RELIEF PACT ACCEPTABLE

Cities Are in Agreement With It Except for Minor Changes

VICTORIA, Aug. 21 (CP) — Conditions of the new unemployment relief agreement between B. C. and the Dominion government are practically wholly satisfactory to the Union of B. C. Municipalities and are acceptable except for minor changes which are advocated prior to the attaching of the signature of the province, Reeve William Crouch, president, announced following a conference with government officials today.

Municipal representatives presented a brief of the changes wanted and the pact was given final consideration.

Reeve Crouch was appointed representative of the municipalities on the government's new unemployment relief committee. The Reeve was appointed to act in an advisory capacity. Vancouver is also to be given representation on the committee.

One clause which brought objection from Mayor David Leeming of Victoria was that providing that single homeless men who were discharged from the camps for misbehaviour could not be reinstated. The mayor pointed out that in such cases the men would become municipal charges, for which the municipality would receive no assistance other than the regular government contribution. It is understood steps are being taken towards remedying this condition.

Vancouver delegates objected to a clause in the agreement which apparently provided that work undertaken by the Vancouver joint sewerage board was not classed as a relief measure. Hon. William Dennies, minister of labor, agreed to communicate with Ottawa in the interests of the terminal city to have this classed as relief work.

Swindlers Prey on Small Businesses

VANCOUVER, Aug. 21 (CP)—An attempt to extort money from storekeepers and small business firms is being made by two men, who pose as government officials.

The law requires that persons carrying on business under other than their own names must register the firm names and pay fees of $1 each at the provincial courthouse. These men are canvassing the city and on locating an unregistered business, demand money, declaring that they are government officials and will prosecute if the money is not paid them.

Officials state that as yet no government employees have been assigned to make a check of persons operating under firm names.

Cheaper Money Is Sought Before the Bank Commission at Edmonton Hearing

BY RAY BROWN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON, Aug. 21 (CP) — "Cheap money" was the request which stood out today when the royal commission on banking held a busy sitting here.

Harry Bell, farmer of Namao, who said his position was identical with thousands of other agriculturists in western Canada, told how debts made on the basis of $1 and $1.50 wheat were now waiting to be paid with wheat selling at half that price.

"I hear farmers say, for the love of mercy get us cheap money," Mr. Bell said to the commission. "The banks are not to blame," he asserted. "They have been all right." But the farmers in many cases, had overdeveloped, had broken too much land, and they had borrowed when times were good.

REMOTE CONTROL

Today's sitting also brought expression of the view "remote control" was one of the handicaps which western borrowers are called upon to meet. A. D. Martyn of Edmonton, furnished Lord Macmillan and his fellow commissioners with instances, which he claimed came from his own personal experience, where loans had been refused by eastern head offices of banks, even though good security was offered.

He suggested establishment of provincial bankers' committees which would act as appeal boards from the decision of banks in matters of credit.

Representations received by the commission today came from a variety of sources. Opening with the brief of Alberta government, in which a central bank was given support and a policy which would enlarge wheat markets urged, the commissioners were offered suggestions from Edmonton chamber of commerce, City of Edmonton, W. R. Howson, leader of the Liberal party in Alberta, Joseph A. Clarke, representing Edmonton economic club, and others in the farming, business and economic life of the city and province.

Sleeping Sickness Takes Fourteenth Victim; No Sign of Epidemic Abating

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—The fourteenth death from "sleeping sickness" was reported here today as the epidemic showed no sign of abatement, and deaths were reported from two other cities, Kansas City, Kansas, and Warrensburg, Mo.

Miss Vivian Fresman, 20, of Suburban Carsonville, died here today. The other victim was Robert Ramst of Wellston. Mrs. Effie Brooks of Ottawa, Kansas, died in a Kansas City hospital, and the death of Mrs. James E. Rutherford of Mars Hill, N. C., was reported at Warrensburg. Two other cases were reported in greater Kansas City.

Three cases were described as "grave" by hospital attaches. A number of patients who suffered lighter attacks of the strange malady were ready for discharge from the hospital but awaited the end of the three weeks isolation period.

The seriousness of the epidemic, in addition to taking 14 victims, has sent 137 cases to St. Louis hospitals, was reflected today in the arrival from Washington of Dr. Charles Armstrong, U. S. public health service pathologist.

Dr. Armstrong will aid in the study of the disease already begun by Dr. J. P. Peake, senior surgeon of the public health service who came here from Washington shortly after the malady appeared. Neither would comment on the situation.

CODE TURNS TO COAL INDUSTRY

Negotiations Near Completion Afer Weeks of Talk

BY JAMES P. SELVAGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)— An N.R.A. code for the strife-ridden bituminous coal industry of United States was near completion tonight after weary weeks of negotiations.

Focusing upon dissenting operators the pressure which last week hurried steel, oil and lumber within the recovery program, Hugh S. Johnson, administrator, indicated an agreement was imminent.

By Labor Day Johnson has forecast 5,000,000 or more new jobs will have been created, to be supplemented by the normal fall pick-up business. Efforts are planned to reach every employer either with a permanent code or a temporary presidential agreement.

Once the coal code is made effective Johnson will turn his attention to the automobile industry where new troubles are believed to lie in the labor provisions.

As the code now stands, it contains a clause employees will be advanced without regard to their union or non-union affiliation.

Federal Government Knew of Deplorable Conditions in Country's Leading Bank A Year Before It Closed, Says Couzens

DETROIT, Aug. 21 (AP)—Blunt declaration the federal government knew of "deplorable conditions" in the country's largest closed bank—the First National bank, Detroit—as early as May, 1932, nearly a year before it closed, came today from United States Senator James Couzens, along with a series of bristling criticism of Detroit banking methods.

The senior Michigan senator appeared for his third day of testimony before an open grand jury investigating the closing of the First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce following the Michigan bank holiday Feb. 14. He read from reports of federal bank examiners detailing "bad practices" in the first national. The reports, he said, were made in May and November, 1932.

"There are at least $70,000,000 of slow assets, and $54,000,000 of doubtful assets, not including loans on Detroit Bankers Co. (the First National Holding company) stock which is classified as slow but should be considered doubtful," quoted the senator, reading from the examiner's report. "There are $49,000,000 loss assets. How the institution will ever work out cannot be foretold." This Couzens said, was from a report made last November.

MAKE RAPID PROGRESS AT GRAIN MEET

It calls for abolition of barriers to imports of wheat, in return for promises domestic wheat production will not be increased in importing countries, along with the understanding chief producing countries will regulate their production and systematize their exports.

During sittings of the world economic conference in London overseas exporting countries reached agreement in principle among themselves on a two-year program for the crop years of 1933-34 and 1934-35.

The first committee established by the world wheat conference today will consider technical questions arising from tariffs. The other committee will consider the establishment of the international

British Political Parties Agree on Question of Radio

BY THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 21 (CP cable)— A dispute between the three great political parties over the question of transmitting political opinion by radio has at last been settled after four years of disagreement. A joint arrangement has been reached with the British Broadcasting corporation.

The squabble was almost entirely concerned over the amount of time speakers of each party were entitled to take at the microphone. Conservatives argued as their party was the largest in the house of commons, they should have more than the others; Liberals and Laborites retorted numbers gave no true indication of political importance.

It has now been arranged speakers and topics will be chosen by a committee of the parties. The B.B.C., contrary to its usual practice, is not going to censor these political speeches.

FOUR BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Ships Unable to Dock at Hamilton; Hurricane South of Bermuda

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 21 (AP) —Small craft along the Jersey coast hugged their berths tonight as a storm, already responsible for seven lives, rose in intensity.

Storm warnings, issued by the weather bureaus in Washington, indicated the heaviest blows would fall late tonight or early tomorrow, the wind increasing to gale velocity. Coast guardmen, patrolling the perilous seas, which hourly cast up fresh pieces of wreckage, urged the owners of small boats to stay ashore.

They were also trying to identify a capsized skiff, carrying the license No. L8042, which was washed ashore at Ocean City. Its occupants have not been accounted for, and it is feared they may have been lost.

All others of the 100 or more fishing craft and speedboats, trapped off shore in yesterday's freak windstorm, have been accounted for. The last of them, the Gertrude R., was located today in an inlet at Ocean City after she had weathered the high seas that swamped several other craft.

CUBAN MOBS STILL KILLING

Continue to Punish Despite Government Measures

BY J. P. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Aug. 21 (AP)—Cuban mobs continued to take the law into their own hands and deal out their own kind of punishment today to those they held guilty of crimes under former President Gerardo Machado, despite more severe government measures to preserve order.

Two persons were slain and an effort made to lynch a third in the Santiago district of Oriente province, Julio Heredia, former henchman of Major Arsenio Ortiz, was shot and killed by a mob in Santiago and his body was dragged through the streets.

Members of the ABC Revolutionary society had taken Heredia from the courthouse when he was seized by the mob. A policeman, Luis D. Bayne, was shot and killed at Palmo Oriano.

Later in the day an attempt was made to lynch municipal policeman Echevarria, in Santiago after he had been arrested. An ABC guard was thrown about him, however, and a speaker induced the crowd to desist. Bechevarria was taken to prison. Jose R. Barcelo, governor of Oriente province, hunted since he fled from Santiago after the downfall of the Machado regime, surrendered to soldiers late today after he had been surrounded in a house here. He immediately was taken to Castillo de la Fuerza and later to the Principe fortress.

1000 MEN FIGHT FIRE IN OREGON

Blaze Advancing Along Ten Mile Front; Oregon's Worst Fire

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 21 (AP).—More than 1000 men battled desperately tonight against a forest fire advancing swiftly along a ten-mile front under persuasion of a brisk wind.

Fire officials admitted that despite the small army of fighters summoned hastily, there was little immediate prospect of bringing the blaze under control without the assistance of a lull in the wind and the presence of dew, which they hoped might come late tonight.

Efforts of the fire fighters to ring the blaze with a line and hold the flames within the border were all but voided when the fire crowned into the tops of the trees and ate greedily into valuable virgin timber.

Believed under control Saturday night, after a light rain had fallen over the area, the fire in Tillamook county along the Wilson river near the Washington county line, was fanned into renewed fury late Sunday when a strong west wind whipped the region. Smouldering embers were scattered by the wind, and shortly the flames were advancing on a wider front.

The fire started last Monday, officials said. They estimated the damage to the virgin timber would be at least $1,000,000, probably more.

All of the men in the five C.C.C. camps of this district were dispatched to the fire lines and every available man in Forest Grove hurried to join them. All axes and shovels in Forest Grove stores were sold. Trucks went to Portland for more.

Fire officials said it was one of the worst fires ever experienced in Oregon.

SEATTLE, Aug. 21 (AP)—A fortune in furs—the annual government-supervised kill from the Pribiloff islands seal herds—arrived here today, destined for the St. Louis and London fur markets.

In all, the rattling winches of the navy supply ship Vega swung 54,550 fur seal pelts, stored in barrels, ashore out of the ship's depths. The shipment was valued at upwards of a million and a half dollars.

All but 8183 of the skins are to be sent by rail to St. Louis, while the smaller lot was forwarded to Vancouver, B.C., tonight. From there it will be sent east to Montreal, on the way to London.

FIND GOLD ON SITKUM CREEK

Gravel Gives Up Nuggets to Efforts of I. Berg and Kraft Brothers

Several small bottles of nuggets and gold dust, the fruits of about 10 days sluicing on Sitkum creek, were exhibited in Nelson by I. Berg, E. Kraft and another party Monday.

While several parties have been fairly successful on the creek, placer work there is just in its experimental stages. Several of those who have been working the gravel beds are not fully acquainted with placer methods and as yet do not know the value of their holdings.

Among the gold washed by Mr. Berg recently was a nugget about the size of a cherry. Norman Fleming and the Kraft brothers have all recovered small quantities of the yellow metal. About 29 or 30 claims have been staked on the creek including those held by the seven Kraft brothers and their father, E. Kraft.

FALLIS, FORMER NELSON TEACHER IS ROTARY GUEST

N. R. Fallis, for a number of years on the high school teaching staff here, and now a director of a great technical school in Toronto with 70 teachers, was a guest at the Rotary club luncheon Monday, and after the formal program was completed, was invited to speak.

Referring to his "five happy years here," Mr. Fallis stated in his two months trip across the continent he had found no area quite as nice as the Kootenay, whose everlasting hills preached daily sermons, whose lakes in storm told of God's power and in calm mirrored mighty peaks, and whose great trees pointed men to Heaven.

DISMISS CHARGE AGAINST AYLMER

Complaint by George Porteous of Queens Bay, that Hon. Basil Aylmer obstructed the south fork of Aylmer creek, resulted in a prosecution under the water act in provincial police court.

After evidence was given by R. M. Thompson, Mr. Porteous, the complaintant, and R. A. Pollard of the water rights branch, and Hon. Basil Aylmer gave his own version of the case, Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel, while finding that, strictly speaking, the accused was technically guilty, decided that the affair was rather trifling, and that there was no guilty intent. He therefore dismissed the charge.

SOFTBALL CHAMPS LOOK FOR GAMES

The Hume hotel's Yellow and Blacks, newly crowned champs of the Nelson city softball league, are out after new fields to conquer and have issued a challenge to all-comers.

The Hume team is especially anxious to meet the Trail Postoffice squad and failing that the Nelson Roughnecks. Competition is their main object, however, and they are ready to play any team.

advisory committee. This would probably be set up in London with a permanent secretariat. It would be representative of both exporting and importing countries and would meet probably three or four times a year to consider questions arising under any agreement that might be reached by the conference.

REPORT WEDNESDAY

The committees will report Wednesday morning. The conference itself resumes Wednesday afternoon and then, it is expected, all delegates will have received full instructions of their governments.

The air of optimism which marked the opening of proceedings this morning was again evident at adjournment, especially when Frederick Murphy of Minneapolis, leading United States delegate, was emphatic United States had no intention of dumping its wheat surplus on world markets regardless of price.

And it was further stated Soviet Russia had agreed to cooperate in orderly marketing of wheat.

Russia has been out of the export market for some time but apparently has a sizeable marketable surplus this coming crop year.

100,000 Soviet Children to Guard Against Grain Thefts and Pick Up Stray Kernels

MOSCOW, Aug. 21 (AP)—About 100,000 children are being organized in "light cavalry detachments" to guard grain thefts and retrieve stray kernels dropped by harvesters in the north Caucasus fields.

The government is providing shelter and food on the collective farms for these youthful organizations charged with protecting "the Socialist crop." Rewards of 1000 suits of clothing are to be distributed to the more energetic.

Children from the ages of 10 to 16 years are to guard against depredations by kulaks (propertied peasants) or other dissident elements and report such actions. Other children, from 6 to 10 years old, are to pick up stray grain lost by the reapers.

One 9-year-old boy, Misha Sorokin, has been awarded a new set of text books and stationery for denouncing and causing the arrest of his own father, The elder Sorokin, the child charged, took more grain than was due him from the common store.

An 8-year-old girl discovered a kulaka woman in possession of a bucketfull of grain and a 12-year-old boy is credited with trapping three grain thieves in a collective farm field.

A boy who helped organize the grain retrieving campaign was presented with a six volume set of Lenin's works.

U.S. NATIONAL RECOVERY ACT IS DISCUSSED AT BANFF CONFERENCE

BY CHARLES A. HAYDEN
Canadian Press Correspondent

BANFF, Alta., Aug. 21 (CP)—Round table discussion on national planning took place today at the fifth biennial convention of the Institute of Pacific Relations. The case of United States and the national recovery act was brought to the fore again.

Purpose of United States action, it was stated, is to try and establish a better equilibrium between agricultural prices and manufacturing prices. It is desirable to return to pre 1929 levels, otherwise the capital structure of the country cannot survive, it was added.

The round table discussion pointed out there was a danger manufacturing prices may rise more rapidly in United States than in other countries. To overcome this resort could be had to three different means: Higher tariffs to prevent competition, further depreciation of the dollar, or else the NRA may be replaced by something else.

TARIFF FIRST

The inference was the first resort would be to tariff, since it is already in the act. The president is given the right to increase the tariff. But such action, it was declared, could only be an intermediate step that would not settle anything.

Restoring high prices, stated the United States spokesman, would be easier if other nations would work in the same direction.

Germany's case was described also. Efforts have been made to make currency stable and to bring an expansion of credit in order to secure more employment. A long period of subsidies and tariffs has made Germany self-sufficient in many lines of foodstuffs and there is now an export surplus.

The German spokesman ventured the opinion government action was more liable to cause conflict than the national plan itself.

KEEP PRESENT OCCUPATION

In France the wheat policy was based on social reasons rather than economic reasons. Its purpose was to keep farmers in their present occupation and not to increase production of wheat. It had the unexpected effect, however, of increasing wheat production in northern Africa and Algeria, parts of the French empire.

People in northern Africa have learned to eat barley instead of wheat so they could profit by increasing the wheat export. There has been lately larger wheat shipments from northern Africa to France while northern Africa is importing barley in larger quantities.

A special stamp issued by the Dominion government marks the centenary of the crossing of the Atlantic for the first time by a vessel using steam all the way. The vessel was the Royal William, which was built at Quebec and started on her memorable voyage from Pictou, N.S., August 17, 1833, taking 25 days to reach Gravesend.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR TEAMS TIE, TRAIL

TRAIL, B.C., Aug. 21—Two mixed teams of junior and senior players battled it out to a two-all draw in a soccer game at Butler park Monday night. Groom and Sommen, two junior boys, scored for one team, while Tommy Laurie, a senior player, was credited with two goals on the other.

Freddie Bell, who is a reserve player on the city representative team that plays Kimberley at home on September 10, injured his ankle in the second half of the game, was treated at the Trail-Tadanac hospital and taken home.

Thursday night the seniors will continue their training for the Kimberley game which decides the East and West Kootenay soccer title and holders of the Blaylock bowl. No game will be played, but the forwards are expected to turn out at 6 o'clock and the backs at 6:30.

The juniors are getting into shape for a soccer game with Nelson juniors here on September 3, but acknowledgement from A. Wallach of Nelson has not yet been received.

JACK MEEK OFF TO WORLD FAIR

Constable Jack Meek, radio operator of the provincial police headquarters here, is now speeding for Chicago to enjoy two weeks holidays at the Century of Progress exposition. His return will be by way of Winnipeg, so he can look in on the oarsmen.

He is being relieved here by Constable John Henry, radio operator at Cranbrook.

COUNCIL DEAF OVER MARKET

Turns Down Mrs. Radcliffe on Giving Time; Only One Offer

An appeal from Mrs. Jackson Radcliffe to be permitted to continue competing with the city in market premises for the rest of the season, fell on deaf ears at Monday night's council session, and it was decided to stick to the terms offered Mrs. Radcliffe a few weeks ago, of $50 per month for the whole first floor, comprising both halls now rented for market purposes, or nothing.

If Mrs. Radcliffe does not accept the city's offer, City Clerk W. E. Wasson has instructions to move the tables and other paraphernalia from the market hall rented by the city from Mrs. Radcliffe on August 31. This will leave her with both halls —the one used as the official city market, and the one she rents to competing stall-holders, almost exclusively Doukhobors.

Mayor S. H. Smythe urged that the council had a duty toward the stall-holders who had been paying without complaint year in and year out, but aldermen pointed out that they would be done no injury by the city retiring, as the facilities would still be available, and as cheaply.

Mrs. Radcliffe's brief letter, of Monday's date, read:

"In regards to the market, will you please give me an extension of time to the end of the season, the time is so short now, and I will give up the market unless something unforeseen happens next year."

A reply will be sent to Mrs. Radcliffe communicating the council's decision.

Glover Road Work to Begin at Once

TRAIL, B.C., Aug 21—Instructions to commence immediately on Glover road were given City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid by the city council Monday night.

On July 11 of this year the council authorized the work which involved an expenditure of approximately $2000 for lumber and cement. Labor was to be done by relief workers. At that time the hill was considered by the engineer to be in a risky condition, but as the sand has now commenced to run out of the cribbing caused by recent dry weather it was decided to delay the project no further. Mr. McDiarmid said the cribbing was still in good shape, but that there was no question as to whether the hill needed immediate attention.

TRAIL MEN WIN BOCCE

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 21 — Have you ever witnessed a game of bocce? It's one of those Italian native games and is somewhat similar to lawn bowling, only it is played on a boarded alley and if a player thinks that his opponent's ball is too close to the jack—pop—he knocks it flying and his ball remains in almost the same position as the opponent's just left—that is if he is good.

Over the week-end, when a few Italian lads, who were in the representative teams of the Trail-Tadanac Bowling club were in Nelson, they sought out some bocce players. E. Pisapio, F. (Cashola) Vellutini, C. Lauriente and Joe Derose found Stangherlin and his gang itching for a game. To make a long story short, the Trail bunch won and left for home with another victory on their record.

The Trail bocce players challenge the Nelson squad they defeated to a return game at any time and they may name their stakes.

GRANTS TO TRAIL TOTAL $11,448.91

TRAIL, B.C., Aug. 21—Report of receipts of government grants was presented by Alderman E. L. Groutage, chairman of the finance committee, at city council Monday night.

Motor licence returns of $7437.50 plus $4011.41 of liquor profits made a total of $11,448.91, but a deduction for unpaid social service fees to March 31 of $3225.97 brought the total received by the city to $8222.94.

No boats due to arrive today were able to dock. The Monarch of Bermuda and the Southern Cross still hove off the island and were not expected to make port until tomorrow. Latest reports from the California, due here with 800 passengers this morning, said it also was hove to about 50 miles off Bermuda, while the Franconia, with 700 passengers, was 250 miles southwest of here fighting a northwest gale. Both were expected to make port tomorrow afternoon.

TRAIL RUNNERS AFTER RECORDS

Smelter City to Send 13 Athletes to Nelson for Labor Day Meet

TRAIL, B. C., Aug. 20.—Trail's colors will be strongly represented at Nelson on September 4 in the Labor Day sports at which new records will be recognized by sport officials at Vancouver. Thirteen Trail athletes have been undergoing stiff training in preparation for the day and have hopes of bettering some of the standing records.

Two of the Haley brothers, Joe and Paul are sure of going but Pat, the youngest has not as yet definitely decided. Paul has to his credit records made at the Kootenay boundary meet in Trail on May 27 of this year and Joe has some good marks in the high jump.

Paul ran the 100 yard dash in 10 2-5 seconds at the Kootenay boundary meet and has been training with the hope to better his mark at Nelson. He also ran the 220 in 23 2-5 seconds at the same meet.

Joe has cleared 6 feet, 2 inches in the high jump and has been up against some stiff competition in both the Hamilton and Vancouver Olympic trials.

If Pat attends, he will enter the 100 yard dash.

Art Forrest cleared 10 feet, 11 inches in the pole vault at the Kootenay bounary meet this year and feels sure that he can equal that mark on Labor Day.

Johnnie Kavic, who has not taken a very active part in sports lately, but who has cleared 11 feet in the pole vault event, is working to get in shape for that event.

On July 1 at Nelson, Abramo Cancian broke the pedal of his bicycle when he had the lead. He is making sure that everything will be in first class shape on September 4 and has strong hopes of winning the bicycle events. Cancian and Primo Ongaro will both be Trail entries in bicycle races.

Ongaro and Cancian, who are both of Italian descent, have a little side race on with two Nelson boys. They are going to have a two mile pursuit race and the losers have to buy the winners a spaghetti dinner.

TRANSFORM AND NOT REFORM IS AIM OF C.C.F.

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 21 —With the able assistance of William Irvine, M. P. for the federal Wetaskiwin, Alberta constituency, Creston local of the Co-Operative Commonwealth federation continued its educational campaign with a rally last night in Trinity United Church hall that attracted a large and splendidly representative attendance of both rural and townspeople, who listened with close attention to an address lasting for an hour and a half dealing on broad general principles with the platform of the C. C. F.

Mr. Irvine's address was, for the most part, a quite dispassionate survey of the present economic system, though at times he was somewhat vitriolic in his references to capitalism which at one stage he referred to as "ignorant, irresponsible money mongers."

In his references to the two old party leaders he was restrained in his utterances, but it was noticed that the recent speech making of the Liberal leader, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, in Saskatchewan, and Alberta, had not escaped Mr. Irvine's attention, as by far the greater number of illusions to Mr. King or Mr. Bennett were directed at the former.

The chair was occupied by John Murrell, president of the Creston branch of the C. C. F., who briefly introduced the speaker, and make a plea for a greater membership and interest in the organization.

REVIEWS AGRICULTURE

After referring to the C. C. F., as a movement vitally effecting the future of civilization, Mr. Irvine opened his address proper with a review of agricultural matters in the three western provinces, asserting that for the past two years, farmers had been selling their products for much less than the cost of production, and in consequence the standard of living had long since got past the point where luxuries, such as the radio and telephone had been abandoned. Now it was a case of going without less essential necessities in food, while clothing and shoes were absent from altogether too many homes.

He referred to the tragedy of education now being enacted. In the past three years, hundreds of thousands of young people had come out of the universities, colleges, and high schools, and their inability to secure employment presented a problem fraught with serious consequences if not satisfactorily solved within a couple of years—and under the present governmental leadership it was hopeless to look for any solution, much less a satisfactory one.

CAPITALISM AT BOTTOM

Capitalism, according to the speaker, was at the bottom of all the trouble, and the plan of the C. C. F. was to transform rather than attempt to reform it, the latter process being altogether too slow. In support of this contention he cited the recent international economic conference where all the master minds of the world had been in session for more than a month and had given it up as hopeless.

RED DEER FARMER TO RANCH, CRESTON

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 21 — A sale of desirable orchard property in the Erickson section was completed at the middle of the week, in which Ed. Martin sold his ranch to H. Langstone of Creston. It is stated Mr. and Mrs. Martin and family are to move to eastern Canada to reside. Mr. Martin got back about ten days ago from a two month's holiday at the old home near Montreal, and it is in that locality he has acquired a farm that they will occupy. Prior to coming here they had a half-section near Red Deer, Alberta, and are well acquainted with agricultural work.

INDEPENDENTS TO NOMINATE

Convention for Kaslo-Slocan to Be at New Denver

NEW DENVER, B. C., Aug. 21—Headed by prominent men who without regard to party politics are joining hands to work in the interests of their constituency and province, an organization has been launched under the banner of Independents in the three main sections of the Kaslo-Slocan riding, namely Kaslo, Slocan and Arrow Lakes districts.

This movement is taken as indicating the change that is taking place in public opinion in regard to the conduct and administration of this province. Divided amongst themselves for many years in matters of public interests in provincial affairs by party rule, it is now being realized by the general public that the scope of Provincial Governmental functions is to limited that real political issues are mythical and there is common ground in provincial matters on which persons of all shades of political opinion can meet for the welfare of each constituency, the province and the people as a whole.

Local organizations of Independents are being formed throughout the riding, and invitation is being extended, without regard to party politics, to anyone interested in this movement to join, and it is anticipated that all preliminary organizations work will be completed by the end of August.

A convention of Independents will be held at New Denver early in September when a district organization will be formed and a platform will be drawn up. Delegates to the convention will be selected in the usual way by the local organization and they will be advised of date of convention as soon as it is fixed.

Petitions are being circulated by this organization inviting Capt. James Fitzsimmons to allow his name to go before the convention as candidate to contest the coming provincial election as an Independent candidate pledged to support the next government in measures that would be in the best interest of the constituency and the province as a whole.

Chemical and Bacteriological Warfare

The Character of a New War

(Article 2 Concluded)
By W. J. SILVERWOOD

The importance of this insidious form of warfare is often underestimated. One reason for this may be the report of the study commission of the League of Nations on chemical warfare, which deals with the question in section (D) document A16 (1924) IX, of the League of Nations. A more detailed account of the coming poison gas warfare may be read in Dr. Gertrud Johanna Woker's book, 1931, sixth edition under the above title; also papers on the use of poison gases in war in the report of the Frankfort conference for the study of modern methods of war.

The League of Nations report already referred to is based on the views of experts and this report has been strongly influenced by the fact that the bacteriological weapon was not highly developed during the last war.

However, we do have in this report a situation which represents more or less a minimum of what must be expected with regard to bacteriological warfare in future.

Various methods of infecting enemy populations have been suggested and will undoubtedly be made use of. Of these methods there are two outstanding developments:

1. The pollution of drinking water by cultures of typhus or cholera germs.

2. The propagation of plague by pest infested rats.

Speaking of this proposed method of warfare Professor Cannon admits the possibility of airplanes disseminating over wide areas parasites capable of ravaging crops.

Professor Bordet refers to the discovery in the court of the German legation in Bucharest of cultures of glanders with requisite instructions for contaminating the Rumanian cavalry. The French expert, Inspector Georges, stated a few years ago that the protection of drinking water in large towns from infection by pathogenic germs which might be dropped from airplanes in specially prepared small containers, opening automatically on reaching the surface of the water, was practically impossible. It is not likely that those who are engaged in developing the bacteriological weapons in the different countries will overlook the chance discoveries made in this field during the war.

A DIABOLICAL CRIME

But the war, as a matter of fact, left behind it more than chance discoveries. The report of the study committee of the League of Nations on bacteriological warfare, already referred to, closes with a reference by Professor Bordet to the discovery of glanders cultures which were intended to carry infection to the Rumanian cavalry. No mention is made of the corresponding preparations for the spread of human epidemics; but it was only the collapse of one of the great powers and the merest chance which prevented that power from attempting to spread infection among the civilian population of the enemy state. The anachist elements in the latter state had already been hired to carry bacteria cultures, such as the cholera bacteria, from the neutral state in which the discovery was made to the intended victim state, where they would have distributed them. The collapse came before this diabolical crime could be accomplished.

The consul general in whose office the cultures were stored, fearing discovery, instructed a porter to throw the incriminating evidence into the river. Fortunately the porter was suspicious and informed the police. Such was the origin of the notorious Zurich bomb and baccilli case, the documents of which, along with the instructions of the ministerial department in question, must contain valuable evidence as to the possible application and effects of bacteriological warfare at the end of the great war. A study of the revelant documents should also show whether the alleged attempt to send cholera cultures to Russia in fountain pens was ever actually made, and if so with what success. It will be far from easy to gain such information, because the responsible quarters in the guilty state do all in their power to prevent the truth from being disclosed.

The best proof that in future wars the bacteriological weapon will be used both alone and in conjunction with poison gas is the fact that various countries are engaged in research and preparing for bacteriological warfare. A speech of the former British prime minister, Mr. Baldwin, in the house of commons in February, 1927, for instance amounts to a confession of such preparations.

The speech delivered indicated a negative reply to the direct question of the disarmament commission of the League of Nations whether the British government was prepared to take the lead in refusing further support to private or official laboratories engaged in research into poison gases and to introduce legislation prohibiting any person, private or military, from undertaking research into poison gas or bacteria. Mr. Baldwin's reply was that Britain must defend itself against attacks with poison gas and bacteria and for this reason the research work had to be continued.

We have here then, an armament preparation, a means of paving the way for broadcasting disease by scientific methods. It is optimistically stated that states, not withstanding their preparations for scientific warfare, would hesitate to apply such extreme measures in actual practice.

HUMAN IDEALS ARE SCRAPPED

Such an objection ignores the fact that when war is declared (if the state took the trouble to issue a declaration and no such declaration is going to be issued in future) all traditional conceptions of humanity are scrapped by every country. War mania knows but one aim, the complete and unscrupulous destruction of the enemy. The Swiss Divisional Colonel Gertsch, referring to the war plans of the great powers says that: The rapid and complete annihilation of the hostile army is essential for the preservation of the state, and the simultaneous destruction of one's own army would, if unavoidable, not be too high a price to pay for such a result.

Such then is the condition throughout the leading countries of the world regarding the use of poison gas and bacteria for future warfare. The complete story of the nature of a Future War can be read by any who desire to do so in a book written by eighteen experts;—What would be the character of a new war: and upon which book these two articles have been written. A book which leaders of English thought in every walk of life maintain should be proclaimed from every house top and preached from every pulpit in the land.

WHAT CAN THE INDIVIDUAL DO ABOUT IT?

Speaking to 3000 American college graduates, Dr. Sherwood Eddy made the following remarks:—

"What the three thousand of you do, or fail to do, in the years ahead may determine whether this country of ours is to do its full part in promoting international conciliation and cooperation, or whether it is to become the greatest of all menaces to international friendship and peace.

"Two courses are open to each one of you. If you choose you may consume your time and energy in the pursuit of comforts and luxuries, physical thrills and pleasures, blind and indifferent to the national perils of the hour. The generation before you made such a choice, throwing moral and spiritual values to the four winds, with the result that these last years have brought forth indescribable human agony and misery.

"If this generation drifts on, unseeing and unheeding, you and your children will pay in tears and blood. The sober truth is," says this educationalist, scientist and thinker, "that at this hour the nations of the world, including the United States, by manifesting the attitudes and engaging in the practises which produced the world war, are rushing surely and swiftly on toward another disaster, if left unchecked.

"You can, if you so desire, fritter away your energies on the irrelevancies of life, and wake up some morning before you die to find the world in flames. This is where chemical and bacteriological warfare will inevitably lead us.

"But you are also free," says Dr. Eddy, "to become an intelligent enthusiastic crusader for international understanding, friendship and cooperation. There is urgent need for trained men and women, disciplined in mind and spirit, as educators, journalists, diplomatists, clergymen, statement, religious educators, lawyers, missioners, business men, who will return to moral and spiritual values and who will create the attitudes and agencies of international peace and justice."

In the face of all the facts before us we can only agree with the editorial in the Daily News of a week or so ago: "There Must Be No More War."

FIRE FIGHTER LOSES FINGER

Blaze Near Yahk Destroys Bridge; Under Control

YAHK, B. C., Aug. 21 — Axel Erickson, who has been employed at Nakusp for two months returned Friday.

Mrs. Carl Anderson and children returned from Nelson Saturday after spending a vacation at the home of Mrs. Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Manson.

Axel Erickson of Wardner spent Sunday in town.

One of the negroes employed on the fire by United States was brought to town Saturday in a serious condition, by Henry Matson. He was taken by motor to Bonners Ferry hospital to receive medical attention. While working with his partner hewing fire guards, the latter's axe slipped, amputating his fellow worker's finger. The bone was split open and a deep wound cut across the back of the hand. Owing to the loss of so much blood the man will be some time recovering from the accident.

Nearly all the negro fire fighters were brought to Yahk Sunday morning from the border and taken back to the United States. Although the fire is still raging towards Coal Creek and C. P. R. timber, it is thought danger is passed at the boundary. The Yahk and Creston fire fighters are still employed, their camp being moved from Camp 3 to Coal Creek, about five miles distance. The trestle bridge at Camp 6 was burned out Saturday afternoon when the wind changed and the fire got out of control.

Miss Esther Pearson of Cranbrook is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peterson.

Pete Heric of Creston spent Saturday in town. He accompanied Jim MacDonald back to Creston.

GIVES TRANSIENT RIDE, IS SLUGGED

CRANBROOK, B. C., Aug. 21.—K. Maigawa, proprietor of a fruit stand in Cranbrook, is suffering from head injuries today as the result of an act of good will toward a stranger. Mr. Maigawa picked up a transient a few miles east of Nelson, on his way back to Cranbrook, by motor. All went well until within a half mile of the city when the stranger very effectively brandished the handle of a car jack. Mr. Maigawa put up a losing fight, the car wavered and left the road, and the stranger fled. The injured man was taken to the St. Eugene hospital where he was given first aid, before being sent home. No trace of the stranger has been found.

Transparent Apples Are Cleaned Up

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 21.—W. Cartwright, who will be in charge of Game Act enfirement work in this district this year, arrived in Creston yesterday to take up his new duties. He will have charge of the area east to Goatfell and along the lake to Gray Creek. Over 300 licenses to hunt were issued at Creston for 1932, which was somewhat below the average.

Shipping is quiet this week. Transparent apples are about all cleaned up, and Duchess will not be moving before the middle of next week. There is some volume to the tomato movement and so far selling agencies have been able to handle everything offering at quite satisfactory prices. So far there is no report of sun scald on the tomatoes, although the weather has been blistering hot without a break for over two weeks.

E. Glasier, chairman of the Wynndel school board, was a visitor to town today and reports that work has commenced on the erection of an apple packing and shipping warehouse at that point by the Co-Operative Fruit Growers association. Now that irrigation is available the production of apples at Wynndel has reached a volume where the former warehouse facilities is totally inadequate, especially for the shipping of the wrapped varieties.

Oscar Arrowsmith was in from Arrow Creek today and reports the strawberry shipping from that district over the anticipated 2000 crates, but that returns to the growers will be the lowest known since berries were introduced there.

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 21.—Early in the week the last cement was poured for the dam of the hydro development of West Kootenay Power & Light Company, at Goat River canyon, and work is now underway taking down the plank forms supporting the cement work. With the dam completed work will now centre on the power house which is to be rushed to completion as the crew in charge of wiring the transmission lines will complete their work before the end of the month, and the house wiring staff has many of the residences at Wynndel, Erickson, Cayon, as well as on the outskirts of town, ready for lighting. # Visiting Officials Speak, Creston Lodge

CRESTON, B. C., Aug. 21.—Wild Rose Lodge Knights of Pythias had the best turnout of the year at a meeting Thursday night on which occasion the lodge had an official visit from E. A. Hill of Cranbrook, grand chancellor of the grand lodge of British Columbia, who was accompanied by H. White of Trail, the Kootenay district deputy grand chancellor, and R. Balfour of Trail, who is grand lodge outer guard. The two former were speakers during the regular session of the lodge and all three visitors were heard informally at the banquet after lodge closed, which was spread in the basement of Trinity United church by a committee of members of Blossom Temple Pythian sisters, under the supervision of Mrs. Telford, worthy chieftain. At the after dinner speech making a number of the local knights were also heard.

G. M. Argue, a former manager of Creston Drug & Book Company, who is now manager of Beattie-Noble Limited, Cranbrook, was renewing acquaintances in town during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hulburt, who have been here from Moosejaw, Sask., on a visit with the latter's mother, Mrs. C. Fransen, left for home at the middle of the week.

Henry Bollinger, who has been at his ranch at Camp Lister, was in town early in the week, enroute to Nelson.

All the available unemployed in town and district have been picked up to assist with the work of controlling the forest fire in the Yahk area. For the first time in two years forester J. P. MacDonald, is now employing an assistant to look after the office work, while he is out directing fire fighting efforts.

Due inability to collect sufficient funds to take care of incorporating the Alice Siding section into a pound district, the project has been dropped for the present.

UN-BRITISH POLICE METHODS

The cause of British justice is being well served by the decision of Premier Henry of Ontario, following a report by a judge, that informations shall be laid against four Toronto police officers who have been accused of cooperating in a crime in order to catch some criminals.

Three years ago one William Toohey, a questionable character, "tipped off" the police that Albert Dorland was planning to rob a Toronto bank. The police thereupon induced Toohey to act as an accomplice of Dorland's in the attempted hold-up, to accompany him to the bank. When the two men drove up to the bank in a motor car, the police, lying in ambush, opened fire on the car, arrested both men, had them convicted and sent to prison. Some months ago, following a charge by Dorland that he had been "framed," the whole matter was inquired into by a Royal Commission, a report made censuring the police. Chief Draper, who was General Draper in the war, and who had a hand in the use of Toohey as a decoy, did not escape criticism.

The question, of course, resolves itself around the propriety of the police inducing a man to take part in a crime, in order to make an arrest. More than that, and seemingly worse, the man who was used as a decoy was himself sent to jail. Further, Dorland, after his arrest, was held for eight hours and taken from one questioning to another until he agreed to plead guilty.

Such practices smack more of Chicago than of Scotlyand yard. They are the sort of thing, in fact, which, across the line, make the police as feared as the gangster, which has destroyed public confidence where trust is absolutely essential.

In this country, as in all countries, the police have a great duty to perform, but in carrying out that duty it is essential that they conform to practices that are just, and which, above all else, must not imperil the citizen's rights.

This the British have insisted upon. There is no people in the world with more respect for the policeman's authority. But also there is no people in the world with more determination to keep the policeman within his bounds; only the other day despatches cited the case where the House of Commons compelled the Home Secretary to have the head of Scotland Yard apologize to an obscure citizen subjected to false arrest.

Canada might follow the British example. They are very wise and experienced over there in the maintenance of law and order, to say nothing of human liberty.

RUSSIA'S RECOVERY

R. J. Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, who has returned from a visit to Soviet Russia, makes the prediction that in 20 years Russia will again stand in its place among the leading nations of the world.

He gives Russia more than four times as many years as it took France to recover from the revolution of 1789 and he probably is not far from the mark.

Russia developed Socialism or communism to a far greater extent than the French revolutionists and the farther a nation goes in communism the longer it takes for recovery.

Mr. Cromie sees economic recognition of Russia by other nations as inevitable. He is right. Economic recognition must come, but as far as Canada is concerned when we grant economic recognition it must be with adequate safeguards against the flooding of our markets with goods produced under state control by the Soviets and sold at less than even the Russian cost of production.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

CERTITUDE

Though seven years in woe I went,
In lack of gladness or content,
No peace, but only longing's fangs
As fierce as pain's most cruel pangs,
I still would keep my certitude
Of the infinity of good!

Though seven years and seven more
Oppressed, yet still my being's core
Would hold this truth: that, near or far,
Love shines upon me like a star,
For some clear voice within my breast
Keeps whispering of peace and rest!

From whence it comes I do not know,
This sense that loss and grief must go,
That clouds of care must be blown on
Though now its mists obscure the sun;
But some far voice has promised me
The white peaks of tranquillity!

"Between You and Me"

By "THE STAFF"

Is there anyone now who doesn't believe civilization is progressing? Following hot on the steps of the Empire conference of last year, the world conference of this year, and budding forth while the Century of Progress is still active, comes the greatest thing since the Industrial Revolution—namely a KISSING MARATHON. Against this new sensation the old 20-odd mile run of the Greek recedes badly into an environment of commonplace and ordinary nothingness, the tree sitters will drop down from their leafy bowers with ape-like disconcertion, and transcontinental bike races will run their push machines into the back shed and blush for weeks when they think of their puny efforts in the past.

• • •

This will make Judge Lindsay's "companionate marriage" smack a trifle of the remote and colorless dark ages, for here we have "free love" of the most gratis sort. Nor was it unheralded. John Milton, the great lyric poet of England, while writing "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained" with his right hand, was busy with his left composing "Areopagitica" his burning plea for the freedom of the "press." And we thought all the time he meant the right of printed speech.

The rules for the contest are very fair, no onions of course; and no advances to the judges—let us at least have one event that will be free from favoritism and where the deserving can win.

Tentative entrants in the vicinity are a little troubled, however, about the points that the rules don't clarify. For instance, it is to be one long big osculation, or a series of embraces. A pessimistic growler here believes that if the latter plan is adopted, the noble kisses, though starting fervently enough, will eventually become nothing but a series of pecks. And what about coming up for air, and food? There's a couple of "ruba."

Then too, the unromantic soul starting this venture, is beginning it in the afternoon—well in that case the records are doomed to tumble. When they hold the next one, in the spring of 1934, and in the evening with the moon pouring down, we can expect greater things.

So hurrah for progress; And to the devil with the depression—Feed the cat another goldfish!

They had Nelson's mayor dead in Vancouver yesterday for a time, until the reports reached the office of the Canadian Press, whereupon, at 4:40 p.m., the following messages were exchanged with The Nelson Daily News editorial room, and settled the matter on the authority of Mayor Sid himself:

"Correspondent, Nx.

"Appreciate check any truth reports here Mayor Smithe died suddenly today. Tnx.

"MARY FAITH"

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"I may go down to the office tomorrow," he told her at the end of the afternoon. "I can get around pretty well now with a cane; and I'd like to be on the job just now at the close of the year."

Mary Faith shook her head. "Oh, I think you ought to wait for a few days before you try it, Mr. Nesbit. The stairs in the building are so steep and the floors are so slippery."

But the next morning when she got down to the office there was a light burning behind the frosted-glass pane in his door.

"Great Galusha's back on the job this morning, Miss Fenton," Stanley Odeskalki told her, looking up from the typewriter that he was oiling. "Gee, if I was my own boss, the way he is, I bet I wouldn't come down to work on a cane! I'd stay home for another month."

At half past nine exactly the buzzer on Mary Faith's desk sounded. She got up and carried the morning mail into Mark Nesbit's office, just as she had carried it in to him at half past nine every morning for years.

It was on the tip of her tongue to say to him: "Well, you made it, I see! But you know you ought to have stayed at home."

All she did say, however, was "Good morning, Mr. Nesbit," just as she had always said it, in a polite office-voice.

"Good morning, Mary Faith." He smiled at her gravely as he picked up one of the envelopes that she laid before him on his desk. "Will you please ask Bassett to come up here in about 10 minutes?"

Everything was just as it always had been. Like magic both of them clicked back into the well-oiled office machinery of the Nesbit Mercantile company.

And yet there was a difference. That noon he came limping into her office and stood beside her desk. He had on his overcoat and his hat and brief-case were in his hand.

"Good-bye, Mary Faith," he said. "Don't work late. Remember it's Saturday . . . I'm going to miss you at lunch today. We've had some pretty good talks the last couple of weeks, haven't we?"

"Haven't we!" Mary Faith's face flushed with pleasure. "These two weeks have been a holiday for me; but they couldn't have been so very grand for you, shut up in one room most of the time."

She pushed back her chair and got up as he turned to go.

"I'm going to go down to your car with you, if you don't mind," she said. "First thing you know your cane will slip on this floor and you'll be back in the wheel chair for another two weeks."

Side by side they crossed the office and got into the elevator. Down in the street the big, plum-colored limousine waited. As Mark Nesbit paused beside it, with his foot on the step, he half turned and held one of Mary Faith's hands tightly in his for a second.

"You 'mother' me don't you, Mary Faith?" he asked, his head bent over hers. "And, do you know, I like it! I do. I think it's fine."

"Great hulligan, but you and the boss are getting to be clubby!" Jean Bartlett remarked when she walked into the office two or three minutes afterward. "If this keeps up you'll soon be forgetting Handsome's nailed-down hair and built-up shoulders!"

Late that afternoon when Mary Faith got home there was a long florist's box for her lying on the table in the hall.

"A colored chauffeur—in livery, if you please—brought it here about one o'clock," Mrs. Puckett told her, coming out of the parlor. "There's roses and narcissus in it, by the smell . . . I never have been able to abide the smell of narcissus since Mr. P.'s funeral."

But she stood close by, watching, while Mary Faith opened the box and lifted out the pink roses and starry white narcissus that lay in it.

"There's a card with them, Mary Faith!" she said. "The car was a dark purplish-red one—kind of a plum color. I told Mr. McClintock and Mr. Vining that I bet it was your Mr. Nesbit's car."

Mary Faith knew that the flowers were from Mark Nesbit before she drew his card out of the envelope that had been tucked among them. Who else would be sending flowers to her?

Mrs. Puckett read the card over her shoulder. "Hmm—he did send them. Well, this begins to look serious, Mary Faith."

"Nonsense, Mrs. Puckett!" Mary Faith said sensibly. "This is just his way of saying 'thanks' for all the extra work I've done for him the last couple of weeks."

Mrs. Puckett sniffed and shrugged her shoulders. "You've done lots of extra work for him long before now, and he never sent you flowers," she pointed out. "And I know that I've done lots of extra work for men folks in my lifetime, to, but not one of them ever sent me a whole box of roses, or even a simple dandelion! He's been lending you books, too. I've seen them up in your room with his name written in them . . . You mark my words, Mary Faith, he means business!"

That was on Saturday.

At half past four on the next Friday afternoon, Mark Nesbit came into Mary Faith's little office and sat down on the corner of her desk.

"Mary Faith, do you know what a dinner ring is?" he asked, lighting a cigarette.

She said that she did. "It's a large ring that women wear on their little finger. It's usually made of platinum or white gold and is set with diamonds, I believe. It's a very special kind of ring."

"Well, Judy wants one for Christmas. She says some of her buddies at school have them. But, gosh, wouldn't it be too elaborate for her?"

"She's only 15, isn't she?" mused Mary Faith. She had not seen Judy Nesbit, who was the baby of the family, for three years, and she remembered her at a simple child's party with long slim legs and the comical-sweet face of a pansy. "It seems to me she's pretty young for diamonds. But you must get her some kind of a ring . . . You know, when you've set your heart on a certain thing it's very disappointing not to get it on Christmas morning."

"That's true." He nodded and got up from the corner of the desk. "Well, will you help me pick out a ring for her then? I'll get my car out of the parking space and meet you down stairs in five minutes."

Outside it was cold and crisp and snowy—perfect holiday weather. By the time Mark Nesbit's car had nosed its way into the crowded shopping district the streets were filled with sapphire dusk and red-and-green festoons of light were shining in the shop windows.

The car was held up for two or three minutes in the traffic at the corner of Spring street and Sixth. That corner had once been a place of enchantment for Mary Faith because it was there that she had always waited for Kim when she had an engagement with him.

On the next corner stood the City Bank building where he worked. She found herself looking up at the lighted windows of McIntrae and Westover on the fifth floor . . . Kim was probably up there now, winding up his day's work in the offices where he had met that Janet-girl of his . . .

"I think we'll go to Armbruster's for the ring," Mark Nesbit was saying as he swung his car into the yawning doorway of the Spring Street garage. "I have a charge account there, haven't I, Mary Faith?"

There were no holly wreaths, no red-and-green lights, in the windows of Ambruster's jewelry store. For Armbruster's prided itself on its exclusiveness and its old-fashioned dignity. It was the oldest store on Spring street. It never advertised in the newspapers and it never made any holiday display.

"Sometimes I bring my wrist-watch in here to have it regulated," Mary Faith said as they stepped inside. "And just to walk into the place makes me feel like the Queen of Siam."

A salesman in a frock coat and a high wing collar came up to them bowing, as Mary Faith said to herself, scraping. He led them halfway down the center aisle and laid two trays full of glittering rings on the showcase in front of them.

"Don't you think an aquamarine would be nice for Judy, Mr. Nesbit? Or a white-gold signet ring with just one or two little diamonds set in it, perhaps?" asked Mary Faith.

She had a sudden, uneasy feeling that someone was watching her. She half turned away from the showcase to look about her—and there, not ten feet from her, stood Kim Farrell!

Kim was leaning over the counter, holding two mesh bags in his hands. Beside him stood a girl whom Mary Faith could not see.

He was not looking at the mesh bags or at the girl. His eyes were on Mary Faith's eyes; and as she watched him he laid the bags down upon the showcase and came toward her.

"Hello," he said and held out his hand.

"Hello, yourself." Mary Faith never knew how she managed to say those two words in that cheerful, offhand way. She did not touch his hand.

"How are you these days, Mary Faith?"

"Oh, I'm all right. I jog along," she answered. With an effort she turned her head away from him, then turned her whole body away.

"Don't you think an aquamarine would be just the thing?" she asked Mark Nesbit again, without clearly knowing what she said.

They finally decided on one. A small square one set in a circle of seed pearls. They waited while it was put into a white velvet box and wrapped up in white-and-silver paper.

Auction and Contract Bridge

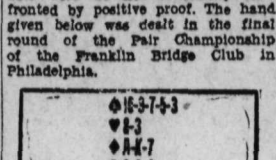
By the World's Leading Authority, MILTON C. WORK

A SAFETY PLAY

The large number of hands that are dealt in actual play in which the Two-Club Game-Demand bid enables its user to count the tricks in the combined hands with marvellous accuracy, would be unbelievable were we not constantly confronted by positive proof. The hand given below was dealt in the final round of the Pair Championship of the Franklin Bridge Club in Philadelphia.



North and South using the Two-Club Game-Demand bid obtained valuable information in the following manner. South started the auction with two Clubs, West passed, and North bid two No Trumps. This told South that North held an Ace and a King and, as South had three Aces and three Kings, he knew that North's Ace and King were both in the Diamond suit. The possible losers in the South hand were now reduced to three, but being able to investigate still further, South called three Hearts (instead of blindly bidding four No Trumps): after that North bid three Spades. This told South that North had either of two Spade holdings, viz. Queen-10-x-x, or any five cards of that suit. With either the combined hands were practically sure to produce a small slam and a Grand Slam was very possible, especially if North held five Spades and surely if he had five Spades headed by the Queen. However, as the combined hands might contain one sure loser, the situation did not justify a bid of more than six No Trumps.

In the play East's opening lead was the Five of Clubs and when the dummy appeared, Declarer could see that the hand can be played so as to make the small slam a certainty. The sound play was to lead the Ace and King of Spades to tricks 2 and 3, hoping that the Queen would be singly guarded; but when the Queen failed to drop, to lead the Jack of Spades, permitting the adverse Queen to win but making the balance of the tricks a showdown.

Some grasping Declarers, anxious for a top score, tried to take the thirteen tricks by cashing the Ace of Spades and then putting North in with a Diamond on trick 3 to lead a Spade for the finesse. At these tables West won with the Queen of Spades and led a second Diamond. That shut out North's long Spades because North, being obliged to win with the Ace of Diamonds, had no entry after South's blocking King was removed. Consequently, the Declarers who tried for thirteen tricks took only ten.

What the Press Is Saying

THAT SPORTING INSTINCT

It is worth telling what happened the other day at Derby, the famous British horse race, and perhaps the most famous race in the world. This national event is held annually on the no less famous course at Epsom, to the south of London.

The peculiar thing about the race course is that it is situated on the so-called downs, which are common land. According to the ancient law of the country, a common belongs to the public and cannot be enclosed. The result of this has been that every year in the week preceding the derby, Londoners in their thousands have come out on the glorious freedom of the downs.

They roamed all over the place and even camped there for the night. The grass on the course, in consequence, was badly trampled upon in places, and the springy turf became iron-hard as if after the passage of a steam roller.

This year the authorities had an inspiration. They surrounded the track with notices, in which the right of the public to circulate freely was proclaimed, but an appeal was made to the sporting feeling of the people to preserve the grass for the horses.

Thousands came out this year to the downs, but not one went beyond the line of notice-boards, although there was not a single guard or policeman in sight. The grass, on the day of the derby, was like velvet. —London correspondence, New York Times.

CHINA

A little more intelligence in handling the traffic and operating the signal lights is urgently needed at the end of the Ezechuen Road bridge. Constituting the steepest gradient in Shanghai, it is a hard pull for a ricsha coolie over the bridge and when he is once over it is almost impossible for him to retard the speed of the ricsha down the slope when the traffic lights are turned against him and the unfortunate passenger measures his escape from accident by inches as the coolie endeavors to pull up and miss the motor cars and other vehicles crossing the foot of the bridge at Soochow road.

This is no problem for the car, but it is a serious problem for the ricsha coolie and his passenger. Some car drivers, realizing the predicament of the coolie as he runs down the slope with his ricsha almost out of control, pull up and give the man a chance, but it does not often happen that such is the case. Some sort of traffic signal in the center of the bridge might obviate this difficulty—North China News, Shanghai.

CONSISTENT ADVERTISERS WINNING OUT

Booming of securities and commodities has increased most of the business of those brokers and commission merchants who have been consistent advertisers during the depression. These are increasing their advertising in line with the new opportunities and they are doing much better than those competitors who abstained from advertising while business was dull.

Those who have not been advertising in the last few years are coming in again. They find that they have to do so to get the business and that they have to advertise much more than they otherwise would to regain the ground lost as a result of their long silence. Every business depression of the past has underlined this lesson but a lot of business men have to learn it anew each time.—Financial Post.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

OVERWEIGHT INDIVIDUALS HAVE LARGE STORAGE TANK OF WATER

Overweight individuals will cut down on bread, potatoes, pastry, butter and cream in an effort to reduce their weight, but will continue to drink large quantities of water and other liquids, because liquids do not put on fat.

Strictly speaking, liquids do not put on fat tissues, but they do put on weight and they do prevent fat from being used up as readily as it would be were the liquids not taken.

It isn't a matter of water not being good for all mankind. Water is the very first thing needed to maintain the proper working of the body, just as food is needed to provide the structure of the body.

But the body at all times has a good supply of water on hand, and only needs a certain amount every day to keep its needs supplied.

Just as you see storage tanks of water on the roofs of factories to be used in an emergency, so all your tissues have a goodly supply of water stored away. This water is not in any one place like the storage tank, but in and about all the tissues, and actually forming part of the tissues themselves.

When you exercise and the perspiration pours out on the surface of the skin, then your tissues have given up that much water and you are just that much lighter in weight. Some fat tissue has been used up by the exercise, but water makes up most of the weight lost.

If however after exercising and losing all this water, or even if you simply perspire without taking exercise, and because you feel thirsty drink three or four glasses of water then immediately you are just that much heavier again.

With those of normal weight, this perspiring and then drinking water is helpful to the system; in fact it is helpful also to the overweight individual in a general way, but as a matter of fact he doesn't need all this water, and it only increases his weight.

In other words the tissues and spaces of the overweight hold so much more water than he needs, that he has too large a "storage tank" of water. Thus if he loses considerable water by perspiration and uses up some of the water in his storage tank, he is bound to lose some of his weight.

What Do You Think?

To the editor:

Sir—While there appears to be a lot of loose talk and chatter about the C. C. F. to the casual observer the local organization appears to be as vague and impersonal as Technocracy or the Einstein theory. It does not seem to have any more head or tail than a mud turtle's egg and is as leaderless as a swarm of tad-poles, swimming in a millpond. It appears to be merely a group of self-appointed Messiahs who are itching to be candidates in the forth-coming election but ready to climb on the opposition band-wagon, if they do not get the nomination as the C. C. F. white hope. Apart from the big shots, the C. C. F. seems as secretive as the Klu Klux Klan.

Naturally the free and intelligent electorate wants to know who is the local Moses who is to lead us out of the wilderness and wonders at the delay in choosing a standard-bearer. We are told that the C. C. F. will wreck our present system utterly and replace it with a radically new model. Have we not a right to know who is this wizard, who is to "take this sorry scheme of things entire—shatter it to bits and mould it nearer to the heart's desire?" Have we not a right to compare the home-brewed eloquence of our local spell-binder, with the silver tongued oratory of the prairie roosters who have been crowing in our barn-yard? Have we not the right to decide whether the local C. C. F. candidate is a sap or a saviour?

While the logical answer is that we have that sacred right, it is erroneous. The constitution of the B. C.—C.C.F. explicitly states that "A candidate for election to public office must, before being announced, receive the approval of the provincial executive (nine members) who shall, if necessary, pass upon his (or her) qualifications, which shall include a fundamental knowledge of Socialism."

If this means anything at all, it means that a demagogic clique can reject all local aspirants and nominate any outside dock-walloper who knows his Marx. Are the voters of this province prepared to delegate such dictatorial powers to an un-tried Brain Trust? Nuff said.

FREEDOM FIRST.

The popular idea that half the year is dark at the Polar regions is incorrect; there is night only one-third of the year at the North Pole.

MAKE SPIDERS USEFUL

Spiders that prey exclusively on bedbugs are being experimentally reared in Berlin by Dr. Albrecht Hase, of the National Biological institute for agriculture and forestry. Dr. Hase thinks it may be possible to make use of these spiders practically in vermin-infested buildings.

Biologists became acquainted with this species of spider during and immediately after the war, when thousands of refugees were crowded into inadequate quarters in Greece. It is an active, quick moving, hunting spider of rather small size. Its zoological name, thanatos flavidus, is singularly appropriate to its habits, for it means "yellow death."

AVOID THE DANGER OF CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Overcomes This Condition Safely and Pleasantly

The first signs of constipation may be headaches, tired feelings, sallow complexions, sleeplessness, loss of appetite. If neglected, constipation may seriously impair health.

Today, you can banish constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action similar to leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, and gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of common constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

ANOTHER FIRE NEAR FERNIE

FERNIE, B. C., Aug. 21—A new fire started in the Fernie district Saturday beginning along side the new road six miles west of Fernie, burning up on the west side of the road half a mile up the Lazards through the cut-over section of the old Farquarson property. Cool weather Sunday retarded its progress.

The fire in the upper Elk River valley which has burned over an area of 25 square miles of heavy timber is now burning around Fording river on Crows Nest coal company property. A coal company crew of 15 men have it pretty well in hand.

The government has about 25 men fighting the two other sections which the fire is concentrated, one on Martin creek to keep it from spreading south.

They are not travelling at any rate and are well guarded.

SOVIET SEEKING STARS FOR MOVIES

Soviet Decides People Will Idolize Leading Players; Wants Home Talent

MOSCOW.—The Soviet populace, too, soon will have its "movie stars." Word has been passed to the film-producing organizations to build up cinema personalities and to popularize individual artists.

In other countries, where screen favorites are a matter of course, this may not sound like news. In the new Russia it is an innovation. Heretofore the films were almost anonymous. It was always the picture as a whole, rather than any of its players, which was presented. If any special credit was given, the director rather than any player was honored.

Thus it happened that picture fans perfectly familiar with Chaplin, Fairbanks, Jannings and other foreigners did not know the names of the men and women in lead roles in the films of their own country.

The decision to permit the development of "stars"—although the word is not used officially—fits in with a tendency towards more liberty policy in all the arts. The powers that we have at last realized what outsiders long knew as a fact, namely, that Soviet films with few exceptions have been boring. They have determined to make their productions hereafter more interesting.

Cinema trusts here have reached quickly to the new "directive," as orders from higher-up are called. They are frankly on the look-up for film star material. A few pretty actresses, who have found a way somehow into the heart of the crowd here despite the ban on stars, now will come into their glory. Emma Cessarskaya—known in America for her role in "The Village of Sin" and other pictures—is a case in point. But state producers are deliberately seeking out possible stars, something which has not happened for years.

HUGE CONE IS AID TREASURE SEEKERS

Dutch Hope to Recover Gold From British Frigate in North Sea Shallows

PARIS—Forthcoming errors by a Dutch syndicate to raise the British flagship 'La Lutine," entombed 134 years in North Sea shallows, off the island of Ter Schelling, have revived French interests in its treasure, reputedly $6,000,000 in gold ingots.

In 1867 the French made a futile and costly attempt to raise the sand-buried ship, and in that abortive venture $2,000,000 in small savings of thousands of Frenchmen were lost. Subsequently British and Germans struggled valiantly over the ship's tomb, lured by the gold sealed in her bulkheads.

It was in October, 1799, when the flagship was carrying $1,200,000 from the Bank of England to failing Hamburg banks, that "La Lutine" went down in a memorable storm. Only one of the crew was washed ashore alive.

For five decades the topmasts of the frigate were visible at low tide, thus marking her grave. But when the French, and later the British, sought to raise the treasure, tedious dragging operations in heavy seas were required to locate the wreck.

The costs of the Dutch expedition have been defrayed by popular subscription as were the French and German efforts; the British attempt on the other hand, was undertaken by the navy. Technically, the Dutch project revolves around an immense submersible steel cone, 60 feet in diameter at the base, an invention by a Dr. Beckers and constructed with great secrecy at Amsterdam.

The plan in general provides for the lowering of this cone immediately over or beside the wreck, which already has been located by magnetic means. The cone will contain a number of divers, electric drills, searchlights, and other underwater apparatus. An outlet, similar in principle to the escape-chambers with which modern submarines are equipped, will permit divers to leave and enter at will.

If divers determine that buoy-cables cannot be swung under the frigate to raise her to the surface, they will strive to blast away the shifting sands to the treasure.

STOCKS FIRM IN QUIET DAY

Changes Are Narrow; a Few of Leaders Up About 3 Points

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Stocks improved in quiet trading today. Gains were erratic, but closed with narrow changes and shares reached their best levels after dealings had ceased on Chicago board of trade.

A few leaders were up about 3 points, while the average advance amounted to around a point and a half. The turnover, 1,562,429 shares, tallied closely with recent totals, at times the market was extremely dull.

Gains were well distributed among industrial equities. Rails were firm but utilities lagged. Steels, "farm belt" stocks, chemicals, oils and repeal shares went ahead rather easily and throughout the session the market ruled above last Friday's close.

Wall street apparently decided happenings over the holiday had leaned toward the constructive side. Completion of steel, oil and lumber codes and prospects a coal agreement would soon be reached removed some uncertainties and brought so much nearer the end of the NRA drive and inauguration of the government's campaign to stimulate consumer buying.

EGGS FIRM

MONTREAL, Aug. 21 (CP)—Firmness was displayed by eggs on Montreal dairy and produce market today. Graded shipments in carlots or less ranged from 21 to 22 cents a dozen for extras, 16½ to 17½ cents for firsts and 13½ to 14 cents for seconds, unchanged to half a cent firmer than last week's close. Receipts were light, totalling 344 cases for the day.

The butter market was generally quoted at 18¼ cents a pound for No. 1 grade in carlots or less, ¼ of a cent less than Saturday's final price. Receipts amounted to 466 boxes.

Cheese failed to register any change with Ontarios bringing 10 to 10½ cents a pound and Quebecs half a cent less. A total of 1183 boxes was offered for sale.

New Quebec potatoes in 80-pound bags continued to bring 80 to 90 cents.

WHEAT SLIPS FRACTIONALLY

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21 (CP)—Absence of any export demand and a decided lack of interest in operations on the part of traders, sent wheat futures fractionally lower on the grain exchange today and at the close values were ¼ to ½ cent under Saturday's finish.

Final quotations showed October at 71, December at 73 and May at 78. Though some recovery was made from low points, the market showed very little buoyancy. A little selling pressure from Chicago combined with limited hedging sales gave the pit all it could handle.

Export trade over the weekend was extremely light and no sales developed during the session.

NICKEL IS THE STRONG FEATURE

MONTREAL, Aug. 21 (CP)—With trading quiet for the major part of the day, prices on Montreal stock exchange recorded strength during today's session, and gains outnumbered losses at the close.

International Nickel was the strong feature. In late trading the stock bid up to 21.20, holding a net advance of 50 cents over last Friday's close. Canadian Industrial Alcohol firmed a full point at 19½ while the "B" shares were ⅛ higher at 18.

Steel of Canada advanced a full point at 29.

Losses recorded were of only minor consideration. Canadian Pacific at 16⅞ and Hamilton Bridge at 8⅞ both eased ⅛ and Canadian Car was ¼ lower at 8¾. Hollinger held unchanged.

Sales 19,386 shares; bonds $14,650.

Intermediates May Play With Seniors

A special meeting of the intermediate baseball league executive was held after the baseball game on Sunday afternoon, to discuss plans for the playoffs and whether Culley, Argure, Wallace and Vance should be reinstated to the intermediate league, as according to the rules all were barred from further participation in intermediate games, for having taken part in two senior games. It was decided to bar all four players from the playoffs, but in the future any player will be allowed to play with the senior team without spoiling his standing in the intermediate league games, as well as with the junior rep team, on the condition that their teams have no game scheduled for the same time and date as the senior game they participate in. Players on the Young Liberals team who are out of the playoffs, were distributed among the teams in the playoffs so as to give as many players as possible play till the end of the season. The Maulers won the toss to take first choice and drew Mark Crahan star second baseman of the junior rep team, and then withdrew from any further participation in the draw. Fairview drew Phil Kuntz, Elmer Gibbons and Art Waters. ### Big League BASEBALL

Head-First Slide

BY AL DEMAREE

The head-first slide, while not used as often as the orthodox feet-first "hook-slide", has its place in base running.

It is usually used when a base runner is caught "standing up" and apparently about to give himself up. The runner then attempts to surprise the baseman waiting with the ball by taking a quick head-first long, body slide, gropes for the bag with one hand and throws his body completely out of the baseline.

Head-first sliding is also used by base runner on first base, in getting back to the bag safely, when a quick throw from the pitcher catches them off stride.

Many of the old-time base runners carried a kid glove in their pocket which they pulled on when they arrived at first base.

Al Demaree has prepared an illustrated leaflet on "The Art of Pitching" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Say Chernenkoff Bought Property

Another case intervened, however, and Stipendiary Magistrate John Cartmel finally put over the conclusion of the case to Tuesday morning.

The four crown witnesses were James Dronsfield, superintendent of the Dominion employment service, who produced the affidavit executed by Chernenkoff stating he and his family were indigent, Ronald Sampson, relief officer, who proved the receipt by Chernenkoff of relief amounting to $321 between last November and Aug. 7, E. H. Evans, who showed that the accused bought land at Taghum in the spring of 1932 through Hugh W. Robertson, paying $750 cash for it; and R. T. # TELLS ROTARY CLUB OF C.C.F.

Dr. Walley Speaks Under Auspices Canadian Committee

Under the auspices of the Canadian committee of the Nelson Rotary club Monday, Dr. G. A. C. Walley gave Nelson Rotarians a brief exposition of the aims of the Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, popularly known as the C. C. F.

Describing the superseeding of more primitive economic systems by capitalism, which operates on the profit principle, he asserted capitalism in turn was about to be replaced by another order. He didn't care what the new order was called —socialism or something else.

Various European countries, Dr. Walley said, had experimented with advanced parties, notably Germany. Canada's history for 30 years was one of third parties, an indication that the people were dissatisfied. Some of the new parties had secured power provincially, and the reason they didn't succeed was possibly because they were not broad enough.

ORIGIN OF MOVEMENT

Two years ago professional men and intellectuals of Toronto organized a League for Political Progress, pledging support to any agencies that would use their principles. Others were formed in other cities. A year ago a convention of various groups thus interested in political advance was held in Calgary, and the result was the C. C. F., of which all had read in the press—some press reports being favorable, but the most of them being unfavorable.

Reading from the C. C. F. national manifesto, published in a recent issue of the Vancouver Commonwealth, the speaker enumerated some of the leading planks of the new political party. The C. C. F. was described as a federation of organizations whose purpose was the establishment in Canada of a Co-operative commonwealth in which the basic principle regulating production, distribtution and exchange would be the supplying of human needs and not the making of profits.

Among the planks enumerated were:

LEADING PLANKS

Establishment of a planned, socialized economic order in order to make possible the most efficient development of the national resources and the most equitable distribution of the national income.

Socialization of all financial machinery—banking, currency, credit, and insurance.

Socialization of transportation, communications, electric power, and all other industries and services essential to social planning.

Regulation of external trade through import and export boards.

A national labor code to secure for the worker maximum income and leisure, insurance covering illness, accident, old age, and unemployment, freedom of association, and an effective voice in the management of his industry or profession.

Socialized health services.

Amendment of the Canadian constitution without infringing on minority rights or legitimate provincial autonomy, to give the Dominion enlarged powers to deal with national economic questions, and to abolish the senate.

LESSEN IRREGULARITIES

A new taxation policy designed to lessen glaring inequalities of income and to provide funds for social services and the socialization of industry.

Repeal of section 98 of the Criminal Code—which deals with sedition.

Setting up of a commission of social minded experts to deal with crime and punishment.

Assumption by the Dominion of direct responsibility for dealing with the present unemployment situation.

Dr. Walley argued that the elimination of the profit principle would not necessarily destroy individual initiative.

He also said the plank on correcting inequalities in income did not mean that all individuals would be made equal in income.

C. B. Garland, chairman of the Canadian committee, thanked the speaker for his informing and interesting address.

VINES PUZZLED

His Fourth Straight Defeat Makes Pasadena Think

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21—Four straight defeats have made Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, puzzled but not worried.

The Pasadenan who holds the unique record of winning both the American and British titles before reaching his majority last September was musing over his prospects today as he watched the rain wash away the opening round of the national doubles play at Longwood, where he and Keith Gledhill will defend their team championship.

Vines appeared as if he had forgotten the five set defeat Jack Crawford of Australia gave him in the Wimbledon final this year and his Davis cup failure against Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin in the inter-zone finals with England, but the memory of Frank X. Shields' straight set decision over him at Newport last week still was painful.

Tennis observers, who accompanied Vines through Europe and were with him at Newport last week, were not very hopeful about his chances if he meets Crawford in the national singles tourney. And they considered Perry and Shields only a little less dangerous to Vines' title defending hopes.

Cancer Danger in Sun-Bath—Medicos Warn

According to noted dermatologists of two continents, the prevailing fad of sun-bathing is definitely linked to the dread disease of cancer. In a recently published book on "Disease Due to Light," Hubert Jausion, noted French physician, stated that 14 per cent of the cases of cancer of the skin treated in hospitals in Marseilles have been traced to sunburn. However, it is but fair to Old Sol to point out that sun-bathing in moderation rarely brings such tragic results. Elderly persons are especially warned that over-exposure to the sun may have undesirable effects. A famous sun-bather, George Bernard Shaw, famous dramatist, seems to scoff at such warnings. He takes daily sun-baths, to which he attributes his marvellous health. Then, too, the millions of sun-bathers on our beaches do not seem to take the warning seriously.

NELSON COUNCIL APPROVES CONFERENCE CALLED TRAIL

Believes in Protesting Curtailment of Grants and New Burden of Social Services at Commission Hearing; to Attend

Invitation of Trail city council, to attend a conference of Kootenay-Boundary city councils at Trail September 7 to discuss concerted representations before the royal commission on municipal finance which is to hold a public sitting at Nelson September 11, was accepted by the Nelson city council Monday night.

Alderman J. B. Gray, chairman of finance, and the council generally held that this was Nelson's opportunity to protest vigorously both at the curtailment of the grants from liquor and race track profits and at the saddling of social service costs on the city.

The Trail letter said the councils of Grand Forks, Rossland, Kaslo, Cranbrook and Fernie were also being invited.

CRANBROOK SAME IDEA

A letter from the Cranbrook city clerk, written before Trail's intention of proposing a conference was known, advised City Clerk W. E. Wasson that Mayor T. M. Roberts would be here to appear before the commission on behalf of Cranbrook, and that he hoped some kind of conference could be arranged before the hearing.

Probably the Nelson council will attend the Trail conference in force.

It is presumed that the conference will name a committee of spokesmen to put the views of the Kootenay centers before the commission.

RAIN DAMPENS FOREST FIRES

Few Burning Still; New Fire Reported Burning, Upper Arrow

Although there are still a few fires burning in the district the situation was well in hand Monday following the fairly general showers which fell Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Monday a new fire was reported burning on the upper Arrow lake about six or eight miles from the head of the lake on Pingston creek.

At Lafferty and Sutherland creek, above Christina lake, where two big fires have been raging, rain fell for six hours and while it did not extinguish them entirely, it checked them sufficiently to reduce the crews. The C.P.R. still retains fire fighters at Lafferty. A party motoring over from the Boundary Monday stated that the road was damp all the way over. At Grand Forks, however, the showers were light and scattered.

The Goose creek fire is just about out but men are still being retained for patrol purposes. Rain fell for four hours on the Elk river and on the Canuck creek area near Yahk. Moisture extended to the north end of Kootenay lake and as far east as Moyie lake.

Talks With Forbes Prove Satisfactory

OTTAWA, Aug. 21 (CP)—Highly satisfactory talks were held by members of the government over the week-end with Premier G. W. Forbes of New Zealand in the course of his visit to Canada, it was learned today. The trade agreement between Canada and New Zealand expires this fall.

One of the chief difficulties in trade relations between the two dominions is regarding butter. It is one of the principal exports from New Zealand but if large quantities were imported into Canada it might break prices for Canadian dairymen. It is doubtful if any announcement will be made until Mr. Forbes returns to New Zealand and takes up the suggestions with his conferers.

FINE DAY FOLLOWS REFRESHING RAIN

Clouds rolled back to leave the blue Monday following the refreshing showers of Saturday and Sunday, and Nelson and district residents enjoyed one of the most pleasant days of the present season.

Urban John Hodapp

Second base for the Boston Red Sox. In 1932 Cleveland decided Hodapp was through and traded him to Chicago, but he was unable to show anything for the White Sox and was traded to Boston. Then the change of scenery did Hodapp a lot of good and he has been leading the Red Sox in batting with a mark of .334 and fielding fairly well. In fact, he has been a big factor in the Red Sox improved showing this season.
