Washington Is Willing to Admit Conditions in Own Country Are in Bad Shape

Fearful Lest the Gold Standard Should Be Abolished

STEEL'S WAGE CUT HAS AN ODD RESULT

Demand of American Legion for Beer Brings New Threat

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28.—(By Ken. Clark, Canadian Press Staff Writer)—Washington is puzzled and confused. If the administration and the experts know what to think about Great Britain supsending the gold standard, the steel industry cutting wages 10-pen cent increase in taxes and unemployment and the American legion voting for beer, they are not saying.

Without mincing words, there is nobody in Washington of any intelligence who does not know the situation can only be described as bad. All await events with trepidation.

With respect to the gold standard there is no doupt Washington is fearful lest it be abolished. Alternatives very clearly offer themselves. First, a return, some say to retrogression, to bi-metallism: second an advance to some vague unit of international exchange based on a national capacity to pay. The impression is gained here there will be no return to the old gold-silver system.

EXPECT END OF FISHING STRIKE ALONG THE COAST

PORT ALBERNI, B. C., Sept. 28.—(CP)—Arrival here tonight or tomorrow of T. Matsuyama, of Vancouver, representing the exporters of salt fish to Japan, will, it is expected, start negotiations to end the strike of Chum Salmon fishermen which has been in progress for several days. Mr. Matsuyama has been sent for by the Japanese operators of the salteries on Barkley sound, following the rejection by the white fishermen of an offer of eight cents per fish. The strike was called by the fishermen to secure and increase to 10 cents per fish, the price originally offered by the salteries having been five cents.

WEIR AND ROBERTSON MEET AT REGINA

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 28—Arriving here early tonight from Calgary, Hon. Robert Weir, federal minister of agriculture and Senator Gideon Robertson, minister of labor, went into immediate conference on relief matters with Premier J. T. M. Anderson and other members of the Saskatchewan cabinet at the parliament buildings.

REFUSAL TO MOVE WILL COST MEAL AND BED TICKET

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28—Unemployed men who refuse to go to relief work camps will not be given meal and bed tickets by the Vancouver relief department, according to instructions received today by Relief Officer H. W. Cooper from Hon. W. A. McKenzie, provincial minister of labor.

This information was passed on this afternoon by Col. Cooper to a delegation representing a number of jobless who protested against going to the Alico relief base, where it is proposed to house unemployed pending their removal to work camps. The delegation planned to announce the policy to a gathering at Powell street grounds.

CHANGE IMPORT REGULATIONS TO MEET DISCOUNT

Drastic Steps to Be Taken to Guard Against Wholesale Dumping of Goods

OTTAWA, Sept. 28 (CP)—Designed to counteract exchange fluctuations, regulations applying to imports into Canada from countries with discounted or appreciated currency, were issued today by the department of national revenue. When appraised for duty purposes, the currency value of the country shipping the goods will be a determining factor. Drastic steps will be taken to guarantee against wholesale dumping by countries with a monetary advantage over Canada.

In regard to currencies which are at an exchange rate adverse to Canada, the value for duty in Canadian currency is to be determined by advancing the actual home consumption value by the amount of the premium at the rate or average rate of exchange current upon the date of shipment.

The importer is to state on invoice the amount to be paid for the goods in Canadian or foreign funds and in respect to goods of a class or kind made or produced in Canada special or dumping duty is to apply where the price paid by the purchaser is equivalent in Canadian currency to less than the value for duty in Canadian funds (arrived at by the addition of the exchange premium).

LOCKED IN SAFE AS BANDITS ESCAPE

BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. 28. (AP)—Locking the cashier, his assistant and two customers in the vault, two unmasked men escaped with $1400 from the Farmers' State bank at Worden today.

Five minutes after the robbers fled, another customer appeared. Cashier Reynolds, shouting to him through the vault door, had the patron call a nearby merchant, who opened the door as Reynolds dictated the combination.

THINKS PERSON WHO WHISTLES ONLY A MORON

Philosophy Professor Is Hard on Every Whistler

NO SUCCESSFUL MAN INDULGES

Excludes Einstein, Hoover, Edison and, Mussolini

THINKS PERSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Persons who whistle are morons, devoid of moral stamina and possessed of an inferiority complex, Professor Charles Gray Shaw, of the philosophy department of New York university, asserted today in a vitriolic dissertation on the whistling population of the world, from which he specifically excluded only Einstein, Edison, Mussolini and President Hoover.

"No great or successful man ever whistles," the professor said. "Can you think of Einstein, Edison or Mussolini tuning up to When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain? Can you think of President Hoover as whistling?

Calling whistling the unmistakable sign of the moron, Professor Shaw added that "we might call it a part of a person's 'defensive mechanism.' After he has set up his psychological barricade of sullenness, he sounds a note of war on his foolish whistle. He resolves not to care. He's right, and the world's wrong."

STOPS MEN TO ASK QUESTIONS AND IS KILLED

Portland Sheriff Shot in the Neck by Two Unkown Gunmen

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 28 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Walter Leonhardt 41, was shot and fatally wounded here tonight by one of two unidentified men he had stopped to question about a stolen automobile.

Leonhardt died en route to a hospital.

Mrs. Leonhardt, who was with her husband, told police they were driving about the city and recognized an automobile driven by two men as one stolen from a friend of theirs.

Mrs. Leonhardt said her suhband stopped the car and the two men alighted. They denied the car was stolen, and one of the men said he lived nearby and invited Mrs. Leonhardt to accompany him to his house to verify his story.

Mrs. Leonhardt walked with the man about half a block, she said. Then she suddenly became suspicious and stopped. At the same moment she heard two shots and ran back to the two cars. She found her husband lying unconscious in the street. He had been shot through the neck.

The two men abandoned the car they had been driving and fled.

PLANES CRASH IN MID AIR IN EAST

Winnipeg Flier Is Killed But Pilot of Other Machine Escapes

CAMP BORDEN, Ont., Sept. 28.—(CP)—When two airplanes collided while flying at low altitude here today, C. J. Hitchin of Winnipeg was killed. Hitchin was taking a commercial pilot's course when the smash occurred. The pilot of the other machine, F. B. Briscoe, Chatham, Ont., escaped with slight injury.

Both men jumped from the machines with parachutes. The Winnipeg flyer's 'chute, however, did not open until he was close to the ground, and the impact froved fatal. Briscoe made a safe landing, almost unhurt. Both airplanes were wrecked.

Briscoe, who holds a commercial pilot's certificate, was in hospital for observation tonight, but it is expected he will be able to leave tomorrow. Hitchin came here September 8. He was 24 and unmarried. The accident will be investigated by a court of inquiry.

THREE KILLED

ASKHUM, Ill., Sept. 28. (AP)—Three persons were killed tonight when an Illinois Central local passenger train was derailed near heer.

Three passenger coaches, the baggage car, and the locomotive overturned. The cause of the wreck was not determined.

The dead were the engineer, the fireman, and an unidentified man riding on thte baggage car.

S HAS RIPTION FOR WORLD ILLS

LONDON, Sept. 28. (AP)—H. G. Wells, noted British author, in a radio broadcast tonight formulated the following prescription for the ills of the world:

"The world should be declared bankrupt and its debts written down.

"The issuance of money should be restricted to one central world authority.

"War should be abolished, and all foreign office, diplomatic services, arsenals, dockyards, war offices, navies and air forces scrapped, disbanded and pensioned.

"The earth should be ruled by a dictatorship, not of this man or that man, but of informed and educated common sense."

MIXED BODY TO AID FRENCH AND GERMAN TRADING

Creation of Commission Hoped to Smooth Economic Existing Situation

BERLIN, Sept. 28 (By John A. Bouman, A. P. staff writer)—The creation of a permanent mixed commission to smooth the paths of commerce between France and Germany was announced today.

The commission, by means of which the two nations undertake a joint effort to relieve the precarious economic situation and to inaugurate between themselves a period of better understanding, resulted from discussions held during the last two days by Premier Pierre Laval and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France, who are visiting the heads of the German government, and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius.

Both employers and employees will be represented on the commission, which is to set to work forthwith. It is to attack all manner of economic problems in the hope of easier conditions of living, resulting from its labors, may induce the two nations on either side of the Rhine, long divided by troublesome controversies to be better neighbors.

RAILWAYMEN NOT TO HAVE WAGES CUT FOR WHILE

Running Trades' Proposal Not to Be Decided Until Mid-October

MONTREAL, Sept. 28 (CP)—Nothing will be decided one way or the other until mid-October in connection with the proposed 10 per cent cut in wages of the running trades of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways, according to a statement made tonight by J. B. Ward, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and chairman of the committee of representatives of railroad workers' organizations that have been meeting here.

Emphatic denial of acceptance or refusal by the employees of the proposed cut was made by Mr. Ward. He declined to predict what action would be taken. He did not deny that conferences have been going on between railway officials and representatives of the workmen.

No comment was available from the head offices of either of the railways. Unions concerned in the proposed wage cut are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and Enginemen, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

JUVENILES SLUG GUARDS IN BREAK TO GET OUTSIDE

Detention Home Lads of 17 Knock Out Guards and Calmly Walk Away

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28 (CP)—Slugging two guards, three youths escaped from the juvenile detention home at 9:30 o'clock tonight. One of the boys is alleged by the police to have been the leader of the blue sedan bandits and was to appear for hearing tomorrow morning in juvenile court.

The boys who are about 17 years of age, are reported to have knocked out the guards and calmly walked out of the building. A large contingent of city detectives was rushed to the home and scoured the vicinity.

Two of the escaped boys were wearing night attire, while the third was dressed in regulation detention home garb of overalls and kahki.

The blue sedan bandits recently terrorized the city with their hold-ups during which scores of citizens were victimized.

ALASKAN GOLD STRIKE BRINGS BIG INTERESTS

Important Business and Mining Men Are Investigating

SAMPLES OF GREAT VALUE ARE FOUND

Assays Run as High as $70 in Gold for Every Ton

WHITE HORSE, Y. T., Sept. 28.—The recent discovery of a highly mineralized gold quartz bearing area at Livingstone creek on the head waters of the Big Salmon river in souther Yukon, is drawing a rush of stampeders from all parts of Yukon and Alaska. Mining men from Juneau, Skagway, White Horse, Dawson and other Yukon points have been moving solidly into the scene of the new strike to stake ground.

Tom Koloff, who made the new quartz discovery on June 16, is a practical miner who has been scouting the southern Yukon for the past four years. He is backed by A. Johnson and W. A. Puckett of White Horse. From the open cut which he uncovered on the mountainside 2500 feet above Livingstone creek, samples of outstanding value have been taken. Assays running as high as a trace to $70 in gold to the ton have been extracted from these discoveries. Samples in addition to promising silver values of free milling gold in fair quantities can be seen in the rock samples with the naked eye.

The whole mountain in the vicinity is made up of a series of quartz veins banded with schist, and schist carries fair gold values. One of the most interesting mining men who has been on the scene of the new strike for the past few months is R. R. Rumsey, mining engineer and geologist. It is reported Rumsey is backed by eastern interests.

LINDBERGHS FLY OVER THE FLOOD REGION IN CHINA

Are Flying to Hankow; Carry Health Expert of League Nations

NANKING, China, Sept. 29 (Tuesday) (AP)—Bound for the Wuhu region, southwest of Nanking, and Hankow, on a survey flight of flooded areas, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Lotus lake at 10:30 a. m. today (9:30 p. m. Monday, E. S. T.).

They were expected to reach Hankow by mid-afternoon.

Previously, owing to a heavy rain, the coonel announced he probably would not be able to make the flight today. The flight, third of a series of flood surveys, originally was set for yesterday, but rain caused its postponement until today.

Accompanying the colonel and his wife today was Dr. Borcic, health expert of the League of Nations, who is visiting in China.

COLORADO HARD AFTER AID FOR SILVER PRICES

"Use More Silver Dollars" Is Slogan of the People; Small Activity

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 28.—With more at stake than any other state, Colorado is striving mightily to have something done about the silver situation.

Dozen of ghost cities, abandoned and ruined, testify to the wealth that once poured from Colorado's mines and Coloradoans are hoping and working for the day when silver may again be mined profitably.

Great Britain's suspension of the gold standard, an act followed by other countries, has given new life to the ghost camps which lie deep within the mountains. It is only a breath, however, and the burros still graze undisturbed in the main streets and pine trees still grow up in broken pavements.

"Use more silver dollars," is the slogan. Colorado residents are urged to demand their change in silver. Paper money is daily becoming more scarce as the movement grows.

Silver bars are displayed in bank and store windows and residents as a matter of civic duty as well as for investment, are urged to buy.

MOSCOW HOMES HAVE NO HEAT DESPITE SNOW

MOSCOW, Sept. 28. (AP)—The first snow of the winter fell today, and householders in overcoats and galoshes found in the morning paper a decree forbidding all citizens to heat their homes without special authorization by municipal government.

The decree is part of a campaign for economy of fuel because coal production is lagging far behind the five-year plan schedule. Penalty for violation of the non-heating order is 100 rubles fine or 30 days compulsory labor. The only exceptions are hospitals and similar institutions.

DAMAGE ACTION TO COME UP IN SUPREME COURT

Action of Jack Sale Against East Kootenay Power Company Reopened

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28—Seeking to recover a $12,500 verdict, which a Cranbrook jury awarded him for the loss of his right arm, 20-year-old Jack Sale, of Bull River, is appealing to the supreme court of Canada. The case will be heard in Ottawa on October 6.

The respondent, East Kootenay Power Co., Ltd., succeeded in obtaining a dismissal of the action from the trial judge, Mr. Justice W. A. MacDonald, whose judgment was affirmed on appeal by court of appeal, with Mr. Justice McPhillips dissenting.

Sale lost his damage award because the courts held that he was a trespasser. While passing under the company's power line near Bull River on August 4, 1929, a steel fishing rod, which he was carrying, touched the wires, and 66,000 volts shot into the young man, burning him severely. R. M. MacDonald will leave Vancouver on Wednesday to argue the appeal for the power company in Ottawa.

LEAGUE NATIONS ADOPT DRAFTING FOR YEAR TRUCE

Resolution Embodies Compromise Between Italian Proposal and Others

GENEVA, Sept. 28 (AP)—The disarmament committee of the League of Nations late tonight adopted a resolution designed to prepare for a possible one-year truce in armaments beginning November 1.

The resolution, embodying a compromise between the Italian proposal for an immediate truce—which the United States and the majority of the League members supported—and objections raised by Japan and France, read as follows:

"The assembly requests the governments invited to disarmament conference (to be held in Geneva next February) to prepare for this ecent by means of armaments truce and accordingly.

"Requests the council (of the League) to urge the governments convened to the said conference to give proof of their earnest desire for a successful issue of efforts to insure and organize peace and without prejudicing the decision of the conference or the programs or proposals submitted to it by each government to refrain from any measure involving an increase in their armaments."

It likewise requests the council to ask the governments to state before November 1 whether they are prepared for a period of one year, as from that date, to accept this truce in armaments.

Unable to Locate the Daughter of Man Who Was Drowned in North

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 28—Somewhere in the west, oblivious of the tragic death of her father, is the daughter of a northern trapper who, a month ago met his end by drowning in Ile a la Crosse, while he and two companions were on their way into the north for a winter of trapping. This was learned today when residents of Big River, Sask., wrote appealing for the assistance in locating the daughter of Edward Erickson.

The drowning victim's wife died some years ago and the daughter, then an infant, was left in the care of friends who, it was believed, lived near Saskatoon. All attempts to discover the whereabouts of the daughter and to acquaint her of the sad news have failed.

MacDonald to Announce Decision on Wednesday; Election May Be Result

Denmark Considers Raising Her Gold Standard Immediately

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Norway and Sweden were off the gold standard today, apparently as a precautionary step, and the Danish cabinet called a special session of the Folketning (congress) for tomorrow to consider whether Denmark, too, should suspend the gold standard. A suspension bill, which also would reduce the metallic converage from 50 per cent to 33 per cent, was expected to be introduced.

Otherwise the principal financial developments in Europe were further increased in bank rates.

FIND AUTO USED BY THUGS WHILE MAKING GETAWAY

Was Abandoned in a Lane at Vancouver After Cashier Was Robbed

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 28.—Abandoned in a lane behind the 600 block, Keefer street, the automobile in which three gunmen made their getaway after robbing Richard Elbrow, cashier for the Associated Dairies, of $1300, Monday morning, was located by police shortly after the holdup.

The car belonged to Elbrow, and was standing outside the dairy plant, Keefer street, when he was held up as he attempted to enter it.

The gunmen, after beating their victim over the head with revolvers, snatched his satchel, which contained money he was taking to the bank at Hastings and Main, leaped into the car and drove away. After abandoning the auto, they made their getaway on foot, police believe.

Of the money stolen, $800 was in cash, and the remainder in checks.

Elbrow was treated at the Vancouver General hospital for cuts and bruises on his head.

CHINESE FOREIGN MINISTER MOBBED

Chinese Students Beat Him With Clubs for Alleged Lack of Action

NANKING, China, Sept. 28—(AP)—A mob of Chinese students, infuriated by Japan's occupation of southern Manchuria, clubbed C. A. Wang, Chinese foreign minister, almost to death today. They blamed him for failure of the League of Nations to intervene in the Manchurian controversy between China and Japan.

Only the interference by servants saved Wang from death, it was believed as the mob beat him with clubs and ink pots and wrecked his office. The minister received three bad wounds in his chest and his arms and legs were injured.

A detachment of the personal bodyguard of President Chiang Kai-Shek was sent to Wang's home to shoot to kill if another attack was threatened. Wang's foreign policy will be continued, the government announced. Chinese had hoped the League of Nations would act in their behalf against Japan, despite the latter's promise to withdraw her troops from recently occupied areas outside the Japanese-owned South Manchurian railway, and despite Japan's declaration she held no territorial ambitions in Manchuria.

The attack upon Wang for asserted lack of aggressiveness is pressing China's case before the League followed inauguration of boycotts against Japanese goods in several Chinese provinces.

TWO PARDONED

WALLACE, Idaho, Sept. 28. (AP)—W. P. Herrick, former mayor of Wallace and Shoshone county assessor, and W. J. Bailey, former chief of police, both convicted in the rum rebellion trial two years ago, today received unconditional pardons signed by President Hoover.

Is Generally Believed That Dissolution Is at Hand

PREMIER TO MEET THE KING TODAY

Strong Effort Being Made to Keep Coalition Intact

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(By Geo. Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Writer)—In the House of commons on Wednesday Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will announce his decision. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, leader of the labor opposition, will ask the prime minister on Wednesday when he expects parliament to prorogue. And in his reply the prime minister is expected to state whether or not there will be a general election.

Throughout the day there have been meetings of the national cabinet and the party "shadow cabinets." From hour to hour opinion has wavered over the imminence of dissolution. The cabinet sat for a long time tonight and threshed out the whole situation, but utmost secrecy was maintained at the conclusion of the meeting. It was held in the prime minister's room and the belief was a decision had been reached. The prime minister will have an audience with the King tomorrow.

DISSOLUTION AT HAND?

But the prevailing view is that dissolution is at hand. If announced on Wednesday, it would not take effect immediately.

The present emergency legislation would be concluded. Parliament would then be prorogued, with dissolution following.

Views and opinion as to what is happening behind the scenes are very conflicting. But apparently Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is making a tremendous effort to retain unity in the national government. He has made it clear that if there is to be a question of an immediate election he will

Einstein Returning, U.S.

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Professor Albert Einstein today booked passage to the United States for himself and Frau Einstein. They will sail on a small steamer, the name of which was not disclosed, and proceed directly to California, via the Panama canal.

In a statement to the Jewish telegraphic agency, Prof. Einstein explained he did not wish to name the vessel so that his voyage and arrival might not be disturbed.

The purpose of the professors visit is to continue the studies he began last year at Mount Wilson observatory.

Mystery of Piracy May Rest in Clue

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Hope of tracing the ownership of a pair of cheap gymnasium shoes was the one thing that spurred officials on today in their investigation of the midnight pirate murder of Benjamin Collings.

Mrs. Collings, widow of the Stamford, Conn., yachtsman, had the shoes on when she was found in a moored motorboat the morning of September 10. She said two men who killed her husband and abducted her supplied her with the shoes after one of them had observed she was barefooted.

STOCK EXCHANGES IN GERMANY WILL REMAIN SHUT UP

Appoint Man to Look Out for Tendencies Toward Credit Crisis

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—(AP)— The Boerse committee announced that stock exchanges throughout Germany will remain closed until further notice.

The exchanges went out of operation last Monday as a result of the temporary suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain.

Another important financial action today was the appointment of Eugene Ernst, a member of the Prussian ministry of trade, to the post of federal commissioner of banks. He will have the duty of correcting tendencies toward credit crisis, such as the emergency which developed last July, requiring a realignment of the nation's budget policies and drastic measures to "freeze" foreign investments in Germany.

Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, told the bankers that, since most of Germany's external and internal debts are payable in dollars or gold marks, it would be folly for the nation to align itself with Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries by suspending the gold standard.

Bomb Destroys House

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 28. (AP)—A fourth bomb was exploded here early today, destroying a house at 345 Perry street. The house was still burning at 1 o'clock, and police and firemen were seeking to learn if anyone was inside.

FAIR BUILDING IS URGED BY BOARD FOR RELIEF WORK

Mayor Morgan Tells Delegation it Will Probably Be Submitted

ANNABLE PLACES COST AT $60,000

Rosemont Asks for Safer Access for Children to Nelson

A proposal that a prominent place in the city's relief work program be given to providing a fair building of a permanent type on the site of the late buildings, with a proper grandstand in connection on the recreation grounds, was placed before the city council Monday night by a delegation from the Nelson Agricultural and Industrial association.

President J. E. Annable and Secretary George Horstead composed the deputation, the former emphasizing the necessity of Nelson maintaining its fair, and asserting that Nelson's future lay in developing its attractions for visitors both tourists and district residents while Secretary Horstead related how the outside district was constantly making inquiries to know what Nelson was doing.

Asked by Mayor J. P. Morgan what the structure in mind would cost, President Annable put the figure at roughly $60,000 inclusive of the grandstand, which he described as absolutely vital, as it was there that the fair took in the money. He said the existing site could not be improved upon, as to location. It lent itself to having a commodious basement, which should be at least 14 feet high, with the main floor being above, on the street level.

Mayor Morgan promised the deputation an extremely sympathetic consideration, saying Nelson needed a fair building more than almost anything else, and the council would in all probability include such a project in the list of projects it would submit to the provincial government in the next few days, out of which a program would be evolved.

Approximately two hours, more or less, of a session that lasted well over three hour was spent in discussing the subject of relief work.

ASSISTANCE FOR AFFLECK

All through the evening it was the intention of the council to wind up by going into committee of the whole to discuss two matters, the fair building project, and the appointment to be made of an office assistant for City Engineer Boyd C. Affleck, but by the time 11.15 arrived the city fathers were exhausted, and adjourned to Thursday night, when these matters will be cleaned up.

Reports by City Engineer Affleck, submitting improvement projects, as instructed by the council previously, were not reached.

An interim report from the fire, water and light committee, signed by Aldermen W. R. Campion and S. H. Smythe, told of their visit to the Five-Mile intake, and recommended continuation of the Five-Mile investigation, which has for its object improving the water supply.

MORGAN OUTLINES RULES

In the course of the relief work discussion, Mayor Morgan outlined the subject as it was developed at the recent convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, at New Westminster, dealing with the nature of the aid to be extended by Dominion and province to the municipalities, and the restrictions understood to be imposed. Provincial ministers, he said, held out no hope that the province would contribute toward the cost of material used in the construction projects, but the Dominion since then had announced that where the labor cost was 65 per cent of the whole, the federal government in the case of approved projects would divide the material cost with the municipality.

To meet the case of coast and other municipalities that felt that they could not carry bylaws for special relief expenditures, he said, the province proposed to lend the money required to the municipalities, and bylaws were not really required.

City Clerk W. E. Wasson intervened to suggest that even though the council could dispense with a bylaw under the arrangements made by the province, it would be the wise thing to put any proposed expenditures under this scheme up to the citizens.

Alderman Ross Fleming and Mayor Morgan went into intricate calculations to find out what part of the cost of a fair building the city would bear in the event of the Dominion consenting to contribute toward the cost of material, though it was conceded the project could hardly come within the "65 per cent labor cost" rule laid down by Ottawa. Alderman Fleming figured that the city could obtain the fair building for somsthing like 45 per cent.

Asked by the mayor his view of how the labor and material costs would compare in a fair building project, City Engineer Affleck put them at about 50-50.

COTTONWOOD SITUATION

T. W. Slader appeared on behalf of 20 petitioners who asked for a new wooden sidewalk at the south end of Hall Mines road.

Samuel Barkley, one of seven petitioners on Slocan street, adjacent to Rosemont, asked for road access to his garage. He declared his car could not make the grade when the road was icy, nor could his neighbors.

Mr. Salder added to this that for six weeks in winter the Slader dairy had to take butter out by hand-sleigh.

These two petitions were affected by a project that City Engineer Affleck is now working on, for a new bridge across Cottonwood creek to Rosemont, on the line of Hoover street. If that is authorized by the council, earth will be wanted for the fill, and can be economically obtained by cutting down the Slocan street grade. Otherwise, Mr. Affleck said, the Slocan street improvement would not at present justify the expenditure, as half of the ground to be removed would be rock.

BETTER ROSEMONT ACCESS

The subject of better access for Rosemont was brought before the council by a letter from the Robertson Realty company, which read as follows:

"As agents for Rosemont subdivision we have sold lots on which homes have been built, and a number of families now live in this district, send their children to Nelson schools, and pay school taxes, and water and electric rates to the city of Nelson.

"We have received complaints from time to time from these residents as to the extremely dangerous city approach to Rosemont. The provincial government has built them roads and sidewalks, and they complain that their children, after crossing the Cottonwood bridge, are in danger of serious accident and injury from automobiles, there being no sidewalk, and the road being very narrow and dangerous for pedestrians.

CHILDREN ENDANGERED

"The traffic on the approach to Cottonwood bridge is at times quite heavy. Traffic to and from the Vancouver street area of the city of Nelson, the Silver King road, the Curling rink, and the Rosemont residents all use these approaches, and we beg your attention to what we consider a dangerous situation, especially to school children using these roads, and submit that improvement to the approach to Rosemont should be put in as one of your municipal relief undertakings.

"We respectfully draw your attention to this dangerous situation and trust you will give it your careful consideration and have something done to eliminate the present danger to pedestrians, particularly school children going to and from the city schools."

Communist Pamphlet Is Circulated ina Courtroom in East

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP)—Distribution of a communist pamphlet at supreme court of Ontario session in Sandwich today resulted in Mr. Justice Jeffrey ordering that the names of those responsible for the distribution be placed before him tomorrow. The pamphlet called on workers to join the Canadian Defense league.

Mr. Justice Jeffrey said the pamphlet was circulated apparently only for one purpose, to prejudice this case and to undermine justice in Ontario. Four alleged communist leaders faced the court on charges of obstructing police.

Harry Binder, Albert Hardman, George Andrew and Davi Norris are the defendants. The trial continues tomorrow.

PRESENT $25,000 BYLAW, ROSSLAND COUNCIL MEETING

Includes Strip of Paving on Trail Road and Bituminous Paving

ROSSLAND, B. C., Sept. 28—Work to be done in Rossland under the unemployment scheme will total $25,000, and a bylaw to cover this was presented to the city council this evening. This will include a strip of paving on the Trail road from the end of the present paving to Rossland city limits, two strips of bituminous paving on either side of the cement on Columbia avenue, and three strips of bituminous paving on Washington street. A wire from A. Baird, inspector of municipalities, assured the council that if their program were approved by the government, the necessary legislation would be passed at the next session.

Mayor Turner reported that the Rossland delegation had been very courteously received by the government and their request met with more consideration than they dared to hope for.

CONCRETE PAVING

Instead of the bituminous paving, a strip of cement will be laid in front of the Henderson garage, Mr. Henderson to pay the difference in cost between the two materials. The same offer will be extended to the two other garages.

Material for a cement sidewalk in front of the Rossland Miner building will be furnished by the city, Mr. Elletson to pay for the labor.

A complaint from residents of Second avenue, that water seepage from a worn out flume was damaging their properties, was referred to the board of works.

A request from W. F. McNeil for the removal of a dead tree in front of his property on Thompson Heights and for necessary grading through the street, was referred to th board of works.

The war memorial will be installed in a boulevard in the center of Columbia avenue, 36 feet west of the west line of Spokane street, this being the location agreed upon by the members of the Legion and the city council.

T. H. Armstrong has resigned his position of weighmaster, due to ill health, and this position will be advertised.

Requests of A. K. Keffer and George Pelonikoss for lots in block 15 were refused, the council ruling that these lots were worth $50 apiece.

City Solicitor R. J. Clegg was instructed to negotiate with the Consolidated company for the lease of the gravel pit for a period of 10 years on a royalty of 10 cents a yard.

Mayor Turner presided, the others present being Alderman Gus Hanson, John Wilmot, Robert W. Fox, Percy E. Taylor, W. S. Mara, William Arrowsmith, City Clerk J. A. McLeod City Foreman John A. Henderson, City Engineer A. O. Colborne and Fire Chief Kenneth Martin.

Winona, Ont., has sent the first car load of mixed fruit and vegetables, while a car load of apples has been despatched from Kelowna, B. C. according to word reaching Rev. John Coburn, Toronto, organizer for the relief committee.

Movement of relief goods has been stimulated with announcement that the railways are transporting clothing free and that cost of moving fruit and vegetables is being met by the Saskatchewan relief commission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (CP)—Decline of the pound sterling has resulted in the decline of the Australian pound by a similar percentage, according to advices received by the United States department of commerce here.

One result of this has been that experts find the Australian exporter has been forced to raise his prices and it is hoped in Australia these increases will build up Australian credit in London.

ASKS REPLACEMENT OF STEPS AT TRAIL

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28.—The request of William Morrice, Topping Lane, that they city replace steps taken down when cribbing was put in, was received by the city council tonight. No action was taken.

WASHINGTON IS PUZZLED BY THE STATE AT HOME

the world's gold are anxious to maintain the tradition of the yellow metal as the standard of value. They do not know what the deflation of the pound sterling may mean and in political audience they fear for the weight of their gold.

The significance of a cut of ten per cent in the wages of steel workers is only realized after days when the cut was announced the stock market went up.

It was thought the effect of the steel industry coming into the open with wage reductions meant the burden of the depression would no longer be borne solely by the investor.

Next day, the stock market went down because it was understood the reduction in wages, contrary to the stand taken by President Hoover, meant a further contraction of the domestic market and made possible labor troubles so far happily avoided in the United States during the present depression but general during former hard times. It is rumored here the railroad workers may be the next "victims."

SEVERE SHOCK

Prohibition in the United States has received its most severe shock by way of economics. There is no reason to suppose the Hoover administration will support the movement against prohibition. Nevertheless, the anti-prohibition forces have seized upon difficult, not to say dangerous times, to push forward. An indication of this is found in the vote of the American Legion for beer.

Quietly in Washington the idea has taken form that a little beer would go a long way toward preventing people from getting excited about the fact that in the United States there is a super-abundance of edibles and clothing and that about 7,000,000 unemployed must go without both.

MAY INCREASE TAX

Within six weeks Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, and President Hoover will decide whether an increase in taxes is necessary they will probably decide it is and the increase will bear not only upon the wealthy but upon every individual who earns a moderate stipend in this country. Mr. Hoover pointed out in his address to the American Legion at Detroit there was a limit to the amount of taxation which could be put upon wealth.

As to unemployment, it is generally agreed that without even a normal increase found after the summer and fall the United States will this winter discover itself in an extremely serious situation with perhaps 15 per cent of its wage earners walking the streets. Ordinarily there are 1,000,000 or more people in this country without jobs. This winter there will be seven times that number.

The entire situation is one which does not commend itself to a conservative dry administration facing, next year, a presidential campaign.

TRAIL COUNCIL DISCUSSES THE RIVER PROJECT

Cribbing in Place of Concrete Sugested for River Front Wall

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28.—It was suggested that council abandon the river front wall plan included in the outline of relief work proposed by the city, at a meeting of the council tonight, but no action was taken. City Engineer S. S. McDiarmid estimated that the cost of doing the work by concrete would be in the neighborhood of $13,500. Alderman J. R. Anderson was of the opinion that it would be nearer $40,000.

The city engineer pointed out that the city had no equipment for doing the work by concrete.

Alderman E. L. Groutage felt that with the present state of the money market it would be advisable to use cribbing. He stated that the cost would be $1600.

Fire Chief A. A. MacDonald urged that if the road was to be closed for a month, that Spokane street should be improved to give traffic for fire trucks. He indicated he would place two hose reels in the area affected to give additional fire protection. Several aldermen expressed the opinion that the river front wall might well be abandoned.

Trail Council Accepts Petition for Sidewalk

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28.— The city council tonight received a petition for a cement sidewalk on the north side of Riverside avenue from the city limits to Columbia river bridge. Out of 15 property owners 14 signed the petition. It was accepted.

107-YEAR-OLD INDIAN WOMAN IS DEAD

QUESNEL, B. C., Sept. 28.—Another link with the romantic days of the gold rush was severed here by the death at the local rancherie of Mary Ann Hallas, an Indian woman reputed to be 107 years of age.

In 1860, with her husband, she back-packed for the early gold-seekers over the trail between Quesnel and Antler creek. Local Indians recall that she carried 100-pound loads. But Mary Ann did not remember the rate per pound collected on her various cargoes, principally, no doubt, because, as she expressed it, "Hallas he git dat money." Hallas, some years later, came to a tragic end by falling over a cliff into the Fraser river while salmon fishing. He was her husband.

NELSON SCHOOL ATHLETES GOOD AT KIMBERLEY

Four Runners Run up 18 Points for Nelson, With Two Firsts

DUFFY IN QUARTER; McLEAN IN VAULT

Kimberley Wins Meet with 60 Points, Cranbrook Being Second

Kimberley staged its first school indoor track meet on Saturday when the Nelson team came in for a goodly share of the honors. Nelson was represented by only four runners who succeeded in gathering in 18 points. Pat Duffy placed first in the 440 and third in the 880 and Al McLean first in the pole vault, while Doug Read won a second in the 220 and Joe Wallach second in the 880 yards event. Th team came third in the relay.

Interviewed regarding the meet, D. N. Maclean of the Nelson high school expressed himself as greatly pleased with the work of the Nelson athletes. "We had only four boys in the contest; they travelled by far the greatest distance of any of the competitors, (paying their own expenses, by the way), and contested the 100, 220, 440, 880, relay, and pole vault events. They had had no indoor training, and naturally found the turns on the 110-yard oval difficult to negotiate," he said.

"Nelson lost the half-mile by sheer bad luck," Mr. Maclean continued. "Joe Wallach held his early lead as far as the final lap, when he was passed on the turn by Warren of Cranbrook in a close cut-in. There were no judges on the turns, and one of the finish judges gave the race to Wallach, who had trailed Warren to the tape by a few inches. The result had been given out as Wallach, Warren, and Duffy in the 1-2-3 order, when the referee, after conference with other judges, and one or two disinterested bystandrs, overruled the original judge's decision, and awarded the event to Cranbrook, with Wallach and Duffy of Nelson second third.

"In spite of this disheartening reversal," Mr. Maclean said, "our boys put everything to the remaining events. Pat Duffy took the final heat of the quarter-mile with some of the prettiest running I have seen for a long time.

McLEAN A WINNER

"Al McLean put Nelson on the map that night in the pole vault," the teacher declared. "After running four sprint heats and the relay, he took the school vault easily at nine feet, and then entered the open pole vault, placing second to Bill Binnie at the height of nine feet, six inches.

"Doug. Read was a close second in the 220, and might have won the event had he been fortunate enough to draw the outside lane, in which a man can take the sharp turn at full blast. All round, the Nelson lads put up a splendid fight," he said, "and their 18 points represent almost four firsts for a four-man team."

"We are grateful to D. D. McLean for his generosity in loaning his car, thus making the Nelson entry possible," Mr. Maclean continued.

KIMBERLEY TAKES AGGREGATE

Kimberley track athletes capered off with the honors of the night, piling up 60 points. Cranbrook load with 56, Fernie next with 44, followed by Nelson with 18 points and Yank with four points. Ruby Andrews of Kimberley gathered in the individual laurels for the girls with her creditable total of 28 points and Earl Johnson, also of Kimberley the boys' with 18 points.

After the conclusion of the contests, which lasted until within 10 minutes of midnight, the competitors, officials and friends sat down to a banquet in the Odd Fellows hall.

E. S. Shannon, chairman of the track meet, was also chcairman of the banquet.

Remarks were given by G. T. Moir, 1931 president of the Kootenay-Boundary Track Meet association; Thomas Summers, of the Kimberley school board; G. C. WIRE FENCING IS PUT IN PLACE ON RETAINING WALL

Stiff Screen Wired to Staples in Concrete and to the Pipe Rail

Two men of the city works department were busy Monday setting up the stiff woven wire fencing on the top of the big concrete retaining wall at the eastern end of Baker street.

When the wall was erected this summer, staples were set in the concrete, and to these the lower edge of the fencing is being wired, while the top edge is being bound with heavy wire to the big iron pipe that serves as rail. The sides are similarly fastened to staples in the pilasters.

The fencing used is manufactured specially for protective purposes of this type, and cannot be bent or pulled. It makes it impossible for any child or other person to fall over the wall to the concrete roadway beneath.

Putting in place of this protective screen completes the job of the Baker-Cedar new grade and pavement, except for the ornamental lights that are eventually to be placed on certain of the pilasters—probably next year.

WOMAN'S PAGE

"BROKEN"

By Ruby M. Ayres

NINTH INSTALMENT

The tender sincerity of his voice almost broke her down. She swayed a little and caught a chair back, but when Chittenham would have gone to her she waved him furiously away.

"Don't touch me. Don't come near me."

For a moment she struggled hard for self-control, then she was erect once more and facing him defiantly.

"You said when I came in, that this must stop. Well, I agree, and so we'll just settle it now once and for all. And will you please understand, Mr. Chitenham, that you and I are nothing whatever to one another, and never have been. If you want to hear the truth I even rather dislike you. However foolish you once thought me. . Oh, I'm not shirking the memory, if you are—" she broke out as he would have spoken. "I am quite willing to admit that for one night, just for a few hours—I let you think I rather liked you. Don't blame me for that. It was the snow and the wind, and being up there so far away from every one. . In the morning it had all gone, and as I said then, we had come back to earth again."

Her voice was studiously cold and quiet, almost expressionless.

"You will make your name a by-word, even amongst these—these ridiculous people you call your friends."

"And that ,of course, will break my heart, if it is not already broken," Julie sneered. "It matters so much what people like Doris Gardener and Sadie Barrow say. . They haven't any vices themselves, have they?"

"At least Sadie does not drink," Chittenham interrupted unthinkingly.

He saw the sudden look of angry surprise that flashed into Julie's eyes.

"You seem to have found out a great deal about Sadie in a short time," she said sharply.

"One does not have to be either very quick or very inquisitive to find out such a thing," Giles answered. "As a matter of fact I find her very charming," he added with a most childish desire to sting her.

But Julie calmly agreed.

"So do I. She and I have a great deal in common. Chiefly our dislike of your noble sex."

"Schofield always excepted, I suppose."

Julie laughed.

"Lawrence Schofield certainly excepted. He is a great friend of mine—he is rich, and moreover he is anxious to marry me—"

"You don't care two straws about the man."

"On the contrary, I care a great many straws. Not that it is any business of yours—"

"It is my business when the woman I love talks of rushing into a ridiculous marriage."

"The woman you love!" Julie's face flamed. "How infinitely touching! And what a pity you are not free to marry me yourself. Think of the divine bliss we should experience—think of the happy-ever-after ending. ."

Julie slipped past him and opened the door.

"Please go," she said.

Bim spoke from the narrow hall rather nervously:

"Julie, dear—Mr. Schofield has just driven up—"

"I'm coming at once."

There was an eloquent silence after the door had slammed behind her, then Bim half shrugged her shoulders and went into the sitting-room where Giles stood staring out of the window.

"Don't be too angry with her, Mr. Chittenham," she said. "I am so sorry, so dreadfully sorry."

He turned and looked at her.

"It's all my fault," he broke out agitatedly. "And there's nothing I can do to put it right—nothing."

The telephone rang suddenly and Bim went across the room to answer it.

"Yes? . . No, Bim Lennox speaking. Oh—yes, Miss Barrow. No, she's just gone out. Can I give her a message? Oh . . yes, very well—tomorrow afternoon at four."

Bim hung up the receiver and turned. There was a little angry frown between her level brows.

"Do you believe in spiritualism, Mr. Chittenham?" she asked.

"No."

"Nor do I, but it seems all the fashion just now. There is to be a seance or whatever you call it at your mother's house tomorrow afternoon. That was Miss Barrow 'phoning. She's an ardent believer."

"She never used . ." Giles began, then stopped.

"It's all nonsense," he protested angrily. "A pack of charlatans duping a lot of silly women."

"Julie is going, too. They have got hold of some wonderful new medium—" Bim's voice was quietly sarcastic.

"They have invited me, but it's not the sort of thing I care about."

Chittenham frowned.

"It's not the sort of thing any healthy-minded person would care about anyway, and—" he paused. It was impossible to tell Bim that his mother had declared she would not have Julie in her house again. "I hope you will try and dissuade Miss Farrow from going," he added.

Bim shrugged her shoulders.

"You might as well ask me to try and stop Niagara," she said hopelessly. "Once Julie has made up her mind nothing will change it."

Bim went with him to the door, but after they had said good-bye he hesitated and came back.

"Miss Lennox—don't leave her if you can help it."

"No."

"You see—" He flushed, and stopped, only to flounder on again. "You see, it's all my fault—all my cursed stupidity."

"I know. Julie told me."

"She told you?"

"Yes."

"And I suppose you think . . what do you think?"

Bim smiled.

"It would be so easy for me to say that I think you behaved like a knave—so easy to rail at you, but I don't want to. I think life is so tragic—nothing ever seems to go quite right for any of us, does it? At least that is my experience. We can only just go on—hoping that something will turn up to straighten things out, and it so seldom does. I often wonder if it isn't because we lack courage."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean courage to face facts and see things as they really are—" She looked away from him. "Mr. Chittenham, you know Julie doesn't really . . hate you—"

She laughed rather sadly.

"I suppose I ought not to have told you that, but I can't bear to see her as she is now, so reckless, so broken . ."

She stopped, afraid she had said too much, and for a moment there was a profound silence, then Chittenham held out his hand again.

"Thank you," he said.

As Chittenham walked away from the flat he made up his mind to one thing. He would ask Sadie to divorce him.

If Julie still loved him . . in his heart he was sure that she did, and nothing else mattered.

He had promised to lunch with his mother, but in his eagerness he forgot about it, and went straight to the hotel where Sadie was staying.

She was out and they did not know when she would be back. Giles left a message asking her to ring him up.

He waited till six o'clock and rang up Julie's flat.

Bim Lennox answered the telephone.

"No, Julie is not in. She rang just now to say she was dining out and not coming home to change. I think she is with Mr. Schofield still."

Giles hung the receiver and turned away. He was powerless, and yet he knew that he could never be content to let things remain as they were. He must see Julie again, somehow. . .

Someone tapped at his door.

"Mr. Lombard to see you sir."

"Confound! Oh, well, show him up."

Lombard seemed nervous and apologetic. "I say—" he broke out suddenly. "I'm in the devil of a fix—"

Chittenham looked up.

"Money?"

"How did you know?"

"My dear fellow, isn't it almost the only thing any one is ever in a fix about? How much do you want?"

Lombard gulped down his whiskey. "It's awfully sporting of you. If I could have five hundred. It's only a temporary loan. ."

Giles laughed shortly. "Do you take me for a millionaire?"

"I tell you it's only temporary."

"I'll lend you fifty if it's any use."

There was eloquent silence, then Lombard turned.

"Look here, Chittenham, it's serious. I'm frightfully up against it. You've got to let me have it," he said desperately.

"Got to!"

For a moment the two men looked at one another silently, then Chittenham laughed.

"Sorry, but that's a thing no man can say to me." He made another move to the door, but Lombard caught his arm.

"Chittenham."

Chittenham stood still.

"What do you want it for? What have you been up to?"

The other man's eyes fell.

"I can't tell you."

"All right, then you won't get anything."

Lombard looked up suddenly.

The Beauty Box

by Helen Follett

The brisk, alert woman, with an active mind and a sunny disposition, usually retains her youthful figure throughout the years. She is aware of herself, of every movemen she makes, Being brisk, she walks briskly. Being brave, she holds up her chin, looks the world in the eye without batting an eyelash; goes about the business of living with zest. Her activity produces vigorous circulations which makes for good digestion, sparkling eyes, firm facial tissues and other elements of beauty.

There are various names for that curls that decorate the forehead. The old fashioned name was beau catchers and before that they were called spit curls, which is anything but an elegant expression. Now they are tango ringlets or pothook curls. You make them by using bandoline and plastering to the alabaster brow ,or you do them in circles and hold them firm and steady with a little metal clip until they dry.

For wrinkles across the forehead, or, rather, to be rid of them, anoint with a heavy cream and treat with a vigorous rotary motion of the finger tips. Follow by rubbing crosswise with flattened finger, as one would iron out a crease in fabric. The ice rub atop the cream is effective, but that doesn't mean that ice shouldn't be used after the emollient has been removed.

When the hands show large veins, keep them out of hot or cold water as much as possible. Hold the hands high in the air now and then. Warts on the hands should be treated with applications of castor oil; they don't like it, in that respect, show good judgment; nobody does. The old-time mixture of glycerine and rosewater is effective for doing away with cutaneous roughness. And do watch out that you use a bland soap.

Pads of cotton dipped in ice cold witch hazel, placed over the eyes at night, will discourage pouches of loose tissues that form beneath soul orbs. In the morning, bathe with cold water.

A Short Honeymoon

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been married six months. I have two children by my first husband. My present husband was kind to me for about two months, now he runs out every night by himself. When I scold him for running out, he tells me if I don't like it, I can take my things and get out, or get rid of my children if I want it better. Their ages are 10 and 12. He can find no fault with my housekeeping, and I shall never get rid of my children. SORROWFUL

Yours is truly a quite difficult problem. You are quite right in saying that you will not get rid of your children to please your husband. You had them when he married you. If they were older and could shift for themselves the case might be different. I think if you will allow me to say so, you are not likely to mend matters by scolding your husband—nagging is always fatal. Try taking a new tack with him, and don't forget that things sometimes look hopeless just before they turn for the better.

She Married Again

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 28 years old and have a daughter, 10. I have been married twice. My second husband is 34, bald-headed and very settled. I would be very happy if he would show me a little attention, but he spends all his time scolding me. He is very kind to my little girl, and plays with her and loves her just as if she were his own. I do all I can for both of them to make the home happy. What is love or anything in this world without love? I am losing interest in evrything—home, clothes, cooking and everything. FAITHFUL

You have been married twice and you should know something definitely about how to please a husband. You say he spends all his time scolding. What does he scold you about? Is it anything you can mend? I would certainly try, especially since not only your happiness is at stake, but that of your little girl. I think it is charming of your husband to play with her and be as kind to her as if she were his own. These are your own words. I am sure you can help yourself if you really study the situation and use your intelligence.

He Just Says "Hello"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I went with a boy I liked very much for three years, but he left me flat. The last time he took me out, he said he would call me up sometime that week, but he never did. We often meet on the street, but he just says "hello" and is as cold as ice. On the anniversary of the day I met him three years ago, I told my girl friend, and she called him on the phone and told him what day it was and he just asked, what he should do about it. How can I win him back? BUNNY

Do you really want to win anyone back who has treated you as badly as this young man? He has left you without any explanation, is cold when you meet him on th street, and all this after an acquaintance of three years. If you think thre could be any excuse for a misunderstanding, you might write him a note and ask for an explanation. But it looks to me as if the friendship no longer appeals to him, and I think it would be more sensible to try to take an interest in someone else.

Shall She Go Out?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My girl friend is in love, but I don't know if the man whom she is in love with cares for her or not. He has asked me to go out with him on a foursome. But I have been wondering if this would be fair to her? She does not go steady with him and she goes out with other fellows but I know she is very much in love with him. Marge J.

I can see no good reason why you should not accept a date for a party of four because you think your best girl friend is in love with the young man who has invited you. Why don't you go to this girl candidly and ask her how she feels about it? You don't say whether you met this young man through your girl friend, or if you are in love with him. I take it for granted there are no such complications.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES

"Interested Reader—"Can you give me a recipe for frozen chocolate pudding for my electric refrigerator?"

Answer—Frozen chocolate pudding—Mix together one cup of granulated sugar and four tablespoons of cornstarch powder. Add two cups of sweet milk, scalding hot, then cook over boiling water for 10 minutes, stirring often. Now stir in either two squares of bitter chocolate, finely shaved, or one-fourth cup of cocoa-powder, and let the mixture cool before flavoring with two teaspoons of vanilla extract, and folding in one cup of heavy cream beaten stiff (measured before being whipped). Pour into the trays of a mechanical refrigerator (or turn into mold and pack in salt and ice) to freeze, without being touched, for several hours or till very firm.

Mrs. H. C. K.—"Please publish a recipe for bread and butter pickles."

Answer: Bread and Butter Pickles—Peel eight quarts of medium-sized cucumbers and cut them into one-inch slices. Also peel and slice two quarts of medium-sized white onions, then mix these two vegetables together in layers with salt sprinkled between (use two cups of salt in all). Let stand overnight, and next morning drain off the liquid which will have gathered, and rinse the vegetables with fresh, cold water; drain again, before putting the mixture into the preserving kettle and adding two quarts of cider vinegar previously brought to a boil with two and one-half pounds of brown sugar and the following spices tied into a tiny cheesecloth bag: One tablespoon each of whole allspice and mustard seed, two tablespoons of celery seed and a two-inch piece of stick-cinnamon broken in small bits. Let all come to a vigorous boil, then take out spice bag and divide the pickle among hot, sterilized glass jars, sealing jars airtight at once. (Some housekeepers like to add one tablespoon of turmeric to this recipe also.)

Tomorrow—Shades and Curtains.

A GOOD LIGHT

If your only light in the kitchen causes you to stand in its rays while cooking at the stove, something should be done about that. An extension placed right over in the corner by the stove will pay for itself in sheer pleasure in a week's time, not to mention the various stickings and possibly scorchings that have been caused by a poor light on one's work.

SMOKE IS FROM FIRES SOUTH OF BOUNDARY LINE

An American origin is assigned by officials of the forest branch here for the smoke haze which has been hanging over this section, as no reports of forest fires in this district have been received since the weekly compilation Friday.

A number of ranchers have permits for burning in connection with clearing land, but the clearing fires in this section are insufficient to account for the smoke that for the last couple of days has been in evidence.

As the branch has not been informed of large fires across the line, it is thought that extensive clearing operations down there may be a factor in producing the smoke

VALLICAN RANCHER VISITED BY LONG-DISTANT BROTHER

Obeying the urge to pay a long-deferred visit to his half-brother, whom he had not seen for 27 years, Ernest Sweezy, Toronto expressman in the employ of the Canadian National railways, arrived in Nelson last week and went out to Vallican, where he spent four enjoyable days with the British Columbia member of the family, Fred Moore, well known Vallican rancher and a member of the 54th battalion during the war.

Mr. Sweezy left for Toronto Monday morning, Fred coming to Nelson with him to see him off.

SPELLING MATCH IS ENLIGHTENING AT GYRO MEETING

Committee Is Appointed to Go Into Plans for Staging a Play

A spelling match as one of the main items in the entertainment at the Gyro meeting Monday night caused orthographical turmoil and not a little perplexity. With the Gyros lined up against the wall the match was started with a word directed at Don Ure. The atmosphere darkened and assumed a storm-like appearance as each man took his burden and attempted to acquit himself in learned style.

Several faced defeat in the word "phenomenon" "epilliptic" quieted as many more, "beleaguer" proved another sticker and "syzygy" paralized all and was disqualified as being too remote from the business at hand.

P. H. Sheffield surrounded the word "hydrofluoric" with ease and then seemed to have a purpose in hand when he spelled "teleological" on the next round. Tom Crannage spelled "paraphernalia" so fast no one was sure whether he was right or not. After his speed had been slackened and he had repeated it three times he was found deficient by an "r". Fred Ewing was ousted for abbreviating. Jack Morris was eventually the winner when J. Cartmel and P. H. Sheffield fearing breakers ahead, moved the meeting adjourn.

Bill Bennett, medallist at the last Kootenay music festical, played two festival pieces, "Island Spell" and "Gullywog Cakewalk." They were heartily applauded. Don Ure was in charge of the entertainment.

R. E. Crerar, delegate to the Gyro convention at Winnipeg, spoke briefly of his trip.

Plans will be made for a continuance of card parties such as were held last year, and a committee was appointed with the object of going fully into plans for staging a play.

The next meeting called will be for business and will be closed.

Try Miss Caldwell's Recipe for *RASPBERRY BISCUITS

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
½ cup milk
Tea-cubes of sugar
Raspberry juice or syrup

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Cut the hard, cold shortening into them with a knife, using a quick, short, chopping motion; or reduce the hard cold fat to tiny particles with a pastry blender or a steel-pronged fork. When the mixture resembles a very coarse meal, add the liquid, mixing quickly and lightly.

Turn out the dough on a slightly floured board; pat it down lightly or roll it to a thickness of about one inch. Shape with a small cutter or cut in squares with a floured knife.

Dip the small lumps of sugar into syrup from canned or fresh raspberries... Press a lump into each biscuit... forcing it well down into the dough so that it will not run down the sides when melted.

Place the biscuits on a greased pan or baking sheet and bake in a very hot oven, 450° F., 12 to 15 minutes.

The Results of a Vote in Britain?

While Bank of England governors have told the national government in Great Britain that it should continue in office for two years so that the country may be assured of a sufficient period under strong control and settled policies in which to recover from its financial weakness, strong arguments can be advanced on the other side.

The present government has been called a dictatorship. It is sufficiently close to one to raise the danger of feeling developing against it on that ground. The British stood for a dictatorship during the war, but they might not do so now, even though, as during the war, the dictatorship is of several men rather than of one.

If an election resulted in the return to a power of a strong government impressed with the reality of the colossal task which faces the people of Great Britain the situation would be more satisfactory than at present, in that the new policies which must be put into effect would be backed by the unquestioned support of the people.

But a Labor government, saddled with policies decided upon on the spur of the moment and in the mental attitude which governed an angry party just after Ramsay Macdonald had decided to place his country before party, might, no matter how much imbued it was with goodwill and good intentions, make a serious situation more serious.

Worse still, no party might have a majority after the votes had been counted and a coalition of the most unsatisfactory type might be the result.

Gandhi True to Form

Like many fanatics, Mahatma Gandhi fails to make general application of his principles.

He talks world brotherhood and all the rest of it, but when Lancashire asks him to consent to an arrangement under which the boycott on old country cotton might be lifted in India so that hungry Lancashire workers might secure employment, he tries to use the unfortunate condition of the cotton mill workers as a club to force Great Britain to grant India the full independence that he demands.

What does it matter if fellow subjects of the British Empire are out of work, providing that the Hindus may gain that political control against which the great Moslem population of India have been fighting since the issue was first raised?

'The Meek Shall Inherit'

Prof. Chew of the University of Edinburgh tells the British association that the Chinese will inherit the earth.

The professor, of course, is looking a long way into the future but if he is right in his conclusion, then there is not one of us who should cavil at the century or so hence result.

If a century of two from now the Chinese should prove to be the greatest of world powers, then it will be because they have earned the right to be so.

No nation can become the greatest of world powers because it is composed of bad and evil-disposed people. It can only gain world supremacy because its people are superior to their competitors in the qualities which make for supremacy.

Nations can gain world power and then, later, lose it, because of the weaknesses, moral or otherwise, of their people, but they win through strength, through character and ability.

The Romans who gained world power were of a different type to those of the Decline; Spaniards who won South America were better men than those who lost it; the Germans who made Germany a great nation were men of very different character to those who plunged it into the world war.

Norway and Sweden have departed from the gold standard. London may have lost its position to New York as the chief money market of the world, but when London announces a change, as from the gold standard, the worldwide repercussions are tremendous.

A Thorold, Ont., grocer shot and killed a debtor who failed to pay his bills, and also the debtor's wife. It would be pretty tough on some of us if this procedure became general.

Someone telephones the Nelson Daily News to ask: "What is good currency and what is bad?" It's generally all good, but some of it is better than others.

And now for the World Series. It's lucky the opposing teams don't play with world currency.

The life of a policeman, in Vancouver, isn't a happy one.

What the Press Says

SUPPLIES FOR CAMPS SHOULD BE BOUGHT LOCALLY

Commendation on Hon. Rolf Bruhn minister of public works, will be general in his announcement that all supplies for the relief camps of British Columbia are to be such as are produced in the province, that is with the exception of tea, sugar and such articles as are not grown here. It is estimated that these supplies will run about $20,000 a day so that this order is going to mean the circulation of a considerable sum through the producers of British Columbia.

This is the old principal of "buying at home" which the Gazette has been preaching for years, and we trust that the public works will not fall into the error of thinking that Vancouver is the only place that produces things in British Columbia. There are quite a few business men that appear to think so.

Probably this is the intention of the public works department, but if it is not, then we would urge that proper instructions be given so that districts adjacent to the work be given fullest consideration. Get the supplies locally. —Grand Forks Gazette.

"ON THE SPOT"

(By "O.J.W.S.")

The mantel over the fireplace is an interesting spot (for the guest) —in almost any home.

* * *

What people will put on these mantels, in the way of decoration—would fill volumes. Vases, statuettes, glassware, trophies—and knicknacks too numerous to tabulate—go to make up one of the most prominent showplaces in the home—and reflect the tastes of the people who live within those four walls.

* * *

In the home of a man of some wealth—once upon a time—your scribe was fascinated by a galaxy of interesting objects that were assembled on the mantel with the predominating tone—Oriental.

* * *

Waxing curious—for nowhere else in the room was there evidence that the host was, by hobby, a collector —this scribe commented on the arrangement of articles (even though he knew nothing of Oriental pottery).

* * *

The reply was interesting—

* * *

Our friend stawed thoughtfully into the crackling fire—as he smoked—then, raising his eyes to the array above, he recalled that as a young man he had been interested in things Oriental—in those days he could not afford to buy original pieces for a collection. But, as years went on, and fortune smiled on him, he was able to pick up—here and there—that which appealed to him.

* * *

Unlike most wealthy collectors, he did not fill every nook and cranny of his palatial residence with vases —(which were always "the last of the Ming dynasty" — or Buddahs, rugs, and the like). His extreme conservatism (usually null and void in the collector) led him to limit all his collection—to that comparatively small mantel above his magnificent fireplace.

* * *

His theory being, that people—who were his guests—would naturally gravitate to the warm fireplace (as most people do). Above the fireplace—long since lost to the modern world as the symbol of home life—our friend had made it his life work to place interesting and intrinsically valuable pieces of pottery —which could not but attract the eye of even—the uninformed. The stories he could tell about the pieces in his collection—the atmosphere of mystery, age, travel—surrounding the fireplace—and the total lack of blatant pretence—all blended into a perfect symphony—to be remembered. Would there were more such mantels.

And now we read, that in the east—an irate grocery man shot a debtor because he refused to pay his bill. Being a thoroughgoing sort of fellow—the grocer did not stop at one murder but stepped outside and shot his debtor's wife—(had the debtor had a man-servant, a maid-servant, etc., they, too, might have been potted.)

* * *

Not content with a brace of killings, this audacious fellow stated, after he had been arrested—that he wished there had been a bullet left for himself.

* * *

Nelson would be an interesting little city if all the grocers declared an "open season"—for debtors.

The quirk in human nature that makes people "crab"—regardless of whether or not they have a legitimate reason, is, I suppose, as old as civilization.

* * *

Ever since this economic chaos—known as "business depression," has hit the world—Nelson people have been bemoaning hard times—wondering when prosperity will return—and making sad stories, each of his individual plight. The Nelsonite isn't to be blamed, though—for, even though he has but little reason to talk depression—there is the instinctive urge to wail about his own particular kind of hard luck.

* * *

One wonders what this type would do, were he down in the earthquake-wrecked city of Belize, in British Honduras, where—we learn—the work of rehabilitation is "courageously going ahead." Well, there is just one thing Mr. "Crabbing" Nelsonite would do—when faced by real disaster.

* * *

He'd survey the debris—shake his head—tighten his belt—and dig in. Furthermore, marvellous to relate, he wouldn't grouse. Humans are funny that way.

There is a Czecho-Slovakian gentleman eating at the Nelson dining hall for unemployed—who has an idea for solving the depression to suit himself.

* * *

He told your scribe yesterday, amid a gale of wild- central European laughter, that he was looking for a lady with lots of money—having matrimonial leanings. His case, as he presented it, was, that since he had been a miner—he could "handle her gold." Which may have been a cheap witticism (if any)—but he got such a wholehearted laugh out of the thought—that he put his point across.

* * *

He had one lone American silver dollar in his pocket, with which he was having a lot of fun. He said he had spent most of the morning offering it, "sight unseen," to people for 93 cents, though the dollar was actually worth about $1.10. Everyone was leery—and refused to do business with our genial friend. These are canny days, all right.

And speaking of silver dollars (Canadian variety) — one doesn't want to be sending many money orders into the United States—Met a fellow yesterday who was charged half a dollar to send a $4 money order to Chicago.

* * *

And ten years ago yesterday (not so long ago) the Canadian dollar was worth just 90 cents—and yesterday, 96.50 cents. Who says events on this old universe of ours don't go in cycles?

Fred Ewing has the right idea for spelling matches. At the Gyro meeting last night, when a word was given to someone which Mr. Ewing couldn't spell, he would sit down until it had been spelled, and then would assume the perpendicular in the line again. Even when he was downed on the word "systematize" —due to leaving two syllables out of the middle—he voiced a protest saying that he had merely abbreviated it.

"Arrest me? But, officer, I just can't sleep in strange beds!"

How Gold Affects Prices in the See-Saw of Exchange

By J. G. WHITEHEAD
(From "Our Empire," London, Eng.)

Before entering on the question of international trade, let us pause for a moment to consider in what way the level of prices for various commodities in a country is affected by the amount of gold available there. We shall then be in a position to understand more clearly the rather complex problem of foreign exchanges.

A price is the amount of money for which any commodity exchanges in the market, money as we know being simply a standard of value—so that where the price is increased we can understand that it would point to an increase in the value of the commodity, which means that we can get more other commodities in exchange for it, and if the price is decreased its value would fall and we should get less of other commodities in exchange. For instance, let us suppose that a pair of shoes is equal in exchange to 5 cwts. of coal. Speaking in terms of money we should say that a pair of shoes is worth 10s and a cwt. of coal 2s. If the price of shoes rose to 12s 6d, then they would equal in exchange 6¼ cwts. of coal. The value of the shoes has risen with the rise in price. Very often, however, we find that this is not so, because a simultaneous rise in the price of coal takes place to compensate that of the shoes. In this case coal would rise 6d a cwt, making it 2s 6d per cwt., and the pair of shoes would still only be worth the original amount of coal. What has happened is that the prices of the two commodities have risen but their values in exchange have not been affected.

The conclusion to be drawn from this state of affairs is that if it is not the values of the commodities that have altered when the rise in prices took place, it can only be that it is value of the money itself that has changed. In the first case we get a pair of shoes for 5 cwts of coal, the price of each commodity being 10s. In the second we still get our shoes for the same amount of coal, but the price of each is 12s 6d. The value of money has therefore fallen because it now takes more to pay for the same amount of goods as before. In other words, it now takes five half-crowns to equal the former four half-crowns. Instead of saying that the value of money has fallen or risen, we generally speak of its change in purchasing power, which is the same thing expressed differently.

PURCHASING POWER OF MONEY

The changes in the purchasing power of money or the "cost of living" are calculated in this country by means of the board of trade "index figure," which is based on the wholesale prices of some 45 different commodities, foodstuffs and raw materials, taken at different periods. The prices of the commodities in 1900 are taken as the standard at the figure 100. In 1913 the average prices of these 45 commodities, expressing their total average as a percentage of the 1900 average, gave a figure of 116.5. Thus the prices having risen 16.5 per cent, we were able to say that the purchasing power of money had fallen by that same percentage. In passing, I may state that the amounts taken of the 45 commodities are different according to their estimated consumption in order to make a representative total. This is called a "weighted average." Rising and falling prices have different effects on different classes of the community, and because of this are very important in the life of a nation. A fall in prices is beneficial to the person with a fixed salary, because he can purchase more commodities with the same amount of money. It is also good for the wage earner in the same way and bad for the producer and manufacturer, whose output has become less in value, until a further fall warrants a reduction in wages and then labor troubles ensue. On the other hand, a rise in prices stimulates industry and commerce, but makes the lot of the fixed salary man or woman harder, and if the rise is abnormal or continues, it causes the wage earner to demand a rise in wages in accordance with the increased cost of living, and again labor trouble follows. It can also give rise to grave over-production with all its consequent evils. It seems, then, that the ideal is a steady level of prices, where producers and consumption can rely on a normal state of affairs and where industrial strife is reduced to a minimum through agreement between workers and employers being of a more lasting character. The banks, too, have more confidence in their credit transactions as they can be reasonably certain that the money they have loaned out will not, when repaid, have fallen in purchasing power.

CAUSE OF PRICE CHANGES

What is the cause of these changes in the level of prices that effect us so much? There are four main direct causes, such as increase and decrease in supply, the same in demand, competition from abroad, and the amount of money in circulation. It is with the latter that I wish briefly to deal. Gold we know is a commodity, just as other things are, and its price depends on how much of it is available. If, like any other commodity, for which there is a demand, the supply is scarce, then its value is enhanced. We have seen that a rise in the purchasing power of money means a fall of prices of goods and a lowering of its purchasing power means a rise in prices. If, therefore, there is a scarcity of gold in a country, prices are low. If, on the other hand, there is an increase of gold (in circulation), more gold will be given for these commodities and so prices will rise. In both cases we are assuming that there has been no change in the amount of commodities available for purchase. If, as the amount of money is increased, the volume of buying and selling is increased in proportion, no change in prices would take place and vice versa. It is the relation betwen the increase in gold and the increase in other forms of wealth, in this case goods, that determines the level of prices. Of course we do not pay in gold very often, but we know that gold generally finds its way to the banks, and it is the increase or decrease of gold in the reserve that determines the amount of money, notes, cheques, bills, etc., in circulation, so the result is the same, if it is indirect. This tendency of more money in circulation to raise the price of goods will be remembered by all my readers, in the case of this country when in 1918 the government began to recall its treasury notes of £1 and 10s and prices gradually began to fall, and in the case of Germany, whose issue of notes in such vast quantities after the wa rresulted in people having to pay millions of mark for the simplest necessities of life.

We must realize, then, that the level of prices is actually the value of money, that a rise in prices is a fall in the value of money, and that more money is in circulation or else money is circulating more rapidly, which has the same result; and that a fall in prices is a rise in the value of money and that less money is in circulation. Bearing this in mind, we shall be more easily able to tackle the question of foreign exchanges, the balance of trade and level of prices.

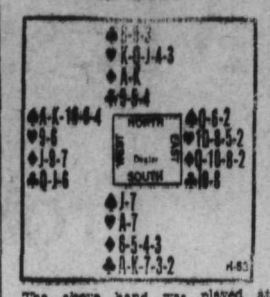
Auction and Contract Bridge

A TRICK WHICH SHOULD BE LOST



The above hand was played at Contract Bridge, the bidding being: South one Club, West one Spade, North three Hearts, East pass, South four Hearts.

At Auction Bridge the bidding would be South one Club, West one Spade, North two Hearts.

In the play East led the Queen of Spades. West, seeing that Jack would drop on the second round and being anxious to keep dummy from ruffing the suit, overtook the Queen with his King and led a trump. Declarer won and led another Spade which West won and led a second trump, exhausting dummy. Then all the trumps held by East were drawn and a Club led, but Declarer was obliged to lose one club and one more Spade and consequently failed to go the game. It was a case of Lupeus Cluborum.

THE CORRECT PLAY

When the clever adverse tactics developed on the second trick, Declarer should have realized that dummy would not be permitted to ruff a Spade; he therefore should have fallen back upon the Club suit and established it by leading a small one from Dummy. After that it would not matter what the adversaries did. If they led another rump, Declarer could exhaust trumps and discard two Spades on dummy's established Clubs. If they continued the Spades, dummy would be in position to ruff the third round; if they led Diamonds, Declarer's defence against that attack also would be impregnable.

Losing the first trick of an Ace-King five card suit in order to estblish it is a type of play which often is muffed by Declarer. When, in order to establish a suit, one trick in it must be lost. Very frequently the first trick is the one which the enemy should be allowed to take.

OFFICIAL SYSTEM POINTER NO. 14
Supporting Tricks

The strength which justifies the raising of a "partner's suit-bid of one or two is of three kinds:

(a) Length of strength in the bid suit.
(b) High cards in other suits.
(c) Ability to ruff.

Each one of these may furnish supporting tricks.

How the supporting tricks are ascertained will be explained during the balance of the week.

Gambling Greatest 'Racket' in U. S.

Uncle Sam's giant racket, dwarfing all other rackets—spotlight publicity to the contrary withstanding—is gambling. This is the opinion of William D. Mitchell, attorney-general of the United States, under whom are prosecuted all of the legal cases, both criminal and civil, directly affecting or committed against the national government.

Gambling, the attorney-general has declared in a recent interview, "leads all the rest," to the best of his belief, and gambling, as well as the other major rackets, is primarily a state problem with which the national government could not attempt to cope without a constitutional change.

"As a matter of fact," Mr. Mitchell said, "in recent income tax prosecution against a number of organized gangsters, it was developed that on an average not more than 20 per cent of their revenue came from iquor traffic, and this percentage has been diminishing, recent reports indicate."

Gangster A, for instance, whose racket was gambling, contributed, on an average over a period of four years, 25 per cent of the total receipts of the racketeers under inspection. These receipts averaged for the four years $1,539,440.04 annually. In the gambler's "big" year he collected 36 per cent of the total, which was a higher percentage than any other one racketeer has collected, as far as government records can ascertain.

BEER IS BIGGEST PART OF PROBLEM

In 1926, Gangster D, whose racket was beer alone, averaged 33 per cent, the next highest percentage on record. At no time has a beer-and-alcohol racketeer come within 10 per cent of these figures. Even in the "best" bootlegging year, 1926, the highest beer and alcohol percentage combined was less than 20 per cent. The percentage taken on two gangsters who handled only alcohol for hard liquors were, respectively, 12½ per cent and 7 per cent.

These figures are interpreted to mean that should the ban on beer be removed, two-thirds of the liquor problem in the United States would be solved.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON

COUGH FOLLOWING INFLUENZA

One of the mean symptoms that follows influenza or a severe head cold, is an irritating cough that is so persistent that it resembles the cough in whooping cough. Practically every physician has met one or more of these cases.

Dr. G. Richardson, Sydenham, England, points out that in examining patients who have recently had influenza that the trachea (windpipe) and the bronchial tubes which branch from it, one to each lung, are greatly inflamed. There is acute congestion just below the throat and extending all the way down to the windpipe and including the entrances to the bronchial tubes. This is the reason that a person afflicted with influenza has an uncomfortable sensation low in his throat—a hot tickley feeling.

After he gets over the fever of influenza there remains a typical cough, always coming on when lying down in bed at night or when going from a warm area to a cold one; in other words whenever cold air is enhaled over this inflamed lining of the windpipe.

Once a patient starts coughing he finds it hard to stop.

"Further, the intensity of the cough varies with the individual the short stout-necked person gives a most alarming display with his empurpled face, bulging blood shot and streaming eyes; but whatever the degree of the coughing fit, it is a great nuisance to the owner, and to the audience. It bears a startling resemblence to that of whooping cough.

Unfortunately these individuals begin to use the ordinary cough medicines which are used to "quiet" coughs, and all these medicines do in most cases is to upset the stomach and spoil the appetite."

I have spoken before about the use of frair's balsam for sore throat tonsillitis and so forth, and this is one more place where it seems to be helpful. A teaspoonful is put in the bottom of a jug or other vessel and a quart of boiling water is poured on it. With a towel over his head the patient inhales the steam for a few minutes. This should be done two or three times a day.

Dr. Richardson tells us that while mustard, linseed, camphorated oil and other external remedies may be applied to the throat, he has found the mercury vapor lamp the most effective.

ENVIRONMENT AND HEREDITY ARE TOUCHED

Combine to Create Traits in Human, Animal and Plant Life

All peculiarities of plants, animals and man probably are in part a matter of environment and in part a matter of heredity says Professor R. A. Emerson. The effects of heredity and environment on plants and animals are discussed in the following articles:

(By R. A. Emerson,)
Professor of Plant Breeding, Cornell University.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 28.—I have a kind of corn which ordinarily has white ears, but if the husks are removed before the kernels are hardened in ripening the ears become red. If the husks are stripped off from only one side of the ear, the kernels thus exposed to the light become red and those kept in darkness remain white. The heredity of the whole ear is the same; and yet the kernels that ripened in the environment, sunlight, are red while those in another environment, darkness, are white.

I have another kind of corn that always produces red kernels whether exposed to the light or not. I have also a third kind that never had red kernels even when the developing ear is exposed. We cannot say that red kernels as such are inherited. What actually is inherited is the ability to develop red color in the presence of strong light, the ability to react with light to produce red and to react with darkness to produce white kernels.

NOT ALL ANTAGONISTIC

I suspect that all peculiarities of plants, animals and man are in part a matter of invironment and in part a matter of heredity. I do not think of these effects of heredity and of environment as being at all antagonistic.

Many questions grow out of this conception of the interaction of heredity and environment. What about changing one's heredity or at least the heredity of one's children by changing one's environment? Will training a race horse properly so that he breaks a world's record make his colts better runners than they would have been had he not been trained at all? Will forcing a dairy cow by the best feed and care to give the utmost quantity of milk of which she is capable make her progeny give more milk than they would have given had she been allowed to rustle for her living on a dry western range? Will training our children in music give our grandchildren natural musicians?

Some have believed that these questions could be given an affirmative answer, but I know of no crucial evidence to support such answers. Most of the so-called evidence that has been presented is worthless. We cannot conduct controlled experiments with humans and even our domestic animals leave much to be desired in this respect.

Plants afford much better material for such tests. Wheat, for instance, is self-pollinated, and barring rare accidental cross-pollination the seedlings grown from a single wheat plant all have identically the same heredity. Such a pure line of wheat was grown on rich soil for 20 years and another lot of the same pure line on very poor soil for the same length of time. Throughout these 20 generations the plants on rich soil were large and productive while the small plants grown on poor soil yielded little more seed than enough to maintain the line. At the end of this 20-year period, the two lots were planted side by side on uniform soil. And with what result? The plants of both lots were as nearly identical as any two lots of wheat could be. Not a measurable difference was found between them.

WHAT RELATION-

Now, what relation does all this have to the practice of plant or animal breeding, and what relation to the education and training of our children? I do not see that it need modify our practice in these respects at all. The breeder of animals will continue to force his dairy cows and running horses to do their best, not because this will change directly the hereditary abilities of the progenies of these animals, but because in no other way can he tell whether the heredity of his breeding animals is such that they can respond to good feed or to rigorous training. In no other way can he select the best for breeding purposes.

Again, in the matter of educating our children we shall continue to give them such advantages as we can. If they have inherited the ability to react well to good environment and less well to poor surroundings, it behooves us to give them as favorable surroundings and as good an education as we can.

We hear much about softening the fiber of human kind through the influence of a pampering cizilization. There is, perhaps, some truth in this idea. Although a soft environment does not change the heredity of an individual, does not make weak individual heredity out of a strong, such an environment does make it possible for weak hereditary strains in the human stock to propagate their kind, whereas, in a more rigorous environment, only the more virile strains of humans could persist.

GIRL SPEEDER STEPS ON IT

CHATHAM, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP)—The fact that the pavement was wet did not deter Noella Louise Martin, a young Greenwich, Connecticut girl, from stepping on the gas while driving over No. 2. highway. She was trailed from Thamesville to Kent Bridge at 75 miles an hour, and finally the constable had to touch 85 on his motorbike to pass her and check her. She paid a fine of $5 and costs, $10.25 in all.

A MUFFLED BELL

When one lives in a boarding house one cannot permit friend alarm clock to get too noisy in the early morning. Yet we must get to work on time. Procure a heavy rubber band and snap it around the sides of the clock and bell. It will muffle the bell enough to prevent it becoming a nuisance and yet permit enough noise to awaken the sleeper.

Newspaper Advertising is the Life Stream of Canadian Business

Advertising and mass production are inseparable partners in this industrial age. The manufacturer, distributor or retail merchant whose product has any justifiable right to a place in the market and expects to make enough sales to continue business at a profit, must keep on telling the public about his goods.

In such times as the present—when business is grimly and successfully fighting its way back to normal—there is temptation for men to curtail their advertising plans because of comparative falling off of demand and of smaller balances of profit in trading. Do the opposite! It is simple to run a blue pencil through items and lists of an appropriation, but it is not so easy to deal with the inevitable lessening of demand and fall in sales in the autumn, winter and early spring.

Daily Newspaper advertising in Canada is your greatest help today in reducing costs of distribution, not only because it covers every potential consumer, but because it may be bought exactly where and when it is needed. It is always at the salesman's back in any retail situation with a consumer appeal adapted to any sectional requirement. Use it to its fullest strength now that you need it most.

The best traders in Canada—firms which grow in strength and prestige year after year—know that Daily Newspaper advertising is as necessary to them as their raw material. When the fight is hardest—they have proved—it pays best to strengthen rather than to reduce their newspaper lists. Follow their good example!

Daily Newspapers are read today with keener interest than ever before in the history of Canada. Use them to carry your message in an atmosphere of vitality and with assurance of an attentive reception!

CRANBROOK MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN ATHLETIC EVENTS

They Take the 100 Yard Dash, 220, 880 and Relay Events

CRANBROOK, B. C., Sept. 28.—Cranbrook athletes are being congratulated on the good showing made by them at the East and West Kootenay schools meet held Saturday evening in the Kimberley rink with the Kimberley schools as hosts. The regular titles held by Cranbrook students at the annual meets for some years past, such as the relay, the girls and boys hundred yard dash, the 220 yards and jumping events were all upheld, though not in all cases by the early defenders of these honors, new names appearing in several events.

The 220 senior boys race was won by Blaine of Cranbrook and the 880 yard race by Warren of Cranbrook with just a few inches to spare over Wallach of Nelson.

The relay race, which has come to Cranbrook from all meets attended for the past five years, was again won by the senior boys' team, consisting of Blaine, Downey, McPhee and Warren.

David Graham (Kingsgate, attending the Cranbrook high school) came second in the junior 880 yard race. D. MacDonald (Grassmere, attending Fernie high school) was winner of this junior race. Comment was made by Inspector V. Z. Manning that these two boys, coming from rural schools and with no previous track training, had been able to win over boys with considerable training, thus proving extra promising material for future meets. Graham also came second in the junior high jump.

In the girls events Carrie Spence, who has come to the fore in several recent races, won the 100 yard dash over Ruby Andrews of Kimberley by a small margin. Rubena Miller of Cranbrook, holder of the broad jump title for some years was this time defeated by Doris Eley, also of Cranbrook.

The girls' relay race was also one of the Cranbrook trophies, the team being composed of Rubena Miller, Doris Eley, Janet Brown and Carrie Spence.

An exhibition race was run by Fred Large of Cranbrook against Stanley Moffat. Large had postponed going to Calgary to run an exhibition race against Martello of Trail, who, however was not present.

Highest praise is heard on all sides of the competent way in which the meet was staged. Events were run on time and without a hitch, reflecting credit on the Kimberley teachers and others who were responsible for the arrangements.

As far as the success of the Cranbrook entrants was concerned, great credit is due to those who have had the training of the young people in hand. A. L. McPhee of the high school staff, who had charge of the general training of the entrants and Miss Jackson of the staff, who spent a great deal of time over the girls' preparations, deserve special mention, as do also G. T. Moir of the C. A. A. and J. M. Clark of the W. M. C. A., whose untiring interest in all matters of sport are responsible for the long record of successes of Cranbrook's younger athletes.

ATLANTA, Sept. 28. (AP)—W. L. Stribling, who lost a chance at the world's heavyweight crown with his defeat by Max Schmeling in Cleveland last July, will fight again October 27.

Pa Stribling, his father and manager, announced today. W. L. has been matched with "Big Boy" Peterson in New Orleans.

Stribling has been in retirement since the Schmeling triumph.

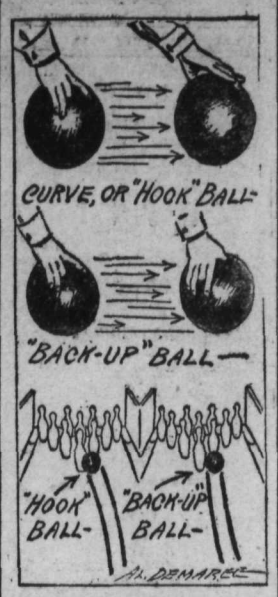
"Big League" BOWLING



By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

Most beginners in bowling are afflicted with what is known as a "back-up" ball.

This type of ball is caused by a combination of tension, causing "pinching" and lack of follow through on the delivery. This causes the ball to revolve from left to right, instead of right to left.

To avoid a "back-up" ball, relax and aim the ball at the right direction. Loosen up on the grip, relax your arm and turn your wrist and hand to the left, so that the palm is down as you release the ball. This will give you a curve or "hook" ball.

Al Demareehas prepared an illustrated bowling leaflet on "Improving Bowling Delivery" which he will gladly send to any reader requesting it. Address Al Demaree in care of this paper and be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Haines and Martin Lost to Athletics for the First Game

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals may go into the world series Thursday without two of their regulars, Pitcher Jess Haines and Centerfielder John "Pepper" Martin.

Haines, who injured a muscle in his throwing arm pitching in Pittsburgh, appears to be definitely out of the series. His arm has not responded to treatment and he hasn't thrown a ball in three weeks. He won two games of the 1926 series and last year scored one of the team's two victories over the Athletics, beating Lefty Grove in St. Louis to square the series.

Dr. Robert F. Hyland, club physician, said today it was doubtful whether Martin, who suffered a badly wrenched left knee in Cincinnati Saturday, would be able to play.

Maureen Orcutt Looks Good in Canadian Open

TORONTO, Sept. 28 (CP)—Maureen Orcutt of White Beaches, New Jersey, has served convincing notice that the task of taking away the Canadian ladies' open golf title she won last year is going to be a man-sized job. She carded a fine 80, three strokes over par, to lead home an international field of 94 players today and win the qualifying medal.

A slim stroke back of the pacesetter over the tough Rosedale course, came Mrs. W. G. Fraser of Ottawa, who was Alexa Stirling, holder of many golfing crowns, before her marriage. Mrs. Fraser was winner of the championship in 1912, and runner up in 1915 and 1922.

ARGYLE, MEERES WIN COLLINSON CUP LAWN PLAY

J. Armstrong and E. Penwill Are Losers; Mrs. Wigg's Rink Wins

In Monday's play for the men's lawn bowling singles championship and the Collinson shield, J. Argyle defeated E. Penwill, 13-9, and G. A. Meeres beat J Armstrong, 12-10.

Playing for the ladies' rink championship, Mrs. A. Wigg's lawn quartette handed Mrs. J. Ivan MacKay's ladies the severe trouncing of 20-4.

The ladies' rinks were:

Mrs. A. Wigg, Mrs. J. Draper, Mrs. T. J. Behan and Mrs. J. T. Sindell.

Mrs. J. Ivan MacKay, Miss G. Wigg, Mrs. Munro and Mrs. E. Y. Brake.

COLLEGE MEN WIN DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, and Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, of the University of Southern California and Stanford, respectively, today defeated the national double champions, Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, and John Van Ryn, Los Angeles, to win the Pacific southwest doubles title, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

Van Ryn and Allison never moved into the lead, playing an erratic game against an unusually strong performance of their junior opponents. Gledhill and Vines broke through Van Ryn's service three times during the match, winning all three sets on the breaks.

Vines had his own way in the final game with his indomitable service to bring him his second championship of the tournament.

The victory raised Vines' total of titles for the 1931 season to an even dozen doubles championships, along with his 13 singles crowns, including the national singles title.

LABOR PARTY IS GIVEN A START AT NEW DENVER

Plan Organization at Sandon; James Moir Is Secretary of Branch

NEW DENVER, B. C., Sept. 28—At a meeting held in the Miners' Union hall on Thursday afternoon last, an Independent Labor party was organized and a good membership secured to go ahead with the program outlined. The new organization intends to spread to other surrounding communities and Sandon will be the next place for a branch to be formed.

James Moir was appointed secretary of the branch, and Mrs. Hambly his assistant. Four speakers contributed to the gathering. They were James Moir, J. C. Harris, Rod Dewar and James Mortimer.

Mr. Moir, who presided over the meeting, outlined the objects of the organization and the present position of the Labor movement. He referred to the success that Dr. Telford was meeting with at the coast and to the strong movement to organize the farmers of British Columbia. He urged that the Slocan riding get in line with the work.

PROPOSE ORGANIZATION

J. C. Harris dealt with the need of getting the nation properly organized to do its work so that everyone would have an opportunity to do his or her bit. Men were conscripted to fight during the war and men were being conscripted to work in the road camps at the present moment because society was so badly organized that it could not give them a better employment. "There is plenty of good work to do in Canada if the people are properly organized, and we must turn out the people who have made such a muddle of the job and organize the country properly," he said.

Mr. Dewar gave a brief talk and James Mortimer livened the meeting with a few witty words.

FAVORITES SWEEP THROUGH TENNIS

Perry and Hughes, British Davis Cup Stars, Take First Round

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28. (AP)—With but little competition offered, favorites swept through first and in some cases, second round matches, today of the annual Pacific tennis championships.

Sydney Woodl of New York, present holder of the English singles title, eliminated two San Francisco entrants. He defeated Seymour Turner, 2-6, 6-2, 6-0, and completed a second round set to with a 4-6, 6-1, 6-4 win over Martin Kenneally.

Fred Perry and G. P. Hughes, British Davis cup stars, stroked out Eli Fottrell, San Fransico, 6-3, 7-5, first round wins. Perry defeated and Hughes took the measure of Sidney Le Fiell, San Francisco, 6-1, 6-3.

George Lott of Philadelphia and Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., had but little opposition in first round appearances. Lott won from Ted Lilietnthal, San Fransico, 6-3, 6-2, and Mangin disposed of Harold Brogan, San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2.

Favorite to win the women's title, Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkley, brushed aside two opponents as did her closest rival, Mrs. L. A. Harper of Oakland.

Mrs. Helen Will Moody, American champion, will not defend her coast singles crown this year but will appear in mixed doubles.

Killed By Flying Saw

ACCIDENT OCCURS IN FRONT OF FAMILY

A flying fragment of a shattered buzz saw, driven with such force that it whirled 1500 feet over a dozen London, Ont., houses, chopped the right half from the head of Daniel Ivanski, aged 57, and killed him instantly while his wife and family looked on in horror. He borrowed the old power buzz saw that had been rigged up on an ancient auto chassis by a Polish farmer. Ivanski found the saw too small and obtained a 24-inch disc that had been discarded as scrap. He filed out each second tooth and mounted it in an auto. His son-in-law and son Peter were carrying the ties to him after he returned from work, and his wife, who had been ill for more than a year, stood by. Suddenly as he pressed a tie against it, the blade twisted and burst.

The rinks were:

C. P. R.—J. Draper, G. Twist, F. Geder and D. Eccles.

T. A. LOVE TO FLY TO VERNON ON WEDNESDAY

Will Represent West Kootenay and Boundary Districts at New Airport

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Sept. 28—When Vernon city holds its air pageant at its new airport Wednesday next, the West Kootenay and Boundary districts, will be represented.

T. A. Love of Grand Forks, president of the local board of trade, has accepted an invitation to attend. On Monday afternoon he made arrangements to fly to the pageant with Nick Mamer of Spokane.

Mr. Mamer, who won distinction in a 'Frisco to New York and return non-stop flight, will drop his plane on the local airport at 8:30 Wednesday, from whence he will fly direct to Vernon.

Mr. Love, who was instrumental in establishing the airport here in 1929, is a pioneer among British Columbia airport boosters, and in August was sole guest passenger of the Royal Canadian air force, when five of its planes crossed Canada with the air pageant.

TRAIL FINANCES ARE GONE OVER

Must Count Every Dollar Is Warning; Allotment Percentages Shown

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28—City finances were viewed tonight by Alderman E. L. Groutage and the warning given that the city must count every dollar spent from now to the end of the year.

At the end of August various city departments sent the following percentages of their allotments:

Office and general, 69, board of works, 123; fire, water and lights, 63; health and relief, 74; police, 67.

Mayor Lerose suggested that if the Trail relief plans were approved the city must lay off all men except those on Trail creek culverts and Glover road cribbing. Alderman Groutage stated that unless the relief program was approved the city would never escape an overdraft. City Engineer McDiarmid asked that no action be taken until definite word was received from Victoria.

If some motorists used as much care in driving as they do in blowing their horns, the highways would be safer.

Canadiens Without Manager This Year

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 28.—The world's professional hockey champions, Montreal Canadiens, were without a manager to pilot them through the approaching schedule of the National Hockey league today. Cecil Hart, manager of the team for several years, said he had not come to terms with the owners of the club and had not signed a contract for the coming season.

At the same time Hart said he expected to leave for St. Louis tomorrow to confer with Joe Cuttaranich on the matter.

OAK STREET WALL CONSTRUCTION IS STOPPED AT TRAIL

Wall Would Cut Off 14 Feet of Road; if Placed Back Would Stop View

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28—Discussing a wall under construction on Oak street, L. E. Mason waited on the city council tonight. He was accompanied by O. Quinstrom. He felt that if the wall went in where it was apparently planned, it would rob the street of about 14 feet width.

Mayor Bruno Lerose said if the wall went in on the street line it would blind three properties. Mr. Mason asserted this had been known when the bylaw for the wall was passed and that one house had been built after the bylaw passed in the face of a warning. Mayor Lerose declared the matter required extremely serious consideration. Mr. Mason said his objection was because the present location would cut off needed width from the "bottleneck" of the street. It was a difficult problem, Mr. Mason said, but he asked serious consideration.

Alderman C. A. Newman suggested laying the matter on the table for two months and establishing a grade. Council decided to stop the work until it had an opportunity to go over the ground.

NELSON PROPERTY OWNER CAUSE OF DISCUSSION, TRAIL

Council Discusses Radcliffe Store; Street Wall Question Arises

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28—Suggesting that the council should withdraw instructions to Mrs. Jackson Radcliffe of Nelson, to move back the front of the former Busy Bee store, in East Trail, to the property line, Alderman C. A. Newman suggested the council tonight should even pay her for lawyer's expenses.

He started a lengthy argument in which Alderman Anderson declared he was in the dark as to Mr. Newman's assertion, and stated that what was sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander". Alderman Newman replied, that some of the council did not want to come out of the dark.

The discussion opened up again the question of the open street wall, and brought from Alderman John Dockstader the declaration that when he obtained a petition, for which he had asked the city clerk to go through his files, he would reveal something that would put the question in a different light. Later Alderman Newman asked for a statement of the gross tax receipts from East Trail. Mayor Bruno Lerose suggested that it would be wise to have at the same time a statement of expenditures in this section.

It was stated that it would be impossible to segregate the items.

Benny Leonard Is Unable to Fight

BOSTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, today notified the Argonne, A. A. that an injured leg would prevent him from fulfilling his 10-round engagement with Vit Livan, rugged Italian middleweight here at the arena on Wednesday night. As a result the bout was put over to a later October date.

This Baseball Fan Is a Distance Man

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28 (AP)—The first fan to appear at Sportsman's park for a world's series bleacher seat, which will not go on sale until 8 a.m. Thursday, arrived at 7 a.m. today.

He is Horace L. Anspaugh, 31, a hotel clerk at Horton, Kansas, who said he had determined to be first in line for the distinction of that place and to win a $200 bet from a friend in Sedalia, Mo., his home town.

Anspaugh brought a canvas chair, a rubber slicker, blanket, shaving outfit and stationery.

CANADA GOOSE IS BREEDING ON DISTRICT LAKES

Howser and Christina Lakes Had Flocks Says C. H. Robinson

Howser lake, in the Duncan country, was a breeding ground for the Canada goose this season. C. H. Robinson, fisheries inspector for this district, was informed by Billy Clark, well known Duncan trapper and hunter, last week when at Kaslo. Mr. Clark told the fishery man that approximately 100 young geese were raised on Howser lake this year.

Another new breeding ground this year was Christina lake, in the Boundary. Mr. Robinson stated Sunday night. A few geese were seen on the lake all summer, and raised broods, and he understands a movement is being launched at Grand Forks to have the lake declared a sanctuary for breeding water-fowl.

IN OKANAGAN ALSO

In the last year or two there have been many articles in American and Canadian outdoor magazines referring to a small flock of geese that have made Osoyoos lake, in the southern Okanagan, their habitat, kindly residents putting out feed for them, and the facts seem to suggest that southern British Columbia is being "taken up" by Canada's most famous game bird.

Mr. Robinson left Sunday night for Grand Forks, to be present at Monday night's meeting of the Grand Forks Rod and Gun club, which will be addressed by R. W. McLeod, supervisor of fisheries for the British Columbia district. Mr. Robinson will remain with the inspector on his tour, which includes Nelson Wednesday night, Cranbrook Thursday night and Fernie Friday night.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN WOMEN

English Writer Sees Many Examples of Their Industry and Enthusiasm

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(By the Canadian Press)—Miss Winifrede Wrench who is visiting in Canada continues to write her impressions for the magazine "Overseas," edited by her brother.

Watching a sunset at Metis beach where she first felt she was really in Canada because of the countryside, she writes: "No wonder our forebears thought they had found a new land in Canada." Of Canadian women she had this to say, "I have everywhere been impressed with the way they take hold of a job. They are so efficient and capable and seem to get through an immense amount of work.

"If someone were to ask me what I love most about Canada, I would answer: "I love the trees best and of all the trees I love the birches most. But when I have said that I immediately want to qualify it by all sorts of other things. I love the trees, but I also love the flowers, the acres of ox-eye daisies; the fields knee deep in pink clover, that scent the air so deliciously, the sheets of purple iris and purple vetch, and all the other lovely flowers, familiar and unfamiliar, which go to make up part of the charm and delight of a Canadian summer, at any rate in the province of Quebec. Yes, the flowers are lovely, but I return to the trees. I cannot think of Canada apart from her chief glory, her woods and forests. There are trees everywhere, big trees and little trees, trees I have known and loved since my childhood's days in Ireland; trees I have never seen before; and trees that are familiar yet unfamiliar, seeing they are so much larger than the same species at home. There are impenetrable forests in Canada, a mile or two even from where I am writing this moment, dense brush, enticing but rather awesome, so close and thick do the trees and underbrush grow; but there are park-like districts as well as where the trees grow as if they had been planted by someone who knew just where each pine or birch or maple ought to stand.

"I find it almost impossible to pick out what I want to tell you most about Canada. Everywhere I have gone I have met friends and been extended the warmest and kindest hospitality. I have met, literally hundreds of people wherever I have stayed, and everyone has been anxious to do everything possible to make me happy and help me in my task. Each place I have been to has its own special interest: Quebec, the oldest and quaintest town on the North American continent, the Edinburgh of Canada, with its small British-Canadian population and its large French-Canadian population. Montreal, which speaks of itself as the second city of the Empire, and which makes me wonder what Glasgow would say; which anyhow, is the second largest French town in the world, marvellously situated, famed for the McGill university and for the cosmopolitan of its inhabitants—there are 86 nationalities in Canada. Toronto, the most British city in the Dominion, in spite of, or perhaps because of, its close proximity to the United States, a great commercial center on the shores of the vast lake of Ontario, and full of the most charming homes I have seen anywhere. Ottawa, with a character all its own, being the seat of the government and very conscious of the fact, surrounded on all sides by three mighty rivers and with as beautiful situation as any city in the world."

It is a good plan to ask the saleswomen to examine the stockings you buy. She does this by putting her hand through the stocking to show up defects in the weave. If you always request this favor you will never have the embarrassment of returning them later on.

DUCK QUESTION WILL BE TAKEN UP AT MEETING

Rod and Gun Club Meeting to Hear Fishery Man Will Be General One

Advantage will be taken of the presence here Wednesday night of R. W. McLeod, fisheries supervisor, for British Columbia, for the purpose of addressing the Nelson and District Rod and Gun club, to hold the fall meeting of the club, and deal with many pending questions, including that of the season for duck shooting, President H. M. Maloney stated Monday.

There is a considerable sentiment here for shutting down on duck shooting after the sloughs freeze over, as ducks remaining after the freeze-up are obviously intending to spend the winter here, and breed here in the spring.

Shooting of such ducks is on a different basis from shooting of ducks that are in migration and that run chances of being shot south of the line and never being seen again up here, it is contended.

When hemming table linen, save the ravellings. They are the best material obtainable for darning holes or thin places in worn table linen.

NEW YORK LIST DROPS LOWER IN A SLOW SESSION

Foreign Exchanges Are Excitable; Bond Market Generally Lower

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Handicapped by a weak bond market and the tangled state of foreign currencies, stocks were unable to make much headway today and declined in the last hour when selling was resumed on a moderate scale.

Stocks ruled steady to firm in the morning, feeling their way upward behind the metal and railroad shares. The last hour or so, however, witnessed a resumption of pressure against the general list. The turnover fell off to 1,487,050 shares, the smallest since September 10.

General Motors was especially soft, dipping more than a point to 26¼, a new minimum. U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Chrysler, Paramount, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse and Bethlehem lost 1 to 1¾ net, while Sears-Roebuck, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Atchison, Rock Island and National Biscuit were off in the vicinity of two points.

KRESGE SLUMPS

Kresge, Eastman Kodak, Dupont and Procter & Gamble yielded 3 or more. Kresge slumped when support, which had been apparent all last week, was withdrawn. Coca Cola was again an air-pocket, off 8. Metal shares, which had been up 1 to 2, forfeited their improvement. S. H. Kress, exceptionally strong, rallied almost a dozen points.

Withdrawal of $52,000,000 in gold, either for earmarking or for immediate exportation, brings the yellow metal loss in less than a fortnight to roughly $240,000,000.

Foreign exchanges were very excitable. Swedish, Dutch and Italian currencies touched new lows, although the guilder rallied. The German mark and Norwegian kronen on the other hand, firmed, and sterling held above Saturday's close, finishing at $3.85¾, or near the top, for a net gain of nearly 5 cents.

The bond market was generally lower on a heavy turnover in all classes of issues. Sales totalled $16,297,000 on the stock exchange. Losses of one point were common.

CHICAGO GRAIN SHOVED LOWER

Scandinavian Announcement of Raising the Gold Standard Is Cause

CHICAGO, Sept. 28 (By John P. Boughan, Associated Press market editor)—Readjustments from a gold basis in various European countries put further weight on grain prices today, despite enlarged purchases of North American wheat for overseas. Sweden and Norway's abandonment of the gold standard was construed as bearish. Late weakness of Wall street securities was also a disturbing factor.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅜ to ¾ cent lower, corn ⅜ to ⅝ down, oats ⅛ to ¾ off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

QUALITY OF MACS IS BEST RECEIVED, TRADE CONSIDERS

Demand for Yakima Tomatoes Still Keen and Price Is Advanced

VICTORIA—The following wire received from director of markets at Winnipeg. "Ontario grapes are quoted at 18 cents f.o.b. for 6-quart baskets. These are arriving in good condition and are getting a big sale. Plums and peaches are practically finished. The trade considers that the MacIntosh apples arriving are the best quality and color ever received. They are being highly commented upon and are making good sale."

VANCOUVER— Ontario Concord grapes, in carlots, are arriving here; the pack is above the average. MacIntosh apples are moving out in good volume from the "street" and there is also consi[d]erable movement of them through Chinese produce dealers who are offering them at lower prices than quoted on the street, states market news letter, department of agriculture, Victoria, issued from the market division on September 25. Fraser valley apples are being handled in the usual volume at attractive prices. Nice quality Kings are selling at $1.15 per box. Lemons are rapidly climbing in price, due it is said, to improved marketing facilities and possibly to the unseasonable hot weather in the east. All imported fruits are bringing increased prices owing to the exchange. Peaches will soon be off the market, only one more car being expected. Bartlett pears are almost over but are being replaced by D'Anjou. Prunes are moving well and supplies seem to be adequate. One more car of prunes is expected from the Okanagan. Hothouse tomatoes are up in price from last week, current prices being around $2.50 per crate. There is practically no change in the vegetable list for this week. Cariboo turnips are being offered at $1.50 per sack and finding a ready sale, as the quality is superior to the local stuff.

Fruit and vegetables imported into Victoria and Vancouver week ending September 24. Washington: Peaches, 4138 boxes; prunes, 265 boxes; eggplant, 50 crates; peppers, 155 crates; celery, 35 crates; lettuce, 50 crates. California, grapes 1707 lugs. Sweet potatoes, 30,083 pounds from California and Japan: Pickling onions, 90 sacks from Oregon.

YAKIMA—The demand for tomatoes continues keen and prices advanced this week. Growers are receiving 40 to 45 cents per box of 20 pounds. Carrots and turnips, per dozen bunches, are bringing the growers 20 to 25 cents. Bartlett pears took a boost in price this week of 10 to 15 cents per box. Apple trading is confined chiefly to export sizes, while the domestic markets are taking the Jonathans slowly with no advance trading being done. Seasonal prices are effective, $1.05 to $1.10 per box for extra fancy and 85 to 90 cents for fancy.

Shipments Through Canadian Ports Are Bound to Increase

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 29 (Tuesday)—The Gazette today publishes the following:

"Shipments via Canadian ports will likely be increased as a result of the ruling adopted by the Atlantic conference lines. This is to the effect that rates on Canadian goods shipped from United States ports on through or local bills of lading must be calculated on the basis of American dollars instead of Canadian dollars."

TORONTO STOCKS MOVE NARROWLY

Prices May Be Pegged Indefinitely Exchange Officials Think

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 28. (CP)—Trading was at a low ebb and movements narrow today on the Toronto stock exchange. Possibility of indefinitely continuing the peg on domestic issues was discussed, especially as unofficial advices have emanated from Montreal that prices there are to have a minimum level peg for some time to come. Some traders contend it is necessary inasmuch as the scarcity of short selling in Canadian markets provides no cushion once liquidation is started.

Total sales involved only 7277 shares.

British Columbia Power was off 1 to 26¼; Bell was off ½ and Brazilian Traction was up ¼ to 10. C. P. R. at 17¼ was off ½. Ford of Canada "A" was down ½ to 13⅛.

Smelters was unchanged at 65 and Nickel was also unchanged at 10. British American Oil lost ¼ to 9. Imperial and International Petroleum each gained ¼ to 10¾ and 9¾ respectively.

WINNIPEG WHEAT MARKET IS IDLE

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28 (CP)—In the absence of outside support, the wheat market idled through a featureless session to record losses of ⅝ cent to ¼ cent for the day. October closed at 53⅝; November 54⅝; December at 54¾ and May at 55⅞.

Narrow in range, the market was wholly local in character. Export business over the week end apparently was confined to the continental market with sales made to France and Antwerp.

Demand for top grades of cash wheat were fair. Durums averaged half a cent better. Coarse grains were indifferent with no sales reported.

CHINESE REFUSE TO UNLOAD CARGOES

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 28—Cargo for Chinese ports on Japanese vessels will not be unloaded on arrival in the Orient, Paul Sykes, Canadian trade commissioner at Hong Kong, has informed offices of the Canadian Manufacturers' association in a cable today.

Relations between the Japanese and Chinese over the former's occupation of Manchuria have become so strained that Chinese are boycotting Japanese vessels.

VANCOUVER LIST TURNS SLUGGISH

Only a Few Issues Trade and Not More Than a Few Shares During Session

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 28.—Reduced activity and lower prices featured the session of the Vancouver stock exchange today. Mines issues, as has been the case for the past few weeks, practically monopolized trading interest, but few issues had more than two transactions. Crow's Nest led in point of activity with 19,500 shares of the 31,200 shares traded on the curb. The stock closed 1¼ cents higher at 5½ cents. Sales on the big board were 16,027 shares, compared with 26,290 for the short session Saturday. Pioneer Gold was the only other stock to show a gain, advancing 5 points to $2.25.

Georgia River at 3½ and Noble Five at the same quote were both off fractionally. Cottonbelt lost 4 at 23 cents, while Premier was down 2 at 49 cents.

Mercury, in the oils, was off fractionally at 8¼ cents.

Coast Breweries, the only issue among the industrials and utilities group to be traded, was off 50 cents at 10.00.

WORK ON UPPER PART ROSSLAND ROAD STARTED

Contractor's Equipment Moved; Start Widen 'Wedding' Cake' Turn

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28.—No time has been lost in getting a start on preparation of the upper end of Trail-Rossland highway, within the Rossland city limits, for paving with concrete.

On Saturday the new power shovel of A. H. Green Co., contractors for the work, started on the removal of the "wedding cake" turn. It was originally intended to straighten out the highway at this point, but before much headway had been made rock was encountered. The cut was abandoned and the shovel is now working in from the side of the present highway, and as much as possible of the curve will be eliminated.

The old Rossland road is being prepared as a detour, and just as soon as it is ready the present highway will be closed and concrete work started.

On Columbia avenue, Rossland, the sides of the streets are to be surfaced with asphalt. This portion of the street is being graded, and the work is to be rushed to completion.

At China creek the surfacing is about completed and the end of the week should see the lower end of the Trail-Rossland highway about ready to be thrown open for traffic.

Opinions Differ in Matter of Status of the Dairy Sales Act

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 28.—A distinct difference of opinion exists regarding the status and jurisdiction of the dairy products sales adjustment committee since Mr. Justice Murphy handed down his decision Saturday in favor of the Crystal dairy. The case was instituted to test the validity of the Dairy Sales Adjustment act.

The committee at New Westminster declared today it will continue to administer the legislation pending the decision of the appeal court and the privy council, should the decision of the supreme court be upheld in Canada.

The old rate of $1.20 per 100 has been succeeded by a sliding scale as follows: Over 100 pounds to 200, $1.35 per shipment; over 200 pounds to 300 pounds, $1.45 per shipment; over 300 pounds to 400 pounds, $1.60 per shipment; and over 400 pounds, 40 per 100.

The old rate is still effective on shipments of 100 pounds or less.

On meats and meat produce a new rate of 35 cents per 100 pounds has been established, with a minimum charge of 35 cents. The old rate was 85 cents per 100.

Alberta Government Shuts Down Relief Job in Crow's Nest

BLAIRMORE, Alta., Sept. 28. (CP)—The provincial government has stopped work on the Passburg road, where the men refused the 30-cent-an-hour relief wage. The work was started by the Alberta administration to give employment to jobless miners in the Crow's Nest pass, but the workers went on strike, demanding 50 cents an hour.

Premier J. E. Brownlee refused the workers' demands, which included transportation to and from their jobs, because many had long distances to walk. Refusal of the men to return to work has resulted in the government closing down operations. A few men ready to accept jobs on the road were prevented from doing so by 60 pickets, who patrolled the area.

FLEET PUTS IN THREE PROJECTS FOR EXAMINATION

Suggests New Transmission Line Costing $67,160 in Relief List

FINISH CITY WORK; REVISE NORTH SHORE

Total of Three Projects Is $88,670 Out of Which Labor $27,890

Three possible relief projects in connection with the city's electrical department were brought to the notice of the city council Monday night by W. D. Fleet, city electrical engineer, for consideration with other projects being examined, their total cost reaching $88,670. The projects were a new transmission line from the city's power plant at Bonnington to the substation in Nelson, estimated cost, $67,160; completion of the new distributing system in the city at an outlay of $7,510.87; and remodelling of the north shore line along the new roadway, estimated cost, $14,000. The big item in all three projects was material, the total labor cost being put at $27,890.

The council referred Mr. Fleet's recommendation to the fire, water and light committee for examination pending an adjourned meeting of the council Thursday night, when it is expected the council will map a program for submission to the provincial government so as to come under the provision for governmental aid.

LINE CAN LAST TWO YEARS

Mr. Fleet submitted the following memorandum:

"Under the present relief measures it might be advisable to build a new transmission line from the power plant at Bonnington Falls to the sub-station at Nelson. While the present old line will meet the requirements for possibly two years, with the usual increase of power load, there is a possibility of an abnormal increase during this period, when the line would be entirely inadequate.

"As it is, with the present power load, in the event of any trouble on one line the other line is of insufficient capacity to carry the whole load, and there is a consequent drop in voltage over the whole distribution system, which is liable to very seriously interfere with power consumers; moreover, in order to keep the voltage up as close to normal as possible the generators are taxed over their normal voltage, which is more or less dangerous.

"At the present time, running under normal, there is not sufficient margin whereby good regulation in voltage can be obtained. I would therefore strongly recommend that if possible a new line be started immediately.

NEW APPROACH NEEDED

"In the event of a new line being built, an entirely new approach to the city would be necessary. Instead of following the Granite road and in by way of Silica street, the line would come in by way of Munro street and Hoover street. This would mean a new right-of-way for about a mile and a half west of the city, and an easement over private property at the west end of Hoover.

"I might draw your attention to the fact that the price of copper is now down to the lowest price in its history, and other material is proportionately low; two years from now there will be an appreciable rise in prices, and inasmuch as the electrical department will be the biggest contributors to the expenditures of the city, it necessarily follows that the whole system should be kept at 100 per cent efficiency.

DETAILED COSTS

"The following is an aproximate cost of a new transmission line:

"Fine wire	$31,236
Poles	4,224
Insulators	3,000
Pine	2,000
Hardware	1,200
Telephone wire	1,500
Ground wire	1,500
Ground plates	500
Right-of-way or easement	2,000
Labor	20,000
Total	67,160

DISTRIBUTION LINES

"In order to bring up the whole system to 100 per cent efficiency the following work should be completed:

"Distribution in city limits	$4,420.87
Hardware	1,200.00
Labor	1,890.00
Total	$7,510.87

"North shore line, remodelling distribution, resetting poles as required by government along new roadway as follows:

"Wire and material	$8,000.00
Labor	6,000.00
	$14,000.00
Total material cost	$60,780.00
Total labor cost	27,890.00
Total cost	$88,670.00

CLEARING NEEDED

"In reference to the north shore line, we have come to the point where something will have to be done in obtaining a proper cleared right-of-way, particularly now that the government road gangs are straightening and widening the road. This necessitates moving the transmission line back against the trees; a cleared space of at least 50 feet wide should be obtained.

"Considerable expense was entailed this summer by trees falling across the line."

TRAILITES HAVE WONDERFUL TIME ON EASTERN TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cumming See New York, Washington, Detriot

TRAIL, B. C., Sept. 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cumming, who returned to Trail Friday from a trip to New York, White Sulphur Springs, Va., Buffalo, Niagara, and other big eastern centers, have some absorbing stories to tell of the things they saw and the places they visited.

"But after all our glorious trip, it was pleasant to be home," they remarked, adding that in the cities there was such a lack of friendliness that to get back to smiling faces and interested friends was to make going away well worth while.

Mr. and Mrs. Cumming left Trail a month ago for White Sulphur Springs, Va., where they attended a convention. There were 1200 attending, each man present having had to reach a certain mark in his work to be numbered in the party.

After attending the convention for four days, Mr. and Mrs. Cumming left the party and started on a trip of their own which took them to many interesting places at interesting times.

Health Exhibition Is Arranged by Women's Institute ... Nakusp

NAKUSP, B. C., Sept. 28.—Under the auspices of the Women's institute an educational health exhibit had been arranged, Mrs. J. Parent as child welfare convenor, in charge. The booth was decorated with institute colors and health literature distributed. Vegetables, fruits, etc., were exhibited and their food values explained. Children from school exhibited some original health posters of high calibre. The prize winners were: Cyril Kershaw, special; Nellie Humphreys, first; Mervin Cusick, second; Doris Harvey, third. Weighing scales and measuring rods were very much in evidence.

Mrs. B. Campie, R. N., gave a demonstration in washing and dressing a baby, which was educative. Children from school under the direction of Miss Dill, Miss Kirk and Mrs. Steele, provided a health program consisting of dialogue, handkerchief drill, and tooth brush drill. Little Miss Sybil Bailey gave a splendid recitation.

The enthusiasm shown in this children's work proved that parents were trying to secure for their children some of the blessings of education.

Beavers Will Be Used to Regulate Flow of Water in the Cariboo

QUESNEL, B. C., Sept. 28.—Beaver from the Bowron lake game sanctuary, near Barkerville, are being used by the provincial lands department to help restore lakes and streams in lower Cariboo.

The first shipment of 11 beaver passed through here recently by motor truck en route to Williams Lake, where they will be released at selected spots.

Beaver, in earlier days before they were trapped out, conserved the water supply by regulating the flow of streams with dams built at strategic points. The experiment is being watched with interest by cattlemen and others.
