night over 13,000 had been hammered into place.

The barge exactly duplicates the craft built by Canadian Vickers for the same run two years ago. It is 230 feet long, with a 43-foot beam and a depth of 10½ feet. Its interior is divided into 33 watertight compartments, making it almost unsinkable. The barge will carry 11 standard railway cars.

HUGE DERRICK

J. E. Ewen of Montreal, who is in charge, stated yesterday that the derrick being used to hoist the various sections into place is the largest of its type ever brought to Nelson. It has a boom 78 feet in length. Other equipment brought here for the job includes rivetting, drilling and caulking machinery.

Thirty-six men are engaged in the work. Fourteen of them are local men and 22 are experienced steel workers from Montreal.

Work of erecting the barge, including placing blocks for the keel to be laid on, and other preliminary work, started September 24. The first contingent of men arrived here September 23.

THIRD BIG JOB

Erection of the barge is well under way, most of the sections being now in place. Should favorable weather continue, the Montreal men expect to have their work completed by the third week of November.

Painting of the barge and work of a similar nature will be undertaken by C. P. R. employees.

The barge is the third big job undertaken by Canadian Vickers for Kootenay lake work of the C. P. R. Two years ago the first steel barge in this section was built, the actual construction being at Montreal and the erection here. A year ago the Vickers company built a steel tug, the Granthall, for Kootenay lake service. This tug, now in active service, is the most modern craft in the interior of British Columbia.

HORSE IS PUSHED FROM CASTLEGAR FERRY, DROWNED

Eremenko Is Plunged Into the River With Truck but Is Rescued

Pushed off the Castlegar ferry by a truck which got out of control behind it, a horse owned by Sam Holoboff, Doukhobor of East Robson, was drowned in the Columbia river yesterday. Fred Eremenko, driver of the truck, went into the river with his car, but was rescued by "Jimmie" Davidson, ferryman, and the owner of the horse. The truck had not been recovered at a late hour yesterday.

Holoboff drove his horse and wagon on to the ferry early yesterday morning, prepared to cross the river on the ferry's first morning trip. He stepped up to the horse's head. Eremenko, driving up behind, lost control of his truck. It gathered speed on the slight slope leading to the ferry and struck Holoboff's wagon at the rear, pushing it into the river and following itself.

FAIL RECOVER TRUCK

Ill luck dogged the efforts of those trying to recover the truck yesterday. It was dragged almost to the river's edge at one time, but slipped back again

Eremenko, a storekeeper at Castlegar, recently lost his store in a fire believed to be of incendiary origin. The loss was $10,000, the whole building, stock in the store, and personal effects in Eremenko's rooms above the store being destroyed. Insurance amounting to $6000 was carried.

FIVE TEAMS ENTER IN JUNIOR HOCKEY; OFFICERS ELECTED

Harry Ferguson Is President; Horstead Says Deserves Support

Five teams were officially entered in the Nelson Junior Hockey league when organization was completed at a meeting at the Nelson Transfer last night. They are the Wolves' Sporting club, Fairview, Amateur Athletic association, High School Cadets, Granite Road and an uphill team, not yet named but organized by Harry Stirzaker.

At a preliminary meeting a week ago it was decided to organize a league and four teams indicated their intention to enter. At last night's meeting representatives from the five teams were present and officers for the year were elected.

THE OFFICERS

Dr. L. E. Borden, M.P.P. for Nelson, president of the West Kootenay Baseball league, and of the West Kootenay Canadian Rugby league, and honorary president of several other sport organizations in the city, was elected honorary president of the hockey league.

Harry Ferguson, former athlete and connected with hockey in Nelson for years, was elected president, and Joe Ramsden, former Nelson soccerite and hockey player, was elected vice-president

"Fritz" Farenholtz, Nelson star runner, jumper, basketball and hockeyist, was elected to fill the position of secretary-treasurer.

The executive will be completed by the addition of one representative from each team in the league.

DISTRICT LEAGUE

The secretary will write P. F. McIntyre at Trail and E. A. Desmond at Kaslo, inviting them to enter teams in a district junior hockey league. If the district league does not materialize, the five teams in the Nelson city league will be registered with the British Columbia Hockey association, and the wining team will represent the district in the playoffs.

Names of all players on the five teams are to be in by November 1, and a meeting will be called shortly after that date to draw up a schedule and make other arrangements for the season.

George Horstead again emphasized the fact that if Nelson was ever to have a senior team composed of home boys, the only way to reach that objective was to develop and support the junior league and also the juvenile hockey league if the latter should be formed. He stated that with upward of 70 players engaged in the junior league, everybody in Nelson should support it.

Rossland Girl Hoop Stars Hope to Win the District Honor

To the Sporting Editor of The Daily News:

Sir—In your paper of October 12, there was an item on the sports page which dealt with the possibilities of the Nelson girls' basketball team this winter and how well they played last winter. Your sports page seems very well posted on most sports but this is one exception where it has misrepresented things slightly when it says that Nelson cleaned up on Cranbrook, Kimberley and Rossland.

The Nelson girls freely admit that they did not clean up on Rossland and our Rossland team has the same feeling toward them, though they all know they were very closely matched.

They played three games last spring, the first in Nelson which Nelson won 15-10, Nelson then visited Rossland, where, on account of some misunderstanding in the score, it was decided to call the game a tie and play another on neutral ground. This game was played in Trail and Rossland won 8-6.

It seems to us that Rossland was not cleaned up at all, in fact, they held their ground very well against the world beaters from Nelson and we hope that we can do better this winter and we will see who gets cleaned up by next spring.

A ROSSLAND BASKETBALL BOOSTER
Rossland, B.C. Oct. 15, 1928

The story referred to above stated that Nelson made a clean sweep of the district winning from Cranbrook, Kimberley and Rossland. No intention was made to slight the accomplishment of the Rossland girls who played well and deserved their wins of last year.

Foresters supplanted the Eagles in second place in the standing of the Nelson Carpet Bowling league for the Dr. L. E. Borden championship shield when they took two games out of four to split with the Knights of Pythias in a league contest at Memorial hall last night. By winning the two games the Foresters obtained one more point than the Eagles in the same number of games.

The Knights of Pythias moved up from fourth place to third by winning two games last night, going into a tie with the Eagles and supplanting the Odd Fellows, who are now in fourth place. All teams in the league have now played eight games each.

The scores last night with the Knight of Pythias' skips mentioned first were: D. Laughton, 14, beat F. Flowman, 3; W. Davies, 8, beat E. Cherry, 7; F. Goucher, 8, lost to A. Deferro, 11; C. Hayden, 8, lost to G. Abbott, 10.

Nelson Will See First Rugby Game of Season Sunday

Nelson Team Impatient Tackle Trail Squad Second League Game

Although it suffered a reversal in the first game at Trail last Sunday, Nelson rugby squad is waiting impatiently for the second game of the West Kootenay Canadian Rugby league to be played at the Recreation grounds here on Sunday. The game will probably be called for 3 o'clock and it is expected a big crowd will be on hand to witness the first game of the season in Nelson.

The Nelson boys have been practicing at every opportunity and will continue to do so until the day before the game. Trail has also been practicing hard, as the smelter city boys anticipate they will have a tougher battle on the hands this week than last.

INTEREST KEEN

Interest in rugby has increased in Nelson by leaps and bounds since the game at Trail last week, which Nelson lost by a score of 19-1. Fumbles were costly to Nelson in the game and the boys have been practicing especially in catching the ball after it has been drop kicked.

Every player on the team has been practicing, for each is determined to be a factor in bringing to Nelson the only district sport championship of the season. If they fail to win Sunday it will not be for the lack of practice, the squad claims.

TOP MINE FIVE AT KIMBERLEY BEATS TUNNEL 27 TO 10

Knott Is Star; Top Mine School Girls Wallop Kimberley High 27-0

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Oct. 17.—In the opening game of the Kimberley senior basketball league the Top Mine five took the Tunnel team into camp and trimmed them handily by a score of 27-0.

For the first game it was particularly fast, with the Top Mine having the edge of the play throughout. The boys displayed neat combination and were particularly deadly when it came to shooting baskets.

J. Knott of the Top Mine was the star player of the evening and beside getting 11 points he was the mainstay of his team and a continual thorn to the opposition.

The Tunnel team was handicapped by the small size of the hall and lack of practice. It showed the makings of a good team.

The teams lined up as follows:

Top Mine—J. Knott, rf; W. Fitz, lf; C. Thor, center; E. Brunner, rg; R. Bell, lg; G. Shaw, spare.

Tunnel—C. Gill, rf; E. Cook, lf; Montgomery, center; Henderson, rg; Johnson, lg; Nee, Finland, Stiffe, spares.

Referee—Joe Shaw.

TOP MINE GIRLS WIN

Previous to the senior game the Top Mine school girls' team met a team from the Kimberley high and ran out easy winners, shutting their opponents out while they scored 27 points themselves. Ivy Smith was the scoring ace, getting 16 points. O. Bolletti ran her a close second with nine points.

The former record as set up Sunday by Jimmy Cherry in a Los Angeles pool. Cherry's mark was 65 hours and 2 minutes.

Mrs. Schoemmel left the water at 12:46:40 this afternoon apparently in fine condition. She entered the water at 12:45 p. m. Sunday.

PRACTICE FOR THE TRACK MEET HERE

Many to Contest Open Events; Another Practice at Rink Tonight

Athletes of all ages who will compete in the public school, open school and open events at the fifth annual meet of the Nelson Indoor Track and Field association here on October 26 turned out in full force at the skating rink last night for the first of a series of supervised practices. F. McRae, R. Smillie, president and vice-president, respectively, of the association, and A. Wallach and A. Elliot, coaches, directed the athletes in running and jumping for several hours.

D. Hewitt, who was unable to compete at the Trail meet Saturday because of an attack of the "flu," was out for the first time in a couple of weeks. Kathleen Keeler, who hurt her leg at Trail, turned out, but was compelled to "take things easy."

MANY IN OPEN

Nelson's representation in the open events at the meet will be large, it is expected, as many former high school athletes as well as others who have come to Nelson to work are planning to enter. D. Hings, who received a fractured ankle in the rugby game at Trail on Sunday, was considered to be Nelson's strongest contestant for the open events, but will not be able to compete.

R. Bendy, Barney Archibald and "Fritz" Farenholtz are also expected to compete in the open events. All three are athletes of more than the average calibre.

A full practice will be held at the rink again tonight.

"They stinted social services but have made no reduction in armaments," he asserted.

Hon. Mr. Henderson was speaking on behalf of Bellamy, Labor candidate who is opposing Gilbert C. Touche, Conservative, and W. G. Greenwood, Liberal

DEVELOPMENT OF BLUEBIRD MAKING STEADY PROGRESS

Tunnel From Cody Side Now Within 150 Feet of Objective; Other Advances

Development of the Bluebird property, early days high grade ore shipper, situated above the Rambler, is proceeding steadily, advices from the Slocan state, and the new deep tunnel, started from the Cody side of the mountain, has now gone 175 feet.

It is estimated that the Cody tunnel is now within 150 feet of the prophyry dyke cutting the Bluebird vein on the surface. A concentration of ore where the dyke cuts the vein at the new depth is hoped for, on the principle illustrated in the recent Deadman strike in the Noble Five mine of the same area. This new tunnel will give 500 feet of new depth compared with the old workings.

OLD DRIFT IN VIRGIN GROUND

On the Retallack side of the lowest of the old drifts is being continued. It has left behind the ore body developed by the early operators, and is now in virgin ground.

Stock of Bluebird Mines, limited, launched last winter, is principally held in Kootenay, residents of Kaslo, the Slocan and Nelson snapping up all available when the subscription books were opened.

NEW LOADING RECORD MADE

C. P. R. Loads 2411 Cars in a Single Day; Bulk Moving West

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 17.—From country elevators along its lines the C. P. R. yesterday loaded a total of 2411 cars, thus creating another world's record. The highest previous figures were those of October 24, 1927, when 2226 cars were loaded. Allowing 1450 bushels to the car, country elevators delivered to Canadian Pacific 3,495,950 bushels of grain, a larger amount than that marketed by farmers, which figure was 2,932,832 bushels. With present favorable weather conditions, the movement of grain from the elevator standpoint, should be very free. Saskatchewan took the lead in loadings with 1347 cars.

The situation at Vancouver is interesting, a great bulk of grain being now in transit from Alberta across the mountains to that port storage is placed at 7,060,430 bushels. Canadian Pacific yesterday unloaded 209 cars and has at hand at Vancouver and Coquitlam 363 cars. In transit between Field and the coast are 584 cars and 174 were moved west out of Calgary yesterday, with 945 now under load in Alberta.

Deliveries of 1140 cars were made at lake head and 13834 unloaded. Shipment by boat down the lakes wer 2,036,000 bushels.

Australia Oranges Arrive In Canada to Compete With U. S.

VANCOUVER, B.B., Oct. 17.—Marking a new departure in inter-empire trade, the first consignment of Valencia oranges to reach this country from Western Australian passed through the Port of Vancouver yesterday, a full carload of the fruit being shipped to Winnipeg over the Canadian Pacific railway. The Australian product will compete in the present high market with oranges from California growers and will probably form the first of a continuous flow of this fruit from the Antipodes to Canada.

Ontario's Liquor Profits Come In Quite Useful

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—The Evening Telegram today says that only the sale of $8,000,000 worth of liquor has saved the Ontario government from facing a deficit on the year's operations and that the considerable portion of the liquor revenue will go to balance the expected $2,000,000 shrinkage in the succession duties taxes.

etails About Complete for Nickels Merger

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—The following appeared in the financial columns of the Toronto Evening Telegram today:

The Telegram is informed on excellent authority that details have almost been compited for merger of International and Mond Nickel, the main plan was worked out, it is said, during the recent visit to Canada of Lord Melchett, head of the English company.

"It is understood that plans are formulated call first for the splitting of International Nickel stock six for one and increasing the capital to an extent which will permit absorption of Mond on the basis of one split share of the Nickel for each present share of Mond. What will be done with Mond's prior issues is not yet known."

INTER. NICKEL IS UP BY NINETEEN

Hits New High of 166 1-2 on Wall Street; General Motors to Split Stock

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The stock market, having advanced rather steadily for a week or more, ran into heavy profit taking today but major speculative operations were again on the upside.

International Nickel was the spectacular individual feature soaring 19 points to a new high at 166½ as against a low of 73¾ earlier in the year on buying influenced by reports of a six for one stock split up and rumors of important developments in the company's Canadian mines.

Dupont ran up 11 points to a new high at 418 and General Motors touched a new top at 221½ and then slipped back to 219½, up ¾ net.

Wall street hears that General Motors directors will declare a stock dividend of 25 per cent and split up the stock on a two for one basis at the next meeting.

MURRAY IS UP

A run up of 13¼ points in Murray corporation to a new high at 118, was based on unconfirmed reports of a new Ford contract. The brisk demand for Nash Motors was accompanied by rumors of buying for the account of the Fisher Brothers.

Oils again changed hands in enormous volume although some of the recent leaders fell back moderately on profit taking. Superior was one of the most active features, touching a new top at 9¾. Other issues to attain new highs were Barnsdall "A" and "B", White Eagle and Warner Quinlay.

Motor Products, which broke 15 points yesterday fell back another 15 today to 180 and then snapped back to 193¾.

Curtiss and Wright Airplanes, Hudson Motors, International Harvester, International Silver, the Kelly Springfield issues and Union Carbide also were conspiciously heavy.

Total sales 4,137,800 shares.

BRAZILIAN AND NICKEL LEADERS

Rise Nearly 17 Points Made by Nickel; Dominion Bridge Is Prominent Issue

Brazilian, first in activity, totalled 71,800 shares. It opened at 64½, sold down to 64, and then jumped to the new peak of 66 and finished at 65¼ a net advance of 1⅝.

International Nickel contributed 55,000 shares to the general turnover. After opening at 148, Nickel gradually climbed to the new top of 165, closing at that figure for a net advance of 16¾ points.

Dominion Bridge was the most prominent of the balance of the list with a turnover of 9053 shares and closed at 94½ for a net loss of 3¼. Cuba Cane Sugar preferred was the soft feature of the session, closing at the new low of 14, for a net loss of 9.

Winnipeg Electric at 112½ showed an increase of 3½.

Total sales, 160,417 shares; bonds, $28,500.

NELSON BOARD OF TRADE GOES ON ROAD TRIP

bassadors of good will" were foregathered at the attractive "construction" settlement at South Slocan soon after 11 a.m. There G. F. Chapman, superintendent of construction, welcomed and took charge of the party, with his aides, in the absence at the coast of Lorne A. Campbell, general manager, and proceeded to show the points of the big plant.

For an hour and a half the visitors absorbedly inspected plant and site, walking over the rock-built fill and tailrace wall, looking down at the deep of the huge power house, examining tailrace, wandering through the bowels set-up, from turbines to the monster the three unites in various stages of generators, gazing at cranes, gates, air-filters, switchboards and equipment incidental to installation or operation, climbing stairways to the top of the dam containing the intakes and the penstocks starting at 25 feet diameter, viewing the tower distribute concrete from the mixing plant by flumes, and gasoline locomotives push cars of fluid concrete along the wing dam, exploring the forebay and inspecting the new cofferdam just being started which will soon shut the water out of the south canyon when it is turned into the north canyon and through the plant, and inspecting the big outdoor transformer plant.

The massive character of the mighty dams, particularly of the wing dam, which in some parts is 70 feet high from the river bed, was commented on, and the massive castings and equipment for the three units, which together will produce 70,000 horse power attracted unending interest.

A DE LUXE LUNCHEON

At 1:45 p.m., when the construction crew, still of several hundred, were summoned from the dining room by the whistle back to the job, the visitors were invited to a marvellous luncheon of many courses, that upheld all the traditions of the West Kootenay Power & Light company.

When the luncheon was concluded, President Alex Leith, of the Nelson board of trade, expressed the unmeasured thanks of the party to Mr. Chapman, on behalf of his company, and to the catering staff, for the welcome given, courtesies extended, and entertainment provided. Mr. Leith declared that Mr. Campbell, though absent at the coast, was present in spirit, presiding at the function.

Ringing cheers, and "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," echoed Mr. Leith's remarks.

On behalf of the West Kootenay company, Mr. Chapman thanked Mr. Leith and the Nelson visitors for their sentiments so warmly expressed, and for recognition they had given to the kitchen staff, and expressed pleasure at their having had enjoyment.

Associated with Mr. Chapman in entertaining the Nelsonites were George Platt, M. J. Byrne and William Tindale.

Adjournment of the party was then taken, with instructions from President Leith to reassemble at 3 p.m. at the smelter offices at Tadanac.

FLORAL TADANAC

On arrival at Tadanac and assembly shortly after that hour, the visitors were taken in charge by Vice-president and General Manager S. G. Blaylock, of the Consolidated company, members of the Consolidated staff assisting in the welcome, and in guilding the tour that followed, including Comptroller T. W. Bingay, J. Buchanan, B. A. Stimmel, E. M. Stiles, R. W. Diamond, and other executives, and Mayor Herbert Clark of Trail, and various members of the Trail board of trade, including Noble Binns, President L. F. Tyson, Secretary Jesse Kemp, P. R. McDonald and C. Dodimead.

First place to be visited was the residential part of Tadanac, "to convince you Nelson folks that Trail people doesn't have to go to Nelson to see flowers," General Manager Blaylock put it. Heading the caravan with his car, Mr. Blaylock led it along "a straight half mile of lawn," the continuous verdure that provided a lovely setting for probably 50 to 80 residences, the majority of them beautified with every device of horticulture.

PRIZE CATTLE

Then Mr. Blaylock swung up above Tadanac to Warfield, the company's famous live stock farm, whose Ayrshires have been winning ribbons and championships for several years at the great live stock fairs of western Canada. William Forrest, superintendent of Warfield, was in the limelight here, showing off prize bulls, and conducting the great party through the various buildings, the one attracting the most attention being that housing 146 milking cows, out of a herd of 226. Sanitation in this building was taken care of in every way, there was ample ventilation and ample light, floors and gutters were of concrete, stanchions were of iron, and a milking machine was on view by which eight cows are milked at a time. In the milk house the milk is specially cooled. Mr. Blaylock explained that of the milk produced, 900 pints is provided daily for the workers in the lead department, each of whom has a pint to drink in the middle of his shift.

Surrounding the live stock quarters are the areas devoted to field crops for consumption by the stock, largest of these being that devoted to corn for ensilage, production over a period of years past never haven fallen below 20 tons per acre.

Then for two hours followed a part of the day's proceedings utterly astounding to those Nelsonites who never before had seen the great plants at Tadanac in their serried ranks, and ever new to those somewhat familiar with them—the tour of the "works" that turn out 10 per cent of the world's lead, seven per cent of its zinc, and around 20 per cent of its cadmium, and contributes to its supplies of silver and gold and some other economic substances.

First were visited a few selected of the auxiliary plants, including great boilershop, welding shop, blacksmith shop, mammoth machine shop with its mighty machines and enormous electrical section, and foundry with its products of iron, steel, bronze and aluminum castings.

The lead smelter next received attention, the visitors glimpsing blast furnaces in action, stock piles of crude lead in their pot-shaped form, and workers conducting various operations. The molten lead, carried in great pots by a series of traveling cranes, was followed to the drossing plant, where preliminary purification took place before it was cast into anodes for future insertion in the cells of the lead tank rooms.

In the silver refinery the visitors saw the furnaces in which the dross is drawn off till the silver-gold product has reached a concentration of 95 per cent, and then say hot silver bars recently cast.

A lead tank room showed the process of refining lead from its impurities by electrolytically depositing it on lead starting sheets hung in the solution, and also the method of producing the starting sheets.

LEACHING OUT THE ZINC

Time dictated dropping the lead tour at that point and crossing over to the zinc area, starting with the great plant containing 25 roasters of seven floors each, in which the concentrates from Kimberley or elsewhere are deprived of their sulphur. In other buildings the visitors saw the tanks in which the zinc "roast" was subjected to leaching, after being brought to them by worm conveyors. Several of the enormour zinc tank-rooms were toured, with their layouts of hundreds upon hundreds of cells in which the zinc solution from the leaching was, by invisible electrolytic process, made to give up its zinc and plate it on aluminum starting sheets. Finally the sheets of electrolytically pure zinc were followed to the melting room, where they were fed into the furnaces, to come out in great hanging ladles, for pouring into the moulds.

The rotary convertor room, containing a battery of 10 great machines, handling the electric current for the newest of the zinc tank-rooms, was the last place to be inspected on this flying tour.

MANY PLANTS NOT VISITED

As incidents, when walking from point or when driving, the visitors caught glimpses of the new 1,000,000 gallon reservoir that assures Tadanac against a temporary water shortage, and of the exterors of such plants age, and of the exteriors of such plants building, electric locomotive repair shop, concentrator, warehouse, sulphuric acid plant, and the giant stacks and smoke treaters. The copper smelter and refinery did not even draw mention.

It was the intention to rush the visitors to Trail about 5:30 o'clock, for inspection of the company's big department store, and of Trail-Tadanac hospital, built by the company and handed over to the city, but this part of the program had to be omitted for want of time.

AT THE BANQUET

Into two and one-half hours in the evening was crowded a splendid banquet and accompanying toastlist in K. P. hall when the Nelson visitors were guests of the Trail board of trade and of citizens of Trail and Tadanac, a large Rossland delegation also being guests.

President L. F. Tyson of the Trail board presided, at his right being Mr. Blaylock, Dr. L. E. Borden, M.P.P. for Nelson, Mayor Clark of Trail, and Reeve Stiles of Tadanac, and at his left, President Leith of the Nelson board, General A. P. Clark, head of a Vancouver financial house, W. K. Esling, M.P. for Kootenay West, and W. G. Ternan, president of the Rossland board.

Various choruses enlivened the meal.

After the toast to the King had been duly honored, on the proposal of Chairman Tyson, many brief speeches, more or less informal, rapidly succeeded each other, many of them containing gentle rallery against communities or individuals, but all of them, in their serious aspects, expressing fraternal feeling, and the conviction that Trail, Rossland and Nelson should cooperate for the general interest of their common district. First to voice this feeling was Chairman Tyson, who, however, hinted that Nelson, in view of the trend of events, might wish to be known as "Trail Junction."

Mayor Clark, who always was glad to welcome visitors "from the little lake towns like Procter and Nelson," seriously felt that Nelson and Trail had much in common, and that it behooved them to work together for the district. He hoped that "your first visit has so favorably impressed you that you will come again at an early date."

DAY OF COOPERATION

President Leith, who pointed out that this was the largest and most successful of Nelson's jaunts, dwelt on the passing of sectional jealousy, and the arrival of the day of cooperation. He suggested for Nelson's motto, "I advance," and for Trail's, "Let Trail Flourish." Every Nelson citizen, he declared, was delighted when Trail flourished. Royal treatment was always accorded representatives of Nelson when in Trail. He invited Trail and Rossland to "come over and visit us," promising them a good time.

Speaking for Rossland, President Ternan felt that the board of the three cities should cooperate, for the benefit of the district, and in particular, should get behind a movement for a first-class highway between Rossland and Nelson. Except in the three cities, there was not a mile of paved road in this stretch, and there had been no concerted action on this matter thus far. A first-class road, he said, would facilitate getting together.

Mr. Blaylock, facetiously referred to as embarking in the apple growing business on Kootenay lake, retorted that "our friend Linc" had been wet several times, as usual. He was glad to have welcomed the Nelson business men in such number to the plant, so they could see its operations. It cost a lot of money, and it could not operate without a profit and unfortunately metal prices were dropping. But he did not propose to hang any crepe on the gathering by following this line.

MAKE ROAD SAFE

As to the road question, he thought if Nelson friends, particularly Nelson's member, pulled harder for an improved road, so that it was secured, the result would pull many dollars Nelson's way. Two hours to go to Nelson took the pleasure out of the trip. A paved road was out of the question, but at least the road should be made safe, so that cars could pass anywhere, and would not break springs.

He declared Nelson had no desire to be known as Trail Junction, nor yet to be known eitner as North Trail or Northwest Tadanac. Nelson's interest was larger—it was to gobble up Trail. Mr. Blaylock said he had always though the Consolidated's headquarters were Montreal, but he noticed that they were now in Nelson. At least, The Daily News that morning had given publicity to a Spokane dispatch saying that the Consolidated might build a smelter at Newport, Wash. If such a smelter was built, Mr. Blaylock said, he would insist on The Daily News running it.

"We want a road so good that we won't know which town we are in," he concluded, amid applause.

Dr. Borden declared he stood for the Kootenays, first, last and all the time, and felt that the highest interest of the entire district ought to be the first aim of every member from the Kootenay. (Applause). He declared Trail and Nelson were inter-dependent, and should show a lead in cooperation, which was absolutely necessary between all the Kootenay communities if the district's great assets of mineral wealth and tourist attractions were to be realized on.

Mr. Esling, adding his welcome to the Nelson visitors to "the metallurgical mecca of the British Empire," declared if it were not for the Consolidated's huge payroll, there would be mush less prosperity in the district, for every part benefitted from its operations. He recalled the changes in status of some of the West Kootenay communities, and declared that by cooperation they could secure benefits of interest to all.

BINNS IS HEARD

As president of the Associated Board of Trades of Eastern British Columbia, Mr. Binns urged every man, whether host or visitor, to join his local board, if not already a member, for 30 years' experience had shown him that boards of trade were more effective in approaching governments than were any other bodies, as the governments accepted them as non-political and fully representative of their communities. He felt proud of Trail as the industrial center of the Kootenays, and asserted that prosperity of other centers contributed to that of Trail.

John B. Gray, formerly of Trail, but now of Nelson, said a trip to Trail was to him "like going home." He said he would do all he could to promote the cooperation of the two cities.

GENERAL CLARK

General Clark, returning thanks for his friendly reception everywhere during the day, said he had been much impressed with what he had seen during the day, and would have a great story to take back to Vancouver. He presented Vancouver's felicitations to the boards of trade of Trail, Rossland, Nelon and Tadanac.

Reeve Stiles added a fervent welcome on behalf of Tadanac.

Dr. E. C. Arthur of Nelson recalled seeing Trail in 1895, when it had two houses only. He recalled when Ainsworth, Kaslo and Rossland successively had more population than Nelson, and remarked that Trail and Nelson were now about on a par in that respect.

He was glad to see the old jealousies, so destructive of progress, disappear.

Ex-Mayor J. A. McDonald of Nelson stated he had watched the development of Trail with the keenest appreciation for 36 years. He urged all pulling together for a 100 per cent road.

Ex-Mayor H. Selous of Nelson was out of the room when called upon.

STARKEY HEARD

Commissioner Fred A. Starkey, of the Associated Boards, said few realized the work done by the Consolidated in producing metals, and said if there was wide familiarity with the many processes necessary to extracting the finished metal from the ores, there would never be any kick at the necessary rates charged. He paid a tribute to the management for keeping on running when conditions became adverse, and thus keeping the district prosperous.
